H. H. S. Cagers Lose to Milford And Delmar

By Keitt S. Burgess

Coach Dick Jeffers Harrington High basketball Lions fought a gallant battle against extreme odds before losing to a Milford powerhouse 81-62 on the local court Friday night. Milford has a tall, talented veteran team which is undefeated in Delaware play and in its only loss was nosed out by Wicomico of Salisbury in overtime.

The Buccaneers with several boys ranging from six feet to six feet four inches tall, had a height advantage which enabled them to wilt Chamberlain both boards. Harrington's Bob Gillette, a six-foot five rebounder, along with reserves John Creasy and Bill Porter are ineligible for further play after a losing skirmish with the books.

Ron Collison, who was unable to hit his stride in Harrington's last two games, turned in a performance that was easily his best ever, against the Bucs. Ron fought his taller opponents under the backboards and led the Lions in scoring with 25 points. He probably set a record or two at the foul line as he converted 15 of 17 charity tosses of which 13 were consecutive.

Jim Temple and Bruce Smith the locals other two top scorers, hit their stride in the second half. Temple had 15 in the second chapter to wind up with 20. Smith had a hot fourth quarter as he scored 9 of his 11 tallies.

Harrington had the distinction of scoring more points against Milford this season than any previous Buc opponent.

Coach Jeffers was also pleased with the work of Walt Lekites, George Pfeiffer and Jim McDonald.

Probably the largest crowd in local history viewed this game. Extra chairs were put in where-

Missing Man Is Found Dead

An 82-year-old man reported missing shortly before 9 a.m. Thursday was found dead a short time later by state police in a thicketed area about 200 yards from his home located on the Harrington-Frederica Road, one mile east of the former town.

The victim, Benjamin Lee Griffith, had died of natural causes, according to police.

His son, Edgar, with whom the father lived, said he had last seen him alive the previous Wednesday night. He summoned police at the Bridgeville troop when he could not find his father in the house or outside Thursday morning.

Police learned that the aged man, who had been treated for a nervous condition and cancer, had gone berserk during the night, broken a window in the house and suffered convulsions.

Kent County Coroner Roland Trader investigated with troopers. Mr. Griffith was born in Sussex County. He started work with the Pennsylvania Railroad in 1898 and lived in Pittsburgh for several years. He left the railroad in 1926 and came to Harrington to farm.

He is survived by a son, Edgar Griffith of Harrington; a sister, Mrs. Bessie Currey, of Wyoming, and several nieces and nephews.

Services were Sunday at 2 p.m., at the Boyer Funeral Home, Harrington, with the Rev. Nelson Benjamin, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, Harrington, officiating. Burial was in Hollywood Cemetery, Harrington.

March of Dimes Take Is Off

The 1960 version of the New March of Dimes campaign is doomed to failure in the Harrington - Farmington district unless citizens make a sizeable contribution on or before the closing date of Feb. 10.

As of Tues., Feb. 2, actually $766.50 has been received by the banks or is in the hands of persons receiving contributions from various groups, including the faculty and pupils of the local school.

The sponsors of the campaign had set a quota of $1410, which was the average amount contributed to this great cause for the past ten years. In addition to the continued fight against polio and aid to its victims, the powerful force of the National Foundation has also been directed against girl defects and arthritis. Included in the amount collected was $55 received on the Mother's March Monday night, and $100 contributed by Amos Layton. Contributions are being received at both banks.

Deer Bumps Car, Damage $200

A deer tangled with an automobile in Kent County Sunday resulting in a damaged auto and an unscathed deer.

Mrs. Maggie Mitchell, a Hollis, N. Y., school teacher, was driving home from a visit with relatives in Maryland.

On State Route 14, just inside the Delaware State line, a deer leaped from the right side of the road, bounced off the right front door, and then continued across the highway in back of the car.

Mrs. Mitchell and her two children were stunned by the incident and the woman parked her 1959 hardtop convertible along the shoulder of the road. She found the car damaged, with state troopers from Bridgeville estimating the loss at $200.

A quick search of the area turned up no disabled deer, so it is assumed the animal was only stunned, if that, from impact with its mechanical adversary.

Lions Hear Lyle Moulds

The Harrington Lions met in the cafeteria of St. Stephens Church. Each member brought a farmer friend. Program chairman John Curtis introduced Lyle Moulds, State F.F.A. representative. Legislature Called Back For Friday

The Democratic leaders of the General Assembly have called that body back into session Friday at 1 p.m. for the introduction of the remaining organization bills and the adoption of resolutions on the procedure to be followed in holding hearings on the bills.

Letters have been sent to members by Speaker Sherman W. Fribbitt of the House of Representatives and President Pro Tempore Allen J. Cook of the Senate, informing them of the return to Dover.

