

RACING COMMISSIONS ALLOT 125 DAYS FOR 1960

An anticipated confliction in dates between Delaware's thoroughbred and harness racing programs for this year has been circumvented except for a one-day overlap on July 30, according to dates released Tuesday by both the Delaware Racing Commission, governing body of the thoroughbred sport, and the Delaware Harness Racing Commission. A total of 125 days of racing were approved by the two groups.

Joseph W. Chinn, Jr., chairman of the thoroughbred body, announced that Delaware Park's application for a 55-day meeting has been approved. That meeting will start on Saturday, May 29, and will extend through Saturday, July 30.

It will be the longest meeting in the history of the Stanton track.

The harness racing group, through its chairman, Norman S. Lynch, has approved a program of 70 nights of the sulky sport, starting on July 30 at Brandywine Raceway.

There will actually be a 40-night session at Brandywine covering two meetings. Brandywine will operate for 20 nights "beginning not earlier than Saturday, July 30 and ending not later than Aug. 22. Delmarva Raceway also has been given 20 nights to be raced at Brandywine beginning the day following the completion of the Brandywine meet, but not earlier than Tuesday, Aug. 23, and ending not later than Wednesday, Sept. 14."

In addition, a 30-night harness racing slate has also been approved for the Kent and Sussex Racing Association at Harrington, scheduled to start on Thursday, Sept. 15.

Originally Brandywine had planned to ask for dates starting on July 25, but this would have created an overlap of a full week with Delaware Park.

Therefore, in an effort to avoid that conflict, Brandywine has abandoned its "rain nights" and will have to utilize every day of its season in order to get in its full 40-night allotment.

Depend on All-Weather Course
It is obvious that the sulky track is banking on its fine all-weather facilities. There were no breaks during the 1959 meeting because of weather, although the sport was conducted several nights when it rained heavily. Brandywine is prevented by law from extending its meeting beyond the Sept. 14 deadline.

The Delaware Park announcement also indicated that the already attractive Distaff Big Three series would be an even more lucrative proposition for horsemen this year. In the past this three-ply test for female thoroughbreds has been billed as a "quarter-million dollar" series.

Reveal Big-3 Dates
Although the 1960 stakes scheduled has not yet been released the dates for the Big Three tests were announced as follows: Delaware Oaks, Saturday, July 16; New Castle, Saturday, July 2, and Delaware Handicap, Saturday, July 30.

The Oaks, which is restricted to 3-year-old fillies, has carried a $5,000-added purse in past campaigns. The New Castle, which is for fillies and mares, 3-year-olds and up, has carried a $25,000-added tag, and the Delaware, billed as the richest race in the world for fillies and mares, has been worth at least $110,000 in added money.

Feltonian Made U.S. Commissioner At Dover Air Base

Dover Air Force Base, Delaware's huge sprawling federal city, now has its own U. S. commissioner, Charles Conwell Rodriguez, attorney in Dover and resident of Felton, who Monday was sworn in by Chief U. S. District Court Judge Caleb M. Wright.

The special application of the law to federal installations, and the steady growth of the Air Force Base has made Mr. Rodriguez' appointment necessary to equalize the burden of the duties of U. S. commissioner over the state.

U. S. Commissioner Edward G. Pollard, who is also Clerk of the U. S. District Court, will continue his duties as U. S. Commissioner and Clerk of the Court.

The new commissioner will work mainly on cases arising on the base and on other federal cases in the lower part of the state. He has been given office space in the administrative facilities of the base.

School Board Explains Rental Of Buildings

The article concerning rates set for school rental and labor attendant thereto, reads school affiliates and civic organizations to pay for the service charge of light, heat, and janitorial services. This is correct so far, but without a terminal point as a complete sentence, the article goes on and names the costs for the several charges. These charges are not for affiliates, but for outside organizations who wish to utilize the plant and facilities.

William A. Smith Wins Fifth Ward Council Post

William A. Smith, instructor and football coach at Harrington High School, was elected councilman of the Fifth Ward Tuesday in the only contest in the municipal elections.

Smith defeated Norman Oliver, the incumbent, 47 to 33, in the City's smallest ward. The size of the vote indicated considerable campaigning and also the lengthening of the voting hours.

The current Legislature increased the hours from noon to 4 p. m., to noon to 7 p. m.

Councilmen serve three years. In the Sixth Ward, there was no contest, with the incumbent, Charles W. Hopkins, railroad signalman and chairman of the Ninth District Democratic Committee for the First Election District, getting the nod.

Hopkins was elected in 1959 to serve the year remaining in the term of Jack Aptt who moved from the community.

FIRE DESTROYS MILFORD PLANT

The main building of the Milford Packing Company, a branch of the Leibo Pickle Works at New Wharf Road and Rehoboth Cutoff, Milford, was destroyed Friday by a spectacular fire that raged out of control for nearly 90 minutes.

The blaze started shortly after 1:30 p.m. and was apparently caused by sparks from burning rubbish on an adjoining property, firemen said.

Milford volunteer firemen were hampered at the beginning by a lack of water and the flames, whipped by a stout northeast wind spread rapidly through the warehouse of the plant built of frame with a frame and tarpaper roof.

The main building adjoining the warehouse built of concrete blocks with a metal roof was soon a mass of flames inside. By the time the conflagration was brought under control, the building was a gutted shell.

Cheif James G. Holzmueller, sensing the rapid spread of the flames, summoned assistance from Harrington, Houston, Ellendale, and Frederica and with the arrival of the additional equipment, hose lines were extended to about a quarter mile, and hydrant connections were relayed from those north on the Rehoboth Boulevard and on Northeast Front Street.

A huge crowd was attracted by the dense clouds of smoke and swirling flames that went 60 feet into the air above the single structures. Milford police under the direction of Chief Robert Downs re-routed traffic away from the fire and the dozens of hose lines that lined the intersection in all directions.

The plant, which processes pickles, is busiest during the summer months when 75 or more perons are employed. It has been running this winter, however, for the first time with a force of about 25 full-time workers.

An adjoining building owned by the firm and also used for storage and processing, suffered some smoke and water damage but was saved by the efforts of the more than 100 volunteer firemen on the scene. Some units were still at the fire at 7 p.m. playing streams on the debris. An all-night watch was planned because of the rising wind.

No immediate estimate of the loss was available. The plant is one of several owned by the Leibowitz family of New York, pioneers in the pickle industry in this country.

Fire Marshall R. E. Favinger began an immediate investigation to determine, if possible, cause of the blaze.

The loss consisted of stocks of processed pickles, crates, bottles, labeling equipment, machinery, and office equipment.

