98,482 Acres Sprayed For Skeeters in August

Air spraying in connection with mosquito control work in Delaware covered 98,482 acres during the month of August, according to a report compiled by Charles D. Murphy, Jr., director of the Mosquito Control Division of the State Highway Department.

In addition to the acreage reported by him, Mr. Murphy explained that additional acreage was sprayed by the US Air Force in the central section of Kent County, working in the area where the Dover Air Force Base is located.

The report revealed that with inclusion of the work done in August, a total of 232,405 acres were sprayed during the three months this summer, with 48,360 being sprayed in June, and 85,563 acres being covered in July.

During the 1956-57 fiscal year a total of 253,261 acres were sprayed, exclusive of spray work by the Air Force, with the division by counties being 106,501 in Sussex County, 99,634 in Kent County, and 47,146 in New Castle County.

During the three months of this summer 115,800 acres were sprayed in Sussex County, 89,073 in the acreage covered by the Air Force, and 27,532 acres were covered in New Castle County.

Commenting upon the number of times that spraying activities have taken place in the various areas, Mr. Murphy's report shows the following:
The Rehoboth area was sprayed eight times, and the Dover and Delaware City areas were each sprayed four times. There were three sprayings in the Wilmington area and two in the Newport area.

The sections from Slaughter Beach and Broadkill Beach to Milford Neck were each sprayed three times, while the Smyrna and Bombay Hook areas were sprayed four times.

These figures do not include the activities thus far in September. In his report Mr. Murphy expressed appreciation for the assistance accorded to the Mosquito Control Division by various State agencies and the US Air Force in the mosquito control work.

He likewise expressed his thanks to the many individuals who co-operated with his Division in this work during the past summer.

Traffic Shows Decrease For Month of August Along The Main Highways

Traffic during the month of August showed a decrease along the main highways in the central part of the state, in comparison with the same month of last year, according to a report on the permanent traffic counting stations.

This report, which was prepared by the Traffic Division of the State Highway Department, revealed decreases in traffic at two places along US Route 13 and one at one place along US Route 113.

At the same time the report disclosed increases in the traffic counted along the Kirkwood Highway and along Route 40.

The largest decrease was recorded along US Route 13, at a point north of Smyrna, where the traffic in August was 12.05 per cent less than in August of last year. The daily average of vehicles counted was 16,153 which is 2,213 less than the daily average counted during August of last year. The largest single day was Sunday, August 11, when a total of 24,534 vehicles were counted.

Along US Route 113, at a point north of Milford, the decrease was 2.76 per cent with the daily average of vehicles counted being 8,935, a decrease of 254 over the same month of last year, while the largest single day was Sun. Aug. 18, when 12,870 vehicles were counted.

At a point south of Greenwood, along US Route 13, the decrease was 7.9 per cent with the daily average of vehicles counted being 7,135, a decrease of 569 over August of last year. The largest single day was Saturday, Aug. 31 when 8,591 vehicles were counted.

The increase along the Kirkwood Highway, at a point east of Newark, was 6.88 per cent with the daily average of vehicles counted being 9,263, an increase of 557 over August of last year, while the largest single day was Friday, Aug. 2, when 10,442 vehicles were counted. This highway is now in process of being converted into a dual, or divided highway by the State Highway Department.

A small increase was recorded along US Route 40, at a point west of Bear, it being 1.2 percent with the daily average of vehicles counted being 25,952, an increase of 307 over August of last year, and the largest single day was Sunday, Aug. 25, when 31,179 vehicles were counted.

There were no traffic figures available for US Route 202, the Concord Pike, at a point north of Talleyville, since the traffic counting equipment is not functioning at that point because of highway construction work.

Mental Health Group Releases Family Book

A new phase in the Mental Health Association of Delaware's program to be of assistance to families when problems of mental illness strike was announced today by Fred G. Singer, president. This consists of the free distribution of a book, "Mental Illness, A Guide For The Family," by Edith M. Stern.

A copy of the book will be provided by the Mental Health Association for the family of each patient admitted to a Delaware institution for the care of the mentally ill. The book will be given through the social service staff of each institution at the time of admission of the patient.

Thanks to the contributors to the United Community Fund of Northern Delaware, to the income from a trust established by the late David Flett DuPont, and to designated contributions by friends of the association, the Mental Health Association is able to render services to all of the people of Delaware. The free distribution of this book is an example of this service.

The distribution was started today at the Mental Health Association headquarters, 1203 Gilpin Avenue, Wilmington, when Mr. Singer presented first copies of the book to Dr. M. A. Tarumian, superintendent of the Delaware State Hospital, and Dr. M. W. Gasper, manager of the Veterans Administration Hospital.

It is recognized by experts working in the Mental Health field that families of the mentally ill are involved in serious problems of their own. The recovery and rehabilitation of the patient often depends to a great extent on the understanding and intelligent cooperation of his family and

Kent Democratic Leader Honored on 85th Birthday

E. Y. Williams "Old Warhorse" of the Democratic Party of Kent County, was honored at a buffet luncheon Tuesday by personnel of the Kent County Court House and many other friends on the occasion of his 85th birthday.

Sharing the honor seat with him was Judge Charles L. Terry, Jr., president judge of the Superior Court, whose birthday also was Tuesday. Mr. Williams is secretary of the county Board of Assessment, on which he previously served eight years as a member, four years as president of the board. His tenure as a board member and president ended last January and the new board continued him in its service as secretary.

Mr. Williams was secretary of the Kent County Democratic Committee from 1921 until 1949 and after a short lapse of two years in his tenure served several more years in that capacity before retiring.

His first public office was as a member of the Levy Court, to which he was elected in 1917. The affable "E. Y." (the E is for Enoch) in his earlier years was also connected with the assessment board as a clerk and as secretary, was associated with the office of receiver of taxes and county treasurer, served about 10 years as deputy recorder of deeds (later he was elected recorder) and also served as a deputy sheriff and as a member of the Department of Elections.

As the senior honor guest at the luncheon in the Civil Defense conference room, Mr. Williams was heaped with congratulations from Judge Terry and the close to 100 others who attended the affair on his reaching the "85 years young" mark. Mr. Williams, still loaded with enthusiasm for his party's cause and public service but not permitting politics to interfere with friendship, has lived in Dover since 1921. Prior to that, he operated a farm between Kenton and Clayton. He lives at 38 North Governor's Avenue.

It is the third year Mr. Williams' Court House and other friends honored him with a birthday luncheon and huge birthday cake.

He returned home last Friday for a visit of two weeks with his daughter, Mrs. Addie Williams, four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren in Nashville, Tenn.

The Independents tied it up in their half of the third with a walk and a double by Elwood Brown. The All Stars scored in their half of the third with a walk, a single, sacrifice and a single by Thompson.

The Independents bounced back with two in the fourth. After two were out, Hayman doubled, Coper singled, and then three straight free passes.

The All Stars scored in their half of the fourth with two walks, a stolen base, and a double by Wix.

The Independents scored two in the fifth on singles by Morris and Short, an error and a sacrifice fly.

The All Stars scored in the fifth with a triple by Langford and an error.

The Independents scored two in the sixth on a single by Grover Brown, an error, a single by E. Brown and a double by Jack Dill.

Neither team scored in the seventh. The All Stars scored two in the eighth on a single by Wooddall, a double by Sapp and a walk and an error.

The All Stars threatened to tie the game and go ahead with a double by Cubbage and a walk, but Wooddall hit into a game ending double play.

