

BILL WOULD ADD TO HARNESS RACE MEET IN NEW CASTLE

The Senate Tuesday received a bill that would permit 10 additional days of harness racing in New Castle County.

Sponsored by Senators Peter Nechay (D-Willow Grove) and Thomas L. Johnson (R-Sussex), it would keep the present 60-day limit on the number of dates that can be assigned throughout the state. But it would increase the number of Sussex dates that could be raced in New Castle from the present 10 to 20, thereby upping the number of potential dates at Brandywine Raceway from 30 to 40.

In a nod to Kent County, it would stipulate that dates awarded for the Kent and Sussex Racing Association at Harrington "shall not conflict or overlap with the racing dates awarded to any other licensee and shall begin not later than Sept. 15, or, if that day falls on Sunday, Sept. 16."

Delaware's harness racing law is complicated in that it sets a 20-day limit on the number of dates that may be awarded to each county, then sets a different limit on the number of dates that can be raced in each. The difference is accounted for by the fact that Sussex dates have been transferred elsewhere because there's no track in operation there.

Under the existing law, the limit on actual racing dates for each county is 30, and Sussex has been permitted to transfer 10 to New Castle and 10 to Kent. The Nechay-Johnson bill (SB 27) would increase the county limit to 40 dates and permit Sussex to transfer all 20 of its dates to New Castle. No mention is made of transferring the Sussex dates to Kent.

The bill was referred to the Claims Committee, headed by Senator Nechay, and hustled out a few minutes later with three members reporting it on its merits and two favorably. With rules suspended, Senator Nechay appeared ready to call for a vote. A Democratic caucus summoned at his request resulted, however, in a slow-down and the Senate adjourned until Wednesday at 11 a. m. without any further action on the measure.

The City Council, at its February meeting Monday night, voted to discharge a patrolman, and to request the State Highway Department to install a traffic light.

Two of the measures were passed after they had been recommended by the Police Commission following a meeting earlier in the day.

The Council moved to ask for the installation of a blinker light or a stoplight at Commerce, Fleming, and Clark Streets. Citizens have broached the subject for many years since the intersection is known as a "blind" corner.

The Council followed the recommendation of the Commission that the services of Patrolman Karl Miltenberger be dispensed with, effective as of Feb. 15, and that Louis Bowden be hired as a replacement at $45 per week on a two-weeks' trial. Raises in salary are to be determined by the Police Commission if and when the subject so merits it, but the salary is not to exceed $55 weekly. Miltenberger, a retired Philadelphia traffic officer living near Milford, joined the force last year.

In the busy session, considerable attention was given to the water and sewer department. Richardson Associates, Inc., was authorized to draw plans for a sewer from West Street west on Milby Street as far as the elevation would permit.

The Council also approved asking the State Highway Department to take over the maintenance of Liberty Street. This thoroughfare, banked by two ditches, promises to be a major street when the construction of an armory on it is completed in the near future.

Discussing the sewer system, Edward H. Richardson, of Richardson Associates, Inc., consulting engineers, reviewed the history of the sewer system in reference to the pump situation. The system was installed under a WPA program in the 30's. The sewage flows to the pumping station on Dixie Street, thence east on Liberty Street to U. S. 13, thence south to Porter Street, and thence east to the disposal plant.

The survey revealed that one of the two pumps was no good and that the other did not perform satisfactorily. The engineer estimated it would take $5000 for new pumps to carry on the increased load caused by the growth of population.

The Council authorized Richardson to design and calculate on pumps for 2800 population and to submit the plans to standard pump companies.

The Council authorized City Manager William Smith to purchase files and cards for a water survey system. It appointed Mrs. Ruth Peck as scrap assessor for 1957, with the privilege of an assistant, at $100 per year.

The Council received permission from the Harrington Volunteer Fire Company, owner of the building in which the City Hall is located, to place signs identifying the hall and to denote the office hours.

Adlai E. Stevenson Sends Card to Mrs. Lyda Thorpe

They laughed when Mrs. Lyda Thorpe sat down, not to play the piano, but to send a Christmas card to Adlai E. Stevenson, the defeated Democratic candidate in the past presidential election. What's more, Mrs. Thorpe mailed the card to Springfield, Ill.

But, evidently, the postoffice department knew where to forward the card, for Mrs. Thorpe received a Christmas card from "Stevenson, as follows: "You bring me the deepest joy that can be felt by a man whose invincible belief it is that silence and peace will triumph over ignorance and war, that nations will unite, not to destroy, but to build, and that the future will belong to those who have done most for suffering mankind.

Man, 80, Feared In Burned Home, Found Here

Fear that an 80-year-old tenant farmer perished in the flaming ruins of his two-story farm house were dispelled Sunday at Centreville, Md., when firemen received word that he was with his daughter in Harrington.

Volunteer firemen from Centreville and Queen Anne-Hiltsboro were summoned about 10:15 p.m. Saturday to the farm house owned by Hubert Jackson, tenanted by Noble Kennedy, his family, and 80-year-old father.

The first units on the scene reported the house enveloped in flames, and it quickly burned to the ground.

