

ASBURY CHURCH APPROVES $25,000 BUILDING PROGRAM

At the Fourth Quarterly Conference Monday night at Asbury Methodist Church, a $25,000-development and remodeling program was approved unanimously.

The program is to include more parking facilities, the completion of seven classrooms on the second floor of the New Educational Building, and the remodeling of the front of the sanctuary to include a divided chancel and two choir lofts to accommodate 75 choir members at one time.

It was pointed out that the additional room was needed to a more than 50 percent increase in the average attendance in the Church School and at the morning worship service. It is hoped by the conference the work will begin soon and be completed by fall. The pastor reported that 32 members had been received into the church and that there was an 18 percent increase in church attendance during the year which matched exactly the increase of the previous year.

The pastor attributed the growth and well being of the church, during his ministry, to the whole-hearted co-operation of all the officials and congregation of the church. "Without that co-operation the progress would have been impossible," he said.

Acting as the spokesman for the church, Fulton J. Downing requested the Rev. Roy L. Tawes, superintendent of Dover District, who presided over the conference, to return the pastor, the Rev. Richard S. Gibson, for the coming year.

The Rev. Tawes assured Mr. Downing that he would co-operate in every way to secure the reappointment of the Rev. Gibson to Asbury Church at the forthcoming annual conference to be held at Bethesda Methodist Church, Salisbury, May 14 through 17.

The conference was adjourned by the benediction pronounced by the pastor.

Another plum that fell to Eckman was the honor of officiating at the first all-star game in Boston.

This year he worked in the Ivy League, Southern Conference, Atlantic Coast Conference, Eastern Intercollegiate Association and also officiated in both the National Invitation and N.C.A.A. tournaments. ## Soloists in Tonight's Band Concert

The Senior Band of the Harrington Special School District will present three of its members in solos at tonight's concert in the school auditorium, beginning promptly at 8 p.m. They are Emily Ann Brown, clarinetist, Philip Holson, trombonist, and James Schiff, saxophonist, all three are members of the Senior Class.

For her solo, Emily Ann Brown has chosen "Nightfall", by John J. Morrissey, a modern number by a very popular composer of school band music. Philip Holson will be playing an interesting arrangement of "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" as arranged by Mr. Morrissey, and James Schiff will play a very difficult old Italian dance tune, "Tarantelle" composed by Harold J. Walters.

Other numbers will include a trumpet trio played by the first three trumpet players, Ronnie Swain, Leonard Masten, and Sammy Minner, in a novelty called "Look Ma! One Hand" by Joe Berryman.

An added attraction will be the appearance of four boys from the band singing several barber-shop quart numbers. The singers are Dwight Hackett, Philip Holson, Bill Manship, and Kenneth Hoffman.

The public is cordially invited to attend this concert.

Women's Clubs Sponsor Cancer Drive

Gov. Boggs has proclaimed April as the month for cancer control. This year the Business and Professional Women's and the Merry Makers Home Demonstration Clubs of Harrington will sponsor this crusade.

The 1959 quota for Harrington is $80 to be used for cancer education and research.

Just 20 years ago only one person in seven with cancer was saved. Today only one out of every three who contracts it must die. It is estimated that 50 percent of the cancer problem could be controlled if everyone got thorough, periodic physical examinations.

C. OF C. WANTS TO FORESTALL MOVING OF BOND BREAD

H. H. S. Wins All Races Vs. Wicom. Hi and Milford Hi

The Harrington High School track team competing against Milford and Wicomico High of Salisbury, at Milford, on Wednesday, completed the avenging feat of winning all six running events. This cinder-sport grand slam ranks with a no-hit game in baseball. The score was H. H. S. 51, Milford, 35, Wicomico, 33.

Jim Schiff, showing remarkable form in the season's opener captured both sprints in near record time for the Buccaheer's oval. The 100 yard dash went in 10.2 and the 220 yard dash in 22.6.

Courage personified in the gritty Don Garey prevailed in the 440 yard run. Although his right arm is broken and in a cast from wrist to elbow, Don came from behind to win in personal best time of 58.2.

Coach Dick Jeffers' track squad next reaped some benefits from Coach Harold McDonald's cross-country program of last fall as ex-harriers scored for the Lions in the half and mile. Bob Bonniwell and Dwight Hackett finished in a dead heat for first with a time of 2:20.4 in the 880.

Harry Knotts, Harrington invitational cross-country champion, next fought off the challenge of Don Hill, Milford's ace miler, to take the mile in the fine early-season time of 5:01.

In the final run of the day, the H.H.S. mile relay foursome of Bonniwell, Hackett, Schiff and Bob Gillette won this event in 3:53.9.

