

LITTLE RISK OF INJURY IF RULES ARE OBEYED, SAYS FOOTBALL COACH

William A. Smith, defensive football coach of Harrington High School's team, and teacher in the Sixth Grade, told citizens at a kickoff meeting Thursday night, Aug. 22, that players would have little risk of injury if cardinal rules were followed.

The meeting, held in the cafeteria of the school and attended by more than 100 persons, was featured by the showing of a movie of the highlights of the 1956 games of the Cleveland Browns.

Harold McDonald, offensive coach, speaking on insurance plans, said it would cost each player $1.50 per year for $3000 coverage for the total sports program.

Coach Richard Jeffers said the facilities for high-school football here were the equal of any in the state. He added that an attempt would be made to hold the football games Saturday afternoons to give more persons the opportunity to attend. He concluded by saying that practice sessions would be held every afternoon and that the public was invited.

The cardinal rules cited by Coach Smith were as follows: 1. To have adequate equipment. It costs $90 to equip one player. 2. Adequate coaching. 3. Players should do what the coaches tell them.

It was brought out at the meeting that Dr. Hewitt Smith examined every candidate, without charge, Friday morning. No player will be allowed to practice unless he has passed a physical examination.

17 Courses Offered In Economics And B. A.

Increased emphasis will be given to courses in economics and business administration in the University of Delaware extension program this fall. Extension Director Gordon C. Godby announced this week that 17 courses will be offered in these fields at extension centers in Wilmington, Newark and Dover.

In addition to formal courses, work in research, special problems and theses will be conducted. Additional sections of the more popular courses will be provided as needed. The program is under the direction of Dr. Charles N. Lanier, chairman of the department of economics and business administration at the university.

According to Godbey, the expanded program is being provided in response to mounting enrollments. Such classes permit attendance on evenings and Saturdays by students who work during the week.

Accounting courses have attracted the largest number of students in the past, with introductory economics and business law classes being the second most popular choices. Godbey explained that the number of businesses and industries in Delaware, the greater number of records which must be maintained for both companies and government, and encouragement by top officials for employees to continue their training and education is causing a surge in enrollments.

One of the most popular courses offered in this field is business law. Designed with an eye taught by Wilmington attorney Morton Evans. Other popular and practical courses include business finance, auditing, industrial relations, marketing, economic analysis and policy, and money, credit and banking.

Graduate students working toward master's degrees represent a large percentage of the evening school enrollment. For many of these students who are married and hold full time jobs, the evening extension program represents their only opportunity for further education.

Registrations for extension students will be held in Wilmington at the Wilmington High School, September 17, 5-9 p. m.; Dover High School, September 18, 6:30 p. m.; and in Newark at the Carpenter Field House, September 21, 9:00 a. m.—1:00 p. m.

2 Dirt Roads To Be Blacktopped From Houston

The State Highway Department will receive bids on four construction projects Wednesday, Sept. 18.

The projects provide for improvement of Route 14 from Indian River Inlet to south of Bethany Beach, paving of the driveways and parking area at the new state police headquarters building north of Dover, and improvement of two series of dirt roads in Kent County.

The Indian River Inlet-Bethany Beach project encompasses reconstruction and relocation of the highway through Bethany Beach, where it will become a dual or divided highway.

This project also provides for the use of plant sand asphalt as a base course for the new highway. It is the first time this material has been used by the department for this purpose.

In addition the project provides for grading for an additional lane, west of the present highway, from Indian River Inlet to just north of Bethany Beach for use later in placing an additional traffic lane here to form a dual or divided highway.

The project at the state police building calls for construction of driveways in and around the structure as well as surfacing the area to be used for parking purposes.

The two dirt road projects in Kent County require improvement of an existing road leading from Houston southwest to Route 13, another is the existing road leading from Williamsville to Staytonville, and the third is an existing road leading from Route 14 to the eastern edge of Houston.

The other dirt road project provides improvement of a series of 13 existing roads, of which most are short, located east and west of Route 113 south of Frederica.

All these roads intersect existing highways leading from Route 113 and extend over an area from McCauley's Pond on the west to a point near the Delaware Bay on the east.

As has been the practice with the Highway Department in dirt road improvements, each project will be divided into two contracts. One contract provides for grading, reshaping and installing drainage along the roads; the other contract provides a bituminous surface, 20 feet wide.

As Legates made the turn, the left rear of the trailer struck the left front of Miss Mosley's car and pushed it back into that of Tucker.

U. of D. Student To Study in Germany

Miss Maya Zistl, a junior business administration student at the University of Delaware and resident of Newark, has been awarded a scholarship by the Federation of German-American Clubs for one year's study at the University of Munich, Germany.

