

CIVIC GROUPS DISCUSS BUILDING OF SWIMMING POOL

The Callaway-Kemp-Raughley-Tee Post No. 7, American Legion, is considering the building of a swimming pool, with the support of other civic groups, it was revealed Monday night at a meeting or representatives of the organizations.

Fulton J. Downing, who, with Arnold Gilstad and Charles Peck, Jr., had been named as representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, told the Chamber, at its July meeting at The Wonder R Tuesday afternoon, that, while it was estimated a pool would cost from $30,000 to $50,000 to build, he figured one for $20,000 would do.

Downing said Magistrate L. Gooden Callaway told the Monday night meeting the Legion was interested in building a pool on its land on U. S. 13. The Chamber representative added that the consensus was to let the Legion build the pool with the aid of other groups.

On the motion of Downing, the Chamber voted to support the Legion in its enterprise.

In other business, the Chamber voted to hold a picnic Wednesday afternoon and evening at Oak Orchard at the cottage of Franklin Swain. Members of the picnic committee are Swain, John Walls, and Arnold Gilstad.

The secretary, C. H. Burgess, was authorized to write Dr. Vincent G. B. Lobo Jr., of Greenwood, that there was need in the community for an optometrist. Dr. Lobo recently graduated from a college of optometry in Philadelphia.

Micro-Midget News

They say there is a first time for everything and Saturday night we had a first at the Blue Hen Speedway.

In the first heat race for the Micro Midgets Car No. 13 driven by Spanky Vincent and Car No. 11 driven by Bob Murry tied for first place.

This is a very rare occurrence in auto racing.

The shower that started to break up things finally cleared away and the races were completed. We had a match race between Car No. 102 driven by Pat Fry and Car No. 47 driven by Smokey from Easton Md., with Pat taking the lead.

The boys drive each week for the fun of driving. They receive no purse, but they do receive points in the feature race each week. Then at the end of the season they will receive trophies accordingly. Kent & Sussex Fair 3-Mile Foot Race Draws Top Field

By Keith S. Burgess

The Kent and Sussex County Fair is sponsoring a three-mile foot race to be held Tuesday night, July 28, at 8 p.m.

Interest in distance running is on the upswing in the United States after many years of domination by Europeans and others. Cross-country running, for example, is the fastest growing sport in American collegiate circles. Part of this new interest can be attributed to the fact that 1959 is the year of the Russian-U.S. track meet in Philadelphia, the Pan-American Olympic Games in Chicago and 1960 is the year of the world-wide Olympic Games in Rome, Italy. Another factor was the discovery that American youth on the average were much softer than their European counterparts. This was caused by years of push-button living. This latter statement was proved beyond the shadow of a doubt by a series of tests given both groups over the last few years.

President Eisenhower recognized the situation by his appointment of his "Committee For The Physical Fitness of American Youth."

Well-known Delaware runners who have either sent in entry blanks or signified their intention of entering the local distance test are: Wes Stack of Seaford, who set a new University of Delaware freshman 2-mile record last year; John Creighton, of Mt. Pleasant High in Wilmington, who is the

Motor Fuel Taxes For May Are Largest Collected

Receipts from motor fuel taxes for the month of May were the largest for any month since these taxes have been in effect, and is in keeping with the increase being recorded for each month during the present year.

The receipts for May, which were received during the month of June, totaled $870,616.45. This amount is an increase of $136,121.30 over the amount received for May 1957 and an increase of $166,913.13 over the amount received for May 1956.

The taxes received for May of this year represented the sale of 17,329,845 gallons of motor fuel, which is an increase of 3,566,545 gallons over the amount sold in May of last year.

The report on the motor fuel tax collections, as prepared by James J. Deputy, Secretary of the State Highway Department, and as such Administrator of the motor fuel Tax Division, reveals that during May there were a total of 57 concerns bonded as distributors of motor fuel in this state.

Marine Architect To Submit Designs For Woodland Ferry

The State Highway Department has construction with a Marine Architect to submit two designs for the new boat to operate at Woodland Ferry, over the Nantuxie River, west of Seaford.

The one designed will be for a boat that can provide transportation for three cars in tandem, or two small trucks while the other design will provide for transportation of four cars, two abreast, or two trucks.

The new landing facilities, which will be needed on each side of the river, will not be planned until the design for the boat is selected and the requirements for docking the boat are known.

FORMER RESIDENTS VICTIMS OF HOLDUP, STABBING SUNDAY

Efforts to locate the man who robbed and seriously wounded Max Bush, 22, Bear area farmer, failed early Sunday.

The Bush family formerly lived on the Herman Peck farm northwest of town. The daughter, Joane, was a this year's graduate of Harrington High School.

Troopers used dogs in a futile attempt to track down the intruder.

Bush is in serious condition in the Delaware Hospital with stab wounds of the lower lip, upper palate, and lower abdomen.

Troopers said the attacker entered the home of Mrs. Vera Bush, mother of the victim, at the Route 40-7 intersection at 4 a.m.

The man, described as a Negro, went to the second-floor bedroom of Mrs. Bush where she and a daughter, Joane, were asleep and took an empty purse and a wallet containing about $17 from a bureau drawer.

Next, the man went to the adjoining house of Ross Bush and

Joseph Richardson To Install Liberty Street Water Main

The City Council, at a special meeting Thursday night, July 9, awarded a contract to Joseph Richardson to install a water main on Liberty Street.

Richardson's bid was $2.91 for approximately 300 feet to be installed from the National Guard armory to the residence of Dale Dean. Work is to be completed by Aug. 1.

Tri-State Concrete Company, Seaford, bid $2.90 per foot but the negligible difference in the bids made the Council accept the offer of the local firm.

In other business, the Council agreed to the transfer of $2000 from the water account to the City account; approved the completion of cleaning a ditch adjoining the property of Earl Sylvester on Delaware Avenue, and authorized the printing of forms to be used in hooking up sewer and water mains to private property.

RAINS GIVE CROPS A REPRIEVE AFTER SIX WEEKS OF DROUGHT

Rain, produced by tropical storm, Cindy, was greeted with heartfelt emotion Friday as a crop-saver.

Reports from the southern end of the State and the Eastern Shore estimated the rainfall at between one and two inches.

Is the Felton area, however, the rainfall was particularly heavy. Reynolds Robbins, near Andrews Lake, said his rain gauge figured better than seven inches of water. There were some skeptics until Ellwood Gruwell said that, judging by his rain gauge, there was at least seven inches.

The rain, in this area, started about 4 a. m. and continued, almost uninterrupted, until evening. Low spots in fields were flooded, but farmers, who had not seen any substantial precipitation in six weeks, said they did not mind that.

Nevertheless, there will be some loss of soybeans and corn from the drought, with the loss greatest on the light, sandy soils which do not hold the water as there took a wallet containing $55 from a pair of trousers.

He then returned to the home of Mrs. Bush, walked into the living room and found Max, who had finished milking the cows, seated in the living room.

Police said the intruder pulled a knife and ordered Max to turn over his money and lie on the floor. Bush clashed with the burglar and in the struggle, was stabbed twice. The intruder fled.

Troopers used dogs to follow the man's trail along a dirt road to Route 40, but lost the trail at the highway.

Four More Bids To Be Placed By S. H. D.

The State Highway Department will have four more projects to be placed under contract before construction funds available to the Department at the present time are exhausted.

This situation became known this week when R. A. Haber, chief engineer of the Highway Department, sent a letter to construction concerns advising them of the situation.

In his letter, Mr. Haber informed the construction concerns, "We are calling to your attention this fact in order that you may make any adjustments that you feel may be necessary in your working staffs."

Mr. Haber informed the construction industry that construction funds for highway projects for this fiscal year, have not been provided by the General Assembly before the present recess.

"To put it bluntly," said Mr. Haber, "Our future construction planning is uncertain. Action in providing construction funds requires joint action on both sides of the aisle in the State Senate."

By way of explanation, Mr. Haber said in his letter, "Up until two months ago, the Department was operating on funds allocated to it two years ago by the General Assembly. These funds have been spent or are obligated for construction which is now under way."

