Harrington firemen extinguished a flareup at the scene again Friday morning.

Mr. Curtis, a teacher of agriculture at Harrington High School was seriously injured, at 9:15 p.m., when the truck he was driving north ran into the disabled car of J. Clyde Draper, parked at the side of an extension of Weiner Avenue.

He walked into town and was taken to Milford Memorial Hospital in the ambulance of the fire company. He suffered injuries of the knee and chest, and lacerations of the head.

The Draper car suffered considerable damage, but damage to the truck estimated at $300.

The Harrington Chamber of Commerce in?

We do not know exactly when this picture of the Harrington Chamber of Commerce was taken, but we can place the period. The photo was taken on the steps of what was then known as Harrington School, the cornerstone of which was laid in 1912. The building is still in use. The model-T Fords also give us a hint. Mrs. W. W. Sharp thinks it was made near 1925 which appears to be a good guess. Those in the picture are (left to right) top row—Dr. W. T. Chipman, Warren T. Moore, and James Cahall; second row from top—Harry Tee (in uniform), Fred Greenly, W. W. Sharp, and Ernest Raughley; third row—Frank White, Luther Johnson, Fred Wilson, and the Rev. Edward Collins, pastor of Asbury Methodist Church; fourth row—the Rev. George A. Morris, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, D. E. Sawtelle, S. O. Bailey, and F. Brown Smith; front row—John Sheldrake, Garrett Harrington, and Wilbur E. Jacobs. Surviving members are Dr. Chipman, James Cahall (who has a basket factory at Felton); W. W. Sharp, Fred Wilson, retired postmaster and present president of Peoples Bank; F. Brown Smith, owner of Harrington Motor Company.

Sailor Killed In Auto Wreck

James T. McLaughlin, 22-year-old sailor from Brooklyn, died in The Memorial Hospital early Tuesday as the result of injuries received early Monday in an accident near Harrington.

Richard Allan Littman, 20, Bronx, N. Y., died instantly when a car carrying six sailors back to Chincoteague, Va., Naval Air Station, crossed the center line of U. S. 13, near the fairgrounds and crashed into a tractor-trailer loaded with lumber at 3 a.m. Monday.

State police at Bridgeville Troop said questioning of the passengers in Littman's car, who were able to talk, disclosed that all were sleeping when the crash occurred.

Littman apparently fell asleep while driving, troopers said.

The six men, all stationed at Chincoteague, were on their way back after 72-hour passes to their homes in and around New York City.

James T. McLaughlin, 22, of Brooklyn, N. Y., suffered a possible fracture of the skull, possible internal injuries, and cuts and bruises. He was transferred Monday from Milford Memorial Hospital, where he and the other injured were first taken in the Harrington Fire Company ambulance, to the Memorial Hospital in Wilmington.

Others injured are: James Edward Harrigan, 21, of Bellport, N. Y., possible fractures of several ribs and possible internal injuries; Anthony Aris, 19, Brooklyn; Carmen Serrville, 18, of Rosedale, L. I., and Cyril Crawford, 20, Bronx, all with injuries of the face, treated and released.

Joseph M. Quinton, 43, of Salisbury, driver of the truck, suffered head and eye injuries.

Police said Littman's car cut to the driver's left and struck the tractor-trailer just in front of the drive wheels of the tractor, in back of the cab.

The whole left side of Littman's car was torn away. The car went on for about 150 feet and came to a stop. Littman fell out when the car stopped.

The tractor-trailer jack-knifed and skidded along the highway for about 200 feet. The lumber remained on the trailer but the tractor and trailer were both damaged extensively.

Littman was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. Hewitt Smith. The body was removed to the Boyer Funeral Home.

Drive For Funds For Mentally Retarded Children

If you have a child with a normal intelligence you have no problem concerning your child's education. But the parent of a mentally retarded child needs a place to insure the education of their youngster.

The state provides institutions for such cases that are not manageable in the home. The Delaware Association for Retarded Children is organizing a school—in Harrington for Harrington children—for the trainable and educable child.

The yellow cans you see displayed in the store are to help support this cause. All the money but 15% stays right here in Harrington—the 15% will be used for research.

Do you have it in your heart to help our mentally retarded children? They could learn if you would give them a chance.

Getting Up in the World

The construction of Harrington's army is well underway and, if not delayed by inclement weather, will be completed in the spring. The structure is being built on Liberty Street by Clute Brothers, of Wyoming, with Thad Hollis as superintendent of the job. The outer brick wall will be raised to the level of the metal flashing. The portion between the first and second brick walls, in the front and on the eastern and western sides, will house officers quarters. The main room of the armory will be an assembly hall, 60x90 feet, with 1 1/2-inch hardwood floor. The remainder of the flooring will be concrete. The three-acre plot cost $2000, raised by the citizens of Harrington and underwritten by the City of Harrington. Money appropriated for the construction of the armory, $160,000, comes from state and federal funds.

Thieves Hit Smyrna Shops

The perpetrator of two daring burglaries in Smyrna Tuesday which netted goods valued at $3125, was arrested with his total loot several hours later at the Dover Bus Terminal after he had bought a ticket for Portsmouth, Va., his home.