Miss Zistl, who will study economics and government at the German university, will sail from New York for Bremerhaven on September 10 on the M. S. Berlin. The Delaware student, whose minor field of study at the University of Delaware is music, hopes to take lessons in piano and organ and also to sing in a choir in addition to her university studies while in Germany. At the end of her year abroad, Miss Zistl plans to return to Delaware to complete work on her undergraduate degree.

A graduate of Newark High School, where she was a member of the National Honor Society, Miss Zistl entered the university in 1955. Her extra-curricular activities on the campus include the University Concert Choir, Junior Counselors, Computers Club and the Student Survey Group.

Miss Zistl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Zistl of Newark, both of whom are natives of Germany and now American citizens. Miss Zistl hopes to visit relatives in Germany during her stay there.

It was bought by Mrs. Joseph Pearce, of Milford, at an auction at Argo's Corner, between Milford and Rehoboth, and was given to Mrs. John Parks, formerly of Harrington and now of Durham, N. C. Frederica Miss Jolted In 3-Way Crash

A State Welfare Department worker was shaken up in a three-vehicle accident at Routes 13 and 16 at Greenwood Tuesday.

Miss Barbara L. Mosley, 25, of near Frederica, an employe of the Welfare Department, was taken to the office of a physician but found uninjured.

Damage to the Welfare Department car she was driving and the automobile of Brooks Tucker, 56, a Greenwood policeman, was about $400.

State police at Bridgeville said a tractor-trailer operated by Wilson Legates, 33, of Farmington, was going south on Route 13 and made a left turn into Route 16.

Cars Stopped for Sign

Miss Mosley, headed west on 16, was stopped at the stop sign. Tucker, also headed west, had stopped his car behind hers.

As Legates made the turn, the left rear of the trailer struck the left front of Miss Mosley's car and pushed it back into that of Tucker.

Arrested by troopers for making an improper turn, Legates was fined $10 and costs by Magistrate William P. Short of Bridgeville.

Workman Nabbed On Charge of Counterfeiting

State Police in Albany, N. Y., identified one of three men arrested Sunday while driving along the Thruway near Saugerties, N. Y., with $9,000 in counterfeit $20 bills in the vehicle, as James T. Workman, 43, formerly of Harrington and Wilmington and owner of six harness horses.

The state troopers, who at first gave Workman's address as "Kent County, Delaware," said Monday night that his present home address is the 800 block Adams Street.

A check with neighbors in that area Monday night, however, failed to turn up anyone who knew a man of that name.

Meanwhile Harrington sources said that the only James T. Workman in that area was a trainer of harness-racing horses who had lived in a trailer at the Harrington Fair Ground. They said that the Workman couple left for Canada, where the man was to drive the standard breeds at the Blue Bonnet and Riche-lieu Park tracks, both near Montreal.

Lt. Carl Wichman, of the Thruway detail of New York State Police, identified the two men arrested with Workman as Michael Galardo, 29, and Anthony Ferrara, 24, both of Montreal.

A number of counterfeit $20 bills have turned up in the Albany area in the last two weeks. A week ago, eight-year-old Susan Gardner found four packages containing $8,000 worth of bogus $20 bills behind her home in suburban Newtonville.

The trio was arrested on the Thruway near Saugerties. Troopers said a merchant in the town of Bethlehem, near Albany, had tipped them on the license number of the car.

Wichman said the men had admitted trying to pass the bills. Two guns were found in the car—a loaded revolver and a blank pistol, Wichman said.

The men were arraigned before Peace Justice Harold J. White in Bethlehem on a charge of illegal possession of firearms. They were held for grand jury action. Not admitted to bail, pending a report on fingerprint checks, they were taken to Albany County Jail.

Weichman said any charge of possessing counterfeit money would be prepared by the Secret Service and the U. S. attorney, since that is a federal offense.

H.S.A. To Hold Luncheon Monday

Kay Bowdle Weds T. Leonard Outten

Miss Alice Kathryn Bowdle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bowdle, of Burrowsville, was married Sat., Aug. 24, to T. Leonard Outten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tighman Outten of Andrewville.

The wedding took place in the parsonage of Goldsboro Methodist Church, with the Rev. Omro Todd performing the ceremony. Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. George Langford, of Farmington. The Outtens then spent several days in Ocean City.

The bridegroom is in the Navy. Mrs. Outten, a graduate of Harrington High School, is employed in the office of Magistrate L. Gooden Callaway.

City Manager William F. Smith was relieved of his duties, at a special meeting of the City Council Tuesday evening. The Council appointed a committee to secure a replacement and, later in the evening, Norris Adams, a former city manager, was appointed, effective as of yesterday.

The appointment will be effective until the organization meeting of the Council in January, when all city employees are required to file annual applications for positions.

Adams had served as city manager a few months previous to the appointment of Smith in February, 1956, and had served the city in other capacities. He was appointed by a committee of Councilman Charles Jerred, chairman, and Charles Peck Sr.

