

Two Local Runners In "Big Thursday" Foot Race

Ten runners, thus far, are scheduled to toe the mark for the 3-mile foot race at Slaughter Beach at 6 p.m. Saturday. The event held in conjunction with the week-long "Big Thursday" celebration will have two Harrington youths as participants. Harry Knotts, top distance runner in Kent and Sussex County high school competition last season is entered along with Alvin Smith, recent winner of the Kent County trophy last month at the Kent & Sussex County Fair 3-mile run.

Keith S. Burgess is race chairman. Dwight Hackett and Harold McDonald, local high school cross-country coach, will act as officials.

An added feature will be the first competitive appearance in many years for George "Runner" Rayhan, 67-year-old former European distance phenom from Felton.

Rayhan has no illusions about winning the test but wants to demonstrate that he can still capably negotiate 3 miles at an age when many are ready for "the old rocking chair."

Cellar dwelling Lincoln rose from the depths to defeat the Harrington Athletic Club 9-1 Tuesday night and virtually handed the pennant to the league-leading Greenwood powerhouse. H. A. C. slipped back into a tie for second with Felton 2 and 1-2 games off the pace. "Jiggs" Greenley, on the mound for Lincoln, scattered eight hits and also led his team at the plate with three hits in four attempts. Bob Fry led the athletic club with two hits, one of which was a home run. Lincoln also defeated the Legion nine, 9-2 last week to pull up to 1-2 game of seventh place D. P. & L. and thus are threatening to vacate the basement which has been their exclusive property all season.

The host Moose outfit won three games to clinch a fourth place finish while Greenwood on Monday night won an important game from Felton, 5-2.

On Sunday afternoon the local league all-star team got revenge for a recent one run defeat by the Milford all stars when they turned the tables by a score of 20-10. Willard Thompson of the Greenwood team went the distance for Harrington.

Tonight the all-stars face tough opposition when they meet the Dover Air Force Base team in a double header.

Teen Script

with Barb Payne

If you make your commitment and join the church—where do you go from there?

Two ways stand open—you can join the church sleepers with their do-as-you-please, tame attitude, convenient Christian faith—or you can join with the courageous, adventurers of faith and live by your belief and your commitment.

All of us meet the same kind of difficulties—same temptations. All of us need resources beyond our own to meet the day. All of us need the strength to live what we believe!

How is it done? This could be one way—decide once and for all that you need God's help. Admit to yourself that you can't live life fully, going under your own steam!

You'll find that you are not alone—you'll find power equal to the task—and you'll find strength to live your beliefs!

Negro Shot in Leg

Willie Rust, Negro, was arraigned before Magistrate L. Gooden Callaway Monday evening on a charge of shooting John Griffin, Negro, in the leg at Marshall's Tap Room.

Rust was held under $1500 bond for appearance in Superior Court. Griffin was taken to Milford Memorial Hospital.

Harrington Meet Opens Sept. 15

The annual Pari-Mutuel Harness Meet will get underway September 15, at Harrington, Del., and horsemen will be treated to the best purse schedule ever offered at the local track.

The management announced this week that the following purse schedule would be in effect for the meet. D Class horses, $600; C-Class horses, $800; B-Class, $1,000, and A-Class, $1,500. This schedule represents a 60 per cent increase over the purses raced for in 1958. It is expected that the attractive addition to purses will assure Harrington of plenty of good race horses for the meet.

J. Gordon Smith, president, has stated, "Construction on the mezzanine floor of the grandstand will be completed far ahead of the opening date." This will add greatly to the convenience of the patrons as it will contain pari-mutuel accommodations, rest rooms, and concessions in the upper grandstand.

Harrington will wind up the Delaware-Maryland Circuit and many horses now racing at Brandywine and Ocean Downs will see action here.

The management believes that with the improvements to the grandstand and the adjusted purse schedule, Harrington should enjoy one of its best seasons.

Women of Moose Hold Meeting

The Harrington Chapter of the Women of the Moose, No. 1229 at a meeting held at 8 p.m. on Aug. 13 in the Moose home enrolled three new candidates. In addition to the 16 members present there were two visitors from the Seaford Chapter, Mrs. Elsie Downes and Mrs. Elizabeth Priestley.

The new members enrolled were Mrs. Eleanor Hershberger of Viola, Mrs. Jodie Mitchell of Frederica and Mrs. Rose Biddle of Harrington. The Ritual Director, Mrs. Eleanor Semans, talked to the new members.

Miss Lydia Adams, hospital chairman, has plans underway to sell all occasion cards and paring knives. Miss Adams announced that Ruth Tull, the student nurse sponsored by this chapter, is leaving Milford soon to attend a hospital in Philadelphia. This is Miss Tull's third year in the Milford Memorial School of Nursing.

Twenty-four members from the L.O.O.M. No. 534 and W.O.T.M. No. 1229 attended the seventh district meeting held in Cambridge on August 9th. The new officers for the district association were installed at this meeting. Two members from Harrington Lodge No. 534 were installed.

William Fleischer Sr. of Harrington was installed as district president. William Boyd of Wyoming was installed as secretary-treasurer. The next district meeting will be held in Harrington on Sun., Sept. 20.

Those from the Harrington Lodge and Chapter who are attending the annual Moose convention in Pittsburgh, Pa., are Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Wooters, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McWilliams, and Mr. and Mrs. William Fleischer, Sr., all of Harrington.

Duck Hunting Reduced to 40 Days

The duck hunting season in all states on the Atlantic flyway, which includes Delaware, has been reduced to 40 days after 60 days last year.

The State Board of Game and Fish Commissioners decides the season for Delaware within dates set by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service and for the time set by the service.

The dates for Delaware for ducks and coots will be Nov. 17 to Dec. 26. Last year it was Nov. 7 to Jan. 5.

Norman G. Wilder, board director, said the opening date was set to avoid confusion with the opening of the upland game and two-day deer seasons. The shotgun season for deer in Delaware is Nov. 13 and 14. The upland game season, rabbits, male pheasants and quail, opens Nov. 20 and runs to Jan. 2.

As Many as Before
Canada geese are expected to be as numerous as last fall. The season on geese remains 60 days, Nov. 4 to Jan. 2, Mr. Wilder said. The bag limit for ducks is four. Of the four, one may be a canvasback. (Continued on back page)

KINDERGARTEN TO BEGIN HERE OCTOBER 5

A meeting of citizens interested in organizing the Harrington Kindergarten Association was held on Wednesday last week in the Collins Building of the Asbury Methodist Church. Mrs. Frank Quillen, assisted by Mrs. Harry John Dill, Jr., was in charge of the meeting. A movie, "Frustrating Fours and Fascinating Fives," was shown by John Curtis in order to further acquaint those assembled with kindergarten activities and expectations.

Mrs. Finley Jones, teacher of the Milford Kindergarten classes, and Mrs. Harvey Marvel, Jr., past president of the Milford Kindergarten Association, were present to answer questions and offer suggestions.

Mrs. William Simpson, a kindergarten primary major, was engaged as teacher of the class to begin Oct. 5. Mrs. Harry J. Dill, Jr. and Mrs. Earle Nelson were named as substitute teachers.

The classes will be held in one of the Sunday School classrooms of the Asbury Methodist Church. However, the organization will be a community project, sponsored by parents of children enrolled, civic organizations, and other interested parties.

Regular kindergarten qualifications are to be met by children enrolled in the class, which is not to exceed 26 pupils. A child must be five years old by Jan. 1, 1960 to be enrolled. Registration forms must be filed on each child desiring enrollment, and a monthly fee will be paid one month in advance.

The following were elected officers of the Harrington Kindergarten Association: President, Mrs. Frank Quillen; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Earle Nelson; supply officer, Mrs. William Jeffers; directors, Mrs. John Curtis, Mrs. Charles Callaway, and Mrs. Austin Turcotte. J. C. Messner, Rev. R. S. Gibson, and Howard Wagner were appointed honorary directors.

Parents interested in enrolling their children in the fall class, may contact Mrs. Frank Quillen or Mrs. Earle Nelson.

County Pension Goes to Williams

Enoch Y. Williams, 87, Tuesday became the first retired Kent County employee to receive the benefits of the recently created pension plan.

Williams, who lives at 38 S. Governor's Avenue, Dover, will receive $120 monthly. The Kent County Levy Court, in approving the pension during its regular meeting Tuesday, made the start of the benefit period retroactive to July 28th of this year.

Walter A. Handsberry, Clerk of the Peace, said Wednesday that the pension plan calls for 25 years service with the county. He said that Williams had much more than that—but he had stopped counting the years when he got to 27, which made him more than eligible. The law, authorizing a county pension plan, was passed by the General Assembly of Delaware more than two years ago, according to Handsberry.

Marine Trailer Beats An Inglorious Retreat

The state's first recruiting house trailer is leaving Delaware under rather inglorious circumstances.

The Marine Corps opened a house trailer as a recruiting office at Harrington several weeks ago and it was operated by Sgt. Jack F. Hosler, recruiter. Recently it was determined unproductive so it was closed.

Tuesday Hosler started toward Philadelphia from Harrington with the trailer in tow. Outside of Harrington the trailer came loose, struck the car, and both overturned.

Sergeant Hosler was not injured but damage was extensive to the trailer and car.

Miss Lillie E. Evans

Miss Lillie Eleanor Evans, a life-long resident of Salisbury, died Tuesday at the home of her niece, Mrs. Edgar Graef, Weiner Ave., Harrington.

Miss Evans had moved here several months ago to live with her niece.

Funeral services will be held at her home in Salisbury on Friday at 3 p. m.

She is survived by another niece and a nephew. Arrangements are by the Torbert Funeral Chapel, Dover.

Beebe Hospital Campaign Passes Half-way Mark

At the Third Report Meeting of the Beebe Hospital Building Fund held in Lewes High School on Tuesday evening, solicitor reports brought the total funds collected so far in the campaign to $444,397.

The meeting was chaired by Mrs. J. H. Tyler McConnell, associate campaign chairman. Those present were: Dr. James Beebe, Jr., chairman medical staff division; Eugene D. Bookhammer, general teams chairman; Charles Mills, chairman for Rehoboth Beach; Elias Tingle, chairman Dagsboro - Frankford; William Wagonam, chairman for Milton.

