

MAYOR PECK WILL RUN AGAIN; THREE COUNCIL POSTS TO BE FILLED IN MUNICIPAL ELECTION

Mayor Charles L. Peck Sr., will be a candidate for re-election in the municipal elections Tues., Jan. 10. No opposition has announced itself but nominations from the floor can be made at the annual citizens' meeting Friday evening, Jan. 6, at the Firehouse.

The mayor will serve two years.

There will be three contests for councilmen. In the Second Ward, Harold Fry has filed a petition to replace the incumbent, Alan Rutledge. In the same district, Luther Hatfield, former president of the Harrington Board of Education, also has a petition. Petitions can be presented at the City hall or at the citizens' meeting.

In the Fourth Ward, Robert Stauffer has filed a petition for the post held by Clarence Collins who has not declared his intentions.

Successful candidates, in the Second and Fourth Wards, will serve three years.

In the Sixth Ward, it appears Clarence Black will run although he has not made a statement to that effect. He has been serving out a year of the unexpired term of Charles Hopkins who died in office. The successful candidate will serve the term remaining in Mr. Hopkins' term.

Petitions for councilmen must be signed by not less than 10, or more than 25, qualified voters from the ward in which the councilmen live.

Still Carrying Christmas Dinner?

"Many well-stuffed tummies are moaning the blues under the strain of too many rich, holiday foods. So why not give your tummy a break and start that diet as you've been threatening to do?" suggests Miss Janet Coblenz, extension nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware.

The magic ingredients for an effective, healthful diet, according to Miss Coblenz, are moderation and variety. Take to weight control slowly and develop eating habits that you can continue after the diet is over to prevent lost pounds from creeping back. By serving good food with plenty of variety, you'll maintain high interest in your weight reduction program.

Plan menus around the foods you normally eat, cutting out rich, high-calorie desserts, large portions, second helpings and high-calories, in-between-meal snacks.

A good reducing diet should include choices from the four basic food groups; milk and cheese; meat or meat alternatives; fruits and vegetables; breads and cereals. Moderate amounts of bread and potatoes, often considered taboo for weight reduction, have an important place in an effective weight reducing diet.

"Avoid fat-type diets that encourage erratic weight losses and gains," says Miss Coblenz. They can cause great body damage, particularly, if important nutrients are continually cut from the daily menu. Also, people attempting crash diets quickly return to their old eating habits when the diet is over and rapidly gain back the lost weight.

"Diets may be fun and can help you gain improved health, vigor and alertness if you use common sense and adhere to the principles of good nutrition," Miss Coblenz says.

Gov. Boggs' New Year's Message

The following is the full text of Gov. J. Caleb Boggs' annual New Year's Message—his last as chief executive of the State of Delaware:

"The dawn of a new year brings with it new challenges and new opportunities. Whether it will be a happy year depends, to a great extent, on what we do as individuals, as a state and as a nation.

"Although this is a time when we naturally reflect on what has transpired during the past twelve months, it is more important for us to concentrate on the future. It is a time to set our goals high, and then to strive for attainment. It is a time to rededicate ourselves to the principles we cherish as free men and as a free nation.

"The new year can be as bright and as happy as we are willing to work to make it, for ourselves, our families and our fellow men.

"This is the last time I will have the privilege of extending New Year's greetings to the people of Delaware as your Governor. It has been a wonderful privilege and experience serving as chief executive of the State for the past eight years. I look forward to continuing in the service of all the people of Delaware as a member of the United States Senate.

"As Governor of the State of Delaware and on behalf of all the employees of the state government, I wish you happiness, good health and prosperity in a new year of lasting peace among all men."

Record Soybean Exports Help Reduce CCC Inventory

A high export rate has greatly reduced the soybean holdings of the Commodity Credit Corporation under their price-support operations during the last year, according to Paul W. Mitchell, administrative officer, Delaware Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office. CCC's soybean inventory dropped from 42 million to 8.4 million bushels during the past marketing year. Loan activity on the 1960 soybean crop has also been less than a year ago.

The improved situation reflects, in large part, the record exports (Continued on Page 8)

Buckson Picks Three Aides For Governorship

Lt. Gov. David P. Buckson, Wednesday announced the names of the three persons who will serve as his aides-de-camp during his 18-day term as Governor of Delaware.

Buckson will be sworn in as Governor today after Gov. J. Caleb Boggs resigns to take his U. S. Senate seat. Buckson will serve until Gov.-elect Elbert N. Carvel is sworn in Jan. 17.

