

COUNCIL GOES AHEAD WITH PLANS FOR MOVING DUMP

Plans for the removal of the city dump, from its location east of U. S. 13 and its short distance south of Delaware 14, got underway Monday night when Mayor Dr. Hewitt Smith appointed a committee to investigate new sites.

At the City Council meeting, Councilmen Charles Peck Sr. and Charles Jerred, and City Manager William F. Smith were named to the committee.

It was suggested they look at the Parris land, on Bricklin Road; various tracts in Hamondtown woods, and a tract owned by Harry Greenberg on U. S. 13 one-quarter mile south of the Kent & Sussex Fairgrounds.

Greenberg appeared before the Council Monday night and offered to lease the land at a reasonable rental for one year to ten. He said the tract included eight acres clear and that it was 25 feet east of the highway.

Greenberg also stated he had just purchased a residence, adjoining St. Paul A.M.E. Church, on West Milby Street, and that he would improve and modernize it. Earlier in the meeting Lorenzo Collins had told the Council the structure was an eyesore.

Plans for installation of sewers on West Street, from Milby Street to a point near Commerce Street, and on Second Avenue, were held up when it was mentioned that a 4-inch water main was supposed to be included in the specifications for Second Avenue. New bids will be sought in a package deal for both streets. The Second Avenue project would be some 160 feet and the West Street project, more than 300 feet. Joseph Richardson, Harrington, and W. B. Mitten & Sons, Dover, has submitted bids of $3 per foot for the sewer projects.

Ernest Kohland, who was sworn in Monday morning by Magistrate L. Gooden Callaway as a patrolman, was introduced to the Council. He will be a full-time patrolman and will serve a probationary period.

The city manager said he had written two assessment firms, regarding assessing the property of the City, and that one had answered it was committed thru the summer of next year. He said he had received no answer from the second.

The drought has caused the formation of stagnate water on the western side of U. S. 13, in an area south of the Bridle Bit Restaurant, now closed, according to a letter from the State Board of Health. The Board thought a sewer line would solve the problem.

Mayor Smith said a sewer would cost $20,000, and suggested that the owners of four buildings, in the affected area, put their septic tanks in order. The mayor said he would ask the State Board of Health to come down and settle the matter in a proper manner. A sewer line would also involve an extra pump, he said.

Following a petition of dwellers on Franklin Street and East Milby Street, the Council voted to blacktop East Milby Street from Hanley Street east when funds were available. The Council is awaiting an appropriation of more than $25,000 which it will get as the City's share of motor fuel tax from the state.

City Manager Smith was granted permission to work two hours a day, during the annual fall harness meet here in September, for 20 days, in place of taking a vacation.

St. Stephen's won their first game of the season at the expense of the National Guards, who are struggling to gain a spot in the play-offs. The Saints took a six run lead in the first and went on to win by a score of 11 to 9.

There is talk that the games with the Saints won't be counted in the standings. If this happens, it will affect most of the teams. The Independents lead would be cut to 2 1/2 games. The Legion would drop 1/2 game off the pace, thus helping Bond Bread who hasn't played the Saints.

D.P.&L. would drop back a game and the Farmers a game. The Guards would be helped by this, being they have lost to the Saints. The Guards would move ahead of the Farmers, who beat the Saints twice. The Moose would also lose one-half game.

55 Safe Thief Gets Probation

Herbert Flamer, Harrington, who recently pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny in connection with the theft of $550 from a safe, was placed on probation for one year in Superior Court Friday.

He was one of six men involved in the case, which dates to November, 1955, when a safe was stolen from the office of the Killen Feed Service, Harrington, and removed to a woods, where the money was stolen from it. Restitution has been made.

The other five men later were placed on probation but Flamer was apprehended only a few months ago. He pleaded guilty.

Flamer, who had been working in Pennsylvania, will have his probation supervised by officers of that state.

Held Without Bail On Rape Charge

Herbert Flamer, 35, formerly of Harrington, sought by police since Saturday, was arrested by police of that town Wednesday afternoon and arraigned before Magistrate L. Gooden Callaway on a charge of rape. He was committed to the Kent County Correctional Institute without bail.

Flamer is alleged to have criminally assaulted an 18-year-old Harrington girl at her home where he is said to have gone to use a telephone.

State police said he is on a year's probation on burglary charges and is also said to have violated probation in Pennsylvania.

Detectives at Bridgeville said the suspect was released on probation Friday and was staying at a house near the Jackson residence. Miss Jackson observed her 18th birthday Saturday.

He was one of three men who allegedly stole a safe containing more than $1,600 in cash from the feed mill and store of Ernest Killen, Harrington, in November, 1955. The three men, detectives said, each admitted receiving $550. Flamer fled the state but was arrested in May of last year by the FBI in Chester, Pa., returned here in July, last year, and pleaded guilty to the burglary charge for which he was placed on probation last week.

Tax On House Trailers Made Into Law

A bill imposing a tax of $15 on all house trailers, the revenue to be used for school purposes, was signed into law on June 28, 1957. The revenue derived from such tax is to be credited to the account of the school district in which the trailer is located, except that no tax shall be paid to a high school district when such district overlaps elementary school districts. "This is interpreted to mean," according to the State Department of Public Instruction, "that any school district which has elementary school grades will be credited with the tax revenue collected from any house trailer located within the area defined as that school district's elementary district."

According to the law, each owner of a house trailer which was in the State on July 1, 1957 and which has been in Delaware for at least 30 days during the preceding 12 months and/or for 30 days after July 1, 1957, must pay a tax of $15 to the Receiver of Taxes in the county in which the trailer is located. In computing the 30-day period, each day a trailer remains in the State shall be counted, even if such days are intermittent and not continuous. The $15 tax is imposed for a period of one year with tax receipts expiring on July 1 of each year for all house trailers previously taxed and for all other trailers remaining in the State for 30 days or more.

The provisions of the law also state that the owner of any land on which a house trailer is located or those operating any trailer parks, shall keep such records as to the house trailer as may be required by the Receiver of Taxes for proper enforcement of the law. Failure to keep such records will result in a fine of $25 for each trailer not reported by the owner of the land on which trailers are located. Failure of any house trailer owner to pay the $15 tax shall be fined $50 or imprisonment of 5 days, or both. A second offense carries a fine of $100 or imprisonment for 10 days, or both.

Harrington Man Commits Suicide

Frank Roland Eastman, 36, of 43 Clark Street, Harrington, was found dead in his automobile on a road near Killen's Pond, near Harrington, Thurs., Aug. 1. State police at Bridgeville said the car was filled with carbon monoxide gas and that Eastman's death was a suicide.

Police said Mrs. Eastman called the troop at 6 p.m. and informed them that her husband had left home and she had found a note stating he was going to take his life and telling where the car would be found.

Dr. William T. Chipman pronounced Eastman dead at the car. He told police he had been visited by Eastman earlier in the day and at that time the latter had told the physician that it was his "last day". Dr. Chipman told police he thought he had persuaded Eastman to give up any ideas of suicide.

Milford Athlete Dies; Was Pinned By Auto

Gorge Thomas Wells, 22, of Milford, died Tuesday night as a result of injuries suffered Tuesday morning when he was pinned against the wall of a building in Sharon, Pa., by an automobile that rolled down a steep grade.

Wells, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Wells, was a graduate of Milford High School and Washington College, Chestertown, Md., where he pitched for the baseball team.