In her remarks, Mrs. McConnell underlined the importance of stepping up solicitation visits to complete the campaign before Labor Day. She stated that returns to date show real interest on the part of the hospital's constituency in the hospital's need. "What we need is the big push on all fronts to give everyone an opportunity to make his gift."

The next report meeting will be held at Lewes High School on Tuesday evening, Aug. 25, at 8 p. m.

Unit at Country House Endowed for Sussex Couple

Endowment of a double living unit at The Methodist Country House for an elderly couple from Sussex County was announced today by the Rev. George H. Pigeon, Jr., executive director of the home, being built on the Kennett Pike, five miles north-west of Wilmington.

Mr. Pigeon said that the Wilmington resident who made the gift as a memorial to his parents, had stipulated that the funds be used to defray the expenses of an elderly man and his wife from lower Delaware as lifetime guests of the Country House. The couple will be selected at a later date.

It was also announced construction of this new building is proceeding satisfactorily and is expected to be completed next fall.

Private Bath Included
A double living unit, such as that to be occupied by the Sussex County couple, consists of an area 26 feet by 14 feet, including a private bath and ample closet space. Because of the type of construction—steel, brick, concrete, and block—each living unit will enjoy wall-to-wall carpeting. Well padded wall-to-wall carpeting laid over concrete flooring is less expensive than the laying of hardwood floors and the installation of rugs, and also carries with it the safety feature for older folk who might stumble over loose rugs and be injured. Each unit will have its own thermostat to produce the desired room temperature.

"The Board of Trustees of the Country House is deeply appreciative of the excellent response of so many citizens of our Peninsula area," Mr. Pigeon said. "There are many inquiries, interest is growing, and it is believed that all the living units will be taken by the time the job is completed. Those interested may visit (Continued on back page)"

Maag in Hospital

Frank Maag, owner of Maag's Sporting Goods Store, Dover, was stricken with a heart attack on Tuesday at his home on Wyoming Avenue. He was listed as resting comfortably at Kent General Hospital Wednesday.

Letter to the Editor

To whom it may concern: It has been told to me this week that it is rumored that I wrote a letter to the owner of the National 5 & 10c Store telling them their manager, Mr. Reed, was not capable of running the store as it should be and doing things on the job he should not be doing and I would like to have the job and that was the reason he was discharged.

I never heard of anything more ridiculous. I have too much respect for Mr. Reed and his family to even think of such a thing and have the first thing wrong to see on the job or off the job out of the man.

I want the public to know that the company surely knows I never did it and I know I never did it and God knows I never did it so will the gossippers please stop this talk.

It takes a lot of grace to stand gossip but when it comes to plain lies it is almost too much.

Don't forget midget races at The Blue Hen Speedway Sunday night, Aug. 23. Come to see the races and meet all of your friends. Free parking and free admission. See you at the races.

Canteen Clip

by Barb Payne

An exciting, spectacular performance to be presented at the Harrington Canteen this Friday evening. Russ Argo and his rhythm beating four will fully entertain every hep teenager present!

Other then the regular entertainment provided, there will be a special feature sometime in the evening. Don't miss the big "surprise" this Friday at the Harrington Canteen!

Postoffice Plan Pushed For Bridgeville

Congressman Harris B. McDowell, Jr. (D-Del.) has been notified by the Post Office Department that negotiations are in the final stage for the construction of a new post office at Bridgeville, Delaware. The Congressman for the past several months has been in constant contact with the post office department urging this new facility as a sound and economical project for the improvement of postal service for the patrons of the Bridgeville Post Office.

The new post office building, the congressman stated, is to be built under terms of a long term lease. Such arrangement would not involve the expenditure of federal funds for the construction.

The congressman further stated that many residents of Bridgeville and surrounding area have written to him stating that such a new post office is badly needed to replace the present forty-year-old structure which is being rented by the post office department. Satisfactory arrangements with the lessor are expected to be completed at an early date.

Surplus Food Role Shunned by 3 Counties

The end of the surplus food program in Delaware appeared to be just around the corner Wednesday as Levy Courts of all three counties refused to start administering the program which has been handled on the state level since it started last February.

The end of the program was heralded last week by Gov. J. Caleb Boggs who said that because the General Assembly adjourned without restoring his contingency funds, the program would have to end.

Tuesday Lt. Col. D. Preston Lee, special coordinator for the project, got a rousing "no" from the Levy Courts on the suggestion that they administer the program.

The New Castle County Levy Court said it would try to make financial contributions, but would do no more. The Kent and Sussex Levy Courts also declined to take up the reins.

Colonel Lee had told the Levy Courts he would have to know by Thursday, the deadline for ordering release of stockpiled surplus foods for September distribution.

Thus apparently ends a program born in strife and turmoil early this year, after several previous abortive attempts to launch one had fizzled out.

It came into being largely through the efforts of organized labor during prolonged layoffs in the auto industry last year and early this year. The apparent last distribution in Delaware was a special emergency distribution to families of striking steelworkers last week.

Involved in the program have been the Governor Bacon Health Center at Delaware City where the supplies have been stored; the State Department of Welfare which has had to certify the recipients as being needy; the Delaware National Guard whose trucks and drivers delivered the foodstuffs to distribution points throughout the state; the New Castle Correctional Institution which donated labor to package some of the foodstuffs, and several stores and community institutions which acted as distribution points at no cost to the state.

Colonel Lee also reported earlier this month that the public response to the program has been far less than was originally expected. Of the total number of persons known to be eligible to receive the foodstuffs, less than one-fourth went to the trouble of going to get it.

Little Minor League News

The Little Minor League Regular schedule has been completed with the Cougars and the Wildcats tied for first. An effort will be made to crown the league champion Thursday night when the two leaders in a playoff game at the Harrington High School.

Next Wednesday night the top players of the Yankees and Wildcats will meet the pick of the Cougars and Braves under the lights at the Moose Park.

This game will be a preliminary to a regular Harrington Softball league game.

SENATOR FREAR RIDES DONKEY AT DEMOCRATIC PICNIC HERE

Delaware All Star Football Game To Be Held Tomorrow

The state's biggest football spectacular—the Fourth Annual Delaware All Star High School Football game—will be played tomorrow afternoon in the University of Delaware Stadium at Newark. Kick-off will be at 2 p.m. for the Blue vs. Gold clash of 1959 graduates, which again will benefit the Delaware Foundation for Retarded Children. Last year's game netted $25,000 for "We Play That They May Learn."

The Golds, from south of the Wilmington city limits and the Lancaster Pike, will be shooting for their first victory of the "We Play That They May Learn" series. Their head coach this year is Frank Coveleski of Rehoboth Beach High. Coaching the Blues is Bob DeGroat of Tower Hill School. The game will climax 10 days training at the University for both 35-player squads.

Outstanding schoolboy talent will be in action. The Golds can call on three all-state backs in Quarterback Bill Reader of William Penn, Jim Yori of Laurel and Orville Basinski of Caesar Rodney. All-stars on the Gold line are End Walt Mackey and Center Wayne Crissman, both of Newark.

The Blues include the three plus 220-pound all-state linemen from Salesianum: Ross Judica, Vince Marozzi and Don Burawski. They also have Tony Buccell, all-state quarterback at Claymont High in 1957. Judica recently played in the All-American Prep game at Baton Rouge, La.

Democrats Plan Frolic on Beach

There will be professional entertainment at the annual beach jamboree to be put on by the Sussex County Democratic Committee on Lewes Beach this evening.

Mrs. Edna Brasure, state Democratic vice chairman and chairman of the entertainment committee, has announced that Ritter's Theatrical Artists and Entertainers from Philadelphia will be at hand.

Among those who have sent word that they will attend are U. S. Senator J. Allen Frear, Jr., Congressman Harris B. McDowell Jr., National Committeeman William F. Potter, State Insurance Commissioner Harry S. Smith, and State Auditor Ernest E. Killen.

Frank Dickerson, county sheriff, is honorary chairman for the event. General chairman is Andrew O'Neal, Laurel, deputy state treasurer, with H. Edward Maul and Charles Cathoon as co-chairmen.

Tax Collection Changes Urged

State Tax Commissioner Alexander R. Abrahams' campaign to collect back taxes owed the state on income levy have convinced him that his suggestion of a need for a change in legislation, voiced many times since he took over his office, is sounder even than when first proposed.

"One thing that has appeared certain to me and my staff during this collection effort," the commissioner said, "is that the latest group of cases, and they number many thousands, are proof that the law setting up quarterly payments should be changed."

Expressing his views the commissioner said, "I feel that a taxpayer owing less than $50, an annual income tax returns, should pay that amount in full. Taxpayers can't pay their federal income taxes on a quarterly basis and the administration of such a program in regard to state taxes entails costly collection procedures and leads to some confusion in the minds of the taxpayers who fail to keep good records of their quarterly payments."

As an example, Mr. Abrahams points to several thousand cases now in the hands of magistrates for collection. He said that in many of these cases taxpayers made a first or even a second or their quarterly payment and then failed to make the full number of installment payments due. As a result the tax office sends out repeat bills, letters of notice and warning and goes through continual checking and rechecking of records, all at taxpayer expense.

U. S. Senator J. Allen Frear and Mrs. Frear were among the prominent guests attending a picnic of the Kent County Democratic Women's Club Sunday afternoon at Wheeler's Park. Some 300 persons were present.

The visitors were greeted by a donkey carrying a banner, "Welcome Democrats." Senator Frear was among the political dignitaries who later rode the animal.

Congressman Harris B. McDowell Jr., sent his regrets, at being unable to attend, but was represented by an assistant, Mrs. Nellie Norbert.

Also present were J. Gordon Smith, chairman of the State Highway Department; State Insurance Commissioner Harry Smith, L. Winfred Hughes, president of the Kent County Board of Elections; State Treasurer Mrs. Belle Everett, who is also national committeewoman; Charles G. Moore, motor vehicle commissioner, and numerous Kent County and state officials.

Moore led group singing. Vernon Derrickson, chairman of the Kent County Democratic Committee, was master of ceremonies, and Mrs. Blanche Cahall, president of the women's club, gave an address of welcome.

Mrs. Mary Hurd, Willow Grove, played the accordion, accompanied by Robert Collins, Wyoming, on the guitar.

Cochairmen of the picnic committee were Mrs. Mary Greenly, Mrs. T. Brinton Holloway, and Mrs. Fred Bailey. Other committee members were as follows: Irene Wechtenhiser, Kathryn Simpson, Hazel Hopkins, Laura Belle Wilson, all of Harrington; Lucille Robinson, Felton; Hattie Tarburton and Doris Shulties, both of Wyoming, and Mildred Hall, Milford.

