

SEASON'S COLDEST WEATHER SEES MERCURY DOWN TO ZERO & BELOW

The coldest weather of the winter saw the thermometer dip to points from zero to five below Tuesday morning in the Harrington area.

Wednesday, however, saw the temperature rise to above freezing. The 10-day cold spell, punctuated by a 1-inch snowfall and one Sunday of 3 inches, found fuel oil dealers and purveyors of tire chains, antifreeze, and cold weather clothing, jubilant.

Roads were slippery from snow and ice, but the State Highway Department got them open in a hurry and weekend traffic was only slowed, not halted. The snow was light, in New Castle County, but in Kent 3 inches would stop it, while in Sussex County it reached a depth of 12 inches, in spots.

The reason for the heavier snowfall to the south was because the snowstorm originated in the South and had tapered off by the time it reached New Castle County. The dowstate snowfall, too, was a reason temperatures were lower downstate than upstate.

In Harrington, the street department had little, if any trouble. The fire department, too, had only one alarm, and that was received last Friday evening.

The weather has been borne without difficulty, in contrast to the February storm when persistent winds kept the highways and railroads covered with drifts.

Among the financial supporters of the club were the late Lambert Baird, then owner of the restaurant in the Penna. R. R. Station, William W. Sharp, the late Robert K. Jones, and George "Dutch" Swain. This team was rather successful in the win and lose column, despite the fact that it was compelled to play out of its class on many occasions, as all regular members were teenagers. Harrington also had at this time a "first" team, consisting of older players, but who never found it convenient to play the "1906 Nine" despite many challenges issued to them.

Charles H. Derrickson Retires From Pennsy After 47 Years

Engineer Charles H. Derrickson, who retired from the Pennsy Dec. 1, after more than 47 years' service, has seen the tracks go from single to double and back to single, and the locomotive go from steam to diesel.

"I started with the Pennsy April 11, 1911, as a fireman on the extra list out of Wilmington," the Harrington native explained. "In 1916, I became an engineer on a work train employed on the extension of the double tracks from Harrington southward."

The engineer is the son of the late E. L. Derrickson and Mrs. Derrickson. His mother still resides on Franklin Street.

In 1921, the engineer and his wife, Harriett A. Derrickson, returned to Harrington and have lived here ever since.

Derrickson has worked out of Harrington on many passenger and freight runs and, at the time of his retirement, was the engineer of a switch engine making the run from Harrington to Bridgeville.

He has no plans for his retirement, other than "taking it easy." He has no hobbies, though he said he liked to fish a little and travel. He could have worked indefinitely but saw no reason for it.

Legal Bingo Is Off To Slow Start In State

Legal bingo in Dover got off to a "slow start" at Holy Cross Church Tuesday night, according to the Rev. John Donohoe, pastor, who added, "but everyone had a lot of fun."

Some 85 persons turned out for the city's first bingo game in many years including R. Sudler Emerson, a member of the commission.

Father Donohoe said the game, which started at 8 p.m. "moved a little slowly." The game ended at 11:15. Subsequent games will shoot for a completion time of 10:30.

"We were all learning about the game together," the Rev. Donohoe said.

The next game at Holy Cross will be held each Tuesday night but the one for next Tuesday is cancelled because of its proximity to Christmas.

A game in Wilmington Tuesday night, also the first in that city, attracted some 500 participants.

Legion to Sell Christmas Trees And Greenery

The American Legion will have between 500 and 700 Christmas trees on sale Sat., Sun., Dec. 20-21, for the benefit of its child welfare fund.

The trees are guaranteed to be fresh cut and will be delivered, within the City limits, free of charge.

The trees will be on sale from 9 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., at the American Legion Home on U. S. 13, Harrington.

William Stokes, federal plant inspector, said this week that the trees coming into the state are the best he has seen in five or six years. He added that, because of heavy snows, it has been impossible to cut the number of trees, as in previous years, and there is possibility of a shortage.

The trees on sale will be balsam, double-needle and will fit everyone's requirements, ranging from 2 to 14 feet in height.

Besides the trees, holly, mistletoe, natural, and artificial wreaths will be on sale.

