

H.H.S. Cagers to Open With Alumni Tuesday

By Keith S. Burgess

Coach Jim Hawpe is drilling the 1960-61 version of the Harrington High basketball Lions in preparation for the opener against the Alumni Tuesday night. A triple-header is on tap as the junior varsity and girls' teams will see action, also.

Coach Hawpe turned out some strong teams and fine players for Greenwood High in previous years. One of these was Denny Cannon, who was one of the best high school players in Delaware and later starred for Wesley College. He and Jim Cannon were second and third team all-state picks.

Jim Temple, the most prolific scorer in H.H.S. annals, has graduated along with Ron Collison and Bruce Smith. This latter duo were usually in double figures and with Temple accounted for the vast majority of 1959-60 scoring. Temple was the leading point-maker in Kent and Sussex Counties, and third high in the state. He was on the Henlopen Conference second team and he and Collison made the first unit on the All-Kent County team.

Starters back from last year are George Pfeiffer and Bob Gillette. They probably will be the Lions' chief offensive threats. Gillette at 6 ft. 5 is the only local taller than 5 ft. 11 and will be counted on to lead the team in rebounds.

Walt Lekites, Leonard Masten, Sam Minner, George Collins, Jeff Adams and Tom Millspaw are showing excellent form. The remaining three starting berths will probably be filled from this sextet. The last two named had experience at John M. Clayton last year. Others on the squad at present are Ken Hoffman, Dennis Bradley, David Hitchens, Bill Porter, Tom Brown, George Balderston, Allen Wix and Tim Strohl.

Bill Smith has 50 aspirants vying for berths in his junior high squad. The juniors will play a 10 game schedule. These contests will take place in the afternoon. A girls' junior high squad will also play an afternoon schedule.

Baptist Church Buys Old Episcopal Church

The Baptist Church of Harrington has just purchased the old Episcopal Church on Fleming Street, which has been vacant since the building of the new Episcopal Church. The church will go through a process of remodeling, beginning with the floors. After this an educational unit will be built on the north and south side. In this we will have rest rooms, the nursery, primary, junior and intermediate departments. All work is being done by volunteer labor. We hope to have our New Year's Watch Night service there.

The Harrington Church started sixteen months ago when the Greensboro Baptist Church held a revival here. At that time there was only one known Baptist in Harrington. Services were first held in the Armory and the Century Club. We now rent The Seventh Day Adventist Church for Sunday morning services. Under the leadership of Fred Monroe, who has given us so much help, the church grew so that we could call a pastor. The new minister of the Harrington Church is the Rev. H. R. Garland.

U. of D. Choir Presents Vivaldi's "Gloria" Dec. 14-15

Vivaldi's "Gloria" will be the featured work of the University of Delaware Choir at its annual Christmas Concert in Mitchell Hall on the Newark campus, Dec. 14 and 15, at 8:15 p.m.

With accompaniment by a professional orchestra, the choir will be conducted by Dr. Ivan Truster, director of choral music at the university. It will be the first time the concert has been held two nights, in an effort to accommodate overflow crowds experienced in recent years.

Guest artists in the Vivaldi work will be Mrs. Ellen Hahn, soprano; Joy Vandever, alto, and Hugh O'Meagher, harpsichordist. The program is open to the public without charge.

Other works on the program include "O Magnum Mysterium," by da Victoria; "Carol of the Bells," by Leontovich, and several traditional French, Spanish and American carols, including "Here, Mid the Ass and Oxen Mild," "Ya Viene La Vieja," "Carol of the Birds," "Fum, Fum, Fum," and "I Wonder as I Wander."

The "Gloria" is a seventeenth century work that did not receive its first public performance until 1939 at the Vivaldi Week celebration in Siena. It had been gathering dust in a collection of works by Vivaldi, generally known for his instrumental masterworks, at Biblioteca Nazionale di Torino.

The first American performance was at Queens College in May, 1949, under the direction of Dr. Edward Lowinsky. A year later, it was presented as the final offering of a Vivaldi festival by the Little Orchestra, and has since become a favorite Christmas work.

Vivaldi, the cleric, approached the holy text as a religious creative musician. His work includes powerful choral numbers and lyrical arias, polyphonic movements and sections of transparent simplicity, dramatic passages and examples of pastoral tranquility.

