Special Cardiac Camping Session

The Delaware Heart Association has just completed its biggest and most successful camping program in the six years it has been conducting a special cardiac camping session for the heart victims of the state.

This year it again contracted for the Fairlee Manor Camp of the Delaware Society for Crippled Children and Adults and Richard Le Clair of that Society, was in charge of the camp program.

Because of the limited facilities of the camp site, the heart fund could only accommodate 21 heart victims. Dr. Robert L. Dewees, chairman of the Cardiac Camp

Committee of the Heart Association said, "We hope that next year the heart fund can provide sufficient space, with capable staff, to accommodate all who are limited in their activity because of a cardiac vascular involvement and are between the ages of 8 and 14. Most of these children because of some cardiac involvement, such as the murmurs that follow rheumatic heart disease, are not accepted at most regular summer camps.

This year the Kent County Committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Frank O'Neal, Harrington, arranged for three local children to be sent to this camp. Dr. Burton from Dover performed the physical examinations to aid in the selection of those children who it was felt would benefit most from the camping trip. Mrs. L. Gooden Callaway, of Harrington, was in charge of transportation to and from the camp.

The three children from Kent County who participated in the program were Charles Heritage of Camden, Florence Gillespie of Wyoming and Patricia Glandon, of Dover.

The Sussex County Camp Committee, under Mrs. Clayton Melson, sent four children to this special session, while there were fourteen at the camp from New Castle County.

Local Softballers Beat Dover

Harrington All-Stars won the benefit game Monday night as they downed the Dover "Y" League All Stars 10 to 9 in nine innings. It was a see-saw battle down to the finish. Going into the final inning the score was tied at 8-8. Harrington All Stars came through with two runs in the top of the 9th to take a 10-8 lead.

Dover pushed over a single tally in the bottom of the 9th but couldn't close the game. It was a well played game that featured several stellar fielding plays by both teams.

Perdue and Short did the mound work for the winners with the latter being the winner. Bob Courtney was the loser as he worked the last three frames for Dover. Buddy Powell started for Dover with Joe Self toiling the middle three innings.

Bingo Control Board Named By Governor

Gov. J. Caleb Boggs Tuesday announced the appointment of Delaware's new Bingo Control Commission, which will play a watchdog role in state political divisions where the game is approved by referendum.

The five appointees are former Wilmington Mayor Alexander R. Abrahams, Michael A. Poppiti of Wilmington, Edward J. Dugan of Brookland Terrace, R. Sudler Emerson of Dover, and former state American Legion commander Harry S. Zerber, of Georgetown.

The 1957 General Assembly gave final approval to a constitutional amendment authorizing bingo on the option of voters in the four political districts (the three counties and Wilmington). It must be sponsored by organizations of a religious, charitable, or service nature.

The referendum will be held during the general election in November, 1958. The Bingo Control Commission will then take over the responsibility of issuing licenses in areas where the game is approved and guarding against infiltration by professional gamblers.

The commission named by Governor Boggs is Republican by a 3-2 margin. Republican members are Mr. Abrahams, Mr. Emerson, and Mr. Zerber.

The Governor said he has tentatively set Monday afternoon, Sept. 9, in his office for the commission's initial meeting. Its first order of business will be to select a president and secretary.

Members of the commission are to serve without salary. Their appointments are not subject to Senate confirmation.

Mayor for 3 Months

Mr. Abrahams was Wilmington's Mayor from April through June of this year, stepping up from city treasurer when August A. Walz resigned to become postmaster. He was the Republican Party's unsuccessful candidate for Mayor last November.

Mr. Abrahams was a member of the General Assembly before becoming city treasurer 15 years ago. He was Wilmington's postmaster from 1928 through 1933.

Mr. Poppiti of Wilmington, one of the Democratic appointees, is one of the New Castle County Levy Court's attorneys. He is active in St. Elizabeth's Church and a leader of the Catholic Youth Organization in Delaware.

Other Members

Mr. Dugan, the other Democrat, is enrollment manager of Group Hospital Service, Inc., (Blue Cross) in Delaware.