A statement from Mayor Hewitt S. Smith, on the release of the city manager, read as follows: "At the meeting Tuesday evening the City Council unanimously voted to relieve the City Manager of his duties and to declare the office vacant as of Sept. 3. It was felt by the Council that such action was in the best interests of all the taxpayers."

After the case was discussed in executive session, City Manager Smith, who had achieved an excellent record as a tax collector, was notified of his dismissal. When he asked for a reason, he was told it was an accumulation of reasons, none of which had to do with his personal life.

The reasons were not defined. Smith will draw his vacation pay.

Can't Afford Not To Seed Cover Crops

Delaware farmers can't afford not to seed cover crops after harvest this fall, says George Vapaa, County agricultural agent.

Especially after a drought season like this summer's, the need for cover crops is emphasized. Cover crops prevent soil loss by wind and water—and cover crops save water. A green crop growing on a field over winter will go a long way in saving fertile top soil from being blown or washed away. And cover crops tend to hold water so it soaks into soil. When the cover crop is turned under it decays into humus that acts like a sponge to hold water.

Cover crops also keep soil in good condition by supplying organic matter that keeps soil granular and easy to work, the agent says. In addition, cover crops fertilize the soil. A legume cover crop allowed to reach a height of eight to ten inches in spring before plowing under will add about 80 pounds of nitrogen per acre. This will mean a fertilizer saving of about $12 an acre, two to three times the usual cost of cover crop seed.

Cover crops save left-over fertilizer that would on bare ground be washed away in drainage water after a rain. A cover crop will use this left-over fertilizer and make the fertilizer available for the next spring planting.

Anything that will grow and make a green cover on the soil over winter is a good cover crop. Crimson clover is good and should be seeded at 20 to 25 pounds per acre. When used with ryegrass the rate per acre should be 12 to 15 pounds of crimson clover and 10 to 15 pounds of ryegrass. Used alone, ryegrass should be seeded at 15 to 20 pounds per acre. Vetch is a good legume cover crop and is usually seeded in combination with rye. The rate per acre is about 15 pounds of vetch and five pecks of rye.

Wheat, barley and winter oats are good cover crops and are often used when the farmer has his own seed, Vapaa says. Seeding should be one and one-half to two times that generally used for grain seedings. One advantage of grains as cover crops is that they may also be used for late fall and early spring pasture.

The agent recommends seeding cover crops right after truck and canning crops have been harvested. One of the most popular seeding devices today is the tractor mounted rotary seeder.

KENT COUNTY HEART COUNCIL HOLDS MEETING

The Kent County Heart Council of the Delaware Heart Association held a meeting at the Caesar Rodney School in Wyoming, Aug. 29, to hear reports of the summer activity from the committee chairman.

In addition to the officers and members of the local group, Dr. Ottaker J. Pollak and Maurice W. Carrow, members of the board of directors of the state group representing Kent County, were also present.

The Exhibit Committee, which had as co-chairman, Mrs. Ralph Webster, and Mrs. James Winters, reported that the exhibit at the Kent-Sussex Fair had been very successful. Over 2,500 pieces of literature were distributed at the exhibit, and over 100 other special requests for literature had been mailed; arrangements were made for the presentation of films and talks at three civic club meetings in the county.

The Camp Committee, which was headed by Mrs. Frank O'Neal of Harrington, reported that three children from Kent County were sent to Fairlee Manor, Maryland, as guests of the Kent County Council for a two week cardiac camp session. Here they were able to enjoy all the thrills of a summer encampment, while being closely supervised to see that they did not become fatigued.

Plans for the coming heart fund campaign next February were discussed. The fund raising conference of the Middle Atlantic Region of Heart Associations was mentioned. This conference will be at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington, D. C. Oct. 17 and 18.

It is hoped that community chairmen from Kent Council will be able to attend this discussion session with leaders from other organizations in neighboring states to preview the 1958 Heart Fund materials and compare techniques for arousing community support.

Three educational films, which have recently been made available for public education were then previewed by the group. The first, recommended for parent groups, "A Place for Healing" is the story of the hospitalization, diagnosis, and surgical correction of a little boy, born with a malformed heart. The film is a black and white, sound story and is available for loan, with or without a sepaquer, on two weeks notice to the Kent county Council. The other two were colored and sound explanations of the two diseases covered in their names, "Strokes" and "High Blood Pressure." These five minute explanations, diagrammatically explain what happens in the body to cause these maladies.

Anyone desiring to borrow these films for group meetings is asked to contact Mr. Russell Whitby, Camden, who will see that the films are delivered free to the requesting party.

Last year, heart and blood vessel diseases caused 53.9% of all deaths in the United States—twice as many as the next five leading causes. Anyone desiring to join the Kent County Council,

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—I am a Korean veteran eligible for GI training. I recently returned to active duty, and as a result will be unable to start training when my starting deadline arrives. Could the deadline be postponed in my case?

