

Harry S. Smith Announces His Candidacy For Governor

Since the last election in November 1958, citizens of Delaware from various walks and stations in life, coming from all areas of the state geographically, have been urging me and encouraging me to run for Governor.

Women's Air Race to End At New Castle

Citizens of the first state to be invited by Gov. J. Caleb Boggs to join in welcoming to Delaware members of "The Ninety-Nines," an international organization of licensed women pilots, who will hold their annual convention in Wilmington, July 14-15, following completion of the fourteenth annual air women's transcontinental air race at the New Castle County Airport, Wed., July 13.

In a proclamation designating the period July 9 through 15 as "Women in Aviation Week," the state's chief executive called attention to the fact that 1960 marks the first time that this transcontinental race will have terminated here and also pointed out that the purpose of this race is to stimulate interest in private aviation.

"The Ninety Nines," now in its 31st year, received its name from the fact that the charter group comprised 99 women fliers including the late Amelia Earhart, who served as the organization's first president. All contestants in the transcontinental race, which begins in Torrance, Cal., Sunday and terminates at the New Castle County Airport Wednesday, are members of "The Ninety-Nines."

Smyrna Approves Joint School Plan

Their belief in a comprehensive high school was reaffirmed at a special meeting of the Board of Education of the Smyrna Special School District Friday.

The session was called as the result of a request from the Dover Board of Education that Smyrna consider possible consolidation with the Dover District relative to a Kent County High School.

The Smyrna board noted that Smyrna will soon need an additional elementary school, and also a new junior or senior high school.

Enrollments in all schools of the district are now at the point where additional facilities are needed. The last four years have seen the addition of 20 members to the Smyrna school staff, and the addition of 12 classrooms in the elementary school. The results of the elementary additions and certain renovations in the high school have made room for the spurt in growth.

All Facilities Taxed
However, now both elementary and secondary facilities are becoming taxed.

A further problem affecting the district, according to school officials, is the desire to provide a more comprehensive program for pupils in the district. Certain academic courses cannot be offered without sufficient enrollment. The district has been considering offering an additional foreign language, in line with college and national recommendations.

At present this is impossible because of small enrollment in such proposed classes. A number of students would take vocational work in electrical, mechanical, and industrial areas if such shop areas were available.

Smyrna and Middletown had such a proposal before the Legislature, but the $3,000,000 proposed school was stricken from the Omnibus School Bond Bill about a month ago, in spite of the fact that it had the approval of the

HOUSE BEATS ROAD BONDS BILL AGAIN

The House of Representatives Thursday night, June 30, defeated a new $14,000,000 highway bond bill and passed a school salary increase bill and a University of Delaware bond bill.

The new highway bill is HB-622, introduced earlier on Thursday. It is similar to the one twice defeated some weeks ago by the Republicans. The bill had had been the subject of negotiations between the Republicans and Democratic leaders during the recent recess of the General Assembly, but no agreement between the two parties was reached and the Democrats Thursday were obligated unwillingly to meet the GOP demands for roll calls on three bills as the price of Republican cooperation in passing the bond bill.

The three bills which the Republicans were interested, the civil service, water resources and weights and measure bills, were not brought up for a vote.

The highway bond bill was called up under suspension of the rules after a long dinner recess. It was defeated on a straight party vote, the tally showing 24 yeas, 6 nays, 2 not voting, and 3 absent. The bill was not restored.

The school salary increase bill is SS-1 for SB-194 as amended. It would provide a new schedule of salaries for teachers, for chief school officers and other administrators, for principals, for secretaries, for nurses, for custodians, and for other classifications of school employees.

The increases in salaries that it provides will cost the state approximately $500,000 extra in the fiscal year starting tomorrow.

The galleries were filled with teachers in the afternoon and there was a large attendance Thursday night also when the bill went through the House without dissent. The roll call was: 29 yeas, two voting present, and four absent. The two answering present are teachers, who could not legally vote for the bill.

The University of Delaware bond bill would provide $2,277,000 for construction of a mathematics and physics building to take the place of a 60-year-old structure which cost $25,000 when it was built. The new facility will provide 22 laboratories, 13 classrooms, one large lecture hall, and offices. The need for the structure was explained by Dr. Carl J. Rees, provost of the university. The bill was adopted with a vote of 30 yeas, with five absent.

Also passed was SB-334 to provide $693,930 for delayed repairs to school buildings in many districts throughout the state. This one went through with 29 yeas, one nay (Livingston), four absent (Carmean, King, Latina and Pawson), and one answering present (Quigley).

Another measure passed in the fast-moving night session was HB-609 which will make state laws conform with a recent change in the Constitution by putting state agencies on an annual instead of biennial basis. The vote: 32 yeas, three absent.

Among the new bills handed up was HB-632, introduced by Rep. James R. Quigley (D-Hares Corner) and co-sponsored by Reps. Robert Pawson (R-Brookside) and Charles Kleinbach (R-Cooch's Bridge). This would increase the number of the state police force to 250 officers from the present 180. Of the 70 extra, 40 would be assigned to New Castle County. The bill carries an appropriation of $238,958.40 for the new fiscal year.

New Bills

HB-630: To extend the boundaries of the City of Dover and authorize the city to construct a dam, by Richards, by request.

HB-631: To appropriate $10,400 to the Delaware Commission on Children and Youth for next fiscal year. By Richards.

HB-633: To boost the pay of the judge of the Juvenile Court of Kent and Sussex Counties from $12,500 to $17,500 and permit the judge to appoint a clerk in each county, plus probation officers. By Quigley and Walls.

HR-169: To pay the attachés. Adopted, voice.

HR-170: To pay members' mileage. Adopted, voice.

HCR-54: To pay bills of $220.87. Adopted, voice.

GOP DECIDES TO HOLD CONVENTION AUG. 31

The Republican State Convention will be held in the Dover Armory on Aug. 31, the GOP State Committee decided Wednesday night.

