

COUNCIL REFUSES TO RECLASSIFY IMPROVED FARMLAND FOR TAXATION

After a lengthy debate, the City Council, at its April meeting Monday night, refused, by a split vote, to pass a resolution by which farmland, using City improvements, or City utilities, shall be assessed for taxation.

Councilmen Clarence Collins, Alan Rutledge, and William Smith voted for passage of the resolution, introduced by the first-mentioned councilman, while Councilmen Charles Hopkins, Raymond Dean, and Tom Brown voted against it. Mayor Charles L. Peck Sr., broke the tie, going with the opposition.

The resolution, included in the minutes of the meeting, read as follows: "Resolved, that in the event that any improvement be made by the City, including making available City utilities to any land judged to be farmland, that said land shall be assessed at the next scrap or general assessment, whichever comes first, as improved land, number of lots to be determined by Council provided property owner does not subdivide said land."

Council Rutledge then asked for a motion for a special meeting of Council and the city solicitor, Herman C. Brown, and an open hearing on farmland, under the City Charter, is not taxable. Mayor Peck answered it was too late for the present assessment.

Councilman Rutledge retorted he had been on the Council two and a half years and had heard continual contention about farmland. He added that amendments to the Charter were sought in the General Assembly without luck. He then said he wanted to know the right way to go about it. The mayor answered the right way is to change the Charter.

Rutledge then referred to a section of the Charter which stated the Council could determine what is farmland. He added the Council had received a mandate, at the annual citizens' meeting in January, to change the Charter and nothing had been done. The Mayor answered there was no way to do it with the present Legislature.

Rutledge then asked for a special meeting, within two weeks, with the City solicitor to meet with the Council to discuss farmland with the view, that if, in the opinion it is advisable, to hold public hearings. The motion was passed unanimously.

Other Council Business
A petition, signed by Howard Wagner, J. Stanley Wyatt, J. Millard Cooper, Albert Price, and Mayor Charles L. Peck Sr., was presented asking for curbing and surfacing of Second Avenue, with the property owners to pay half the cost of curbing. The petition was placed on file.

At the behest of Councilman Rutledge, a motion was passed to ask for bids on curbing and resurfacing of Simpson, Short, High, Dixon, and Liberty Streets (from Delaware Avenue to Dorcan Street), and Smith and Second Avenues. It was not expected to secure bids with the view of beginning work in the near future, but with the view of being prepared when the time came, possibly next fall.

Councilman William Smith suggested professional assessors at all general assessments and wanted to go on record as favoring the move. No action was taken. The councilman also brought up the issue at a recent meeting.

Dr. Hewitt W. Smith, previous mayor, was at the meeting as a visitor. However, when asked if the State Board of Health had gotten in touch with him about assuming the responsibilities of the local Board of Health, of which Dr. Smith is chairman, he replied it hadn't. He added he didn't know what the state board wanted and thought it would be unwise because of problems special to the community. If anything arises, he believed, the Council could handle it.

The State Board of Health, at a recent Council meeting, had expressed its desire to handle health problems of the community but would get in touch with the City first. Dr. Smith said he would see Dr. M. H. Mires, of the Kent County health unit and report the next meeting of the Council. Other members of the local Board of Health are Dr. Robert Smith and Thomas Clendening.

In reply to a report of insanitary toilet conditions on Thorpe Street, Dr. Smith said he would check on them.

EVANGELIST — The Rev. J. A. Grout, of High Point, N. C., who will preach at Pilgrim Holiness Church, April 21 thru May 1.

Revival Services Begin Thursday at Pilgrim Holiness

The annual spring revival campaign will open in the local Pilgrim Holiness Church, located on Delaware Avenue, Thurs. April 21, with the Rev. J. A. Grout, Sr. serving as the evangelist. Music on the vibraharp, organ and piano will be under the direction of Wesley and Virginia Chatfield.

The Rev. Grout is now serving as pastor of the Pilgrim Holiness Church at High Point, N. C., but has been used widely as an evangelist. The church at High Point is the largest in the entire Pilgrim Holiness denomination and the Rev. Grout is now completing sixteen years of pastoral duties there. His many years of experience both as a pastor and evangelist should make a definite contribution to the success of this series of revival services.

Wesley and Virginia Chatfield have traveled across the entire area of our general church for many years serving as gospel singers and musicians. They have been used in camp meetings and church revivals and are kept busy the entire year in gospel work. The Rev. William H. Miller, pastor of the local church, extends a warm and sincere invitation to the people in Harrington and the surrounding area to attend these services.

Rutledge then asked for a special meeting, within two weeks, with the City solicitor to meet with the Council to discuss farmland with the view, that if, in the opinion it is advisable, to hold public hearings. The motion was passed unanimously.

Conservation Topic of Century Club Meeting

"Have you visited the Cypress forests in Florida? There is no need to travel such a distance to see them for in our own state there are Cypress groves." So advised Mrs. Eugene Hackendorn Jr., State Conservation Chairman of the G.F.W.C. at the Harrington New Century Club meeting Tuesday. Mrs. Hackendorn spoke also of the many other natural resources in our small state. H.H.S. Loses Two Baseball Games

The Harrington High baseball Lions lost their second game in two starts to John M. Clayton by a score of 7-2 on the home diamond last Friday. The defeat gave the Lions an 0-1 record in the Blue Hen Conference.

Jim Temple in his first try as a moundsman held the opposition to six hits while fanning seven. Even though he walked nine men he should have had a shutout going into the disastrous final inning when he and his mates blew up simultaneously and allowed the Bears four unearned runs without benefit of a hit. Fielding lapses in the third inning gave J.M.C. their other three tallies.

Walt Lekites led the H.H.S. hitters with a double and single in four trips.

Monday afternoon a veteran Milford team slaughtered Coach Bill Smith's green troops by the horrendous score of 20-3. The game was called by mutual agreement after five innings.

Milford banded out 11 hits and were further aided by 11 errors. The Buccaneers made but one error while two hurlers were holding the Lions to three hits. A paradox of the game was the fact that in spite of the amount of scoring, Pfeiffer and Rothermel, the Harrington pitchers, fanned two of the Milford batters.

The Harrington hits, all doubles, were by Pfeiffer, Collison and Sam Minner.

RACING BILL IS BLOCKED

Labor and harness racing locked political horns on the Senate floor Monday and the Senate finally adjourned about 5 p. m. without resolving the conflict, or doing much of anything else.

Two bills are involved. One is HB 446, the prevailing wage rate bill, which failed by one vote Monday when it failed to get any support from southern senators, notably from Kent County.

The other is HB 540, which would increase the number of harness racing days in the state and allow Kent and Sussex Counties to transfer some of their racing dates to Brandywine Raceway in New Castle, to enable that track to compete, if needed, with tracks being planned for nearby Pennsylvania.

