

SIX SCHOOL DISTRICTS HOLD '58 TAX LINE IN KENT COUNTY

Of the 10 school districts in Kent County where local taxes are collected for school purposes, six districts are retaining the same tax rates that were in effect last year.

One school district will have a tax for the first time; another has increased its real estate tax rate; while another district has increased its capitation tax. A reduction in the real estate tax rate was made by another district.

Frederica is the school district having the new tax, which was made necessary because of a debt service in connection with a building improvement program. They have fixed a real estate tax of 30 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation and a capitation tax of $5.

The Dover district increased its real estate tax one cent to 47 cents on each $100 assessed valuation and retained the capitation tax at $7.

Milford retained its real estate tax rate at 44 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation but increased its capitation by one dollar, making it $9.

Greenwood reduced its real estate tax rate from 70 cents to 62 cents on each hundred dollars of assessed valuation and retained the capitation tax at $7.

School districts that made no changes in tax rates for this year, and their rate of taxes, were Smyrna, 63 cents on real estate and $3 capitation; Clayton 32 cents on real estate and $2 capitation; Hartly 10 cents on real estate and $5 capitation; Caesar Rodney 35 cents on real estate and $7 on capitation; Felton 30 cents on real estate and $6 capitation; Harrington, 55 cents on real estate and $7 on capitation.

Poppy Campaign Of Legion Aux. Is Very Successful

Mrs. William Jester, Poppy chairman for the C.K.R.T. American Legion Auxiliary, announced this week that the campaign conducted last weekend had been most successful. Donations in the amount of $140.70 to date were realized.

This money is used in the Child Welfare work that the unit does during the year. Some of the activities that are helped by the fund are the "adoption" of children at the Governor Bacon Health Center, Ferris School and the Hospital for the Mentally Retarded.

This means that these children are remembered during the year at birthday and Christmas time with gifts and at other times with cards from the unit. Local Child Welfare work included the gift baskets at Christmas and the food baskets at Thanksgiving, as well as the supplying of clothing to children in need.

The co-operation of members of the unit was greatly appreciated by Mrs. Jester, since it was necessary to have members on the streets from Friday afternoon through Saturday evening. The Junior Auxiliary Unit also assisted in the work.

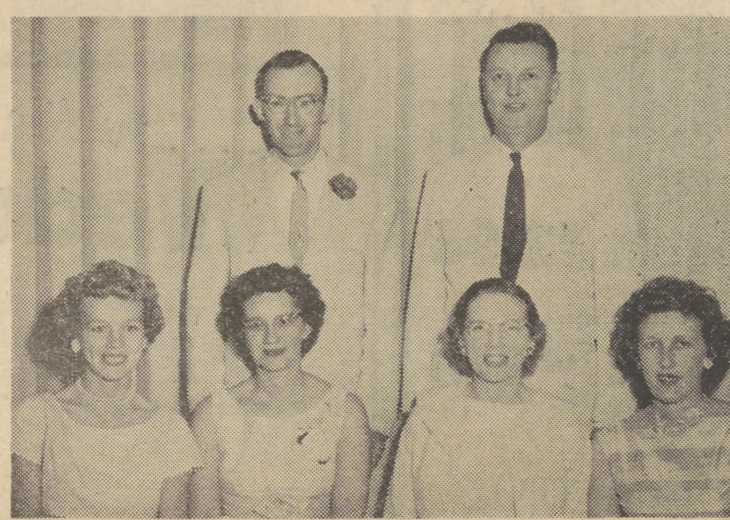

For the first time in many years, a Poppy Poster Contest was held under the direction of Mrs. Jester with the splendid co-operation of Mrs. Peggy Malek of the art department of the Harrington School. A total of 15 posters were submitted to the judges who were Mrs. Malek, Mrs. Jester and Mrs. Dale Roth, president of the auxiliary unit. The winners who will receive a check of $2.50 each were: Doug Moore, Charles Moore, Bobbette DeVroy and Jerry Trepasso. All are members of the 7th grade. These posters will be entered in the state contest and winners on the state level will be announced at the convention in June.