Hostesses were as follows: Ruth Rusby, Smyrna; Myrtle Honey, Dover; Elizabeth Pratt, Kenton; Abbie Melton and Gladys Thompson, Hartly; Lottie Johnson, Dover; Myrtle Kemp, Willow Grove; Myrtle Whittingham, Woodside; Estella Brittingham, Felton; Laura Belle Wilson, Harrington, and Pearl Stevenson, Frederica.

H. H. S. Starts Football Practice

by Keith S. Burgess

Head football coach William A. Smith and his assistant, Dick Jeffers, will start football practice next week at the local high school. Jeffers and Smith traded positions early this year. This procedure is not an unusual one.

Coach Smith faces a monumental task as most of the stalwarts who led the team to a successful first two seasons have graduated. Gone are such worthies as Bob Wilson, Dave Coady, Jim Schiff, Jack Porter, Joe Dennis, Bill Manship, John Taylor, Don Garey, K. P. Outten, Jim Collins, Dave Welch and others.

The new coach has the credentials to get the most out of the green team he inherits. His is probably the most impressive athletic background ever in the Harrington High School coaching ranks. A native of Baltimore, he played football, basketball, and baseball in high school, making all-state in the cage sport.

Smith attended Washington College in Chestertown, Md., where he was one of that school's few four-letter men adding tennis to his three high

REHOBOTH

Where pine and brine are ever wooing
 And skeeters are e'er pursuing.

"The noisy half-truths and hard sell of radio and television have done advertising no good. The impact has in many cases been vicious. Unfortunately, all advertising bears the brunt. Whatever progress advertising acceptability has made in past decades is beginning to slough off."

So said Morton J. Simon, legal counsel to the League of Advertising Agencies, Eastern Industrial Advertisers and the Television and Radio Advertising Club of Philadelphia.

Specious advertising is one of the least problems of the weekly press, since the publishing firm is usually in intimate contact with the advertiser and is well aware of his dependability, or lack of it. The local advertiser is also usually kept within bounds by the public.

Any shady advertising in the weekly press usually comes from afar. This type of business we have learned to avoid. But we were taken . . . once. A classified ad from Indiana offered materials for sale for making earrings. "Your friends will be glad to buy them for $1.50 per pair," the spiel shouted. A Vernon purchaser said the pendants were of the dime-store variety. We refunded her money, though she said we were not responsible. We didn't get paid for the ad, either.

A Chicago firm wanted to list your business for sale but wanted money in advance. A storm-window concern had merchandise for cut-rate prices. It was cut-rate merchandise, too, a factor the ad neglected to mention.

A Philadelphia advertising agency wanted us to run an ad, one time, for a correspondence school for practical nurses. The bill would be around $5, minus the agency's commission of 17 per cent. The agency also wanted us to carry a "news" article, taking twice as much space as the ad, on the school.

We know of an elderly Harrington woman, now deceased, who got hooked up with one of these correspondence schools, for nursing, in Chicago. Of course, she passed the course. To be "graduated," she went to the Windy City. We do not believe she ever got to practice her profession.

There is one thing one can depend on—the weekly press will lean over backwards to see its readers do not get gypped. The local merchants will do likewise.

The arrival of a daughter, Georgia Lynn, the first child of Mr. and Mrs. George Isaacs of North Bedford Street, Georgetown, on Aug. 15, 1959, was a special occasion for the Milford Memorial Hospital as well as her parents.

Her birth marked a milestone because she is the first baby born at our community hospital to the first baby born there after it opened in 1938. Her mother, the former Eva Lynn Barr, daughter of John Linden and Eva Barr, was born on April 14, 1938 at 10:35 A. M., one day after the hospital opened its doors. Her father, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Isaacs is employed in farming with his father. The following Milford and Georgetown merchants helped celebrate this event with a program of gift giving to the parents and new child.

Needlecraft News by Nancy Baxter

A beautiful experience is one of the most precious gifts of life. In this ever-mysterious world there are endless adventures to be had, but they are available to different persons in varying degrees. You, the creative woman, for example, have a feeling for beauty that is many-sided. When you witness a beautiful scene, you do so with added sensitivity—and then you take that beauty away with you so that it becomes part of your reservoir of creative ideas.

DESIGN AND SYMBOL

Featured today is our translation of the "wheat" scene into a crochet pattern. Shown here as a runner, it's importance in your home is twofold: First, from the point of view of pure fashion, the originality of design makes it a "final touch" to an imaginative decorating scheme. Second, its theme of abundance is an important symbol in a home noted for warmth and generosity. If

GOLDEN WHEAT
Do you remember the first time you saw the blazing miracle of harvest time? Each season has its own summit of beauty, it's true. But I believe there is no parallel to autumn's glory just when she is about to make her grand offering to the reaper's scythe. If you have ever seen a wheat field, ready for threshing, you'll understand what I mean. Slivers of gold dancing to the wind's tune are a sight never to be forgotten—and for you, the artist, a scene to be incorporated into one of your creations.

BASIC ELECTRONICS FOR INDUSTRY

The increasing importance of industrial automation is reflected in the offerings this fall of a course in Basic Electronics for Industry by the University of Delaware department of electrical engineering through the division of university extension.

Designed to give engineers a working knowledge of electronics as applied to industrial problems the ten-week non-credit course will emphasize the use of the vacuum tube and semi-conductor components in industrial instruments and control systems.

R. V. Canning, research engineer at the engineering research laboratory of the DuPont Company, will be the instructor for the course, which will meet on Thursday evenings from 7:30 to 10:00 p. m. in Wilmington High School. The course will begin October 1 and continue weekly through December 10, except for a break at the Thanksgiving holiday, November 26.

Prerequisites for the course are college algebra and general physics or consent of instructor. The fee is $25.

Mr. Canning is a graduate of Yale University and holds a master's degree from the University of Delaware in electrical engineering.

He served as electronic officer aboard the U.S.S. Midway from 1943 until 1946, when he joined the electrical design department of the DuPont Company. Designing electrical process-control systems and equipment for various industrial plants, he remained with DuPont until 1948. Moving to the electrical engineering department of the University of Delaware, he taught electronics and conducted research until 1955 when he rejoined DuPont in his present capacity.

Further information on courses and programs in university extension may be obtained from the Director of University Extension University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware; telephone ENdicott 8-8511, Ext. 220.

STATE HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT

An increase in traffic was recorded at all of the permanent traffic counting stations, except one, during July, in comparison with the same month of last year, it has been reported by the planning Division of the State Highway Department.

The single decrease, being 2.09 percent, was recorded along Route 40, at a point west of Bear where the average daily number of vehicles counted was 27,154, a decrease of 579 over July of last year, and the largest single day was July 19, when 33,155 vehicles were counted.

The largest increase, 26.13 percent, was recorded along the Kirkwood Highway, at a point east of Newark, where the daily average of vehicles counted was 13,070, an increase of 2,708, and the largest single day was July 17, when 15,655 vehicles were counted.

Along US Route 13, at a point north of Smyrna, the increase of 1.14 percent and the daily average of vehicles counted was 16,013, an increase of 180. The largest single day was July 26 when 21,729 vehicles were counted.

No record is available for the counting station along US Route 113, at a point north of Milford, because the counter is out of service due to road construction.

Along US Route 13, at a point south of Greenwood, the increase was 0.77 percent and the daily average increase of vehicles counted was 7,676, an increase of 59. The largest single day was July 31 when 10,273 vehicles were counted.

An increase of 8.28 percent was recorded along the Concord Pike, US Route 202, at a point north of Talleyville. The daily average of vehicles counted was 15,650, an increase of 1,225 and the largest single day was July 31 when 19,042 vehicles were counted.

Greenwood

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fisher had their children christened recently at the Farmington Methodist Church by the Rev. William H. Smith.

Linwood Trice, Jr. of Federalsburg has been a recent house guest of the Harry Fishers. On Sunday the Fishers attended the Moore reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gorman Slacum of near Bridgeville. There were members of the family there from five or six different states.

Mrs. S. S. Wroten was a Sunday dinner guest of Mrs. Edna Hayes and Miss Grace Porter. Miss Florence Long and her sister, Mrs. Norman Grove and daughter from Wilmington left by plane on Saturday for a two-weeks' vacation in Denver, Colo.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hatfield attended the recent wedding of Miss Joyce Hickman to Mr. Eugene Porter of Harrington. Their daughter, Miss Mary Lou Hatfield was a bridesmaid.

In regard to the paragraph last week concerning the matter of the foxhounds destroying the farmers' crops, we have an excellent reply from one of our neighbors. We quote: "Farmers and Friends, in last week's paper I saw where the farmers are complaining about fox hunters running their dogs through their crops, which I do not blame them. I am one of the largest fox dog owners in Sussex County and do a lot of fox hunting in season, but my dogs have not been out of the pen all summer. Any so-called fox hunter that doesn't care about the farmer is not showing much respect for other hunters and is showing common sportsmanship... Signed: Thad Holis." End Quote. We thank you, Thad. Let those who are without blame defend themselves.

Miss Georgia Ann Sevier of Delmar was a house guest of Ellen Hatfield last week. Miss Lora Wise was Ellen's guest at the Lions Club Beach party on Saturday afternoon.

The Jacob Hatfields motored to Newark on Saturday evening to remain for the weekend with their married children, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Case. Mrs. Arthur Laughrey joined them after attending the wedding of her niece in Chester, Pa. Mr. Laughrey and a friend joined them on Sunday afternoon, celebrating the third birthday of little Karen.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin W. Melvin, died in the Milford Memorial Hospital Saturday after a short illness.

He was a member of Trinity Methodist Church Sunday School and a seventh grade pupil in Harrington School.

Services were held from the J. Millard Cooper Funeral Home here, Tuesday afternoon. The Rev. Nelson Benjamin, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, officiated. Interment was in Mt. Olive Cemetery, Sandtown.

Besides his parents, he is survived by a brother, Curtis W. Melvin, here, and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Sadie Berry, also of Harrington.

New electric power lines in Israel's Negev area will cost around $1,900,000.

"Got Enough Storage?" Asks ASC

A call to "check your storage" was issued today to all farmers who intend putting any of their 1959 crops under the price-support program.