Senator Reilly, embittered over what he considered a letdown by the Kent forces Monday, held fast Tuesday and blocked the harness racing bill, which also fell one short.

In the room were Vernon B. Derricksen, Kent County Democratic chairman, and J. Gordon Smith of Dover, chairman of the State Highway Commission, both of whom are reported to have interests in the New Castle County track.

Tuesday's battle centered over an amendment to the bill handed up by Senator Harry E. Mayhew, a Democrat from the Kent County side of Milford, which would insure that no scheduling could block the Kent County racing at Harrington from getting underway by Sept. 15 at the latest.

Senator Reilly argued against the amendment, saying the senators couldn't vote intelligently on the bill without knowing what was in it. Senator Curtis W. Steen (D-Dagsboro), who is involved with a Sussex County contingent which does not have a harness track but deals its days to the other counties, moved to have the bill read in full. Senator Steen can normally be found in Senator Reilly's camp, but on this issue he was pushing for the bill.

Finally, on the vote on the amendment, Senator Mayhew could muster only eight votes, so he changed his for the purpose of bringing the amendment up for reconsideration and had the action on the bill deferred.

Voting with Mayhew were Hickman, Hoey, Simpson, Steen, Tull, William, and Cook, Senator Williams being the only New Castle County to go along with the downstate group. Senators du Pont, McCullough, and Reilly voted no, Correll and Watson said "not voting," which is the equivalent of a "no" in a close vote, and Senators Nechay, Price, Snowden, and Spicer were absent.

During the recess that followed the hot session, Reilly and Senators Calvin R. McCullough (D-Holloway Terrace) engaged in a competition to see who could tell Mr. Smith off the loudest. The two senators flanked the Kent Countian on the Senate floor, and complained loudly and bitterly that "every time a labor bill comes up, you're right there to see that it doesn't pass."

Reilly—"The last time I've seen you in here you came in to defeat the labor department bill. You were here yesterday, and you know how those guys (Kent senators) cleared out of their seats when that wage bill came up."

McCullough—"You'll never get a vote out of me. New Castle County's never been able to get anything down here. It's been the tail wagging the dog for too long."

The two senators could be heard from one end of the building to the other. Mr. Smith absorbed the criticism without comment.

The Senate, in calmer aspect, passed three bills: SB 326—Senator Tull, to authorize the Youth Services Commission to sell a half-acre of Ferris School land along Faulkland Road to the State Highway Department and use the money for sewer work.

SB 376—Senator McCullough, to exclude the City of New Castle from the provisions of the law permitting the establishment of park districts in northern New Castle County.

HB 467—Exempting the land maintained as a park by the Castle Hills Civic Association from Taxation.

Messner Changes Mind About Retiring; Board of Education Rules Otherwise

SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION VIEWED; CONSOLIDATION IS CONSIDERED

The Board of Education met last night at Frederica to discuss a proposed high school for Harrington, Felton, and Frederica.

Meanwhile, the Board, at a meeting Thursday night, April 7, motioned to accept and support school building construction at an estimated cost of $400,000 if the consolidated high school does not go thru.

The local program would call for elementary classrooms, 20 for whites; two for Negroes; capacity, 508 whites and 98 Negroes. Secondary classrooms, 11 for whites; one for Negroes; capacity, 363 whites, and 19 Negroes.

The facilities requested would provide for 14 elementary classrooms and an addition and renovations to the high-school building. The total capacity of all facilities, including requested construction, would be 1000.

The next regular meeting of the board will be Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

In other business, possible additions of subject matter and faculty were discussed, and first-grade enrollment was reviewed. If there is an additional first grade teacher, Mrs. Clara West Second Grade teacher, has asked to be considered. At present, there are vacancies in art, part-time music, in a teaching position, at P. S. duPont School, and half-time nursing. These positions are open for applications. There is also a janitor's job available.

The School Board granted the use of the auditorium to the Delaware Association for Health Education and Recreation May 14, if board conditions are met; the Field House to the Rotary Club for the beauty contest May 12, and the Field House to the Episcopal Church May 11 and 12.

A summer music program was approved, and the summer library program will be studied.

Copies of the State School Calendar were given to the board for its study. In compiling the annual report, the board is considering help from the guidance department in its compilation.

The fire drill and Civil Defense record for the year was made a part of the minutes. The termination letter of Bernard Forney was reviewed and made a part of the minutes.

The charter signifies that the Future Nurses Club fulfills requirements established by a national advisory committee on Future Nurses Clubs. It was granted on the recommendation of superintendent of schools, Mr. Messner.

As a chartered club, the Future Nurses Club is participating in a national youth program to help the nation meet future nursing needs. The club's activities are designed to enable members to explore career opportunities in nursing and other health fields.

Nurses and student nurses discuss nursing with members and answer questions. Films illustrate various aspects of health care. Field trips to nursing schools, hospitals, and other community health agencies expand career horizons. Members have visited Stockley, and plan to visit Milford Hospital and Smyrna Welfare Home during the past year to observe nurses at work.

Community projects also help club members gain insight into nursing and health work. Members are now taking part in the following: Helping fit school children with eye glasses, and fix teeth for those who cannot afford to play.

The Future Nurses Club has nine members this term. Club officers are: President, Jean Grant; vice president, Anne Perry; secretary, Alice Wright; treasurer, Catherine Moore.

Mrs. Legatha Farrow is faculty adviser to the club, and Miss Hazel Johnson is the club's sponsor.

The Future Nurses Club is one of over 3,000 Future Nurses and other clubs with a similar purpose across the country. Total membership is more than 80,000. The majority of clubs have been organized since 1950, many of them with the active help of the woman's auxiliaries to the local medical societies and other civic groups. The clubs became nationally sponsored in 1954 by the Committee on Careers, National League for Nursing, New York.

Holloway Elected Head of Cloverleaf Standardbred Owners Association

T. Brinton Holloway was elected president of the Cloverleaf Standardbred Owners Association at a dinner and organizational meeting Monday evening at Callaway-Kemp-Raughley - Tee Post No. 7, American Legion.

He is secretary and general manager of the Kent & Sussex County Fair, Inc., and manager of the Kent & Sussex Racing Association.

Other officers elected were Walter Spearing, of Salisbury, as vice president, and Donald Windsor, of Hurlock, Md., as secretary-treasurer. The association is an organization of persons, interested in the harness-horse industry, in Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, and the District of Columbia.

Plans were discussed to have the group's next meeting Sat., May 14, at Roscroft Raceway, near Washington, D.C., at which time the first leg of the HTA Pace will be raced. Among the entries will be Delmarva's Adios Oregon and Adios Butler. Members will be guests of President John Miller, of the raceway.