The alarm was turned in by Hubert Jackson, Jr., son of the farm house owner, and Lawrence Wood, who saw the glow in the sky from Wood's farm.

Jackson said there was nobody about when they drove up the lane and saw flames coming out of the roof.

With another passing motorist, Edward Covington, the men saved only a small bit of kitchen furnishings and some clothes hanging on a back porch line.

Jackson told firemen he had seen Noble Kennedy and his family in a car Saturday afternoon and the aged man had been seen at the home around 4 p.m. It wasn't until about 2 a.m. Sunday that Noble Kennedy was notified of the fire at the home of his sister in Harrington, and he said that his father, Emmett, was with him.

1956 Dairy Winners Announced; Awards Given

Five Delaware dairymen and three Dairy Herd Improvement Association county supervisors have been recognized for their work last year to improve dairy herds.

Dairymen Ellwood Gruwell, Felton; Wallace Cook, near Summit Bridge; Phil Pierson, Hockessin; Wills Passmore, Wilmington; and C. Douglas Buck, New Castle; received DHIA achievement awards Feb. 6 during the Farm and Home Week Dairy Day program.

Virgil H. Richey and Samuel O. Weaver, both of Kent County, and Willis E. Geiser, New Castle County, were announced winners of DHIA supervisor awards.

They were presented cash prizes and bronze plaques by Paul Young of the National Dairy Products Corporation, New York, donor of the awards.

Ritchey was presented $75 cash and a plaque for taking first place. A plaque and $50 went to Weaver for second place, and $25 cash was given to Geiser for third place.

Annual awards are given to DHIA supervisors for outstanding work in maintaining local organizations and keeping accurate herd records.

Gruwell, first prize winner, was given $50 in cash and a plaque for his grade Holstein herd of 18 cows, with each cow averaging 11,695 pounds of milk and 485 pounds of butterfat during 1956. His herd ranked second highest in the state. He is a director of the Interstate Milk Producers' Cooperative, Philadelphia, an active 4-H Club leader, a charter member of the Cooperative Artificial Breeding program in his county and active in local civic work. He has improved his pasture and forage program to develop an economical feeding program.

A cash award of $40 and a plaque went to second place winner Cook for his registered 29 cow holstein herd. His cows each averaged 12,249 pounds of milk and 457 pounds of butterfat, and was the third highest producing herd in Delaware last year. He has provided 210 days of grazing during the year, along with high quality hay and silage. Cook is active in county dairy programs.

Pierson received a $30 third prize. He has a registered and grade 25-cow Guernsey herd. Each cow averaged 7,745 pounds of milk and 403 pounds of butterfat in 1956. He is a graduate of the Delaware greener pasture and forage program and active in county dairy organizations.

Passmore, fourth place, has a registered and grade Guernsey herd of 31 cows. His cows each averaged 8,163 pounds of milk and 415 pounds of butterfat last year. He was given a cash prize of $20. He is a graduate of the greener pasture and forage program and is active in dairy and other local organizations.

gram and is active in dairy and other local organizations.

Fifth place winner Buck was given $10 for his registered 35-cow Guernsey herd. Last year each cow averaged 9,681 pounds of milk and 425 pounds of butterfat. Buck is a graduate of the greener pasture and forage program.

Herd manager awards are presented on the basis of yearly improvements in herd production average, herd health, pasture and forage, herd breeding efficiency, feeding, management, raising herd replacements, and general improvement.

We will observe building fund offering day in Sunday School this week. An excellent offering amounting to $765 was received two weeks ago. In a recent report to the official board, the Pastor gave the encouraging news that the total indebtedness on the Church is now approximately $19,500. This means that over $32,000 has been raised by free will offerings toward our building program in a little less than three years.

We will have as our special guests this Sunday morning the Boy Scouts and the Cub Scouts of Harrington and the leaders of these respective groups. They will attend the morning worship service.

Lois Dickerson will have charge of the Youth Service this week. Last Sunday evening we had a fine group of young people and we are looking forward to having others to join us this Sunday evening.

Broiler-Fryer Chicken Is Good Buy Now

An outstanding value on the poultry counter right now is the tender, plump, and juicy broiler-fryer chicken says Virginia McLuckie, food economist for the University of Maryland Department of Markets.

The broiler industry is a relatively new industry that has been on the biggest developments in agriculture food production in recent years. Delmarva producers marketed 2,881,000 broilers during the week ending Jan. 19. This was 9 percent less than the previous week and 2 percent above the corresponding week last year. Broilers provided 69 percent of the total chicken supply during 1956 compared to 42 percent in 1950. The phenomenal growth of the industry has come about due to the marketing of a higher quality bird at a more favorable retail price in relation to other meats.

These young broiler-fryers are about eight to twelve weeks of age and weigh from one and one-fourth pounds to four pounds when they are bought at the store in ready-to-cook form.

When you buy broiler-fryer chickens, check the bird for quality. See that the bird has a flexible breast bone, soft, pliable skin and smooth textured with a minimum of pinfeathers. Look for a meaty bird that has a well-fleshed breast and legs. Avoid birds that have a hard breast bone, are bruised, dry or have purplish skin or hard scaly legs.