Mr. Emerson, a Kent County businessman, is past president of the Caesar Rodney School Parent-Teacher Association, a member of the Camden-Wyoming Rotary Club and a veteran of World War II.

Mr. Zerber is an insurance man and World War II veteran who commanded the American Legion's Department of Delaware in 1955-56. He is chairman of the citizenship committee of the Delaware Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Under a bill passed by the 1957 General Assembly, the Governor has the power to name one individual from each county to the eight-member authority. No more than two of them are to be affiliated with a single political party. His announcement identified Mr. Chalker and Mr. Davis as Republicans and Mr. Melson as a Democrat.

Other members of the authority named by the law are the executive secretary of the State Board of Health (Dr. Floyd I. Hudson); the Health Board's sanitary engineer (Donald K. Harmon); the director of the Water Pollution Commission (Dr. A. Joel Kaplovsky); a representative of the University of Delaware's school of agriculture (Dr.

BENDIX EXECUTIVE TO ADDRESS GOVERNOR'S COMMITTEE FOR EMPLOYING THE HANDICAPPED

Delawareans who attend the first annual luncheon of the Governor's Committee for Employing the Physically Handicapped will hear one of the country's top executives express his views on this work, James H. Sears, chairman, declared.

Principal speaker at the Sept. 11 luncheon to be held at noon in DuPont Country Club, Wilmington, will be E. K. Foster, vice president of Bendix Aviation Corporation, Baltimore. Foster has been a booster for employing the physically handicapped ever since a President's Committee was formed, according to Sears.

The speaker has been in the aviation business for a quarter of a century and holds citations from the U. S. War Department and the Navy for contributions made during World War II. Foster was chosen "Man of the Year" by his home town, Towson, Md., in 1955.

Sears said that reservations for the luncheon are still available, but there is every indication of a record turn-out for the first affair of its kind in Delaware.

Luncheon tickets may be secured from John King, II Concord Avenue, Wilmington, at $3 each, he said. All reservations should be made by the end of this week.

In addition to Foster, other distinguished guests who will attend the affair include: Maj. - Gen. W. S. Stone, commanding officer, Atlantic Division, Military Air Transport Service; V. P. Hippolitis, Washington, D. C., representing the President's Committee; Governor J. Caleb Boggs, and Mayor Eugene Lamott, Wilmington.

The awards were prepared by Mason E. Turner, former chairman of the Governor's Committee who now also serves on the President's National Committee.

DELAWARE HOSPITAL

BED SURVEY

As a resident of the First State there is a better-than-average chance of getting into a hospital when hospitalization is needed, according to a recent survey made by the Delaware State Development Department.

While Delaware's population has grown by leaps and bounds in recent years, the state's general hospitals and institutions have tried to keep pace with consistent improvement and expansion of facilities. During the past three years, the nine general hospitals have increased the number of beds to 1,421, a net gain of 198.

There is now one hospital bed for every 190 residents of Delaware, which is considerably better than the national average of one bed for every 242 persons. In fact, Delaware ranks sixth among the states with 5.24 beds per 1,000 persons. (4.12 is the national average). 45 beds per 1,000 persons is generally assumed to be adequate to minimum needs of average community.

Over a period of three years, the greatest gain in number of beds was made by Memorial Hospital, Wilmington, with an increase from 210 to 326, reflecting for the most part, addition of a new wing. Completion of Riverside Hospital added 38 beds to the Wilmington area total. Downstate, Milford Memorial added 20 beds and Seaford's Nanticoke Memorial added 13.

New construction at Wilmington General Hospital is expected to add 100 beds. Nanticoke, at Seaford, is planning to add 28 beds in the near future and new construction is in the planning stage at Beebe Hospital, Lewes.

The bed count does not include bassinets for the care of newborn children, nor does it include the sixty beds in Eugene DuPont Convalescent Memorial Hospital and other facilities in rest homes, nursing homes, private hospitals or state institutions. The 300 beds at the Veterans Administration Hospital, Brack Ex, are also not included in the bed count.