John Taylor shattered the H. H. S. school record in the discus as he captured first place by spinning the plate out 124 feet.

Phil Holson, one of the smallest weight men we've ever seen was second in the discus, broad jump and shotput nearing the H. H. S. record in the last-named with a toss of 37 feet 11 in.

When Don Garey broke his wrist pole vaulting recently, some observers were inclined to practically award this event automatically to the opposition. However, two dark horses appeared in the persons of Bruce Smith and Billy Carter. Smith came within an eyelash of winning with a leap of 8 feet 6 inches. Carter cleared 8 foot 3 inches for third.

Other scorers for the locals were: Geo. Pfeiffer, 4th; mile run, Ron Collision, 4th; shot put, Bill Manship, 3rd; high jump; "Snooky" Collins, 3rd; javelin, Bob Gillette, 4th.

Milford won the junior high division with 44 points to Harrington's 37. George Balderson, Bill Porter and Lyman Rash were 1-2-3 in the shotput for the locals. Bill Thompson leaped 4 foot 8 inches to take the high jump and was second in the broad jump.

Bob Winkler won the junior high 22 yard dash with Billy Carter 3rd. Carter was second in the 50 yard dash with Wayne Baker 4th. Bill Porter was third in the 100 yard dash with Paul Fallon 4th. Tremendous promise was shown by Barry Fry, who, although only a seventh-grader, and running against experience, was a strong second in the jun-

President William W. Shaw was among the three officers re-elected at the April meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday afternoon at The Wonder R.

The group also voted to request General Baking Company to continue its local branch, and went on record as favoring an extension of voting hours in the municipal elections.

Other officers re-elected were Carrington H. Burgess, secretary, and Arnold Gilstad, treasurer.

Shaw is a director of The First National Bank and The Kent & Sussex Racing Association; treasurer of The Kent & Sussex County Fair, and is a partner of Cahall's Gas Service Company. He is also president of The Harrington High School Alumni Association. He has been active in civic work for many years.

The lease on the building, housing the local branch of the baking company, will expire in June and the company has been looking at other locations. The leases were dissatisfied with the rental but the owners have lowered their demands to what has been reasonable point. Also, several individuals have offered to construct a building for the baking company.

At the Tuesday meeting, the Chamber voted to have its secretary write the baking company asking for a meeting with company officials. President Shaw also appointed Gayle Smith, Fulton J. Downing, and J. Edward Taylor as a committee to meet with the officials, if they so desire.

Clarence Rash, manager of the local branch, said he and his men favored the local location. He said 26 or 28 employees owned their homes, and that 16 or 18 of these were in Harrington. He added that branch had 21 routes in Delaware and 21 routes in Maryland.

The voting hours, of municipal elections, are from noon until 4 p.m. The Chamber, and other civic groups, favor an extension of hours, though no stopping point was mentioned Tuesday. To get an extension, a bill must be passed in the Legislature to amend the City Charter.

Rotarians Hear Military Career Of Tommy Clarke

Tommy Clarke liked Delawareans and their mannerisms and that is why he moved here, he told Rotarians Tuesday night at The Wonder R.

As program chairman for the evening, he was induced to tell of his extensive career in the armed forces, which he did with modesty.

Born in Trenton, N. J., in 1920, he was a member of the National Guard in 1940, being attached to a horse-drawn field artillery unit. This was the era in which conscripts were being called up for one year's service in the armed forces.

He was due to get out in December, 1941, but the beginning of hostilities stopped that. In 1942, he was a sergeant in the medics. Later, the same year, he attended officers training school, in engineering, at Ft. Belvoir, Va., and came out as a second lieutenant.

He then went to Camp McCain, Miss., with the 87th Division and, in June 1944, went to France with the 166th Combat Engineers Battalion, attached to the Fourth Armored Division.

The engineers dealt with bridges and mines in southern France. They went to Luxembourg and thence to the Saar River where Clarke was wounded. After nine months' hospitalization, he left the service in February, 1946.

He was in the reserves, in Trenton, from 1947 to July 1948, during which time he married Betty Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Cliff Miller.

Clarke re-entered the service and the family moved to Japan. In June, 1950, he was transferred to Korea. In February, 1951, he was recalled to the States on emergency leave and was made assistant post engineer at Ft. Dix with the rank of captain. He then spent two years in Alaska after which the Clarkes came to Harrington. Clarke is now a major in the reserves.

The Clarkes and their three children reside in Paradise Alley, adjacent to Mr. and Mrs. Miller.

President Gayle B. Smith greeted John Parks, of Durham, N. C., a former president.

Corn Growing Recommendations

In the "good old days" the Lenape Indian squaws used to plant a few kernels along with a fish out of the bay and she was a Delaware corn grower.

