

SALES TAX NEARS, WOMEN VOTERS TOLD

"I'm not promoting it but I think we're coming to a sales tax," Senator Allen J. Cook (D-Kenton) told the League of Women Voters Tuesday afternoon.

Speaking as one of four legislators on a panel, Senator Cook said, "We are going to have to raise revenues no matter how conservative we are, or we are going to cripple the agencies."

As he spoke, in the Senate Chamber, the Joint Finance Committee was in the basement of Legislative Hall wrestling with the problem of trying to cut agency appropriations to bring the state's budget within its income.

Another panel member, Senator James H. Snowden (R-Wilmington), expressed his "unbounded admiration" of Cook for his "frontal attack" on the state's fiscal problems.

Senator Cook also mentioned other possible sources of additional tax money, in particular increasing license fees for physicians and attorneys and standardizing the license fees for automobiles.

In the morning about 80 members of the League heard Dr. Paul Dolan, associate professor of political sciences at the University of Delaware, discuss the mechanics of passing a law and the role of lobbying.

Gov. Elbert N. Carvel spoke at a luncheon in the Treadway Inn attended by 14 legislators, and the women then went to Legislative Hall for the panel talks.

The Governor again backed redistricting. He supported the idea that representation in the state's lower house be on the basis of population as it is in the U. S. Congress.

The matter came up later in the day when a League member asked the four panelists what the chances were of redistricting legislation being passed during the current session of the General Assembly.

The four men looked at each other for several seconds before Senator Cook rose slowly to his feet.

He noted he was the only panel member from below the canal and that Kent and Sussex counties had traditionally stood in the way of reapportionment.

"But as Governor Carvel said today," he added, "it's something that has to come."

He said he would want to see a reapportionment bill before deciding on his vote "but I think you have a just reason for having a reapportionment bill."

This led Senator Snowden to comment goodnaturedly that "it took 63 years to get an admission from a Kent Countian that we had a just issue" and "it may take that long to get the rest of the job done."

On the panel besides Senators Cook and Snowden were Rep. Russell D. F. Dineen (D-Wilmington) and Senator Reynolds du Pont (R-Greenville). Each legislator was asked to speak for 10 minutes on the current legislation of prime interest to him.

State Draws Plan To Feed Needy

A "crash program" to set up distribution of federal surplus foods to needy Delaware families was organized Tuesday at a meeting in the office of Gov. Elbert N. Carvel.

The Governor emphasized variety of surplus foods to be available will be very limited when the distribution starts about the middle of this month. It is hoped that the program will be in full swing by early next month.

At the outset the distribution will be financed by the counties. This temporary financing is to be supplanted by state support later. A permanent state-level distribution plan will be developed by the Governor, in co-operation with executive agencies. Legislation to put the plan into effect is to be introduced when the General Assembly reconvenes Feb. 13.

Plans for the temporary distribution and for development of the permanent set-up were agreed upon Tuesday by the Governor and 21 representatives of the three county Levy Courts, the City of Wilmington, the General Assembly, state agencies, and religious and welfare organizations.

Certification of needy families will be carried out through the State Department of Public Welfare. Religious and civic groups wishing to aid in the program may contact that department for

Alumni Assn. Corrects By-Laws

The Harrington High School Alumni Association will hold its annual banquet and dance Saturday evening, May 28, it was announced Monday night at a general meeting of the organization.

The dinner meeting will be held in the cafeteria of the high school, with Lou Parris' Orchestra furnishing music for the dance in the field house.

At the meeting Monday, it was revealed Albert Price will be chairman of the Entertainment and Table Committees; Luther Hatfield as chairman of the Program Committee, and Barbara Payne as chairman of the Decorations Committee for the field house.

The president, Carrington H. Burgess, announced that the membership of the remaining committees would be named in March.

Mrs. Luther P. Hatfield, recording historian, reported on suggested changes in constitution and by-laws and these were modified and accepted at the meeting. The laws will be printed and mailed to members.

Democrats Eye Shifts In Methods

The Democratic Party is seriously considering two fundamental changes in its methods of operation and financing.

One is to operate the party full-time with the aid of a paid executive director.

The other is to junk present sporadic financing methods and raise money on a year-round basis by a system of memberships.

Democratic sources reported Wednesday night that these ideas have already been approved in the party's highest levels, and that they will soon be discussed in other party circles. It was said that Gov. Elbert N. Carvel expressed approval of the changes a few days ago, and that State Chairman John M. Conway and National Committeeman William S. Potter have also endorsed them.

It is expected that Mr. Conway will take the plans to a meeting of the Democratic Policy Committee after he returns from a trip to Palm Beach, Fla., in a few weeks. After that step, the plans would go to the Democratic State Committee.

Democrats said their party has never, within their memory, had a paid secretary or director. The Republican Party, on the other hand, has maintained a full-time professional staff for years.

The proposed executive director—there is no one individual in sight for the job—would be the general administrator of party affairs. He would not only carry on tasks the party performs now but would be put to work intensifying and broadening party activities.

He would develop a program for training campaign managers and other party leaders. He would run a program for increasing registration. He would coordinate party activities throughout the state. He would put out a periodic publication for the party. He would find volunteer workers. He would conduct statistical analysis of voting trends.

All this, it is expected, would improve the party's organizational efficiency and make more of a year-round going concern out of the coalition of diverse elements

Milford VFW Post Views Member Hike

James C. Holland, commander of Blue Hen Post, Milford, announced that indications are the local VFW unit will reach an all time high in membership this year, surpassing the 433 members attained in 1960.

This membership effort, spearheaded by Senior Vice Commander John M. Short and Past Post Commander Clement J. Nevin, has already won several awards and commendations for the local post.

Plans for additional membership effort will be completed at a meeting of the post on Tuesday, Feb. 14. Plans for other late winter and early spring activities will also be discussed at that time.

A 321st Bomb Wing B-47 combat crew scored a double "bull's eye" Jan. 10 on the same mission. Sharp-eyed Capt. L. R. Price was the bombardier-navigator on the historic mission. Other crew members included commander and 1st Lt. D. G. Nichols, pilot.

Simulated bombing runs are recorded electronically by radar bomb scoring stations situated near the ground target. In Air Force terminology, a direct hit or perfect score is referred to as a "Shack".

It is believed that this was only the third time this feat has been accomplished in SAC aviation history and the first time on a "Large Charge" run.

The first double "shack" was scored by a 379th Bomb Wing crew from Homestead AFB, Fla. last month. A repeat occurred shortly thereafter when a Pease AFB, N. H. B-47 crew of the 509th Bomb Wing turned the feat into reality again during a practice mission over Springfield, Mass.

Editorial Note: Capt. Price is stationed at McCoy Air Force Base, Orlando, Fla. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Price, of Harrington.

Lt. Col. Baxter Attends Army Command School

Army Lt. Col. Samuel F. Baxter, son of Mrs. Myrtle F. Baxter, Greenwood, is attending the 16-week associate course at the Army Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, Kan. The course is scheduled to be completed May 4.

Colonel Baxter is a member of the 23d class to be enrolled in the course. The class, consisting of 374 U. S. Army officers and 28 allied officers from 12 countries, recently was addressed by Maj. Gen. Harold K. Johnson, college commandant and post commander and Brig. Gen. William A. Cunningham III, assistant commandant, at opening day exercises.

The college, the Army's senior tactical school, was established in 1881 as the School of Application of Infantry and Cavalry. The associate course was established in 1947 and is designed to prepare selected officers from all components of the Army for duty as commanders and general staff officers. The class includes 68 Army Reserve and National Guard officers on temporary active duty. The attendance of the civilian component officers is indicative of the Army's effort to train and maintain "One Army."

Col. Baxter entered the army in 1941. The 44-year-old officer was graduated from Caroline High School, Denton, in 1933 and from Western Maryland College, Westminster, in 1938.

Film On Survival Shown for Rotary

"Seconds For Survival" was the title of a film shown at a meeting of the Rotary Club in the Rigbie Hotel, Laurel, Monday evening.

The film, prepared by the Bell Telephone Company, was produced with the assistance of the Defense Department, the Army, the Navy, the United States Air Force and the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Dr. Arnold H. Williams, club president, announced that the Salisbury Rotary Club will hold an inter-city meeting on March 30. The Honorable J. Lindsay Almond, Jr., governor of Virginia, will be the principal speaker. His subject will be the new bridge tunnel project connecting the Del-Mar-Va Peninsula with Norfolk.

$128,000 SAVINGS SEEN ON INSURANCE

The state will save more than $128,000 next year by consolidating its purchases of insurance coverage, State Insurance Commissioner Harry S. Smith told the Joint Finance Committee Tuesday.

He asked the committee to add to his funds in the budget for the next fiscal year a total of $161,500 and to omit a total of $290,076.65 requested by about 90 state agencies for insurance costs. The difference, which Mr. Smith said the state will save, is $128,576.65. He asked for a total of $412,200. The budget prepared by former Gov. J. Caleb Boggs proposed $402,100.

Smith said the saving is made possible by buying blanket policies where possible, by consolidating automobile insurance and purchasing fleet policies, and by eliminating duplicate coverage. As an example, all boilers in state buildings will be covered in a blanket boiler policy.

The committee welcoming the consolidation move, obtained from Mr. Smith and his deputy, George H. Bunting, a list of the agencies whose insurance needs will be taken care of by the commissioner. The list is needed to see that the agencies do not get duplicate funds for that purpose. Mr. Smith said the Budget Commission has already subtracted their insurance money.

At the same time, committee members wondered whether the state could not make further savings in insurance costs by partial self-insurance through purchase of deductible coverage or by complete self-insurance.

As a step in determining possible savings that might result from self-insurance, the Joint Finance Committee asked Mr. Smith to compile a report on all insurance claims paid to the state, or to any state agency, during the last five years. This figure would reveal about what self-insurance in that period would have cost, and may be compared with the cost of insurance coverage for the same period.

Two other agencies Tuesday asked for funds for pay raises for employees. Secretary of State Elisha Dukes asked for a 10 percent raise for his 35 employees, mostly in the corporation department, and the Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission asked for funds to give raises of three to five percent.

