

STATE ENDS IN BLACK FOR FIRST 2 FISCAL MONTHS

Delaware wound up the first two months of the fiscal year with a $3,148,724 surplus of income over expenditures, the monthly report of the Budget Commission disclosed Tuesday.

Although receipts were down four tenths of one per cent in July and August and spending was up 3.5 per cent, the state still finished the two-month period with all revenue anticipation notes paid and $745,246.07 in the bank.

Receipts during the two months were $13,860,256 while expenditures totaled $10,711,531. The tidy surplus is customary for the first two months of a fiscal year.

Last year receipts out-stripped expenditures during the months of July and August by $2,317,008 but the state owed $2,300,000 and had to borrow another $9,500,000 the following month.

The new nine-member Fiscal Policy Committee, of which Gov. Elbert N. Carvel is chairman, will meet Friday to discuss the financial report by E. Hobson Davis, chief accountant of the Budget Commission.

In addition to eyeing the figures from Davis' office, the committee is expected to consider means of raising additional revenue needed to enable the Legislature to approve the usual grants-in-aid and some supplementary appropriations considered essential.

The grants-in-aid—to fire companies, hospitals and veterans organizations—add up to about $1,300,000. A major item among supplementaries is the bill—already passed but not delivered to the Governor—to expand the state police force. The price tag is $308,000 for this year.

The two-month receipts were paced by $3,699,383 in taxes from pari-mutuel sales and race track admission, up 17.5 per cent from the same period last year.

Davis' breakdown of the state's receipts shows that income from five major sources is up, while income from five others is down. The biggest single change from last year's pattern is the two-month total of $1,230,453.32 in inheritance and estate taxes—this windfall of about $1,000,000 has already been used by the Legislature in making appropriations.

Without that windfall, the state's income would have been down about seven per cent—instead of less than half of one per cent—as compared with last year's income for the two-month period.

Income sources which produced less this year than last, in the first two months, are the income tax, franchise tax, motor vehicle registration fees, alcoholic beverage taxes, and mercantile licenses. Sources which produced more this year so far are motor fuel taxes, the corporation income tax, racing, cigarette tax, and inheritance tax.

Glasses Help Janet To See

A special pair of glasses to bolster her slowly improving sight will enable Dover's Janet Pepper, 12, to attend regular school today.

United Wednesday she had been scheduled to go to the Maryland School for the Blind near Baltimore. Her vision was darkened by a bullet which ripped into her head last Jan. 14.

Janet's father, Donald T. Pepper, said doctors told him at first that Janet would never be able to see again.

Tests later indicated that she was able to distinguish shapes, he said, but still the forecast was for continued near-blindness.

A test two weeks ago showed some central and side vision, however, he said, and a week ago she was fitted with special magnifying glasses in Philadelphia.

That night Janet saw her first television program since the shooting. Over the weekend her parents helped her try to read again.

Her progress was rapid enough, said Mr. Pepper, for him to ask the Dover Board of Education on Tuesday if Janet could attend regular school classes.

Approval came Wednesday, he said, and Janet attended East Dover Elementary School Thurs- (Continued on Page 5)

Racial Bars Drop Calmly

Desegregated schools opened Wednesday with no reports of incident, the state superintendent of schools said Wednesday.

"I would have been surprised if there had been," said Dr. George R. Miller, Jr.

"I think the real trouble is behind us."

Most Delaware schools began classes Wednesday. A few opened yesterday.

As of Aug. 31, according to records in Dr. Miller's office, 412 students had applied for transfers to 18 schools this fall.

The bulk of this number is believed to involve Negroes applying for admission to so-called white schools.

Just how many transfers were carried out won't be known for a few days, Dr. Miller said.

Delaware's public school population is expected to be 86,500 this year, according to Dr. John G. Farres, state director of research and publications.

Seven schools receiving transfer applications had not been integrated previously, Dr. Miller added.

They are Harrington (one application), Lewes (six applications), Seaford (31 applications), Greenwood (37 applications), Millsboro (six applications), Ellendale (26 applications), and Stanton No. 38 (one application).

Among the school districts not receiving application transfers were Georgetown, Laurel, Rehoboth Beach, Delmar, Felton, John M. Clayton, Lord Baltimore, Middletown, Milton and Selbyville.

Wilber - Messick

Miss Mary Ann Wilber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Wilber of Harrington, and Lee Messick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey E. Messick, of Harrington, were married August 20th at 7:00 p. m., at the Asbury Methodist Church.

The Rev. Olin Shockley performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of pointed bodice of bouquet tulle, pearls and sequins formed the scoop neckline, long pointed sleeves and bouffant ballerina skirt with crystal crown shoulder length veil, and carried a bouquet of white roses edged in blue on a white ribbon.

The maid of honor's dress was a periwinkle blue silk with bouffant ballerina skirt and matching headpiece. She carried a nosegay of white roses and daisy pom poms.

Miss Bonnie Lee Dickerson was Maid of Honor. She wore a Periwinkle blue silk dress with a bouffant ballerina skirt and matching head piece. She carried a nosegay of white roses and daisy pom poms.

The soloist, Mrs. John Austin, of New Castle, sang, "Because" and "Wedding Prayer."

The best man was John Austin of New Castle, uncle of the bridegroom.

John Wilber, brother of the bride, was the usher.