Named by Buckson to the honorary titles were: Mrs. James H. (Kay) Snowden, vice chairman of the Wilmington Republican Committee a supporter of Buckson during his bid this year for the GOP gubernatorial nomination.

D. Elwood Nuckols of Smyrna, a packing plant operator who was one of Buckson's original supporters for the governorship.

Harry D. Quillen of Georgetown, a farmer and classmate of Buckson's during his undergraduate days at the University of Delaware. Quillen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Quillen, of Harrington.

Buckson said Col. John F. McDonald of Dover, now an aide to Governor Boggs, will continue as co-ordinator of Buckson's activities.

All the governor's aides receive the rank of Lieutenant colonel for life.

Buckson said that the honorary titles, which carry neither pay nor duties, are going to persons who symbolize the groups that supported him in his campaign for the GOP nomination against John W. Rollins of Lewis, who lost to Carvel.

Buckson also announced that at

Buckson Will Become Governor For 18 Days Today

The State of Delaware will acquire a new chief executive on Friday, when Lt. Governor David P. Buckson succeeds Governor J. Caleb Boggs, and, in the process, several new "first" will be racked up for the "First State."

Not only will Mr. Buckson be the first lieutenant governor in Delaware history to succeed to the governorship—without being elected to the state's top office—but also is slated to serve the shortest term ever served by a Delaware governor—the 18 days between Dec. 30, 1960, and the inauguration of Governor-elect Elbert N. Carvel on January 18, 1961.

According to Leon de Valinger, Jr., state archivist, no lieutenant governor prior to Buckson has succeeded directly to the governorship. The first lieutenant governor was elected in 1900 and since that time no governor has resigned nor has any died in office.

Under earlier rules of succession to the governorship, before the state had the office of lieutenant governor, there were several brief gubernatorial terms but none were under a month.

The shortest term previously was that of Thomas McKean, who served as "president" of Delaware from September 11 to October 20, 1777. McKean's term spanned the time between the capture by the British of John McKinly and the qualifying of his successor, George Read, to be acting "president."

The second shortest term previously was that of John Maul, who served from March 2 to May 3, 1846, between the death of Governor Thomas Stockton and his own death.

When Mr. Buckson is sworn in he will become the 50th individual to hold the title of governor but the 59th chief executive. From 1776 to 1792 the term "president" was used to designate the office. Ten men held this title and 48 have since held the title of "Governor." One of the "presidents," Joshua Clayton, who served as chief executive from 1789 to 1796, was called "president" in his first term and "governor" in his second.

Governor Boggs, with whose administration Lt. Governor Buckson has been associated the past four years, not only is making possible Mr. Buckson's record establishing short term but also is creating a situation whereby Delaware, which has had only three governors in the past 20 years, will have that number of governors in a period of just 20 days.

Governor Boggs, who won a U. S. Senate seat in the November 8 election, will resign as the state's chief executive, effective 11 a.m. on December 30, and Mr. Buckson will be sworn in as his successor a few moments later. Governor Buckson will then serve until January 17, 1961, when Elbert N. Carvel, elected governor in last November's General Election, is inaugurated.

Unlike previous inaugurations, Friday's ceremonies will be comparatively simple and will take place in the office of Secretary of State George J. Schulz in Legislative Hall, Dover.

At approximately 11 a.m., Governor Boggs will tender his resignation, as chief executive, to Mr. Schulz and Lt. Governor Buckson will be officially notified of the action. President Judge Charles L. Terry, Jr., of Superior Court, will then administer the oath of office to Mr. Buckson. The Rev. J. Howard Link, pastor of Asbury Methodist Church, Smyrna, will bring the rather brief ceremony to a close with pronouncement of benediction.

While no special invitations are being issued, all interested persons are invited to attend the swearing-in of Governor Buckson and the reception in the Governor's Office that will follow the ceremonies.

$70,000 Granted U. of D. For Summer Study

The National Science Foundation has awarded a grant of $70,000 to the University of Delaware for a 1961 summer institute in mathematics and science for secondary school teachers.

The purpose of the institute, sponsored for the second successive year at the university by the Foundation, is to offer subject matter courses in mathematics and science of value to high school teachers.

Last year 33 teachers participated, but the number is expected to be increased to about 60 in 1961.