A—No. Under the law, veterans must begin Korea GI training before their deadline, which is three years from date of discharge. There are no exceptions.

Q—How do I go about changing the beneficiaries on my GI insurance policy?

A—Get a "Change of Beneficiary" form at any VA office. Fill it out, sign it, and send it to the VA District Office where you pay your premiums. Or you may simply write the District Office a letter, listing your beneficiaries. In writing, be sure to give your full name, address and insurance number.

Q—I understand that a disabled Korea veteran continues to receive subsistence payments for two months after he has been declared rehabilitated. What if he stops training before he is completely rehabilitated? Will he also get subsistence payments for two months afterwards?

A—No. The extra subsistence payments are made only after rehabilitation has been completed. They will not be made if a veteran stops training before hand.

Q—I am planning to start school this fall under the Korean GI Bill. How can I find out whether the course I want to take is GI-approved?

A—Your VA Regional Office maintains a list of GI-approved courses. This information is not available at VA headquarters in Washington, D. C.

MONEY BACK GUARANTEE

"Families have a way of growing... and BLUE CROSS-BLUE SHIELD protection grew right along with ours"

This grateful acknowledgment comes from Mr. and Mrs. John F. Lynch of 525 Pine Street, Seaford, shown above with their seven children: John, 16; Quita, 15; Julia Anne, 13; Cornelia, 11; Roberta, 8; Joseph, 6; and Bernadette, 13 months. Mr. Lynch, an employee of the DuPont Seaford Nylon Plant, has had his present Blue Cross-Blue Shield membership since 1941. The day he enrolled in the Blue Cross group plan was a lucky day in his life. Mrs. Lynch sums it up this way:

"I don't know what we would have done without Blue Cross-Blue Shield. We really needed it badly in 1953 when Johnny was twelve years old. He was in a bicycle accident while delivering newspapers and had to have a leg amputated. He spent eight weeks in the hospital. Blue Cross and Blue Shield was a wonderful help that time. Besides that, two of the children had tonsillitomy. And in the births of six of our children, Blue Cross-Blue Shield maternity benefits were a big help."

In the Lynch household, as in many another throughout Delaware, Blue Cross-Blue Shield has been used considerably and intelligently to ease the financial burden of necessary hospitalization. And not only has it contributed to the families' sense of security, considerate employers, too, are grateful for the relief Blue Cross-Blue Shield has afforded to workers and their dependents. Richard A. Hrabe, DuPont Seaford Nylon Plant manager, says:

"We at the DuPont Seaford Nylon Plant are very appreciative of the help that Blue Cross-Blue Shield has been to the family of Mr. Lynch. We are happy to make the contribution of Blue Cross-Blue Shield to our employees' peace of mind and health protection."

The benefits of the Delaware Blue Cross-Blue Shield Plan to both employee and employer are being demonstrated every day. Write or phone for information on how the Plan can help you.

SCHOOL TIME IS ALERT TIME

It's back to school time, and that means it's time for every driver to be extra alert where children are on the streets, Mrs. William N. Cann, the Delaware Safety Council's vice president for home safety, declared yesterday.

"Drivers need to be cautious all the time, but extra caution is needed now wherever children gather, on their way to and from school, and out playing after school," she said.

Mrs. Cann said that with schools reopening, the Delaware Safety Council is emphasizing child safety in its educational program this month. Posters, bumper stickers and signs reminding readers: "School's open—drive carefully" are being distributed by the Council and the Delaware Motor Club, AAA.

While cautioning drivers to watch out for children, Mrs. Cann also urged parents to teach their children safe habits and safe attitudes. It is particularly important to set a good example for children in teaching them safe traffic practices, she said, adding that what the parent does may be more impressive to the child than what the parent says. Children driving with their parents are influenced by the attitudes and behavior of the driver, she said.

She suggested that, for the safety of the children, parents should teach them to obey all traffic safety rules. This means waiting for the "go" signal at traffic control lights, looking both ways before crossing the street, and also watching for turning vehicles before crossing.

Mrs. Cann also urged parents to point out to children the danger of running out into the street from between parked cars, or from any place where they cannot readily be seen.

"If both drivers and children use just a little extra caution many needless accidents could be prevented and many injuries and deaths could be avoided," she said.

Delaware Food Market Report

With September here it signifies to all of us that summer is beginning to end. Of course that means the over-abundance for many fresh fruits and vegetables will gradually taper off.

If you are planning to can or freeze, now is the time to really get busy before it's too late. Tomatoes are the number one vegetable to consider right now. The quality is much better than it has been and prices are as low as they are expected to go. The same is true of sweet corn. Plentiful supplies are daily pouring into local markets at prices about 1/3 to 1/4 of the price at other times of the year. A lot of this corn is extra good due to the new scientific methods used in growing as well as the handling of the corn.

