Delaware highway fatality toll increased to 15 Tuesday with the death of 7-year-old Richard Patrick of Greenwood in the Milford Memorial Hospital.

The boy was injured with his brother, Gregory, 6, and his father, Leroy Patrick, 28, when a car operated by the latter was struck by a Pennsylvania Railroad train at the Farmington crossing Monday night.

Condition of Gregory Patrick is reported fairly good and his father's condition is described as good.

State police at Bridgeville said no charge was placed against the engineer of the train, Horace B. Moore of the 500 block West Twenty-fifth Street, Wilmington. State police said Patrick, a DuPont Company employe at Seaford, was driving his children to Harrington and was crossing the tracks when his car was struck on the right side by the diesel engine pulling a string of 74 freight cars. Police said the train was traveling about 32 miles an hour. The car was carried along the tracks for 246 feet and demolished.

The injured were taken to the hospital in the Harrington ambulance.

Police said there is a warning sign at the crossing, but that the view is somewhat obstructed by a fire engine house and watch box. Patrick said he did not see the train nor hear any bell or whistle as he approached the tracks.

The engineer of the train was Horace S. Moore of the 500 block West Twenty-fifth Street, Wilmington, troopers said.

State Tops U. S. In Start of Soil Watershed Plan

Delaware is the first of the 48 states to start a watershed program in which the Federal Government will provide most of the construction cost, the Legislative Budget Committee learned Wednesday afternoon.

The information was provided by E. H. Talbert, state drainage engineer, and John L. Clough, of the State Board of Agriculture, who represented the Soil Conservation Commission at a public hearing on the commission's budget.

The watershed project underway is at Bear Hole and it contains 5,000 acres in the western parts of Kent and Sussex counties from Seaford north to near Harrington.

Mainly Drainage Project

In the main it is a drainage project in which the commission seeks, not to reclaim soil but to hold what is already there.

Under consideration and in the planning stage is the Nanticoke watershed, south of Bear Hole. This according to Mr. Talbert, is 35 times as large as Bear Hole.

Because the state's watershed program is advancing the commission wants to add three technicians to its staff in the biennium starting July 1. Mr. Talbert said these men are hard to get. College seniors have been interviewed and have brushed off the idea.

In the Brandywine watershed, continued Mr. Talbert, "our aim will be to minimize flooding and to assure a minimum low water flow. This program visualizes dams and stabilization of the water flow."

Mr. Talbert added that given more technicians his agency will be able to give more consideration to its role in the northern part of the state.

Later, after Senator Calvin R. McCullough (D-Holloway Terrace) had opened a new discussion about the protection of property along the Delaware River, Mr. Talbert said it did not appear that the Soil Conservation Commission had this as an assignment.

Mr. McCullough and others wondered if there shouldn't be one agency which would handle all of the problems involving water and flooding and which would include the Geological Commission.

Mr. Talbert thought it would be useless to create a new agency—and Senator Elwood F. Melson, Jr. (R-Claymont) agreed. But there was a meeting of minds that authority should be placed in one unit to work at these problems.

Currently, of course, the Highway Department gets the first call whenever there is a flood and Senator Melson commented, "The State Highway Department has become like a residuary for all of these problems. We have thrown so big and cumbersome that I wonder if even the commissioners know what's in there."

Tony Perrone To Play at Atlantic City

The Eastern Division of the Music Educators National Conference will hold its biennial meeting next month in Atlantic City and will be its golden anniversary, representing fifty years of music education in the public schools of our country.

As a part of this celebration, there has been organized an all-conference high school band, orchestra, and chorus from the New England states, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, and Maryland, and will give a concert in Convention Hall next Monday night, beginning at 8 p.m.

Tony Perrone, from the Harrington High School, will represent his school, community, and state, by playing second and third cornet in the all-conference band. Tony has been playing cornet and trumpet since he was in the fourth grade when he received his inspiration and start from his father, who besides his business of shoe repairing is also himself quite a musician, playing cornet and violin equally well. Hence, Tony, Jr., comes by his music interest quite naturally.

At school Tony has been a member of the trumpet section of the Harrington Senior Band since the 7th grade, and today plays solo chair. Interested also in vocal music, he is a member of the bass section of the high school chorus, but his chief interest in music is playing the trumpet. He is at present broadening his knowledge of the field of music by studying piano with Mrs. Richard Gibson of Harrington.

Melvin Brobst, Tony's instrumental instructor at the Harrington High School, reports that Tony's future musical interest lies in the direction of the Navy's School of Music at Washington, and is hoping that with his training and background, he should be able to pass the required auditions in order to be admitted.

Tony is a member of the Junior class at the high school, and is an excellent student in all of his class work. He is employed after school and Saturday's at the Harrington & Raughley Grocery Store on Commerce St., and is a faithful member of St. Bernadette's Catholic Church in Harrington. He became one of the first altar boys when the parish began in 1953. He has remained one ever since and is now leading the younger boys of the parish. He assists at Mass every Sunday. He is also a member of the Catholic Youth Organization of St. Bernadette's and has taken part in some of the dramatic productions acted out by this group.