The young athlete died in the Sharon Hospital. He was an employee of the Westinghouse Electric Corporation plant at Sharon.

Poultry Industry Hopes to Raise Million Dollars

A united effort by the poultry industry to raise a million dollar "war chest" for the promotion of eggs and poultry meat was recommended here this week by a division of the Northeast Poultry Producers Council (NEPPCO).

The Council's Division of Co-operatives, made up of poultry products marketing groups throughout the Northeast, recommended this amount as an initial project, then went on to propose an annual goal of two to three million dollars, to be achieved within the next five years.

"Poultry plays an increasingly important role in this nation's agricultural economy," declared Dr. Alfred Van Wagenen, the group's secretary. "There is not the slightest doubt in my mind that the poultry industry must do a more aggressive selling job if its products are to have a top rating with U. S. consumers."

Funds would be channeled into the Poultry and Egg National Board—official advertising and promotion arm of the nation's poultry producers.

The NEPPCO Division of Co-operatives proposed a 12-point program for PENB, including such projects as the development of merchandising and point of sale aids for retailers, a program of paid advertising in newspapers and magazines, a better flow of information between it and the poultry industry men who provide it with working capital.

PENB was urged to organize a special fund-raising staff, completely separate from its present promotion personnel.

Edgar Thorpe, 60, Negro, will be tried this evening by Magistrate L. Gooden Callaway on a charge of failing to stop at a stop sign. He was arrested Tuesday by Patrolman Louis Bowden.

William Lyons, Easton, 74, was fined $15 and costs Tuesday by Magistrate Callaway on a charge of failing to report an accident. Earlier in the day a car, driven by Lyons, sideswiped one on Commerce Street. Chief of Police George Hughes made the arrest.

Fire Damages Flamer Restaurant

The Flamer Restaurant, on West Milby Street, was badly damaged by fire, of unknown origin, Friday at 11:45 p.m. Harrington firemen extinguished the blaze.

Damage on the $1000 structure was estimated at $500. Firemen put out a grass fire late Saturday afternoon in the railroad yards. Cause was attributed to the cleaning out of a bearing box of a freight car.

Mother Guilty In Abandonment

Judge W. Marion Stevenson Thurs., Aug. 1, in Juvenile Court at Georgetown, found Mrs. Helen Baker, 23, guilty of neglect, desertion, and abandonment of her five small children.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered. Sentencing was scheduled for yesterday.

Mrs. Baker, of Greenwood, pleaded not guilty to the charge. She was unable to meet bond of $1000 and was committed to the Sussex Correctional Institution.

Judge Stevenson found Mrs. Baker guilty of abandoning her children—the oldest, 7, the youngest 8 months—in a woods about 2 a.m. Sun., July 28, between Greenwood and Milford. The children have been placed in foster homes.

Dover Base Fund Okayed

The House Appropriations Committee Tuesday approved a military construction bill that includes $2,368,000 for Dover Air Force Base.

The committee cut $243,200,000 from the Air Force's original request, approving a bill with outlays totaling $1,521,500,000. The full amount requested for Dover was granted.

Records of closed-door hearings, released simultaneously with the committee's action, disclosed that principal items to be constructed at Dover are a $719,000 organizational maintenance hangar and a $536,000 airmen's dining hall.

Brig. Gen. William E. Rentz, Air Force deputy director of Installations, told the committee the funds also include $1,187,000 for unspecified operational items "in support of the fighter-interceptor mission."

The Dover base is a Military Air Transport Service operation backed up by two fighter-interceptor squadrons of the Air Defense Command.

Rentz said the funds would also provide a new approach-light system necessary to provide pilots with "visible ground contact and final alignment." He said at least one major accident at the base can be attributed to "the lack of approach lights."

The program also includes construction of a wash rack to help prevent corrosion damage to aircraft, and a headquarters wing facility.

Congress already has authorized the Dover construction fund and the House is expected to approve the committee recommendations Thursday.

The construction program at Dover was one of the few spared from the committee economy ax.

Spare Engine Parts On Way To State Flier in Wilderness

Within two days it is expected repairs will be completed to the plane in which a Wyoming, Del., man was forced down on Great Whale River, in the wilds of northern Quebec, about 10 days ago.

Word was received by the State Board of Game and Fish Commissioners Tuesday that Everett B. Chamberlain, Wyoming, a game management staff man temporarily loaned to the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, is safe and is remaining on guard of the grounded plane.

Mrs. Marie Chamberlain, wife of the stranded man Tuesday received a call from the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Washington, D. C., with which Chamberlain had been making wildlife surveys in northern Quebec. She was informed that an expert factory mechanic and spare parts had been flown to the point where Great Whale River empties into Hudson Bay.

The Grumman "Widgeon" amphibian plane, in which Chamberlain, an expert pilot, and Charles D. Evans, biologist of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service were flying, was forced down by mechanical difficulties.

Using the two-way radio in the plane, Evans and Chamberlain called for assistance and a plane was flown to the general location July 30.

As their plane had been carried down stream by the swift waters of the upper Great Whale River for some distance the rescue plane had trouble locating it.

The pilot of the rescue plane managed to land nearby and Evans left in the plane to get the spare parts.

He flew to the Wyoming engine plant at Williamsport, Pa., obtained the parts, was provided with a mechanic, and flew back to the Eskimo village at the mouth of the Great Whale.

They landed Tuesday. Because of the terrain, unusually high winds of the area, occasional high tides, and swift river currents Evans and the mechanic will make the trip up river to the grounded plane by boat. The trip is expected to take about two days.

Mrs. Chamberlain was notified Tuesday night by the Fish and Wildlife Service that they had been in touch by radio with Chamberlain at the plane and he reported that he was making out all right. He said he had ample food and was in good health.

Evans and Chamberlain were making studies of wildfowl breeding grounds in northern Quebec. They were taking aerial "transcripts" or counts, of wildfowl in the area when the plane was forced down.

This is the third year that Chamberlain has done aerial and ground migratory wildfowl survey work in Labrador and Quebec during the summer months.

He is a colonel in the 9488th Air Reserve Squadron, a Delaware Air Force Reserve organization, and was a fighter pilot in World War II with the Air Force. He has been active in the Air Force Reserve since 1948.

He and Mrs. Chamberlain have four children, all boys.

School Bias Order Stayed By U. S. Court

Chief U. S. District Court Judge Paul Leahy Tuesday stayed his July 15 order of desegregation for the state's public schools to enable the State Board of Education to appeal it.

But, he warned, "Compliance with the law of the Supreme Court of the United States is inevitable."

Granting of the stay followed a conference with attorneys for six Sussex County school boards seeking an amendment to the order, representatives of the attorney general's office and Louis R. Redding, counsel for Negro children seeking admission to the schools.

Signed by Atty. Gen. Joseph Donald Craven and Chief Deputy Atty. Gen. Frank O'Donnell Jr., the motion was brief enough. It read:

Stayed Pending Appeal
"Defendants move the court to stay the enforcement of the judgment in this action pending the disposition of defendants' appeal to the United States Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit and to fix the amount of bond to be filed by defendants."

Judge Leahy responded to this by ordering that "execution and all proceedings in this suit be stayed pending the hearing and determination of the said appeal and the coming down to this court of the mandate of the United States Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit upon filing by the defendants of a supersedeas bond for $250 approved by the judge of this court."

With this the judge's order will be held in abeyance until the appellate court in Philadelphia makes its ruling.

