

HARRINGTON GIRL PLAYED WITH FLORIDA MAD DOG

A Harrington girl, a student at Florida Southern College, Lakeland, Fla., is taking anti-rabies shots, after it had been revealed that at least eight persons were known to have been bitten by a puppy after it had been cuddled and petted by scores of coeds.

The death of the dog and the determination it was rabid touched off a series of telephone calls by college officials to points all over the country to warn 82 girls known to have been in contact with it.

However, Dr. and Mrs. Hewitt W. Smith received a telegram from the college Friday and, after some difficulty in securing the serum, started the shots Friday night on their daughter, Alwilda. Miss Smith is a member of the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority where the pet had become a sort of a mascot.

A college spokesman said the animal was smuggled against school rules into the sorority. The house mother suspected its presence but was never able to find it, or learn who brought it in.

Miss Smith's room was next to that having the puppy and she played with it. Her roommate, Judy Ann Peretrom, of Ft. Worth, Fla., was bitten by it.

The dog was sick, when the students left for the holidays, Dec. 18, and was left at Frostproof, Fla., with a sorority member, Barbara Hopson. The dog bit the father, A. M. Hopson, Barbara, and Hopson's son, Allen.

When the animal died, it was taken to a veterinarian for examination. Preliminary examination showed it had rabies.

Miss Smith will receive a shot daily for 14 days. She was supposed to go back to school Sunday but will remain home until she has had all her shots.

H.H.S. Cagers to Play St. Peters Tuesday Night

All has not been turkey and stuffing for the High School cage squad. Coach Dick Jeffers has worked the squad out against foreign opposition four times during the Christmas holiday period.

Dover H. S. was played and all but the 1st team of Dover was handled by the local boys easily, the National Guard with Richie Dennis leading the attack beat the varsity 47-46. Then in 5 quarters the town team under Wayne Browns leadership was handled 76-63 and finally yesterday afternoon an undermanned squad played a fine game against Delmar High School and conquered the much bigger Delmar squad 48-39.

The standouts in this game were the six boys that made the trip: Bob Wilson, Richard Sapp, and Bill Manship, worked very well on the banking boards, Jim Schiff had a good day dropping in 16 points, Jack Porter played his usual fine all around game and Dave Welch was everybodys substitute and did a creditable job at all positions.

Mrs. Doris Fry is helping out with our cheerleader program as sponsor since the beginning of basketball season and all students attending games will be encouraged to set in the center two sections of the field house bleacher for the cheerleaders cheering section. This worked out very well at our last home game against Rehoboth.

Coach Jeffers and Smith are hoping that the same type of fine support will be behind the basketball teams as we had from the community in football, your backing is of great importance to us.

$100,000 Fire At Seaford; $20,000 Fire Near Dover

Flames, fed by cartons of matches and numerous paper products, caused damage estimated in the neighborhood of $100,000 at the H. E. Dailey Tobacco Company in Seaford, in a spectacular early morning blaze Wednesday.

Another fire swept three buildings on a farm near Dover, causing $20,000 damages, Wednesday night. Police suspect arson in that fire.

In Seaford the building of the tobacco company which served as a combination office and warehouse, was termed a complete loss.

Merchandise loaded in four of the company's trucks parked outside the building was also scorched and badly damaged.

Firemen played water on the trucks, although the flames did not reach them, the intense heat and water took their toll of the contents.

Volunteers from Seaford and Blades were on duty throughout the early morning hours at the scene.

The alarm was sounded shortly after 1 a.m. by a West Point cadet home on Christmas leave.

Cadet Discovers Fire
The cadet, Redd Barrows, was passing by and saw the flames. He went to a nearby home and called firemen. Then, he alerted people in the neighboring houses.

Six pieces of fire-fighting equipment and about 70 men from the two companies were on the scene until about 6 a.m.

Cause of the fire was tentatively set as a space heater in the company office.

The company was closed Tuesday and no one was in the warehouse that day.

The roof of the building caved in during the fire but the walls of the building were left standing.

The firm is a wholesale dealer in cigarettes, packaged tobacco, and confectionaries.

Blaze Attracts Crowd
The building, a two-story frame structure, is owned by J. Emory Willey. He said both the building and its contents were partially covered by insurance.

Flames were visible for some distance and attracted a large crowd to the scene. Auxiliary policemen were on duty directing traffic and controlling the crowd.

Firemen returned to the scene briefly at 10 a.m. Wednesday when the still-smoldering paper threatened to flare up again.

Arson Suspected
Fire believed caused by arson, destroyed a packing house and two adjoining sheds on the farm owned by Harvey Opedyke, and occupied by Joseph Consalo, at Coggill's Corner, near Dover, Wednesday evening. Police said two teen-age boys were seen leaving the packing house just before the fire was discovered.

Mr. Opedyke tentatively estimated the loss at $20,000; $10,000 to the buildings and $10,000 to the equipment, including arm machinery and 10,000 potato bags.

The Little Creek Fire Company answered the alarm at 6:25 p.m. and later called for assistance from the Leipsic and Dover companies. Firemen were at the scene about an hour and a half. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Also damaged was a granary building next to the packing shed but firemen prevented the flames from getting a headway in that area.

The farm is located on the Little Creek-Leipsic road.

Highway Dept. Has 14 Projects Ready For Bids

A total of 14 projects have been prepared by the State Highway Department and are ready to be advertised for bids, according to Ernest Davidson, Principal Highway Engineer, for the department.

According to R. A. Haber, Chief Engineer of the Department, the projects will be advertised just as soon as the Bonding Authority of the State will permit such action and approval is received from the Bureau of Public Roads for those projects that will include federal aid funds in their cost.