Milford firemen had five pieces of apparatus at the fire, including the town's new aerial ladder truck which was used to attack the blaze from above.

Under a new law, West Greenland will invest $8,265,000 to expand its fisheries and processing plants, Julianehaab reports.

Guardsman of the Week

Trial of a fatal automobile accident damage suit, in which damages totaling $300,000 are sought by the plaintiff, was begun Tuesday in the U. S. District Court before Judge Caleb M. Wright and a jury in Wilmington.

Former Chief City Engineer Edwin F. Koester, retired, is foreman of the jury, which includes some women. The trial is expected to take two more days. Negligence is charged by the plaintiff.

Plaintiff in the case is Mrs. Eleanor C. Maloney of Washington, D. C., administratrix of the estate of Miss Yvonne J. Stiwer, 43, who died Aug. 20, 1957, from injuries suffered in the two-car collision west of Greenwood, on Aug. 18, 1957. She was a native of Luxembourg, and had been on the Belgian embassy staff in Washington, D. C., for eight years.

Defendants in the case are Charles E. Hawk, driver of one of the cars, who was under 18 years of age at the time of the accident; and his father, Earl S. Hawk, both of Bridgeville.

Col. Mario Maticotta, an Italian military attaché, stationed in Washington, was the driver of the car in which the late Miss Stiwer was a passenger. Colonel Maticotta suffered minor injuries in the collision, as did Charles Hawk.

Late Tuesday afternoon, following a five-minute recess for consideration in his chambers, Judge Wright denied a motion of William Prickett, Jr., of defense counsel, for an exception from the usual rule against hearsay testimony to permit a witness, Adolf J. Lium of Washington, D. C., to testify as to what Colonel Maticotta had said to Mr. Lium after getting out of his car soon after the collision.

Others who testified Tuesday in addition to Mr. Lium were Corp. Robert I. Stewart of the Delaware State Police, and Carlos E. Passwaters of Bridgeville.

Counsel for the plaintiff are Edmund H. Carpenter II of the firm of Richards, Layton and Finger, assisted by William E. Wiggins. Mrs. Maloney sat at the plaintiff's counsel table Tuesday.

Mr. Prickett is associated with his father, William Prickett, for the defense.

The damages sought by the plaintiff on behalf of the estate of the plaintiff decedent include simple damages of $100,000 and punitive damages of $200,000, for a total of $300,000. Negligence is alleged in the suit.

CITIZENS AIR THEIR VIEWS TO CITY GOVERNMENT FRIDAY

Decisions Held In Dust Case

Delaware's Air Pollution Authority Tuesday conducted its first two hearings on complaints since the authority was established two and a half years ago. Decisions were reserved in both cases.

A complaint against the H. E. Millard Lime & Stone Co., a Pennsylvania firm with an agricultural lime stock-pile near Harrington, alleged that the depositing and hauling away of lime caused lime dust to settle on nearby houses. A petition asking that the nuisance be stopped was read to authority members. It was signed by 22 persons.

A similar complaint against the Wilson Contracting Company, DuPont Boulevard and State Road, Wilmington, alleged that dust from a concrete mixing plant was a nuisance to nearby houses.

Robert J. Fegan, representing the Millard Company, said that his firm had recently purchased a 50-acre site to replace the three-quarter acre leased site on which the lime stock-pile has been located.

"We have in effect abandoned the site about which this complaint was made," he said.

The new site is off the Harrington-Frederica Road approximately a quarter mile from U. S. 13. It is nearly surrounded by woods, he said.

He told the authority that the Harrington stockpile was bounded by woods on three sides and by a farmer's field on the other when lime stock-piling began in 1954. For two years operations were carried on without complaints, he said. Then houses were built in the area near the stockpile. He admitted that wind carried lime dust to these houses.

In the third period the mustangs applied the pressure to the weakened Lions and went into the lead. At this point some of Harrington's much maligned second team began to function more smoothly and took up enough of the slack left by the departure of the backcourt pair to enable the Lions to pull away again.

The members of this second unit are Walt Lekites, Sam Minner, Jim McDonald, and Bill Porter.

Foul shooting in the past has been the downfall of some Harrington teams. At Bridgeville the locals covered 25 of 40 attempts to account for most of the winning margin. Ron Collison, who led with 11 points from the penalty stripe, was also cited by Coach Jeffers for his leadership in pulling the team together after the disastrous third quarter.

The Lions, while not a polished unit have good teamwork and also are beginning to show the results of many hard hours of practice.

Many local rooters made the trip to Bridgeville, which undoubtedly helped the boys.

Motorist Collides
With Church

A 1948 Chevrolet, driven by Leroy Vincent, Negro, was demolished early Saturday morning when it ran into the rear of Trinity Methodist Church. There was no damage to the church, police said.

A passenger, Frances Burris, 19, of Felton, was taken in the Harrington Fire Company ambulance to Milford Hospital. Her injuries were noted as a fractured arm and lacerations of the face.

Vincent was fined $35 and costs by Magistrate L. Gooden Callaway on a charge of reckless driving.

Democratic Women To Meet Thursday

The Kent County Democratic Women's Club will hold a meeting in Dover, Thursday evening, Jan. 21, at the Court House. Time is 8 p.m.

The president, Blanche Cahall, urges all members to attend and others who desire to.

When Burton Satterfield asked when one-way parking was to be put into effect on Mechanic Street, as approved by the Council, he was told the signs were here and the posts were awaited.

Getting back to the water system, Councilman Clarence Collins said about three-fourths of the cut-offs are frozen and have been for some 40 years.

On the same topic, Richard Bullock said a hole had been dug on West Mispillion Street, in the search for a place to tap a water main, by an out-of-town concern, and asked if this was legal. He was told it was not; that a permit had to be secured. He said the hole still existed. The plumber is supposed to repair street damage in tapping a main.

O'Neal said the police commission should do something about a congested and illegal parking situation at the newly installed automatic laundry on Clark Street. He said the service was a benefit to the community but that some patrons parked on the sidewalk.

William Outten wanted to know the procedure for painting a white line down the center of Commerce Street, in the business district, and around the curve to Clark Street. A request will be written to the State Highway Department since it is a state road.

TWO FIRE ALARMS
The Harrington Volunteer Fire Company extinguished a chimney fire Saturday afternoon at the residence of Paul Callahan, on Dorman Street.

The company was called, late Monday evening, to Masten's Corner, to assist the Felton Fire Company, but was not needed. Fire destroyed a shed on the farm of Percy Gary.

Decisions Held In Dust Case

For two years operations were carried on without complaints, he said. Then houses were built in the area near the stockpile. He admitted that wind carried lime dust to these houses.

