

City Directory Sponsorship Gets Interest of Chamber of Commerce

The Chamber of Commerce voted Monday, at its February meeting, at The Wonder R, to approve the sponsorship of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows for a city directory.

Samuel A. Short Jr., said the lodge, which published the last of the directories a few years ago, was only considering publication of the pamphlet and wanted to know the reaction of the Chamber of Commerce to the project.

The Chamber favored the publication as being a good thing for the community.

As far as it is known, Harrington is the only lower Delaware community to have had a city directory in recent years.

In other business, in answer to a letter from Rollins Broadcasting, Inc., the Chamber voted to participate in community television programs if the corporation secured the rights for Channel 12, Wilmington.

Booster Class Venison Dinner Attracts 100 Plus

More than 100 persons attended the ninth annual venison dinner of the Booster Class of Asbury Methodist Church Tuesday night in the Collins Educational Building.

The venison, at the covered-dish luncheon, was excellently cooked by Mrs. W. Cliff Miller. Mr. Miller who, heretofore, had killed the deer for the dinner, was given the meat by a friend at Capeville, Va. Mr. Miller had been supervising the raising of a train shed at Cape Charles and was unable to hunt this year.

After the dinner, a quarterly meeting was held, with the Rev. Roy Tawes, superintendent of the Dover District, being present.

Afterwards, the Musical Boosters, composed mainly of Booster Class members, entertained. The musicians were as follows: Mr. Miller, Samuel A. Short Jr., Marion Brown, Clarence Kemp, Lawrence Bell; the Rev. Richard Gibson, pastor; Ed Harriett, and Novelle McReynolds.

In honor of the Rev. Tawes, Mr. Miller composed the following parody, to the tune of "Little Brown Jug":

Crisfield boy - little known;
The swamps of Gumboro he called home;
Silver Brook, Milford, Wilmington,
All around with The Book he run.

Oh, ho, ho; you and me
Rev. Tawes, how we love thee,
Tho' some miles you'll travel
more

We need you here on the Eastern Shore.

He always had good things to say,
This Crisfield lad from the Chesapeake Bay,
Silver Brook, Milford, Wilmington,
All around with The Book he run.

Oh, ho, ho; you and me
Rev. Tawes, how we love thee,
Tho' some miles you'll travel
more

We need you here on the Eastern Shore.

Felton School District has acquired approximately nine acres of additional land adjoining the school grounds.

The land will be developed into a high school athletic field, thus providing additional space as a playground for elementary school

DSEA to Hear Whit Burnett

Whit Burnett, celebrated anthropologist of the Greatest Living American Authors and the World's Greatest Living Humorists, who is speaking at Harrington on March 11 is a straight-faced comedian who sometimes allows himself the pleasure of tongue-in-cheek which usually brings chuckles and belly laughs from his audience. A shoo-in candidate for the nebulous title of "The Lecture Circuit's George Gobel," Mr. Burnett mixes erudition with humor.

Burnett gains his prerogative for erudition as editor of "Story", the magazine of literary discovery which has given the chance for immortality to unknown writers. His humor comes from the fact that he is Whit Burnett, and perhaps, because he is an anthropologist of humor. With the appearance of a college professor (he is), Burnett differentiates among humor, comedy and wit and joyously decides they all are funny.

Whit Burnett and the short story have been practically synonymous to a whole generation of American writers and readers. He has probably read, edited and printed more short stories than any other editor of today.

He is especially revered for searching out and encouraging young writers. He is the discoverer and first publisher of such varied and well-known authors as William Saroyan, Richard Wright, Mary O'Hara (whose "My Friend Flicka" books have sold more than three million copies), Eric Knight ("Lassie Come Home"), Norman Mailer, Ludwig Bemelmans, Jesse Stuart, Carson McCullers, Turnley Walker, Lawrence Langner (as an autobiographer) and many others.

Whit Burnett was a young newspaperman in Paris when he edited the first issue of Story through which he was to discover so many of the writers who are famous today. Besides his widely-read anthologies, Mr. Burnett's other books include: "Two Bottles of Relish", "The Literary Life", "Immortal Bachelor", "The Maker of Signs."

OK of Some Revenue Bills Before Reform Action Seen

Miss Lois L. Hopkins

The possibility of action by the General Assembly on revenue proposals was revived Tuesday when Democratic legislative leaders received a letter from Gov. J. Caleb Boggs indicating he would be willing to consider some individual revenue measures on their merits before his reform program is enacted.

Previously, the Democrats thought action on revenue measures of any kind was out because of the Governor's policy of "reform before taxes."

Meanwhile, they have been wondering what to do about the pile of requests for emergency deficiency appropriation to get certain state agencies through the current fiscal year and to staff and open new buildings at two institutions. Available funds are short of the requests.

The apparent blockage against action to boost revenue was lifted Tuesday in a letter sent by the Governor to Senator Allen J. Cook, president pro tempore of the Senate, and Speaker Sherman W. Tribbitt of the House of Representatives.

Both leaders said Tuesday night they view the letter as interpreting the "reform before taxes" edict to apply only to a general tax program, and not to specific items needed to balance the budget while paying for state services.