How much you buy depends on the appetites of those to be served. But you can usually plan that one-fourth to one half of a bird or three-fourths to one pound of chicken will provide one serving.

During February, eastern, western, central, and southern states, and federal plant-pest experts are meeting to discuss what's to be done about regional plant disease and insect problems.

Cattle May Soon Bite Back At Heel Fly Grubs

Entomologists have been working for a long time to find an insecticide that can be fed or injected into the bodies of beef cattle to destroy heel-fly grubs before they bore holes in the animal's backs. Many insecticides have been tried and rejected either because they were ineffective or because harmful residues remained after their use.

Latest news on this front reports Ted Bissell, Extension entomologist, University of Maryland, is that an apparently successful systemic insecticide (one that works internally) has been found by U.S. Department of Agriculture workers. It's Dow ET-57, an organic phosphate chemical with an almost unpronounceable name—O, O-dimethyl 0-2,4,5-trichlorophenyl phosphorothioate. Preliminary tests indicate that one dose, given orally to an animal just after the heel-fly season ends, this is, in June or July, will move throughout the body to destroy both northern and common species of grubs before they break through the hide.

ET-57 will not be available commercially, however, for some time. Although considerable research has been done it will take at least another year to investigate fully its effects on treated animals, possible residues in meat and dairy products resulting from various size doses, the most practical means of administering the insecticide, and its performance in different geographical areas.

FARMER COOPS' NET BUSINESS LARGE, YET SMALL

Delaware's share in the net business of farmer cooperatives in the United States during the year 1954-55 was like a very tiny drop in a giant bucket.

Yet state cooperatives reported a large net business figure. The State's part of the total was $20,836,000, not including business between cooperatives. Farmer cooperatives throughout the country that year did a net business of about $9.6 billion.

Percentage wise, Delaware's share in the country was 9,887, compared with 15 in Delaware. Membership totals were 7,602,140 for the United States and 22,470 for Delaware.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED IN DELAWARE

Times have changed in Delaware, and for the best, if we compare the present with the period depicted some 30 years by an article on Delaware which appeared in H. L. Mencken's American Mercury.

The matter was called to our attention last week by a column in The Journal-Evening in which it noted the passing of the author, whose name we do not recall, and commented on the article.

We disagreed wholeheartedly with the article, an adverse criticism of the Blue Hen State. It was, in our opinion, written by a cynic not as cynical as Ambrose Bierce, however.

The article said outsiders, or auslanders, were described as foreigners in this state. Nothing could be farther from the truth. When we came here from Missouri, nearly 40 years ago, people from off the Delmarva Peninsula were called "furriners." "Whur's this new feller from?" a native would inquire, meanwhile taking a generous dip of Copenhagen. "Oh, he's from way off someplace in Ohio. He's a furriner."

It's not that way anymore. A large number of residents came from other states. In fact, Arthur H. "Red" Motley, president of Parade Publications, Inc., told the 120th annual meeting of The Delaware State Chamber of Commerce last week that Delaware was the nation's fifth fastest growing state, and that it was the second fastest growing state east of the Mississippi.

The American Mercury article mentioned that there were some 100 moonshiners in the area of Harrington. We only knew of one in those days, but those more informed quoted about six. A couple years ago it was publicly stated that there were nine bootleggers in Harrington and nine churches. This number has decreased and rightfully so; disciples of Bacchus say the stuff the bootleggers usually sell is not as good as that the moonshiners made. A former moonshiner was heard to say recently that he wished prohibition would return. He said he made more money then than he could make now.

IMMIGRATION LIMITS SHOULD NOT BE INCREASED

There is further talk of increasing the number of immigrants who may come to America. After all, there is bound to be a limit. We favor the entry of Hungarian refugees but, here too, there should be a limit. Uncontrolled immigration can harm future generations, just as did slavery. Recently, statisticians predicted we would have an increase in population of 60 millions in 20 years. We can be another India or China if we do not watch immigration.

Some of these immigrants are getting quite choosy. They think it is their privilege to come here, and to do as they please after they get here. In a riot of Hungarian refugees in France recently, tables and chairs were destroyed. The French offered jobs, but the refugees said "they wanted to go overseas."

The refugees who come here should be those our economy needs. They should work where we need them. A crew, purporting to be farmers, spent a day on a Kent County farm before heading back to the city. The head of the family said he hadn't been a farmer in Hungary; he had been merely a bookkeeper on a farm. Too many of these refugees want to stay in the city when they are needed in the rural areas.

South America, Australia, New Zealand, Canada, and Africa have millions of square miles of unpopulated areas. The refugees are needed there. There they should go.

The favorable reception accorded the Hungarian refugees, a worthy people without doubt, has caused refugees from other nations to want to come here. What will we say?

There are 200,000 Arab refugees from Palestine in the Gaza strip. Should we permit them? There are Jewish refugees from Egypt, Polish refugees, East German refugees, North Korean refugees in South Korea, Nationalist Chinese refugees on overcrowded Formosa. If we permit refugees from one nation to come here, how can we refuse the rest?