CREDIT EXPERTS ADDRESS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The past three or four years of outstanding growth have brought a credit problem, A. J. King, credit controller of Kennard-Pyle, Wilmington, told the Chamber of Commerce at a dinner meeting at The Wonder R Wednesday evening.

"Just where are we headed with this fast-growing baby?" asked King.

He defined credit as seen by the economist, banker, merchant, credit man, and credit bureau. Credit is something each man should be worthy of, he continued.

Pointing to the credit picture, the Wilmingtonian, quoted the Federal Reserve Bank as saying that business had increased 150% over the past six or seven years. Jobs have increased, he added, with the net income of the average family more than $4000 per year, an increase of one-third over six or seven years ago.

"Sales consumer credit is at an all-time high, with more than half of it in auto finance. The overall picture is good but there are some slightly weak spots because of overproduction in autos, textiles, and housing. Credit has, perhaps, been responsible for the boom of the past few years.

"Advertising easy ways to buy and pay has increased credit problems. Immediately one has a collection problem and it is a costly operation. Many retail stores are charging interest on all overdue accounts. Long-term credit means the money is out for a longer time."

The credit controller believed 90% of the credit applicants would be delinquent. Of this 10%, he opined, only half were really no good.

A credit applicant can not be adequately judged by merely looking and guessing, King said, before adding that a credit bureau is an added service to help evaluate credit ability. "You have to have some facts at hand. For the most part, credit deals with individuals, and it must be fair to all concerned," he commented.

After enumerating the ingredients of credit as character, capacity, and capital, King explained that a credit bureau takes the guesswork out of credit. "Credit should be given to those able to buy. A credit bureau reveals those good buyers who might be rejected on guesswork," he said.

In pointing out other advantages of a credit bureau, King said it was good to let delinquents know someone checks on them.

A question-and-answer was then conducted by King, and W. H. Talley, president of the Credit Bureau of Wilmington, Inc.

Talley was introduced by William W. Shaw, and Talley introduced King. President Charles Peck, Jr., presided.

Out-of-town guests were Fred Watts, Milford, John Willey, Seaford, and Joe Jarvis, Houston. At the close of the meeting President Peck appointed a committee to study the formation of a credit bureau, with the following members: William W. Shaw, chairman, J. Edward Taylor, C. Tharp Harrington, Earl Quillen, and Gayle Smith.

The committee is to report at a meeting of the Chamber Mon., March 11.

ORA M. BOHANNON

What can one say when a friend passes to the great beyond? With the news of the demise of Ora M. Bohannon last week, we find ourselves at a loss for words, and can only console ourselves with the remembrance of this fine man.

Mr. Bohannon lived on the road from Masten's Corner to Hopkins Cemetery. We met, within the past nine years, when he came into The Journal office to pay his subscription.

When we commented on the fact that we had gone to grade school in Missouri with an Amanda Bohannon, he replied he used to live in Missouri. We thought it was at Vanduser, a hamlet a few miles from us in New Madrid County. But he had not known Amanda.

Mr. Bohannon, a native of Indiana, had also lived in Kansas. He had the typical, friendly approach of the Midwesterner and not loathe to talk. When we last saw him in The Journal office several years ago, it was hard to believe he was in his eighties. He was 84 when he died.

When a tornado hit his farm one time, Mr. Bohannon telephoned us and we went out and took several pictures of the damage. Apple trees were twisted from their trunks, a barn was demolished, as was a chicken house, and a tin roof was blown into the pasture. It didn't seem to bother him too much: he had lived in a section of the country where a cyclone had been known to drive straws into telephone poles.

We recognized his voice when he would hobble up the stairs to our office, even though it was sometimes a couple years between visits. Alas! We shall hear it no more.

WRITEN DEEDS GO BACK TO 1788

Lewis Wroten, postoffice employe, has a number of old deeds which he found in the safe of his grandfather, W. H. Wroten, in the Todd's Church area.

The Journal has published an article on one deed, 1791-92, and on a list of taxables of the Green Branch ditch project.

There are several other papers which we will mention briefly:

A deed drawn up March 25, 1824, between John Hardesty, tailor, Caroline County, Md., his wife, Mary Anne; Garretson Hardesty and his wife, Rachel, of Sussex County, to Elijah Williamson, yeoman, of Kent County. The price was $237.50. The number of acres was not mentioned. The deed was witnessed by Thomas Simpson and William Wix.

In describing the survey, the deed mentioned the names of former owners of the property, and names of owners of lands touched by the tract. Former owners were John Saulsbury, deceased, and Hutchings Hardesty and his wife, China.

The tract touched lands of David Fountain, Robert Milton, deceased, the late Robert Wilson, Robinson Saulsbury, Fisher B. Hopkins, John W. Many was the recorder. Other court officials were J. B. Ralston and Joshua Cranor.