The work includes solo parts for soprano and contralto. It is scored for oboe, trumpet, strings and harpsichord, and consists of eight choral selections, one duet and three solos.

Trinity Methodist Church Notes

Trinity Church is growing! This week the contract was signed and work has started on our new Educational Building. The new building will give us additional Sunday School rooms, a new auditorium, church office, kitchen, and rest rooms. We will have the physical plant that is needed to make our church grow. But, what about spiritual growth and resources? Trinity Church calls now on all of her members and friends to "Rise Up and Make Her Great."

We want you and need you in the work of Trinity Church. The influence of your example will help us to make a reality at Trinity that Theodore Parker described in these words: "The church that is to lead this century will not be a church creeping on all fours, mewling and whining, its face turned down, its eyes turned back. It must be full of the brave, manly spirit of the day, keeping also the good times of the past. Let us have a church for the whole man; trust for the mind, good works for the hands, love for the heart; and, for the soul, that aspiring after perfection, that unflinching faith in God, which like lightning in the clouds, shines brightest when elsewhere it is more dark."

Only in church can you find your spiritual hunger satisfied; feel a close kinship with God; and find opportunities for doing good multiplied.

Come to church Sunday—your church needs you.

Miss Evelyn Tripp of the Board of Education from Nashville, Tenn., will be with the teachers of our church school on December 7, 8, 9—these teacher training sessions are being held each evening 7-9 o'clock, by Miss Tripp.

BAND BOOSTERS TAKE FIRST PRIZE IN CHRISTMAS PARADE

Christmas Program Held at Asbury By W.S.C.S.

The beginning of the Christmas season in Asbury Methodist Church was heralded on Tuesday evening, with the meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service for December. Mrs. James D. Moore was in charge of the program for the evening, and introduced the many talents of the members of the Intermediate and Senior M.Y.F. groups.

Mrs. Fulton Downing presided at the regular business meeting following the devotions given by Mrs. Fred Greenley Sr. The society voted to serve the meals during the Christian Vocations School of Peninsula Conference to be held in the church on Jan. 19 and 20. This will be a gathering of over 100 boys and girls who will be attending a conference in Asbury at that time. Rev. Mrs. Marvin Richardson, secretary of children's work announced that members of the junior departments had bought gifts to be included with those of the society's for the Deaconess Home and Neighborhood House in Wilmington. The Rev. Shockley reminded the members that Sun., Jan. 1, would be student recognition day with college students participating in the morning worship service.

The circle leaders announced the new members which they have added to their membership lists. Mrs. Guy Winebrenner listed Miss Della Ryan, Mrs. Kessler Farrow as new members and Mrs. Hilda Peterson as an honorary member. The parade was led by the police, Mayor Charles L. Peck Sr., City Manager George Graham, and members of the City Council.

The first prize, in the parade, was $15. A second prize of $10 was won by Sisters Bakery. Judges were Mrs. Bess Gooding, president of the Milford Business & Professional Women's Club, and Mrs. Evelyn Miller.

This section was followed by an array of new cars, then commercial vehicles and trucks. Fire-fighting apparatus and an ambulance completed the lineup.

Following the parade, carols were sung by members of the Senior High School Band under Prof. Melvin Brobst.

Santa Claus established headquarters in the newly established Santa Claus House and distributed treats to more than 600 children. Following this, the American Legion 40 at 8 locomotive provided rides for the children.

Because of the interest shown this year, the Christmas Committee hopes that further improvement and greater participation will be accomplished next year. All civic organizations are urged to take part.

Decorated Homes

This year, the City will not be divided into sections, for the awarding of prizes, as in recent years. Because of the expansion in some areas, the Committee felt it would be more equitable to leave the competition open to all in Harrington and vicinity.

The following prizes are offered: Best-decorated home, $25; second, $10. Most original home decoration: First prize, $10; second, $5. Best-decorated window, $10. Best-decorated door, $10.

The Christmas Committee hopes the new classifications will encourage more residents to decorate and participate in the contest. Judges will be obtained from out of town and the time for judging will be announced.

On the back page of this newspaper will be seen an advertisement telling of the drawings for merchandise.

Lighting Exhibit

We take for granted the brilliant illumination we receive by flicking a switch and are most annoyed on the occasions when electricity fails us. Our early ancestors were not so fortunate as the recently installed lighting exhibit attests. This exhibit shows the very earliest types of lamps used in this country, and the gradual improvements made in them, up to the end of the last century when kerosene lamps were at their best.

