

LEGISLATURE CALLED BACK NEXT MONDAY

The Legislature will be called back to Dover to meet Monday at 1 p. m.

The call to be issued Tuesday by Senator Allen J. Cook, president pro tempore of the Senate, and Speaker Sherman W. Tribbitt of the House of Representatives was agreed upon Tuesday at the caucus of 30 of the 37 Democratic legislators at Dover.

The primary reason for the return is to seek passage of the $14,000,000 highway bond bill. At the same time, the Democrats plan to seek passage of the school construction bond bill. And they intend to limit the action to those two measures.

The decision to go back to Dover and try to pass those two bills—and those two only—was reached after more than two hours of discussion and the expression of widely differing opinions. Some of the Democrats thought it unwise to have the General Assembly meet so close to the election.

Senator Walter J. Hoey (D-Milford) offered a motion that the legislature not be called back. The negatively phrased motion, which apparently confused some members, was defeated in a caucus vote.

Later the caucus took a second vote, on a motion to recall the General Assembly and restrict the session to the two bills. This one was passed by the caucus.

Such a restriction would mean there can be no deal with the Republicans on passage or votes on bills they want to bring up in return for passage of the two bond bills. The Republican minorities are in a position to hold up the two bond bills, which require three-quarters majorities.

The Republicans have previously indicated they would pass the road bond bill only if the Democrats agreed to amend the city charter bill to return the city of Wilmington's election of councilmen to a ward basis. The Republicans have also demanded votes on the civil service, Department of Finance, water resources and weights and measures bills.

The attitude of some of the Democrats Tuesday was that the Republicans had their opportunity to get the road bond bill passed last June, and let that opportunity go by.

Others pointed to economic — and possible political — advantages to passing the road bill. They said the road contractors, who normally employ 5000 to 6000 persons when they have state work to do, are employing only about 1000 at present. It was argued that contractors who work on school projects are in a similar situation.

Richard A. Haber, chief engineer of the State Highway Department, is said to have told the caucus that much time could be saved in getting the contractors to work if the road bill is passed now rather than by the next General Assembly, which would probably have to study it all over again.

He is said to have argued that projects could be advertised quickly, once the bill is passed, and that utility work and certain other preliminary work could be done in the winter. In that case, the contractors would be ready to go in full force in the spring.

The caucus was also told that the school bond bill is acutely buildings furnished but don't have the money to furnish them, it was reported.

Rifenburg Returns From Cruise

Theodore F. Rifenburg, boat-skipper's mate third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore R. Rifenburg, of 208 Hanley Street, returned to Norfolk, Va., Sept. 1, aboard the destroyer USS Du Pont after a seven-month cruise with the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean.

During the cruise the Du Pont participated in NATO and U. S. air defense and anti-submarine warfare exercises. As a result of her performance, the destroyer received awards for excellence in gunnery, engineering, and anti-submarine warfare.

The Du Pont visited ports in Italy, Greece, France, and Spain.

Girl, 3, Killed When She Runs Into Automobile

A three-year-old girl of near Harrington was killed when she was struck by a car Monday.

The victim was Debra K. Hall, 3, daughter of Mrs. Helen Hall, RD 3, Harrington.

Debra Hall ran into the side of an automobile driven by Mrs. Louise M. Tatman, 35, of Felton, on Route 388 near Milford. The child had been playing in front of her grandparents' home when she darted into the roadway.

Mrs. Tatman said she pulled off the highway in an attempt to miss the child but not before the little girl ran into the left front side of the car.

Debra was taken to the Milford Memorial Hospital by her mother and pronounced dead on arrival at 6:40 p. m. She suffered a fractured skull, fractured spine and internal injuries.

Police are still investigating the accident but no charges have been placed against Mrs. Tatman as yet.

Carvel Cites Financial Mess

Both state and national Democratic legislators have had to supply leadership not forthcoming from Republican executives, former Gov. Elbert N. Carvel declared Wednesday night, Sept. 14.

He also told the Kent-Sussex Democratic Club, meeting at Milford, that that the state's Republican administration is responsible for Delaware's "deplorable financial situation."

The audience of about 70 gave him an ovation where he declared the Democratic Party, with experienced leadership and careful control of expenditures, can run the state without raising taxes.

Mr. Carvel told the club he "approached the job of governor with fear and trepidation because it is even a bigger job today, than it was when he left it in 1953. He added that with his experience as governor and lieutenant governor he feels he could avoid the pitfalls that he "walked right into with my eyes open the first time."

Howard E. Furness presided.

Hospital Head Visits Coast

Last weekend the administrator of the Milford Memorial Hospital, Mr. G. R. Lorenz, returned to Milford from his recent trip to San Francisco, Calif. Mr. Lorenz was seated as the official representative of Delaware to the House of Delegates of the American Hospital Association at its annual convention from August 28th through September 1st. The House of Delegates is the voting body which controls the American Hospital Association, the official professional organization of the hospitals of the United States. This body consists of 128 delegates prorated among the states according to the size of the state and elected from the member hospitals within the state. Delaware has one such delegate and an alternate, in the event the delegate is unable to attend. It is (Continued on Page 8)

Pat Hubbard Looks Good At Local Races

Ellis Myer's decision not to campaign at the Kent and Sussex Raceway in Harrington during the current 30-night harness racing meet has left Pat Hubbard of Harrington with a better opportunity to become the leading driver.

Last year Pat earned 167 points, on the basis of five for a win, three for second and one for third, to finish second to Myer. Myer won the title with a total of 200 points.

Largest crowd at the Harrington oval so far in the week-old season was present last Saturday night when 4,255 were on hand. The record attendance for the track was set on October 3 last year when 4,950 attended.

Paris Post, winningest horse at Harrington last year when she won four of six starts, made her first start on opening night last week. She had the misfortune, however, to be involved in a two-sulky mishap at the start and her driver, Jim Stokely, was thrown to the track.

Although the veteran driver received a hard, head-first tumble he was not seriously injured. A sprained arm was the extent of his injuries and he is expected to be back in action this week.

Friends For Frear Organize

Formal organization of the Friends for Frear was announced Tuesday in Dover. The group—established to encourage the reelection of United States Senator J. Allen Frear—is headed by W. G. Davis of Dover, a long-time friend and neighbor of the Delaware lawmaker.

The Friends for Frear, according to Mr. Davis, will function in much the same manner as did an identical organization bearing the same name in 1954. The Friends for Frear, in the words of its President, "is a citizens' group being developed along the same lines as those which now operate for various other candidates in both political parties. It is made up of non-paid volunteers throughout the state, who will seek support for Senator Frear between now and the November election."

Mr. Davis emphasized that Friends for Frear will carry out the theme of direct citizen participation in the state and national election — an objective which is receiving widespread encouragement throughout the country in connection with the 1960 campaign. He also disclosed that the Friends for Frear group has been in the making for many weeks and that additional volunteers are most welcome.

The Friends for Frear President added: "Many individuals throughout our state, including Democrats, Republicans, and Independents, have been greatly impressed by Senator Frear's dedicated service to Delaware over the past 12 years. We feel that his independent judgment, his sound and sensible approach to legislative issues, and the important seniority which he has now attained are extremely valuable assets which ought to be retained for the future welfare of our citizenry. Therefore, it is our intention to pursue vigorously a course of action which we hope will help persuade the voters in every part of Delaware to lend their active assistance to Senator Frear between now and election day. We shall welcome the participation of all interested persons, and I invite them to communicate with me at Post Office Box 575, Dover, Del."