Mr. Dukes said some of his employees receive $210 to $215 a month while employees in other agencies get $250 for the same job. He said they have to do overtime work and do not get extra pay.

The Finance Committee was interested in the fact that the secretary of state purchases office supplies and printing for several other departments. Mr. Dukes requested $50,000 for that purpose. The committee wants to be sure the agencies don't get duplicate funds. At the suggestion of Rep. T. Lees Bartleson (R-Brandwine Hundred) it will get from Mr. Dukes a statement of how much in the way of supplies went to which agency.

Crop Group Told of Pest

Some 70 farmers, processors, fieldmen and county agents of Caroline, Dorchester and Talbot counties heard comments about their business at the Choptank Vegetable Improvement Council meeting at Preston Friday.

Dr. James Kantzes, University of Maryland Extension Pathologist, Salisbury, told the group that nematodes are a serious problem to farmers in Caroline County—and other parts of the Shore. About 20 species occur in plants and cause both mechanical and physiological damage.

Soybeans are stunted by the pest, but that variety has not been reported in this section yet. Once introduced here, they could live in the soil for 20 years and become a serious pest to the Shore soybean crop, the speaker said.

Organized a few years ago, the Choptank Vegetable Improvement Council serves the vegetable industry of the three counties. It is composed of two processors, two farmers and the county agent of each county plus one supplier and one Farm Bureau representative and two extension specialists from the University of Maryland.

Both Maryland and Delaware have grown the semi-dwarf to-

3 Agencies Hike Pleas $331,704

Three state agencies Wednesday asked the Joint Finance Committee for a total of $331,704.05 more than they are spending this year—and explained in detail why the money is needed.

The committee listened sympathetically, but as usual made no commitment. These were the requests:

1. State Tax Commissioner Alexander R. Abrahams asked for $85,653.15 more to improve collection of taxes, and promised to bring in "$20 to $30 for every dollar appropriated."

2. The State Board of Health asked for $167,410.90 extra to increase activities, mainly to keep up with population growth.

3. The Emily P. Bissell Hospital reduced its requests for two items of $78,640 to finance operations at the level of 120 beds instead of the current 125 because the patient load has been increasing.

Senator Walter J. Hoey, chairman of the committee, wanted to know whether the Tax Department could multiply money in a big way—and solve the state's financial problems.

"Can you handle $2,000,000 extra to give us $40,000,000 extra?" he asked. At first Mr. Abrahams thought he could, but he backed away later, apparently figuring he might run into diminishing returns.

Among the points he made were these:

1. There are thousands of tax delinquents, some owing income taxes for as long as 10 years. Nearly 8,000 cases were put in the hands of magistrates in the last 15 months and more are to follow.

2. Hundreds of taxpayers pay the first quarterly installment on their taxes and forget the rest. The law permitting taxpayers to pay quarterly if the amount due is more than $5 should be amended to make it $50.

3. The Tax Department's salaries are too low—$165 to $170 a month for typists and $2,500 to $3,000 a year for persons checking income tax returns.

4. The number of individual tax returns received has jumped from 137,000 to 163,000 in four years. The staff is inadequate to handle that volume.

5. Thousands of refund checks mailed to individuals have been returned and the individuals cannot be found. The General Assembly should grant authority to cancel the refund checks—and save about $40,000.

Mr. Abrahams asked for 20 more employees. Senator Hoey commended the tax commissioner, saying he has "done a wonderful job."

Felton Student Steps From Bus, Hit By Car

A 12-year-old Felton schoolboy was knocked down by a motorist Tuesday afternoon as he crossed U. S. 13 in front of the stopped school bus which had just discharged him.

Kenneth Steel was struck by a car driven by Marion Cuyjet of Philadelphia, Pa. His injuries were not serious.

Steele, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Steele, of Felton, is a well known roller skating competitor. Police said he was on his way home about 3:30 p.m. when the accident occurred at a point two miles north of Felton.

The boy was treated at the Kent General Hospital for an abrasion of the right knee and the left elbow and released.

Marion Cuyjet was arrested for passing a stopped school bus and fined $10 and costs by Magistrate Elmer Poynter.

Mothers March Of Dimes Pays Off

The Mothers March against Polio, Birth Defects, Arthritis and other Rheumatic diseases held Tuesday night was a huge success despite the inclement weather. Twenty mothers of the Legion Auxiliary and other ladies organizations including members of the Legion Junior Auxiliary participated. Members of the C.K. R.T. Post No. 7 acted as drivers and protection to the solitors. The collections were $385.

It has been announced by the sponsors that the campaign has been extended to and including Fri., Feb. 10 and contributions will be accepted at the First National and Peoples Banks until that time. If you have not contributed please do so as the total amount collected as of Tuesday, Jan. 31, is only $701.46 and this includes a very fine contribution by Amos Layton who mailed his donation from Florida. The committee is hopeful of collecting at least $1000.

2nd Charge Brings Jail

John H. Ricketts, 44, Wyoming, was sentenced to 75 days in jail Wednesday for a second conviction of drunken driving.

Judge Ernest V. Keith announced the sentence in the Court of Common Pleas. Ricketts pleaded not guilty at his trial Jan. 11 and Judge Keith found him guilty two days later. The original penalty included payment of court costs, 60 days in jail and a $500 fine. Judge Keith then substituted an extra 15 days in jail in lieu of the fine.

Ricketts was also sentenced to 10 days in jail on conviction of driving with a revoked license. This period will run concurrently with the 75 days, however.

Judge Keith reserved decisions in two cases heard in Common Pleas Wednesday. One involved Jacob W. Zimmerman, Sr., 64, Dover, who pleaded not guilty to a charge of drunken driving. The other concerned Anderson Patterson Jr., 34, Dover, who was arrested for speeding.

Dover Air Base Deputy Retires

Col. William Moomaw, deputy commander of the 1607th Air Transport Wing at Dover Air Force Base, retired Tuesday after more than 21 years service.

At the retirement ceremonies in the Officers Club were Brig. Gen. Robert J. Goeway, former 1607th commander; Col. Whiteford C. Mauldin, present wing commander; and Col. Robert H. Stuart, base commander, as well as other members of the base staff.

Also retiring at the same ceremony were Maj. Gerald Duncan and Maj. Cornelius Reagan.

General Goeway, deputy commander at Eastern Air Force headquarters, Maguire Air Force Base, N. J., presented Col. Moomaw a commendation medal for meritorious service between Sept. 1, 1958, and Nov. 30, 1960, while the colonel was serving as wing deputy commander.

General Goeway broke military procedure briefly to speak of his high esteem for Colonel Moomaw. Colonel Moomaw served two years in the Army Air Corps, between 1933 and 1935, before leaving the service for six years to fly commercially.

He re-entered the service in

Delmarva Press Parley To Honor State Leaders

The Delmarva Press Association will be host to Gov. Elbert N. Carvel and other Delaware dignitaries at its convention luncheon in the Du Pont Hotel Saturday.

U. S. Senators J. Caleb Boggs and John J. Williams, U. S. Representative Harris B. McDowell and Wilmington Mayor John E. Babiarz also will be among the honored guests.

The two-day meet opens today at the hotel.

In a first day highlight, Creed C. Black, executive editor and vice-president of the News-Journal Company, will lead a panel on "Editorials in Weekly Papers," following a luncheon. Moderator will be William H. Waggamon, editor of the Newark Post.

Panel members will include Norman W. Harrington of the Easton (Md.) Star Democrat, Emory Dobson of the Denton (Md.) County Record, George McMath of the Onancock (Va.) Eastern Shore News, and Anthony Higgins of the News-Journal editorial board.

Following Saturday's luncheon, William P. Frank, Morning News columnist, will discuss "Delaware History, Frankly Spoken." He will place special emphasis on the Civil War Centennial observation.

R. R. M. Carpenter, Jr., owner of the Phillies Baseball Club, will show a movie of last August's All-Star high school football game. Election of officers will be held Saturday morning.

A comparative large vote Saturday, in the Democratic committee elections, saw some uneven results.

In the First Election District of the Ninth Representative District, City Manager George S. Graham tallied 244 votes, as compared with 210 for William A. Minner. The post had been vacant since the death of Charles Hopkins last August. In the same district, the incumbent committeewoman, Mrs. Kathryn Simpson, tallied 248 votes against 203 for Mrs. Eva Raughley.

In the Second Election District of the Ninth, Maurice Adams defeated Harry Hanson, former county comptroller, 180 to 93. The incumbent, Walter Paskey Jr., did not run for reelection.

In other county contests, results were as follows: First of the 10th: Paynter I. Reynolds, incumbent, 192; Vinal Kirby, 147. In the Fourth: William Edward Robb, incumbent, defeated Irving H. Garton, 289 to 251. Garton's running mate, John Pearson, was defeated by Fred M. Williams, incumbent, 291 to 282.

In the same district, Evelyn Webb defeated the incumbent committeewoman, Abbie Melton, 284 to 275, and Jeannette Darling unseated Nellie Craig, 286 to 269.

Contests which were settled since the election was postponed Jan. 21 due to the snow were in the 2nd of the first, where incumbents Walter S. Handsberry and Ruth M. Haas were named after Arthur Dickerson and Edna M. David withdrew; the 3rd of the 5th, where Joseph Sights, also an incumbent, was chosen after Thomas J. Gray withdrew; and the 2nd of the 3rd, where Carl F. Pretzman was renamed when G. Francis Downes withdrew.

Hoey Says Marked Cars Bar Misuse

Should state cars be marked, and should the state pay for lunches of its employees under some circumstances?

These two questions, frequently discussed by Joint Finance Committees in the past, came up Monday on the first day of work by the new Joint Finance Committee of the 121st General Assembly.

The state has no general policy on either of those questions and various agencies have different policies, as each Finance Committee finds out. A bill to require that state cars with few exceptions be plainly marked as such was passed by the House of Representatives at the last session of the Legislature, but was stalled in the Senate. There should be legislation on the subject this time, Senator Walter J. Hoey, chairman of the Finance Committee, declared Monday.

The question of state cars being marked is tied in with private use of those cars. The topic was brought up Monday when Senator Leon E. Donovan (D-Harrington) asked an official of the State Board of Agriculture whether that agency pays for the gas when employees use state cars to go fox hunting. He has seen them, he said.