Dr. John A. Brown, professor of education and mathematics and director of the institute, has announced that courses will be conducted by members of the chemistry, biology, physics and mathematics departments. The institute will be conducted as an interdepartmental co-operative program.

Students who enroll in the institute must take the seminar in curriculum studies in secondary school science and mathematics, but may choose several electives from among such courses as animal science workshop, organic chemistry for teachers of science, basic concepts in chem-

MRS. M. BROWN'S ENTRIES WIN 2 PLACES IN LIGHTING CONTESTS

Delaware to Have Display at Sportsmen's Show

An "invitation" to "Have Fun in '61—In the First State" will be extended to the more than 250,000 persons expected to attend the sixth annual Pennsylvania Recreation and Sportsmen's Show, at Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 6 through 11, advises the Delaware State Development Department.

Planning for the Delaware display at this "Showcase for Outdoor Living" held annually in the spacious Farm Show Building in Pennsylvania's capital city, is now underway. As in previous years, color and black and white photographs of the state's many fine recreation facilities, including its beaches, inland waters, parks and camping areas will be featured in the display. Also displayed will be photographs of Delaware's many other interesting places, its museums and historic shrines.

Literature, locating and describing the state's many attractions, will be distributed at the Delaware display by personnel of the Development Department and representatives of the state's travel industry.

Thousands of Pennsylvanians annually visit Delaware as a result of The First State's participation in the Harrisburg show.

Chambers of Commerce, museums, sponsors of special events, operators of tourist attractions and facilities and others desiring to have literature distributed at the Delaware display are urged to contact David S. Hugg at the State Development Department office, 45 The Green, Dover, at an early date.

Revised Edition of "Our Delaware" Now Available

In order that Delawareans may become better acquainted with the proposed or alternate stanza to "Our Delaware," the Delaware State Development Department has recently hand printed a revised edition of its Delaware placecard, which includes the words for the proposed fourth stanza as well as the three stanzas and chorus that officially comprise Delaware's State Song.

The proposed new stanza which was the successful entry of Donn Devine, Wilmington public relations man, in a statewide contest sponsored by a special committee headed by Floyd T. Hart, state director of music education, extolls the beauty and attractions of the entire state. Previously, "Our Delaware" has consisted of three stanzas, each extolling the virtues of a different county.

During the next year and a half, Delaware school students and members of various state organizations will sing the following verse either as an addition to the other stanzas or as a substitute for them:

"From New Castle's rolling meadows,
Through the fair rich fields of Kent,
To the Sussex shores hear echoes
Of the pledge we now present;
Liberty and Independence
We will guard with loyal care,
And hold fast to freedom's presence
In our home state, Delaware."

If, after this trial period, the "additional stanza" has received "general acceptance" a recommendation will be made to the General Assembly that appropriate legislation officially making the additional verse a part of the state song, be prepared and passed.

Limited quantities of the revised placecard, featuring the words for all four stanzas and chorus, may be obtained at the State Development Department Office, 45 The Green, Dover.

Rotary and The Boy Scouts

At the Tuesday night meeting of the Rotary Club, Brinton Holloway, general chairman of the recent campaign for Boy Scout funds gave a favorable report on the results of the drive and wishes to thank the local public for its co-operation.

The club has sponsored the scout movement for the past fifteen years and it is only proper that the public should be permitted to share the pride and satisfaction we enjoy in seeing these boys go on to be our leading citizens.

Since it has become the destined lot of practically every young man to serve some time in armed service, he can point with satisfaction to the foundation that was established in Scouting. One of these boys, Richard Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Brown, of Simpson Street, Harrington, home for the holidays from Berlin, Germany, will be guest speaker at next Tuesdays Rotary meeting.

The following evening, Wed., Jan. 4, the Boy Scout Board of Review will meet in the school auditorium at 7:30 p.m. to make promotions and present merit badges to worthy scouts.

Pictured above is veteran headwaiter Alfons Muller serving the specialty of the house, half-chicken cooked on a spit, to Delmarva's Sara Hervey Watts in the Hunting Castle Room of the famed Humplmayr restaurant in Munich, Germany. This 300-year-old restaurant was one of several noted European eating establishments now using chickens exported from the Delaware-Maryland - Virginia Peninsula which were visited by Mrs. Watts recently in the course of an export-trade promotion tour which saw her working with the U. S. Foreign Agricultural Service and overseas representatives of Institute of American Poultry Industries.