R. Harry Wilson, chairman Kent Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, points out that the price-support program means nothing to the farmer who has no adequate place in which to store his crop. Crops under loan must be stored in approved facilities—either commercial or on the farm and good storage is also essential for crop covered by a purchase agreement if the crop is to meet eligibility requirements for later purchase by the government under the price-support program.

To help farmers meet their grain storage needs, Commodity Credit Corporation loans are available through County ASC offices which may provide up to 80 per cent of the cost of new bins. Loans may also be obtained for the purchase of drying equipment necessary to condition the grain for storage.

Farmers who believe that they may need additional grain storage this year are urged to visit their local ASC office and obtain further details about the assistance available.

Kenneth Eugene Melvin

Kenneth Eugene Melvin, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin W. Melvin, died in the Milford Memorial Hospital Saturday after a short illness.

He was a member of Trinity Methodist Church Sunday School and a seventh grade pupil in Harrington School.

Services were held from the J. Millard Cooper Funeral Home here, Tuesday afternoon. The Rev. Nelson Benjamin, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, officiated. Interment was in Mt. Olive Cemetery, Sandtown.

Besides his parents, he is survived by a brother, Curtis W. Melvin, here, and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Sadie Berry, also of Harrington.

Delaware Food Market Report

This is the season which vitamin-rich vegetables are abundant and their quality good. The most plentiful are sweet corn, onions, cucumbers, radishes, peppers, cabbage, tomatoes, and potatoes. Most of these vegetables are selling at the same price as last week, however, a few are wearing lower price tags.

Cucumbers are as cheap as 5 cents each for the locally grown ones. Shipped in wax cucumbers cost a few cents more. Now is the time to buy cucumbers in quantity to pickle. When buying in volume the price is much cheaper also. Here are some tips in buying this vegetable: Look for cucumbers that are firm, fresh looking, well shaped and of good color. When cucumbers are withered or shriveled they are tough and bitter. Over maturity is indicated by a puffy appearance and dull or yellowish skin. And because of their rubbery flesh, hard seeds, and the flesh in the seed cavity almost jelly like, they make very poor eating.

The only increase in fresh fruit prices this week came on California Valencia oranges - up 2 cents. Cantaloupes, lemons, Bartlett pears, green apples, and plums are all a penny or two cheaper. Watermelon has dropped in price the most of any fruit - at many road side stands, average sized melons are selling as low as 3 for $1.

Peaches continue to be the best news at the fruit counter. The peach season is now at its peak with prices ranging from 7 to 15 cents a pound. If you are going to can or freeze, or pickle peaches now is the time to do it.

Beef is a "big special" on many meat counters this week. Just about every cut is cheaper even hamburger. Cornish hens, bacon, frankfurters and chickens are offered at lower prices this weekend.

A plentiful supply of medium size eggs continue to arrive at local stores and prices are low - averaging 47 cents a dozen. Grade A large eggs remain at last week's level.

There is a fabulous new dip dressing on sale in many stores refrigerated cases. It is ready to serve in a paper carton, but don't try this new product unless you like plenty of onions and garlic flavor! It's guaranteed to zip up potato chips, baked potatoes, crackers, shrimp, hamburger, cheese snacks and in fact all

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Blessing are being congratulated upon the birth of a son at the Milford Hospital, on Sat., Aug. 8.

EXTENSION BULLETIN DELAYED

The division of university extension of the University of Delaware has announced that publication of the 1959-60 Extension Bulletin has been delayed this year. The bulletin, which usually appears August 1, is expected to be available to the public in about ten days.

With registration set for the week of September 14, all students should have sufficient time to plan their programs for the coming academic year.

The extension division has prepared a mailing list including all students who registered in extension courses during either term last year, as well as a large number of educational institutions and business and industrial concerns. Other students wishing to obtain a bulletin should have their names entered on the mailing list. The bulletins will be mailed as soon as they are available.

Dr. Gordon C. Godbey, director of university extension, has also announced that an additional fee for non-resident students will go into effect this fall. In accordance with a resolution passed by the university board of trustees, part-time graduate and undergraduate students taking courses through university extension who are not residents of the State of Delaware will pay a fee of $13 per credit hour in addition to the regular $13 per credit hour fee required of all students. For example, the cost of a three-credit course to a non-resident student will now be $78.

The new fee structure for extension students, both graduate and undergraduate, is in line with the policy, pursued for many years by the university, requiring additional fees for non-resident full-time students.

A student 22 years of age or older who has maintained continuous residence in Delaware 12 months immediately preceding his enrollment is classified as a Delaware resident. A student who does not qualify under this provision but who acquires a bona fide residence while registered with the university may request review of his classification 12 months after acquiring such residence. Residence in Delaware while serving on active duty with a branch of the U. S. armed forces does not entitle a student to classification as a resident of Delaware unless the student was a resident prior to beginning active military service.

Social Security Notes

School teachers and other school employees may be entitled to social security benefits during their summer vacation. This announcement was made today by Edward F. Sullivan, district manager of the local social security office. Mr. Sullivan explained that school employees who have reached retirement age under social security and are insured under the law may have benefits payable to them even though their salaries are continued during the summer months. This is true if the payments are earnings for service during the school year and if the employee does not have to perform any services during the summer months. Mr. Sullivan cautioned that an application must be filed before any benefits can be paid and suggested that any individual who believes he might have benefits due him get in touch with the local Social Security Office, 230 West Loockerman Street, Dover, Dela.

North Atlantic Section of Ag. Engineers To Meet at U. of Maryland

Farm progress along engineering lines can be expected to take another step forward Aug. 31 when members of the North Atlantic Section of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers meet for a four day conference at the University of Maryland in College Park. More than 200 professional agricultural engineers from Canada and the United States are expected to attend the meeting. They will include representatives of universities, Federal and other public agencies and industry.

Research papers in the specialized areas of Farm Structures, Power and Machinery, Soil and Water Conservation, and Electric Power and Processing will be presented by 28 Agricultural engineers.

Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation will be the featured speaker at the Wednesday evening banquet, in the University Dining Hall (Sept. 2). Topic of his talk will be "Let's Fight Together for Agriculture."

Another highlight of the meeting will be a discussion of the role of agriculture in mutual security by Col. John C. Lackas, U. S. Army, Industrial College of Armed Forces. The implications of Col. Lackas' address to agricultural engineering will be discussed by Dr. W. M. Carleton, Assistant Director, Agricultural Engineering Research Division, USDA, Beltsville. Both will appear on the program Wednesday (Sept. 2) afternoon in the Student Union.

Dr. A. O. Kuhn, Executive Vice President, University of Maryland will welcome the Society at the opening session of the meeting. This session will be presided over by Dr. R. L. Green, Head of the Agricultural Engineering Department, University of Maryland, College of Agriculture.

New-fashioned ideas in farming to be discussed during the sessions will include the herring-bone milking parlor; and better buildings for raising pork more economically. Hay raising will receive considerable attention with talks on machinery for planting, fertilizing, mowing, and drying hay; and handling of the finished product. Hottest topic in this field will be the much publicized machine for making hay pellets. Strictly on the level, will be the talk about "Land Smoothing for Improved Grassland Farming."

Among the several panel discussions, will be one aimed at outfitting Mother Nature with the use of sprinkler irrigation for frost protection.

The Society will hold a business meeting Wednesday (Sept. 2) at 3 p.m. in the Student Union and close the meeting Thursday with a tour of the USDA Agricultural Experiment Station at Beltsville.

Conservation Reserve Signup To Start

Farmers who wish to put cropland in the Soil Bank's 1960 Conservation Reserve must ask the county ASC committees to set a basic annual rate per acre for the offered land, William N. Hopkins, chairman Delaware Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said Thursday.

The period for filing such requests is from August 24 through Sept. 10. No requests will be accepted after Sept. 10.

In setting the basic annual per acre rate for land offered, the county committee will take into consideration the productivity of the land and the rate will be limited to the local fair rental value of the land based on the crops harvested from it during the past five years.

When all the eligible cropland on the farm is offered for the Conservation Reserve, the rate will generally be set 10 per cent higher than the rate for only part of the eligible land.

After the basic rate has been determined, the farmer may apply for a contract at any figure below the basic rate established for the land offered in the request for rates. If necessary, a priority system will be used to determine which offers are accepted.

Contracts under the Conservation Reserve may run as long as 10 years. During the time of the contract, the farmer will receive an annual rental payment on the reserved land for the life of the contract, and he also will receive cost-sharing help in establishing an approved conservation practice.

For Delaware, the basic per-acre rate of payment under the 1960 Conservation Reserve is $16 the same as under the 1959 program. The tentative acreage goal for the State is 4600 acres, subject to consideration and recommendations by the State ASC Committee.

Dorchester County 4-H'er Judged State Dress Revue Winner

Eleanor Keene of Dorchester County won the select spot in this year's edition of Fashion Headlines. She was judged Maryland's selection for the National 4-H Dress Revue, an event of National 4-H Club Congress.

Eleanor chose a classic shirt-waist style pattern for her printed cotton fabric. Her costume was judged in the dress-up cotton classification.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jennings Keene, farmers of the Church Creek community.

She carried the clothing project for 10 years as a part of her 4-H Club activities. A sophomore of Home Economics, Eleanor is attending the University of Maryland. She plans to be a home demonstration agent on completion of her four year college course.

She has an outstanding record of leadership and achievements in her 4-H Club projects.

Carolyn Buck of Prince George's County placed second with her party dress.

The annual dress revue was a feature program Aug. 7 during State 4-H Club Week.

Following a newspaper theme, the dress revue developed into a special edition with reporters describing costumes for travel, sports, hobbies, weather, classified ads, feature story, "Dear Sally" and the social scene.

Jean Carpenter, Washington County and Lois Henkle, Baltimore County placed in the top four according to judges Miss Marcelle Ames, Home Economics teacher of Spokane, Wash.; Miss Julia H. Burton, Home Economics teacher in Baltimore City and Miss Margaret Mosher, Assistant State 4-H Club Agent in Mass.

Among the top ten contestants were Nola Benedict, Montgomery; Mary Lee Engerman, Caroline; Frances Dunkle, Calvert; Nancy West, Kent; Dorothy Billmeier, Caroline; Nancy Cronshaw, Queen Anne's.

