

SANTA CLAUS PARADE SCHEDULED FOR TOMORROW AFTER RAIN-OUT

Santa Claus will appear tomorrow afternoon at 1 p. m. taking part in a parade from the Quillen Shopping Center, thru the business district, and thence to the Fire House.

His appearance Saturday afternoon was canceled when rainy weather appeared, making it uncomfortable for the small fry.

If the weather is unfavorable tomorrow afternoon, the parade, headed by the Harrington High School Band, will not be held. However, Santa will be at the ambulance room of the Harrington-Volunteer Fire Company to distribute treats to the children.

Santa will appear every Friday and Saturday afternoon and evening until Christmas, also Christmas Eve.

Harrington stores are remaining open all day Wednesday until Christmas. They will also remain open evenings until Christmas.

For the first time, the municipal water tower has ornamental lighting, this being colored flood lighting. Fulton J. Downing was in charge of the project.

A creche, or nativity scene, has been erected on the property of the Pennsylvania Railroad at the Clark Street crossing.

The new motto for The Blue Hen Raceway is "Races Every Sunday. Weather Permitting," and this we stand behind, as you all could see Sunday afternoon.

Since Thanksgiving Day did not come on Sunday the weather was not in our favor, so there were no real races. However, those that did come out could see that men will be boys. We tried hard to get in just one race even though the rains came. If our goggles would have been equipped with wipers we may have succeeded. I guess it turned out for the best, as the men had more time for the turkey. Then too they were all rested and ready for racing Sunday. As usual there was lots of track work to be done after the big rains. But with everybody helping out the track turned out hard and fast.

Clarence Billings was sporting a new engine and was looking for racing room, and since all new things need christening he decided to do just this in the fourth race.

For those who have never seen the bottom side of a racer, it was made easy as Mr. Fox turned his four wheels to the sky and got a worm's eye view of the track, now we will all tell you they can and did turn over.

Brown had a little hard luck in the final race. As he had worked up from 11th spot to second and was spun out by Wilson in the 25th lap. Mr. Lane and Mr. Trotta took time out to make mud pies.

All this fun and excitement brings up the results of the day's racing events.

First Race—1, Lofland; 2, Parsons; 3, Billings.

Second Race—1, Legates; 2, Wilson; 3, Outten.

Third Race—1, Gray; 2, Voss; 3, Brown.

Fourth Race, 20 laps—1, Clark; 2, Lane; 3, Trotta.

Fifth Race, 20 laps—1, Wilson; 2, Brown; 3, Voss.

Sixth Race, 30 laps—1, Gray; 2, Lane; 3, Legates; 4, Brown.

The special event of the afternoon failed. The Clark and Bradley match race, as Bradley got cold feet and failed to show or place.

So come - - - or high water we will be there racing Sunday afternoon at 1:30—Will You?

Harrington High football team closed a most satisfactory season when its recent victory over John M. Clayton High gave it a record of five wins and four losses. Few first year teams do this well.

The team, reported for practice Sept. 4. No one on the squad had any experience at football. After a slow start which consisted of three straight losses, the boys began to learn the fundamentals and won five out of the last six games. The coaching staff consisting of Head Coach Dick Jeffers and his aides Harold McDonald and Wm. A. Smith drilled the team practically every day that school was in session. This paid off in the final analysis.

The locals scored 148 points to 94 for their combined opponents. Jim Schiff, speedy junior quarterback, led the team in scoring with 8 touchdowns for 48 points closely followed by Senior Bob Wilson with 7 touchdowns and 3 extra points for 45 points. Jack Porter, junior broken-field specialist, was next with 25, followed by Ron Correll, a hard running fullback with 18.

Jack Porter led the pass receivers with 14 receptions. Juniors Bill Manship and John Taylor were next with 10 and 7 respectively.

Outstanding blockers were Dave Coady, Taylor, Dave Hedgecock, Jim McDonald, Jim Collins, Dave Welch and Joe Dennin in the line and Wilson, Ron Collison, Jim Temple, Porter, and Ken "Snooky" Collins in the backfield.

On defense, Senior Tackle Dave Coady, led in tackles for the season with 72. Jim Collins, huge junior tackle was next with 63. Wilson had 60, many of which were the open-field variety. Ron Collison, promising sophomore back, had 42 and Porter had 36.

Joe Kliment, senior end, was the chief punter with an excellent average of 32 yards. Bob Wilson got good distance on his kickoff efforts.

Prospects are good for next year as most of the team will be back. With a year of play under their belts the locals will be better players. However, the opposition will be tougher also as H.H.S. will step into varsity competition.