Mrs. Stevenson Retires From Milford Hospital

A farewell reception in honor of Mrs. Alice L. Stevenson was given at the nurses home of the Milford Memorial Hospital on Wednesday evening, Sept. 14 by the Board of Trustees of the hospital. Mrs. I. G. Burton and Mrs. Raymond Masten poured.

A large group of the hospital family including trustees and their wives, doctors and their wives, auxiliary members, and Mrs. Stevenson's fellow workers, turned out to honor one of the hospital's most highly respected employees. Mrs. Stevenson has served the hospital for nearly twenty-six years with complete unselfishness and a consuming interest in the well being of the patients in her charge. On the occasion of her retirement, she was presented a check as a token of appreciation for her loyal devoted service by the board of Trustees. In addition, her fellow workers made a presentation of a gift as evidence of their respect and love for Mrs. Stevenson. It is the fond wish of all connected with the hospital that Mrs. Stevenson be a frequent social visitor at the hospital.

"The 1961 Corvair line has been expanded to include station wagons and commercial vehicles," he said, "enabling us to offer the largest and most complete line of automobiles and trucks in the history of our dealership."

Mr. and Mrs. Dewain Downes of Jersey City, N. J., wish to announce the marriage of Mrs. Downes' daughter, Miss Ruth Carol Saulsbury, to Jeremiah Paul Woods also of Jersey City. Mrs. Woods is a graduate of Snyder High School and attended Jersey State Beauty Academy. The bridegroom is also a graduate of Snyder High School and attended St. Peter's College. The bride is the granddaughter of Robert A. Saulsbury, of Harrington, and the daughter of Thomas Saulsbury of Bridgeboro, N. J. The couple are residing at 116 Bergen Avenue, Jersey City, N. J., after a motor trip through the South.

H.H.S. Slated For Eight Cross-Country Tilts

Coach Harold McDonald's Har- is drilling for the upcoming hill rington High cross-country squad and dale season. The locals have two highly successful seasons behind them and this year's team should be stronger since the first five men are seasoned distance runners and are all present for the first time on the same team. Only reserves have been lost by graduation since Harrington pioneered the spot in the downstate area in 1958.

Eight meets have been carded of which three are of the invitational variety. These three are the state championship meet in Wilmington, the Henlopen Conference championship meet and the Harrington Invitational meet. The latter two are slated for the local course on the farm of Thomas Chambers near Killen's Pond. Mr. Chambers has been kind enough to allow the Lions to use the course, which has been designated by veteran cross-country observers as one of the finest for scholastic use.

Harrington's first outing is at Easton on September 30. Easton and North Caroline of Denton, are the strongest opponents on the schedule with the exception (Continued on Page 8)

Flower Show Successful at Asbury Church

At the meeting of the Ever Ready Class of Asbury Church School on Monday evening, the new president, Mrs. Fred B. Greenly, presided. The principal item of business was the reports from the various departments of the flower show that was held last Wednesday evening.

Despite the havoc wrought by hurricane "Donna" as she passed through this vicinity two days before the show, and to the amazement of everyone there was a good collection of flowers and quite a few vegetable; for it seemed that everything in that line had been ruined. The winners of the most "Blue Ribbons" were awarded prizes for their efforts and were:

Women's Division—Miss Rosanna Messick, of Houston; Men's Division—William W. Sharp; Girl's Division—Virginia Jo Richardson; Boy's Division—Scott Hill.

The exhibition of hobbies, antiques, and amateur painting was very interesting and attractive. The committee asked everyone who visited that department to vote for the painting that was most pleasing to him. The result of the voting was a tie between "Bowers Beach" painted by Mrs. Carroll Stone, of Felton, and "The Old Mill" painted by Mrs. Howard Cooper of Harrington. Because Mrs. Cooper was the chairman of that department she disqualified herself and Mrs. Stone received the award.

The financial report of each department was most gratifying, and the class voted to give all proceeds to reduce the church debt.

The program consisted of an invocation and remarks by the pastor, the Rev. Olin J. Shockey Jr., and two dramatized songs. The first was by a group of children singing "All Aboard for Blanket Day" led by Nancy Broce, Phyllis Holson, Judith Wyatt, Karen Minner, Virginia Jo Richardson, and Gloria Welch. The second was a duet sung by Lois Larrimore in a grandmother's costume and Marilyn Jarrell as a teen-ager. Their song was entitled "Grandmother's Counsel."

H.H.S. Eleven Opens at Bridgeville

By Keith S. Burgess

Cocah Bill Smith's Harrington High football Lions open this season by visiting Bridgeville's Henlopen Conference defending champion Mustangs, Saturday afternoon. Game time is 2 p. m.

The locals are given little chance of victory since as of Friday only 13 men were in uniform. Several more lads have reported since but they will not be able to be in top shape by opening day.

The Lions play an eight game schedule with but one non-conference foe. After fairly good seasons the first three years, it appears that 1960 will have to be a rebuilding year. Interest is low at the varsity level, but high at the junior high end of the field. As they used to say in Brooklyn of the now-departed Dodgers "just wait until next year," or the one after that.

Summer Music Program Successful At Felton School

The Felton school instrumental music department has just completed the most successful summer program in the history of the school. Fifty-seven students took a total of three hundred forty-seven private lessons. The summer program started on June 13 and ended on August 19.

The high school band was victorious in four different parades. They won first prize at Greensboro and Slaughter Beach. They came in second at the Suddersville fireman's parade.

The most recent honor came last Saturday at the State Fireman's Parade at Bridgeville where twenty-seven bands were in attendance. The Felton high school band was awarded the third prize for being adjudged the third best band. This is a high honor for a small school in competition with many of the larger schools and bands in the state.

The band also played two concerts at the Church Fair during their Centennial celebration on August 13.

Upon completion of his helicopter training Sept. 26, he will be designated a Naval Aviator and commissioned an Ensign in the U. S. Navy.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said Monday night it seems "incredible" that Delaware Democrats are "lined up against" Gov. J. Caleb Boggs' "New Day for Delaware" government reorganization program.

In a speech before a sellout Republican dinner in Camden, Rockefeller stressed the need for modernization and improving state governmental structure.

Commenting on the Delaware Democrats' opposition to reform, Rockefeller said:

"Sometimes I wonder what the Democrats do stand for. Waste? Inefficiency? Poor service to the people?"

In view of the tremendous benefits to be achieved through government reorganization—in economy, in efficiency, and improved services—it seems incredible to me that the Democrats here should be lined up against you in your efforts to modernize the state structure and methods of doing business," he said.

Rockefeller thus put his finger on the central issue in the Delaware election campaign. The GOP has built its platform around the reorganization program, while the Democratic key features of reorganization and endorses the commission form of government which it says has "served Delaware so well."

Rockefeller outlined to the Kent County dinner audience the steps he has taken in his term as governor to put New York on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Expressing regret that he had been forced to recommend a big tax increase in his first year as governor, Rockefeller drew applause when he revealed that he plans to give New Yorkers a 10 per cent tax rebate now that the ship of state is in the black again.

Rockefeller did not neglect the national or international issues in the campaign.

He said it will take Republican leadership—in the form of Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and a GOP-controlled Congress — to preserve the world "forces of freedom."