"All 4-H'ers in the state dress revue are winners in county competition. Each contestant is judged on general appearance, construction of her garment and her 4-H Club record," according to Miss Lavonia Hilbert, clothing specialist with Maryland Extension Service.

Representing 23 counties there were 62 girls modeling costumes they made. They ranged from simply designed play clothes to elaborate evening dresses and wool suits.

Teachers will report to their respective schools for a three-day planning and preparation session beginning Wed., Sept. 2. An all day administrative meeting will be held at North Carolina High School on Thurs., Aug. 27.

Only one change has been made in the administration of the school system during the summer. John Barrett has been named principal of the Denton School which was formerly Caroline High School and Denton Primary School. Kindergarten and grades one and two will still be housed in the primary building in Denton but it will be under one administrative head.

The county's newest consolidated school, North Carolina High, is rapidly nearing completion. The interior will be ready for full operation by the opening of school. Some of the grading and seeding may still be unfinished.

The first new elementary school to be built in the county in recent years is the Lockerman Elementary School, a six-room building. It should be ready for occupancy by Oct. 1.

Considerable work is underway in a number of other schools.

The Denton Primary building has been painted, new acoustic ceiling installed, new lights provided, and the cafeteria remodeled.

The Denton School will have a new auditorium-gymnasium when school opens. A new stage has been provided, the balcony removed and gymnasium equipment installed in this school. In addition to this, a new teachers' room has been built, improvements made in the administrative and guidance offices, home economics room and industrial arts shop. New shower rooms and lavatories for both boys and girls have been provided. Existing lavatories have been renovated.

In the Ridgely School, new shower rooms for both boys and girls have been built, a new administrative office has been provided and other changes made in the building. All lavatories have been renovated.

Greensboro School will have a renovated cafeteria, new library, new guidance and administrative offices, and renovated lavatories throughout the building.

During the summer, all other schools in the county have undergone cleaning and repair.

School officials are still looking for teachers in several of the specialized areas.

A new Hilton Hotel in Port of Spain is expected to aid Trinidad's tourist industry.

Timely Farm and Garden Hints

Here are some timely hints for farmers and gardeners to consider in August, says George Vapaa the Kent County Agriculture Agent.

1. Seed that new lawn now. The weather has been ideal thus far. Heavy rains have provided good soil moisture conditions, and cooler weather will help tender seedlings. Drop a postal card to the agent or call him at RE-dfield 6-1448 for a free bulletin on lawns.

2. This is also the time to seed alfalfa, the best single hay crop for Delaware, and also the cheapest per ton to grow. Depuists and Williamsburg are the two best varieties.

3. Time too to stock up that freezer with peaches, sweet corn or other vegetables. Local supplies are good, and quality is excellent. Broilers and pork are expected to be good freezer buys as the weather cools.

4. Hay will be in demand because of the drought in May and June. Farmers can stretch their supply by planting rye or other small grains now for fall and early spring. A seeding rate of about three bushels per acre, sowed as a split application in two directions will give a thicker and more even stand.

The agricultural extension service of the University of Delaware provides many free bulletins for help on the above problems. The offices are located on the second floor of the Dover post office.

Freezing Sweet Corn

Freezing, when properly done, is a good way to preserve sweet corn county home demonstration agent Florence Y. Smith says.

Corn retains more of its original flavor and nutritive value frozen than when preserved any other way.

Select only high-quality corn. Freezing does not improve corn and may magnify its undesirable characteristics, so avoid over or under ripe corn.

Remove the husks and silks and wash the ears in clean, cold water. Discard any ears that are injured or bruised.

All corn should be blanched before freezing so that it will retain its original quality and flavor. Place about eight ears into five quarts of boiling water for about four minutes. Then cool the ears quickly by plunging them into cold water. Make sure the cobs as well as the corn cool sufficiently.

If you wish to remove the corn from the cob, do this after blanching.

After cooling, drain thoroughly and pack. Make sure the containers are moisture-vapor-proof. Store at zero degrees or lower.

For more information on freezing vegetables and fruits, call Florence Y. Smith at RE 6-1448.

1959 Corn Support for Kent County Set at $1.23

Prices for the 1959 crop of corn will be supported in Kent County at an average of $1.23 per bushel, R. Harry Wilson, chairman, Kent Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, announced today. Average county rates are based on the national area of earlier programs are not in effect for the 1959 program.

As in the past, corn price support in 1959 will be carried out through farm and warehouse-stored loans and purchase agreements. To be eligible for support, corn must have been produced in 1959, must grade No. 3 or better or No. 4 because of test weight only, must meet certain moisture requirements, and must be in adequate storage.

North Carolina High School Rapidly Nearing Completion

Superintendent of Schools Wilbur S. Hoopengardner announced that schools of Caroline County will open Monday, Sept. 8. Kindergartens will open on the same day.

Teachers will report to their respective schools for a three-day planning and preparation session beginning Wed., Sept. 2. An all day administrative meeting will be held at North Carolina High School on Thurs., Aug. 27.

EXTENSION COMPUTER COURSE

Training in the theory and application of one of the most advanced technical tools available to the modern scientist will be offered to students in the Wilmington area in a course on Automatic Digital Computation by the University of Delaware division of university extension.

Instructor for the non-credit course, to be held from 7:00 to 9:30 p. m. on Thursday evenings on the Newark campus during the fall term, will be Joseph D. Grandine 11, a member of the DuPont Company textile fibers department and president of Kennett Computer Consultants, Inc., in Kennett Square.

Material covered in the computer course will include elementary methods of numerical analysis, flow charts, iterative loops, sub-routines, number scaling and binary-decimal conversion. Students in the course will have an opportunity to work on an electronic calculator. While there are no formal prerequisites, it is recommended that persons interested in enrolling in the course should have an adequate background in analytic geometry and calculus. The course fee will be $30 per person.

Winner of a Harvard College National Scholarship, Mr. Grandine received his B. S. in Chemistry cum laude from Harvard in 1943. Following graduation he was associated with the Dewey and Almy Chemical Corporation as a research chemist until he returned to his studies at the University of California, which granted him a Ph. D. in Physical Chemistry.

His first contact with computers occurred during his stay in California, when punched-card machines at the California Institute of Technology were used for analysis of x-ray data. He joined the textile fibers department of the DuPont Company at Buffalo, N. Y., in 1949, working in x-ray diffraction and crystal structure studies which involved computing on both analog and digital computers. Since then he has assisted in setting up the x-ray, electron microscope and computing laboratories for DuPont research.

Since July, 1957, Mr. Grandine has been president of Kennett Computers with headquarters in Kennett Square, Pa. The firm specializes in programming for general-purpose electronic digital computers.

As in the past, corn price support in 1959 will be carried out through farm and warehouse-stored loans and purchase agreements. To be eligible for support, corn must have been produced in 1959, must grade No. 3 or better or No. 4 because of test weight only, must meet certain moisture requirements, and must be in adequate storage.

Timely Farm and Garden Hints

Here are some timely hints for farmers and gardeners to consider in August, says George Vapaa the Kent County Agriculture Agent.

Freezing Sweet Corn

Freezing, when properly done, is a good way to preserve sweet corn county home demonstration agent Florence Y. Smith says.

Corn retains more of its original flavor and nutritive value frozen than when preserved any other way.

Select only high-quality corn. Freezing does not improve corn and may magnify its undesirable characteristics, so avoid over or under ripe corn.

Remove the husks and silks and wash the ears in clean, cold water. Discard any ears that are injured or bruised.

All corn should be blanched before freezing so that it will retain its original quality and flavor. Place about eight ears into five quarts of boiling water for about four minutes. Then cool the ears quickly by plunging them into cold water. Make sure the cobs as well as the corn cool sufficiently.

If you wish to remove the corn from the cob, do this after blanching.

After cooling, drain thoroughly and pack. Make sure the containers are moisture-vapor-proof. Store at zero degrees or lower.

For more information on freezing vegetables and fruits, call Florence Y. Smith at RE 6-1448.

1959 Corn Support for Kent County Set at $1.23

Prices for the 1959 crop of corn will be supported in Kent County at an average of $1.23 per bushel, R. Harry Wilson, chairman, Kent Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, announced today. Average county rates are based on the national

OVER THE GARDEN WALLS

A COLUMN FOR HOMEOWNERS prepared by the University of Maryland Extension Service.

If you've got a good lawn, you are lucky. Keep it that way! Of course you know it wasn't just plain luck—it was hard work, and doing the right thing at the right time.

But if you're like a lot of us, your lawn might be getting bald in spots. Or maybe you've got patches of the wrong kind of grass growing here and there. If either is the case, you'll want to try some spot reseeding in early September.

The number one cause of poor lawns is using poor seed of the wrong species. So whether you're reseeding or planting new lawn, good seed is important.

What is Good Seed?
If you've ever tried to buy lawn seed, you know there are all sorts of mixtures and species. Enough to make your head spin. "Which to buy?" seems like a riddle. First off, let's distinguish between poor seed and the wrong species.

Poor seed is seed that has poor germination, or lots of inert matter, or lots of weed seed.

The wrong species is the species not suited to your soil, lawn conditions and use. There are lots of species. But each will give you a different kind of lawn.

You can find out which species you are buying and how good the seed quality is by checking the seed tag. If you are buying seed from large bags, ask to see the seed tag before you buy. If your seed is prepackaged in boxes or bags of 1 pound or larger, look on the package before buying. Be sure you know what you are buying.

What Species to Buy?
The first question most people ask is, "Shall I plant a mixture, or just one species?"

If your lawn conditions are uniform, a single species might be best. But since most lawns have different soil, shade and use conditions, a mixture is usually safer. Grasses vary in their tolerance to sun and shade, to differing soil acidity and drainage, as well as traffic. You're usually better off to buy the species you want and make your own mixture.

The most popular species of lawn grasses is Kentucky bluegrass. It's good for full sunlight and partially shaded areas. It grows well in spring and fall, but tends to become dormant in mid-summer. A new strain of bluegrass is Merion. Although it needs more care and fertilizer, it is a better lawn grass than common Kentucky bluegrass.

Red fescue, creeping red fescue, Pennlawn, Mahee, and Cheving's fescue are good for shady or droughty areas. They don't need much water. They'll be hurt if cut shorter than 1 1/2 inches.

Poa trivialis is best suited for naturally moist and shaded areas. Some folks like a little white clover in their lawn. But it should never be more than 5 per cent of the mixture.