J. C. Messner, superintendent of Harrington schools, told the Board of Education he had changed his mind about retiring and planned to stay for the 1960-61 term. However, the board passed a resolution he be retired as of June 30.

In the meeting Thursday night, April 7, the board based its action under Title 29, Code of Delaware, Chapter 55, Section 5504 and agreed that the president of the Board of Education, Luther P. Hatfield, prepare a statement in such form as may be prescribed by the state treasurer (for pension purposes) as to enable him to comply with this section.

Messner told The Journal Tuesday he did not believe he came under this act, since it referred to employees, and believed he came under the teacher tenure act. He came here in 1926.

Under this act, teachers and administrators can serve up to the age of 75, at the option of the employing agency. However, Paragraph (a) School Laws of Delaware, 1956, Title 29, Chapter 55, Section 5521, reads: "Every covered employee of the State of Delaware may, at his option, or the option of the employing agency, be retired after such employee shall have served in covered employment for 30 years, or on or after attaining the age of 60 years and shall, after retirement, during the remainder of his life, receive the pension fixed by this chapter, subject to such qualifications and reservations as are contained in this chapter."

Messner, who had been at odds with the school board for some time, had been tendered a testimonial dinner Feb. 29 on his retirement.

Asked Tuesday why he had changed his mind, he replied he had "changed my mind because statements had been made I was leaving or running away from something and I had asked the board to prefer charges, after it had passed a resolution to dismiss me." He added that none (meaning charges) had been in evidence to date.

He added he was under obligations to his teachers, after committing himself that he would uphold them in the support of any contention as to their standing under the present tenure act. Continuing, he pointed out he would require the privilege of administrative principles as extant in the educational field.

In a "Letter to the Editor," published elsewhere in this issue of this newspaper, the board said it did not "fire" Messner but was simply retiring him which, under the laws of Delaware it had the right to do.

In part, the letter reads: "Mr. Messner at the July 15, 1959, meeting informed the school board that he had run the school this way for 30 some years and that he would continue to do so as long as he remained superintendent.

"The board feels that his policy would reduce any school board to the role of a nonentity. Yet 'The Handbook For Boards of School Trustees in Delaware' clearly states that each board has the responsibility of carrying out those policies."

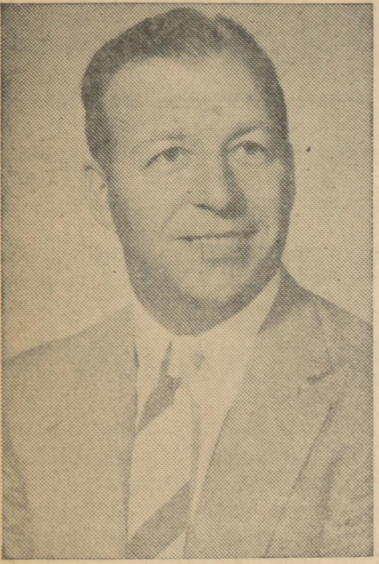

The letter concluded, "The board feels that an educator with such a lengthy record of service should be allowed to retire without being subjected to pressure by any group desiring him to return after his announced plan to retire."

Seamstress Is Dead at 94

Mrs. Josephine Carey, 94, one of the most prominent residents of the Frederica community died Monday in the Milford Memorial Hospital after a short illness.

A dressmaker widely known throughout this area, she actively sewed until she was 90 and on occasion since that age. She was a member of the Frederica Methodist Church and Sunday School and several years ago was presented a pin in recognition of perfect attendance in both the church and Sunday School for more than 60 years.

She was the widow of Will Carey and was popularly known as "Miss Jo." She is survived only by nephews and nieces. Funeral services were held from the Frederica Church yesterday afternoon, with the Rev. Thomas Churn, officiating. Interment was at Barratt's Chapel.

Delmarva Poultry Industry Fund Drive Starts Soon

Kick-off dinner for this year's drive to raise promotion and research funds for the Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc., to be held Monday evening, April 25, at the English Grill in Salisbury, Md., it was announced by Jim Davis of Seaford, general chairman for the drive.

About 125 volunteer fund drive workers from all parts of the Shore are expected, he said.

Speaker will be Willis Hancock of Snow Hill, Md., agricultural representative for the County Trust Company of Md., who has been touring the U.S. in recent months urging commodity groups to undertake greater promotion efforts to sell their products.

Davis said that volunteers at the dinner would hear a report of the way the Peninsula's poultry association had spent its funds for industry improvements and for merchandising chicken during the past year. Projects planned for the rest of the year will be outlined to show how the association directors plan to keep Delmarva chickens on top in the battle with other broiler areas for markets.

Last year, the industry raised over $120,000 for such efforts, with 2410 people and organizations contributing. Goal this year is $125,000, Davis said.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—The daughter of a neighbor of ours is a war orphan, with a physical handicap. Must she wait until her 18th birthday before she can begin training, under the War Orphans Education Act?

A—No. A law passed recently gave boys and girls with handicaps, who previously would have had to wait until their 18th birthday, the right to begin special types of War Orphans training when they reach age 14.

Q—I was in a Japanese prison camp during the fighting in Korea. I have a dental condition traceable to my service, but for which I do not receive compensation from VA. Is there a deadline in my case for applying for VA out-patient dental treatment?

A—No. You may apply at any time, and receive as many treatments as needed.

Q—If I should add the total disability income rider to my World War Two GI insurance policy, and become disabled, would the amount my beneficiaries would receive from the policy in case of my death be reduced in any way?

A—No. Disability payments made under the rider in no way decrease payments made to beneficiaries of your GI insurance policy.

Q—Is a veteran obliged to report disability compensation as income, in filing his federal income tax?

A—No. Disability compensation paid by the VA is not taxable, nor are other VA benefit payments. Interest on GI insurance dividends, however, is taxable as income.

New Research Grants Total Over $100,000

New research grants totaling $104,310 have been made to members of the University of Delaware faculty by the National Science Foundation and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Recipients of National Science Foundation grants are Dean of Engineering Edward W. Comings and Milan H. Cobble, associate professor of mechanical engineering, $31,800 for a study on the measurement of the thermal conductivity of gases at high pressure; and Arthur B. Metzner, of the department of chemical engineering, and Harold Kwart, department of chemistry, $22,800 for a study of viscoelastic fluid systems.

Wallace H. Maw, associate professor of education, received the largest single grant, $36,155 from the Office of Education of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, to measure the curiosity in elementary school children.

Public Health Service grants go to James A. Moore, assistant professor of chemistry, $8,855 for studies on steroids with heterocyclic substituents; and John C. Wriston, assistant professor of chemistry, for biosynthesis of felinine.