He gave his name as Stoney Lee Brooks, 18. Employed for some time on a farm near Smyrna, he left there and went back to Portsmouth about a month ago but returned last Saturday night to see his girl friend, according to his story to the police.

The arrest came quickly through the collaboration of the state police, the Dover city police, and a Smyrna taxi operator, with a stolen duffel bag also having an important role.

The man was committed to the Kent County Correctional Institution by Magistrate Frank Fleming, Clayton, in default of $3000 bond to await trial.

Two stores on Main Street in Smyrna were broken into early Tuesday and goods valued at about $3,400 were stolen.

Sayers Jewelers, opposite the post office, was broken into some time between 2:30 a. m. and 4:30 a. m.

Items stolen were: two trays of rings, 30 watches, an identification bracelet, and a string of pearls. Leroy Sayers, owner, estimated the loss at about $3,000.

The other establishment burglarized was the Smyrna Sporting Goods Store. A cash register containing $25 was taken, along with other items. Total loss was estimated at $400.

Mr. Sayers said that a glass pane was broken out of the bottom of the front door of his store. A rake handle then was used to open the bolt on the top of the door.

Police had checked the store at 2:30 a. m.

The jewelry theft was reported by James Eberhart. Mr. Eberhart had been called at 4:30 a. m. by George Melvin, who said the oil burner in his home, owned by Mr. Eberhart, was not working. When Mr. Eberhart arrived to fix the burner, he noticed the front door of the jewelry store was open. He called police.

Police had checked the sporting goods store at 2:45 a. m. They said the store was entered by breaking a side window.

Items stolen from the store included a canvass-carry-all bag, hunting knives, and a fishing reel. The cash register was found empty—on the grounds of an A & P store one and one-half blocks from the sporting goods concern.

MYSTERIOUS BLAST HEARD BUT NO PLANE CRASH FOUND

State police from Bridgeville and men from the Dover Air Force Base are investigating a reported airplane crash in the vicinity of Farmington, about four miles south of Harrington, at 7:35 a. m., Tuesday.

Searchers have reports of a violent explosion, which was heard as far off as Bridgeton, N. J., and over most of northern Sussex County and Southern Kent County, and gave rise to reports of crash.

Troopers from Bridgeville ran down scores of reports from persons who said they knew where the crash occurred and some that they saw a smoking plane falling to earth. These reports have not been confirmed and many of them were found erroneous.

A woman living in the Williamsville area, about three miles southeast of Harrington, told state police at Bridgeville, she saw a plane, skimming the tree tops and smoking, apparently heading for a crash.

Dover Air Force Base sent out a fire truck, rescue wagon, ambulance, helicopter, and plane but have been unable to locate any wreckage.

State police are in continuous contact with their troops by radio and the Air Force searchers are communicating with the base.

There is no plane missing from the Dover Base and none from the New Castle County Airport.

Sgt. William W. Hutchinson of the Dover Troop said the explosion was so violent that he thought a truck had run into the Dover troop building.

"Buildings actually seemed to rock," Hutchinson said. Dover is more than 15 miles from the supposed location of the crash.

Residents of Harrington, Felton, Farmington, and Greenwood, all said they heard the explosion.

Some persons were under the impression the explosion may have been the sound from a jet plane breaking the sound barrier.

Initial inquiries of the crash were received by the Coast Guard at Lewes, who had a message from Coast Guards at Cape May, N. J., who wanted to know where the crash had occurred.

George Ellers, who lives one mile west of Farmington, called the Dover State Police Troop 3 at about 7:40 a. m. Tuesday and notified the troop that an airplane crash had occurred near his residence.

Ellers' report was referred to the Bridgeville Troop who have been seeking the crash since then.

Police doubted whether the noise came from one of the ancient stills which might be in the area blowing up. It was too loud a noise they said.

The Dover Air Force Base called off its searchers at about 10:30 a. m.

Bridgeville Troop, from which the search is concentrated, said they were notified officially from the Air Rescue Service Headquarters at Westover, Mass., Air Force Base that an examination of the plane flights of all Air Force planes in the East had been made and all are accounted for and none missing. This report was received at 11 a. m.

Woman Saw Plane

Mrs. William C. Gray, near Harrington, said that at about the time of the explosion this morning she saw a plane flying over her home.

"It was the biggest plane I ever saw and it was flying the lowest I ever saw a plane fly," Mrs. Gray said. "It seemed to be just skimming the tree tops. I could have gotten the numbers and letters from the side of the plane if I had only thought of it."

Mrs. Gray said the plane disappeared over the farm of C. F. MacGuigan, a neighbor, and seemed to be going down to the ground.

A small daughter of Mrs. James F. Coady, another neighbor, standing at the window, also saw the plane.

As the reporter was talking to Mrs. Coady, a trooper from the Bridgeville Troop came to the Gray home. He said, by telephone, that no trace of the plane had been found, and that the Air Force had pulled off their searchers, but that a radar station had reportedly lost contact with a plane in the vicinity of Harrington.

Twentieth century needleworkers like their tatting delicate, and use a fine thread for the purpose. In the late 17th and early 18th centuries, however, a fairly thick cord of silk was often used. Even in the 19th century, some tatting was done with a heavy crochet cotton. Nowadays, probably the only women you will see using a heavy thread while tatting are beginners. For them, it is advisable to practice with a heavier material until they have mastered all the necessary movements.

