Harrington firemen are shown putting the finishing touches on a fire which destroyed a granary at the plant of Ernest E. Killen Saturday afternoon. The firemen also visited the plant several times this week when the smoldering grain and hay flared up.

Eight Appellants On Taxes Appear Before Council

Eight appellants appeared Monday, before City Council, to appeal their tax assessments at the annual appeal night.

The Reese Theatre property, a controversial point the last few years, received an assessment reduced from $25,000 to $21,000, after Reese B. Harrington had asked for an $18,000 assessment given by the Council in 1944 on a building which replaced one destroyed by fire, which carried the same assessment.

Harrington made his plea, using the following arguments:
1. The original assessment of the replacement building.
2. The theatre was a community institution, vital to the business of the community.

Harrington paid taxes on an assessment of $18,000 in 1956 and 1957 in a compromise after a tax suit against him last year was dismissed in the magistrate's court.

Harrington also appealed an assessment of $4000 on a lot next to the theatre, but it was denied. Other decisions on property appeals were as follows:

Earl Yoder, reduced from $2,700 to $2500.
Wilbert Porter, remains at $2500.
Clarence Rash, reduced from $4000 to $3000.

Albert Price, reduced from $3500 to $3000.
Mrs. Charles Hopkins, remains at $2400.

William Outten, business building, reduced from $3000 to $1600.
Eugene Anderson, remains at $2500.

The Council will meet Monday night to study adjustments and to accept the assessment list.

$60,000 Fire Razes Killen Feed Company Granary

After the granary fire Saturday afternoon. The building, along the railroad track, was the largest of the Ernest E. Killen Feed Company. Another building, housing a feed mill and feed, was saved. The firm was back in business Monday afternoon.

A Harrington granary was destroyed by fire over the weekend.

The granary, owned by the Ernest E. Killen Feed Company, was still smoldering Sunday night, 24 hours after firemen from four companies fought flames which caused $60,000 damage.

Located on Route 13, a mile south of Harrington and just across from the Kent-Sussex Fair Grounds, the granary housed a large amount of machinery and tons of grain, hay, and straw.

Killen, a former mayor of Harrington, was in the building about ten minutes before the fire broke out. It was discovered by a man at the fair grounds who reported having heard an explosion.

At its height, the fire sent heavy clouds of black smoke visible, according to one witness, seven miles away.

While fighting the blaze, firemen were also concerned with preventing it from spreading to nearby structures—including one owned by the Cahall Gas Service Company where containers of bottled gas were stored.

Firemen credited strong winds blowing in the opposite direction with helping them to keep the fire from spreading.

In addition to the main building being destroyed, a 50-foot storage elevator was ruined but will be repaired.

In addition to the Harrington company, firemen from Farmington, Felton, and Houston were on the scene for several hours.

Cause of the fire was not immediately determined and the matter has been referred to William J. Favinger, state fire marshal for investigation.

Because of the prompt service of the Delaware Power & Light Company, the feed company resumed most of its normal operations Monday afternoon. Buildings housing its feed mill and feed were unharmed. Killen said Wednesday hay was also coming in.

HEAVY, WET SNOW WELCOMES BRIGHT, BRIGHT SPRINGTIME

A heavy, wet snow welcomed in the first day of spring here yesterday, causing the downing of power and telephone poles, with disruptions in service.

Employees of utility companies said some 50 poles were down between Harrington and Houston. Current went out at 6:30 a.m., on Delaware 14 just east of town, and was turned back on about 9 a.m. There were also some minor interruptions in power and telephone service in Harrington.

Wires fell down on U.S. 13, near the fairgrounds, between 11 and 12 a.m., tying up traffic.

The snowstorm was preceded by a heavy rain Tuesday night and Wednesday. The rain turned to a wet snow Wednesday evening and was still falling at press-time Thursday, though the size of the snowflakes had diminished.

Transportation was slow but not stopped. The wet snow did not drift as did the dry snow in the big February storm which hampered rail and highway traffic.

The state highway department snowplows were on the job early in the slushy business district of Harrington and elsewhere. The sizing up the snow to be hauled from the business district, a practice of two preceding snows.

Harrington schools were dismissed at 1 p.m. yesterday.

Rehearsals Begin at Felton

"The plays the thing," agreed the cast of Felton High School's Junior-Senior dramatic production, "The Girl Next Door," as they began rehearsals last week. The three-act comedy will be presented April 24 and 25 in the High School's new auditorium-gymnasium at 8 p.m.