With the loss of Bob Wilson and Ron Correll most of the power will be gone from the backfield. The remaining backs are fast and shifty but lack weight. Our spies at the school report that there are two large lads with speed and power in next year's senior class, who might supply the answer to this need, if they can be persuaded to come out for football next August.

The line will be weakened by the loss of Dave Coady, Richard Sapp, Dave Welch, Joe Kliment, Bob Garey and David Hedgecock but will still be adequate as it retains two big men in Dennin and Collins, plus other promising operatives such as Taylor, Manship, Balderson and Jim McDonald.

Outside of the need for a punter and a larger blocking back the backfield is in good shape with Schiff, Porter, Temple, Collison, Don Garey, K. P. Outten and K. Collins. Among those returning, Jim Smith is also a prospect as a back as he has good size.

We were glad to see that the team came through the schedule virtually unscathed physically. This is a tribute to their condition and also to the coaching they received. Next year should see a larger turn-out of candidates for the team as the players all seemed to benefit from the experience of playing on the first football team in the history of Harrington High School.

Wilson Wins Moose Most Valuable Player Trophy

Bob Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson of Vernon, was awarded the "Most Valuable Player" trophy at a dinner given by the Moose Lodge for the football team and coaching staff of Harrington High School Monday night.

The choice was a popular one as the senior half-back was the inspiration of the squad throughout the season. His many talents included plunging and end sweeps, punting, kicking-off and awesome blocking and tackling.

At the speaker's table were the coaching staff and Wm. Fleischauer, Sr. and John Semans of the Moose. All made a few extemporaneous remarks after which Mr. Semans presented Wilson with the trophy.

Winners of trophies for outstanding single game efforts were Wilson, Jim Schiff, Dave Coady, Jim Collins and Jack Porter.

Rotarians Learn Century Club About Air Base Notes

Brigadier General Francis C. Gideon, graduated from West Point in 1940 and stationed at Dover since 1954 was introduced to the Harrington Rotary Club Tuesday evening by Program Chairman Fulton Downing.

General Gideon outlined the operation of the Dover Air Force Base where approximately 8000 persons are quartered and an average of 15 million pounds of cargo per month flown to Italy, England, France and practically all over the world. Sixty-four Globe Master C-133 type planes fly out of Dover on daily schedules carrying around 40,000 lbs. loads of material and supplies.

This lading is transported to Dover from all over the United States by train, plane and truck.

The general explained some of the housing problems involving a turnover of personnel and the impact on schools and churches in the Dover area with so sudden an increase in population. He said houses were being built as rapidly as possible and a large school now under construction within the base would be handled by the Dover District School Board.

Many questions were asked at the completion of the talk and the club was favorably impressed with the prompt and conclusive answers. General Gideon invited the club to visit the base.

Harry Frankel and Frank Eleton, of the Milford Club, were visitors.

World Clothing Week Begins Monday in Schools

The school children of Harrington will bring home something other than their regular text books today. They will be carrying a message—a plea for good used clothing from orphaned and needy children and adults the world over. World Clothing Week begins Monday, Dec. 9 in the public schools of Harrington. Our school children are sparking this campaign and will be asking families and friends to search their closets and bureau drawers for outgrown, discarded but still usable clothing. Superintendent of Schools J. C. Messner had this request for parents; "Please read the circular your child will bring home. It will explain the purpose of World Clothing Week and describe the needy children in the United States and overseas who need our help—now. Then, gather up all the cast-off clothing around the house and send it to school with your child Monday morning."

World Clothing Week, which will last through Friday, Dec. 13, is conducted under the auspices of the Christian Children's Fund, Inc., a non-profit organization assisting more than 22,000 orphans in 250 orphanages in 34 countries including the United States.

The Business & Professional Women's Club, in a letter to the City Council, read at the December meeting of the group Monday evening, protested the charge of the National Guard for the use of its armory by civic organizations.

A member of the Board of Education, who attended the meeting, told the Council that a school for retarded children was using the building without charge.

The Council turned the letter over to the Chamber of Commerce, since this organization spearheaded a drive to secure funds to buy the building site.

The letter said: "At the last meeting of our club we learned that the National Guard has now set a rate of $35, plus a cleaning fee of $10, for anyone who desires to use the Armory."

"At the time the various organizations of the town, including our club, were approached about contributions for this armory it was stated that there would be no charge for the use of the building to any civic groups who did not charge a fee at the door."

"We feel that a protest of some sort should be made to the National Guard over this change in policy after the building is completed. We feel, that the complaint should come to you, as it was through you that the funds were solicited."

"Whether or not anything can be done to correct this, our Club would like to go on record as being opposed to solicitation of funds when the true and correct facts are not given."