She didn't grow 70 bushels per acre as Delaware's 1958 corn growers did but then she didn't have the County Agricultural Extension agent to give her the latest corn growing information.

The Lenape corn growers didn't have a soil testing service to tell them what fertilizer treatments their soil needed either.

County agent George Vapaa says the soil test, along with field crop history, such as manure and fertilizer applications, and cover crops, will provide the information needed for application of fertilizer in the right amount and proportion. One bushel of corn takes one pound of nitrogen, .8 pound of phosphorus and .6 pound of potassium.

To provide these nutrients, you have to know what nutrients are already in the ground, and only a soil test can tell you that.

Magnesium and calcium are also important elements which a soil test will measure for you. They can be supplied by applications of dolomitic limestone, he said.

As for the time and method of fertilizer application, you can plow down some of the fertilizer and add more at planting time, or sidedress the nitrogen after planting. The sidedressing should be done at about the time of the last cultivation.

On heavier soils and on cover crops it is often economical to apply fertilizer early when fertilizer prices are better.

On sandy soils, fertilizer, and nitrogen in particular, should not be applied much before planting because it will leach out badly.

As for plant populations, 12,500 to 14,000 plants per acre is about the range, Vapaa said. The limit is about 14,000 for the moisture available in an average year. Of course, we never have an average year.

Under the heading of weed control, he says broadleaf weeds are the main problem in corn rather than the grass type weeds, so applications of 2, 4-D amine at a rate of one half a pound active ingredients per acre will give good control in 6-12 inch corn.

If the corn is more than 12 inches tall, drop pipes should be used on the spray rig so that the soil will be covered adequately.

If you want to use a pre-emergence weed-killer, after the corn is planted but before it comes up, 2, 4-D ester can be used, he says. It should be applied at a rate of one to one and a half pounds per acre for broadleaf weeds with five to ten gallons of water.

If you would like to try something new, you might give Simazine a trial. It is available in Delaware and controls both grass and broadleaf weeds. Simazine should be applied at a rate of two pounds active ingredient per acre as a pre-emergence control. Band treatment will reduce costs, Vapaa said.

You should consider the cover crop following the corn if you use Simazine because it will affect such crops as crimson clover, rye, and vetch, and barley. Next spring's crops will not be harmed however.

Northern Ireland's linen trade with Cuba was badly upset by the Cuban civil war, Belfast reports. Many shipments to Havana have been held up.

Frankie Avalon to Appear at K. & S. County Fair

Frankie Avalon whose recording of "Venus" is staying at the top of the list in the popular music world will be a feature attraction at the Kent & Sussex County Fair, August 1 at Harrington. This young 20 year old has been a hit since his first recording of "Cupid" stirred up enough excitement to launch him into the teenage singing field.

Because of Frankie's looks, personality, and sincerity, he was chosen for one of the starring roles in the Warner Brothers motion picture "Jamboree." In this picture Frankie sang his second record for Chancellor Records, "Teacher's Pet."

It really wasn't until his third release, "De De Dinah", that the entire country became aware that a new teenage idol had arrived. For the short time he has been singing and making records, Frankie has a National Fan Club membership of approximately 100,000 and it is steadily growing.

Frankie has appeared on the Patti Page "Big Record" show, the Perry Como Show, Dick Clark's "American Bandstand", and the Dick Clark Beechnut Show.

Frankie likes to play golf, football and baseball, drive his 1954 Chevrolet red sports convertible. He loves rock 'n roll music, but is a steady listener of modern jazz records. He loves to dance the Bop, Stroll, and Calypso.

His first album entitled "Frankie Avalon", has just been released for Chancellor Records, and in it Frankie sings all types of songs including ballads, rock 'n roll Calypso and other songs that have the teenage appeal like the stroll. Also included are a few old favorites that the teenager's mother and father can enjoy.

Make plans now to see him in person at the 40th annual Kent and Sussex County Fair.

Diets, Diets, Eeveryone's Doing It

In 1979 we, the younger generation, will look back on the late 1950's and call the period the "Dieting 50's" according to Mrs. Marjorie Whittaker, nutrition specialist with the extension service at the University of Delaware.

Mrs. Whittaker said many people are being sold some pretty crazy reducing methods nowadays. Actually there is no easy, one answer method to dieting.

The nutrition specialist shot some holes in some of the ideas being tossed about at bridge clubs.

For example: Water doesn't make you fat. It doesn't have a calorie to the bath-tub-full.

Toast has just as many calories as untoasted bread.

Cutting salt in your diet as a weight losing measure is silly and can be harmful. A doctor may order a saltless diet for some kinds of ailments but it is not necessarily a weight-losing prescription.