An indenture of release, made Feb. 4, 1826, revealed the names of Elijah Williamson, Selah Fisher, Elizabeth Williamson, and Anne Wroten, wife of Eli Wroten, Whitley Williamson, Charles Williamson.

Lewis Wroten also has other deeds from 1788 to 1830. The oldest deed relates the sale of land by Charles Goldsborough to William Wroten.

USDA RECOMMENDS CUT IN STATE POTATO ACRES

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has recommended a 15 per cent cut this year under potato acres planted in Delaware last year.

The department suggests that Delaware growers plant 7,650 acres of potatoes in 1957, according to George Vapaa, Kent County agricultural agent.

Acresage marketing guides issued yearly by the department advise that growers 10 early-summer crop states plant 99,550 acres of potatoes this year, as compared with 100,900 acres planted in 1956. These early-summer crop states include Missouri, Kansas, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia, Kentucky, Tennessee, and Texas.

Growers in larger production areas have been urged to cut acreage back from the 1956 level because of the fairly stable yearly requirements for potatoes, the agent reports. The upward trend in the average yield per acre is another reason for cutting planted acreage.

To help in the fight against illiteracy, Morocco has issued five stamps showing people, including soldiers and tribesmen, learning to read, Casablanca reports.

Corrigan, director of St. John's C.C.D.; Clem Rohner, president; Mrs. Erwin Burton, vice-president; James Dee, chairman of Fishers. Refreshments were served by the "Helpers."

Sunday will be Quinquagesima Sunday. The Gospel of this Sunday affords us a good occasion to ask the Master to give us the power of sight, to lift up our eyes from the earth, from the perishable and the transitory; and thus loosened from the bondage of this life we might catch a glimpse of eternal happiness promised to faithful servants.

Wednesday, March 6th, is Ash Wednesday. Ash Wednesday marks the beginning of the liturgical season of Lent. In ancient times the period of preparation for Easter differed in length in various countries. Later it was so arranged that 40 days of fast would precede the great Feast as a reminder of our Lord's fast in the desert. In the Old Law ashes signified grief or repentance. In the early church, penitence did penance "in sackcloth and ashes." The ceremony originally instituted for public penitents was later arranged for all Christians. The priest blesses ashes, made from palms blessed the previous year, with special prayers, sprinkles them with Holy Water and incenses them. He rubs them on the foreheads of the faithful in form of a cross reciting these words: "Remember man, that thou art dust, and unto dust thou shalt return." We should receive these blessed ashes with contrition, a desire to obtain forgiveness from God, a resolution of not attaching ourselves to perishable things.

St. Stephen's Episcopal Church

Feb. 24, Sexagesima Sunday, St. Stephen's Episcopal Church was filled to capacity when over one hundred persons attended the service of morning prayer. Our church, in cooperation with the American Legion, had arranged a service with special emphasis on patriotism and the guidance of our nation under God. Hymns selected for the occasion were "Onward, Christian Soldiers," "The National Anthem," "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," "Faith of Our Fathers." Crucifer for this impressive service was Robert Greer; server, David Brobst, and acolyte, Charles McNally. Two members of the American Legion, Albert Price and Frank O'Neil, Jr., carried the Legion Flag and the Stars and Stripes, which they held in front of the altar while the National Anthem was sung. Mrs. Walter Winkler was organist. Our guest preacher was the Rev. Homer F. Gable of Washington, D. C. He gave us thoughts and meditations on the New Testament lesson for Sexagesima Sunday. The Rev. John R. Symonds, Jr., read the Old Testament lesson and led the congregation in prayers for the President of the United States and all in authority members of the armed forces, for all sorts and conditions of men, for those afflicted or distressed in mind, body and estate. Delaware Food Market Report

Quantities of good quality carrots are at the vegetable stalls. When choosing fresh carrots for your market basket, look for those having these signs of prime conditions: firm, crisp and fresh; smooth and clean; free from surface blemishes.

Why, then, are one of the richest and most economical sources of vitamin A than carrots less bright in color. The orange color increases with the age of the carrot, but the carrot also becomes tougher with age. For stews and pot roasts, older carrots may be a good choice. For salads or carrot curls you will want young, tender carrots.

Carrots are such a versatile vegetable that they should be used often. Grate raw carrots and add hot butter and sugar and see what a good vegetable it is. As a dessert; have Indian Pudding; as a salad combine with cabbage and make a congealed salad. Carrot sticks are a perfect food for in between meal eating for young and old.

Leg of lamb, down to 55 cents a pound in many stores this weekend, will appeal to food shoppers with spring on their minds. Pork loin roast have also dropped a few pennies in price and continue to catch the eye of many economy minded buyers.

Veal is the only meat absent from the long list of meats selling at special low prices for the weekend. Just about everything from rib roasts of beef and steaks of all kinds to sausage and bacon appears on the list of specials.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—I am a World War II veteran and I live in a home I bought with a GI loan. If through no fault of my own, I am forced to dispose of the home for some compelling reason after July 25, 1958, the World War II GI loan deadline, would I still be able to get my GI loan entitlement restored.