The early settlers used a crude type lamp that burned fish oil or animal fat. In this category are the Betty lamps made of iron and tin shown in the exhibit. Tapers and rushes were also used and some of these holders are included in the collection. Experience proved that by supporting the wick in a little tube, rather than floating it in the oil, as in the cruties, a cleaner and brighter flame would result. Many of these center wick lamps, and the spout lamps that followed are exhibited.

With the improvement in fuels, such as the discovery of whale oil as an illuminant, new types of lamps which were a great improvement over the grease lamps, were invented. These whale oil lamps, also on exhibit, were the first lamps that could be safely carried about as they had a closed oil font. When whale oil became scarce, a lard oil lamp was introduced. With the increase in the supply of domestic animals, especially hogs, and improved methods of refining lard, the lard oil lamp became very popular, being used in many rural areas even after the discovery of oil.

Camphene lamps were popular for a few years but as they were dangerous due to the explosive qualities of camphene, were soon abandoned. These lamps were manufactured in great quantities as proven by the large number on exhibit here and elsewhere.

With the discovery of oil in Pennsylvania, kerosene lamps soon became the desired light source and each year improvements were made until the present types were developed. Many fine examples are on exhibit.

Candlesticks must be included in any lighting exhibit as they were an important source of light from the beginning of our history to the present day. The popular iron "hog scrapers" as well as other early iron and tin candle holders and candlesticks are well represented. We are especially proud of the very fine early brass candlesticks which are displayed.

A separate panel shows reeds and paper tapers that were used before matches were invented as well as some of these earliest matches. Several types of wicks from the early rag ones to the tubular wicks of the better oil lamps are included as are other items of interest.

Although the first lamps were brought with the Colonists, they soon began making them here. As materials became available the lamps became more ornamental as well as functional. The range of materials used covers iron, tin, pewter, glass and brass and many fine examples of lamps of these materials were on exhibit. Space would not permit a description of each lamp as the exhibit is composed of more than one hundred and fifty items from the extensive Hon. Harold W. T. Purnell Collection.

Recent Accessions Exhibit

Each quarter sees such a variety of new items acquired by the museum that it makes one wonder where they come from. Fortunately there are many people interested in preserving for posterity fine examples of early memorabilia.

Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Cummins of Dover are among those mentioned who were recent donors. This quarter they presented a number of items of early wearing apparel, among them a boys dress made about 1857, a man's satin vest, a pair of hand embroidered suspenders, two jabots and a lace collar which are displayed in this case.

Four tablespoons, formerly owned by Nicholas Ridgely, probably made by James Chalmers, Annapolis, Md., (1749-1768) were given by Mrs. Eugenia Ridgely Arnold, Chevy Chase, Md.

Mrs. Edgar E. Emery presented a New Testament which was carried by her grandfather, Robert Hardy, Co. K, No. 15, during the Civil War. Mourning jewelry was once the fashion and two jet dress pins which we believe to be fine examples were also presented by Mrs. Emery, of Camden.

From the estate of the late Mrs. M. W. Miller the museum received a beautiful parian-type lithopane lamp stand. It has six delicately transparent sides in a cast iron base with a cone shaped foot.

A hand carved decoy from the museum's collection complete the exhibit.

Recent Gifts

During this quarter we received a red and green cotton damask tablecloth and eight red and natural woven damask napkins from Mrs. Helen E. Knell of Wilmington. She also presented a gold medallion in which are tin-types of her grandmother and grandfather made at the time of their marriage in 1856. A quilt made by Mrs. Knell's grandmother, Mrs. Hanna Rumer Maguier, about 1856, was also a gift of Mrs. Knell.

Russell T. Gallo of Dover gave us nine George III coins found at Coin Beach near Rehoboth. Some are identified as British and others as Irish.

From the estate of the late Mary Martin Wharton Miller we received several items of furniture and china formerly owned by the Killen and allied families of Kent County, Delaware. A gilt framed looking glass, a steeple clock, made by a Waterbury, (Conn.) Clock Co.; a percussion type pistol; a china slop jar, stamped "Ironstone China James Edwards"; a small mahogany dressing stand; several China tea and coffee cups, saucers and bread and butter plates; a sleigh type mahogany bed with springs, and mattress; two china candleholders; a ladies spur; an empire pedestal table with two tiers; a captains style childs chair; five wooden bamboo style kitchen chairs, two pair of brass and irons, one with a large ball finial and the smaller pair has an acorn type finial; a set of fireplace accessories consisting of two shovels and a pair of tongs with an acorn shaped finial, were given as well as the lithopane lamps holder mentioned in the Recent Accession exhibits.

