

COUNCIL VOTES TO FILE SUIT ON BONDING COMPANY FOR SHORTAGE IN TAX RECEIPTS

The City Council, at its December meeting Monday night, instructed its attorneys to file suit against a bonding company to make good a shortage in City funds disclosed in a special audit late last year.

N. Maxon Terry, city solicitor, and William Watson Harrington, former chancellor of Delaware, attended the meeting.

The attorneys stated that they had received a letter from the surety company, the Home Indemnity Company, in which it refused to make good a shortage of $1207.60 in the city tax accounts. The letter added, said the attorneys, that the bonding company would not pay the claim on the bond of Grace Wanda Quillen, former city clerk. Continuing, the bonding company declared that Miss Quillen said she and her attorney would oppose payment on her bond.

After explaining that Miss Quillen said she had performed her duties faithfully, the bonding company said it had no alternative but to refuse to pay the claim.

Miss Quillen was city manager in 1952-53 and city clerk in 1954 and until the fall of 1955, with Norris C. Adams being city manager while Miss Quillen was clerk. Mr. Adams was city manager until the beginning of the current year when William F. Smith was appointed to the post. The shortage received public attention at the annual citizens meeting in January when it was revealed by the auditing firm, then known as Bernard, Isaacson & Stolper, of Wilmington.

The City Council threshed over the matter for some months, without putting the blame on anyone, stating it was only interested in recovering the money. It decided to put a claim in to the bonding company, leaving it to this agency to discover what went with the funds.

Harrington told the Council, "I think you can sue the surety company. I think the bonding company is the one to go after."

Addressing Terry, the city solicitor, Councilman Dr. Hewitt Smith inquired, "What do you think it would cost to press a suit?" Terry replied, "Not too much." "That sounds encouraging," retorted Dr. Smith.

Going into details, Terry then assured the Council it wouldn't cost more than $500.

Dr. Smith added, that, in the interest of the taxpayers, the Council had concurred in seeing that the case should be run down.

The cherubic Harrington thought the City had a good case against the bonding company.

Mayor Ernest Killen said a surety company official had told him that all the Council would have to do was to prove a loss and that his company would pay it and attempt to place the responsibility for it.

Dr. Smith then motioned that the Council instruct its attorneys to file suit. Councilman Charles Peck, Sr., carried the motion and it was decided unanimously. Dr. Smith added that his term ran out this year, and that he would not run again.

Mayor Will Not Run
Councilman Leonard Harrington, whose term also expires, when asked if he would be up for reelection, said he didn't know. Mayor Killen, who has served two terms as mayor, said he would not be up for reelection.

The Council made a motion to meet Mon., Dec. 17, at which time City Manager Smith is to settle the tax account with Treasurer Howard Wagner, as stipulated in the City Charter.

Tax Suits

Smith informed the Council he had instituted suit in the court of Magistrate L. Gooden Callaway for all delinquent taxes prior to the current year. Outstanding taxes for this year, he commented, were $912.20, on property, and $369.60 on capitation, or head tax.

Parking Meters

The Council voted unanimously to continue to tax toll from the parking meters, during the Christmas season, with the revenue therefrom from Dec. 10 to Dec. 24, inclusive, going to the Chamber of Commerce to help defray expenses of the community's annual Christmas program.

The move was made after City Manager Smith had revealed that the Chamber of Commerce had thought that continued enforcement of parking meter regulations would provide better parking facilities, and had asked if the

Clarence Kemp Dead in Fire At Milford

Clarence Kemp, about 60, a retired railroad telegrapher, was burned to death in his home, 404 Northwest Front Street in Milford Tuesday night. He was a former resident of Harrington.

Firemen had to break in the front door to enter the smoke-filled house. At first they believed the dwelling was unoccupied but, as the smoke cleared, they found the charred body of the man slumped on the floor near the burned frame of a chair. The fire was discovered by a passerby who called the Carlisle Fire Company. The frame home was badly damaged but no estimate of loss was available.

Had Fainting Spells
Mr. Kemp was retired from the Pennsylvania Railroad on disability. He was under doctor's care for a long time.

Library News
Through the courtesy of Mrs. Olin Perry and Mr. and Mrs. John Parke, materials on the town of Harrington have been organized and placed on permanent file in the school library.

Mrs. Perry had collected newspaper articles and pictures concerning the history of Harrington. These she very graciously donated to the school library when she discovered that we were interested in preserving public records and documents which show evidence of facts pertinent to the growth of the town.

Mr. and Mrs. John Parks donated clippings, pictures and pamphlets concerning organizations and activities. Among these were materials on Beauty Contests, Boy Scouts, Century Club, Chamber of Commerce, Friendship Dinners, Reese Theatre and Rotary Club.

We are very appreciative of the above materials. We hope to expand our collection and to have a permanent file which will be of real value to the school and community.

HARRINGTON-GREENWOOD DUAL ROAD TO OPEN SOON

The new traffic lane to make US Route 13 a dual, or divided highway from north of Harrington to south of Greenwood, is expected to be opened for traffic within a week or ten days, according to officials of the State Highway Department.

R. A. Haber, Chief Engineer of the Highway Department, stated that the new traffic lane will definitely be placed in service before the holiday season.

When this section of roadway, extending for a distance of nine miles and constructed at a cost in excess of two million dollars, is placed in service, US Route 13 will be a complete dual or divided highway for the entire distance of the state from the Pennsylvania line, north of Claymont, to the Maryland line, east of Delmar.

The new traffic lane will be used as the northbound lane of the dual highway and the present highway will become the southbound lane.