Hospitals included in the survey are: Delaware Hospital, Wilmington, 377 beds; Delaware HHN, 377 beds; Memorial Hospital in Wilmington, 326 beds; Wilmington General, Wilmington, 187 beds; Memorial Hospital, Milford, 135 beds; St. Francis Hospital, Wilmington, 116 beds; Beebe Hospital, Lewes, 104 beds; Kent General Hospital, Dover, 93 beds; Nanticoke Memorial Hospital, Seaford, 45 beds; Riverside Hospital, Wilmington, 38 beds.

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton Agricultural Extension Service, University of Delaware

Vegetable and fruit supplies are looking better, as they are coming in from other producing areas where growing weather has been good and our local supplies are increasing since we've had rain.

Such vegetables as carrots, yellow onions, green peppers and potatoes all show a penny or so drop in price this week. Home grown tomatoes are averaging 19 cents a lb. and squash is as low as 10 cents a lb.

There's a little more good broccoli at 34 cents a bunch and more cauliflower at 35 cents a head on the vegetable counter now. This brings the first signs of autumn. Most other vegetables are about the same in price as they were last week. However, lettuce still remains relatively high for a good quality head.

Fruits are taking on the touches of autumn too. Green cooking apples are more plentiful and are priced as low as 17 cents a lb. Seedless white grapes dropped about 4 cents, they are selling around 20 cents a lb., but with careful shopping they may be found as low as 14 cents a lb. More and more home grown concord and Delaware grapes are reaching local stores, with prices that are reasonable. Bartlett pears dropped 3 cents in many stores this week and are selling as low as 16 cents a lb.

Peaches still remain the "best buy" in fruits. Don't forget to can or freeze some for this winter—now's the time to do it.

There are some newcomers to the fruit counter this week. They include damsons, nectarines, oranges (the green ones are ripe—in most cases the color hasn't been added) and casaba melons.

The meat picture is about the same as last week. There's been a few minor up and downs but in general things are high. Careful shopping during weekend sales are the best chances for stretching your dollar as far as meat is concerned. Chicken and turkey remain good buys again this week. Specials on the cornish game hens make this meat reasonable enough to try one or two for a change in pace.

Social Security Notes

Farmers who are giving up the operation of their farms and intend to apply for old-age insurance benefits should bring the necessary proofs to support their claims with them when they visit the Social Security Administration office. This advice was offered by Myron Milbouer, manager of the Wilmington social security office.

"If you have proof of age and earnings with you when you come to the office it will speed up the processing of your claim and make a return visit unnecessary," Milbouer pointed out. A farmer when he retires and applies for old-age benefits will need extra copies of his 1955 and 1956 Federal income tax returns, proof of age, his social security tax receipts for 1955 and 1956, and his social security account number card.

For a self-employed farmer, making a claim for old-age insurance benefits proof of earnings is a must. He should bring along a cancelled check, money order, stub, or some other evidence to show what his income tax returns for 1955 and 1956 were filed with the District Director of Internal Revenue.

If his wife has passed her 62nd birthday and is making a claim for old-age benefits at the same time, it is important that she too, bring along proof of age. A birth certificate of course, is the best proof of age. However, if you do not have one, and cannot obtain one within a reasonable period of time, don't put off filing your claim for that reason, Milbouer said. Usually people have other papers around the house that will serve as adequate proof of age. Such documents, in order of acceptability, are: baptismal certificate; census registration; hospital record; foreign church or government record; signed statement by attending physician or midwife; family Bible; naturalization, immigration, military, or vaccination record; insurance policies, or a marriage record. "The older the document, the better the proof," Milbouer declared.

ALFALFA SEEDINGS

RECOMMENDED

This summer's drought has emphasized that any dairyman should plan to grow alfalfa on well-drained soil, if some isn't already growing there.

The recommendation comes from George Vapaa, county agricultural agent. Even in dry areas reports of over two tons per acre already harvested and in the barn are not common, he says. This is particularly true with old stands that have developed deep root systems.

Inoculation failures are frequent with this type of seeding, Vapaa warns, so it's a good idea to seed a mixture containing alfalfa, rather than alfalfa alone.