The two leaders were given the authority to call the members back in the resolution under which they adjourned on Jan. 21 until Feb. 15.

There are three bills to be introduced—one called for a department of corrections, another providing for a civil service system, and the third a substitute for the department of labor bill (HB-479).

Joint Caucus Planned

Stewart Lynch, special counsel for the Democratic majority, had earlier suggested a caucus on Friday at which he would present his recommendations for procedure to be followed in holding the hearings.

The Democrats are planning to hold a joint caucus of their House and Senate members with Mr. Lynch that day to get his recommendations. The decisions of the caucus are expected to be put into resolutions.

Mr. Lynch has been meeting with four House and Senate attorneys to study the reorganization plans and prepare for the hearings. The four are: John Biggs III, William G. Bush III, Joseph M. Kwiatkowski, and Maurice A. Hartnett III.

So far, 11 reorganization bills have been introduced; the two new ones and a substitute remain to be introduced.

In Seven Committees

Of the 11 bills six were introduced in the Senate and were sent to five different committees. The other five, handed up in the House of Representatives, were sent to two committees. Thus, in the two chambers, the 11 bills are in a total of seven committees, one of which has four bills, one has two, while each of the others has one.

The Revised Statutes Committee of the House has four of the bills: Those proposing departments of natural resources (HB-463), economic development (HB-477), health and welfare (HB-478) and agriculture (486). The Labor Committee of the House has the department of labor bill (HB-479) a substitute for which is expected.

In the Senate, the Revised Statutes Committee has the department of finance bill (SB-5) and the department of public safety bill (SB-259). The latter was reported out favorably on Aug. 3, and is the only one of the 11 bills out of committee.

The other bills proposing new departments of government and the committees to which they were assigned are as follows: Public works (SB-187) in the building and highway committee; executive department (SB-316) in the miscellaneous committee; mental health and rehabilitation (SB-317) in the public health committee; and department of justice (SB-319) in the judiciary committee.

Harry S. Smith, Insurance Head Is Honored

State Insurance Commissioner Harry S. Smith, who has been prominently mentioned as a candidate for governor, has recently been receiving recognition for his executive and administrative ability on a nationwide basis. On the recent re-activation of the Unauthorized Insurance Committee of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, Commissioner Smith was asked to serve as a member, representing the states of Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio, North Carolina, South Carolina, Delaware, and the District of Columbia. This committee will be investigating the problems arising from the placement of excessive amounts of insurance, known as surplus lines, with unadmitted insurance companies handling this type of business in the various states. At present, there is a specific problem in the state of New Jersey, due to the fact that insurance companies with inadequate financial facilities have been placing surplus lines insurance in large amounts in that state. This committee has been reactivated in an effort to make a complete list of all the insurance companies that are approved for the placement of surplus lines in the several states and in an effort to evaluate the adequacy of the state supervision of insurance to regulate activities in this particular field of unadmitted carriers. The U. S. Senate sub-committee on anti-trust and anti-monopoly will be holding hearings in the near future in Washington, in which it is expected that Commissioner Smith will take an active part in an effort to solve this problem in the interest of all the citizens of Delaware, as well as the entire country.

In addition to this recognition, Delaware's Insurance Commissioner has been featured on the cover page of the February issue of the Journal of American Insurance, in which the duPont Pigment Plant at Newport is pictured, the origin of which dates back to 1802.

The following statements were contained in the article which featured Commissioner Smith as one of the outstanding administrators of a state, regulatory and supervisory department of government.

"Today, 30 per cent of the U.S. population lives within a 300-mile radius of the state. A remarkable market for Delaware firms, these consumers have personal incomes amounting to more than one-third of the national total.

"Low taxes are another of Delaware's attractions and are partly responsible for the fact that nearly one-third of the firms listed on the New York Stock Exchange are Delaware corporations. Spurred by industry's inclination to settle in the First State, a 550-company insurance business has developed, currently recording more than $65 1/2 million in premiums and paying in excess of $1 1/2 million in fees and taxes annually.

"Setting the pace in fire and casualty protection, mutual insurance recently reported a 100 per cent increase in annual direct premiums written. Five of Delaware's domestic mutuals have been active for more than 100 years, with the New Castle Mutual Insurance Company of Wilmington celebrating its 110th birthday this year."

Special mention of Commissioner Smith and his personal achievements were also related in the following manner:

"Delaware's Insurance Department just observed a noteworthy anniversary of its own—its 80th year of operations. The department has been headed since 1955 by Harry S. Smith, the state's 18th insurance commissioner.

"A veteran of more than 10 years in the life insurance business, Smith attended Washington College in Chestertown, Md., and served as a technical sergeant in the U. S. Army during World War II. Following his discharge, he was general manager of a loan and insurance company for three years, and for five years was associated with a Georgetown automobile firm as staff member and sales manager.