"Two months ago the General Assembly passed, and the Governor approved, legislation providing for a bond issue of $2,500,000 for highway construction, which because of federal aid, most of this money has been placed under contract. We are obligated and intend to build the following projects from this fund: "Route 18, Georgetown, and Route 10, Maryland line to Willow Grove, both of which have been advertised, and Basin Road Interchange on FAI-1, and Washington Street, and Main Street, Millsboro, both remaining to be advertised."

"Other than the above, we have no knowledge of when an active construction season can be started. It is absolutely beyond the power of the State Highway Department to predict the course of action which the Legislature may take."

Previous to the present recess of the General Assembly, the Highway Department submitted to the members an outline of an construction program that could be undertaken during the present biennium.

By extending credit, Venezuela is developing a poultry industry, Caracas learns.

Man Killed as Car Hits Tree in Harrington Area

W. Lyman Jacobs Weds in New Castle

Miss Alice Elizabeth Chase, daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Chase and the late Mr. L. Eugene Chase, was married recently to Mr. Wilbur Lyman Jacobs, son of Mrs. Georgia E. Jacobs and the late Wilbur E. Jacobs, of Harrington.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Stanley P. Gladfelter, vicar of the Church of the Nativity, Manor Park.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. J. Henry Davison, Jr., had as her matron of honor, her sister, Mrs. Davison. Mr. Francis L. Pollard, brother-in-law of the bride, served as best man.

A luncheon was held in the Arsenal Tea Room following the ceremony.

2 Injured in Felton Crash

Two persons were injured in a single car accident Monday afternoon, along County Road 388, about 3.3 miles south of Felton. The injuries were not considered serious.

State police said a car operated by William W. Carrow, 16, Felton RD 1, was proceeding north on Road 388 and failed to negotiate a curve.

The car ran off the road, proceeded 125 feet, struck a utility pole and bounced across the road into a second pole.

Carrow suffered lacerations of the forehead and Charles N. Beebe, 16, of Kent Acres, Dover, a passenger in the car, suffered a fractured wrist.

Police arrested Carrow on a charge of operating a motor vehicle at an unsafe speed and he will be given a trial before the Juvenile Court.

Teen Script with Barb Payne

Learning how to get along with members of the opposite sex is one of the most important problems that teenagers have to face. Courtship—marriage—and parenthood lie ahead for them in the not too distant future. Most girls and boys are awkward and confused in their first attempts to get together. Developing a social ease with each other is certainly not at all a simple or easy job.

A solution for many teenagers seems to lie in "going steady!" Having a steady boy friend or girl friend is a kind of security for high school students.

Parents often worry when their son or daughter go steady. But going steady for high school boys and girls generally means one at a time, not one for always.

Going steady is probably not as great a problem as some parents fear. At any rate, the fact must be faced that it is an acknowledged pattern among teenagers in most communities.

Hay Drying Tour Set for August 4th

A tour of hay driers has been planned for Tues., Aug. 4, announced J. R. Schabinger, Extension dairyman, University of Maryland College of Agriculture.

The tour will start at 10 a.m. at the William King's Irvington Farm near Gathersburg. Here tour guests will see a 10-wagon hay drier in operation as well as a fine Holstein herd. In the afternoon a visit will be made to the farm of Allan and Norman Hill, Woodbine. Hill's have a batch drier in their barn and an Ayshire herd. Visitors will enjoy seeing both the hay drying setups and the dairy herds, both of which are well known in the show ring, Schabinger said.

Emphasis at the two stops will be placed on seeing and asking questions, with a minimum of formal speech making, he added.

Schabinger suggested that everyone bring their own lunch. Arrangements will be made to have milk available.

The tour will end promptly at 3 p.m. In case of rain the tour will be the following day, Wed., Aug. 5. Schabinger pointed out that the tour is a follow-up of the annual Hay Show and meeting which was co-sponsored by the Maryland Extension Service and the Northeastern Hay Driers Association that was held at the University of Maryland last March.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—I was in the Army during the Korea War, and have just recently been discharged. What is my deadline for starting training under the Korean-GI Bill?

A—You must begin your training within three years from the date of your discharge or separation.

Q—who is supposed to apply for War Orphans schooling, the prospective student or his living parent?

A—if the prospective student is under legal age, his parent or guardian must apply in his behalf. If he is of age, and has no known legal disability, he may apply on his own.

Q—I will be taking on-the-job training under the Korean GI Bill this fall. Is there any limit on my training wages?

A—There is no limit on how much you may earn. However, when your earnings plus your GI allowance exceed $310 a month, VA is required by law to scale down your training allowance to bring the total within the $310 ceiling.

Q—a friend of mine tells me that on his private company life insurance policy changing beneficiaries may require the consent of a person already named as beneficiary. Is that necessary with GI insurance?

A—No. If you wish to change the beneficiaries of your GI insurance policy, the present beneficiaries need not be notified.

Needlecraft News

by Nancy Baxter

Nothing generates quite as much excitement as anticipation of a new baby's arrival. It sparks the ordinarily calm domestic scene into bubbling activity. Hopes, plans and preparations unravel at dizzying speed as time draws closer to the happy day. And that's as it should be. . . . a new baby is a mighty important person, deserving the very best from family and friends-to-be. From the needlcraft, he'll receive an extra special gift. . . . made by her own hands and born of her own inspiration.

CHILD'S PLAY

Today's saque and bonnet set falls into the category of "extra special." In an item as tiny as this, I always look for distillation of elegance. That's why I particularly favor crocheted items—so fancy and fine! And besides being lovely, crocheting is especially easy to do. Solid stripes are double crocheted. The saque, itself, is worked the spaces, double crocheted and chain. Sleeves just follow right along; no sewing is necessary. In the same manner, the bonnet is simple to make—single crocheted makes up the solid back. For emphasized delicacy, you'll want to use pompadour yarn, or, for better washability, nylon pompadour. It's fun to choose from the wide range of available colors. Our sample, for instance, was done in Nile Green with contrasting yellow ribbon.

TIME AND YOUR HANDS

And right now is a perfect time to begin work. Long summer evenings afford extra minutes to devote to your hobby. Or, when you head for the beach or picnic, just take your crocheted bag along. You'll find that a spare moment here and there are all you'll need to bring this project to its happy conclusion. Crochet instructions are free.

Farm Wheat Allotments Mailed To Kent Farmers

Wheat growers of Kent county can expect to receive their 1960 acreage allotments through the mail this week. Chairman R. Harry Wilson of the Kent Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, announced Monday at Dover.

There is a total of 796 farms with 1960 wheat acreage allotments in the county having a combined allotment acreage of 14,800 acres. These allotments are being mailed at this time so farmers will have them in advance of the July 23 referendum, at which time growers throughout the county will decide whether to market their 1960 wheat under the same quota system that has been in effect for several years.

The 1960 farm allotment will be about the same in most cases as it was last year. It represents the individual farm's share of the national wheat allotment, which will continue next year at the minimum of 55 million acres permitted by law.

If marketing quotas go into effect for the 1960 wheat crop as a result of two-thirds approval in the coming referendum, the allotment becomes a factor in determining compliance with marketing quotas. The farmer who keeps within his allotment may market his entire wheat production without penalty. The farmer who is over his allotment will ordinarily be subject to a penalty on the normal production of his excess acres.

An exception to this general rule is that any farmer may produce up to 15 acres of wheat without penalty. Also, a farmer with an allotment of less than 30 acres may apply for a feed wheat exemption and, if it is approved, may produce up to 30 acres of wheat to be used on the farm where grown.

The farmer who complies with his wheat allotment is eligible for price support, either with or without marketing quotas in effect. The acreage allotment is also a factor in Soil Bank compliance and the determination of future wheat allotments.

Compliance with the allotment is required of any farmer participating in the Conservation Reserve of the Soil Bank. The farmer who exceeds his allotment, produces more than 15 acres of wheat and is not participating in the feed wheat program is ineligible for Conservation Reserve payments.

For purposes of establishing future allotments, the farmer who complies with his 1960 wheat allotment receives credit for his full wheat base and thus gets credit for the acreage diverted from wheat. The farmer who exceeds his allotment receives no credit for the diverted acreage unless he stores his excess wheat under marketing quota regulations or delivers it to the government.

Any farmer who has questions about his 1960 wheat allotment should take them up with the staff of the Kent ASC County Office at Dover, as soon as possible after the allotment is received, Chairman Wilson said.