In remarks made a part of the record at the conference, Judge Leahy said:

"Paragraph Three of the order of July 15, fixes as a matter of law of the United States District Court for the District of Delaware (following as it must the mandates of the Supreme Court of the United States) the right of plaintiffs and other Negro children similarly situated in this state."

"It establishes the terminal dates for segregation as it relates to all school boards, local or state, in Delaware. Paragraph Four secures this right by calling a halt to continued segregation in this state as obviously in conflict with the command for general integration as established by the Supreme Court of the United States."

The order directs the state board to prepare and submit by Sept. 15 a desegregation plan for all public schools in the state which have not yet made such plans.

School districts which asked for modification of the order are Seaford, Laurel, Greenwood, Milford, John M. Clayton of the Frankford-Dagsboro area, and Milton.

In motions filed July 25, the first five boards, which are defendants in a suit along with the state board, asked not to be compelled to desegregate ahead of other schools which are not parties to the action.

The Milton board, also a defendant, requested reargument on grounds that the order exceeds the scope of what was asked by Mr. Redding.

The order's third paragraph says plaintiffs in the cases "and all other Negro children similarly situated" are entitled to admission in the schools "no later than the beginning of or sometime early in the fall term of 1957." The fourth paragraph enjoins the school boards from refusing admission "on account of race, color, or ancestry."

"It is difficult to understand," Judge Leahy's statement continued, "how any person could interpret the order of this U. S. District Court otherwise. It is either a refusal to recognize the semantic preciseness of this court's ruling, or, an attempt to juggle words out of the pattern of their clear meaning."

'Legal Mechanics'
"To secure this right," he added, "Paragraph Five of the order of this court . . . provides the legal mechanics along lines most suitable to an orderly enforcement. Directions for compliance are aimed specifically at the State Board of Education."

"Any duty falling upon the local boards, any performance to which they must submit, is a result not of any entry of (continued on back page)

A Progressive Highway Department Improves Hunting And Fishing in State

Norman G. Wilder, acting director of the Game and Fish Commission, commended the State Highway Department for its excellent work in improving hunting and fishing facilities in Delaware. Directional signs to all major ponds in the State have been installed by personnel of the State Highway Department. The newly revised highway map includes all fishing areas in the state, all public wildlife areas and also launching sites on fresh and salt water. The highway map is available upon request from the Delaware State Development Department at Dover. Armed with a highway map fishermen should not have any difficulty in locating a fishing spot.

In cooperation with the Game and Fish Commission the Highway Department has assisted in building and maintaining public launching sites and the access roads leading to them at Fowlers Beach on Delaware Bay, south of Milford; Haven Lake, Milford; Quillens Point on Indian River Bay and others.

Highway engineers plan multiple use water control structures when building roads which traverse marshlands. The wildlife management work carried on at the 100 acre marsh near Delaware City has been closely watched by Game and Fish managers in the east. On diked marshes, such as 1000 acre, Port Penn, and Augustine marshes the water control structures provide the opportunity to raise and lower water levels during the proper seasons. Increased numbers of muskrats and waterfowl on these marshes are the immediate result of an abundance of preferred food plants.

The department expects to install another multiple use water control structure on Taylor's Gut north of Woodland Beach.

The State Highway Department is doing an excellent job in providing engineering services and supervision of major construction work undertaken by the Game and Fish Commission in maintaining and restoring ponds and lakes. Recently constructed ponds or those in the definite planning stage are Beck's Pond on Salem Church Road, 1/4 mile north of route 40; Massey's Pond, near Brenford; Garrisons Pond, south of Smyrna; McCauley's Pond, near Frederica; Haven Lake, Griffith Pond and Blair Pond, near Milford; Horsey's Pond, Laurel; William's Pond, Seaford and Ingram's Pond, near Millsboro.

Recent Fish Kill in Sussex County

In recent weeks a fish kill in Meadow Branch Ditch, Laurel was investigated by J. H. Hynson, field engineer for the Water Pollution Commission. The plant manager of Purina Mills at Laurel has been advised that liquid discharges from the plant were creating most unsatisfactory conditions downstream.

The Pollution Commission was assured by the plant manager that the condition would be corrected immediately.

Florence VonGoerres Presented Gold Cup

Monday Mrs. Florence VonGoerres of Harrington, was presented with the "Best of Fair" gold cup award given by the National Needlework Bureau for her outstanding entry at the Kent and Sussex Fair.

Twelve national needlework blue ribbons were given at the fair of which Mrs. VonGoerres received two—one for her crocheted bedspread and one for her centerpiece. She was the only exhibitor to receive two of these ribbons. Her crocheted bedspread was judged to be the best crocheted exhibit at the fair and for this she received the coveted trophy.

Mrs. VonGoerres was presented the trophy by Mrs. Pearl Hanson, supervisor of the needlework department, at the studio of WDOV on the Town Talk program, and was interviewed by Miss Bracken on the program before the presentation.

Mrs. VonGoerres is the first Harrington person to receive this award which has been given for the past three years. The winning entry is a full size, solid work, heavy weight bedspread of ecru color and required about two years to complete. She plans to enter her winning articles at the national Needlework contest which will be held in New York City in November.

Mrs. VonGoerres has lived here all her life. She has been crocheting for 42 years and her work has been varied. She has entered needlework exhibits in the Kent and Sussex Fair for many years and has many blue ribbons to her credit.

4 Injured In Accident Near Felton

Four persons were injured in a crash of two cars along a dirt road, about two miles south of Felton at 5:20 p.m. Monday.

According to state police, a car operated by David K. Gourley, 52, Felton RD 1, was going west and a car driven by James A. Thompson, 30, of Viola, was going east along the same road.

Police said as the two cars went around a curve, Thompson kept his car on the inside portion of the roadway and the two cars crashed head-on.

All of the injured were in the Gourley car. David Gourley suffered abrasions of the head, Bertha S. Gourley, 32, suffered lacerations of the forehead and knees, Pauline C. Gourley, 11, lacerations of the face and forehead, and Harry Gourley, 3, contusions of the forehead.

The injured were removed to the Kent General Hospital in a police car. Thompson was arrested for failing to yield one-half of the roadway and Magistrate Ralph Knotts, Sr., of Dover, imposed a fine of $10 and costs in his case.

Penn. Woman Drowns In Bay

A Pennsylvania woman was drowned in Delaware Bay Sunday when a small boat in which she was a passenger capsized during one of the scattered thunderstorms which lowered temperatures slightly throughout the state but failed to break the drought.

The thundershowers dropped the temperature to 72 degrees Sunday from a record high of 97 degrees Saturday. Saturday's temperatures exceeded the old record for the date, 95 degrees, set in 1896 and equaled in 1931 and 1955.

The drowning victim, Mrs. Marion Stephan, 30, of Reinholds, Pa., had gone fishing early Sunday morning with her husband, Richard, and another couple from Reinholds, Richard and Gladys Eckenroad.

The fishing party set out at 6 a.m. from Pickering Beach, south of Little Creek and southeast of Dover, in a 15-foot aluminum boat powered by an outboard motor. The boat belongs to Mr. Eckenroad.

Storm Comes Up
The two couples ventured about three miles offshore, according to the State Police, and were coming in toward shore at about noon when a thunderstorm hit them a mile and a half out in the bay.