Luther Hatfield, the Board of Education member, told the Council the School for Retarded Children, which formerly met in the Church of the Nazarene, met in the armory without charge. He said that janitorial services were performed by school janitors.

Hatfield said he encountered some resistance to the plan but that he "went to the top" and was told the Guard wanted civic organizations to use the armory. This viewpoint was also expressed at the dedication of the armory in September. It has been felt that civic groups could use the building if there was no admission fee.

The Council Monday night, expressed the opinion, however, that a janitorial fee might be required. The group underwrote the $2000-cost of the site.

Other Council Business

It voted to extend sewer mains on West Street, from the Metropolitan A.M.E. Church to West Milby Street, a distance of 250 feet. Cost was to be held to $3 per foot.

A request, by Earl Quillen, 6 Center St., to tap sewer and water mains for a trailer, was turned over to a Zoning Committee. Quillen said he wanted the trailer for his parents. Mayor Hewitt S. Smith said the application for a trailer permit would have to be advertised.

A house, on Calvin Street, near North Street, was said to have no running water. A spokesman for the owner, the Carpenter estate, said it would not be worth repairing and that an alternative would be to have the fire company burn it. It was brought out that the fire company would not burn the building unless the administrator of the estate guaranteed to pay for any damage to other properties. It was suggested demolishing the house.

The Council voted, unanimously, that city water used by parsonages should be paid for. Churches get free water. It added that there was no charge for hooking into the sewer, for parsonages, but that a permit must be secured from the City and that a plumber hooking up a sewer or water main, without a permit, was liable to a fine of $50. This was brought up after it was disclosed that a sewer was tapped on West Milby Street, to a parsonage, without a permit. The usual fee, for a sewer permit, is $50.

The Council voted to pay for the current used in the special Christmas lighting in the business district. Furthermore, it told the police to turn off the lights at 11 p. m. until the week before Christmas and the week after when they were to be left on until 12 p. m.

Two weeks receipts, previous to Christmas, will be turned over.

PLANNING AND ZONING AID IN ATTRACTING NEW BUSINESS

Planning and zoning are most important in attracting new business to a community, Mayor Kussell Smith, of Cambridge, told members of the Centreville (Md.) Chamber of Commerce recently, according to the Queen Anne's Record-Observer.

Mayor Smith urged the Chamber to get a professional planner to "come in and look over your area for the future."

Zoning has been discussed in Centreville and Queen Anne's County and nothing done about it. Kent County has also talked about it and done nothing. Harrington has recently appointed a Zoning Commission.

Continuing, Mayor Smith said, "The most overrated proposal for a new business is that you will give them 10 years free taxes if they locate here." Most of them, he explained, do not want something for nothing.

These boys, who want something for nothing, were quoted as belonging to the Chamber of Commerce school. They wanted taxes and water free for ten years and often times asked for free rent. At the end of ten years, these firms would threaten to move if the status quo was not maintained.

These were usually fly-by-night industries. A large and substantial industry will not be bribed by inducements. It locates in a community because it is to its advantage to do so. To locate on an unfavorable site, because of bribes, might cause it to lose thousands of dollars in many ways. An industry bought a tract of land in Harrington recently, not because of inducements, but because Harrington was a good location.

Incidentally, Mayor Smith, the Cambridge mayor, thought it was a good idea to have a landing field for planes. He said many businesses are relying more and more on the small plane to express parts or take salesman and officials to other parts of the country. We do have landing fields within 15 minutes by auto.

EDUCATION IS OUR FIRST LINE OF DEFENSE

The launching of Sputniks I and II have had a beneficial affect in calling attention to the American public of our shortcomings in the field of education. Russia says her widespread training of scientists was responsible for the missiles. The Germans say her kidnaped missile experts were responsible.

Regardless of which side one takes, the satellites have caused the public to take another look at our educational system. Furthermore, it has caused an anti-intellectual public to begin to believe that "after all, there may be something to education."

We have heard many references, for example, to agricultural scientists as "book farmers." College graduates were told "their education went to their heads," or, "just because you went to college you don't know it all."

No one knows it all, but most of the progress of civilization was made by those dissatisfied with the status quo and attempted, and did, make improvements.

But now, because of the Sputniks, we are looking at education. Let us look at education in Europe. Here is an excerpt from The Delmarva News, Selbyville:

EASY IN USA

"So you kids in school think you have it tough, eh? Think you have a lot of subjects at school and a lot of homework after school? Think you have it pretty tough, do you? Well read what the poor Russian kids have to put up with in school, and you'll realize that you haven't got it so tough. At least you can choose your subjects, to a certain extent, but not those Russkies!

"The Russians include in their education curriculum five years of physics, four of chemistry, one of astronomy, five of biology, and 10 of mathematics, the math going thru trigonometry. In addition the graduating student has been taught a foreign language for five years.