No Water, No Milk, Bossie Says

High temperatures, lack of water, and poor, dry-weather pastures, can really put the skids under your herd's milk production, according to Dr. George Haenlein, research dairyman at the University of Delaware.

A dairy processor told Dr. Haenlein recently that production from many farmers dropped 200 to 500 pounds of milk per day during the recent hot spell. "Much of this loss could have been prevented by proper shade, adequate water right in the field, and supplementary feeding," the research scientist said.

Just lack of water can cause a terrific drop in milk production. Recent research has shown a 20 per cent difference in production between cows watered once a day and cows with free access to water.

When you consider the simple a temperature of 80 degrees F will knock production down 10 per cent, the importance of easy-to-get water is vital.

When it is 95 degrees, milk production will dip about 30 percent, Haenlein said. Add this to a 20 per cent drop because of inadequate water supply and you have lost half of your production. And once a cow's production has dropped off it won't come back.

If you consider the loss of income, it is easy to see the value of installing special hot-weather watering equipment such as a plastic pipe system right out in the pasture, or a portable tank with watering cups.

He suggested that farmers who don't have adequate shade in the fields should get the animals into the barn during the noon hours on hot days. Good ventilation is necessary in the barn, of course.

"Exhaust fans are not enough," Haenlein said. "You need blow-type fans too, if you want to maintain production during hot weather."

Another important point is to supplement poor summer pasture with grain and high quality hay or silage. Feed the best hay you can to keep up high production now, Haenlein said. If you don't have any high quality hay, concentrate, or silage, citrus pulp soaked with water and molasses will help make up for the poor pasture.

This is the time of year when a little good management could make a big difference in your net income.

Now is the time to take advantage of the increased consumption of fluid milk and the increased returns, to the farmer, per unit of milk produced.

When you risk losing three or four hundred pounds of milk a day, you can't afford not to have water, shade and supplementary feed available, Haenlein said.

Kent County Rep. Women's Club News

The Kent County Women's Republican Club will hold its monthly meeting Monday night, July 20, at 7:30 p.m. at Wheeler's Park in Harrington. This meeting will be a "family affair"—husbands and children are invited to attend.

Mrs. Freda Cluley, Mrs. Fred Walls, and the newly elected committeewoman, Mrs. Gertrude Morgan, will be hostesses from the 9th district.

Clint Wooleyhan, President of the State Young Republicans, will speak on the recent convention of the National Federation of Young Republicans, which he and Mrs. Wooleyhan attended in Denver, Colo.

Polls Set for July 23 Wheat Quota Vote

Voting places for the referendum to be held July 23 on marketing quotas for the 1960 wheat crop were announced Thursday by R. Harry Wilson, Chairman, Kent Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee. The locations are as follows:

- 1st Community—C. Stanley Short and Sof's Store, Cheswold;
- 2nd Community—McGinnis' Hardware Store, Kenton;
- 3rd Community—Kent ASC County Office, 313 S. Governors Ave., Dover;
- 4th Community—Taylor and Messick's, Harrington;
- 5th Community—Frederica Fire Hall, Frederica.

The polls will be open 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., local time. Farmers who are eligible to vote in the wheat quota referendum are all those who in 1960 will have more than 15 acres of wheat for harvest as grain on a farm, except those who are participating in the 1959 feed wheat program. Under the feed wheat program, farmers may arrange with the county office to grow up to 30 acres of wheat for use only on the farm where grown without being subject to marketing quota penalties.

If at least two-thirds of the growers who vote in the referendum approve the quotas, they will remain in effect for 1960-crop wheat and price support will be available to farmers who comply with their farm wheat allotment at least 75% of parity. Farmers who exceed the larger of the farm allotment or 15 acres will be subject to a marketing penalty of 45% of the wheat parity price on their "excess" wheat.

If the quotas are not approved by at least two-thirds of the growers voting, the quotas and penalties will not be in effect, and price support will be available to farmers who comply with their farm wheat allotments at 50% of parity, as directed by law. At current parity levels, that would be about $1.18 per bushel.

Uni. of Delaware Researchers Study Brookside Develop.

Brookside, Delaware's largest suburban community, is the subject of an intensive study recently completed by the Bureau of Economic and Business Research at the University of Delaware.

Prepared by Dr. Paul Dolan, chairman of political science, and Dr. Albert H. Dunn, professor of business administration, the 40-page report offers a variety of facts about the community.

Among the features of the study are a history of the development, population charts, maps, characteristics of the residents with respect to age, vocation and political affiliation, and information on schools, churches and community organizations.

Plans for Brookside were announced in July, 1951, and by 1955 it had become a community of about 1230 homes housing more than 5300 persons. It now contains a shopping center, school, two churches, public recreational facilities and a community building.

The term "suburbia," the authors observe, is a new and popular word in American social organizations. It comprehends the many kinds of communities that lie outside a central city and together with that city form an urban complex. Since 1946, suburbia has become increasingly real estate developments constructed over a short space of time in standardized or semi-standardized styles. Brookside, Clifton Par Manor, Graylyn Crest, Brookview and Chestnut Hill Estates are typical of such communities. In fact, between 1950 and 1957, New Castle County experienced an unprecedented growth in suburban housing with nearly 18,000 dwellings constructed in 106 new housing developments.

This rapid expansion and its accompanying population increase in unincorporated areas has posed the troublesome question of how necessary community facilities can be provided to present and future real estate developments efficiently, promptly and equitably.

According to the authors of this study, "The way in which unincorporated suburbs have obtained public facilities in the absence of immediate local government is at once fascinating and alarming. The great American rush to the new suburbs has over-turned much of the traditional basis for establishing local responsibility for the satisfaction of community needs."

The Brookside report does not attempt to make broad generalizations about suburban living. The authors believe that this practice has been followed in the past without justifiable conclusions. Their study is intended to be the first of many "to look closely at one of the large suburban developments in the State of Delaware with a view to stimulating further inquiry into the impact of suburbia upon governmental facilities and upon the total picture of social organization."

Copies of the report are available from the Bureau of Economic and Business Research, University of Delaware, Newark.

Armed Forces Notes

Neither Mr. Dickerson, ruled by former Attorney General Donald Craven as a carry-over member, nor Mr. Wheatley, appointed by Gov. J. Caleb Boggs, but unconfirmed by the legislature, have been paid.

At the County Offices Thursday morning, Ernest E. Killen, state auditor, presented the four with checks for approximately $1000. They serve at the rate of $750 per year.

The recipients were: J. Fred Miles, Seaford, Democrat, president of the board; Donald J. Hickman, Selbyville RD, Democrat, vice president; Lewis Trivitts, Seaford, Republican, and Fred Walls, Milton, Republican.

The new members provided by legislative action were sworn in by Willie D. Wilkins, secretary of the board. They are: Norman Jester, Georgetown; Woodrow W. Morgan, Lincoln; Woodrow Steen, Dagsboro. All are Democrats.

Mr. Killen was accompanied to Georgetown by his deputy, Jonathan Hopkins. The state auditor is also state election commissioner and he discussed the election laws

Rehoboth Beach Great Tourist Resort

If a former resident of the Rehoboth Beach of the 1890's, the early 1900's, or even of pre-World War II days, were to visit the popular Delaware seashore resort today, he undoubtedly would be amazed at today's modern resort city is a far cry from the Rehoboth Beach of yesteryear advises the Delaware State Development Department.

Yet, despite evidence of change and expansion on every side, the returning former resident would find today's resort just as wholesome and just as free of crass commercialism as the resort of earlier days. In fact, he'd find the area more inviting and a visit there more rewarding.

The presence of large, well-attended churches in today's resort and the calm, even-paced mode of living that characterizes Rehoboth Beach during the "off-season" cues one to the fact that this increasingly popular and expanding resort city has its roots in an era when most of its visitors came there for prayer and peaceful meditation. In fact, the name of the resort and of a nearby inland bay are of Biblical origin.

According to reliable sources, Rehoboth Bay and the beach that later borrowed its name from that calm inland body of water, were named "Rehoboth," meaning "room enough" (Gen. 26:22) by religious English settlers prior to 1675.

In colonial times, the present resort area was divided into large tracts with fields of corn, wheat and other crops surrounding cypress-sheathed plantation houses and smaller slave quarters. Little account, however, was paid to its possibilities as a summering place until 1855, when the State of Delaware granted five acres of beachland to a "Rehoboth Hotel Company" as a site for a hotel. However, for some now obscure reason, this hotel was not built; in fact, it was not until 1870 that the area's first "tourist accommodation," a combination summer hotel and fall gunning camp, was built nearby at what is now Dewey Beach.