Germany prefer chicken roasted on a spit to any other method of chicken cookery. During the famed Oktoberfest, a big and brassy country fair held in Munich the last two weeks in September, spit roasted chicken cooked until beautifully browned and juicy provides the wondrously satisfying accompaniment to the endless mugs of local beer everyone is expected to consume.

Even in the romantic Hunting Castle Room of the Humplmayr restaurant, one of Munich's oldest and most elegant dining spots, chicken roasted on a spit rates as the great favorite chicken specialty of the house.

Here the chicken is basted with a simple wine sauce (equal parts of dry white wine and melted butter to which is added a little chopped fresh thyme and rosemary). Instead of a stuffing, this restaurant prefers to put a bunch of sweet herbs in the cavity of the chicken before roasting. They suggest a combination of parsley, tarragon and green onion, fastened together with a thread. They also recommend using young, tender broilers weighing no more than 2 to 2 1/2 pounds, ready-to-cook weight. Half a chicken is allowed per serving.

The deliciously tender and juicy small meat-type chickens available in this area from nearby Delmarva Peninsula are ideal for this purpose. Important thing to remember in barbecuing chickens is to fasten them on the spit securely. Truss the chickens, having both legs and wings close to the body and the neck skin skewered at the back. Connect the spit to the motor and roast over a medium fire, basting frequently with the wine sauce to prevent drying out. To test for doneness, wiggle a leg. If it moves easily in the joint the chicken is ready. Depending on their size, your spit-roasted chickens should be done in 45 minutes to 1 1/4 hours.

Wash Woolens When Calm

"Washing sweaters and other woolen garments right after you have had a spat with your husband or best beau is dangerous business," declares Miss Janet Reed, extension clothing specialist at the University of Delaware. "Rough handling in washing causes woolen garments to shrink," Miss Reed explains.

Wash your sweaters and other woolens gently in warm water with a mild detergent, but only after your blood pressure has returned to normal.

Rinse the sweaters thoroughly then gently squeeze out the excess water. Don't ring the water out!

Lay the sweaters out flat on a towel or some other absorbent fabric. When the top side is dry, turn the sweater over to allow the other side to dry thoroughly, then press gently with a steam iron that gives off plenty of steam.

Wash sweaters made with synthetic fibers the same way if manufacturer's directions are not available," Miss Reed says.

Jaycees To Present Safe Driving Awards

The Wilmington Junior Chamber of Commerce, in co-operation with the Delaware State Police of Troop 1, Penny Hill, and Troop 2, State Road, is sponsoring a traffic safety program in which the emphasis is placed on safe, courteous and defensive driving. The program is being conducted for ten consecutive weeks in New Castle County and started with the week of November 27.

Officers of the State Police daily make observations of safe driving practices of Delaware operators, and when they are observed, the trooper stops the operator and advise him that his name will be submitted to the Award Committee for consideration of an award for the safe manner in which he operates his vehicle.

Each week an Award Committee reviews those recommendations submitted and it selects one to receive an award for the week. The purpose of this co-operative program is to emphasize safe driving habits and practices and to give due recognition to those operators who make a sincere effort to improve their driving and to contribute to traffic safety by practicing defensive driving.

The Jaycees are sponsoring this program at this particular time in order to lend support to the State Police in their enforcement and accident prevention program with the hope that traffic accidents and the resulting injuries and deaths, can be reduced over the current holiday periods.

The Delaware Junior Chamber of Commerce is made up of 16 local chapters. It has chapters in these communities: Claymont, Elsmere, Newark, Middletown, Smyrna, Dover, Milford, Rehoboth Beach, Georgetown, Seaford, Millsboro, New Castle, Laurel, Milton, Harrington, and Wilmington.

These chapters have one basic purpose of providing young men with the opportunity to train themselves as leaders, although not necessarily executives. These local groups accomplish this through a broad range of civic improvement projects based largely upon youth, health, and safety. The Jaycee membership age limit is 21 to 35, although it has more than 30,000 associate members who have passed their 36th birthday and yet retain a high degree of interest and activity in the Junior Chamber.

More than 50 large American corporations are headed by members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and the executive branch of almost every major United States business concern includes at least one Jaycee.

But more important, the Junior Chamber takes pride in more than 200,000 young men who are recognized and counted as among the leaders of their communities and states. It thoroughly dedicates itself to the community to which it belongs.