It has also indicated that plans and specifications on almost all of these projects are available now for prospective bidders who desire to receive them. Some of the projects are the ones that were advertised previously, but for which bids could not be received by the Department because of the executive order issued in connection with the fiscal difficulty.

The projects now ready for construction include many types of work, including improvement of suburban development streets, modernization of some existing highways, reconstruction of some small bridges, the improvement of some existing dirt roads and the parkway planting along two sections of the dual highway, along US Route 13.

The suburban development street improvements include the rebuilding of Atlantic, Alice and Lake streets in Richardson Park, streets in Cranston Heights and Richardson Park and Marian Avenue in Bellefonte, which will provide a new access road from the Philadelphia Pike to River Road.

The highway improvement listed include the paving of area in connection with the enlarged underpass at Naaman's along US Route 13, the reconstruction and improvement of Marsh and Edgemoor Roads, leading from the Philadelphia Pike to the shopping center, near Edgemoor, and the widening to 22 feet of the existing 9 foot highway from Bacon to Whitesville, in lower Sussex County.

The dirt roads to be improved consist of 8 sections of roads, having a total mileage of 13.63 miles, and are all located in the southern section of New Castle county, west of the dual highway. The improvement of a series of dirt roads in this section, located east of the dual highway, are now under construction for improvement.

Included in the projects are the widening and improvement of a series of existing small bridges throughout Kent county. Another project provides for the improvement of extension of nine groins along the beach front at Bethany Beach.

The improvement of Division Street, in Dover, from Salisbury Road, west of the city, to US Route 13, east of the city, is another project that is ready for the bidders, as is also the construction of a sidewalk at the Miquadale School, which the Highway Department will construct for the Miquadale-Rose Hill School District, and for which a special legislative appropriation was provided to defray the cost.

The parkway planting will be located along US Route 13 from Brown's Church to the Delaware-Maryland line, with the work being divided into two projects. (Continued on back page)

Photographer Robbed Of Cash and Camera Equipment

A Dover photographer was robbed of some $200 and photographic equipment, valued at $400, Saturday night by three Negroes, two of whom forced their way into his car, after a third had been granted a ride for helping push the car out of the mud at a restaurant south of Harrington on U.S. 13.

Clem Miltiades, the photographer, had stopped at the restaurant after filling an assignment at a Harrington wedding. When he became stuck in the mud, several Negroes pushed it out. Miltiades granted a ride to one and two others got into the back seat without being invited.

He was driven around the county for some time, robbed of money and equipment. The car was returned to the restaurant and the Negroes fled.

The camera equipment was recovered by Wilbur Hynson, Greenwood, who found it beside U.S. 13, just south of the fairgrounds, and gave it to the State Police.

Theatre Tax Suit Dismissed; Appeal Undecided

FOUR COUNCIL POSTS TO BE CONTESTED IN ELECTION

Probably the hottest municipal election in years will take place here Tues., Jan. 14, with contests for councilmen in four of the City's six wards. Ordinarily, only two councilmen are elected each year.

Four councilmen, from the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th wards, are to be elected. The two extra posts are made available by the moving of a councilman from the City and by a resignation.

Veteran Councilman Charles Peck Sr., a member of the governing body for more than 20 years, will seek re-election from the 2nd ward and his petition has been submitted. He is associated with his sons in Peck Brothers Farm Supply. Through the petition has not been presented, it can be presented at a citizens meeting Fri., Jan. 10, Allen Rutledge, Harrington school teachers, will oppose Peck.

George Graham, 4th Ward incumbent, is aspiring for his third term. He has filed his petition and operates a service station on Clark Street.

Kenneth Aiken, fuel dealer, has been mentioned as an opponent for Graham but he refused, Tuesday, to make any commitments.

With the moving of Councilman Walter Messick, from the First Ward to outside the city limits, an election will be held in this ward, for the year remaining in the unexpired term.

Thomas Brown, a trouble-shooter for the Delaware Power and Light Company, has filed a petition.

Councilman Charles Jerread turned in his resignation Monday, citing personal reasons and refusing to elaborate on them. Hence, an election will be held in the 3rd Ward for a candidate to serve the year remaining in the unexpired term.

George H. Exley, 105 Commerce St., told The Journal Wednesday, he would file a petition to run as councilman to serve out the year remaining in Jerread's term.

Petitions may be presented at the City Hall or at the annual citizens meeting Fri., Jan. 10, at the Firehall. Petitions must have not less than 10 signers nor more than 25.

Holder councilmen are Norman Oliver, 5th Ward, and John Apte, 6th Ward. Mayor Hewitt W. Smith is also a holdover. His two-year term expires next year.

Representing the Council at the trial were Councilman Jack Apte, City Manager Norris C. Adams, and City Clerk Kathryn Simpson.

The City and Harrington have had a troubled tax problem for some 11 years. When the theater burned down during World War II, and was rebuilt, the Council, at a meeting, March 4, 1946, agreed on an assessment of $18,000, the same as on the previous structure, as it was a replacement. Harrington said he had not requested it. At the trial Monday were William Foreman, 1946 Mayor, and Ernest Homewood and Charles Taiman, 1946 councilmen. However, they were not called on to testify. It was Harrington's contention the 1946 assessment was a matter of record.

The City had offered, earlier this year, to accept an assessment of $18,000, for 1957, only if Harrington paid off on the 1956 assessment of $25,000.

In 1950, the assessment was $35,000, but was reduced to $30,000.