"Smith has been named to a number of committees by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, including those concerned with fraternal insurance rates and rating organizations, unauthorized insurance and federal liaison. A Methodist church board member, he is active in the Sussex County Farm Bureau and the Vavaliere Club of Wilmington. Delaware's commissioner is also a 32nd degree Mason, a former Kiwanis president and American Legion post commander."

As Delaware's insurance administrator, Commissioner Smith stated that "I am very happy to have the First State recognized in this outstanding manner and I am most appreciative of the personal tribute accorded me by this national publication."

Next Week is Farm And Home Week

This is it! Next Tues., Feb. 9, is the first day of Farm and Home Week for 1960 at the University of Delaware. Programs on everything from fashions to corn harvesting, and from lawns to pleasure horses, are scheduled. Something for everybody could easily be the motto for this year's show.

Besides the regular meetings on subjects of interest to farmers, home gardeners and homemakers, there will be several general interest events such as the general sessions held at 11:30 each day. There will also be an FFA exhibit contest as well as special awards and contests.

The Dairy Herd Improvement Association will present awards; the Governor will present prizes to the 15-ton tomato winners; and the state 4-H cherry pie baking contest will be held.

The Tuesday sessions which start off the Farm and Home Week program will cover soybeans, poultry, corn and home economics.

Corn will be one of the more important topics Tuesday. The field losses and low prices of last fall are still fresh in the minds of many farmers.

The program will provide information on corn storage, harvesting methods, equipment, and early maturing varieties.

R. G. Rothgeb, University of Maryland corn breeder for more than 30 years, will be one of the main speakers. He will explain how short-season hybrids, along with early planting, can produce early maturing corn without loss in yield.

Tuesday's homemaker show will include Miss Gail Henion, J. C. Penney Co. She will discuss the many common fibers in use today and will explain how they can be identified and cared for.

There will be a special session for home gardeners Tuesday evening. Topics include selection of lawn seed for different conditions, selection of shade trees, and a detailed program on pruning.

Wednesday

On Wednesday, dairy, fruit and potato topics will have the floor. One of the top speakers at the morning dairy session is R. F. Davis, University of Maryland. He will explain feeding tests carried out with alfalfa cut at various stages of maturity. Because of this test the Maryland Extension Service has changed their recommendation on cutting time for alfalfa.

The afternoon dairy session will deal with housing and equipment.

The morning home economics session will deal with misinformation about nutrition and weight control. Which is fact and which is fiction in food and diet information? A panel of experts will discuss quick reducing methods and misleading advertising claims. They will also answer questions from the audience.

The afternoon home gardeners program will feature four well known experts on flower arrangements. Each will demonstrate their personal tricks-of-the-trade.

Thursday

Thursday will be livestock and vegetable day, topped off by an evening program on pleasure horses. The livestock sessions will feature sheep and hog topics in the morning. A talk on beef breeding trends and a panel discussion on livestock management are on the afternoon program.

One of the highlights of the vegetable program will be a panel discussion on the corn borer problem in peppers. Possible solutions will be put forward by specialists.

Another highlight will be Gov. Caleb J. Bogg's presentation of awards to the state's 15-ton tomato growers.

A high spot on the morning home economics session will be a talk by University of Delaware psychiatric consultant, Dr. James A. Flaherty, entitled "Parents Have Rights Too." There will also be a session on upholstery with foam rubber.

A special program for horse owners, or prospective horse owners, will be held Thursday evening. Management, feeding and selection will be discussed.

The general session will be of special interest. It features Mr. Paul C. Johnson, editor of the Prairie Farmer. He will speak on "What America Needs Most from her Rural People." He is a long-time agricultural editor with newspapers, magazines and at the University of Minnesota.

Delaware Food Market Report

Old man winter continues to complicate things for vegetable producers. One producer in Florida recently said "We've been shot at and hit, but we aren't completely knocked out." This sums up the situation in Florida. A dependable supply of the most tender items coming from this growing area will be difficult to line up. Most of these vegetables will, however, continue to be shipped, but in a very limited supply and quality needs to be watched.

Prices have already jumped in most stores for such things as snap beans which show a 7 cent increase; corn has almost disappeared from the vegetable counter; cucumbers are up 5 to 7 cents each; and squash is selling from 14 to 35 cents a pound. Good quality lettuce is hard to find at any price, so check this vegetable carefully before buying. The price range is wide - 19 to 39 cents a head.

Vegetables that are good buys this weekend are definitely the hardy ones. Cabbage continues to sell for 9 cents a pound and quality is good to excellent. Celery is also a good buy—the bunches are big and of excellent quality and the price is very reasonable - 18 cents. Spinach and other hardy leafy greens are among the best values offered.