"We live in a period of basic conflict, not military alone, nor diplomatic, nor economic, but a conflict of ideas between those of us who believe in freedom of the individual and those who believe the individual is only a cog in the machine," he said. "We are the symbol of hope, but we must be more than that," he added. "We must have the strength and vitality as free men and women to hold the torch of freedom throughout the world to be seen and felt."

He warned that America is today "vulnerable for the first time in history."

"No longer can we leisurely enter a world conflict and swing the balance as we did in World Wars I and II," he warned. "With enemy missiles only 30 minutes away, the genius of our scientists has not yet devised a defense against missiles."

Using a strong defense effort, Rockefeller said, "we can only beg from a position of weakness; we can negotiate from a position of strength."

Citing the "exciting future" facing the nation, he said, "we have the capacity to lift the burdens from the shoulders of mankind."

He suggested that the solution to the problems of many underdeveloped nations may be a series of regional confederations.

"We know that many of the 50-odd nations we give aid today (Continued on Page 8)

Felton Wins Softball Playoff Championship

Felton won the playoff championship in the Harrington Softball League for the second straight year as they nosed out the Harrington Athletic Club 6-5 in 10 innings. The series went the limit as each club had won two games in the best of five series prior to the deciding tilt.

Ernest Fletcher, a former Harringtonian, led Felton at the plate with three hits. Manager Cliff Chamber, Harry Fisher and Bill Wheeler chipped in with two each.

FARROW'S TRIP TO GOP NATIONAL CONVENTION

Several people told me they enjoyed reading about my trip to the Republican National Convention in 1956 so I am writing this story about my trip to the Convention in 1960.

Drove out the Pennsylvania Turnpike, onto the Ohio Turnpike and spent the first night in Ohio.

The next morning as I was driving west on the Ohio Turnpike a Cadillac with Delaware tags passed me and a few miles further on it was stopped by the side of the road and the driver waved me to stop. He asked if I would stop at the next service station and send him some gas, as he was out. He and his wife were from Wilmington on their way to Iowa and then to the convention. I told him I was going there also. I later learned from some members of the Delaware delegation that he had been there but our paths never crossed in Chicago.

Also on the Turnpike I passed a potato truck from Oak Hall, Va. Ohio is a pretty State with rolling farm lands. Their crops seemed later than ours, though.

Left the Turnpike at Toledo Interchange and drove north through the center of the State of Michigan. Stopped in Lansing, the State Capitol, and the man at the service station asked how employment is here in Delaware. The Oldsmobile plant there is closing for change of style for the new model, but so too is the Buick plant at Wilmington and all other General Motors plants. I was surprised that Michigan is as flat as it is and the roads are very straight, with speed limit 60 miles on all roads. There were many picnic areas, most of them quite large, with very nice tables and benches, not rough wood like the ones along our highways.

There are many lakes in Michigan, in fact you are hardly ever out of sight of one. Stayed near Mullett Lake and wanted to go swimming, but a storm came up, so that was out. Would have stayed longer but it continued to rain so drove to Mackinaw City, you can take the ferry from there to Mackinac Island, then take a ferry from there to St. Ignace and return over the bridge by bus, but as I was going west through the northern part of Michigan I decided to drive over the Mackinac Bridge, the longest suspension bridge in the world, which crosses the Straits of Mackinaw between Lakes Huron and Michigan. Took the ferry from St. Ignace to Mackinac Island. It showered most of the day.

The only modes of transportation on the island are foot, bicycle or surrey, so like the rest of the tourists I took the surrey. It was cold enough to have blankets across our legs, plus a rubber blanket to help keep dry. The company that has the surreys has over 300 horses in their stables and the drivers change teams after every second trip. After riding over the island it is understandable why, as it is very hilly and that day, quit muddy. In the winter the horses are sent to the mainland as all their food must be ferried in and in the winter the Straits are frozen.

There are only three motor vehicles on the island, all emergency, fire engine, ambulance and police car, although I saw police on bicycles.

The summer home of the Governor of Michigan is on the Island and is a pretty white house. The Grand Hotel is a beautiful building and the gardner is from Holland. The flower beds were very pretty with so many colors.

It seemed so odd to see the porters pushing luggage through the streets in carts, but it beat carrying them to and from the docks and hotels.

I was quite surprised to learn from one of the shop keepers that there is no bank on the island. They depend on the tourists for change.

While on the trip around the island I was talking with a couple who had been on a boat trip through the Soo locks and it sounded quite interesting and I would have liked to have gone but time did not allow. The lady said the boat is locked in and raised with the freighters on the American side and when you return you come back through the Canadian locks.

As I drove along the north shore of Lake Michigan it was still storming and the white caps on the lake reminded me of the ocean when it is rough.

Stayed along the shores of Green Bay and when I stopped for dinner the restaurant was near the water edge but there was a nice lawn and when I looked out the window there were wild rabbits playing on the grass. They would stop every once in a while and then run for cover. Followed Lake Michigan and took the Lake Drive through Milwaukee and home along there are mostly mansions.

Stopped for a couple of days near Kenosha, Wisconsin. There was a private beach but to get into the lake the stones were terrible and at first the water seemed very cold but not too bad after you were in for a while.

There was a music festival in Milwaukee but as there was a detour between I decided not to go back. Drove into Kenosha and while eating breakfast I learned there was to be a Shriner's parade that afternoon. Roamed around the city for a while then found a cool spot to wait for the parade. While I was waiting I saw one Rambler after another pass by and when I asked a man why there were so many he informed me they were made there. All the Shrine officers were riding in Oldsmobile convertibles. There were two mounted patrols, one from Milwaukee and the Black Horse Patrol from Chicago. There were several bands, Chanters and floats, most of which advertised the Shriner's hospitals for crippled children.

The next day there was a baton twirling contest in the city and the restaurants were swamped with people. I talked with some people who had come out from Sharon, Pa. I believe it was a national contest.

I met a couple from Missouri and we tried our luck on a miniature golf course then I drove a Go-Kart. There was a track next to the golf course and I was anxious to see how they worked, as I had seen them race here at home.

On the way to Chicago I passed the Great Lakes Naval Training Station. I had often heard about it and it is a huge place.

I went to Delaware Headquarters in Chicago to get my ticket for the convention and spoke to Governor Boggs as he arrived. Later I decided to go to the Conrad Hilton Hotel, National Convention Headquarters, and when I got there I saw a parade that lasted for about two hours. There was lots of excitement. That night I went to see the picture "Can Can". It is very good.

Went to the morning session off he convention and on my way back to the city stopped off at the Hilton and just as I arrived there Vice-President Nixon and his wife, Pat, were driving up. There were thousands of people and movie and TV cameras, and confetti by the tons. I learned the next day they swept up ten tons. It was ankle deep on the sidewalks.

Went into the Hilton and after looking around the various booths set up in the basement, came up into the lobby and noticed a number of police stationed on the stairways and balconies. A few minutes later a German band, dressed in clown suits, came into the lobby and naturally a crowd gathered when they started to play. One elderly man asked a young lady wearing a "Nixon" dress to dance with him and I was afraid he was going to have a heart attack as he never stopped. Whenever they started another tune he grabbed her and she was more winded than he. Shortly afterward Vice-President Nixon entered the lobby on his way to a luncheon. He stopped for a few minutes and the crowd cheered.

