Caleb Boggs was nominated for U. S. senator by acclamation at the Republican state convention Wednesday night.

James T. McKinstry became the U. S. representative candidate after a close fight. He had a four-vote margin.

The convention witnessed one of the most dramatic floor battles in its recent history as McKinstry, a Wilmington attorney, and State Senator Wilmer F. (Rudy) Williams went down to the wire in a vote-for-vote battle.

McKinstry took the measure of Williams in Wilmington, rural New Castle County and Sussex County, but the Roselle Republican, who resembles singer Rudy Vallee, took Kent County by a wide margin.

The final tally showed McKinstry with 82 votes and Williams with 78.

The two candidates were in a deadlock several times during the voting and with just four delegates to go were knotted at 78-78.

It was the final quartet of delegates from Sussex County, who all voted for McKinstry, that gave the attorney his victory. Norman Baylis, Helen Faust, former state Senator Thomas L. Johnson and L. B. Knapp turned the tide to McKinstry. Johnson's vote was the crucial 81st, the majority needed to win since 160 delegates participated in the balloting.

The emotion-packed vote in the U. S. representative battle was just one in a series of unusual incidents to mark this day-long convention, which was played against a backdrop of sweltering, humid August weather.

The first indication that Rollins would be the victor over Buckson came during the late afternoon when Buckson summoned party leaders and other candidates to a suite in the Treadway Inn, center of political activity there.

Buckson charged that W. Roy Willits of Wilmington had used undue influence to solicit delegate votes for Rollins.

He claimed that Willits had told delegates the "organization had favored the nomination of Rollins."

Ellwood S. Leach, GOP state chairman, insisted that he had maintained political neutrality and that Willits was an "individual" with 40 years political experience, who was free to talk politics with whomever he pleased.

Buckson's next remark, those attending the closed door session said, indicated strongly that he felt the business of filling the gubernatorial nomination had been rearranged. It was also said that Buckson claimed Willits had been representing Leach in talking to delegates.

The State Chairman commented brusquely that no one represented him and with that marched out the hotel room.

Later, after this tense evening session had started, Buckson and Willits encountered one another in an exit corridor near the speaker's platform.

Reporters heard the two men exchange harsh words and come close to physical violence.

All eyes moved toward the arguing pair. Willits, noted for his support of John Rollins, was confronted with Buckson's irate complaint that he (Willits) had said "the organization" was for Rollins.

Willits retaliated by stating that he was speaking for himself, not the "organization." Somebody called Willits a "liar". Willits then grabbed Buckson and to the accompaniment of:

"I am 65-years-old but I can take care of you!"

When the altercation reached this point, people began milling toward the alcove. Willits left and Buckson calmed down, commenting "it was nothing."

Boggs was nominated by John G. Leach, who delivered an eloquent recital of the popular Governor's political and civic career.

He described Boggs as a "natural" in the art of politics because he is one of those "rare individuals who gets things done without embarrassment or humiliation."

Admission Price To Race Meet Here Reduced

A reduced admission price of 50 cents and the designation of each Tuesday evening as Ladies Night, when all of the fairer sex will be admitted free of charge, will go into effect at the Kent and Sussex Raceway at Harrington, with the opening of the track's 15th annual harness racing meet on September 15.

For the second year the trotters and pacers will race for 30 nights. Post time of the first of nine nightly races will be 8:30 p.m. with the daily double window closing at 8:20 p.m.

Reservations for stalls are being received daily from local racing stables as well as out-of-state owners and trainers now participating at other tracks.

In view of the tremendous growth of public interest in night harness racing, T. Brinton Holloway, general manager of the Harrington oval, expects the coming meet to exceed last year's record attendance of almost 90,000 persons. The 1959 total mutual handle of $3,095,609 was also a new record for the raceway.

It was announced this week that Essel Farlow of Pittsville, Md., will serve as presiding judge during the coming meet. Other officials will be: Fred Green, Jr. and Cecil Wheatley of Federalburg, Md., associate judges; Dale Fetrow of Carlisle, Pa., starting judge; Dick Case of Ocean City, Md., race secretary; Cy Perkins of Albany, N. Y., announcer; Jim Langford, mutual manager; Al Taylor of Washington, D. C. program department.

Softball News

Final playoffs have begun in the Harrington Softball League. The Harrington Athletic Club jumped off in front by edging Felton 3-2 in the first game played. Felton came back to win the second contest 4-2 and deadlocked the first three out of five series.

Wednesday night a large throng was present for the resumption of the tilts but a thunderstorm caused a postponement.

A preliminary saw the Harrington girls' team defeat a squad from Denton 11-5. This was their last game of the season, which ended with a 6-0 record.

Among others expected to report next week are Walt Lekites, David Martin, Bob Gillette, Jim Carter, Bill Parker and Bill Porter. All of this group have had some degree of experience but Lekites, a 160 pound offensive and defensive back and Martin, a 210 pound tackle who can play both on offense and defense are especially valuable. Both have been in action for three years or as long as football has been at Harrington High. Gillette, a 6 ft. 5 end prospect would make a good target for passes.