The storm came with a hard wind, blowing from the southwest, and caused choppy waves in the bay. The boat running into a strong headwind as it tried to reach the shore to the west, stopped as the motor was swamped. The men tried to anchor the raft.

Before long, said police, the boat was swamped and capsized in the rough water.

All four occupants were thrown into the bay, and Mrs. Stephan lost her grip on the boat. Mr. Eckenroad tried to support her while holding onto the boat himself. The others managed to swim and cling to the boat, which was equipped with flotation tanks.

Three Rescued
Another boat came to the rescue, and the three who were swimming were picked up. Mrs. Stephan's body was towed ashore and taken to the Kent General Hospital, where she was pronounced dead.

The boat was also towed in. Kent County Coroner Roland P. Trader said the body will be turned over to the Harry Melinger Funeral Home in Denver, Pa.

St. Bernadette's Church Notes

Sunday Mass will be at 9:30 with confessions being heard from 9 to 9:30. We will all join together Sunday afternoon for our annual parish picnic at Trappe Pond. Soft drinks for this affair will be purchased from donations.

The recent ice cream festival held on the parish lawn proved to be a success. We wish to thank everyone who helped in any way.

There will be an adult catechism class, conducted by Father Corrigan, Thursday evening at the parish house beginning at 8 o'clock.

Samples of Christmas cards will be displayed in the vestibule of the church. Although you may not be ready to order now, please keep them in mind.

Wednesday, the Vigil of the Assumption is a day of fast and abstinence. Thursday we celebrated the feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary. It is a Holy Day of obligation and Mass will be said at 4 p.m.

The Assumption
Upon the death of the Blessed Virgin, her body was miraculously preserved from corruption and after being united to her immaculate soul, was carried by angels into heaven. It was most fitting that our Lord should exempt from corruption the body of His Holy Mother, that virginal body in which he had assumed human flesh.

Our bodies, too, are sacred. They are sanctified by our reception of Christ in the Sacrament of the Eucharist and through our union with Him in His Mystical Body. Let us, therefore strive to preserve our bodies as temples of holiness, undefiled by sin.

Morning worship 9 o'clock. "The Romance of Preaching" will be the theme of the pastor's sermon. This is "Collins Memorial Sunday." Each year the second Sunday in August is set apart in memory of the Rev. Collins who served as pastor of Asbury Church for ten years.

During his ministry the educational building which bears his name was built. "Many other things he did," as the writer of John's Gospel says, that it would be impossible to relate them all. Because of his leadership we feel that it is good to continue this memorial of the Rev. E. H. Collins. A special feature of the service will be the singing of a solo by Miss Barbara Edwards.

There will be no more services after this Sunday until September 8 when the pastor will return from his vacation. After the vacation the morning worship will again be held at 11 o'clock each Sunday.

Church school 10 o'clock, Howard Wagner, superintendent. "Hannah: Keeping Faith With God" will be the theme of the lesson in the adult department. Hannah demonstrates the importance of parents as servants of God. She gave her son Samuel to God even before he was born. In what way can parents today learn from the example of Hannah? Come and make your contribution to our discussion.

Church school will continue each Sunday during vacation.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—I used my World War II GI home loan benefit when VA's maximum guaranty was $4,000. Since we've outgrown the house, I would like to sell it and buy another, using the $3,500 guarantee that I'm still entitled to. Would I have to apply for this second GI loan before the World War II GI loan deadline?

A—Yes. In your case you would have to apply for your second GI loan before July 25, 1958, the deadline for World War II veterans.

—I am a Korea veteran and I have just come out of service. I enrolled in a one-year course in radio-TV repair under the Korean GI Bill. After I finish that course, would I be allowed to take another one? I've built up three years of GI entitlement.

A—The law allows you one change of course, so long as you make it within three years from the date of your discharge. So once you finish your radio-TV course, you would be permitted to take another, provided it is made within that three-years-from-discharge deadline.

Q—I am a young man of 20, married and the father of a small child. I am eligible for school under the War Orphans Education program. If I enroll, would I be entitled to a larger monthly allowance because of my dependents?

A—No. If you attend school full-time you would receive VA payments of $110 a month, the same as an unmarried student. Training allowances under the War Orphans program do not increase under the law because of a trainee's dependents.

Q—Since I have been totally disabled for more than six months, I have applied for a waiver of premiums on my GI insurance policy. What will be the effective date of the waiver?

A—Generally, the waiver is made effective from the premium due date following your sixth straight month of total disability. There are exceptions to this rule for those who wait an extraordinarily long time before applying.

Letter to the Editor

Attention Teenagers:

If you are one of the many teenagers who would like to learn more about airplanes and aviation, here's your chance. And even if you have never thought much about aviation, perhaps the following questions will stir your interest.

Do you want to be a real help to your country, and at the same time have lots of fun? Are you curious about why and how an airplane flies; why it is built the way it is, and what makes it "tick"?

Would you like to find out more about weather, and how it affects flying? Or study about radios, and how to receive and transmit messages?

And, best of all, have things explained to you in simple, down-to-earth language you can understand?

These and many more subjects, are studied by Civil Air Patrol Cadets. But class-room work is by no means all that we do. We also visit airplane factories and air bases, and have search and rescue missions, both real and faked. We have close-order drill, and have orientation flights.

Every year Cadets have an opportunity to attend a 9-day encampment at an Air Force Base and absorb the atmosphere of military life.

The International Cadet Exchange, for boys, gives opportunity for selected Cadets in the

Drought Emergency Feeding Suggestions For Dairy Cattle

Drought-emergency feeding suggestions for dairy cattle were offered to farmers by University of Delaware Extension dairyman Delmar J. Young.

Young reported that the extended dry weather has caused heavy pasture damage, severe hay losses, and shortages of grain and silage. He offered the suggestions to help dairymen make adjustments to maintain milk production this fall and winter.

Most critical problem right now is roughage, Young emphasized. There is no permanent pasture and very little supplementary pasture available. Here are the main alternatives the dairy specialist recommends for roughage supply:

1. Feed whole or chopped green corn stover or fodder from the field, supplementing it with 5 to 10 pounds of hay per cow to keep up the buttermilk test.

2. Feed silage—last year's this spring's, or new silage made from drought-damaged corn. Supplement the silage with 5 to 10 pounds of hay.

3. Feed hay. Hay is not a scarce item, Young emphasizes. Some local hay is available for sale and good supplies are available from the Midwest and other areas.

4. Emergency small grain pasture may be seeded in late August for late September and October grazing. Young recommends Balboa rye at 1½ to 2½ bushels per acre, cross-drilled with 500 pounds of 10-10-10 fertilizer.

5. Good results can be expected with emergency hay crops provided there is rain between now and August 10. Up to that date, Young recommends seeding 1½ bushels of soybeans and 2½ pounds of German millet per acre. Harvest for hay when the millet heads first begin to show.

6. Grazing sudan grass when it is wilted is dangerous, Young warns. The danger comes from prussic acid, which can poison cattle. If enough rain falls to make the plants fill out and recover from their wilt, the sudan, in most cases, will be safe to graze.

In feeding grain, the dairy specialist reminds dairymen not to feed in excess of one pound of grain for each three pounds of milk with low test breeds, or one pound for each 2½ pounds of milk for high test breeds. Citrus pulp, at two pounds of dry weight per cow per day may be fed, depending on the cost. In any case, the grain mixture should not exceed 16 percent crude protein.