One to two pounds of seed for each 1000 square feet to be planted is enough, provided you've got a well-prepared seedbed.

Take it Easy with These
A lot of lawn seed sold as mixtures contain ryegrass. Annual ryegrass gives quick cover while permanent grasses are becoming established. But, if it's more than 5 per cent of the mixture, it might smother out the more desirable grasses.

Perennial ryegrass doesn't usually last more than a year or two in this area.

Both ryegrasses tend to grow in clumps, and since they'll die out, you'll have to reseed unless you put only a trace of them in your seeding mixture.

Orchardgrass, tall fescue (Ky 31 and alta fescue) and timothy are good for hay, but make poor lawns.

Next week, we'll talk about how to seed lawns. In the meanwhile, why not ask your county agent for a copy of the University of Maryland Extension Service Bulletin 171, "Lawn Care"?

Md. All Stars Name 42 New Members

Maryland All Stars named 42 new members during their Conservation Service, Aug. 7.

The candle light service was the final program of State 4-H Club Week held on the University of Maryland's College Park Campus, Aug. 3-8.

Charles St. Clair, Big Chief, of Baltimore County, presided over the impressive service. New members were selected because of their outstanding service in 4-H Club activities on community, county and state levels.

N. E. Plant Breeder Meet At Md. Vegetable Research Farm

Assistance in the form of material and technical aid to foreign countries is a well known story. Not so well known is the help on some of our problems we receive from these countries.

An example of this mutual cooperation was brought out Wednesday, Aug. 5 at the University of Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station's Vegetable Research Farm near Salisbury, where 20 prominent plant breeders from the North East Region of the United States met to observe new introductions of melons, tomatoes and carrots from other countries.

Seed of these various plant introductions were sent into the United States through the New Crops Branch of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. All of the melons were sent to the regional primary station at Geneva, N. Y. Dr. D. D. Dolan is co-ordinator of this station.

The new introductions are then grown some where in the N. E. Region. This year, the melons were grown at Maryland's Vegetable Research Farm to see whether or not they have any valuable characteristics that might furnish germ plasma useful to U. S. plant breeders. According to Dr. Francis C. Stark, University of Maryland Horticulture Department, desirable characteristics would include disease and insect resistance, and any fruit or vine character that our present U. S. melons do not have but need.

For example, he said, several years ago the melon industry in California was threatened with powdery mildew disease. Breeders found a melon from India which had resistance to this disease. By a series of cross pollinations and back crosses, plant breeders were able to keep the gene from mildew resistance from the Indian melon and incorporate this gene into a new resistant variety called PMR 5.

We have a number of disease of melons which would make a resistant melon variety highly desirable, he explained. Breeders are looking for melon plants resistant to such diseases as downy mildew, anthracnose, microsporium leaf spot, and mosaics. Other characters that would be valuable would be a hard rind and resistance to aphid attacks.

Since we never know what characteristics we might find of value, the new introductions are grown and classified for different characters, he continued. If a plant breeder wants to work on a problem, he can then request any seed of all the lines that have any amount of resistance and use them in his breeding program, under local conditions in his state.

Should a disease not known, at present, in the U. S. suddenly break out, these foreign melons may be a source of resistant germ plasma.

Grown at the Maryland Vegetable Research Farm, this year, are 54 different introductions of melons from India, Turkey, Iran, Israel and Afghanistan. From South and Central American countries have come the 63 different introductions of tomato plants. Other nations have furnished the seed for 115 different introductions of carrots.

Armed Forces News

Army Pvt. Samuel E. Powell, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Powell, Greenwood, recently was assigned to the 101st Airborne Division at Ft. Campbell, Ky.

A scout observer in Troop B of the division's 17th Cavalry, Powell entered the Army last January and completed basic training at Ft. Jackson, S.C.

He is a 1956 graduate of Greenwood High School.

Travelers Abroad Have Responsibility To U. S. Farmers

Tourists tucking foreign fruits, plants, meat, or plant or meat products into their baggage to bring home as souvenirs or gifts may be bringing dangerous crop or livestock pests back unnoticed, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reports. "One pest can do it," says E. P. Reagan, in charge of foreign plant quarantine enforcement for USDA's Agricultural Research Service. "Just as one smoldering cigarette can start a forest fire, one diseased plant or one female insect pest ready to lay eggs could devastate a segment of U. S. Agriculture." He cited the chestnut blight that destroyed millions of trees in the eastern U. S. and the Mediterranean fruit fly, which cost $10 million to eradicate from Florida in 1957, as examples of costly foreign invaders.

Increasing foreign travel increases also the responsibility of tourists to refrain from bringing into the U. S. exotic plants and foods.

Travelers planning to bring back unprocessed foods, plants, seeds or animal products for special purposes should request a permit, before leaving the States, from the Agricultural Research Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. Prohibited products, as well as restricted items not covered by permit, are subject to confiscation.

Last year a mountain of incoming baggage—almost 20 million pieces—at U. S. ports of entry was inspected for dangerous plant and animal materials by USDA in co-operation with U. S. Customs. This was an increase of more than 20 per cent over the 1957 total.

Last year an ARS plant quarantine inspector intercepted a destructive plant pest every half hour in luggage, airplanes, ships, automobiles, and trains from foreign lands. The pests included several already in the U. S. but under rigid quarantine—the khapra beetle, Mexican fruit fly, pink bollworm, and golden nematode. The Mediterranean fruit fly, a pest that does not occur in the U. S., was found almost a hundred times. Recently, ARS plant quarantine inspectors found at Miami, Fla., Medfly larvae in coffee twigs and berries in the luggage of a school teacher returning from Brazil. She was bringing the coffee branches back to show her students.

Citrus canker, a disease eliminated from this country in 1943, turned up last year 79 times in intercepted plant material. West Indian, cherry, oriental and olive fruit flies, citrus blackfly, melon fly, Asiatic rice borer, Durra stem borer of corn, black spot of citrus, and Mediterranean land snails are among other threats to U. S. agriculture often intercepted.

Contagions of animal diseases may be carried in meat or meat products from foreign countries. In the past, foot-and-mouth disease was introduced into the U. S. from imported meat. Sausage was suspected of having been the source of a more recent foot-and-mouth disease outbreak in Canada. Fortunately, this disease has not gained entrance into the U. S. since 1929.

How Much Is Too Much?

A common question with family money handlers is, how much should I spend for a kitchen utensil, or a new easy chair, or a second car?

This is a question that cannot be answered outright according to home management specialist Patricia Middleton, with the University of Delaware.

This is a decision that each family must make for itself. It depends on what the family decides is important and what standard of living they choose to maintain.

Every family wants to live within its income. Mose everyone has some sort of rule of thumb to spend by. Often this is a, more or less, trial and error method that works fairly well depending on the judgment and forethought that goes into a purchase. A serious mistake can carry a family into deep financial problems.

Many expenses can be figured in advance, Miss Middleton said. The cost of housing, utilities, contributions, insurance, and automobile payments are usually fixed expenses. Other expenses, such as allowances, clothing, and recreation are more variable. Usually spending big in one area means cutting close in others. That's the thing many budget makers often overlook.

Some people eat pretty high and cut corners somewhere else, some buy all the family clothes while other homemakers make most of the clothing at home. Another family may save all along the line so they can take an extensive vacation once a year. Whatever method a family uses to manage their money, they should not overlook long-range goals, Miss Middleton said. It may take years to reach a particular goal. This means using some financial self-discipline. Money must be put aside regularly, on a voluntary basis in order to achieve future goals.

This means giving serious consideration to some regular savings plan such as an investment program, U. S. Savings Bonds, or some other method. It pays to plan ahead, the home management specialist emphasized.

Chicken Barbecue

Barbecuing is a fascinating activity for anyone with a flair for cooking. Men find this type of cooking interesting and like the informality of outdoor entertaining.

It's easy to barbecue chicken to a rich brown doneness. Seasoned with a delicious sauce, barbecued chicken is a chef's delight.

Select a small dressed broiler or fryer that weights 2 to 2 1/2 pounds. Have the chicken split in half lengthwise and break joints so halves will be flat on the grill.

Season each half chicken with salt and pepper, and brush with melted fat. Place with skin side up on grill at least 7 inches from coals.

Cook slowly 1 to 2 hours, depending on distance from heat. Turn and baste often with melted fat or basting sauce to prevent burning—every 5 or 10 minutes. Remember that most of the seasoning enters the fleshy side of meat.

Burning is faster on the skin side, so turn it away from coals more often.

The leg bone will turn easily in its socket when chicken is tender and ready to eat.

You'll need long handled tongs for turning chicken halves. Protect your hands from burns by wearing rubber or clean cotton gloves.

Seasonings for this all purpose sauce may be varied to suit your family's taste.

All Purpose Sauce

1/2 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. pepper, 2 tsp. sugar, 1/4 cup garlic salt, 1/3 cup catsup, 1/3 cup tomato juice, 1 small onion finely chopped, 2/3 cup water, 1/4 cup vinegar or lemon juice, 1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce, 2 tbs. butter.

Measure all ingredients in a large saucepan and heat to boiling. Keep pan at one corner of pit to keep hot and handy for basting. For oven barbecuing in the house, pour the sauce over halved bird in a roasting pan. The above quantities will baste 3 or 4 chickens. For a larger number of chicken multiply quantities accordingly. You may wish to experiment with your own sauce recipe.

Some 176,000 tourists visiting Trinidad in 1958 spent an estimated $15 million.

American firms imported a record $6,853,403 worth of fishing tackle last year.

Farm Census Field Asst. Appointed For N. J. and Delaware

Appointment of Mrs. Margaret P. Kolator of 44 High Street, Perth Amboy, N. J., as a field assistant for the 1959 Census of Agriculture was announced today by the Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce.

Mrs. Kolator will direct a force of 11 crew leaders and 163 census takers in New Jersey, and 3 crew leaders, and 43 census takers in Delaware. The farm census will be conducted this fall.

Mrs. Kolator will enter on duty on Sept. 14 and receive several days of training which will cover administrative procedures and other duties and responsibilities connected with the job. She will be responsible for recruiting the crew leaders who will enter on duty on Oct. 19. The crew leaders will in turn recruit the census takers who will enter on duty on Nov. 11.

The 1959 Census of Agriculture will collect information on the number and size of farm, acreage and harvest of crops, livestock production and inventories, selected farm facilities, selected farm expenditures, farm values, and mortgage debt. Information will be published for counties, states, and the nation.

