Alertness on the part of the Harrington Volunteer Fire Company prevented what might have been a halocaust Wednesday afternoon in the business district when Wheeler's Radio and Television Center on Commerce Street caught fire.

Local firemen put out the blaze quickly, but, even then, it destroyed the storage shed, in which it originated, at the rear of the store. Loss was estimated at $1000 to the structure, with smoke damage of $500 to wallpaper stored over the store. Loss was insured.

Houston Fire Company came over and stood by and Carlisle Fire Company, of Milford, stood by at Houston.

The fire, of undetermined origin, could have been disastrous. The day was fairly windy, adjoining frame structures were imperiled.

Increase In Revocations By MVD in 1956

There was a substantial increase in the mandatory revocation of motor vehicle operating privileges by the Motor Vehicle Department during 1956 as compared with the previous year.

Lieut. Eugene B. Ellis, of the State Police, in charge of the revocation division of the Motor Vehicle Department, reports that there was a total of 1,014 revocations during 1956 which was an increase of 356 over 1955 when a total of 659 revocations took place.

In a report on this matter, Lieut. Ellis said in part, "It is felt that this increase is due largely to successful prosecution and an intensified enforcement program by law enforcement agencies throughout the state."

Lieut. Ellis also credited the development of scientific methods which now enable the determination of alcoholic concentration in the blood so that prosecution need no longer depend upon lay witnesses in liquor cases.

Operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor was the cause of most of the revocations in 1956 and 1955, with 927 revocations in 1956 and 534 in 1955.

Manslaughter by automobile caused 8 revocations in 1956 as compared with 23 in 1955. Driving during period of revocation was listed in 62 cases in 1956 and 92 cases in 1955.

Some other causes for revocations during 1956 were leaving the scene of an accident 4, using motor vehicle in commission of a felony 5, assault and battery by automobile 4, larceny 2 and false statement, 1.

Jersey Man Killed Here in Car Accident

Ice and snow contributed to the death of a new Jersey man when his car skidded off Route 13 and ran into a tree near Harrington, Thurs., Jan. 17.

Kent County Coroner Roland Trader said Bartels apparently blacked out or was asleep when his car left the highway.

Owen Sheffer of Dover, who was driving some distance in back of Bartels, said he saw the car leave the road and cross to the shoulder where it whirled some snow, then skidded and struck the tree. The car was only traveling about 40 miles an hour at the time it was estimated. It was demolished by the impact.

Bartels suffered fractures of the skull and right leg and possibly internal injuries. The body was released to the Cooper Funeral Home in Harrington.

Funeral services were held from the Elisha Adams Funeral Home, Pleasantville, N. J., Monday at 10 a.m. Interment was in Mount Peace Cemetery, Philadelphia. Funeral arrangements were made by the J. Millard Cooper Funeral Home, Harrington.

House Measure Asks $1,000,000 For Beach Work

A million-dollar appropriation to be used by the State Highway Department to protect the state's beaches and shorelines is contained in a measure introduced in the House of Representatives Wednesday afternoon.

This is HB-35 and there were four co-sponsors starting with Rep. Joseph B. Walls (D-Lewes) and including Reps. John Keller (R-Milford), Arthur R. Reed (R-Lewes) and Henry B. Appleford (R-Wyoming).

It was one of several bills introduced into the lower chamber on the sixth legislative day of the present sessions. The measure, assigned by Speaker Harry E. Mayhew to the Appropriations Committee, would appropriate $500,000 annually to the department for bulkhead, seawall, breakwater, groin, and jetty work.

The Highway Department could enter into agreements with the federal government to carry out the purposes of the proposed act.

Laurel School Bill OK'd

This was the principal item of new business during an afternoon which saw the House pass two bills, one over the bitter protest of Rep. Paul F. Livingston (D-Wilmington).

Mr. Livingston's dislike was made known when rules were suspended to act on HB-30, co-sponsored by Mr. Walls and Mr. Reed. The measure was no more than presented than Mr. Walls moved successfully that rules be suspended.

Mr. Livingston asked that the amendment be explained. He referred to an "amendment" to the $50,000,000 school construction program approved by the last legislature. He wanted it explained "thoroughly" adding "we do know that $851,000 was appropriated for this school district (Lewes). Has that fund been exhausted?"

Mr. Walls said that the money had not been "exhausted" but there was an "inequity" involved.

Mr. Livingston had detected the fact that HB-30 called for $98,000 for a Colored school and it irked him to think that the state was still spending money separately for Colored and white schools. He said he would like a deferment, but Mr. Mayhew pointed out that a roll call already had been ordered.

On the roll call that followed Mr. Livingston was the only opponent.

More Money For Tarumianz

The House also approved a bill, with one dissent, for one of its old friends, Dr. M. A. Tarumianz, superintendent of the state's mental institutions. This time the measure - HB-27, co-sponsored by Reps. Paul E. Shockley (D-Wilmington) and Harvey B. Spicer (R-Georgetown) - asked for what amounts to an emergency appropriation of $100,000 for salaries for employees of the Hospital for the Mentally Retarded at Stockley.

Mr. Shockley said the bill was self-explanatory and so it was. There was no debate, but on the vote Rep. Charles P. West (D-Gumboro) answered "no."