"Well Mr. and Miss Student, how many of those subjects have you taken, and for how long?

"Good thing they didn't make us do it when yours truly was in school. If they had he would still be trying to pass algebra and geometry, let alone ever getting into trigonometry."

We believe the United States is ahead in that a formal education is available to more people. We believe, however, it is behind in that it does not cater to the above-average student, that the student is not forced to bring out the best in him or her, and that the curricula, or course of studies, are too easy.

We read, in a Wilmington newspaper, where an Italian exchange student, who had been attending a Wilmington high school, was returning to Milan. He hoped to enter the University of Milan but was worried for fear his knowledge of Greek might prevent his matriculation. Imagine studying Greek in an American high school!

Let us digress a moment on languages. In Europe and Africa, foreign languages are taught in the grade schools. We are glad to say the practice is being taken up in this country. We took a picture of a little German girl who was studying English at the age of 6.

In two and a half years in Africa and Europe during the war, we seldom encountered a student, college or otherwise, who did not have at least a smattering of foreign languages. It was seldom, moreover, that we could not find someone within the block, even in the smallest villages, who could not carry on a conversation in English. Does anyone in your block know Italian?

Let us not presume, moreover, that the European's education is confined to languages. We encountered high-school students in Algiers with excellent notebooks, illustrated with beautiful drawings, on botany and the other sciences. We encountered similar students in Italy, France, and Germany.

Everyone cannot have a complete formal education, but there is nothing to stop us from studying out of school. After all, education in a school is merely the beginning. That is why graduation exercises are called commencement.

Thus, we believe, the Sputniks are a good thing for our nation: they awakened us.

Broiler Production May Reach All-Time High In 1958

Broiler production in Delaware and throughout the nation will, in 1958, likely establish an all-time record, according to information received by the Delaware State Development Department.

The National Food Situation Report, issued recently by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, points out that the 1957 broiler output has been running about 6 per cent better than the 1956 level, making possible a new record. The same report forecasts that the 1958 output will exceed that of the current year.

Recent reports from the U. S. Department of Agriculture have indicated that the 1957 broiler chick production in Delaware is also running about 6 per cent ahead of last year, with chick placement up from 5 to 13 percent.

The National Food Situation Report, according to the Development Department, suggests that continuing advance in production efficiency and prospect of lower feed prices may offset the lower broiler prices that have prevailed except for a brief peak during the past summer; these factors undoubtedly are influencing the increase in broiler production.

A record 282,708,000 pounds of commercial broilers were produced in Delaware in 1956, according to the recently released annual report of the State Board of Agriculture. This total was 31 per cent above that of the previous year and 10 per cent higher than the previous record established in 1951. Marketing of a heavier bird—broilers averaged 3.3 pounds in 1956 as compared with 3.0 pounds in 1951—contributed to the poundage increase.

On the basis of 1956 production, Delaware ranks fifth in number of broilers produced; fourth in number of pounds of broiler meat produced and third in gross income received from broilers.

Keep Leaves From Roof Gutters

Even though it's thrifty to rot leaves in a compost pile, there's one place they shouldn't be allowed to stand and rot—that's in your roof gutters, says the county agricultural agent.

George Vapaa adds that the job will pay, because:

Acids that develop as leaves rot can corrode metal gutters. You may have to replace wooden gutters sooner than expected if they get much exposure to soggy decaying leaves, twigs, seeds or other material. Freezing of water-soaked trash in gutters can split or open seams. Clogged downspouts allow water to stand in eaves troughs or wash over the top and down the side of the house and windows.

Gutters that can't be cleaned from a ladder may be cleared by using a reverse-bent wire hook at the end of a long pole, the county agent says. If you have cap screens in the drainage system, you'll need to be within close reach to brush the screens free of leaves and other refuse that tends to stick, especially when wet.

Delaware Food Market Report

The Christmas rush is on! And there's no hope of it getting any easier until Santa comes and leaves the many gifts he brings. During the days ahead good planning of time, energy and certainly the menus is required. Special attention should be given to all the economy food items to help relieve the already bulging budget. Variety meats, such as liver, tongue, kidney and heart are all within the budget. They are rich in food nutrients and yield about 5 servings per pound. Check on these meats when you are shopping next. Ground meat is cheap, selling for 3 pounds for $1 in many stores this week. Make sure to get a full quarter pound for each person you plan to serve, though. Chuch roast is another beef item to look for. It's a top flight item and such a versatile one too.

Broiling and frying chicken should not be over-looked since they are such good eating and the prices are definitely right to serve them often. Loin roast of pork, spareribs and some smoked hams are all items to check when you shop this weekend.