Schiff and Knotts To Compete in State Track Meet

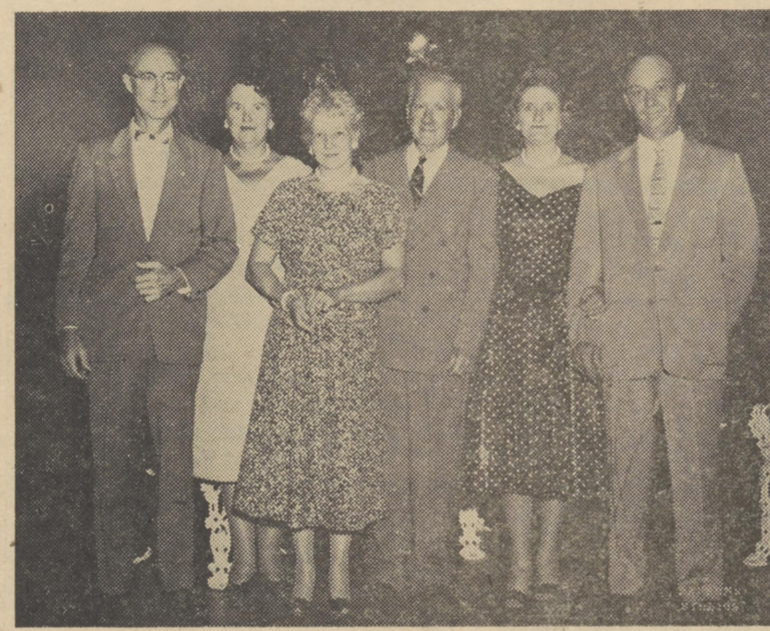

By Keith S. Burgess

Jim Schiff, sprinter and Harry Knotts, miler, are the only Harrington high trackmen sure of an opportunity to compete in the state championship meet at the University of Delaware Saturday. Trials will start at 10 in the morning. The finals will start early in the afternoon.

Under the revised system used this year an athlete must be one of the twelve best in the state in any event in order to compete.

Others who might squeeze in are John Taylor and Phil Holson, discus throw, George Pfeiffer and Walter Lekites, broad jump, Don Garey, pole vault and George Balderson, junior high shot put.

Schiff has the best chance to bring home a state title. His times in the 100 and 220 are second best. (Continued on back page)

H. H. S. Beats Felton 13-4; to Share Henlopen Title With Greenwood and Bridgeville

By Keith S. Burgess

Coach Harold McDonald's Harrington High baseball team won its seventh game of the season by defeating Lord Baltimore 4-3 on the local field Thursday afternoon, May 21st.

The locals had to come from behind in true Frank Merriwell fashion to trap this one. Lord Baltimore was leading 3-2 on 3 unearned runs scored in the first inning. Gary Devaney, who earlier in the season pitched a no-hitter, fanned the first two men to start the last inning and had two strikes on Jim Schiff. Schiff singled solidly to the outfield to keep H.H.S. alive and then stole second on the first pitch. Ken "Snooky" Collins beat out an infield roller with Schiff moving to third. Collins then swiped his second base of the afternoon to put the pressure squarely on the broad shoulders of Ron Collison. Ron sent the screaming Harrington fans home happy by lining a game-winning double into the outfield.

Ken Collins had a perfect day at the plate getting 4 hits in 4 at bats. He is probably back on top in the league standing as his average is now a stratospheric .540. Collins received credit for his sixth win in seven starts as fanning 7 and walking only one. He pitched a tidy seven-hitter, John Taylor and Jim Temple each contributed 2 hits in 3 attempts to the Lions' 11 hit attack.

The quartet, comprised by Dwight Hackett, Phillip Holson, Bill Manship, and Kenneth Hoffman, later sang several numbers which were very well received. They were accompanied by Mel Brobst, teacher of music. The youths, students at Harrington School, have attracted much attention with their performances in the community.

Besides the election of officers, other phases of a business meeting included a historian's report by Mrs. Luther Hatfield, the treasurer's report, read by the president in the absence of the treasurer, and a reading of the minutes by Mrs. Winston C. Burgess, outgoing recording secretary.

PASSAGE OF SPECIFIC PUNISHMENTS

When, in the opinion of the members of the General Assembly, the courts fail to exercise their discretionary powers with a more practical approach, the legislators will see that more bills are introduced with a specific punishment for specific crimes.

Senator Walton H. Simpson (R-Camden) Monday issued such a warning to the judges on the floor of the Senate.