The award to Dean Comings and Dr. Cobble is for a three-year period. They propose to make additional measurements on the thermal conductivity of more complex molecules such as butane to provide a better foundation for interpreting and predicting the effect of molecular structure, and to make measurements on one or more two-component systems such as carbon dioxide and ethylene. These measurements will be made with a newly developed cell suitable for operation at pressures to 3,000 atmospheres and temperatures to 400 degrees Fahrenheit.

The one-year project of Dr. Metzner and Dr. Kwart will be a study of relationships between chemical composition and physical behavior of macromolecules, and a study of turbulent flow, heat and mass transfer of non-Newtonian fluid systems. Most studies to date in both of these areas have been confined to purely viscous fluids. The proposal includes purchase of adequate instrumentation for extension of such studies to viscoelastic fluid systems.

Research has been limited in the field of Dr. Maw's project, which is to be completed by December, 1961. Casual observation indicates that most, if not all, children when they are young are aroused to curiosity by their environments, but that they tend to lose their curiosity as they grow older, for unknown reasons. Dr. Maw proposes an exploratory study into the possibilities of developing instruments to measure wholesome curiosity, which might lead to the devising of procedures to develop curiosity.

Dr. Moore's project, to be completed by the end of this year, will be to explore the chemistry of steroidal compounds in which a heterocyclic ring or rings are fused to the alicyclic skeleton. The projected studies impinge on two general areas, substituted steroids and new heterocyclic systems, from which clear inferences of pharmacological interest can be drawn.

The aim of Dr. Wriston, in his project to be completed by the end of this year, is to determine the biosynthesis of felinine in cats in an attempt to evaluate the significance of felinine formation to determine if it plays a regulatory role either in cholesterol biosynthesis or in leucine metabolism.

Delaware Food Market Report

Red eggs, yellow eggs, blue, green, speckled, striped and gaily decorated eggs of every description are about to be seen in every household as Easter approaches and egg coloring goes into mass production. Here are a few hints for getting the best results:

Always use fresh white eggs. Eggs that have been in storage or chemically treated to preserve them will not dye well. The eggs should be hard boiled. Start them in cold water, bring to a boil, then turn the heat down and let the eggs simmer for 15 to 20 minutes. If you dye the eggs when they are hot the colors will be much brighter.

Ham for Easter or perhaps it's turkey for Easter dinner. In either case both meats are in good supply and prices are reasonable. As far as size is concerned, there's a size to meet every need. On local markets there are 1 lb. cans of ham available if a half ham is too large. Turkeys can be bought by parts only.

Standing rib roast is another excellent choice for Easter dinner. This meat has dropped three cents on the pound. Veal is a little cheaper this weekend; so is leg-of-lamb. Pork loin roasts and second grade bacon is a bit cheaper, but sausage and first grade bacon is higher.

The fresh fruit and vegetable picture looks quite bright this week, with supplies being quite large for some commodities. Fresh asparagus continues to be a good buy - prices ranging from 19 cents to 29 cents a pound. This is an increase in price, however. Look for better buys during weekend sales. Supplies of sweet corn are picking up and fresh lima beans are now arriving at many local markets. Other vegetables to check are cabbage, carrots, celery, cauliflower, broccoli and lettuce.

Oranges and lemons are a penny or so cheaper this week, grapefruit are steady in price. Strawberries are continuing to increase in volume. By May there should be a marked increase of this favorite fruit in all markets. Bananas, coconuts, fresh pineapples and rhubarb are all good buys this week.

Here's another new food that is available now: A new mix for making chocolate chip squares which is quite novel. To mix, simply squeeze all the ingredients together in a bag. A gingerbread mix is made the same way - no mess, no fuss - it's all in the bag!

April 30 Deadline For State Song Stanza

About 68 entries of a new stanza to the State song, "Our Delaware," have been received from Delaware citizens, according to Floyd T. Hart, chairman of the State Song Committee.

This committee was appointed by Governor Boggs to carry out the provisions of House Joint Resolution No. 5. The resolution directed the committee to "publicize the need for an additional stanza to the state song, to invite persons to write and submit such a stanza from those submitted which best meets the requirements for this additional stanza."

Mr. Hart calls attention to the approaching deadline of April 30 for submitting entries. The rules established by the committee governing submission of entries are: (1) stanzas to be typewritten on standard (8 1/2 x 11) paper; (2) no name or other identifying mark to appear on the entry, but the name, address and telephone number of the entrant shall be included on a separate card or sheet attached to the sheet containing the stanza; (3) entries from Delaware residents only will be considered; (4) entries should be postmarked no later than April 30, 1960; (5) entries not accepted will be returned if accompanied by a self-addressed, stamped envelope; (6) the entry selected will become the property of the state and the entrant agrees to waive any copyright claim.

The stanza submitted must apply to the whole state as contrasted with the existing stanza which apply to the separate counties. The stanza selected must fit the tune of the song in meter and rhyme.

Any additional entries should be sent to Floyd T. Hart, Department of Public Instruction, Dover, Delaware.

Water Conservation Stamp Goes on Sale Tues.

This is a black and white reproduction of the 4-cent water conservation stamp that goes on sale April 19 at the local post office. The stamp printed in three colors will go on sale in Washington, D. C., April 18 at the Seventh National Watershed Congress.

The unique two-part stamp portrays a close-up view of a drop of water falling from a leaf, which symbolizes the influences of land and vegetation upon water supply. This design leads the eye into a right-panel depicting an actual small watershed panorama. People and industries in the town in the foreground are dependent for their water upon the watershed above, which ideally includes conservation managed farm and forest lands and small dams for flood prevention and water storage.

McDowell to Introduce Transportation Bill

Congressman Harris B. McDowell Jr., (D-Del.) will introduce this week a bill to assist Delaware in solving its growing transportation problems.

The bill is strongly supported by the railroad industry and the American Municipal Association, an organization representing approximately 13,000 cities and towns throughout the United States.

Co-sponsoring the bipartisan bill in the Senate is Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr. (D-N.J.) and Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.).

Representative McDowell said today that—

"It is becoming more and more obvious to the residents of northern Delaware that the building of an intricate and expensive interstate road system with tax dollars will not solve their commuting problems.

"As much as these expensive roads may be needed, it is questionable whether the growing population in Delaware's suburban areas can depend upon auto transport to get back and forth from their jobs now or in the future.

"It is clear that the complicated interstate highway system which briefly touches northern Delaware presents an immediate and heavy tax burden far out of proportion to the benefits it confers on citizens of our state.

"Our major concern should be the long range problem of how best to get the suburban commuter to and from the center city area where he is employed and to do so safely and with the most efficient expenditure of public monies.

"I believe that my bill will provide the most constructive and logical approach to the critical problem of urban strangulation and paralyzing traffic congestion."

Some of the statistics of transportation today are staggering. According to Congressman McDowell, 16 million people are totally dependent on some form of public transportation to get to and from work each day, and another 40 million are only a little less dependent upon mass transportation services.

