

COXE CHARGES RACEWAY JEOPARDIZED BY POLITICS

Charges that Brandywine Raceway was being jeopardized by "politicians" trades and swaps" were hurled at Tuesday's annual stockholders' meeting by David B. Cox, Sr., Wilmington stock broker.

Mr. Cox also raised other objections to the track operations, while a Philadelphia stockholder, James S. Kitchen, offered a bakers' dozen of suggestions on improvements that should be made.

Howard Miller, president and general manager of the harness racing track on the Concord Pike, told the meeting that a $2,500,000 reconstruction of the club house will be held in abeyance until the General Assembly acts on the possible extension of the number of racing dates.

The stockholders meeting in the Corporation Trust Company offices of the new Wilmington Trust Building saw the election of nine directors, who in turn reelected all the officers.

Mr. Cox charged the track was getting bad publicity through the actions of people associated with Brandywine Raceway who "were involved in politics to the detriment of the raceway." Although he did not mention anyone by name, a series of questions he had prepared and of which copies had been given to the press listed Vernon B. Derrickson, vice president of the track and former Kent County Democrat chairman, and J. Gordon Smith, a track director and chairman of the State Highway Commission.

He asked Mr. Miller whether he thought it good publicity to read that efforts to extend the harness racing meet "are being held up by politicians trying to swap it for a wage bill." Mr. Miller replied he'd rather not have such publicity.

Other objections voiced by Mr. Cox were to the size of the board of directors, which he felt should be larger and include more businessmen; to the $110,000 increase in the cost of operation, maintenance and general administration; and about individuals and firms doing advertising for the track.

Mr. Kitchen suggested a greatly-augmented stakes program with the cost offset by reduction in the purses of standard races; consideration of a free admission day early in the meet; appointment of an assistant to help Mr. Miller; pressing with all emphasis an increase in the racing days; a radical change in the issuance of passes to stockholders; and changes in the track operation as it affects the actual racing in a number of respects.

Mr. Miller said final plans should be ready by the end of this month for the new club house but that the directors felt they could not justify the expenditure of $2,500,000 to the stockholders unless the meet was extended. He indicated that 750 more bleacher seats and 20 betting windows would be added in an event.

Mr. Miller told the stockholders that net income after taxes was $570,308 for the record 1959 meet or $5.23 a share, a 38 per cent increase over the $411,956 or $3.70 a share for the 1958 meet.

The 40-day meet at Brandywine had a 15.5 per cent jump in wagering and 10.8 hike in attendance.

Mr. Miller was reelected president, Mr. Derrickson and Nutter D. Marvel, vice presidents; Nicholas R. duPont, treasurer; and S. Samuel Arsh, secretary.

Nathan Miller was added to the board of directors, which includes the officers along with Mr. Smith, John W. Miller, and David M. McQueen.

Legion Auxiliary Appeals For Clothes For Needy

The monthly meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 7 of the Callaway-Kemp-Raughley-Teo Post was held Tuesday evening with Mrs. Dale Roth, president, in charge.

Mrs. Al Crisson, Child Welfare chairman, announced the appeal for clothing of all kinds to be sent to the Christian Children's Fund, Inc., which supplies clothing to the unfortunate and needy throughout the world. The unit voted to send clothing which they already have collected to this worthy cause. Anyone who has good warm used clothing may call Mrs. Crisson if they wish to donate it to the Auxiliary for this project. She also announced the total donations for the Easter Seal campaign which were collected through the coin containers and by the members of the Junior Auxiliary Unit. The amount was $74.16.

Mrs. Frank O'Neal, Jr., Girl's State chairman, told the unit that the date for Girl's State this year is June 13 to 17. All members are cordially invited to attend as many of the sessions of Girl's State as possible. This is probably one of the least known of the Auxiliary's projects, but one of the most important. The girls who are selected from their junior class are in every case so impressed by the entire program that their reports are glowing in the things that they have learned as well as the fellowship they have found with girls from every school in the state. The names of the representatives from the Harrington and Greenwood schools will be announced soon.

The unit made the following donations: Delaware Society for Crippled Children and Adults, $5; Kent County Vice President's project for the Gold Star Mothers, $5; $2 for defraying the cost of printing the program for the National President's Visit on May 30th.

The kitchen committee which was composed of Mrs. Gooden Callaway, Mrs. William Humes and Mrs. Leonard Taylor, announced that the china and silverware used in the serving of banquets, etc., has been completed to service for 150. The bill for $97.76 was presented and paid.

The nomination committee filed their report with the president, and the following members have been nominated to serve for the 1960-61 term: President, Mrs. Jarvis Hurd; vice president, Mrs. William A. Smith; corresponding secretary, Mrs. William Outten; treasurer, Mrs. Dale Roth; historian, Mrs. Norman Brown; chaplain, Mrs. Al Crisson; and Sgt.-at-Arms, Mrs. Don Dell. Nominations from the floor may be made at the May meeting when the election will be held. The nominating committee was: Mrs. William Jester, Mrs. Robert T. Jester and Mrs. Frank O'Neal Jr.