Dr. Tarumianz had told the Legislative Budget Committee last week that if he didn't have funds for salaries for this institution by Feb. 1 he would have to (a) lay a number of people off, or (b) put a number of people on a 12-hour shift. In either case, patronage was involved and the bill sailed by.

Introduced Wednesday afternoon was House Concurrent Resolution No. 3, co-sponsored by Reps. James R. Quigley (D-New Castle), the majority leader, and James H. Snowden (R-Wilmington), the minority leader, which would create a special highway safety committee. It was referred by Mr. Mayhew to the Highways Committee.

Mr. Snowden also sent up a bill—HB-36—which would end the abutting paving assessment in Wilmington. A short item, the measure in one paragraph repeals present Wilmington laws permitting the one-third tax for road work.

Youths Held In Robbery Of Aged Man

Two Harrington youths were arrested by state police detectives of the Dover troop, Thursday night, Jan. 17, and charged with robbery by violence of an 86-year-old Felton clock repairer.

Marvin Marker, 18 of Harrington, and James H. Hamilton, Jr., 20 of Andrewville, were placed under $5,000 bail each by Magistrate Ralph Knotts, Sr., of Dover, on the robbery charges. Both are in Kent County Correctional Institution in default of bail.

Lt. Burrill F. McCoy, chief investigator at the Dover troop, charged the two youths entered the shop of Louis F. Outten, at the east side of Felton on Route 12 the previous Wednesday evening.

They said they wanted to buy and antique clock, and one of them pointed to a clock on a shelf in back of Mr. Outten and asked if it had chimes, according to police.

The aged clock repairman turned around to the shelf and was setting the clock so the chimes would sound when one youth threw his arms around him and ragged him to the floor.

While one of them held Outten, the other took his wallet containing $322 from his pocket. They then fled from the store.

An investigation disclosed the youths had walked 18 miles back to Harrington, the long way, by Killen's Pond and Houston.

One of the youths was picked up on a description given police, and about half of the money was found on him.

Detectives learned from him who the other youth was. He was arrested and most of the rest of the money was found on him. All except $50 was recovered.

Farm Accidents Injure Millions Every Year

It's still not too late to make a few safety resolutions for 1957 says Wilson Heaps chairman of the Maryland Farm Safety Committee. He points out that accidents kill about 13,000 farm residents each year and injure more than a million others.

Need a few ideas for resolutions? Chairman Heaps is loaded with them. He points out that the National Safety Council is this year conducting special campaigns to reduce accidental falls and is putting increased emphasis on traffic mishaps in its Back the Attack on Traffic Accidents' drive.

Motor vehicle accidents are the leading source of deaths and injuries to rural people. Why not promise yourself to take extra care to make sure your car or truck is in safe operating condition? Can you recognize traffic signs by their shape alone? These signs are the signs of life. Resolve to learn them now. How about hand signals? Do you know them? Do you use them? They can save your life. Better check on them right away.

Falls are the next most serious cause of death and injury to farm residents. Good old common sense will prevent many of these mishaps. Just to be on the safe side why not resolve to check your ladders for safe condition. While you're at it, take a look at the steps and stairs in your home and in your outbuildings. Are they equipped with handrails? These can be lifesavers. Good housekeeping can prevent a lot of fatal tumbles. Make it a point this year to keep stairs clear of debris—in other words, don't use them for storage. It's mighty easy to trip over a pair of boots tossed on a step.

But remember, resolutions don't mean a thing if you don't make them work.

Harrington Loses To Bridgeville

The Harrington Varsity dropped a close one to Bridgeville 35-41. The boys - outscored Bridgeville from the field, 14 goals to 13 doing an outstanding defensive job on Wiley, the 3rd high scorer in the state, but could only convert 7 fouls from the charity marker while Bridgeville was dropping 15 of 25 to provide the difference. High scorer for the locals was once again Gene Wright with 20 points. Betts also chipped in with 14 points.

In the Junior Varsity game the boys turned in an outstanding job as they reversed a decision at Bridgeville by winning handily 32-19. The J. V's jumped out to a 12-4 first quarter advantage and were never headed thereafter. High scorers were Jimmy Schiff with 13 and Billy Manship with 11. Fine defensive work and rebounding by Taylor, Kliment, Collins, Hendricks, Outten also featured the win.

Competition centers around the judging of ready to cook and live market chickens, identification of breeds, selecting the most productive hens, and culling the poorer flocks from a flock.

BOARD URGES TIGHT RULE IF BINGO OK'D

The Bingo Commission created by the last General Assembly has agreed that if the game is to be played in Delaware it must be strictly controlled.

This is the gist of the report distributed Wednesday to all members of the 19th General Assembly as they convened for their sixth legislative day.

The 1955 General Assembly approved an amendment to the Constitution which would permit Bingo and, to ease the consciences of those who voted for the amendment, agreed in a House Joint Resolution to the establishment of a commission.

Assigned to the commission was the task of discovering whether Bingo—a game of chance—could be played in Delaware. At issue, among other things, was the likelihood that big-time gamblers from other states would take over the game in the guise of veterans' leaders or representatives of religious organizations.

As it stands the Bingo amendment to the Constitution has been questioned by many persons including lawyers who might be asked to attack or defend it in court.

Meantime, the commission has completed its work, including the proposal of a model bill, similar to that which has been said to be working in New Jersey.