Both teams had fine backing and Short and Smith both pitched a very good game.

We should all thank the Moose for the use of the playing facilities and for keeping them in such good shape.

The committee of the Cub Scout Pack 76 of Harrington will hold a planning meeting Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Lord.

Iran has bought 70 diesel-electric locomotives for $14,000,000, Tehran learns.

Considerable interest is being shown in this area in the building of midget race cars, with racing on two nearby tracks.

There is a track at Brown's Ranch, in a borrow pit off the Porter's Corner to Marvel's Crossroads road, and a temporary track on the land of Harry Greenberg, south of the Kent and Sussex Fairgrounds, and on U. S. 13.

Greenberg said he had leased the track at $1 per year. He added however, he had 30 acres and that he would be willing to make a substantial donation to enlarge the facilities. He concluded by saying other businessmen had expressed their willingness to participate in the project.

The tracks, 1-8 miles in circumference, drew a number of midgets Sunday afternoon.

Cars on the track Sunday belong to Joe Gray, Walter Schiff, Howard Brown, Joe Lane, Henry Bullock, and an unidentified owner from Smyrna.

Racers are under construction by Ralph Wilson, Clarence Billings, Paul Legates, Clarence Gray and Chester Parsons.

Most cars are being built in the shop of Joe Gray on U. S. 13, but Walter Messick will build his in his own shop.

All cars are built mostly by their drivers. The builders usually get the chassis and rear-ends of the Crosley automobiles and power them with Briggs-Stratton, Wisconsin, and other motors, and build their bodies.

Henry Bullock had the first complete midget, the others performing Sunday without bodies.

Bullock has a one-quarter midget, powered with a Briggs-Stratton motor. He constructed the chassis, rear-end, and body.

He defined the following classes of midget autos: one-quarter midget, 2 to 2½ horsepower; micro-midget, 6 horsepower; three-quarter midget, up to 20 horsepower, and full midget, the type that race at the Kent & Sussex Fairgrounds. The local cars are classed as one-quarter and micro midgets.

"Holsom" Is Brand Name For Star Bread

Since the name Holsom has appeared on the wrapper of Star Bakery Products we have had numerous inquiries from dealers and consumers as to whether or not the Star Baking Company had been sold to the Holsom organization. As the result of these inquiries from our friends we thought it proper to write this letter explaining why we are using the brand name "Holsom."

The name "Holsom" is a brand name originally owned by the W. E. Long Company which is an advertising organization serving independently owned bakeries.

There are numerous independently owned bakeries all over the country who have qualified to use the brand name Holsom and in so doing have not only acquired a good brand name but have been able to receive considerable more for their advertising dollar as Holsom maintains an advertising agency exclusively working for the Holsom Bakeries.

As of today we are featuring the brand name Holsom in all of our advertising and have endeavored to plan a well rounded advertising program which will support the sale of our bakery products to a greater extent than in the past.

The Star Bakery is owned exclusively by the W. K. Rice family and we have been fortunate in being able to expand the operations of the bakery without selling any stock to investors.

There is no change in the quality of our product and no change in the ownership of the bakery. The only change is from the brand name "Star" to "Holsom."

We wish to take this opportunity to thank you for your valued business and cooperation.

The auxiliary voted to give help by a donation to the Harrington Girl Scouts and Brownie troops for oil at their new meeting place.

The next meeting in October will be most interesting to the members when the four girls sponsored by the Harrington unit will be present to report on their activities at Girl's States in Dover last June.

Preceding the meeting, Mrs. William Outten, Junior Activities chairman, held a meeting with some members of the newly organized juniors. She told them of the advancement and retiring of colors, and some of the activities they will be able to participate in during the year.

It is the desire of Mrs. Outten to keep them organized with officers and a regular meeting for each month.

Hostesses for next month will be Mrs. Eugene Anderson, chairman, Mrs. Emil Adams, Mrs. Kenneth Aiken, Mrs. Clarence Black, Mrs. Harry Boyer and Mrs. Russell Blades.

Nation's Agricultural Editors To Test Delmar Woman's Recipe At Washington Banquet Next Week

More than 125 of the nation's leading agricultural editors will get a chance to pass judgement on President Eisenhower's taste in Barbequed chicken recipes next Thursday, Sept. 26, at the Woodner Hotel in Washington, D. C., at a banquet in their honor given by the Delmarva Poultry, Inc. Sterling White, president of DPI said that the recipe is the one entered by Mrs. Paul Mitchell of Delmar, in the National Chicken Cooking Contest at the Delmarva Chicken Festival in Laurel, last June. Although it did not win one of the top 25 prizes in the contest, it caught President Eisenhower's eye last month and he wrote Delaware's Gov. — Caleb Boggs that he intended to try his hand at it as an amateur cook.

Nicknamed the "President's Choice" by many people on the Peninsula after news of the President's letter got around, the recipe will be prepared by the chef at the Woodner Hotel with Mrs. Mitchell on hand to oversee matters. She will be backed up by Mrs. James Russo of New York City, the National Chicken Cooking Champion who has tried the recipe and likes it. The two women later will be introduced at the banquet to the farm editors and to Washington food editors who have been invited to the public premiere of Mrs. Mitchell's recipe.

Three of Delmarva's poultry queens will also make the trip to Washington to help extend the Delmarva's Peninsula's hospitality to the visiting farm editors, White said.

Faculty Member

Appointed at U. of D.

Dr. Bruce Dearing, dean of the school of arts and science at the University of Delaware, has announced the appointment of Dr. Edward Higbee as professor of geography and agricultural economics.

Professor Higbee served as a soil conservationist and agronomist with the Department of Agriculture from 1938 to 1944 when he became senior agronomist in the department. From 1947 to 1950 he was a visiting lecturer at John Hopkins and Yale Universities and in the latter year he joined the faculty of the graduate school of geography at Clark University, Worcester, Mass., as an associate professor.

Early in his career as an agriculturist, Professor Higbee noticed that many farmers were failing to make use of the scientific studies and research findings provided by the Department of Agriculture and by college and university experiment stations. It was his desire to assist in interpreting to the public the needs for a scientific approach to agricultural problems that led him to take his Ph. D. in geography. His special field of interest is land use and especially the effects of urbanization on previously rural areas. The Twentieth Century Fund has awarded him a grant to study land use and the growth of the strip city in the area between Boston and Washington. He is particularly interested in developments in Delaware which has only recently been united with other parts of the East coast highway system by the Delaware Memorial and Chesapeake Bay bridges.

The significance of Dr. Higbee's addition to the Delaware faculty is increased by the fact that he will be an inter-school faculty member, Dean Dearing said. He will teach agricultural economics in the school of agriculture as well as in the School of Arts and Science.

Dean of Agriculture George M. Worrilow noted that Dr. Higbee's background will enable him to bring the agricultural faculty into closer contact with issues outside the field of agriculture, yet related to it.

"We must give closer attention to development which affect agriculture, such as the urbanization of previously rural lands," Dean Worrilow said. There are other studies of a similar nature that must be undertaken in the future if we are to perform effective service for the modern farmer."

Professor Higbee is the author of a recent book, "The American Oasis," which describes the treatment of the soil by American farmers from Colonial times to the present and the impact of mechanical and scientific developments on agricultural practice. He has about 20 other technical and general interest publications to his credit.

Some $15,000,000 will be spent by Nigeria before 1960 to expand telecommunication.

Social Security Notes

Recent changes in the social security law which made women eligible for monthly payments as early as age 62 have created some problems of proofs.