The leaders found this interpretation in the part of the Governor's letter which said:

"If the General Assembly enacts any new revenue legislation to meet the expenditures it makes to pay the cost of state services, including those measures recommended by the Joint Revenue Committee, I will consider them."

Leon E. Donovan, former representative in the Legislature from the Ninth Representative District, announced this week he would be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for senator from the Fourth Senatorial District.

The district comprises the Sixth and Ninth Representative Districts.

The successful candidate in the Democratic primary will compete in November in the general elections.

Donovan, born in Farmington, is married to the former Catherine Taylor. The Donovans have two children, Mrs. James E. Shultie, of Verdun, France, and Leon C. Donovan, of Harrington.

Donovan served in the House of Representatives from 1953 to 1956, inclusive, and was majority whip the final two years. He served as chairman of the Passed Bills Committee and the Appropriations Committee. He was vice chairman of the Joint Finance Committee.

He is a member of the Farmington Volunteer Fire Company and a trustee of Prospect Methodist Church.

Kent Election Post For Hughes

L. Winfred Hughes, Hartly, has been re-elected president of the Kent County Department of Elections for his third two-year term.

Mr. Hughes, a Democratic member of the department, is cashier of the West Dover Trust Company, of Hartly, and is town clerk of Hartly. His present term as a member of the elections department continues until July, 1963.

Re-elected with him at the biennial reorganization meeting of the department, held recently, were Harold J. Carrow, Sr., of Smyrna, secretary, and Mrs. Blanche B. Cahall, Harrington, assistant secretary, who also is beginning her third two-year term. Mrs. Cahall also serves as office secretary. Mr. Carrow's time in office is only about a year less than that of the other two officials.

Charles W. Hopkins, Harrington, was sworn in as a member of the department of elections by the other members to fill the unexpired term of the late Norris Graham, Harrington.

Q. and A. On Proposed School Consolidation

This concerns a proposal by the school boards of Harrington, Felton, and Frederica, to create a new high school district to be superimposed upon the school districts which presently comprise Harrington, Felton, and Frederica and to be administered by a joint high school district board.

Q—Why is this proposal being made?

A—In order to secure a more comprehensive program of education for the children of this area at the lowest possible cost. The program would include the more common vocational courses in addition to the academic courses. Harrington and Felton must tax up to the legal limit to build at home if this program fails.

Q—Which school districts will be directly involved and become a part of this newly created joint high school district?

A—Harrington, Felton, and Frederica.

Q—What will be the type of organization provided for in the proposed high school?

A—In the beginning the new school building will house grades 9 through 12. It should be noted, however, that all seventh and eighth grade pupils will attend either Harrington or Felton, where the junior high school program is presently in effect.

Q—Is this organization of grades 9 through 12 final and permanent?

A—No. As soon as enrollment increases are sufficient, grades seven and eight will be brought into the new high school. This will provide an eventual high school organization housing grades 7 through 12 in the one building.

Q—How many pupils will be expected to enroll in the new high school?

A—Approximately 700 pupils at first. Eventually the enrollment may reach 1200 to 1500.

Q—What is the cost of the proposed high school expected to be, A—$3,075,000.

Q—Will the school districts of Harrington, Felton, and Frederica be expected to finance the entire building program on the basis of 60 per cent for the State and 40 per cent for the joint high school area?

A—No, not if the State supports the vocational program 100 per cent.

Q—What, then, will the actual cost of the new high school for Harrington, Felton, and Frederica if the State pays for the vocational program 100 per cent?

A—A small tax rise of 33 cents on real estate or 16 cents on real estate and $5.00 on capitation tax.

Q—Do these figures represent the total educational cost to Harrington, Felton, and Frederica?

A—No. This cost will be for the construction of the new high school only. The cost for the elementary school programs of the three districts will remain on the present basis.

Q—Will each of the three districts be assured of representation in the administration of the newly created high school?

A—Yes. This will be accomplished in the following manner. Each local board (Harrington, Felton, and Frederica) will have one representative on the joint board.

LOOK AT THE LOWER PRICES
List prices as much as $76.05 lower on popular models with popular equipment

The '60 Chevrolet models most people buy, equipped the way most people want them, are actually priced lower than last year's models. This two-tone Bel Air V8 sedan, for example—with Turboglide, push-button radio and de luxe heater—lists for a whole $76.05 less! Prices are lower for all comparable V8 models throughout the line. Also for all comparable 6-cylinder models with Powerglide. Yet Chevy's loaded with more of the things that put pleasure into owning a car. (Just look at the list!) It's the greatest year yet to get into a Chevy!

Big brakes for quicker, surer stops. Rivetless bonded linings mean they last longer, too.

More room to relax in. Chevy sedans offer roomier seating than any car in their class. Lower, narrower transmission tunnel means more foot room.

Only full wraparound windshield among the leading low-priced cars.

Electric windshield wipers keep sweeping even when you speed up to pass.

Vent windows crank open and closed. So much simpler than fighting those tricky little catches.

Keyless locking of all doors. Quick and easy. The same key opens door, glovebox, trunk and starts the car.