MOTHER'S MARCH ON POLIO SCHEDULED FOR TUESDAY

Greenwood-Eliendale Road to be Widened Resurfaced

Major projects still in the construction stage, combined with projects to be awarded later, will provide plenty of activities for the State Highway Department during the year of 1957, according to a resume by R. A. Haber, Chief Engineer of the Department.

Major projects are under construction in each of the three counties Mr. Haber reported, and more projects are being planned to be placed under contract during the coming spring and summer months.

In addition, Mr. Haber stated, the present year will see the Department make a start on the new interstate highway projects, as authorized by Congress last year. These projects will consist of controlled access highways in the northern part of the state.

Mr. Haber stated that work on the projects now under construction is proceeding along certain lines during the winter months, as weather conditions permit these activities.

With the return of suitable weather conditions, in the spring and early summer, some of the projects now under construction will be rapidly completed, according to the Chief Engineer.

Included in these projects are the new dual highway along New Castle Avenue to Rogers Corner, the Philadelphia Pike widening and resurfacing, from Bellefonte to Claymont, Commerce Street in Smyrna; Water Street and Legislative Streets in Dover; and Shaftox Corner to Millsboro.

Some of the major projects, on which construction work is continuing, are the Walnut Street Crossing in Wilmington; Maryland Avenue through Newport; the continuation of the dual, or divided, highway along the Concord Pike; resurfacing and widening of northbound lane of U. S. Route 13, from McDonough to St. Georges; Court Street Parkway, in Dover; Widening and resurfacing of existing highway from Greenwood to Eliendale and Shaftox Corner to Maryland Line.

In addition to these major projects, there are a large number of smaller projects on which construction activities will be resumed in the early spring on the improvement of about 150 miles of dirt roads for which contracts have been already awarded and some construction work has been in progress.

Although some highway construction work is now in progress, other than paving activities, with the return of favorable weather, there will be a large amount of this work in progress in each of the three counties, Mr. Haber said.

The Chief Engineer commented that the year 1956 was one of the busiest years, from the viewpoint of construction activities, in the history of the Department and then added, that with the projects already under contract and in operation combined with the projects on which the plans are not yet completed, the indications for 1957 are that it will exceed the construction record of any previous year in the history of the Department.

GOC To Meet Thursday

There will be an important meeting of the Ground Observers Corps Thursday night, Jan. 31, at 7:30 o'clock on the second floor of the First National Bank.

The Harrington - Farmington and vicinity district has just reason for a feeling of pride in their activities in the great March of Dimes project. This community was an active participant in the nationwide parties held all over America under the leadership of former president Franklin D. Roosevelt. That was in 1934 and resulted in the raising of $1,000,000. In 1956 a sum in excess of $60,000,000 was contributed and there is need for every dollar of it. This district has contributed approximately $25,000 during the period from 1934 to 1956 and we have been fortunate in the fact that there is no record of a case of polio having developed here.

We have been a part of March of Dimes assistance to 300,000 victims of polio, which has saved lives, reduced crippling and enabled thousands to walk. In 1955 and 1956 almost 10,000,000 school children were protected against paralytic polio through free vaccine financed by the March of Dimes. Millions of children, and adults, under the age of fifty, must be protected through continued research, through education, through the use of new scientific knowledge and vaccination, until protection for all becomes a reality.

Our March of Dimes must win other battles too, for the 70,000 polio patients who fight for survival. We must aid in the training of scientists, doctors, nurses, physical therapists and other polio experts. Dr. Salk himself was trained under a March of Dimes fellowship. The 1957 March of Dimes is in progress and has adopted a slogan "Let's finish the job." The local campaign is jointly sponsored by Callaway - Kemp - Raughley Tee Post No. 7, American Legion and its Ladies Auxiliary Unit.

Two generous advance contributions by Horace E. Quillen and Taylor Hardware Company have sparked the campaign and you are urged to continue your interest by leaving your contribution at either the First National Bank or the Peoples Bank. Pupils of the local school are in the process of completing their car collections. Betty O'Neal Myer is handling the collections at the Kent and Sussex Fair winter training quarters, and Ruth Martin is accepting donations from George Sherwin and his employees. The high spot of the local drive will be the Mothers March of Polio by members of the American Legion Ladies Auxiliary Unit which will be held 7 to 9 p.m. Tues., Jan. 29, under the leadership of Unit president, Rosella Humes. Fifteen teams will leave the Fire House at 7 p.m. and all residents are requested to leave their porch lights burning.

It was originally planned to end the drive Feb. 4th, but it has now been extended to Feb. 11. The local committee consists of Earl Sylvester, chairman, J. Leonard Horleman, treasurer, and Rosella Humes. 1957 is the 12th consecutive year that the local American Legion Post has participated in the March of Dimes.

ZWAAENDAEL MUSEUM FEATURES EXHIBITS

Brilliant beaded designs, lacy crochet-work and quaint sewing accessories are now being featured in a small exhibit at the Zwaendael Museum. These recall the days of sewing circles and quilting bees, which were the popular pastime for the belles of the 19th century especially during the long winter evenings. From the intricate design effects, one can well imagine the pride they must have taken in the accomplishments of such exquisite work.

Outstanding is the beautiful old lambrquin with floral design in white, brown and gold beads on a brilliant red ground background with a shaded bead fringe. It was lent by Miss Linda M. Virden, Lewes, and probably adorned some clock mantel for many years.