Local social security officials point out that the usual requirement that an applicant be able to prove his age applies to wives and widows as well as to retired workers. "Women have always had more difficulty in proving their age," said Myron Milbouer, manager of the Wilmington office. "Most housewives have far less occasion to establish documentary evidence than do their working husbands."

Milbouer also stated that a birth certificate is the best proof of one's age, but it is not the only proof. A baptismal certificate certified by the custodian of the church records is also acceptable.

However, even if an applicant doesn't have a birth certificate or baptismal certificate, he may use a number of other records to establish proof of age to the satisfaction of social security officials. Without knowing it, most people in their lifetime leave a trail or records behind them. There's one thing to bear in mind, though—the evidence should show month and year of birth. There are many documents which show a person's age at a certain time, but usually evidence of this sort is acceptable only if it is accompanied by something else which shows month of birth.

Generally speaking, the older the record, the more acceptable it is. Here are some of the sources of proof of age, if a birth certificate or baptismal certificate are not available: (1) Hospital birth record, certified by the custodian of such record. (2) A foreign church or government record. (3) A signed statement by the physician or midwife who was in attendance at birth, as to the date of birth shown on their records. (4) Family Bible, or other family record. (Do not remove pages from the Bible. (5) Naturalization records, (6) Immigration records. (7) Military record. (8) Passport. (9) School record. (10) Vaccination record. (11) An insurance policy which shows the age or date of birth.

(whether active or lapsed) (12) Labor union or fraternal record certified by the custodian of such record. (13) Marriage records showing date of birth or age. (14) Employment record showing date of birth. (15) Age of parent shown on child's birth certificate. (16) Age shown on permits, licenses, voting records, Poll tax receipts, etc. (17) Other government records. (Bureau of the Census, Washington 25, D. C., will search its records for age evidence upon the execution of an application and the payment of a fee.)

"All of the above types of evidence are not of equal value in determining exact date of birth," Milbouer stated, "therefore, if a birth certificate is not available, you should bring in other documents you can obtain in order that the best of this evidence may be used."

A woman applying as a widow who has never filed for a wife's benefit must produce proof of marriage in addition to proof of age. According to Milbouer, the following types of evidence are acceptable: (1) The original certificate of marriage. (2) A certified copy of a statement as to church record of marriage. (3) A certified copy of marriage. A public record of marriage may be obtained from the clerk of the court in the city or county where the marriage license was obtained, or the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State where the marriage was performed.

Most people wish to retain important personal documents, such as military discharges or naturalization records. Milbouer said that in such cases, the documents will be returned to the applicant after copies have been made by his office.

Kent County 4-H

Favorite Foods Show

The second annual Favorite Foods Show for all 4-H'ers-enrolled in cooking projects will be held Sept. 21, at the Harrington Fairgrounds. The Suburban Propane Gas Corporation sponsors the county and state show.

Four H'ers from both Kent & Sussex Counties will gather in Harrington Saturday. Each 4-H'er participating will prepare a dish from their project unit. They will then display the completed product on a place setting

Examine Carefully Before You Eat

Mushrooms and some other fungous growths are highly prized as articles of food by many people. Several have been calling the county agent, George Vapaa, regarding the identification of edible varieties. The nutritive value of mushrooms is not high, but they may be prepared in various ways which will render them delicious. More people doubtless would seek wild mushrooms and other fungi if they were sufficiently informed to distinguish between the edible and the deadly poisonous growths.

Some very erratic and dangerous ideas concerning ways of telling the edible from the poisonous growths are altogether too commonly believed. Mushrooms are frequently thought of as edible and toadstools as poisonous. As a matter of fact, the words "mushroom" and "toadstool" are used indiscriminately and do not indicate whether the plants are edible or poisonous.

Often recommended is based on a ften recommended is based on the belief that if a silver coin placed in the utensil in which mushrooms are cooked tarnishes the mushrooms are poisonous. Absolutely no reliance can be placed on this test, as both poisonous and edible kinds may turn silver dark.

Equally baseless is the belief that a mushroom is shown to be edible if the skin can be peeled from the cap readily, because peeling is possible with many poisonous species.

The notion that soaking or boiling poisonous mushrooms in salt water will render them harmless has no foundation in fact.

Some people have thought that the presence of insects on mushrooms is a proof of their edibility. This is dangerous supposition, because insects infest the most poisonous as well as the best edible in a 30 x 24 inch space. With the setting must be the menu from which the prepared dish was selected and the recipe.

Ribbons and merchandise awards will be awarded to all entrants. Blue ribbon winners will receive an expense paid trip to participate in the State Bake-Off Oct. 25.

Fall Cleanup Saves Equipment

Delaware Farmers will add to the life of spray and fertilizer equipment with a cleanup job now that the crop season is about over.

George Vapaa, county agricultural agent, suggests the cleanup to prevent damage by corrosive materials. He advises flushing and draining spray tanks, pumps and piping, then lubricating heavily all oil and grease joints. Fertilizer residue on machinery can be dissolved with a high pressure stream of water. This, followed by a light spraying of metal parts with a rust inhibiting oil, will give protection through winter. Linseed meal run through a fertilizer machine also will help to stop rust.

Vapaa concludes that machinery will last longer and give additional good service, if the cleanup is done right after the season ends and necessary new parts are ordered for installation this winter.

The collector of mushrooms can not depend upon any simple test. If he intends to use them for food he must know what he is gathering. It is a comparatively simple matter to learn to recognize a few kinds of deadly poisonous mushrooms and certain edible ones. If he will gather only the kinds that are well known to him, a careful collector need not be afraid to gather wild fungi for food. He should not be misled by attractive colors or pleasant odors.

It is never safe to collect the young, unopened mushrooms, commonly called buttons, unless they are immediately connected by whitish threadlike strands with a well-known species, as even an experienced collector is unable to distinguish between poisonous and edible species when they are in the button stage.

In collecting and identifying mushrooms, one must make a careful examination of the specimens while fresh, as mushrooms change very quickly after being gathered. Mr. Vapaa advises that no attempt be made to eat any type of wild or non-cultivated mushrooms unless the user is certain that the variety is edible.

Concrete Barnyard Good Investment

A concrete feed and loafing yard for cows is a good investment for any dairyman, according to George Vapaa, county agricultural agent.

The agent said a paved barnyard can bring the greatest possible gains from the least feed. Citing as an example a test at the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station, he reported that steer calves fed for 60 days on concrete gained an average of 146 pounds a head. Steers fed the same time on unpaved lots put on an average of 125 pounds a head.

Paved barnyards conserve most of the fertilizer value of manure, the agricultural agent added. This value is mostly in liquid nitrogen that is lost unless collected and stored properly. At test at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station showed that one-quarter of the liquid part of manure is lost when cows kept on earth barn lots. Researchers there calculated that savings in manure during two six-month feeding periods paid for the concrete paving.

Considering that the average farmer spends about 50 per cent of his time doing chores around farm buildings, Vapaa said a paved yard can add to labor saving because cows will take less time to clean before milking.

Finally, the agricultural agent pointed out that paved yards tend to cut down on diseases such as mastitis and foot rot.

Motors Increase Farm Income

A farmer earns less than 10 cents a day when he lifts, carries or moves materials that an electric motor could handle better by driving an elevator or conveyor, says George Vapaa, county agricultural agent.

A strong man working steadily can build up about one-tenth a horsepower, the agent points out, while a one-horsepower motor can do 10 times the work at a cost of three cents for one kilowatt of electricity.