The members of the Post guarantee personally the trees will be fresh cut and fit to stay in the homes at least three weeks.

Teen Script

with Barb Payne

Did you ever realize how much the way you talk or the way you emphasize your words affects your personality? Words themselves are very important, but it is the way you make use of them that is most important.

After you have said something it would be hard to try and take it back, but—it could be under control before it is said. Words and the way you use them merely show your feeling and outlook on life.

Around Christmas the latter can really mean a lot, especially to those who can only express in words what the holiday means. To many, a big smile and a "Merry Christmas" would mean much more than a gift wrapped in bright paper with a fancy ribbon.

So whether you may be a child, teenager, parent, or grandparent, try to remember to keep a smile on your face and to think before you speak. It might help to make someone have a merrier Christmas and a happier year.

Keep in mind the Golden Rule, and remember too, that your speech is judged by the worst you do—not the best.

Governor Issues Christmas Message

In his annual Christmas message to the people of Delaware, issued from his executive offices in Dover this week, Gov. J. Caleb Boggs expressed the belief that the people of the state are looking forward to the holiday season with "open heart."

Quoting from writer Charles Dickens, the Chief Executive pointed out that Christmas is "the only time—when men and women seem by one consent to open their hearts—freely." "Delawareans," Governor Boggs said, "have experienced that feeling of the open heart this year for in recent weeks and months they have been most charitable in the effort to make Christmas a more joyous occasion for everyone."

Governor Boggs also pointed

Dover to be Site of '59 Chicken Festival

Headquarters for the 12th annual Delmarva Chicken Festival and National Chicken Cooking Contests next year will be in Dover, it was reported today by C. Ed McCauley of Seaford, president of the Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc., which sponsors the gala 3-day event. It is anticipated that the 1959 festival will be held sometime during the third or fourth week of June, the exact dates to be selected jointly by the DPI organization and leaders of the host community. McCauley said that the industry's Site Committee, headed by Bill Rodney of Laurel, had received applications from 9 towns and cities, expressing interest in serving as host for this annual event, either in 1959 or 1960. The DPI directors selected Dover as the host community for 1959 because of excellent hotel and festival facilities for the cooking contests and other events and because of high interest in the Festival on the part of local business and civic organizations. The 1958 Festival at Denton, Md., last June, was visited by more than 20,000 people and later was reported on in detail in the Congressional Record.

Wayne Simpson, 16, of Houston, is an authority on dairying. He was named state winner in the 4-H Dairy program.

Houston Youth State Winner In 4-H Dairying

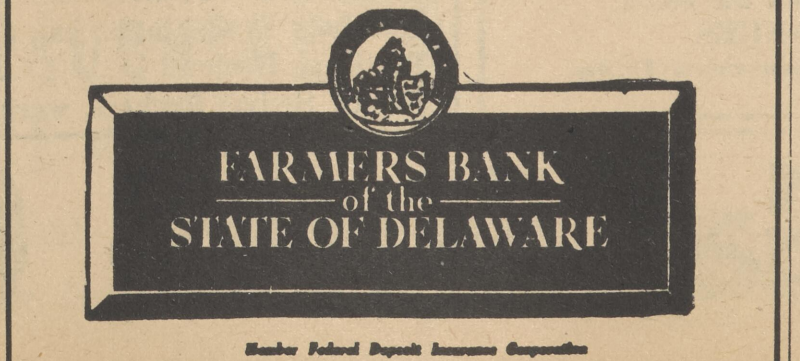

Simpson followed in the footsteps of his brother, Richard, an outstanding 4-H'er, and more than filled the latter's 4-H shoes. His 4-H Dairy program brought him numerous Kent-Sussex County Fair awards and state plaudits.

Three demonstrations, including "How to Choose Your Dairy Animal," won state honors. In August, one of Simpson's heifers won a first prize in the Georgetown Artificial Breeders Show. A calf also won a blue ribbon at the county fair.

Simpson has carried dairy each of his six years with the Houston Cardinal 4-H'ers. He also has been active with the county committee for the dairy festival.

The Oliver Corporation rewarded this young dairy farmer with a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago Nov. 30-Dec. 4.