One of the young ladies in one of the information booths of the Active Young Republicans asked a reporter if he could get her a ticket to one of the sessions and he tried, but with not luck. I was able to get an extra ticket and gave it to her and she told me it was for a friend of hers who is a foreigner here studying and is quite interested in politics. That night when he arrived at the Amphitheater I was talking with him and learned that is was Bruni Bucaille, the son of the man who was Mayor of Paris, France, for many years. When Governor Rockefeller entered his box seat just before the keynote speech, trying to keep his appearance a secret, the young fellow said "That was, quite sneaky, wasn't it?"

On one of my return trips from the convention hall, I saw a train on the Rock Island Railroad that had worked on the Pennsylvania. It was then known as the Aero Train and was built by the Budd Company as an experiment. It ran mostly between Atlantic City and Philadelphia and then was put on the Pittsburgh run and I rode it once from Altoona, then the Pennsylvania let it go and I did not know where it was so it was like seeing an old friend when I saw it pulling into the yards.

The next day President Eisenhower arrived. It was raining in the morning and his trip was delayed a couple of hours because of the storm. I went to the top of the Prudential Building and just as I got there four helicopters took off from the air strip in Lake Michigan on their way out to O'Hare Field to meet the President and his party. I was standing on a corner of Jackson and Michigan Avenue's when he turned into it and he looked so good, had a good tan and his usual smile. Mrs. Eisenhower was in the next car with the wife of the Governor of Illinois.

That night former Lt. Gov. John Rollins entertained the Delaware delegation after the convention session, in the House on the Roof, on top of the Sherman Hotel. It was a lovely place and there was a good view of Lake Michigan.

I had heard so much about the Stock Yard Inn so had dinner there in my last night in Chicago. It has many dining rooms and they were all packed. Guess I was not the only hungry one, and the meal was very good.

Decided to leave Chicago Thursday morning as I wanted to get home for the last day of the Fair, so watched Vice-President Nixon and Ambassador Lodge give their acceptance speeches over TV.

On the return trip I came out of Chicago over the Calumet Skyway onto the Indiana Turnpike and did not have a traffic light until I hit route 100 at Downingtown. A distance of over 800 miles.

Reese Theatre Notes

Go! Go! Go! To Movie Center. Never let "Happy Times" pass you by! Yes, more than ever, Delaware and Maryland fans are learning that all good times are not at the end of the rainbow. All roads lead to Movie Center, where top entertainment is the order of the day.

Everybody enjoys a good laugh. One of the biggest family treats of the season is set for this Friday and Saturday, Sept. 23 and 24. Columbia Pictures present the new "Stop, Look and Laugh" with the Three Stooges, the rollicking, rib-tickling, laugh spree of the screen. London, the "littlest Hobo" dog is the star of "My Dog Buddy," the co-feature, plus an added Cartoon Carnival. An invitation to bring the family is not needed as all your neighbors will probably be at the Reese Theatre to see this giant all family show.

Television has been telling you about "The Lost World." Newspapers have been ringing their praise for this unusual picture, "The Lost World." Critics say it's the most thrilling of all thrill shows. Delaware and Maryland theatre fans will have the opportunity to see Jules Verne's "The Lost World" at the Reese Theatre, Sunday and Monday, Sept. 25 and 26 with "The Valley of the Redwoods" as a co-feature.

Of interest is the coming of M.G.M.'s "The Time Machine" with Art Linkletter's "The Snow Queen" at the Reese, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 30 and Oct. 1.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—My father, a World War Two veteran, died of a non-service-connected disability and I may be able to receive VA pension since I am under eighteen and not married. Please explain the active service requirements which apply to my deceased father.

A—Your father must have had at least 90 days of active service, part of it during wartime. Also, he must have been discharged under other than dishonorable conditions. There are certain exceptions to this 90-day service requirement which your nearest VA office will gladly explain.

Q—I applied to VA by letter for disability compensation, and received an application form to be filled out. Is there a time limit on mailing this form back to the VA?

A—If you want VA to consider your original letter as the effective date of your application, the form you received must be completed and returned to VA within one year from the date it was sent to you.

Q—I am eligible for a VA grant for a "wheelchair house," but I have already purchased a home on my own. Could I use this grant to pay off the mortgage?

A—Yes. A "wheelchair housing" grant may be used to pay off the indebtedness of a home which you have already acquired

Q—I am in my sophomore year at college under the Korean GI Bill and entitled to additional VA allowance because I recently married. What kind of evidence of my marriage must I submit to VA in requesting the additional allowance?

A—Send VA a certified copy of the public record or the church record of your marriage. Either one will do, but you must send one or the other. A certified one who keeps the records, in the church or court.

Mr. Isaacs will move to St. Georges with his wife, the former Catherine Mervine, also a native of Greenwood, and their two children, five and three. Mr. Isaacs went through the public schools of Greenwood, and was graduated from Asbury College, Wilmore, Ky., and has completed one year at Drew Theological Seminary, Madison, N. J. He plans to transfer to a seminary closer to Delaware.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hatfield and Ellen and Miss Bonnie Yeako, were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Sevier of Delmar on Sunday afternoon.

Sunday breakfast guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allison Davis were Mrs. Woodrow Draper and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dennis Jr. and sons.

Aldersgate Methodist Church in Wilmington was the scene of a very beautiful wedding ceremony Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, uniting Miss Laura Lea Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey E. Hall, 127 Murphy Road, Fairfax, and Nelson Watson Meredith, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson W. Meredith of Greenwood.

The Rev. James R. Hughes officiated at the double ring ceremony and David Rule was acolyte. Mrs. Bernice Brady was the organist and the Rev. Everett Isaacs of Elmer, N. J., was vocalist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of embroidered silk organza over peau de soie which was designed by the bride and made by her mother. The gown was fashioned with a basque waist and had low cut neckline in both front and back with long embroidered silk organza sleeves. The full skirt lay in folds and was trimmed at the back waist with clustered rosebuds above a peau de soie bustle that extended to a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a crown of seed pearls and sequins. The bride carried a bride's Bible with a cascade of white asters and rosebuds ascended with sterling silver rosebuds.

Mrs. Kenneth L. Roberts, the bride's sister from Wilmington was matron of honor. Miss Rena C. DiDonato, Wilmington, was bridesmaid. Miss Donna Jean Lynch, Selbyville, and Miss Lori Ann Sisson, Hyattsville, Md., nieces of the bridegroom, were flower girls. All were dressed alike in white embroidered silk organza over plum peau de soie with lavender organza bustles. Their hats were of shaded purple asters ascended with sterling silver rosebuds. The flower girls carried flower baskets and dropped white and sterling silver rosebuds.

Samuel Meredith, Greenwood, was best man for his brother. The ushers were Messrs. H. Earl Hall, Wilmington, brother of the bride, Donald J. Lynch, Selbyville, and Barry N. Sisson, Hyattsville, Md., brothers-in-law of the bridegroom. The ring bearer was the bridegroom's nephew, Master Barry Ray Sisson of Hyattsville, Md.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hall chose a dress of lavender organza over plum peau de soie fashioned with a round neckline and paneled skirt. She wore crystal jewelry and selected a corsage of white rosebuds.

The bridegroom's mother chose a dress of rose lace over taffeta with a round neckline and sheath skirt. She wore pearl jewelry and a corsage of white rosebuds.

A reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church. They will enjoy a wedding trip as a present from the bride's parents. They will be at home at 2303 Inglewood Drive, Fairfax.

The bride, a graduate of Alexis

I. duPont High School and Gold-ey Beacom School of Business, is associated with the Product Development Department of the Atlas Powder Company. The bridegroom is a graduate of Greenwood High School and Gold-ey Beacom School of Business. He is associated with the Treasurer's Department of the duPont Company.