Cows should have available at all times plenty of water, salt and mineral. A mineral box, located out of the weather and near the water supply, filled with iodized loose salt in one section and steamed bonemeal of di-calcium-phosphate in the other, is a valuable item to provide, Young emphasizes. Having these materials available free choice may mean the difference between non-breeding problems and difficult problems after this abnormal season, Young declared.

Other good management practices cited by the dairyman that may help in the present emergency were these:

Cull your herd. Remove all cows producing less than 5000 pounds. Reduce excess animals saved for herd replacements, or animals that do not fit into your future herd program. Get rid of non-breeders. Keep records—D. H.I.A., Owner-sampler, or weigh-a-day-a-month.

FARM AND GARDEN QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—Where do I apply for state gas tax refund?

A—The state highway department office for these refunds has just been changed to the new building back of the Dover post-office, third floor and last office to the rear. Federal gas tax refund forms are available from the county agent in the Dover post office building. Both of these refunds apply only to gas used in the course of farm tillage operations, and not to any highway usage.

Q—What is wrong with this (1) maple tree, (2) Dogwood, (3) Azalea, (4) Lilac?

A—All of these show typical drought symptoms—in some cases only parts of the tree or bush show injury, due probably to injuries of one kind or another in the last couple of years. When the leaves will back from the tips, it is due to dry weather, and the answer is to soak the ground about them thoroughly. In most cases, the plants should recover over the winter months and leaf out normally next year.

Q—Why are my soybeans turning yellow? (rather general condition over the whole county).

A—Drought is only slightly responsible—and that on the leaves. Most of the trouble is due to two spotted mites, very minute insects which you can see on the under sides of the leaves with a magnifying glass. These mites suck out the plant juices which results in yellowing. They are worse in hot dry weather—and appeared early this year. Spraying with parathion or aramite or dusting with sulfur will cut down the population, but they soon build back up in numbers and treatment may have to be repeated. They will cut yields if severe, and deciding whether to treat or not is dependent on yield prospects.

Q—My cows have dropped in milk since I have been feeding green chopped corn. Should I step up the protein level in the grain mixture?

A—Green corn is quite bulky, but low in total digestible nutrients compared to grass or hay. Cows relish it and tend to fill up like a child will on candy—and then will not relish the high nutrient grains fed in the barn. Try to limit the green corn feeding—or change the feeding time so that the cows will be ready for the grain. Feeding some hay will help immeasurably. Do not increase the protein level. It can result in scouring and will not increase the milk production much.

Q—Could I earn some money with 200 or 300 Leghorn laying birds or 500 to 700 broilers? I am 75 years old and have only a small pension.

A—The poultry business is very competitive today with low profit margins and rather high cash risks for feed, for disease and for marketing problems. It is not the sideline business it once was, and we would not recommend it in this case.

We will be glad to help you work out another solution and would suggest work such as baby sitting for which there is a great demand in your area. No capital would be required. There are several working mothers in your section who would like a steady child nurse. Do you have any crafts or selling skills?

C. OF C. CONSIDERS TRADE DAYS

The Chamber of Commerce approved a trade day, at a meeting Thurs., Aug. 1, at the Wonder R. and turned the project over to its Retail Merchants Committee.

While the committee will make the final plans, the Chamber thought the event should be held some Friday and Saturday in September before the annual fall meet of the Kent & Sussex Racing Association. This event starts Sept. 16 and continues for 20 nights.

The trade day, the name of which will be fixed by the merchants committee, will be the first held here in several years.

Clarence Collins is chairman of the committee, the other members of which are Claude Cahall, Thomas Clendening, Samuel A. Short Jr., Roland Stayton, Madalyn Tharp, and Evva Warrington.

Kenneth Aiken reported that the Virginia Greater Shows had no open date this year, but was interested in coming here next year. The Chamber was interested in the shows as a means of raising funds.

Aiken also reported that the Townsend property, a dwelling house at 39 Commerce St., would be improved if not sold. The Chamber has been attempting to get the structure razed. An adjoining structure, at 37 Commerce St., has been razed.

$1,200,000 To Be Distributed Among Municipalities of State

A certification of the amounts due to the various municipalities in the state from the Municipal Ad Fund, provided by the recent session of the Legislature, has been forwarded to the State Treasurer by R. A. Haber, Chief Engineer of the State Highway Department.

A total of $1,200,000 will be distributed among the municipalities of the State, with the distribution being made on the basis of 40 per cent for population and 60 per cent for street maintained by the municipality.

The funds available on the population basis are to be used for street lighting, signs, traffic control devices, police, street cleaning, snow removal, construction and maintenance of streets and purchase of right of way for streets.

The funds available on the street basis are to be used for construction, repair and maintenance of streets and alleys, for debt service incurred for streets, purchase and repair of street equipment.

Each municipality will file a report with the State Treasurer showing what the funds had been used for. All street construction work must be in accordance with the specifications of the State Highway Department.

In preparing the schedule of disbursements for the fund, the State Highway Department used the 1950 census figures for the population, in keeping with a law enacted by the Legislature to that effect.

The distribution on the basis of street mileage was slightly changed due to the adjustment of the street mileage in several municipalities including Dagsboro, Millsboro and Newark.

The population distribution averaged $2.685 per capita and the street distribution averaged $1,706.88 per mile.

Memory of Pal Lingers On

The story on the demise of Reese B. Harrington's English setter, Pal, carried with his photo in our issue of July 26, demonstrates the power of the press and reaffirms the affinity among dog lovers everywhere.

Many readers told Harrington they first new of Pal's death when they read of it in The Journal. Wed., July 31, Harrington received a letter from Gordon Willis, senior vice president of the Farmers Bank of Delaware, Dover, in which he mentions reading the article in the paper. Willis states he has been a lover of English setters for a great many years, and that he has a kennel full.

"You have certainly been a faithful master, and I'm sure your dogs have been true friends," wrote Willis.

Silo Filling Method Determines Forage Quality of Silage

The method you use when filling a silo—as well as the forage put up—will determine the feeding quality of silage, says George Vapaa, county agricultural agent. The agent explains that quality silage is made within a few hours after ensiling. That's when the fermentation process important to preservation takes place.

He points out that an important key to successful preservation is immediate exclusion of air from the silage. Forage tramped, weighted and immediately sealed, has made good quality silage in U.S. Department of Agriculture experiments, the agent continues. On the other hand, forage left loose and unsealed for two days spoiled.

Spoilage was even more complete when air was forced through the forage. This forage heated abnormally for the first few days and finally lost nutrients and much of the lactic acid needed for effective preservation. Excessive temperature is an early symptom of spoilage in silage, the county agent adds. It's the exclusion of air that counts in controlling this heating and in encouraging proper fermentation.

Type of plant used in silage is another factor in quality, Vapaa says. Researchers have found that alfalfa consistently makes better silage than orchard grass—despite the latter's higher sugar content. Alfalfa also withstands higher temperatures with less nutrient loss.

Delaware Farm Field Day Program Set

Events and tours of experimental plots and poultry plant to take place during the annual Farm Field Day, Aug. 14, at the University of Delaware Substation on the Georgetown-Laurel road have been announced by Eugene P. Brasher, program chairman.

A fat hog judging contest, sponsored by the Delaware Swine Producers' Association, will take place from 10:30 a.m. to 3:15 that afternoon. Ten hogs will be graded according to U. S. Standards, including estimates of weight and back-fat thickness. There will be classes for adults and juniors under 21 years of age. Judging will be done during contest hours by Dr. James Ferguson of the University of Maryland. Results will be announced at 3:15.