TATTING TALK For those of you who would like to acquaint yourselves with this fascinating needlework art or merely refresh your tatting knowledge, I have included, below, a few pertinent items:

Tatting is done with a shuttle, most often one that has a pointed end, made of steel, plastic, bone or tortoise shell. Some shuttles are made with a hook at the end, but it has been found that this type hinders the worker in gaining speed.

All tatting designs contain rings and picots. The ring forms the basis of the design, while the picots are used for decoration and for joining.

To begin, fill the shuttle by winding the thread around the bobbin in the center. If you have a bobbin with a hole in the center, insert the thread through it and tie a knot. Never wind the thread beyond the edge of the shuttle, even if you have a removable bobbin.

LINEN AND TATTED LACE Tatting adds a subtle elegance to informal dinners or luncheons when it is used as an edging for linen place mats. Dainty tatted motifs trim two sides of each mat and the corners of matching napkins. This set, of fashionable pink, was made with only 1/2 yard of linen and one ball of cotton. The instructions for making the PLACE MAT AND NAPKIN, Leaflet No. TT-182, may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Department, National Needlecraft Bureau, Inc., 430 Park Avenue, New York 22, N. Y.

Name Delaware 4-H Trip Winners

Delaware 4-H members were named state winners of a trip to the 1956 National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, Nov. 25-29. They were selected by the State Extension Service for having the best records in the 4-H Dairy, Girls' Home Economics, Garden, and Recreation national award programs.

Hard work and high honors go hand-in-hand for Richard Simpson, 16, of Houston. As state winner in the 4-H Dairy program, he already has achieved a remarkable record in dairy production skills and practices. In recognition of his progress, Larro Sure Feed Division of General Mills provides his Chicago trip.

He has two Ayrshire heifers, cows, and calves. Ten dairy and 19 garden exhibits, plus 28 demonstrations on fitting, showing how to judge, and also how to clean and test milk have kept this young 4-Her very busy. In addition, Richard has given many 4-H talks, and also made seven radio appearances.

He acted as master of ceremonies at two dairy festivals. His local 4-H leader is Mrs. Martha Benson.

The parents of Betty Hayes of Houston are mighty proud of her winning the 1956 state honors in the 4-H Girls' Home Economics program.

Putting into practice what she learned not only enhances family living, but prepares this 17 year old for her role as future homemaker. Betty's seven years in club work includes her main projects of cooking and sewing. She entered 14 exhibits, winning many ribbons and awards.

Betty attended the national 4-H Club camp at Washington, D.C., made radio appearance and wrote many 4-H news stories. She is active in church and school, and is a project leader in her club led by Mrs. Martha Benson.

Her Club Congress trip is made possible by Montgomery Ward, donor of awards in the 4-H Home Economics Program.

It took more than a green thumb for Barbara Messick of Bridgeville to win state honors in the 4-H Garden program. She not only learned to make her garden grow, but also how to market the products. A Club member for four years, this industrious 16 year-old, sets a fine example in all-around 4-H Club activities.

Barbara's special project was raising strawberries. From 10 rows she picked and sold 97 quarts. She realized a net profit of $138 this year from all of her garden produce. On 16 county fair exhibits she won six blue ribbons. Her local 4-H leader is Mrs. Virginia Melson.

This is the 11th year that Allis Chalmers, Tractor Group, has provided awards which include the Congress trip.

Winning an award and having fun doing it is the experience of Peggie Vaughn, 15, of Houston. A Club member for six years, she was chosen to represent the state in the 4-H Recreation program. U. S. Rubber Co. provides for her stay in Chicago.

Peggie was secretary and treasurer of her Club. She coached her members in projects and plans all dances for charity. She is also one of the four junior leaders, and a member of the junior council of Kent County where she was elected recreation leader for this newly formed organization.

As mistress of ceremonies for the Milford Century Club she gave the history of 4-H Clubs. She is a song leader, teaches music and plays for church services. She receives encouragement from her local leader, Mrs. Martha Benson.

All these programs are conducted under the direction of the Cooperative Extension Service.

The turkey is the king of the feast on Thanksgiving Day—but sometimes the leftovers present a problem!

Cold sliced turkey, turkey hash, and other favorites are welcome on the day after the big meal; however, with the convenience of the home freezer, there is no need to use up all of the leftovers in a few days. Here are some freezer recipes for leftover turkey, which are easy to prepare and can be served weeks after your Thanksgiving Day feast:

Planned-Over Casserole: This unusual recipe combines leftover turkey, stuffing and a rich sauce.

3 cups cooked turkey
Sauce

1/2 cup turkey fat (if you don't have this much, add butter or margarine)

3 cups turkey stock
1/2 cup milk

3 cups dressing
1/2 cup flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt,
2 eggs slightly beaten, 1/4 dry bread crumbs, grated cheese, or toasted, slivered almonds.

1. Heat turkey stock and milk.
2. Melt turkey fat in large saucepan. Stir flour and salt into melted fat. Blend until smooth.
3. Add heated stock and milk gradually, stirring constantly. Cook until thick. 4. Add a small amount of sauce to slightly beaten eggs. Then add remainder of sauce and cook 3 to 4 minutes.