BLUE CROSS proudly presents its FIRST 'GRANDCHILD'

William Harlan Mars, Jr., born September 27 in Memorial Hospital, Wilmington, to Mr. and Mrs. William Harlan Mars of near Elkton, Md., carries the distinction of being the Delaware Blue Cross Plan's first "grandchild."

The baby's mother—the former Joanne Garvey—was herself the first "Blue Cross baby" in Delaware at the time of her birth, September 23, 1936, in Wilmington General Hospital. Her mother, now Mrs. Margaret Garvey Adams, became the first parent to receive maternity benefits under the then new Delaware Blue Cross Plan.

"We wouldn't be without Blue Cross," Mrs. Mars says. "It gives you a comfortable feeling to know a part of your hospital bill is paid before you walk in."

During this three-generation span, scientific advances and new concepts, such as early ambulation, have greatly reduced the hospital stay of the average patient. For instance, in 1936, a maternity patient was hospitalized ten days or more. Today, she goes home in four or five days. This is not only significant for rapid recovery but also for the fact that shorter stay means less to pay! And, for Blue Cross members this means lower rates for the better care that hospitals provide.

"Organize, Organize, Organize," Vegetable, Fruit Growers Urged

The small farmer can not stay in business unless he gets out of the "what will you give me for it" market, Edward Lipman of the National Cranberry Canners Association, told 250 members of the Peninsula Horticultural Society in the Capital Grange Hall, Dover, last week.

Lipman, John Nardelli, manager of the Cedarville, N. J. Co-operative Marketing Association, and Loyal D. Odhner, managing director of the Pennsylvania Chain Store Council, agreed in successive talks that co-operative marketing is the answer to the small farmer's marketing problem.

Lipman told the 72nd annual meeting of the society that the farmer is the only businessman who takes the risks, invests the capital and does the work without having any control over the prices he receives for his product.

Labor is organized, business is organized, the buyer of agricultural products is organized, Lipman said. "To be successful in marketing, the farmer must organize too."

Mr. Odhner said that chain stores must have a large and steady supply of each product and that individual farmers can not provide such a supply. A large marketing organization representing many small producers could do the job.

Mr. Nardelli added to the argument for co-operative marketing. He said producers need "larger and stronger organizations to play in the same league with larger and stronger buyers."

The big chain stores are buying in larger units and co-operative marketing agencies need to grow in order to provide larger units. "The little producer does not need to be forced out if he will join with other small producers," Nardelli said.

In the opening session Tuesday morning the growers along with agricultural research workers and representatives of commercial firms serving agriculture, heard their current problems described as a "battle for markets."

"Thirty million hungry people, located on our doorstep in Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore, Washington, Wilmington, New Jersey and Connecticut, make up the primary market area for Delmarva produce," W. T. McAllister, extension farm economist with the University of Delaware, told the group.

To win this prize—selling large quantities of Delmarva-produced vegetables and fruits in this vast market area—takes much more than just being located nearby, McAllister emphasized.

He outlined the following strategy for growers to use in winning the "battle for markets": 1) understand the marketing process; 2) learn how to sell—don't merely assume that the buyer wants your product; 3) always follow sound, ethical business practices; 4) have a good product; 5) keep the consumer in mind—know what she likes and dislikes; 6) work hard—good markets don't just happen.

The economist urged the growers to make the efforts and changes that are necessary in order to capitalize on their natural advantages of closeness to market, good roads, favorable climate and suitable soils.

During a morning panel discussion, Robert Bull, marketing specialist with the University of Delaware, pointed out the increasing importance of the prices paid at the point of shipment. Because of the increase of direct sales, by producers to chain stores, top quality produce is taken off the terminal market. This reduces the value of the terminal market price as an indicator of true market price. Bill emphasized that point of shipment prices must be considered in arriving at prices.

Other members of the panel were Odhner, Lipman, Nardelli, moderator Dr. William E. McDaniel, University of Delaware; Carlton Lowe, vegetable grower, Laurel, and Halsey Knapp, fruit and vegetable grower, Nassau orchards, Lewes.