Milk, potatoes and bread need not be cut out of your menu. The gravy, butter and jam that goes on top is what does the expansion job to your . . . In fact, Mrs. Whittaker says milk is a good diet food. Nonfat dry milk is a good buy at about nine cents a quart. Buttermilk is a low calorie drink too.

Watch your sugar intake, she warns. Some people think a high sugar snack before a meal will cut appetite. It will, but you have already taken in more calories than your lowered appetite will compensate for.

You don't have to buy expensive specialty diet foods either. Canned fruits are not high in calories; the heavy sugar syrup they are canned in is. If you eat the fruit and not the syrup, you will be just as well off and somewhat richer than if you eat special "diet" canned fruits.

The same thing applies to meats. High priced meats are no lower in calories than cheap cuts. The fat content is the difference.

Mrs. Whittaker had one last word of advice for dieters.

"Don't be a martyr. Don't make everyone sorry for you. Just thing how much better you will look on the beach this summer when you trim those pounds!"

Nosegay... by Fostoria

As its name suggests, Nosegay is a lighthearted floral pattern, as delightfully feminine as a bride's bouquet. It is a polished cutting on graceful handblown stemware. It was designed to complement floral patterns in china, but you'll find it goes equally well with many plain and geometric designs. Come see it in our open-stock Fostoria collection.

Delaware Food Market Report

The fruit picture remains much the same as in recent weeks except for two fruits—bananas and avocados. Bananas are a good to excellent buy at nine and ten cents a pound since quality is good. Avocados couldn't be much cheaper than they are—two for 25 cent—and those featured on special sales are medium in size and of good quality. When buying avocados this week, select the heavy medium-sized ones which have a bright, fresh appearance and which are fairly firm or are just beginning to soften. It is better to buy firm fruit than fruit that is too soft. To ripen avocados, keep them at room temperature, then refrigerate until ready to use. Always be sure to ripen a firm avocado before refrigerating it. Remember when selecting this fruit, they bruise easily and this not only mars their appearance but also affects the quality of the flesh, so help the grocer keep top quality fruit by being careful when you handle avocados and do handle them as little as possible.

Fresh strawberries are appearing in larger volume but prices remain fairly high. It is predicted the crop this year will be a quarter larger than last, so prices will soon fit the pocketbook of all consumers.

A much wider variety of good quality vegetables is at the vegetable counters this weekend. Sweet corn is arriving in increasing volume and prices will reflect this. Peak of supply for this vegetable being shipped in from Florida is late April and another peak is in early May. So look to lots of tender, sweet corn to eat. Cucumber shipments are increasing and will reach their peak in early May. New potatoes are plentiful and of course cabbage is also. Asparagus is increasing in supply—quality is good.

Here is a tip to help assure you of serving only the tender portion of the asparagus. Break rather than cut each spear. The asparagus snaps at the point where it ceases to be tender.

With current low prices and good quality of pork—now is the time to buy for the freezer. Be sure to properly wrap, since this is very important in retaining the fresh goodness of meat after several months in the freezer. Three to six months is the recommended time for fresh pork to be stored in a freezer.

Beef supplies are available for the next few weeks at about the same quantity as last year. However, there will be more young cattle and fewer old ones marketed. We can expect a continued larger supply of high quality beef since fattening rations are being fed the young cattle. Price-wise it is expected there is little chance of increased prices until summer when prices could go higher.

When day-old chicks are delivered to your poultry farm, they are healthy, vigorous individuals. Their future is determined by the care and attention that you as a poultryman give to the details of management.

Some of these details that mean so much for the successful development of healthy productive pullets are water, feeder space, litter and roosts, says Ralph P. Barwick, assistant extension poultry specialist at the University of Delaware.

Chicks just won't drink water that is too cold. During early brooding they prefer it to be 50 to 55 degrees. Of course, during the summer the pullets want it as cool as possible.

For feeder space, allow one inch for each chick the first two weeks, then two inches per chick from two to seven weeks and four inches over seven weeks to maturity. Have both feed and water ready when chicks arrive, Barwick urges.

Provides two or three inches of suitable litter at the start. Stir and add fresh litter as needed. Good litter management helps to prevent coccidiosis.

If roosts are to be used later for hens, they should be ready for the replacement chicks at four weeks of age. This will help eliminate crowding and other problems, Barwick said.

For feeder space, allow one inch for each chick the first two weeks, then two inches per chick from two to seven weeks and four inches over seven weeks to maturity. Have both feed and water ready when chicks arrive, Barwick urges.

Provides two or three inches of suitable litter at the start. Stir and add fresh litter as needed. Good litter management helps to prevent coccidiosis.