Economy Turbo-Fire V8. Or how to get up to 10% more miles per gallon of regular and still have lots of "git."

Thriftiest 6 in any full-size car. It's the '60 version of the engine that got 22.38 miles per gallon in the 1959 Mobilgas Economy Run.

Widest choice of power teams. 24 engine-transmission teams in all, with output up to 335 h.p.

A trunk that's made for long trips with up to 22.5% more actual luggage space. Still's lower for easier loading.

Fisher Body craftsmanship. Look at the finish, the detail work. You'll see the difference.

Drive it—it's fun-tastic! See your local authorized Chevrolet dealer for fast delivery, favorable deals.

Veterans News

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—My husband died as a result of injuries received in World War Two. He obtained a GI loan during his lifetime, which is now paid off. Am I, as his widow, also eligible for a loan?

A—Yes. Any widow of a World War Two or of a Korea Conflict veteran may be eligible for a GI loan if the husband's death was service-connected. The fact that the veteran may have obtained a loan does not affect the widow's eligibility.

Q—I am a disabled Korea veteran eligible for vocational rehabilitation training. Does the degree of my disability have any bearing on the subsistence allowance I would receive while in training?

A—Yes. For example, a veteran with a disability rated 30-percent or greater, and who has one dependent, may be paid up to 135-dollars a month while in training, in addition to the compensation he is receiving.

Q—I get two benefits: my monthly training allowance, and compensation for a service-connected disability. Do I have to report either on my 1959 Federal income tax report?

A—No. Benefits are tax-free. Interest on GI insurance dividends left with VA on deposit, however, should be reported.

Q—Are there any restrictions on GI insurance that would make the policy invalid if the veteran holds a hazardous occupation?

A—There are no such restrictions on GI insurance. The veteran may engage in any occupation, no matter how hazardous, without it affecting the terms of his policy or the amount of the premium.

Junior Could Get Peptic Ulcer Early

Junior could get a peptic stomach ulcer before his "old man." And if his father does develop the ailment, it may have started in his youth.

These are the conclusions of three Chicago physicians reported in the current (February) American Medical Association Journal of Diseases of Children.

"Despite its relative infrequency, peptic ulcer in children should not be considered rare," they said.

"The true incidence of peptic ulcer in children cannot be evaluated on the basis of the recorded cases, since these undoubtedly represent a small fraction of the total number of children with the disease. In many cases, symptoms are entirely lacking and the condition is identified only at operation or autopsy."

Drs. Alberto Ramirez Ramos, Joseph B. Kirsner, and Walter L. Palmer of the University of Chicago department of medicine cited studies showing that out of 1000 adult patients with duodenal ulcer, 26 of them had symptoms traceable as far back as 4 years of age, and out of 1000 with gastric ulcer, 16 had symptoms that dated from childhood.

From their own experience with 32 cases of peptic ulcer in children up to age 15, observed from 1936 to 1958, they concluded that:

Chronic peptic ulcer in children is more frequent in males than in female at all ages.

Symptoms of peptic ulcer are vague in children until the age of puberty when they begin to resemble those of adults.

Duodenal ulcers exceed gastric ulcers.

Chronic peptic ulcer in children is more frequent than acute ulceration and often remains unrecognized for long periods.

Medical management with avoidance of gastrointestinal irritants in food and medication, frequent antacids, and sedation, is effective in the majority of children with peptic ulcer.

As in the adult, surgical management may be necessary in childhood peptic ulcer complicated by hemorrhage or perforation.

The cause of peptic ulcer in children remains as obscure as its occurrence in adults, the researchers noted.

However, in the four cases of acute peptic ulceration among the 32 patients, cerebral damage and certain drugs may have been implicated as causative factors, they said.

Two patients, aged 6 and 7, developed acute peptic ulceration following a month's treatment with corticotropin, salicylates, an aspirin for rheumatic fever. But it could not be determined whether the drugs produced the ulcers, or irritated a susceptibility to ulcer, or whether rheumatic fever predisposed to peptic ulceration.

St. Stephen's Episcopal Church Notes

Confirmation classes at St. Stephen's began on Mon., Feb. 8. Young people twelve through fifteen years met at the Parish House after school and were in session until 5 p.m.

All adults, including those sixteen years and older, interested in confirmation or in learning more about the church's history and doctrine met Monday 8-9:30 p.m.

A definite schedule of confirmation classes will be decided upon after the first meetings; most of the sessions will be held on Mondays and Wednesdays.

The congregation is looking forward with much pleasure to the 11 o'clock service on Feb. 14, when Harrington Cub Scouts will be guests of St. Stephen's.

Feb. 14, 4:30 p.m., the Kent County Convocation of Young People will meet at St. Stephen's. The local group of Episcopal young churchmen will be hosts and hostesses on this important occasion. The valentine theme will be used for decorating the parish house, and a committee will be responsible for serving supper to the guests from Milford, Smyrna, Bridgeville, Seaford, Camden, Dover. The service of evening prayer will be conducted by boys and girls of the St. Stephen's Youth Group, this next Sunday, 7 p.m.