Unit members were asked to help with the selling of tickets at the matinee races to be held by the Legion Post on Saturday, April 23, and Saturday, April 30. Any member who can work from 11:30 to 1:30 or 1:30 to 4:30 on either of the above dates is asked to call Mrs. Roth. Mrs. Crisson, Mrs. O'Neal and Mrs. Dell were named to serve as hostesses at the Polio Clinic at the high school on May 18 from 7 to 8:30 p. m.

Mrs. Dell asked the unit for a donation to be used in connection with the proposed Day Camp for the Scouts in this area this summer. A donation of $10 was approved.

On a request from the nominating committee for the state officers of 1960-61 the following names will be submitted: For state president, Mrs. Clyde Tucker; Kent County vice president, Mrs. Clay Bailey and for secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Elwood Short.

Delegates to the state convention this year will be Mrs. Hurd, Mrs. William A. Minner, Mrs. Callaway, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Dell, Mrs. Humes, Mrs. Clarence Dyer and Mrs. William Jester. Delegates at large from Unit No. 7 are Mrs. Roth, Mrs. Outten, Mrs. Tucker and Mrs. Howell Hitchens.

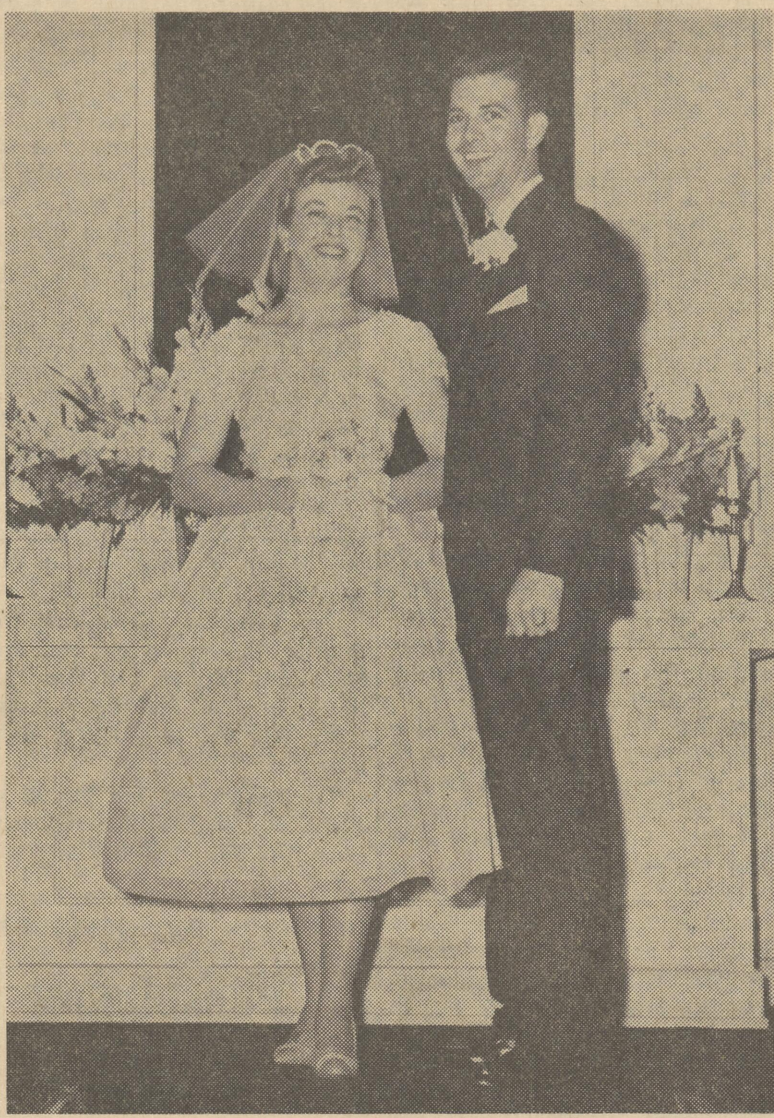

Danny Dickson, 17½-year-old Australian athlete, is being heralded in Melbourne as likely to become the first junior to run the mile in under four minutes.

"Work hard, eat good food, drink a daily glass of buttermilk, and don't worry," advises Mrs. Sarah Sweeney, 107, of Magillan, Northern Ireland.

Sleeping accommodations for 600 people now are available in Lourdes, the French shrine.

School Boards Meet With Citizens, Legislators, On Consolidation

Members of the Harrington, Felton and Frederica School Boards met at Frederica last week with Kent County legislators and interested citizens from these communities. The topic of discussion was the proposed consolidation of schools affecting much of lower Kent County.

Howard Henry, superintendent of Felton Schools, has compiled figures showing that slightly more than 40% of the pupils now enrolled in Felton and Harrington High Schools are taking courses they would not be taking if they were attending a vocational-technical school.

The panel-type discussion was a lively one with many pertinent questions being proposed and answered during the course of the evening.

The thorniest issue that cropped up was the money angle. It soon became apparent that since schools are overcrowded now and a population boom is in progress, money must somehow be raised for additional building.