And, he adds, while a motor is

Delaware State Development Department News Notes

Provisions for the preservation and development of marine fisheries resources will be requested by Delaware's Commissioners to the Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission, when the latter group meets in New York this fall.

A three-point program to be presented at the session was adopted in Dover recently by the Governor's Advisory Committee on Marine Fisheries, with M. Haswell Pierce, Milford, presiding.

The advisory group also tentatively approved plans submitted by the City of Philadelphia to dump 20,000 tons of digested sludge into the Atlantic Ocean, 11 miles off Lewes, subject to further study by the group.

Mr. Pierce also greeted three new members who were added to the Governor's Advisory Committee. They are: R. H. Stanfield, Tidewater Oil Company, Delaware City; Lloyd R. Leslie, vice president, Delaware Power & Light Company, and W. F. McPaul, Jr., division engineer, Delaware State Highway Department.

The three points highlighted for presentation to the forthcoming annual meeting of the Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission were:

1. The Delaware delegation advise the Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission of present and approaching problems involved in maintaining the Delaware River and Bay as a valuable source of marine life.

2. That the Delaware delegation seek the assistance of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the fisheries interests of the States of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and New York, in planning and activating programs designed to maintain the Delaware River and Bay at a state of high biological productivity. This would include steps to protect the nursery areas bordering the River and Bay, to protect valuable lands beneath the River and Bay, to provide favorable ratios of fresh and salt water, and to protect waters from harmful pollution.

3. To seek adoption of the following resolution: "RESOLVED, that the Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission urge that, in all public works legislation affecting coastal waters in the Congress of the United States, provisions be made for the preservation and development of marine fisheries resources."

Before these recommendations were unanimously adopted, Mr. Pierce read a statement as to their purpose. He said that Delaware River and Bay and the surrounding wetlands have been described as the state's greatest natural resource.

"One of the important sources of wealth in this area comes from the marine life in the forms of oysters, clams, crabs and finfish," Mr. Pierce declared. "The productivity of portions of the River and Bay are controlled to a great degree by the ratio of fresh water and by the absence or presence of pollution. These conditions have been recognized and partially measured."

"Another feature which contributes to productivity is the relation between the nursery grounds for marine organisms and their habitats for later age classes. Tidal marshes are the major nursery areas for many important marine organisms. Therefore, the ratio of tidal marshes to open water areas must be considered in appraising the future productivity of Delaware River and Bay."

Mr. Pierce continued the statement by saying, "Delaware River in particular has seen tremendous industrial expansion in the last half century, but at no time in the past has expansion equalled what we are witnessing at the present time."

"Major programs now underway or in advanced planning, such as the 50-foot channel from Philadelphia to the sea and the series of reservoirs on the upper portions of the Delaware waters."

Importance of marine life study was emphasized in a report submitted to the Committee yesterday by Dr. Carl N. Shuster, University of Delaware assistant professor of Biological Sciences. The report records efforts of the Scientific Committee of the Fisheries Commission and studies by the University of Delaware Bayside Laboratory at Lewes.

Dr. Shuster said marine life study would be stepped up this fall when six graduate students, largest number ever to be enrolled at Delaware at one time, will be enrolled in Marine Biology.

The report analyzes the present general situation regarding commercial species of fish in Delaware and goes into detail concerning growth, habits and anticipated catches.

Dr. Carl C. Rees, University of Delaware provost, said the institution is delighted to carry on this work and he hopes with more student "legmen," a great deal more underwater knowledge will be made available.

The advisory committee said it was pleasantly surprised with the request of Philadelphia authorities to dump 20,000 tons of digested sludge into the Atlantic Ocean rather than have it placed in the Delaware River north of the city. This, officials said, would lessen pollution, but a further study will be made to see whether the sludge should not be taken even farther out into the Atlantic before being dumped.

Dr. Shuster said that information from available studies should give an answer to this problem and he will undertake the project.

Major General Grined To Visit Delaware September 27

Major General P. D. Grinder, assistant chief of staff for Reserve Components, Washington, D. C., will visit Delaware Sept. 26, it was announced by Lieutenant Colonel Charles R. Goodwin, Plans Chairman, Wilmington Chapter, Reserve Officer's Association.

General Grinder was invited to participate in ROA activities and observe Army Reserve training in the Wilmington area as a guest of the Wilmington ROA chapter.

A former commander of the 10th Infantry Division in Korea, he was cited by General Mark W. Clark, former United Nations Commander in Korea. General Clark wrote, "Korea has provided the United States with a bumper crop of leaders—I have in mind Major General P. D. Grinder, commander of the 45th Division in Korea. General Grinder arrived in Korea a colonel, and by virtue of his leadership qualities, advanced quickly to the two star rank."

Information received from Department of the Army lists the general as serving North of the 38th parallel for almost 17 months—longer than any other general officer. He was also the youngest American general to command a division in combat in Korea.

In his present Pentagon assignment he is responsible for the continued development of the Reserve Component Program.

With his wife, Mrs. P. D. Grinder—the colorful Jean Dalrymple, well known stage producer and playwright—General Grinder makes his permanent home in New York City.

Creative Writing Course Offered by U. of D.

An opportunity for practical improvement and self expression will be offered to students in the Wilmington area during the first semester of 1957-58 by the University of Delaware's extension division.

Among the more than 100 courses available will be creative writing under the direction of Robeson Bailey, lecturer and editor at the university.

Mr. Bailey, no textbook theorist, is an experienced practitioner in his field. He has taught creative writing for 27 years at Harvard, Radcliff, Smith, and Tufts colleges and at the Universities of Delaware, Massachusetts and Oregon. He has been affiliated with the Bread Loaf Writer's annual conference at Middlebury College since 1936 and is personally acquainted with many of the outstanding authors and editors in this country.

From 1946 to 1949, Mr. Bailey was associate editor and book critic for Field and Stream magazine. He has been a consultant to publishing firms and is himself a contributor to popular magazines. As author or editor he has assisted in the preparation of From Fact to Fiction with Edmund Ware, Techniques in Article Writing, The Book of the Short Story with H. S. Canby, A Man and His Meals with Fletcher Pratt, and The Field and Stream Game Bag.

Mr. Bailey recently was instrumental in assisting a young author in the preparation of a new novel, Come With Me to Macedonia, which was released last month by Alfred Knopf, Inc. Author Leonard Drohan has dedicated the book jointly to his wife and to Mr. Bailey in recognition of his assistance.

In addition to his teaching and to Mr. Bailey in recognition of the preparation of Why College? Why the University of Delaware?, a brochure describing the university, and is the author of Memo to New Students, a practical guide for entering freshmen.

The creative writing course will meet in Wilmington High School Monday evenings beginning Sept. 23. Students may enroll for academic credit or as participating auditors without credit. Registration will be held in Wilmington High School on Sept. 17 from 5 to 9 p.m.

Delaware Dean Named Editor of Magazine

Dr. Russell G. Stauffer, acting dean of the school of education at the University of Delaware, has accepted the position of editor of The Reading Teacher, a quarterly magazine published by the International Reading Association.

Dr. Stauffer's appointment was disclosed by Dr. Albert J. Harris of Queens College, Flushing, N. Y., president of the IRA.

The Reading Teacher has four issues a year, which appear in October, December, February, and April, all of 72 pages plus cover. General policy is formulated by a publications committee of which the editor is a member, and decided by a board of directors. In addition there is an editorial advisory board consisting of about 20 reading specialists.