The McDowell Bill would authorize the use of current Federal planning grants, the so-called section 701 urban planning grants of the Housing Act, for the following purposes:

1. To help determine the total transportation needs of metropolitan areas.
2. To help formulate programs for the most efficient and economical co-ordination, integration, and joint use of existing mass transportation facilities.
3. To help co-ordinate the planning activities of all the public bodies and agencies responsible for regulating or providing mass transportation services.
4. To encourage study of the interrelationship between metropolitan area growth and the development of a total transportation system, including especially study of the impact of land use on the total transportation needs of our urban areas and, conversely, the effect of transportation on land use.

Representative McDowell plans to establish a revolving fund in the amount of $100,000,000 for long term loans to State or local governments or public authorities operating or providing transit and commuter service.

The loans would be available to duly constituted public bodies. The states, municipalities or public authorities would in turn contract with the private operators for certain mass transportation services to serve the people in their area, and on the basis of such contracts lease the equipment to the private operators.

The loans are to be used, not only for rail commuter service, but for all other forms of mass transportation, including bus, subway, rapid rail and other forms of mass transportation.

Congressman McDowell said—"We are spending $41 billions of dollars to build an interstate highway system which in many instances has only complicated the traffic problem and led to further expensive changes, and has possibly contributed in part to the rise of Jimmy Hoffa."

Congressman McDowell pointed out that his bill carried out a recent Department of Commerce recommendation (the recommendation was No. 49 in a recently issued report on transportation that the Federal government should "encourage urban long-range community planning, including total transportation planning to make full use of highway, transit, rail commutation, and all other capacity to minimize total transportation cost and congestion, in full co-ordination with activities under the Housing Act of 1949, as amended."

Easter Time is Egg Time

Red eggs-blue eggs-yellow or green, they're all happily accepted as gifts from the bunny on Easter morning. The giving of eggs as a symbol of the renewal of life has been a custom for centuries even before the birth of Christ.

Dyed eggs have been exchanged for hundreds of years in almost every country in the world. They are a natural symbol of nature's awakening after the long winter.

In the old days, huge, brightly colored trays of eggs were taken to church East Eve and Easter Day. They were blessed and taken home to be shared with visitors during Easter Week. Now they are a basic Lenten food.

These days coloring Easter eggs is a family event. But some of the fun is in the eating too, so it pays to do a good job cooking your Easter eggs, according to Miss Janet Coblenz, nutrition specialist with the University of Delaware.

For tender more flavorful Easter eggs, she suggests this procedure: Place the eggs in cold water, bring to a boil and reduce to a simmer.

For 4-6 eggs simmer for 15 minutes; for more than six eggs simmer for 20 minutes. Then cool them quickly in cold water. This makes the shells easier to remove and helps prevent dark areas on the yolk.

CHEVY! YOU CAN'T BUY ANY CAR FOR LESS UNLESS IT'S A LOT LESS CAR!

Anyone who's looked around knows the majority of Chevrolet models—6's and V8's together—list for less than comparable models of other low-priced cars. But the price tag alone is only one of a whole raft of reasons a Chevy does better by your dollars.

Nothing near Chevy's size and price can match the Full Coil cushioning of its ride, or the fine, finished workmanship of its Body by Fisher. That even applies to some cars that cost a lot more. You're up in the higher price brackets before you find a car that moves as quietly as a Chevrolet or offers the inner space that Chevrolet does.

Or look at the extras Chevy gives you—at no extra cost—that others in its class can't offer at any price. Shock-cushioned steering. Safety Plate Glass in every window. Keyless locking of all doors. Letter to the Editor

We, the Board of Education of the Harrington School District, feel that the public should be correctly informed of our stand on the recent controversy at the local school.

We did not "fire" Mr. Messner, we are simply retiring him as the laws of the State of Delaware state we have a legal right to do and in accordance with his own previously expressed wish.

January 28, 1960, the board stated to Mr. Messner that they had been hearing rumors that he planned to retire. He confirmed this saying that he would retire as of June 30th. The board asked if it should have anything in writing. Mr. Messner replied that "My word is as good as my bond."

After the March meeting the board again began to hear rumors that Mr. Messner was planning to rescind his resignation. April 7th the board queried Mr. Messner on this subject. His reply was, "Yes, I said I would retire June 30th, but I did not say what year."

Mr. Messner at the July 15, 1959, meeting informed the board that he had run the school his way for 30 some years and that he would continue to do so as long as he remained superintendent.

The board feels that this policy would reduce any school board to the role of a non-entity. Yet "The Handbook For Boards of School Trustees In Delaware" clearly states that each board has the responsibility of formulating policies and that the administrator has the responsibility of carrying out those policies.

In Chapter III of the same publication is the following quotation: "The selection of competent school personnel is probably the most important function of the school board. The school board alone has the power to select, appoint, and dismiss its school employees."

The board feels that an educator with such a lengthy record of service should be allowed to retire without being subjected to pressure by any group desiring him to return after his announced plan to retire.

Veterans News

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—My husband, a World War II veteran, passed away recently. Since he had no service-connected disability, I was ineligible for VA death pension as his widow. I understand that under a new pension law I may now be eligible. Is this correct?

A—Yes. Widows of World War II and Korea veterans may be eligible for pensions even if their husbands had no service-connected disabilities at the time of their death. This new pension program, however, does not go in effect until July 1.

Q—With my pension check, I received a special form and an information pamphlet from VA. This was to help me decide if I want to come under the new pension program. I did the calculations VA asked me to do, and it looks like the new system is best for me. Will VA check my computations?

A—Yes. That is the purpose of the special election form you received. You were asked to compute how much you expect to get under the new system, for this year as well as for the next year. VA is now checking over the election forms. If it appears you have made the wrong choice, you will get another chance to decide.

Q—I'm a Korea veteran with GI term insurance. Please give me the details about the new-type, lower-cost term insurance I've been hearing about.

A—If your policy has the initials "RS" before its number, you may exchange it for a term policy with a premium costing about two-thirds less than your present premium. This new-type term gives the same protection but cannot be renewed after age 50. You may convert this policy to permanent-type GI insurance at any time before the last renewal period runs out.

Q—I have to go to a VA hospital, for treatment of a service-connected disability. Will my compensation check continue to come to me while I am in the hospital?

A—Yes. Your disability compensation will continue while you are in the hospital, and will be paid directly to you. Special rules, however, cover special cases, as for instance, where there are allotments to dependents, or in cases of incompetency.

Spring is Sprung

Every farmer is glad to see things green up in the first warm rains of spring but no one is happier than the cowman. Nothing makes a cowman happier than the sight of his cattle mowing down that first growth of forage.