We might do better to give financial aid in resettling refugees in the more sparsely populated areas of the world.

ALL UNDER 36 NEED TIMED POLIO SHOTS

Polio has brought needless tragedy to thousands of Americans this year—needless because we now possess the means of preventing better than four out of five cases of paralysis from this cause—and more will be stricken next year. How extensive the human damage will be in 1957 depends on how many of us act now to protect ourselves and our families.

The time element is vital because it takes eight months to space out properly the vaccine shots required for maximum protection. Only by starting at once will you have time to complete the three-shot series before warm weather brings another uprend of the disease next year.

Each of the three shots is important. The whole effect is to enable the human system to produce the antibodies that destroy the polio virus before it can reach the nerve centers. The third is the clincher; it provides long-lasting protection at the highest level attainable—a level comparable to the immunity conferred by a natural attack of the disease itself.

Medical authorities recommend that the second shot be administered four to six weeks after the first, and the third, seven months after the second. If you have already begun the series you should get the remaining shots according to schedule. If you haven't started yet, there is no better time than the present.

Don't be put off by that old misnomer, "infantile paralysis." Your children need this protection, but if you are under 36 years old you should have it too—for their security as well as your own. Polio's attack has been shifting in recent years. It is striking more frequently at adults and as a rule it hits them even harder than it does children. This may mean disaster to the whole family.

Don't let it happen to you and yours. Get in touch with your doctor now.

Schedule D Plays Important Role in Figuring Farmer's Tax

Schedule D should be used by farmers for reporting income from the sale of capital or business assets, such as dairy cows, breeding animals, machinery, equipment, standing timber and all other assets whether or not used in the farm business.

In using Schedule D for reporting these items, only one-half of the net long-term gain is included in taxable income and all of the net loss may be fully deductible. These types of income should not be reported on Schedule F.

Schedule D is a single page form and is reproduced on page 54 of the Farmer's Tax Guide. Before filling out Schedule D, read Chapter 10 in the Farmer Tax Guide and pages 54 and 55.

In a general way, assets will fall into two broad groups. One group includes property owned by you but not used in the farm business to produce income. Some examples are standing timber held as an investment, dwelling occupied by farmer, and personal automobile not used in the business. Another example is stocks and bonds held by the farmer as an investment.

If you hold these assets for less than 6 months, the gain or loss from their sale is reported at the top of Schedule D under "short term capital gains and losses." If held more than 6 months, the gain or loss is reported on line 5 of Schedule D under "long-term capital gains and losses."

The other group of assets includes items which are used in your farm business or used to produce income. Some examples are machinery, equipment, buildings, land, and livestock held for dairy, breeding or work purposes. The gain or loss from the sale of these items is sometimes reported on line 5 of Schedule D and sometimes reported at the bottom of Schedule D under "property other than capital assets," depending upon whether or not the gains exceed the losses. You also include in this group gains and losses from involuntary conversions (as by fire, theft, condemnation or threat thereof) of depreciable property or real estate used in your business and held more than 6 months, or 12 months in the case of livestock.

Generally, most farmers do not have many entries on Schedule D in one year. Dairyman have entries from the sale of dairy cattle and livestock raisers may have some entries pertaining to the sale of breeding animals. If the sale of standing timber is added to the list most situations encountered in one year are covered. Farmers are advised in the case of several complicated problems dealing with the sale or exchange or involuntary conversion of capital or business assets to seek advice from competent tax advisors.

To illustrate some of the procedure in filling out Schedule D, assume a farmer sells, during the year, a dairy cow which he bought and held for more than 12 months at a gain of $100; two dairy cows he raises, are sold at a gain of $200; one purchased dairy cow is killed by lightning, loss $100; and he sells standing timber (held for more than 6 months) at a gain of $300.

First, compare the gains and losses from the sale of the cows, including the casualty loss. In this case, the total gains add up to $300 and the loss is $100. Since the gains exceed the losses, the items pertaining to the cows would be recorded on line 5 of Schedule D under "long-term capital gains and losses." If the losses are greater than the gains, the transactions pertaining to the cows is recorded at the bottom of Schedule D under "property other than capital assets."

Regardless of how the gains or losses of the cows are handled, the transaction concerning the sale of the timber is always recorded on line 5 of Schedule D, and the net long-term gain is $500 ($600 total minus $100 loss). Only $250 of the long-term gain is transferred to Form 1040 and included in taxable income (see line 10, Schedule D).

For the method of determining the amount of gain or loss, read Chapter II in the Farmer's Tax Guide. These guides are available, free of charge from your county agent.

FARM AND HOME FACTS

Some new light on the age-old problem of bloat is slowly emerging from intensive studies by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and a number of cooperating state agricultural experiment stations.

St. Bernadette's Church Notes

The Rev. John A. Corrigan will be the celebrant of our monthly High Mass which will be said Sunday morning at 9:30. Confessions will be heard before Mass. Instructions for High School students will be given Monday evening at 7 o'clock at the parish house. Classes for the younger children of the parish will be conducted Thursday afternoon at 3:45. The C.C.D. Teacher's Course for adults continues Tuesday evening at 7:45 with Father Corrigan conducting the class this week.