Pointing out extra profit possibilities in better packaging, Harold H. Hoecker, University of Maryland economist, urged the growers to think of shipping containers much in the way women tend to think of clothing. "A woman buys clothes to improve her appearance as well as to protect her from the elements", Hoecker pointed out. He indicated that if growers do not adopt this long-tried and successful feminine technique, they risk the possibility that their products will be "left on the shelf."

Other speakers on the two-day program, attended by about 300 persons, included Frank W. Bell, Virginia Department of Agriculture, speaking on "Strengthening Our Sweet Potato Markets," and staff members from the following agricultural experiment stations:

University of Delaware—E. P. Brasher, D. J. Fieldhouse, D. F. Crossan, E. M. Rahn, W. H. Johnson, L. P. Kelsey, R. F. Stevens, J. W. Heuberger, R. F. Eid, W. G. Smith, Donald MacCreary; University of Maryland—L. E. Scott, L. P. Ditman, E. R. Krestensen, C. Graham, L. O. Weaver, W. R. Jenkins, J. G. Kantzes, D. W. Reynolds, R. J. Snyder; Virginia Truck Experiment Station—E. M. Dunton Jr., and R. N. Hofmaster.

Wednesday's program included sessions on fruit and vegetable production and the annual business meeting, including election of new officers.

Immediately after the closed of the meeting Wednesday afternoon, approximately 75 of the members left by bus for a tour of New York City produce marketing facilities, including visits to the Washington St. wholesale market, Erie Pier auction and the Mercantile Exchange where they will observe futures trading in potatoes and other commodities.

Grandpa and Junior Don't Get Along

The "why Johnny and Grandpa don't see eye to eye?" question is causing concern among Delaware home demonstration club members.

Mrs. Alice King, state home demonstration leader, says club members in Delaware have expressed a desire for information and training relating to problems of family adjustment when older people are involved.

Many people are also interested in developing interests that will carry over in the later years, Mrs. King said.

Persons interested in the aging problems will want to hear Dr. Paul Dolan, chairman of the political science department at the University of Delaware, when he speaks on the "Political Aspects of Aging" during farm and home week at the university Feb. 10-12, Mrs. King said.

Because of the rapid increase in the number of people over 60 years, in the population, Mrs. King said several State agricultural experiment stations have been studying this group, especially in rural areas.

A survey in a Pennsylvania rural community showed that rural living was favorable for retired farm people but less successful for city people who moved "to the country" to retire. Older people accustomed to rural living generally preferred it and maintained an established position in the community. Most older people, this study showed, want to continue living independently in their own homes, alone if necessary, rather than move in with their children or make other living arrangements. Interviews showed they have a strong feeling for self-sufficiency and independence.

A similar attitude among Iowa's older people was reported recently by Iowa State College researchers, Mrs. King said. Their study of many people over 60 in eastern Iowa showed that: (1) the majority wish to continue to live in their own homes or apartments; and (2) they wish to keep on working either full-time or part-time as long as they can. Most preferred cottage-type housing, with apartment housing second. Three-fourths said they would like and expect to continue living in the same communities where they now reside. The study showed that most of this group's income is from salaries or social security.

A study of men 60 or older in six rural counties in New York State showed that farm operators, both active and retired, were somewhat older than non-farmers yet more satisfied with their living situation. Farmers continued on the job long after non-farmers because they could reduce their working hours and change the type of work they did gradually as an adjustment to increasing age. The financial situation of the retired farm operators in this study was found to be better than that of most non-farmers.

Jan. 15 Deadline to Submit Essays to the Governor's Committee

Delaware high school students were reminded this week that Jan. 15 is the deadline to submit essays to the Governor's Committee for Employment of the Physically Handicapped.

James H. Sears, committee chairman, said that response to the contest has been slow but that a number of essays are expected to be submitted before the Christmas holidays.

Students are to write on the subject, "Hiring the Handicapped in Our Town," for which state and national prizes totaling $2,275 will be awarded. The winning Delaware student essay will automatically be entered in the national contest for which there are prizes of $1000, first; $400, second; $300, third; $200, fourth and $100, fifth prize.

Delaware veterans are offering prizes of U. S. Savings to state winners as follows: $100, first prize; $75, second, $50, third, and $25 for fourth and fifth prizes respectively. The Disabled American Veterans, American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars are presenting these awards.