This is also true of most root vegetables. Carrots, beets and sweet potatoes are in good supply, excellent in quality and prices are low. White potatoes are up a few pennies this week.

Canned corn, and lima beans, and frozen Brussels sprouts, spinach, green peas, and corn are plentiful and may be used in lieu of fresh supplies.

Oranges, grapefruit, limes and lemons continue to highlight the list of fresh fruits. Eastern apples and avocados remain plentiful. Strawberries are now on many local markets, but quality is poor and prices are high. Rhubarb continues to be reasonable and quality is good.

The weekend specials offer the best buys for Sunday dinner, with fresh pork roasts, fryers, steaks, smoked ham and leg-of-lamb all advertised at less than average prices.

Purchase 1960 Dog Licenses Now

The Board of Game and Fish Commissioners urges all dog owners to license their dogs as soon as possible. Dog licenses for 1960 may be purchased at most sporting goods stores, justice of peace offices and the Dover office of the Game and Fish Commission.

The Commission stresses the importance of securely attaching the 1960 aluminum tag on the dog's collar. It is almost impossible to identify a lost, strayed or stolen dog that is not wearing a current license tag.

A dog license costing $1 should be obtained for all dogs over four months of age. North of the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal, a current rabies inoculation is mandatory. The following clinics have been scheduled by the New Castle County Health Unit. Licenses will be available at these locations.

Feb. 15—2-4 p.m., Town Hall, Delaware City; Feb. 23—2-4 p.m., Brandywine Fire Co., Bellefonte; Feb. 29—10 a.m. to 12 noon, Hockessin Fire Co., Hockessin; 2 to 4 p.m., Talleyville Fire Co., Talleyville; Mar. 3—2 to 4 p.m., Minquas Fire Co., Newport; Mar 7—2 to 4 p.m., Holloway Terrace Fire Co., Holloway Terrace.

The following regulations affect all dog owners outside of the City of Wilmington:

1. Purchase dog license (costing $1) immediately. Dog licenses for 1959 expired Dec. 31, 1959.
2. All Dogs over four months of age must be licensed.
3. North of the Chesapeake and

Delaware Canal all dogs must be currently inoculated for rabies before a license will be issued.

4. Attach 1960 aluminum dog tag securely to collar.

5. It is just as important for confined animals to wear identification tags as those that may go afield. Easy identification will protect you and your dog and also make the work of the enforcement staff more effective.

Employment in Labor Market Remains Stable

Employment in the Delaware state-wide labor market remained almost stable from November to December, dropping a total of only 200 over the period to a December figure of 149,000.

In manufacturing firms, durable goods employment dropped to 14,500, a loss of 400, with the machinery and transportation equipment industry responsible for the decline as one of the area's automobile manufacturers temporarily separated 3100 workers in a delayed reaction to the steel shortage. Offsetting part of this, the other area automobile manufacturer returned 2000 employees to work as steel became more plentiful. Primary metals employment rose 700 as the steel workers returned to their jobs; however, fabricated metals and "other durable goods" showed little change. In the nondurable goods segment, food employment showed an increase of 200 as some canning operations increased for the Christmas season; apparel rose a like amount and the chemical industry as well as rubber and plastic products showed a slight upturn. On the dark side of the picture, printing and publishing, leather products and textiles each decreased 100 over the month. Compared with the same period in 1958, the industries leading the way; this was partially counter-balanced by a drop of 300 in textiles.

In nonmanufacturing, many industries showed fluctuations but overall employment changed only slightly, dropping 100 from both the October and November figures to a December total of 92,600. As expected, contract construction was down 700; finance, insurance and real estate dropped 200 as one firm employing approximately 80 workers went out of business, and service and miscellaneous declined 500 when one firm dropped that number due to the completion of a specific job. To offset these losses, government added 300 workers as Christmas hiring came to a peak in post offices; the wholesale and retail stores hired 90 persons for the pre-holiday rush. Compared with December, 1958, nonmanufacturing was up 2600; the bulk of the change being in contract construction which was up 200 over the year.

Average weekly earnings increased slightly, rising $1.52 to $88.46, or $2.27 higher than a year ago, although under the $90.25 average for October, 1959. Average weekly hours rose five-tenths of an hour as primary metals gained 3.6 hours to 42.6 with the resumption of production in the steel industry. The fabricated metals workweek increased 2.4 hours. Offsetting these increases, machinery and transportation went down 1.5 hours. Among nondurables, most industries remained at near the previous month's level, the major changes were a rise of 1.2 hours in apparel and a drop of 1.6 hours in "Other nondurable goods." In the meantime, average hourly earnings remained nearly stable, the only changes of any note were rises of eleven cents an hour in primary metals and thirteen cents in machinery and transportation equipment.