At their regular business meeting on the fifth Sunday after Trinity, members of the Episcopal Young Churchmen passed the following rules to be added to their by-laws: All those who attend at least half the meetings and pay their dues will be considered members in good standing and will be eligible to participate with the group in the social activities planned for each week, skating, bowling, etc.

March 1, the annual Shrove Tuesday pancake and sausage supper will be held at the parish house, 4:30 to 8 p.m. Cost will be $1 per adult and 50 cents for children 12 and under. Anyone interested in attending the supper may secure tickets from a member of the Men of St. Stephen's, the organization sponsoring the affair.

Flowers on the altar the fifth Sunday after Epiphany were given to the Glory of God and in loving memory of Margaret H. Bland by Mr. and Mrs. Granville J. Hill.

During March the 11 o'clock services each Sunday will be broadcast from St. Stephen's over a near-by radio station.

Ushers last Sunday were Messrs. Robert Creadick, James Hoffman, Ernest Killen, and Robert Quillen.

Acolytes who served at Sunday services were Franklin Fowler, Ronnie Porter, Dennis Bradley, Roy Porter, Clyde Perry, Gary Porter, William Thompson. Feb. 21, at the parish house during coffee-hour, members of the Episcopal Young Churchmen will have a bake to raise money for a youth group project. Members of the congregation may buy dessert for Sunday dinner from the young people and help boost a good cause.

Coffee hour hostesses last Sunday were Mesdames George Johnson and Robert Nelson.

The altar guild committee for February is composed of Mesdames Robert Creadick and Ernest Killen.

What's New In Household Appliances?

What can homemakers expect in new appliances this year? Are they bigger and better or smaller and better, and do they have more gadgets and colors?

Miss Patricia A. Middleton, home management specialist with the home economics extension service, University of Delaware, reports that the gadgets are the thing. Most home appliances coming out this year will have more quality fixtures that used to be considered too expensive.

For example, manufacturers expect about half of the household refrigerators, to be sold this year, to be refrigerator-freezer combinations. It may become the standard type in most urban homes. Among the people with home freezers, the conventional refrigerator will continue, of course.

Changes have been remarkable in the home laundry room during the last few years, Miss Middleton said. The wringer washer accounts for only about 20 percent of the market nowadays. Automatic washers with two or more wash and spin speeds are the most popular now. The deluxe types have all kinds of controls for selection of washing time, agitation and spin speeds, and water temperatures. Another new wrinkle in washers is an automatic bleach dispenser. There are several new dryer models out now that have built in moisture condensers which do not require an outside vent.

In the kitchen the electric and gas ranges have had a lot of popular features added. Rotisseries, barbecue attachments, warming drawers, double ovens, thermostatic burners, and waist-high broilers are items coming into widespread use. Smaller sizes are gaining popularity too.

Nearly all electric ranges now have ovens which are started and stopped by simple clock settings. Until recent years they were found only on more expensive models.

In the living room the vacuum cleaner has shifted in design from the tank-type to the canister-type. It is lighter and cheaper and, with larger motors being used in recent models, it has just as much cleaning power as the tank-type. Power-driven rug cleaning tools with revolving brushes are also being produced for use with the higher priced models, Miss Middleton said.

Group Hospital Service Has Operating Loss

Group Hospital Service had a net operating loss of $337,883.08 last year, as compared with a net operating gain of $339,293.87 the year before.

The year's financial figures were reported yesterday by H. V. Maybee, Managing Director, who said the deficit was caused by the same factors which forced the non-profit community organization to raise its membership fees effective Dec. 1. With the rate increase in effect, financial experience was satisfactory in December, and should continue to be satisfactory this year, he said.

Costs of meeting the hospital-medical-surgical bills of members went up more in 1959 than income in dues from members, the financial report shows. Paying the bills of members took $9,976,709.77 last year—more than a million dollars more than the $8,678,039.28 required for that purpose in 1958.

Dues from members brought in $10,364,398.09 last year, up less than $700,000 from the $9,881,693.63 in dues received the year before. Operating expenses, chiefly because of increased membership, meanwhile, were slightly higher. They came to $725,571.40 in 1959, while the year before they were $664,360.48.

Group Hospital Service had income of $141,819.71 from investment of reserve funds and other sources apart from dues. This brought the net loss for the year down to $196,063.37. The year before the organization ended the year with $461,743.66 to add to its reserves. The difference between last year's financial experience and that of the year before was a drop of $675,807.03.

Mr. Maybee also pointed out that operating expenses in the Blue Cross Plan were held down to five per cent of earned subscription income last year, about the same as the 4.9 per cent figure achieved the previous year. In the Blue Cross Plan, 99.9 per cent of dues from members was paid out in hospitalization expenses and the net operating loss was 4.9 per cent.

In the Blue Shield Plan, operating expenses required 11 per cent of earned subscription income, as compared with 10.6 per cent the year before. Surgical-medical expenses paid for subscribers took 93.5 per cent of subscription income and the year ended with a net operating loss of 4.5 per cent.