The bride is a graduate of Harrington High School and is now attending Goldey Beacom School of Business.

The bridegroom is employed as a barber in Dover.

After a short honeymoon in Atlantic City, the couple will reside in Harrington.

Softball League In Final Playoffs

Tuesday night pennant winning Greenwood stayed alive in the Harrington Softball League final playoffs by winning a must game from the Moose team. In regular season play between these clubs Greenwood easily dominated the action. However, in this best-of-five final series the Moose nine is putting up a stiff fight.

Greenwood won the opening contest 6-5 only to have the Moose capture the second clash by the same score and also take the third tilt 2-1.

In the latter outing John Shaffer was the winning pitcher allowing Greenwood only five hits. Bob Messick led the winners at the plate with three hits in as many at-bats. Bob Collins and Leonard Outten aided with two each.

Indicative of the strength of the local league are the results of four exhibition games recently played. Greenwood bested Southern States of Seaford 3-2 and McGinnis' Market of Magnolia 9-5. The latter team formerly played in the Dover League. The Harrington Athletic Club won from Delaware City 20-6 and an-

Carvel Plugs Tight Zoning... But Shell?

Governor Carvel insisted Wednesday that he is all out for statewide planning and zoning laws with teeth in order to prevent "deterioration" in Delaware but— He also admitted at his press conference he had not used the weight of his office to hold off the Shell Oil Company refinery rezoning petition until a State Planning Commission had been authorized by the General Assembly.

After the Governor had spent about 15 minutes telling the press how much he was for state planning, how important the newly created State Planning Commission was going to be for Delaware and how vital zoning would be for Kent and Sussex Counties, a reporter asked:

Governor, you are willing to hold off on the Youth Services Commission's plan for a new training school and improvements to the state prison system until a comprehensive prison survey is completed. Why didn't you hold off the Shell Oil plan for building a refinery in Blackbird Hundred until your State Planning Commission was created?"

Governor: "What could I have done?"

Reporter: "You could have used the weight of your office."

Governor: "Do you want to see a statement I made on that subject?"

The reporter turned down the suggestion since there is still a controversy as to just what Governor Carvel did say at his June 20 press conference on the subject of Shell Oil.

The Governor further said Wednesday that it was not the prerogative of his office to try to forestall the Shell Oil petition which was for rezoning under the jurisdiction of New Castle County.

Reporters still insist that on the June 20 press conference, the Governor said that a State Planning agency should come before lower New Castle County is rezoned for an oil refinery.

Reporters also say that the Governor at that same conference indicated he favored a delay on the Shell Oil petition until the General Assembly created a state planning commission.

But the next day, the Governor issued a formal statement (Continued on Page 8)

9 State Units Alerted For Possible Duty Call

Eight Delaware National Guard units and a local Army Reserve hospital detachment were among 479 Guard and reserve outfits singled out Wednesday for extended training and possible activation.

The local Guard units, which have been designated "top priority" to be brought to near full strength, were ordered to be given an extra weekend drill a month to bring them to a higher state of combat readiness.

The eight units are: Headquarters Battery of the 160th Artillery Group, headed by Capt. Bayard Holleger. The Group commander is Col. Kenneth C. Madden.

Lt. Col. James L. Marvel's Third Automatic Weapons Battalion, 198th Artillery, including Georgetown, commanded by Capt. Lloyd W. Hearn; Battery A of Dagsboro, First Lt. David Commiolone; Battery B of Milford, Capt. Mathew E. Mitten; Battery C of Dagsboro, Capt. Carl A. Schultz, Jr., and Battery D of Lewes, First Lt. Marshall W. Jones.

The 249th Ordnance Company of Middletown, commanded by First Lt. Donald L. Emerson.

First Lt. Robert L. Fisher's 1049th Transportation Company (Helicopter) stationed at the Greater Wilmington Airport.

All the units returned last Saturday from two weeks of training at Bethany Beach except the 1049th which trained at Fort Knox, Ky., with regular Army troops.

The 805th Station Hospital, U. S. Army Reserve, was placed in a lower priority standing. Although it is authorized to receive intensified training, no additional personnel will be assigned immediately.

The 805th is commanded by Col. Kurt Sachs of the Veterans Administration Hospital, Elmsere.

Maj. Gen. Joseph J. Scannell, Delaware adjutant general, said Wednesday night the move merely authorizes the Guard to have six monthly drills instead of four, provided two are on week-ends.

"There is no Pearl Harbor," he declared, "but this shows just what their planning is."

Gen. Scannell said he would ask the Army to assign the Delaware Guard enough men to fill vacancies in certain military occupational specialties.

"What we need most is recruits," he said, although he explained the Guard is at 95 per cent of full strength.

Less than two weeks ago the Pentagon ordered to active service some 76,000 National Guardsmen and reservists in nearly 300 Army, Navy, and Air Force units. Some will start reporting for duty Oct. 1.

One of the units called that time was the 116th Surgical Mobile Hospital of the Delaware National Guard. The unit will be activated Oct. 1 and has been assigned to Fort Campbell, Ky.

BRANDYWINE RACEWAY
OCTOBER 6-7, 1961

This jaunty emblem is the symbol of the Del-Mar-Va Scouting Exposition, which takes place on October 6 and 7 at Brandywine Raceway near Wilmington.

The event will bring more than 10,000 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Explorers, and leaders from all parts of the Del-Mar-Va Peninsula to stage a giant cavalcade of Scouting.