This brought no direct answer, but elicited from Senator Hoey the opinion that state cars should be plainly marked on the back and on their doors or perhaps painted the state colors. Senator Harvey B. Spicer (R-Georgetown) thought painting them would reduce their resale value, and suggested a sign, like that used for driver education cars.

Rep. Russell D. F. Dineen (D-Wilmington) declared that police cars should be marked. John L. Clough, acting secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, the agency whose cars started the discussion, agreed that state cars should be marked and added that there should be a safe place to keep them. He said parts have been stolen from cars left overnight in a state parking lot at Dover. It should be fenced in, said Senator Hoey.

The Board of Agriculture asked for money to hire an auditor to check financial statements submitted in connection with the milk bonding law and the poultry bonding law.

Mr. Clough, who has worked for the board since 1938, explained he is director of its laboratories and acting secretary. He said the board has a contract under which it pays the University of Delaware $10,000 a year for poultry diagnostic work. Of this amount, $5,000 is taken from the board's salary account and $5,000

C. H. RUTLEDGE
Farm and Home Week Speaker

Former Newark Post Editor, Charles H. Rutledge, will speak Feb. 9, 11:30 a. m. at a Farm and Home Week session on the University of Delaware campus. An authority on the homemaking tasks of women in "the-good-old-days," Rutledge, now with the DuPont Company, will reminisce and show his collection of old pressing irons and other antique household equipment.

Harrington School News

Recently Dwight Hackett, who had been chosen to sing in the National Chorus in Washington, D. C., told his experiences to the music class.

Dwight played a recording of the concert given by the chorus. Both Mr. Brobst and Dwight said that singing with this group was a never-to-be-forgotten experience.

Bonita Porter, Kathy Holloway, Wanda Minner, June Thompson, and Joanne Murphy, who are the majorettes of Harrington High School Band, will start Monday, Feb. 6, to teach the elementary children twirling.

The lessons will be during second period which starts at 9:40 and ends at 10:30. The majorettes enjoy baton twirling and will enjoy teaching the elementary children for they will take the place of the High School majorettes as they grow up and enter high school.

After the mid-year examinations of January 25, 26, 27, Harrington High School started on a new schedule Monday, January 30. Report cards were given out Wednesday, Feb. 1. Seventh grade exchanged health for Home Economics and Wood Shop. Eighth grade exchanged Home Economics and Wood Shop for Health. 8D and 8G started French Class and 8M started Spanish Class.

Ginger, an Angora cat, knew there was something wrong on a recent Saturday night.

Mrs. Musetta Cox, who was awakened by the cat, hunted for her. She didn't find the cat, but she found the trouble; the oil pressure in the stove was on the danger mark.

Mr. Cox was then called and everything was put under control. Ginger was then found under the dining room table asleep.

Tuesday, Jan. 1, Sandra Kates, a graduate student of Harrington High School, boarded Mr. Dean's school bus en route to Harrington School. Everyone on the bus was surprised and happy to see a friend come back and visit.

Sandra is taking elementary teaching at the University of Delaware. She reported that she likes the university, but there is a lot of hard work attached.

In Mr. Kramedas' History, the two sections of the 9th grades are studying the Middle Ages. The classes have been assigned reports to be written about a part of the Middle Ages and will have a month to do them.

The Harrington Varsity Girls Basketball team was defeated at Milford, Jan. 25th, with a score of 14-10.

At the end of the first quarter the score was tied 1-1. The game was close. Nancy Blades made 6 points, Susan McDonald, 3 points, and Jackie Rasmus, 1 point.

On Friday afternoon coach Bill Smith's Lions were handed their first defeat of the season by Milford by a score of 37-39.

The game, a very exciting one, changed hands several times and was not decided until the last moments. Although the Lions scored 13 field goals to Milford's eleven the game was won by foul shooting. Harrington was hurt when Barry Fry, Bill Adams and David Brobst fouled out. The scoring was contributed by Barry Fry, Bill Adams, Randy Knox, Joe Taylor, Wayne Collison, and David Brobst.

Magazine Campaign
Within the next two weeks the three bands of our school will sponsor their annual magazine campaign through the cooperation of the Curtis Circulation Company of Philadelphia.

This annual campaign has been the principle source of income for the bands for the past ten years, and it is hoped that this year's drive will be more successful than those in the past. Each year the profit from this sponsored activity has been greater than the year before, and it is hoped that this year it will be even more so, since all the profits will go into the Band Fund toward new uniforms for the Senior Band, and since each member of the two smaller bands will one day be a member of the Senior Band, there should be a great deal of interest in the objective.

The campaign will last for two and a half weeks, and the exact date for the beginning of the drive will be announced later.

We wrote a few paragraphs telling what we liked best that we had learned this year in Science. Here are a few of our paragraphs.

What I liked best was what we learned about the teeth. I am wondering if I will get three sets of teeth, and I wonder if I will get my wisdom teeth.

—Jack Konesey
The plants interested me most. I didn't know much about all their organs. It seems to me that studying them would be very interesting. I like to watch plants bloom. I take care of twenty-six flowers.

—Susan Greenhaugh
I think the interesting part of our Science this year was the part about sound waves. We learned that you can hear when you are under the water. Wire is the best carrier of sound. When you bang two rocks in the water you can hear the sound. Telephones use wire to carry the sound waves.

—Wayne Reid
I believe that the different kinds of teeth we have is very interesting. There are the incisors, molars, canine, and wisdom teeth. The wisdom teeth are the most interesting to me because not everyone gets them.

Another interesting fact about them is that there is hardly enough room for them in a person's mouth.

—Jacklyn Creasy
I liked all about space. I liked about how the plants grow. I liked about sending rockets into outer space the best.—Howard Krouse

I wonder what it is like on the moon. I wonder what the canals are like. Some day I might go to the moon. Then I will know what it is like.

—Gary Smith
I think osmosis is interesting because of how it works. It is interesting how water is taken in through the root hairs and how the roots hold the plant in the ground.—Billy Reed

The thing that I thought was interesting was when we studied about rockets. I wonder how they put fuel inside the big tanks. I also wonder how they put suits on the monkeys. When I read about it I found everything I wanted to know.—Nickie Morris

The interesting thing that I have learned is about my ears. Ears are a good thing to have. If you did not have ears you could not hear anything.

You should not stick something sharp into your ear as you might break your eardrum. Then you would not be able to hear. Be thankful for your ears. They are wonderful to have.

—Brenda Minner
I liked the story about the ice, water and gas. It seemed fun to learn about them. I hope we will learn more about it. I remember that the ice was solid, that water was liquid, and that steam from a teakettle is gas.

—Thomas Brown
I am very interesting about how many parts there are to a plant. Before I read about them I thought that only the roots held a plant up. I did not know about the root hairs. When I read about how the plant gets water, I thought it was wonderful what nature does for plants.

—Debby Callaway

Magnolia

Mr. and Mrs. Norris Curry, of Magnolia Trailer Court, have chosen the name of Norris Wayne, Jr., for their son born at the Base Hospital on Sunday.

Dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Sharp, and little Drew, were Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Johnston and son, Rick, Mrs. Elizabeth Slaughter, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Hall, all of Frederica, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sharp, of Dover. This was a dinner given on Sunday in observance of the birthday of both Mrs. James Sharp and Edward Sharp.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Grambling were the dinner guests on Saturday evening of Sgt. and Mrs. Paul Edwards and family. The meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service which was to have been held on February 1st, was postponed due to the inclement weather. This meeting is rescheduled for Wednesday, February 8th, at 7:30 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Stiles, who were enroute to their home in Kansas City, Missouri following a world tour, were overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Groff Stoner on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Temple Stubbs, of Canterbury, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stubbs, and daughter, Patty, were Saturday evening dinner guests of Mrs. Eva Shackell. This was also a dinner given in joint birthday celebration, it being the birthday of the hostess and the latter Mr. Stubbs.

Of interest to Magnolia is the transfer of Thomas Wise to the General Electric Office, in Syracuse, New York. Mr. Wise is an engineer with General Electric and Mr. and Mrs. Wise and small son, Bobby, are leaving Lynn, Massachusetts this week to make their home in Syracuse. Mrs. Wise is the former Miss Marilyn Frese.

The District Superintendent, Rev. Roy L. Tawes, will preside over the quarterly conference at three o'clock. All members of the official board and all interested members of the church are asked to attend this business meeting of their church.

At the election of trustees on Sunday morning, Bruce Frazier was reelected for another three year term and the other two elected to serve for the three year period were Casper Powell and William Melvin.

Harpichordist to Appear In U. of D. Artists Series

Ralph Kirkpatrick, world-famous harpichordist, will be the fourth featured performer in the 1960-61 Artists Series at the University of Delaware. Mr. Kirkpatrick will appear on Mon., Feb. 13, at 8:15 p.m. in Mitchell Hall.

With a background of successful concert performances in Europe and America and a recent extensive South American tour, Mr. Kirkpatrick qualifies as one of the premiere performers on his chosen instrument.

In addition to performances at the Vienna, Berlin, Edinburgh, Lucerne, Ansbach, and other festivals, this unofficial American cultural ambassador has been welcomed by numerous European countries as an interpreter of their own music. He has been engaged to play Scarlatti in Italy, Mozart and Haydn in Vienna and English music in London. The German Gramophone Society has entrusted him with the recording of the complete keyboard works of Bach for its well-known Archive Series.

Born in Loominster, Mass., in 1911, he began to study the harpichord during his undergraduate years at Harvard. After graduation in 1931, he studied in Europe and gave his first performance there in 1933. At the age of 22 he presided over the summer harpichord classes at the Salzburg Mozarteum and since that time he has extended his influence throughout the world of early music. His edition of Bach's Goldberg variations, published in 1938 by G. Schirmer, has been universally hailed as a model of its kind.

The breadth of his interests has recently been demonstrated by the publication of his monumental Domenico Scarlatti, the first comprehensive study of that eighteenth-century keyboard composer.