The labor turnover accession rate increased from 2.7 in November to 4.7 in December due almost entirely to the changing picture in the automobile industry. Other industries making up the economy showed little change.

Parole Violator Gets Five Years

Larry Anderson of Harrington was sentenced to serve five years for violation of parole in Superior Court Thurs., Jan. 27, by President Judge Charles Terry.

Judge Terry said he felt it is imperative to break up the pattern of people getting into trouble after they are placed on parole.

Anderson was convicted three weeks ago by a jury on a charge of assault and robbery at Harrington on Aug. 31. He took a Ford pickup and $31 from Benjamin Silberiesen.

Judge Terry also gave him three years, to be served concurrently, on the assault and robbery convictions.

Florida Famous As Farming Area

Florida is as famous for farmers as it is for fun lovers. Twenty-five Delmarva area farm folks have returned from a week of touring the Homestead, Belle Glade, and Pompano vegetable production centers.

Perhaps the most significant and ominous sign for the Delmarva visitors was a warning on water shortages. Dr. H. F. Forsee, director of the Everglade Agricultural Experiment Station, spoke of efforts being used to conserve the fresh water supplies of central and south Florida. A huge drainage district has been formed to relieve what was becoming a dangerous situation due to expanding population.

They saw 60 acres of strawberries in one plot bedded down in plastic cover to reduce weeding south of Miami. There was one field of 140 acres of staked tomatoes which the farmer was trying to save from freezing by the use of two helicopters and smudge pots. They examined a $22,000 harvesting machine which took 59 men to operate in harvesting celery. This particular farm shipped an average of 32 car loads of celery per day during the peak of harvest.

One firm was receiving, washing, waxing, and packaging 1500 crates of green wrap tomatoes per hour with one machine. The group was told that the reason consumers find the flavor so poor at times is because they are improperly ripened. Flavor is best if the tomatoes are ripened at a temperature of 70. Most terminal packers play the market and either hurry or delay ripening by varying the temperature.

Farm specialists at the University of Florida developed the schedule which emphasized winter production of tomatoes, potatoes, strawberries, and leaf crops. County agents in the five lower Florida counties guided the group. Special visits were made to research plots at two of the Florida agricultural experiment stations.

Among those making the tour were: Wm. Pilchard, Howard Adkins and William Nock of Snow Hill, Md., Robert Rider and Frank Boys of Bridgeville; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Elliott and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Workman of Laurel, Md. and Mrs. James Bounds of Milton, Wm. H. Richter, Phillip Tuthill, George Papp, and George Vapaa, all of Dover; Fred Eifer of Wyoming; L. J. Roe of Magnolia; Charles Ewing and George Fisher of Smyrna; John Annett of Staytonville, and Edgar Williams of Salisbury, Md.

The tour was sponsored by the Peninsula Horticultural Society.

Caesar Rodney School News

Mon., Feb. 1, the students of the Caesar Rodney Schools had an opportunity to hear Lt. Col. Salvatore A. Pelle, leading authority on missile development and an space travel for the Air Force, address two assembly programs in the high school auditorium.

Colonel Pelle discussed the development of space travel, past, present, and future and the impact of the space age on education. His subjects included the effect which recent and prospective advances in space travel and missile development have on international and human relationships.

In the junior high school, seventh grade students previously studying music the first semester will begin home economics and shop. Livestock Day At U. of D.

"How to Make Money with Livestock" could very well be the title for this year's livestock program at Farm and Home week at the University of Delaware Feb. 11, according to county agent George Vapaa.

Successful producers of swine, beef and sheep will appear on the program and explain how it's done.

Sheep and swine topics will be on the morning program. Beef will feature the afternoon program and a panel of all the speakers will finish out the afternoon by trying to answer any questions offered by the audience.

The beef speaker will be James B. Lingle, manager of Wye Plantation, Queenstown, Md. He has been a beef breeder for 20 years and will discuss the differences between show type animals and meat producing animals as well as the trends in breeding.

F. M. Shultz, a sheep producer from DeGraff, O., will start the livestock program off Thursday morning at 9:45 with his talk on "Making Money with Sheep." He is president of the Ohio Sheep Producers Council.

The swine speaker is D. H. Fisher, specialist at Conner Prairie Farm, Noblesville, Ind. His topic is "Value of a Swine Testing Program."

There is also an evening program on horses, Mr. Vapaa said. Mrs. J. Deaver Alexander, of Buck and Doe Run Farm, Coatesville, Pa., will be a featured speaker discussing management of light horses.

Another topic on the pleasure horse program includes William Mitchell, agronomist, and Howard Hoyt, agricultural engineer with the University of Delaware. They will discuss the research work they are doing with pelleting hay for horses and the results of some of their feeding experiments.

Professor L. V. Tirrell, head of the department of animal husbandry at the University of New Hampshire, will discuss judging and election of horses.