Wm. A. Smith, head football coach at Harrington High, and his assistant coach Jim Hawpe have been issuing equipment to aspirants for this year's football squad. It had been planned to start daily drills Monday but due to the extreme heat and also the fact that many students are still working at summer jobs it was decided to postpone the workouts until the start of school next week. Light sessions were held Monday and Tuesday.

Among those reporting earlier were several veterans from last year. These included David Hitchens, Ken Hoffman, George Balderson, George Pfeiffer, Leonard Masten, Bob Bonniwell, Allen and Roger Wix, Bob Smith, Ron Melvin and Barry Fry. Newcomers were Gary Porter, Terry Johnson and Tim Strohl. Strohl is a transfer from Ft. Wayne, Ind., where he was a third string varsity guard at a large high school. He and Johnson are both 165 pounders and should be a great help as most of the other candidates are smaller.

Rehoboth Art League News

The opening of the five member exhibition in the Corkran Studio coinciding with that of the Lucille Brown showing of painted tins and decorated furniture in the Paynter Studio of the Rehoboth Art League insures the residents and visitors to Rehoboth of an exceptionally interesting objective on their rambles through the resort and surroundings of this holiday and over the early autumn.

The five members who have hung their paintings, watercolors and oils, are Elizabeth B. (Betty) Boyd of Wilmington; Jon Smith, an instructor at the League; Margaret Schiavone of Baltimore, who will be there for the weekend, and Rose Pack of Milford and Loretta Paskey of Harrington.

Mrs. Pack is chairman of this exhibit and is showing oils, often handled with a palette knife instead of a brush, sparkling, jewel like in coloring. Miss Paskey, now in Santa Monica, Calif., for two weeks, is represented at the installation of the exhibit by Mrs. Carol M. Stone of Felton, who is showing both oils and watercolors, flowers, landscapes, and still life. Miss Paskey's boatyard scene in watercolor is especially effective.

Miss Schiavone has several of her stunning oil portraits on view, as well as watercolors, one of a lady in green is particularly noteworthy. Miss Boyd exhibits watercolors, landscapes and several of her effective portraits. Jon Smith's watercolors feature trees, in bare branch season, as well as full leafed, and a stunning one, a dramatic study of shafts of sunlight on the bark of trees, shed through foliage, is outstanding.

Mrs. Brown's lovely designs on both tins and antique furniture, in the Paynter Studio, make of the quaint interior of our original studio an enchanted place. Many of the pieces are enamelled black with colorful and eminently well suited designs in glowing colors, or in gold. Canisters, lamps, match boxes, trays, chests, settees, scuttles, etc. (Potential wedding and holiday gifts!)

Mrs. Brown plans to spend weekends here soon. The opening tea Sunday was served by Mrs. Louis J. Pack, assisted by Miss Schiavone. These exhibitions continue open from 11 a.m. to 5:30 over the holiday; from then on, seven days a week from 12:30 to 5 p.m. until Sept. 26.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ocheltree and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mills have returned from their delightful vacation trip with many interesting stories. They went out as far as the Grand Canyon and there, working at the entrance gate was a man, Mr. Gore, who told them that he was practically a neighbor of theirs back home. His father owns a farm near Hickman, Md. He went out to visit a friend and took the job for the summer. Later in Logan, Utah, they were in conversation with a woman from Los Angeles, Calif., who told them she knew a girl from Wilmington. Her name was formerly Mary Clifton. Actually she was originally from Greenwood, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Clifton. Small world, isn't it?

They called on the Rev. and Mrs. Clarence Palmer in South Dakota, former residents of our parsonage here, but found them not at home, to their mutual regret. A letter from Mrs. Palmer informed them when they arrived home that she was only down the street visiting a neighbor.

Veterans News QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—Is there any special procedure for notifying my VA district office of my change of address? I have a GI insurance policy.

A—The VA encloses a special Change of Address card with the premium notice it mails to GI policy holders. Simply fill out this card, sign and return to VA, which will change your records accordingly.

Q—Is there a deadline for starting school under the War Orphans Education program.

A—There is no deadline. You may begin school at any time, so long as you are between 18 and 23 years of age, and otherwise eligible. Under certain circumstances it's possible to begin before 18 and continue after 23.

Q—I am a World War I veteran with one dependent and may be eligible for pension under the new pension program. Just about all the money I get is from a private annuity plan. Is this considered income for VA pension purposes?

A—Payments from an annuity plan such as yours are not considered income until after you have received an amount equal to what you yourself contributed to the plan. Annuity payments are then classed as income and should be reported.

Q—I hear a lot about vocational counseling from friends who went to school under the Korea GI bill. I have no intention of taking GI training, but maybe VA vocational counseling could help me decide whether I'm in the right line of work. Would I as a Korea veteran be eligible for just the counseling?

A—No. Vocational counseling is available only to veterans planning to train under VA programs. It is not available by itself, apart from training.