The two-day show will focus on the boys themselves. In 250 booths and outdoor displays, they will demonstrate a variety of skills ranging literally from aeronautics to zoology.

In hourly center-ring attractions, there will be spectacular exhibitions of such unusual Scouting skills as full-scale rescue work, bridge building, pioneering projects, and extensive communications set-ups. Other center-ring features will include a Cub Scout parade showing hundreds of den projects and a massing of several hundred flags as a closing ceremony in candlelight.

In addition, several hundred Scouts will set up a full-scale tent city on the area inside the oval track, where they'll show their skills in outdoor living.

The objectives of the exposition are to stimulate better programming in individual Scout units, to reach boys not now in Scouting, and to show the adult public how Scouting aids in character building and awareness of citizenship responsibilities.

Plans are being made for more than 40,000 visitors to attend. Tickets are available from individual Scouts throughout the peninsula.

Blue Cross Drives For More Members

The one-third of the people of Delaware who do not already belong to Blue Cross and Blue Shield will have the opportunity to join up with the other two-thirds from October 2 through October 6.

That period will be an enrollment week, it was announced by H. V. Maybee, managing director of Group Hospital Service. He pointed out that a variety of hospital and surgical-medical coverage contracts are offered by Group Hospital Service to meet the needs of persons of various age groups.

"There is a contract available for nearly every Delawarean," he said.

Persons who are employed where there is a Blue Cross-Blue Shield group should see the group representative about joining or about making any desired contract changes. Now is the time to add dependents, if they are eligible, or to add surgical-medical coverage. In groups with extended benefits, this first week in October enrollment period is also the time to add extended benefits if you are under age 65 and do not already have that coverage.

Non-group membership is available to Delawareans in good health who are not eligible to join groups and who do not already have hospitalization coverage. Those under 65 years of age may apply for the standard contract or for extended benefits.

Persons 65 years of age and older may apply for the "65-Limited" contract especially designed for older persons who were not Blue Cross-Blue Shield members before reaching retirement age. These persons 65 and over may also apply for the newer "65-Extended" contract.

Descriptive literature on the program and all Blue Cross and Blue Shield contracts is available at all plan offices.

Students who have their home addresses in Delaware though they may be attending schools and colleges anywhere in the United States or the world and students who attend recognized Delaware schools may apply for the special student contract if they are full-time students and under age 23. Extended benefits coverage is also available for students.

Information on all the various contracts may be obtained by writing or calling the offices of Group Hospital Service at Wilmington, Dover, Milford or Seaford.

X-Country Course Change Favors Spectators

By Keith S. Burgess

Harrington High School's cross-country course near Killen's Pond has been rated as an excellent test for youthful harriers by men who have been associated with the hill and dale sport for years. It has most of the necessary requisites including paved road, dirt road, grassy stretches, sandy stretches, wooded areas, hills and curves.

This constantly changing panorama make the area very interesting for the lads to run through. One drawback in the past has been the inability of the spectators to see much of the race.

A recent change in the 2.3 mile course will enable the watchers to see much more of the race and at the same time they will not have to move their cars off the black-top road that goes by the pond.

The course begins on a black-top road just north of the pond. After 60 yards a right turn is made into a wooded dirt road that runs several hundred yards south to a sand pit. Another right turn sends the runners on a jaunt of a half mile west along the lip of the sand pit. The youths now make a left turn onto the paved road and run past the pond and up "Heart-break Hill." This climb separates the hard-working lads from the loafers. At the top of the hill a left turn is made that takes the Fundamental Baptists, are not concerned with, nor do they have any part in, the movement known as the "ecumenical movement," whose purpose it is to merge all Christian churches into one powerful world organization. Baptists also believe that the body of Christ, is a spiritual unity and that there is no statement in all the Bible which shows that God requires all churches to belong to one super organization. We believe that the true Church, which is the real body of Christ, is composed of everyone who has been born into the family of God.

Everyone, whether in heaven or on earth, who have been baptized into one body by the Spirit of God. Evangelical believers must be engaged in proclaiming the gospel to every creature. The Gospel (Good News) which means, Jesus was born of a virgin; Jesus was crucified; Jesus was buried and arose from the dead; Jesus ascended into heaven; and Jesus is coming again. This, Baptists believe to be the gospel, and if you are looking for a church with such a message, we invite you to come worship with us.

National Park Service Selects Delaware Houses for Pix

About two years ago, Harold Donaldson Eberlein as a member of the advisory board of the Historic American Buildings Survey (Department of the Interior) was selecting the old houses and other old buildings in Sussex and Kent Counties, that were to be measured, photographed and documented by the National Park Service (the records to be preserved in the Library of Congress).

One early house called to his attention was the so-called "Martin house" at Cool Spring, about six miles west of Lewes. First sight immediately showed the structure to be an architectural document of the first importance. It is a gambrel-roofed, weatherboard dwelling of half-timber construction, nogged with brick. In every particular, the half-timber work is just as correct as any to be found in 17th-century England.

Investigation showed that Thomas Fisher, in 1605, had bought the land from the original grantee; that he had willed it to his son Joshua in 1713; and that Joshua had sold it, with the house on it, in 1736, to agents for James Martin. As nearly as can be determined, Joshua Fisher built the house about 1728. To avoid inaccuracy and confusion, it seems best to designate the place "White Meadow Farm" in accordance with "White Meadow", the original name of the tract.