If you are looking for a special treat, make a trip to the seafood counter. Shell fish supplies are abundant - shrimp, scallops and lobster tail all give a festive air to any meal. For a substantial and nourishing luncheon or main dish look for sea trout, whiting, fillets of cod, haddock and ocean perch, and fish sticks.

Storage warehouses are continuing to bulge with apples of all kinds. This fact is noted at the grocery store by the low prices on apples and the many varieties available. This is a versatile food also and should be used as often as possible.

Oranges and grapefruit continue to increase in volume. Prices are low on both of these citrus fruits and the quality is from good to excellent. Cranberries, avocados, winter pears and Emperor Grapes are all good buys and deserve a place in your winter market basket. The season is on for tangerines too, and prices are relatively low. Bananas are coming down in price a penny or so; specials this weekend will drop the price to 10c a pound on this fruit in many stores.

Vegetables on the "best buy" list are onions, cabbage, lettuce, celery, white potatoes and some sweet potatoes.

Pedestrian Killed By Local Car

Levin Toomey, 25, of South Front Street, Georgetown, was struck by a car at 12:20 a.m. as he was crossing U. S. Route 13 about a fifth of a mile east of Laurel.

Toomey died at 4:15 a.m. in the Nanticoke Memorial Hospital in Seaford.

State police said Toomey and a friend, Frank Gordy of Georgetown, had just finished making a telephone call to a service station after their car ran into a ditch near Laurel and were crossing the highway to get back to their auto.

Gary R. Harrington, 21, of Calvin Street, Harrington, driver of the car which struck Toomey, told police he saw the two men in the road and swerved left, trying to avoid hitting the victim.

Instead of leaping out of the way, he said, Toomey "froze" in the path of the car. Gordy was not injured, police said.

Toomey was employed as a truck driver in Georgetown. He is survived by his parents, Lester and Florence Blizzard Toomey, and a sister, Mrs. Elwood Holston, all of Georgetown.

CROP SHOW AND AWARDS SUMMARIZED

The 49th annual meeting of the Delaware Crop Improvement Association closed with a short course program and an announcement of awards last week. George Fischer of Smyrna was crowned as corn king of Delaware with an estimated yield of 131.1 bushels per acre. F. T. and Neal Warrington of Georgetown received top honors for the soybean growers crown with a yield estimated at 51.3 bushels per acre.

Second and third place state winners in the 100-bushel corn contest were Homer Goldsborough, Smyrna, 131 bushels; and Roland Mumford, Seaford, 127.15 bushels. First, second and third place winners in Kent County were Fischer, Goldsborough, and Carol Simpson, Clayton. First three Sussex County winners were Mumford, Clifton Seely, Greenwood; and Eugene Parker, Lincoln. No Castle County corn grower in the DCIA program reached the 100-bushel mark.

Second and third state honors in the soybean contest went to Edward Metz, Georgetown, 49.4 bushels; and William L. Stolzfus, Felton, 47.4 bushels per acre. Two New Castle County growers topped the 40-bushel mark. First was Elwood Fox, Bear, with 46.8 bushels per acre; and James Dickinson, Townsend, 40 bushels even. First three places in Kent County were won by Stolzfus, Frank Sydel, Hartly; and W. S. Snow, Jr., Smyrna. In Sussex County, the first three winners were Warringtons, Metz, and Seely.

County winners Edward E. Wilson, Newark, Blue Hen 4-H Club; Frank Thomas, Marydel, White Oak 4-H Club; and Phillip Messick, Millsboro, Indian River 4-H Club, were awarded scholarships to the 4-H short course next June at the University of Delaware. The trio received the scholarships for taking honors Monday evening in crops seed judging at the grange.

Crops and soils short course speaker Earl F. Crouse, vice-president of Doane Agricultural Service, St. Louis, Mo., said to an audience of 150 people, mostly high school F.F.A. students, that marketing is the area in which we can expect fastest progress. Mrs. Consumer will be calling the turn. Eviscerated broilers, cut up ready for the pan were cited as an example.

Dr. John Washko, Pennsylvania State University agronomist, suggested that farmers consider using more grasses for hay and pasture crops rather than the legumes which are harder to establish, and are more subject to disease. Nitrogen fertilizers can now be applied relatively cheap to bring up the protein levels.

Agricultural specialists from the University of Delaware school of agriculture rounded out the short course program. Frank B. Springer, Jr., assistant agronomist, said he does not believe there is a place for grain sorghums on Delaware farms where a good, average corn crop can be grown. One year, sorghum may out-yield corn, he said, but the next three or four years corn will likely be more profitable. Reasons Springer gave for not planting sorghums were: Inconsistent climatic conditions, the difficulty of getting a good stand during Delaware's usual cool, wet spring weather, and the average temperature not being high enough for maximum production.