Whether he be farmer, salesman, lawyer, businessman, engineer, or mechanic, the Jaycee draws from the energy of youth a yen for public service and a zeal for hard work which he directs toward making life a little better for everyone. In the process, he creates for all Jaycees an unequalled course in leadership training.

What is a Jaycee? He is the young man on the way up, playing an active and prominent part in blueprinting Delaware's tomorrow.

Electric Sheets Are Washable

Santa may leave electric sheets under many trees this year. Freezing temperatures combined with the Christmas season will help Santa make this wise decision.

Later, the homemaker will be faced with—To wash or not to wash electric sheets in the washer.

These may be successfully washed in automatic washers, if you follow these simple instructions, says Joanne Reitz, home management specialist at the University of Maryland.

Read special instructions given by the manufacturer. Then, cover the plug with several thicknesses of cloth and hold in place with thread or string. This protects the plug from friction caused by striking the washer tub or drier drum.

You should wash the sheet in warm water for about six to eight minutes and use a slow agitation setting.

Your favorite detergent works fine for washing electric sheets.

Use towels as buffers in your drier. Use medium or regular setting and dry for approximately 15 to 25 minutes.

Agricultural Engineers Appointment Is Announced

Dr. Gordon M. Cairns, Dean of Agriculture, University of Maryland, announces the appointment of Wesley Lamar Harris as Assistant Professor of Agricultural Engineering. Mr. Harris will devote part time to teaching undergraduate and graduate farm power and machinery courses in the Department of Agricultural Engineering. Other duties for Mr. Harris will be in that part of the Department's research program directed at more efficient design, development and utilization of power and machinery in Maryland agriculture.

Mr. Harris, a native of northeast Georgia, graduated from the University of Georgia in 1953 with the degree of Bachelor of Science in Agricultural Engineering. As an honor graduate of the University of Georgia, Reserve Officer Training Corps, Mr. Harris was commissioned in the U. S. Army and served three years in the Corps of Engineers.

In 1956 he resigned from the Army to accept an instructorship in Agricultural Engineering at the University of Georgia and, while serving in this capacity, completed the requirements for the Master of Science degree in 1958. In that year he was appointed a graduate research assistant in the Agricultural Engineering Department of Michigan State University where he conducted research on Methods of Measuring Soil Compaction. He has completed the requirements for the Doctor of Philosophy degree in Agricultural Engineering, which he will receive in December.

Keep Birth Certificate As Proof of Age

It's easier to have a copy of your birth certificate for convincing proof of age than assembling other documents that may not be acceptable.

Proof of birth may be requested when applying for certain jobs, Social Security benefits, lifetime income payments under group or individual annuity, pension and life insurance plans.

Extension home management specialist, Joanne Reitz, at the University of Maryland says you may secure a pamphlet called "Where to Write for Birth and Death Records." You can get a copy by sending fifteen cents to: The Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C.

Veterans News

Delaware veterans, widows and children receiving pension checks from the Veterans Administration will find enclosed with the December 31st check an Income Questionnaire card, Leon Fields, manager of the Veterans Admin- istration Regional Office, Wil- mington, Delaware announced.

Net worth for V9 pension purposes is the market value of all the property you own except your home and personal belongings necessary for your day-to-day living, such as your auto- mobile, clothing, household furniture, jewelry and the like—any- thing necessary for your day-to- day living.

Does the VA have any sort of a Christmas gift certificate arrangement whereby I could give a patient friend the certificate and let him choose a gift himself, up to the value of the certificate?

Yes, only the certificates are coupons, sold in books. The Coupon Books are sold for as little as fifty cents or as much as five dollars, for each book. The patient spends the coupons at his hospital canteen, picking out whatever pleases him. Just write a letter to the manager of the VA hospital your friends is in. Tell what you want.

Are there any restrictions on GI insurance that would make the policy invalid if the veteran is engaged in a hazardous occu- pation?

There is no such restriction on GI insurance. The veteran may engage in any occupation, no matter how hazardous, without altering the terms of his policy or the amount of his premium.

I understand that by a new law a World War II veteran now has until July 25, 1962, in which to file an application for a GI loan. Just what steps toward getting a loan have to be taken by that date?

By that date, a lender must at least have agreed to make the loan and must have requested VA's approval. The new law places no limitation on the time needed to complete the deal, once your lender has agreed and asked for VA's approval.

When Christmas comes, I think of Christ, the Holy Child. When Christmas morn comes, I feel that everyone should be happy.