Open House For Poultrymen Wed., Sept. 2

Delmarva's poultrymen have been invited to the University of Delaware Agricultural Substation near Georgetown Sept. 2 for their annual open house with poultry research scientists, according to an announcement by J. Frank Gordy, director of the Substation.

Mr. Gordy said the researchers heading the various projects will explain their findings on floor space studies, soybean processing methods, feed equipment evaluation, and antibiotic enhancement work.

A special speaker, Harold Snyder, Dardanelle, Ark., will talk about mergers in the broiler business. Mr. Snyder is president of Arkansas Valley Feed Mills, Inc. He is credited with originating the poultry industry in the Arkansas Valley area and now directs a totally integrated production of more than 15 million broilers annually.

The affair will begin with a barbecued chicken dinner at 12:30 followed by a tour of the poultry houses. A question period will follow the talks, Mr. Gordy said.

Delaware State Dev. Department News

There will be much to see and do at Rehoboth Beach and other Delaware resorts during the remainder of the now ebbing summer season reports the Delaware State Development Department.

In addition to the current series of cultural offerings there are championship ocean swim races, yacht races, auctions, fashion shows, balls, and "Homecomings" scheduled in the Delaware coastal area.

A late summer event, always eagerly awaited by those interested in competitive aquatic sports, is the annual Atlantic Ocean Swim Races, the 1959 version of which will be held at Rehoboth Beach, this Friday and Saturday. Involving South Atlantic AAU and Delaware State Championships, these races generally include former Olympics competitors and holders of national and regional swim titles among contestants.

Six SAA-AAU championship events, 220-440-800 yard races for women and similar distanced events for men, comprise the first day program, scheduled to get underway at 1:30 p.m., Friday.

Saturday's program will include two 880 yard events, one for men and one for women, open only to Delaware residents and involving state championship honors. Also featured on the final day's program are mile races, for men and for women, the winners of which will be recognized as South Atlantic AAU champions. Members of the Rehoboth Beach Patrol will participate in a surf board event as an added attraction Saturday.

August 28-29 have been selected as alternate dates in event inclement weather should force postponement of the August 21-22 program.

This Friday evening, the Rehoboth Beach community will honor the 23 young men who give yeoman service, May 30 thru Labor Day, as lifeguards. Members of the Rehoboth Beach Patrol will, at that time, be honored guests at the 24th annual Lifeguard Ball on the open air terrace of the Rehoboth Country Club.

Dancing will be from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. to the music of the Bernie Grier Orchestra. In the event of rain, this ball, annually a high spot of the local social season, will be held at the same location, the evening of August 27.

This Sunday, beginning at 7:30 p.m. the 11th annual Rehoboth Kiwanis Club Benefit Auction will be held on the boardwalk in front of the Henlopen Hotel. As in previous years, proceeds from this auction will be used by the service group to further their work in behalf of underprivileged children.

Another benefit scheduled for Rehoboth Beach is a Charity Ball to be held Friday evening, Aug. 28, at the Country Club. This dance is part of the 1959 Sussex-Kent Appeal for the Children's Bureau of Delaware. The Children's Bureau is a private non-profit agency, which, since 1918, has helped provide temporary boarding care and adoption placement for children. A well known society band, has been engaged to furnish music for the ball.

"Branching into Autumn" is the theme selected for the annual Fashion Show of the Village Improvement Association to be presented next Wednesday afternoon at the Rehoboth Country Club. Models chosen from among out-of-town visitors as well as local residents will present a preview of fall and winter styles beginning at 2 p. m.

Starting this Sunday and continuing through September 28, special exhibitions will be offered by the Henlopen Art League. In the Paynter Studio, in Henlopen Acres, oil sketches by the well known artists, Will Leach, will be displayed. In the adjacent Corkan Studio, the works of Anne Winstead Woody, William Weber, Wilda MacKenzie, Robert Layton, and Myrtle Conway will be displayed.

The popular yacht races will continue to be held off Lewes Beach Sunday afternoons through September 6. Each Sunday, large crowds have been watching the maneuvering of 30 or more sleek colorful crafts.

On Monday, September 7, the Delaware Bay off Lewes will be the scene of the Delaware Bay Swim and Marine Flotilla Parade staged there each Labor Day.

Throughout this week, the little seaside resort of Slaughter Beach, near Milford, is staging its annual "Homecoming." In addition to a carnival, boat races and fireworks displays, the observance features a revival of "Big Thursday," which for nearly a century was a traditional occasion for family reunion and merrymaking.

The late summer visitor to the Delaware "Riviera Coast" will find much "adoin" there concludes the Delaware Development Department.

Although total personal income in Delaware in 1958 reached $1,253,000,000, an all-time "high," Delaware remains second to Connecticut in per capita income reports the Delaware State Development Department.

Basing its findings on statistics recently released by the U. S. Department of Commerce, the Development Department advises that, while Connecticut retained during 1958 the top per capita income position among American states, Delaware, with $2,760 average annual income per individual, remained well ahead of its nearest rivals, New York, New Jersey and Nevada, who were third, fourth and fifth, respectively.

While Connecticut's 1958 per capita income of $2,817 was the highest in the nation, it fell short of the 1956 Delaware figure of $2,844, which remains as an all-time record among American states. The national average for 1958 was $2,057.

Delaware's extraordinary population growth of recent years has naturally affected average individual income, creating a slight decline, despite a significant rise in total personal income.

In 1956, when Delaware lead the nation on a per capital income basis, the total personal income in the state was $1,204,000,000. Reflecting the influence of a substantial population gain, per capita income declined slightly in 1957 while total personal income soared to $1,216,000,000. The same pattern prevailed during 1958 notes the Development Department.

Citizens of Delaware, who entered military service between June 25, 1950, and July 27, 1953 and who were bonafide residents of the State of Pennsylvania at the time of entry into such service, may be eligible for bonus under the recently enacted Pennsylvania Korean Conflict Veterans' Compensation Law notes the Delaware State Development Department.

David S. Hugg, of the Development Department staff, who acts as liaison between Delaware veterans and Veterans Affairs Department of other states, has been notified by William B. Freeland, Deputy Adjutant General for Veterans Affairs, State of Pennsylvania, that payment of a Korean Conflict Bonus will be made late this year to eligible Pennsylvanians and others who were residents of Pennsylvania at time of entry into service.

According to information received from Harrisburg, bonus payments for Korean Conflict service will be at the rate of $10 for each month of service with an additional $5 per month for holders of the Korean Service Medal which was awarded for duty in Korean War Zone.

Any veteran who has received a similar bonus from any other state will not be eligible for the Pennsylvania bonus.

Additional information and application forms are to be made available to the Development Department in late September or early October, and, upon receipt of such materials, Mr. Hugg will arrange for distribution of such materials through the state service offices of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Disabled American Veterans.

Chemistry Course To Be Televised

The University of Delaware this fall will join a growing number of American colleges and universities in a unique educational experiment. Through the division of university extension, the university for the first time in its history, will offer a course for credit combining the advantages of instruction in the classroom and by nationwide television hookup.

The course involved, "Basic Concepts in Chemistry," designed especially for teachers of chemistry and science, may be taken for either graduate or undergraduate credit. Offered under the auspices of the university department of chemistry through university extension, the course will be coordinated with the nationally-televised early-morning program, "Modern Chemistry," which will be broadcast over the National Broadcasting Company television network as part of the Continental Classroom series.

"Modern Chemistry" is the second college-level TV course for credit to be offered on a network basis. Last year the Continental Classroom offering was "Atomic Age Physics." The viewing audience, comprised of over 400,000 persons, included approximately 15,000 teachers.

The chemistry course will be televised Monday through Friday each week from 6:30-7:00 a.m. locally on WRCV-TV (Channel 3), the NBC outlet in Philadelphia, and WBAL-TV in Baltimore, beginning Sept. 28 and will continue until May 27 with two-day intervals at Thanksgiving and Easter and a two-week break at Christmas.

Class meetings of "Basic Concepts in Chemistry" will be held every other Monday at 7:15 p.m. in the Wilmington High School, beginning Oct. 5.

Dr. Seymour Yolles, research chemist for the DuPont Company and a teacher for several years in the extension division, will be the instructor for the course during the fall term. A graduate of Brooklyn College, which awarded him a B.S. in 1925, he also attended Pennsylvania State University and Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute. In 1951 he was awarded a Ph.D. in chemistry by the University of North Carolina.

Dr. Yolles has had previous teaching experience at the University of Miami, where he served from 1946 to 1952, and was employed as a research chemist by the Colgate-Palmolive Peet Company and Alrore Chemical Company. He joined the DuPont Company in 1952.

National teacher of "Modern Chemistry"—to be taped in compatible color—will be Dr. John F. Baxter, head of the General Chemistry Division at the University of Florida, Gainesville. Dr. Baxter recently completed a filmed high school chemistry course sponsored by the American Chemical Society, The Fund for the Advancement of Education and Encyclopaedia Britannica Films.

Assisting Dr. Baxter in the Continental Classroom series of lecture demonstrations will be a nine-member advisory committee appointed by the American Chemical Society. Guest lecturers—including Nobel Prize winners—will appear from time to time on the program. Each will discuss the specialized knowledge he helped discover.

"Modern Chemistry will consist of a study of the fundamental principles of chemistry and a survey of recent developments. Structures of chemical species will be stressed, particularly the relationship of these structures to the chemical and physical properties of substances.

Co-sponsors with NBC of the year-long educational program are The American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education and the American Chemical Society. Financial backing is being provided by The Ford Foundation and ten leading industries: Bell Telephone System, E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., General Foods Fund, International Business Machines, Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Company, The Pittsburgh Plate Glass Foundation, Radio Corporation of America, Standard Oil Company of California, Union Carbide Corporation, and United States Steel.

No educational television venture to date has received the praise which has been bestowed on Continental Classroom. During the eight months the program was on the air last year, it won nine major citations, including the Sylvania and Peabody Awards.

Commenting on the year's offering, Dr. James R. Killian, Jr., first Special Science Advisor to the President of the United States, said:

"I am particularly happy that the Continental Classroom course in physics will be joined by a college course in chemistry. Dr. Baxter is an outstanding teacher and the concepts of modern chemistry are fascinating and challenging. Many people will have an opportunity to bring themselves up-to-date in modern science because of NBC's highly commendable efforts in these two courses. Teachers in particular will no doubt welcome this opportunity. This is a public service of the highest order." Students wishing to take "Basic Concepts in Chemistry" for graduate or undergraduate credit must register in person at one of the several registration locations listed in the Extension Bulletin. Students wishing to take the course for graduate credit must be accepted by the school of graduate studies prior to registration.