In a question-and-answer period, the citizens kept the meeting going until about 9:30 p.m., in comparison to 11 p.m., last year.

Dr. Hewitt Smith inquired about a new chlorinator and was informed it was at the sewage disposal plant. A gauge, to be installed at the Firehouse to denote to water level of the water tower, which was discussed last year, was still not installed.

The chlorinator, at the sewage plant, was installed this year and met with the requirements of the State Board of Health.

It was also brought out that the State Board tests the water here at least once a month, and taps the mains at four spots.

Dr. Smith, former mayor, said he had denoted a decrease in parking-meter receipts and wanted to know if it made any significance. He was told there was less parking in the downtown area.

O'Neal wanted to know if the City couldn't give a day's notice when it intended to cut off the water. He also suggested repairs be made in the late evening or early morning hours when possible. The city manager, Norris C. Adams, said a policy had been inaugurated whereby there would be two long blasts on the fire siren when the water was to be cut off.

When Burton Satterfield asked when one-way parking was to be put into effect on Mechanic Street, as approved by the Council, he was told the signs were here and the posts were awaited.

Getting back to the water system, Councilman Clarence Collins said about three-fourths of the cut-offs are frozen and have been for some 40 years.

History Lesson At Farm And Home Week

This year's Farm and Home Week program for women has a new angle—a week on campus for up-to-date lessons in every aspect of home life. No homework, no exams, just lots of fun through learning from February 9 to 11.

An interesting new way to learn American history through antique glass is a highlight of the program. Eastburn, of Winterthur, will illuminate her "history lesson" with colorful slides and illustrations.

Miss Janet Reed, clothing specialist with the University of Delaware, will give a talk jam packed with useful ideas in fashions. Also for the homemaker will be discussions on nutrition and the false claims that are made for so many of the foods we buy today. Included on the panel will be Miss Mayton Zickel-fosse from the Delaware State Board of Health and Dr. Thomas H. Baker, Wilmington.

Flower arranging and home gardening have not been forgotten. Demonstrations will be given on pruning trees and shrubs

Houston Youth Excels in 4-H Swine

Daniel Anstine Jr., 16, Houston, hopes to follow the lead of his uncle and part-time boss by becoming a veterinarian. His main animal interest, both in and out of 4-H, is swine, and his success in the project was proved by his being named state champion.

"Mamie" launched young Anstine in his project six years ago. Mamie was his first hog, and her litter was his first exhibition. For two years he won top honors at the Kent County Fair for his Poland-China sow. He has taken first place in state swine judging contests three times.

Anstine is junior 4-H project leader of the Milford High School. Although he lives in town, he has been able to develop his interest in animal husbandry to a prize-winning degree.

Donor of his swine project trip award is Moorman Manufacturing Company, Quincy, Ill.

Church School at 10 o'clock, Howard S. Wagner is the superintendent. "The Gospel Versus Legalism" is the theme of the lesson in the adult department. One of the elements of the "good news" of the Gospel was that legalism was not required, but soon the church was confronted by an attempt to re-establish it. What are some forms of legalism we face today? Who has a right to set requirements for others? These are some of the questions we will be discussing. We invite you to join our discussion.

Morning Worship 11 o'clock. "Visitor by Night" is the title of the pastor's sermon. Anthems will be sung by the Cherub, Crusader and Cathedral Choirs. Altar flowers are by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kemp in memory of their son. The friendly greeters are Mrs. Virginia Clarkson and Mrs. Sarah Dill. A nursery is conducted during the morning worship hour for the convenience of those parents who have preschool children.

Pine Pitch Chewing Gum Linked to Sarcoidosis

The chewing of pine pitch was suggested as a possible cause of sarcoidosis, a chronic disease which affects the skin, eyes, lungs and bones.

Dr. Robert B. Baer of San Francisco reported in the current (January) A.M.A. Archives of Internal Medicine that he found "a good correlation between chewing pine pitch and the development of sarcoidosis about 15 years later" in four members of the same family.

Dr. Baer, who is associated with the department of medicine, Stanford University School of Medicine, said the family was born and raised in southeastern Oklahoma or northeastern Texas and always was surrounded by pine trees.

"... in childhood they all chewed pine 'resin' for chewing gum," he said. "This was a mixture of pine pitch, 'stretcher-berries' (a form of huckleberry that gave a bubblegum consistency to the mixture), and, in the springtime, pine 'buzz'."

The pine buzz, he said, undoubtedly was pine pollen.

Dr. Baer pointed out that his investigation showed "not all people who chew pine pitch develop sarcoidosis, and not all patients with sarcoid have chewed pine pitch or have been in close contact with pine forests."

Conceivably, he said, pine pitch must be chewed in the springtime when it is mixed with pollen in order to produce the disease.

Many medical authors have proposed that sarcoidosis is a hypersensitivity reaction in that tissues react to agent usually innocuous, he said.

Therefore, he said, differences in the amount of pine pitch chewed, the type of pine tree from which it came, and a person's individual reaction to it may help explain the lack of complete correlation.

The specific cause of the disease is unknown.

Dr. Baer said generalized sarcoidosis is becoming recognized as a common disease.

The disease causes small nodules in many parts of the body including the skin, lymph nodes, eyes, salivary glands, lungs and bones, especially of the hands and feet. There is a considerable resemblance between sarcoidosis and the effects of known bacterial infections such as tuberculosis and leprosy although no relationship to any of them has been demonstrated.

Babies Retain More Cholesterol From Milk Than Formulas

More cholesterol is retained in the blood of infants fed human milk and cow's milk than those given formulas containing corn, coconut and soya oils, according to two Iowa researchers.

Cholesterol is a fatty substance some medical investigators believe causes atherosclerosis, a form of hardening of the arteries, when there is an excess in the bloodstream. Other researchers believe there is a relationship between an excess of cholesterol and heart attacks.

Drs. Samuel J. Fomon and Donita J. Bartels of the department of pediatrics, College of Medicine, State University of Iowa, Iowa City, reported on a study of cholesterol concentrations in infants in relation to diet in the current (January) A.M.A. Journal of Diseases in Children.

The authors said reports thattherosclerotic changes occur in the coronary arteries in the early months of life and that cholesterol may play a role in these changes prompted their research. The study involved 55 normal infants, ranging from 1 week to 6 months of age.

Twenty-one were fed human milk, 8 cow's milk or evaporated milk and water, 21 formulas in which the fat was predominantly a mixture of corn oil and coconut oil, and 5 soya oil.