The cast includes Jean Reed and Wallace Caulk, who will play the parts of Irene Irving and her husband Henry, a blustery middle-aged druggist. Doris Cruwell plays their daughter Alice, the celebrated authoress, of a best selling novel. Dale Hammond acts the part of Clark Kent, her sweetheart. Shirley Hurd as Carol Brewster, the daughter of the town's richest banker, completes the romantic triangle. Ronnie Jester is cast as the Irving's high school-age son, Andy. Virginia Zec plays his romantic ideal, June Miller, the girl next door. Edmund Bak portrays Henry's bachelor brother Tom Irving, a very impractical practical joker.

The plot of this play is as American as apple pie and it could happen in Felton.

GIRLS' SPORTS

The Felton Girls' Basketball Team completed a very successful year. A record of twelve wins and only two losses was their final outcome. This was the best record Felton Girl's Team has ever had.

The total amount of our points is 556 to our opponents 343.

We are sorry to say that five of our players will be lost because of graduation. They are, Jean Reed, forward; Shirley Hurd, guard; Janet Paskey, guard, Jean Miller, forward; and Jesse Cameron, forward.

The veterans who will return to resume their old positions are Evelyn Walters and Mary Ellen Hughes. Along with them will be other girls who played second string this year.

The high scorer this year was Jean Reed, who had a total of 248 points.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—My State has just paid me a veterans' bonus. Must I count it as income for VA pension purposes?

A—No. Under a recent law, state bonuses are not to be considered as income for pension purposes.

Q—I exchanged my permanent GI insurance policy for a paid-up policy of a smaller amount on which I no longer have to pay premiums. Will I continue to receive dividends on this paid-up policy?

A—Yes. Your paid-up policy will share in any dividends declared.

Q—Would the fact that I previously had attended a farm school prevent me from taking on-the-farm-training under the Korean GI Bill?

A—The law would prevent you from taking GI farm training if the proposed course is substantially equal to the course you already had in school. If it's not the same as your school course, you could take it under the Korean GI Bill.

Q—Since I am eligible for VA outpatient treatment, could I just go to my family doctor and have him send VA the bill for his treatment of my service-connected disabilities?

A—No. You first must obtain VA approval for medical care by your family doctor.

Social Security Notes

An annual earnings report must be filed by April 15 by many persons who received monthly social security benefits in 1957. Myron Milbourn, manager of the Wilmington social security office announced today.

This earnings report is compulsory for all beneficiaries whose earned income was more than $1200 in 1957 and who were under age 72 during any part of the year, Milbourn said. Failure to file this report by April 15 may result in a suspension of benefits and a loss of some future benefits. The report form may be obtained upon request to the Wilmington social security office.

Earnings to be reported include all amounts received for work as an employee and any net earnings from self-employment whether or not such income is covered by the Social Security Act. Income from savings, investments, pensions, rentals or insurance does not count as part of the $1200 earnings allowed.

Mr. Milbourn pointed out that this report of earnings is not required of disabled persons receiving disability benefits. However, if a disabled person recovers to the point that he can perform some substantial gainful work, that fact must be reported to the social security office.

Letter to the Editor

Harrington, Del.
 The Harrington Journal
 Harrington, Delaware
 Dear Sir:
 We know our neighbors and friends in Harrington and vicinity, will be interested to know how our local American Red Cross disaster fund collection is progressing.

At this writing we cannot give any figures as the drive will not end until Saturday, Mar. 22. We do know however that our volunteers are doing a magnificent job considering the weather, sickness and unemployment.

Here are the names of those volunteers who are making this success possible.

Mr. Claude Cahall, Thomas Clending, Mrs. Clyde Perry, Mrs. Austin Turcotte, Mrs. Arnold Gilstad, Mrs. Robert Baynard, Mrs. Wm. T. Smith, Mrs. George Thompson, Mrs. Ralph Draper, Mrs. Harriett O'Neil, Mrs. Thelma Raughley, Mrs. John Dill, Mrs. Paul Vineyard, Mrs. Oscar J. Nemish, Mrs. Earl McColely, Mrs. Robert Creadick, Mrs. Kenneth McKnatt, Mrs. Ray Cannon, Jr., Farmington; Mrs. Harry Hanson, Vernon; The Rev. Lorraine Ottinger, Mrs. Thaddeus Hackett.

Thanks! We are sure God will bless them for this effort.

In this section of Delaware we have been very fortunate since "Hurricane Hazel" we have had no real disaster.

If past history is any indication. There will be nearly 300 disaster operation for the Red Cross this year—if nature follows its usual pattern.

In the 1956-57 fiscal year the Red Cross had 295 disaster operations. The catastrophes killed 871 persons and injured 8550, while destroying 19,900 homes and damaging 131,000 others.