The actual business of selecting the party's 1960 slate of candidates will occur at a beat-the-heat evening session.

After settling the convention details, several committee members entered vigorous objections to recent allegations that leaders of the Delaware GOP have influenced party workers against a local Rockefeller-for-President movement.

It was Republican National Committeewoman Mrs. C. Douglas (Polly) Buck who led the way.

"There has been no attempt to coerce any Republican delegate on any matter pertaining to a candidate for the nomination of the President of the United States," she said.

Republican State Chairman Ellwood S. Leach used stronger words. He suggested the local

Summer Music Classes Held at Harrington School

The Harrington Special School District is again sponsoring a summer music school for all children of this district. The program is sponsored by the Harrington School Board of Education and is under the direction of Melvin Brobst, school music instructor. All classes are being held in the music room of the high school.

The program began immediately after the close of school and is at present in its fourth week and will continue until the end of the month. The enrollment this year is the largest ever to have registered.

Daily classes are held each morning from 8:30 to 12:15 and include instruction for beginners of which there are 40 this year, as well as classes for intermediate and advanced players.

The total number of children enrolled for the classes is 125, with 32 students enrolled only for band rehearsals, making the total enrollment of 157 engaged in the entire program.

Band rehearsals are held on Monday of each week with the grade school band rehearsing at 1:30 P. M., the junior high school band at 3, and the Senior High School Band at 8 p.m. All three bands are preparing for the gala outdoor concert to be held on Saturday night, July 23, in conjunction with the annual summer ice cream festival sponsored by the Band Boosters Club. Guest conductor for this occasion will be Tony Perrone, former member of the band. This outdoor concert will close the musical activities at the school for the summer.

Wesley College to Hold
School of Missions
And Christian Service

Nearly 200 Methodists women from Delaware and the Eastern Shore of Maryland are expected to attend the 1960 School of Missions and Christian Service to be held at Wesley College, Dover, July 18-22.

Sponsored by the Peninsula Conference Women's Society of Christian Service, the school offers training in the responsibilities of the Christian Church, the work of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, and the missionary activities carried on by the Methodist Church.

In Methodist Conferences throughout the nation the WSCS takes part in service activities aimed at improving the local churches and civic, community, and the world conditions. Organized to develop and support Christian work among women and children, the WSCS is active in the missionary work of the Methodist Church.

Four missionaries whose work has been supported by the Peninsula Conference Society will be special guests at the conference. They are Miss Lillian Montgomery and Miss Maude Goff, who have both served in Korea; Miss Eunice Sluyter, India; and Miss Rosalie Jenkins, Brazil.

Four study courses will be offered at the School of Missions and Christian Service this year, and will be taught by persons with wide experience in their subjects. The course and instructors are:

"Heritage and Horizons in Home Missions," taught by Miss E. Louise Nichols, New York. (Continued on Page 8)

Accident Case Retrial Ends In Hung Jury

The retrial of the $300,000 damage suit in a fatal automobile accident ended shortly after 11 Thursday night in a "hung" jury in the U. S. District Court, Wilmington, as did the original trial of the case last Jan. 15 in that court.

Thursdays jury deliberated for more than eight hours and was unable to arrive at a verdict.

Plaintiff in the case was Mrs. Eleanor C. Maloney, Washington, D. C., administratrix of the estate of Miss Yvonne Stiver, Belgian Embassy employee in Washington, who was killed Aug. 18, 1957, in a two-car collision near Greenwood.

The defendants were Charles E. Hawk, Bridgeville, driver of the car, and his father, Earl S. Hawk, owner of the car Charles was driving. Charles was under 18 years of age at the time of the accident.

Chief Judge Caleb M. Wright asked the jury when it reported that shortly after 11 p. m., it was unable to reach a verdict, if with more time they felt they might reach a verdict. Upon being told that they did not believe the deadlock could be broken by additional deliberation, Judge Wright thanked them and dismissed them.

Ermund N. Carpenter II, counsel for the plaintiff, said that he expects to try the case again in the fall.

William Prickett, Jr., was counsel for the Hawks. Both attorneys are members of Wilmington law firms.

A highlight of the re-trial of the case was testimony by Charles Hawk, that he had "blacked out" just before the crash, and remembered nothing of what happened afterward.

He also testified, under cross-examination by Mr. Carpenter, that he had, before the accident, just "glanced" at a community house set back from the highway, and "could have" edged over the center line of the highway as a result.

Official notices of farm allotments for the 1961 wheat crop are being mailed to farmers this week, according to William H. Reynolds, chairman of the Delaware Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The allotments for Delaware farmers will be slightly lower than their 1960 allotments, since the allotted acreage for the State runs 32,762 acres compared with 34,182 acres in 1960, which is a reduction of 1420 acres. The farm allotments are based primarily on past wheat production history.

The chairman points out that all growers who will produce more than 15 acres of wheat a year in 1961 will be eligible to cast ballots in the July 21 referendum on marketing quotas for the 1961 wheat crop. Growers who will have smaller acreages and those who are taking part in the food wheat program are not eligible to cast ballots, since the wheat from such farms would not be subject to marketing quota penalties.

"The referendum will decide important questions for wheat producers," Mr. Reynolds said, "and the outcome, naturally, will represent the will of those growers who take the trouble to cast their ballots."

At least two-thirds of the growers who vote approve the quotas, then they will be in effect. (Continued on Page 8)

KENT DEMOCRATS ENDORSE CARVEL FOR GOVERNORSHIP

The Kent County Democratic Committee Thursday night, June 30, unanimously endorsed former Governor Elbert N. Carvel for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Mr. Carvel himself, sounding more and more like a candidate with each speech, launched a point-by-point attack on the criticism of Lt. Gov. David P. Buckson of Smyrna, who may be his opponent in November.