Included are two beautiful fringed bags, c. 1850, with lovely floral and scenic designs made of bright colored beads. These were presented by Misses Mary and Emily Spruance (deceased) of Smyrna. One beaded bag with a rosebud design in shades of Burgundy, red and lavender and a blue bead fringe, which was made by Ruth Orr Houston of Lewes, around 1845, was lent by Mrs. Helen Wolfe Ramel, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Another, with a delicate floral spray design was made by Priscilla Jane Pettjohn, Milton, and was lent by on Miss Lolita Betts (deceased) of Milton.

A dainty Victorian-style miser coin purse was crocheted in shades of rose, tan and green and decorated with cut-steel beads. It was lent by Mrs. Edward R. Wiltbank, of Lewes. A small crocheted coin purse made pouch-style of black and tan thread was presented by Mrs. George E. Chambers, Sr., of Lewes.

Other items included are a crocheted card case; two dainty black lace mitts, both for the right hand; a purse-style sewing kit; a quaint glass slipper thimble holder; a molded iron spool holder and two silver finger shields probably to protect the fingers when coarse or waxed thread was used.

This interesting exhibit will be on display during January and February and may be viewed during the regular museum hours from 10:00 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. on weekdays, Tuesday through Saturday and from 12:30 to 5:30 p. m. on Sunday. The museum is closed on Mondays.

NASH - RENTZ

Waneta Loraine Nash, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nash, became the bride of Charles E. Rentz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rentz, of Frederica, Sunday at 2:30 p. m., in the Magnolia church with Rev. Leroy Jones officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother and father, wore a white net gown with a fingertip veil and carried a white Bible with a white orchid.

Her sister, Norma Jean Nash, was maid of honor and wore a pink gown with a blue tiara and carried a nosegay of blue carnations. Janet Rentz, Emma Lou Warren, Marilyn Frese and Kathleen Nash were bridesmaids. Miss Rentz and Miss Nash wore turquoise gowns and Miss Warren and Miss Frese wore blue gowns, each wearing a pink tiara and carrying pink nosegays.

The bridegroom's brother, Donald Rentz, served as best man and ushers were: Donald Knight, Carl Rentz, Jack Moore and Clyde Lutten. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Lillian McIlvaine, church organist.

The bride, a graduate of Caesar Rodney High School, is employed at the State Archives Building in Dover, and the bridegroom, a graduate of the Felton High School, is employed at the Delaware Mills, near Frederica.

Mr. and Mrs. Rentz will make their home in Magnolia.

Lloyd, assistant Sussex County agent, vice-president; and Edward H. Schabinger, New Castle County agent, executive committee member.

Department of Civil Defense

Communications and message center personnel of the State Department of Civil Defense will stage a 2 hour rehearsal for disaster Mon., Jan. 23, at the state's huge, underground Control Centre in Delaware City, according to Colonel D. Preston Lee, State Civil Defense director.

In the Wilmington, Kent County and New Castle County control centers, communications personnel will be standing by, beginning at 8 p.m., to receive and relay radioed messages emanating from the central control station.

"Operation Alert 1956, last July, pointed out some problems in radio message transmission and handling, which we believe we now have solved," Colonel Lee explained. "This exercise will let us test our radio communications circuits between these points and will give us an opportunity to try out the new procedures which have been worked out since the nationwide exercise."

"Only our communications personnel will be involved in this particular exercise," Colonel Lee said, "however, from it, we hope to gradually work into a full scale exercise later in the year, at which time all of the Civil Defense agencies will participate."

"Because the other divisions will not be participating, we are using previously prepared messages," Colonel Lee continued, "encompassing a variety of circumstances or incidents which would be likely to occur if an actual attack were to take place." The exercise will resume atomic attacks on the Marine Terminal, Wilmington, and Dover Air Base, Washington, Baltimore, Harrisburg, and Philadelphia in nearby areas.

Beginning with the presumed ordering of a conelrad alert and public warning at 7:33 p.m., the Civil Defense communications personnel will take their assigned places of duty as quickly as possible and begin transmission of the messages. Directors of Civil Defense in each of the areas will check the accuracy and speed of transmission of the messages as they are received, providing a positive analysis of the newly revised procedures.

"We have the finest radio communication network of any state in the United States," Colonel Lee stated, "however, we have found that we could not use it to maximum effectiveness in the past because our procedures were not as up-to-date as our equipment. I believe we have smoothed out the rough spots and can now achieve rapid and reliable communications with the various areas and agencies in the net."

"It is our intent to practice the procedures and use of our equipment frequently, under normal conditions, until we become letter perfect," the Director said. "Then, under emergency conditions, we will be able to positively maintain the flow of messages which will be required."

Captain S. H. P. Stant, state communications chief, will be in charge of the exercise at the state control center, and Trooper George Bundek will supervise the message center personnel. Communications chiefs in the other areas are: Wilmington, Mr. Melvin Leibowitz; Kent County, Frederick V. Tarburton; and New Castle County, William R. Hatchard.

Approximately 60 volunteers will be involved in the 2 hour drill, which will end at 10 p.m. Captain Robert N. Downes, state Civil Defense Operations Officer, has planned the exercise and messages to be transmitted.

Farm Owners Reminded To File By Feb. 15 For Social Security

Farm landlords regularly taking part in managing or working the farms they rent are reminded they can use the rent to qualify for Social Security benefits.

But to do so landlords must file tax form 1040 before Feb. 15, warns Willard T. McAllister, extension farm management specialist at the University of Delaware.