A—Yes, under certain conditions. Your reasons for selling must be acceptable under the law, and VA must be relieved of its guarantee liability. If your loan rights are restored, you will have until Feb. 1, 1965, to obtain another GI loan, despite the fact that the World War II deadline will have passed.

Q—Under the War Orphans Education Program, is it possible for a student to take a number of unrelated subjects in school?

A—No. There must be a definite goal and an educational program leading to that goal. Unrelated subjects, not leading to a goal, could not be approved under the law.

Q—Under the Survivors' Benefits Act, does annual income have anything to do with the amount of money paid to dependent parents of veterans who died of servitude payments are based on the A—Yes. If the annual income of one parent living alone is $1,750 or more, payments may not be made. The income ceiling for two parents living together is $2,400. Within the ceilings, monthly total social security tax amount of annual income.

Q—I want to take flight under the Korean GI Bill. What will be the rate of my monthly GI allowance?

A—VA will pay you a rate equal to 75 per cent of your school's established charge for non-veterans taking the same flight course.

Federal social security taxes increased in January 1957 due to provision of social security insurance payments to qualified workers between the ages of 50 and 65, explained Myron Milbourn, manager of the Wilmington district office. The increases are 1/4 of 1 percent for the employee, the same for the employer, and 3/8 of 1 percent for the self-employed person.

ice connected causes? rates beginning with 1957 are 2 1/2 percent for the employer and employee and 3 3/8 percent for the self-employed. The employer and employee will notice the change right away because it applies to wages paid during 1957, but the self-employed will not pay the increased rate until 1958 on their earnings for 1957. The tax increase will not be more than 10.50 a year for the employer or employee, or more than $15.75 a year for the self-employed person because only the first $4200 of earnings in a year are counted for social security.

The new system of disability insurance benefits will afford monthly payments to many workers over age 50 who are prematurely retired because of severe long-term disabilities which prevent their working. Monthly benefits can start with the payment for July 1957. Thus, severe long-term disability joins old age and death as the major hazards insured against by social security.

Milbourn pointed out that the tax money from social security taxes goes into trust funds under the law can be used only to pay the costs of social security benefits and the expenses of administering the program.

BALTIMORE COLTS WILL APPEAR IN MILFORD

Sat., March 9, at the Milford High School Gymnasium the Baltimore Colts Grid basketball team will play the local St. John's basketball team in a benefit game for St. John's Catholic Church.

The Baltimore Colts team consists of such national football league stars as Bert Rechichar, who holds the World's Record for a field goal, John Unitas who has the best passing record of any Colt play in history, Art Donovan who stands 6 foot 3 inches and weighs 275 pounds, L. G. Dupre one of the leading ground gainers in the league last season, and many other Colt stars.

The St. John's team, coached by Joe King, is previously in fourth place in the nine team Eastern Shore League, and should give the Colts some stiff opposition. "Ace" Knierim, Jay Young, and Buck Jones are the leading scorers for the local team and are ably assisted by Jim Atkinson, Oliver Bonnett, Ronnie Pack, Lenard Leynana, and Larry Lapetina.

NATIONAL 4-H CLUB WEEK MARCH 2-9

National 4-H Club Week will be observed March 2 through 9 in Delaware by about 1600 members of 70 4-H clubs, according to Marian MacDonald, Kent County 4-H Agent.

Highlight of the week will be a visit by selected 4-Hers and local leaders to the state capitol. There they will be entertained by Gov. J. Caleb Boggs. During the week the 4-H flag will fly over the capitol building.

Other features of the week include a state-wide window display contest and a TV appearance on Station WPFH, Wilmington, by the University of Delaware 4-H Club.

More than 2,200,000 members of about 90,000 4-H clubs will be celebrating the week in America. Civic and service clubs, schools, churches, farm organizations, and other groups will arrange for talks for 4-Hers and programs participated in by leaders, extension agents, and others who help with club work.

Six outstanding 4-H Club members from California, Tennessee, Indiana, North Carolina, and Georgia, and two leaders will spend part of National 4-H Club Week in Washington, D. C. They will visit the White House, meet with members of Congress, government officials, and other national leaders. The group will appear on radio and television programs to tell about 4-H accomplishments last year and about plans for 1957. March 4, the group will go to New York to meet other people interested in 4-H work.

Aims of the week are to provide members a special occasion for evaluating past achievements and making plans for future club activities, Marion MacDonald said. In addition, an attempt will be made to inform the public of the value of 4-H training, to interest other young people in enrolling in local clubs, to recognize the part played by local leader, and to enlist more adult cooperation with 4-H work.

DELAWARE GAME AND FISH COMMISSION

The steadily increasing number of hunters going afield for the favorite game animal in Delaware, the cottontail rabbit, and the field trial activities of several Beagle Clubs in the state have created a demand for this animal which is often beyond the numbers that our lands will support. The number of rabbits on any piece of land at any time is determined primarily by the amount of good cover (weeds, brush, groundhog holes, brush piles, etc.), the amount of good food, and the kinds and quantity of predators. When additional rabbits are added to an area by stocking, it's likely trying to carry 20 quarts of water in a 10-quart pail or pasturing twenty steers on a range with only enough food for ten.