Mr. Vapaa says John H. Shropshire, Extension livestock specialist with the University of Delaware, is very enthusiastic about the program.

Lunch will be available at Agricultural Hall everyday of Farm and Home Week, February 9-11, and there are many other good programs besides the livestock sessions. There will be home economics programs everyday for the ladies too, so bring your wife he said.

Get the quiet proof of Chevrolet's superior performance on the road—No other car in the low-priced three can match the borne-on-the-wind sensation you get from a ride in the 1960 Chevrolet. But that's not surprising when you consider to what lengths Chevy has gone to provide for your comfort at no extra cost to you. As you drive, count the ways Chevrolet has been thoughtful:

- Supple Full Coil suspension—Coil springs at all four wheels melt bumps as no other suspension can. Taking the punch out of rough roads is their only function—they don't have to anchor the rear axle.
- Butyl rubber body mounts—Thicker, newly designed body mounts further insulate you from the road.
- Body by Fisher—Only Chevy in its field offers the polish and craftsmanship of Body by Fisher.
- Foam cushioned seats—Chevy offers foam cushioned seats in both front and rear in all series but one.
- Safety-Girder frame—X-built and not merely X-braced, the Safety-Girder frame affords greater rigidity to minimize twisting and squeaks.
- Hydraulic valve lifters—Oil hushed hydraulic valve lifters reduce engine noise to a whisper.
- Cushioned steering shaft—A universal joint and cushioned coupling keep those annoying road tremors from the steering wheel.
- Precision balanced wheels and tires—Here again Chevy has shown concern for your comfort by eliminating vibration in this vital area—tire life is longer, too.
- Easy steering ratio—Chevy's high ratio Ball Race steering takes the work out of steering for you.
- Superior weight distribution—Chevy rides better, handles better and stops better because the car's weight is more equally divided between the front and rear wheels.
- Wide choice of power teams—Choose from 24 different power combinations to satisfy the itchiest driving foot—more than any other car.

Magazine Campaign
The annual magazine campaign sponsored by the bands of the Harrington Schools will begin next Thursday, Feb. 11 and continue on to Monday, Feb. 22.
These magazine campaigns were started several years ago as a project sponsored by the grade school band, junior high school band, and the senior high school band as a project to cover the needs of these three organizations. Many articles were added to the bands such as additional instruments, extra uniforms, etc. This year the project will be a complete set of parade drums which are badly needed.
It is hoped that the community will support this project as it has in the past and help in improving both the appearance and ability of the three bands of the school.

Veterans News

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Q—I am applying to VA for compensation for a disability I believe is service-connected. My service was during peacetime. If VA grants me compensation, will it be at the same rates as for a veteran who served during the war.
A—No. Unless your disability was incurred under extra-hazardous conditions, such as simulated warfare, your compensation if allowed, would be at 80-percent of the wartime rate.
Q—If a veteran's GI insurance premiums are being paid by someone other than the veteran insured, will VA send premium notices directly to the person making the payments?
A—My husband died recently of a service-connected condition and I am now drawing death compensation from VA. I have a chance to take a secretarial job. Would my earnings in a job decrease the amount of my compensation?
A—No. Your income would have no effect on your death compensation. Income limitations do apply, however, to pensions based on deaths not connected with military service.
Q—I am going to college under the Korean GI Bill. If I take a part-time job this summer, will I have to report those earnings to the VA?
A—No. Students taking classroom college training under the Korean GI Bill need not report outside earnings, and outside earnings do not affect allowance checks in any way.

Employment of Handicapped On Increase

The Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped has made forward strides in the past year, according to the annual report submitted to Governor J. Caleb Boggs by James H. Sears, committee chairman.

Mr. Sears reported that while there is still resistance to employing handicapped persons in some areas, sixty-three persons were placed during 1959. Positions for both men and women covered a wide range—from clerical jobs to aircraft mechanics. "We know that those who employ these handicapped people have in the majority of cases been more than pleased with their services," Sears told Governor Boggs. "We hope that with an accelerated campaign in 1960 placements will continue to go up. We still maintain that employers are overlooking a good bet when they pass up a trained handicapped worker."

The following business, service and government organizations were responsible for giving employment to the sixty-three people, all of whom had been previously screened and interviewed by the Employers' Advisory Committee: Hessler, Inc., Wilmington; Jos. Bancroft and Sons; Strawbridge and Clothier; Delaware Steeplechase and Race Association; Dover Air Force Base.

Also Memorial Hospital; State Tax Office; Eastern Malleable Iron Company; L. D. Caulk Company, Milford; Allied Kid Company, Wilmington; duPont Company; Valley of the Swan Hotel, Lewes; Draper Canning Company, Milford; Mulco Products, Inc., Milford; National Vulcanized Fibre, Wilmington; John Wamaker's, Wilmington, and Radio Station WILM.