In March, 1951, the 1950 assessment was reduced to $25,000, and taxes were paid on this assessment for 1950, 1951, 1952. In 1953, 1954, 1955, a settlement was made on an assessment of $18,000 after it was revealed the assessment lists had carried the name of the Reese Theatre, instead of that of the owner.

Harrington said he had always offered to pay on the $18,000 assessment promised him in 1946, but that he refused to pay taxes on the $25,000 assessment. Hence, the City instigated the suit.

Two tax suits were dismissed Monday morning in the court of Magistrate L. Gooden Callaway. They had been filed by the City of Harrington.

One suit had been filed against Reese B. Harrington and his wife, Alta C. Harrington, for 1956 taxes, and the other, for 1957 taxes, against Harrington.

Three referees—George Simpson, William W. Shaw, and Mrs. Frances Hatfield—moved for the dismissal on a technicality.

The City has not decided if it will appeal the case. It has 15 days to appeal. Terry & Draper, Dover, were attorneys for the plaintiff, with H. C. Brown, attorney for the defendant.

The litigation involved unpaid taxes of $350 per annum on the building housing the Reese Theatre and two adjoining store properties. The structure is assessed at $25,000.

The defense contended that the property was owned by Harrington alone and that the suit for 1956 was improperly drawn up since the assessment list and, consequently, the suit, included the name of his wife.

The assessment list, for 1957, mentioned Harrington as owner of the property.

A referee told the Harrington Journal, that the technicality on which the case was dismissed, was that the referees were shown only one entry, hence but one case, on the docket and that this was grounds for dismissal since the 1956 list included the name of a person not owning the property.

However, the dismissal came immediately after the defense attorney had pointed out the fact that the minutes of a Council meeting, preceding the hanging of the 1957 tax list, had not disclosed a motion to change the listing of the theater property to Reese B. Harrington, although the Council did move, at this same meeting, to accept the tax list and all changes.

Thompson, superintendent of Church School; Herbert Chamberlain, Mrs. Clarence Reed and Mrs. Granville Hill, teachers in the Church School; Mrs. W. W. Welch, Mrs. Robert McNally, Mrs. Herbert Chamberlain, Mrs. Gilbert H. Keim, committee of the Women's Auxiliary. The children packed three packages of goodies for needy families in this area.

Open house was held Christmas Eve following the candle-light service by Mr. and Mrs. Robert McNally at their home near Vernon.

Ushers for the last two Sundays were Messrs. Robert E. Baynard, Granville Hill, Earl McColley, and Clyde Perry.

The church was hung with festive greens and holly for the holiday services. Wreaths made by the teenage club hung at each window. A spotlight was installed at the rear of the church, outside, to light up the window at the altar. White and red flowers were on the altar and potted poinsettias banked the sanctuary. A candle shone in each window of the church. The creche was set up in the small alcove at the rear so that one saw it first entering the church.

The ladies on the Altar Guild for December were Mrs. Robert E. Baynard and Mrs. Archie Ford.

The Harrington area United Crusade to bring more of God into the lives of our people will begin Tuesday, Jan. 14, and continue through Sun., Jan. 19. This is an effort on the part of the Harrington Ministerial Association to awaken the Christian spirit of devotion to God in the hearts of the people of our community. It is hoped that many people of Harrington will participate in this endeavor both in preparing for it and in attending the meetings.

During this holiday season our thoughts and prayers have been with Robert Quillen and his family in the tragic death of his nephew, Christopher Quillen, at Georgetown Christmas day.

The program for this week remaining and next week will be as follows: Thursday, 8 p.m. choir rehearsal; Sunday 8 a.m., Holy Com.; 9:30 a.m. church school; 11 a.m. Holy Communion; 12:15 p.m. coffee hour; 5 p.m. teenage group; 7 p.m. evening prayer; Monday, 7 p.m. junior choir; Tuesday, 10 a.m. Holy Communion and intercession for the sick; 7 p.m. acolytes' meeting; Wednesday, 8 p.m. Healing service at Seaford.

Nazarene Church Notes

The Harrington Church of the Nazarene was among the 4,500 congregations of the International Protestant Church that prayed at special Watch Night services around the world Tuesday, opening the denomination's golden anniversary year.

The official birthday of the Church of the Nazarene was Oct. 13, 1908 at Pilot Point, Tex., when a group of smaller churches in the east, west and south formally united. The local church here was among the first to be organized and accepted into the denomination, then known as the Harrington Pentecostal Church of the Nazarene. The local church will take part in other simultaneous services during the 1958 jubilee year.

January 5th marks the start of our anniversary year. 9:45 a. m. Sunday School with all classes working towards 100% attendance.

11 a. m. Worship service with the Youth Choir singing "O Mighty God." The pastor's message will be entitled "We Inherited This Church."

7 p. m. N.Y.P.S. Charles Derickson will be in charge of this service. "A Prince In a Jail," the life of Phineas B. Esse, held under of the Church of the Nazarene.

7:30 p. m. Evangelistic service. Wed. 7:30 p. m. World-wide Missions.

Thursday, 6:45 p. m. Choir practice.

The following is a greeting received from our President to the Church of the Nazarene:

To the members and friends of the Church of the Nazarene, joined in the observance of their denomination's fiftieth anniversary year, I send greetings!

For half a century, by faith and work, you have grown in service to a wide community. In this tradition, I am sure your fellowship will continue to flourish in devotion to God and neighbor.

Congratulations and best wishes.

Dear Folks:

There are dozens of surprises in the new John Reese Day we've planned for you, your family, and your friends. More colorful, more informative, more entertaining than ever, it's entirely different from previous John Reese Day programs.