Although his concert activities have been constantly increasing, Mr. Kirkpatrick has found time to do a limited amount of teaching. A number of the most promising harpichordists of the younger generation have been his pupils at Yale. Some idea of the thoroughness of his teaching methods, his self-discipline, and his deep musical integrity can be gained from the preface to his edition of sixty Scarlatti sonatas, as well as from his book.

Among the most valued honors Mr. Kirkpatrick has received are a Guggenheim Fellowship some years ago, for the study of seventeenth and eighteenth century methods of performance, and more recently a decoration in the Italian Order of Merit in recognition of his services to Scarlatti.

Famed Jazz Combo To Appear At U. of D.

The Dave Brubeck Quartet featuring Paul Desmond on the alto saxophone, will appear in the Dover Room of the University of Delaware's Student Center on Mon., Feb. 6, at 8:30 p.m. There will be a $2 admission charge.

Acknowledged as one of the outstanding jazz combos in America, the quartet won the Down Beat critics' poll in 1953 and readers' polls in both Down Beat and Metronome magazine in the same year. Jazz fans chose Brubeck the "Jazz Personality of the Year" in 1954 and again in 1955. More recently, the quartet was chosen for the second consecutive year as the top combo in the nation by Playboy magazine.

Early in 1958 the Dave Brubeck Quartet played most of Europe and the middle-East on a four-month tour which took them behind the Iron Curtain to Poland, and on to Turkey, India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Afghanistan, Iran and Iraq. The major portion of this tour was sponsored by the U. S. State Department, and brought the Quartet into areas that had never heard a live jazz performance before.

The Dave Brubeck Trio became the Dave Brubeck Quartet in 1951 when Paul Desmond added his alto sax to the group. Paul and Dave first met while they were in the Army. After the war they met again in San Francisco and worked various jobs together in the Bay Area. Their musical ideas blended so well together that they are generally recognized as the finest team of jazz artists to use counterpoint. Desmond is featured on all the Brubeck discs.

Other members of the combo are Joe Morello, drummer, and Gene Wright, the bass player.

Needlecraft News by Nancy Baxter

The children are making a snowman, and you can hear the noise all the way back to the kitchen. Their cries tell you that "making a snowman" has become, instead, having a good old-fashioned snowball fight. In a moment you'll have to go out and brush somebody off, and bring him in beside the stove to dry off and get warm. There he'll stand, happily rubbing his hands. For nothing gets colder quicker than a pair of busy hands making snowballs. He certainly does need lots of good, warm mittens.

that extra-heavy snowball fight.

UNIQUE DESIGN
Well, the mittens we're showing today have everything. They're both good-looking and comfortable. The top hand bears a running cable-stitch design that says "this mitten is one-of-a-kind." And the long, ribbed cuff can be pulled up tightly over sweater sleeves to keep that cold air out and all the comfort in. There are so many wonderful colors of knitting worsted to choose from—select that bright color that he particularly likes. And knit him an extra pair for

FAMILY SPECIAL

These mittens are so easy to knit you'll have time to make a number of pairs. And since anybody—any age—could wisely add these mittens to a winter wardrobe, knit a pair for yourself, as well; and for each member of your family. Dr. and Mrs. John B. Baker Host Sussex County Medical Society

The Auxiliary to the Sussex County Medical Society met for its January business and social meeting at the home of Dr. and Mrs. John B. Baker, in Milford.

Mrs. C. Aubrey Smoot, Jr., president, conducted the short business session and turned the program over to Mrs. J. Leland Fox, who played "Auctioneer" for the anticipated "White Elephant Sale."

This particular part of the yearly schedule is always a jovial as well as prosperous event. Each member goes to great pains to bring some lovely and unusual object to be sold. Antiques, glass pieces and other art objects, plants, and some intricately designed, hand-crafted linens are among the many articles which produce the spirited bidding. End results are gratifying to the various charitable enterprises the Auxiliary supports. The members who miss this sale are unfortunate, indeed.

Following the sale of the final article, the Auxiliary members were joined by the physicians of the Sussex County Medical Society and were served refreshments by their congenial host and hostess, Dr. and Mrs. Baker.

Notices will be mailed indicating the location and nature of the February meeting.

It's Back To School For Farmers At Univ. of Del.

It's a long haul after the holidays until spring planting time and farmers get pretty fidgety waiting for spring to green up the earth. That's one of the reasons the school agriculture at the University of Delaware opens up to farmers for the annual Farm and Home Week sessions, Feb. 7-9, according to George Vapaa, Kent County agricultural extension agent. It helps break up that long January to March drag.

Tuesday
Tuesday's Farm and Home sessions will hit poultry and hay-making topics. Every farmer who grows hay will gain something by attending the agronomy and agricultural engineering sessions, Mr. Vapaa said.

Since alfalfa is the best hay crop the first two speakers, William H. Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware and Dr. George Lippencott, Dorchester Fertilizer Company, will explain where and how alfalfa can be grown successfully.

The third morning session speaker will be University of Maryland forage crops research specialist, Morris Decker. He will explain how Midland bermudagrass can fit into a pasture program to extend it two or three months.

The afternoon agronomy program will feature Vernon Lundell, owner of the Lundell Manufacturing Company, Cherokee, Ia.; explaining hay watering. Nutrition research studies with wafers, pellets and bales will be reported by Dr. Paul A. Putnam of the U. S. Department of Agriculture research station at Beltsville.

University of New Hampshire agricultural economist, Silas B. Weeks, will wind up the agronomy sessions with a report on the flail harvester.

The morning poultry program will feature Frank D'Armi, Georgetown subdivision division of the University of Delaware, explaining research work on "How Much Feed and Water Space for Broilers?"

Dr. Robert L. Squibb, chairman of the poultry science department at Rutgers University, and Dr. G. B. Belloff, CIBA Pharmaceutical Products, Inc., will discuss heat stress and other environmental factors in broiler production.

The afternoon program will feature two topics of particular interest to egg producers: Dr. Robert C. Baker, Cornell University, will offer "New Ideas for Selling Eggs," and J. M. Snyder, Beacon Milling Company, will discuss "Caged Versus Floor Birds."

John C. Hammond, of the O. A. Newton Company, will report on "The Feed Ingredient Situation for Delmarva."

Wednesday
The second day of sessions will highlight dairy, fruit and farm business topics.

A special morning session on farm paper work will feature Leonard S. Hole, vice-president, Farmers Bank of Delaware; Dorsey B. Kinnamon, president of Kinnamon, Taylor and Dawes, Wilmington Insurance firm; and Silas B. Weeks, University of New Hampshire agricultural economist, discussing estate planning insurance and forming partnerships and corporations.

Extension dairyman W. R. Hestline, University of Delaware, will open the dairy program with "What's in Milk Besides Fat?" Pennsylvania State University dairy researcher Wayne O'Dell will follow with a discussion on "Remodeling Milk for the Fu-speakers answering questions from the audience.

A special evening program for horsemen will feature William H. Mitchell, University of Delaware forage specialist, discussing pastures; livestock specialist John H. Shropshire, also of the University of Delaware, reporting on pelleted hay feeding; and R. Jacques Jenny, University of Pennsylvania, discussing "Causes of Lameness in Horses."

Again, the session will close with a question and answer period involving all the speakers.

The morning vegetable session will feature a discussion on adaptability of various tomato varieties to direct seeding and high plant populations by Eugene P. Brasher, chairman of the horticulture department at the University of Delaware, and a report on "Weed Control of Direct-Seeded and Transplanted Tomatoes" by E. M. Rahn, also of the University of Delaware.

Ralph Draper, of the Libby, McNeill, Libby Company, will end the morning session by explaining how "Ohio Topped the Nation in Tomato production in 1960."

A film, "The Mechanical Tomato Harvester," and a panel discussion, "What's New in Vegetable Production," by University of Delaware horticulture department staff members will follow the 15-ton award presentations in the afternoon.

"There are also sessions for homemakers so pick out the sessions that interest you most and take a Farm and Home Week break.

Thursday

Livestock and vegetables will be main topics Thursday with Governor E. N. Carvel presenting 15-ton tomato grower awards and Oregon Senator Wayne Morse, president of the Devon Cattle Club, opening the afternoon livestock session.

The morning livestock sessions will feature Ben Morgan, Pennsylvania State University, on applying research to sheep production and Dr. E. P. Young, University of Maryland, on applying research to swine production.

The afternoon program will open with Dr. George W. Litton, head of the animal husbandry department at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, discussing application of research to beef production. The afternoon livestock program will close with a panel of all the

Veterans News

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—Are the families or close kin of veterans entitled to care and treatment at VA hospitals?

A—Congressional action has established VA hospitals for the care and treatment of service-connected veterans, primarily, and then, under certain conditions, for nonservice-connected veterans. Families or close kin of veterans are not entitled to any of the benefits of VA hospitalization.

Q—I am still on active service and am being transferred to another section of the country. Since I must sell my GI-loan purchased home due to this move, may I have my VA entitlement to a new GI loan restored?

A—Only if VA is relieved of responsibility on your present mortgage. The purchaser of your home may assume the responsibility.

Q—In the event a veteran's widow remarries, she forfeits the pension payments she has been receiving. Does that mean that the veteran's children under 18 also lose any financial benefits they were previously entitled to?

A—The children are still eligible for payments under certain restrictions of age, etc. Consult the nearest VA office for rates and other information.

Q—I am a veteran but I have never applied for any benefits under the Veterans Administration. Am I required to keep the VA notified of my change of address?

A—No veteran is required to get in touch with the VA at all.

Certain benefits and privileges were established by Congress to help veterans following their return to civil life. You may be eligible for some of these but there is no requirement that you have to apply for or accept them. You might, for your own protection and that of your family, at least inquire into the nature of the rights you still have. But you are not required to do so.

Delaware Food Market Report

Beef, lamb and broilers will be on special sale at most meat counters for the next several weeks.

Although cold storage holdings of fishery products are lower than those of last year, a good supply of fresh, frozen and canned fish and shellfish is still available.

Regardless of the cold weather in Florida, shipments of grapefruit and oranges continue in good volume.

Fresh vegetable supplies have been reduced by the unfavorable weather in producing areas and by strikes.