The doctors reported that the mean concentration of cholesterol of infants receiving human milk was greatest (171.7 mg/100 ml.) and that of infants receiving cow's milk or evaporated milk and water was next (156.0 mg/100 ml.).

"Although the total content of fat in these two diets is nearly equal," they said, "the fecal excretion of fat is considerably greater by infants fed whole cow's milk, and thus, with similar volumes of intake, the absorption of fat would be greater by infants fed human milk."

"Infants ingesting a formula in which the predominant source of fat was soya oil had the lowest mean concentration of cholesterol in the serum (blood) (108.0 mg/100 ml.), and infants receiving one of three formulas in which corn oil was the predominant source of fat had intermediate concentrations (143.5, 121.0 and 119.4 mg/100 ml.)," they said.

"With the exception of the relative values for Groups I and II (those fed human and cow's milk), the concentration of cholesterol with the various feedings were as might be anticipated on the basis of current thoughts about dietary factors that influence the concentration of cholesterol in the serum.

"The feedings containing the greatest percentages of saturated fatty acids, smallest percentages of linoleic acid, smallest percentages of essential fatty acids and lowest iodine number (Groups I and II) resulted in the greatest concentrations of cholesterol."

Make Your Farm Smile!

"There is a rumor around that Kent County has some sour faced farmers in it." This is the word from county agent George Vapaa. He says that the reason for the sour faced farmers is the sour soil they have on their farms.

"Sour is a term used in the farm trade to indicate that soil is too acid," Mr. Vapaa explained. He said many farmers could turn their soil, as well as their own faces to all smiles by applying ground limestone to their sour fields. He hastily added that ground limestone applied to the farmer's face will not do the job.

Quickly changing the subject he said, "This is a good time of year to have soil tested for acidity and plant food, so that lime and fertilizer applications, or plans for them can be made."

"For one thing, you can buy fertilizer at a discount now. And if there is no hurry for the lime, ground limestone can be used. It is cheaper than the faster acting burnt and hydrated types."

The soil testing laboratory at the University of Delaware is not rushed at this time of year and your soil tests can be taken care of in a short time, the agent said.

"Smiling soil makes a great deal of difference to many crops," he said, "but soybeans are especially partial to sweet soil. Soybeans will respond well to soils with a pH of six or above."

"Bringing your soil samples into my office at the Dover post-office, or to the Soil Testing Laboratory, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark," Mr. Vapaa concluded.

WE DO NOT APPROVE OF SOME TRAFFIC SIGNS

We believe caution lights and yield-right-of-way signs facilitate traffic and, in so doing, tend to prevent highway accidents. On the whole, however, we believe these devices will cause more accidents, with the incidental injuries and fatalities.

The reflexes of the motorist have been conditioned to stop the automobile at the stop sign and at the stop light. As for the caution light, we have seen too many motorists cross a street or highway, against the red portion of the signal, without even slowing down. We believe many motorists do not even know they are supposed to stop for the red light before proceeding.

The signs say "Yield Right of Way," but few motorists do. Also, in regards to these crossover places, from one lane of a dual highway to another: the drivers pay little attention to them. The next time you are on the highway, observe how the motorists treat the caution lights, yield-right-of-way signs, and similar devices.

The best answer, though an expensive one, is a stop light for a caution light, and a stop sign otherwise.

And while we are at it: Did you ever hear of a driver being tried for failing to dim his bright lights in the face of an oncoming car?

ELECTION TIME APPROACHES

As election time approaches, rumbling is heard in the distance of the approaching would-be candidates. After the primaries, the ballyhoo will become a roar.

The electorate will hear, or listen to, the usual malarky. But, nowadays, there will be little new in the platforms. The wrestlers of both the major parties are traveling with the same show—with one, in tights, challenging from the platform, and the other, in overalls, heckling him from the crowd.

The New Deal was all right, in its day. However, some of its remnants, particularly the subsidies, would cause the most brazen of TV producers to quail. The Democrats and the Republicans are both to blame: the national give-away program and the get-something-for nothing state, have become merely a method of buying votes.

Issues, not candidates, usually determine the outcome of an election, but not always. The farm and labor blocs have been hoodwinking the political parties for years. These blocs can be effective in local and state elections. But what happened when Eisenhower ran for president? It was a breeze for him. This was an example of where a powerful personality won despite the prosperity of the nation and the Democrats' reform program. There were no issues. Substituted were such insipid slogans as "Time for a change," and "If I'm elected I shall go to Korea and see what I can do." His elections also proved that, despite what their leaders demanded, the partisans of the farm and labor blocs, at least to a great extent, voted otherwise at the polls.

At this time, we do not see how the Democrats can lose in Delaware or nation-wide. The debilitating programs will remain, despite the efforts of a few courageous senators, of which Senator Williams is one, to expose the loopholes. The claim that Vice President Nixon played a prominent part in settling the steel strike is a maneuver designed for campaign reasons, but few persons will fall for it.

Right now, with nothing new offered by either party, economic conditions will determine the outcome of the elections. Throughout the nation, many persons are short on cash, largely because of inflation. Machiavelli said persons would forget the loss of their parents sooner than the loss of their patrimony.

When the voters are short on cash, they will vote against the party in power. Hoover was a capable president but he could not overcome the shortcomings of the previous administration and the Depression.

Issues, and seldom the candidates, determine the outcome of an election. Six years ago the Delaware Democrats, who usually do not fare well, state-wide, in off-year elections, won by a landslide, securing posts they had not had for 40 years or more. We even elected representatives in the Second and Fifth Districts of Kent County, something we did not do even when Roosevelt was in office. We were only sure of Frear in this election. This election was won because of the school-integration talk.

This time the Democrats have a more salubrious platform, a shortage of cash.

C.K.R.T. News

January has been proclaimed the New March of Dimes month in Delaware by Governor J. Caleb Boggs, who urges all citizens to give their services and support to this important drive to prevent crippling diseases to children and adults of the entire nation. Former Governor of Delaware, Elbert N. Carvel, state chairman for the 1960 campaign, recently said, "250,000 children, or one out of every sixteen, are born annually with significant birth defects, and that there are more than 11,000,000 persons of all ages who suffer from arthritis and rheumatic diseases, as well as thousands of paralyzed polio victims", still in need of patient aid. You are urged to join the 1960 New March of Dimes and help the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to aid in all three medical research to prevent crippling disease, medical care to prevent disease crippling, and professional Education to train disease fighters. The 1960 New March of Dimes is being sponsored in the Harrington-Farmington districts by the Callaway-Kemp-Raughley-Tea Post No. 7, American Legion and its Auxiliary Unit. The committee consists of Earl Sylvester, chairman; J. Leonard Horleman, treasurer; Benjamin Emory and Merle Roth, president of the Auxiliary Unit. Contributions will be received by the First National Bank and the Peoples Bank.