In beautiful Technicolor you'll see an interesting new "Dollies in Farming," your old friend Tom Gordon, an interesting success story on irrigation. In "What's New for '58" you'll see the latest in farm machinery. The feature picture is something new—a rib-tickling western musical comedy. And tying the program together are colorfully costumed choruses and trios singing bouncy music written especially for this show. It's a program you and your family will long remember.

Here's something else—no tickets are required. You simply have to show up on the date, at the time, and at the place shown below. You'll be our guests.

We're counting on you!

Needlecraft News

by Nancy Baxter

Remember when crochet meant, specifically, working with fine thread? When white or ecru were the only colors used while doilies, edgings and antimacassars were the only articles in a crocheter's repertoire? It seems impossible that today's most versatile form of art needlework was once subject to such limitations.

CONTEMPORARY CROCHET

We find it somewhat difficult to say exactly what crochet means to us today for its moods range from quiet dignity to festive gaiety, its colors from neutrals to brilliants, its textures from web-like lace to tweedy nubbinness, its purposes from decorative to utilitarian. Contemporary crochet can add charm to any room in the house and to the appearance of any member of the household. Let us consider some of the many possibilities of crochet in the modern home. In the kitchen—potholders, hot plate mats, towel edgings, dish cloths, place mats, curtain trimmings; in the living room—seater rugs, couch covers, draperies, doilies, lamp shade covers; in the dining room—tablecloths, table mats, glass jackets, centerpiece, buffet runners, napkin edgings; in the bedroom—bedspreads, vanity table doilies, dresser scarves, rugs, edgings for bed linens, afghans; in the bathroom—floor mats, towel edgings, toilet seat covers. Though this is but a short list, and you could add many more items to it, this serves to illustrate the influence crochet has on today's living and the unending enjoyment it can give to the needleworker.

RINGS AROUND THE TABLE

Bone rings, in two sizes, are all dressed up to go dining in cheerful fashion. Each ring is covered with double-thick crochet cotton and joined to the next to make a place mat and hot plate for informal entertaining. This pretty set offers protection to your table top for it is heat-resistant, too.

SMALL "TOOLS" ARE SEWING AIDS

Nine small items that are big sewing aids were mentioned by Ruth Adams, county home demonstration agent. Many of them you may already have in the house. None are expensive.

One thing you might want for holding the small "tools" is a cabinet, box, or basket, or drawer that pulls out at the side of your favorite sewing chair. Any device that keeps equipment in order, good condition, and so that you can get at it without upsetting all that is desirable.

Small sewing aids to put in the container are:

Tweezers for pulling bastings and thread ends caught under stitches in the machines. Needle threaders for hand and sewing machine needles. (White paper or cloth held under the machine needle eye will make it easier to see for threading.) Magnets to pick up pins and needles and serve as a pin cushion. A crocheter or button hook for turning belts and pulling slide fasteners from under the presser foot.

Beeswax to strengthen thread for sewing on fasteners. (Useful also in helping to your iron surface—smooth and clean.) Seam rippers—old razor blades are invaluable for ripping. Device for holding the blades ranges from window scrapers to strips of adhesive tape. A pincushion with a two-inch elastic band that permits it to be worn over two or three fingers is a convenience in cutting and fitting. Cover it with bright wool and stuff with hair or wood ravelings. The bright color will make the cushion easier to see, and the wool covering and stuffing will help prevent rusting. A pincushion attached to the sewing machine arm is also a time saver.

Fullers earth, a cake of French chalk, or a block of magnesia for oil spots and has a perspiration absorbent to prevent marring delicate fabrics. A padded brick to hold material firm as you pin hems or other construction lines.

AVOID APRIL LIME RUSH

Don't lose out by putting off liming until the April rush begins, George Vapaa, county agricultural agent suggested today. You can avoid the rush easily by having lime applied this winter when the ground is dry or hard-frozen. If April happens to be a wet month, you can't get lime on before planting time, Mr. Vapaa said. For many crops, this means a waste of fertilizer and a loss in yield.

In general, the county agent said, fields in legumes or to be planted to lime-loving vegetable crops need lime—if an application hasn't been made in the last three to four years. The minimum rate for most crops is one to one and one-half tons per acre. The most reliable method for determining lime needs is to send soil samples to the soil testing laboratory at the University of Delaware school of agriculture. There the soil is analyzed, meaning lime applications can be tailored to a particular crop. Samples are analyzed free.

Soil testing application blanks and information on taking good samples can be obtained by contacting the Kent County Extension Office, second floor, Dover post office building.

WATCH FOR WINTER DYSENTERY IN CATTLE

Keep on the alert for signs of winter dysentery in cattle kept in barns this winter.

The caution was issued today by George K. Vapaa, county agricultural agent, who said the disease can affect both dairy and beef cattle. Striking generally from November to March, the disease often spreads through a whole herd, and can become widespread in an area.

Probably the death rate from the disease will be low, but economic losses are usually high. Milk is lost, and gains by beef animals are slowed.

Main symptoms are scouring and a sudden drop in milk production. Harder-hit animals may pass blood freely, the agent explained. Occasionally one of these might die.

Most animals will recover in a few days, but Mr. Vapaa added, dairy cows severely hit likely will not produce milk at their previous rate.

The agricultural agent urged calling a veterinarian to map out control at first sign of the disease.

Three hundred women supporters of ex-president Juan Peron fought a pitched battle with police in Buenos Aires. Police riot squads arrived to break up the demonstration.

Budget Deficit Due in Maryland

Maryland revenue estimators today took a gloomy pre-Christmas look at tax collections and predicted the state would wind up $1,303,220 in the red next June 30.