If a landlord supplies some farm equipment, livestock, or pays part of the production expenses he pays a self-employment tax, qualifying for Social Security. But a landlord doesn't have to do all these things, McAllister says.

All that is necessary is that the landlord materially participates with the tenant in managing the farm, even though the landlord does no physical work there.

FREAR SAYS BUDGET RECOMMENDED BY PRES. EISENHOWER CAN BE REDUCED

United States Senator J. Allen Frear said this week that the 72-billion dollar budget recommended by President Eisenhower can be reduced.

In his weekly statement Mr. Frear declared that members of Congress may be expected to encourage, whenever possible, lesser amounts of Federal funds for various projects than those requested.

In this connection the Delaware lawmaker noted that the Secretary of the Treasury, George Humphrey, has also indicated that a reduction in Federal spending may be possible during the next fiscal year.

Mr. Frear called attention to the fact 51 percent of the money to pay for next year's budget will come from Federal income taxes. "Thus," he said, "each of us makes a real contribution to the cost of Government."

The Senator cautioned that the high level of military spending is due to the necessity to provide adequate national defense for ourselves and our allies. He pointed out that advances in the nuclear and electronic fields are making many conventional weapons obsolete and that the cost of new ones plus the training of personnel to operate them increases the monetary obligations for national defense.

BIDDING ON STATE PRINTING

We have long thought the state, particularly the Legislature, has been unuly alarmed about printing costs. We believe it is a viewpoint brought on by lack of understanding of the operation and trade customs of the industry and the concomitant problems.

Surely, we have heard more mention, and witnessed more effort to save on printing than we have on such tremendous projects as construction of roads and buildings.

On state printing, as a whole, we have a plan whereby savings can be effected and yet treat all members of the industry fairly and impartially. The appointment of a state office of printing could do the trick. To be fair, however, the office should be out of politics.

The head of the office, the public printer, should be an individual who knows the practical side of printing.

The present setup, however, has a good point. It calls for the advertisement for bids on printing estimated to cost $500 or more. However, this practice is not always followed. In our opinion, advertisement means advertising in newspapers of general circulation, and not merely asking two or three of the party's chosen few to submit bids.

The purpose of advertising for bids may be twofold: To save the state money and to prevent chicanery.

If the aim of advertising is to be fulfilled, then some unwarranted restrictions, imposed by some state agencies, must be eliminated. Otherwise, these hindrances will cause the printing to be funneled to a smaller group of printers and, possibly, higher prices.

One restriction is the rush job. An agency want 1000 40-page booklets, with numerous engravings to be secured by the printer, in three-weeks' time. Another agency wants 500 copies of a 150-page report, with tabular composition, in five weeks. These restrictions cut down the field of bidders.

May we suggest the elimination of another drawback, peculiar to printing and not to the building trades, which will save the state money? Some state agencies are requiring successful bidders on printing to do the work in their own plants. The state itself, however, orders printing from out-of-state agencies, and it is work that could have been done in Delaware, thought possibly at a higher price.

The state, also, advertises its bids for construction of highways and buildings and these contracts oftentimes go out of the state and justifiably so.

If the state agencies would eliminate the clause on in-plant work in the specifications for bids on printing, it would save money as there would be more bidders. If the price is the lowest and the work is good, why be concerned? We are acquainted with most printing plants in the state and find that most have some of their work done outside. The printer may do part of his work in his own shop, and have the remainder done in a trade plant.

He may have binding, presswork, folding, and linotype composition done in a trade plant (one that does work for printers alone) when a special job arises. This saves the printer the cost of buying expensive equipment which he would use infrequently. If he bought this equipment, it would be similar to a farmer with 10 acres of corn buying a compicker.

There is no bindery in Delaware doing work exclusively for other printers, to our knowledge. When one wants hard-back binding on books, printing must be sent out of the state. So if one doesn't have a special bindery, one cannot bid on some state jobs, according to the stipulation in the specification on bids.

Some printing requires embossing and engraving. We know of no engraving plant in Delaware. We do know some state engraving is done in Philadelphia.

To recapitulate, we favor a state office of printing, more consideration in delivery dates of printing, and the right of the printer to get the work out any way he sees fit, as long as he is low bidder, does acceptable work, and meets delivery dates.

Felton G.O.C. Officers Attend Dinner Meeting

Mrs. Nilda LaCross, Chief Ground Observer, of the Ground Observer Corps, and Mrs. Jane Patten, secretary, attended a dinner and meeting of all the Kent County spotting stations, Wednesday evening, Jan. 16, at the Dinner Bell Inn in Dover.

Colonel D. Preston Lee, State Civil Defense Director, was host to the Volunteer Spotting Chiefs, and re-emphasized the need for full time operation of the Delaware posts in a brief talk during the meeting following the dinner.

"The tension of the Middle East, and of many other areas in the world, remind us that the road to Peace, is a long and difficult one," Colonel Lee said, "and until we are assured of a lasting peace, we, as a nation, must be on our guard."

"Our military defenses must be the best," Colonel Lee continued, "and our Civil Defense program must continue to make progress also. The need for alertness by ground observers is as necessary today as it ever has been in our history."

Major Blagg, Jr., Air Force liaison officer with the Civil Defense Agency, outlined an organizational plan designed to help the spotting stations increase their operations. Technical Sergeant William R. Parman, training instructor for the Delaware G.O.C. covered the operational procedures and requirements which the Air Force has established.