The route of the new traffic lane generally follows the existing highway except through Harrington and Greenwood where it is located about 300 yards to the east.

Mr. Haber indicated when the date for opening the new highway for traffic is selected, that some special ceremonies will take place in connection with the event.

While all of the construction work on the new lane is being completed now, the entire project will not be finished until the early spring months. All of the shoulders are in place as well as the crossovers between the two lanes. However the seeding of the parkway area for grass and the patching and improvement of the existing highway will not get underway until after the winter season.

The dual highway project was started from Wilmington in 1929, with construction proceeding both north and south of that city until it reached as far south as Dover when the work was interrupted by the war. It was resumed following the war years and was continued until it was completed.

STEEN SENATE HEAD; MAYHEW HOUSE SPEAKER

State Senator Curtis W. Steen of Dagsboro will be named president pro tempore of the Senate and Rep. Harry E. Mayhew of Milford will be named Speaker of the House, the Democratic members, who are in the majority in both chambers, decided Tuesday night.

The Democratic legislators, who met with party officials and leaders at Alexander's Restaurant, settled contests for both posts, and then made the choices unanimous.

State Senator John E. Reilly, Sr., of Wilmington, who had been favored by the advisory committee recently appointed by former Gov. Elbert N. Carvel, Democratic state chairman, lost out in the voting Tuesday night and was named majority floor leader of the Senate instead of president pro tempore.

State Senator Allen J. Cook of Kenton was chosen for majority whip.

Mayhew To Be Speaker

On the House side, the competition for speaker was between Mr. Mayhew, who is from the Kent County side of Milford, and Rep. James R. Quigley of Hare's Corner, who was speaker at the last session. Mr. Mayhew got the greater number of votes for speaker, and Mr. Quigley was designated for majority floor leader.

Rep. Paul Shockley of Wilmington was selected majority whip.

The actual election of these officials will occur when the General Assembly meets next month.

The Democrats also selected two attorneys for the legislature Tuesday night, and parceled out some of the attaché jobs.

William G. Bush III, of Dover, was selected as a lawyer for the House of Representatives and Robert Johnson, Jr., of Rehoboth will serve in that capacity for the Senate.

There will also be a Senate attorney from Wilmington and a House attorney from New Castle County.

To The Citizens Of Harrington

The 1955 Harrington Christmas Fund committee thanks you kindly for your generous help last year. The total cost of that program was $1,004.06 with total receipts of $899.75.

Your Chamber of Commerce 1956 Christmas Fund committee has authorized certain changes in the lighting decorations for this holiday season. They hope to be able to make further improvements in 1957. We feel the decorations reflect the spirit of our community and are a community project.

The costs of new decorative materials, like all other costs, have advanced with the times. The new candles cost $25 each and a new string of lights is $40. The life of this type material is not indefinite, therefore certain replacement costs arise yearly.

The cost of our 1956 program which includes the street lighting, children treats, any expense Santa Claus might have and the prizes for home decorations will be almost $1500.

The funds to pay these costs are furnished by the business, professional and civic-minded men and women of our community.

The committee hopes you will approve the changes made and will show your approval by doubling your 1955 contribution.

A member of your Chamber of Commerce committee will stop by this week to get your contribution.

ADIOS HARRY IS LEADING MONEY WINNER FOR YEAR

Adios Harry, mercury-footed pacing stallion owned by J. Howard Lyons of Greenwood, was harness racing's leading money winner in 1956 with earnings of $129,912, the U.S. Trotting Association announced this week.

The total is the highest ever credited to a pacer for a single season and has been exceeded only by Scott Frost's $196,101 bankroll of 1955.

The big win for Adios Harry, who was driven in most of his starts by Luther Lyons, the owner's son, was the $75,000 Eastern Championship at Yonkers Raceway. He registered 18 wins, 5 seconds and 1 third in 30 seasonal starts.

Second place went to Dottie's Pick, C. E. and J. E. Armstrong's Canadian mare from Brampton, Ontario, who banked $101,142. This was a record sum for a filly or mare and marked the first time a member of the sex had cracked the $100,000 barrier. Dottie's Pick won the $75,000 American Pacing Classic in California and then conquered Adios Harry in their $25,000 match race at Yonkers.

Third and fourth places on the money went to horses owned by Saul Camp of Shafter, Cal. The pacer Diamond Hal collected $86,179 and the trotter Scott Frost banked $85,851. The 3-year-old pacer Noble Adios was fifth with $85,112 for owner Paul Wixom of Chicago.

Trainer driver Billy Haughton had three among the top ten, Bachelor Hanover ($80,375) 6th; Duane Hanover ($78,663) 7th; Belle Acton ($74,495) 10th. Joe O'Brien was the only other driver with more than one of the top ten with Diamond Hal and Scott Frost.

tor's care for fainting spells which were believed to have been caused by an accident when he was working for the railroad.

Mr. Kemp's wife, Elizabeth, was at work on her job with the Diamond State Telephone Company at its office in Dover. She was advised of her husband's death by Milford police and friends went to Dover to take her to Milford.

Mr. Kemp was known in Milford as an ardent sportsman and amateur billiard player. He once ran as an unsuccessful candidate for state representative on the Democratic ticket.

Firemen surmised that the fire started in the chair in which Mr. Kemp was sitting in a downstairs room. They noted that the framework of the chair bore the most pronounced effects of charring while the victim's burns seemed most severe in the upper part of his body and on his head. They believed that it may have been possible Mr. Kemp was smoking and a spark started the fire. It is not known whether or not he then suffered a fainting attack and slid to the floor where his body was found, but it is thought possible that this is what happened.