Burton G. Gannon of Frankford, presented a string heddle loom which he remembers being used in Frankford, when he was a child.

To our growing card collection, Miss Helen E. Davis has contributed a variety of Christmas, Easter, and Valentine and Anniversary cards. Most of these cards are post card size and date around the turn of the century.

An identification badge worn by an inspector during the construction of the "Coleman duPont Road," about 1917, was presented to the Museum by William J. Miller, Jr., Deputy Chief Engineer of the State Highway Department.

A New Testament and two mourning pins, described in the Recent Accessions Exhibit are the gifts of Mrs. Edgar S. Emery. The four eighteenth century silver tablespoons mentioned in the Recent Accession exhibit were formerly owned by Mr. Nicholas Ridgely, who purchased a plot of ground near Dover in 1748, which is owned to this day by the Ridgely family. These spoons bear the touch mark "IC" which is probably the touch mark of James Chalmers an Annapolis, Md., silversmith working between 1749 and 1768.

Two World War I individual first aid dressing packets were given by Samuel A. Wise of Dover. These were issued by the U. S. Army and manufactured by "Seabury and Johnson, New York, U. S. A." with laboratories at East Orange, New Jersey. These packets were waterproofed and contain metal clips and instructions for application.

In cataloging the large gift from Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Cummins of Dover, mentioned in the last quarter of The Museum News, we would like to acknowledge the receipt of an extensive collection of laces, dress trimmings, jabots, collar and cuff sets, and odd collars and many pieces of hand needlework.

Delaware Silver Addition

A Warwick style silver cruet stand made by Bancroft Woodcock, who worked about 1754 in Wilmington, Delaware near the Wilmington, Delaware near the persons that please to favor him with their custom, may be supplied with all sorts of Gold and Silver work, after the neatest and newest fashion." Certainly this cruet attests to that statement. This cruet has provisions for six castors and condiment bottles. It is an extremely important addition to our Delaware silver holloware collection.

Museum Purchases

Four wooden and molded tin duck and bird decoys were purchased and added to the Museum collection. The tin decoys are hinged down the middle enabling them to be opened flat for easier transportation and storage.

Building Improvements

A new heating system has been installed in Building No. 3 which should add to the comfort of our visitors. The old gas unit heater was too small and on cold days made little change in the temperature.

Special Services

The Museum was pleased to participate in an educational program with the Girl Scouts of America. Miss Geraldine Wall, a senior scout, has completed a course of training in museum work for which she received a merit badge. Miss Wall was given thirty hours of instructions in all phases of museum activity and in return donated thirty hours of her time to the museum. This program was approved the national organization of Girl Scouts.

Museum Hours

The Museum, located at 316 South Governors Avenue, Dover, on U. S. Route 13, Alternate, is open Tuesdays through Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sundays 2 to 5 p.m. It is closed Mondays. Free parking space is available to visitors at the rear of the Museum.

Group Tours

Tours of the Museum by school classes, clubs and other groups are welcomed and may be arranged by communicating with the Curator in writing or telephoning REdfield 4-4297. Groups are requested to make appointments for such tours in advance whenever possible to be assured of guide service.

Band Supper Tomorrow

The Band Booster Club of the Harrington Special School District will hold a fried chicken and dumping supper this Saturday, Dec. 10, in the School cafeteria with service beginning at 4:30 p.m.

The work is under the personal guidance of the co-chairmen of the planning committee Mrs. Marion Moore and Mrs. Virginia Winkler, with Miss Hazel Johnson in charge of the kitchen.

Proceeds from this supper will go into a fund toward the purchase of new uniforms for the Senior Band. Since there are so many uniforms to be replaced this year, it was thought economically unwise to invest more money in the present type of uniform since so many of them are showing the signs of fourteen years of use.

The supper is but the first in a series of activities being planned by the Harrington Band Boosters Club toward its goal of a new uniform for each member of the band, and other events will be announced as they are planned in the future.