It was the first budget deficit forecast since the 1930s and more than wiped out a surplus of $6,421,823 predicted by the Board of Revenue Estimates for the current fiscal year when it met with the Legislature last March. The board lopped a total of $17,474,711 off the amounts it had earlier forecast for tax yields in the current year and the year which will begin next July 1.

Coupled with increased state spending anticipated mainly in the fields of health, education and welfare, it will leave Theodore R. McKeldin a reported $40,000,000 shy of revenue needed to balance the 1958-59 budget.

The governor is understood to be planning to ask the Legislature to increase the sales and income taxes 1 per cent each in order to close this gap.

Needlecraft News by Nancy Baxter

When Mother Nature changes seasons, she inspires us to make transformations, too, in our mode of living indoors. Soon she will be warming the earth with springtime sunshine, a signal to every homemaker to brighten up her family's surroundings in the same cheerful mood. Very few of us can make complete conversions in our interiors from season to season, but we can accessorize accordingly which is exactly what Nature does when she dons her new leaves, grass and flowers. A change of accessories can make a room—or landscape—look entirely different.

HARMONIOUS ACCESSORIES

Accessories, the little things that count in home decor, establish a mood and reflect your personality if chosen wisely. Their color and design should be in harmony with the rest of the room to provide a successful effect. Unless you are an expert at interior decorating, don't try to mix delicate, bone china accessories with bold, modern furniture, or place Japanese prints in a rustic setting. Do use accessories that accent but stay in character with the rest of the room.

A crocheter can express her personality and decorating sense through the accessories she makes. With the vast assortment of threads, yarns and colors available to her, she can spark up a room according to her mood. If she likes typically modern surroundings, the heavy textured crocheted cottons are perfect for her use. If it's a light, springtime feeling she is trying to relate, lace, crocheted accessories will harmonize beautifully with the floral slipcovers and airy curtains. Pineapple patterns blend well with conventional furnishings; large, open meshes are good for contemporary settings, while filet work is a treat for early American decor.

When you are preparing your home for springtime, lacy doilies deserve your consideration. This lovely, open mesh design may add just the airy touch you are looking for. The wheat and grape pattern crocheted within the circle brings Nature's spirit indoors when it is most welcome. A soft green cotton was used, inspired by the season's budding foliage. The doily can be made in either a medium or large size to suit your needs.

LOWER DELAWARE BROILER FINANCING STUDIED

Considerable information regarding the financing of broiler production in lower Delaware has been issued in a new publication on a study conducted by the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station in co-operation with the Farm Economics Research Division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The research was Frank D. Hanning, research division agricultural economist. Hanning worked closely with agricultural economists at the University, particularly Dr. William E. McDaniell, chairman of the agricultural economics department.

Since much time was necessary to collect, evaluate and compile information, printing was only recently completed. Work first began in 1955 on the first study of this kind in Delaware.

In explaining the report, Dr. McDaniell said the study reveals that the average investment in chicks on feed, excluding investment in housing and equipment, is about $5.5 million. From 20 to 25 per cent of the investment is financed through credit given by feed manufacturers and other suppliers. About the same amount is financed with loans from dealers and independent growers. Some 50 to 60 per cent is supplied by dealers and independent growers from their own funds.

The researchers found that about two-thirds of all broilers grown in lower Delaware are produced under contracts with feed dealers. About six per cent are grown by independent growers. Feed dealers who contract with growers produce on their own account about 18 per cent of the broilers. The remaining 10 per cent are produced by non-contracting dealers who will sell little, if any, feed.

More than 70 per cent of contracted broilers are produced under guarantee that the growers will get a return for their labor and investment in housing and equipment. Some of these guarantees require that feed conversion meets minimum standards. Less than 30 per cent are produced on a share plan with no guaranteed return.

Most contract growers have fairly small net worths and produce broilers on a small scale. Net worth, the researchers explain, is a man's assets minus liabilities. Independent growers, on the average, have larger net worths and produce on a larger scale than contract growers.

Apparently, the researchers believe, as net worth and size of operation increase, more growers feel they can afford to accept risks.

Slightly more than half of the broiler growers in lower Delaware are full-time farmers. Some grow broilers and work as part-time farmers. Others are retired or nonfarmers. Full-time farmers are apt than other groups to produce independently.

Policies and methods of lending institutions, banks for example, apparently are not responsible to any great extent for the prevalence of contract growing. The terms on which small growers are financed appear to be about as favorable as those extended to large growers.

Banks and production credit associations reports that few independent growers apply for loans to finance purchase of chicks, feed, and other supplies.

It was found that dealers have a large measure of responsibility for decisions on practices followed in producing and marketing broilers.

The report indicates that all expect a few contract growers are satisfied with the arrangements they have for producing broilers. A few said they would like larger guarantee payments.

Most growers apparently prefer to grow broilers under contract, because this limits the risk and assures a return on labor and investment. They are willing to invest funds, labor, and materials in broiler houses and equipment and to borrow for such purposes. Few are willing to accept all the risks in investing in chicks, feed, and other supplies needed for current production.

Social Security Notes

A minister in southern Delaware received his first social security check last week. Until recently, clergymen were excluded from the protection of the social security law, but a recent amendment made it possible for those who so wish to elect coverage to do so without involving their church in any way in the arrangements.

The Reverend Mr. S. was one of those clergymen who decided to participate in this program. As a minister of a rural church, he had only a small pension to look forward to upon retirement, and he wanted to supplement this income with regular social security check.

When the law was amended, he signified his desire to become covered, notifying Internal Revenue Service on Form 2031 that henceforth he was waiving his exemption from paying a social security tax. Beginning with the year 1955 he paid his self-employment tax just as an individual, in the same manner as a businessman. He reported the cash salary paid him by his congregation, plus the offerings he received from weddings, christenings, and funerals. From this total he deducted his allowable expenses, and similar expenses incurred by him in connection with the exercise of his ministry. His social security tax was paid on the difference.