Not until the smoke subsided did the firemen discover the body. He was taken to the Milford Memorial Hospital in the hospital ambulance but was dead on arrival.

Many valuable antiques were destroyed in the fire. No estimate of their value was available but it was known that Mrs. Kemp had been collecting antique furniture for many years.

The couple have no children and there are no known immediate survivors in this area.

Greener Pastures Program Seen Promoting Lower Cost Milk

Tangible results can be credited to the Greener Pastures program, which has been operating on Delaware dairy farms over the past 7 years.

At the top of the list is savings in feed costs for producers' high quality milk, according to Delmar J. Young, extension dairy specialist with the University of Delaware School of Agriculture.

In summarizing results of the program since 1950, Young points out that it had encouraged greater use of pastures, silages and hay in farmer's dairy feeding programs and has improved herd health, breeding efficiency and physical condition of Delaware dairy cattle. Use of greater amounts of roughages has brought larger and more growth to 2-year old animals and has meant lower feed costs in producing high quality milk.

One hundred sixty two Delaware dairymen have "graduated" from the Greener Pastures program by building up forage programs to an excellent rating in the annual judging of their pasture, silage, hay and feeding methods.

Of eighty nine farmers who made good to excellent ratings in the 1956 Greener Pastures program, sixty five were using small grains for early spring grazing, and fifty four were using sudan grass for supplemental grazing in the hot summer months.

Young noted that seven years of the Greener Pastures program had brought about much greater use of supplemental pastures with the result that the grazing season has been lengthened and on some farms now extends from late March until mid October. As farmers have learned to keep the right balance between ladino clover and orchard grass in their pastures, milk production has increased. A much greater use of both permanent and temporary silos has been noted since the Greener Pastures work began. Feeding of silage has increased as dairymen have found how to use silage preservatives efficiently.

Young points out that there has been an increase in the seedling of high yielding alfalfa and alfalfa grass mixtures during the past five years and that several dairymen this past year reported hay yields greater than four tons of feed (dry weight) per acre. There has been a noticeable increase in hay quality through earlier cutting and greater care in harvest and storage. And more dairymen are using air driers and air heat driers to cure hay quickly and reduce losses from weather damage, Young observes.

The blowdown of 2,500,000 banana plants last July has hit Panama's farm prospects.

New Castle Hundred Rod and Gun Club Improves Lum's Pond

Thirteen members of the New Castle Hundred Rod and Gun Club assembled Sunday Nov. 25 at Lum's Pond near St. Georges, to build a sandbag control structure to stabilize the water level of the pond.

Robert Beck, technician from the Delaware Game and Fish Commission gave the sportsmen technical assistance and arranged for delivery of supplies and materials which were paid for in full by the New Castle Hundred Rod and Gun Club. The job was completed in one day. For an indefinite time the stabilized water level in Delaware's largest fishing pond is assured.

Lum's Pond is a part of the U.S. Government reservation bordering the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal. Fishing rights are licensed to the Game and Fish Commission. The quality of fishing in Lum's Pond had been threatened by loss of water in the summer and by excessive siltation due to dredging activities on the canal. The action taken by the New Castle Rod and Gun Club will go a long way in solving the first of these problems.

Launching Ramp at Haven Lake is Completed and Ready for Use

The launching ramp at Haven Lake has been completed and is ready for public use. The Milford Veterans of Foreign Wars, Blue Hen Post 6483, leased to the Delaware Game and Fish Commission a two acre tract of land at Haven Lake for a launching ramp and parking area for cars and trailers. The State Highway Department graded and graveled the road leading to the area. The Haven Lake launching site adds more free access site to Delaware waters.

Deer Season — Dec. 3-8

Delaware's archery season for deer is Dec. 3 thru Dec. 8th. Checking stations will not be in operation. However, all successful archers should contact the office of the Game and Fish Commission (Tele. Dover 5813) and a representative of the commission will check and tag the deer.

It's the Law

"No person shall carry firearms or other implements in any motor vehicle or conveyance by which deer can be killed when spotlighting deer or attempting to spotlight deer. Possession in a motor vehicle or conveyance of firearms or other implements by which deer can be killed when spotlighting deer or attempting to spotlight deer shall be prima facie evidence of the use of such firearms or other implements for hunting."

In spite of dire warnings from people who are opposed to the present regulations concerning deer hunting, reports received in the office of the Game and Fish Commission indicate that Delaware's deer herd is still increasing. As could be expected, Sussex County, with its large area of suitable deer habitat, is reporting the largest and most consistent increase. However, highway kill, which is a good index of deer abundance, shows that deer are also on the increase in New Castle County.

Figures compiled on highway kill of deer since 1944 indicate that our deer population is at least as high as, and possibly higher than it has ever been. From 1944 through 1948 annual highway kill was three or less. It jumped to 10 in 1949 and had climbed to 49 by the end of 1953. In 1954 the number was 43. In 1955 the records show only 21 deer killed on the highways, but this sharp decline is due in part to a misunderstanding on the part of reporting personnel. This matter has been clarified and the count for 1956, up until Nov. 30, is 43. At this rate the number of deer killed on the highway will be higher this year than ever before. This should mean that Delaware's deer hunters will kill more deer than in the past couple of years.

Aerial Count of Waterfowl

The November aerial count of waterfowl, completed this week, shows total population about 1500 higher than November 1955, but about 15,000 below the five-year average for this month. While the reason for the decline in waterfowl numbers is not immediately apparent it is felt that it is not serious. The black duck is still the most numerous. The mallard is in second place, but just barely, being very nearly dethroned by the Canada goose which is increasing steadily each year.