The Delaware Game and Fish Commission, since 1948, has been attacking this problem by its food and cover improvement program which is offered to interested landowners with no cost to them. This has resulted in improved conditions for rabbits on hundreds of different areas. However, since all desirable areas cannot be improved for wildlife for one reason or another and since the demand for rabbits sometimes exceeds the best rabbit populations particularly on field trial grounds that can be built up only by stocking. With this in mind, rabbit rearing experiments in neighboring states have been followed with close interest.

Maryland is beginning its third year of breeding small numbers of wild rabbits under controlled conditions. It can be done, but it is a rather expensive and exacting undertaking.

The Delaware Commission will tackle the job in a small way this breeding season. Game Wardens are live-trapping rabbits in urban areas for the initial breeding stock for the project. Wire pens 50 ft. by 50 ft. will be stocked with one buck and three or four does in each pen. As young are produced and fully weaned, they will be removed from the breeding pens and held in rearing pens until released in the wild. This is necessary to prevent adult rab-

4-H BUILDING FUND DATE EXTENDED

The final date for raising 4-H Club funds for building and furnishing three new cottages at Camp Barnes has been extended from March 1 to April 1, reports Wayne Bath, acting state 4-H Club leader.

4-Hers from the three Delaware counties had agreed to raise $2,200 for each of the cottages in conjunction with a fund drive for 11 new cottages at the camp by the Delaware Association of Chiefs of Police. The association operates the camp for underprivileged boys. Because the 4-Hers had used the cottages in the past and will continue to do so, they volunteered to raise money for three of the cottages, Bath said.

Each county is still an estimated $700 short of its goal, Bath said, so it was decided to extend the fund raising time in an attempt to reach the goal before contracts are awarded in April.

The state 4-H leader urges all interested people to send contributions to the county extension offices in Kent and Sussex counties, and to Dorothy Pierson, Hockessin, in New Castle county.

Kent Home Demonstration Agent

In March, Kent County's Home Demonstration Clubs will be holding group meetings. Three or four clubs will meet together, with one serving as hostess.

A special program - Better Driving - will be presented by Charles Lemel, Supervisor of Driver Education in Delaware. He will discuss the driver training program which is conducted in the schools in the state - and will have some suggestions to help us, as drivers, too. Testing devices, which are used in the driving classes in the schools, will be demonstrated; you will have a chance to test yourself.

There are six meetings scheduled; the first will be held Tuesday evening, March 5, at 8 in the Chestnut Grove Community Hall (near Dover). The Friendly Homemakers Club will be hostesses to the Canterbury, Cee-W-Dee and Hartly Clubs.

At 2 p.m. Friday, March 8, the Andrewville Club will be hostess to the Country Lane, Todd's and Harrington Clubs. This meeting will be held at Todd's Community Hall.

The Houston Club will be hostesses Friday at 8 o'clock in the Houston Fire Hall. The Merry-makers, Laws and Happy Homemakers Clubs will be guests.

Tues., March 12, at 2 p.m. the Fraziers Club will be hostesses at the Viola Community Hall. Their guests will be the Millwood and Chestnut Grove and Viola Clubs.

The Leipsic Homemakers club will be hostesses at the Leipsic School House Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. The Cowgill's, Smyrna and St. Jones Clubs will be the guests.

The last of these group meetings will be held Friday afternoon, March 15, at 2 in the Kent-on Methodist Church. The Kent-on Club will be hostesses to the Clayton and Oak Grove Clubs.

Check the time and place for your clubs meeting.

Vapaa Announces Home Gardeners Short Course Dates

Most of the program for the Kent County Home Gardeners' Short Course has now been completed according to an announcement by George Vapaa, Kent County agricultural agent. There will be afternoon and evening sessions for March 20 and 21. A program of African violets will be a feature of the Wednesday afternoon session, while the program Thursday afternoon will be concerned with flower arrangements. Both of these activities will involve audience participation. Competitive classes are set up for the best specimen plants of African violets, and there will be a competition for the best floral arrangement using spring flowers. Anyone interested in either activity should contact the Kent County Extension office, Post Office Building, Dover, as soon as possible, since the total number of entries must be limited.

The evening programs will be built around outdoor activities. Ralph Barwick, the New Castle County assistant agricultural agent, will present a demonstration on compost and humus to be followed by a demonstration on planting window boxes by Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware. The final topic on the first evening will concern the use of these window boxes in the outdoor garden picture, and it will be presented by Dr. Charles Dunham, research flower culturist at the University of Delaware.

The Thursday evening program will feature a demonstration on lawn planting and care to be followed by a presentation on trees and shrubs. A commercial nurseryman will demonstrate the proper procedure of planting trees and shrubs to include wrapping and bracing of the plants. There will, also, be some suggestions regarding the best trees and shrubs to use in home planting.