Group Hospital Service had a better year with its newer plan, the extended benefits endorsement. Operating expenses took 6.9 per cent of earned subscription income and claims expense required only 72.9 per cent, leaving a net operating income of 20.2 per cent. The plan, only one of the three to end the year in the black, put $142,1652.67 in reserve.

Police Say Arrests Solve Several Thefts

The arrest of two juveniles by state police detectives of the Bridgeville troop Wed., Feb. 3, cleared up two burglaries and a petty larceny.

The boys, aged 14 and 15, were sought in connection with a burglary the previous Sunday at the New Process Fibre Plant at Greenwood where the office was ransacked. State police said there was a full recovery of stolen articles including several guns and dynamite caps.

Arrest of the pair, both from Greenwood, also cleared up a burglary which occurred at Cahall's Drug Store in Greenwood on Jan. 29, and a petty larceny at the home of Dorothy Porter Dec. 31.

Both were turned over to their parents pending appearance in Juvenile Court.

How the Rabbit Lost His Tail

Heptachlor No More on Crops

The Food and Drug Administration has placed a zero tolerance on Heptachlor for use in or on agricultural crops. This means that Heptachlor cannot be used on alfalfa, or on any other forage crop, where there is apt to be a residue of Heptachlor, according to an announcement from Dr. Dale F. Bray, extension entomologist with the University of Delaware.

There has been considerable interest in the use of Heptachlor in granular form, or mixed with fertilizers, for alfalfa weevil control. Even though these forms are designed to be used before the alfalfa starts to grow, they would still produce residues on the crop at harvest time. Therefore, the use of Heptachlor on alfalfa, in any form, is illegal. Alfalfa weevil control is now limited to methoxychlor or malathion sprays.

Methoxychlor should be applied at a rate of 1 1/2 pounds actual active ingredient per acre, Bray said.

Malathion should be applied at a rate of one pound actual active ingredient per acre. No cutting should be made within seven days of application.

Timing of sprays this year will be of utmost importance, Dr. Dale Bray said. Applications should be made when feeding by small larvae becomes noticeable and before heavy damage occurs. If the timing is right one application may be enough.

By harvesting alfalfa in the bud stage, farmers can reduce the amount of damage that would result if the crop was left standing longer. If you harvest early, before any serious damage from weevils occurs, spray the stubble to protect new growth from existing larvae.

Malathion is also effective against aphids but not against spittlebug. Methoxychlor is effective against spittlebug but not aphids. Early cutting will reduce aphid problems and methoxychlor is somewhat cheaper than malathion, so the most practical treatment might be early cutting and treatment with methoxychlor.

Farmers should follow "Late News About Insects and Diseases" for the exact time to spray in each county. To get this publication, ask your county agent or write the Department of Entomology at the University of Delaware and ask to be put on the "Late News About Insects and Diseases" mailing list.

Troopers Trace Car Parts From Crash to Owner, 23

A clever piece of detective work by trooper of the Bridgeville Barracks, Delaware State Police, who matched particles of the automobile which damaged a catch-basin on Route 13 near Harrington early Saturday, led to the arrest of a Felton man and his conviction on two traffic charges.

The catch-basin was badly damaged by the automobile, and state troopers hurried to the scene to investigate. They found particles of the vehicle scattered near the shattered catch-basin. Chunks of concrete were strewn across the highway.

The trooper picked up the small pieces of the damaged car, which had evidently headed south, and picked up the trail.

The car was found parked in the yard of a Harrington home, but the owner was gone. Troopers however, matched the pieces of metal found at the scene of the accident, and decided they had the right car.

The driver, Leroy Rawding, 23, of Felton, finally returned to the parked car and was arrested on charges of reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

Rawding, a truck driver, told police he had fallen asleep at the wheel. Damage to the car amounted to about $1000.

Brought before Magistrate L. Gooden Callaway, Rawding was fined $25 on each charge and costs.

Loulou Is A Lulu Cow

The top cow for Kent County as reported in the Delaware Dairy Digest for February was Loulou, an 11-year-old cow who made a 305 lactation of 18,650 pounds of milk and 675 pounds of butterfat and is still milking. She is a registered Holstein owned by Maurice Adams of Harrington, on official testing in the dairy herd improvement association program.

Delbert Cain, who is a neighbor of Mr. Adams, had a registered Holstein about a year younger named Mary who did almost as well. She gave 18,160 pounds of milk and 580 pounds of butterfat in the same length of time.

Walter Holt of Dover, had a grade Brown Swiss cow Narice produced 15,390 pounds of milk and 649 pounds of butterfat as a six-year old. The Jersey herd of Bancroft and Thomas, east of Camden, had two high producers with 565 and 457 pounds of butterfat.

Most of the above herds were among the nine Kent County farms for high average of 41.6 pounds of milk per day and 1.6 pounds of butterfat per day per cow. Others ranked below in this order: Delbert Cain of Harrington, Maurice Adams of Harrington, John Clayville of Wyoming, Charles C. Blendt of Smyrna, Woodrow Haas of Wyoming, Arthur Short and Son of Smyrna, Ormond Hobbs of Harrington, and Harold Redden of Harrington.