In 1872, a group, subsequently known as the Rehoboth Beach Camp Meeting Association of the Methodist Episcopal Church, bought a tract on the beach front and laid out streets. The next year, two hotels were built and some cottages were erected. (Note: some houses dating from this period are still standing and are recognizable by their sharp roof peaks and "gingerbread" trim).

A camp-meeting grounds was located near the present canal bridge to which came campers in horse-drawn vehicles. These religiously inclined visitors brought everything needed for their stay with them and were housed in small frame "tents" arranged in a circle.

In 1873, the railroad was extended from nearby Lewes to the aforementioned camp site. While the camp meetings were discontinued about 1881, vacationists continued to come in large numbers, resulting in the building of more cottages and hotels and the opening of a variety of stores.

In the early 1900's, excursion trains were loaded to capacity with resort visitors on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays during the summer months. A somewhat garish and widely known emporium—Horn's Pier—drew capacity crowds and supplied most of the needs of the summertime visitors. The Pier, the beachfront Surf Avenue and many ocean front cottages were, however, destroyed and washed away in the Great Storm of 1914. While the sea never gave up the lost Surf Avenue and pier, Rehoboth Beach soon rebuilt along its ocean front but at a safer distance from the waterline.

In 1925, a paved highway, branching off at Georgetown from the then comparatively new DuPont Boulevard, was extended to Rehoboth Beach, providing easy access for motorists, but fortelling the early demise of rail passenger traffic. Between 1925 and 1929, Rehoboth Beach experienced a real estate and building boom that resulted in erection of houses and cottages on former open fields and sand dune areas and in the pine wood area to the immediate north. Through the 1930's growth was consistent and gradual but not spectacular.

Construction and expansion were resumed after World War II and has gradually accelerated until the present when an estimated $700,000 in new tourist facility construction is currently underway.

Today's modern Rehoboth Beach offers facilities adequate to the needs of the 20,000 and more vacationists who may be found here during the peak of the season. Despite the fact that Rehoboth Beach is Delaware's principal and most publicized resort, Delawareans are in a minority during the season, being outnumbered by the large number of people from the Washington, D. C., area—members of Congress,

Government officials, members of foreign legations, their families and other Washingtonians—who summer here. From this influx of Washington area people, Rehoboth Beach derives its nickname of "The Nation's Summer Capital."

Houston

Sunday School at 10 a.m. Robert H. Yerkes Sr., general superintendent, Alvin O. Brown, supt. of junior department and Mrs. Doris Clifton of the Cradle Roll. Despite the oppressive heat, there were 142 present last Sunday in the church school.

The worship begins at 11 a.m. with the organ prelude, Mrs. Agnes Webb at the organ assisted by John Clark at the piano.

There will not be special selections by the choir as they are having vacation till September. The solo by John Clark last Sunday morning was greatly enjoyed by the congregation. The pastor, the Rev. Ray W. Kirwan, will deliver the sermon.

The M.Y.F. will go on its annual picnic to Rehoboth Friday, July 17th. There will be a hot dog roast somewhere between Rehoboth and the Inlet, followed by a stroll on the boardwalk. Those who wish to go, please meet at the church at 6 p.m.

The annual Sunday School picnic will be held at Trappe Pond Saturday, July 25. The bus will leave the church at 9 a.m. Ice cream will be served.

Mrs. Vaughn Warren and Mrs. Oley F. Sapp spent several days of the past week at Riverdale.

Mrs. Alice Kintz and son, James, have returned home after having spent some time with her mother, Mrs. Mary Gay in Wyoming, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Halfhill, and sons, Mike and Billy, left Wednesday morning to spend a 20-day leave at Wichita, Tex.

Mrs. Harold Apte and children spent Sunday in Salisbury, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Parvis entertained his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Parvis over last weekend.

726 Minor Accidents on Del. Highways

There was a total of 726 accidents on Delaware Highways involving damages in excess of $100 reported to the Financial Responsibility Division of the Motor Vehicle Department during the month of June.

This number was an increase of 169 over the number reported during the month of June last year and 123 more than were reported during June of 1957.

Of the accidents reported during June of this year, 579 took place in Wilmington and New Castle County, an increase of 179 over the record for June of last year and an increase of 123 over June of 1957.

Kent County had 69 of the accidents reported and this number was 13 less than June of last year and 42 less than June of 1958. Sussex County had 78 of the accidents, an increase of three over last year and a decrease of two over June of 1957.

Of the operators involved in the accidents reported during June of this year, 163 were from other states and 186 had no insurance. There were a total of 233 persons injured in the accidents reported for June of this year.

Damages resulting from the accidents reported during June of this year totaled $264,060, this being $45,240 more than the total damage reported for the accidents reported for June of last year and $18,775 more than the total damage reported for the accidents in June of 1957.

During the month of June 84 motorists had their operational and registration privileges suspended for failure to comply with the provisions of the financial responsibility laws.

Eight Points of Soil Bank Compliance

Chairman William N. Hopkins of the Delaware Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office issued an eight-point reminder on the responsibilities of farmers who have entered into Soil Bank Conservation Reserve contracts. He summarized the farmer's responsibility under his contract as follows:

1. No crop of any kind may be harvested from your conservation Reserve land.
2. No grazing is permitted on any Conservation Reserve Land.
3. Vegetative cover must be established and maintained on your Conservation Reserve land.
4. If a conservation practice has been authorized for your Conservation Reserve land and the practice has not been established by the designated date, notify the county office at once.
5. If all of your eligible land is in the Conservation Reserve, do not grow any soil bank base crops.
6. If only part of your eligible land is in the Conservation Reserve, do not exceed your permitted acreage of soil bank base crops.
7. Comply with any acreage allotment in effect on your farm. However, if you have a wheat allotment of less than 15 acres, you may raise as much as 15 acres of wheat (or 30 acres under the feed wheat program) without penalty provided you do not exceed your permitted acreage of soil bank base crops.
8. Control noxious weeds on your Conservation Reserve land. Clipping should be done when and where necessary but in the process of clipping be careful to prevent avoidable destruction of wildlife.

Short Course in Clothing Judging Held at U. of D.

How to judge clothing was the subject of study for 37 homemakers attending the short course at the University of Delaware July 8-9. The home economists, 4-H leaders and homemakers were awarded certificates Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Alice King, State home demonstration leader.

Monday morning the women studied clothing construction and practiced their new knowledge on some garments. In the afternoon they had a similar session studying and judging tailored clothing.

Wednesday the group took up "Clothing as a Form of Design". They practiced judging dress revues and fashion shows with Kent county homemakers and 4-H'ers acting as models.

Women attending the short course were the following:

- Mrs. E. V. Lewis, Newark; Courtney W. Stevenson, Dover; Mrs. Jean H. Cranston, Seaford; Mrs. Donald H. Quast, Dover; Mrs. Charles Z. Dukas, Townsend; Mrs. Maxine R. Furbush, Claymont; Mrs. Aleatha H. Short, Millsboro; Miss Amy Rextret, Newark; Mrs. Eileen C. Aist, Newark; Mrs. Carl Tucker, Greenwood; Elizabeth D. Woodrow, Milford; Janet R. Scheidt, Dover; Miss Frances Shoffner, Georgetown; Gladys Harper, Wilmington; Mrs. Harvey Warrington, Georgetown; Mrs. Alden Short, Georgetown; Miss Clara Wilson, Rehoboth; Mrs. Katharine Prettyman, Milton; Mrs. Forrest N. Webster, Milford; Mrs. Harold L. Stanley, Newark; Mrs. Frank Buckingham, Newark; Mrs. Irene Ellingsworth, Clayton; Pearl Schettler, Clayton; Mrs. Bayard B. Taylor, Wilmington; Mrs. Leo J. Osika, Dover; Mrs. Charles B. Moore, Bear; Mrs. Laura Stanhope, Smyrna; Mrs. E. D. Turner, Newark; Mrs. Raj Iyengar, Newark; Mrs. Harriet Penmore, Townsend; Mrs. Florence Smith, Dover; Miss Katharine Jones, Newark; Mrs. Mary Sudler, Dover; Mrs. R. W. Allen, Greenwood; Mrs. Ernest Kohler, Dover; Mrs. William T. Hufnal, Dover, and Janice Ellingsworth, Clayton.