While the Kent County Democrats were giving a big boost with their vote at the Kent County Courthouse, Mr. Carvel was accusing Republican administrations of making a deeper annual dent in the surplus and creating a large bonded indebtedness than during his own four-year term of office.

In Dover, county chairman Vernon B. Derrickson was presiding when he recommended the endorsement of Mr. Carvel. He said the former governor's administration was a good one for the state and that he believes it is Kent County's feeling Mr. Carvel is entitled to another try at the office. He also pointed out the former governor served the party in the office of state chairman on three different occasions.

The committee's endorsement does not necessarily mean that Mr. Carvel will have a solid 60 votes from Kent at the state convention Aug. 25. It is possible the delegates to be elected five days before the convention will have different opinions.

The convention, incidentally, will not be held in the air-conditioned auditorium of the Dover High School but in the field house. Reasons for the change in plans include the difficulty of walking through the rows of theatre-type chairs to get to the microphone plus various restrictions on use of the auditorium.

Mr. Carvel, addressing the Ninth Ward Democratic Club, meeting at the Atterbury VFW Post, Wilmington, again said that the answer "to the situation in the state is intelligent, efficient administration and (with an apparent reference to his own four years as governor) experience would help a little." This remark was greeted by loud applause from the 60 persons present.

The former Governor's rebuttal to GOP charges and his own attack on the present administration was on four major fronts:

1. Bonded indebtedness. Mr. Carvel, citing "chapter, verse, and text," said that bonded indebtedness under his administration increased about $12,128,000 a year, while under the Boggess administration's 7 1/2 years it has been increasing at $17,460,000 annually or at a 45 per cent greater rate. He said the debt was $3,218,000 when he took office and started building needed schools and highways, $56,710,000 when he left, and is now $187,674,000.

In a side remark about school costs, Mr. Carvel said that "in my day, we built classrooms, not a lot of fancy extravaganzas, what shall I call them, monstrosities, or monuments to some superintendents because he wanted to do better than some other superintendent down the road."

2. Surplus. The former governor said that in the last year of office of former Gov. Walter Bacon, the cash surplus dwindled by $2,000,000 to $8,430,000 when Mr. Carvel took office. This surplus was reduced to $3,000,000 when Mr. Carvel left, which he said meant an annual reduction lower than that of the Republicans even though "we built $38,000,000 in schools, raised teacher's salaries twice and the whole level of salaries once, $40,000,000 in roads, and provided for the stepped-up needs of the state."

3. Civil Service. Mr. Carvel said he pocket-vetted a civil service bill in 1949 because it was an effort of the GOP Gen-

Some of the best 2 and 3 year-old pacers and trotters in the country have been entered in the stakes to be raced Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons.

R. Edmund Harrington is enthusiastic about the keen interest being shown in the racing program. Drivers who will be coming to Harrington to race the 2 and 3 year-olds will be Stanley Dancer, Bill Haughton, Joe Eyles, Delvin Miller, Alan Myer, Carolus Wade and Olin Davis just to mention a few.

Mr. Harrington adds that not to be overlooked by racing fans, and especially the youngsters, will be some good pony racing on Wednesday afternoon.

School Board Vacancy Filled

Mrs. Erma G. Reese, of Milford, has been appointed a member of the board of trustees of the William W. M. Henry Comprehensive High School by Judge William J. Storey.

The new appointee, who is the wife of Perry Reese, Milford and Dover funeral director, will succeed Hayes Fountain, also of Milford, whose term has expired. Mrs. Reese will serve until June 30, 1967.

In announcing the appointment Judge Storey stated that he thought it would be best to have a woman as a member of the board and that the change in the appointment had nothing to do with Mr. Fountain's services on the board.

In a letter to Mr. Fountain Judge Storey expressed appreciation for his services and the many contributions in planning that he provided while serving as a member of the board. The letter also set forth the desire to have a woman serving as a member of the board.

Mrs. Reese, who will start her service immediately, is a school teacher and is a graduate of Delaware State College. She has been active in many civic affairs.

The Harrington Methodist Episcopal Church

The Harrington M. E. Church building was erected in 1870, as the outcome of meetings and a Sunday school held by Dr. F. J. Owens in the school house during the ten years prior to 1870. The Sunday school members numbered twenty. The church was built after a great religious awakening during the pastorate of A. D. Davis, indeed the greatest moral uplift this community ever had. The church building was dedicated Oct. 23, 1870 - Rev. Johnathan S. Willis, of Milford, preaching in the morning and Rev. Andrew Manship in the evening. The building cost $2800. In 1889 it was remodelled at considerable cost and is one of the finest churches in town.

In 1883 the Ladies' Aid Society was formed and at present has a large membership. Regular monthly meetings are held at the homes of members. Several other societies have been organized and are doing good work.

It was impossible to obtain a complete and accurate list of those who served as pastors here. What was procurable follows:

Jonathan Willis, prior to 1870; A. D. Davis, 1871, 1872; J. L. Houston, 1873, 1874; W. E. England, 1875, 1876; W. F. Cockran, 1877; A. W. Milby, 1878; F. C. MacSorley, 1883; B. F. ### The Apostolic Holiness Church of Harrington

The Apostolic Holiness Church of Harrington was organized at the home of C. N. Grant, May 10, 1909. A board of trustees was elected preparatory to building a church. Mr. Grant donated a lot on Liberty Street. Funds for building the church were raised by subscription. The church was dedicated November 23, 1909, by Frank Robinson. At that time the membership was fifteen, but it rapidly increased. In the last few years membership has dwindled down until at present there are only about twenty-five members. The following have served as pastors:

Frank Robinson, 1909-1910; Harvey Adams, 1911; Harry Saneholtz, 1912-1913.

From August 1913 to 1917 the church was without a pastor. Mrs. Bessie Mitchell acted as pastor until then. From 1917 to 1920 several others acted as pastor:

Lewis Wingate, 1920-1921, S. Lewis Adams, 1921-1924.