At the September meeting of the Greenwood Home Demonstration Club, held at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Graham, Tuesday evening, Sept. 13, some very interesting facts regarding textiles were presented by Miss Frances Shoffner, the county agent.

First there was a quiz using several sample of textiles to see how many of the members could recognize and were familiar with them. Then Miss Shoffner presented a skit entitled "Textile Town", using many dolls dressed in various materials. The members learned that the first four inhabitants of Textile Town were cotton, linen, silk and wool. Cotton and linen were used 3000 years ago. Silk was developed in China and the making of woolen goods was one of the oldest industries. Rayon was the first man made fiber. It was manufactured at Marcus Hook, Pa., in 1910. Many changes have been made through the years in the manufacturing. Silk today does not turn yellow like that of many years ago. Wool that used to be ravaged by moths is now moth proofed. Nylon we find is one of our strongest fibers.

The members learned about the new labeling law which has gone into effect. The act requires that textile fiber products carry a label giving the generic or family names and percentages by weight of the fibers in the product. Each generic name designates a kind of fiber that differs in origin. Fibers in each generic classification perform in a similar manner and require a similar type of care. Generic names are a clue to proper washing, drying and pressing temperatures, to spot removal and storage. Become familiar with generic names. They will be your key to proper care. If a manufacturer uses a trade name he must pair it with the generic name. For example, Orlon Acrylic Fiber. A pamphlet entitled "Clues to Clothing Care and Labels" can be secured from the extension office in Georgetown, free of charge, by any interested person.

We were asked not to forget that Oct. 26 is County Achievement Day and will be held in Georgetown. The public is invited to attend.

There will be a home coming service at Grace Methodist Church, Greenwood, Sunday at 2 p.m. The speaker will be the Rev. Edwin Thomas, a former minister of this church. The choir will present a program of music by the great composers. They will be assisted by outstanding soloists of lower Delaware. These include Evelyn Swenson and Carol Partridge of Seaford Mt. Olivet Choir, also Lou Reynolds of Bridgeville and Leon Donovan of Milford. Kathryn Cople will be at the console of the recently purchased Conn organ. A coffee hour will follow the service.

Delaware Food Market Report

Last week the story of Donna was fresh. This week the damage is being counted. The storm dealt a terrific blow to the Florida citrus crop. It left enough fruit scattered on the ground to fill an estimated 15 to 25 million boxes. The bad news is that none of it can be salvaged.

The United States Department of Agriculture further states that the indications are 25% or better of the grapefruit crop is lost. The seedless varieties suffered the most, so it looks as if this type will be scarce. There is no estimate so far as to the exact damage done to the orange crop but it is considerable.

Not only fresh fruit supplies, but canned and frozen citrus fruits and juices will be affected by the damage Donna did.

At the meat counter this week-end there are many "specials". Be careful. All "specials" are not quite so; for example, many steaks have been selling during the week for 75 cents a pound, however, they went up during the weekend sales in many places. Be sure to check prices during the week because there are many food buys found on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Meats to check this weekend are, lamb—the combination packages, leg-of-lamb, and shoulder chops; pork—smoked picnics, ham, and a few chops. Beef remains a good buy with rib roast, pot roast and a few steaks being the best bet, as far as quality and money is concerned. Veal prices are unchanged.

Look for bargains on roasting hens, fryers, broilers and on large sized turkeys. Cornish hens and ducklings are also good buys.

The winter-type vegetable is beginning to come to market in larger supply now. Kale and spinach are back at the counter with prices ranging from 18 cents to 20 cents a pound. Cauliflower, broccoli, acorn squash, butter nut squash and October beans are other fall vegetables, gradually replacing summer vegetables.

Be sure to enjoy the last of the home-grown tomatoes as the season is fast coming to a close. Excellent sweet corn is available this week, as well as a good supply of sweet potatoes.

More baking potatoes are here and prices are edging down. Other white potatoes are in good supply and quality is good with prices very reasonable.

Apples are the best buy at the fruit counter this week. The varieties now available are green cooking apples, Red Delicious, McIntosh, Golden Delicious and Jonathans. Melons continue to be

Univ. of Del. Holds Freshman Convocation

Dr. John A. Perkins, president of the University of Delaware, called for a year of "active minds moving at a tempo swift and taut" in his convocation address before the largest undergraduate student body in the history of the university.

"It may be easier to accelerate the tempo on the campus if students and faculty alike are mindful that their learning has a direct relationship to the crisis-bet world within which both live," Dr. Perkins said.

The overriding consideration before all of us is whether, through individual freedom, the United States can meet the manpower needs in numbers and quality required for this scientific age as satisfactorily as can the Russians, Dr. Perkins declared.

"In a very real sense," he said "by entering upon a new year of university work, you are helping to meet your country's need for specialized intellectual talents."

Dr. Perkins warned that the U. S. as a nation and students as a group must guard themselves to avert "minor and major tragedies."

"First of all," he said, "you must realize that there is one fundamental reason for attending this and all universities. It is to gain intellectual substance. This can be done only by total absorption in your courses and through the stimulation of the mind which the university provides through such special enterprises as lectures, exhibits, concerts and visiting scholars."

Emphasizing that students in other lands are more industrious than those in America, Dr. Perkins said, "They understand that the only remaining frontier on this planet is the limitless frontier of the mind. Your counterparts abroad know that to open further this frontier requires as much hard work, sacrifice and self-denial as your forebearers expended in settling the west."

The convocation, attended by more than 2500 students, faculty, parents and friends was held on the central campus green at 9 a.m. Music was provided by the university band under the direction of J. Robert King. Monday also marked the official opening of classes for the 1960-61 academic year.

Storage and Equipment Loans Available

With crop prospects still good for the harvest this fall, despite hurricane Donna, farmers are being reminded that Government storage facility loans as well as loans for drying and ventilating equipment—are still available to farmers who need additional storage capacity on their farm.

According to Lister V. Hall, Jr., office manager, Kent Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County office, at Dover, the Commodity Credit Corporation loans are available for most storable crops in amounts up to 80 per cent of the cost of the approved storage structure. The loans are payable in four annual installments beginning a year after the loan is made. Interest is at four percent.

Storage equipment loans may be made for up to 75 per cent of the delivered and assembled cost (excluding labor) of mobile conditioning and ventilating equipment to cure and dry grain. Loans are repayable in three annual installments, with four per cent interest.

Applications for both types of loan may be filed at the County ASC office located at 313 S. Governors Avenue, Dover. The telephone number is REfield 4-3078.

Farmers Discuss Corn Problems

Farmers showed serious interest in the variety of corn harvesting, drying and storage equipment as well as the discussion programs presented at corn demonstration plots on the farms of Frank Winkler, near Harrington and Marshall Wooten, near Millsboro, Sept. 15 and 16.

Most farmers visiting the demonstrations expressed an interest in changing some part of their operation so as to increase their income from corn.

Either they want to increase their storage facilities so they can hold their corn for a better market price or they want to find a way to harvest their corn sooner so as to cut field losses. This means shelling and drying, according to extension specialists.

University of Delaware agricultural engineer Ernest N. Scarborough pointed out the advantages and problems involved in early harvesting. Early harvest reduces losses due to insects, bad weather, birds, shelling out during picking and stalk breakage. It means picking at high moisture levels and this means either high discounts, if the corn is sold immediately, or some type of drying equipment.