Agronomist William H. Mitchell pointed out, careful management is needed to make the venture economical. Irrigation brought about one extra ton of alfalfa hay per acre, the agronomist continued. He suggested two four-inch applications of water to bring the same harvest as six one-inch application.

Extension Dairyman Delmar J. Young suggested using all forage crops to make high quality silage. He emphasized that the better the quality of the crop, the better the silage quality. Young said to time cutting of silage crops just as hay cutting is timed.

Agronomist Leo J. Cotnoir, Jr., said the greatest value is obtained from soil testing when fields are identified for a year-to-year comparison of tests, when lime, fertilizer and yield records are kept, and samples are taken properly. He pointed out that a system of yearly sampling, testing and recording for comparison over years will enable more accurate recommendations.

Dr. Henry W. Indyk, agronomist, noted that corn yields were increased for two years in a three-year irrigation study. In 1954, he found that corn irrigation brought a yield increase of about 80 bushels an acre. In 1957 Dr. Indyk jumped the harvest to 100 bushels. The agronomist learned there is no response to nitrogen on corn, unless water is applied.

Entomologist Donald MacCreary said this was a bad year for mites on soybeans, and also the first year Delaware soybeans have been troubled by other insects such as corn earworm, green clover worm and the velvet green caterpillar to the extent that treatment was needed. In the past, he said, Delaware soybeans have rarely been attacked by insects.

U. D. Research Aim: More Attractive Holly

Two University of Delaware researchers are working on a project they hope will mean more attractive holly for home decoration.

Project leader Dr. C. W. Dunham, school of agriculture horticulturist; and David V. Tatnall, graduate assistant in horticulture, are conducting the study on a grant from the Holly Society of America, Inc. Tatnall's two-year assistantship is being financed by the society.

Dr. Dunham explained that nutrition requirements of the state tree are being investigated. An attempt is being made, he said, to accumulate basic information on the kinds and proportions of fertilizer elements needed by the plant. Work also is underway to determine nutrient deficiency symptoms of holly.

Holly growing, the horticulturist continued, is a coming business that could gain stature as a minor source of income. He added that Delaware people cut a lot of native holly at Christmas. Much of that is being replaced by cultivated holly, because the "tame" plant is more attractive.

Initial work at the university is being done with sand-nutrient holly cultures in the school of agriculture greenhouse. Field studies at the university and nurseries in the area are contemplated.

Rutgers University also has a society-sponsored project underway, Dr. Dunham said. The New Jersey researchers are working on holly breeding and plant oxygen needs. It is hoped, the Delaware researcher stated, that much field testing will be carried on at other universities in the United States.

Dr. Dunham said that hardier species of English holly, especially, are wanted in Delaware. The horticulturists also are working with species of American, Japanese and Chinese holly.

Dr. Dunham pointed out the production of new hardier holly species could extend the United States growing range farther north. So far, holly is grown across the country from southern New England on south, and up into Canada in the west where the climate is more suitable.

Last summer, Dr. John Creech, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's plant introduction center, brought several Japanese types of holly into the United States. Dr. Dunham reported these may be hardy enough to grow above the present northern boundary.

Need to Remove Fabric Stains: Quick Action

Don't let your clothing and table linens be stain "casualties" during the holiday season. Miss Lois N. Korslund said today.

The University of Delaware home economics extension clothing specialist suggested quick action to restore fabrics to their original condition. Stains allowed to stay often harden, meaning use of a remover so strong that cloth might be damaged.

When a fabric does get stained, the clothing specialist urged learning just what caused it—and helping you to select a remover that will take the spot out and not damage the cloth.

Spilled coffee and tea commonly cause stains during holiday parties like those coming, Miss Korslund said. These can be removed with water and glycerine, boiling water, or hydrogen peroxide and sodium perborate.

You can remove fresh stains from washable materials by pouring boiling water on the stain from a height of two or three feet, then washing in warm soapy water. If a trace of stain remains, dry in the sun—or bleach with hydrogen peroxide and sodium perborate.

If the stains are on wool or silk, sponge with lukewarm water. Then apply glycerine and rub lightly between the hands. Let stand for one-half hour and rinse thoroughly with water. If a grease spot from cream remains, sponge with a grease solvent.

A third method is to sponge with clear water and then with a solution of one teaspoon sodium perborate to one pint of hydrogen peroxide. If the stain still shows, sprinkle powdered sodium perborate on the stain and let stand half an hour before rinsing well with water.

The Delaware researchers hope to come up with preliminary results in about one year, with conclusive findings on some cultures in two years. Field testing could take much longer, they indicated. Then recommendations for commercial and home growth could be given.