The Rev. Adams is still serving though he has handed in his resignation.

The Nazarene Church of Harrington

The history of the Nazarene Church of Harrington, in order to be fully understood, must include the history of the Baptist Church of Harrington. This church was the same as the one at Vernon, and was dedicated in November 1871 at that place. Most of the members moved into Harrington, so services for a number of years were held in the Grange Hall. In 1889 the Baptists built a comfortable church on Mechanics Street. This building passed out of their hands and became the property of the Holiness Association. It was used by them as a place of worship until 1909, in which year the church of the Nazarene bought it. It is still in their hands. Those who have been pastors there are:

Rev. D. W. Sweeny, 1909; Rev. L. H. Joslin, 1910; Rev. Forest, 1910-1911; Rev. H. H. Carroll, 1911-1912; Rev. John Henry, 1913; Rev. Berry, 1914-1915; Sister Duncan, 1916; Rev. C. J. Penn, 1917; Rev. J. H. Penn, 1918-1919;

St. Stephen's Protestant Episcopal Church

The history of St. Stephen's is connected somewhat with St. Anne's Episcopal Church. St. Anne's was consecrated by Bishop Lee in June 1876. Funds for the building were raised by subscription, the greater portion being contributed by the Rev. McKim of Milford, who held service there until about 1887, when the church closed. It seems that when the church was reopened it was known as St. Stephen's. A Mr. Kerr came occasionally and preached. Then Mr. McKim returned and held regular services until his death. Mr. B. F. Thompson filled the pulpit until the vacancy could be filled. Mr. T. Wingate, of Milford, came rector and held regular services until he was transferred. Mr. Thompson returned and is still with the Harrington congregation.

The Presbyterian Church of Harrington

The Harrington Presbyterian Church was organized by the Rev. S. Murdick in the old school house (located on the site of A. W. Spurry's home) in the winter of 1871, with fifteen members. In 1873, what is now the Century Club House, was erected as a church building at a cost of $2850. Membership increased for a while, but later fell off until they could not afford to hire a preacher. The church disintegrated and the building was sold to the Century Club Women for $1000.

In 1913, Frank Fleming established the Harrington Journal Office.

A well conducted library was one of the best evidences of the intellectuality of the community. A library was started November 10, 1880 with:

W. A. Franklin, president; Jennie P. Sheldrake, vice president; Carrie Harrington, secretary; E. W. Waples, recording secretary; W. A. Ransom, treasurer.

They had 680 volumes, exclusive of periodicals. A membership fee of one dollar was charged and ten cents a week dues. This entitled the members to use of a book for three weeks. In 1889 the organization dissolved as so many books were never returned.

January 12, 1920 a few of the businessmen and active citizens of Harrington assembled for the purpose of organizing a fair association. The organization became known as the Kent & Sussex Counties Fair Association. They received their certificate of incorporation and then issued stock certificates. The fairgrounds are located on the southeast edge of the town. Each year the fair is larger and better and it draws larger crowds. It opens the last week in July and lasts five days. Automobile and horse racing, vaudeville, and large exhibits of first class stock, fruit, vegetables, flowers, and the like are the big features.

The association has met with financial success. It is also of economic importance, bringing much trade and money to Harrington. This year's exhibit is expected to exceed that of all previous years. Those who have served as officers in the association are:

President, Charles D. Murphy, 1920-23; vice president, Ora C. Sapp, 1920-23; secretary, Ernest Raughley, 1920-24; treasurer, William Smith, 1920-22; H. E. Quillen, 1923-24.

The Delaware— A River of Destiny

If any one river in America can be said to have shaped the destiny of this country, that river is the majestic Delaware advised the Delaware State Development Department.

The importance of the Delaware River goes back to the earliest explorations of the North American coastline. The first ship to enter the present day Delaware Bay and River is generally assumed to have been Henry Hudson's Half Moon, on August 28, 1609. From that time until William Penn's landing and the founding of Philadelphia, the story of the Delaware sparkles with romance and adventure worthy of the birth of the American nation.

Dutch explorers and navigators who subsequently investigated the Delaware included the noted Cornelius May or (Mey) and Cornelius Hendrickson. The latter skipper is credited with having made the first map of the Delaware in 1614.

After 1630 there were three expeditions under Dutch auspices lead by the Dutch navigator, traveler, and patron, David Pietersen de Vries. Under Mey and De Vries the first efforts at permanent European settlement on the Delaware were undertaken between 1623 and 1631. These attempts, including a 1631 attempt at settlement near present day Lewes were unsuccessful.

The first ship under English flag to appear on the Delaware was the discovery under Captain Samuel Argall, which entered the bay in 1610 while searching for provisions for the colony at Jamestown. This visit was important in that it was this English captain who named the river in honor of Sir Thomas West, Lord De La Warr (Delaware). However, it is doubtful that Lord De La Warr ever saw the bay, river and state that today bear his name.

While the Dutch and English were first to explore the area and the Dutch were first to attempt settlement, the first permanent settlement on the Delaware was accomplished by the Swedes who founded New Sweden on the Delaware beginning with the voyage of the Kalmar Nyckel and the Fogel Grip and the landing at the site of present day Wilmington early in 1638. This tiny settlement in the present day State of Delaware marked the beginnings of white government and culture in this area reminds the Development Department.

The arrival in 1682 of William Penn stimulated the rapid growth of the lower Delaware as a center of trade, industry and culture. Penn's commonwealth became by the time of the American Revolution a center of colonial life and culture, largely as the result of the use of the Delaware River. Access to the Delaware enabled Philadelphia to become our greatest colonial city.

Practical use was made of the Delaware River by the settlers of the areas presently comprising the states of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, and as early as 1696, the river had become a busy center for trade and shipping.