Thanks for the fine display in your last weeks issue.

Sincerely
 Mrs. George R. Johnson

Delmarva Increased Price Edge Over Other Broiler Areas by More Than One Million Dollars in 1957

According to official figures just released by the federal-state crop reporting service at the University of Maryland, broiler growers on Delmarva increased their price edge over growers in other U.S. broiler areas by two-tenths of a cent a pound in 1957, Dr. W. E. McDaniel, head of the agricultural economics department at the University of Delaware, said today.

Figures from the crop reporting service show that prices paid to all U. S. broiler growers in 1957 were down appreciably from the previous year. In 1956 growers in the nation's 22 major broiler areas received an average price of 19.5c per pound for their chickens from processors and live market buyers. Last year that dropped to 18.8c per pound—or seven-tenths of a cent less than they received in 1956.

Delmarva growers, however, averaged 19.9c per pound for the chickens they grew in 1956 and only dropped to 19.4c last year. So the price edge they held over the rest of the U.S. increased from four-tenths of a cent a pound in 1956 to six-tenths of a cent a pound in 1957.

Based on the Peninsula's total marketing of more than 170-million broilers last year, this means that Delmarva growers upped their price edge over most of the rest of the nation's growers by more than $1,122,000.

Dr. McDaniel noted, though, that broiler production had stepped up more sharply for the nation as a whole than for Delmarva during the past two years. In 1957, the nation increased its marketings by 33 per cent over 1955 production. But Delmarva, in the same period upped its marketings only 28 per cent.

U. S. broiler production increased much more rapidly than did the nation's human population between 1955 and 1957, Dr. McDaniel said. In 1955, some 165,000,000 Americans ate an average of 13.91 pounds of broilers per person. By 1957, the 172-million people then around consumed 18.47 pounds per person.

Altogether, the U.S. produced about 1,450-million broilers last year, Dr. McDaniels said. Of this, Delmarva grew about 12 per cent. However, Delmarva's last year weighed in at an average of 3.3 pounds apiece. This was one-tenth of a pound heavier than the national average.

Sulky Slants

By MRS. DAVE (PAT) SMITH

All I can say for down here is: "When are you shipping out and where do you go? Every where you look now you'll see sulky and carts all packed. The boys are standing around when the training is over for the day and talk about when their truck will be in. As I've always said breaking winter quarters and moving on to different places one never knows what the future will bring.

Some of our friends ship this coming Thursday for Westbury, still the Beltz's go to Chicago, Tweedie to Rockingham. For us either to Lexington or straight to Buffalo. But for sure we will wait till the weather breaks. Doctor Huber told Dave over the phone last Sunday he was going to London and Paris for a week. That's Doc. He is always off to some other port. I guess that is because he lives so near the airport. You can see it from his estate. I love to go there and watch the planes come in for a landing. But to me they are just like the water. I'll stay on the ground. Just get plain dizzy.

The weather here today and for the past week has been around 78 to 86. After being so cold it sure does feel good. All the short sleeves and shorts are all on the go again. Along with fishing, which I haven't caught one yet since the cold spell.

You should just ride down the Orange Blossom Trail, if you sight in the world. The azaleas are in bloom in white, pink, and red. It is a photographers dream with the lakes as their background. With the warm rains we have been having all the flowers are coming out. Even the song birds are out every morning now. For awhile, I don't know what happened to them. I think all the animals in the Sanford Zoo hibernated. It is a wonderful place to spend an afternoon, on Lake Monroe. There's plenty to see and places to go down here.

I was down at different times to see the old Courthouse being torn down, which the city fathers made quite a lot to do over it. So the old saying goes. It was 66 years old and the city's most familiar landmark. It's lawn was the favorite spot for ticket selling and its benches for basking in the sun. Up until its uselessness a big four face clock boomed out the hours from its tower, proudly showed the correct time /or incorrect on each side.

You should have been standing around some of the old timers when the last brick was loaded. Brick by brick it was carried away and a wall was built around it to make the death of the old building seem private.

Guess if you should happen to start to tear down the old buildings in Harrington I expect there would be many of the old timers there that would feel the same way. I couldn't help but over hear this, and I quote; "Final rites will be held in the hearts of those who held it dear. There its memory will rest in peace.

There are no immediate survivors. Only a sign of progress. A new one will be born close to it which is already on its way.

Library Aides of Kent County Hold Meeting in Local School

A workshop meeting of the Kent County Student Library Aides was held in the Harrington School Tuesday. Judy Passwaters of Smyrna, Dover, Caesar Rodney and Harrington Schools, Mrs. Sara Beckett, Dover High School librarian, and Mrs. Mary Cahall, Harrington School librarian, were also present.