If roosts are to be used later for hens, they should be ready for the replacement chicks at four weeks of age. This will help eliminate crowding and other problems, Barwick said.

When day-old chicks are delivered to your poultry farm, they are healthy, vigorous individuals. Their future is determined by the care and attention that you as a poultryman give to the details of management.

Some of these details that mean so much for the successful development of healthy productive pullets are water, feeder space, litter and roosts, says Ralph P. Barwick, assistant extension poultry specialist at the University of Delaware.

Chicks just won't drink water that is too cold. During early brooding they prefer it to be 50 to 55 degrees. Of course, during the summer the pullets want it as cool as possible.

Veterans News

Q—I am a service-disabled veteran drawing extra compensation because I have a 17-year-old son. He has just enlisted in the Marines. Will the extra payments continue, since he has not yet reached age 18?

A—The extra payments may not be continued after he joins the Marines. Once your son is in service, he can no longer be considered a legal member of your household for purposes of the extra compensation payments.

Q—I have arranged to leave my GI life insurance dividends on credit with the VA. Will I continue to get premium-due notices?

A—Yes. Dividend credits are used only to prevent lapse of a policy. Premium notices are not suspended where there are dividend credits.

Q—Recently I changed the list of beneficiaries of my GI insurance policy. Must I inform the former beneficiaries of my action?

A—No. You have the right to change beneficiaries at any time, without their consent or knowledge.

Q—I am going to school quarter-time under the Korean GI Bill. At what rate am I using up my GI training settlement?

A—VA considers that you are using your training entitlement at quarter time rate. For example, if your course lasts for a year, you will have used up one-quarter of a year's entitlement, or three months.

Old Dover Days May 2 and 3 To Be Visited By Many

Visitors from many parts of the country and particularly from Delaware, New Jersey, Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania are expected to attend Old Dover Days Saturday and Sunday, May 2 and 3 according to Mrs. Oliver W. Farrow, chairman.

Mrs. Farrow is serving for the fourth straight year in arranging a host of displays, adding new residences and public buildings to those of previous years where guests will see the evidences of colonial culture in authentic furnishings and materials of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

Mrs. Henry Ridgely, Dover's grand old lady, who for many years served as chairman of the Delaware Archives Commission is honorary chairman for the two-day event and will participate actively as a hostess in her charming Ridgely House on the Green, Mrs. Farrow said.

Colonial Militiamen and horsemen, garbed in the uniforms of the Revolutionary period will roam the streets to add color and excitement to the occasion and new innovations which will be announced should attract a record crowd, the chairman believes.

Mrs. Farrow has named the committees which will serve with her this year to make Old Dover Days one of the state's outstanding events—which it has been for many years. During World War II the annual affair had to be dropped, but Old Dover Day was revived in 1948 as a one-day affair. Several years ago the Sunday showing was added, and Mrs. Farrow said this has been a boon for those who work Saturday but would like to pay a visit to the state capital.

These are the committee members who will serve with Mrs. Farrow in staging this year's annual "open house" program:

Activity on the Green—Mrs. George Fisher Jr., Mrs. Penelope Fox, Mrs. Oliver W. Farrow Jr., Mrs. Wallace Putnam;

Kent County Court House display—N. Maxon Terry; Horses and carriages, Oakland Remus; window displays, Mrs. Walter Holt, Mrs. W. G. Davis, and Mrs. Oliver W. Farrow Jr.; directional markers, Oliver W. Farrow Sr.; traffic, chief of police James Turner.

Governor's reception—Mrs. Calvin Boggs, and Mrs. Harry R. Richardson, Mayor's reception and portraits in Old State House, Mrs. Henry Roscoe; tickets and information booth—Mrs. Ross W. Jones, Mrs. Millard Biddle, Mrs.

Harold E. Mercer. Programs—Dr. John Shilling, Mrs. Farrow and Miles L. Frederick; outdoor arrangements, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Holmes; music and sound effects, Charles Shropshire; dancing instructor, Mrs. Jack Addam; Exhibits—Mr. and Mrs. James B. Kilvington, Mrs. W. B. Barnard, Mrs. Harry Hollaway.

Hostesses—Mrs. William Draper Sr., Mrs. N. Maxon Terry, Mrs. Harold Hughes; Adult Costumes—Mrs. Randolph Hughes; Children's Costumes—Mrs. John Hopkins.

Old Delaware Regiment—Harold Haines Jr.; publicity—Dr. John Shilling, Mrs. Henry Ridgely, Mrs. Oliver Farrow Sr., and Miles L. Frederick.