New Feature
A new feature of the program will be an exhibit of the champion ram, champion ewe and reserved champion ewe selected at the Kent & Sussex Fair last month. Brasher said the purpose of the exhibit is to interest the Delaware farmers in the sheep business.

The association recently completed its fourth annual wool pool. These sales consistently return from eight cents to 17 cents a pound more than usual, for market wool, since it is sold on a graded basis and in large enough quantities to attract several bidders. Association spokesmen believe the sheep enterprise would have possibilities for the small farm operator, because sheep are excellent forage animals.

Home Gardeners
Because of increased interest in home gardening, especially the culture of flowers, shrubs, and trees, Brasher said, another new feature of the Field Day will be included this year. The exhibit will be on new plant materials of current interest. A School of Agriculture or substitution staff member will be on hand to answer questions.

Several demonstrations will be presented during the day. These will be intended to interest women, as well as men.

The ninth Sussex County Artificial Breeding Heifer Show will be held that day. Results of artificial breeding in Delaware—the type and quality of animals developed in the herd improvement program—will be presented and discussed.

Registered animals owned by 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America members in Sussex County will be shown in the show's junior division. These animals will not necessarily be the offspring of artificially-bred animals. Other heifers to be shown will be daughters of sires used in the cooperative artificial breeding service of the Delaware Artificial Breeder's Cooperative of Newark, and the Southeastern Pennsylvania Artificial Breeding Cooperative, Lancaster, Pa.

Crop Tours
Visitors that day will be routed through crops experimental plots and poultry plant with special maps to be supplied at the substation. The experiments include: size of potato seed-piece, potato spacing, irrigation of potatoes, irrigation of lima beans, weed control in strawberries, pepper variety trials, irradiated lima beans, lima bean variety trials and tomato breeding. Also, weed control in tomatoes, irrigation of tomatoes, lima bean pod set, cucumber variety trials, asparagus, fertilization, irrigation of asparagus, weed control in asparagus, control of nut-grass, uniform soybean variety trials, soil pH and nitrogen study in soybeans, pre-emergence weed control in soybeans and corn, the treatment of infectious synovitis in poultry, and a determination of the need for additional trace elements in broiler diets.

Also, corn breeding and hybrid evaluation, row spacing of dwarf corn, soil fertilization of soybeans, soil insecticide treatments for control of cucumber beetles, cantaloupe breeding, grape variety trials, new fungicides for potatoes, sprays for corn infesting insects, blueberry variety test, aphid leaf miner and mite control, apple varieties on dwarf stock, peach variety trials and apple variety trials.

Also apple soil management, apple nutrition, crop rotation and disease control, alfalfa varieties, castorbean varieties, grain sorghums, green manure experiments, small grain varieties, soil fungicides (fusarium crown-rot of canteloupes), canteloupe variety trials and ice box watermelon variety trials.

A fried chicken luncheon will be served by the Delaware Poultry Improvement Association, along with a watermelon "feed."

IFYE From North Wales To Visit Delaware

William L. Lewis, International Farm Youth Exchange (IFYE) from North Wales, is scheduled to arrive in Delaware Aug. 13, Wayne Bath, acting state 4-H Club leader, announced yesterday.

Lewis will stay with the families from several countries taking part in a program offering an opportunity to live and work with farm families in other countries, helping the IFYE's gain international understanding, Bath said.

Lewis will stay with the families of George C. Simpson, Houston, from Aug. 15 to 24; and Horace M. Woodward, Middletown, Aug. 31 to Sept. 18.

Lewis arrived in this country May 11. Following his arrival he was acquainted with American customs in Washington, D. C., by the National 4-H Club Foundation's staff. Lewis lived and worked with farm families in Arkansas from May 20 to Aug. 3. He is among some 190 farm young people from more than 50 foreign countries living with farm families in the U. S. this year, Bath added.

Miss Sophie R. Wegmann, Swiss exchange who lived with Delaware farm families from May 6 to Aug. 3, will stay with farm families in Wisconsin from Aug. 11 to Oct. 14.

Lewis attended Llysfasi Agricultural College in England and now works as a farmer on a 150-acre farm in North Wales. Wheat, barley, potatoes, kale, fodder, beets, sweet carrots, cattle, sheep, poultry and swine are grown on the farm.

At home he has taken part in church activities, the Llysfasi College Students' Society and Young Farmers' Club public speaking contests. His interests and hobbies include stock judging, rural craft work, carpentry, engineering, photography, foot-

Delaware Food Market Report

Things look brighter this week, as far as fresh vegetables, fruits and meats are concerned. Recent showers have increased the yield of fresh products temporarily, and the food shoppers will see more plentiful supplies and lower prices.

Home grown tomatoes dropped about 5 cents, and are now selling from 15 to 25 cents a pound. A little wise shopping and you may find the tiny tomatoes selling for 5 to 8 cents a pound. There are lots of uses for these miniatures; tossed salads, stewing and the like.

Other vegetables to look for are; snap beans, averaging 19 cents a pound; sweets corn, 5 cents an ear in many stores; lettuce at 17 cents a head average; celery, averaging 24 cents a bunch, but in some stores as low as 2 bunches for 25 cents. Eggplant and lima beans are becoming more plentiful since they are now in season. For variety in the menu, look for fresh okra and blackeyed peas. While these two vegetables are not plentiful and prices cannot be considered cheap, they are reaching local markets.

Meat prices remain about the same or are slightly lower this week, with a notable exception of bacon. Beef prices show a penny off here and there. The best buys being chuck roast, hamburger or ground beef, rib roast and some steaks. Veal continues to seaw up and down with best prices being on veal roasts.

Bacon, already high, has gone up another 4 cents on first grade bacon, and as much as 3 cents on second grade.

The other best buys on the meat counter this weekend will be hams, fryers and turkeys.

The attention getters at the fruit counter are peaches, watermelon and apples. Peaches are cheaper this week and supplies are plentiful. Why not get an extra supply of this delicious fruit and can, freeze or preserve some for winter use? Other fruits wearing cheaper price tags this week are nectarines, honey dews, canteloupes, lemons and limes.

Things look brighter as far as fresh vegetables, fruits and meats are concerned.

Social Security Notes

Myron Milbourn, district manager of the Wilmington social security office, declared that a long disabled worker now has until the beginning of July 1958 to file an application for the "disability freeze" and still have his social security earnings record protected as of the date he actually became disabled. He said also that the law now permits a veteran to receive compensation from the Veterans Administration for service-connected disability without any reduction in the amount of his disability insurance benefits under social security. These changes, significant to persons who have been disabled for some years and to those with service-connected disability, became effective when President Eisenhower signed P. L. 109.

The purpose of the "disability freeze" is to prevent those years during which a severe and indefinite disability keeps a person out of work from counting against him on eligibility for benefits or on the amount of his benefits. A person cannot qualify for the "freeze" unless, in addition to meeting disability requirements, he has worked for at least five years under social security and for about 1 1/2 years during the 3-year period just before his disability began.