In spite of the drop in total waterfowl population duck hunters are generally reporting satisfactory hunting in most areas, for although waterfowl numbers are below normal, there are still sufficient to provide good shooting when weather conditions are favorable.

Odd Facts

Joe Lappersonne caught a 330-pound porbeagle (shark) — the second ever caught there — in the waters of South Africa's Eastern Cape area. It was eight feet long. The porbeagle is a man-eater.

Local Delegates Attend Meeting On Milk Pool

The delegate body of the Interstate Milk Producer's Cooperative went on record unanimously at business sessions of its 21st annual meeting in Philadelphia Wednesday (Nov. 28) in opposition to the establishment of a market pool in the Philadelphia area.

The delegates, who represent almost 7,000 dairy farmers in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland, urged officers and directors of the Cooperative to do everything in their power to preserve the individual dealer pool in the Philadelphia milkshed.

The business sessions were part of a two-day meeting, including reports and speeches by Interstate officers and an annual banquet with Hal Boyle, Associated Press columnist, as speaker.

At Tuesday's sessions, O. H. Hoffman, Jr., general manager of Interstate, urged the several hundred delegates to "fight with every possible ounce of energy and ability" to preserve the dealer, or handler pool, now used under Federal Order 61 in the Philadelphia milkshed.

Explaining that inevitably a market pool would bring more manufacturing milk into the area and, in all probability, raise the price to consumers while lowering the price to producers, Mr. Hoffman said:

"The handler pool, in essence, is much closer to an individualistic business than a market pool. The bulk of business is conducted directly between the handler and his producers, with supply and supplier closely geared to one another and making for a maximum of efficiency."

"It seems to me that the most the market pool could accomplish in this market, through the application of intricate, arbitrary, and artificial gimmicks, would be considerably less than we already have with our present, simpler handler type of order," he continued. "This is the fight of our lives. Nothing could be as catastrophic to the stability and welfare of the Philadelphia milkshed producers and consumers as to have Federal Order 61 changed to a market pool."

In a handler pool, farmers are paid according to how their individual dealers utilize their milk, as Class 1 or manufacturing. In a market pool, they are paid a blend price based on utilization for all dealers in the market.

At the banquet, attended by more than 700 people, Hal Boyle said he believed that the United States is in more danger of losing its sense of humor than its prosperity.

Commenting that America is enjoying the most widespread material prosperity than any other country in the world has ever known, Mr. Boyle added:

"But we are paying a heavy price for it in terms of neuroticism. Many people today are more afraid of living than they are of dying. The key word of this country a generation ago was opportunity. Today, the keyword too often seems to be security."

New directors installed at the meeting were B. Snavely Garber, Willow Street, Pa., for District 7; W. Levis Phipps, Wilmington, for District 9; Ellwood B. Gruwell, Felton, for District 12; and David W. Litton, Boonesboro, Md., for District 25.

Members of the Executive Committee of the board for the next year will be: Mr. Phipps, J. Lawson Crothers, North East, Md.; R. Leroy Light, Cochranville, Pa.; James M. Rogers, McVeytown, Pa.; A. R. Marvel, Easton, Md.; and Coy E. Meakle, Everett, Pa., chairman.

Officers re-elected are: Mr. Marvel, president; Mr. Rodgers, vice-president; H. E. Jamison, Swarthmore, Pa., secretary-treasurer; Florence Schultz, Havertown, Pa., assistant treasurer; and Clara Gallagher, Philadelphia, assistant secretary.

Officers and delegates from Delaware who attended the meeting were:

Directors W. Levis Phipps, Wilmington R. 1 and Ellwood B. Gruwell, Felton R. 2; Delegates Harry G. Deputy of Kirkwood; Hyland P. Bullen and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Dickerson of Middletown; Richard E. Merchant and Mr. and Mrs. William J. Muncey, Newark; William Price III of Townsend; Joseph Somy of Frederick; Howard R. Young of Lincoln; Milton Swartzentruber of Greenwood; L. D. Caulk of Wyoming; Mr. and Mrs. Otis J. Clifton, Jr., of Milton; and Francis Downes of Clayton.

Although 5th among steel producers, France is now the second largest steel exporter.

World bread grain output in 1956 will be similar to the big 1955 outturn, Paris reports.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—May a veteran change his Korean GI Bill program of training if his progress in his present course has not been satisfactory?

A—He may, providing he shows VA that the lack of progress was not due to his own misconduct, neglect or lack of application, and if he has not changed his program prior to that time.

Q—Are there any restrictions on GI insurance that would make the policy invalid if the veteran holds a hazardous occupation?

A—There are no such restrictions on GI insurance. The veteran may engage in any occupation, no matter how hazardous, without altering the terms of his policy or the amount of his premium.

Q—Is it possible for a young man or woman to take a regular high school education under the War Orphans Schooling program?

A—No. The law prohibits regular high school studies under the program. Below-college-level courses may be taken only if they offer specialized vocational training that equips students for a vocational goal.

Q—I lost my discharge from Armed Forces. Can VA provide me with another?

A—VA cannot provide you with a replacement for your lost discharge. Instead, you should write to the Department of Defense, Military Personnel Records Center, 9700 Page Boulevard, St. Louis, Mo.

A big pipeline to be built from Marseilles, France, to Northern European refineries is expected to carry 30,000,000 tons a year of Middle East crude oil to France, Belgium, Holland, Germany, and Luxembourg, by 1960. This would save tanker shipping costs.