Mr. Sears said that Employers' Advisory Committees have expanded in all three counties and now have one hundred and thirty people from which to choose monthly panels for interviewing handicapped people. The overall Governor's Committee has grown to forty people, all of whom have been most cooperative, Sears said.

MacSumner Mullin serves as chairman of the New Castle County Employers' Committee. Kent County chairman is Harry K. Jackson, International Latex Corporation, and Sussex chairman is James Cresson, of L. D. Caulk Company.

During the past year these committees held eighteen meetings, interviewed eighty-five people and placed sixty-three. Mr. Sears, as chairman, attended 42 meetings during the year. He gave addresses before the President's Committee Regional meeting, Atlantic City, N. J.; the annual meeting of the Tennessee Governor's Committee in Nashville and before the District Governor's Committee session in Washington, D. C.

The report also tells of the second annual National Employer Committee meeting which was held in Wilmington last September in conjunction with the Governor's Committee's annual awards luncheon.

Mr. Sears paid tribute to the press and radio for keeping people informed regarding the handicapped. He said this service was quite influential in having more people become aware of the abilities which trained handicapped workers possess.

Mother of the Year Search Off to Good Start

The search for the Delaware Mother of the Year is off to a good start and nominations are now being received, according to Mrs. William N. Cann, state chairman for the American Mothers' Committee.

In making this announcement, Mrs. Cann advised that all completed nomination blanks are to be received by the Delaware Committee prior to a March 5th deadline. Meanwhile, nomination blanks may be obtained from Mrs. Cann at 1508 Pennsylvania Avenue, Wilmington, or from any other member of the state committee.

According to Mrs. Cann, each of the fifty states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico, will designate an entry for the American Mother of the Year contest and announcement of identity of the winner of national honors will be made on the opening day of the annual mother's conference, Tues., May 3, at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York. All the 1960 State Mothers, along with the new American Mother of the Year, will be especially honored during the Conference.

Home Accidents Decreased in 1959

Home accidents took 56 lives in Delaware in 1959—showing a 16 per cent reduction from the year before—it was reported Thursday by the Delaware Safety Council.

The breakdown into deaths from various types of home accidents revealed that the reduction is largely due to a decrease in the number of deaths from fires. Last year there were 13, as compared with 24 the year before.

Falls continued to be the largest single cause of home fatal accidents, causing 32 in 1959. The year before there were 29 deaths in Delaware from falls at home.

There were three deaths from poisoning last year, and only one the year before. Accidents with firearms took two lives last year; none the year before. Suffocation was responsible for five accidental home deaths last year and the same number the year before. All other causes were responsible for one death in such accidents last year and eight the year before.

The figures were compiled by the State Board of Health. Mrs. William N. Cann, the Safety Council's Vice President for Home Safety, welcomed the reduction as a solid indication of progress in home safety—particularly in safety from fire. At the same time, she declared that the figure of 56 deaths leaves a great deal of room for improvement.

She also noted that the 56 fatalities from home accidents were less than the 83 fatalities from highway accidents in 1959. Delawareans should strive to reduce both figures, she said.

The home accident statistics for last year are reported in the February issue of the "Home Safety Leader," a publication of the Delaware Safety Council.

Mrs. Cann said in the monthly publication: "Family life is wonderful, precious thing. We have it within our power to make it safe and enjoyable if our children are taught safety in the home. Lip service is not enough. Children learn from the examples set by their parents and by sharing safety experiences. Teach them all you know about safe living. This is what we mean by 'Safety Begins At Home.'"

She urged that homes be "fixed for safer living," and offered a check list, published by the Safety Council, for use in inspecting homes from cellar to attic to eliminate hazards.

Holstein Annual Meeting Report

The annual Holstein cattle sale will probably be held immediately after the Kent-Sussex Fair this year. This was the main item of business agreed upon at the annual meeting of the Delaware Holstein-Friesian Association held at the Winterthur Farms, says Purnal Friedel of Viola, the president.

About 100 members and friends inspected the Winterthur herd with W. E. Reed, herd manager. Then they heard talks and reports on association activities.

The new directors elected were B. Irvin Armstrong of Middletown, and W. Levis Phipps Jr. of Centreville. Other directors besides Mr. Friedel are Joseph P. Moore of Dover, Robert P. Short of Georgetown, and Senator Earl M. Tull of Seaford.

Harold Craun of Roanoke, Va., and a director of the national association for this area, explained how classified animals with DH IA or HIR records average at least $200 in sales per animal over non-registered cattle without records. Profit conscious farmers are well aware that cows which have good performance records are the best buy, he said. The members were encouraged to use the new dairy herd improvement registry program, since Delaware now has electronic processing of records.