5. Place 1/2 cup dressing in bottom of pint aluminum tray. 6. Pour 1/2 cup sauce over dressing. 7. Add 1/2 cup turkey. 8. Pour additional 1/4 cup sauce over turkey. 9. Sprinkle 1/4 dry bread crumbs, tossed in melted butter, 1/4 cup grated cheese, or 1/4 cup toasted, slivered almonds in top. 10. Seal cover on tray and place in food freezer. 11. To serve, leave Planned-Over Turkey in containers and heat 40 minutes at 400 F. Yield: 6 pint aluminum trays.

Frozen Turkey Pie
English Pastry: Sift together 2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 1/4 teaspoons salt, Mix well and stir into flour mixture 2/3 cup shortening, 1/2 cup hot water, 1 egg yolk, unbeat, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, chill.

Filling: 1/2 cup cold turkey stock, 1/3 cup flour, 1 1/2 cups hot turkey stock, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 egg yolk slightly beaten, 1 1/2 cups diced turkey, 1/2 cup cooked carrots, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup chopped onions.

1. Blend cold turkey stock and flour until smooth. 2. Pour in hot turkey stock gradually, and cook until sauce thickens. Cool. 3. Add slightly beaten egg yolk, butter and salt. Blend well. 4. Combine with turkey, peas, carrots, onion and parsley. 5. Roll out 1/2 of pastry to fit 9-inch pie plate. 6. Pour filling into pie shell and cover with top crust made from remainder of pastry. 7. Wrap in moisture-vapor proof material and place in food freezer. 8. To serve, remove pie from wrapping material and bake about 1 hour and 15 minutes at 375 F. The pie may be thawed in refrigerator or at room temperature, and baked 45 to 50 minutes at 375 F. (Yield: 1 pie).

Turkey Turnovers
Plain Pastry: 3 cups flour, 1 cup fat, 1 1/2 teaspoon salt, 8 or 9 tablespoons water, 1 1/2 cups turkey gravy, 1 1/2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley, 3 tablespoons chopped stuffed olives, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper.

Turkey Filling - 3 cups chopped cooked turkey.

1. Prepare pastry and chill. 2. Combine turkey, gravy, parsley, olives, salt, and pepper. 3. Roll pastry 1/8 inches thick. Cut in six 6-inch squares. 4. Place 1/3 cup filling in center of each square. 5. Turn corners of dough to center and flute edges together. 6. Wrap turnover individually or place desired number of servings on sheet of cardboard. Wrap in moisture-vapor-proof material. Put into your food freezer. 7. To serve, place on cookie sheet and bake 45 minutes at 425 F. (6 servings)

Wilmington General Hikes Hospital Charges Nov. 1

The Wilmington General Hospital will raise its room rates and other charges on Nov. 1, to meet sharply rising costs, it was announced yesterday by Leo G. Schmelzer, hospital director.

Mr. Schmelzer said that the last general increase in rates at the hospital was made more than four years ago, and that in the interim the cost of all factors affecting hospital charges—drugs and other medical supplies, food, and other materials—has gone up materially.

Wilmington General is the third Wilmington hospital to announce rate increases, and its new rates are the same as those previously announced by The Memorial Hospital and Delaware Hospital.

The new rates, which in the case of rooms involve the most dramatic increase, will be announced on Nov. 1. The hospital has so far made no announcement of any price involving rates. Group Hospital Service recently announced that the hospital rate increase will force an increase in Blue Cross rates, but not before Feb. 1.

The new rates, which in the case of rooms involve the most dramatic increase, will be announced on Nov. 1. The hospital has so far made no announcement of any price involving rates. Group Hospital Service recently announced that the hospital rate increase will force an increase in Blue Cross rates, but not before Feb. 1.

"While the new room rates may seem high, they are not actually much higher than first-class hotel accommodations," Mr. Schmelzer said, "yet the hospital rates include all meals, often specially prepared, medical and nursing care and many other services, none of which are included in the hotel rate. In effect, the hospital rate is a package deal."

Blue Cross has potentially extra value these days, and newspaper stories like the one reproduced here make plain the reason why. Within the past few weeks, four major hospitals in Delaware increased their rates. Except in maternity cases, Blue Cross has absorbed these increases for its members. This means that, in most instances, patients with Blue Cross membership are getting higher-priced care at no increase in cost to them.

Blue Cross offers potentially extra protection, too, through its assurance of no immediate increase in membership rates. If Blue Cross eventually is obliged to raise its rates, such a change would not take place before next February.

Group Hospital Service recently announced that the hospital rate increases will force an increase in Blue Cross rates, but not before February 1.

Institute of Delaware History and Culture Announced Publication of a Monograph

The Institute of Delaware History and Culture has announced the publication of a monograph by Professor A. R. Dunlap entitled "Dutch and Swedish Place-names in Delaware," a work of value for the serious student of local history as well as for the student of cultural patterns in colonial America.

A companion volume to "Indian Place-names in Delaware," which Professor Dunlap prepared in collaboration with C. A. Westlager of the Archaeological Society of Delaware, the new study not only brings together in convenient form the existing information on the subject, but also reviews and interprets this information.