A good mixture is Pennscoff red clover, eight pounds; Dupont alfalfa, eight pounds, and eight pounds of late (S-37) orchardgrass. Good soil mixture is important in getting this mixture off to a good start, so Vapaa advises seeding, if possible, after a good rain. Hot, dry soil at seeding time is often associated with alfalfa inoculation failures, the agent explains.

He advises seeding by the first week in September for best results. This type of seeding will fill the hole in your hay program left by the red clover seeding failures last spring.

Postcard Exhibit Shows Rehoboth In Early Days

Rehoboth in the early 1900's, as pictured on the old post cards now being featured in a special exhibit in the Zwaanendael Museum, give authenticity to the often repeated tales of "I remember when." They prove to youngsters that there was a railroad station in the center of Rehoboth Avenue; that practically all residents of the town gathered to see the train come in and that horse drawn hacks were there waiting to drive the guests to the hotels.

Scenes show crowds of bathers in their old-fashioned bathing suits, and the boardwalk when a road was between it and that first row of houses which since have been washed away or moved back. Horn's Pavilion, the spot of many memories, stands glittering on the ocean side of the boardwalk with a pier extending into the ocean; Atlantic Hotel is at the corner of First Street and Baltimore Avenue; and the Henlopen Hotel of 1907 is a five story wooden structure with wide porches across the front.

These and other scenes of Rehoboth Beach, as well as several of Cape Henlopen on exhibit, were lent by Harold V. Lang of Wilmington and Bethany Beach, and are a part of his outstanding collection of Delaware cards. They will remain on display during September and may be viewed by visitors during the regular Museum hours, Tuesdays through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Sundays and holidays from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. The museum is regularly closed Mondays, but will be open Labor Day, Mon., Sept. 2, from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m.

HASKELL URGES

CORRECTION OF TAFT-HARTLEY LAW

Congressman Harry G. Haskell, Jr. (R-Del.) said that the recent Supreme Court decision in the case of New Mexico labor Clinton E. Jencks could cause a serious break-down in the efforts of law enforcement agencies to weed out criminals and subversives and urged Congressional action be taken to correct this situation before this session of Congress adjourns.

Jencks, who had been convicted early of filing a false non-communist affidavit under the Taft-Hartley Law, was freed by the Supreme Court on an appeal based on the contention that he should be allowed to see the reports that two witnesses had filed with the F.B.I.

Commenting in his weekly statement, Congressman Haskell said, "The really dangerous effect of this ruling is simply this: Many people who are guilty of crimes may get away free, just because the F. B. I. can't risk opening its files for the criminals in this country to see. There is nothing in this country—short of defense secrets—that the Communists would like more to get hold of than the confidential files of the F.B.I."

Congressman Haskell concluded by saying, "Although this session of the 85th Congress is drawing to a close, the legislation pending before the Congress to safeguard the files of the F.B.I. should receive action before Congress does adjourn. If not, it will mean that there will be a 3 or 4 month period before we reconvene during which criminals and subversives will be able to do their dirty work and get off free. House Minority Leader Joseph Martin summed it up when he said, "this legislation is absolutely necessary if we are to prevent sabotage of our national security."

Cornerstone Laying Plans Announced By Gen. Scannell

Plans for the cornerstone laying of the new Dover National Guard Armory were announced today by Major General Joseph J. Scannell, Adjutant General of the State of Delaware. The Armory to be named the Colonel John Haslet Armory, is being constructed next to the State Highway Building and adjacent to Legislative Hall in Dover.

It is being built along the same colonial architectural design as the other state buildings in that immediate area, and according to General Scannell it will not only be an asset to the Delaware National Guard but also to the people of Dover and will be available for use by Legislative Committees holding hearings or for any other State and local functions.

The former part of the cornerstone laying will be done by a masonic team under the supervision of the most Worshipful H. Clifford Bauer, grand master of masons in Delaware. Members of the 262nd Ordinance Company will be on hand to fire a salute during the dedication ceremonies which will be followed by selections by the Delaware National Guard Band under the direction of Warrant Officer Russell Williams.

Lt. Colonel Joshua T. West, Commander of the 193rd AAA Battalion which will occupy the Armory, will be the master of ceremonies of the overall program which will end with remarks by Gov. J. Caleb Boggs.