Fishing Lines

Small boat fishermen will be glad to learn that kingfish are plentiful less than a half mile off shore at Kitts Hummock. Until recently these fish had been quite scattered throughout the bay, however, at present they are being taken from water about seven feet deep, over hard, sandy bottoms. It is believed that the kings are feeding on small crabs and shrimp which are abundant in this area. The king will approach a bait of peeler crab, shrimp or squid and begin nibbling, then, after sizing up the bait, he will strike hard, and it is at this time that the hook should be set. Once hooked, the kingfish will put up a good fight before being located. The kingfish is also considered one of the best as a table fish.

Trout are available for those venturing farther from shore. Nice catches of up to 30 fish, weighing over two pounds, are being taken. Last weekend it has been estimated that small boats operating from Kitts Hummock landed over 1000 fish. Rental boat and motors are available in this area.

Lower Del. Small Boat Fishing
In the Mispillion and Slaughter Beach area trout are very plentiful for small boat operators. Excellent catches have been reported less than 500 yards from the jetty at Mispillion Light House. One small boat came in with over 100 trout weighing approximately three-quarters pound each. Party boat operators, unable to fish in the shallow waters, have been joining the Bowers fishing fleet in the vicinity of Fourteen-Foot Light House where flounder and trout are plentiful.

Rehoboth Bay and Indian River Bay have also been providing rowboat fishermen with excellent flounder fishing. Fishermen out from Massey's Landing have reported from five to 20 fish per boat.

Farmers Reminded On Conservation Reserve

Chairman R. Harry Wilson of the Kent Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee reminded farmers with land in the conservation reserve of their continuing responsibility to refrain from using this land for grazing or harvesting any crop from it during the contract period.

"Even though we are not authorized to take new land into the Conservation Reserve," Mr. Wilson said, "there has been no change in the regulations concerning the land retired from production under existing contracts. The farmer is being paid an annual rental for compliance with his Conservation Reserve contract, and in most cases has already received his payment for a part of the cost of establishing a conservation practice on the land. In return, he is obligated to withhold the land from production for the life of the contract."

There are 106 Conservation Reserve contracts in effect in Kent County, involving a total of 6,667.1 acres of cropland. Of these 88 are "whole farm" contracts, covering all the cropland on the farm. Some of this land will be held out of production through the 1969 crop season.

Nationally, there is a total of about 28.6 million acres in the Conservation Reserve in 48 of the 50 states. This acreage involves part or all of the cropland on about 305,000 farms which have a total farmland acreage of 96.1 million acres, or nearly 10 percent of the total U. S. Acreage in farms.

The Conservation Reserve program provides for limiting the production on the participating farms. In addition, new land may not be brought into production on these farms. On all participating farms the acreage normally used for the production of crops must be reduced. On farms that have all cropland in the program all the acreage is withdrawn

Are Your Cows Hungry?

Underfeeding is the rule, not the exception, in too many dairy herds, says County Agent George Vapaa.

The records of 2,480 cows in the Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA) program in Washington showed cows milking only three to six months dropped off in milk production far too rapidly. This is proof of underfeeding, Mr. Vapaa says, because at this time the cow is eager to milk or suffer excessive loss of weight.

The influence of feed on production is clearly shown by the May milk production records on the cows studied. Cows calving in February reached their peak daily milk production in May when pastures finally furnished enough feed for them. Cows calving in May also had their highest milk production in May.

In studying the monthly production of cows it is easy to find individuals that produce 30 to 40 percent more milk in May and June than they did when they freshened in January or February. This is proof that the winter feeding is totally inadequate.

DHIA or Owner-Sampler records clearly indicate the best feeding program. A careful study of these records to pinpoint areas which need more effort will pay big dividends, Mr. Vapaa said.

Extension Offers 'The Middle East In Transition'

A public lecture series, "The Middle East in Transition," will be offered through the University of Delaware's extension division this fall by Dr. Elie A. Salem, assistant professor of Middle East studies in the school of advanced international studies at Johns Hopkins University.

The general public and extension students, especially those interested in obtaining credit in education or political science, are invited to attend this informative lecture series on one of the most critical areas in current international affairs.

Dr. Salem is a native of Lebanon and a life-long student of the Middle East, and he will report first-hand events in an area of paramount importance to the United States and the western world.

The lecture series is offered for credit to extension students under courses listed by both the school of education and the department of political science. Class meetings will be on Tuesdays at 8 p.m. in Wolf Hall auditorium on the Newark campus beginning Sept. 29 and continuing through Nov. 22.

Topics to be considered include the spread of Islam in the Middle East, the political framework of Islam, the eastern impact on the Middle East, the rise of modern states in the Middle East, the emergence of secular nationalism, Arab and Jewish nationalism, the dynamics of Arab nationalism, prospects for peace and unity in the Middle East, the American challenge to Middle Eastern peoples and the Soviet challenges.

Dr. Salem, a Christian of the Greek Orthodox faith, received his B. A. degree from the American University in Beirut in 1950 and came to the University of Cincinnati where he received his master's in political science in 1951. In 1953, he was awarded a Ph. D. in political theory and Islamic by the school of advanced international studies at Johns Hopkins.