Control of Downy Mildew of Lima Beans

Almost all the late crop of lima beans in Delaware, about half of the total acreage, will be planted to Thaxter, a variety resistant to downy mildew, according to Dr. John W. Heuberger, chairman of the department of plant pathology, University of Delaware.

Total acreage in the state is about 20,000 acres so this means about 10,000 will be planted to Thaxter.

A survey which covered about half of Delaware's acreage of lima beans last year, showed a loss of about $175,762 to downy mildew on the acreage surveyed.

The new lima bean out-yielded Early Thorogreen and Clark's Bush, both popular varieties but susceptible to downy mildew, by as much as 1,500 pounds of shell beans per acre in field trials where downy mildew infections were serious, the scientist reported.

Although Thaxter is resistant to downy mildew, growers should watch their fields. A new race of downy mildew has appeared in New Jersey which attacks the Thaxter as successfully as the other varieties. It has not appeared in Delaware as yet but it may, and growers should be ready to spray as usual if the new type of mildew appears in Delaware.

The fight against downy mildew is an old one which began in 1889 when Professor R. Thaxter reported and described the fungus in the annual report of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station. The new variety of lima bean was named after Professor Thaxter.

The battle against downy mildew has gone on for years but it crystallized in 1948 when representatives of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, University of Delaware, Rutgers University, University of Maryland, and the New York State Experiment Station at Geneva, got together at Seabrooks Farms, N. J., and split up the research assignments.

As a result of this meeting, the University of Delaware began work on a method for forecasting outbreaks of mildew and also to find treatments for it. The forecasting service, based on moisture and temperature conditions, has been working effectively for the last six years. It has been extended to all the principal lima bean growing areas in the Northeast.

In seeking a treatment, Dr. Heuberger and Dr. D.F. Crossan, U. of D., carried out tests with fungicides to try to find one that would reduce the serious losses growers were suffering.

After extensive experiments the scientists found Maneb to be the best material. When used correctly it will give excellent control, producing high yields of high quality beans and cutting labor costs in processing the beans in the plant, Heuberger said.

Dry Weather Hurts Chemical Weed Control

If you are disappointed with the results of your pre-emergence chemical weed control this year, it may be a result of dry weather. There are a number of reasons for poor control according to county agent George Vapaa, but weather is the main reason. For example, when Simazine is used, it requires about a half-inch of rain to wash it down into the soil around the germinating weed seeds. If it doesn't rain within two weeks after application of the chemical, chances of satisfactory control of weeds are poor, Vapaa said.

Needlecraft News

by Nancy Baxter

A crisp clean home is the perfect setting for your needlework; the best way to enjoy all the beautiful things that you create. After all, it's neatness and cleanliness that keep your home sparkling new. And, when your home shines to your own satisfaction, then every one of your treasured possessions becomes so much more beautiful to see. This is why I want to tell you about two miracle cleaners developed in the scientific laboratories. They are: Miracloth and Dottie Dustcloth. Both are non-woven, lint free cleaners. And, they're such a pleasure to use.

MIRACLE CLEANER

Miracloth is for all your wet cleaning the easiest possible way. I think, and I believe you'll agree, that house cleaning can be very wearing. With all the wonderful things we can do these days, every woman wants to use her precious energy for making lovely articles for her dear ones and herself. Miracloth helps you save your energy and gives you more leisure time, because it's so light and efficient to use. Why, it even dries as quickly as a pure silk scarf. You can put miracloth away and use it again and again. It's a treat to look at, too. You'll have pretty stripes, gaily polka dots or a host of fanciful all over patterns.

ANOTHER MIRACLE CLEANER

Dottie Dustcloth is for all of your household dusting. It gathers dust just like a magnet. And, it polishes and protects while it works, so that less dust settles on surfaces. You'll actually dust half as often but twice as well. If any members of your family suffer from allergies, hay fever or asthma, then Dottie Dustcloth is just the thing for keeping the air you breathe in your house fresh and pure. Dottie Dustcloth comes in the prettiest patterns, too.

A DOLLY FOR YOUR TABLE

Once you've used Dottie Dustcloth on your wooden tables and they're polished like new, then you'll really enjoy having beautiful dolies such as the one shown today. One ball of mercerized crochet is plenty to make this charming open design that will let the grain of your wood show through. The chain stitch is even easy enough for a beginner's project. And, the clusters of crochet are another lovely note that will complement your table.

Greenwood

A very pretty wedding took place in the Greenwood Methodist Church on Wed., July 8, at 7 p.m. Nancy Marie Bowden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Burton Bowden of Greenwood, became the bride of Larry Paul Messick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Messick of Hickman. The Rev. Muriel Smith officiated at the ceremony. The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a pastel shade of aqua tone organza with a bridal picture hat and shoes of the same color.

She carried a bouquet of white rose buds and pastel aqua carnations. Miss Jackie Closser was her attendant. Her gown was a yellow street-length dress. She carried a bouquet of yellow rose buds. Ronald Webb, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were the brides brother, Jerry Bowden and Forrest Webster, III, of York, Pa. Miss Dolores Anthony played the wedding music. Following the wedding the reception was held at the bride's home. Following a short trip, they will live in Hickman.

Mr. and Mrs. Graydon Hurst of Wilmington called on Mr. and Mrs. George Baker and Mr. and Mrs. William Lord and were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Allison Davis. Vep. Ellis Jr. spent part of last week with Dickie Davis.

Mrs. Charles Jones, Mrs. Fred Jones and Mrs. Sadie Hill visited Mrs. Fillmore Clifton in the Peninsula General Hospital in Salisbury last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Medford Calhoun entertained with a farewell dinner for the newly weds, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Calhoun Wednesday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. John Minner of Harrington; Mrs. Nick Salios and daughters of Newport; the Rev. and Mrs. Frank Lucia and daughter, Donna Lyn, of Camden; Mrs. Milton Milliner of Reliance and Mrs. Hazel Zych and daughters. Leroy and his wife called their parents Saturday to tell them that they had arrived in Florida and are in their apartment. Their address is: Airman 1st. Class and Mrs. Leroy Calhoun, 3002 Stoneall Place, Zone 9, Tampa, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. William Fleischer, Jr., were delightfully surprised Sunday when their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Fleischer, Sr., entertained at their home in honor of their 15th wedding anniversary.

A beautifully decorated cake baked by the hostess was served with punch to a number of relatives and friends from Greenwood, Farmington, Harrington, Felton, Georgetown, Dover, and Virginia. Many lovely and useful gifts were received.

Mr. and Mrs. James Smith and son, Jimmie, also Mr. and Mrs. William Bowman and family, spent their vacations this week at the Smith Cottage "Odds and Ends" in Riverdale. Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones were their guests. Everyone enjoyed a weiner roast that evening. Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Roy Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Porter, and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Medford Smith and son joined them for a picnic lunch. Afterwards, they attended the O'Day Reunion at the Fred Webb cottage.

Britain's 1,250,000 foreign visitors spent $50,000,000 in 1958, London estimates.

Delaware Food Market Report

The weather continues to play a very important part as far as filling the grocery counters is concerned. The dry weather that has been plaguing the vegetables and fruits grown in this area has finally broken, but its affects can be felt. Tomatoes, corn, cucumbers, squash, snap beans, and butter beans have all suffered, and prices are a bit higher than normal. Cauliflower, eggplant, peppers and potatoes, however, are beginning to arrive from New York and New Jersey in larger volume. The weather conditions in this area has been exceptionally favorable and crops are reported heavier.

No local cantaloupes are in sight yet, but plenty of melons are being shipped in from Arizona, California and the south. Cantaloupes from California this year are vine-ripened and are brought to market by fast refrigerated service. Prices continue to drop a bit each week on this fruit, average price now is 25c each for large sizes.

Production of Georgia watermelons is down this year due to adverse weather conditions, however, with fair supplies being sent in from Florida, combined with other shipments, watermelons are fairly reasonable this week. Peaches are the fruit to watch. Supplies are good, quality good to excellent. Blueberries are at their peak now and prices are low. Lemons, seedless grapes, and honey dews all are a bit lower in price at this time.