Mr. Sears said he hoped faculty members would encourage students to study the handicapped situation in their home towns and write about them.

"This will give us a clue as to whether our work is bearing fruit throughout the state," Mr. Sears said. "It may uncover areas where work must be done to secure employment for impaired people."

Following the contest deadline, a committee of judges including Dr. Arthur J. Heatner, medical director, Eugene duPont Convalescent Hospital; John G. Leach, vice president, Goldey-Beacom School of Business; and Dr. Edward L. Whigham, assistant superintendent of Wilmington Public Schools; will evaluate the essays.

Students should send their essays to Edward A. Mulrooney, secretary of the Governor's Committee for the Employment of the Physically Handicapped, 601 Shipley Street, Wilmington.

Poultry should be frozen quickly at a low temperature and then held at about zero degrees, Mrs. MacDonald said.

Turkey Use on Upward Trend
 The amount of turkey eaten in this country has tripled since pre-World War II days, reports Marion MacDonald, extension 4-H club agent in Kent county. Use of turkey is expected to go even higher as increased supplies at reasonable prices attract the family food shopper.

Its high-protein, low-fat content and fine taste appeal contribute to turkey's increased use as a year-round food.

Hogs Need Cholera Vaccination

Vaccinations are cheap insurance against losses to cholera outbreaks which often occur at this time of year, says George Vapaa, Kent County agricultural agent.

The use of modified virus with serum, at 6-8 weeks of age, has given good results. Only about 40 percent of the nation's hog farmers have their animals vaccinated. Mr. Vapaa says, and this is often a factor allowing the disease to spread rapidly.

Hogs can be vaccinated for less than a dollar which is a reasonable way to prevent a possible loss of thousands of dollars. The maximum effect of vaccines is in prevention of disease and not treatment after problems arise.

Kent Home Doings Put Quality in Your Freezer

When you put chicken in your freezer, to take advantage of the present low prices, get the best, Marion MacDonald, county 4-H club agent says.

Freeze only top quality birds that have been properly cooled for 24 to 48 hours. Freezing preserves the original quality of the food you put in the freezer; it cannot improve it.

Dehydration or "freezer burn" can be reduced by using moisture-vapor proof wrapping materials and cartons. Air pockets are a source of dehydration and wrapping materials should be fitted closely around the food.

Annual Roman Banquet Held

The annual Roman Banquet sponsored by the Caesar Rodney Latin Club was recently held in the cafeteria. More than 200 parents and former Latin students, teachers and guests were welcomed by hostess Jane Kesselring. The entire group joined in singing "America" in Latin. Karen Wild prayed the Lord's Prayer in Latin. Charles Shipley and Linda Bryant made the sacrifice to the gods.

After the first course of tuna fish salad, Pat Jennings and Alice Kraffert entertained with a clarinet duet. The second course consisted of fried chicken, beans, beets, and fish. As the slaves cleared the tables and brought the dessert, the first year Latin students sang songs in Latin. Other items on the menu included radishes, celery, carrots, olives, cheese, Roman bread, apples, grapes and nuts.

After the meal the Latin II Club presented a program. Bonnie Bennett, Jean Callaway, Ben Lonski, Virginia Field and Connie Scott gave a play, "Apollo and Daphne" in Roman style pantomime. Susan Shivak presented the Junior classical League Creed which expresses the arms of the Latin student.

Tom Parker, the narrator, presided over part of the program given in the form of a news report. Caesar's death was mentioned and Mark Anthony (played by Klaus Reichelt) gave his famous speech over Caesar's body (Ed Strauss). The news then turned to the sports scene as the chariot racers, Willis Case, Dan Thomas, Tim Dietrich and Dennis Bowden were interviewed about the coming chariot race.

Next on the program, Bill Hinsley and Tom Joseph staged a gladiatorial battle. Danny Hall interrupted the news with a commercial for Ceres Bread. Singing the commercial were Brenda Patton, Regina Garber and Alice Donovan. The weather report was given by Lana Lee Andrews assisting.