New Chemicals and Marketing Methods to be Unveiled at Peninsula Horticultural Society Meeting

A new chemical weed control material known as CDEC will be introduced to Delaware, Maryland and Virginia growers at the annual meeting of fruit and vegetable men of the Peninsula Horticultural Society in the Capital Grange Hall, Dover, Dec. 11-12.

CDEC has been thoroughly tested at the Virginia Truck Experiment Station, says Robert F. Stevens, secretary of the Society and University of Delaware Extension Horticulturist. Dr. L. L. Danielson of the Virginia station will report on these results and make his recommendations for its use in 1957.

Another chemical, CMU, will be in the spotlight also when Dr. E. M. Rahn of the University of Delaware, reports on results of his tests during the past 6 years of its effect on the size and yield of asparagus.

Dr. D. F. Crossan of the University of Delaware and Dr. C. E. Cox of the University of Maryland, will give reports on fungicide chemicals used for disease control while other speakers will report on such pest control topics as European corn borer on peppers, seed treatment for lima beans, diseases of cucumbers and pest control on fruit.

Trials of new vegetable varieties in all three states will be reported, along with a comparison of how they stand up to the standard varieties now grown commercially on the Delmarva Peninsula.

On the marketing front, growers will hear from A. S. Allen, chairman of the Food Distribution, Research and Marketing Committee of the U. S. Department of Agriculture on "Modern Trends in Vegetable Marketing." Allen has studied quality, packaging, refrigeration, handling and retailing of vegetables in most of the markets of the East. He has been in the sales development and technical service department of the E. I. DuPont de Nemours Company for over 25 years. His talk will stress modern methods for selling more vegetables at a greater profit.

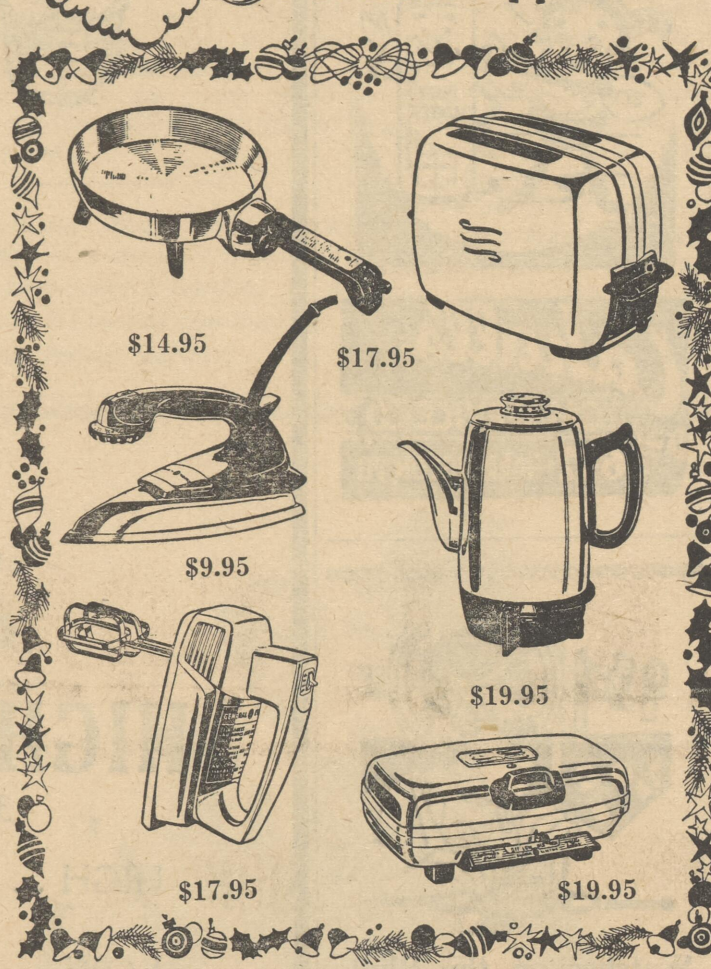

A complete program for the 2-day meeting can be had by writing to Robert F. Stevens, secretary, Peninsula Horticultural Society at Box 150 in Newark. There is no admission charge at the meeting.

Dublin, Eire, learns that Louis Armstrong and his jazz band will play a return engagement there soon.

Committees, Polling Places Set for Corn Vote

Members of the committee in charge of conducting the December 11 growers' referendum on the corn program and the location of polling places were today announced by Joseph Ennis, chairman, of the Kent County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

In the referendum, farmers throughout the commercial corn area will vote on whether they wish to use Soil Bank corn base acreages or acreage allotments in producing their corn crop. The outcome of the referendum will also affect the method of qualifying for price support for the 1957 and later corn crops.

As directed by regulations of the secretary of agriculture, the County ASC Committee has designated three local farmers, and one alternate, as members of the community referendum committee to conduct the referendum. The members must reside in the community and must be eligible to vote in the referendum.

Polling places will be open for voting in the referendum from 8 A.M. to 7 P.M. Dec. 11. Those named as members of the referendum committees in Kent County are as follows:

1st Conservation Area (1st & 2nd representative districts). Will vote at Clark Seed Company, Cheswold. Charles Blendt, chairman; Joseph Moore, John Tarburton, alternate, John Moor.

2nd Conservation Area (3rd & 4th representative districts). Will vote at McGinnis Store, Kenton. Medford Davis, Jr., chairman; Henry F. Wilkens, Francis Downs, alternate, William H. Powell.

3rd Conservation Area (5th & 7th representative districts). Will vote at County ASC office, 313 South Governors Avenue, Dover. Olin Gooden, chairman, Homer Torbert, Francis Raughley, alternate, Lowell Roland.