More and more apples are coming to market, prices are low too. Have you tried freezing applesauce? It's a delightful surprise and everyone will enjoy this different way of serving an old time favorite.

Wholesale prices on onions are at a very low level, this holds true for the large sweet flavored type from the western states.

Potatoes are about in the same class. Quality of the eastern grown potatoes is one of the best in years. Have you ever tried baked potatoes with a sour cream and chive dressing—my, but it's good.

Don't forget, September is "Eat a Good Breakfast" month, so start each day off with a good meal whether its standard or not. Children are back at school and truly need a good breakfast to see them through the morning. Ice cream on hot cereal is certainly not standard but its fun and mighty good to eat. With all the peaches we have now, why not have a big bowl full for breakfast with a couple of slices of toast. That's a good beginning for the first meal of the day. A hole-in-one is a little different way of serving eggs and toast. To make a hole-in-one, make a hole in the center of a slice of bread. Put the bread in a frying pan with butter. Crack and egg in the hole, and fry on both sides.

There are a million ideas on how to make breakfast more inviting, so try a few on your family.

Italy's $98,000,000 1956 car output was over 3,000,000 units for the first time, at 315,793.

7 Teachers Join Felton Faculty

Seven new teachers joined the faculty of Felton School when it reopened Wednesday. Five teachers are replacements and two fill new positions made necessary by increased enrollment.

Staff members reported Tuesday for work sessions and a general faculty meeting. The Welcome Committee of the faculty served a luncheon. Pupils will attend school from 8:30 to 12:30 Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, and the new cafeteria will not be in operation until Monday. The new dismissal time, beginning Monday will be 3:15 p. m.

Miss Mary Clark of Harrington replaced Mrs. Bernice Parker as a first grade teacher. Miss Clark has had extensive teaching experience, her most recent position being at the John M. Clayton School. Mrs. Dolores Swain, also of Harrington, received her training at the University of Delaware and previously taught at Frederica. She replaces Mrs. Bess Dill, who has retired as teacher of a second grade section.

Mrs. Doris Greenly Stevenson also trained at the University of Delaware and succeeded Miss Patricia Marvel as teacher of another second grade section. Miss Marvel is completing work for her degree this year.

Mrs. Annie Ruth Spencer of Dover succeeded Robert Erne as teacher of junior high-school English. Erne has been transferred to teach an additional section of the sixth grade. Mrs. Spencer is a graduate of the University of Maryland and formerly taught in Washington and at Dover high-school. Miss Marian P. Scott replaced Miss Mary Pizzadilli as high-school English instructor. She holds a master's degree from Rutgers University and has had considerable teaching experience, her last position being at Newark Valley Regional High School in New Jersey. Miss Pizzadilli was recently married and will teach near her home in Easton. Mrs. Bertha Parsons of Laurel will teach girl's physical education and coach girl's sports. She holds a B. S. degree in physical education from West Chester State Teachers College. Theodore Hughes, a graduate of the University of Delaware replaced Robert Callahan as instructor of high-school sciences. He has just completed a tour of duty with the U. S. Navy. Both Hughes and Mrs. Stevenson are graduates of Felton High School. Callahan will teach in Sarasota, Fla. this year.

Mrs. Helen Blades has been appointed cafeteria manager under the provisions of a bill enacted by the current session of the Legislature. Mrs. Elsie Garey and Mrs. Grace Stanton have been added to the cafeteria staff. Mrs. Nettie Green, who has worked in the cafeteria for many years, retired last March.

To care for expanded plant facilities an additional custodian has been employed. He is Claude Morris of Felton. The school staff now numbers thirty-eight persons. Work on the seven new classrooms and the enlarged cafeteria is almost completed. Repairs and alterations to the school office are well under way and should be completed within a few weeks. Progress on the expanded gymnasium - auditorium has been accelerated during recent weeks and it is hoped that this area will be ready for use by the end of October.

People who can easily pay any price say:

"Pay more... what for?
 Ford's the buy!"

Why? Because this 1957 Ford gives you the advanced features, the solid ride, the effortless handling that you once expected to find only in expensive cars. And when it comes to looks, where can you find fresher styling than in the sculptured-in-steel lines of this new Ford?

Ford's superiority is evident in many places. In the vital rear axle, the pinion gear that turns the rear wheels is straddle-mounted... supported between two anti-friction bearings instead of being "overhung" from a single bearing. This makes operation quieter, smoother and longer-lasting. It's a feature that Ford shares with only one other car maker in the world—Rolls Royce.

Or consider Ford's famous V-8 engine. No other manufacturer in the industry today electronically balances every V-8 engine, while operating under its own power, the way that Ford does. This means you get a smoother-running engine—the finest V-8 in Ford's 25 years of V-8 leadership.