He reported his income in this manner each year, and several weeks ago when he decided to retire he filed an application at the social security station in Georgetown. He was pleasantly surprised to learn that in addition to his church pension, he would be eligible for a social security retirement benefit of $88.50. He knows that he may also receive earnings of up to $1200 a year so he plans to remain active in the ministry by occasionally accepting invitations from neighboring churches to preach a sermon.

When the counter-fire she started to keep a bush fire away from her home at Maritzburg, South Africa, got out of bounds, Mrs. Houston Macmillan was encircled by flames. She ran through the fire but was badly burned. She will recover.

WOMEN'S FARM AND HOME WEEK PROGRAM: VARIED IN APPEAL

"Varied in appeal" could be used to define the women's portion of the Delaware Farm and Home Week program at the University of Delaware next February.

Discussions will go from women's opportunities and Egyptian family life to understanding tensions and working with crafts, along with sessions in between on several other phases of family living, a report today from the home economics extension office at the university, indicated.

This is an outline of the program:

Feb. 11—"Today's Opportunities for Women,"—Scenes of women in today's world, with special emphasis on home related careers presented by staff members. "Family Life in Egypt,"—A talk by Miss Grace Nadig, director of the department of home economics at Temple University. She will cover women's place in the life of village folk in Egypt, and some customs there. Miss Nadig was in Egypt as home economics expert at the UNESCO Arab States Fundamental Education Center in Sirs el Layyan.

"At Home to Visitors,"—An opportunity to learn first-hand the scope of home economics training and to meet personally professors and instructors of the school of home economics. "Kitchen of Tomorrow,"—Featuring information on electronic and super-sonic kitchens of the future. Special news about equipment available now for more efficient homemaking will be available.

On hand to talk about kitchens of tomorrow will be Miss Bette J. Allison, assistant professor of home economics, and Miss Patricia A. Middleton, extension specialist in home management.

Feb. 12—"Do You Really Know How to Travel?"—Tips from Mrs. Haakon Abildso, and Mrs. Harry Tait, of the Delaware Travel Agency, Inc., Wilmington.

The speakers will offer hints on where to go, how to plan the trip, how to make actual preparations, and finally packing the bag. Questions will be welcome. "The Flair of Fashion for the Mature Figure,"—The topic of Mrs. Jane Scott, Simplicity Pattern Co., New York. She will offer help for developing current fashion trends successfully to the mature figure, including aids in accessorizing a garment.

"Putting First Things First,"—Miss Jeanne Paris, Swift and Co., Chicago, will note how the tempo of today's living creates pressures that are demanding on all family members. She will tell how the homemaker can decide which things come first.

"Our Senior Members in the Family,"—Mrs. Ralph Patterson, executive director, Wilmington Senior Center, will discuss needs and interests of the senior members of the family and the adjustments families sometimes need when it becomes necessary for three generations to share one home.

Feb. 13—"Parents' Responsibility to Teenagers"—Dr. Raymond E. Keesey, associate professor of speech and dramatic arts at the university, will lead a panel discussion of the responsibility of parents to recognize needs of young people and to offer guidance. "Meals for All Ages"—Miss Janet L. Cameron, foods and nutrition specialist, Virginia Polytechnic Institute will emphasize planning nutritious meals, with special note made of meals for teenagers and older people.

"Understanding Tensions"—A discussion of why tensions arise by Dr. Gorham G. Lane, professor of psychology, University of Delaware. We will tell how people can know whether tensions have been met adequately. Covered will be techniques for dealing with conflicts, and the recognition of serious tensions. "Working with Crafts"—Mrs. Marion Johnson, educational director, Delaware Art Center, Wilmington, will feature information on projects in metal, clay, weaving, and wood. The reports said Mrs. Johnson is very interested in developing a creative approach to all crafts for adults and children.

Spend Money To Eat Well

Are you sure you're eating as well as possible on the money spent for food?

Reporting on a U.S. Department of Agriculture study, the extension nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware today said many families spend more than necessary for food. She pointed out that large expenditures don't guarantee a good diet.

The study noted a low-cost adequate diet cost much for one week in June, 1957:

Family of two—$14.50; family of four (two pre-school children)—$19.50; family of four (two school children)—$22.50.

Miss Marjorie J. Wormeck, the Delaware nutritionist, suggested the following foods as one week's purchases for a family of four, with two school children:

Milk—19 quarts; meat, poultry, fish—10 1/2 pounds; eggs—23; dry beans, nuts, peanut butter—1 1/4 pounds; cereal, bread, flour—12 pounds; potatoes—9 3/4 pounds; citrus fruit, tomatoes—8 1/2 pounds; green and yellow vegetables—2 1/2 pounds; other fruits and vegetables—19 3/4 pounds; fats, oils—2 pounds; sugars, sweets—2 3/4 pounds.

Miss Wormeck said American diets tend to be low in milk and in fruits and vegetables rich in vitamins A and C. Most nutritious fruits and vegetables are citrus fruits, greens, carrots, yellow squash, and broccoli.

Needlecraft News by Nancy Baxter

After a mother-to-be pays her first visit to the doctor, her thoughts immediately turn to dainty, little things. Planning the new baby's layette, from bibs to booties, is one of the most exciting aspects of expectant motherhood. The question is, What is the best possible wardrobe with which to welcome the new arrival?