Scarborough said artificial drying of corn on the ear is not practical so a sheller is a necessary piece of equipment if a farmer plans on drying his corn.

He also recommended a corn combine for large acreages. The combine picks cleaner, is easier to handle, faster and safer, he said.

Another agricultural engineer, Robert B. Williams, discussed various storage for both shelled and ear corn and facilities and methods of controlling rodents and moisture.

Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation representatives described funds available for loans to farmers for building storage facilities and drying equipment. Lister Hall, Kent County ASC Office Manager, told the group at the Kent County demonstration that four percent loans were available for purchase of storage on a four year basis covering up to 80 per cent of the total cost. The same interest and time period, four per cent and four years, is available for up to 75 percent of the cost of drying equipment, he said.

William H. Mitchell, extension agronomist, explained the demonstration plots and the fertilizer and plant population and the yield differences resulting from the various treatments.

Yields on the plot fertilized at the recommended rate of 1,000 pounds of 10-8-8 at the Marshall Wooten farm hit 112.8 bushels per acre. The no fertilizer plot produced 23 bushels.

W. T. McAllister concluded the discussion part of the program by pointing out some of the alternative systems and the size of operation needed to justify various kinds of equipment.

McAllister said that because a farmer figures he can break even or make a little money by investing $6000 in harvesting, drying and storage doesn't mean that he should do it. He should also think about the other things he could do with the $6000 that might make him more money.

Various types of harvesting and drying equipment then went into action on the demonstration plots while the farmers looked on.

Two Million In 4-H Clubs

Everyone of the 2,300,000 4-H Club members in the U. S. and the 1700 members in Delaware, pledges his "head to clearer thinking, heart to greater loyalty, hands to larger service, health to better living for club, community and country."

The initial "H" of these four key words forms the familiar green and white clover emblem proudly displayed by 94,000 clubs in all 50 states and Puerto Rico.

Responsibility for 4-H work rests with the Co-operative Extension Service of the USDA and the land grant colleges and universities, in Delaware it is the University of Delaware. Additional support comes from the National 4-H Service Committee, the National 4-H Foundation and 400,000 volunteer leaders.

State 4-H leader James O. Baker explains that like many other successful ventures, 4-H resulted from a need. The need was to find a way to show farmers at the turn of the century how to improve crops, livestock and home life. A dozen or so far-sighted men in different parts of the country got the same idea at the same time: Teach the children and they will convey their new-found knowledge to the parents. And the system worked.

What's more the 4-H philosophy has reached out to more than 60 foreign countries.

The 4-H method is to "learn by doing". In carefully planned and supervised projects covering science, agriculture, home economics, safety and health, hard-gained goals are achievement along with many important elements that make up good citizenship, Baker said.

Most 4-H'ers have several projects going at one time. They are encouraged to enter into competitive activities, demonstrate know-how, participate in school, church, civic and social events to round out the full 4-H experience.

Right now is the end of club year and project records are being reviewed and evaluated. Incentive awards will be given at the local, state and national levels. This tangible recognition for superior achievement and effective citizenship comes from many private sources that have unshakable faith in the youth of today, Baker said.

One such ardent supporter is the Ford Motor Company which has backed the 4-H achievement program for more than a decade.

The company annually pays expenses of all state winners to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago where it hosts a luncheon for the entire congress delegation numbering nearly 2000 boys and girls, their leaders and guests. Ford, also awards $400 scholarships to 12 national winners. About 15 Delaware 4-H'ers attend Club Congress each year.

The citizenship awards come from a fund set up in memory of Thomas E. Wilson, a pioneer of the 4-H movement and one of the founders of the National 4-H Service Committee.

Today's 4-H Club members are tomorrow's parents. They are the teachers, doctors, lawmakers, inventors, researchers, farmers and homemakers who must keep our country great. The future is in their hands.

for your patience
when the wires were down

It's a very trying situation when the electric power is off because it serves everyone in so many ways. Unfortunately, there were delays in restoring service because our trained men couldn't be in the many affected locations simultaneously. As the fury of the storm hit, falling trees and wind snapped the wires in hundreds of different locations.

Damage in many parts of Delaware was so extensive that Eastern Shore Public Service crews from areas less severely affected by the hurricane were called in to assist with repairs.

Men were first assigned to areas where service could be restored to a group of people at one time. After that they were assigned to individual calls where the trouble was localized. Men worked all day and far into the night Monday, following the hurricane. They started at daybreak Tuesday and again worked all day with brief periods to rest and eat. Mop up operations continued through the remainder of the week until all of you had electric service once more and could resume normal living.

WE'RE SORRY FOR ANY DELAYS AND INCONVENIENCE TO YOU.

Again, Thank You for your Cooperative Spirit when the wires were down

Richard R. Koch Appointed State Supervisor of Mathematics

Richard R. Koch, teacher of mathematics and science for the past nine years at the Delaware City High School, has been appointed State Supervisor of Mathematics by the State Board of Education. This position, first in the state for an academic field, is one of three supervisory positions created by the state as part of the Title III program of the National Defense Education Act of 1958.

Mr. Koch's duties will involve supervising programs of mathematics instruction in the public schools of the state in grades 1 through 12. He will also advise and assist local schools in setting up new mathematics programs, and aid in selecting equipment for initiating more effective instruction in mathematics.

Mr. Koch, a native of Cementon, Pa., received the B.S. degree in mathematics from Muhlenberg College in 1951 and the M. Ed. from the University of Delaware in 1960.

In his master's thesis, entitled, "Our Number System, Inconsistencies and Understanding," he conducted a survey of Delaware teachers in which he determined strengths and weaknesses of school mathematics programs as reported by teachers and as uncovered by questionnaire.

Mr. Koch has kept abreast of recent developments in methods and materials in mathematics. In 1958 he was one of 50 teachers in the nation selected to participate in the Mathematics Institute at Rutgers University. In 1959 he was one of 49 selected as a Shell Oil Company fellow to participate in a six-week program in mathematics and science at Cornell University. More recently he has been involved in the mathematics experimental curriculum program at the University of Delaware. This program was set up to test new mathematics materials in the classroom and to evaluate and make recommendations relative to junior high school textbooks in mathematics. For the past eight years he has been active in the Delaware State Science Fair and served as general chairman of this group last year. During the past summer Mr. Koch was one of 12 teachers elected by the University of Delaware to participate in its Research Participation Program of Teacher Training.

Mr. Koch is a member of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, a life member of the National Science Teachers Association and the National Education Association, and the Delaware State Education Association.

Magnolia

Students from Magnolia who are attending the University of Delaware are Miss Betty Ann Pugh, who is enrolled as a freshman at the university and is taking the education course, majoring in English; Lorna Freese and Wayne Callaway. This is Lorna and Wayne's second year at the university.

Mrs. Rebecca (Ecca) Smith was admitted to the Milford Memorial Hospital Monday after suffering a possible slight stroke at her home near Magnolia. There is no report at this time on her condition.

Mrs. Aubrey Wheaton is still a patient at the Kent General Hospital in Dover where she has been under observation for the past week. X-rays have not yet revealed the cause of her trouble.

The Ethel Mensch Collins Educational building was consecrated Sunday with Mrs. Collins leading the litany of consecration. Dr. Roy L. Tawes was the speaker for the very special occasion in the church history of Magnolia.

After the ceremony the congregation was invited to the Fellowship Hall of the new building where members and guests were served refreshments by the Women's Society and the MYAF.