Until the recent change in the law, a period of disability could not be determined to have begun earlier than 12 months before application for the freeze, unless the application was made before the end of June, and who had become disabled before Jan. 1, 1955, would have lost his right to have his social security record frozen because he could not possibly meet the work requirements. Moreover, without the freeze he might have lost future rights to any social security benefits for himself or his family, because at the time he dies or becomes 65 he may not have the required work credit. The law, as now amended, gives those who were disabled before Jan. 1, 1955, until June 30, 1958, to file an application for the disability freeze to protect their rights to old-age, survivors, or disability insurance.

The amendment relating to disabled veterans modified the offset provision in the law so that a social security disability insurance benefit will not be reduced because of compensation payable to a veteran by the Veterans Administration for his service-connected disability. Milbourn pointed out that the offset continues to apply in cases involving veterans' pensions which are paid on account of nonservice-connected disability.

Fort Delaware To Open To Visitors

Historic Fort Delaware on Pea Patch Island near Delaware City will be open to visitors on a regular weekend schedule beginning Saturday, Aug. 10, it was announced this week. However, there will be restrictions since transportation service can only be supplied at high tide. Trips will continue through Sun., Sept. 1.

This will be the first time in two years that regular visits will be made, but the State Park Commission, which operates the fort as a state park, says the tight schedule will have to be adhered to this season.

The Wave, operated by Capt. Walter Wisowaty, will again be used, approaching and leaving the island on full tide. The first trip will leave the Delaware City wharf at 10 a.m. Saturday. Through contract arrangement with Capt. Wisowaty, transportation to the island and return will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

The historic old fort, which "never fired a shot in anger," but gained fame as a prison for Confederate soldiers during the War Between the States, is being developed as a tourist attraction by the combined efforts of the Fort Delaware Society and the State Park Commission.

Before mud practically filled the cove entrance on the western side of Pea Patch Island, Capt. Wisowaty made regular trips between Memorial Day and Labor Day to the fort. A similar schedule was planned for this year but was curtailed when mud made the island less accessible. Dredging has alleviated the situation somewhat and the Wave can now reach the island dock at high tide.

The schedule for the four weekends is as follows:

Aug. 10—First boat leaves Delaware City at 10 a.m. The last trip from the island will be made at 2 p.m.

Aug. 11—First boat leaves Delaware City at 10:30 a.m. The final trip from the island will be at 2:30 p.m.

Aug. 17—First boat out of Delaware City at 2:30 p.m., last boat off island, 7 p.m.

Aug. 18—First boat out of Delaware City, 3:30 p.m., last boat off the island, 7:30 p.m.

Aug. 24—First boat out of Delaware City, 9 a.m., last boat off the island, 1:15 p.m.

Aug. 25—First boat out of Delaware City, 9:30 a.m., last boat from the island, 1:45 p.m.

Aug. 31—First boat out of Delaware City, 3 p.m., and last trip from the island, 7 p.m.

Sept. 1—First trip out of Delaware City, 4 p.m. and last trip from the island, 8 p.m.

Zwaanendael Museum Features Post Card Exhibit During August

Old scenic views of Milton are among those included in the Post Card Exhibit being featured in the Zwaanendael Museum during the first weeks of August. There are pictures of the old mill on the lake, the narrow dirt road leading to Lavina's Camp in 1905, and tree-lined Federal and Union Streets in 1907.

Milford scenes include a launching at Abbott's Shipyard in 1906; quiet shady Front Streets, both North and South; and Walnut Street in 1906, when the horse and carriages of shoppers lined the curbs.

Many will recognize the Lewes Creek in 1905, before it was dredged, with the neatly fenced yards along the bank, Hotel Rodney at the corner of Front and old State Streets showing the old bridge across the creek, and Second Street before Caesar Rodney Hotel was built.

These and other views of Milton, Milford and Lewes will be on exhibit for about two weeks, when they will be replaced by those of Rehoboth, Bethany Beach and Henlopen Lighthouse.

The Museum is open to receive visitors Tuesdays through Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Sundays and holidays, 12:30 to 5:30 p.m., closed Mondays.

Steps Being Made To Attract New Enterprises To Frist State

The influence of the office of Governor J. Caleb Boggs has been placed behind the current effort to attract new business, manufacturing and other enterprises to the First State.

Cooperating with the Delaware Industrial Development Committee, Inc., Gov. Boggs has prepared a letter which will be mailed to 20,000 prospects over a wide area, along with the industrial brochure produced by the committee.

In his appeal, Gov. Boggs invites diversified lines of manufacturing, headquarters for home offices, distributorships, laboratories, warehousing and other commercial projects to make their home in Delaware.

Lloyd R. Leslie, president of the Committee, said this week that members have been cooperating in providing funds for the current campaign and once it is launched steps will be taken to create other promotional efforts which it is hoped will attract new people to the state.

"This is the first concentrated effort along this line that will have been made," Mr. Leslie declared, "and I believe we will find support from many sources once our program is fully underway."

The letter signed by Gov. Boggs which will accompany each outgoing brochure will say: "It is my sincere hope that you will have the opportunity to read and study the enclosed brochure, outlining the industrial and commercial potential of the State of Delaware."

"Long the crossroads of commerce and industry—even in pre-revolutionary days—the First State has always played a prominent role in the economy of the nation and the world.

"Chemicals, dyes, fabrics and plastics along with the manufacture of heavy machinery, shipbuilding and now automobile assembly and oil refining have created job opportunities which has caused great growth in our population.

"Close to natural resources, power and excellent transportation facilities, Delaware offers an outlet for a diversified line of manufacturing, headquarters for home offices, distributorships, laboratories, warehousing and other commercial projects.

"We welcome all who want to establish their business and assure their future security by joining us here. All possible services will be rendered to make your operation a happy one from the start.

"Talk over your particular need or problem with our representatives who are willing and able to serve you."

President Eisenhower To Try Hand At Barbecuing Chicken

President Dwight D. Eisenhower, a well-known amateur cook, is going to try his hand at barbecuing Delmarvalous chicken from the Peninsula area. He said so in a recent letter to Gov. J. Caleb Boggs.

All this came about when Delaware's American Legion representatives to Boy's Nation in Washington presented President Eisenhower with a letter from Governor Boggs which contained a barbecued chicken recipe.

When Bill Wood of Felton and Roy Adams, Newport, visited the president's office, Mr. Eisenhower was presented with a book in which were barbecued recipes from all the 48 states and territories. His fame as an amateur cook inspired the idea.

Gov. Boggs, always one to promote the state's products whenever possible, had provided a recipe which was introduced at the Delmarva Chicken Festival in June by Mrs. Paul Mitchell of Delmar. Evidently it caught President Eisenhower's eye. This is what he wrote Gov. Boggs: "Dear Governor Boggs:

Yesterday when the delegates to the American Legion's current Annual Boys' Nation visited the White House, I was given the recipe you sent for me for barbecued chicken. Certainly anything with the name of 'Delmarvalous Chicken' ought to be superb, and I am anxious to try my amateur hand to see how it turns out for me.

With many thanks and warm regard, sincerely, Dwight D. Eisenhower."

Mrs. Mitchell's Barbecued Chicken recipe which caught the president's fancy is prepared as follows:

1 3 to 3 1/2 lb. chicken, 1 medium sized onion, 2 tablespoons fat, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, 1/4 cup lemon juice, 1 cup catsup, 3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 1/2 tablespoon prepared mustard, 1 cup water, 1/2 cup chopped celery, salt, red pepper.

Cut chicken into serving pieces; brown in hot fat. Brown on-

State Highway Department Receives Two Appropriations

During the 1955-56 fiscal year the State Highway Department received two special appropriations for work of two Division within the Department and at the end of the fiscal year some of the funds reverted to the State treasury for each account.