Specific punishment for specific offenses has been exemplified in cases involving the driving of a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquors. A substantial fine, for the first offense, with a fine and a jail sentence for a second offense, makes one think before "taking one for the road."

Senator Simpson, however, mentioned particularly the mandatory whipping bill (SB-57). "Some folks said the Legislature was regressing when they voted for the mandatory whipping bill. A good question would be: 'Are our courts regressing?'"

The senator asked: "How much longer can we expect our police to go about making first-class investigations when the courts persist in only smacking the culprit on the wrist and saying: 'Go home, be a good boy, and don't get into mischief again?'"

Senator Simpson cited some recent instances of court leniency, including one case in which he said an intruder badly beat an elderly woman.

The whipping bill would make the use of the whipping post mandatory for those convicted of robbery. It is cruel. So is imprisonment. So is knocking someone in the head with a club or pistol barrel. So is being held up. It can be nerve-wrecking for the victim, particularly those with heart ailments.

However, if SB 57 is enacted into law it will be only a symbol if the robbers give Delaware a wide berth.

Dear Sir:
Harrington Journal
Harrington, Delaware

Your editorial of May 8th titled "A Switch in Time Saves Nine" is very nostalgic of my school days. I attended school under Professors Willey, Carpenter and Jump, but when you mentioned "Dutch" Swain you really mentioned a true disciplinarian. "Dutch" had his peculiarities, but was very honest and fair in his judgement and acts. For instance, he was a wonderful baseball umpire. An incident to verify his fairness occurred in the classroom one day when he collared one of 'us boys' and pulled him out into the aisle, up against Bill Barlow's desk. Bill had wrapped his cap around two cigars and stuck them in the ironwork of his desk so "Dutch" could not smell them in his clothing. When this boy hit Bill's desk the cap and cigars were knocked onto the floor and crushed. "Dutch" looked at Bill with daggers in his eyes and asked, "What are you doing with those cigars?" Bill thought fast and replied, "I bought them for my father." This stopped "Dutch" cold in his tracks. He reached in his pocket, gave Bill some money and told him to buy two more cigars. This, incidentally, also saved the boy who had been collared from further chastisement that day. Three guesses who that boy was!

Another incident that is symbolic of "Dutch's" judgement was when he sent Bill Barlow out to the clump of woods just beyond where the new school now stands to cut some switches to bring back for "Dutch" to use on Bill. Bill came back with some nice sturdy switches, but upon applying them they broke in several pieces the first time used. Bill had cut rings around the switches with his pocket knife. The entire class, of course, laughed and the humiliation was too much for "Dutch", so that was the end of sending us out for switches.

I am glad to hear that Mr. Wilbur Jump is still living as he was my principal when I graduated. A wonderful man and a fine educator, as was his vice-principal, Miss Olive Steele (Sharp). Incidentally, I just read in the papers recently where California legislators have also introduced a bill to permit schoolteachers to swap pupils when necessary. I don't think it ever hurt anybody. I know it didn't me—only momentarily.

Yours very truly,
John S. Harrington

Wool Pool Open To Shore Farmers

The Delaware Sheep and Wool Association is inviting anyone on the Eastern Shore to participate in the annual Wool Pool Sat., June 20 at the Ken-Sussex Fair Grounds, in Harrington.

Jack Dukas, president of the association says, "We would appreciate knowing who may intend to sell at the pool. If we have the name and address (and approximate amount of wool) of each potential pooler, we can send out a card with the graded prices to be paid. We need this information at least a week before the sale. It should go to the secretary, Mrs. Vera Rambo, at Houston.

Volume the past several years has been 17,000 to 26,000 lbs. The wool is to be delivered at Harrington, where it is weighed in and graded by Mr. Monahan, a Philadelphia wool grader. Last year the average price was 46c per pound. The price is always 8 cents to 16 cents over the prevailing salvage price, simply because of the large volume available for sale at one point and because of the grading.

The wool is loaded on the successful buyers trailer and is sent on the road immediately after the pool. The buyer pays upon delivery, and settlement is made with the pooling farmers within 10 days by the Delaware Sheep and Wool Association. The costs of the pooling have always been less than a cent per pound of tied wool.

As a matter of interest, the Association insures all the wool coming into the pool from the time it leaves the farm until it reaches the ultimate buyer.