Legislators present were Senators Nechay and Mayhew, Representatives Simpson, Betts, and Cain.

H.H.S. Alumni Get Ready for Banquet

The fourth annual banquet of the Harrington High School Alumni Association will be held at 6:30 p. m., Sat., May 7, in the cafeteria of Harrington High School.

All members of the Alumni Association, or those who are eligible and wish to become members, with their husband, wife, or other guest, are invited to attend.

The cost of the dinner will be $2.50 per person. The membership dues, $1 per year, are due. If you do not plan to attend the banquet and still wish to remain a member, please send in dues, including any dues in arrears.

The honored classes will be those of 1910 and 1935. Alumni will be seated in class groups unless otherwise requested. The graduate coming the longest distance will again be honored with an appropriate gift.

All reservations should be received on or before April 30, together with dues and price of banquet ticket. Membership card and banquet tickets will be mailed and no tickets will be sold at the door.

Anyone having items of interest, such as photos, hobbies, etc., to be displayed, is requested to send along with reservation. Each item should include name and address of owner and whatever information is necessary to make the exhibit interesting.

Richard Schrieber, Paul Rash Lamar Beene and Dick Collins were other junior high runners who contributed toward the victory.

Joe Taylor was the shot put winner with Ron Melvin third.

City Still Has Farmlands

The City government, at a special meeting of the City Council Tuesday evening, voted to make no changes in the interpretation of what is farmland.

After Attorney Herman C. Brown had told the officials they were the sole judges of what is farmland, a resolution was presented, as follows: "Be it resolved, that all lands, within the City limits, which front on an improved street and to which any City utilities are available, shall no longer be considered 'farmlands' within the meaning of the City Charter, up to a depth of 150 feet from the said improved street."

Councilman Alan Rutledge, Clarence Collins and William Smith voted for the resolution; Councilman Raymond Dean, Tom Brown, and Charles Hopkins, against the amendment. Mayor Peck broke the tie, voting against the resolution and giving his reason as being there was plenty of time to consider resolution before next assessment.

In other business, the Council accepted the 1960 scrap assessment; moved to check status of deeds on Dixon Street; voted to provide a 2-inch water pipe for extension of 70 feet on Second Avenue, and approved purchase of a lawnmower.

Matinee Harness Races to Start Here Tomorrow

The Harness Racing season will get underway with Matinee racing at Harrington Fairgrounds on April 23 and April 30.

The Callaway-Raughley-Kemp-Teo Post No. 7, American Legion, will sponsor the races and the proceeds will be used for the Child Welfare program of the post.

Frank O'Neal, general chairman for the races, announced that a program of races would be set up to include horses of all classes. He states that Dick Case, veteran race handicapper and General Manager of Ocean Downs Raceway would be on hand to classify the entries into good matched fields.

The service of Dale Fetrow and his starting gate have been engaged to see that all horses are given an equal chance and get away to a good start. Many horsemen on the grounds at Harrington and horsemen in the area are enthusiastic about the opportunity to start their horses under actual racing conditions before moving on to the raceways at Rosecroft in Maryland and some of the New York tracks.

Mr. O'Neal stated "that entries have already been received from Delaware, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia horsemen."

The program will get underway at 1:30 p. m. and seven races will be presented each day.

Easton Wins At Track

By Keith S. Burgess

Easton's marked superiority in the field events provided the victory margin in a track meet with Harrington High on the Maryland track last week. The Lions did very well in the running events especially the long distance runs.

Bruce Smith was the only local to win a field event as he took the pole vault with a new personal best of 9 ft. 4 in. Jim Temple was third. George Pfeiffer tied for second in the high jump.

Dwight Hackett continued to show improvement in the 880 yd. run as he was only a yard or two from Easton's Hobbs at the finish. His time of 2:17.2 is his best for quite some time. Pfeiffer was third in this race.

Three top-flight cross-country runners swept the mile run for H. H. S. Harry Knotts, undefeated downstate for two years was an easy winner. Clarence Hackett, a very fine prospect although only a freshman, was again second, followed by Bob "Buddy" Bonniwell in third. Bonniwell, normally a quarter-miler, had not trained at the longer distance this year, but still had enough left to beat all the Easton runners.

Dennis "Buck" Bradley, who looks better every time out, led off for the locals in the mile relay and finished his 440-yard stint virtually even with his rival. Clarence Hackett ran the second leg and turned over the baton to Bonniwell with a two or three yard lead. The latter widened his margin to such an extent that Harry Knotts, running the anchor leg had an easy task.

A speedy quartet of Bob Winkler, Walt Lekites and Billy Carter and Jim Temple surprised Easton by winning the 440 yard relay. The Marylanders thought this one was in the bag due to the fact that their foursome included the first and second place finishers in the 100 and 220 yard dashes.

The silver cup was presented by Mrs. Theresa Walston of the Wanamaker Store, Wilmington. Miss Bettye Arnold of Rehoboth, fashion stylist, was mistress of ceremonies.