These are only a few of the important hidden values that are yours in Ford. But they indicate why so many people who can pay almost any price for a car—people who have driven expensive cars for years—are buying Ford today. Action Test this great performing car at your Ford Dealer's just once and you, too, will ask, "Pay more... what for?"

YOU CAN SPEND HUNDREDS MORE... BUT YOU CAN'T BUY BETTER THAN THE NEW KIND OF FORD

Social Security Notes

Over nine million persons are now getting old-age and survivors insurance benefits each month, according to Myron Milbouer, manager of the Wilmington Social Security office. However, thousands of men, 65 years of age and over, and women, 62 years or over, continue to work and do not want to retire or hesitate to do so. Many reduce their earnings by doing part-time or seasonal work.

The social security law recognized this, Milbouer says, and provides that men between 65 and 72, who do not earn more than $1200 within a calendar year, may receive their social security benefits for all 12 months of the year.

It's vitally important for all workers who plan to retire and for those who are now getting monthly benefits and intend to do part-time work, to fully understand the "retirement test." First, the term "earnings" must be understood and should be distinguished from wages paid. Earnings are the value of the services being rendered—for which wages are due later. Earnings include cash (gross wages before deductions) and wages paid in a form other than cash, such as meals, living quarters, etc. Bonuses, commissions, fees, vacation and holiday pay are included as earnings. Earnings from work not covered by social security are also included.

Investment income, such as dividends from stocks, interest payments of any kind, annuities, pensions, rentals from real estate are not counted as part of the annual earnings.

A worker who applies for benefits during the year in which he becomes 65 (62 for a woman) must count the earnings from the beginning of the year even though he is not 65 (62 for a woman) until months later.

A worker who becomes 72 during the year must count earnings until the end of the year. Even though benefits are paid for the month the worker becomes 72 and thereafter, the earnings after he reaches age 72 can affect entitlement for the months in the year before he reaches age 72.

A beneficiary who earns $1200 or less for the year is entitled to benefits checks for all months.

A beneficiary who earns over $2000 and works all 12 months—having earned over $80 in all months—loses all monthly benefits during the year.

A booklet which gives a full explanation of the "retirement test" is available at the social security district office. Call, write, or phone and ask for a copy of "How Earnings Affect Social Security Benefit Payments."

BETTER LIGHTING FOR BETTER STUDIES

Fatigue after a short period of study, eyestrain, and headaches may be caused by poor lighting, says Miss Patricia A. Middleton, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware.

Set up a place for your children to study with a good light, so they will not strain their young eyes, the specialist advises. Choose a table lamp that is about 21 inches tall, as a tall lamp spreads the light over a wide area. The minimum diameter of the shade bottom should be 16 inches, and the lower edge of the shade should be 15 inches from the desk or table top. The diameter of the diffusing bowl should be eight to nine inches.

Use a 60-100-150-watt three-way bulb or a 150-watt frosted bulb. Put the center of the lamp base 15 inches to the left of the center of the work area and 12 inches in from the front edge of the desk. For left-handed persons, place the lamp to the right of the work area.

A pair of wall lamps can also provide excellent light for your child's study center, reminds Miss Middleton. The centers of these lamps should be 30 inches apart and 17 inches from the front edge of the desk. The shade should be seven inches high with a top diameter of six inches and a bottom diameter of 10 inches. The bottom of the shade should be 15 inches above the desk top. A six-inch diffusing bowl for each lamp will reduce the glare. Use a 100-watt bulb in each lamp, the specialist recommends.

Lamp shades should have sloping sides, be white or almost white inside, and be light in color, but not too transparent to light.

Use a large pastel colored blotter to cover the desk top to prevent reflections and avoid contrasts with light colored pages, advises Miss Middleton. Place the desk against a light colored wall for better diffusion of light and to reduce contrasts.

Farm and Home Notes

In 1956 there were 143,485 forest fires reported on private, state, and federal lands in the United States, a decrease of 1,695 from 1955. However, on the average there was still a forest fire every three and one-half minutes last year, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

For best results when using a buttonholer, be sure that the sewing machine is clean and oiled. Use the right size thread and needle, and adjust the pressure and tension of the machine.

By 1957 it is estimated that 10 to 12 million tons of fertilizer will be used as plant nutrients. That would be an increase of 75 to 100 per cent over the amount used in the country today, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Keep a pair of sharp scissors just for sewing. Cutting such things as paper and hair dulls the cutting edge.

Improving management practices can net the average poultry flock owner about fifty cents more per layer annually.

ALLOWANCES FOR HIGH SCHOOL BOYS AND GIRLS

High school age boys and girls have a strong urge to be independent, but find they must depend on parents for at least part of the money needed for school and social life, says Miss Patricia A. Middleton, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware.

Trying to manage without an allowance may lead to bad habits—borrowing from friends, charging to parents' accounts, and even gambling, the specialist warns.