The importance of the Delaware continued long after the colonial era. It became a great shipbuilding center for one thing. On its banks was established the first American Navy Yard and on it were built and launched the first vessels to constitute an American Navy. From it voyaged the first American ships to venture into the China trade and those which made the first extended commercial contacts with Russia and with Latin America.

The Delaware River was also the scene of the pioneer experiments in steamboat navigation undertaken by John Fitch in 1787-88. Later, the first iron and steel ships were built along the historic Delaware.

As a matter of fact, shipyards along the Delaware River have figured in American naval and mercantile history from the earliest days right down to the present advises the Development Department.

The Delaware has been important also in its upper reaches. It was the scene of a great lumber trade as expanding settlement along the lower portion of the river produced a need for this commodity cut from forests of the interior. Tall masts for ships were cut as far as the Catskills and floated down to ships by way of the Delaware. Before the coming of canals to supplement its waters, the Delaware was a major highway for the exports of the interior portions of all the states which fronted upon it. Along its banks flowed the steadily expanding frontiers of settlement into interior areas.

To say that the Delaware is a historic river is actually putting a mild emphasis upon its importance in American history. The fact that it continues to furnish the foundation for the im-

It's Not the Number of Cows; It's the Cow's Number of Pounds

With dairy cows, as with most things, it's quality rather than quantity that counts.

If you have a herd of cows producing 5000 pounds of milk per year you need 333 of them to make $3000 in labor return.

If your herd average 10,000 pounds each you only need 22 cows to make a $3000 labor return.

The average cow in the U. S. last year made a net profit of $28 for her owner. The average cow in the Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA) made a net profit of $78, $50 more.

What made the difference? The dairyman with records knows how to cull better, how to feed according to production, and how to select best for herd replacements. He doesn't have to guess when he makes a management decision.

According to W. R. Hesselstine, University of Delaware extension diarman, many dairymen feel that record keeping is just a waste of time. They fail to realize that not keeping records helps put them in the "average group", at $50 per cow less income than the cowmen who keep records.

It isn't important which record keeping system you use, just use one, Hesselstine said. Here are three.

(1) Dairy Herd Improvement Association, (DHIA); (2) Owner, Sampler; (3) Weight-a-Day-a-Month, (WADAM).

Records can help you get your production per cow up to 10,000 pounds, Hesselstine said. It's a lot easier to milk 22 cows than it is to milk 333 for the same income!

Worship Services Changed at Burrsville

Last Sunday evening the Wesley and Union Methodist Church congregations voted to hold worship services together during the summer months. During the month of July the congregations will attend an 11 o'clock worship service at Wesley Church. During the month of August the congregations will attend an 11 o'clock worship service at Union Church. This step toward consolidation has taken much courage and perseverance but almost everyone feels it is to the glory of God's Church in our area.

Your complete understanding and concern means everything to us as we undertake this new schedule of worship services. If you have questions or want to aid in this Christian endeavor, call the Burrsville Methodist Charge pastor, Don Hurst, or any of the Wesley or Union Church members.

importance of a number of major industrial centers which have grown on its banks clearly demonstrates that the Delaware River and Bay are still powerful factors in contemporary affairs concludes the Development Department.

Delaware Food Market Report

July plentifuls are tailor-made for warm-weather fare. With the accent on lighter, less hearty but colorful, energy-lifting foods and on picnic fare, plentifuls are just the ticket for your menus.

Turkeys lead the parade of food tempters for July. There is a big supply of these birds with all sizes available. This meat is no longer a Thanksgiving treat but is now available throughout the year. Of course, it's not too often that the prices are as reasonable as they are now and will continue to be throughout this month. There are many things, interesting things that can be done to turkey besides roast turkey. Try some of these suggestions: Turkey a la newburg, creamed turkey with parsley buttered noodles, turkey hash with poached eggs, turkey sandwiches (both hot or cold, openface or closed), turkey-burgers and, of course, turkey soup.

To accompany these delicious turkey dishes there will be a good supply of summer vegetables. Look for lettuce (all types), firm ripe tomatoes which are just right for slicing, broiling and stewing, onions and all types of summer squash. Sweet corn, both beautiful yellow and pearly white ears, will be plentiful this month.

Peaches and watermelon will take first place among the fruits this month as both are in big supply. Quality is excellent—in fact, the flavor of both of these fruits is superb, making them a true bargain at present prices.

Other foods listed on the U.S. Department of Agriculture Plentiful Foods list are vegetable fats and oils, peanut butter, lemons and limes and ice cream. July looks like it will be a month full of pleasant eating with such a list of foods in good supply, high in quality and low in price.

WHAT'S AN AMERICAN?

He whips the enemy nations and then gives 'em the shirt off his back. He yells for speed laws that will stop fast driving, and then won't buy a car if it doesn't go 100 miles an hour.

An American will get mad at his wife for not running their home with the efficiency of a hotel and then he will get mad at the hotel for not operating like a home.

An American will work hard on a farm so he can move into town where he can make more money so he can move back to the farm.

But we're still pretty nice folks. Calling a person "a real American" is the best compliment we can pay him.

State Summary of Farm Labor

State Summary

Two early spring crops, asparagus and peas, have been about completed. Asparagus production was somewhat under normal while peas produced a bumper crop of excellent quality.

Wilmington Area
Need for labor slackened off as asparagus crop was completed. Most Puerto Ricans used in this work returned to New Jersey Camp.

Dover Area
Truck crops maturing are using up most of the labor released by the termination of the asparagus and strawberry crops.

Georgetown Area
Big green pea harvest about over. Early apples being picked with fair crop in prospect.

workers. A total of 2989 workers were reported, 1204 local, 1189 southern migrants, and 596 Puerto Ricans.

Have A Happy Vacation

Vacation means a time of rest and relaxation. This release from the usual routine should bring pleasures instead of anxieties.