The deadline for nominating officers is April 11. The president and secretary-treasurer will come from the same club.

The above plans were for the third annual conference of the Delaware Student Library Aides Association which will be held April 19.

The conference this year will be held at Smyrna High School. Featured will be such well-known personalities as Marjory Hall, noted author of teenage books and writer of a newspaper column on teenage problems, and Jane McClure, co-ordinator of young adult services, Philadelphia Public Library.

Also this year a special program is being planned for library aides in the elementary school.

The beauty of crochet work is seldom better displayed than in an heirloom tablecloth. It lends graciousness, charm and elegance to the table itself and to the serving. It enhances rather than detracts from the loveliness of other table items such as silverware, crystal, chinaware and centerpieces.

WHAT'S IN AN HEIRLOOM?

We all know that an heirloom is a valuable article of some kind which is handed down from generation to generation. It might be jewelry, furniture, or any other kind of property, but as the word itself suggests, an heirloom was originally something carefully made by hand and made to endure for many years. Just as there is a patina to beautiful, well-cared-for old furniture, so there is an aura of special beauty which belongs to well-made items such as bedspreads, tablecloths, dresser scarves and doilies.

Certainly they have a value that cannot be put into dollars and cents. Elements that go into the making of such an heirloom piece are many: a worthy design, the best working material available, infinite patience, and sometimes a great deal of the proper selection of working materials—in this case, thread. When buying cotton sewing or crochet thread, be sure it is marked "mercerized," and you will be getting the high quality thread your needlework deserves. The article will last longer and retain more of its beauty.

TABLECLOTH MAGIC

The tablecloth shown above has a classic beauty and simplicity which will make any table a center of attraction. Crochet it in white, ecru or cream. The approximate size is 61 inches by 76 inches. Complete directions for making this cloth are available to you. Just!

Delaware Food Market Report

Everything seems to be going up and beef prices are no exception, but there's relief in sight. Here's the story that supports the outlook for a brighter beef picture.

Beef marketing has a seasonal pattern which usually provides the lowest supplies of the year in January and February. Smaller supplies always bring higher prices. The number of cattle shipped to market begins to increase during the spring months; April, May and June. During these months the heaviest supplies of fed beef for the year should come to market and thus prices should go down. The next few months may be the best time for beef purchases in 1958. However, you can expect to see most beef prices to stay at relatively high levels for a few weeks yet. Careful shopping will be required to find real values in local markets. Chuck roast, fresh picnic and ground beef will be among your better values.

Lamb prices continue to have their ups and downs. Some stores will feature "3 in one packages of lamb" while others will feature leg of lamb. Veal as yet shows no real change in consistently high prices, although the spring downward trend seems to have started on the wholesale level.

Fresh fish is on hand for Lenten meals in a wide variety, ranging from a low 25 cents a pound for fresh herrings to a dollar a pound for fillet of flounder. Butterfish, perch, porgies, trout, bass and croakers are all in good supply. Some buck shad is beginning to be sent in from the South. Penny decreases here and there will be seen this weekend on a number of items for the salad bowl. Scallions are cheaper, cucumbers have dropped 2 cents each in price, celery, radishes and carrots are all a penny cheaper than they were at the beginning of the week.

The fruit of the week should be apples and bananas—both will be weekend features in many stores. High quality western apples are selling as low as 3 to 4 cents each for a medium size apple—quite a reduction. Egg prices are continuing to rise. The large grade A eggs are the best buy, but look and compare prices when you shop since prices are changing so constantly.

Century Club Notes

The March 18th meeting of the Harrington New Century Club was held in the club house with Mrs. O. T. Roberts Sr. presiding. She opened the meeting by reading from the current issue of "The Clubwoman" an article by Mrs. Robert I. C. Prant, president of the General Federation of Club Women. Mrs. Prant has recently returned from a trip to the Middle East and she told in the article the similar problems that clubwomen there and in the U.S.A. are facing in every day life. Mrs. Roberts announced that March 28th is the deadline for purchasing of tickets for the Spring Luncheon to be held on Tuesday, April 8th. All team captains have tickets now. Another date to be kept in mind is April 9 at which time the Dover New Century Club will have a Literature and Music program with a tea. It is a reciprocity meeting to which the Harrington Club is invited. April is Cancer Month and the Century Club will sponsor the campaign in Harrington. Mrs. Roberts asked the members for any clean white linen or cloth to be brought to her to be used as bandages for cancer patients. It's no wonder everybody is saying "Get more out of life—Go out to a movie" when one sees the list of hits coming to the Reese Theatre as advertised in the weekly program to be found in this newspaper. Special effort is always put forth to balance entertaining all-family shows for the weekend. A good example of this is the program listed for showing this Friday and Saturday, Mar. 21 and 22. Edmund O'Brien and Mona Freeman are the stars in "The World Was His Jury," with the ever crazy Bowery Boys in their latest riot, "Up in Smoke" completing the feature presentation with many added treats. Critics everywhere are raving about "Wild Is The Wind" as well as Academy Award Winner, Anna Magnani and Anthony Quinn, the attraction scheduled for Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday, Mar. 23-24-25. Many say this is another Academy Winner. Regular prices prevail.