The public is cordially invited to attend this supper, and tickets can be secured from any member of the bands, or they can be purchased at the door to the cafeteria on Saturday. Suppers will be able to be taken out for shut-ins or for others who are otherwise unable to be present, but table service will have to be provided by the purchaser. Also, transportation to and from the supper will be provided for those unable to arrange their own conveyance provided plans are made in advance by calling the school or any member of the committee mentioned above. Or, calls can be made Saturday during the supper —EXeter 8-8988.

Horticultural Meeting to Feature Potato Session

White potato growers on the Delmarva peninsula will be able to get all the latest dope from the experts at a special session of the annual Peninsula Horticultural Society meeting at the Fire Hall in Bridgeville, Dec. 13. The special session will be held in the afternoon and will feature topics on insecticides and diseases, as well as shipping and economic problems.

Entomologist R. N. Hofmaster, Virginia Truck Experiment Station, will open the afternoon session at 1:15 with a discussion of granular systemic insecticides of insect control on white potatoes.

Dr. Dale F. Bray, chairman of the entomology department, University of Delaware, will follow with a report on research tests of spray materials for control of European corn borer on potatoes. He will also discuss the practicality of controlling this pest.

Dr. John W. Heuberger, chairman of the plant pathology department, University of Delaware, will discuss major diseases of white potatoes.

The University of Delaware has been running a large scale research project in an effort to find the factors in handling that cause soft rot of potatoes. Dr. Raymond W. Smith, agricultural economist, will report and describe methods which can reduce soft rot in shipping and handling.

The last item on the potato program will feature W. T. McAllister, farm management specialist and Robert F. Stevens, horticulturist, both of the University of Delaware Extension Service, discussing the question: "Can Delaware Potato Growers Compete with Long Island Growers?"

Society officers invite anyone interested in any of the topics on the program to attend.

THE LORD HELPS PEDESTRIANS WHO HELP THEMSELVES

Giving the old saying a new twist, Mrs. William N. Cann, a vice president of the Delaware Safety Council, yesterday pointed up the walker's responsibility for his own safety in traffic.

She said that some walkers become more careless than ever during the holiday season. Some get caught up in the excitement of holiday planning, shopping and partying and become so preoccupied that they give scant attention to their own safety.

Mrs. Cann said two of the most dangerous pedestrian practices are dashing out into the street without looking, and crossing against the lights at intersections.

"And at this time of year some pedestrians hide behind umbrellas or stacks of packages, she said. 'They can't see where they're going and they become a menace to motorists and other pedestrians.'

Mrs. Cann warned pedestrians to be especially cautious in bad weather.

"Snow and rain reduce visibility, making it difficult for you to see vehicles and making it more difficult for drivers to see you, she said. These conditions also make roadways and sidewalks slippery. Cars are likely to skid, and pedestrians are unsure of their footing."

She suggested that walkers stay safe by following these rules in traffic:

- 1. Cross streets only at intersections.
2. Obey traffic signals, signs, regulations and the directions of traffic officers.
3. Always look left, look right, and for turning traffic before crossing the street.
4. Keep packages, umbrellas, and newspapers from blocking vision.
5. Where there are no sidewalks, walk on the left facing traffic.

Baptist Church Notes

Sunday School starts at 9:45 a.m., with Howard Sutcliffe, superintendent. We have graded classes and welcome all visitors to worship with us.

The lesson in the adult class this week will be "The Greatest Promise," taken from Isaiah 9; Galatians 4:4-7. Some of the things that will be discussed are the promises that God has made to all those that believe Him and what if Christ had not come to redeem men.

Our morning worship service begins at 11 a.m. Last Sunday was "Foreign Missions Sunday." Our pastor used "Go Ye," as the topic for his message.

"Since I Met My Saviour" was sung by Mrs. Howard Sutcliffe. This week the pastor will begin a series of sermons on "The Virgin Birth."

A group from Harrington attended the "M" night services at Allen Memorial Baptist Church in Salisbury, Monday night. Choir practice will be on Friday evening at 8 p.m. at the parsonage.

Sulky Slants

By MRS. DAVE (PAT) SMITH

Here goes Sulky Slants again after so long a time. The old saying is after you have once been to Harrington you will always return. I guess that's right.

Stopped in the Bridle Bit and had a chat with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Kates. Their place is really fixed up for Christmas. Was rather like going home to me for I was with Harry and Irene Adams three years.