If You're Driving
Get the car checked to be sure it's in top notch condition. Enroute, take it easy and drive at a moderate speed.

If You're Staying at Home
About half of the deaths in home accidents are caused by falls. If you're a do-it-yourself type, watch electric switches and be sure they're off when you're making repairs.

If You Go in the Water
You're playing it smart to stay within reach of help when swimming. Don't dive unless you know what's below the surface.

By all means, observe safety rules with boats and boating. Avoid over-loading, fancy maneuvering and moving about from seat to seat.

Blistered bodies add no holiday bliss, so watch the sun, time of exposure and protect yourself. Make vacation time a pleasure time with common sense and safety measures.

Baptist Church Notes
Sunday School begins at 10 o'clock with classes for all ages. Morning worship is at 11.

Puerto Rican Fiesta
A "Puerto Rican Fiesta" was held at the Midletown camp of the Green Giant Company for workers.

Labor Summary
The count of seasonal workers at the end of June shows a drop from mid-month due to completion of asparagus and strawberry

National Safe Boating Week

Safe boating is common sense plus knowledge of the sport, an official of the Delaware Safety Council declared Wednesday.

This week is National Safe Boating Week, proclaimed by the President.

Boating has vastly increased in popularity as a sport in recent years, and the rate of boating accidents has declined, it was reported by J. H. Tyler McConnell, President of the Council.

He suggested these points to remember for safe boating:

- 1. Check the condition of your boat before leaving shore, and make sure the standard safety equipment is aboard, including a life preserver for every person aboard.
2. Make sure the boat is not overloaded, considering the amount of freeboard left when the people and equipment are aboard, and the conditions on the body of water you are using.
3. Outlaw standing up or horseplay in small boats.
4. If there are any non-swimmers aboard, make them wear life jackets.
5. Does everyone have emergency instructions to stay with the boat if it capsizes?
6. Observe the rules of the water in operating your boat, with the same courtesy to other boatmen you would like to have them show you.
7. If your boat is used for water skiing, carry on that activity safely away from swimmers.

Mr. McConnell pointed out that the Safety Council has a good water safety film available free for showing to clubs and other groups. The film, part of the Council's film library, is called "Safety Everywhere All The Time."

Head of Man-eating Mosquito

One Man's Meat

One man's meat is another man's poison. And, one mosquito's meat is another mosquito's man . . . no, no, no, one mosquito's meat is another man's mosquito . . . no, no, no, . . .

Well, anyhow, if you baste yourself with the right material you won't be any mosquito's man.

Dr. Dale F. Bray, entomologist at the University of Delaware, says you can make yourself very unappetizing to mosquitoes, gnats and other man-eating insects by applying just the right amount of Delphene to yourself.

On the other hand, Delphene receives a favorable reaction from most people, Dr. Bray says. Not that anyone is likely to bite you but it does not have the negative effect on humans that it has on mosquitoes.

Bray says Delphene should not be used unless needed. In other words don't apply it unless you're attacked or know that you are going to be in an area where you will be attacked.

Lotions are much more effective than sprays, Bray said.

Many insect repellents have the material in it. If the label lists any of these chemicals you will be safe: meta Delphene; Delphene; diethyl toluamide; or N, N-diethyl toluamide.

If you can't memorize those, write them down. Of course, you'll lose the paper but probably the druggist will be able to give you the right stuff if you ask him for "that new mosquito dope that works so well."

Maryland Honey Proves Prize Winning Quality

Maryland beekeepers cleaned up at the Eastern Honey Show by winning seven first places out of 11 classes, and two out of three of the Sweepstakes Cups. The 4th annual show was sponsored by the Eastern Apiculture Society at its annual convention at Rutgers University. New Brunswick, N. J. June 24-26, reports Prof. George J. Abrams, University of Maryland apiculturist.

John Lindner of Cumberland won a blue ribbon on his entry of amber extracted honey, which went on to win the gold Sweepstakes Cup for best extracted honey of the show. The Maryland entry won over entries from 10 States in the five classes of extracted honey.

The Sweepstakes Cup for comb honey went to Fern E. Wilson, Cumberland, on his entry of light comb honey, which won a blue ribbon in that class. Mr. Wilson also won two more firsts, one on light amber extracted honey and the other on dark amber extracted honey.

Three blue ribbons were won by Mr. L. B. Shearman, Glen Arm, Md. Mr. Sherman took first place in: chunk honey, white extracted honey; and finely granulated honey.

The show was judged by five outstanding honey judges, headed by Dr. J. W. White, Eastern Utilization Research Laboratories, Philadelphia, Pa.

Dr. P. E. Nystrom Heads New Maryland Farm and Home Safety Council

Dr. Paul E. Nystrom, director, University of Maryland Extension Service, is chairman of the newly formed Maryland Farm and Home Safety Council. The Council grew out of a desire on the part of the members of the old Maryland Farm Safety Committee for a broader program on rural safety, and an organization that would formulate and coordinate a state safety program to be used and promoted by member agencies of the Council. The reorganization occurred at a meeting Mon., June 27, at the University of Maryland.

Membership on the new Council is open to representatives of any organization with an interest in rural safety. The Council expects to meet oftener than the old committee, which met once a year to plan for activities of Farm Safety Week. As a result of frequent meetings, it is hoped that the Council will be able to give greater stress to different phases of rural safety on an around the calendar basis, rather than during just one week a year.

Maryland will observe National Farm Safety Week, as proclaimed by President Eisenhower, on July 24-30. Farm Safety Week, Dr. Nystrom points out, is an opportunity to help reduce the great toll of lives, suffering and expense caused by needless accidents. Slogan for this year's Farm Safety Week, is, "Enjoy Farm Life—Practice Safety."

First Beef Carcass Contest Announced

The first quality beef carcass contest will be held in conjunction with the Eastern National Livestock Show on Nov. 13. The contest is open to anyone who shows at the Eastern National. Ribbons will be awarded to the top ten carcass entries, announces Boyd T. Whittle, Extension livestock specialist at the University of Maryland.