The United States Coast Guard will be among the exhibitors at the 1961 Philadelphia Motor Boat and Sportsmens Show, it was announced today.

The show will be on view at Convention Hall, Feb. 24 through March 4.

The Coast Guard display will include equipment required by law to be carried on board motorboats 65 feet in length or less, along with educational opportunities and motor boat examinations that are available to the boating public through the facilities of the Coast Guard Auxiliary.

Regular Coast Guard and Coast Guard Auxiliary personnel will man the exhibit.

Now in its 26th year, the sports show will have a record-breaking number of exhibits, including the very latest in large and small pleasure boats, fishing tackle, hunting equipment, sporting goods, trailers and all types of marine equipment.

Armed Forces Notes

Army 2nd Lt. Samuel E. Meredith, Greenwood, com-W. Meredith, Greenwood, completed the eight-week officer orientation course Jan. 20 at the Infantry School, Ft. Benning, Ga.

The 22-year-old officers were graduated from Greenwood High School in 1956 and from Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., in 1960. He is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

Delaware Park Notes

In the biggest response ever shown by the organization, the American Trainers' Association voted in favor of Berlo as the best mare of 1960, but they also cast the highest number of votes ever in favor of changing the ranking of the Ten Greatest American race mares.

Two questions annually are asked of the membership by Helen Stairwalt of Delaware Park, the first being who is the best mare regardless of age; and the second, is the year's champion worthy of being included in the Big Ten.

Berlo had 16 votes to go into the select Big Ten, and it is entirely possible that she may make it this year as William duPont, Jr., has decided to keep her in training and has nominated her for the Distaff Big Three, climaxed by the Delaware Handicap, richest race in the world for fillies and mares.

The five who voted for Royal Native to go into the ranking were: B. P. Bond, Jake Byer, Max Hirsch, J. S. Nash and Harry Trotske.

Following is the voting in previous years:

In 1955, a total of 124 votes cast Top Three:

Misty Morn 59; Parlo 48; High Voltage 11.

In 1956, a total of 121 votes cast Top Three: Blue Sparkler 63; Doubledogdare, 25; Searching 12.

In 1957, a total of 119 votes cast Top Three: Indun 72; Pucker Up 41; Princess Turia 4.

In 1958, a total of 125 votes cast Top Three: Bornastar 59; Idun 34; Endine 16.

In 1959, a total of 133 votes cast Top Three: Tempted 80, My Dear Girl 15, Endine 14.

Social Security Notes

Farm operators are reminded that the January 31st deadline for reporting their "covered" agricultural workers is near at hand.

To be "covered" a worker must be in at least one of the following categories:

1. Cash wages paid to him by the farm operator must have amounted to $150 or more during 1960. The wages do not include such items as room and board, clothing and other payments in kind.

2. He must have worked in at least 20 different days during the year, for cash wages figured on a time basis.

If a farm worker was a member of a crew, the crew leader is usually responsible for reporting him at this time. However, in many cases the farm operator is the person responsible, if such is the agreement between him and the crew leader.

Mr. Sullivan further stated that for 1960, the social security tax is 6% with 3% deducted from the employee's wages and 3% to be paid by the employer. This tax is figured on earnings up to $4800 a year.

Lions Split Two Basketball Games

By Keith S. Burgess

The Harrington High School basketball team displayed a much improved brand of basketball Friday night despite the fact that they lost the game to the powerful Milford Buccaneers by a score of 60-46.

Milford has a veteran team that is tied for first place in the Diamond State Conference. The Bucs' two defeats in nine games were administered by Maryland schools, Wicomico and Chestertown.

Milford grabbed a 21-8 lead in the first quarter but the locals matched them basket for basket the rest of the way.

Gillette and Jeff Adams led H.H.S. in scoring with 12 points each followed by Lekites and George Pfeiffer with 9 apiece.

The County Agent and staff members of the department of agricultural economics at the University of Delaware have planned the meeting to help Delaware farmers develop good plans and to organize their businesses for a profitable 1961 and the future.

Table with columns G, F, P for various players and teams like Sharp, Kemp, Kenton, Fisher, Pack, Fitzgerald, Burris, Wright, Loper, Harrington, Minner, Adams, Porter, Gillette, Lekites, Pfeiffer.

Officials—Cooper and Whaley. Tuesday night at Delmar the Lions came from behind in the fourth quarter and paced by a record effort by 6-5 Bob Gillette won a 60-56 decision and a share of second place in the 11-team Henlopen Conference.

Walt Lekites was second to Gillette in rebounds with 5, in shooting percentage with 70% and in scoring with 12 points.

Jeff Adams chipped in with 11 points to aid the victor's cause. The team as a whole had an excellent field goal average. They made exactly half of their attempts from action.

Shore Birds Not Starving

Delmarva Peninsula birds are not starving, the Interior Department said Monday night.

The report was made in the wake of a statement by Rep. Thomas F. Johnson (D-Md.) that he had received reports that birds were starving by the thousands.

The Dover base said Monday night that no request had been made. If necessary, said a base spokesman, the giant C-124 plane could be used.

But the Interior Department said the winter waterfowl survey was recently completed and no dead or distressed birds were noted.

Dairy Farmers Hear Sealtest

"Dairy farmers who change or improve their facilities should make sure they are meeting the requirements of all markets in which their milk might be sold," a Sealtest representative told area farmers recently.

F. O. DeSiegardt, of Sealtest's supply department in Washington, spoke to dairymen at annual winter meetings held in Harrington and Middletown.

He stressed that the mobility to be gained from converting to bulk tanks makes it unwise for farmers to build their facilities in such a way that they can sell to one market only.

"Today it is conveniently possible to assemble a dairy operation which meets the standards of all major markets, even those with particularly unique construction requirements."

Your Farm Can Be More Profitable

"Even if you made a million last year—there's still something you can do to your farm business that will make it even more profitable in the years ahead," Kent County agricultural agent George Vapaa said recently.

What can you do? Well he says, "Money making methods will be discussed and demonstrated at a series of farm management meetings coming up on three consecutive Wednesdays, Feb. 15, 22, and March 1."

The meetings will feature good, sound, practical management ideas that you can apply to your business," Mr. Vapaa said.

"The meetings should be as interesting as an afternoon discussing problems around the pot belly stove at the local country store—and a lot more helpful in making the farm business more profitable," he added.

The meetings will feature good, sound, practical management ideas that you can apply to your business," Mr. Vapaa said.

Governors Propose Partnership In Delaware River Basin

An entirely new instrument of government, establishing a four-state partnership with the Federal Government in the development of the Delaware River Basin's water resources, was proposed Wednesday by the Governors of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York and Mayor Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphia joined Governors Nelson Rockefeller, David L. Lawrence, Robert B. Meyner's representative, and Elbert N. Carvel in urging prompt state and federal action to create the new agency.

The Delaware River Basin supplies water for domestic and industrial use to more than $16,000,000 people in the four states.

The four Governors and two Mayors met in Philadelphia to receive formally and to announce support for a proposed interstate-federal compact drafted at their direction by the Delaware River Basin Advisory Committee, whose chairman is John P. Robbin, of Pennsylvania. Other members of the Committee, which worked for more than a year and prepared seven preliminary drafts of the compact, are: Delaware, General Norman M. Ladd; New York Commissioner Harold G. Wilm; New Jersey, Commissioner Salvatore A. Bontempo; New York City, Commissioner Arthur C. Ford; Philadelphia, William L. Rafsky, Development Co-ordinator.

The Compact, which must be approved by the legislatures of the affected states and by Congress, will create a five-member commission, in which each state will be represented by its Governor, and the Federal Government by an appointee of the President.

The Commission will become the principal planning body for water resources development in the Delaware River Basin, and will be concerned with flood control, water supply, the control of pollution, the production of electric power where economically feasible, and expanded opportunities for recreation and fish and wildlife habitat.

It will not be granted authority over navigation, which remains the sole prerogative of the Federal Government.

The Corps of Engineers is now completing a multi-purpose study of the Delaware, which is expected to become a principal guide line for the Commission's work.

Over 450 Ministers To Attend Conference

Over 450 ministers from the Washington Area of The Methodist Church will gather in Metropolitan Methodist Church, Washington, D. C., on Mon., Feb. 6 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. for a conference called by Bishop John Wesley Lord, administrative head of the area.

Bishop Lord called the conference in order to discuss with the Area pastors the 1960-64 Quadrennial Program of The Methodist Church. This four-year program, adopted by the Methodist General Conference in June, 1959 follows the theme, "Jesus Christ Is Lord."

During the conference, the bishop and the other Area leaders will discuss the various phases of the program. Dr. James Doty, director of the pastoral care and counseling program of the Indiana Area of The Methodist Church, will participate in the conference.

The remark was prompted by a report that the Library Commission's new headquarters, in the former Dover station of the Pennsylvania Railroad, has a kitchen with $1,500 worth of equipment in it. This is said to include a green refrigerator, matching twin sinks in green, a stainless steel oven.

"I never heard told of such a thing!" the senator said, adding that he plans to find out why the new library has a kitchen.

In brief introductory comments Tuesday before starting the first hearing Senator Hoey told the committee: "The way I interpret the law, we have to live within our means." He was restating his view that the budget must be trimmed to bring proposed expenditures into line with estimated income.

Theatre Guild To Give Drama

The Kent County Theatre Guild will present the Tennessee Williams prize winning memory drama "The Glass Menagerie" next week, the second production of their current season.

The two-act show with a four-member cast is now in rehearsal at the Wesley College Little Theatre. The production is under the direction of Miss Bella Ward, former member of the National Repertory Theatre and veteran guild player.

Members of the cast are: Miss Carol Crumb as Laura Wingfield; Althea Stenower as Amanda Wingfield; Robert Bell as Jim O'Connor and William Hughes as Tom Wingfield.

Staging the show are: Joseph Dal Farra, production manager; Theodore Scudder, stage manager; Chauncey Simpson, set designer; and Ray Pusey, lighting.

4-H Talent Show Set For April

Kent County 4-H leaders have picked April 29 for the annual 4-H Talent Show and Public Speaking Contest.

They have also scheduled the County Dress Revue for May 13.