John Haslet recruited a company of volunteers from the Dover area and served in the rank of Captain until May 25, 1775. On that date the Association of Military Officers met in Dover and elected the Honorable Caesar Rodney, esq., Colonel of the upper regiment of Kent County and John Haslet, esq., Colonel of the lower regiment. During the war period he commanded the famous Delaware Continental Regiment.

In describing the revolutionary war hero, Christopher Ward in one instance says of him, "the redoubtable Colonel Haslet was instructed to conduct this enterprise with his Delaware Regiment, which since the day they exhibited on Long Island seems to have been chosen for all feats of peculiar danger." Colonel Haslet was killed at the Battle of Trenton while carrying orders in his pocket to return to Dover, for recruiting duty. His body was returned to Dover where it remains in burial today.

Among the distinguished visitors who have been invited to attend will be Col. William A.

Caesar Rodney has been chosen by the American Association for the Advancement of Science as one of the participating high schools in the Traveling High School Science Library program during 1957-58. Less than half of the schools applying were accepted. Among the factors considered in selecting schools were whether the school had a full-time librarian; the strength of the curriculum in mathematics and sciences; enrollment in science and mathematics classes in relation to total enrollment and the percentage of the graduating class that normally enters accredited college and universities.

The first unit of 50 books will arrive at the school about Sept. 15. Each science and mathematics teacher, as well as the librarian, will receive an annotated catalog of the traveling library, along with suggestions for the use of the books.

Fish & Game Notes

Salt-Water Angling

Richard Stroud, Editor of the Sport Fishing Institute Bulletin, commented on Dr. Daiber's article on salt water angling recently released in the summer issue of the Delaware Conservationist.

Dr. Daiber reports that salt-water sport fishermen spent 341,300 days fishing between late May and early September, 1955, in the marine waters of Delaware. They include Delaware Bay, Indian River-Rehoboth Bays, and the adjoining Atlantic Ocean. The total catch amounted to 2,618,700 fish.

On the average, catch for the season worked out to about 7.67 fish per angler-day. This equivalent to 1.64 fish per hour.

Party boat fishing in the open ocean produced seabass and bluefish best. Delaware Bay produced mostly croakers and sea-trout. Flounder fishing was especially good in Indian River Bay.

Business generated by the Delaware salt-water sport fishery is substantial. It was estimated to amount to some $3 millions annually.

Sport Fishing Institute checked further into the value of commercial fishing in Delaware. According to figures reported to them total landings of commercial fish in Delaware were 310 million pounds in 1955. These had a value of $4,334,000 to the fishermen.

"However, menhaden comprised 307 million pounds of the total with a value of $4,091,000. For all other fin fish, therefore, 3 million pounds worth $243,000 made up the balance. Full business value generated at retail (restaurant) level would amount to a little over three times as much—well under $800,000 at most.

Thus the Delaware salt-water sport fishery is worth nearly four times as much to the state's economy as the salt-water commercial fishery exclusive of menhaden!

To the Sportsman Who is Looking for a Place to Hunt
Anticipation is beginning to mount in Delaware for the hunting season which opens Sept. 1 on rail birds. The most important matter to the sportsmen at this time of year is usually a good place to hunt.

Who will have the best hunting this season? The sportsmen who have had foresight enough to make friends with a number of landowners during the closed season months and secured permission to hunt over their lands will have assured themselves of fruitful hunting opportunities.

No one has a patent or monopoly on friendly relations. It doesn't cost much and the small expenditures necessary are returned many times in valued friendships—plus a chance to enjoy excellent hunting.

1957-58 Waterfowl Season Set

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service announced the waterfowl season for Delaware this week. For the third consecutive year Delaware hunters will enjoy a 70-day season which will open Nov. 1 and close Jan. 9.

Reports from the Canadian breeding grounds would indicate as large a number of ducks and geese coming down the flyways this fall as there were last year.

How Long Do Ducks Live?

Quite often we are asked how long ducks live. This is difficult to answer because of the many factors involved, and it seems likely that a reliable average age figure for any given species will remain a point for discussion for a long time to come.