To keep those pastures and hay fields looking green takes work and good management. County agent George Vapaa suggested that dairy and beef producers drop him a line and get a copy of a new leaflet on pasture management.

It's called "Greener Pastures" and was prepared by William H. Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware.

More than a ton of feed will come off most every acre of hay and pasture in Delaware in the next two months, Mr. Vapaa said.

That means the potash, phosphorus and nitrogen are being taken off too.

"The right fertilizer, properly applied, is one of the best investments a farmer can make," he said.

To get that top yield you should get a top dressing on right away, he said.

Mitchell recommends 400 pounds of 0-15-30 made up of hay or pasture stands made up of more than about 25 percent legumes. For fields with less than 25 percent legumes, he recommends 800 pounds of 10-10-10.

The nitrogen will be needed in a pasture high in grass. With high legume mixtures more potash is necessary.

The leaflet also mentioned two special cases. Forage mixes containing alfalfa should have about 15 pounds of borax applied per acre.

In the other case, the pastures leaflet said nitrogen should not be used on birds foot trefoil.

While on the topic of pastures and leaflets the county agent went on to say that it's a good time to do something about garlic pastures too. He has a leaflet on garlic control which he will be glad to send out upon request.

One quart of 2, 4-D sprayed on per acre, will do the job, Mr. Vapaa concluded.

Shear Sheep Early Advises Agent

Springtime is sheep shearing time, and early shearing before warm weather, will make ewes more comfortable. Early shorn ewes will milk better and lambs will grow faster, and fatter too.

Provide shelter for at least two weeks after shearing, county agent George Vapaa said.

It takes twelve months to produce a fleece of wool, and care at shearing time will insure top value. He emphasized the following points.

Sheep must be dry at shearing time.

Keep straw, hay, and chaff out of fleeces.

Shear on a clean floor and keep it clean.

Remove dung locks.

Burs, seeds or any foreign matter reduce value of the fleece.

Avoid second cuts. Second cuts reduce value of fleece greatly.

Roll fleece with clean side out.

Tie fleece with paper twine only.

Do not tie name tags or identification on fleeces or bags with binder or sisal twine.

Store wool in a clean, dry place until it goes to market.

New Pruning Leaflet Out

How and when to prune woody plants is a common spring time question around the county agricultural agent's office at this time of year. So he is glad to announce that he now has a leaflet on this topic.

It is called "Pruning Woody Plants" and was prepared by Robert F. Stevens, Extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

It is the first of a series of one page leaflets which will deal with specific problems of pruning. This one is illustrated and gives basic information on methods of pruning, the right times to prune, the various reasons for pruning, and some of the finer points that apply to all pruning situations.

George Vapaa, Kent County agricultural agent, said he would be glad to send you one if you drop him a line at the Dover postoffice and ask for a copy.

St. Stephen's Episcopal Church Church Notes

The Rt. Rev. Arthur Lichtenberger, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church will be "The Episcopal Hour" speaker on Easter Day. His subject will be "Thanks Be to God." This broadcast may be heard over a local station at 10 a.m. and another Delaware station at 1 p.m.

It will be of interest to church people in Delaware to know that Bishop Lichtenberger will visit Harrington on the occasion of the 175th annual diocesan convention to be held at St. Stephen's this year. The dates of the meeting will be May 11 and 12.

It was a pleasure to have as guest organist on Palm Sunday, Frank Thompson of Wilmington, who played the hymns, canticles, and anthem for the service of morning prayer. Mrs. Walter Winkler, St. Stephen's organist, ably assisted the choir by singing alto with them.

As an offertory Miss Kitty Lou Smith sang "The Palms," traditional anthem for Palm Sunday.

It was a pleasant surprise to have a large group of members of the Moose visit St. Stephen's last Sunday, take part in the 11 o'clock service and greet friends at the coffee hour following.

Mrs. Thomas Clendening and Mrs. Ernest Killen served as coffee hour hostesses Palm Sunday.

The Episcopal Young Churchmen have undertaken a worthwhile project, sponsoring the Sunday School Easter Egg Hunt each year. The young folks plan to dye eggs on this Saturday, purchase prizes, and make all preparations for the egg hunt on Easter Sunday. The older boys and girls will hide eggs for different age groups in specified areas of the church grounds.

All members of St. Stephen's Church School are reminded to be present Easter Sunday, April 17, 5 p.m. for the mite box presentation service, with the egg hunt following. There will be no Sunday School at 9:30 a.m. but the 5 o'clock service will take place of the regular church school session.

The Episcopal Young Churchmen prepared and served supper to the men of St. Stephen's Wed., April 13.

Acolytes who assisted in the services last Sunday were Franklin Fowler, Charles McNally, Gary Porter, Robert Eastman, Billy McColley, Bill Thompson, Clyde Perry.

Services on Easter Sunday will be Holy Communion, 8 a.m.; Holy Communion, 11 a.m.; Mite Box Presentation, 5 p.m.; Evening Prayer, 7 p.m.

Members of the Junior Choir will join the Senior Choir in singing both Communion Services.

The Women of St. Stephen's will have their monthly meeting April 19, 8 p.m. at the Parish House. Since this will be the last regular meeting before the diocesan convention, all members are requested to come.

Out-of-town guests who recently signed the register at St. Stephen's were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Barrett, Dover; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Link, Jr., Felton; Roy Peterman, Greenwood; Rita W. Saulsbury, Felton; Virginia Holston, Milford; Charles E. Saulsbury, Felton; Mrs. Lawrence Rose and Lee Rose, St. James Newport; Mr. and Mrs. William A. Reed, New Castle; Mr. and Mrs. William J. Boyd, Wyoming; Mr. and Mrs. John Semans, Camden; Mr. and Mrs. William E. Jerman, Greenwood; Mr. and Mrs. George Harris, Felton.

The patients at Messick's Nursing Home were given a small Easter remembrance by the Women of St. Stephen's.

Complete Wool Sales Records Stressed

With the 1959 wool marketing year coming to a close and the 1960 year beginning, growers were reminded today of the importance of complete records on their sales of wool and unshorn lambs. Producers will be eligible for payments for the 1959 marketing year for wool and unshorn lambs marketed not later than March 31 of this year. Later marketing will be eligible for payments for the 1960 year.

Lister V. Hall Jr., office manager of the Kent Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Office, at Dover, reminds wool growers that the sales documents must show the true net scales proceeds, including deductions made for freight and other marketing charges. Where false information is filed, both the producer and the wool buyer are subject to penalties. Application for payment under the 1959 program must be filed at the County ASC Office not later than May 2. The average price received by farmers for wool during the entire marketing year can then be calculated and the payment rate announced. Payments to growers will be made sometime during the summer.

Felton School News

Junior-Senior Prom. Felton High School's annual Junior-Senior Prom and Banquet was held last Sat. April 9. Given in honor of this year's Senior class, it was noted as a big success.