About the middle of the 18th century the house was inexpertly altered and enlarged so clumsily, indeed, that every feature of the original structure was readily recognizable. As built, the house embodied a late Medieval plan; a plan perfectly exemplified by Resurrection Manor in St. Mary's County, Md. Incidentally, "White Meadow Farm" is a good example of how the early architecture of Sussex and Kent was inspired by Maryland usage.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert H. Joseph, to whom the property belonged, realized the importance of the house and hoped it could be restored, on the spot, for the County of Sussex, as the Dickinson Mansion had been in Kent. When it became known that the structure was really a Fisher house, a plan was formed to have the Fisher descendants buy it, with a plot of ground, and then work for its restoration. Under the circumstances, the farmer agreed to let the house alone and not store any more grain in it.

The committee to solicit contributions from Fisher descendants consisted of Mrs. Henry Ridgely, Mrs. E. Paul duPont, Mrs. James Biddle Drinker, Benjamin Coates and Henry Cadwalader.

About a year ago, since the farmer had heard nothing definite from the Fisher descendants for some time, he sold the house and an acre of land to Harold W. T. Purnell, of Georgetown, whose purchase saved the structure from being carted off by a boat club for a clubhouse.

Mr. Purnell then agreed to let the Fisher descendants have the house, and the land he had got with it, for the sum he had paid.

The sum has now been paid and the house is in full legal possession of the Public Archives Commission, State of Delaware, as trustee for the Fisher descendants.

Philosophy of Science Seminar

Speakers of national prominence in both science and philosophy will address a seminar on the Philosophy of Science to be conducted at the University of Delaware during the fall term.

Under the joint sponsorship of the department of philosophy and the division of university extension, the 16-week seminar will be offered at 8 p.m., Tuesdays, beginning September 19 in Wolf Hall Auditorium.

Dr. William Reese, chairman of the department of philosophy, points out that "the frontiers of philosophy and of science constantly expand, and the joint responsibilities of the philosopher and scientist grow with them. The seminar is designed to stimulate and nourish such growth within the scientific community of Delaware and beyond."

The seminar is intended to appeal to the many professional scientists and engineers in the Wilmington area, and it is being offered with the encouragement of several local firms and professional societies.

Dr. Reese views the participation of qualified professionals as vital to the success of the seminar. "The mature scientist, with all the insights into the philosophical problems of scientific endeavor that both formal training and practical experience may give him, is at once the necessary resource and the intended beneficiary of this mutual venture in learning."

Speakers for the seminar include F.S.C. Northrop, Sterling professor of law and philosophy at Yale University; Alan T. Waterman, director of the National Science Foundation; N. R. Hanson, chairman of the department of history and logic of science, Indiana University; Ernest Nagel, John Dewey professor of philosophy, Columbia University; Theodosius Dobzhansky, professor of zoology, Columbia University; Michael Scriven, professor of history and logic of science, Indiana University; Adolf Grunbaum, Andrew Mellon professor of philosophy and chairman of the program on philosophy of science, University of Pittsburgh; Carl G. Hempel, Stuart professor of Philosophy, Princeton University;

Julian Schwinger, professor of physics, Harvard University; Alfred Lande, emeritus professor of physics and astronomy, Ohio State University; H. Bentley Glass, professor of biology, Johns Hopkins University; Alan Anderson, professor of philosophy, Yale University; Richard Rudner, associate professor of philosophy, Michigan State University, and editor-in-chief of Philosophy of Science quarterly; Alan H. Donagan, chairman, department of philosophy, Indiana University, and John A. Wheeler, professor of physics, Princeton University.

The seminar has been arranged under the supervision of Dr. Reese. Dr. Bernard Baumrin, who joins the Delaware faculty this fall, will serve as chairman of the seminar.

Non-credit subscriptions to the entire seminar will cost $25. Admission to single lectures at the door will be two dollars. Extension students wishing to obtain credit for the seminar will register for it at one of the regularly scheduled registrations at the usual extension course fees. Information may be obtained from the division of extension.

Veterans News

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—As a World War I veteran I have been drawing a pension for a number of years but paid no heed to the new pension law when it came out. I now think it would be to my advantage to come under the new law. Is it too late to change?

A—No, the change to the new pension law may be made at any time. However, once the change is made, the recipient cannot return to the payment system under the old law.

Q—Was there ever a VA hospital at Fort Hunt, Va.?

A—During July and August in 1932, the VA operated a hospital at Fort Hunt for indigent veterans. The hospital was in operation only six weeks.

Q—As a veteran, if I am called back to active duty because of the Berlin crisis, is the Soldiers and Sailors Relief Act still in effect?

A—Yes, the provisions of the Soldiers and Sailors Relief Act are still in effect.

Q—Can the VA increase the number of beds at its VA hospitals as the needs arise?

A—No. The VA currently is authorized by Congress to operate a total of 125,000 beds in its 170 hospitals. Each hospital likewise is authorized a certain limitation by the Administrator of Veterans Affairs within the 125,000 specified by the Congress.