However, information provided by the return of the leg bands gives us a clue as to the longevity of some of the more common species.

It was reported some time ago that the record for black ducks might go to a bird banded in Delaware. A check of the records in the Central Bird Banding Office confirms this record. Only two other black duck band recoveries approach this one in age. Here is the record:

Banded—Delaware 4/1/38; New York 9/9/32; Massachusetts 11/5/30.

Recovered—Virginia 1/21/57; New York 1/22/51; Newfoundland Fall - 1947.

Their age listed in order was: 18 yr. 9 mo. 20 days; 18 yr. 4 mo. 9 days; 17 yr.

British economists fear that India, pushing its second five-year plan in an effort to outstrip China to be the industrial giant of the Far East, is running into a big economic crisis. Prime Minister Nehru is being asked by other Commonwealth Prime Ministers, to go slow on spending.

New Swedish techniques in housebuilding, with brick and concrete, will be licensed.

They Vote Alike on Health Care

is the winner!

The three members of Delaware's Congressional delegation do not always share the same political sentiments, nor see eye to eye on legislative matters. But on the important issue of what group health insurance plan is best for employers and employees, Senator Frear, Senator Williams and Representative Haskell are in perfect agreement. All three are businessmen of sound experience. Each, in his private commercial enterprise, is an employer—and each protects the health of his employees with Blue Cross-Blue Shield.

We think this demonstrates once again that, no matter how divergent their personal aims or interests, people whose abilities have promoted them to responsible positions share a common concern for the men and women who work for them—and a common approval of Blue Cross as the most satisfactory and efficient plan for protecting the health of those employees.

This is not surprising. Blue Cross' emphasis on service, our constant striving to furnish members with the best possible hospital care at the lowest possible cost, and the sound management and administration policies of the Delaware Blue Cross Plan are factors that appeal strongly to successful employers. MY BLUE HEAVEN

When whippoorwills call and evening is nigh
My Blue Heaven had been in the files six or seven years before Gene Austin discovered it and made it famous.

The old crooner, now 57, is on his way to a tremendous comeback, what with a movie on his life, revived recordings, and TV appearances.

To those who remember the days of the coonskin coat, the Charleston, the yellow slicker, and the Stutz Bearcat, Gene's revival is as refreshing as springtime after a rain.

Austin studied dentistry and law at the University of Maryland and gave them up for singing. We have heard that once, when he drove a taxicab, patrons would hire him to drive them all night while he sang.

The current article, written by H. Allen Smith, author of Low Man on a Torem Pole, quotes Austin as saying that the song is the thing, and not the singer. This has been our theory all along.

He was the rage in the twenties and any number of his recordings are the rage today. While he was almost unheard of for 25 years, he was not down and out. He sang on the West Coast and successfully operated night clubs.

Everybody is happy now that Gene is back. Now, we'll hear some real songs and some real singing.

W'e're happy in my blue heaven.

Bulk Tank Use Still on Rise

More Delaware milk cans are on the way out of dairying due to a faster than anticipated trend toward bulk cooling and handling of milk.

And no leveling off in numbers of bulk tank installations in the state is expected soon by Delmar J. Young, extension dairyman at the University of Delaware.

Generally, large producers convert their dairy operations to the bulk tank system more readily than smaller producers, the extension dairyman pointed out.

In federal order markets, producers with bulk tanks delivered an average of 756 pounds of milk daily during last January, while the overall average was 463 pounds.

IRRIGATION VALUE ILLUSTRATED THIS SUMMER

Delaware farmers are learning a dramatic lesson this summer of the value of irrigation, points out George Vapaa, county agricultural agent.

Irrigation systems in Delaware numbered 124 at the start of this growing season, the agent says. It is reported that many additional farms were brought under irrigation as the drought developed. Delaware had only 20 irrigated farms as recently as 1953.

Irrigation is especially valuable where intensive cropping is the rule as in the eastern half of the United States, Vapaa adds. In 28 states studied by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the bulk of irrigation is confined to small acreages.

Sprinklers are the most popular methods of irrigation in the east, the agricultural agents says. About four-fifths of all farmers use them to water more than two-thirds of the irrigated acreage.