The program ended with a contest conducted by Charles Shipley. Other members of the club who worked on the committees were: Arna Mae Alexander, Georgana Delfenthal, Joyce Failing, Nancy Melvin, Diane Penne-well, Joe Queen, Kay Richardson, Patricia Abbott, Sandra Walsh, Judy Holland, Sally Ann MacFaddin, Mary Parker, Linda Postlewaite, and Sharon Weiss.

On display was an exhibit of Roman war machines, clothing, architecture, mythology, maps, and pictures made by the students. Mrs. Rita D. Ryan is the Latin instructor.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—Isn't there a new law that says a handicapped child of a deceased war veteran need not wait until age 18 to start training under the War Orphans Education program?

A—Yes. A law recently passed gave such children the right to begin special types of War Orphans training when they reach age 14.

Q—I carry life insurance issued by a private company, and I receive a pension from VA. In reporting my 1958 income for VA pension purposes should I include dividends from my private company life insurance policy?

A—Yes. Proceeds from private life insurance company policies are considered as income for VA pension purposes and must be reported.

Q—Is there a grace period for late payments of installments on GI loans?

A—No. Veterans should make their GI loan payments on or before the date the year due. An extra charge may be made by GI lenders when payments are received late.

VFW To Sponsor Contest For High School Pupils

William A. Mazzetta, department commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars chose the anniversary of Pearl Harbor Day to announce that his organization will co-sponsor a "Voice of Democracy" broadcast scriptwriting contest for high school pupils until January 10.

The contest will be conducted in conjunction with the Delaware Association of Broadcasters and Harvey C. Smith, manager of WD EL is serving as chairman of the event for that group. Mr. Mazzetta has named Junior Vice Commander Edward W. Clarke of Dover to serve with Mr. Smith. Mr. Clarke is also the state junior activities chairman.

Nationally the contest is sponsored jointly by the National Association of Broadcasters, the Electronic Industries Association and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Mr. Mazzetta said yesterday.

The contest will be open to students in the tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades in all public and private and parochial schools in the state. The VFW will offer a $50 U. S. Savings bond as top prize on the state level while other units will offer district or local prizes he said.

Each contestant will write and deliver a three-to-five minute script on the theme, "I Speak For Democracy." Scripts are to be written in the style of broadcast commentaries it was pointed out.

The state winners' script will be entered in the national contest and that boy or girl will receive a free trip to Washington, D. C. for four days when the final national contests is staged in February.

The top national prize is a $1,000 scholarship to any college the winner chooses, Mr. Mazzetta said. As part of the fiftieth anniversary of the University of Missouri School of Journalism scholarships valued at $500 will be awarded to the four national semi-finalists. The four semi-finalists will also receive gold recordings of their scripts. Certificates of merit will be awarded to runners-up on the state level.

Mr. Mazzetta said that the contest is endorsed by the United States Office of Education. The National Association of Secondary-School Principals (a department of the National Education Association) has placed the Voice of Democracy Contest on the approved list of national contests and activities for 1958-59.

"About this time every year, thousands of high school students begin think about democracy and what it means to them because of this contest. This is the first year of VFW sponsorship but we are most interested to see that the program takes hold in Delaware," Mr. Mazzetta said.

"Each of us has a personal interest in democracy. You might say that we all have an investment in our democratic system. Each of us has a big stake in its future. That's why we want to encourage boys and girls to think about democracy from their own standpoint," the VFW leader declared.

Those in the Wilmington area who are interested should contact Mr. Smith at WDEL; Herbert Willis, VFW office, Dravo Building or the office of Miles L. Frederick, 421 Orange Street. In Kent County contact should be made with Edward W. Clarke, Dover.

For Sussex County David S. Hugg of Milford will be in charge and he can also be reached through the Delaware State Development, Dover. Elwood W. Richards of Selbyville is the contact for Sussex County.

Mr. Mazzetta said that a number of districts and local auxiliary units may add prizes as the contest progresses. The name of the state winner must be in Washington, D. C. by Jan. 20.

Problems Change With Seasons

Each season creates a different problem for the egg producer in producing quality eggs, says George Vapaa the county agent. In the spring, wet weather many times makes dirty eggs a problem and in the summer, it's heat.