Fishing Lines

Sea Trout—King Fish

Catches of sea trout and king fish continue to set the pace in Delaware Bay in the Kitts Hummock-Bowers Beach-Mispillion Light sector. Mixer with these species are a variety of other fishes including pig fish, sea bass, sand sharks and blow fish. The trout weigh up to two and one-half pound, a fine eating size. Favorite baits are peeler crabs, mussels (steamed), in conjunction with squid. Squid alone will attract king fish and sometimes trout. Individual catches of twenty or more fish are not uncommon.

Worn Out Ramp

Fishermen and boaters have just about worn out their second launching ramp at Augustine Beach. The ramps were constructed by the Game and Fish Commission out of interlocking steel matting. Temporary repairs are being made now so that boat launching can continue throughout the early fall months.

Plans are underway for more permanent launching facilities as part of a long term development program for the entire Augustine Beach Area. It is anticipated that space for 500 boats and trailers will have to be provided to take care of the rapidly increasing boat usage.

Financing of needed improvements is a problem of growing concern to fishermen, boaters and to the Game and Fish Commission. Developments to date, have been financed mainly by fishermen through the federal tax they pay on fishing gear. This is returned to Delaware to improve fishing facilities. No similar tax or other fees are now being paid by pleasure boaters or swimmers for their use of Augustine Beach.

Boating Safety—It's Up to You!

Equip your boat properly; use common sense and courtesy afloat. Near the top of boating fatality causes is falling overboard. Don't stand up in the boat. Wear an approved life vest or jacket for maximum protection—other legal life saving devices may be out of reach in an emergency. If you do find yourself capsized, stay with the boat.

Maps Available

The pamphlet "Adventure Out-Of-Doors in Delaware" is available upon request from the Board of Game and Fish Commissioners, Dover. This pamphlet contains a Delaware fishing map with symbols indicating launching sites, picnic areas, fishing and crabbing spots and is very useful to the fisherman.

Mother's Plea To Drivers

"Dear Driver: please don't run over my little boy."

It's back to school time, and that appeal was issued yesterday in a plea to drivers from "a mother."

In the form of a letter to all motorists, the appeal was issued by Mrs. William N. Cann, vice president for home safety of the Delaware Safety Council. The letter she said, expresses the feelings of thousands of Delaware parents as schools reopen and young children have streets to cross and automobiles and trucks to face on their way to and from school.

The letter to "Dear driver" follows: "This morning our boy started another round of schooling. He swaggered out the front door with the world in his pocket. His well-worn ball cap set at a cocky angle. His baseball glove was on one hand. What do you think was on his mind? See you, Mom, he called, hope I get to bat before the bell rings. Then he disappeared around the corner. My words of caution, watch out for cars, barely caught up with him."

"For eight years his father and I have guarded his safety as best we could. When he started crawling, I put safety devices on the electrical outlets. When he walked, I went pointed objects and all poisonous items. In his early years we built a fence around the back yard.

"We taught him safety—as well as you can teach a child. We have told him never to cross a street except at an intersection and then to wait until the light was right and to watch the cars. But you know how children are. They can be watching when they start across but be flying a jet plane over the Pacific by the time they reach the middle. They can forget streets even exist and dart from behind a parked automobile for no reason at all.

"When my son walks out our front door now, his safety is in your hands—in YOUR hands. You wouldn't hurt him, would you? Please drive carefully. You can never guess what a child will do.

"Please don't run over my little boy."

"Signed: A MOTHER"

Homemaker-Family Purchasing Agent

Have you ever thought of the many jobs performed by today's homemaker? She keeps house, cooks the meals, plans the menu, drives the family taxi and serves as den mother or 4-H leader.

One of the most important positions she fills is that of family purchasing agent. This job requires that she know merchandising from A to Z. She must know what she wants, be able to recognize quality and be unafraid to say something when she doesn't get it.

The day has passed when the naive housewife accepts shoddy merchandise, sloppy service and limited selections. She has asked for and is getting the kind of merchandise she wants.

Women, en masse, have tremendous power. As customers wielding our purchasing power to get what we want. Expressing our wants has brought many labor savers and convenience items to the stores.

There is a great responsibility to use this power wisely. Here are some ways the homemaker can use her power to the best advantage.

She must express herself. If an item of merchandise is faulty, it should be returned to the store. She should see that her complaint goes directly to the store manager or the manufacturer.

However, she must bear this in mind, many of the things she buys are mass goods at a mass price, based on mass taste. If the family's tastes are different, it may be impossible to buy the product or it may cost more. American mass produced goods mean that prices are low enough so that more of us can afford more items.

The homemaker should avoid buying too quickly or too emotionally. She must learn to read labels and compare. The big cereal box may not contain any more cereal than the smaller one. The weight of the contents will be marked on the label.

She must be aware of the importance of prices when shopping. By spending a little more she may get a lot more for her money. It is possible to get too much of a bargain.

The good shopper realizes that knowledge is power. To use this power, she must know goods, know prices, learn how business works and know what she has a right to expect.

Major events of the Sunday program will be social hours in residence halls for parents and students; a lecture on "The Parent's Freshman Year," by Dr. G. Gorham Lan, professor of psychology; and the freshman convocation at Carpenter Field House where President John A. Perkins will give the principal address.

In addition to participation in testing programs, social events and conferences with advisors, students will begin their classes immediately. English classes will be held on Monday and Wednesday and special lectures will be presented by Professors Marshall A. Knappen and Robert F. Jackson. Dr. Knappen will discuss "The Public Philosophy" and Dr. Jackson, "Science and Common Sense."