From 1954 to 1956, he taught public administration and general education at the American University in Beirut and also served as secretary general of the Arab Public Administration Conference. He returned to Johns Hopkins to teach in 1956. He is the author of "Political Theory and Institutions of the Khawarij," and of various articles in professional journals.

Camping Season Extended to Oct. 2

Like Delaware's seashore communities, the state-owned camping, fishing and bathing areas along Delaware Route 14 between Dewey Beach and Bethany Beach, have also been experiencing a record-establishing influx of visitors this summer advises the Delaware State Development Department.

According to the state information agency, these public facilities have been so widely used that the State Highway Department, which maintains and operates the coastal recreation areas, has decided to extend the "camping season" through Sunday, Oct. 2. Earlier, it had been announced the tenting area would be open only through Labor Day.

Near capacity crowds have been using the tenting area along Key Box Road and even larger numbers have been using the special bathing areas at Savage Ditch, on Rehoboth Bay, and along the ocean front north and south of the Indian River Inlet. During recent weekends, it has frequently been necessary to turn away late arriving would be campers due to lack of sufficient accommodation.

In 1959, more than 30,000 persons used the public tenting area along Key Box Road and indications now are that nearly double this number will have used the facilities before the curtain is dropped on the extended 1960 season.

As a result of cool weather in May, use of the tenting area got off to a somewhat slow start, but the pleasant weather that came with June and continued through July and August, has brought campers in large numbers, causing the area to be filled to capacity on quite a few occasions. What was most likely the "peak" was reached during the Fourth of July holiday period, when it became necessary to put part of an overflow crowd in adjacent areas not normally used for camping. This latter circumstance created additional problems for the comparatively small personnel assigned to supervise and maintain the areas, and most likely will not be repeated.

Many improvements were made at the Key Box Road tenting area last winter and spring, and the number of individual tent spaces, each of which is large enough for a tent housing up to eight persons, was increased from 312 to 436. Drinking water capacity was also increased and toilet and garbage disposal facilities were improved.

At the Savage Ditch area, where there is a large pavilion for family use, the paved parking area was increased to provide for more than 500 cars.

The recreation area south of the Indian River Inlet, new this year, presently features a large pavilion and a paved area providing parking space for approximately 700 cars.

While the Savage Ditch recreation area, along shallow Rehoboth Bay, is favored by families having small children, the new recreation area south of the Inlet appeals to larger children and to adults seeking ocean bathing along a protected beach front advises the Development Department.

Delaware Food Market Report

Back to school! Back to hard work! It's September again and the end of the long easy days when living is much simpler. There is a fine array of plentiful foods for September, and this will do much to make this month easier as far as food is concerned. The most outstanding plentiful for September are broiler-fryers, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Supplies of these tender birds are expected to be larger than a year ago, which means "there's plenty for all", with quality high and prices low.

Turkey is due to be in good supply during the month. The larger birds are expected to be particularly abundant. At this busy season it's a welcome relief to be able to get several fine meals from one preparation. Roast turkey, barbecued turkey, turkey salad, fried turkey, turkey sandwiches (both hot and cold), an array of turkey casserole dishes and a hundred other variations are all available when you select turkey.

Lamb will be plentiful and a good buy in the weeks to come, particularly this week. Supplies are expected to be large enough during September to bring prices down a bit. The delicate, tender and tasty meal can be prepared in many ways which will bring variety to your menus.

It's the peak of the season for late summer vegetables. Such things as corn, tomatoes, green peppers, cucumbers, squash, cabbage, carrots and many more are all at the grocery store and are very reasonable in price. It's easy to see this is the season for good salads of fresh vegetables.

Are you eating 27 lbs. of melon a year? According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, this is the latest average per capita consumption figure. If you are way behind, now's the time to catch up, since September could be called the month of melons. All varieties - cantaloupes, casabas, Cranshaws, honey dew, Persians and watermelons are in heavy supply right now. So, why not try them all and enjoy a real treat. For those of you who have freezers, why not freeze a few boxes of melon balls. It's easy to do, and so rewarding when winter weather is here.

Make sure to stock up on peanut butter - it's a standby with special appeal for the younger set. This food is not only economical, but it's a highly nourishing food - rich in protein, and a good source of phosphorus, Vitamin B and a fair source of iron.

Reese Theatre Notes

Go-go-go to Movie Center! Never let happy times pass you by—it's the new slogan of the Reese Theatre which is equipped with the largest Air Conditioning System on the Shore.

Cool and comfortable is the word, and the management lists a bevy of cool entertainment in their regular advertisement to be found in this newspaper.

If it's thrills and action you desire, whatever you do don't miss Ernest Borgnine in the new Allied Artists hit, "Pay or Die" listed as a companion thriller with "Bluebeard's Ten Honey-moons" with George Sanders on this Friday and Saturday, Sept. 2 and 3. Extra added treats complete this thrilling fanfare.

When Gable comes to town, everyone wants to be there when the fun starts. In "It Started in Naples," the king has as his costar Sophia Loren. Playing at the Reese for two days, Sunday and Monday, Sept. 4 and 5, everyone will have the opportunity to loosen up and pleasure up on the Isle of Capri. Yes, you too, will say it's wonderful.