Sunday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Taylor and the Misses Jean, Virginia and Ruth Ann McDowell motored to Harmony, Md., to visit a former pastor and his wife, the Rev. and Mrs. Richard Bailey, who are now serving that charge. ### Hay Drying Survey Shows Cost

Many Delaware farmers are giving serious thought to putting in artificial hay driers.

In an effort to get some answers relating to artificial hay drying, the University of Delaware has been doing research that will help farmers reach the right decision about hay drying equipment.

Dr. William E. McDaniel, chairman of the department of agricultural economics, and Gerald L. Cole, agricultural economist, made a survey of Delaware, and nearby farms of Maryland and Pennsylvania with drying systems last year to get some answers.

The specialists studied various types of hay drying equipment to find out the differences in initial costs and in operating costs between the various kinds of operations.

Prices for setting-up heated air drying systems on the nine farms surveyed ran from $3200 to $20,000. The lower figure will provide either a four-wagon drying unit or a platform drier of equal capacity. The difference in the two lies in the labor costs.

With the platform drier the bales must be moved from the wagon to the platform, dried, moved again to the storage area.

moved back to the wagon and this labor difference in the two systems is about $1 per ton.

Of the nine farms surveyed, one farmer is switching from platform to wagon drying this year and two switched last year because of the labor costs involved.

Two small acreage farms were using now drying equipment. An unheated air mow drier can be put in for $675 to $800.

By using part of the first cutting for silage, small operations were doing a satisfactory job, drying up to 60 tons.

According to U. of D. agricultural engineer Ernest N. Scarborough, an investment of $3600 is about the minimum cost for a four wagon unit. It will buy a heating unit, tarpaulin, and four wooden stake-side wagons. If the farmer already has the running gear, he can build the four wagon beds for about $100 each which would reduce the investment to about $2700.

Scarborough said this sized operation will handle about 200-250 tons per year at a rate of five tons per day if hay is placed in the drying unit at about 35 percent moisture.

If you would like a copy of the complete survey report, write the department of agricultural economics, University of Delaware. Ask for agricultural economics pamphlet number 20.

Tourist Season Again is Here

Spring and the 1959 Tourist Season have arrived in Delaware, and, according to the State Development Department, the "First State" has much to offer the Spring visitor.

The Delaware Tourist Season, which traditionally opens with the Easter Sunday Fashion Promenade at Rehoboth Beach, got underway early this year when an estimated 10,000 visited the Atlantic Coast resort on March 29 for the Easter parade.

Gardens and museums throughout the state are being readied for an anticipated record influx of spring visitors, notes the Development Department.

An attraction that has become known world-wide is the annual tour of Winterthur Museum and Gardens, which, this year, opens April 21 and continues through May 23. Azaleas and spring flowers in a wide profusion are presented in the acres of gardens and visitors may also view some 20 rooms of the museum tracing American culture and home-life from 1640 to 1840. Tours are conducted between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday, during the dates mentioned. Only the Gardens are open Sundays. Winterthur is approximately six miles northwest of Wilmington on Del. Route 52.

Open all year around but particularly attractive in the spring is the Hagley Museum, located on the Brandywine River, a short distance from Winterthur. Here early water-powered industry is shown through dioramas and displays in an old textile mill that has been converted for museum purposes by the Eleutherian Mills Hagley Foundation. The Hagley Yard, where the famed duPont enterprises were born, is a vision of loveliness in springtime with displays of spring flowers. Admission to the museum is free between the hours of 9:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Tuesdays through Saturdays, and between 1 p.m. and 5 p.m. Sundays.

Other museums well worth a visit by the springtime tourists are Old Town Hall, Wilmington; The David Wilson House, Odessa; the Delaware State Museums, at Dover, and Zwaanendael Museum, Lewes.

At Dover, extensive preparations are being made for the annual observance of "Old Dover Days", traditionally held in the state capital the first Saturday and Sunday in May. This year, May 2 and 3, restored seventeenth and eighteenth century homes, gardens and museums will again be open to the public. Priceless heirlooms and old silver will also be exhibited.

Among the historic buildings that may be visited on Old Dover Days are the "Old State House", second oldest in continuous use in the Nation, and the John Dickinson Mansion, which was the home of the "Penman of the Revolution".

Receptions by Delaware's Governor and Dover's mayor; traditional dances on historic Dover Green, and May Day exercises on the Wesley College campus are other highlights of the two-day program at the capital.

Delaware's annual statewide observance of the Festival of Arts gets underway on May 1 and continues through the month. Included are special displays at the Delaware Art Center, Wilmington, and at studios of the Art League, Rehoboth; the annual Wilmington Garden Day and Wilmington's annual Clothesline Fair.