The banquet was served by the mothers of the Junior class in the school cafeteria, which was authentically decorated as a cruiser's dining hall to coincide with the theme of the Prom, "Moonlight Cruise."

Before dinner was served, the Rev. Hugh G. Johnson gave the invocation. Then junior class president, Barbara Hoffner, gave the Junior Toast of Welcome. The faculty and senior toast of welcome were given by Mrs. Margaret Phelps and Joan Lockwood, respectively.

After the meal Joyce Walls read the Senior Class Will and George Nabb entertained us with a bit of humor. Marie Carlisle, assisted by three senior class members awarded many of the faculty with small gifts as a token of their appreciation for their many years of patient service. At the close of the banquet, Howard E. Henry, supervisor of Felton Schools, presented a speech entitled "Flood Tide." Then Dawson Richards, led the group in a song.

Corn Borers Set Delaware Record, Threat to Crops

Corn borers have had a population explosion during the past two years that makes the rapid human population rise seem like second grade arithmetic.

The borers set a new record in 1958 with 248.5 borers per 100 stalks, a terrific jump from 1957 when the count showed only 90 borers per 100 plants.

Last year the borers reached another record-breaking high of 394 borers per 100 stalks or nearly four per plant!

The borers feed on the corn plant, slowing its growth and preventing it from reaching full normal size. Even greater losses occur when borer-weakened stalks fall over, preventing normal harvest with the corn picker.

When corn borers team up with corn earworms, sap beetles, stalk rot and low prices, as they did last year, the farmer is really in trouble, says Dr. Dale F. Bray, chairman of the department of entomology at the University of Delaware.

In terms of cash, last year's losses of 1,318,000 bushels of corn in Delaware alone, kept a million and a half dollars out of farmers pockets.

The trouble is that many of the borers that did the damage last year have wintered over in old corn stalks and other plant trash. They are out there in your corn field waiting to continue their population explosion as soon as the weather warms up.

Dr. Bray urges farmers to plow old corn stalks and stubble under before the borers can reproduce. Many borers won't be able to make their way to the surface and will die underground. Those that do come up the bare surface will either die of exposure or will be eaten by birds.

Clean plowing before May 1 is the best and cheapest way to combat the destructive borer.

File Wool Applications Early

Chairman William H. Reynolds of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee today urged wool growers who sold wool or lambs during the 1959 marketing year which ended March 31, to file their applications for payment under the national wool program as early in April as possible.

Early filing is desirable, Mr. Reynolds said, because the information on applications is needed in computing the average price received by growers. This must be done before the payment rates for shorn wool and unshorn lambs can be determined. Since April 30 falls on Saturday this year, the final date for filing applications is May 2, 1960.

The applications being filed at this time are to show all sales of wool and unshorn lambs during the period between April 1, 1959 and March 31, 1960. For a sale to be considered completed during that period, title must have passed to the buyer, the wool must have been delivered, and the last of the factors needed to determine the net sales proceeds must be available.

Mr. Reynolds urges growers to be particularly careful in reporting purchases of unshorn lambs on their applications. Inaccuracy on this point is the most troublesome problem in administering the wool payment program, he said.

Under the wool program, payments are made to growers as an incentive to increase wool production. The payment rate is the percentage necessary to bring the national average price received by growers up to the incentive level of 62 cents a pound. Under the percentage system, the grower who receives the highest price for his wool also receives the largest payment.

Trinity Methodist Church Notes

Palm Sunday morning, in the regular 11 o'clock worship hour, the following children were presented by their parents for the sacrament of Christian Baptism; which was administered by the Rev. Benjamin: Marvin Wade Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin E. Brown; Cora Jo Anne Matthews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Nye Matthews; Anita Jo Redden, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack S. Redden; James Justin Simpson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James William Simpson; and Dale Gordon Warner, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon W. Warner.

through the Police Station, saw an empty cell, a lie detection instrument, and many other interesting things.

By noon we inspected the warehouses at the Wilmington Marine Terminal and learned how important the Terminal is to overseas countries and the United States.

There were many foreign cars, bundles of cork and paper products waiting to be shipped out.

From the terminal we proceeded to Ft. Christiana Park where the Swedes landed in 1683.

Finally we arrived at the Hagley Museum which is situated on the Brandywine River.

After each group finished touring the outside, we were allowed to ride on a jitney and tour the other buildings.

After all had finished touring the museum we headed south to Dover.

Parents along with the teachers and the principal, Mr. Benner, came as chaperones.

Table with columns for team name, player, and statistics (ab, r, h, bi). Includes teams MILFORD and HARRINGTON.

The H.H.S. girls' softball team had the rare distinction of performing a triple play Friday afternoon against John M. Clayton.

The lassies won their first start in the Henlopen Conference by a score of 13-10.

In the first inning with the bases full a J.M.C. batter belted a line drive down the first base line.

Betty Lee Hendricks caught the liner, stepped on first base and fired the ball to Kenna Jo McNatt at second for the third out.

Very few male teams ever pull a triple play. It is almost unheard of for members of the feminine gender.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Murphy complained about horses and dogs and the Council replied it would see what could be done.

Murphy wanted his sidewalk fixed, too, but was told it was his property and it was up to him to handle it.

Harry Boyer wanted the City to pay for removing snow from the street in front of Boyer Funeral Home.

He had the work done by a local contractor. The City agreed to pay half the charge but added it would not do so in the future except in an emergency.

As it was, the City removed snow from the business district the day after the contractor had performed his chore.

A point for third place in the half mile to contribute six points toward the victory.

George Balderson also made six points with second places in the shot putt and discus.

He and Ron Collison are within a foot of Bob Wilson's H.H.S. record of 39 ft. in the shot.

Harry Knotts and Bruce Smith were the other Lion winners in the mile run and pole vault respectively.

Jim Temple furnished the biggest surprise of the day from a local standpoint. Temple a senior, is out for track for the first time.

He captured third place in the 100 yard dash with a very fine 10.6 clocking. His time is very good for a first year man and it would win in many downstate meets.

The high jump and won the 220 yard run in good time. Richard Schriber was a good second to Fry in the 220 and this pair along with Paul Rash and Lamar Beene led all the way to win the 880 yard relay.

The writer was especially impressed with this youthful quartet. Barring unforeseen circumstances they should be real tough some day. Fred Wyatt was the shot put winner in his first outing ever.

European Influence As Evidenced In Delaware

Delaware, only ninety-six miles long and thirty-five miles across at its widest point, is in many ways the United States in miniature. In every aspect it is a Middle State, centrally located on the Atlantic Coastline, blended of north and south, new and old, farm and factory.