The problem right now for some producers is again too much heat Mr. Vapaa says. The winter weather causes heating units to run and eggs stored in such an area dry out.

Eggs should be gathered just as often now as they are in the summer. During the morning when most of the eggs are laid, the animal heat will not have an opportunity to escape from all the eggs because some nests will have laying birds in them all fore noon.

Heat from a furnace will break down the egg white and dry air will enlarge air cells and cause mottling of the shell. Mottling usually means loss of quality.

A small room partitioned off in a corner of the house cellar makes it possible to provide fairly satisfactory conditions for holding eggs if a separate holding room is not possible. It is easier to maintain temperature and humidity in a small room Mr. Vapaa said.

Free Christmas Matinee At Reese Dec. 24; John Saxon's "Restless Years" Dec. 21-22-23

It's going to be a merry Christmas for everyone, especially Movie Center patrons. According to the management, one of the biggest line-ups of holiday hits is all set for the enjoyment of festive theatre fans. A glance at the program to be found in this newspaper opens the road to a galaxy of holiday spirit.

To mention "Tunnel of Love" with Doris Day and Richard Widmark, the top feature this Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Dec. 18, 19, and 20, is enough to cause one to take notice; and with Dean Jones and Jean O'Brien in "Handdle With Care" as the co-feature, double enjoyment should abound. Due to "Tunnel of Love" being Adult entertainment, "Forrest Rangers" with Fred McMurray and Susan Hayward will be shown instead at the Saturday matinee.

It's great to be young. It's great to pas through the restless years. Universal International presents John Saxon in "The Restless Years," Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday, Dec. 21, 22, and 23, with Roy Calhoun in "The Saga of Hemp Brown" as an added feature.

All are invited to attend the annual free matinee at 2:30 p.m. the afternoon of Dec. 24. The Reese Theatre will be closed the evening of Dec. 24 (Christmas Even) so that all employees may enjoy a Happy Christmas.

Trinity Methodist Church Notes

Next Sunday morning, Dec. 21, Christmas Sunday at 11, the Senior Choir of our church will sing selections from the cantata, "Holy Night" by E. L. Ashford. There will be no preaching, but the morning worship period will be devoted entirely to worship and musical service, at 11-12.

The organ prelude is to be "Holy Night" by Ashford. The regular worship ritual will be followed, and then the choir presents cantata selections. The choir sings "And in That Day" and "Silent Night." Mrs. Ruth Gilstad will sing a solo, "O Blessed Town of Bethlehem" and the choir follows with "Glory to God in the Highest." A solo, "Star of the East" will be sung by Mrs. Jeanne Warner, and the choir concludes with "Blessed Be the Lord, God." The organ postlude is "Let us Adore Him" by Peery. The organist and choir director is Melvin Brobst.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lare are giving the altar flowers for Christmas Sunday, and Betty Jane Knox and Kathryn Johnson will welcome worshippers at the church door.

The Christmas Sunday evening program of the Church School is being presented this year by the Intermediate Methodist Youth Fellowship, assisted by the Junior Choir. Mrs. Chas. Cox and Mrs. Jack Redden are directing the program, and Miss Shirley

Delaware Food Market Report

Market ahead of the rush! Make your plans now for your Christmas meals. Begin by checking the supplies on hand against what you need. This will give you your tentative shopping list. Having a list of this sort will help to take away all of the guess work when you are in the store.

Check the staple items in your pantry shelf. Do you have enough sugar on hand for the extra baking and for candy making? How about flour and shortening? And of course, check on your canned goods supply. Canned soup on hand can certainly make a rushed day much simpler and canned meats find a definite place on the menu for the busy days that are here.

If saving time is a major problem, shop if you can, when grocery stores are least crowded. The most popular time for shopping in this area is Friday night, so avoid this time and plan your trip for the unusual hours. Consider the time saving foods when you buy. Roasts require little supervision during cooking and they are featured in many stores this week. Pork roast, chuck roast of beef, rib roast of beef and lamb roast are meats to check this week. Hams are a little cheaper and smoked picnic shoulders are selling between 37 and 43c a pound.