Mrs. Kates said so many horsemen come by to ask about this one and that. Billy Myer stopped by on his way south. Also Mr. and Mrs. Watson from Shelby, N. C., on their way from Yonkers.

Olin Davis tells me he has 12 head in training, along with 6 yearlings.

Del Manges says, "Oh, I don't have too many, only 23 now." All Kenny McNutt will do is just grin and say that's right. Pretty good second trainer they tell me.

Stopped over to our track restaurant yesterday. Lucy Quinn, who operates it is very well pleased with the set up. Why not, Lucy, it is as modern as any place at any track. If any of you were at the fair and had been in there certainly will remember.

Lucy is open seven days a week and her special on Sundays is chicken and dumplings. Also her place is open to the public.

When Lucy ran the other restaurant it was more or less a hurry out for us all. Well, she is certainly nice to all the horsemen and that is really what counts in that business. Lucy, what extras do we get for Christmas?

Jack Quinn tell me he has two horses of his own which will make him 10 in training this winter and may get a few more.

Stopped by Paul Vineyards barn. Course, liking cats like I do I had to admire all the pretty kittens with little collars on their necks. Paul grinned and said, "You have to have cats around the stable." I agree with him.

Johnny Amato has plenty colts this fall and has most of them broke. He too has about 28 head this year so far with couple more supposed to come in this week.

I enjoy going over to Ruth and Johnny's stable for they really have the pets.

Mel and Happy Gray are here, but only had a hello as I was on my way out of track. Will see them next week.

Pete Dill and his owner Cubbage Brown in our restaurant at track with a cheery hello to me. Those two always lot of fun. See them later too for news.

Had a long talk with Mr. Draper about Snipe Reward. As I was in Canada all summer at both Blue Bonnets and Richelieu Raceways I watched Snipe Reward lower his record. I am pretty sure to 2:03, maybe lower.

What a horse. Mr. Draper, that cup of hot chocolate tasted pretty good while talking horses at the Peoples Restaurant.

I used to get a lot of horse news there.

Had a long talk with George Paskey about the only one it seems of the old crowd there, George Jr. and I talked over the old times. Something's always sad when the old crowd scatters to the four winds.

You'll always see Mr. Tucker who used to operate the Chicken Basket there. That's about all I remember from the People's Filling Station.

Made a visit over to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clukeys beautiful farm yesterday.

Mr. Clukey tells me he has two tracks, one regulation training track and one for jogging. His farm looks more like a horse village than just another training track.

Ned Galentine, Mr. Clukey's driver and trainer, has returned from Yonkers after a very successful season. Ned, you certainly have come a long way.

Mr. Clukey tells me all his colts are broken and are going the right way of the track. You know, that's wonderful for this time of year.

While I was sitting in there chatting and getting their stable news, their little parakeet "Bo Bo", who has the run of their beautiful trailer, was talking up a storm.

Couldn't begin to put it all in print what he says. One cute thing is, see the birds go by, and Clukey's sweetheart, Mrs. Clukey also has some of the most beautiful stable cats. When I go over there I hate to leave. I've known Mr. and Mrs. Clukey for so many years.

Mr. Dostie from Montreal (I was right across from his stable this summer) has rented Mr. Clukey's beautiful new barn at far end of the track. Dostie has nine head in training. He will also go back to Richelieu Park in Montreal the 12th of April when the season opens.

Another new owner who will stable his horses at the Clukey

Farm will be Fred Parks, who has the John Seymour horses from De Kalb Junction, N. Y. When Dave and I had our stable at Hamburg, N. Y., we always seemed to be on the back side of Parks' barn.

We all hope he and his wonderful wife will like Harrington. Freddie always has such a nice bunch of men working for him. I seem to follow that stable around. New York, Canada, Florida, and now to Delaware.

Sure enjoyed visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Clukey's farm manager and his wife, Lelia.

Dumry Ellis again will operate the club house out to the track for the boys.

Wonder if Grace, Maggie and the manager, Johnny Phillips don't get tired of hearing horses at the Pen Supreme? After all, is pretty good place to work. You really meet some very nice people each day. I really enjoy it there.

We have several horsemen in and out as the week goes by. After all, John likes horses too.

Oh yes, Mrs. Earl Thomas dashed off up the country to see her new grandson. Won't she grow when she returns?