The Garden Day observance, annually sponsored as a benefit by three Wilmington Area Churches, will occur Sat., May 2, and consists of a tour of more than 20 city and nearby suburban gardens and estates. The Clothesline Fair, featuring works of artists of the area, will again be staged on the steps of Wilmington's Public Building, opposite lovely Rodney Square, May 5-6-7.

Saturday, May 16, historic New Castle, the state's first capital, will observe "A Day in Old New Castle". Located near Wilmington and the Delaware Memorial Bridge, New Castle today is one of the nation's outstanding colonial-type communities. Preserved or restored seventeenth century homes open for the occasion include the Dutch House, believed to be the oldest house in Delaware. Visitors who tread the cobblestoned Strand May 16 will be greeted by residents resplendent in colonial and Dutch garb of two centuries ago.

May 8 and 9 will bring the Flower Market in Rockford Park, Wilmington. Sponsored annually by the Junior League this outstanding and colorful event is a community-wide endeavor benefiting children.

The approach of Memorial Day, which, incidentally, is appropriately marked by parade and outdoor exercises in many Delaware communities, also brings closer the opening of Delaware Park, one of the Nation's most beautiful thoroughbred racing plants. A 50-day meet at the Stanton track gets underway Fri., May 29. The "Distaff Big Three" offer the world's largest purses for fillies and mares.

Beginning Memorial Day and continuing through the weekends and holidays of late Spring and summer, boat transportation from Delaware City, on the mainland, to historic Fort Delaware, on Pea Patch Island in the Delaware River, will be available. This picturesque old bastion housed Confederate prisoners during the American Civil War and with the approach of the Civil War Centennial is expected to develop into one of the State's greatest tourist attractions.

Delaware's famous bay and ocean resorts Rehoboth Beach, Lewes, Dewey Beach, Bethany Beach and Fenwick Island—are getting ready for an early influx of vacationists. The banging of hammers and swish of paint brushes being heard currently throughout the coastal area is an indication that these resorts will be "ready for business" when the Delaware beach season opens Memorial Day weekend.

Fishermen are already dropping their lines in the bring surf or in the more than 50 well stocked Delaware lakes and ponds — and reporting sizeable catches.

A "Calendar of Events", listing all of Delaware's many spring-time events; maps and other informative literature are available from the Tourism Division, Delaware State Development Department, 45 The Green, Dover, Dela.

Toadstool or Mushroom?

Poisonous toadstool or edible mushroom? Who can tell the difference? Very few people know when they find them in the field or woods. So the general rule is —leave them to the experts, says George Vapaa, the county agent.

You can rest easy with the mushrooms you buy at the store. They have been carefully grown under cultivated conditions, and the agent finds them a wonderful delicacy as do many others.

The warning on wild toadstools comes as a result of an accident in the Harrington area. Two small children are believed to have swallowed some wild toadstools while playing back of their home.

Only about twelve wild species are known to be toxic in the country, but several of these are common in Delaware. These fungus plants are generally found in low lands or wooded areas under natural conditions. Children are likely to be curious about these odd looking specimens, and parents should caution them about the dangers. Small children should be carefully supervised at play, especially during warm spring days when the plants first emerge.

First aid measures demand a visit to the family. An attempt should be made to induce vomiting as quickly as possible. Some species can cause death in 60% of the cases, so speedy treatment is essential, concludes the agent.

Democratic State Committee To Hold Dinner

Preliminary plans for the traditional annual Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner of the Democratic State Committee to be held in Wilmington Armory Thursday evening, May 14 were announced this week by Garrett E. Lyons, state chairman.

Lyons said that Frank J. Harty, general manager of Delaware Memorial Bridge, will serve as dinner chairman and that a top committee under his direction would stage "one of the best evenings we will have ever known."

The state leader of the Democratic party said that through the assistance of the National Democratic Committee and the office of U. S. Senator J. Allen Frear a "top and most prominent Democrat, well known on the national scene will come to Wilmington to deliver the principal address." Lyons said that he could possibly name the person selected next week.

Lyons said that Harty had been selected dinner chairman by a group of prominent and active Democrats, "because of his wide range of acquaintanceship throughout the state, which should help to attract a record number of people to this traditional affair."

Harty was formerly associated with a leading industry here and upon retirement was appointed general manager of Delaware Memorial Bridge. He also serves as a director of public safety for the city of Wilmington. He is a past international director of the Lions Club and serves as a director on the board of the Delaware Chapter, American Red Cross and is a past president of the Safety Council.

Harty said today that he will name appropriate committee chairmen at an early date to get ticket sales and reservations underway. The principal thing for party workers to do now is to reserve the dinner date.