If turkey is to be your Christmas dinner meat, decide now on the size you need. You can expect two servings per lb. of ready to cook turkey, but this does not allow for any seconds or leftovers. Price-wise turkeys are expected to sell at prices comparable to those at Thanksgiving. The supply is not a surplus one, but it is adequate.

Nuts are a big item for the holiday season. The over-all supply and prices are comparable to 1957. Heavy supplies and thrifty prices of one type will offset a short supply with higher prices for others. English walnuts are spot lighted this week on the U.S. Department of Agriculture Plentiful Foods list. This year's supply is 28% above last year's and prices at local stores reflect this. 2 1/2 pounds of walnuts in the shell yield approximately 1 pound of shelled nuts. Almonds are a bit scarce since this year's crop is about one half of last year's and prices are higher. Pecans are in fair supply - prices are not expected to drop on this nut. Quality, however should be watched—so check carefully before buying a "bargain."

Asbury Methodist Church Notes

Church School 10 o'clock, Howard S. Wagner, superintendent. "The Significance of the Savior's Birth" is the theme of the lesson in the Adult Department this Sunday.

Morning Worship 11 o'clock. "Pondering Christmas" will be the theme of the pastor's sermon. Christmas anthems will be sung by the Crusader and Cathedral Choirs. They are: "Snow Lay on the Ground" and "Christ is Born." Altar decorations will be by Mr. and Mrs. John F. Abbott Sr., in memory of their son. The Friendly Greeters will be Mr. and Mrs. William Stokes. A nursery is conducted each Sunday during the worship hour where parents may leave their children.

The annual carol and candlelight service will be at 7:30 with all the choirs, totaling 150 voices, will participate. One feature of the program will be "O, Holy Night" done by the combined Chancel and Cathedral Choirs. The service will be climaxed by the candle lighting service, symbolic of Christ "The Light of the World" spreading from one to another until it fills the whole world. This program is the highlight of our entire year. There will be a nursery during the candle light service where parents can leave their small children.

The Christmas Sunday evening program of the Church School is being presented this year by the Intermediate Methodist Youth Fellowship, assisted by the Junior Choir. Mrs. Chas. Cox and Mrs. Jack Redden are directing the program, and Miss Shirley

November Bridge Traffic Increases

Delaware Memorial Bridge traffic took a 9.8 percent jump last month over November, 1957, Frank J. Harty, general manager reported today. Traffic for last month was 704,004 vehicles compared to 641,216 a year ago.

This was the second straight month that the span has produced a better than nine percent increase for a 30-day period over the same month a year earlier. In October a 9.9 percent jump was recorded.

Since tolls were cut by 30 percent last June 1, traffic has boomed upward.

In his report to the Interstate Highway Division the consulting engineers and the trustee for the original bond purchasers. Mr. Harty says that 62,788 more vehicles crossed the span last month than in the same 1957 period. Trucking business continues to advance along with passenger traffic.

Breaking down the increase Mr. Harty says there were 50,585 more passenger cars and 14,139 more trucks than in November 1957.

Revenue received last month was $432,661.80 compared to $561,165.65 for November, 1957 or a decrease of $128,503.85—a drop of 22.9 percent, reflecting the cut in toll rates.

From June 1, 1958 which began the new fiscal year, through Nov. 30 total traffic for the six months was 5,263, 876 vehicles. This is an increase of 275,745 crossings or 5.5 percent more than for the first six months in 1957. If the trend continues, Mr. Harty predicts total traffic for 1958-59 will be better than 9,000,000 vehicles.

Revenue for the six months period—June 1 through Nov. 30—was $3,140,337.80 compared to $4,268,291.40 for the first six months of 1957, or a decrease of $1,127,953.60 or 26.4 percent.

Had the old toll rates been in effect for the past six months the management would have received $4,554,215.95 compared to $3,140,337.80 actually paid. This represents a saving to the traveling public and industry of $1,413,878.15.

Kent County Road Projects

Here is a detailed outline of the highways and state controlled street projects that the State Highway Department is either working on or has been authorized to work on over the next three years.
A word of caution to people who live in the areas of these roads:
Because the road projects are listed here, it doesn't mean that the Highway Department will get around to them in the next two years.
It all depends upon money available and priority given by the Highway Commission.