Leaders met at the home of Mrs. Maurice Blessing, Houston, to make plans for the events. The meeting was called by Fred Wiebel Sr., president of the 4-H leaders group.

Club representatives at the meeting included: Mr. and Mrs. Chris Grapp, Oak Grove; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wiebel, White Oaks; Mrs. Thomas Nickerson, Chestnut Grove; Mrs. Lester Larimore, Andrewsville.

Beverly Kinney, Kent County Klubbers; Mr. and Mrs. Francis Thomas, Westville; and Mrs. Francis Simpson, William Wilsons Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Brown, Mrs. Maurice Blessing, Mrs. Joe Parvis, and Mrs. Herbert Stayton, Houston.

Hoey Curious About Library Kitchen

"Read 'em and feed 'em," may be the slogan of the State Library Commission, Senator Walter J. Hoey, chairman of the Joint Finance Committee, suggested Tuesday.

The remark was prompted by a report that the Library Commission's new headquarters, in the former Dover station of the Pennsylvania Railroad, has a kitchen with $1,500 worth of equipment in it. This is said to include a green refrigerator, matching twin sinks in green, a stainless steel oven.

"I never heard told of such a thing!" the senator said, adding that he plans to find out why the new library has a kitchen.

Lion Junior High Cagers Have Fine Record

Coach Bill Smith's Junior High basketball team is making a fine showing this season. The locals have won six out of seven starts. The one defeat was by a score of 39-37 in a game with Milford. The Bucs won the contest at the foul line.

Wednesday afternoon Dover fell to the Harrington lads by a score of 37-22 at Dover. Caesar Rodney will play here today (Friday at 3:45).

Barry Fry, Bill Adams and Wayne Collison have been sparking the Lions.

HELP WANTED

U. of D. Extension Director Finds Education Exciting

Some people find excitement in high-powered racing cars, ice hockey or manipulating the stock market, but for Gordon C. Godbey, director of extension at the University of Delaware, education provides the biggest thrills.

A blond, crewcut Kentuckian, Godbey combines the charm of a Southern drawl with the wisdom of a Harvard degree when presenting his persuasive arguments for adult education. He has been associated with Delaware's extension program since 1951 and has been its director since 1956, supervising its expansion from modest proportions to a size which today surpasses the full-time undergraduate body in the number of students it serves. In the second semester of the current academic year, for example, the extension division will offer 201 courses and sections in Georgetown, Seaford, Dover, Newark, Wilmington and at the Aberdeen Proving Ground, where for a number of years the division has offered training to scientists, technicians and engineers involved in national defense projects.

But courses are not limited to these communities. It is the proud boast of the extension division that it will offer instruction anywhere in the State of Delaware. The only requirements are sufficient enrollment and a reasonable opportunity to provide the kind and quality of courses required.

Examples of the variety of interests served by extension are easy to find. In recent years, courses and lecture series have dealt with such widely varying topics as Archaeology of Bible Lands, Urban Society, Metallurgy of Welding, Literature of the Opera, and Floriculture. The extension division also pioneered in the teaching of Russian at the University and currently is offering such forward-looking programs as a lecture series on the United Nations and, in co-operation with the Delaware Chapter of the American Rocket Society, a course on Solid Propellant Rocketry.

Extension services do not end with the basic instructional program offered on Saturdays and in the evenings. Last year the division was instrumental in arranging for 29 dinner meetings and conference which brought more than 9000 persons to the campus. Among those who have visited the university in recent years are the National Classroom Teachers Department of the National Education Association and the Delaware Federation of Women's Clubs. The Portland Cement Association has co-operated in the presentation of short courses of interest to the building trades and the National Federation of Women's Clubs has joined with the National University Extension Association to study problems of community development. Clinics for musically-oriented individuals have been provided on marching bands, music reading, and for solo performers, both vocal and instrumental.

Among the most important offerings of the extension division are its seven associate degree programs which may, upon completion, be applied to a regular four-year degree program if the student wishes to continue his undergraduate work. Associate degrees are awarded in accounting, biological sciences, chemistry, engineering, general arts and science, general business and secretarial studies. Another two-year course of study in agriculture is available on campus during the day.

To staff the classrooms for his rapidly growing student body, Dr. Godbey can call not only upon the regular university faculty, from which about 50% of his instructors come, but upon the talented potential faculty in business and industry and from other colleges in the area. Delaware's proximity to large population centers and to researchers highly qualified in mathematics and the physical sciences makes the extension faculty especially strong.

It is Dr. Godbey's modest assertion that the extension division expects its courses to be taught as well or better than they are in the on-campus daytime classes. There is, in fact, a reciprocal arrangement between the extension division and the undergraduate schools which permits extension students to enroll for day courses and full-time undergraduates to take some evening extension courses.

Perhaps the most remarkable part of the extension's division operation is that it receives no state appropriation, as do similar divisions of many other state universities, but is entirely self-supporting. Another significant factor is the surprisingly small staff which operates this complex division serving nearly 3000 students. In addition to Director Godbey, there are Professor James I. Clower, assistant director for engineering; Robert C. Cunningham, assistant to the director; Mrs. Alice Barnett, who supervises the division's record-keeping; and Mrs. Ann Paxson, secretary - receptionist. Needless to say, they are five of the University's busiest people.

But to Godbey, whose enthusiasm never seems to wane, it's the more the merrier. As he puts it, "Extension is the most exciting business in the world because it reveals the willingness of a great number of people to undergo difficulties for the sake of additional education.

"While enrollment in extension often is based upon the need for self-improvement in relation to a particular job, it also reflects a sincere desire to become better equipped for the complex duties of citizenship. We see clearly in extension that education is a continuing process which rightly should last for a lifetime."

And always alert to a promotional opportunity, Dr. Godbey adds that registration for second semester classes will be held Saturday, Feb. 4, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., in Carpenter Field House on the university campus in Newark.

A report came this morning, saying Paynter Ingram of Slaughter Neck had died about 5 o'clock Tuesday morning in Milford Memorial Hospital from a severe heart attack. He was a brother of Mrs. George L. Johnson of Houston and leaves a wife and six small children.

Baptist Church News

H. R. Garland, pastor, 57 Clark Street.

Sunday School begins at 9:45 a.m., Howard Sutcliffe superintendent. The lesson in the adult class this week will be "Christ Satisfies Life's Hunger." This lesson shows how Christ came to us in the midst of our seeking for physical satisfactions and declares that life's deepest hunger is for spiritual food and that He himself is that food.

On the last Lord's Day an inspiring message was brought to us by our area missionary, the Rev. L. P. Barnett. He spoke on "The World's Most Bitter Tears," Luke 22:62.

Prayer and Bible study Wednesday evening 7:30 p.m. We are using "Soul-Winning Doctrines" by Clyde Turner for our Bible study. Plan to be with us this week.

Anyone planning to attend the Sunday School Convention in Baltimore, February 13-14, contact Rev. Garland. We would like all Sunday School officers and teachers to attend.

Choir practice Friday evening at the parsonage, from 8 to 9.

Sunday evening services at the parsonage at 7:30. We invite anyone to attend any or all of our services.

A little more about Baptists—Baptists are not Protestants—in modern religious parlance Baptists are classed with Protestant denominations, but, strictly speaking, Baptists are not Protestants. The Protestant denominations are those whose founders protested against the sins and abuses of the Roman Catholic Church and finally severed their relations with that church that they might establish a new religious order, or rather return to the teachings of the New Testament. Unfortunately they did not fully return to the doctrines and practices of the early church, but brought out of the Catholic Church certain doctrines practices that are out of harmony with the New Testament, such as union of church and state, sprinkling or pouring for baptism, and baptism of infants. Baptists did not come out of the Catholic Church; hence, in the strictest sense, they are not to be classed as one of the Protestant denominations. They are evangelicals, but not Protestants.

Harrington Driver Hurt As Car Flips

William T. Shockley, 23, of Harrington, was admitted to the Milford Memorial Hospital early Saturday after his car ran off Route 14 a mile west of Houston. State police said Shockley was driving west, apparently hit an icy spot, skidded, and overturned. He has a broken left leg.

Needlecraft News by Nancy Baxter

Here it is winter again, with maybe the first full snow, and you're finally playing winter sports. You can spend an entire afternoon after school, ice-skating with the gang, and then come home to a cup of cocoa and the good feeling of a warm fire. Maybe one thing you don't forget as you sit there, relaxed and happy, is that—this time—your ears got cold.

especially personal cold-weather gifts.

WARM AND WONDERFUL

Well, what better answer to cold ears than this smart skater's cap? It has everything! Try cutting figure-eight's or do a leap-and-run exercise; you'll find the cap stays snugly in place, anchored under your chin by its long, tasseled ties. And you'll be equally thankful for it on that brisk walk to the basketball game. Your friends are sure to ask you where you got it. And come to think of it, these skating caps make wonderful birthday gifts. So surprise your friends. Choose favorite colors and get to work, knitting your

RICH REWARDS

Once you've made several of these caps, your sense of satisfaction will be so great you'll move on to more complicated items, if only to test yourself. And you'll like the sound of the compliments that will be naturally forthcoming. So order your free instructions now just by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlecraft Department of this paper. Ask for Leaflet No. C-197, the SKATING CAP.

McDowell Wants Poultry On Surplus Foods List

Congressman Harris B. McDowell, Jr., (D-Del.) announced recently that he has been in direct contact with the U. S. Department of Agriculture urging the inclusion of Delaware poultry products in the new expanded surplus foods "package" to be distributed to the needy in conjunction with President Kennedy's first executive order of January 21 to the new Secretary of Agriculture.

In meeting with John Duncan Jr., the Assistant Secretary of Agriculture for Marketing and Foreign Stabilization, the Delaware Congressman stressed that Delaware broiler chicken products could add immeasurably in the President's efforts to expand the variety and nutritional value of the new surplus foods package for needy Americans.

Mr. McDowell's letter to Mr. Duncan further emphasizes his feeling in the expansion of this program; it reads as follows:

January 21, 1961
"Honorable John Duncan, Jr., Assistant Secretary of Agriculture for Marketing and Stabilization
201A - Department of Agriculture
Washington 25, D. C.
"Dear Mr. Secretary:

Recent announcements from the U. S. Department of Agriculture that new commodities have been included in the surplus disposal food program, and especially the inclusion of pork products, has caused me to have great concern for the interest of my constituents in the State of Delaware.