William P. Culey, Sr., of Harrington won the best-dressed man prize. He wore a gray business suit. The best-dressed couple award went to Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Cason of Seaford.

Luther P. Hatfield, president of the Board of Education, replied that firing was for neglect of job, such as insubordination.

When the matter of court trial, contesting dismissal, came up, Hatfield said such a case hadn't gone to court. Peck said the Delaware State Education Association favored the retaining of the superintendent and could get court action. A letter from the association's executive secretary, Charles R. CHARLES G. MOORE, MOTOR VEHICLE COMMISSIONER, DIES

Funeral services for Charles G. (Kelly) Moore, 58, of Hartly, state motor vehicle commissioner, were held Monday afternoon from the Traders Funeral Home, Dover, with the Rev. Robert Loff, pastor of Hartly Methodist Church, officiating.

Interment was in Odd Fellows Cemetery, Camden. Mr. Moore, a former state senator and colorful figure in state Democratic Party circles for many years, died Thurs., April 14, at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, where he underwent surgery last week.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Moore; a foster son, James W. Turner of Hartly; a brother, Raymond, of Kenton; two sisters, Mrs. Ethel Montague of Hendersen, Md., and Mrs. Edith M. Everett of Clayton; and two grandsons.

Mr. Moore died the day after the State Highway Commission voted to increase his salary from $8,000 to $9,200. He had been state motor vehicle commissioner since Jan. 11, 1955, when he was appointed by the commissioners of the Highway Department to succeed Harvey B. Spicer of Georgetown, a Republican. The Hartly Democrat was president pro tempore of the State Senate at the time of the appointment.

The news of his sudden death spread gloom in Legislative Hall Thursday afternoon. Speaker Sherman W. Tribbitt of the House of Representatives announced it during the hearing in the House chamber on the Department of Labor bill. The hearing recessed for a moment of silence. At about the same time, an attack brought the news to the Joint Finance Committee room where a separate hearing was going on. A moment of silence was observed there, too.

Later in the afternoon the Senate adopted a resolution expressing its grief at the passing away of one of the most popular officials in the state government.

He was active in Democratic politics all his life, and used to recall days before he was able to vote, when he was engaged to transport voters to the polls. Mr. Moore attributed his early insight into politics to this youthful task.

He was born in Hartly, Jan. 3, 1902, the son of George Washington Moore and Mrs. Anna Elizabeth Handsberry Moore. He attended the public schools of Hartly, and until 1930, was associated with his father in farming, and later was a barber in Hartly.

In 1940, he decided to enter the general merchandise business and opened two stores under his own name, one in Kenton and the other in Hartly. He was also president of the West Dover Trust Company in Hartly, where his wife, the former Miss Mary Truitt of Hartly, was cashier.

Mr. Moore was a member of the Methodist Church, and a member of the board of stewards. He attended Hartly Methodist Church and was a member of the Hartly Lions Club.

He had suffered a heart attack shortly after he was elected Levy Court Commissioner for the Second District of Kent County in November, 1948. Mr. Moore was named president pro tempore of the Senate in 1954. He was first elected to the State Senate in November, 1952.

Mr. Moore was also very active in civic affairs in his native Hartly. One of his greatest hobbies was baseball. In his younger days, he pitched in the Chesapeake Bay League, and was president of the Hartly Ball Club in the Mar-Del League.

Nine Dover Airmen Killed In Newfoundland Crash

A C-124 Military Air Transport cargo plane, bound from Dover Air Force Base, crashed six miles from Stephenville, Newfoundland, at 1 p. m. Monday shortly after take-off from Earnest Harmon Field.

The plane and its nine crew members were part of the First Air Transport Squadron stationed at Dover.

Carrying 34,000 pounds of cargo, and 6,000 gallons of fuel, the plane plunged into thick woodland, just after take-off at the Harmon stop-over. The aircraft caught fire after the crash, and rescue equipment was rushed to the area, but workers were unable to reach the scene quickly because of the rough terrain.

The nine victims, all from Dover, were:

First Lt. Donald P. Sheehan, 26, survived by his parents, Edgar F. and Alle L. of 4 West Windimere Terrace, Lansdowne, Pa.

Second Lt. Robert E. Little, 23, survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Little of Monroe, La.

Capt. Jerald E. Avery, second pilot, 41, survived by his wife, Jene, three daughters, Jeral, 15, Lorne, 8, and Lynce, 3, and a son, Keavan, 12, of 606 Columbia Avenue, Dover.

First Lt. Leon E. Pederson, 26, survived by his parents, Guy W. and Vera L. of McLoud, Okla.

Flight Engineer, Master Sgt. Ben A. Sharpe, 35, survived by his parents, Arthur D. and Freto E. of Burlington, N. C.

T/Sgt. Clark N. Orndorff, 34, survived by his wife, Estrella, and one daughter, Diane, of RD No. 4 of Dover.

M/Sgt. Edward T. Retus, 38, survived by his wife, Annie, and two daughters, Robin Ann, age 5, and Lisa Gail, age 3, of 207 David Hall Road, Dover.