Kent County dairymen are being encouraged to reduce grain feed costs by feeding high quality hay. The subject is presented fully in the Digest by Dr. W. R. Hesselstine, extension dairyman at the University of Delaware. He presents a table which shows the protein needs in the grain mixture depending on the quality of hay being fed.

U. of D. Freshmen Excel In 4-H Leadership Program. Two University of Delaware freshmen have won top state honors for 1959 in the 4-H leadership program under the supervision of the Cooperative Extension Service. They are William Thomas Carter, 19, of Newark, and Joyce Warrington, 18, of Bridgeville. Both received pen and pencil sets provided by Edward Foss Wilson. Carter helped organize the Green Meadows Club in New Castle county 10 years ago and has been leading officer and committee head in almost every club activity. He has been president, council member and a junior leader for four years. As state winner in the field crops program in 1956, he was awarded an expense-paid trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. He has planned and staged seed judging contests and has organized demonstrations on garden projects and conservation. Miss Warrington, leadership winner in the girls' division, has received awards in a variety of projects during her nine 4-H years. As state winner in the dress revue program two years ago, she was awarded an expense-paid trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. The previous year, she was the Sussex County delegate to the Governor's office during 4-H Club Week. Twice president of her local club and junior counselor, she served on 20 committees.

Test: Don't Guess About Fertilizer

In order to select the right crop to plant in a field and to apply the most efficient amount of fertilizer to that crop, a farmer has to have more information than his memory can provide.

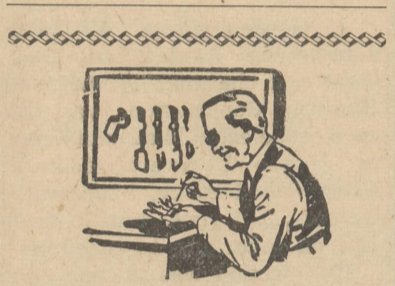

A good assistant to your memory is available, free, from your county agent, George Vapaa, or your fertilizer dealer. It is a field record book.

"Many of the leading farmers in the county are very enthusiastic about the record book," Mr. Vapaa says. "It takes very little time and it can provide information that can make you money over the year. And it's free."

By keeping track of the crops and fertilizer that goes on a field you can figure the future pretty closely when you plan the next crop. Also, soil testers at the University of Delaware can give a more accurate recommendation if they have a good field history to help them.

The record book has a page for each field and blanks for planting date, soil test results, lime, fertilizer, manure, and pesticides used, yield, and a place for weather notes, prices, etc.

"It is a simple and easy form that can make a lot of difference in a tight year," Mr. Vapaa says. "The record book can help you look back and tell what a field did for you under certain conditions in the past and help you to predict more closely what you can expect from the field."

6622 Acres To Be In Soil Bank In Kent County

6,622 acres of Kent County cropland will be held out of production in 1960 under Conservation Reserve contracts, according to a report on Soil Bank activity by Lister V. Hall Jr., office manager of the Kent Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County office at Dover.

Land in the Conservation Reserve is held out of production to help ease the farm surplus situation and is kept in conservation uses to meet future needs.

About 5,916 Kent County acres were already out of production under this program, and approximately 706 more were added in 1960 as a result of the sign up last fall, Mr. Hall said.

The 87 whole farms (farms on which all the cropland is out of production) accounts for 5894 acres of the total amount of cropland under contract in the county in 1960. A farmer who places all his cropland in the Conservation Reserve may continue to live on the farm and maintain a home garden. Whole farm contracts, Mr. Hall pointed out, remove the entire production potential of the farm and leave no land for more intensive farming.

Good progress was made during 1959 in establishment of conservation uses on land under contract in this county Mr. Hall said.

3604 acres were established grass cover, 90 acres were planted in trees, seven ponds were installed and 107 acres were devoted to wildlife cover. The balance of the acres had an approved cover already established when the land was offered.

The Conservation Reserve is a program under which farmers voluntarily sign the contracts with the Federal Government to retire excess cropland from production. The Government makes an annual rental payment for the land and pays part of the cost of establishing the conservation use. About 5 per cent of the nation's total cropland is now reserved under this program.

Harrington outscored Greenwood in the first two periods but a bad third period enabled the Foresters to tie the score.

Smith and Collison were the workhorses under the backboards with 12 and 10 rebounds respectively.

quired to originate revenue measures.

"He seems confused on another point too," Mr. Boggs said. "In one statement he declared that the state doesn't need more revenue to meet the needs of the people, and in his most recent statement, he criticized the Governor for not recommending new revenue legislation."

"The Joint Revenue Committee has recommended several small tax measures which have never been acted upon by the General Assembly. Because I refused to commit myself on these measures prior to legislative action, the chairman of the Joint Revenue Committee has tried to use this as an excuse to shirk the responsibilities given the committee by the General Assembly," the Governor said.

Tuesday night Mr. McGinnes issued another statement in which he questioned the accuracy of the Governor's estimate of savings that would result from central purchasing by the state, and declared he would want an itemized breakdown on the supplies and quantities, and the prospective saving on each.