Average investment in these installations is $5,500 a farm. By states, though, the average investment ranges from $2,800 to $10,000 a farm. Average cost per acre in the region is $150, with a range of $65 to $500 an acre.

Grub-Proofing Lawns Recommended

The abundance this summer of both Japanese beetles and Asiatic garden beetles points up the need for grub-proofing lawns in many areas of the state, particularly in new housing developments.

A University of Delaware entomologist, Donald MacCreary, said the operation can be accomplished by the home owner with no particular trouble, killing the grubs that produce the beetles.

He recommends using five per cent chlordane dust at the rate of five pounds per 1000 square feet of lawn. Water the lawn thoroughly after treatment to hasten penetration of the grub-killer into the soil.

If a spray is desired, the entomologist said, use either one-half pint of 45 per cent chlordane emulsion concentrate or 10 ounces of 40 per cent wettable powder in five or six gallons of water.

Shave Sweater to Remove Pilling

Shaving may be the solution for improving the appearance of a pilled sweater, says Miss Lois N. Korslund, extension clothing specialist at the University of Delaware.

Pilling refers to the tendency of the nap to roll into little pill-like balls. To safely remove this pilling, tightly pin the sweater, after washing and drying, to a hard cushion or carpet. If the sweater isn't securely attached to something, there is danger of cutting the fibers, when shaving, warns Miss Korslund.

Man-made fibers, such as nylon, orlon, and acrilan, are particularly likely to pill. Woolen yarns, which are tightly twisted and of high quality, have the least tendency to pill. But wool is harder to care for from the standpoint of washability and moth resistance than man-made fibers.

When buying sweaters, take special note of the labels, urges Miss Korslund. Look for the labeling of fiber content, shrink resistant finishes, and moth proofing. It is difficult to tell the actual quality of yarns used in a sweater, but generally tightly twisted yarns of wool, cotton or synthetic fibers will wear better and pill less than loosely twisted yarns, she concludes.

U. of D. Substation Schedules Open House

An open house for all Delaware poultrymen has been scheduled Thurs., Sept. 5, at the University of Delaware Substation near Georgetown.

In an announcement, J. Frank Gordy, substation director, said the 3 to 8 p.m. program includes demonstrations, exhibits, speakers, a movie and a chicken barbecue.

Richard C. Larken, of the Agricultural Marketing Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, will speak on the subject "What Will Broiler Prices Be This Fall and Winter?"

Dr. Morris S. Cover, university poultry pathologist, will discuss his latest findings on control of infectious synovitis. He will display birds that were injected with the disease and treated with different chemicals.

Ernest N. Scarborough, university agricultural engineer, will report on his research work at the substation.

Staff members will be on hand to answer questions on disease and nutrition studies now in progress and recently completed. From 6 to 7:30 that evening, a chicken barbecue will be held in the grove at the substation.

Harold Sharpe, A. W. Perdue and Sons Cdmui,iii,iii.TAOWTA and Sons Company, Salisbury, Md., will explain company experiments with fans, foggers and other methods of keeping chickens cool in summer.

Willard T. McAllister, extension marketing specialist at the university, will give observations on which areas will be producing broilers in 1960. McAllister recently completed a tour of other commercial broiler areas.

To start the program, visitors will tour the poultry plant at the substation. Experimental birds, demonstrations and exhibits will be seen. Staff members will be on hand to answer questions on disease and nutrition studies now in progress and recently completed.

From 6 to 7:30 that evening, a chicken barbecue will be held in the grove at the substation. In case of rain, it will be held indoors in the horticulture building.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS Q-Before going into military service during the Korean conflict, I was a qualified plumber. Now that I have been discharged, I would like to take a refresher course in plumbing at a trade school. Could I do so under the Korean GI Bill?

A-No. Under the law, veterans are not permitted to take courses in subjects for which they already are qualified by reason of prior experience or training.

Q-I have just applied for a VA pension for a total and permanent nonservice-connected disability. If I qualify, will I receive a higher rate because I am married and have a family?

A-No. Pension rates are not based on your dependency status. The rates are the same for veterans with dependents and for veterans without dependents.