4th Conservation Area. Those living in the 6th representative district will vote at Harry Wesels Store at Petersburg. Paul Hughes, chairman, John Webb, Sr., John Cahall, alternate, Archie Dill.

Those living in the 9th representative districts will vote at Taylor and Messick's Store Harrington.

Russell Bowdle, chairman; Robert Collins, Oscar Draper, alternate, Frank Winkler.

5th Conservation Area (8th & 10th representative districts.) Will vote at the Frederica Fire Hall. Temple Stubbs, chairman, Derickson Biggs, James Powell, alternate, Everett Robbins.

Efficient Use of Feed Can Cut Livestock Production Costs

There is no better way for farmers to cut production costs than by reducing waste in the use of feeds, suggests George Vapaa, Kent County agent. Feed accounts for more than two-thirds of the total cost of producing broilers, and over half the cost of producing eggs. Grain and other concentrates make up well over half the cost of fattening cattle, and about a fourth of the cost of producing milk. (Hay, silage and pasture account for at least another fourth of the cost for cattle.)

Some excessive costs can be cut by care in the handling of feed—making sure it is not wasted by spilling from bins and hoppers, and that rats, birds and other pests are not being supported along with the livestock.

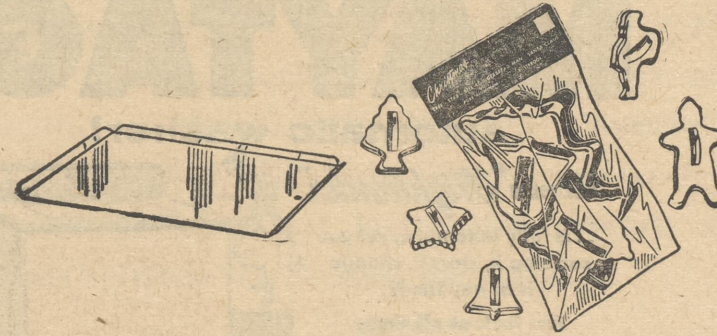

Other feed wastes can be avoided by better management, says Vapaa. For example, too many dairymen increase milk production by feeding huge amounts of concentrates instead of breeding or buying cows with higher productive capacity and feeding more forage.

Broiler producers, on the other hand, have made good progress in putting results of research into practice. With improved feeding formulas adopted in the last 15 years they are saving about a pound of feed per pound of broiler. Good results are also being obtained with turkeys, and some improvements are beginning to show up in the feeding of pigs.

Research Shows Animals Inherit Ability to Gain or Maintain Weight on Less Feed

Federal State research over the years has shown that the ability of some animals to put on weight or maintain body weight on lower quantities of feed than that required by other animals of their breed is an inheritable quality, reports George Vapaa, Kent County agent.

These findings point to possibilities for increasing profit in livestock production by breeding animals that use feed more efficiently than present day commercial types.

In beef cattle, for instance, research by the U.S. Department of Agriculture has established the fact that rate of gain is a highly inheritable trait. In lines selected especially for ability to produce meat efficiently, steers put on 2½ pounds a day on the same feed that gives a gain of only 2 pounds in standard commercial strains. And these animals reach market finish with standard weight and carcass quality. Some unusual animals in test lots gain as much as 3 pounds a day, and research workers are sure that they can get these gains in the type and kind of beef cattle that breeders and markets prefer.

Similar results have been obtained with meat-type hogs. When breeding for leaner type hogs began about 20 years ago, test animals reached 200 pounds in 6 to 7 months on about 380 pounds of feed per 100 pounds of gain. Now test animals reach 200 pounds in 5 to 5½ months—sometimes less—on 300 to 350 pounds of feed per 100 pounds of gain.

A local farmer, E. L. Gilbert of near Kenton, is demonstrating that inheritance plays a major part in the weight gains of pigs from registered Hampshire sows. His program of selective progeny testing is based on keeping records on each breeding animal.

In tests with dry dairy cows, where milk production is not involved, it has been found that animals vary a great deal in the amount of feed needed to maintain body weight. And modern strains of broilers bred for meat production have demonstrated their ability to grow faster on the same rations that were used 25 years ago than did the broilers of that period.

Comparison of research results indicates that breeding for feed efficiency can be applied profitably to all types of livestock production. Since feed represents the highest single production cost, anything which can be done to cut feed costs means more money in the farmer's pocket, says Vapaa.

A S.P.C.A. petition with 1,000 names demands that the East London, South Africa, City Council, either provide decent accommodations for the lions in Queen's Park Zoo, or send them to another city that will.

University of Delaware Collegiate Poultry Judging Team Named

Two juniors and a freshman make up the University of Delaware's 1956-57 collegiate poultry judging team, it was announced today by Dr. William J. Mellen, assistant professor of animal and poultry industry at the University and coach of the team.

The freshman is Russell Boyce of Laurel, while the two juniors are Paul Ottenheimer of Vineland, N. J., and Cecil Shirey of Stewartstown, Pa.

Dec. 8, they will take part in the annual Eastern Inter-collegiate Poultry Judging contest against teams from nine other colleges and universities. These include the Universities of New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Maryland, Cornell University, Rutgers University, West Virginia University and the National Agricultural College at Doylestown, Pa. The University of Maryland, at College Park, Md., is host for the event this year.

Coach Mellen says that the Delaware team has been training since September for the contest. All of its members are students in the School of Agriculture.

In the contest Dec. 8, they will judge 14 classes of birds, representing typical egg and meat strains of poultry. Also, they will judge classes of birds for live market quality. Finally, they will inspect birds for conformity to breed standards.