Sulky Slants

By MRS. DAVE (PAT) SMITH

Another Christmas has come and gone, always with its memories. For being alone, I think, without a doubt, I have had a wonderful Christmas; not so many gifts, but everywhere I went everyone was so nice.

My first stop on my rounds was over to visit Lelia and Jo Anne Matthews. I just wouldn't have had room for all the gifts little Jo Anne received and was she thrilled. Santa was really good to her.

Next, I visited Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clukey over to their beautiful horse farm. Like many others, her gifts wouldn't fit on her table. The most cherished possession was a portrait of her mother and father painted in oil by her son's wife, Teddy, Lt. Paul Galantine is stationed in Washington, D. C.

My next stop was to Pat and Ramona Hubbards. You could hardly get in. Pat's home was really packed with gifts. Little Patsy Hubbard received an Onyx ring with diamonds, walking doll, typewriter, hockey game, and harness horse game. I had no intention of being invited for Christmas dinner, but nothing would do, but for me to stay. And what a Christmas dinner.

Pat had invited the boys that work for him over too. What a jolly time. Everyone, I think, left feeling pretty good. Now don't get me wrong (just eats).

Lucy and Jack Quinn dropped by to wish us all a merry Christmas.

When I left the Hubbards of all things. Pat was sitting on the floor with the ice hockey game. Pat was that for your son, Charles, or for you?

Over to Mickey's trailer I went and really had a nice visit there. Mickey works at the Bridle Bit. Oh yes! She had a new car sitting in front of her trailer. Did Santa get that for you Mick?

Stopped in People's Service Station to wish Tucker, and Mr. Paskey and son Merry Christmas.

And all this time I had forgotten I had been invited over to Mary Porters for Christmas dinner.

Christmas couldn't go by without visiting Irene and Harry Adams. Funny thing, Irene won't open all her presents at Christmas time. Waits till new year. Irene you're a dilly, that is for sure. Harry and I talked horses as usual.

City Manager Graham, didn't I get mixed up Christmas Day (Monday) when I stopped by to wish you Merry Christmas.

And did you ever see such a busy man as Jack Pitlick? Wish you merry Christmas and on his way. What a busy garage.

Rode out to Mr. and Mrs. Austin Turcotte's to see their Christmas and to see their new home. That is fast becoming one of the beauty spots around here. Little Terry was certainly having a heck of a time with his toys.

I forgot to ask Jeanette what those two animals were out in the back yard. To me they looked like deer, but I know that they were not. Their horse paddocks are so nice with all the white board fences. After Christmas I'll take time to really look his farm over.

Jack Graham has 10 or 12 head out to Turcotte's farm in training. Oh! Yes! Mrs. Turcotte tells me Terry has a racing car he drives around his father's track that will do thirty miles per hour. Guess Jan just holds her breath.

After a weary, long day (Monday) I made it to Mary Porters for another Christmas dinner. She certainly had a table full.

Now, Mary, I ask you, Mary, was that nice what you saved me from the turkey?

Of course, it was all in fun. Anyway, we had a wonderful time.

The Ernst who have the Colleen Acres Stable were also Mary's guests.

When we were through eating the bunch decided to take in the G. I. Blues and what a show. Just the type of show to really end a wonderful Christmas Day.

I stopped by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dupe's trailer where we talked horses for a couple of hours. Really enjoyed chatting with them like old times.

Will be glad when all the boys get back to the track, because then there will be more horse news to write about.

Davis farm to see what the children received from Santa. My days don't seem long enough to get all around.

Even promised Bobby Hobbs and Sarah to visit them. Sure didn't make it. But want to visit their horse farm too, and also the Jandaks too.

Mr. Jerred, am glad to see you on the road to recovery.

Went down to Norris Adams' home to wish him a Merry Christmas, but he was gone. So happy New Year Norris.

The Swain Hotel certainly had a beautiful tree in the lobby.

Carrington, what did Santa bring you? "Something for the flu?" Now, I ask you!

"Wasn't this about 'people, places and things?'" Happy New Year to all the readers of The Harrington Journal.

Md. Soil Conservation District Association To Meet Jan. 2-4.

New ways of saving Maryland's topsoil, and other natural resources, along with better administration techniques will occupy most of the thoughts of Soil Conservation District supervisors during their annual meeting Jan. 2-4. Around 150 district supervisors and conservationists will convene at the Emerson Hotel in Baltimore for the three-day joint conclave of the Maryland Association of Soil Conservation Districts and the State Soil Conservation Committee, announces Mr. Fred Bull, Extension Conservationist, University of Maryland.