Load Master, Airman 2/c Wallace M. Williams, 22, survived by his parents, Herbert G., and Jeanette, of Louisville, Ky.

Fog was reported in the area, with a ceiling of 400 feet and a visibility of two miles when the Cargomaster took off. The ship and crew were on a regular training mission to Mildenhall, England, with stopovers at Harmon and the Azores.

According to a spokesman at Dover Air Force Base, this was the first fatal accident to a base plane since the crash of a 133 cargo plane on April 13, 1958. Some 193,000 safe flying hours had been logged meantime.

ECONOMY PROVED IN MOBILGAS RUN!

A pair of Corvairs recently recorded 27.03 and 26.21 miles per gallon in the 2,061.4-mile Mobilgas Economy Run. That's certified proof that Corvair skimps on gas costs. It saves other ways, too. Corvair is the only U. S. compact car that never needs antifreeze or costly radiator repairs. Come in and drive the compact car that outdoes them all.

Things Corvair gives you that America's other compact cars can't:

Practically flat floor . . . real foot room for the man in the middle. Fold-down rear seat gives 17.6 cu. ft. of extra storage space.

Four-wheel independent suspension for a smoother, flatter ride. Rear-engine traction . . . that comes with the engine's weight bearing down on the rear wheels.

You probably realize already that the mileage figures Corvairs recorded in the Mobilgas Run are higher than the average driver can expect. But because the cars meet every kind of driving condition—rugged mountain grades, long country straightaways, congested city traffic—those mileage figures prove Corvair's inherent ability to save. Operating costs take a nose dive the day you take delivery of a Corvair.

Delaware Food Market Report

The long period of limited marketings of beef and hogs, because of bad weather conditions, seems to be nearing an end. During the past few weeks the production of beef and pork has exceeded that of comparable weeks of a year ago.
The period when pork is plentiful is drawing to an end. Because of this, any decline in pork prices at the retail level will be of short duration.
Spring increases in vegetable supplies are now quite noticeable at the vegetable counters, as shipments from Texas, the Carolinas, Virginia, Florida and other southern producing areas arrive daily.

THE CORN BORER

HE DOES THIS ↑

Plow Now For Corn Borer

A lot of things happened to Delaware's corn last year. The price was low, the weather was hot and dry, several diseases and insects worked on it and black birds did their bit.

But, of all the natural enemies of the corn grower and his corn plants, the corn borer was undoubtedly the most important, according to Dr. Dale Bray, chairman of the department of entomology at the University of Delaware.

The drought helped by causing the corn to dry and ripen earlier. So did the wilt disease and stalk rot. Corn earworm and other insects contributed, but the corn borer, to the tune of four borers per plant, really did the damage.

The combination of disease, corn borer weakened stalks, and late harvest, can leave 20-30 bushels per acre in the field after picking. Some fields, actually measured showed that much loss last fall.

Ears dropped off before the picker could get them and many stalks fell before picking.

Some of this corn was saved by hand picking the field behind the mechanical picker. But this is an expensive way to harvest corn.

Corn growers can strike an effective blow at the borer by chopping them up and turning them under before they emerge to lay their eggs.

They begin laying eggs about May 1, Dr. Bray said, so if the weather permits, get your corn stubble plowed down in the next week or 10 days. It will be a strong factor in preventing your corn from serious damage again this year.

Frear Advises Change in Foreign Aid

U. S. Senator J. Allen Frear says that the emphasis in future foreign aid appropriations should be directed to under-developed countries where technical assistance is a basic requirement.

In his weekly statement, the senator noted that economic recovery is long since an accomplished fact in Western Europe where in fact, producers are actively competing with the United States for world markets.

Mr. Frear further declared that foreign aid was originally intended as a temporary relief measure but now apparently has become a permanent policy of the United States government. The senator cited mounting concern on the part of wage-earners over continued high taxes as a basis for re-examining the foreign assistance program and government spending in general.

The Delaware senator said, "unless we adopt more prudence in this regard, we shall never achieve fiscal solvency. Furthermore, because federal spending usually affects the budgets of state and local communities, it is doubtful that their outlays will be reduced by local governments unless Washington takes the lead."

"In the days immediately ahead Congress will be considering the most major appropriation measures of the current fiscal year. The amounts approved for direct spending will give an important indication as to whether there is to be any lessening in the cost of government. Personally, I sincerely hope that we can achieve real progress and thereby hold out some hope for eventual relief to taxpaying wage earners."

Conservation Reserve Not Vacating Farm Homes

Even though more than two-thirds of the land in the Conservation Reserve is in the form of whole farms, the program is having little effect to date on where farm people make their homes and on how much shopping they do in their local communities.

Those are some of the preliminary findings by the Agricultural Research Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture based on interviews with conservation reserve participants in five different areas.

Farm population has been declining and size of farms increasing in most rural areas for many years, and there is no indication of any speed-up in these trends as a result of the conservation reserve, according to the report.

Lister V. Hall, Jr. office manager of the Kent Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee points out that a primary purpose of the Conservation Reserve is to check surplus production by retirement of cropland. Farmers who place all their eligible cropland in the Reserve are not required to remain on the farm but may do so and make use of the buildings, home garden area, and permanent pasture.