THE FIRST WARDROBE
An infant's first clothing should be light, warm and roomy. Modern mothers try to keep their babies comfortable and happy in garments that allow freedom of movement. Baby's clothes must be soft and fine to avoid any irritation to tender skin. Choose simple trimmings that will not scratch or chafe. In all the layette items you make, finish the seams as flatly as you can, for they, too, will cause irritation if bulky. Mom must think of herself, as well, and select materials that will be easy to wash and durable. The new "miracle" yarns, such as orlon, come to the rescue of the busy parent. Orlon yarn possesses the quick-drying qualities that mothers desire and provides the warmth that baby needs. It resists shrinkage, an important feature, to allow your child to get the most use out of his (or her) pretty, new garments.

DAINTY KNITS FOR THE CARRIAGE TRADE
It is a lucky baby who is treated to lovely, hand-knitted apparel upon arrival. And it's a wise person who makes these clothes possible. This dainty set, knitted of orlon yarn, will give the new prince or princess a most happy welcome. A lacy, chevron pattern is worked into all the pieces in combination with the stockinette stitch. Choose a pretty pastel yarn and trim the set with matching satin ribbon.

Del., Md. Crop Output in 1957

The 1957 crop harvest in Delaware and Maryland was off sharply from a year earlier, and total dollar value was lowest in recent years.

Creighton N. Guellow, of the porting Service at College Park, Md., announced today that the value of the 1957 harvest in Delaware was placed at 25 million dollars—down nearly 16 million dollars or 38 per cent from a year earlier. Bad weather and moderately lower prices were blamed for most of the decline in crop values in both states.

The value of Maryland crops harvested in 1957—at 93.3 million dollars—was off 25 per cent or 32 million dollars, compared with the previous year. While most of the decline in Maryland's 1957 crop output was caused by unfavorable weather, some of the drop was the result of acreage cutbacks. Total acreage of crops harvested was down 5 per cent, compared with 1956. The combined acreage of all crops harvested in Delaware in 1957 was down four per cent from the 1956 level.

The summer drought cut the yield of Delaware's corn crop from a record-high of 65 bushels per acre in 1956 to only 26 bushels in 1957. Total corn production for Delaware was 3,640,000 bushels, only 37 per cent of last year's record crop—and the smallest crop since 1943.

Summer drought also cut soybean productions sharply from the record-high output of 1956. But, with a record 170,000 acres, the state's soybean crop of 2,992,000 bushels was the second largest on record, even though the average yield was 5.5 bushels per acre less than 1956. The hay harvest was the smallest since before the turn of the century.

Total 1957 tonnage of vegetables and melons—at 81,000 tons—was off nearly a third from a year earlier. Irrigation protected some vegetable fields against drought, but the dry weather reduced output of lima beans, sweet corn, green peas and tomatoes. The potato crop, mostly under irrigation, turned out the same as a year earlier, 1.7 million hundredweight. Yields of small grains—wheat, oats, barley, and rye—were off sharply. Wheat production was 34 per cent less than in 1956, and the lowest on record.

Maryland farmers harvested the smallest corn crop in 14 years. With yields cut sharply by summer drought, corn output for the state was only 15 million bushels—little more than half of 1956. Also hard hit was Maryland's vegetable industry, with such crops as sweet corn, tomatoes, green peas, lima beans and cucumbers show the worst losses. The state's total output of vegetables and melons in 1957 was placed at 201,000 tons—38 per cent less than a year earlier. The hay crop was smallest since 1944. Apple production suffered some from dry weather, but rains came in time to make a fair crop.

Maryland soybean yields were cut by drought, but with acreage also the second largest in history, total output dropped only below the 1956 record. Production in 1957 was three and one-half million bushels, compared with nearly one million more a year earlier. Tobacco production, at 31 and one-half million pounds was the smallest since 1945, mainly because of a sharp cut in acreage planted. Late summer rains saved the crop from serious drought damage.

Yields of small grains were all down from the 1956 level, primarily because of bad weather at planting time and soil moisture shortages in the spring. The wheat crop—at 3.4 million bushels—was the smallest in nearly 100 years of recorded statistics.

Delaware Food Market Report

What is the story of Food in '58?

Food supplies are expected to be large, almost as large as in 1957 according to the United States Department of Agriculture. However, as we start, the New Year, food prices are a little higher than they were a year ago. This will be true for the first half of the year, especially on some foods. A strong demand is expected for some foods that will be in shorter supply—foods such as beef and eggs. Also, an increase is expected in the cost of getting food from farm to grocery store.

This, too, will be reflected in the retail price of foods. These are two reasons why prices will be higher and food costs more this year.

Total meat supplies for 1958 will be close to the record high of last year. A large supply of pork is expected at mid-year—a much larger supply than that of last year. This will help to lower meat prices during that period. However, we will have less beef and veal on the markets.

In the poultry line, there is plenty of good news. Broilers and fryers are plentiful and will continue so. The quality will remain high and prices are, and will be low enough to encourage increased consumption of these delicious tender chickens.

We are starting this year with large supplies of canned and frozen vegetables. Canned peas, as well as frozen peas, are in unusually large supply. Many stores will feature these peas at a good saving for the consumer. Frozen potato products are twice as abundant this year, too. Also, there is plenty of canned lima beans, corn and green beans.

As a whole, things look good

New Farm Corn Acreage Allotment

Any producer who intends to plant corn in 1958 on a farm where there was no corn acreage during the years 1955, 1956, or 1957 must apply for a corn allotment if he desires price support or if he wants to participate in any other phase of the Soil Bank Program other than the Acreage Reserve Program for corn in 1958, Joseph W. Ennis, chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today.