Its people from the beginning were of diverse nationality and tradition. As it has matured, much of its past has been wholly absorbed. But at other points the separate strands of its history, running back into the Europe of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, are clearly visible in existin buildings, history, bloodline and institutions.

The Dutch were the earliest arrivals. Under their auspices Delaware Bay was discovered in 1609; their nationalists attempted the earliest European settlement within the State's present borders in 1631. While their period of active political control was short, 1655 to 1664, they have left permanent mementos. Since Holland's colonists, for the most part, remained here after the settlement was ceded to Great Britain, there are many surnames of Dutch origin among the long-resident families of Delaware, especially in the vicinity of New Castle, the principal Dutch settlement. A little house of Dutch colonial architecture, probably built in the late seventeenth century, still stands on The Green at New Castle. It is now a museum, furnished carefully in the style current when it was new. Another building reminiscent of Dutch influence is the Old Presbyterian Church at New Castle. Although the structure now in use dates only from 1707, the Presbyterian congregation in the village originated in the Dutch Reformed services held in 1651, when the site was first fortified by Peter Stuyvesant to assert his country's claim to the Delaware against the encroaching Swedes. The first Dutch settlement on the River, Zwaanendael, established in 1631, left no physical remains on the surface: Its stockade burned and its communal house leveled before David Pietersen deVries arrived with the first intended reinforcements. But because a settlement "of Christian people" was there when the Royal Charter for Maryland was drawn up, British courts in later days affirmed that the western shore of Delaware River and Bay was not part of the domain of the Lord Baltimores. For the three hundredth anniversary of the settlement in 1931, the State of Delaware erected a building at Lewes in the Dutch style in memory of its earliest pioneers. It is a replica of a portion of the Town Hall of Hoorn, deVries' home, and is maintained as the Zwaanendael Museum, devoted to the history of the immediate vicinity. The actual site of Zwaanendael is approximately a mile from central Lewes, marked by a monument placed early in the twentieth century. Within the past few years archaeological investigation has identified the spot more precisely.

The Swedish settlers, arriving in 1638, proved to be the actual founders of the permanent European community on the shores of the Delaware. Like those from Holland they have left tangible evidence of their presence in the characteristic family names of the area, in a few structures they built, and in memorials their work elicited from our own contemporaries.

Their landing place, a curious formation of granite jutting into Christina Creek as a natural wharf, remains as they found it. In 1938, as part of the tercentennial observance of the successful settlement of the Delaware Valley, the State of Delaware constructed a memorial park at the site of Fort Christina. To suitably mark the spot the people of Sweden presented a memorial monument as a gift to the people of the United States. It is a granite shaft, created by the noted Swedish-American sculptor, Carl Milles. It was unveiled in the presence of the Crown Prince of Sweden, the President of the United States, other dignitaries of both nations, and of the States of Delaware, Pennsylvania and New Jersey which all share the heritage of New Sweden. Within a few hundred yards of Fort Christina Park is Holy Trinity (Old Swedes) Church, erected in 1698. It is believed to be the oldest Protestant church building in the United States in use as a place of worship without significant interruption or major structural replacements since its consecration. The parish dates from 1638. The records of its first sixty years are fragmentary, toward the close of the period, when contact with Sweden had long been broken, it was held together only by devout laymen. From 1608, however, when Swedish clergymen were again sent to the Delaware settlements, the records are very nearly complete. Until the decade of 1750 entries are in Swedish, gradually replaced by English as the congregation became less and less bilingual. Near the close of the eighteenth century, when the last of the Swedish missionaries withdrew, the parish affiliated with the Episcopal Church. In 1959 Holy Trinity parish moved an authentic Swedish colonial dwelling, formerly in Pennsylvania, to the church yard to serve as a parish house and museum.

Just inside the Delaware boundary, at Claymont, is a stone blockhouse, which tradition dates from the period of Swedish supremacy. It was, however, in their use of wood that the early Swedes made their most important contribution to American life. They introduced log cabins, easily made, weathertight and durable, an ideal frontier dwelling soon adopted by colonists of other stocks and imitated wherever quick housing was needed. The Delaware State Museum in Dover has such a cabin, moved in recent years from a highway right-of-way in New Castle County.

eighteenth century meeting house still in regular or occasional use, at Centreville, Hockessin, Odessa and Camden. A wave of Scotch-Irish immigration beginning in the late seventeenth century and continuing at intervals to and beyond the Revolution resulted in the creation of numerous Presbyterian congregations in the State, several of which built churches still in use. Those at New Castle, Odessa, Dover and Blackwater near the southern border, are of interest.

A group of Welsh settlers, establishing themselves in northwestern Delaware in 1703, first brought the Baptist denomination to Delaware; the Welsh Tract Baptist Church, near Newark, remains an active congregation.

Surviving early homes, churches and public buildings in the State are, with only occasional exceptions, English in architectural inspiration. For the most part they are Georgian, from its simplest to its more elaborate developments. Individual buildings of interest are scattered through the three counties, constructed of stone, brick or timber as local conditions dictated. At New Castle the eighteenth century community remains almost intact, save for the loss of one street by Place names in the State are usually of British derivation. The three counties are New Castle, Kent and Sussex. None of the larger town names seem unfamiliar to English-speaking tongues. New Castle, Dover and Lewes were specifically named for cities in England, and Wilmington may have been. English, Scotch and Irish surnames predominate among the long-established families, despite a considerable blending of those of Scandinavian, Dutch and French origin. Recent generations have added many newcomers of German, Italian, Slavic and Jewish descent.

The older religious congregations of Delaware, excepting only Old Swedes and New Castle Presbyterian described above, have their roots in the British Isles. The Episcopal Church in Delaware stems directly from missions for the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts established in the early years of the eighteenth century. The parishes at New Castle, Stanton, Middletown, Smyrna, Dover, Milford, Lewes, Dagsboro, and Broad Creek were all organized under the auspices of the S.P.G. The following colonial church buildings are still in use in the diocese: Immanuel (New Castle), St. Anne's (near Middletown, occasionally), Christ (Dover), and Christ (Broad Creek, occasionally). The organization of the Methodist Church in America was in part consummated in Delaware, at Barratt's Chapel near Frederica.

The Society of Friends' existence here from the late seventeenth century is attested by four Documentary evidence of British influence upon Delaware's civic and religious institutions is voluminous. It comprises, indeed, almost the whole body of the State's extant colonial records, and many of its nineteenth and twentieth century archives as well. Delaware jurisprudence has followed English eighteenth century patterns to a far greater extent than most American States. The most interesting documentary item, is, however the Royal Charter from Charles II confirming the title of his brother James, Duke of York, soon to be King James II, to the present State of Delaware. There are accompanying deeds and leases from James, as Duke, to William Penn, all dated in 1682. This is one of only six colonial charters for American States known to be extant.