"Just wonderful", say the critics. Every person should see that every member of their family has the opportunity to see Walt Disney's "Pollyanna", scheduled at the Reese, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 9 and 10 with an extra surrounding bill including the Three Stooges and a Walt Disney Cartoon.

'61 Wool Incentive Payment Set at 62c

A shorn wool incentive price of 62 cents per pound and a mohair support price of 73 cents per pound have recently been announced by the Department of Agriculture for the 1961 marketing year which begins April 1, 1961.

Lister V. Hall, Jr., Office Manager, Kent Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Office, points out that the 1961 price for wool is the same as for the first six years of the program, running from 1955 through the 1960 marketing years. The mohair price is up three cents from the 70 cent level during the first six years of the program.

Payments to producers under the 1961 national wool incentive program will follow the same methods as under the current program. Shorn wool payments will be equal to a percentage of each producer's cash returns for wool sales. The percentage will be that required to raise the national average price received by all producers from shorn wool up to the incentive price of 62 cents per pound.

Lamb payments to producers who sell lambs that have never been shorn will be made at a rate per hundredweight of live animals marketed to compensate for the wool on them on a basis comparable to the incentive payment per pound of shorn wool.

The payments for the 1961 marketing year will be made on shorn wool and unshorn lambs marketed during the April 1, 1961 through March 31, 1962 period. Payments will be made in the summer of 1962 following the end of the marketing year.

County ASC Offices are now making payments for the 1959 marketing year. Under that program, the payment rate for shorn wool was 43.2 per cent, the percentage required to bring the average price up to the 62 cent incentive level. This results in a payment of $43.20 for every $100 received from the sale of shorn wool. The payment rate on unshorn lambs was 75 cents per hundredweight of live lambs marketed.

Wheat Quotas Approved For 1961

Final results of the July 21 referendum in the 39-State commercial wheat-producing area show that 87.4 per cent of the 178,718 farmers voting favored marketing quotas for the 1961 wheat crop, the U. S. Department of Agriculture has reported. The vote throughout the area was 156,134 for and 22,584 against.

Since the quotas were approved by more than the necessary two-thirds of the farmers voting in the referendum, producers in the area who exceed their acreage allotments will be subject to marketing quota penalties on their "excess" crop if they have more than 15 acres of wheat for harvest and they are not taking part in the feed wheat program. The wheat from such farms will not be eligible for price support.

Producers who stay within their acreage allotments will be eligible for price support on 1961 crop wheat at not less than a national average price of $1.78 per bushel. In the 11-State non-commercial area, County support rates will be 75 percent of what the rates would have been if the non-commercial counties were in the commercial area.

The vote in the 1961-crop referendum marks the tenth time farmers have voted favorably on marketing quotas for wheat.

Kent County Committee Named For 59th Pioneers Reunion

Six Kent Counties have been named to the committee planning the reunion of the World War I 59th Pioneer Infantry of Delaware, to be held at the Wilmington Armory September 17.

They are J. Dewey Quillen, Dover, who has been named county chairman, and the following committee members selected by Mr. Quillen: Elmer L. Gray, RD 4, Dover; William Marvel Baxter, 222 American Ave., Dover; Willard S. Dickerson, Camden; Raymond Ford, Kenton, and Henry J. Hazel, Dover.

The appointments were announced by James F. McCloskey, Wilmington, who is chairman for the 59th Pioneers Reunion. The get-together is being held jointly with the Delaware National Guard units of World War II and the Korean emergency—the 198th and 261st Coast Artillery, the 736th AAA Bn., and the 142nd Fighter Squadron. Brig. Gen. George J. Schulz, Dover, is general chairman.

The reunion is a double commemoration. For the World War I veterans, it marks the 100th anniversary of the birth of their commander in chief, General of the Armies John J. Pershing. For the World War II men, it is the 20th anniversary of their induction into Federal service in 1940.

Governor J. Caleb Boggs has designated the reunion the state's official commemoration of the Pershing Centennial, and has named Mr. McCloskey to coordinate activities in connection with it.

Mr. McCloskey, in accepting the appointment, said "It is particularly fitting to combine the Pershing Centennial with a reunion of old Delaware National Guardsmen because General Pershing was one of the great champions of the National Guard. He was years ahead of his time in recognizing the need for 'One Army,' a goal that is now being advocated by all our top military leaders. It was largely due to General Pershing's influence that the Guard was made a full partner in National defense when it was reorganized after World War I.

"As chief of staff during that period, he was responsible for the development of the Guard along modern lines. The result of his work was seen in 1940, when the induction of the Guard into Federal service overnight tripled the strength of our neglected pre-war Army."

Indian "Madras" Versus American "Madras"

Authentic Indian Madras and the American Mock Madras are both popular fashion fabrics, but there are distinct differences between the two, Miss Janet Reed, extension clothing specialist, University of Delaware points out.

Authentic Indian madras is a yarn-dyed, hand-loomed cotton fabric in colorful plaids. As stated on the label, this fabric will bleed when washed or dry-cleaned.