The Moose Lodge presented them with a lovely birthday cake to show their appreciation for the help given them in their many enterprises. The fifty-three members present were entertained by Albert Steele's musicians following the banquet. Many of them remained to dance. We are hoping for an even better tenth year with growth and improvement in membership and activities.

Century Club Notes

Mrs. Brinton Holloway presented the program at the Harrington New Century Club on Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 12. Using the topic "Communication" in its broadest sense she showed slides of Hawaii. Since she and Mr. Holloway had recently returned from the islands her vivid descriptions of the places in the slides was most interesting and informative. Her art table included books, pamphlets, straw hats and other souvenirs. Mrs. James Coady and Mrs. William A. Minner, members of the committee for the afternoon, Mrs. John Walls and Mrs. Holloway were all attired in native dresses called mumus, which Mrs. Holloway had supplied. A social hour which included the serving of a pineapple dessert, native music and a hula dance by the chairman was greatly enjoyed by the members.

Other members of the committee for the afternoon were Mrs. Frank C. O'Neal Sr., Mrs. Hewitt W. Smith, Mrs. J. Harley Waller and Mrs. Blanche B. Cahall.

At the business meeting preceding the program, Mrs. Charles Peck Jr., presided in the absence of Mrs. W. W. Shaw president. Mrs. Peck reminded all chairmen of state topics that their reports are due Feb. 1.

A moment of silence was observed following the announcement of the death of one of the club members, Mrs. Olin T. Perry.

The next meeting will be held January 26 at 8 p. m. and has been designated as guest night.

Members will be bringing their husbands or other guest to an evening of fun. Special entertainment and refreshments will be provided by the hospitality, program and decorating committees, who are serving as hostesses for this evening. Plan now to attend.

Pilgrim Holiness Church Notes

Sunday School 10 a.m. Our school continues to grow with new scholars being enrolled regularly. The average attendance for the month just past revealed a numerical gain of 48 over the same month for the preceding year. Goal for January is 200. Last Sunday's attendance was 221. Classes for all ages with graded lessons.

Morning worship 11 a.m. Special singing by the Young People's Choir. Pastor preaching on the theme, "Straining Gnats—Swallowing Camels." St. Matthew 23:24.

Pilgrim Youth Service 7 p.m. The program this week is entitled, "A Wordless Meeting." Those taking part will be Carlton Goodhand, Beatrice Goodhand, Klein Moore, Genevieve Moore, Neil Sherwood, Ardis Sherwood, Donald Pearson, Mary Ann Melvin, Sharon Goodhand and Carol Ann Moore.

Evening service 7:45 p.m. A singspiration always opens the evening service followed by the sermon. This Sunday marks the first sermon in a series which the pastor will deliver on the theme, "Redigging Old Wells." Many of the old wells of the Christian faith have been stopped by unbelief, apostasy, and scholarship, falsely so called. It is time to dig these wells again, and to call them by their names. This Sunday evening the sermon will be: "What Does the Bible Say About Sin and About Salvation?" Other wells of the Christian faith that will serve as subjects in the weeks to come are, "Heaven," "Hell," "Saved," "Lost," "The Second Coming of Jesus Christ," "Who Can Be Saved," "Why Do the Righteous Suffer?" Where Shall the Sinner and Ungodly Appear?" We invite the public to bring their Bibles and worship with us on Sunday evenings.

Among those that are hospitalized at this writing are: Mr. J. W. Mitchell and Mrs. Edythe Melvin, who are patients in the Milford Hospital. Word has also been received from the family that Alex Argo is a patient in the Kent General Hospital at Dover.

The Rev. Miller and his wife both celebrated birthday this week and wish to thank those who remembered them with greeting cards.

The Building Fund offering this past week amounted to $336. This amount represents another step of progress toward reducing our entire indebtedness by March 3, 1960. The end is in sight and the generous response by both members and friends of the church has resulted in the raising of nearly $25,000 in cash offerings towards the building fund during the past four years. If we can raise $1700 in the next six weeks our goal will be met.

Women's Clubs Winter Board Meeting Jan. 14

The January 14th meeting of the Delaware State Federation of Women's Clubs Executive Board, Mrs. William J. Storey of Dover, president, presiding, will open with a devotional period led by Mrs. Harry W. Bunting, chairman of religion, Dagsboro. This winter session of the executive Board will be held at 10 a.m. in the Dover Century Club on The Green in Dover. An unusual feature of the devotions will be sacred numbers sung by the Chansonettes, a vocal ensemble from Claymont, led by Mrs. Elwood F. Melson Jr., chairman of music of the State Federation. Mrs. Walter P. McEvilly, chairman of citizenship from Wilmington, will lead the pledge to the flag. Reports of various state chairmen will be presented with information about interesting coming events of the spring.

Mrs. Eugene Hackendorn Jr., of Claymont, State Federation chairman of Conservation will present the speaker of the day, Richard A. Haber, Chief engineer of the State Highway Department as chief engineer and Delaware Memorial Bridge. As a professional engineer, Mr. Haber has been vice president of the firm of Michael Baker, Jr., Inc. from 1953 to 1956. He has also served as Kent County Engineer before becoming chief engineer of the department in 1951. Mr. Haber served in Alaska and CBI with the rank of Major, Corps of Engineers, during World War I. As he was born in Wilmington, attended the public schools there and was graduated from the University of Delaware, Mr. Haber is well qualified to speak on "Conserving the Beauty of Delaware's Highways."

Members of the State Federation of Women's Clubs have worked on Conservation projects for several decades, beginning about 1927, when they instigated beautification of Railroad Stations, School grounds, Public Parks, and Post Office buildings in various communities as well as selected spots along the du Pont Highway. Due to their efforts of interest the public in conserving and beautifying our state, there was created a State Department of Forestry in 1927. Another state-wide effort of the Federation in 1948 was the planting of white dogwood trees on school grounds in each community in honor of Mrs. Alfred D. Warner Sr., first State President. Mrs. Hackendorn chose as her theme for this biennium, "Delaware, where to? Better Living or Hodge-Podge." Due to the fine efforts of the clubwomen under Mrs. Hackendorn's leadership, they planted over 15,000 trees last year in our state, which far exceeded the original goal for 1958-59 of "a tree for every clubwoman" in Delaware. A special drive is in progress to prevent vandalism to existing trees along the highways, especially the holly and the dogwood and to encourage even greater efforts to plant more trees during the 1959-60 club year.