Objectives of the contest, Whittle points out, are to establish a closer relationship between conformation and finish of live animals and the meatiness and quality of the carcass. Secondly, it is to provide an opportunity for all concerned with the beef cattle industry to become familiar with the factors to be considered in producing high quality beef, he adds.

The on-hoof judges will consist of a committee of three, representing packer-buyers and commission firms.

Carcasses will be evaluated by a committee of five judges, representing the chain retail stores, independent retail stores, packing industry, Federal Grading Service, and an University representative.

The carcasses will be evaluated on desirable beef conformation, high percentage of carcass weight in the most desirable cuts, and high quality in both the flesh and fat, with fine-textured, bright colored muscle, Whittle says.

Marketing Economist Joins Univ. of Delaware

A marketing economist, Frank Johnson, has joined the staff of the University of Delaware as research associate in agricultural economics according to an announcement by Dr. William E. McDaniel, chairman of the department of agricultural economics.

Mr. Johnson will conduct research in connection with the "Food Brokerage Research Project," sponsored by the Small Business Administration. He will be working in cooperation with Dr. Russell L. Childress and Mr. Robert L. Bull, also from the agricultural economics department.

Johnson earned his B. S. degree in marketing from the University of Utah, his home state. He obtained his M. S. and will receive his Ph. D. degree from the University of Illinois. He is a member of the American Marketing Association.

Johnson and his wife have three children; Scott, nine; Arline, seven, and Laurie, two. They will reside at 314 Ashley Road, Newark.

Fishing Lines

Tuna Fishing Increases

The number of tuna in Delaware waters has increased greatly within the last few days. Reported catches range from 1 to 32 per boat, and these fish are nearly all in the 20 pound class. Thus far this season, Indian River charter boats have landed well over 300 tuna. If the fish continue to strike with the consistency they have shown, that figure will grow rapidly. The lures used to catch tuna are very interesting. Most all trolling fishermen are familiar with the feather. This artificial lure is quite commonly used from charter boats and may be purchased at most sporting goods stores. The cedar plug, however, is a tuna lure rapidly gaining favor. This particular bait is a hollowed-out piece of cedar wood about six inches long, weighted at the head end. The hook is attached firmly through the plug and is fastened to the trolling line. Some captains paint these lures different colors, but many prefer the plain cedar wood color.

Blues Running

Blue fish are now plentiful in our ocean waters. Catches of over 100 blues ranging from one and one-half to three pounds in weight have been reported by individual boats. This week marks the first time that any large quantities of these fish have been landed at the Indian River inlet. The Marlin II and the Shamrock, observed docking at Scott's Marina, contained 87 blues and four tuna and 32 tuna and 76 blues respectively. That's real fishing!

Night Fishing

The Delaware Bay is the only local area where trout can be consistently caught at night. Night trout fishing is entirely different from any form of daylight fishing. First of all, anglers must pick the proper location around sunken obstructions, rock piles, or other areas where trout are known to frequent. Lanterns or electric lights are used to attract minnows and other forms of bait to the surface of the water. Once this bait is on the surface, the trout begin feeding. Lines baited with the night shiners (minnows) are dropped several feet below the attracted bait, and then the fun begins. Many times tide runners weighing four pounds or more are landed, and often catches of trout of various sizes reach 200 to 400 in number. Night fishermen should be extremely careful—fish only when the weather is calm, use a safe boat, and travel in the company of an experienced waterman.

Stingrays or Sharks?

The stingray, commonly known as stinger, is probably one of the ugliest inhabitants of Delaware's waters. At this time of the year this mean looking creature of the deep works its way inshore to have its young. It has a diamond shaped body with a whiplike tail sometimes three to four feet long. When seen swimming with both fins or flippers out of the water it resembles two small sharks swimming side by side. Stingrays are harmless unless cornered, and after spawning they will return to deeper water.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—I am now getting compensation for a service-connected disability rated 10 per cent. Am I entitled to any more compensation for dependents?

A—No. The law does not authorize payments for dependents of veterans whose service-connected disabilities are found to be less than 50 per cent in degree.

Q—I will be going back to school this fall, under the GI Bill, but am not sure the course I have been taking is the right one for me. Would I be eligible for VA vocational counseling to help me choose a course better suited to my aptitudes? I have never changed courses.

A—Yes. If you decide you want to change course, simply indicate on your application that you want vocational counseling. VA will schedule an appointment for you.

Q—A friend of ours who formerly was not eligible for VA pension because of his income will now be qualified under the new pension law. He is in need of regular aid and attendance. Can he be paid more because of that?

A—Yes. A veteran rated in need of regular aid and attendance may be paid $70 a month over and above pension payments determined according to his income.

Q—I am the widow of a Korea veteran and want to write VA about my eligibility for a non-soldier. What kind of identifying information about my husband should I include in my letter?

A—Give your husband's full name and his VA claim number, if he had one, his serial number, date of birth, enlistment and discharge dates, and anything you think helpful.

221 Persons Entered Bissell Hospital From July, 1959 to March, 1960

G. Taggart Evans, executive secretary of the Delaware Tuberculosis and Health Society, today emphasized the importance of the Society's expansion of services into the broad field of respiratory diseases.

Mr. Evans said that the wisdom of the move is verified by the variety of diseases affecting patients admitted to the Emily P. Bissell Hospital, normally regarded as a hospital for tuberculosis patients.

Dr. E. Willis Hainlen, medical director of the Bissell, revealed in a recent report that, of 221 persons who entered the hospital between July, 1959, and March, 1960, 71 per cent were suffering from tuberculosis alone, 12 per cent had tuberculosis and another chronic pulmonary disease, and 17 per cent had a chronic pulmonary disease other than tuberculosis.