"This study," Mr. Hall said, "shows that some Conservation Reserve participants who would have sold their farms and moved away are retiring and continuing to live on the farm. Some who have shifted to non-farm work and are continuing to live on their farms said they would have moved to towns or cities if it had not been for the opportunity to obtain a reasonable return from their investments in farm property by participating in the Conservation Reserve."

Other highlights of the Research Service findings include:

1. Few Conservation Reserve farms have good dwellings that are not occupied.

2. Most participants plan to maintain and repair their farm building although many are not fully used.

3. There have been some reductions in purchases of farm machinery and supplies, but these have been largely offset by expenditures for other items as a result of income received by participants in the form of Conservation Reserve payments.

Veterans News

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—How does the priority system for admission to VA hospitals work for wartime veterans? I have a service-connected disability, but I need treatment for a non-service-connected ailment.

A—Wartime veterans who need hospitalization for service-connected disabilities are admitted first. Then come veterans with service-connected disabilities, who need treatment for non-service-connected conditions, and for whom a bed is available. Last come veterans who have no service-connected disability. They must state under oath they cannot pay charges elsewhere, and a bed must be available.

Q—Since I am totally disabled, my World War II GI term insurance is under premium waiver.

May I convert to a permanent plan while the waiver is in effect?

A—Yes. You may convert to any permanent plan other than an endowment and you need not take a medical examination.

Q—I'm confused about the term "Korea veteran." What are the official time limits which determine whether or not a former member of the armed forces is considered to be a veteran of the Korean Conflict?

A—The Korean Conflict dates have been set as June 27, 1950, to January 31, 1955. Any veteran with all or part of his service between these two dates is considered a Korea veteran.

Q—If a veteran applies for a disability pension after July 1, will he have a choice of old or new pension systems?

A—No, he will not. If he applies after July 1, he will have to come under the new system.

Kent Home Doings

Look for the Label, Mabel
The many trade names found on fibers and fabrics have long confused Mrs. Consumer. The new fiber labeling law will help her to know what she's buying when she shops for family clothing and household textiles.

The Fiber Identification Act, which went into effect March 3, requires all textile fiber products to carry a label giving the generic (family) name of each fiber in the material as well as the percentage.

According to County Home Demonstration Agent Florence Y. Smith, the generic names help you decide on proper washing, drying and pressing temperatures, and spot removal and storage practices, as well as fabric performance.

Trade names will still be used but they will be paired with the generic names so the consumer will have the information. For example, Orlon, Acrilan, Creslan and Zefran all belong to the acrylic family and require similar care—specifically low temperature in drying and pressing.

Another group of trade names—Cupioni, Mamberg, Fortisan Cordura, Coloray, Colorsun and Jetspon—will all be paired with the family name, rayon, and must be handled carefully in washing because they lose strength when they are wet.

Mrs. Smith said homemakers should watch for the labels. If they have any questions about the care of the fabrics, Mrs. Smith can be reached at RE-d-51448.

Del. Music Camp To Be Held In Dover

The instrumental group will be expanded to full orchestra with the addition of necessary brass, wood-wind and percussion instruments. In order to accommodate the larger instrumental group this year, facilities have been provided by Delaware State College.

The chorus will be accommodated at Wesley College. The new dormitory will be available for girls.

The Dover Special School District will provide facilities for rehearsals, special music programs and recreation. The concert for the benefit of the general public will be given in the Dover High School Auditorium, Sun., June 26, at 2:30 p.m.

Bulletins and application blanks have been distributed to all vocal and instrumental music teachers in the state. Interested persons may obtain information from these teachers or by writing Mr. Hart, State Department of Public Instruction, Dover.

Fish & Game News

With the continuation of warm, pleasant weather fishing is expected to take the spotlight in Delaware.

The marine fisheries statistics survey being carried out by the Game and Fish Commission is in full swing. All areas of the state are being surveyed in regard to fish caught by both commercial and sports fishermen. From reports gathered thus far, many sports fishermen have been out trying their new equipment or just getting their old favorite rod and reel ready for the on-coming season.

Thus far few game fish have been taken with hook and line. However, perch, rock, carp and catfish have been taken from many areas of the state. The tidal streams leading inland seem to be the areas where these fish are being found in abundance.

Perch, the most common of the fish being taken by the hook and line fisherman, are being caught in practically all of the small streams from Delaware City to Mispillion Light House. Fish such as croakers, trout, flounder and bluefish have not made an appearance in any quantity as yet. In the Indian River area only a few flounder have been taken, however, with the continuation of warm weather the catch of all these species will be on the increase.

The commercial fishermen of the State, most of which have their nets in the Delaware Bay, have thus far experienced a better season than expected. Rock were plentiful in the upper bay areas from Pickering Beach to Woodland Beach. Fine catches were recorded at Little Creek and Mahons during January, February and early March. At present, shad are being caught in the bay from Slaughters Beach to Mahons. Shad entered the Delaware area around the end of March and have been increasing steadily in quantity. The shad and rock caught thus far have been large fish, averaging over three pounds in weight.