Registration for classes will be held Friday, Sept. 15, and classes will open officially on Mon., Sept. 18.

Among the highlights of the orientation period will be concerts by the university band and concert choir, meetings with school deans, special meetings for commuters and religious groups and the President's reception.

USDA Protects Your Food Dollars

By W. T. McAllister

It may surprise you, Mrs. Housewife, to know the USDA is using every means at its disposal to insure the finest quality food for your table.

Many consumers feel the only function of the USDA is to help the farmer. This isn't the case. They work just as hard to help the consumer.

Here's an example of what I'm talking about. Recently the USDA amended the regulation governing poultry inspection to minimize water absorption by processed poultry. Now this may sound Greek to you so I'll try to explain the processing procedures.

Federal inspection laws require processors to provide consumers with scrupulously clean, ready for the pan poultry. Good sanitation requires that birds be thoroughly washed at various stages of processing. This makes water absorption inevitable.

Additional water is absorbed as water.

Further water pick-up occurs in chilling, since the best means of preserving wholesomeness and good eating quality is to chill poultry promptly after evisceration by using ice and water or refrigerated water.

Since January, 1959, when the Poultry Products Inspection Act went into effect the Poultry Division of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service had studied the problem of water absorption to determine the normal moisture level resulting from good processing and chilling techniques.

Based on these studies, preliminary limits were set more than a year ago for water absorption by poultry to be packaged or frozen. The new amendment substantiates these preliminary limits. This means all poultry products that reach the retail stores will have the most desirable level of moisture.

This is just one way the USDA works to bring wholesome, healthful food to your table. The farmer, the processor and the USDA functions as a team to bring you better food for a smaller share of your income than ever before.

9 to 12 Age Group Football Proposed

Wednesday night at the Harrington High field house a local group of football enthusiasts met to discuss the possibility of forming a Little League for football players in the 9-12 age group. At present some 40,000 such teams are now in operation in this country. The lads would be given the best of equipment and would be completely covered by insurance. Since no one who weighs over 110 pounds may participate in the usually few and of a minor nature.

It is hoped that three or four teams can be organized in the Harrington-Felton area.

Jack Swain was elected president at the meeting. James Lobo was named vice president and Jack Redden is to be treasurer. A rules committee was appointed consisting of Redden, Oscar Matthews Jr. and Alvin "Buck" Thompson.

The public is invited to attend the groups' next meeting which is to be held at the field house Wednesday night at 7:30.

Saturday the 16th of September interested lads may sign up for the program by coming to the field house at 9 a.m.

Broad Program Available for 1962-Crop Wheat

Approval by farmers of marketing quotas for the 1962 crop of wheat means that growers in commercial wheat-producing areas will have a broad program available for their next wheat crop to help adjust production and increase farm income, Jacob Zimmerman, chairman State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today.

Preliminary returns from the August 24 referendum showed that 79.4 per cent of the total 265,886 growers voting approved marketing quotas for the 1962 wheat crop. Since this is more than the necessary two-thirds, the 1962 wheat program provided by recently enacted legislation will be in effect. The program will include:

Price support at a minimum national average of $2 a bushel available to those producers in the commercial wheat area who comply with their 1962 farm wheat allotment and who participate in the special wheat stabilization program.

Payments to wheat growers who cooperate in the special 1962 wheat stabilization program for diverting a specified portion of their wheat acreage to conservation uses.

Farm wheat allotments for 1962 which are 10 per cent lower than they would have been under previous legislation.

Marketing quota penalties, at 65 per cent of the May 1, 1962 parity price, on "excess" wheat produced on farms where the farm wheat allotment is not complied with.

The evening sessions will be condensed and held for the working woman and those who cannot attend day sessions. Luncheon reservations are to be sent to Mrs. John King, Cedar St., Georgetown, and Mrs. Richard Hetsko, 507 Carol St., Dover.

List Steps to Maximum "Weed" Production

"By following a few simple management practices, you can grow an excellent weed crop this fall," says George Vapaa, Kent County agent.

The first step is to sow plenty of seeds this fall. The easiest way to do this is let weeds go to seed. You won't have to worry about the perennials as they will come up anyway. This makes growing weeds a lot easier he says.

When the weeds come up in the spring allow them plenty of opportunity to grow. He warns that plowing them under or sowing a crop that requires tilling the soil will seriously hamper weed growth. A generous application of fertilizer will help the weeds overcome such a shock.

Avoid application of chemicals such as 2-4-D as they are apt to injure the young growing weeds.

A yearly program such as this, Mrs. Vapaa says will establish a weed path that will withstand the most severe conditions. He tells of one field of Johnson grass that it in its third year and getting thicker and taller each season.

A final precaution from the agent: "Look for something to do with all those weeds you're bound to produce. It seems livestock won't eat them and there isn't much of a market for them."

No-Cook Method of Making Jam

Have you been using that old excuse, "It's too warm to slave over a hot stove making jam." Well ladies you had better start thinking up a new one. According to Miss Janet Coblentz, nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware, you can now make jam by an easy, no-cook method. The only "cooking" required is boiling some water.

This no-cook method of making jam is easy, yet it retains the fresh-fruit flavor better than the old evaporation method.