Q-When I bought a house, I used my complete $7,500 GI loan guarantee. Now, I have an opportunity to go into business. Could I get a GI business loan to help me get started.

A-No. You used your full entitlement for your GI home loan. There is no entitlement remaining for GI business loan purposes. If you hadn't used the maximum home loan guaranty, it may have been possible for you to qualify for a GI business loan.

Q-I want to pay my GI insurance premiums once a year instead of once a month. Where can I find out how much the yearly premiums will be?

A-Write to the VA District Office where you pay your premiums, or contact your nearest VA office. Be sure to include your policy number when writing.

Tuesday we celebrate the feast of St. Pius X. On June 2, 1835, Giuseppe Melchiorre Sarto saw the light of earth at Riese, Province of Treviso, in Venice; Aug. 20, 1914, he saw the light of heaven; and May 29, 1954, he who had become the 259th Pope, was canonized St. Pius X. From St. Pius X we learn again that "the folly of the Cross," simplicity of life, and humility of heart, are still the indispensable conditions of a perfect Christian life.

48 Blue Hen Gridders Invited For Pre-Season Workouts

Two "firsts" highlight the tenth annual program. The series will open Nov. 8 with the first campus appearance of a full symphony orchestra, the 85-piece Baltimore Symphony orchestra under the baton of Massimo Freccia. Now in its 43rd season, this orchestra has gained wide re-known among the civic orchestral groups and promises to be a significant addition to the series.

A special program, optional for the purchasers of season tickets, is the first non-musical offering in the history of the series. The Canadian Players, the Stratford, Ontario, Chakespearean Festival Company under the direction of Douglas Campbell, will present Shakespeare's "Othello." Noted for its stimulating "bare bones method" of play acting, this company is considered by many authorities to be the foremost repository theatre in our hemisphere. In addition to its many legitimate stage appearances, the Players have a successful motion picture to their credit. This program will be presented Nov. 21.

Other musical performances will include the Randolph Singers, madrigal and folk song specialists, Dec. 2; Phillipe Entremont, pianist, Jan. 6; the Festival quartet consisting of Victor Babin, pianist, Szymon Goldberg, and William Primrose, violinists, and Nicolai Graudan, cellist, Feb. 18; and Beverly Bower, soprano.

Season tickets for either five or six performances may be obtained by writing to Artists Series, Box H, University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware. During the week of Sept. 23-27, tickets may be purchased at the Mitchell Hall box office between the hours of 3 and 5 p.m. After Oct. 1, tickets may be purchased at the University Book Store in the Memorial Library or at the box office prior to each performance. Interested persons are invited to write or call Dr. Edward H. Rosenberry, chairman of the Artists Series program, for further information.

U. of D. to Hear Symphony Group

An attractive opportunity for devotees of the fine arts will be provided during the 1957-58 artists series announced by Dr. Edward Rosenberry, chairman of the University of Delaware's Artists Series committee.

Two "firsts" highlight the tenth annual program. The series will open Nov. 8 with the first campus appearance of a full symphony orchestra, the 85-piece Baltimore Symphony orchestra under the baton of Massimo Freccia. Now in its 43rd season, this orchestra has gained wide re-known among the civic orchestral groups and promises to be a significant addition to the series.

A special program, optional for the purchasers of season tickets, is the first non-musical offering in the history of the series. The Canadian Players, the Stratford, Ontario, Chakespearean Festival Company under the direction of Douglas Campbell, will present Shakespeare's "Othello." Noted for its stimulating "bare bones method" of play acting, this company is considered by many authorities to be the foremost repository theatre in our hemisphere. In addition to its many legitimate stage appearances, the Players have a successful motion picture to their credit. This program will be presented Nov. 21.

Other musical performances will include the Randolph Singers, madrigal and folk song specialists, Dec. 2; Phillipe Entremont, pianist, Jan. 6; the Festival quartet consisting of Victor Babin, pianist, Szymon Goldberg, and William Primrose, violinists, and Nicolai Graudan, cellist, Feb. 18; and Beverly Bower, soprano.

Season tickets for either five or six performances may be obtained by writing to Artists Series, Box H, University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware.