"This annual dinner is a two-pronged affair," Harty declared. "It is a time when we pay tribute to two great Americans—Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson who are credited with the founding and establishing of the Democratic party principles as we understand them today. The occasion also serves in a practical way to raise funds for the Democratic State committee to carry on the policies and programs in which the organization believes."

Shop Carefully for Landscape Plants

The plant nursery or roadside garden shop is the place to find additions for your home ground, but plan ahead. You need only consider the overgrown jungles, the out-of-place-plants, the other mistakes in the gardens around your own community to see the sense in this, says county Extension agent George Vapaa.

Warm spring breezes and sunshine draw homeowners into the garden as inevitably as the sap rising in the trees. Then, just as inevitably, comes that old urge to improve the appearance of the place. All to the good—most home could stand a little improving. One way to do it is to plant trees, shrubs and flowers that complement both house and garden and provide an attractive setting for whatever summer activities you plan.

But the next impulse, all too often, is to rush off to the nearest nursery or garden shop and stock up with whatever happens to meet the eye. Here are some things to help you avoid disappointment and financial loss in buying nursery plants, Mr. Vapaa says.

First, consider the location in which you wish to plant. Think about the size the plant or plants should be at maturity, whether you want green all year round or only part of the year, whether you prefer broad leaves or needles, dark-green, light green or something in between, a growing up or a spreading-out effect.

If you would like flowering shrubs, consider colors that will look best in your garden and what season you would like them to bloom.

Other important considerations are sunlight, soil and drainage. How many hours does the sun hit that spot? Is the soil sandy and well drained or is it heavy clay and inclined to be moist or very dry?

A reputable nurseryman can help you to find the right plant for the right place if you share this information with him. He can also guide you in overcoming minor soil difficulties which may make all the difference between healthy and sickly plants. Or you can read the labels that are provided by careful nurseries to guide the buyer in avoiding costly and discouraging mistakes.

Kent Home Doings

Do Bargains Cost You Money? Don't waste money on "bargains" no matter how inexpensive they are unless you actually need the item. That's the word from Florence Y. Smith county home demonstration agent.

The magic words "sale", "bargain", and "reduced prices" often tempt people to rush in and do impulse buying, often of things they don't really want and without shopping around. The basis of all sales is the fear of the customer that someone else might get the bargain first. The "sale" implies that the price is too low and the supply is limited, so some customers rush in and buy without looking at price, quality or usefulness.

When shopping at sales, it is necessary to be even more careful than when doing ordinary shopping.

Ask yourself these questions: Is this the store's regular merchandise which is being offered? Are the prices really lower than usual? Have lower quality goods been bought especially for the sale? Is the store owner unloading poor quality or over priced goods with which he "got stuck"?

It is important to purchase only those things which you need, Mrs. Smith says. Be familiar with quality and price standards of items you plan to purchase.

Italians formed the biggest group of emigrants to Canada in 1958, replacing Britons at the head of the list for the first time since the war.

St. Stephen's Episcopal Church Notes

The Rt. Rev. J. Brooke Mosley, D.D., Bishop of Delaware, conducted the 11 o'clock service at St. Stephen's on the first Sunday after Easter.

The congregation was most happy and honored to have Bishop Mosley, but was also sad at the absence of the vicar, the Rev. John R. Symonds, Jr. The latter had flown to Kansas City on Saturday because of the critical illness of his father, John R. Symonds, of Wilmington.

After a telephone call from the Rev. John Symonds, just prior to the 11 o'clock service, an announcement was made by the senior warden that the vicar's father had died Saturday night. The congregation of St. Stephen's extends its love and sympathy to the vicar, to Mrs. Symonds, and to all other members of the family in their bereavement.

The funeral services will be held today, at St. James' Church, Stanton, at 11 a. m.

The occasion of Bishop Mosley's visit to St. Stephen's was to administer the order of confirmation to members of a class and to receive others presented to him by the vicar. In the absence of Rev. John Symonds, the Bishop also administered the rites of Holy Baptism. Those persons baptized were John Clyde Walker and Janice Vernell Basham.

The persons confirmed by the Bishop were Albert Lee Ratledge, Frank Edgar Welch, John Clyde Walker, Janice V. Basham, Linda Elaine Humes, Nancy C. Subaski, Kay C. Jones, Emily Helen Killy, Gaile Helen Keim, Cheryl Jean Smith, Joan Darlene Hutchins, Kathryn Louise Smith, Esther Marie Clark, Nellie E. Clendenning, Ejnar C. Pedersen, Ernest Edward Killen. Those received into this branch of the Christian church were Norma Ann French and Thomas E. Clendenning.

The Bishop and the choir chanted antiphonally the old plain song "Veni Creator," sung traditionally at ordinations and confirmations.