Because of this bleeding characteristic, separate washing is advised for garments of authentic Indian madras. Wash the garment several times in suds, then rinse until no color appears in the water. Sunlight and perspiration will cause this fabric to fade. Authentic Indian madras may shrink.

"Madras look" fabrics are colorfast and shrink resistant, and may be laundered or dry-cleaned satisfactorily.

Read the label to know which type of madras you are buying

Navy Re-enlistment at Same Rate Now Possible

Re-enlistment in the regular Navy of certain personnel who were qualified and designated for submarine duty at the time they were discharged, and other personnel who were discharged in one of many rates designated by the chief of Navy personnel, too numerous to mention, are at this time eligible to re-enlist in the U. S. Navy in their same rate in which they were discharged.

The time of discharge to re-enlistment time must not exceed four years. In addition, good news for other ex-Navy personnel, same rate privileges, the Navy is now enlisting personnel with previous Navy experience in various fields in the same rate in which they were discharged, other than submarine personnel as already mentioned. The rates and new requirements are too numerous to mention, therefore it is highly recommended that all interested personnel contact their local Navy recruiter for the latest information on Navy enlistment. Your opportunities are great, your chances of advancement in your rate are excellent, benefits for your family like allowances and medical care are available, where else can you retire in such a short period of time, so with all of this you cannot pass up this chance to inquire into a Navy career!

Council Calls Labor Day Driving 'Most Dangerous'

The Labor Day weekend is the most dangerous holiday period on Delaware highways, judged by the record of fatal accidents in recent years.

The Delaware Safety Council pointed to the record Wednesday in a warning to Delaware motorists to use extreme caution in their behavior as motorists.

In general, the figures show that Delaware has escaped fatal accidents on Memorial Day and July Fourth weekends in recent years, but has experienced fatal accidents on the Labor Day weekend.

This was true both last year and the year before. In each of those years, two persons died in Delaware in Labor Day weekend highway crashes. But in 1956 and 1957 Delaware had no fatal highway accident on the Labor Day.

The records also show that Delaware has had no highway fatality on a Memorial Day weekend since 1957, and one on a Fourth of July weekend since 1955.

With prudent driving, Delaware can once again escape serious accident on the holiday weekend, J. H. Tyler McConnell, president of the Safety Council, declared Wednesday.

He urged motorists to protect their own lives, and the lives of their families, friends and other people, by following common sense rules for sharing the road and driving safely. He listed four rules:

- "1. Obey the posted speed limits; remember that speed is a factor in a high proportion of all highway accidents.
- "2. Be ready to stop quickly if the need arises.
- "3. Drive with patience, courtesy and common sense and thereby improve both the pleasure and the safety of your trip. Make your safe arrival more important than the time of your arrival.
- "4. Do not drink if you have been drinking or if you are sleepy. The public highway is no place for a fuzzy mind."

Tenting Areas Prepared For Holiday Crowd

Preparations are being made to handle the largest crowds of the current summer season at the public lands and recreation areas, administered by the State Highway Department, in the area south of Rehoboth Beach, during the coming Labor Day holiday weekend.

The tenting area, at Key Box Road, and fronting on the Atlantic Ocean, which has been very popular with Delaware residents and persons from other points, is prepared to be filled to capacity for this coming holiday weekend. An average of 1,000 persons per day have been using this site.

Improvements constructed and provided in the tenting and camping area, prior to the start of the present season, have been highly complimented by some Delaware residents who have been using this area for vacation purposes for several seasons.

Persons using the other recreational facilities provided on the public lands have averaged about 5000 daily and during some weekends the total reached 15,000 in the area from Dewey Beach south to 3-R Road.

The picnic pavilions erected during the past year on the land just south of Indian River Inlet, at Savage Ditch and Mule Stable Road, are in daily use by many persons and during some weekends persons were observed waiting for an opportunity to use these pavilions. Paved parking areas surround the pavilions for the convenience of the persons using them.

Lifeguards are on duty at the sections of the beaches that are mostly used by the visitors to these recreational facilities, a service that appeared to be greatly appreciated by the persons present at these beaches.

Employees of the Highway Department in charge of these recreational facilities report that in conversations with the visitors they found that a sizeable majority of the daily visitors to the areas are residents of Delaware.

Because of the large amount of interest in these recreational areas, as demonstrated by their almost capacity use, officials in charge of the areas have decided to extend the seasons for the visitors to the weekend of Oct. 2. It had been previously planned to have the season end following the Labor Day weekend.

However, these officials feel that this four week extension will permit the accommodation of additional thousands of visitors to these public land areas and prolong vacation time and enjoyment of the ocean and bays in the period that is considered by many to be the delightful time in the seashore.

liation of other human beings." Boggs has served as Governor for the past eight years with singular distinction and "unusual achievement," he said.

the recruitment of new teachers into the state," asserts Dr. Miller.

SS1 for SB194, as amended, reduced the amount of out-of-state experience creditable on the salary schedule to 1 year for each 2 years, not to exceed a total of 5 years of credit for out-of-state experience. Previous salary laws, recognizing the importance of experience for quality teaching, gave credit year for year for out-of-state experience up to the maximum of 14 years.