Miss Coblentz suggests selecting soft fruit. Wash them and force them through a sieve or strainer. Then for every three cups of fruit, add five cups of sugar and let the mixture stand for every three cups of fruit. Add one package of powdered pectin for every cup of water. Boil this mixture for exactly one minute. Then pour it into the sugar and fruit mixture, stir for two minutes and let stand for 24-48 hours before spooning into jars.

That's all there is to it, according to Miss Coblentz. But there is one word of caution. Uncooked jams have relatively low-sugar concentrations and are not sterilized by cooking. This means they will spoil if stored at room temperature. If kept in the refrigerator they will keep for about six weeks. You can also freeze them if you want to keep them for a longer period of time. To further guard against spoilage, Miss Coblentz recommends putting an 1/8 inch layer of paraffin on top of the jam before storing. Make sure the jam is set before pouring the paraffin on.

Red Mite in House Not Harmful

Don't be alarmed by a lot of tiny red mites entering the windows and crawling over the floor and furniture during the autumn season. These are clover mites according to George Vapaa, Kent County agent.

Each fall when the weather starts getting cooler they come out of dormancy and start looking for a place to lay eggs. This is usually the trunks of rough barked trees and similar surfaces he says. They invade homes quite by accident, he adds and do no damage.

You can control this nuisance by cultivating a 2 foot wide bor-

Delaware Schools Own First Closed Circuit Television

Delaware public schools now own their first closed circuit television system, according to an announcement by Dr. Howard E. Row, assistant state superintendent in charge of Secondary Education.

The television equipment, purchased with matching and federal funds under provisions of Title III of the National Defense Education Act, will be used initially for demonstrations in the science teaching field. Initial demonstrations will be for teachers of science and will be broadcast within one room. The equipment is adaptable, however, and could be used to present a lesson or demonstration from one room to another.

The assignment of this equipment to the science field will not restrict it for science use only, according to Dr. Row. However, because of the involvement of federal funds through the National Defense Education Act, the immediate use of the equipment must be confined to science, mathematics or modern foreign languages.

Dr. Row and Edward J. Hart, State Supervisor of Science, have indicated that the initial use to be made of this equipment will be for what they have termed "sight amplification."

"We are quite accustomed to having a microphone at the head of a large room with speaker boxes scattered throughout the room in order to amplify the voice of a speaker," say Dr. Row and Mr. Hart. "We are now equipped to do the same kind of thing for visual presentations."

Dr. Row states, "One of the easiest ways to explain the use of this equipment is in the field of biology. Anyone who has taken a course in biology where laboratory dissections were performed will recall that while the teacher is performing a dissection, only two or three students can see what is going on. With the new transisterized television camera, it will now be possible for the teacher to perform such demonstrations under the camera lens while students in the room turn their attention to the television screen."

"This camera can also be used for any of the fine, small image demonstrations carried on by teachers of science or by teachers in other subject areas. The equipment has special lens adapters that can be mounted immediately above a microscope. There has always been the problem of the teacher's setting up a microscope, adjusting it and noticing for himself what is under the microscope but never being certain that the pupil looking through the microscope will see what he was supposed to see. With the closed circuit transisterized television equipment, the teacher can project on the television screen the things that he sees in the microscope, and he can be absolutely certain that every pupil in the class is getting the same reaction. The next step in such a procedure then would be for students to make their own slides and identify similar action with their own private microscope at their own laboratory desks."

"The present television equipment has been purchased by the State Department of Public Instruction to be used for the instruction of teachers. This camera will later be used in the classrooms in Delaware. Mr. Hart will prepare demonstration lessons for teachers and will use the equipment as one of his supervisory and in-service tools in working with individuals or groups of teachers in the elementary and secondary schools. It is anticipated that school districts will, in the future, purchase this kind of equipment for their own use."

"The equipment is relatively inexpensive as compared to many pieces of equipment and structures in our schools. The cost of the complete system for a science department in our schools would run between $1200 and $1500. Dr. Row has indicated further that there should be no misunderstanding about the use of the equipment. He says, "This camera is not a special piece of equipment that is now going to replace microscopes, bioscopes, films or slides. This is a tool which will be used along with other audio-visual devices. We would be in error to attempt to use this as a substitute for any other piece of equipment that may do the job better. However, there are certain things we have not been able to do as live presentations until the advent of this type of equipment. We are quite enthusiastic about the potential for this new piece of equipment."

Food Facts Clarify Farmers' Position

Farm and city people who are interested in knowing the facts about the Nation's food bill and what the farmer actually receives will find a fund of information in two recent Department of Agriculture publications, "Food for a Nation," and "Background on Our Nation's Agriculture."

Among other items, the reader will learn in the first-named booklet that the farmer receives 70 per cent less for a typical "market basket" of farm-grown food than he did in 1947-49. This accounts for the fact that, while marketing cost are 36 per cent higher, the retail price of this market basket is only 12 per cent higher. Also—

We pay about $7 1/2 billion a year more than we did in 1940 for the convenience of having some of the work of food preparation transferred from the kitchen to the factory or restaurant.

Income of farm families, when compared with those of nonfarm families, are lower today than they have been at any time since the late 1930's.

Under the heading, "Our food bill and moderate farm price increases," these additional facts are presented for reader consideration:

"The farmer's share of our food dollar is so small (only 39 cents in 1960) that moderate increases in farm prices have little total effect on our food bill. Thus, a 10 percent increase in farm prices is equivalent to only 4 per cent retail.