Britt Holloway, our general manager and Virginia, are always ready with a hello and hand wave on their way out to track.

Sam Short stopped me on the corner to say hello and glad I'm back to Harrington. Always stop at Reese's Theatre to say hello, as we were also interested in show business for many years.

Oh yes, Ellis Myer again has his horses out here for the winter.

Will visit the Howard Lyons, Bowers and others from the track as time goes on.

Doesn't our town look pretty for the holidays.

Board of Trustees Meeting at U. of D.

In an effort to help the University of Delaware eliminate "ghost" admissions, the Board of Trustees Saturday authorized increases in the non-refundable deposits required of both resident and out-of-state students seeking admission to the freshman class.

For Delaware residents, the deposit will be increased from $25 to $50. Out-of-state students will pay $100.

The trustees also passed resolutions relating to the naming of campus buildings, announced the location of a new physics and mathematics building, and confirmed a change in title for the former Fels Group Dynamics Center. The board also disclosed plans for a three-year self-study by the university as a part of its 1964 re-accreditation by The Middle States Association.

The admissions problem is one of nationwide significance and has resulted from the concern on the part of many students and parents that admission to the college of one's choice may be impossible. Thus, added to a rapidly increasing number of legitimate applications for admission, colleges and universities are receiving "insurance applications" from students who wish to be assured of a place in some freshman class if they are refused by their first choice institution.

Not only is this practice wasteful of the time of admissions officers and their staffs, but it becomes virtually impossible for college administrators to estimate accurately the number of student for whom staff and facilities must be provided. In 1960, for example, 199 Delaware residents and 38 out-of-state students cancelled their applications after admission had been granted.

Increasing the non-refundable deposit, which is credited toward the student's semester bill, is expected not only to lessen the heavy workload of an admissions staff which last year processed 3,128 applications, but should reduce the admissions panic. When a student receives notice that he has been admitted to the University of Delaware, he is assured of a place in the class and dormitory accommodations, if desired. A student sincerely interested in enrolling at Delaware should not be denied this privilege or be delayed in receiving his notification while another student with no firm intention of attending the university awaits notice from another institution.

The Delaware resident will have a further advantage, for he will have a period of three weeks following the notification of admission in which to make his decision. If he withdraws but, at a later date, wishes to reinstate his application, he may do so provided housing is available.

In a resolution relating to the naming of dormitories and other campus buildings, the trustees assigned the name Harrington Hall to the East campus dormitory complex now under construction in honor of the late Chancellor William Watson Harrington, a graduate of the Class of 1895 and a member of the Board of Trustees from 1900 until his death in 1959. An attorney, Mr. Harrington practiced in Dover and held a number of important positions in state government. He was register of wills for Kent County, deputy attorney general and resident associate judge for Kent County, official reporter of cases decided by the law courts of the State and editor of W. W. Harrington's Delaware Law Reports, a nine-volume record of court actions and decisions. Later he was appointed a judge of the Supreme Court of Delaware and Chancellor of the State. He received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from the university in 1950, was given a special certificate in recognition of his long service as a member of the board of trustees in 1952 and was named the university's outstanding alumnus of the year by the Alumni Association in 1957.

The former College Inn Restaurant, located at North College Ave. and West Main St., will henceforth be known as Raub Hall in honor of Albert N. Raub, eleventh president of Delaware College. Previously, it had been decided to name one of the two married student apartment buildings on Elkton Rd. and Amstel Ave. for President Raub, but these buildings will henceforth be known as Conover Hall "A" and "B" and Raub's name will be assigned to the separate building. Raub Hall has been completely renovated and houses the university placement office. Ultimately, it will also be the headquarters for the division of university extension.

The former National Guard Armory at 85 E. Delaware Ave., also renovated recently and now housing the departments of philosophy and political science, will be known as East Hall.

The trustees also announced that the site between Mitchell Hall and Delaware Avenue, directly opposite Wolf Hall on the central campus has been selected as the location for the new mathematics-physics building. Construction will begin early in 1961.

In accordance with the changing nature of its research interests and support, the name of the Fels Group Dynamics Center has been changed to Center for Research on Social Behavior. The history of the Center dates to 1955, when a research program in group dynamics transferred from Temple University to Delaware under the sponsorship of the Samuel S. Fels Fund, a Pennsylvania non-profit corporation established by its founder to support "projects of a scientific, educational or charitable nature which tend to improve daily human life."