The monograph contains an introduction, lists of both primary and secondary source materials, and, in alphabetical arrangement, 132 discussions of Delaware place names of Dutch and Swedish origin. Although a great many of these names have now passed out of use, the list of survivals includes such well known names as Bombay Hook, Brandywine Creek, Bread and Cheese Island, Cape Henlopen, Murderkill Creek, and the Shellpot Creek.

Dr. Dunlap has been associated with the University of Delaware since 1928 and has risen from the rank of instructor to full professor during this time. He has served as editor of the Delaware Folklore Bulletin and as editor for three other publications, Delaware Notes, the monograph series, and the Delaware History and Culture pamphlet series. He is chairman of the Publications Committee of the Institute of Delaware History and Culture.

As an author, Dr. Dunlap has prepared articles for all of these publications and for American Speech, Modern Language Notes and for the bulletin of the Archaeological Society of Delaware.

Copies of "Dutch and Swedish Place-names in Delaware" may be obtained at the University Bookstore in Newark, or at other bookstores throughout the state.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—My husband died on active duty, and I am drawing monthly Servicemen's Indemnity payments. After Dec. 31, 1956, will I be allowed to continue drawing these payments, along with Indemnity Compensation payments under the new Survivors Benefits Act?

A—No. Indemnity Compensation under the new law is not payable unless you surrender your rights to Servicemen's Indemnity payments.

Q—My 19-year-old son is eligible for War Orphans schooling, since my husband died on active duty in World War II. My son is physically handicapped, and will need special restorative training. However, the $110-a-month allowance is not sufficient to pay for it. Could this allowance be raised?

A—Yes. The monthly allowance may be increased to cover the costs of restorative training. But your son's 36 months of entitlement would be reduced by one day for each $3.60 in excess of the basic monthly allowance of $110.

Q—I understand that veterans no longer will be able to obtain Korean GI term insurance after Dec. 31, 1956. What about special GI insurance for disabled veterans? Does the deadline apply to them, too?

A—No. December 31, 1956, marks the deadline only for obtaining Korean GI term insurance for able bodied veterans. Service disabled veterans still will have the right to get special GI policies after that date.

Q—I started training under the Korean GI Bill just in advance of my three-years-from-discharge deadline. That deadline has now passed. Now I find that I'm not happy with my course, and I would like to change it. Do I have the right to make one change of course, even though my starting deadline has passed.

A—Since your starting deadline has passed, you may change your course only under one of these conditions: (1) if you have not been making satisfactory progress in your present course through no fault of yours, and the new program would be more in keeping with your abilities, or (2) the new program is a normal progression from your present program.

A crowd outside a temple at Nagpada, in Bombay, India, clashed with marchers in a procession, because the marchers would not discontinue their music before the temple.

1956 Delaware Crop Kings Named at Dover Banquet Tues. Night

Posting the highest measured corn yield ever recorded in the state, Marshall Lee Wootten of Millsboro was named Delaware Corn King Tuesday night at the annual banquet of the Delaware Crop Improvement Association in the Capitol Grange Hall at Dover. His record breaking yield in the 1956 five acre contest was 174.5 bushels per acre.

Crowned soybean king at the banquet was L. M. Reichert of Townsend, who grew an average of 50.8 bushels of beans per acre in the 1956 five acre contest.

County winners in the corn contest were John F. Wilson of Harrington, for Kent County, with 155.5 bushels per acre. New Castle County's Best was Horace Woodward of Middletown who averaged 139.9 bushels.

In soybeans, the contests between counties was much closer, with Edward Metz of Georgetown the winner in Sussex County with a 50.1 bushel yield that was only seven-tenths of a bushel off the state mark. Third, with just a bare tenth of a bushel behind was Kent County's champion, Olin Gooden of Viola, with an even 50-bushel average yield for each of the five measured acres he entered in the contest.

Altogether, there were 32 soybean growers this year who made the 40 bushel club, down a total of 13 from last year when yields were exceptional. The top 16 in this year's contest all planted the new Clark variety.

For corn, though, no less than 111 farmers became members of the 100 bushel corn club this year, in contrast to only 14 who qualified last year.

Also honored at the banquet were 94 dairymen from Delaware who posted the best records in the 1956 Greener Pastures dairy program. They were given specially lettered green ties and were awarded certificates. Of the 94, 27 qualified as "Excellent" in the program, 40 as "Very Good," and 27 as "Good."

Wootten's phenomenal yield in the corn contest was obtained using the DeKalb 801 variety, planted April 27, and with a population of 13,386 plants per acre. His average ear weight, corrected to 15.5% moisture, was 14.7 ounces per ear. The crop before corn was corn with a ryegrass cover. He applied 500 pounds of a 5-10-10 fertilizer, plowed down, plus 3 to 4 loads of manure per acre. 2, 4-D was used to kill weeds.

Toastmaster for the banquet was Dr. George M. Worrlow, Dean of the School of Agriculture at the University of Delaware. He was introduced by Eugene Parker, president of the Delaware Crop Improvement Association.

Speakers included Dr. Henry Indyk of the School of Agriculture, who reported on soybean news; William Mitchell, University of Delaware agronomist who outlined some of the highlights of a good corn year, and Delmar Young, University Extension Dairymen, who gave a report on outstanding pasture and forage management programs he found in the 1956 Greener Pastures program.