"Delaware must recruit 4 out of every 5 teachers from other states. While teachers from other states may come to Delaware for any number of reasons, salary is the primary lure," says Dr. Miller. "What does this experience restriction do?" continues Dr. Miller, "Under the present salary law, a teacher with a bachelor's degree and 14 or more years of experience coming from out-of-state can receive a salary of only $4,400 as compared with a salary of $5,650 she could have been offered without the experience limitation. As a matter of fact, if the new salary schedule had not been adopted, this same new teacher could have commanded a salary of $5,500. Instead, the new salary schedule significantly reduced salary potential and curtailed the state's teacher recruitment plans."

"The General Assembly has hampered teacher recruitment to an extent that is proving disastrous to education in Delaware this year and for the future," states Dr. Miller.

No less than 18 fully-qualified teachers who had negotiated for positions in Delaware withdrew after the General Assembly failed to return to correct the one-for-two years experience provision imposed by this law. "The effects of the experience limitation imposed by SS1 for SB 194, as amended, with its reduction of salary potential, has more seriously impaired teacher recruitment in Delaware than anticipated," continues Dr. George R. Miller, Jr., State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

"To alleviate the seriousness of the situation and to bring education opportunities within the reach of every boy and girl in the state," concludes Dr. Miller, "the General Assembly must take immediate steps to reconvene to undo the damage imposed by the limitation on the out-of-state experience included in the recently enacted teacher salary law. We cannot operate effectively under this law."

party hats and rattled noisemakers.

In his acceptance speech, longest of the evening, Mr. Carvel declared that "nothing qualifies a man to be governor except being governor." He said that when he was lieutenant governor he used to think it would be easy to be governor of Delaware. Later he found out differently.

"Delaware is crying for seasoned, experienced leadership and that's what we expect to give, come January, 1961," the campaign and was greeted with a like the theme of his coming campaign and was greeted with a tremendous cheer from the crowd. Noting that he is a grandfather at the age of 50, Mr. Carvel introduced his wife, who is suffering from a broken foot.

Mr. McDowell shortened his prepared remarks in accepting the nomination with "deepest humility" and also with pride.

The others accepted with brief appearances and the convention wound up at 10 p.m.

the course and who attend at least 90 per cent of the meetings.

The instructor will be Earl J. Dodrill, State Supervisor of Distributive Education.

The distributive education adult program has been organized for the purpose of offering managers and supervisors of business establishments in Dover and Kent County an opportunity to develop better methods of doing a more effective and efficient job of supervision.

"As the field of retailing and distribution becomes more professionalized," says Mr. Dodrill, "more emphasis is being given to training both on the management and supervisory levels." He continues by stating: "One of the main contributing factors to the success or failure of a business is the ability of supervisors to train properly their personnel in all aspects of the job to be performed and to develop the right attitude and skill in handling people."

The course is open to all business owners and persons working in a supervisory capacity.

GOP Fills Kent Ticket, Fall Victory Is Predicted

Control of the Kent County government will swing back to the Republican fold in November, John B. (Jack) Carson, county GOP chairman, predicted Sunday night.

The Republican leader also announced that the party's county ticket had been filled "earlier than it has for many, many years."

William M. Short of Clayton, a retired Delaware state trooper, will be the candidate for Kent County sheriff, Carson revealed.

Short, who retired with the rank of captain and formerly commanded the Dover troop, was appointed the nominee by the executive committee to replace Townsend Tomlinson of Dover, who voluntarily withdrew.

The remainder of the county slate as announced by Carson:

Levy Court—Fred B. Carey, Sr., of Dover, first district; Clinton D. Robertson of Clayton, second district; Charles N. Webb of Magnolia, third district.

Register of Wills—Maurice N. Jarrell of Dover.

Prothonotary—Henry F. Wilkins of Maryland.

Coroner—Wells A. Faries of Smyrna.

Comptroller—James A. McWilliams, Sr., of Dover.

"The slate is composed almost entirely of new faces to the political scene," Carson said. "Only Fred Carey is familiar to county Republicans and he will always be an asset to the county and the state."

Eight of 10 representative districts have been filled, Carson said, and both senatorial districts have candidates.

Ready For School

The first day of school transforms little children into "big" boys and girls. It marks a turning point for youngsters, says Mrs. Alice M. King, state home demonstration leader with the University of Delaware.

Accompanying this new growing-up feeling is the desire to be independent. Whether or not youngsters succeed in reaching the desired degree of independence depends largely on their parents.

It will be easier for your child to make adjustments if he can take care of such everyday routines as feeding himself satisfactorily, tying his shoes, washing his hands and going to the toilet. Both your youngster and his teacher will appreciate it if you teach the child to put on and take off outer clothing.

Since children have so many things to think about and their interest span is short, they often forget their belongings, Mrs. King said. It is a good idea to mark coats, gloves and other outer clothing with indelible ink or name tapes.