These fish can be obtained reasonably at almost all ports along the bay front and as far south as Indian River. Shad are in excellent condition at this time and are still considered a delicacy. The shad are expected to remain in the lower bay area for a least another week or 10 days, and at that time they should be replaced by the early run of grey trout.

The Board of Game and Fish Commissioners expect to present a weekly report of this nature to all interested readers. If you desire to receive this fishing forecast send your name and address to the Commission office in Dover.

SCHOOL BOARD

partment head can retire a covered employe.

About the dismissal law, the letter stated, "This means that the Board of Education must file formal charges, serve the notice before May 1 and document the reasons for dismissal."

Peck then advised a compromise, saying it might avoid a court fight.

Mrs. Herman Minner expressed herself in a similar vein, after inquiring, "Who stands to lose if he (Messner) stays? Will there still be insubordination? Will relations with the State Board improve? Will the community still be divided? She then called attention to talk of his resignation and asked, "Was it sincere? Who, with the thought in mind, promoted the dinner with the idea he was going to resign?"

Hatfield, without directly answering the question, said state officials had been told in January Messner was resigning.

Turning to a new tack, Muesette Cox, member of the Board of Education, wanted to know what the community would do to a new administrator. "Would you give him the same help you are giving Mr. Messner?" William W. Shaw replied, "We would have to approve the school board and not administrators."

William Outten wanted to know what was the reason for "Messner's forced retirement." Hatfield quoted the superintendent as saying that as long as he was in the school, he was going to run it. Outten then asked what his reason for making it and said he felt that 34-years' experience must have been OK with the school boards.

Roland Hitchens, board member, retorted: "Whose responsibility is it to present the building program, the administrator's, the board's, or the administrator's and the board's. You tell me." Outten inquired, "Is this an issue?" Hitchens didn't answer but, in answer to Bob Creadick, said the board had talked to Messner and lay people (about a building program).

A board member then said Messner wanted to add a one-million-dollar high school to present facilities and that this issue was the same as that defeated in a referendum three years ago. Mrs. William W. Shaw then said the community had passed a referendum, on a school-building program, that had been defeated three times. The board member then came back with the statement that school building experts from Lancaster, Pa., said that, if the area got a comprehensive high school, upon which meetings are being held at present, Harrington should have another elementary school.

Getting back to the evening's main issue, the Rev. Symonds, after asking would the public support a new administrator, said, "Something like this doesn't happen to men like Mr. Messner without far-reaching effect." He thought, also, it would have a very definite effect on any kind of a referendum. He thought education should come first, but "people aren't like that."

When Shaw asked, "Are people here to assume that one of the reasons (for the retirement) is his age," Hatfield replied it was lack of cooperation. Two or three board members replied that personal feelings were not an item in the issue. If the issue came to court, one board member said, "We might not bring charges if we have them. Might do more harm to the community than good. Later, it was added that Messner mentioned resignation at most inopportune times such as approach of the school season.

Ellwood Gruwell, a former member of the Board of Education for 11 years, said Messner threatened to resign 10 or 12 years ago. "It wasn't pleasant but we got over it. He's hard-boiled. If he hadn't been, he wouldn't have stayed this long. In a building program, you have to go on about what the folks of the community will accept. When you pay a man $8000 or $10,000 a year, you have to trust him.

All the time I served, we never had a deficit." He then added that the members of the school board deserved a lot of credit for being willing to give their time and that running a school nowadays was more difficult than it formerly was.

After the board had departed, Mr. Messner entered the room and took the stand. Voicing his complaints, he said the board had done things without telling him and that he thought the school would be in the red, though it had never been that way.

Continuing, he said that a board member had told the teachers they had enough money for a raise. He then added he had difficulties with the board two years and that a board member had told him he had something on him and wouldn't tell him what it was. He said charges had been trumped up on him, but he didn't list them. The superintendent then stated the reason for a dispute with the board last August. He threatened to resign then, he said, because he hired a teacher.

O'Neal—"Can we compromise on this?" Messner—"Can we?" The attendance thought it would be a good idea for the board to hire an understudy and for the superintendent to stay on a year. Messner said he would make every effort to co-operate with the Board of Education, that he would not leave within the school year, with one reservation (that he could leave with plenty of advance notice this school year), and that he would work with the understudy.

Ground Covers Replace Grass

Even on the best kept properties, there are places where it is difficult or even impossible to grow grass. Some spots that will grow grass are difficult to cut. Under trees, on slopes, and around shrubs, ground covers are more practical than grass.

Mr. Robert Stevens, Extension horticulturist, University of Delaware, says there are ground covers that will grow in almost any location. Some are evergreen, some flowering, and some are creeping vines.

The most popular of the common evergreen ground covers are:

Vinca minor commonly called Periwinkle, or Myrtle—produces light blue flowers at this time of the year and bright shiny green leaves. It will stand shade but prefers sunlight.