The contest will be followed by an awards banquet at which winners will be announced. Trophies and cash awards will be given to the high teams and the high individuals in the contests.

The day before the contest, the Delaware team will make a tour of the U. S. Department of Agriculture research center at Beltsville, Md.

Changes In Social Security

By Myron Milbourne
Manager of the Delaware Social Security Office, 504 W. 10th St., Wilmington

Since they were first brought under the old-age and survivors insurance program beginning in 1955, some self-employed farmers and ranchers have had an optional method of figuring their earnings for social security purposes. This optional method, however, was restricted to individual farmers who reported their income on a cash basis.

Under the 1956 amendments to the law, this optional method of figuring farm income has been revised so that more low-income farmers can build protection for themselves and their families under social security. It now applies not only to individual farmers and ranchers but also to members of farm partnerships. Moreover, farmers who figure their earnings on an accrual rather than a cash basis can now use the optional method.

This extension of the optional method was made by Congress in recognition of the fact that members of farm partnerships and accrual-basis farmers are, in the same way as other farmers, subject to the risks that the peculiar to farming in general—risks that make farm income subject to sharp fluctuations and often result in years of low income or actual net loss. Extending this optional method of figuring farm income to farm partnerships and accrual-basis farmers gives them the same opportunity as other farmers and ranchers to keep their protection under old-age and survivors insurance during bad years.

For taxable years ending on or after Dec. 31, 1956, a self-employed farmer or rancher whose gross income from agricultural self-employment is not more than $1800 may use for social security purposes either his actual net or 2/3 of his gross income. If his gross farm income is more than $1800 in a year but his net farm earnings are less than $1200 he may use either his net or $1200. If his gross income is more than $1800 and his net farm earnings are $1200 or more, he must use the amount of his actual net farm earnings.

The revised law contains other provisions which serve to clear up uncertainties about farm self-employment in relation to the social security law. For instance, the definition of a share farmer or share cropper as a self-employed farmer, and the status of a crew leader as the employer of farm workers or the employee of the farmer for whom he supplies seasonal farm help. I shall describe these provisions in the new law in my next article.

THE NEWSPAPER: CONTEMPORARY HISTORY

The newspaper is an account of contemporary affairs and is of invaluable aid to the historian and the genealogist. Until the past hundred years, the daily held the field alone. Now, the weekly is of considerable aid and promises to be even more so, at least in Delaware.

For some time, the weeklies of the state have been sent to the state archives where they are microfilmed for posterity. Elsewhere in the nation, newspapers are being microfilmed to facilitate handling and storing of bulky volumes.

But first a word from our sponsor. The weeklies in the 19th century confined their activities largely to gleanings from the dailies on the national and world front, and paid little attention to local news except that of particular interest to the farmer.

The scene has changed now. With the dailies, TV, and radio, the weekly newspaper nowadays pays most attention to news of its immediate and nearby localities.

This news trend, aided and abetted by microfilming, will play a prominent part in filling a void in provincial history and genealogy.

Almost every citizen of a rural community is mentioned, sooner or later, in a weekly newspaper, which is not the case with the dailies. Fifty or a hundred years from now, historians, genealogists or other interested persons may, in all likelihood, trace a resident of the hinterlands by looking into the microfilms at the State Archives.

Had we had the country weekly, as we know it today, in the latter part of the 18th century and the first three-quarters of the nineteenth, we would have been able to assist in compiling a more complete genealogy of the Burgess family, for example, than we have now. Furthermore, we would have known the appearance of our ancestors.

Thru deeds, court records, and Bibles, a Texas relative has traced back our ancestry to the Revolution, and she is still working on it. Think how much more her research would have been facilitated if she had had files of the country weekly with the modern emphasis on local news. And, do not forget, most of the population in the early days lived in the rural areas.

Here at The Journal we write news with the awareness, that sometime in the years to come, someone may refer to the bound volumes in the office, or the microfilms at Dover.

We have, in the past eight or nine years, carried two series of historical articles on Harrington and surrounding communities. A lot of the material was secured from residents who were alive before Harrington was an incorporated City. Some of these residents, such as John Sheldrake and Benjamin Knox, have passed on but the account of their good deeds and their knowledge of early Harrington have been put in print for posterity. The fact that they were in their declining years was one of the motives that impelled us to write the articles.

We have published, and hope to publish many more, historical pictures. Again we thought that, besides their contemporary, or present, interest, they would be of interest to researchers in the years to come. These pictures include those of the Delaware House, the old Chamber of Commerce, the Harrington Band, the main street of Harrington around 1912; Haldeman's basket factory at Felton, school classes, baseball teams of years gone by, the old wooden Fire House and firemen.

These historical pictures, and present ones, will be of interest to future historians. The 21st century researcher will not only be able to know how we lived, from the news accounts, but he will be able to see how we lived from the news pictures and advertising illustrations.

Incidentally, we will be glad to publish old pictures of Harrington and surrounding communities without cost.

Sulky Slants

By MRS. DAVE (PAT) SMITH

They say to come to Florida and feel grand. Well all I can say is I've felt terrible for the past two weeks. Gosh, most all the time it's around 83, but last few days it's really been chilly. But as I write this it's again 78.

The stables are beginning to come in now from up the country. Guess the weather is a little bad. We haven't had any rain since we've been here and it's sandy and dry.

Certainly a busy place at times. Sometimes there are so many cars around and still no one seems to get anywhere. First you hear that Walter Gibbons is coming and again it's later, so I don't know. They are supposed to start racing in March. All the boys are counting on it any way.