Teenagers need the experience of managing their own money. Parents may not always approve of the way teenagers manage money, but as long as the youngsters do not spend beyond their allowances, parents have little room to complain. It doesn't take long for boys and girls to realize that fads and fancies are short lived and that a dollar bill is not very elastic, Miss Middleton says.

If a teenager has never had an allowance, it is not too late to begin. Many teenager-parent conflicts can be avoided if the teenager is handling his own money. The amount of allowance children receive should depend on family finances, the children's needs recommends Miss Middleton.

Parents who show patience and good-humored understanding during the years when boys and girls are learning to manage money wisely, will be rewarded when their children leave home. Instead of being helpless creatures, the young people will be independent, competent citizens, the specialist concludes.

NORTH CAROLINA TOUR PLANNED BY TURKEY GROWERS

Delaware turkey growers have decided to visit North Carolina this year on their annual tour, Silas L. McHenry, extension poultryman at the University of Delaware, reported.

A three-day tour, from Thurs., Sept. 19 to Sat., Sept. 21, has been arranged by the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service, McHenry said. Several turkey farms, a tobacco auction, and a turkey experimental station will be visited during the trip. The group also will see places of historical interest.

The extension poultryman said that the plan is to drive by auto south on Route 13, crossing Chesapeake Bay on the Kiptopeke-Little Creek Ferry. The return trip will be via Route 301, driving by Petersburg and Richmond, Va., and Washington, D. C.

Assembly points for beginning the tour will be: Agricultural Hall, Newark, 6 a.m.; Marker's Hatchery, Dover, 7 a.m.; Newton's Machinery Store, Bridgeville, 7:40 a.m.; and Carmean's Hatchery, Laurel, 8 a.m. Persons not reaching an assembly point on time may meet the group at Kiptopeke Beach.

Turkey growers planning to join the tour should contact their county agricultural agent immediately regarding the pooling of automobiles.

In previous years, Delaware turkey growers have toured Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Maryland, and Virginia.

HOLES NEEDN'T STOP USE OF PLASTIC SILOS

Even though plastic sheets on temporary silos can be torn or punctured, Delaware dairymen shouldn't hesitate to use the covers.

Small tears and punctures can be repaired easily with pressure tape or solvent-applied patches, Delmar J. Young, extension dairyman at the University of Delaware said. Spoilage occurs only in proportion to the size of an opening and the time passing before it is closed, Young explained.

He recommended the plastic-covered silo highly after personally observing that plastic covers for permanent upright and temporary silos—trench, bunker or stack—have greatly reduced the loss of dry matter in stored silage.

This means the total tonnage placed in a silo, a higher percentage of silage is fed out as dairy feed.

The dairy specialist advised

Rumen Studies Open New Fields For Research

Some of the things that have been taken for granted about the function of a cow's rumen will have to be discarded and replaced with new knowledge, research work in the University of Maryland dairy department indicates.

Rumen research workers, headed by Dr. Joseph C. Shaw, are using the famed mechanical cow to reveal digestive processes. The apparatus, with artificial heart and lungs, was put into operation earlier this year. The actual digestive process is simulated by circulating blood through the rumen of a recently slaughtered animal. Studies apply to other ruminants as well as cattle.

"We have a whole series of studies we want to do in these tests," Dr. Shaw says. "We now realize how little we have known about the rumen. Until this new technique was developed we had to rely largely on what we knew about human nutrition and studies with rats or mice and other smaller animals. But a lot of this just doesn't apply to ruminants."

Studies show, that bacteria in a rumen act on feed in a manner quite differently from the way food is acted upon in the stomach of a human, a rat or a pig.

In the human digestive system, for example, starches are converted into sugars which then go into the blood stream. In the rumen, on the other hand, these studies have shown that bacteria convert starch into various kinds of acids. These acids go into the blood stream and eventually end up as milk fat and other milk components, body fat and other body tissues, and are also used for energy.

With this technique, researchers have broken through a major barrier in the field of ruminant nutrition. And it opens up a new area of research that eventually is expected to yield practical information to the dairy farmer—how can a cow be fed to make most advantage of the way her rumen functions.

putting a layer of sawdust or similar material over the plastic covered used on any silo. This will protect the cover and hold it firmly against the silage, cutting down on air spaces.

The one caution Young noted when using a plastic cover is to watch it closely so that any tear or puncture can be repaired immediately.

Farmers Plan Drainage

A lot of wet weather can be expected for Kent County and nobody knows this better than our local farmers. Right in the midst of their battle against the present drought foresighted farmers like Paul Bobola and Carlton Carter are taking time out to improve the drainage on their farms just west of Dover.

During June and July, 32,670 lin. feet of drainage ditches was established on 14 Kent County farms cooperating with the Soil Conservation District of Kent County. In addition to this, 14,163 lin. feet of Tax Ditch was constructed for better outlets of other farm drainage systems.