Residents of Delaware, both graduate and undergraduate students will be charged $13 per credit hour for the three-credit course. Non-resident students will pay an additional fee of $13 per credit hour.

Dr. John F. Baxter, national teacher of the televised course, and Dr. Luke E. Steiner, chairman of the department of chemistry at Oberlin College have prepared a textbook, "Modern Chemistry," and a study guide to be used in the course. Both publications will be on sale at the University Bookstore and, from Sept. 21-24, Room 108, Wilmington High School from 7:15 to 9 p.m.

Needlecraft News

by Nancy Baxter

Do you recall Aesop's fable about the ant and the grasshopper? The grasshopper was a happy-go-lucky sort, but not much of a planner. When the fiddler came to town, he was the first to begin dancing and the last to leave. Mr. Ant, meanwhile, passed up the festivities to devote all of his time to gathering food for the winter-to-come. When icy winds began to blow, chasing before them all the healthy green foliage, poor Mr. Grasshopper found he had absolutely nothing to eat. But Mr. Ant, for all his previous toil, stayed within the warm confines of his home with nothing to do but enjoy life and the goodies he had stored away all winter.

WHEN IT SHOWERS, IT POURS

While nothing as disastrous as Mr. Grasshopper's fate will befall you if you don't plan your needlework beforehand, Mr. Ant's pleasant rewards are available to you if you do. Baby shower invitations often come all at once, leaving little time to whip up gifts for all. (And you know that even though your friends are too polite to say so, they are disappointed if they don't receive a hand-made gift from you.) So, as you go along with your normal knitting routine, why not plan to fill in here and there with little baby items? They are fashioned in no time, and you'll be glad, when the occasion arises, to have them right at hand.

STOCKINGETTE AND CHEVRON Our featured skeg is a good choice for thinking-ahead knitting. Pretty as can be, it calls for a stockingette yolk and set-in sleeves. Beading at the neck, waist and wrists allows for a delicate ribbon finish.

Several friends and relatives have visited Floyd Messick at the Milford Memorial Hospital, where he has been a patient for several weeks.

Miss Ruth Coady of Chester, Pa., spent part of last week with Mr. and Mrs. William Coady.

Mr. and Mrs. William Tull and Wayne, Bobby, and Debby, spent Friday evening with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Breeding.

Last year's winners who will compete again this year include Daniel Harris, Newark; Horace Woodward, Middletown; Peter Zeitler, Newark, and James Dadds, Rising Sun, Md.

The judge will be Merton Sowber, manager of Woodacres Farm, Princeton, N. J.

Lunch will be served by Grange ladies.

REHOBOTH ART LEAGUE On Sunday, August 23, two late summer exhibitions will open at the Rehoboth Art League. In the League's original studio, "The Painter," a show of sketches in oil by the late Will Leach of Frederica and Rehoboth Beach. It will be comprised of only part of the large volume of fine work he executed; much of his work is now privately owned, and not available for this showing. His wife, Mrs. Ethel P. B. Leach, has carefully selected for the occasion a representative group of his oils, so reminiscent of Will Leach's love of this seacoast, its fishing grounds, its skies, its beaches, and its moods.

In the newer Corkran Studio will be a Five Member Exhibition, of which Miss Anne Winstead Woody of Baltimore and Rehoboth Beach is chairman. She will be an exhibitor, as well as another Baltimorean, William Weber, Jr; from Drexel Hill, Pa., Myrtle Conaway will show her watercolors; Robert Layton of Milford and New York will exhibit, and also Wilda MacKenzie of Washington, prints and watercolors.

An opening tea will be served from 2 to 5 by Mrs. Leach in the Painter Studio; and in the Corkran Studio, by Mrs. William H. Woody, mother of the chairman, and Mrs. Edmond Bennett daughter of Mrs. MacKenzie, another of the exhibitors.

These late summer exhibitions at the eLeague give opportunity to the late-staying visitors, and returning cottage owners that they may savor the interesting material brought to Rehoboth for their pleasure; the season when long walks automatically turn toward the pine woods, and the League Studios under these pines with their art treasures for their viewing or acquisition.

Admission is $1.50 general admission for adults and $1.00 for children. All reserved seats are 50 cents extra. The reserved seats are on sale only at the Delaware State Police Troops at Georgetown, Bridgeville, and Dover. General admission tickets may be purchased from any uniformed officer either state police or town police.

As an added attraction at no extra cost the Delaware State Police Canine Corps will perform. This unit of dogs have received national publicity and earlier this year was featured in Life Magazine. This unit of dogs and its handlers is the first of its kind in the country.

Q—Is it possible to attend school less than half-time under the War Orphans Education program?

A—No. War Orphans payments may not be made to a student attending school less than half-time.

Q—Where can I write to get a replacement for my honorable discharge which is lost?

A—Write to the Personnel Records Center of the Armed Forces, 9700 Page Boulevard, St. Louis, Mo. Give your service number and your branch of service. There is no charge for this replacement.

Bible Presbyterian Church Notes

10 a. m. Sunday Bible School. Interest continues to grow in the attendance contest between the Reds and the Blues. Although the Blues are working to overtake the Reds, the Reds have been able to maintain their lead.

Just two more Sundays remain in this contest. John Davidson from near Frederica and David Mood from Milford, were on hand this past week to help their side in the contest. John and David had been attending the 20th Century Overcomers Camp at Shelton College campus in the Ramapo Mountains of northern New Jersey. We were very happy to welcome a visitor to our Sunday School and Worship Service, Mrs. Ann Roach of Argo's Corners.

11 a. m. Morning Worship. Rev. Mood has been expounding the great doctrines of the Scriptures. This week the message will center around the theme of "Grace". We enjoyed the fellowship of Miss Jenny West and Mrs. Abraham who visited with us this past Sunday.

7:30 p. m. Evening Worship. Wednesday - 8 p. m. Prayer meeting in the home of the pastor, 809 S. E. Front St.

Thursday - 8 p. m. Choir rehearsal and young peoples meeting.

The Bible Presbyterian Church is affiliated with the International Council of Christian Churches, the American Council of Christian Churches, The Christian Beacon, a weekly religious newspaper.

COUNTRY HOUSE

it the site at their convenience. Manage Own Lives

"Recent publications point more and more to the desperate plight of our senior citizens and of the tremendous need for sheltered, loving care, and it is the purpose of the Country House that people may be independent and manage their own lives and yet have a sense of security without surrendering their freedom.

"The Sussex County couple, like many others, could not be cared for except through the generosity of interested donors. Guests of the Country House will be able to enjoy the fine books found in the Woodcock Memorial Library. The beautiful colonial Danby Memorial Chapel will provide a number of services for the guests. There is need just now for someone to give the main lounge, the dining room, and the all important infirmary wing. One of the big features of the Country House will be its infirmary or health department and the total medical program which will be geared to keeping people in good health through the use of modern geriatric methods."

Clayton Johnson, 73, died Wednesday morning at his home after an illness of two months.

Born in Greenwood, Mr. Johnson moved to Wilmington in his youth and returned to Greenwood in 1934. He was a foreman with the State Highway Department and previously served as custodian of the Greenwood Fire Company for 11 years.

He was tail twister and a charter member of the Greenwood Lions Club and a member of the Greenwood Volunteer Fire Company, State Fire Police, and Grace Methodist Church of Greenwood.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by two sons, Henry and Leon Johnson of Wilmington; siderable extra expense. A taxpayer owing $20 could serve as an example, in a case where the final installment has been skipped. The case goes to a magistrate and the costs are $5.25 for collection, about equal to the final payment owed with interest. The magistrate's suit is resorted to only after notice has been disregarded and the taxpayer must pay the costs. The state gets nothing more than the original amount due after considerable extra expense has been entailed.

TAX COLLECTION

In any cases over $500 in taxes owed, the magistrate's collection cannot be resorted to as these cases must go to the Superior Court.

John M. Weaver

John M. Weaver, 80, died at York, Pa.

Originally from Greensboro, he had resided in Pennsylvania for a number of years. Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon from the Rawlings Funeral Home, Greensboro, with the Rev. K. D. James, pastor of Zion Lutheran Church, Glen Rock, Pa., officiating. Interment was in Greensboro Cemetery.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Helen Evans of Magnolia; a son, Thomas L. Weaver of Glen Rock; a grandchild; a sister, Mrs. Margaret Mitchell of West Grove, Pa.; four brothers, Edward, Walter W., and Zeth Weaver, all of Greensboro, and Henry Weaver, of Rising Sun.

DUCK HUNTING

vassback, a red head, or a ruddy duck. Two wood ducks may be taken. Formerly the limit was one wood duck.

One hooded merganser may be included. Red breast and American merganser may number five in addition to other ducks.

50 Days Possible

Delaware could, under the U. S. rules, have 50 days of duck hunting, but the limit would have been three per day.

The brant season is the same as the goose season and the bag and possession limit of brant is six. Wilson's snipe season starts with the duck season, Nov. 17 and continues to Dec. 16.

Shooting hours on the first day start at noon. After the first day the hours are sunrise to sunset. Last year the shooting hours were half and hour before sunrise to sunset.

Breeding Decides Length

The length of seasons are determined by waterfowl breeding conditions in Canada, Alaska, and the upper tier of Middle Atlantic and Western states.

The reduction was in the length of duck season was made in view of the drought conditions in northern United States and the prairie provinces of Canada and in Alaska.

Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania will all reduce to 40 days their duck hunting seasons. Their seasons have not yet been announced.

McDowell Asks Surplus Goods Go to Firemen

A bill sponsored by U. S. Rep. Harris B. McDowell, Jr. (D-Del.) which would make surplus federal property available to volunteer fire fighters was reported favorably Tuesday by the Government Operation Committee.

Co-sponsored by Rep. Fogarty (D-RI.) the bill would extend the benefits of the Surplus Property Donation Program to any volunteer fire company, or other fire-fighting organization, which is tax supported or tax exempt.

Under the provisions of the bill the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare would be charged with determining whether the property is useful and needed and would allocate it to the duly authorized state agency for distribution.