Regional Poultry Meeting

Delmarva poultrymen turned out through the snow 150 strong, Wed., Jan. 6, to attend the Delmarva Regional Poultry meeting and Short Course in the Centenary Methodist Church, Laurel.

Representatives of Virginia Polytechnic Institute and the Universities of Delaware and Maryland, reported on the latest broiler research findings. Then Dr. N. Helbacka, University of Maryland, discussed the quality control program needed for Delmarva.

Dr. Helbacka said a good quality control program throughout production, from the chick to the retail store, would put Delmarva on top of the broiler industry.

Dr. M. S. Cover, University of Delaware, spelled out a disease control program and W. T. McAllister, pointed out management moves the industry should make to improve efficiency.

McAllister emphasized the need for making the production and marketing of high quality broiler meat at the lowest net cost, the basis for all planning.

"This can best be done when one business firm has control of the product from the time production is started until it reaches the consumer," he said.

After lunch a panel of poultry industry representatives gave their views on how to cut broiler production costs. Panel members included: Lee LeCates, Easton, Md.; Dr. John Hammond, Bridgeville; Donald Mabe, Salisbury, Md.; and C. M. Dryden, Pocomoke, Md.

Several panel speakers showed agreement with Mr. Mabe when he said, "the grower should be the most respected man in the industry."

They also agreed with Dr. Hammond that every man in the industry needs financial incentive if we are to get top efficiency in broiler production.

The last two speakers on the program were Dr. John Snyder, Beacon Milling Co., Cayuga, New York, and Fred Masterson, Broiler Growing Magazine, Mount Morris, Ill.

Masterson said he believed the broiler industry would continue to grow in the south, but not as rapidly as it had in the past. He said some of the advantages southern producers have over Delmarva are lower fuel costs, cheaper imported feed coming down to them from the Mississippi River system, and somewhat cheaper labor in the processing plants. He said the industry needs to put more emphasis on marketing their product. He said a large organization such as Wilson, Armour, and Swift have done great things for the red meat business that could also be done with chicken if the organization for merchandising was large enough.

Snyder discussed the effect of nutrition on the health of chickens and Masterson pointed out that the differences and likenesses of Delmarva and the broiler producing areas of the South.

Better Care Adds Years to Paraplegics, Quadriplegics

Modern treatment has added years to the lives of persons suffering disabling paralysis, Veterans Administration researchers said today.

A report on a study of paraplegics (those suffering paralysis of the legs and lower part of the body) and quadriplegics (those whose arms and legs are paralyzed) made by the VA Department of Medicine and Surgery was published in the current (Jan. 9) Journal of the American Medical Association.

"While many problems of therapy and total rehabilitation are still unresolved, physicians concerned with the care of patients with traumatic paraplegia and quadriplegia have had ample evidence of the increasing effectiveness of their treatment techniques," according to the article. "It has also been generally agreed that current therapies have added years to the lives of these patients."

The researchers analyzed the survival rate of 575 patients under 60 years of age when injured who were under observation in VA hospitals at some time during an 11-year period after the onset of their paralysis.

They found that the mortality rate among patients during the first year after spinal cord injury was "5 to 10 times higher than the average annual mortality among survivors during the subsequent 10-year period."

"Patients with quadriplegia have a much poorer prognosis of surviving the first year after injury than do paraplegic patients of the same age. Younger patients have an excellent chance of recovering from the immediate effects of the trauma (wound or injury) and resulting paralysis.

"About 92 per cent of hospitalized paraplegic patients under 45 years of age at the time of injury and 87 per cent of hospitalized quadriplegic patients under 25 years of age can be expected to be alive one year after injury.

"More than 80 per cent of the paraplegic or quadriplegic patients under 35 years of age at the time of injury are likely to be alive 10 years later if they survive the high mortality risks during the first year after injury."

This latter mortality figure is "not markedly in excess of that of the general population of similar age," the researchers said.

"Since it is believed that therapeutic methods have improved—the survival rate of patients with traumatic paraplegia and quadriplegia currently admitted to Veterans Administration hospitals is expected to be even more encouraging," they concluded.

Council Has Short Meeting

The police report proved to be the highlight of the meeting. The City received $775 in fines from Magistrate L. Gooden Callaway, and $80 from Magistrate Elmer Poynter, of Felton. Of this total, $300 was in fines for December, Chief of Police Ernest Kohlman reported 24 arrests and 12 reprimands for December.

The Council failed to act on a printed request, purporting to come from Leo Hutton, Newport, asking for $63.48, as what the report stated as Harrington's share of lobbying for the passage of the Municipal Aid Bill. The report, which also showed its assessments on other communities, asked for the money to reimburse six individuals and three organizations which, it stated, had lobbied for the bill. The Council and the mayor appeared at sea on the whole matter.

The Council appointed Mrs. Townsend Masten and Mrs. Jonathan Hopkins as clerks in Tuesday's election.

It accepted the resignation of C. D. Mills as caretaker of a sewer relay station, on Delaware Avenue, and appointed Tom Brown to the post.

Albert T. Coverdale, Sr.

Albert T. Coverdale, Sr., 52, long-time employe of the Masten Transportation Company, died Saturday in Milford Memorial Hospital.

Services were held in the William A. Berry Funeral Home, Milford, Tuesday afternoon. The Rev. J. G. Rummer, pastor of Pilgrim Holiness Church, officiated and interment was in Odd Fellows Cemetery.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Louise Coverdale of Lincoln; four sons, James Edward, Earl Alfred, Joseph Harris, and Albert T. Coverdale, Jr., all at home; four brothers, Alfred, Clifford, and Frederick, all of Milford; Wilbert of Magnolia; three sisters, Mrs. Lina Griffith, Mrs. Elva Millman, and Mrs. Sarah Lynch, all of Milford.

Program Shows Hospitals Can Be Humanized

Hospitals can retain a human approach even though they have grown into one of the nation's largest industries.

A case in point was described by Dr. Howard J. Lockward of Manchester, Conn., in the current (Jan. 9) Journal of the American Medical Association.

Dr. Lockward said a new program of "progressive patient care" at the 300-bed Manchester Memorial Hospital allows the patient "to retain his individual dignity." The program was begun in 1957 when the hospital began to show signs of "growing pains."

"One of the main charges leveled at modern medicine is that we treat the disease instead of the patient," he said. "Progressive patient care has once again allowed us to go back to the patient as an entity and treat each person according to his medical needs."

"Philosophically, the program is patient-oriented. The patient is the raison d'etre of the hospital, therefore his total needs are considered.

"The doctor-patient relationship is the hub of patient care. All other services such as dietary nursing, physiotherapy, and diagnostic procedures radiate from this center of activity as the spokes of a wheel."