Thursday evening of this week, the party to celebrate the payment of the church mortgage will be held. It is through the generous donations of various organizations and individuals and the continuous contributions of the faithful parishioners of St. Bernadette's that we were able to complete this payment in such a short period of time. Many thanks to all who have made this possible. The party will begin at 7 o'clock at the parish house in the form of a covered dish supper. Father Corrigan announced that Benediction of the most Blessed Sacrament will be held at the church at 8:30. After Benediction, all will be invited back to the parish house to participate in various games for both adults and children.

The chairladies for this party are Mrs. Carmella Murphy and Mrs. Betty Nelson who may be contacted for any additional information.

The altar boys serving at Mass last Sunday were Tyson Wroten and Tony Perrone.

There will be a card party held at St. John's Hall in Milford Wednesday evening beginning at 8 o'clock. Parishioners of St. Bernadette's are invited to attend.

The Rev. John A. Corrigan, pastor of St. Bernadette's Church and St. John's in Milford acted as master of ceremonies at the Solemn Pontifical Mass which took place at the Monastery of the Visitation Nuns in Wilmington last Tuesday. The most Rev. Edmond J. Fitz Maurice, Bishop of Wilmington presided. Celebrant of the Mass was the most Rev. Hubert J. Cartwright, Coadjutor Bishop of this diocese. The Rev. Henry A. Miller, pastor of St. Mary Magdalen of Fairfax, delivered the sermon. Bishop Cartwright gave the Papal blessing.

This impressive ceremony took place to celebrate the feast of St. Francis de Sales, patron saint of the diocese of Wilmington.

Also attending was the very Rev. W. D. Buckley, O.S.F.S., provincial of the Oblates of St. Francis de Sales in this country. The Oblate choir sang during the Mass. Representatives of many religious orders were present, including; Benedictine

February is Catholic Press Month. It is especially at this time that we are urged to partake of Catholic reading. In addition to the weekly published newspapers available at the church, the Register and the Sunday Visitor, we are asked to acquire and read the many Catholic magazines, reviews, pamphlets and books available to us.

Bishop Thomas K. Gorman of Dallas - Fort Worth, chairman of the NCWC Press Department, in an article written on the observance of February as Catholic Press Month said: "The purpose of our Catholic press is not merely to amuse us or to satisfy our curiosity. If it were to aim at no more than that it would be useless. It must inform us, not merely with news of what is going on in this great Catholic Church - of ours, but with instructional and informative material, which will add to the sum of our religious knowledge and guide us toward a solution of the moral problems of our day, personal, social, economic, political and religious." The printed material coming off our presses declares Bishop Gorman, "cannot fail to encourage us. Our press has reached another high peak in its march towards perfection."

Delaware Food Market Report

Chicken, bananas and stew beef head this week's list of good buys.

Bananas are a top fruit buy, selling as low as 2 pounds for 19c in some stores. Have you ever tried rolling them in lemon juice then corn flakes and baking them? How about butter scotched bananas for dessert or banana waffles for a main dish, or even a good ripe fresh banana for a mid afternoon snack? There are lots of things you can do with bananas and now's the time to try new ideas using them. Just remember - don't keep bananas in the refrigerator, they like it warmer than that.

According to U.S. Department of Agricultural's plentiful foods list, ocean perch and haddock fillets are reasonable and plentiful. You will be able to find them either fresh or frozen in most stores. Try some boiled or baked in an exciting sauce soon. Talking about fish - have you tried any of the new frozen fish steaks cooked in a sauce of your own choice? You cook them in their own aluminum foil baking dishes, too - a big help in the dish washing department. There's a fillet of flounder in mushroom sauce; fillet of sole in lemon butter and cod or haddock steaks in tomato or cheese sauce. They are quite new - very quick and easy to prepare, so look for them the next time you are shopping.

At the vegetable counter you will find potatoes, onions and cabbage as the best buys. Celery lettuce and carrots are certainly improving in quality and prices are lower this week. Heavy rains in Florida have cut the bean shipment and higher prices may be expected.

In the canned good department don't forget that canned sweet corn is a very good buy. Other canned foods such as peas, beans, purple plums and tomatoes offer a lot for your food dollar this week also.

Eggs are still a good buy. Grade A large eggs are averaging 52c a dozen and may be found as low as 48c a truly good buy.

Because eggs are plentiful, it is now possible to be generous in cooking, baking, frying, or otherwise to add that extra one for the pot, which will enrich the consistency and flavor of your dish and yet be economical. As a delicacy, in cakes, custards or crepes, souffles, in omelettes or souffles or in salads or sandwiches, or as boiled, poached, fried or scrambled, this is an excellent opportunity to stretch your egg uses.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE

Farm operators who have paid as much as $100 in cash wages to any farm employee during the year 1956 should file an employer's tax and information return for agricultural employees. This was a message from H. Leland Brown, Director of Internal Revenue Service, Wilmington.

This tax return will be filed together with the social security taxes on the wages shown on the form. Mr. Brown emphasized that the due date for this return in the Director's office was January 31, 1957.