Thus, Mr. Evans pointed out, more than one out of every four persons hospitalized at the Bissell during this period had to be treated for a chronic pulmonary disease other than tuberculosis.

Of the 26 persons hospitalized with a combination of tuberculosis and another chronic respiratory disease, six suffered from bronchiectasis, five from cor pulmonale, four from fibrosis and emphysema, and 11 from emphysema and cor pulmonale.

Of the 38 Bissell patients admitted with chronic pulmonary diseases alone, three had histoplasmosis or sarcoidosis, five chronic pneumonitis, nine pulmonary cancer, six bronchial asthma, seven bronchiectasis and eight fibrosis and emphysema.

Respiratory diseases can be divided into four principal categories. These categories and some examples of each are: Acute bronchitis, colds, diphtheria, influenza, measles, mumps, pneumonia, polio, smallpox; chronic bronchiectasis, bronchitis, emphysema, lung cancer, pneumoconiosis, and tuberculosis; respiratory allergies, asthma and hay fever; fungus infections, blastomycosis, coccidioidomycosis, and histoplasmosis.

Rehoboth Art League News

The Thursday evening sketch group with Jon Smith, instructor, as leader began with a good start last week, painting from a costume model: Mrs. Eleanor Graf of McLean, Va. The six or eight attending were artists of professional caliber and the sketches of pretty dark haired Mrs. Graf in her pink dress were charming.

At the board of directors meeting on the last Monday in June among those attending were Mrs. Sanford B. Leach of Washington, one of the three committeewomen for the Atrist's annual Costume Ball at the Country Club Aug. 12. The yhave a gifted orchestra engaged, and some especially intriguing plans for their "Merry Christmas" Ball. One of which is an elegant little crystal brooch, a sparking Christmas tree itself which sponsors may wear to distinguish their costumes as something very special.

On the 13th of July, the Junior Costume Party, staged at the studio grounds by the enrolled art students, plus one friend each (this party we call the plant bed for the Artist's Ball) is taking shape; Mrs. Thomas Bayard III, is chairman for that. She has selected "The Orient" as the theme. Mrs. Bayard, with her children, are now in San Francisco, and can be expected to bring home some exciting new ideas for the young people to build upon.

The following midweek, July 20, at 10:30 a.m., Mrs. Henry L. Heineman of Peach Blossom Creek near Easton, is to lecture and demonstrate on "Conversation Centerpieces." Mrs. Heineman has been holding workshops in several Delaware and Maryland towns this winter, notably Seaford and Dover where she held two each; last week at her home "Beauvoir Wood," a "graduation" class picnic 85 strong for these women was a big event.

Beside, Mrs. Heineman has been busy otherwise, winning prizes at the New York flower show, (no novelty for her). Mrs. James Beebe is chairman of arrangements for this event. A nominating committee is being appointed for the approaching elections in August for part of the Art League officers and directors, notably the president and three vice presidents, and several directors.

The next exhibition to open will be that of paintings by Katherine Hobbs, Francis C. Peters and William F. Walter of Washington, and William Lee Freeland of Westchester, with the addition of Miss Hobb's ceramic sculpture, for which she is widely known. This will occupy both studios.

Will It Rain?

An age old question to the man that works the earth is: Will it rain? And the outcome may mean the difference between making money and going out of business. In some countries drought can mean starvation.

Farmers have been trying to solve their water problems since the first man began to work the soil. They irrigate, they hire rain-makers, they plant drought tolerant crops, and they do many other things to catch and conserve water.

Every few years Delaware farmers suffer from this age old problem of dry skies. In fact, cattlemen usually have pasture problems sometime during every summer because of the lack of moisture.

Mr. Vapaa suggests alfalfa as one of the most drought resistant forage crops. Alfalfa plants have been found with roots 30 feet deep in the earth. As a high-yielding, drought-resistant forage crop alfalfa is the champ.

August is the time to seed alfalfa. So, if you want some drought insurance feed next summer now is the time to start planning for it, he said.

Mrs. Smith says the new and simplified methods save time and effort without sacrificing good looks or durability.

Wm. Brendel Wins 1st Lamb Carcass Contest

William Brendel, Ellicott City, consigned the top carcass in the first Maryland lamb carcass contest. His 105 pound Hampshire ram lamb hung up a 58 pound carcass for a dressing percentage of 55. The lamb graded high prime with a 2.5 square inch loin eye muscle and .38 inches of loin fat. "A beautiful carcass, with excellent conformation and evenness of finish," says Dr. James R. Ferguson, University of Maryland Extension livestock specialist.

Judging of the lambs took place June 22 at one of the slaughter plants in Baltimore. The carcasses were evaluated on weight of fore saddle, weight of hind saddle, area of loin eye muscle and thickness of loin fat to give a calculated carcass value. This figure was divided by live weight to determine on the hoof value, and the lambs were placed in order of value.

Nine lambs were entered in the carcass contest and every lamb yielded a desirable and readily saleable carcass. Calculated on hoof value ranged from a low of $25.11 for the last place lamb, to a high of $29.97 for the champion, Dr. Ferguson reports.

fish, egg salad and sandwich fillings. Potato salad can cause trouble too.

Finger foods as carrot sticks, celery, and onions give color, interest and food value to your meal. When prepared ahead, they may be chilled in a plastic bag and remain crisp until serving time. A few ice cubes in a bag, tied at top, helps to preserve crispness.

A portable refrigerator, insulated bags or buckets will make possible a more varied meal for outdoor eating.

The best of food will not be enjoyed if insects are around the table. Carry a spray to rid the area of these pests.

You need water, soap, and paper towels for washing hands. Pack disposable items in your picnic basket like paper napkins, plates, cups, paper table cloth, toasting sticks and aluminum foil. Carry along old newspapers for clean-up and pack-up purposes.

Everyone enjoys a tidy picnic.