I know I do not have to appraise you of the fact that Delaware is one of the major poultry producing states, nor do I have to call to your attention the marginal profit prices to broiler producers in Delaware and other areas of the country these past several years. I, therefore, strongly recommend to you and your associates in the Department of Agriculture to give consideration in the future to the inclusion of poultry products in any purchase program for surplus commodities to be distributed under the surplus food disposal programs, both domestic and foreign, as well as the school lunch program. Certainly there is reasonableness to the argument that the meat purchases should be varied from time to time and that poultry as well as pork and beef, should be given equal consideration.

I would appreciate being advised of the Department's decision in this regard at the earliest possible time.

With warm personal regards
Sincerely,
signed: Harris B. McDowell, Jr.

Harris B. McDowell, Jr., M. C.
Mr. McDowell stated that "as a result of my contacts with the U. S. Department of Agriculture to date, I am encouraged to learn that there is a strong possibility that Delaware poultry products may soon be placed on the USDA purchase program under the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1935 as amended."

"I shall continue to press firmly for my proposal—approval of the inclusion of poultry products and purchases thereof for further supplementing the surplus foods 'package' should tend to promote an increase in financial income to the hard-pressed poultry industry in Delaware."

St. Stephen's Episcopal Church Notes

Among those who attended the annual diocesan banquet held Tuesday evening, January 24, at Ogletown Junior High School, Newark, were the Rev. John R. Symonds, Jr., Robert H. Creadick, G. Robert Killen, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Killen, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Reed, Mrs. Robert Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Thompson. After the banquet, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Symonds, entertained the Harrington group at their home in Llangollen Estates.

At the annual meeting of the Episcopal Churchwomen, Diocese of Delaware, held at St. Thomas' Church, Newark, Jan. 25, five officers were elected and four delegates were chosen to attend the Triennial Meeting in Detroit, Michigan, September 17-29. Mrs. Robert McNally of St. Stephen's, Harrington, was named Migrant chairman of the Diocese.

The United Thank Offering was presented at the Holy Communion service, St. Thomas' Church, Newark, on Wednesday. The afternoon offering was pledged for the missionary work of the Rev. Jonas White, Honduras. The Rev. Mr. White visited St. Stephen's last winter and was entertained at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Hewitt Smith. He told members of St. Stephen's about his plans for a Spanish school among the natives of Honduras.

Acolytes on Septuagesima Sunday were Franklin Fowler, Robert Eastman, Dennis Bradley, Walter Rogers, Charles McNally, Frank Welch, Bill Thompson, Tim Strohl.

The Congregation of St. Stephen's is happy to know that Dr. John B. Baker of Christ Church, Milford, was elected to the standing committee of the Diocese of Delaware. Dr. Baker has given many years of faithful service to the church, and he surely deserves this recent high honor.

Flowers on the altar Jan. 29 were given to the glory of God by Mr. and Mrs. Novelle McReynolds.

Ushers on Septuagesima Sunday were Thomas Clendenning, George Johnson, Earl McColley, Granville Hill. Junior and Adult confirmation classes will begin on Mon., Feb. 6. The junior group will meet at 3:45 p.m. in the parish house and the senior group at 8 p.m. These classes will be held in preparation for the Bishop's annual visit, this year on Sunday, March 19, when the vicar will present the candidates for confirmation.

Asbury Methodist Church Notes

Church School 10 o'clock, Howard S. Wagner, superintendent. Christ Satisfies Life's Hungers, is the theme of the lesson in the Adult Department. The purpose of this lesson is to help adults realize that the salvation provided in Jesus Christ can meet the deepest needs and hungers both of individuals and society.

The morning worship service, 11 o'clock, conducted by the pastor. The sermon theme this week is "The Danger of Emptiness." Special anthems will be rendered by the Crusader and Cathedral choirs. We earnestly invite all to worship with us during this service. A nursery for small children will be provided and our parking lots for ample parking will be cleared.

The Evening Worship Service 7:30 o'clock. This service will be devoted to a concentrated study of the "alcoholic problem." Film strips will be shown and the pastor will give a short talk, lifting up some of the problems facing the individual and society because of the alcoholic problem. The Chancel Choir will sing the anthem "Holy Shepherd" by Handel.

Altar flowers will be presented this week by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tee in memory of their son.

The friendly greeters this week will be Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Harrington.

The ushers for the month of February both for the morning and evening worship services are: Dewitt Tatman, Thomas Peck, Russell Blades, Layton Betts.

The W.S.C.S. will hold their roast beef supper this Saturday, Feb. 4, beginning at 4 p.m. in the Collins Auditorium. The price is $1.35 for adults and 85 cents for children under 12 years of age. If you desire to have your supper delivered, please call 8-3390 after 3:30 p.m.

The W.S.C.S. will meet Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the Educational Building. The study topic is "What Is The Word" and Mrs. Gloria Dill will be the leader. The Dorcas Circle will serve as the hostesses. An executive meeting will be held prior to the regular meeting at 6:45 p.m.

The Booster Class will sponsor a venison dinner in the Collins auditorium Thursday evening, Feb. 9, at 6:30 p.m. Each family is to bring a covered dish and their own place setting. Cliff Miller and Fulton Downing are in charge of all arrangements and entertainment.

Asbury W.S.C.S. Notes

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Asbury Church will be held Tuesday evening, Feb. 7 at 7:30 in the Sunday School building. Mrs. William W. Sharp will be in charge of the program, with Mrs. Fred B. Greenly, Sr., giving the devotions. The program topic will be "Card of Retarded Workers" and will deal with the retirement of society workers in the United States. Taking part in the skit will be five new members of the local Society. They are Mrs. Albert Price, Mrs. Gary Home-wood, Mrs. Ruth Ryan, Mrs. Joseph Richardson and Mrs. Willard Schreck.

The society will serve a church supper Saturday evening, Feb. 4 beginning at 4 p.m. Roast beef with all the appropriate vegetables, etc. will be on the menu. Because of the bad weather conditions that have existed for the past few weeks, the planning committee have appointed a transportation committee who will be responsible for bringing people to the supper, and taking them home again. Anyone who wishes to have transportation to the supper may call the church kitchen on Saturday to make arrangements. The side parking lot will also be cleared of snow by Saturday and ample parking facilities close to the church will be available.

Take-out suppers can be ordered on Saturday evening, by calling the kitchen. Tickets may be purchased from any Society member or at the door.

Dairymen to Meet Tuesday

The annual meeting of Sealtest dairy farmers will be held Tuesday, Feb. 7, in Milford.

The meeting, which will begin at 8:00 P. M. in the Milford High School, will feature a discussion on dairy industry developments by Dr. Roy F. Davenport, director of field service for Sealtest in the Philadelphia area.

Entertainment and refreshments also will be part of the program. Sealtest shippers in the Harrington-Nassau area have been invited to bring their families and friends to the meeting.

Details of what European people have suffered under Communist domination were related by Mayor Otis H. Smith as a guest speaker before Monday night's dinner meeting of the Lewes Rotary Club.

Mayor Smith said he was supporting the request of President John F. Kennedy "to tell the truth and refute all falsehoods," as the second installment of Mayor Smith's recent talks on Radio Free Europe for which he is Delaware chairman.

William Stevenson presented Mr. Smith, as program chairman of the evening. Regarding the uprising in Hungary several years ago, he said that 200,000 refugees had been interviewed by 2000 reporters who related stories of the treatment received from the Communists, and why they took place.

Mayor Smith continued: "The Russians promised anything under the sun, but when the invaders came in they found they would get nothing but torture and spies on every hand. Their method started with infiltration, and taking over the police force in an institution of terror. Troublesome people were deported, and the invasion ended with almost total destruction of their country."

Mayor Smith related many stories of the internal spy system, saying the Hungarians were afraid to tell children the truth.

A special guest of the Rotarians was Rinehard Kurth an American Field Service exchange student from Nuremberg, Germany at the Lewes School. The German boy will be asked to speak of his country at a later meeting. Also present were four seniors Randy Humphreys, Martin Johnson, Kenneth Joseph, and Joseph Kielbasa, who were told by Halsey Knapp the principles of Rotary.

Edward Moore reported that advance ticket sales are going well for the Rotarians annual ham and oyster dinner in the school cafeteria Feb. 10.

approval as certifying agents. It was pointed out at the meeting that 47 public institutions and agencies in Delaware are currently distributing surplus foods to about 4800 persons, and that the wholesale value of the food is about $100,000 a year.

During the 13-month distribution of surplus foods in Delaware, that ended last June for lack of funds, about $52,000 worth of foods was given out, it was estimated. The new program is expected to distribute between $120,000 and $150,000 worth of foods a year.

The surplus foods available now are flour, cornmeal, non-fat dried milk, rice, lard, and butter. It is hoped that canned pork and gravy, dried pea beans, and dried whole egg solids will be added to the list soon as a result of President Kennedy's recent order.

In announcing the plans developed at the meeting, Governor Carvel emphasized that "there will be only a trickle of good" available at the start of the program later this month, and that it will be early next month before the program will be fully in operation. He also stressed the fact that the extra food President Kennedy has ordered added to the list have not yet been obtained by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, which had a representative at the meeting Tuesday.

He is Philip B. Hearn, of New York. Levy Court members at the meeting were Harry H. Lambert, New Castle County, Charles W. Bostick, Kent County, and Raymond E. Townsend, Sussex County.

Mr. Lambert, speaking for the New Castle County Levy Court said later he had been impressed with the readiness of the Governor and the representatives of the General Assembly to get moving on this program.

"Before I left the weekly meeting of the Levy Court Tuesday, I obtained the unanimous support of my colleagues for co-operation in the emergency. What we will do is underwrite the costs of distribution in New Castle County."

"I felt assured by the meeting that the General Assembly will lose no time in enacting a program at a state level and this is what we in the New Castle County Levy Court wanted."

making up the Democratic Party in Delaware.