"Beginning with the year 1957 there will be a slight change in coverage of farm workers," Brown pointed out. "The $100 cash wage test become $150. And, even if the wages paid are less than $150 they are still subject to the social security tax if the farm worker was employed by the same farm operator on 20 or more days during the year for cash pay figured on a time basis."

Where less than $150 is involved, the total amount of cash pay does not matter so long as the work was all done for one employer on 20 days or more for cash pay based on some unit of time such as an hour, a day or a week. Work done on a piece-rate basis does not count for this purpose.

"Correct reporting of farm worker's is very important," Mr. Brown said, and that thought was emphasized by Myron Milbouer, District Manager of the Wilmington Social Security office. "The farm worker's stake in accurate reporting," the latter continued, "is that he or his family may suffer if all his earnings are not properly reported. The benefits for him in his old age, or for his family in case of his death depend on the earnings credited to his social security account. Any

Camden Man State's Top Tomato Grower

Camden grower Haas Steffens yesterday was announced the state's top 1956 tomato producer. He received the Ten Ton Tomato Club's first prize, an engraved watch, for producing 26 tons of tomatoes per acre last season, highest yield ever recorded in Delaware.

The average 1956 Delaware tomato yield was 12 tons per acre, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Steffens harvested nearly 12 acres of tomatoes.

The announcement was made at the University of Delaware during the Farm and Home Week program, which ended today. According to C. Fred Fifer, club committee chairman, winning yields this year will be 15 tons or more.

Samuel Walker of S. H. Derby and Company, Woodside, won second prize, a desk pen set, for harvesting 25 and one-half tons of tomatoes per acre from about 30 acres of fields.

Third prize winner Carl Sytnik a Townsend grower, harvested 24 tons per acre from about 38 acres of plants. His prize was a wallet.

The prizes were contributed by commercial organizations and banks interested in the tomato business. Lt. Gov. David P. Buckson presented the prizes to the top three growers and certificate awards to 62 other Ten Ton Club winners.

George P. Fisher, Smyrna; G.

E. and S. H. Brooks, and William and Fred Haas, all of Middletown; and T. S. Smith and sons, Bridgeville, all received excellent rating certificates for producing more than 20 tons of tomatoes per acre on their fields. Certificates for harvesting 10 to 20 tons of tomatoes per acre were given to the other winners.

Winning 1956 growers used cultural practices recommended by the Agricultural Extension Service, Fifer said. The best fields, good drainage, high fertility and organic matter produced with cover crops, and good crop rotations all helped to produce the high yields.

Improved Garden State was the most frequently planted variety, with Rutgers used on many farms. Closer-than-usual spacing helped to produce the winning tomato crops, Fifer said. Growers usually planted rows five feet apart with two to two and one-half feet between plants.

The average fertilizer application was 90 pounds of nitrogen per acre, 150 pounds of phosphoric acid, and 210 pounds of potash. Growers were advised to plow down or drill deep part of the fertilizer and side dress at least twice. Extension specialists recommended that growers apply as much fertilizer as possible in bands at planting time, and that they use a late side dressing of nitrogen and potash.

Insect control consisted of an average of four to five DDT sprays and one to four DDD sprays. Parathion was used for killing aphids, when necessary. An average of seven Maneb

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—Does a Korean GI trainee have the right to change his course if his progress in his present course hasn't been satisfactory?

A—He may, if he can show VA that the lack of progress was not due to his own misconduct, neglect or lack of application—and if he has not changed his course prior to that time.

Q—My son has a scholarship granted by the Atomic Energy Commission. He is also eligible for benefits under the War Orphans education program. Could he keep his Atomic Energy scholarship and also draw War Orphans allowances?

A—He could not. The monthly allowances under the War Orphans program would constitute a duplication of benefits paid from the Federal Treasury. Such duplication is prohibited by the law.

Q—I am a World War II veteran, and I understand I must apply for a GI loan by July 25, 1958. Must I actually obtain the money for the loan by that date?

A—No. Your lender at least must have agreed to make the loan, and must have requested VA's approval by July 25, 1958. The law gives you an additional year to close the deal.

Q—My husband, a World War II veteran, died of a condition not related to his military service. I have not remarried. As an unmarried widow, would I be eligible for a GI loan?

A—No. One requirement of the law is that the veteran must have died of some condition related to his military service. Widows of veterans who died of non service connected conditions would not be eligible for loans.

Spring Flower Show Committee Members Meet

Spring flower show committee members met recently on the University of Delaware campus to plan details of the annual event.

The show will be held June 1 and 2 in Agricultural Hall at the university according to Robert F. Stevens, general chairman. More than 100 different flower classes have been planned for competition. These classes include sections on flower arrangement, horticulture, a junior section and a professional gardener's section.

This year the show will follow the same general pattern of previous shows, except that new flower classes will be added. Anyone will be allowed to exhibit flowers, with no entry or admission fee. Entrants are welcome from Delaware and other states, Stevens said.

The purposes of the show are educational and to give flower enthusiasts an opportunity to exhibit in an accredited flower show. The Spring Flower Show is accredited by the Pennsylvania Federation of Garden Clubs.