The 4-H Junior Council met at Caesar Rodney School. The group decided to hold a Christmas dance in December for all 4-Hers and friends. Arrangements are being made and will be announced later. The committees appointed by the Council president, Fred Grampp, are: Decorations, Helen Grampp and Darlene Crockett; arrangements, Doris Pfumm and Betty Mitchell; refreshments, Jean Walls.

Election of Council officers will take place at this dance. The nominating committee will present their slate and floor nominations will take place. To be elected to office, a 4-H'er must be an officer in his or her club for 1957, or must be a Junior leader. It is hoped that all clubs will be represented and take part in the election. The Council hopes that this next year will be an active one for their group and have many ideas and plans.

Spray Alfalfa Soon For Turnip and Chickweed

Alfalfa should be sprayed soon for chickweed and wild turnip says Dr. Paul W. Santelmann, University of Maryland extension weed control specialist.

These two annual winter weeds create a problem on Maryland farms each year during the fall and winter months. They start growing in September and continue to grow until they flower and die in the late spring or early summer.

Wild turnip has been found in greater quantities this year than in the past. Chickweed is increasing too, and Dr. Santelmann predicts "we will have another bad chickweed year."

Chickweed is bad because in many cases it reduces alfalfa stands by smothering the alfalfa and robbing it of important nutrients and water which are needed for good growth. Heavy matted chickweed also provides a place for disease organisms to live.

Chickweed can be controlled with Dinitro and CIPC after the alfalfa is dormant. However, CIPC kills grasses too, so must be used only on pure alfalfa stands. One application of one to two pounds per acre of CIPC will kill all the chickweed. Dinitro can be sprayed at the rate of a pound to a pound-and-a-half per acre where the weed is not heavy. Heavy infestations of chickweed will require two or three spray applications of Dinitro.

Wild turnip in seedling alfalfa cannot be controlled with complete safety yet, the weed specialists say. MCP has been used for some years with varying degrees of success and should be used only as an emergency measure. If the weed is going to kill the alfalfa anyway, he says farmers may as well try MCP in an effort to save the alfalfa. Recommended amounts of MCP are one-quarter to one-half pound per acre after the alfalfa is dormant. The spraying must also be done when the outdoor temperature is above 60 degrees. In using MCP, it is important to use a carefully calibrated sprayer because of more than one-half pound per acre is applied the chances of alfalfa injury are greatly increased.

MCP is very much like 2, 4-D and similar precautions must be taken when using it. A new university Fact Sheet, (FS129) will be available free of charge from county agent offices in about two weeks. The publication is "Control Winter Annual Weeds in Alfalfa." Fact Sheets 127, "Using 2,4-D Correctly" is also available.

Richard Enion to Speak in Tower Hill School

"The Supervisor As Part of Management" is the topic which will be discussed by Richard Enion, manager of corporate training and development for Scott Paper Company, at a class for the public at 8 p.m. Thurs. Nov. 29 in Tower Hill School, Wilmington.

The address is the sixth and final one in a series on Management Training being offered by the division of University Extension of the University of Delaware. Members of the public are encouraged to attend. A fee of five dollars for each meeting is payable at the classroom.

The management training program is being offered in response to requests by local businesses, to give employees the opportunity to learn various problems involved in supervision.

The fundamental premise upon which the instruction is given is that the most important person to any one man in a company is the supervisor. Upon that person, it is felt, rests the responsibility of gaining good cooperation from the workers and to make the organization an efficient one.

In the first lecture, given Oct. 18 by a professor from the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School, the background for the course was presented, at which time the importance of developing in workers a zest for work was stressed.

Successive speakers have developed the point that a successful supervisor is a man who wears many hats, implying that there are many aspects to a supervisory job. Each lecture concerns one phase of the job of supervision.

Mr. Enion's responsibility for all supervisory, management and executive development throughout the Scott circuit of 14 miles takes him into Canada and Mexico as well as over many states in this nation. A member of the Labor Panel of the American Arbitration Association, he is also a permanent lecturer at the Annual Air Force Manpower Resources Program in Washington.

Changes In Social Security

By Myron Milbouer
 Manager of the Delaware Social Security Office, 504 W. 10th St., Wilmington

If you're a farmer, chances are that changes in social security which became law this summer affect you and your family. This is so whether you own a farm, rent a farm, or do farm work for someone else. Today, I want to discuss a provision in the amend- ed law which affects many per- sons who have farm property either as owners or lessees.

Since 1954, earnings from self- employment as a farmer or rancher have counted toward old-age and survivors insurance. The new law doesn't change that. Under the old law, however, you did not get social security credit for cash or crop shares you re- ceived as rent for your land. In- come from farm land which was let out to someone else, even if on a share-farming basis, was regarded as rentals from real estate and did not count toward social security. The man who had only this kind of income from his farm was regarded sim- ply as a landowner, not a self- employed farmer.

In many cases, income of this type is still excluded from social security coverage. If you sim- ply collect rent for the land, that's still rental from real estate. Under the 1956 amendments to the law, however, the cash or crops shares a farm owner receives from a tenant or share-farmer is regarded as farm income which will be credited to his social se- curity account if he materially participates in the management or production of the farm commodi- ties.

Let's say you own some farm land, or hold farm property under lease, and in turn rent to some- one else. If you simply collect rent for the land, that's still rental from real estate. Don't report it as self-employment farm in- come for social security purposes.