Veterans News

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—I am drawing monthly compensation checks from VA, and I also hold a GI term insurance policy on which I pay monthly premiums. Could I arrange for VA to deduct the amount of the premiums from my compensation check, so I wouldn't have the bother of making my own payments every month?

A—Yes, provided your compensation payments are at least as large as the amount of your GI insurance premium payments.

Q—I was not able to start Korean GI training within three years from my discharge, since I was out of the country on a Government job. Could an exception be made in my case, allowing me to begin my schooling now?

A—No. The law requires veterans to begin Korean GI training within three years from the date of their discharge or separation. It allows for no exceptions.

Q—May my daughter get War Orphans educational allowances while attending public high school? She meets eligibility requirements for the allowances.

A—No. The law prohibits young men and women from taking regular high school training under the War Orphans Education program. The only below-college courses permitted are those leading to a definite vocational goal.

Q—I am a World War II veteran, out of service for 10 years. I have a disability which I believe to be service-connected. If I file a claim with VA and it is approved, would I be entitled to retroactive compensation payments all the way back to my first day in civilian life?

A—No. Compensation may be made retroactive to a veteran's first day in civilian life if only he applies within one year from his discharge and VA finds the disability was compensable at that time. Otherwise, the payments may date back only to your date of application.

WINTER-USED TRACTORS

RATE SPECIAL CARE

Farm tractors used for odd jobs this winter will wear more than they did during regular use all summer—unless they get special care, says George Vapaa, County agricultural agent.

In offering tips on winter care, the agent says to keep a tractor engine running until it's completely warm, once it is started. This will remove condensation that could keep the tractor from starting later, and prevent rust from forming. A way to stop water from condensing in the gas is to keep the fuel tank filled.

Maintenance work Mr. Vapaa suggests to cut down on excessive winter wear is:

Use proper winter-grade lubricants. Of special importance are the crankcase, transmission hydraulic and power systems, and the air cleaner.

Check the electrical system for "bad spots," and keep the battery fully charged, meaning quick starts and no freezing. Clean or replace spark plugs.

Give the tractor a good cleaning, particularly the engine. This will cut down on moisture accumulation and enable fast starts.

Finally, the county agent reminds of something you probably have already done—put antifreeze in the cooling system, or drain water from the system after each time you use the tractor.

The only 1958 car that offers more of everything you want... yet is priced lower than in '57

Here's great news! While prices of 1958 cars of other manufacturers are up, the price of Ford's exciting new Custom 300 Series is down. A brand-new 58 Ford Custom 300 with all of its exciting new styling and engineering advances is priced lower than a '57 model, similarly equipped!

World approved styling. A Custom 300 brings you styling that is dramatically new. With its Honeycombed grille, Slipstream roof, Deep-Sculptured rear deck, and Safety-Twin headlights and taillights, Ford styling drew admiring glances from Paris to Saigon... yet it's yours now in any 58 Ford Custom 300 without extra cost!

New handling ease. Slide behind the wheel of a Custom 300 and you'll soon discover just how much fun driving can be. Notice how smoothly it handles. That's Ford's new feather-touch Magic-Circle steering, the next best thing to power steering.

New riding comfort. Notice, too, the solid comfort of your ride. That's Ford's easier acting front and rear suspensions. They soak up the bumps before they reach you.

Thrifty, new engines. You have a wonderful choice of new, more efficient power plants... designed for real gas-saving economy plus greater performance. Six or V-8, they give you more power, smoother power, from less gas!

Priced as much as $50 lower. A comparison of manufacturer's suggested retail delivered prices shows that a 58 Ford Custom 300 is priced as much as $50 less than the same model for '57! You'll wonder how Ford can offer so many of the things you want in a car priced so low. One big reason: Ford gives you more car for less money because Fords sell more! See and drive a Custom 300 and we believe you'll agree that these Fords give you more real value for your car-buying dollars than any car on the American road today.

Last Call For Veteran's Bonuses

Time is running out for some Delaware residents eligible for veterans bonuses in this or some other state, warns the Delaware State Development Department. Deadlines for making application for Delaware bonuses are: Jan. 1, 1958, for Korean Conflict veterans; and Jan. 30, 1958, for World War II veterans.

According to information received by the Development Department, the following deadlines are applicable to other states:

December 31, 1957, for making applications for Korean Conflict bonuses in Connecticut and the State of Washington, and for filing for World War II bonuses in Montana.

March 7, 1958, for applications for Korean Conflict bonus in Michigan.

July 1, 1958, is the last day for acceptance of application for Korean Conflict or World War II bonus in New Hampshire.