Show committee members include Mrs. Steven Barczewski, Glasgow, staging chairman; Mrs. William Bennethum, Marshallton, scheduling chairman; William Frederick, Hockessin, nursery chairman; Mrs. C. L. The Migratory Shad

During the past hundred years the abundance of shad in our rivers has been greatly affected by man and his progress in industrialization, says Bernard Gordon in the February issue of the Fisherman Magazine.

In the early 1800s shad used to travel up most of our Atlantic coastal rivers until they met with impassable falls or reached the headwaters of a stream. Today hydroelectric and mill dams along with pollution from manufacturing plants and sewage from cities have cut down anadromous fish to a small fraction of their abundance of former years. In many rivers shad have almost disappeared.

However with present measures taken to eliminate pollution and the construction of fishways around dams, the shad are gradually making a slow return to their haunts.

The shad swim up the rivers until they find the ideal location for spawning. Favorite spawning grounds or "shad wallows" as they are called, are on pebbly and sandy flats which border streams, and the sand bars which are found at intervals higher up the river.

When the fish have reached the suitable area and are ready to expell their eggs they move to the flats in pairs. The time of this movement take place at night between sunset and midnight. When in the act of releasing eggs they swim close together near the surface, their back fins projecting above the water; the vigorous, rapid, fluttering movements which accompany this operation produce a splashing in the water which can be heard clearly from the shore. These sounds and movements are termed washing by fishermen.

The most popular equipment for shad fishing is a lightweight spinning rod, four-pound monofilament line, and lures ranging in weight from 1/20 of an ounce to a quarter ounce. Fly rods rank second among shad fishermen, and plug casting rods bring up the rear for their lack of ability in handling the lightweight lures.

To protect its cotton growers, Israel has put a high duty in imported cotton.

DELAWARE CATTLE NEARLY FREE OF BRUCELLOSIS, RANKS SIXTH

Less than one percent of cattle and not more than five percent of cattle herds in Delaware have brucellosis.

This was reported by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, when designating Delaware the sixth state modified certified brucellosis free.

The other certified states are Maine, New Hampshire, North Carolina, Washington, and Wisconsin. In addition, 351 counties in 27 other states and Puerto Rico have been given the classification. Several of the states are fast approaching a state-wide certified status.

The program to rid cattle of brucellosis has been speeded up since 1954. Annual livestock losses because of brucellosis have been reduced by $25 million the past two years. In 1947, losses amounted to $100 million. Last year they were down to less than $50 million.

As the speeded-up program moves into its third year, the national rate of brucellosis infection has dropped from 2.6 percent to less than two percent.

To maintain gains in the campaign against brucellosis, interstate movement of all cattle—except steers, spayed heifers, and calves under eight months old—came under stricter federal control Jan. 1.

Whooping Crane Population Down Five From Last Year

Word received from the Arkansas National Wildlife Refuge, winter home of the whooping cranes, indicates that only 21 adult birds and two young of the year have been noted in checks made to date.

This represents a drop of five from the 28 whoopers that used the refuge last year. First arrival of the birds at the Texas refuge was noted Oct. 13, when a lone bird was seen in the company of several sandhill cranes. They kept coming in twos and threes until November 8, when two adults and one young bird brought the total up to the present figure of 23.

Waterfowl Banding

This year Delaware is again cooperating with the other states of the Atlantic Flyway in winter banding of waterfowl. Although weather conditions have been unfavorable, with the extended period of freezing weather causing a sharp decline in total waterfowl population, the initial banding efforts have been quite successful.

Operations at Silver Lake, Rehoboth, have both been going on for about two weeks. To date about 150 ducks have been banded, most of them canvasbacks. The banding at Bombay Hook Refuge has been less consistent but more spectacular. The traps have been working rather slowly except for one day, when the largest trap contained 189 ducks of which 136 were banded and released. Three escaped without being banded.

This activity will be reported from time to time during the winter. It is hoped that about 2,000 ducks will be banded by around the middle of April.

Dogs Must Be Licensed By March

Chief Warden Virgil Hearn urges all dog owners to have their animals licensed well before March 1. After that date the owners of dogs without licenses are subject to arrest. Chief Hearn and his men will continue to conduct a vigorous campaign against all unlicensed dogs in an effort to reduce the danger of rabies infection in humans, livestock and other dogs. Rabies inoculation is required for all dogs north of the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal. However, it is advisable for all dog owners throughout the state to have their animals inoculated.

The dog license is $1 outside of the corporate limits of Wilmington. Licenses may be purchased at most sporting goods stores, justice of peace offices, and the Dover Office of the Game and Fish Commission.

It's The Law
"No dog shall be permitted to run at large anywhere in this State between the first day of March and the first day of October unless accompanied by the owner or custodian and under his immediate control."

Delaware Safety Council

"Traffic signs, signals and markings are silent policemen," Col Harry S. Shew, superintendent of the Delaware State Police warned motorists yesterday as this month's traffic safety campaign was launched by the Delaware Safety Council.