Marketing quotas do not apply to corn, the chairman explained. However, under the present program, the production of corn in 1958 on a farm which has no corn acreage allotment would make the corn produced on such farm ineligible for price support in 1958 as well as affect his participation in the Soil Bank Program.

Application forms for a corn allotment are available at the Kent ASC County Office, in Dover, Delaware. January 31, 1958, is the last day such applications may be filed.

This week-end look for 'good buys' on pork roast, beef steaks, ground beef and chickens. In the fruit department continue to look carefully and select wisely when you are buying citrus fruits. Oranges are spoiling quite rapidly, so buy only what you can use. This spoilage is due to the freeze during December in the growing areas and also to the fact that many oranges have been "held over" in cold storage. Winter pears, grapes and many varieties of apples are all on the 'good buy' list. Bananas continue to see-saw in price.

The days are short now, really not light till 9:30 and dark at 4:30. They have bought their own Volkswagen now and hope the weather will moderate later, so as to travel a bit. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—I have a 100 per cent disability rating from VA. Does this mean I could receive VA outpatient treatment for any ailment I might have?

A—No. You may receive outpatient care only for the disability or disabilities which have been adjudged service-connected. Your notification from VA lists those specific conditions.

Q—I am considering paying GI insurance premiums once a year in advance. What if I were to die shortly after making my yearly advance payment? Would that money be lost?

A—No. VA would refund to your beneficiaries any money which hasn't been applied to premium payments actually due?

Q—I am a World War II veteran and I live in a house I bought with a GI loan. If I were forced to dispose of it after July 25, 1958, for some compelling reason such as health or job transfer, could I get my GI entitlement reinstated?

A—Yes, so long as VA would be relieved of its guaranty liability. You then would be eligible for another GI loan until January 31, 1965, even though the World War II deadline would have passed.

Q—I am the father of a deceased World War II veteran, receiving monthly payments under the Survivor Benefits law. In computing my annual income to determine whether I will remain eligible for the payments, do I include just my net take-home pay or my gross wages including various deductions? I have a small part-time job.

A—You must include your gross salary, including money deducted for such items as taxes and retirement.

birthday party of a little girl. The church services and young people's meetings are very inspiring. Henry became so excited to be back with his group that he started to address them in English. Nancy is impressed with the rosy-cheeked children and young people and so many happy, lively ones.

one being for the area between Brown's Church and the Georgetown-Lauri highway, and the other being from the Georgetown-Laurel highway to the Delaware-Maryland line.

In discussing these projects, Mr. Haber indicated that some construction time has been lost on some of them through the stoppage on taking bids, but also added that the interested contractors could save time in the preparation of their bids by procuring the plans and specifications now so as to be ready when bids are requested.

If it possibly can be done, it is expected that the Highway Department will endeavor to reduce the amount of time between the advertising for bids and the opening of them on these particular projects.

Business Firms Increase in Kent

"There are 204 more business concerns in Kent County today than there were seven years ago," says M. M. Haworth, district manager of the Philadelphia office of Dun & Bradstreet.

Based on his facts upon the figures in the current January, 1958 Reference Book, Haworth points out that in 1950 5.2 businesses were listed by Dun & Bradstreet; today there are 746 enterprises—a 35.8 per cent increase.

The Reference Book, incidentally, lists only manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers, and some service companies, such as laundries and gasoline service stations.

Haworth stated that during the past year 432 changes were made in the Reference Book listings of Kent County business, including new names added, names deleted, and changes in ratings of continuing firms. Haworth pointed out that for the entire book, covering over 50,000 communities and containing 2,948,291 listings in the U. S. and Canada, there were 1,710,818 changes during the year.

Using the Dun & Bradstreet Reference Book listings as a guide, it is interesting to review what has happened in the principal Kent County communities during the past seven years:

Dover: Reference Book listings in November 1957 — 331; Reference Book listings in November 1950 — 276; Percentage increase — 19.9.

In discussing these figures, Haworth pointed out that more than 95 per cent of all commercial transactions in the U. S. are made on credit terms. The purpose of credit reports and the huge Reference Book is to assist businessmen in arriving at credit decisions on customers' orders.

A supplier anywhere in the U. S. can look up the rating of the Kent County businessman in the Reference Book. In this way the local concern is known far and orders can be approved and shipped promptly.

The credit rating is one of the key factors in approving orders to ship or sell. The rating consists of two symbols. The first, a letter of alphabet, indicates financial strength or tangible net worth of the business. The second symbol, a numeral, reflects a composite appraisal of the background, operations, financial stability, and payment record.

Each Reference Book listing (which includes the rating, is condensed summary of the information contained in the Dun & Bradstreet credit report. The report includes a history of the business (who owns it, and who runs it, and how long it has been operating), a description of what the business does and how it operates, a financial section (which usually includes the latest financial statement), and a record of how the concern pays its bills.

Credit reports are also used by insurance underwriters to review risks, rates, and coverage for fire and other types of insurance.

"THE FOLKS THAT I HAVE KNOWN"

We have a small number of pamphlets of poems of the above title, written by the late J. Harvey Burgess, late owner of The Harrington Journal and self-styled "splitter of infinitives, mixer of metaphors, demon of the double negative, sorcerer of solecisms, perpetrator of the world's poorest poetry."

We presume he was also a dangler of participles. There have been several requests for this booklet, priced at 25c, but we were unable to comply with them. Fortunately, however, we uncovered a limited supply of this valuable booklet recently while looking the effects of the estate.

We also have a number of pamphlets, "Hosses, Hosses, Hosses" written by Mr. Burgess, and depicting Harrington's harness-racing life. The price is 25c.

When the above-named pamphlets have been sold there will be no reprints.