In his statement Mr. McGinnes said the Governor is claiming about a nine per cent net saving, but contended Mr. Boggs' figures includes such items as postage, telephone, electric costs, many types of equipment, unique to a single agency, and many items now purchased in bulk by large agencies.

He added that the Governor's release did not itemize all the items of overhead, did not show the cost of administration, the added cost of distribution to the various agencies, the cost of central warehouses, losses that can occur due to over-stocking or loss of efficiency in an office that has to wait for Dover to secure certain materials that may be needed on short notice.

Felton, and Frederica) will select each year two of its members to serve on the joint high school board. In addition, one member-at-large will be selected by the electorate for a term of five years.

Q—How will the program of the joint high school district be administered?

A—In all probability there will be a chief school officer in charge of the joint high school district to implement the policies of the joint high school board. Inasmuch as the high school is to be made up of two divisions, there may be a principal in charge of the academic program and a principal in charge of the vocational program, both of whom are responsible to the chief school officer. Local, elementary principals will be responsible to the local school district boards and will administer the elementary school programs in their respective schools.

Q—What programs of education will be found in the new, comprehensive high school?

A—Broadly considered, there will be two main types, the academic and the vocational.

(1) The academic program will permit students to pursue courses with objectives for college preparation, business, agriculture, homemaking, and general.

(2) The vocational program will permit students to pursue courses with vocational objectives in areas of automotive, mechanical, metal, wood, electrical, beauty culture, nursing, distributive education, and food trades.

Q—How many and what types of classrooms will there be in this school?

A—Classrooms will be built for two main purposes: (1) academic preparation and (2) vocational training. It should be noted that about one-fourth of the time of vocational students will be spent in academic classrooms.

For academic purposes, the following classrooms and laboratories will be found:

- 24 - standard classrooms (1 room per 30 pupils)
1 - industrial arts shop
1 - mechanical drawing room
2 - homemaking rooms
1 - typing room
1 - clerical practice room
1 - art room
1 - choral music room
1 - instrumental music room and practice room
1 - special health instruction room
3 - science rooms (multi-purpose)
1 - vocational agriculture shop
1 - vocational agriculture classroom
1 - language laboratory
1 - area for guidance room, health suite, acoustically treated room, and administrative offices group together, equivalent to 3 classrooms)

1 - special education classroom (optional for mentally retarded)

For vocational training, the following shops and classrooms will be found:

- Shops:
1 - auto mechanics
1 - auto body and fender, and welding
1 - sheet metal and plumbing
1 - carpentry, cabinet making, and millwork
1 - electrical, radio, and T.V.
1 - beauty culture
1 - practical nursing
1 - distributive education
1 - food trades (cafeteria, kitchen, and related subject classroom also to be used for teacher's luncheon)
Classrooms: 2 - related science and mathematics.

Other areas for all students:

- 1 - gymnasium, 2 teaching stations
1 - library, 75 students
1 - auditorium, 1000 seats
1 - cafeteria, 500 seats
Q—Where will the new school be located?
A—As near to the center of the combined areas of Harrington, Felton, and Frederica as possible, consistent with optimum geographical and other factors.
Q—Will transportation be furnished?
A—Yes, on the same basis as it is now being provided for all schools in Delaware.

Q—Is there a need for a comprehensive high school of the type proposed?
A—Yes, the need stems from: (1) a program of instruction presently limited as to scope and quality; (2) an overly high per-pupil cost of instruction; (3) a limited ability to acquire more good educational leaders; (4) lack of efficiency in school administration, including health services, guidance, and supervision.

Q—What are some of the advantages that may be expected as a result of creating the comprehensive high school?
A—(1) a reduction in per-pupil cost relative to the extent of instructional services rendered; (2) ability to acquire better teachers; (3) more extensive and intensive instructional programs for every pupil; (4) greater educational achievement; (5) increased school attendance and greater holding power on pupils; (6) better age-grade distribution; (7) greater efficiency and economy in administration; (8) an evening vocational program for out-of-school adults.

Vocational-Technical Program
Q—Which school districts shall be served by the vocational-technical facility of the comprehensive high school?

A—All school districts in Kent County.

Q—who shall comprise the Kent County Vocational-Technical Advisory Committee?
A—A Kent County Vocational-Technical Advisory Committee shall be formed comprised of two members from each school district in Kent County sending pupils to the vocational facility. Each local school board shall designate who shall be the two members representing it, by selecting one member from industry and one member from education (may be the superintendent or a member of the board of education). It shall be the duty of this committee to advise the joint high school board on matters pertaining to the vocational-technical program but the board shall make final decision.

Q—What shall be the basis for unit allotments?
A—The appropriate legislation shall be prepared to establish a "unit allotment" for the vocational-technical program on the basis of fifteen pupils per unit.

Hospitalization of Child Easier When Mother Goes Along

The emotional shock that may occur when a child is hospitalized can be overcome when the mother stays with him, according to a New Haven, Conn., pediatrician.

Writing in the current (February) Journal of Diseases of Children published by the American Medical Association, Dr. Albert J. Solnit of the Child Study Center and department of pediatrics, Yale University, said "hospitalization of the child with the mother has served to overcome both physical and psychological difficulties.