The Reading Teacher is considered the most important single activity of the Association, Dr. Harris said. About 15,000 copies of each issue are distributed to schools, libraries and individuals.

Dr. Stauffer is a nationally known authority in the field of reading. He is director of the university's reading-study center and has been acting dean of education during the absence of Dean William O. Penrose.

FOUR-HERS TO ENTER FAVORITE FOODS SHOW

Four-Hers now enrolled in foods projects may take part in a favorite foods show, Marion MacDonald, county 4-H Club agent, announced.

County winners will go on to a state contest at Capital Grange Hall, Dover, Oct. 25.

Three divisions may be entered in the county contest at the Harrington Fair Grounds Sept. 21, the agent said. These include all dishes from breakfast, luncheon and dinner or other advanced food preparation units.

Entries must require some use of a range, top burner or oven. Club members may enter only one division and should enter the foods unit they have been working on during the past year. Club members who took part in the 1956 favorite foods show may enter the show this year with a different dish, "showing appropriate growth in skill and ability over their entry of the previous year, the club agent explained.

Stoves, prizes, award trips and other expenses involved in conducting the show will be provided by the Suburban Propane Gas Corporation, sponsor of the show. Entry cards have been mailed to all eligible county 4-h'ers. Any 4-H club members with questions about the contest should call the county-extension office.

Use Quality, Care To Govern Rug Service

Delaware homemakers planning to buy a rug were urged today by a University of Delaware extension home management specialist to consider use and quality before making the purchase.

Miss Patricia A. Middleton advised buying the best quality rug you can afford for places where foot traffic is heaviest. If you must economize, she said, buy the less expensive rug for light traffic areas.

To judge rug quality, the specialist suggested looking closely at several carpets, and pressing fingers into the pile. When pressed and released, the pile should spring back into position. Then bend the carpets toward their back to see if the tufts are close together.

Miss Middleton recommended a rug cushion to increase rug service. A cushion will absorb heel pounding and fill in uneven floors. She pointed out that additional luxurious softness will be felt underfoot, and that sound absorption and insulation are offered by a cushion.

In closing, the specialist emphasized that any rug will wear out quickly, unless it gets good care, mainly cleaning.

MORE and BETTER GRAIN

when you use Southern States Small Grain Seed

Here's Why

- Seed is true to variety.
- Seed is treated for smut and other seed borne diseases.
- Seed is high germinating.
- Seed is high in purity.
- Seed is guaranteed. (A guarantee with a meaning.)
- Seed of new, improved varieties available.

Why Gamble?

A very poor harvest season such as we had this year is harmful to the production of good quality small grain seed. Southern States supply is good, but with heavier than usual demand the supply could become short.

Adios Harry To Race Several More Years

J. Howard Lyons, the Greenwood farmer who owns harness racing's new money-winning king, Adios Harry, told the U. S. Trotting Association today that he plans to keep his aged star campaigning at least until his earnings reach the $500,000 mark.

The 6-year-old son of Adios won the $10,000 Monitor Pace at Roosevelt Raceway (Westbury, N. Y.) last week and boosted his lifetime earnings to $334,510.

"Right now our goal is $500,000 and I'm sure we can make it if we don't have any bad luck," Lyons told Trotting Association officials.

"I figure we might be able to hit the $400,000 this year and there isn't any reason to believe we can't earn at least another $100,000 next year—maybe even more."

Would the son of Adios Helen Win be retired then? Lyons was asked.

"Not at all," he replied, "I don't believe in retiring horses just because they reach such and such an age. If Harry stays sound and good, you can count on seeing him at the races for several more years. I won't quit with him until he shows me he can't compete with the top horses. And from the looks of things that might well be several years from now."

Lyons, whose son Luther drives the great pacer, might have hit it right on the nose with his prediction that Harry could be expected to go on for several more years. The brown horse has overcome numerous aches and ailments on his way to the dollar crown, the most recent being a siege of colic just prior to the Roosevelt event that resulted in his overtaking Pronto Don.

"Harry came down with the colic Tuesday," Lyons told the USTA "and for a while we thought we might have to scratch him. He was sick Wednesday and Thursday but he licked it that night and was himself again Friday. He raced on Saturday and won handily in 2:01. I tell you, he's a tough one!"

To which the entire harness racing sport nods agreement.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—My private physician just sent VA a letter stating how my disability has worsened in recent months. Could VA use this letter to reopen my case and see whether I'm entitled to a higher compensation rating? If VA approves a higher rating what would be its effective date?

A—A statement by your physician, showing increased disability is acceptable by VA as an informal claim for a higher rating. If a VA physical examination confirms your physician's statement, the increased rating could be made effective as of the date VA received his letter.

Q—I was unable to keep two consecutive appointments for medical treatment at a VA clinic because I had to make emergency trips out of town. In the excitement, I forgot to notify VA in advance. Does this mean I've given up my rights to further treatment?

A—Not necessarily. Veterans who break two consecutive appointments without reasonable excuse and without advance notice may be denied further treatment. But if your reason is acceptable to the clinic, your treatments may be continued.

Q—I've held a permanent GI insurance policy for several years, but about a year ago, I let it lapse. Until I reinstate it, am I without any GI insurance protection whatsoever?

A—No. When a permanent policy lapses, VA extends your coverage automatically as term insurance. Premiums come out of the cash reserve you've built up. The term protection ends when it has used up all the reserve.

Q—Is war Orphans education limited to only one child in the family of a deceased war veteran? Or may all children receive the educational benefits?

A—All children in the family may receive the educational benefits, once they reach the eligible age for War Orphans schooling which generally is 18.

Delaware Represented at National Citizenship Conference

Delaware will again be represented at the National Citizenship Conference in Washington next week, an affair that has been growing rapidly in recent years.

Dr. George R. Milel, Jr., state superintendent of schools, will represent Gov. J. Caleb Boggs and the state at all sessions, it has been announced, and he will place the state's wreath at the foot of the Washington Monument in special ceremonies Tuesday morning.

Dr. Miller said that the impressive wreath-placing ceremony in which all states and territories participate, is done to honor Sept. 17, 1887, date when the Federal Constitution was adopted in Philadelphia. It was at this same time that copies of the documents were ordered sent to the original colonies, and it was this same document that Delaware was the first to ratify Dec. 7, 1787.

Dr. Howard E. Rowe, assistant State superintendent of schools, in charge of secondary education, was in Washington Friday and Saturday as a member of the National Education Association's pre-conference Citizenship Committee meeting.

It is expected that other educators in the state as well as some students will be attending the two-day parley at the Statler Hotel in downtown Washington.

First of all, processing is done in either a boiling-water-bath canner or a steam-pressure canner. For tomatoes, fruits and pickled vegetables, it's best to use a boiling-water-bath canner. These acid foods can be processed safely in boiling water.

When canning all common vegetables except tomatoes use a steam-pressure canner, since such low-acid foods take a temperature higher than boiling water to be processed safely in a reasonable length of time.

Delaware Food Market Report

Frying chicken are the bargain at the meat counter this week. They are not only delicious when pan fried but what could be better than grilled chicken eaten out-of-doors. During weekend sales look for frying chicken to sell as low as 33 cents a pound, the average however, is around 37 cents a pound.