We have assured Colonel Lee that we in Felton G.O.C. will do everything possible to increase our post operation.

We would like to ask any organization or individual in the local area to get in touch with Mrs. Milton Brown, supervisor, or they may call 4-4192 at Felton, Mrs. Nilda LaCross, chief ground observer.

It takes the combined efforts and the time of many people to make it a success, and the one who have served in this important work during the past year deserves credit.

This isn't a one man or woman world, it takes the combined efforts of both to make the ground observers corps, a success. Will appreciate any donations, regardless of how small toward the oil in order to heat the post. The electric is being installed in the post. The stove is being connected and painted on the inside and outside. All time to do this is given by persons interested in making this a comfortable place for the spotters and not an eye sore to the community.

Social Security

Farm owners and operators have definite Social Security responsibilities to meet in the early part of 1957, Myron Milbouer, district manager of the Delaware Social Security Administration announced today.

All farm operators and share farmers who had net earnings of $400 or more during 1956 must report their earnings for Social Security purposes. Self-employed farmers will report their earnings for 1956 by filing an income tax return with an attached farm schedule of income and expenses. These tax returns must be filed with the District Director of Internal Revenue in Wilmington, even though the farmer may not owe any income tax. The social security rate for 1956 for all self-employed persons is 3% of net earnings.

In order to receive credit for their farming operations, all farmers must list their Social Security Account Number on their farm schedule. Milbouer pointed out that 1956 is the second year that farmers have been able to acquire Social Security credits. Self-employed farmers may find themselves qualifying for retirement benefits when they reach age 65. In the event of their death, surviving widows and children or dependent parents may qualify for monthly benefit payments.

Farm operators also have a Social Security responsibility to meet on behalf of their employees. Farm operators who have paid $100 or more in cash wages to any farm employee during the year 1956 must report those wages. This report of agricultural wages paid is to be filed with the District Director of Internal Revenue not later than January 31, 1957. The return must show the employee's name, total cash wages paid, and also list the employee's Social Security Account Number. Milbouer emphasizes that only those employees who have been paid cash wages of $100 or more by the same farmer are to be included on the return. Tax return forms are mailed out about January 1 for those farmers who previously notified the Director of Internal Revenue that they had agricultural employees. The Social Security tax on agricultural wages is 4%, shared equally by employer and employee.

For information on your rights and benefits under the Social Security program, contact the Social Security district office at 504 West 10th Street, in Wilmington. For information regarding tax returns and forms, contact the Internal Revenue Office in the Federal Building, in Wilmington.

DELAWARE STATE DEVELOPMENT DEPARTMENT

According to a report released by the Delaware State Development Department this week, a record placement of broiler chicks by hatcheries was set in the state during 1956. It was the highest number in the history of the business.

The United States Department of Agriculture in its monthly commercial hatchery report says that placements in the First State totaled 72,129,000 during the past year as compared to 57,284,000 chicks in 1955.

This includes only placements by hatcheries located in Delaware; some Delaware producers buy chicks from Maryland and other hatcheries, therefore, total production of broilers was much greater than the 72,000,000 figure mentioned here.

The previous record for Delaware hatcheries was established in 1951 when they produced 66,170,000 chicks. Other recent years have been in the range of 49,000,000 to 57,000,000, so 1956 was far and above the best year for hatcheries in the state.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

My three-year deadline for starting Korean GI Training is only a few weeks away. I am recovering from an operation and I won't be able to enter training in time. Could I possibly file an application before the deadline and actually start my studies afterwards?

A—This would not be possible under the law. The law requires veterans actually to begin GI training within three years from date of discharge. Filing an application alone is not enough.

Q—I am a Korea veteran and some day I plan to buy a house with a GI loan. Is my deadline the same as for veterans of World War II, in July, 1958?

A—No. The GI deadline for Korea veterans is January 31, 1965. The July 25, 1958, deadline for applying for loans is only for World War II veterans.

Q—I have been receiving disability compensation payments from VA throughout 1956. Must I pay Federal income tax on these payments?

A—No. All VA benefit payments including disability compensation—are exempt from taxation.

Q—How do I notify my VA district office that I have changed my address? I have a GI insurance policy.

A—On the inside flap of the VA premium payment envelope is space for filling in your new address. Print or type your new address and sign your name. VA will change its records accordingly.

Delaware Food Market Report

Meat prices are higher and are expected to be so for the first 6 months of this year. All consumers are concerned with this fact and here's the picture:

During the entire year of 1957 the production of beef and pork is predicted to be a little smaller, mainly because we had a record amount of meat in 1956. The supply of beef is expected to be large during the first part of the year and taper off some in the later half. The pork supply will be the other way around. With a slightly smaller overall production, the long range picture is that on the average, consumer incomes are predicted to go up a bit. Thus, the picture isn't as dark as it might appear. Right now there are some excellent buys on top grades of pork and beef, both in the popular cuts and in the more economical cuts.

This week look for specials on chuck roast of beef, rib roast and sirloin tip roast. Other specials will be legs of lamb, shoulder and breast lamb, beef steaks of almost any kind you want; sausage and fresh picnic hams.

The fruit counter is brimming over with excellent buys on oranges and grapefruit. However, other than citrus fruit, there are good buys to be found on bananas and small sized apples. Frozen strawberries and canned purple plums are two other fruits that are in big supply and will help add variety to the menu.