The commercial and educational exhibits will feature items of gardening interest that will be presented on the program. The exhibits will be open before and after the scheduled programs.

London dealers are offering a fishing rod with a heated handle for all-weather fishermen. The handle contains a wick and special slow-burning fuel.

JUNIOR BROILER CONTEST STARTS MARCH 8

Delaware young people will get the annual Junior Broiler Program underway March 8, when they will try to raise better quality birds than commercial growers.

Silas McHenry, extension poultry specialist at the University of Delaware, reports that the six top winners will display their dressed birds with those of commercial operators at the Delmarva Chicken Festival June 12 and 13 at Laurel. The winners will be invited to the festival as guests of Delmarva Poultry Industries, Inc.

The first place winner will receive $25 and a trophy, with second through twentieth place winners receiving $20 to $5. In addition to the cash awards, certificates of merit will be presented to the first four winners.

Each contestant who completes the project will be given complimentary tickets to an awards banquet in May, along with tickets for parents. Dressed birds will be displayed at the banquet, and prizes will be given to winners. Cooperating hatcherymen and advisors will be invited.

Training meetings will be held in each county to give contestants tips on caring for the broilers, equipment needed, selecting birds for judging, and to outline contest rules.

Any Delaware youngster between 10 and 19 may enter the contest, McHenry said. Entry forms obtained from 4-H agents or vocational agriculture teachers should be mailed to J. Frank Gordy at the University of Delaware Substation, Georgetown, not later than March 8. Each contestant will be permitted to make only one entry of 50 chicks, although more may be raised with the same flock.

These 50 straight-run chicks must be banded within 24 hours after the chicks are received by contestants. Wing-bands will be furnished by the contest committee. Contestants will be encouraged to obtain their own meat-type chicks from a pullorum-typhoid clean source. The committee will request donations of chicks again this year from hatcheries and service clubs for contestants who are unable to get chicks.

Chicks must be hatched between March 18 and 20, and each contestant will select six cockerels for dressing, judging, and displaying at the close of the project. Contestants will be responsible for delivering the birds, which will be used to help cover program expenses.

POULTRYMEN SET $125,000 PROMOTIONAL FUND GOAL

A goal of $125,000 has been set by the Delmarva poultry industry as the amount to be raised for a promotional drive to acquaint the public with broilers and other poultry products of Delaware and eastern shore Maryland and Virginia.

Plans for the fund-raising drive were announced at a special meeting of Delmarva Poultry Industries, Inc. in Salisbury, Md., Feb. 20.

Area farm, business and industrial groups, merchants, and other persons interested in the welfare of the Delmarva poultry business will be invited to contribute to the fund, according to Sterling White of Delmar, who is president of D.P.I., Inc. The money will be used for promotional efforts in newspapers, magazines, radio and television and in food merchandising, and consumer service and educational activities.

Organizational plans for the drive also were made at the meeting, which featured Dean G. M. Worriflow of the University of Delaware School of Agriculture as keynote speaker.

Fund drive chairman is C. E. McCauley, Seaford, vice-president of D.P.I., Inc., for Delaware. State leaders for the campaign are Byard Carmean, Laurel, for Delaware; Clifford Dryden, Pocomoke, for Maryland; and Roy Twilley, Chincoteague, for Virginia.

Nearly 100 community leaders and solicitors received instructions on carrying out the drive. Most of the soliciting will be done by persons directly associated with the poultry business, including growers, hatcherymen, feed dealers, processors, plant managers, farm equipment dealers and salesmen, and others.

In his talk entitled "Broilers Unlimited", Dean Worriflow traced the development of the Delmarva broiler business as a single 500-bird flock in Sussex County, to the present $160,000,000 industry which accounts for 40 percent of the agricultural income of the peninsula.

"Today, almost every business in Delmarva is in one way or another affected by the health of our broiler economy," he declared. "Approximately 20,000 people are directly employed in the broiled industry with a payroll of 75 million dollars. Thousands more are employed in transportation, sales, building trades, public service and allied businesses that are indirectly dependent on a profitable broiler industry. Over a third of a billion dollars are invested in plants and facilities to grow, process and market the broiler crop," he pointed out.

Dean Worriflow noted that striking improvements have been made in broiler production, many of them through research conducted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the state agricultural experiment stations. "Broilers have shown more improvement in production efficiency than any other commodity. This is true for food efficiency, output per man, quality improvement and consumer acceptance," he emphasized.

The School of Agriculture dean praised the poultry industry for its self-help efforts to solve poultry supply-price problems. He expressed belief that, in the long run, cooperative action would put the industry ahead of where it would be with government support or controls.

He encouraged the industry to move ahead with is promotional and merchandising plans, pointing out that the economic factors of increasing population, and the rising standards of living will favor the producer of poultry meat.

J. Frank Gordy, executive secretary of Delmarva Poultry Industries, Inc., pointed out that

CORN BORER POPULATIONS GROWING IN EAST

Corn borer populations have been building up in the eastern states since 1954...