This is a building for which the church and community can be justly proud and our pride will be increased when the remaining debt on the building can be paid—let us each do our part to eliminate this debt.

An after thought—did everyone notice on their church bulletin on Sunday that the wonderful drawing of our church, which was on the cover of the bulletin, was done by one of our local young folks. It was another display of art done by Miss Carole Schwartz.

The Rev. Charles Burge is a scholar at the Krozar Seminary, in Chester, Pa., where he is attending for his second year.

By the time this is being read, Ray Ingram will probably be back to his home here as the latest report is that he is feeling much improved and will be able to leave the Kent General Hospital in the next few days. He has been a patient there for the past three weeks.

Police End Walkout In Milford

The Milford police force was back on the job Wednesday following a walkout that lasted less than 24 hours.

Police Chief Robert A. Downes and his 10-man force returned to work Tuesday after agreeing to submit their dispute over working hours to arbitration.

Chief Downes and his men want their 48-hour work week cut to 40 hours.

While the Milford police were off, state police from Georgetown and Dover Troops, acting under Lt. Clifton M. Rogers, manned the police station and patrolled in Milford.

Although the police situation is temporarily adjusted, City Council faces another problem. The city's electric, street, water and sewage department employees want a pay raise, too.

These employees have agreed to arbitration.

The situation came to a climax Monday night when city police, including the chief, five other uniformed men and three clerks, walked off their jobs at the conclusion of a meeting with the three-man police committee of council.

The police force, including the clerks, wants a 40-hour week and three additional men to make this possible.

Council held a three-hour meeting with the police committee and police Tuesday.

Mayor Roy E. Pettyjohn said the whole council will sit as an arbitration board, but didn't say when.

City service and maintenance employees want their work week reduced to 40 hours with no material content, according to R. Harry Wilson, chairman of the Kent Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, at Dover.

When the foreign material in the soybeans is one percent or less, the premium will be two cents per bushel. In addition, a schedule of premiums applies when the moisture content is less than 13.8 per cent.

The discount applies when the foreign material exceeds 2.0 per cent. Soybeans with 2.1 to 2.5 per cent foreign material will be discounted 1 cent per bushel. Each additional one-half per cent foreign material is discounted 1 cent, the discount for 5.0 per cent being 6 cents per bushel. In addition

Foreign Material In Soybeans To Be Discounted

Soybeans from the 1960 crop placed under the price-support program will be eligible for a premium or may receive discounts depending on the foreign content, according to R. Harry Wilson, chairman of the Kent Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, at Dover.

there are discounts for splits, damaged kernels, and test weight.

The discounts and premiums apply to soybeans from this year's crop that are delivered to the Commodity Credit Corporation under purchase agreements as well as to beans placed under loan.

Price support loans and purchase agreements will be available from time of harvest through January 31, 1961.

The basic loan rate for Kent County for 1960-crop soybeans grading No. 2 and containing between 13.8 and 14.0 percent moisture is $1.80 per bushel. This basic rate is for the classes Green soybeans and Yellow soybeans.

Mary Carter says . . .

"TO PAY LESS IS DANGEROUS; TO PAY MORE IS FOOLISH!"

"GO SHOPPING FOR PAINT, and you'll find all kinds of 'bargain basement' deals in discontinued colors, factory reject lots and labels no one's ever heard of, for less than the price of Mary Carter paints. Without looking far, you'll also find paints costing much more than my most expensive product.

"PAY MORE FOR MARY CARTER PAINT than you'd spend for paint 'bargains' . . . PAY LESS FOR MARY CARTER PAINT than you would for expensive paints, and you'll be spending your money wisely. Streamlined manufacturing and merchandising methods mean less of your paint dollar is for overhead and more of your paint dollar is for paint at Mary Carter stores, where Every 2nd Can Is FREE Of Extra Cost."

HOW IS THE FREE GALLON POSSIBLE?

"I can manufacture high quality paint at low cost because of operational economies and because I'm satisfied with a modest profit! Middlemen eliminated by direct factory-to-store shipments . . . modern paint factories and equipment . . . streamlined merchandising methods . . . my own fleet of Diesel trucks to cut raw materials and shipping costs . . . All of these effect savings which I pass on to you with every 2nd can of paint free of extra cost!"

WHY NOT JUST CHARGE HALF PRICE?

"My paints are quality priced because they are quality paints, and I refuse to 'second rate' them with low, unrealistic price tags. I'll never classify Mary Carter paints with the cheap imitations being offered, nor will I ever downgrade my products with price reductions, discounts or special sales. I manufacture high quality paint and dramatize my operational economies with every 2nd can free of extra cost!"

Asbury Methodist Church News

We are planning a special Rally Day Service this week to be held during the regular hour of Church School, which is 10. During this service a vast number of our scholars will be promoted to new departments. Howard S. Wagner, our superintendent, has challenged each family to invite at least one new family that is unchurched to attend our church school and join our fellowship. We hope to reach our goal of 400 in attendance for Rally Day. Perhaps, this is just the occasion that you have needed to start back to church. If you are without a church home then we invite you to worship with us.

The morning worship service will immediately follow at 11 o'clock, conducted by our pastor. The sermon theme for this Christian Education Sunday is "The Goal of Education." During this service our pastor will invite all teachers and officers of our church school to kneel for a moment at the Altar to be consecrated for their very important task of teaching others of the Lord Jesus Christ. All of our teachers and officers are requested to be present. The anthem of the morning will be sung by the Cathedral Choir. A nursery will be provided for small children.

Our evening services will begin this Sunday at 7:30 p.m. with the Hon. Gov. J. Caleb Boggs, as our speaker. The music will be furnished by our Chancel Choir of 45 teenagers, under the direction of Melvin Brobst. At the conclusion of the service all in attendance will be invited to the auditorium for refreshments served by the Rebekah Circle. This service is open to all.

The altar flowers will be presented by Mr. and Mrs. Gary Greenwood in honor of their wedding anniversary and their parents' wedding anniversary.

The Friendly Greeters this week are Mr. and Mrs. Kesler Farrow.

The Pathfinders Class will meet Wednesday evening at 7:30 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Wells, with Mr. and Mrs. William Taylor as host and hostess. Mrs. Lester Smith, the president, will be in charge.

All the choirs will practice Thursday with the exception of the Cherub and it will practice Friday.

The date of the roast beef supper of the W.S.C.S. has been changed to Friday, Oct. 7, beginning at 4 p.m. The price is $1.35 for adults and $.75 for children.

accountant for the Joint Finance Committee, and John M. Conway, Democratic state chairman, visited the caucus, but were reported to have taken no part in the decisions.

Action on the two bills would require one roll call in each branch. The highway bond bill has been passed by the House, but not yet delivered to the Senate. The school bond bill was passed by the House, and was amended by the Senate. All that remains is for the House to concur in the amendment.

At the end of the caucus, one of the Democrats suggested the press not be informed of the decisions of the caucus.

But some of the members had already left.

will never be self-sufficient; in groups they might be," he said. Strongly endorsing Nixon and Lodge on several occasions, Rockefeller also urged election of the statewide ticket of Republicans.

He told the 850 Republicans in Caesar Rodney School auditorium that the Nixon-Lodge ticket has the experience, courage, and leadership to preserve the free world—but said they may need a Republican controlled Congress to do it.

Under the lights at the Blue Hen Speedway Friday night racing fans saw the most highly competitive and popular micro, 1/4 midget, and go-kart racing on one program. The pit area was well filled with cars for the evenings event.