"For young children and their parents, the hospital environment has represented a psychological hazard. The children are threatened by separation from their parents, fears of abandonment, and painful, frightening procedures in the hands of strangers.

"Since the mother may have the best access to the distorted fears of the young child, she can most effectively reassure her child."

Therefore, Dr. Solnit said, the mother is not replaced by the nursing or medical staff. On the contrary, he said, the physician and nurse help the mother take care of her child.

Gordon Smith Slated As Bridge Head

J. Gordon Smith, of Dover, a prominent Kent County Democrat and chairman of the State Highway Commission, was slated to be elected chairman-director of the Delaware Memorial Bridge Wednesday, succeeding Garrett E. Lyons, but it didn't pan out according to schedule.

The election was to have been held at the meeting of the State Highway Commission which according to law has the authority to fill a vacancy on the bridge agency at this time.

Two reasons were given as to why the nomination of Mr. Smith as Mr. Lyons' successor did not come up at the Highway Commission meeting:

1. Benjamin Ableman of Wilmington, a member of the State Highway Commission, vigorously protested against any such election on the grounds that it was much too soon after the funeral services for Mr. Lyons who was buried less than three hours before the Highway Commission met at the Delaware Memorial Bridge administration building.

2. The Democrats were not united on the selection because some from the upper part of Delaware are of the opinion that the successor to Mr. Lyons should be from New Castle County.

Two other men have been mentioned as possible successors to Mr. Lyons — Benjamin F. Shaw II of Wilmington, also a member of the State Highway Commission and J. Tyler McConnell of near Wilmington, one-time chairman of the Highway Commission.

J. Henry Topkis, Republican, and Leroy Hawke, Democrat, are the surviving directors of the Delaware Memorial Bridge.

There is nothing in the law that prevents a highway commissioner from being elected a member of the three member Delaware Memorial Bridge Commission. In fact, some people think a highway commissioner should serve as a bridge director because of the common highway interests of the two agencies.

The official name of the bridge commission is the Interstate Highway Division.

As the highway commissioners came from the funeral services for Mr. Lyons to their meeting, some of them were ready to propose and vote for Mr. Smith to take over the job held by Mr. Lyons on the bridge.

None of all this came out at the brief meeting of the Highway Commission.

It was all group talk in ante-rooms of the Administration Building before the meeting began.

Another possible factor that prevented any one from proposing the name of Mr. Smith was the possibility that the motion would not carry.

The Highway Commission is composed of 12 men—eight Democrats and four Republicans.

At Wednesday's meeting, there were five Democrats and three Republicans.

They were: Democrats—Mr. Smith, Mr. Ableman, Dallas Culver of Seaford, Robert D. Thompson of Rehoboth Beach, Thurman G. Adams of Bridgeville.

The absent Democrats were: Mr. Shaw, Edward Kelly of Dover, Samuel J. Fox of Leipsic.

Republicans present: Dr. J. Draper Brown of Centerville, Frank R. Grier of Milford, and William P. Richardson of Dover.

Hugh R. Sharp, of near Wilmington, the fourth Republican, was absent.

Had some one nominated Mr. Smith for chairman-director of the Delaware Memorial Bridge, he would have gotten at least four votes, including his own.

It was figured that Mr. Ableman would register "No voting."

The three Republicans were all set to vote "No."

But even if Mr. Ableman had gone along with his fellow Democrats, there would have been a majority of those at the meeting but not a majority of the 12 members of the Highway Commission.

Big Dairy Barn Leveled By Fire Loss Is $25,000

A large dairy barn valued at approximately $25,000 was destroyed by fire Tuesday night on a farm owned by Harry Rudnick, prominent livestock dealer at Galena.

Firemen from four volunteer companies fought the fire from about 10 p.m. until 3 a.m. Wednesday and managed to save a number of adjoining buildings. The building itself was situated on a farm, one mile north of

Farm Credit Group Elects

Three directors of Delaware Farm Credit were elected Tuesday night at the annual stockholders meeting and dinner attended by nearly 350 persons in Caesar Rodney School cafeteria.

Delaware Farm Credit is a member-owned association making both short and long term loans to farmers. It is made up of two groups, the Production Credit Association and the Federal Land Bank Association.

Victor Cola, Middletown, president of the Production Credit Association, presided during the part of the meeting which saw Lucius C. Webb, Milford, re-elected a director and James L. Mitchell, Smyrna, elected a director for the first time.

Mr. Mitchell succeeds John Butler, who discontinued farming and therefore was not eligible for re-election.

Walter Gibb, Smyrna, was re-elected a director of the Federal Land Bank Association while Molloy C. Vaughn, Lewes, president of the association, was presiding. Edward F. Evans, secretary treasurer of Delaware Farm Credit Association, William Leonard, assistant manager, gave figures for the Federal Land Bank Association.

Dr. William E. McDaniel, professor of agricultural economics at the University of Delaware, spoke to the group, as did William Frederick, representative of Baltimore credit banks.

Burning of the mortgage on the Delaware Farm Credit office building concluded the program.