The Poultry Products Inspection Act has finally been passed by Congress, making it compulsory for all poultry products to be inspected for wholesomeness and to assure the consumer that it is fit for human consumption. This does not mean all poultry will be top quality — it only means it has been inspected for wholesomeness. The effective date of the Act is Jan. 1, 1959. Since more plants in the Delaware area have been producing inspected poultry in the past, they will probably take advantage of the government free inspection early in 1958; thus assuring consumers in this area of good wholesome poultry products. This now puts poultry on the same basis as red meats as far as inspection goes.

Most fresh meat stays high, with 1 and 2 cent increases on many cuts. Veal, lamb, chops, loin and rib, lead the way with a 4 cent jump. They are now selling around $1.40 and $1.22 a pound—quite a price to pay.

Weekend sales will bring down the prices on smoked picnics and some hams, chuck roast, rump and sirloin tip roast, on some stewing chickens, boneless steer beef and ground beef.

Here's a bright note for breakfast — coffee is cheaper. There has been a sharp drop in coffee prices effective immediately. One chain has reduced all four of its brands 6 cents a pound, while another nationally distributed coffee is down 3 cents. Instant coffee hasn't been affected by the break in coffee prices as yet.

The vegetable picture looks fairly good. More heads of good quality cauliflower are on vegetable stands with prices ranging from 25 cent to 35 cents for fairly large heads. Turnips are arriving in small quantity with prices fair. Sweet potatoes, both mealy and yam type, dropped 3 cents a pound this week.

Apples are increasing in number at the fruit stall and prices are coming down. Peaches are still around and continuing to rise in price. California is continuing to send in lots and lots of good Bartlett pears.

Waterfowl Hunting

The Delaware Board of Game and Fish Commissioners has announced special rules for duck hunters wishing to hunt its Woodland Beach Wildlife Area.

A. On the South portion of the area, hunting will only be from blinds built by the commission. The procedure here will be as follows:

1. A registration will be held from Monday, Sept. 30 through Sun. Oct. 6.
2. Blinds will be allocated to parties of two or three on a daily basis.
3. Each party may apply for as many as five days of shooting.
4. A representative of each party desiring to hunt will apply in person at the headquarters between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. on any of the designated registration days. Hunters are advised that they will have equal chance of being assigned the days they desire regardless of which day they register. When more applications are received than there are blinds, space will be assigned by lot. Assignments will be mailed to all applicants.

5. This registration will cover the period November 1 through November 30. After November 30 hunting here will be unregistered, but from State blinds only.

B. Sportsmen desiring to hunt the northern portion of the area will have to build their own blinds and adhere to the following rules:

1. Hunting is to be from stake blinds or boat blinds only. No jump shooting.
2. Stay well clear of private blinds along the West boundary of the area.
3. Maintain a reasonable distance between blinds within the area.
4. Observe area boundary signs. Maps and tide tables of both northern and southern units of the area are available at the headquarters building upon request.

The Woodland Beach Wildlife Area consisting of 3,000 acres of marsh land is located along the shore of Delaware Bay between the mouth of the Smyrna River on the north and the community of Woodland beach on the south. Headquarters for the area may be reached by driving toward Woodland Beach from Smyrna on Route 6 for approximately five miles and then turning North towards Flemings Landing for one mile. Anthony Florio, District Wildlife Manager for the Commission is stationed at the Headquarters.

Duck hunters are advised that the area is difficult to hunt. During part of each day the marsh goes almost completely dry for an hour or two hour period; also, during stormy weather portions of the marsh are exposed to strong winds and currents. All hunters who wish to hunt this area should arrange for seaworthy boats and outboard motors.

Official Scoring System for North American Big Game Trophies

The Game and Fish Commission has recently received an announcement of the eighth North American Big Game Competition. This competition is sponsored by the Boone and Crockett Club which was founded by Theodore Roosevelt.

After looking over the official scoring charts we feel certain that some of the deer killed in Delaware during previous open seasons have trophy qualifications. Some of the pertinent points in scoring are as follows:

1. Only antlered deer are considered. Size and/or weight do not necessarily influence the scoring which is based on antler measurements.
2. Trophies taken during any year are eligible for the 1957 competition if they have not been entered in any previous competitions, and provided they are not listed in any edition of "Records of North American Big Game". It is not necessary that the trophy be mounted.
3. A medal and/or certificate of award is given each winning entry provided the trophy was taken in fair chase. No medal will be given for any trophy taken prior to 1952. Trophies taken prior to 1952, killed by accident, pickups, purchased trophies, or those of unknown methods of capture are not eligible for a medal but may qualify for a certificate of merit.
4. Minimum score for a typical white-tailed deer is 150. All measurements must be made with a flexible steel tape to the nearest one-eighth of an inch. Official measurements cannot be taken for at least sixty days after the animal was killed. There is a separate category for non-typical trophies, for which the minimum score is 160.

Farm News

Crop Conditions

Several heavy showers and a couple of steady rains have improved prospects for fall crops considerably. Snap beans, field limas and soy beans have made an amazing recovery. Growers who took a chance and planted late snap beans in little more than dust are seeing their gamble paying off. We have had reports from several sources that the fall snap bean crop promises to be the biggest in several years. We still have a number of fields which were planted very late and have not yet reached the blossom stage. If a freeze or killing frost holds off until mid-October, these should produce good market beans. Late plantings of field limas are bearing well with a much larger porportion of green beans than the early crop. The rains were a little late to benefit early planted fields. Soy beans prospects have improved considerably. Sweet corn, sweet potatoes and late apples have responded well to the rain. Apples and sweets needed moisture to size up. Field corn was too far advanced to receive any good from the rain. Several farmers have cut their fields for silage, using pit silos when regular silos were filled. Late apple picking has started and should be up to peak next week.

Fall Labor Prospects
So many crews and workers have left the area early due to poor summer crops that a serious shortage may occur if the weather should cause snap beans to mature too fast. Most of the crews in the area are working on a day haul basis and will take on any crops available. Some tomato crews will complete work this week and will work in beans or cabbage. New York State is advising crews completing commitments there of work in Delaware and we may get some workers from this source who are returning south. Notify your nearest Employment Service Office if you are in need of help. Any available workers will be directed to you.

Housing
Over 100 growers' quarters have had improvements made to them this year. These improvements run all the way from such minor ones as improved screening to major overhaul and new well drilling. Twelve new camps have been built from the ground up and five additional buildings never used for housing before were remodeled to meet Board of Health standards. Growers generally are showing a cooperative and enthusiastic attitude in camp improvement.

I. C. C. Standards
Several crew leaders returning south have contacted local offices regarding I. C. C. regulations. Copies of these are in local offices and we will be glad to go over them with any crew leader who may need assistance.

Current Seasonal Labor
Heavy fall crops are requiring more harvest hands. Our figures reflect employment at the present time rather than requirements. From 200 to 300 additional bean pickers could be used if they were available. At last weekend there were 200 to 300 additional bean pickers could be used if they were available. At last weekend there were 4507 seasonal workers in the area. Of these, 1987 were local; 2243 southern migrants and 277 Spanish speaking. 1840 were employed in food processing and 2667 harvesting crops.

Hints on Buying Boys' Slacks
Mothers, those slacks you intend to buy your son will last longer and look better, if you take care when buying.

Check the labels to find information on fiber content, laundry or dry cleaning instructions, brand name, wear characteristics and special quality features.

Its best to buy slacks that have labels saying washable in hot water, shrinkage controlled to two per cent, porportion cut for better fit, colorfast and wrinkle resistant.

Also look for labels that mention these signs of quality—well-stitched seams, durably-sewn buttons, pockets of uniform material, and pockets and bindings as laundrable as the slack material.