As Jesse Trotta, the announcer, gave the line up, the 1/4 midget engines buzzed out on the track for the 25-lap feature. A close formation of pint-sized speedsters took the first corner, setting a fast pace. It was car 100 driven by Bobby Walls all the way to the finish line; Billy Dill chauffeuring car 1, second; Buddy Matthews, piloting car 88 Jr. third and car 33 driven by Jackie Warrington fourth.

There will be plenty of action Friday night at the Blue Hen Speedway with Micro Midget, Quarter Midget and Go-Kart racing. Free admission, free parking and a concession stand for your convenience. Come out and watch these sportsmen invade the racing oval in keen and fast competition.

Harrington School Notes

The first grade will be divided into four sections with Mrs. Bernice Parker as instructor. This step was taken because of the large number in the three sections. Division will be made this week, and effective Monday morning the new class set-up will be in progress.

At the meeting of the Henlopen Conference last week, it was decided that the Mid-Del Officials Association would be asked to handle all Henlopen Conference games. The Conference also decided to support Junior High School football and basketball programs. The Junior High games will be played on Monday's following the Junior Varsity games. The schedule for these games is now in the hands of the scheduling committee, Graham Dill of John M. Clayton School, and James Hawpe of Harrington School.

The first football game will be played at Bridgeville tomorrow afternoon.

Principals A. A. Feagan and J. H. Bedford, and Supt. Albert W. Adams will attend the Delaware School Administrators meeting at Camp Tockwogh today and tomorrow. No Conservation Reserve Signup This Fall

There will be no signup of additional land or contracts under the Soil Bank Conservation Reserve this fall, William H. Reynolds, chairman Delaware Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said Thursday in response to inquiries from farmers regarding the status of the program.

Mr. Reynolds also said that program contracts which expire in 1960 or later are no longer eligible to be extended for an additional period of years.

"Under the Soil Bank Act enacted in May of 1956," Mr. Reynolds explained, "The Secretary of Agriculture was authorized to enter into Conservation Reserve contracts with producers during the five-year 1956-60.

The signup under the 1960 program was held last fall, so that farmers would know in advance of the cropping season whether their land would be accepted into the Conservation Reserve. Since the authorization to enter into new contracts has not been extended beyond 1960, there will be no signup this fall.

"Farmers should understand, however, that the existing contracts for 1960 and previous years will remain in effect and payments will continue to be made under them for the period of the contracts and in accordance with contract terms. The annual Department of Agriculture appropriation bills provide money with which to meet obligations already on the books."

There are 284 conservation reserve contracts in effect this year in Delaware, involving a total acreage of 18,420 acres, Mr. Reynolds said. Contract periods range from three to 10 years, and annual rent payments for 1960 for 1960 amount to approximately $306,854.

Nationally, there are more than 300,000 Conservation Reserve contracts in effect in 1960, covering a total acreage of approximately 28.6 million acres in 48 states. The average rental payment is $1.85 per acre, and the rental payments for 1960 will amount to about 238 million, Mr. Reynolds said.

Farmers Hear Co-op Official

The future of farming as a business is tied tightly to the growth of this country. As a result, farm markets will grow rather than shrink.

This fact was brought out by Alvis Hardy, Southern States Cooperative representative, at the Harrington area annual membership meeting at Greenwood High School Friday, Sept. 12.

By 1975, according to Mr. Hardy USDA reports that this country will have 230,000,000 people who will need 35% more poultry, 63% more red meats, 38% more milk, 31% more eggs and 57% more fruits and vegetables.

As a result, Mr. Hardy pointed out, Southern States Cooperative must "concern itself more and more in the years ahead to increasing farmers' bargaining power through helping them control more of the phases of 'agribusiness'."

In order to do this, Mr. Hardy said, the cooperative must "keep up-to-date with respect to facilities, financing, member relations and utilization."

A step in this direction was the recent reorganization program that Southern States Cooperative put into effect on July 1. Under this system the five-state operating territory of the organization was divided into 10 regions. Each region has its own regional headquarters and staff headed by a regional manager. The old system had 40 operation districts with a district manager in charge of each.

"Stockholder members have an obligation, too, to make their cooperative more effective," Mr. Hardy continued. This is largely dependent upon how completely they use the services of the organization and whether they do so on a constant and voluntary basis.

In conclusion Mr. Hardy added that "it is only through an organization like Southern States Cooperative—which farmers own and control—that they have the opportunity to have a voice in determining and improving their own economic status."

CROSS-COUNTRY

of the New Castle County schools, who would participate in the state meet.

The schedule:
Sept. 30—At Easton
Oct. 6—Centreville and Milton here
Oct. 14—Greenwood, here
Oct. 24—North Caroline, here
Oct. 28—At Milton
Nov. 2—State Meet at Rockford Park, Wilmington
Nov. 16—Henlopen Conference Meet, here
Nov. 21—Harrington invitation, here

Several other downstate schools are interested in cross-country and will be invited to run in one or both of the two final meets. Some of them may also run in the second, third and fourth meets. These schools are Milford, Millsboro, Bridgeville, Laurel, Seaford, Dover, and John M. Clayton. The writer would like very much to see Felton in cross-country, since our friendly neighborhood rival has no fall sport and Felton is closer to the Killen's Pond Course than is Harrington.

Art Supervisor Appointed For State Schools

William P. Vafeas has been appointed State Supervisor of Art by the State Board of Education, replacing Edith L. Mitchell who recently resigned.

Mr. Vafeas has had experience in art at both the public school and college levels. He taught and supervised art for five years in elementary and secondary public schools of Pennsylvania and New York. He also spent three years as an assistant professor of art at State Teachers College, Lock Haven, Pennsylvania.

Mr. Vafeas is a native of Alliquippa, Pennsylvania, and attended public schools of that city. He received the B. S. degree in art from Edinboro (Pa.) State Teachers College in 1949 and the M. A. degree from Iowa State University in 1952. The title of his Master's thesis is "Water Color Painting as an Experimental Medium at the Secondary School Level." He has also taken graduate work at the University of Wisconsin and is presently working on his doctorate at Pennsylvania State University, where he has developed an interest in three-dimensional sculpture as a means of creative art expression. The title of his doctoral study is "The Effects of Barriers on the Creative Development and the Aesthetic Quality of Three-Dimensional Art Forms."

Methodist Bishop Re-elected Veep

Bishop John Wesley Lord, bishop of the Washington area of the Methodist Church, was re-elected vice-president of the General Board of Education of The Methodist Church when the board met in Cincinnati, Ohio, early this month to organize for the denomination's 1960-61 quadrennium.

Bishop Lord is one of three vice-presidents elected by the 91-member board. The other two Bishops F. Grald Ensley, De Moines, Iowa; and Nolan B. Harmon, Charlotte, N. C. Bishop Paul N. Garber, Richmond, Va., is president.

Appointed to head the Washington area—made up of the Baltimore and Peninsula Conferences—during the Northeastern Jurisdictional Conference which met in Washington, D. C., this summer Bishop Lord will also continue to serve as chairman of the board's division of the local church.

The General Board of Education promotes Christian education and oversees the educational interests of the church. The board's division of the local Church is responsible for developing a program of Christian education for Methodism's 39,000 local churches.

The Washington area bishop's work in education began even before he entered the ministry. From 1922-24, he served as a teacher and principal in New Jersey schools.