On the other hand, if you let out the land to a share-farmer, but still take an important part in the growing of the crop or the management of the produc- tion of the crop on that land un- der an arrangement with the renter, that's most likely "Ma- terial participation." In that case, the money you realize from the transaction would not be rental income but farm income. It would count toward old-age and survivors insurance protection for you and your family.

If you have a definite arrange- ment with the user whereby you regularly advise and consult with him on the production of the

Sulky Slants

By MRS. DAVE (PAT) SMITH

There isn't much news from down here. About the only thing is that I went to the election and stayed around till the voting was over. The track won out so there will be racing down here in the spring and fall meet. I called Carrington right away but he said he wasn't interested in anything going on in Florida, so the telephone operator said. There was the press from Mi- ami, Jacksonville, Orlando, Tam- pa, Sanford, Ocala, the capital of Florida, and many, many small newspaper reporters. I was trying the beat the Harness Horse with the news in Harring- ton.

Another thing out here there isn't a public telephone till last crop or livestock, regularly in- spect the operation, and have a hand in the management, this would be a strong indication that you "materially participate." Moreover, if in addition you also furnish the renter the tools, live- stock, and farm equipment, or finance any of these, this would be further evidence of "material participation" on your part.

This change in the law will afford protection under old-age and survivors insurance to an es- timated 400,000 additional farm- ers. It is effective beginning with taxable years ending after 1955.

of this week. There sure is plenty going on here now. And what a beautiful place to begin with. Oranges, Tangerines, grapefruit orchards right here on the grounds. There are two hundred head of horses booked for the stables. I hear that Wal- ter Gibbons will be the general manager, and Glen Gibbons might take over the racing secre- tary position if it doesn't inter- fere with Westbury in the spring. All I can say it is a beehive here now.

From what I hear, (and I quote) the bunch from California will bring their horses here. I know that several big stables from the Ben White Raceway plan to start here if everything goes okay.

Even the talk is they may start up the track in Jacksonville, Fla. again. All it takes is just one outfit to break the ice and that's it. Mr. Kemp the president of the raceway sure has worked hard for the bill and the people were 100 percent behind him. So far we haven't missed a day with our three 2-year-olds. Even if it rains you can go out within 10 minutes after. Ours are all broke and Dave is driv- ing them. Just like old horses. Now don't get me wrong, I'm not sold on Florida. It's just one of those things where some- times you can't go what you want to. It has been chilly early in the mornings, but by 10 you can go in your silk shirts or shorts.

Sure is a small world but the other day Dave and I were rid- ing down Orange Blossom Trail and happened to stop at a trailer outfit to get a card that gives you all the licenses from all the counties in Florida, which to me is fun, when you are going along just to look and know where each car is from. Anyway we got to talking to one of the fellows and here is where he is from—Farm- ington. He was Gene Sousa, as mentioned in last week's paper.

Church Publicity Is on the Ball

The publicity we are receiving from Harrington churches is quite commendable, which pleases us highly seeing as how we have been trying for years to secure religious news other than that on routine matters.

The latter information was usually confined to what time Sunday School convened, what time preaching started, and what time choir practice was held.

The vital news, that which was of interest beyond the realm of the parishioners, was omitted, despite our pleas for such and our offer of assistance in writing religious news as it should be. Once and a while the clouds would break and the sun would come thru to tease us when a writer would tell of christenings, marriages, and other information of community-wide interest. But not for long.

We will not say that our church news is near perfection, nor will we say we are presenting it in its proper form in the newspaper. However, we will say that the writers present us with religious news which, we believe, is as good as that printed in any other peninsula weekly. Furthermore, we believe these writers will continue to improve.

Our dream is to departmentalize church news, if it will all come in early enough in the week. We would also like to print an occasional picture on the church page.

MAURICE ADAMS' HOLSTEINS TOP PRODUCTION IN STATE

Twenty-three dairy herds from Delaware, including 10 from New Castle County, 7 from Sussex County and 6 from Kent County, made the honor roll of the National Purebred Dairy Cattle Association this year, reports Delmar J. Young, Extension Dairyman at the University of Delaware.

The honor roll is given to dairymen whose herds average more than 400 pounds of butterfat production per cow as tested by official dairy herd improvement association supervisors. The owner of each herd qualifying receives a certificate from the national association.

Top production herd in the state during 1956 testing year was that of Maurice Adams of Harrington, Young reports. His 31 cows produced an average of 492 pounds of butterfat and 12,933 pounds of milk during the year.

Second was Ellwood Gruwell of Felton, whose 18 cows averaged 458 pounds of butterfat and 11,695 pounds of milk. A close third was H. Wallace Cook of New Castle County, with 457 pounds of butterfat per cow and 12,249 pounds of milk.

Fourth and fifth were two more Kent countians, Russell Bowdle of Harrington and Merrill Jones of Felton. Bowdle's herd averaged 449 pounds of butterfat, while Jones' cows produced an average of 441 pounds.

Sixth place was a tie between Levis Phipps and H. Vaughn Ginn, both of New Castle County. Their herds averaged 439 pounds butterfat per cow.

Seventh place went to C. Douglas Buck of New Castle with a 425 pound average. In eighth place was the University of Delaware's Holstein herd with a 424 pound average.