The degree of illness, or the phase of the disease, is used as the basis for the new program rather than economic status or type of disease.

There are four units under the plan: (1) special care unit for the seriously ill; (2) intermediate care unit for those ill, but not seriously so; (3) self-service unit for those able to take care of their own bodily needs; and (4) continuation care unit for those chronically ill.

This type of separation resulted in a number of benefits, Dr. Lockward said. For example, "the alert recuperating patient no longer had his rest disturbed by an acutely ill roommate."

Through the special care unit, he said, "it was possible to admit all emergency patients without delay, bypassing the admitting office, so that all valid emergencies received immediate care."

The self-service unit became "a whole new therapeutic tool which allowed the physician to study the patient in an environment more like that of average daily living," he said.

As patients improve, or their needs change, they are moved from unit to unit. The physical progress becomes a symbol of their medical progress, he said, and helps their psychological adjustment.

Dr. Lockward said these improvements in patient care had been achieved "at no greater cost to the patient."

The total patient cost per day is 20 per cent less than the average for 17 other hospitals of comparable size, he said.

"The patient who goes to the self-service unit saves a large portion of the fee involved in paying private duty nurses. The special service unit allows us to return a surplus of $1 to $4 per day to Blue Cross on their average allowance in Connecticut of $12 and $15 per day for day-rate services.

"The average patient stay for the state was 7.6 days while at Manchester Memorial Hospital it was 6.4 days for 1957-58."

Dr. Lockward said the original program was instituted at minimal cost and with little change in the physical plant.

The total operation of the program continues to be developed and directed by the hospital without the benefit of outside funds, he said.

Pointing out that hospitals are now the third largest industry in the United States, Dr. Lockward said they, like any large industry, should invest a certain amount of funds in basic research each year in order to improve the product—otherwise they remain static.

"This remains the plight of many hospitals today," he said.

Co-authors of the article are Lane Giddings, M.D., and Edward J. Thomas, A. B., who, with Dr. Lockward, were members of the committee that planned the hospital reorganization.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—I may have to sell my GI house while there is still an unpaid balance on the loan. Can the new buyer take over the loan, and can I get clear of my liability to the VA?

A—Yes. Both are possible. If the buyer of your house will put in writing that he is assuming the unpaid balance, and is an acceptable credit risk to VA, the liability may pass to him and you can be released.

Q—I'm planning to start school this spring semester under the Korean GI Bill. Can I earn extra money while at school without having my VA school allowance reduced in any way?

A—Yes. You are permitted to earn as much money as you like outside of your regular school hours. Your allowance will not be reduced in any way.

Q—Is there a grace period for the payment of interest on a GI insurance loan?

A—No. Interest on money borrowed with a veteran's GI insurance as security is due on the loan anniversary date, and if not paid then, must be added to the amount of the loan.

Q—I was supposed to report to VA for a physical examination recently, in connection with a possible increase in my disability rating. I didn't report. What can I do about it now?

A—Since you did not appear for your physical examination, and apparently did not explain why you failed to appear, VA would automatically have to consider your application "abandoned." You should file another application if you still believe you are entitled to an increased rating.

Mrs. Marvel—Grade 1

January 8 we sang "Happy Birthday" to Betty Ann Reed.

During our "Show and Tell Periods" last week we showed some of our toys. The boys brought guns and pistols just to show, because we do not play with guns at school.

Danny Hitchens had a nice army tank which would run and also shoot play bullets. Several boys had small trucks, cars, animals and men. Chris Wetherbold had a satellite launching platform with two small rockets and some men. Several girls had dolls and wardrobes. We enjoyed seeing all the new toys.

Mrs. Marvel and Miss Payne took us to the auditorium and showed us the movie Mrs. Marvel took of us dancing before Christmas.

Mr. Donovan—Grade 5

Of the sports, Bobby Dean likes football best. He is 10 years old and has two brothers and four sisters. He had been to Philadelphia. Bobby is our vice president. He plans to go to school until he graduates. He plans to be a carpenter.

Mr. Brobst—Grade 5

We are studying the 13 original colonies in social. In arithmetic we are dividing by two numbers. Exams will be here soon, and we will be glad when they are over.

One day that it snowed, Mrs. Jester surprised us by bringing us individual cakes covered with coconut that she called snowballs.

Girl's Basketball

The Girl's Varsity Basketball team played Bridgeville Friday night. It was a very close game with Bridgeville coming out on top with a 42-37 score. At no one time was one team ahead by a margin of more than two or three points, but in the last quarter Bridgeville came through and won by a margin of five points. During that quarter Patsy Jack, our varsity forward, sprained her ankle and was unable to play. A basket was scored while trying to get the referee's attention.

Bonnie Lee Satterfield was high scorer for Harrington by putting through 8 field goals for 16 points.

Pat Jack racked up a total of 10 points which included 3 field goals and four out of seven foul shots.

Phyl Vincent played a very good game offensively. She gave Bridgeville guards quite a struggle. She made seven out of nine foul shots and two field goals for a total of 11 points.

Janie Phillips came in for Patsy Jack at the time of her injury but was unable to score during her short period.

The guards played a good tight defensive game. Betty Lee Hendrick's high jumping for rebounds and jump balls, Jerrie Reed's nice interceptions and quick dribbling, and Barb Lewis' stealing of the ball kept Bridgeville's forwards on the go at all times.

Greenwood Game

Harrington's Girls Varsity entertained Greenwood at home Tuesday night. The girls defeated Greenwood by a score of 32-24.

At the end of the first quarter, Harrington was ahead by three points, and in the second quarter by eight. In the third quarter Greenwood started advancing and narrowed it back down to a three point margin, but in the fourth quarter Harrington scored nine points and Greenwood only scored four. This made the final score 32-24.

Bonnie Satterfield made three successful set shots and five out of her attempted eight free throws. That plus her many rebounds helped make her high scorer of 11 points.

Pat Jack made three set shots and two lay up shots. She racked up 10 points. When losing the ball, her top defensive ability was displayed and many recoveries were made before the ball had a chance to get to the other side of the floor.

Phyllis Vincent took advantage of her openings and made eight points by faking around her man to man guard defense and driving for a goal. Her quick reactions and evasive tactics were her aid in making baskets.

Janie Phillips attempted one lay up shot and one free throw. Her offensive and defensive ability and sharp alertness in recovering possession of the ball really aided the team.