Bossemeyer To Be Travel Council Speaker Feb. 11

An outstanding authority on travel, James L. Bossemeyer, of Washington, D. C., has been secured as principal speaker of the third annual dinner of the Delaware Travel Council, Thursday evening, Feb. 11, at the Dinner Bell Inn, Dover, president Harry B. Bissell Jr., announced this week.

Mr. Bossemeyer is the executive vice president of the National Association of Travel Organizations and helped initiate the "Visit the U.S.A. in 1960" program which is expected to attract a record number of visitors to this country this year.

According to Mr. Bissell, the attendance of prominent travel officials from neighboring states, including Earl Poorbaugh, director of the Department of Information, State of Maryland; Harold Swenson, Director of Travel Information for the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce; and Mal Dodson, publicity director for Atlantic City, N. J., is also anticipated.

Governor J. Caleb Boggs is also expected to attend along with personnel of the tourism division of the State Development Department.

Delmarvelous chicken, grown and processed right here in Delaware, will comprise the main course of the dinner which will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Mr. Bissell said that the dinner is expected to further stimulate interest in the joint State Development Department - Travel Council promotion, "See the First State - First - '60", which is currently receiving nationwide publicity in newspapers and other media.

"We hope to make this dinner the kickoff for a great tourist season drive", Mr. Bissell declared. "We want all those associated with the travel industry to make it a point not only to affiliate with the Delaware Travel Council, but come out to this dinner and learn just how important this travel business has come to be throughout the nation."

Mr. Bissell said that election of officers for the ensuing year will be held following the dinner. During a short business meeting plans for a Springtime good-will tour into the New England States will be discussed and reports will be heard on the various promotions in Delaware which should bring tourists to the state this year.

Area directors of the Travel Council have a supply of dinner tickets and interested people may secure them through that source or by writing Miles L. Frederick, Secretary, Delaware Travel Council, 421 Orange Street, Wilmington.

Development Department Notes Increase In Its Mail Volume

While it may be the influence of Perry Como musically asking "What did Della wear?" or more likely an accelerated public response to the current tourism promotion campaign, the Delaware State Development Department has noted a definite increase in its mail volume.

Not only are more people these days writing to the Development Department for general information concerning Delaware—its historic past and its many present day attractions—but many of the inquirers are requesting specific information in a variety of fields. Strangely enough, some are even inquiring not only as to what Della wears but what other Delawareans wear, too.

In reply to the apparel question, the state information agency points out that Delawareans—at least most of them—wear the same types of apparel as worn by the people of adjacent areas.

Despite the fact that the mail volume peak ordinarily occurs in April when thousands (1200 to 1500 per week) write for information concerning the state's Springtime attractions and Vacationtime facilities, the Development Department is currently receiving up to 250 pieces of mail daily, a noticeable increase in what has ordinarily been the mail volume at this time of the year.

Many of the inquirers have undoubtedly read some of the publicity produced and distributed by the state information agency as specific types of literature, prepared and distributed by the Development Department, are frequently being requested by actual title.

The Department's "Welcome to Delightful Delaware," a colorful brochure telling of the state's many attractions; "The Delaware Calendar of Events," listing many of the outstanding events occurring in the "First State"; "A Historical Guide to Delaware"; and "Adventure Out-of-Doors in Delaware," this latter giving information concerning the state's outdoor recreation facilities, are reported as being the pieces of literature most frequently requested by title.

The Development Department co-sponsors with the Delaware Travel Council, the current "See the First State - First - in '60" campaign, which is Delaware's participation in the nationwide "Visit the U.S.A. in 1960" program.

Harrington 13-8-19-21-62 Milford 18-17-24-22-81

Tuesday night on the home court the Lions dropped a thriller to Delmar 51-50 when the visitors converted two foul shots with 17 seconds to play.

Both teams now have records of 6 won and 3 lost. Fortunately for the locals the game was another non-league affair. Harrington is still undefeated in Henlopen Conference play, despite the three successive defeats.

Harrington again found themselves with a substantial height deficiency.

Ron Collison was high for the Lions with 14 points, followed by Jim Temple with 13 and Bruce Smith with 11.

Friday night Harrington will resume league play when they travel to Millsboro. The Lions will be favored, but cannot afford a letdown as the Blue Devils have improved in their last few outings. It is hoped that many of the local rooters will follow the team to help inspire them to play the game of which they are capable of playing.

The Lion junior varsity also was involved in a nip and tuck battle with the Railroader jayvee quintet. George Collins sparked a late surge that brought the home club home in front.

With a good representation of the Chosen Friends Lodge Members, last Thursday evening district grand master Harry W. Cloud, visited our lodge with two of the Brothers of Morning Star Lodge Smyrna, and explained to the members how and why the Odd Fellows Lodge first started.