Wednesday and Thursday, Deborah Kerr, David Niven, and Jean Seberg appear in the sensational adaptation from the French "Bonjour Tristesse." This is a wife of the late Reynier Saulsbury must see hit on your entertainment list.

Simple but Pleasing Supper for Guests Candlelight—another couple in for a little supper and cards—not much time to prepare—then the perfect solution is French omelet. Lucky ladies may have a chafing dish to cook the omelet, others a real omelet pan with the sloping sides, still others will use an electric skillet, and of course there's always the old kitchen spider. Whatever the utensil, Resarch Shows Effect of Pigment on Outdoor Fabric If you think of utility as well as beauty when you choose awnings, terrace umbrellas, lawn furniture upholstery and other outdoor fabrics, you'll be interested in some U.S. Department of Agriculture research on the effect of pigments on heavy cotton fabrics. Researchers coated with resin-treated cotton duck with 125 different pigments and exposed them to 20 months of outdoor weather. Earlier research indicated that many pigments help protect fabric by screening out destructive light rays. The recent exposure tests bore this out. For nearly all samples, colored fabric was stronger than uncolored. The results: Uncolored duck retained 26 per cent of its original strength after 20 months of exposure. Most of the colored fabrics improved on this, although they varied from zero per cent or original strength for one white pigment to 91 per cent for an orange pigment. Different chemical pigments of each color varied in their effects on the duck. After exposure, for example, samples coated with different reds had 61 to 86 per cent of their original strength. Greens—long a favorite color for outdoor fabrics helped the cotton retain 57 to 83 per cent of its strength, while blues ranged from 33 to 73 per cent. Researchers also noted how the pigments resisted sun fading. Here again, the chemical pigment—not the color—made the difference. Within each color group some pigments faded noticeably after exposure, while others held color very well. As you shop, you can't judge whether the colors of a brightly striped awning will remain clear and bright after several summers of exposure. But you will know this is determined by chemical make-up of the color and not by the hue itself.

the quick-to-fix, delicate yet satisfying omelet will receive a real welcome. Filled with-equal-ly quick-to-fix Curried Chicken, served with crusty rolls and a grapefruit-avocado-lettuce salad, the meal will be the pinnacle of simple elegance. Omelets have a tricky reputation that they don't deserve. Actually, they're easy to prepare. Cook them quickly, using high temperatures. Tenderness and moistness are assured both by the short cooking time and the technique of stirring the mixture and shaking the pan while the omelet is cooking. National Egg Month is during March, and the abundant supplies of high quality eggs are available, so this recipe for Real French Omelet with Curried Chicken. 1 to 1 1/2 tablespoons butter, 8 eggs, 3 tablespoons water, 1 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon tabasco. Filling—Saute 1 tablespoon minced onion in 2 tablespoons butter until golden brown. Add 1 cup cut-up cooked or canned chicken meat. Heat. Add 1/4 teaspoon curry powder (or to taste) and salt to taste, 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon. Heat butter in large skillet; tip skillet back and forth to grease bottom, sides, well. Heat just hot enough to sizzle a drop of water. Blend eggs and other ingredients with a fork. Pour egg mixture into pan. It should set at the edges almost at once. Cook eggs quickly, stirring mixture and shaking skillet. As the mixture at the edges thickens, draw these portions towards the center with the fork so that the uncooked portions flow to the bottom. Tilt skillet as needed to hasten flow of uncooked eggs. Shake skillet to keep omelet sliding freely, keeping mixture as flat as a pancake. When eggs are set but still quite moist, arrange curried chicken over half of omelet opposite skillet handle. With Spatula, loosen around edge of omelet. Withe skillet in left hand, spatula in right, roll or fold omelet from the skillet handle toward opposite side. Increase heat to brown bottom of omelet slightly. Hold skillet in left hand, heated platter in right so that bottom edge of skillet rests on edge of platter. Bring the two together until omelet rolls onto platter. Cooking time: about 3 to 5 minutes.