Delaware was among the states finding heaviest concentrations last year, the agent said, with more than 658,000 bushels damaged at a loss of about $849,000.

The 1956 count for Sussex County was an average of 323 borers per 100 corn stalks. Last year, Kent County reported 187 borers per 100 stalks...

The borer also seriously damaged potatoes and peppers in Delaware last year.

Other eastern states noting heavy concentrations of borers last year include New Jersey, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, and New York.

Although the borer has been found in no new states since 1953, several states reported new county records last year, indicating a continued spread of the pest.

A native of Europe, this major corn pest was first noted near Boston in 1917. Since then it has spread from Maine to Colorado and from Montana to Georgia.

Farm News

The sure way to be able to compete in the poultry business is to do a consistently better job of production than the average.

so said W. T. McAllister, Marketing Specialist, at the recent Dover-Camden-Wyoming poultry growers meeting.

Poultry growers are very much concerned about the future of the business, and have been examining several different proposals for improving the market picture.

A special meeting has been called for Thursday, March 14 at the Caesar Rodney School to consider the so-called Texas Broiler Plan.

This program would place a limitation on chick placements based on the number of chickens that the market can be expected to absorb at any given time.

The proposal would probably involve a cut-back on production at each individual farm, and would require a referendum of all commercial broiler growers...

The new officers elected to serve for 1957 are: Edward E. Laramore of Wyoming, president; Frederick Wiebel of Pearson's Corner, vice-president; Theodore Schorske of R. D. 1, Dover, secretary treasurer. August Hass of Dover is the retiring president.

MYF Delegates Report
Mary Jo Pitlick gave our reporters the following news on the trip to the U.N. made by Eleanor Wagner and Mary Jo:

We arrived in New York Thursday at 12 o'clock and at 1 o'clock were guided through a tour in the United Nations Building. Since there were 42 of us, we were divided into two groups. We visited all the rooms and our guide told us the history behind each one of them. We went back to the General Assembly and heard Chile, Austria, France, and the United Kingdom speak. We saw Dag Hammarskjold, Henry Cabot Lodge, and Marshal Tito, who also spoke.

Thursday night we went to Radio City Hall. This was a wonderful experience also.

Friday we went back to the U.N. Building at 9 o'clock and had discussion groups in Conference Room 10. We skipped a session because we all wanted to go to the Statue of Liberty from 10:30 to 12:30 a.m. At 1 o'clock we attended another discussion group. During this time we also saw a movie of how the Hungarian refugees escaped to Austria.

We were packed and ready to leave on our bus by 3:30 Friday afternoon for home. Our bus driver took us for a short but interesting tour through the Bowers, Chinatown, down Wall Street, 5th Avenue, and Broadway.

Movie
The high school viewed a newsreel in an assembly concerning the movements of the Hungarian refugees. Other items of interest concerned art, literature, and zoology.

FIRST GRADE—Mrs. Hopkins
We are glad to have Donnie Messick, Donna Faye Dean, and Patsy Jarrell back after being absent because of illness.

We are sorry that Beverly Southard moved to Greenwood because we miss her very much. We hope she will be happy in Greenwood School.

Third Grade—Mrs. Greenhaugh
Donna Faye and Doug Wilson, the twins who moved to Seaford, wrote a letter to our class and we enjoyed hearing from them. We answered it this week with a sentence written by each boy and girl in the room.

FOURTH GRADE—Mrs. Quillen
In connection with our reading, we made candles by dipping them or by molding them in small cups.

Mrs. West has loaned us five old schoolbooks to examine. Two of the oldest known books are a McGuffey's Reader and one of the first geography books.

SIXTH GRADE—Mrs. Purse
We have a very interesting student in our section of the sixth grade. Her name Brigette Thalon, who came to live here with her mother. She flew from Munich to New York.

Since Brigette didn't speak any English, her mother came to school with her on the first day. Mrs. Thalon told us about the schools in Germany. Brigette is learning to speak English very rapidly. She knows our names and does very well in athletic events. She loves our school, and we are very glad to have her in our room.

FIFTH GRADE—Miss Long
We had our assembly program Thursday. It was about George Washington's life. Mr. Grant made us a frame and David Hedgecock let us borrow his tripod for our assembly. Our announcer was Ruth Ann Holden. After our assembly we had a party for our mothers.

We have a new girl in our room. Her name is Patricia Richardson. She lived in Johnstown, Va., before she came to Harrington. On our bulletin board we have pictures on events of George Washington's life and also in our room.

SEVENTH GRADE
The seventh grade is studying Central America. It was especially interesting to us to learn that in Honduras they produce many bananas, and the majority of them are shipped to the United States.

We are making place mats in art. Art work is enjoyable and the place mats will be useful.

EIGHTH GRADE—Miss Morris
The meeting was called to order by our president, Billy McCole. We are going to buy a record for the Student Council with the money left from our Christmas party.