Fresh strawberries, up from Florida, make a welcome sight on fruit counters; they are bringing from 33c to 39c a pint.

Few price changes are evident on vegetables this week. Sweet potatoes dropped a penny, and prices now range from 8 to 15 cents per pound. Cabbage is still listed as the best buy; however, kale, collards and turnip greens are all good buys.

Here is some good news - coffee prices are reduced. Various supermarket chains are trimming 4 cents a pound off most of their coffee prices. This is surprising to the roasters of coffee, since the price of green coffee has been firm in recent weeks.

Corn borers overwintering in stalks left in Delaware corn fields are expected to damage more than one-half million dollars worth of corn next season—unless corn ground is plowed before May 1.

Delaware farmers should be on the lookout this spring for witchweed, a new corn-killer first found in the Carolinas last year. Color slides describing the weed will be shown during Delaware Farm and Home Week, Feb. 5, 6, and 7 at the University of Delaware.

Planning to go to Farm and Home Week? It will be held Feb. 5, 6, and 7, at the University of Delaware.

The programs which are held in Agricultural Hall, include the following subjects of interest to homemakers:

Children Are Like That, Making Attics and Basements into Useful Rooms, Selection and Use of Equipment, The Sorrow and Triumph of Hungary, Food, Fads, and Fallacies, Stump, the Experts—Ask them your questions about family clothing and household fabrics, and Selection and Identification of cuts of Meat.

If you would like a complete program send your request to Home Demonstration Agent, Post Office Box 30, Dover.

For a breakfast that is different, try one of these combinations:

Poached eggs on Parmesan toast: 1 tablespoon soft butter or margarine, 3 slices enriched toast, 1 tablespoon finely grated Parmesan cheese, 3 poached eggs. Spread 1 teaspoon butter on each slice of toast. Sprinkle 1 teaspoon Parmesan cheese on each slice of buttered toast. Top each slice of Parmesan toast with a poached egg. Serve immediately. Yield—3 servings.

Orange Pecan waffled toast: ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 1½ tablespoons granulated sugar, ½ cup chopped pecans, 2 eggs, beaten, 3 tablespoons confectioners' sugar, 2/3 cup orange juice, 2 teaspoons grated orange rind (if desired) 10 slices enriched bread. Combine cinnamon, granulated sugar and pecans. Combine beaten eggs, confectioners' sugar and orange juice and rind in a shallow bowl. Dip each bread slice in egg-orange mixture, turning to coat both sides. Place in a preheated waffle baker. Sprinkle a little sugar-nut mixture over each slice of bread. Close waffle baker and brown. Serve hot with honey, marmalade or maple syrup. Yield—5 servings - 2 slices toast per serving.

"Today I spit a mile." This was Tommy's description of his trip to the Grand Canyon, and the gist of a story by Mrs. Ida Dawes of Camden to illustrate that a good news story will be accurate, brief and clear. Mrs. Dawes was a participant at the training meeting held Monday for officers of organizations which work with the Kent County Agricultural Extension Service.

Charlotte Swanson, home demonstration agent, handled an agree-disagree discussion that dealt with the duties of officers, how to conduct a good meeting, and how to get ideas across to others.

Mrs. John L. Tarburton of Dover presented an "ah-ha" demonstration with Marion MacDonald, club agent. The demonstration is a kind of parlor game that involves people drawing a picture which is verbally described to them. At first, only the speaker can talk as she describes the picture. Then, the listeners can ask questions as they draw the second picture. The objective is to prove that people do not absorb everything they hear the first time, as they compare the two pictures.

"People prefer local news to national news and that's what your editor wants. Folks may read about the Hungarian situation or the western drought or some other world event first, but they will always look for local news," said George Vapaa, agricultural agent, during the discussion period. "So in reporting club activities, try to tie them to things that touch the thoughts and interest of others. Give names, and tell your story clearly, most important things first. If possible, the editor prefers typewritten articles, double spaced and on only one side of the paper," concluded Vapaa.

Nicaragua will build a $10,600,000 thermal power plant at Managua, to serve 15 towns.

A trade pact has been signed by the Philippines and the Chinese Republic, Manila learns.

Always use sharp shears to cut fabrics. Keep sewing shears and use them on fabric only. Use other shears for cutting paper.

In a mass conversion, over 2,000 persons, including some women, belonging to India's Scheduled Castes, embraced Buddhism at a meeting in Akola, India.

Use a long slender milliner's needle to make hand basting move along quickly and smoothly. For fine hand stitching use a short needle, No. 9 sharp.

For best results don't use a chlorine bleach on polished or resin finished cottons. Yellow or brown streaks or stains will damage the cloth.

FARM AND HOME WEEK OFFERS HOMEMAKING ATTRACTIONS

Farm and city homemakers will find special attractions on the Delaware Farm and Home Week program, Feb. 5-6-7 at the University of Delaware.

In this home portion of the three-day event, specialists from the University of Delaware and county extension staffs, universities, and commercial firms will tell about new homemaking practices.

Mrs. Anne Dickenson Murray, Newark, will be featured on the February 5 morning sessions, when she tells about her trip to India. She will show slides of village life there and will exhibit and discuss articles of Indian art, clothing, brassware, and jewelry. Mrs. Murray was in India in 1954-55, where her husband was on assignment with the U.S. Technical Cooperation Mission.