I'm not worried as long as I'm close to the lakes as I can put in a lot of time fishing. But to date I haven't even got a bite. The rest of the gang can go down to this lake beside my trailer and come out with the nicest bass. Not me. And I can't put a worm on a hook. So I worry every one to do it for me. Course you can fish the best with minnows. Say Mr. Jerred, you could do good down here with your boat. Oh, yes, I really took some good colored pictures. All but two. Those I turned too fast and the numbers. But Dave said why did I take all of one horse? You guessed it. Flashy Fellow.

So far there's nothing exciting around here to tell. But the dog track across the road from this track took down the trotting horse sign that was on top of a bar building. One pointed to the dog track, the other Harness Track. Really fighting each other. It was a beautiful sulky and driver sign. One like the Paskey's used to have at their place. So the fuss goes on and on.

Was down to Tampa, and it's really a bee hive. They are getting ready for the big Gasparilla also the big state fair. Anyone that has never seen this affair sure is missing something. Dave and I have watched it once some years ago. And all I can tell you anything goes.

I intended to go fishing over to S. John's pass but I ended up back in Ybor City, land of the Spanish. Oh what food and the soft music with your meals.

Visitors with a taste for con polio and such delicacies flock by the hundreds to colorful Ybor City, almost as famous for its fine food as cigars.

This Spanish settlement is nation's cigar capital of the world now. At one time this big industry was in Key West so I was

The C.C.D. Teachers Course continues in Milford on Tuesday evening at 7:45 p.m.

Choir rehearsal will be held Thursday evening at 8:00 o'clock. Serving at Mass last Sunday with Tony Perrone was Tommy Lord.

The Feast of the Immaculate Conception is one of the five feasts of the Blessed Virgin Mary that are universal in the church. It is observed Dec. 8th in the Western Church and on the following day in the Eastern Rites. Mary, under the title of her Immaculate Conception, is the patroness of the church in the United States.

The doctrine of the Immaculate Conception is that the Blessed Virgin Mary, by a unique grace and privilege of God in virtue of the merits of Jesus Christ, the Savior, was preserved from all stain of original sin. St. Jerome, speaking of Mary's Immaculate Conception, said: "She had a dove's simplicity in all things; everything about her was purity and unassumingness, truth and grace; all was mercy and righteousness from heaven. No sin was found in her; therefore she was without spot."

St. John's parish in Milford are holding a bazaar which started yesterday and will continue today from 4:00 to 11:00 p.m. Everyone is invited to attend.

Harrington 4-H Club Notes

The Harrington Sunshine 4-H Club held its meeting Monday evening at the home of Jean and David Martin in the form of a Christmas party. Games were played and refreshments were served.

At a short business meeting it was decided to donate $5.00 to the Harrington Fire Company. It was also suggested to have a skating party in February. Alvin Jarrell, Richard Sapp and Owain Gruwell are to contact the roller skating rink in Dover to fulfill these plans.

The next meeting will be held on Jan. 7, at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Owain Gruwell.

that's saying a lot. I hope to make the big fair again this year.

Harrington G.O.C. Visits Civil Defense Center in Delaware City

A group of airplane spotters of the G.O.C. Post of Harrington visited the Civil Defense in Delaware City last Thursday evening and were instructed how to operate the new listening device that was installed here a few days ago.

It was explained that our post needed to be manned 24-hours a day owing to the fact there were so many nations on the other side now at war with each other, was now a national crisis.

They also explained that most of the cities of Delaware were organized and had installed a warning system that is operated by a certain group of trained personnel that in case of an air attack a button or switch could be thrown on that city could be warned at a moment's notice.

They told us to their regret that Harrington had no such protection either by an organized Civil Defense set up or the warning system. They explained that people needed training and should know what to do in case of any emergency.

They also said the Federal Government would meet half of the cost of the warning system but it was up to the cities to request it before it could be installed.

Let's all get behind this and request our city council to take action before it too late. It's better to be prepared than to suffer by our own neglect.

It was an evening spent that did a lot of good and will make better spotters of all that were there. We were also showed through the center and after the meeting refreshments were served.

The Post will hold a bake Sat., Dec. 15, at Taylor's Hardware Store beginning at 10 o'clock and you will be solicited for any thing you can give to make this affair a success. The Girl Scouts will make the calls. Money will be used to buy oil and for other expenses of the Post. If you are missed call Sam Short 8993.

In three separate localities of Eire, school children have gone on strike because their parents kept them out of school as a protest against the bad condition of the buildings, Dublin reports.

revenue could be used for the Christmas fund.

In the business meeting, action was deferred on a request of Horace E. Quillen for an extension of the sewer line on Milby Street. It was brought out that six or seven residents had expressed their willingness to hook on to the line.

Smith also mentioned that the sidewalk in Gaines (or Cain's) Alley was in bad condition. He was instructed by the Council to write the owners of adjoining property about its repair.

The city manager also read a letter from the Chamber of Commerce asking the City what action it had taken on its request for the condemnation of the Brown property at 37 Commerce St. The City has communicated with the property owner, who lives in New Jersey, but no action has been taken. It was suggested that the state fire marshal could be called in, but no action was taken.

Mayor Killen thought the City should have a referendum next year for a new sewer program which would provide for a new disposal plant and sewer pumps, among other things. It was pointed out that the present system had been built many years ago, and that the bonds would be paid off in the '60s.

An attempt is being made to secure the names and addresses of all Harrington graduate alumni.

A banquet and dance is being planned to be held in the spring.