We elected new officers as follows: president, George Peiffer; vice-president, Billy McCole; secretary, Mary Ann Fair; treasurer, Barbara Lewis; reporter, Anna Mae Baker; girl's locker checker, Judy Twigg; boy's locker checker, Robert Winkler; hall monitor, Christine Taylor; cafeteria monitors, Helena Callaway and Robert Winkler.

Frear May Support Middle East Resolution

United States Senator J. Allen Frear indicated Tuesday that he may support the Middle East Resolution when it is voted upon in the Senate. However, he again questioned the desirability of expending further large sums of economic aid because of the tremendous amount of assistance which the United States has already approved for many sections of the world.

In his weekly statement the Senator declared that in his judgment the Resolution does not meet all of the existing problems at hand. However, Mr. Frear stated that in the political struggle for control in the Middle East the West must be victorious for our own welfare.

The Delaware Senator called for continuing Congressional attention in the conduct of our foreign affairs especially in the over-all Middle Eastern area, and he pointed out that passage of the Resolution does not establish a definitive United States Middle East policy. It does, however, said the Senator, afford time in which to devise such a policy.

In this connection the Senator explained that the Middle East contains about 70 per cent of the world's known oil reserves and that geographically the area links Asia, Europe and Africa. He also emphasized that under Western influence the Middle East denies the Soviet Union one of its long sought objectives, namely, to become a power in the Mediterranean.

In conclusion Mr. Frear expressed the hope that approval of the Middle East Resolution will also be a constructive step in bringing about a settlement of some of the major differences which presently exist among countries in that turbulent section of the world. The continuing dispute between Israel and Egypt is of particular concern and must be peacefully settled promptly, he added.

Felton High School

Felton High School is honored by having one of its pupils serving as governor of 1957 Boys State. William Wood was selected from the junior class to fill this high office in the annual three day session scheduled for April 11, 12, and 13. Bill is president of the junior class and is outstanding in athletics. He has served as captain of the intramural soccer team and has won letters in basketball and baseball. He plans to attend the University of Delaware and prepare for a career in engineering.

Edmund plans to enter the University of Delaware after graduation and major in biology.

Edmund became a member of the Civil Air Patrol in November, 1955. He was one of a group of ten Felton students whose interest and effort were responsible for the formation of the Felton Civil Air Patrol Cadet Squadron. With four other cadets of the Felton Squadron, he attended the 1956 Delaware Wing Summer Encampment at Westover AFB, Mass. As a result of attending this encampment and passing certain achievement tests on economic, social, and technical aspects of aviation he was awarded the C.A.P. Certificate of Proficiency, Sept. 23, 1956.

Oct. 8, 1956, he was promoted to Cadet Sergeant and appointed Cadet Supply Sergeant in the Felton Cadet Squadron.

Solon Believes In Paying Deer Damage

Rep. Sherman W. Tribbitt (D-Odessa) believes that a car owner who suffers damage because his vehicle strikes a deer on a public highway should have redress.

He said as much Wednesday afternoon during a hearing of the Legislative Budget Committee at which the Game and Fish Commission presented its requests for the next biennium.

Mr. Tribbitt said it in the questions he asked. Nor did the answers seem to satisfy him.

"Don't you think," he asked, "that since the deer is protected by the state the state should be responsible for damage to the car?"

Rodney M. Layton, president of the commission, didn't think so. "My reaction," he observed, "is that this is one of the risks, and a small one, of road travel. The governmental agency should not undertake to indemnify citizens under the circumstances."

"Well, then," asked Senator Calvin R. McCullough (D-Holloway Terrace), "why should the state reimburse people whose poultry is hurt by dogs?"

"That opens up a large subject," said Mr. Layton softly. Rep. John Keller (R-Milford) gave his answer—"I think the answer is that there is more trouble caused by dogs."

A commission aide said that in fiscal 1956 the state had paid $1,379 to poultry owners who had suffered damage from dogs. This was a light year. Some years the total runs to $4,000. (In the last General Assembly the House fought bitterly over a claims bill for this purpose, finally approving it).

Senator Walter J. Hoey (D-Milford), committee chairman, said he is going to introduce a bill that will fix a fine of $500 for shooting a doe out of season. Of this, $400 will go to the person providing information leading to the conviction.

"Sounds like you're getting into the role of an informer there," objected McCullough. "No I'm not. Not in my book it isn't. It's a violation of the law," said Mr. Hoey.

The Senator also thought it would be worthwhile to have a season or two in which shooting of does would be banned. He believes that will build the Delaware herd.

Mr. Hoey also questioned the commission representatives about pheasants. Norman G. Wilder, director of conservation, answered him, explaining that last year 500 pheasants were bought at $2.50 each and released shortly before the season opened.

Mr. Wilder said that the state's population is growing so fast that the pheasant habitat is endangered. He added that of 100 pheasants released two months before the season fewer than 33 will survive to hunting time. If released one month before the season about 50 will survive. "The closer to the season that you release them, the more you will have for the hunters," he added. The reason for this is that the pheasant has many enemies, including dogs and cats.