Always have your son try on new slacks before you buy. This way the best possible fit will be secured. Good fit and quality are available in many price ranges.

It's the Law
Waterfowl regulations for the coming season are essentially the same as last year with one important exception. The use of recorded goose and duck calls is now illegal. The following is taken from the Federal Register, Vol. 22, pp. 6874-6875, Aug. 25, Title 50, Chapter 1, Subchapter B—Hunting and Possession of Wildlife. Section 6.3, entitled "Hunting Methods" and "Prohibited Methods." The prohibited Methods are not changed but there is one addition; "(7) By the use or aid of recorded bird calls or sounds, or recorder or electrically-amplified imitations of bird calls or sounds."

Ordinary duck and goose calls may be used as always.

Delaware Travel Council to Hold Dinner Meeting in Dover

In order to assess Delaware's travel business of the season just closed and to make plans for First State promotion in 1958, the Delaware Travel Council will hold a dinner meeting in Dover Thursday evening, Oct. 17.

James C. Stewart, president, said this will be an important business meeting. All members are urged to attend and anyone interested in attracting more people to the state is invited.

The dinner session will be held at Alexander's Restaurant on Route 13 by-pass beginning at 7 p. m. Reservations may be made by writing Miles L. Frederick, State Development Department, Dover, who is secretary of the Council.

William P. Frank, Wilmington newspaperman, who recently proposed that a celebration should be held in 1959 to mark the 350th anniversary of the discovery of the Delaware River has been invited to briefly outline his views on that subject.

Mr. Stuart said a committee is also at work, planning a dues structure for the Travel Council so that an active membership campaign may be launched this fall.

Plans to publicize the First State's springtime activities as well as its season-long recreational areas will be given special attention, Mr. Stuart declared.

While the Council was a year old this summer its activity to date has been limited, but a recent study of the state's great potential makes it imperative to start some solid planning, Mr. Stuart pointed out. He hopes to

William P. Frank, Wilmington newspaperman, who recently proposed that a celebration should be held in 1959 to mark the 350th anniversary of the discovery of the Delaware River has been invited to briefly outline his views on that subject.

Mr. Stuart said a committee is also at work, planning a dues structure for the Travel Council so that an active membership campaign may be launched this fall.

Plans to publicize the First State's springtime activities as well as its season-long recreational areas will be given special attention, Mr. Stuart declared.

While the Council was a year old this summer its activity to date has been limited, but a recent study of the state's great potential makes it imperative to start some solid planning, Mr. Stuart pointed out. He hopes to

Asbury Methodist Church Notes

Church School 10 o'clock, Howard Wagner, superintendent. "Daniel: Standing Firm in Crisis" will be the theme of the lesson in the Adult Department. Daniel is one of the best known Old Testament figures. One reason this is true is the fact that he lived in a time of trouble. But he stood firm for his convictions and stands as an inspiration to all those who have difficulty. He had a firm conviction that good would overcome evil in the long-run. We need that kind of faith today.

Morning worship 11 o'clock. "Where are You Going?" will be the theme of the pastor's sermon. Miss Anne Perry will be guest organist for this Sunday morning worship service.

Evening worship 7:30 o'clock. "When You Pray" will be the theme of the pastor's sermon based on "The Lord's Prayer." A time of sharing will follow the sermon when you may ask questions that may come to your mind concerning the prayer Jesus gave His Disciples.

The choir will rehearse Thursday as follows: Junior choir 3:30; chancel choir 6:30 and Cathedral Choir at 7:45 o'clock.

The altar flowers for this Sunday will be by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dean.

Student Council

The Student Council will again sponsor the annual magazine sales campaign. Kick off for the 1957 magazine sales campaign was on Wednesday at special assembly held in the school cafeteria. Practically all of the popular magazines are offered for sale, and the school receives a commission for each subscription received. Pupils of grades four through twelve will visit friends and neighbors soliciting subscriptions. Each of the individual salesmen earn prizes for their efforts as well as funds for the Student Council to carry on its many worthwhile activities. Among the projects sponsored by the Student Council have been, the purchase of a basketball score board-timer for the gymnasium, uniforms for the band, feature movies for assembly, donations to charitable organizations such as CARE and expenses of representatives to county, state, and national conventions of Student Councils.

Music Department

The music department has just completed a successful summer program during which 247 lessons were given to 51 different students. The band gave a concert at the Felton Church Street Fair, and also attended the Milton Sesquicentennial Parade where they won second prize.

Two choral students, Joan Lockwood and Norman Jackson attended the Delaware Vocal Music Camp at Wesley Junior College in Dover, in the month of June. M. Ross Evans, the Felton School music teacher, served as a staff member of the vocal camp.

Wednesday evening, Sept. 18, the band played at the Diamond

State Drive In, for a benefit movie. The proceeds went into the band uniform fund.

Second Polio Shots To Start Monday

Polio vaccine has become available for resumption of the program of public clinics begun this spring by the Medical Society of Delaware, the State Board of Health, and the Delaware Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Public inoculations will begin September 23, and continue for three weeks. The final schedule has not been completed.

Approximately 60,000 Delawareans received the vaccine, purchased with funds made available by the General Assembly and administered by volunteer physicians with the help of volunteer nurses and clerical personnel. It is perfectly obvious that this could not have been done without the outstanding cooperation of the news media of the state. We appreciate this tremendously, and we are now asking for your help in getting the job finished. As you see, a sizable proportion of the state's population is concerned, and the people's immunity will be lost if they are not aware of the renewed opportunity.

1. The clinics to be started this month are for second shots of the three shot series. Third shots will be given sometime in the spring of 1958. First shots were given last spring. The vaccine is also available from private physicians. These clinics are for those who do not feel that they wish to receive it from their own doctors.

2. The time interval between the first and second shots has been longer than the ideal. This was necessary, of course, because we were unable to get enough vaccine to carry through on schedule. Please emphasize that this will not impair the effectiveness of the series. The ideal time is calculated as maximum effectiveness opposed to shortest possible time elapsed. While we have lost the time advantage, the effectiveness remains.

3. As of our latest information, September 7, 1957, there had been no cases of paralytic polio in Delaware this year. As of September 7, last year, there were 5 cases. The year is not over, and there is fairly often an increase in the incidence in the early fall. Nevertheless, we are gaining against polio at this time. Our public clinics are certainly not entirely responsible for this, but we feel that they have helped. Still, two cold facts remain: the first shot does not give permanent protection, and our local experience for the ten years 1947-1956 is that 58 per cent of the paralytic polio victims have been over 15 years of age. Therefore, it is vitally important that those adults, particularly young parents, who have started the series complete it and that those who have not begin it immediately.

4. A second shot received now will prepare the recipient for a third and final shot before next summer's peak incidence. Approximately seven months should elapse between the second and third shots.

Drama Course Offered By Extension Division

A refresher course in theatre production for directors and technical specialists in school and community theatres will be offered by the University of Delaware's department of dramatic arts and speech during the first semester of 1957-58.

The course will be offered on Tuesday evenings at 7:30 beginning Sept. 24 and may be taken for graduate or undergraduate credit or for audit. Enrollment will be limited to those actively engaged in theatre production. Thomas S. Watson, technical director of the university theatre and for the past four summers technical director for the American Dance Festival in Connecticut, will be the instructor. The extension offering is being made at the request of the Delaware Dramatic Association.