English Ivy—is an attractive evergreen vine with many different varieties. It is adaptable to almost any degree of sunlight and will stand full shade. It spreads readily and will grow in most any soil. However, do not plant it on a southern or western slope where the soil dries and bakes in the sun.

Pachysandra or Japanese Spurge—will stand partial or almost total shade. It is especially adapted to growing around shrubs but spreads slowly. It does not grow as well in full sunlight.

Cotoneaster—can often be used as a ground cover and is almost evergreen. The attractive berries in the fall and winter make this shrub one of the most desirable for many locations. Be sure to buy a low-growing prostrate variety for a ground cover as many varieties grow five to six feet tall.

Eunonymus or winter creeper

—has glossy green leaves of various sizes according to variety. It suffers from scale but it is easy to control with the new insecticides.

Dwarf barberry (Berberis vertuculosa)—is good for sunny locations.

There are also many other low-growing shrubs that are suitable for ground covers. Some of the flowering types of perennials are excellent in sunny locations as ground covers.

Bugle weed, candytuft, snow-in-summer, and Trailing Veronica are a few of the best types.

Moist spots can be covered with plants such as Forget-me-Not and Dwarf Phlox. By covering those bare spots with ground covers you can complete your landscape, Stevens said.

Spring Tonic for Spring Fever

You'll find no better spring tonic than the fresh greens now appearing on the spring markets. These fresh green foods are packed with vitamins and minerals to pull you out of that spring fever lag, according to Janet Coblentz, University of Delaware Extension Service.

While the color of vegetables has a lot to do with the final attractiveness of a meal, the nutritive value of the vegetables is an important factor. And that's where greens really come into their own.

Green vegetables are an excellent source of vitamin A—one of the essential vitamins for health. And the greener they are, the more vitamin A. Raw greens are also a good source of vitamin C. But in order to get the most of that vitamin, you have to serve greens fresh and prepare them just before serving.

Vegetables with dark green green leaves also contain B vitamins. Greens also rate well as a source of iron, calcium and phosphorus.

It's one thing to buy good-quality greens at the store. But it's another matter when you get them home. For it's in the home that they often lose quality from poor care, according to Miss Coblentz.

When you get the greens home from the store—and this applies to all greens — remove any bruised leaves. Then, if you wish, wash the greens. After they are clean, put them in a covered container and place them in the refrigerator. It's a good idea to use the greens as soon as possible after they are purchased in order to get the most from them in the way of vitamins and minerals.

Miss Coblentz warns that in cooking greens, vitamins and minerals can be lost in the cooking water and from overcooking. Use a small amount of water and cook in a covered pan just long enough for the vegetable to become tender.

Think Twice—Don't Fall Once!

"Think twice—don't fall once!" That advice is being given to thousands of Delawareans by business and industrial firms taking part in the statewide off-the-job safety campaign sponsored by the Delaware Safety Council.

Business and industry are co-operating in the drive, recognizing that more employees get hurt off their jobs than on them. The current emphasis in the campaign is prevention of falls, later it will turn to vacation safety.

J. James Ashton, manager of the Safety Council, pointed out that falls are second only to traffic accidents as a cause of accidental deaths. Also, falls are the most frequent cause of industrial injuries. They can be prevented by correcting obvious hazards, he said.

Mr. Ashton listed the eight common causes of falls in the home and at work. They are:

1. Poor housekeeping.
2. Objects on floors, in aisles, on stairs.
3. Defective or uneven floors.
4. Water, oil or grease on floors.

5. Icy walks and stairs.

6. Insufficient light.

7. Defective or improvised ladders.

8. Failure to use handrails. Unguarded floor openings.

The Safety Council manager also reported that a "safety acoustic" is being used to remind people in Delaware to be cautious to avoid falls in using stairs. The acoustic, a rhyme with the first letters of the six lines spelling safety vertically, follows:

S lips and falls can sure be sad
A nd end in accidents quite bad
F or safety's sake you must take care

E very time you climb a stair
T his is very sound advice:
Y ou won't fall once if you think twice!

Keep Corn Seed & Fertilizer Apart

To get a top corn yield, Delaware farmers need to put on about 400 to 500 pounds of fertilizer, says Kent county agent George Vapaa. But you can't put the seed and the fertilizer in the ground together, he said.

All the weed control, good weather, good hybrid seed, and fertilizer won't do any good if you place the fertilizer with the seed or drag race with your tractor and a planter.

In the case of placing the seed and fertilizer too close together, the heavy rate of fertilizer will injure the seed and cut the germination percentage. If you see fertilizer on top of the ground after planting you had better pitch out those old split boots and get a conversion kit to place your fertilizer two inches to the side and two inches below the seed.

Driving to fast while planting is just a matter of self control, the agent said. Try to keep in mind that the time your saving by fast planting, is corn you won't be picking next fall.

If you are putting on heavy fertilizer applications, it's better to broadcast part of it and plow it down or disc it in, then the problems won't come up.

Ships brought 51 per cent of the people—including immigrants—who arrived in New Zealand last year, but 55 per cent of those who left went by plane, Wellington learns.