Accomplishment in the conservation of soil and water depends to a large extent on how well district supervisors administer their soil conservation districts. To help them with this problem, much of the program will be devoted to the improvement of soil conservation district administration. Dr. Gordon B. Cairns, Dean of the College of Agriculture of the University of Maryland and chairman of the State Soil Conservation Committee, will lead a panel discussion on this subject. Others participating will be Charles H. Remsburg, president of the State Association of Soil Conservation Districts; Norman Fike, Talbot District; and Lathrop E. Smith, chairman of the Montgomery District.

Edward R. Keil, State Conservationist, Soil Conservation Service, will discuss a proposed farm pond policy aimed at saving engineers from wasting their time designing farm ponds which are never built. The time of these engineers is needed planning for farmers who are serious in starting conservation practices, Mr. Bull says.

Mr. Bull will discuss a new method of conducting elections of supervisors of soil conservation districts. Clarence Britt, USDA, Agricultural Research Service, will bring the group up to date on developments in soil and water conservation research. Adna R. Bond, Assistant State Forester, State Department of Forests and Parks, will discuss tree planting for the '60's to encourage reforestation.

Chester Cissell, Queen Anne's County Extension Agent; and Oscar Schmidt, Jr., Queen Anne's District Supervisor, will tell about the cover crop program they have in Queen Anne's County.

Following the dinner meeting Jan. 2 the Caroline District will receive an award for accomplishments in a nation wide conservation contest. At the Jan. 4 luncheon the winning state FFA land judging team will be honored, also the FFA chapter winners in the conservation and soil fertility program. Featured speaker at this luncheon will be C. R. Zarfoss, vice president, Western Maryland Railroad. His subject will be "Conservation is Everybody's Business."

Mr. Bull extends a cordial invitation to anyone interested to attend any or all sessions of the meetings.

Delaware Food Market Report

Ring in the New Year with good cheer. The January list of plentiful foods is reason for this good cheer. Several foods on this list are adapted to low-cost, post-holiday meals and they are also well suited for the winter weather ahead.

Greater than usual marketings of broiler-fryers are expected in this first month of the New Year. The number of young chicks raised for the January market is 10 to 12% greater than a year ago. These increases in supply are expected to continue through February. Prices are and will be attractive to us all.

This section of the United States consumes the largest amount of the lamb that is marketed. Lamb supplies are normally greater after the first of the year, with the peak of the season being in January. This year supplies are a bit greater than at this time last year, and prices will begin to slide downward. Check "specials" for good buys for your freezer during January.

In the produce section of most stores cabbage will be the top buy. Quality, for the most part, is excellent and prices are reasonable (as low as 5c a lb. in some stores). Stocks of cabbage stored from last fall's crop are heavy and the winter acreage is up 29% over the average. Plenty of cabbage will be available during January and February.

Onions are also plentiful with prices low, and quality high. The medium size yellow globe type onion is particularly plentiful in this part of the country. Be sure to keep plenty on hand as this is one vegetable every cook finds a thousand uses for.

One of the delicacies in the canned food section of the grocery store is the ripe olive. They are on the plentiful food list. This will be a good time to stock up on a number of cans for the pantry self-use items now and have plenty to use later on when prices are not so low as favorable.

Cranberries, both fresh and processed will be in good supply during the first part of 1961. This fruit can continue to help spice up any meal and it certainly will help lift up the many budget meals many of us will have during the months to come.

Crop Improvement Meet Features Talk On Australian Farming

Grassland farming in Australia, illustrated with colored slides, by F. Graham Swain, will be featured on the program of the annual meeting of the Maryland Crop Improvement Association. The association will meet at 9:45 a.m. Jan. 11 in the Lord Baltimore Hotel in Baltimore, announces Joe Newcomer, Extension agronomist, University of Maryland.

F. Graham Swain is Research Officer in New South Wales Department of Agriculture. Mr. Swain is currently doing advanced study for his doctor of philosophy degree at the University of Maryland.

The morning program will be concerned with the latest information on crops production. Of special interest will be the discussions of pre-inoculation of legume seeds by Dr. L. W. Erdman, U.S.D.A.; weed control in corn and soybeans by Dr. Paul W. Santelmann, agronomist; and insecticides for forage and field crops by Ted L. Bissell, extension entomologist, and fertilizer recommendation by Dr. James R. Miller, agronomist at the University of Maryland.