Ninth place went to L. Robbins Webb of Milford with a 421 pound average and in tenth was Edward Harcum of Houston with a 417 pound average.

Other dairymen in the state to go over the charmed 400 pound mark in butterfat production per cow were Edgar Dill and Joseph Moore of Kent County; Edward Ockels, Roland Russell, Alden Short and R. V. Stallard of Sussex County; and, B. Irvin Armstrong, John C. Mitchell, Mitchell Brothers, Wills Passmore, and Phillip Pierson of New Castle County.

The Stallard herd, from Seaford, was top farm herd in last year's contest. There were 23 dairymen who qualified this year for the 400-pound club—same number as last year.

Western Australia's oil refinery at Kwinana, largest in the Dominion, is being expanded at cost of $7,875,000. Its original cost was $90,000,000.

A Dutch tug is towing dredging equipment from Antwerp to Bluff, New Zealand, where it will be used to construct a new petroleum harbor.

Turkey will produce about 38,500 tons of dried figs in 1956, off 7,500 from 1955.

TWO HARRINGTON MEN SLIGHTLY INJURED

Two Harrington men were slightly hurt about 1:15 a.m., Saturday, when their car ran off Route 14, the road between Harrington and Burrowsville, on the Maryland line, and overturned at least twice.

Went Over and Over
 Ruben Butler, Jr., 21, the driver, and Warren J. Price, 30, were treated by Dr. William T. Chipman of Harrington. Butler had a laceration of the left knee and contusions, and Price, a laceration of the left shoulder.

State Police from Bridgeville said Butler apparently fell asleep at the wheel. The car failed to negotiate a turn, ran off the road, and overturned "a couple of times" before coming to rest right-side up. The accident occurred just west of Burrowsville.

Butler was fined $25 and costs on a reckless driving charge, by Magistrate Elmer Poynter of Felton.

Sale of Soybeans Hurt by Shortage Of Railroad Cars

Marketing of an excellent yield of soybeans is suffering from a lack of railroad cars and a strike of longshoremen on the East Coast.

The rainy weather of late has caused the harvesting of beans to some in spurts. With the strike preventing the loading of ships, railroad cars are hard to get, say buyers of soybeans. Beans in sacks can be handled better than those in bulk, at the present time, since the latter have to be blown directly into the railroad cars.

RAT CONTROL TIPS

Rats and mice aren't pleasant to talk about but they cost Delaware farmers and other Delaware residents heavily in dollar damage, says George Vapaa, county agricultural extension agent.

One way to get rid of them, he says is to keep the farmstead clean. Avoid piles of trash and junk. Stack materials off the floors on racks.

Keep garbage in tight containers—or bury it deep. Burning doesn't always get rid of it all and the rodents will come to feast on the remains. Old fashioned traps are still helpful, Vapaa says. If you place the trap in a runway, enlarge the size of the trigger by fastening on a square of cardboard.

For outdoor burrows, it's safe to use calcium cyanide powder. Apply it carefully and seal burrow. But don't use this deadly gas indoors.

Rat poisons are dangerous. Always follow instructions. Keep the bait fresh and replace any that become caked, mouldy or insect-infested.

If you use anti-coagulants (or blood thinners) like Warfarin, pival and fumerin, allow 5 to 14 days for them to take hold. They act slowly.

A good bait formula is corn meal (13 cups), oatmeal (4 cups) corn oil (1 cup) confectioners sugar (1 cup) and anticogulant (1 cup). Or, you can buy a commercially prepared mixture.

Needlecraft News

by Nancy Baxter

Those of us who learned to embroider as youngsters, have come to realize the value of our childhood hobby. It has taught us the fundamentals of sewing and has given us an appreciation for good design and color. These things are especially important to us today when embroidery and sewing are among the most popular of needlework arts.

EMBROIDERY LESSON
Let's refresh our memories and try to recall what we learned when we made our first embroidered sampler: First of all, the needle used for embroidery is called the crewel needle. It is generally about 1 1/2 inches long and should have an eye slightly larger than the thickness of the thread. A round or oval hand frame is most commonly used to hold the work. The thread should be hoilfast, and when used on lightweight fabrics, mercerized. Since it is important that the wrong side of the work should look equally as well as the right side, begin your stitching by making a close running stitch toward the starting point, then a small back stitch and begin embroidering. Do not use knots to begin or end a design. Embroider each design individually; do not carry thread from one to the other. If the thread should twist while you are working, slip the needle down to the fabric, pull the end of the thread up and hold it taut. Run your fingernails along the thread from bottom to top to straighten. When the article is finished, press the piece correctly by placing it, face down, on a padded surface. Cover it with a dampened cloth and iron heavily with a moderately hot iron. Remove the damp cloth and iron until dry. Hems may be ironed on the right side.

EMBROIDERED PLACE MAT AND NAPKIN
Here's a new, fresh-as-a-daisy design that is a delight to beginners as well as to experienced embroiders. Only three pretty embroidery stitches are used—the lazy daisy, French knots and the blanket stitch. In linen, this place mat and napkin set supplies a touch of gaiety to a summer table. Directions for cutting and hemming both pieces, and the transfer pattern for the embroidery may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Department of this paper and requesting Leaflet No. E-1466.