Last year the directors of the Fels Fund notified the university that their support would be discontinued in 1960, but by this time the work of the Center's research staff had become so vital that industrial and government sponsors seemed willing to support it. Its professional staff members and student research assistants under the direction of Dr. John T. Lanzetta are conducting important psychological studies for the office of Naval Research, the U. S. Army, the Wright Air Development Center of the U. S. Air Force, the National Science Foundation and the National Institutes of Health.

In 1964, the University of Delaware will be revisited by an accrediting team of The Middle State Association. In order to prepare for this visit, the university has received approval to forego the collection of routine data normally required and will undertake a more detailed and meaningful study of the quality and nature of its impact on undergraduates. Efforts will be made to learn whether the university is achieving its declared objectives to the fullest extent. It is believed that such data will enable the university to shift its resources from less fruitful activities to more productive ones best suited to the needs and capabilities of its student body. The trustees endorsed this educational self-evaluation and appropriated funds for the required research. The annual report of President John A. Perkins covering the 1959-60 academic year was accepted with appreciation by the board and copies were distributed to the members.

Bissell Hospital Director Endorses Christmas Seal Campaign

The director of medical services of the Emily P. Bissell Hospital, where Delawareans with tuberculosis receive treatment, Tues., Nov. 29, gave his endorsement to the 1960 Christmas Seal Campaign.

Dr. Nathaniel Young, in a letter to the Delaware Tuberculosis and Health Society, said: "The Delaware Tuberculosis and Health Society has always been in the forefront in the fight against tuberculosis. It is a historic fact that the society preceded the state of Delaware in providing hospital facilities.

"Although the State Board of Health is now largely responsible for the treatment of tuberculosis, the Delaware Tuberculosis and Health Society continues its pioneer work," he continued. "The latest evidence of this is its sponsorship of a program for helping the detection and treatment of other chronic chest diseases. A few beds are available at the Emily P. Bissell Hospital for these non-tuberculous chest cases.

Dr. Young said that chest X-ray buses which travel throughout the state in a continuing effort to detect new cases of TB are important to all Delawareans. "These mobile units also help protect the population of Delaware by detection of active tuberculosis in migratory farm workers.

"To continue this good work the Delaware Tuberculosis and Health Society needs the help of the citizens of Delaware by buying Christmas Seals," he concluded.

Weed Sprayer Needs Care Now that the fall harvest is out of the way, County Agent George Vapaa says it's time to get equipment in condition for winter storage: this includes the weed sprayer.

He suggests the sprayer be completely drained, and all moving parts thoroughly oiled, including gauges and valves. Store the sprayer under cover. Conditioning this fall will prevent lost time and money next spring.

Peninsula Horticultural Society Tour And Meeting Set

The 74th annual Peninsula Horticultural Society meeting, set for Dec. 13-14, at the Bridgeville Fire Hall, has had a tour added to the program.

According to Robert F. Stevens, secretary, a bus tour of the Marsh Market, W. L. Duvall and Sons, and the Giant Food Distribution Center are on the schedule, along with a visit to the U. S. Department of Agriculture research station at Beltsville, Md.

Anyone is welcome to come along on the bus tour or attend the sessions. The tour will leave Bridgeville at 3:30 p.m. Dec. 14 and return at 7 p.m., Dec. 15. The group will stay at a Baltimore hotel overnight.

This year's program will cover many significant topics on both vegetables and fruit, Stevens said.

Among the questions that will be answered during the meeting are these: Can Peninsula growers raise white potatoes for $350 or less per acre? Is Midway, a new strawberry variety, suitable for the Peninsula? How much fertilizer do peppers need to produce a good crop? Can scab be controlled on cucumbers? Can rust be controlled in beans? Does 50 acres of lima beans justify owning a new mobile viner?

Is it worthwhile to spray peppers for corn borer? What new chemical weed control materials are worth trying next year. What are the market prospects for fresh vegetables from the Peninsula? Can the cost of raising peppers be reduced by direct seeding? Are there any new peach varieties worth trying on the Peninsula? Specialists from the University of Maryland, the University of Delaware, the Virginia Truck Experiment Station, the U. S. Department of Agriculture and agricultural organizations and businesses will answer these and other questions. Sessions begin at 9:20 a.m. and end at 3:30 p.m.