Teach your children to respect and obey policemen and the safety patrol. Every school age child needs to know the primary rules about crossing the street safely. Teach your child to watch traffic lights, make a game of looking both ways before stepping into the street. Acquaint yourself and your youngster with the route to school and possible danger spots.

The age at which a child can go safely to school by himself will depend not only on the amount of traffic in your particular community, but also on his ability to accept the responsibility of observing the rules.

If your youngster is eager to be on his own, but is heedless of the hazards you have pointed out, don't let yourself be swayed by his pleading until he has shown you that he will remember the traffic rules that you have taught him.

Navy Oceanographic Contingency to Move Into Fort Miles By 1962

U. S. Senator J. Allen Frear, Jr., was advised that the Navy Department plans to have its oceanographic contingency, now stationed at Cape May, moved into Fort Miles by Jan. 1, 1962. According to Senator Frear a total of 1.5 million was included in the recently approved military construction bill for this move. The Navy advised Senator Frear that it plans to spend 1.25 million for new construction at Ft. Miles and the remainder on rehabilitating existing army casemates. New construction includes plans for a transmitter building. A terminal equipment building. A multi-purpose building and a combined utility service building.

Mr. Frear said that plans call for open competitive bidding with invitations to be extended to all interested parties about Nov. 1 of this year. A total of 112 enlisted men and eight officers, along with a few civilian technicians are expected to be transferred to Ft. Miles.

Lawn Fertilizing Programs

"A good fertilizer program, plus a correct height of cut and a little weed control, can transform a seemingly hopeless lawn into a thing of beauty," professor Claude E. Phillips, chairman of the department of agronomy, University of Delaware points out.

Professor Phillips recommends one of the following annual fertilizer programs for your lawn. The rates given are for 1000 square feet.

For the best annual fertilizer program apply 30-40 pounds of 10-5-5 fertilizer in the spring (March 1) and 8-10 pounds of 10-10-10 fertilizer in the fall (Sept. 1).

For a minimum fertilizer program, apply 8-10 pounds of 10-10-10 only in the fall (Sept. 1).

Apply fertilizer with a fertilizer spreader whenever possible. This insures uniform distribution. Do not apply fertilizer when the grass is wet. The fertilizer will stick to the grass and burn it. If you have no choice but to fertilize a damp lawn then gently wash the fertilizer off the blades of grass with a hose.

A shady lawn requires three or four additional applications of fertilizer during the year. A straight nitrogen material at the rate of one pound of nitrogen per 1000 square feet is best in this situation.

All soils in Delaware are naturally acid. Lime must be used to correct this acidity if a good stand of bluegrass is desired.

In general, 50 pounds of ground limestone per 1000 square feet, applied every five years will be sufficient. Do not over lime. Too much is as bad as too little. If in doubt as to how much lime your soil requires have your soil tested by the Soil Testing Laboratory, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark.

Lime may be applied anytime without harm but it is best to apply it in late fall or early winter. It may be put on with the fertilizer.

PRR STRIKE

have been sent to the roundhouse at Delmar for the duration. The jobs of all train crews here have been abolished and the men furloughed. The crews are those of freight trains D-35, D-31, and D-37. Other furloughed workers here are block operators and maintenance workers, according to District Engineer LeRoy Strohl.

There are also some railroad workers, living in Harrington, who work elsewhere.

All workers will receive allotments from the Railways Retirement Fund.

Directly affected, besides the 20,000 nonoperating employees, are 52,000 other PRR employees from New York to St. Louis who were handed furlough slips for the strike's duration, 136,000 daily passengers and shippers who use the PRR for about 118,000,000 tons of freight a day.

Negotiations were carried on almost to the strike deadline, with TWU President Michael J. Quill and PRR Board Chairman James S. Symes on call until the final minutes.

The P. R. R., which usually handles more passengers and freight than any other railroad in the country, had arranged for all trains on its 10,000 miles of track to reach terminal points before the strike deadline.

The last train to move over the entire 13-state Pennsylvania network was No. 370, departing from Paoli, Pa., at 11:10 p.m., and arriving at Philadelphia at 11:55 p.m.

Heavy Labor Day weekend passenger travel had been headed off by the closing of ticket and reservation windows. An embargo on freight traffic was placed 24 hours before the strike deadline.

This was a dispute extending over more than three years. It dealt mainly with job classification—defining exactly the duties of the National Labor Act, designed to head off railroad strikes, were exhausted months ago.

The midnight strike call was the fourth during the prolonged negotiations. There have been two reports by third parties—one by a labor lawyer, named by the National Mediation Board, one by an emergency fact-finding board named by President Eisenhower.

The union basically wanted a job classification rule to insure against assignment of workers in one type of job to another. The contracting of repair and maintenance work to outside firms also was involved.

The first fact-finders took 483 pages of testimony. Then there were another 1,500 pages of testimony. The mediation board attorney found tentative agreement on many issues—but 27 remained in dispute. He made suggestions; most were accepted by the railroad, many were agreeable to the union. The presidential board adopted the mediation board attorney's proposals. The board's report left the unions free to strike and Quill set the fourth strike date—12:01 a.m. Sept. 1.