Construction of drainage ditches to get rid of excess water is only one step in the complete soil and water conservation program being developed on these farms through technical assistance of the Soil Conservation Service. The preservation of soil moisture is given as much attention in these farm conservation plans as the ridding of excess moisture during periods of the year.

The job of establishing a drainage program may be small or large. Willis Guengerich and Simon Sharp of Harrington both had about 470 feet of ditching done this summer season, while there were other jobs, such as the one on the Millard Dixon farm near Dover, where over a mile of open drainage ditches was established.

Mrs. Marietta Garrison and the Goldinger Brothers near Cheswold is a good example of neighbors cooperating with one another to pool their efforts in establishing drainage ditches.

Benefits result to both farms and allow more efficient farming operations.

The Soil Conservation Service assists with the technical design and layout of drainage systems on these 14 farms.

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office assists financially with approximately 50 percent of the cost of construction. Tax ditches receive similar assistance in that the County and State assist with the cost of construction.

LIVESTOCK FARMERS NEED CAREFUL MECHANIZATION PLAN

Livestock farmers planning to mechanize should carefully balance estimated costs against anticipated returns, even though the costs of livestock farming now favor the mechanization of chore work.

George Vapaa, county agricultural agent, adds that although such improvements as automatic watering equipment, tractor feed scoops, gutter cleaners, self feeders, and conveyors and blowers to handle concentrates and roughages have made mechanized livestock farming possible, not every farm at present can be profitably equipped.

A farmer intending to mechanize should carefully compare the savings in labor costs he expects to make through mechanization with the added costs of new labor-saving equipment, the agent emphasizes.

Livestock farming has lagged far behind crop production in mechanization since 1910, but has recently been closing the gap, Vapaa continues. One of the major stumbling blocks has been and still is volume of business done by the individual farmer. Few farmers have had big enough enterprises to afford the investment and fixed costs that go with a high degree of mechanization.

Farm buildings also have stood in the way of mechanizing livestock farming, the agricultural agent point out. Designed originally for non-mechanized livestock production, they are often outdated, and remodeling may only partly adapt them to mechanical handling of materials.

But despite such obstacles, the trend in livestock farming is definitely toward mechanization, Vapaa says.

George Vapaa, county agricultural agent, adds that although such improvements as automatic watering equipment, tractor feed scoops, gutter cleaners, self feeders, and conveyors and blowers to handle concentrates and roughages have made mechanized livestock farming possible, not every farm at present can be profitably equipped.

St. Bernadette's Church Notes

Mass on Sunday morning will be at 8:30. Confessions will be heard from 9 to 9:30. There will be no adult catechism class on Thursday evening due to the fact that Father Corrigan will be away on the priests annual retreat. He will be spending the week at St. Joseph's Retreat House in Malvern, Pa.

A most enjoyable time was had by all who were present at the 4th birthday party of our church which was held Monday at the parish house. After a covered dish luncheon, games were played by all. A weenie roast was held at 6 o'clock. At the closing of the day, Father Corrigan showed a moving picture, "The Babe Ruth Story."

On Thursday we celebrate the feast of the Most Holy Name of Mary. Hail Mary, full of grace, the Lord is with thee, blessed art thou amongst women and blessed is the fruit of thy womb, Jesus. Holy Mary, Mother of God, pray for us sinners, now and at the hour of our death. Amen.

SCORING POWER WITH THE WINGED T OFFENSE

"Scoring power with the Winged T Offense," a new book based upon the system devised by the University of Delaware head football coach Dave Nelson and employed by Iowa coach Forest Evashevski with his 1957 Big Ten and Rose Bowl champions will be published September 12. Nelson and Evashevski are co-authors of the book, which is to be issued by William C. Brown Company.

The 240-page volume includes a fully illustrated text and more than 300 detailed diagrams which describe every facet of the offense that has been known in the East since 951 as the Delaware Wing T and that earned for Iowa one of the largest total yardage gains in the history of the Rose Bowl.

The new book is not the first effort by Nelson and Evashevski. Now the leading exponents of the wing T in the nation, they were teammates of the great Tommy Harmon at Michigan. In his senior year, Nelson, a half-back, led the Wolverine squad in rushing, while Evashevski's blocking at quarterback for the Michigan team of 1940 gave him an assist on Harmon's All-American nomination.

Both authors have received recognition for their coaching achievements during the past year. Following the Rose Bowl victory, Evashevski was named coach of the year by the Washington Touchdown Club, the Los Angeles Times and the Chicago Football Writers. Nelson was elected to the Rules Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association to represent the states of Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York. At 37 Dave is the youngest member of the 1-man board, which includes such prominent football authorities as Amos Alonzo Stagg, Bud Wilkinson, Wally Butts and Fritz