Delaware Food Market Report

June may be the season for beef as well as brides. Supplies of beef are expected to be a little larger than they were a year ago, says the American Meat Institute. Retail beef cuts may decline some during this period, although demand for steak and hamburger will be strong during the warm weather ahead.

Meat prices in general are showing a higher trend as marketings begin to decline seasonally. Pork prices are fluctuating slightly. Penny changes show up here and there. Veal and lamb prices have gone up a penny or so per pound this week. Frying chickens are still just about the cheapest fresh meat to be had in this area. Prices are as low as 27 cents a pound in some stores. For the rest, prices remain about the same as last week.

The outstanding buy of the week is the egg-down again in price. Grade A large eggs dropped another two cents, Grade B large eggs down three cents on the dozen, and Grade A medium are as cheap as 37 cent a dozen. It's a great day for eggs. It's strawberry time—there are more of these luscious red berries on the market this week and prices have dropped about two cents a pint. As more local berries reach the market you will see more quart containers used. Prices are averaging 49 cents a quart now.

Supplies of citrus fruit are much larger than they were last year, so expect oranges and grapefruit to remain plentiful for a while longer. Cold storage stocks of apples continue to be large and will be above that of last year. More Florida watermelons are coming to market, and the average price is nine cents a pound.

Tomato prices are coming down: cartons are down three cents this week; loose tomatoes are two cents cheaper. Green peppers and cucumbers are up, so is celery. Celery is still a good buy though at 5 cents a bunch. Leafy greens are getting scarce now, and prices are a bit higher.

Supplies of fresh salt water fish are increasing and some are lower in price. Butter fish, flounder, bluefish and halibut are all plentiful now. Among the shellfish frozen shrimp and canned lobster are both in good supply.

Delaware Park Opens Friday

Delaware Park launches its 22 annual Thoroughbred race meeting Friday proudly offering the public more facilities and features than ever before. While the completed $3,500,000 physical improvements program is highlighted by a new clubhouse as modern and luxurious as any extant, the 700-acre Stanton plant retains all the rusticity, greenery, and country atmosphere of past seasons.

Aside from the new clubhouse, expanded grandstand facilities, additional parking space now totalling 38 acres and other 1959 embellishments, the racing itself appears assured of a new high in quality and interest. It is estimated that some $2,000,000 in overall stakes, purses and awards for the 50-day meeting will set a record for the track, with approximately $400,000 in added money for 18 stakes and major features. These are topped, of course, by the quarter-million dollar Distaff Big Three events on the final three Saturdays—the $50,000 Oaks, $40,000 New Castle, and the $150,000 Delaware Handicap, world's richest filly-and-mare race, which grossed more than $160,000 in '58 and '57.

Friday's opening has again been designated as "Fraternal Civic Day" with races honoring the Shriners, Knights of Columbus, B'nai B'rith, New Castle County Volunteer Firemen's Association and Wilmington Jaycees. Officers of these organizations will present a silver cigarette box to the winning jockeys. The day's traditional stakes feature, the $10,000 added Wilmington Handicap in which class sprinters will clash at six furlongs, includes a piece of plate for the winning owner—meaning there will be trophy presentations in six of the eight races, perhaps a record.

Another opening day attraction will be the first of the weekly fashion shows which begin with one by John Wanamaker of Wilmington.

The Saturday Memorial Day program, featuring the $10,000 added, five furlong Polly Drummond Stakes for juvenile fillies, will include—prior to the races—entertainment and appropriate ceremonies participated in by some 100 members of the Delaware National Guard.

For the period from June 8 through June 26, a steeplechase or hurdles race will be scheduled daily except Saturdays. Through the field sport will be headed by three $10,000 added 'chases—the Tom Roby, Georgetown and Indian River—and the $7,500 added Spring Maiden 'Chase.

Baltimore and Ohio, and Pennsylvania trans go direct to the grandstand, with "Early Bird" homegoing trains available. Bus service includes Wilmington, Baltimore, Camden and points in northern New Jersey, New York and nearby Pennsylvania cities.

For motorists, all main roads are adequately marked with prominently displayed "Blue Hen" directional signs to the track. First race post time daily is 2 p.m., EDT.