The record-large crop of desert plums continues to come to market, at an average of 25c a pound. They may need to be purchased a few days ahead of use so that they can ripen at room temperature. To take full advantage of the peak supply, you can freeze these ripened plums whole without sweetening to make into jam later. Or plums may be made into puree and frozen.

Chickens and turkeys continue the budget buys for a main dish. They are lower priced than hamburger at a steady average of 56c a pound. Weekend specials make these two meats a real must on everyone's market list. Special sales of meats are featuring beef roasts and a few steaks. Leg of lamb, ground beef, bacon and smoked picnics, as well as hams, are also among the specially priced weekend offerings.

4-H'sers Awarded For Best Home Projects

Hundreds of local 4-H Club boys and girls are among more than a third of a million club members in about 2000 counties across the nation who are tallying their records in two useful home projects. Scores will be singled out for honors.

As many as eight club members in the county can win handsome gold-filled medals for doing an extra good job in either "beautification of home grounds" or "home improvement" programs, the extension service reports.

In addition to an estimated 10,000 county medal winners throughout the 48 states, individual state winners will be selected and 16 national winners will be named. Club members will be judged not only on excellence in project work, but also as all-around 4-H'ers demonstrating good citizenship and leadership.

To be eligible for the two top awards members must be over 14 years of age and have satisfactorily completed three years of 4-H Club activities.

While the 4-H program is conducted by the Co-operative Extension Service, United States Department of Agriculture, funds for awards are provided by private citizens, business, industry and educational foundations through arrangements made by the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work.

Awards in home grounds beautification have been given for the past 22 years by Mrs. Charles R. Walgreen, Chicago, noted horticulturist and 4-H benefactor.

Besides medals, she provides engraved wrist watches and trips to the National 4-H Club Congress held right after Thanksgiving at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago.

Home improvement awards are made possible by the Sears-Roebuck Foundation. They consist of medals, congress trips, and $400 college scholarships for national winners. The foundation also supplies up-to-date training material designed for use by leaders in this project.

All national winners will be announced during the Congress where they will be saluted at the annual 4-H banquet for more than 2000 delegates, leaders, award donors, and special guests.

Chest Blow May Start Arrested Heart

A fast blow on the chest may start a heart beating after it has suddenly stopped, an Oregon physician said today.

Writing in the current (July 11) Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. John T. Brandenburg, Medford, reported a case of cardiac arrest — in which the heart suddenly stops for no apparent reason—that was treated by three strong blows in the left side of the chest.

The most frequently reported means of treating cardiac arrest is by opening the chest and massaging the heart. However, this must be done within four minutes. If the brain is without blood for more than four minutes, irreparable damage will occur.

Dr. Brandenburg's patient was a 64-year-old man who suffered a heart attack on the golf course. Shortly after he arrived at the hospital, he suddenly announced that he was "passing out."

No pulse could be felt and heart tones that had been clearly heard a minute before were absent. "A diagnosis of death due to cardiac arrest was made and thoughts of immediate thoracotomy were entertained," Dr. Brandenburg said.

However, he remembered that other doctors had advised chest blows, and he struck three blows with his clenched fist.

"Just after the third blow, to my delighted surprise," Dr. Brandenburg said, "a strong, but irregular pulse was felt which soon became regular."

The total period of cardiac arrest was less than one minute. About 10 seconds after the return of his pulse, the patient regained consciousness with the comment, "I must have passed out."

The patient was treated routinely and recovered uneventfully.

Dr. Brandenburg recommended that a chest blow first be tried in case of cardiac arrest. If there is not an immediate response, other methods should then be tried.

Men's Summer Shoes Have Pores That Refresh

The pores that refresh are putting men on a cool footing this summer, says Lavonia Hilbert, Extension Clothing Specialist, University of Maryland.

The new shoe styles are ultra-lightweight. Each square inch of leather has a natural built-in air conditioning system in the form of several million invisible pores. Besides cooling, these pores in the leather allow perspiration to evaporate before it can cause discomfort or irritation.

Hot weather shoes are scaled down in weight so that your feet won't drag when the mercury soars. New feather weight shoes—some as light as a pound a pair—are available this year and comfort-seeking men are switching to them as they have learned to switch to straw hats and seersucker suits.

Leading off the lightweight parade this summer is washable white leather which cleans easily with a dab of a soapy sponge. This idea in easy-to-clean white leather is bringing back the colorful spirit of the Twenties, when men wore two-tone shoes with their striped blazers and straw skimmers.

One of the lightest new shoes now available is a fine eyelet dress blucher in smooth brown leather, modernized by its open weave leather tongue and vamp inset and the fact the shoe weighs only eight ounces.

Newest of the "cut-through" leathers in summer shoes is the slashed style, consisting of hundreds of quarter-inch slashes cut in decorative horizontal rows all over the front section of the upper. Its slim but durable leather sole trimmed close to the shape of the upper further reduces the coolness of the shoes.

For sports and casual wear the newest star player is a low sneaker with both upper and sole made of brushed leather. It is light weight, and the sole is comfortable and porous, discouraging perspiration irritation which often lead to athlete's foot.

Rep. McDowell Sponsors Small Business Bill

Congressman Harris B. McDowell, Jr. Democratic Congressman from Delaware has just introduced legislation (H. J. Res. 461) requiring all States to observe a temporary minimum standard on taxation of out-of-state businesses.

The standard is that—No state or political subdivision thereof shall impose a tax upon the income of any business engaged in interstate commerce for any taxable year unless, during such year, such business has maintained a stock of goods, an office, warehouse, or other place of business in such State or has had an officer, agent, or representative who has maintained an office or other place of business in such State.

The McDowell measure would in addition, establish a commission on State Taxation of Interstate Commerce. The Commission would make recommendations to the Congress on the best methods for achieving uniformity of State statutes governing the taxing of out-of-state business concerns operating within their borders. Appointments to the 5-man Commission established by Congressman McDowell's plan would be made by the president with the advice and consent of the Senate.

Rep. McDowell's bill was an immediate outgrowth of the decision of the Supreme Court on February 24, 1959. The Supreme Court has, however, handed down some 300 full-dress opinions on State taxation and the commerce clause, and the issue has been before the Court since 1824. Interpretation of this issue has always been intricate and is getting more complex all the time. The McDowell measure would, in effect, clear out the tangled briar-patch of multi-State taxation which has developed through the years.

The Senate Select Committee on Small Business held hearings on the problem faced by small business firms in complying with taxation by multiple states of income derived from interstate commerce. These small businessmen who testified said that compliance with income tax laws of more than 40 states and local authorities was a serious handicap and imposed undue hardships on their firms.

Congressman McDowell said the Supreme Court decision in the Northwestern States Portland Cement and Stockham Valves cases would adversely affect many Delaware firms.

Mr. J. E. Farnor of the Allen Kirkpatrick & Co. of Rehoboth Beach, wrote Congressman McDowell in regard to the Court decision, saying that:

The ruling on the Supreme Court on the above subject is vital to every company doing interstate business and particularly to small companies. The ruling practically gives a green light to each state and every municipality within it to tax companies doing business within their jurisdiction. Even before the Supreme Court decision, we were being assessed taxes by one state, as well as two cities and a county within the same state. Of course, we are now being assessed taxes by many cities and counties throughout the country. In view of what is already taking place, unless this power to tax is brought under control it can lead only to a chaotic tax situation and the strangulation of many small businesses.

Ours is a small company handling oysters exclusively. We are located in an area offering little opportunity for employment but we give employment to approximately 125 people for about eight months each year. Our sales in Delaware are nil which means our business is all interstate. If we are to be subjected to taxes by the various bodies legally authorized to tax us it could mean either being forced to price ourselves out of the consumer market and/or out of business entirely.

Clayton A. Bunting, president of Bunting's Nurseries of Selbyville, wrote Congressman McDowell:

I am sure you are well aware of the resulting inconvenience, time-consuming and confusing situation that would develop if it should become necessary to file a tax return in each of the various states in which a person might sell his products.

Congressman McDowell pointed out that few small businessmen crossing State lines can afford to retain legal counsel in each of the States in which they operate. Since no two states are alike in their business tax codes, the magnitude of the task is obvious. An officer of one of the Nation's large business corporations told the Senate Small Business Committee that his firm spent $150,000 annually merely to comply with the requirements of the States in which it did business. The same witness stated he felt the proportionate cost of compliance would be much higher to small businesses, since the accounting and reporting task differed little whether the tax assessed was large or small.