The superintendent explained that the purpose of this month's program is to focus attention on traffic signs—call signs of life. The program is designed to encourage recognition and observance of all traffic signs in an effort to cut down traffic accidents.

"In four out of five fatal accidents, one or more driver violations are reported," he said, "and many of these involve deliberate or unintentional disregard of traffic signs, signals and markings."

He advised motorists to learn the sign shapes and know the meaning of each one so they can be recognized at once. The six signs, shapes and meanings are: Octagon, the stop sign, is red with white letters or yellow with black letters.

Rectangle, white with black lettering, states the law, including speed limits, parking regulations and turning and passing regulations.

Diamond, warning, yellow with black lettering, warns of school zones, curves, side roads, intersections and other hazardous conditions ahead.

Triangle, the newest sign, is yellow with black lettering and means yield right of way. This sign requires drivers to give the right of way to cross traffic by slowing down and being ready to stop if necessary.

Col. Shew cautioned pedestrians to know and obey all signs, signals and pavement markings directing pedestrian movements. These include traffic lights and signals and crosswalk lines at intersections.

"The pedestrian and motorist share responsibility in preventing pedestrian accidents," he said.

73 Delawareans Enlist in Army Reserves in Jan.

Seventy-three Delawareans enlisted in the US Army Reserve during the month of January, Col. Carl F. Chirico, chief, US Army Military District, Delaware, revealed last Friday.

Of this number, 34 were young men between the age of 17 and 18½, and will be able to fulfill active duty requirements after six months' training. In addition, their active Reserve participation which follows the six months' active duty training, has been reduced from 7½ to 4½ years, with the remaining three years of the eight-year enlistment spent in the Standby Reserve, where no participation is required.

The so-called one-year program available to veterans returning from a regular tour of active duty attracted 29 men. Under the provisions of this program, returning veterans may wipe out their active military obligation entirely by serving one year with the active Reserve unit. The remainder of their obligated time will be spent in the Standby Reserve.

"The January recruiting figures are gratifying," Col. Chirico said. "They bring the total Army Reserve figure for Delaware since the inception of the Reserve Forces Act in 1955, to 781. Delaware thus continues to hold her enviable lead in the nation, on a per capita basis. The most impressive feature of the seven-month total is that 446 of that number are six-month enlistees, those young men between the ages of 17 and 18½, who will discharge their military obligation with the least interruption to their personal lives."

All men enlisting in the Army Reserve between now and April 1, will benefit by the features of the new law which becomes effective at that time, Col. Chirico stressed.

THE MIGHTY CHRYSLER

Most glamorous car in a generation

It makes 'em Stare—anywhere!

You see it any place... and you want to look at it. There's a pride and a prance to it that gives you a lift, makes you feel alive and vital. But the real tingle is driving it!

There it is... as long and low and purposeful as a gleaming jet, with its long rakish fenders streaming back and up like battle flags. This is the dynamic new look of 1957 motoring, and we can't help it if others aren't there yet. Give 'em time—we always have.

The important thing to know is that every flowing "go" line in this 1957 Chrysler has a purpose. That low-slung body and upswart tail were engineered for a new kind of road stability. They are the architectural results of Chrysler's Torsion-Aire ride, the all-new suspension that gives you sports car cornering with the comfort of an ocean liner. Front coil springs have been completely eliminated. There's up to 56% more glass area to enhance its roomy feel. The wide, low grille features hooded dual headlights. And if you want to find out what "go" really is, wait till you boss its up-to-325-horsepower engine and pushbutton TorqueFlite transmission. The real tingle is waiting for you. Come in and see us... or just telephone. We'll gladly arrange a demonstration.

Edge Narrowly Escapes Death In Auto Accident

A Harrington native, a New Castle resident, narrowly escaped death Saturday night in a highway accident in which two persons were killed.

Peter Edge, formerly of Harrington, was standing on a road and managed to avoid the collision of two cars when his wife shouted a warning.

John Carey, 65, and his stepson, Clinton Wheeler, 45, both of River Road, near New Castle, were killed instantly when a car smashed into another automobile being used to pull Edge's truck out of the mud on River Road about two miles south of New Castle.

State police said an automobile driven by Mason J. Jones, 31, of Chelsea Estates, coming south, struck the front of Wheeler's car, which was in a position to tow the truck.

Wheeler was trapped between Jones' car and Wheeler's car. Jones' car glanced off Wheeler's car and Carey, who had been standing at the side of the Wheeler car, was pinned between Jones' car and a tree into which it smashed.

When Patrick Goldring, film critic of London's Daily Worker, resigned he was the fourth member of the staff to quit over the Hungary massacre.

Clings to the road like a stripe of paint!

The '57 Chevy can give lessons on taking curves and holding the road to just about any car going. Few cars at any price are so beautifully balanced and so smooth, sure and solid in action.

A car has to have a special kind of build and balance to keep curves under control. And nobody outdoes Chevrolet in that department! It "corners" with all the solid assurance of an honest-to-goodness sports car. Chevy doesn't throw its weight around on turns because it carries its pounds in the right places.

And if the road should turn upward, Chevy can take care of that nicely, too—with up to 245 h.p.*