Groom African Violets for Flower Show

Growers of that most popular of flowering houseplants—the African Violet—will be pleased to learn that the approaching Delaware Flower Show offers five classes of competition for this indoor favorite. The show will take place during commencement weekend, June 13 and 14, at the University of Delaware in Newark.

In the plant category, horticultural classes for amateurs, classes are open as follows: single blossom, any color; double blossom, any color; novelties—albino, variegated foliage, miniature, Grotel or species hybrids; single blossom, three plants, one or more varieties; and double blossom, three plants, one or more varieties. Plants must have been in possession of exhibitor at least three months prior to the show and should be in plain pots, preferably unpainted clay.

Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist with the school of agriculture at the university, offers the following tips to growers who are preparing violets for show: Be sure the plant has only one crown or growing tip. Some judges frown at plants having more than one crown. Start feeding the plant now. But go easy with the food. Many people over-feed their violets by using more plant food than is called for on the container. That 'little bit extra for good measure' does more harm than good so if anything, fee light.

Groom your plants by taking off leaves that are faded or that interfere with a symmetrical appearance. You don't have to have a perfect plant to enter it in the show, Mr. Stevens emphasizes. "Many plants that home gardeners feel are not good enough for show actually are and should be entered. Flower show competition is an educational experience and produces more skillful gardeners and improves the caliber of our shows"; he declared.

Schedules of show classes, entry forms and additional information about the show may be obtained by writing to: "Delaware Flower Show," Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark. African violet classes are No. 58 through 62—Saint-paulia, in the plant category.

Special prizes will be awarded for winning entries of African Violets.

Veterans News

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—A friend of mine, not a veteran, made a fairly large extra principal payment on his house recently, and was required by the lender to pay some additional interest as a penalty. My friend says this is a common practice in conventional loan arrangements. I understand, however, that it is not possible where the loan is a GI loan. Am I correct?

A—You are right. The GI loan law specifically states no penalty charges may be made if a veteran wishes to make an extra principal payment on his loan. The extra payment, however, must be at least one hundred dollars, or a full monthly payment, whichever is smaller.

Q—I am going to college under the Korean GI Bill. If I take a part-time job this summer will I have to report those earnings to the VA?

A—No. Students taking classroom college training under the Korean GI Bill need not report outside earnings, and outside earnings do not affect allowance checks in any way.

Q—My husband died recently of a service-connected condition, and I am now drawing death compensation payments from VA. I have a chance to take a secretarial job. Would my earnings in a job decrease the amount of my compensation?

A—No. Your income would have no effect on your death compensation. Income limitations do apply, however, to pensions based on deaths not connected with military service.

Q—I let my permanent plan GI insurance policy lapse, and along with it, the total disability rider I was carrying. I re-instated the basic insurance policy but not the disability rider. In reinstating the disability income provision, must I pay all back premiums on it, plus interest, or can I just add a new disability rider?

A—In reinstating a lapsed disability income rider to your GI insurance you may either follow the procedure of paying back premiums, with interest, and fulfilling health conditions, as you did with your basic permanent plan insurance policy, or you may simply apply for a new disability rider.

Invite Registrations for U. D. Homemaker's Short Course

Homemakers in Kent County were reminded today to obtain registration blanks for this year's Homemaker's Short Course to be held on the University of Delaware campus in Newark, June 15-18. The blanks may be obtained from home demonstration agent Florence Y. Smith, county extension service office, Dover or by calling REDfield 6-1448.

The official registration deadline is May 29, although late registrations will be accepted up to the limits established for the various classes such as flower arrangement, painting, clay modeling, nature study and reading for fun. In any case, Mrs. Smith urges haste in obtaining a registration blank and sending it in.

With the background theme, "Woman's Place in the World", the course will offer general sessions in are, philosophy, law, politics and education, in addition to the classes for hobby development. Other offerings include instruction in conducting meetings and group discussions, public speaking, arranging programs for meetings and understanding human behavior in groups.

Special program features include an organ concert at Longwood Gardens, visits to new University of Delaware buildings, a get-acquainted party the first evening, vesper services, and a recognition service at the final session.

Mrs. Smith emphasized that the course is open to all women, including those who are not members of organized home demonstration clubs. Homemakers may attend either as day participants or may reserve dormitory accommodations at the University. Estimated meal cost is $3 per day per persons.