Highlighting the afternoon program, in addition to Mr. Swain's talk, will be a panel discussion by a group of Maryland dairy and beef farmers discussing the topic "Pasture is Being Served."

Also in the afternoon, two farmers will discuss their experiences with Midland Bermudagrass, a new forage crop for Maryland. Adjournment will be promptly at 3:30 p.m., promises Joe Newcomer.

For someone special on your Christmas list, I can think of no nicer gift than a sweater. The design we're featuring today has, I believe, unusual gift possibilities. First of all, it's easy to knit and can be fashioned in plenty of time for holiday giving. Secondly, the style is flattering not only to the youthful figure, but to the more mature woman as well.

fashion this beautiful gift for someone dear to you. Free directions may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Department of this newspaper. Ask for Leaflet No. B-190.

BEAUTIFUL BULKY

This fast-working bulky knit pattern we've called "Garden Club" will give a costume look to any basic dress. Thanks to the easy, open-front styling, it can be worn now under a coat, in the Spring as a stylish jacket. Side cables and two deep hip pockets add a generous measure of chic. The range of colors in knitting worsted is wide and wonderful, so pick a shade to best complement the lucky lady's wardrobe. Make this sweater in sizes 12 to 20, with equally fashionable results.

PERSONAL TOUCH

Not only does this sweater have the elegance that's characteristic of hand-knits, it also expresses so well the sentiments of the giver. So, why not begin today to fashion this beautiful gift for someone dear to you. Free directions may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Department of this newspaper. Ask for Leaflet No. B-190.

of soybeans during the past year. With soybean price supports at a moderate level of 64 per cent of parity, domestic prices were fully competitive on the world market. At the same time, U. S. producers received satisfactory prices. Farm prices on soybeans averaged 12 cents a bushel above the support level of $1.85.

This competitive price paved the way for expanded exports to foreign countries without the need for an export subsidy. The commercial export of 141 million bushels of soybeans during the marketing year brought the U. S. a cash return of about $307 million.

At the same time, the equivalent of another 86 million bushels of soybeans were exported as oil. While something over half of these oil exports were moved under Public Law 480, the dollar sales accounted for more than $35 million.

This return of more than $340 million for the year's soybean export, U. S. trade balance. As of October 1, 1960, the car-ports was of material aid to the ryover of all soybeans, including the CCC inventory, was 23.3 million bushels—down from 62.1 million bushels a year earlier.

Muncy Hanover Sets Track Record

An imposing track record by Muncy Hanover, a national season's record by Mr. Budlong and sparkling performances by a number of other standbreds were 1960 highlights at Saratoga Raceway as the Sva harness racing track marked its 19th season.

Muncy Hanover cracked the track record for three-year-old pacers—that of two minutes flat set by Torpid in 1957—when he unleashed a mile in 1:59 4/5 in winning the $10,000 Springwood, a Grand Circuit feature.

Mr. Budlong posted the nations' fastest mile by a four-year-old pacing gelding over a half-mile track as he captured the $5,000 Schenectady in 2:00 2/5. This and other wins in the faster class pacing features of the summer meet enabled Mr. Budlong to be voted Saratoga Raceway Horse of the Year by a narrow margin over Dancing Demon.

Dancing Demon, a mare owned by Dunbar Bostwick of Shelburne, Vt., and Lucky Demon, a three-year-old from the Battenkill Stable of East Dorset, Vt., starred among the trotters and tied for the fastest trotting time of the Spa season as each scored in 2:03 4/5. Dancing Demon won 10 of 16 Spa races and was the track's top money-winner with $19,050.

Lucky Demon took six of nine at Saratoga and accounted for a courageous score when he won the second dash of the $10,000 Runnymede in 2:04 in a four-horse heads apart photo after racing the whole mile on the outside. However, having been set back from second to fourth due to a lapped on break at the wire in the first dash, Lucky had to settle for second in the Runnymede summary as Volo Mon, victor in a five-horse photo in the initial round, prevailed in the Grand Circuit thriller with a 1-2 finish.

IN MEMORIAM
 In loving memory of our dear mother, Grace V. Jones, who departed this life, Jan. 1, 1960.
 She suffered patiently and long. Her hope was bright, her faith was strong. The peace of Jesus filled her breath. And in His arms she sank to rest.