Theatre production methods and materials are constantly changing. There are new lighting instruments, new switchboards, new makeup, new materials for making properties and scenery, new paints, and new sound equipment. There are also new techniques for lighting, scene construction and painting, makeup, and new concepts of scene design. Utilization of these new materials, techniques, and concepts can result in better productions, even when resources are limited.

The entire field of technical theatre will be surveyed in this course. Production problems submitted by the class will be examined and discussed at length. Subjects covered will include: scene design for school theatre, community theatre, and the arena stage; minimum lighting equipment; current techniques for scene construction and painting; sound equipment and its use; principal sources for theatre equipment and materials.

Registration is scheduled for Sept. 17 from 5 to 9 p.m. at Wilmington High School; for Sept. 18 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Dover High School; and for Sept. 21 in Newark at Carpenter Field House from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Contracts Awarded On Nearby Roads

Contracts for four highway improvement projects, for which the low bids totaled $469,045, have been awarded by the State Highway Department to the low bidders on the project, it has been announced by R. A. Haber, Chief Engineer of the Department.

Three of the contracts went to James Julian, Inc., of Elsmere, while the fourth one was awarded to Cities Service Bituminous Company, of Wilmington.

The three contracts awarded to the Julian concern are located in the Dover general area. One of the projects provides for the placing of a four-foot cement concrete widening in the northbound lane of the DuPont Parkway, from Dover to Bishop's Corner, a distance of 3.8 miles.

This will make this section of that highway 24 feet in width and is a part of the program of improving the DuPont Parkway, from Dover to Wilmington, that has been in progress by the Highway Department for the past 18 months.

The Julian concern's low bid on this project was $228,554.04 and the completion date for the project has been fixed by the Department for May 15 of next year.

Another contract awarded to the Julian concern provides for the construction of a new bridge and approaches along the South Little Creek Road, near Little Creek.

This project is designed to remove a number of existing sharp curves along the present roadway and the replacement of the existing narrow bridge, with the new structure being located just north of the present bridge.

The new approaches to the bridge will be constructed in part through some marshland with the specifications providing for the removal of the marshland and constructing a new foundation with solid material.

The low bid price of the Julian concern for this project was $150,030 and the completion date for the project has been fixed for June 15 of next year.

The third contract awarded to the Julian concern was for some drainage improvements in Kent County, for which the concern submitted a low bid of $31,560.96 and for which the completion date has been fixed for December 15 of this year.

This project provides for drainage improvements west of Pear Street, in the northwest section of Dover, at the intersection of the DuPont Parkway and the old Camden road, south of Dover, at the rear of Kent Acres, along the DuPont Parkway and along East Street in Harrington.

The contract awarded to the

Eleen Clark Weds Howard G. Gahagan

The marriage of Miss Doris Eleen Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Clark, of Harrington, to Howard G. Gahagan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gahagan, of New Bethlehem, Pa., was performed in the Harrington Pilgrim Holiness Church, Saturday, Aug. 31, at 2 p.m.

MENTAL HEAL

friends.

The distribution of the book is another important part of the Mental Health Association program which includes a variety of educational activities, such as special speakers, public meetings, motion pictures, and the Mental Health Association information service.

The institutions participating are the Delaware State Hospital, the Veterans Administration Hospital, Governor Bacon Health Center, and the Delaware Hospital for the Mentally Retarded. The book will also be distributed on a selective basis to the relatives of the patients of both the Delaware State Mental Hygiene Clinic and the Veterans Administration Mental Hygiene Clinic.

Mr. Singer pointed out some of the concerns that families feel when their loved ones become emotionally disturbed, and need some form of psychiatric treatment. These concerns are varied; such as: shall I send my husband to a private or public hospital?, what kinds of treatment will he get?, what does "commitment" mean?, when can I visit?, what kind of clothing should be taken to the hospital?, when he comes home will he have recovered permanently? The staff of each hospital tries to answer such questions and even tries to anticipate them, but many of the questions are forgotten in the anxiety of admission or come to mind at some later time. Recognizing these problems the board of directors of the Mental Health Association of Delaware, after surveying all available literature with the help of their professional advisory committee, has secured copies of the book "Mental Illness, A Guide for the Family."

Mrs. Stern's book is a classic in the mental health field. The present revision was sponsored by the National Association for Mental Health. It makes no attempt to interpret the causes and symptoms of mental illness or even to name them, this is the province of the psychiatrist. It represents to the reader in a straight forward manner what to do when mental illness strikes.

Auto Collision

A Pontiac sedan, driven by Howard T. Camper, was damaged Wednesday afternoon when it ran into the rear of a parked truck on Commerce Street in front of Dot's Restaurant. The truck, belonging to Carl Springer Supply Company, was not damaged. No charges were filed.

L. D. CAULK, FARM LEADER, KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Lyndon D. Caulk, 71, Woodside, prominent Kent County dairy farmer and farm leader, was killed in an automobile accident Tuesday afternoon near Crumpton, Md. For many years he was an official of the Kent & Sussex Fair here.

Mr. Caulk, who purchased the old Kent Almshouse Farm for dairy purposes some years ago, was president of the Southern States Co-operative of Richmond, Va., and an official in the Delaware Council of Farmers' Co-operative.

He died of a fractured skull when thrown from his automobile which collided with another auto at the intersections of Routes 71 and 544, two miles south of the Kent County, Md., line, at 3 p.m., Tuesday.

State Police said Mr. Caulk died instantly. He would have been 72 Oct. 1.

Mr. Caulk was driving east on Route 544 and, according to police, ran through a stop sign onto heavily traveled Route 71, known as the Blue Star Memorial Highway.

His vehicle was struck on the left side by an auto driven by Mrs. Mildred McCarthy, 50, of 105 Seventy-fifth Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mrs. McCarthy was taken to the Kent-Queen Anne's Hospital in Chestertown suffering from a broken left hand and cuts and bruises. Hospital attaches said she was also suffering from deep shock.

Her husband, Sylvester, was asleep on the front seat and uninjured.

Police said Mrs. McCarthy told them the car driven by Caulk appeared in front of her suddenly. She veered to the left but struck his auto almost broadside. Both cars went down an eight-foot embankment. Police said both cars were total wrecks.

The Caulk auto rolled about 100 feet and tossed the driver 25 feet into some high weeds. Mr. Caulk was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. H. F. Fisher, Queen Anne's County medical examiner. The body was removed to the Fellows Funeral Home in Millington.

Mr. Caulk is survived by three sons, Lyndon D., Jr., of Willow Grove near Felton; G. Wallace of Woodside, and Rodney Lyndon Caulk at home.

The McCarthy family was en route to Richmond, Va., on vacation.

State Wheat Growers Reminded Of Legislation Changes

Delaware wheat growers were reminded today of changes in wheat acreage allotments by George C. Simpson, chairman of the state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee (ASC).

Farmers whose allotment is less than 30 acres may grow up to 30 acres, if the wheat is used on the farm, Simpson said. This will apply only to 1958 and future crops.

The chairman also pointed out that no excess wheat acreage seeded for grain in 1958 or after will be considered for acreage allotments.

Producers wishing to grow next year up to 30 acres of wheat without penalty must sign an application before the crop is planted, or Oct. 15. This application must be approved by the county ASC committee. An application may be cancelled any time at the producer's request, Simpson said, but then marketing quotas will apply.

Producers who take part in the 1958 wheat program will not be eligible to vote in a 1959 wheat marketing quota referendum, if quotas are proclaimed, Simpson stated.

For additional explanation of wheat legislation rulings, the chairman urged farmers to contact the county ASC office.