The two special appropriation were $225,000 for purchase of equipment and increased activity in the mosquito control Division and $250,000 to augment the salary account for maintenance work.

The Mosquito Control funds were used to purchase needed equipment, as it could be procured, for the mosquito control work and the establishment of more points of operation for this work.

The maintenance fund requirement arose from the necessity of increasing the maintenance work, due to more improved roads being added to the highway system, as well as to replace funds expended in extra work required during several severe storms along the Sussex County bay and ocean front.

Of the special Mosquito Control word appropriation, $99,989.14 reverted to the State Treasury and of the special maintenance work appropriation $40,445.13 reverted to the State Treasury, making a total of $140,434.27 being returned to the State.

In connection with the revision of the funds, R. A. Haber, Chief Engineer of the Highway Department, in a letter to Governor J. Caleb Boggs, stated: "Since I assured you that our Department would make use of the deficit appropriation to our Salary Account only as needed and that no increase in personnel other than actual needs would occur, I am taking this opportunity to inform you that our records show that a balance of $40,445.13 of the initial appropriation of $250,000 will revert to the State Treasurer.

"I again wish to express my sincere thanks for your cooperation in making it possible for use to continue to provide full services to the public during the last few months of the fiscal year just ended."

Democrats Plan Meeting Monday On Bond Charge

Democratic members of the 119th General Assembly are tentatively scheduled to meet Monday at Dover to see how they stand on the proposal to knock the three per cent limit on interest from some of the state bonds to be sold this month.

If they stand for the change the chances are there will be another session of the 119th on Wednesday night.

Most of the Republicans in both houses are ready, it is understood, to go along with the change which will involve amending a couple of bills approved by the last General Assembly.

One Democratic objection to the change has been registered already by Senator Walter J. Hoey (D-Milford), chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. In the senator's committee rests Senate Bill 18 introduced by Senator John E. Reilly, Sr. (D-Wilmington) on Jan. 23. This bill would take the limit off interest for school bonds authorized in the last session.

Said Mr. Hoey Tuesday: "Removing the interest limit would cost the state at least $1,000,000 a year. If the bonds were sold at five per cent, it would cost more like $2,000,000 additional. They have not proven that they cannot sell the bonds. Let them go to the market and at least try. They should know that no fool is going to buy them for less when he thinks he can talk us into paying more."

Senator Curtis W. Steen (D-Dagsboro), the president pro tem, said he understood that Garrett E. Lyons, Democratic state chairman, would invite the Democratic members of both houses to a caucus Monday at Dover. The senator said he does not intend to issue a call for a session until the majority services to the public during the last few months of the fiscal year just ended."

83 Bids Submitted On 13 Delaware Highway Projects

A total of 29 contractors submitted 83 bids on 13 projects for which the State Highway Department opened bids Wednesday. The combined low bids on the projects totaled $1,891,607.18.

Most of the larger projects for which bids were received are located in northern New Castle County, some of which had been held over during the period that the Highway Department was waiting for the Legislature to provide funds for construction purposes.

Three groups of dirt roads in Sussex County and one group of dirt roads in lower New Castle County were included in the list of projects as was also some surface treatment work in each of the three counties.

For the improvement of Silverside Road, from Marsh Road to the Concord Pike, Interstate Amestee Corporation of Wilmington submitted the low bid of $537,172.50. There were eight bidders on the project.

John Julian Construction Company of Elsmere was the lowest of nine bidders for improving Marsh Road from the Philadelphia Pike to the Washington Street Extension, his price being $151,844.

For the improvement of Sharp-ley Road, from the Concord Pike to Blackgates Road, T. Paul Dabson of Wilmington submitted the low bid of $226,686.48. There were 11 bids received for this project.

The creation of a detour and some drainage work at Naaman's, in order to permit more work on the bridge at that point, will cost $26,871, according to the low bid submitted by George & Lynch of Wilmington, which was the lowest of nine bids.

Newark Firm Lowest Standard Bitulithic Co., of Newark, N. J., with a price of $158,244.90, was the lowest of eight bidders for the reconstruction of a series of four roads, north of Smyrna, and located on both sides of the dual highway.

For the reconstruction and realignment of a series of four roads in Sussex County, leading from the Laurel to Millsboro highway south and east by Phillips Hill to Hickory Hill, Atkins Brothers of Millsboro submitted the low bid of $132,516.30. There were eight bidders on this project.

Melyin L. Joseph Construction Co., of Georgetown submitted the low for grading and drainage work on two groups of dirt roads in Sussex County. On one group of three roads, extending from Shaftox Corner to Dagsboro to the Laurel to Georgetown highway, their low bid was $88,961 while for paving these same roads, Delmarva Asphalt Co., of Seaford submitted the low bid of $106,151.

The Joseph concern submitted the low bid of $108,147.50 for the grading and drainage work on a series of nine roads located mostly east of Frankford and Selbyville in Sussex County. For the paving work on these roads the Montgomery Construction Co. of Laurel, Md., submitted the low bid of $102,114.

The low bids for the surface treatment work in each of the three counties were: New Castle, Cities Service Bituminous Corporation, Wilmington, $73,243.50. Kent County, Paul Scotten Construction Company, Dover, $90,525. Sussex County, Delmarva Asphalt Company, Seaford, $109,230.

Narcotics Charge Admitted by Two In Sussex Court

The minimum sentence for illegal possession of narcotics in Delaware is a $500 fine and three years in prison, Judge Isaac B. Short told two defendants who pleaded guilty in the Court of Common Pleas at Georgetown late Wednesday afternoon.

Judge Short deferred sentence until Sept. 6 after lengthy conferences with the defense attorney, Claude L. Tease, and Deputy Atty. Gen. Ralph S. Baker.

This was believed to have been the first narcotics case ever tried in the Sussex County court. The defendants, who have been in "hawking" at the Kent and Sussex Fair, were arrested by state police at Bridgeville when small quantities of marijuana were found in their Greenwood motel room.

Their attorney urged that the men be permitted to leave the state upon payment of such fine as the judge might impose.

This would be done, he said, on their promise never to return to Delaware.

Both men are in the Sussex County Correctional Institution in default of $2,500 bail each. They are Kestules Joseph Prankunas, 30, with several aliases, including Kenneth France, and Edward Lukowski, 32, also with aliases, including Edward Lucas.

Though they spend most of year traveling to various fairs and similar events, they said their home town is Worcester, Mass.

In discussing sentence, Judge Short made exhaustive inquiries of Mr. Baker as to whether there was even a suspicion that the men may have attempted to peddle the marijuana cigarettes at the fair. Mr. Baker replied in the negative.

The story unfolded by Mr. Baker was that on July 27 the accused dug up an acquaintance in a Harrington tavern with Merl Mumford and Victor Joseph, both of Millsboro.

The men asked the Millsboro youths to drive them home to the motel and then offered them a "jolt." The young men refused and reported the matter to the state police, who visited the motel, observing one of the men in the act of smoking marijuana.

A search of the premises revealed that one of the defendants had one cigarette, and the other, three. Small quantities of the drug were found in the toilet bowl, as though an attempt had been made to flush it out of sight. About another pint of it was found in a valise.

Both men entered not guilty pleas when first arraigned a week ago, but asked permission to change their pleas to guilty Wednesday.