The second idea is more revolutionary than the first. This calls for a change in the financial foundations of the party. If it could rely on membership dues to be collected annually the party would not have to go around hat in hand before every election and beg for contributions.

Some think that, with a little work, the Democratic Party could raise $80,000 to $100,000 annually by charging membership dues.

The assumption here is that in each of Delaware's 356 voting districts it should be possible to find 10 persons who will pay a general membership fee of $10 a year. That would bring in $35,600 and is regarded as a minimum. In many districts, it is believed, the number would be far greater. In addition, higher-priced contributing, sustaining and sponsoring memberships would be sought. The dues would be up to $250 a year each. The money would finance the party's office, its proposed director, a secretary, office expenses, and other operating expenses, while leaving ample funds for campaign expenses.

mato varieties, Dr. Francis Stark, extension horticultural specialist, University of Maryland, said. In Maryland, 18,000 plants have been grown on an acre by the direct seeding method.

The variety grown in this state, called "Pocomoke" will not be generally available to farmers before 1963. However, canners in Maryland have purchased 65 pounds of Pocomoke seed for this season and some of their growers will be able to get them for field trial. The variety is resistant to cracking, has a good holding ability, and can go 15 days between picking.

One of the drawbacks to the Pocomoke tomato seems to be its susceptibility to blossom-end rot, but an adequately limed soil will help overcome this condition.

derful job."

Dr. Floyd I. Hudson, executive secretary of the State Board of Health, also asked for more personnel—more public health nurses, another sanitary engineer, a physician, and others. He said the state has one of the best public health agencies in the country, and he wants to continue to maintain health services to the growing population.

W. C. Anderson, director of Emily P. Bissell Hospital, said the hospital's budget request could be cut by $34,000. He said $9,000 will be saved because the federal government recently made matching funds available for purchasing a standby electrical generator. And because of a new medical technique a requested X-ray machine will not be needed—fluoroscope will be used instead, cutting out a $25,000 request.

from operations. Senator Hoey told the official it is illegal to take the money from the salary account. He suggested the whole amount should be appropriated directly to the university.

The Board of Agriculture has $244,774.79 available to spend this fiscal year, and requested $278,675 for the next one. The budget submitted by former Gov. J. Caleb Boggs recommended $267,500.

Randolph Hughes, the state bank commissioner, asked for funds to hire a new employe to administer the motor vehicle sales finance act which was passed at the last session. He said the law requires every automobile dealer who finances car purchases to obtain a license, for $100. Only a small number—about six—have done so.

"My suspicion is there are a great many who come under the law who are not complying," he said. The only way to find out is to send someone around to call on them, he continued.

Mr. Hughes said the $100 license fee is too high; he thinks a fee of $10 to $25 would be more reasonable. Also, he suggested the law be amended to give the commissioner power to examine financing arrangements. Under the present law he has that power only if an individual files a complaint.

Senator Hoey said he doubts one per cent of the population knows where to make a complaint.

Mr. Hughes also pointed out that no one was designated to administer the law controller consumer credit in fields other than auto financing. Consumers may make complaints to the attorney general but no state agency is directed to see that the law is enforced.

Getting into the matter of lunches for state employes, the committee found that the bank commissioner authorizes payment of $1 for lunch for employes working away from Dover. This also holds true for some who live in the Wilmington area and work there primarily. Mr. Hughes said they work with federal bank examiners who are on expense account for all their meals, and the $1 lunch allowance seems small.

The bank commissioner asked for an appropriation of $68,633. The Boggs budget proposed $68,490 and present funds come to $64,003.20.

1942 and after an assignment at Berry Field, Tenn., was sent to New Castle County Air Force Base. There he was instrumental in organizing the first scheduled military transport service across the North Atlantic.

Following his World War II service, which included duty in the China-Burma-India, and African Theatres, Colonel Moomaw was integrated into the regular Army in 1946. At this time he was assigned as operations officer for service testing of the C-74 transport, the pilot model of the present C-124 Globemaster.

In 1947 he was assigned as assistant executive to the Secretary of the Air Force, Stuart Symington. He piloted Mr. Symington as well as President Truman and then General Eisenhower, among other high-ranking military and civilian officials.

Colonel Moomaw and his wife, Helen, plan a short tour of the Caribbean. They will then settle in Florida. They have two sons, Robert, in his first year at West Point, and William, in his second year of graduate school at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Seaford to Vote On Storm Sewer

A special election will be held Feb. 25, by the Seaford Board of Education requesting voters to authorize use of reserve funds to construct a storm sewer between Central Elementary School and Stein Highway.

The local funds would be matched with state funds.

Residents of the district are familiar with the problem existing at the new Elementary School in that storm water is trapped with no outlet which in effect makes a lake after each heavy rain.

The State Board of Education has recommended that funds be requested on the State Legislature on a 60-40 matching basis for construction of this project by the School District. It was estimated that this project would cost approximately $15,950 with the Legislature appropriating $9,570 of this amount and $6,380 to be raised by the school district.

Faced with the necessity of relieving this situation as soon as possible the Seaford Board of Education accepted this solution as the only alternative and now seeks approval of the residents of the District to use funds available to the District to match funds already appropriated by the State Legislature.

The usual procedure for school districts to raise money for construction purposes is through the authorization of the sale of bonds. The Seaford school attorney, James M. Tunnell, Jr., advised against the issuance of bonds for such a small amount because of the great expense involved in fees which would almost double the amount to be raised locally.

The alternative procedure suggested is to use funds available in the School Debt Service Account carried as a reserve for the payment of bonds and interest outstanding for past construction in the School District. This reserve has been carried for many years and results in no additional tax to residents of the School District since annually the tax rate is set to raise only the required amount for the payment of bonds and interest on the District's bonded indebtedness.

It is the intent of the School District if approval is given to this referendum to have a similar surplus accumulate over the years as a margin of safety for any year in which insufficient taxes might be collected for this purpose.

Each building of the school district will be used as a voting place from 1 to 3 p. m.

Kennedy's State Of Union Message

President Kennedy asked swift action Monday to shore up a receding U. S. economy, thwart Soviet-Chinese designs for world domination, and thus lead America safely through the onrushing "hour of maximum danger."

The 43-year-old Chief Executive in his first State of the Union message, delivered personally to a joint session of Congress confessed he was "staggered" in the 10 days since the inauguration by "the harsh enormity of the trials through which we must pass in the next four years."

"Each day we draw nearer the hour of maximum danger," Kennedy declared.

"The American economy is in trouble," he declared, adding that crises produced by tense relations with Russia and Communist China multiply daily, with solutions increasingly difficult. He warned that life in 1961 "will not be easy" and "there will be further setbacks before the tide is turned."

"But until it we must," he said in a prepared 4600-word address, disclosing in rapidfire order a series of executive actions he has taken, plus recommended legislation he wants promptly from the House and Senate.

While his message bore a clear stamp of concern over the bleak foreign picture, Kennedy turned first to the state of the national economy and what he intended to do about the continuing slump.

Refusing "to stand helplessly" while the situation worsens, Kennedy informed Congress of an omnibus anti-recession program to be submitted within two weeks.

He said he would ask for, larger and longer unemployment compensation benefits, more food for the unemployed and their families, a new housing program under a new Housing and Urban Affairs Department, a high minimum wage, and a tax break for companies spending money on "sound" plant expansion.

The President welcomed open, peaceful competition with Russia and Red China, but warned American against being "lulled into believing that either power has yielded its ambition for world domination."

Counseling the free world to remain so strong that aggression by any nation would be "clearly futile," Kennedy said his administration still plans "to explore promptly all possible areas of co-operation with the Soviet Union."

He invited Russia, with other nations, to join the United States in preparing for space ventures to a Mrs. and Venus and in mutual development of satellites for weather forecasting and communications.

"Both nations would help themselves as well as other nations by removing these endeavors from the bitter and wasteful competition of the cold war," he said.

To lead America through deepening world tension, Kennedy disclosed he had ordered Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara to "reappraise our entire defense strategy" and to submit preliminary conclusions by Feb. 28 with a view to quick budgetary, legislative, and executive action.

Kennedy ordered three immediate steps in defense—of airlift capacity so America's conventional military forces could "respond, with discrimination and speed, to any problem at any spot on the globe at an moment's notice," an immediate step-up in the Polaris submarine construction program by using unobligated shipbuilding funds now instead of waiting for the fiscal year which begins July 1, and prompt acceleration of the entire U. S. missile program.

Pending completion of the McNamara study, Kennedy said there would have to be better organization and decision-making to cut down on wasteful duplication and time-lag "that have handicapped the whole family of missiles."

Kennedy tackled international economic problems from two directions, foreign aid and the dollar gap. He wanted congressional authority to overhaul the entire foreign aid program with more flexibility for "short run emergencies" and the right to make commitments for long-term development projects overseas.

He said more emphasis should be given to the role of recipient nations to assure greater social justice, broader distribution of the American aid and on the local level, better public administration and tax systems.

On the dollar gap involving the present imbalance of international payments, Kennedy said there was cause for concern, but not despair. Since 1958, he said, nearly $5 billion has flowed overseas from U. S. gold reserves and the prospect for 1961 is another deficit in international payments of about $2 billion.

He pointed out, however, that American gold stocks available now total about $22 billion "and

I now pledge that their full strength stands behind the value of the dollar for use if needed."

The President said there is no need to increase the gold price from $35 an ounce, to impose controls, or to fall back on restrictive trade policies.

"This administration will not distort the value of the dollar in any fashion," he said. "That is a pledge. Prudence and good sense do require, however, that new steps be taken to ease the payments deficit and prevent any gold crisis."

To do this, he announced an immediate program to attract foreign investment and travel to the United States, to promote American exports at stable prices, and shrink loopholes in tax and custom laws that encourage undue private spending of dollars abroad.

Tied in with the dollar gap, the deense speed-up and the lagging economy were the federal budgets for this and the next fiscal year. Kennedy said fiscal 1961 is almost certain to show a deficit and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's $80.9 billion budget for fiscal 1962 could be balanced only if Congress enacts recommended revenue measures and the economy rebounds higher and sooner than Kennedy's economists expect.

Even in this fiscal squeeze, the President said a new administration must build on spending and revenue estimates already submitted.