Congressman McDowell declared that his legislation "would alleviate the ridiculous situation in which business firms large and small are taxed by multiple states and municipalities where they conduct business."

177,471 Vehicle Registrations In Operation

A total of 177,471 motor vehicle registrations were listed as being in operation in this state on July 1 by the Motor Vehicle Department, but because of the June 30 renewals this figure is not believed to include all of the registrations.

Of the registrations reported 106,408 were in Wilmington and New Castle County, 39,064 in Kent County and 31,999 in Sussex County.

Registration of pleasure cars accounted for 125,939 of the registrations while 35,996 were commercial vehicles and 10,973 were trailers. There were also 338 tractors, 619 motorcycles, 19 stock cars and 3,617 farm trucks.

Renewals of registrations following the end of the June 30 quarter are expected to increase the total number of registrations in operation.

Like resort life? A concrete patio brings it as close as your own back yard.

Besides being beautiful, this concrete terrace serves as a solid base for swings.

Garden walls go glamorous with modern concrete grille block—and for so little.

Trees are twice as attractive with a curbing of colored concrete masonry units.

Do wonderful things for your outdoor living with modern concrete!

It's fun to live in your own yard . . . enjoying a patio party . . . a home-style picnic . . . or just sitting in the sun.

Modern concrete makes it easy. It's so versatile, so easy to work with. It adapts so readily to any ideas, any yard, any budget.

Perhaps you'll start with a patio . . . a walk . . . or a garden wall . . . a small pool . . . or steps on a slope. A screen of concrete masonry units is another beautiful improvement.

You can also color concrete—mix it in or paint it. You can score it in patterns or give it special surface texture. Poured, pre-cast, or in masonry units, concrete goes with any surroundings—and goes beautifully.

You can do some of this work yourself or you can call in a concrete contractor or mason. They're listed in the Yellow Pages. Or if you would like more ideas, write for free folder, "Concrete For Outdoor Living."

OUR LOWERING WATER TABLE

Any way one looks at it, the water table is going down in this area, and we believe it is going down elsewhere on the peninsula, too.

We are no geologist but deduce our conclusions from rule of thumb. Many years ago we picked water lilies in Hughes Pond. There is seldom any water nowadays in the pond, located on the property of Woodrow Welch, on the north lane of U.S. 13, and no water lilies.

On our frequent trips north, we check Mr. Welch's pond, and one on the neighboring Sapsire Farm, and thus estimate rainfall or need of rain.

Thirty-seven years ago we learned to swim in Jackson's Ditch. The late George "Butter" Hurd, in those days, fished from the bridge for pike. Now, one can jump across the Soil conservation measures, entailing drainage, and the increased use of water in the modern home, use by industry, and irrigation is creating a water problem.

However, something can be done about it. Instead of letting water drain off to Delaware Bay, how about filling up some of these ponds, or lakes as they are called elsewhere. On Brown's Branch, Tharp's Pond and Wilson's Pond could be filled. West of Paradise Alley, the Morris Pond could be filled.

These ponds could act as reservoirs and would be of immense value in irrigation. The recent drought proves the need for artificial rain to take one of the gambles out of farming. Irrigation also means increased yields. The ponds could also be used as recreation areas.

Griffith's Pond, between Milford and Houston, was purchased by the State and damned. We know the State is in no position to purchase, clean, and dam Tharp's, Wilson's, and the Morris Ponds, but it is something to consider for the future.

Famous Last Words By Lawn Cutters

"A man's best friend, after his wife and dog, is probably his power lawn mower, at least during the summer."

That's what county Extension agent George Vapaa says. But even a man's best friends sometimes can be dangerous.

Here are some quotes often heard during the summer:

"I thought I knew how to run it, so I didn't bother reading the operator's manual."

"I guess I should have picked up the rocks and other junk before I mowed the lawn. Then that piece of glass wouldn't be in my leg."

"I'm lucky to be alive. You see, I didn't know the electric cord had a thin spot in it, and I ran my mower during a rain shower."

"I was working on my mower, but I guess I should have left the garage door open. I forgot about the carbon monoxide fumes. My wife found me just in time."

"You know how kids are; they never look where they are going. Well, the little fellow fell on the hot motor. Doc says he has a third degree burn on his stomach."

"I was cutting the grass bare-footed when the blade hit this piece of old rusty wire. The doc says the foot may have to come off."

"I was in a hurry, trying to get done before dark, so I didn't bother to shut the motor off while I filled the gas tank. I've done it lots of times before, but this time there was fire everywhere. Doc says I'll be wearing these bandages for three weeks."

I just ran into the house for a minute to see what the score was. Bobby got curious and stuck his fingers under the guard. He lost three fingers and the thumb on his right hand."

"I was down on my knees adjusting the carburetor. Don't know exactly how it happened, but the edge of my jacket must have got underneath somehow. They took 15 stitches, but I was lucky—if the motor hadn't stopped I could have lost my leg."

Keep this list of excuses handy. Mrs. Vapaa suggested. You may need it later on.

July 19-25 is Safety Week. Play along, Play safe.

Delaware Park Presents Second of Big 3 Races Sat.

Thoroughbred racing at Delaware Park tomorrow will feature the $40,000 New Castle Stakes, second gem in the Stanton track's quarter-million dollar jackpot for fillies and mares—the far-famed Distaff Big Three series.

The New Castle is a test of a mile and a sixteenth and, like the week-later $150,000-plus Handicap, world's richest distaff race and climax of the Big Three, is for female campaigners three years old and upward. Naturally, the New Castle will have a most important bearing on the mile and a quarter Delaware classic which tops the final program of the 50-day Stanton meeting, July 25.

Two years ago, Calumet Farm's Princess Turia, then a 4-year-old, captured both the New Castle and the Delaware to become the first two-time winner in the Distaff Big Three. For winning those two stakes, she netted a total of $149,025.

Only a 3-year-old filly could possibly sweep all three of the series any one year, since older fillies and mares are not eligible for the first event in the three—some, the Oaks.

Here are the noted fillies and mares who have captured the Distaff Big Three races since the 1955 advent of the series:

Girl Scout News

Sun, July 12, the Girl Scouts opened the second session at Camp Todd with a capacity crowd.

In addition to the camp units already in use, a new Pioneer Unit will be opened for this session. In this unit experienced campers under the direction of their unit counselor will have an opportunity to put into practice special camping skills. They will lash tables and work stand, set up two-man tents, assemble their own unit kitchen and prepare their meals out-of-door.

Three girls who hold Red Cross Junior Life Saving certificates are taking the Water Safety Aide course. This course will enable them to assist Water Safety Instructors in giving Red Cross swimming instructions. The girls are: Peggy Pippin of Millington, Margaret Crawford of Smyrna, and Barbara Goldman of Solisbury, Md.

Many interesting all-camp activities are planned for this two week period. In each unit the girls will decide on projects and activities which they will carry out under the guidance of their counselors. Swimming, boating and canoeing play a major role in camp life along with hikes, cook-outs and camp fires.

According to the Camp Director, Miss Dorothy Gamber, it is not too late to register for the third and fourth sessions of camp which start July 26th and August 9th. Registrations should be sent to the Peninsula Girl Scout Council, Inc., 112 North Division Street, Salisbury, Md.

Miss Sharon Wells of Harrington, is attending the second session at Camp Todd, near Denton.

Saratoga Raceway Notes

Here is a tale about "Thirty-Dollar Bill." This fellow is located in the stable area at Saratoga Raceway and he isn't a horse—he's a goat.

Two years ago this summer, Pete Dailey, who trains and drives for Robert Metzner of Albany, borrowed a goat to keep the then highly-promising two-year-old Corsican company in his stall.

Corsican had a habit of kicking the sides of his boxed enclosure and it was felt that the presence of the goat might quiet him down.

It did—and Corsican went on to become the nation's Two-Year Old Pacer of the Year. Now, the usual cost of goats on the open market is about seven dollars. But with this goat proving such a good influence on Corsican, his price understandably had increased when it was decided to buy him. Now you know where Thirty-Dollar Bill got his name.