Dec. 31, 1958, for applying for Korean Conflict bonus in Ohio and in Minnesota.

June 30, 1959, for applying for Korean Conflict bonus in West Virginia.

Feb. 15, 1960, last day for acceptance of applications for Korean Conflict bonus in North Dakota.

descendants attended her recent 90th birthday party.

Dec. 31, 1960, deadline for Iowans and former residents of Iowa to seek compensation for Korean Conflict service.

Delawareans, who were residents of Louisiana prior to service in World War I, the Spanish American War, Boxer Rebellion or Philippine Insurrection, have until Jan. 1, 1959, to make application for bonus now available in that state.

Former residents of Massachusetts and Vermont, who saw service in either World War II or the Korean Conflict, currently have no deadlines to worry about as "break off" dates have not, as yet, been set for these states. Former residents of New York State, who served in World War II, are in the same enviable position.

According to the Development Department, information concerning bonuses and application forms should be sought through offices in the states involved. Assistance in the preparation of documentary proof of eligibility and in completing applications may be obtained from the service officers of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion and Disabled American Veterans, all located in the Dravo Building in Wilmington.

COUNCIL

er to the Chamber of Commerce to assist in paying for the Christmas program.

After the meeting, George Graham said he would run for re-election as Councilman in the Fourth Ward. Graham, who has served two terms, had said, some time ago, he would not run; his explanation, "I changed my mind." The January election will also see candidates in the Second Ward of Councilman Charles Pack Sr., and in the First Ward of Walter Messick. Messick has moved just outside the city limits. A year remains in his three-year term. Tom E. Brown, outgoing fire chief, has been mentioned as a likely candidate.

He then went to the home of his parents, Richardson Park, Wilmington, to recuperate for several days.

In the absence of our vicar, the Rev. Paul A. Kellogg of Christ Church, Dover led us in our annual Thanksgiving Eve services last Wednesday, 8 p.m. The keynote of the evening devotions may be found in the quotation from 1 Thessalonians 5: 18: "In everything give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you." Mr. Kellogg based his sermon on Psalm 136: "O give thanks unto the Lord, for he is gracious, and his mercy endureth forever."

During the singing of four verses of the Doxology "All praise to thee, my Lord, this night," members of the congregation brought their offering of food to the sanctuary, where it was placed at the base of the altar. Then followed prayers for the blessing of the food.

After the service, the offering of good things to eat was distributed to needy families of Harrington.

St. Bernadette's Church Notes

Sunday will be the second Sunday of Advent. The season of Advent begins on the 4th Sunday before Christmas. This time is set aside by the Church to bring before our eyes the incarnation of our Lord, the coming of Jesus Christ through grace and the coming of our Lord on the Last Day to judge the living and the dead. The proper Christian sentiments to be developed during this time are: penance and an ardent love, worthily preparing men for the Feast of the Savior's birth.

Sunday we also celebrate the feast of the Immaculate Conception. The doctrine that our Lady "in the first instant of her conception was, by a singular grace and privilege of Almighty God in view of the merits of Jesus Christ the Savior of the human race, preserved exempt from all stain or original sin."

It must be noticed that, contrary to a common error, this doctrine has nothing to do with the virgin birth of Christ; nor does it involve a virgin birth of Mary; she was physically conceived and born the ordinary way. But her soul at the first moment of its creation and infusion into her body was clothed in sanctifying grace which to every other child of Adam is only given in the first instance after birth.

The stain of original sin was not removed but excluded from her soul. It was altogether becoming that as the Only Begotten had a Father in Heaven whom the seraphim extol as thrice holy, so he should have a mother on earth who should never lack the splendor of holiness.

There will be a High Mass on Sunday at 9:30. Confessions will be heard before Mass. Religious instruction for high school students will be given Sunday evening at 7:30 at the parish house. Classes for grade school children will be held Wednesday afternoon at 3:45. There will be a choir rehearsal for adults Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the church to prepare for the Christmas midnight Mass. Saturday morning at 1 o'clock there will be a rehearsal for the junior choir to prepare for the Mass Christmas morning.

Mother M. Hildegard, O. S. B., superior of St. Gertrude's Convent and Academy in Ridgely is conducting a Social Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Motherhouse in Ridgely. Teenage girls from the 9th to 12th grades, from the parishes of this area are invited to attend. This event will acquaint the girls with the motherhouse, the sisters, postulants, the novices and the students of the academy. The girls that are going will meet at the parish house at 1:15 o'clock.

There will be Mass in Milford Monday evening at 7:30. St. John's parish in Milford are holding their annual Christmas bazaar. In addition, an oyster supper will be served this evening beginning at 4 o'clock.

Iraq will dig 300 artesian wells. Beljeat will tackle slum problems.