Miss Joan Lundy, University of Delaware home economist, will offer a film and discussion of children that day, with William Chappell of the Celotex Corporation suggesting how to make attics and basements into useful rooms. John Hoffman, chief coat buyer for the J. C. Penny Co., will discuss what qualities to expect when buying different price ranges of suits, coats, and dresses.

The morning of Feb. 6, Miss Judith O'Flaherty, home service director for the Philadelphia Gas and Electric Company, will give timely tips on selecting and using household equipment. That afternoon, Miss June Bricker, director of the home economics bureau of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, will talk about food fads and fallacies.

Homemakers that day will hear about lunches for husbands and school children from Mrs. Anne W. Holberton, extension marketing specialist, and community music satisfaction from Elizabeth Crook, professor of music education, both with the University of Delaware.

Teen-age clothing fashions will be featured on Feb. 7 with a style show directed by Miss Charlotte Swanson, home demonstration agent, and Mrs. Marion MacDonald, 4-H agent, both on the Kent County extension staff. Ensembles for spring, easy to make garments for beginning sewers, sport clothes, casual daytime outfits, and evening wear are included in the show. Show models will be members of the Kent County 4-H Clubs, and the garments they present will be supplied by the Simplicity Pattern Company.

Homemakers on Feb. 7 may ask a panel of expert questions about clothing, household fabrics, laundry, and dry cleaning. Panel moderator will be Miss Jeanne Gannon, University of Pittsburgh home economist.

The homemaking sessions will end Feb. 7 with a talk by Miss Emma Reinbold, University of Delaware group development specialist, and a discussion and demonstration of selecting and identifying meat cuts by Dr. J. J. Wanderstock, school of hotel administration, Cornell University.

Recommends Checking Soybean Seed Germination

Soybean growers should be making sure seed they have or seed they're going to buy will grow after it's planted, advises Frank B. Springer, University of Delaware agronomist.

He says so because October and November weather last fall along the east coast was too wet for producing the best seed. And testing seed now will make you surer of harvesting a top-yielding soybean crop next season.

Seed planted this spring from soybeans left in fields during last fall's wet weather will likely have a low germination rate, the agronomist believes. So he recommends testing at home the germination rate of seed you have or are going to buy—or sending seed to the State Testing Laboratory at Dover for a free test.

To make the home test, count out 100 soybean seeds, Springer says. Then put the seeds between two wet blotter for 5 to 10 days. Keep the blotters wet and the room temperature about 70 degrees. After the seeds sprout, you can count how many seeds per 100 will probably come up next spring.

If this count is low, the agronomist says to treat seed with a mercury compound to increase the germination rate. Treating costs about 10 cents a bushel.

But the best way you can get high-quality seed is to buy certified seed, he suggests.

Farmers Urged To Sign Up Early For 1957 Program

Kent County farmers are urged to sign up early for participation in the 1957 Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Program. Joseph Ennis, Smyrna, chairman of the Kent County Committee stated that "many farmers put off signing up until too late to secure the greatest conservation benefits for their farm."

Mr. Ennis pointed out that interested farmers should go to the A.S.C. office, at Dover, and discuss their farm plans for this year with the county office staff. In this way the various conservation practices that are available and may be of greatest help can be included in the farm plan for 1957.

Approval must be secured for each practice that is carried out under the A.S.C. program before the practice is performed if cost sharing is to be provided. All too often farmers will carry out a practice; then come into the office for approval only to find that it then cannot qualify for cost sharing.

Conservation practices in this year's program include (1) establishing, improving or protecting vegetative cover, (2) conservation and drainage of water, and (3) establishing temporary protective vegetative cover.

St. Stephen's Episcopal Church

Sizeable groups of young people from Episcopal churches at Milford, Smyrna, Dover, Camden-Wyoming, and Harrington met last Sunday at St. Stephen's Parish House for the Kent County Convocation.

There was a business meeting in the afternoon followed by a buffet supper. At 7 p. m. Evening Prayer was held in the church, the service conducted entirely by the Harrington Episcopal group.

Janet Cluley and Mary Ann Lyons read the lessons for the Second Sunday after Epiphany. Allen Hopkins read the opening sentences and prayers; Ronald Correll, the creed and prayers at the end of the evening service.

Robert Greer was crucifer, Richard Ratledge and William Thompson were acolytes. Mrs. Walter Winkler played the organ for this service.

Twenty Calves Leave U.S. For British Guiana

Twenty Holstein calves left the U. S. Friday for South American and drew homes in British Guiana.

Most of the calves will go to members of 4-H and Young Farmers Clubs in the South American country under a program initiated by the Rural Youth Division of the British Guiana Department of Agriculture specialists. Sutton is now on leave in British Guiana from Kent county where he is assistant county agent.

Recipients of the calves pay only the cost of transporting the animals to British Guiana. The calves will be used by the youngsters in project work similar to projects carried on by 4-H'ers in the U.S.

All calves were donated by Maryland farmers. In addition to Sutton, other donors are: The Eager Beavers and The Willing Workers 4-H Clubs of Cecil county, Leslie King, Richard C. Whiteman, Mrs. Louella Hoover, John L. King and Edwin C. Fry of Montgomery county, Richard Ahalt, Homer Remsburg, Cecil Holter and Ira D. Iwert of Frederick county, John D.