That's not all, though. When Corsican was turned out last September, it was necessary for Thirty-Dollar Bill to shop around for a new companion. He found one in another Metzner possession, the four-year-old trotting mare, Bubbles Hanover. The goat set up housekeeping in her stall.

Came last January down in Orlando, Fla., and the great reunion of Corsican and Thirty-Dollar Bill occurred. The goat recognized his old friend and "talked" to him. The goat then ambled down to Bubbles. Corsican is staring again this year, but Thirty Dollar Bill is sticking to the relatively little-known Bubbles.

"The eye of the owner fathenth the ox."

That's an old, old saying. The same holds true for gardens. Of course, it takes more than just looking to make a good garden. But a good gardener keeps his eye on things, and acts accordingly.

Take fertilizer, for instance. The most reliable guide to your needs is a soil test. That and experience. A soil test tells you exactly what elements your soil needs to produce a good crop.

If Plants Could Talk
 Plants need three main fertilizing elements: nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium. Of course, they use others, but these three are the main ones they need. They also need lime, to maintain the soil at the proper balance between acidity and alkalinity. The right amount of lime will prevent powdery mildew on rose, phlox, etc.

Complete coverage of roses with a Phaltan or general purpose rose dust or spray will prevent black spot. Complete coverage once a week is essential. Karathane or sulfur will prevent powdery mildew on rose, phlox, etc.

Time to "Garden Living" each Friday, 1:30-2:00, on WBAL-TV, Channel 11. The July 17 program will feature control of plant diseases, and Zoysia, the new turf grass.

Wool Payment for '58 to 70.3 Pct.

Wool growers of Kent County will receive a payment of 70.3 cents for each dollar's worth of shorn wool marketed during the 1958 marketing year, Chairman R. Harry Wilson of the Kent County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee announced Thursday.

The payment rate represents the percentage necessary to bring the national average price wool growers got for their wool during the year ending last March up to the established national incentive price of 62 cents per pound.

The payment rate on unshorn lambs to compensate for the wool on them will be $1.02 cents per hundredweight of live animals sold. This payment is designed to maintain the normal practice of marketing lambs with the wool on, rather than shearing them to obtain the shorn wool payment.

The 1958 wool payment rate is the highest in the four years the program has been in operation, Chairman Wilson said. This is the result of relatively low prices received for wool in the market least year. For 1955, the first year of the program, the shorn wool incentive payment rate was 44.9% for 1956, it was 40%, and for 1957, 15.5%.

County ASC offices expect to begin making the 1958 wool payments soon to growers who filed applications by April 30, 1959. The payments are for wool and unshorn lambs marketed between April 1, 1958 and March 31, 1959.

kinds of mulches will rob nitrogen from the soil to help them rot.

Another precaution—make sure you don't bring weed seeds in with the mulch.

Black plastic, available in most garden supply or hardware stores is quite effective for mulching.

Mulches pay an added dividend you'll have cleaner vegetables.

Things to do in the Garden
 Transplant broccoli, Brussels sprouts, cabbage and cauliflower now for the fall crop. For better stands and faster early growth, use a started solution in the transplanting water.

Plant fall potatoes and make your last planting of sweet corn now. Snap beans can be planted until early August.

Destroy old bean vines after harvest to prevent Mexican bean beetles from moving over into the younger plantings. Spray beans with malathion or a general purpose garden spray.

Japanese Beetles aren't as bad as they used to be, thanks to the University of Maryland's biological control program. You can protect plants for Jap beetles with DDT or malathion.

Complete coverage of roses with a Phaltan or general purpose rose dust or spray will prevent black spot. Complete coverage once a week is essential. Karathane or sulfur will prevent powdery mildew on rose, phlox, etc.

Sen. Frear Says Attention Be Given Military Forces

United States Senator J. Allen Frear says that special attention should be given to the development of military forces which can operate effectively in so-called limiter or brush-fire wars.

Mr. Frear's remarks were made as the Senate prepared to open debate on the Defense Appropriations Bill. The measure calls for the spending of nearly forty billion dollars for defense purposes during the next fiscal year.

In his weekly statement, the Senator emphasized that unstable governments and explosive political situations are an almost daily occurrence in many parts of the world. He cited Latin America and sections of the Far East as specific examples. Mr. Frear then declared that "the ability of the United States to have ready mobile striking forces capable of employing nuclear and non-nuclear weapons of a tactical nature is essential. We may require these types of military units far sooner and more frequently than those which would be called upon in the event of another World War."

The Delaware lawmaker stated that spokesmen for the individual armed services have emphasized their respective views as to what an adequate defense requires insofar as the composition of military forces is concerned.

"It is to be expected," added Mr. Frear, "that these individual services would seek to preserve and strengthen their own military organizations, believing that to do so is in the nation's best interest. Similarly, the civilian heads of our armed services—and especially the Secretary of Defense—are dedicated to preserving and strengthening our national security. They undoubtedly believe that a balanced military organization is essential to meet present and anticipated demands and, therefore, reach their con-

New Pallet Dumper Ready For Testing

A pallet dumper developed by Professor George Burkhardt of University of Maryland College of Agriculture, the Agricultural Engineering Department, is now ready for demonstration and testing. The unit is located at the processing plant, Hynson, Md., for testing with green beans.

Green beans have a large angle of repose, that is, they will not roll or tumble when the pallet box is turned over. The usual pallet box dumper rotates the box a little more than 90 degrees, thus several plants use two men with rakes to pull the beans from the pallet box while a third man controls the dumper. The use of rakes bruises and breaks the beans. The first requirement for the new dumper was 180 degree rotation of the pallet box. Thus, the entire contents of the box can be dumped without any additional hand labor. The dumper is powered with a 1 1/2 hp., 3 phase motor operating at 1140 rpm. The motor is equipped with a magnetic brake so that the dumper may be stopped at any position of its cycle and will be held there until the motor is started again. The present cycle is approximately 25 seconds, and this can be changed by the selection of different pulleys and sprockets. If a plant can handle 6 tons of raw product per hour and a pallet box contains 500 lbs. of raw product, the dumper will have to be operated only every 2 1/2 minutes. Thus, a possibility exists of the fork truck operator being the sole operator of the pallet box dumper since the control switch may be placed overhead or convenient to him. Floyd V. Matthews Jr., Agricultural Engineering Department, is in charge of the testing work.

Keep Eggs in Refrigerator
 Keep eggs in the refrigerator, preferably in an upright position in a closed container, says county home demonstration agent Florence Y. Smith. If held in an open pan or dish, evaporation takes place and a large air cell shows up when they are hard cooked.

If eggs flatten out excessively when broken open, the chances are they were held too long at too high temperature, Mrs. Smith advises.

About two weeks before the farm census gets underway in an area, the post office will distribute the questionnaire to rural boxholders. Farmers will be asked to fill out the forms and give them to the local census taker when he calls.

Representative farmers throughout the U. S. helped the Census Bureau decide what questions to include in the 1959 questionnaire.

Delaware People Outnumbered By Chickens

Despite Delaware's rather phenomenal population growth of the past decade, chickens (the fowl variety, that is) still outnumber people—about 200 to 1—in "The First State," notes the Delaware State Development Department.

While Delaware now ranks sixth in the nations in production of broilers, it is still first in the ratio of its broiler output to its area and population.

According to U. S. Department of Agriculture statistics, recently made available to the State Development Department, a total of 94,250,000 Delaware-raised broilers were marketed in 1958.

Weighting 329,875,000 pounds, these broilers had market value of $62,678,000. In 1957, a total of 93,537,000 broilers, weighing 319,026,000 pounds, were produced in Delaware.

Five states, Georgia (934,000,000 pounds); North Carolina (444 million pounds); Alabama (421 million pounds); Arkansas (399 million pounds); and Texas (344 million pounds), exceeded Delaware's broiler production last year. "The First State," however, produced more broilers than its neighbors, exceeding the 293,000,000 pounds produced in Maryland and the 196,000,000 pounds produced in Virginia.

The Development Department advises that Delaware farmers, in 1958, also raised 951,000 farm chickens which had a market weight of 3,469,000 pounds and brought cash receipts of approximately $600,000.

The state information agency also advises that not all Delaware chickens went to market in 1958. Some stayed home and helped produce 118,000,000 eggs with a market value of $5,202,000. This was an increase over the 1957 Delaware production of 113,000,000 eggs for value of $4,530,000.