Harrington's guards Betty Lee Hendricks, Jerrie Reed, and Barbara Lewis all played a good game. They really gave Greenwood a tough fight over the ball. Jerrie Reed and Betty Hendricks had the majority of the rebounds. Barb Lewis played a real good game stealing the ball whenever possible; and this proved to be many times. Words can't describe the terrific defensive team work displayed by the guards. One must only see them to truly understand the extraordinary team play.

National Guard Notes

It was announced this week by 1st Lt. Earle E. Worthington, Unit Commander of Battery B 2 Bn. 198 Arty, located at the Harrington Armory, Liberty Street, that the local National Guard is now in a recruiting campaign to enlist new members in unit.

Primarily, our interests lie in signing up high school seniors and juniors. After graduation in June of this year, and upon reaching the age of 18, these young men automatically pick up a military obligation to their country Lt. Worthington stated they have one of a number of choices in which to fulfill their obligation. We are trying to sell them the National Guard choice. By joining the local unit, they create a number of advantages for themselves: Top military training, honor and prestige, educational opportunities, new skills, increased income, new friends, and one of the most important, fulfilling their military obligation right here in Harrington after their active duty period of six months.

Those young men who enlist between 17-18 1/2 years of age are usually still in High School. They can be deferred from six months active duty training until they graduate or cease to attend school, Lt. Worthington continued.

By enlisting now in the Harrington unit, the new member is given the necessary training to prepare him for his active duty training. At the present time the first eight weeks of this phase is conducted at Fort Knox, Ky. Having completed the eight weeks of basic training, he is then sent to another location to further train him for when he returns to his unit. During this six months period, he will have leave to come home.

This is the ideal time for those planning to enter College or a private employment after graduation to join the Guard. They can take six and have the hardest part of their obligation over with. What does this mean? It means that he won't be drafted in the Armed Forces for a period of two years, active duty.

By joining now, his college education will not be interrupted, his job will not be interrupted to fulfill his obligation.

After talking with some men who say, "I'm going to wait until I'm drafted," let me say this: Individuals between 17-35 years of age who are enlisted or inducted in the regular Army for 2 or more years have a six year obligation. This means that even after 2 years of active service time they still have an active duty obligation of two years in either the National Guard or Reserves. So you see, you get a good deal by joining the Guards now.

In the very near future a letter will be sent to young men in high school. In this letter will be attached some pamphlets for the young man to look over. Any questions he or his parents may have will be answered by appearing at the Armory or phoning EX 8-8403. The people on duty there will be most happy to clear up any questions they may have.

Beginning Mon., Jan. 18, there will be a qualified person at the local armory from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. each week day and each Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., until Feb. 14, Jan. 24, the local Guard unit will hold a Sunday drill. The armory is open to the community to come out and see the various equipment, meet and talk with the battery officers and men of the unit. During the hours of 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the 24th men of the local unit will conduct a seven hour recruiting blitz to help put the local unit to its full authorized strength. All are encouraged to come out and see the local Guard unit in action.

In summing up, Lt. Worthington had this to say: The caliber of men in the Harrington unit ranks among the highest in the Delaware National Guard. In this unit we have young men from the Harrington, Felton, Farmington and Greenwood areas. Stop in at the local armory and find out the facts how the guard can help you fulfill your military obligation here at home. Support your local Guard unit; it stands ready to help you and your town in any emergency.

Delaware Food Market Report

Three foods that rarely change in price are butter, lard and margarine. All three have been edging down in price for the past three weeks. Butter dropped another penny this week and is selling at an average of 75 cents a pound. Both lard and margarine is great but this food can be purchased as low as 26 cent a pound in many stores. This is not the average, however lard is as low as 16 cents a pound and this is a low price for this food.

The weather is affecting the fresh fruit and vegetable market again. With snow, sleet, ice and in general freezing weather in many of the growing areas during the past two weeks, the quality of many fresh fruits and vegetables need to be checked. Many vegetables are still high and scarce and with the great differences in quality there is a wide price range. This is especially noticeable in loose tomatoes, selling from 30 to 60 cents a pound. Lettuce is another vegetable that needs to be watched for quality. In general the best buys this week are endive, escarole, radishes (both in big supply with more arriving each day from Florida), cabbage, Eastern potatoes, carrots, yellow onions and snap beans. Beets, green onions, sweet potatoes, kale and turnips all cost a penny or so more this week. Green peppers jumped the most, however, selling now for 19 cents each. There is a fairly good supply of unusual vegetables in many local markets this week, such as artichokes, Chinese cabbage and broccoli rabe.

As far as fruits are concerned the picture is about as it was last week with oranges, grapefruit, cranberries, raisins and apples being the best buys. Another fruit is added this week though—avocados. This fruit is coming in fast now from both California and Florida. During weekend sales the average price will be 19 cents each. Most of these avocados are on the green side, and require ripening for a few days at temperatures between (65 and 70 degrees F.) When they feel a bit soft, they are ready to eat.

Eggs continue to deserve top place on the shopping list. Grade A large eggs are averaging 50 cents a dozen this week.

Ron Collison led the home scoring with 19 points followed by Temple with 17. Temple's scoring is remarkable because it was done in two periods.

The local lassies dropped a close one 42-37 despite a game-high 18 points by Bonnie Satterfield.

Tuesday night on the local court the Lions, performing before a sellout crowd, won their fourth of the season besting Greenwood 58-39. Harrington again started fast taking a 10 point lead by the end of the first quarter and holding it at first-time.

The home team sewed it up in the third quarter by outscoring the Foresters 20-9 for a 51-30 bulge. The reserves took over for several minutes at the end of the game and didn't lose too much ground while gaining valuable experience. Jim Temple led the scoring for H.H.S. followed by Bruce Smith with 14 and Ron Collison with 11.

Collision did well in the rebound department. George Pfeiffer hauled down several also in spite of his lack of height. Lanky Bob Gillette contributed three timely baskets to the winning total.

Friday night the Lions play at Felton. Of their showing thus far it appears that they might possibly defeat anyone on the schedule except Milford and Delmar. Lord Baltimore and Milton figure to be strong but not quite up to the level of the larger school duo.

The Harrington girls team featuring a fine defense, defeated a taller Greenwood sextet 32-24.

Letter to the Editor

Editor, January 13, 1960 Harrington Journal
Would you please allow me to use space in your paper to offer my appreciation and thanks to the many friends who voted for me in the election for Town Councilman.

The enormous turn out of voters showed the keen interest in the contest and I am very grateful to those who were of so much help to me.

I may not see each person individually for some time so I take this method to let them all know how much I value their backing. Many of my acquaintances as well as many people I do not know, voted for my opponent. This is a healthy situation in any community and I only hope that the results of the election will have no affect on our relationship in the future.

Thank you William "Bill" Smith