"The more that food is processed between farm and kitchen, the less effect farm price increase has on its cost to us. For example, "The farmer got 2 1/3 cents for the corn in a box of cornflakes selling for 25 4/5 cents in 1960.

"If the farm price of corn rose from its average of about $1 per bushel in 1960 to $1.20, the farmer would get only one-half of one cent more for the corn in a box of flakes.

"The farmer received 2 1/3 cents for the wheat in a pound loaf of white bread would rise only one-fourth cent."

"Even if wheat went up from its 1960 average farm price of about $1.80 a bushel to $2, the farm cost of the wheat in a pound loaf of white bread would rise only one-fourth cent."

In "Background on Our Nation's Agriculture" are such facts as the following: Investment in agriculture is nearly $200 billion, equal to: 3/4 of the value of current assets of all corporation in the United States or 3/5 of the market value of all corporation stock on the New York Stock Exchange.

The investment in agriculture represents $21, 300 for each farm employee, as compared with $15,900 for each worker in manufacturing industry.

Routine matters including building up-keep, budget, and the election of officers were on the agenda in addition to consideration of the rearrangement and extension of the Zwaanendael Museum to the second floor of the building. The election resulted in the renaming of the previous officers for the ensuing year as follows: Mr. Purnell as chairman, Mrs. D. Anthony Potter of Lewes as vice chairman, Leon deValinger, Jr., State Archivist of Dover as secretary, Mrs. Dorothy L. Collins as curator, and Miss Linda M. Virden as receptionist. Other members of the Commission present at the meeting were Mrs. Harry C. Bodden of Newark, Mrs. Robert H. Orr of Yorklyn, Howard H. School Board Wins Prize for Good Public Relations

The Harrington Board of Education has won a prize for public relations achievement in a national contest sponsored by School Management magazine and the School Board Publications Assoc. of Rutgers University.

School officials were cited for conducting a thorough and effective public relations campaign for the bond referendum last spring. Literature from the campaign was submitted as an entry in the contest.

The honor was announced in the September issue of School Management, a monthly magazine read nationally by 50,000 school superintendents, school board members, and school business managers.

This community's winning material was selected over more than 400 entries submitted from 41 states. It was judged on the basis of initial impact, overall appearance, the clarity of text, ability to get a point across, and general appeal to the audience. The effectiveness of the material in accomplishing the board's purpose was also considered.

Eight prominent figures in education, public relations and the press judged the entries. Among the judges were Dr. Lawrence Derthick, former U. S. Commissioner of education; Donald Matthews, president of the National School Public Relations Assoc.; Ben Brodinsky, vice president of the Educational Press Assoc.; a public relations executive, an educational consultant, a magazine editor, a professor of education and a state school board official.

The purpose of the contest was not to honor one school district over another, but to point out superior examples of school public relations. In the opinion of the judges, most of the entries were of extremely high quality in view of the fact that they were prepared by non-professionals.

"If all school public relations efforts were as good as this community's," said the judges, "they would go a long way toward giving the public the information it needs and wants."

The sponsors of the contest conceived of it as a way to point out good examples of school public relations. According to the Investment Bankers' Assoc. of America, 23% of all school bond issues in 1960 were defeated at the polls. Poor public relations, it is generally agreed, was one reason why.

Kent General Hospital to Raise Rates

The Kent General Hospital will raise room rates and operating room charges effective September 1.

H. V. Maybee, Managing Director of Group Hospital Service, said the Hospital has informed the Blue Cross-Blue Shield Plan the hospital was forced to increase its rates due to increased operating costs.

Mr. Maybee said the increase will not require any immediate adjustment of Blue Cross-Blue Shield membership rates, but if other hospitals make similar increases, or if there is a rise in general use of hospital service, the organization will be forced to boost its rates.

Room rates at Kent General Hospital will be increased generally $1 per day. The rate for a bed in a ward will change from $14 to $15. The rate in a semi-private room will be raised from $17.50 to $18.50. Similarly, rates in private rooms will be increased $1.00. At the same time, charges for the use of the operating room will be increased $5 per case. This change will result in approximately a 3% increase in the Kent General Hospital's average daily total charge to patients.

Mr. Maybee said that, aside from hospital rate changes, the major danger to Group Hospital Service's present rate schedule lies in higher utilization of hospital service. Blue Cross pays certain hospital bills for its members. Higher hospital rates and higher utilization mean bigger and more bills to Blue Cross. When the outgo hits a certain percentage of income from membership dues, Blue Cross has no choice but to raise membership dues.

Hospitals and physicians have been urged by Group Hospital Service to keep utilization within reasonable levels by making hospital stays as short as consistent with good medical practice, and by avoiding hospitalization in borderline cases.

Delaware Bankers Fall Meeting

Bankers from all parts of the state will assemble tomorrow, Sept. 8, at the Cavaliers Country Club for the regular fall meeting of the Delaware Bankers Association.

The meeting will convene at 12:30 p.m., with the President's luncheon, to which all committee members are invited. President Garland F. Potts will preside at the meeting at which time the various committee chairmen will report on their committee's activities.

For the balance of the afternoon, the 400 bankers who will be present will enjoy varied entertainment. The committee on arrangements, headed by George A. Reece of Bank of Delaware, has arranged a golf tournament with prizes for the golfers—swimming and a special water show for the swimmers and a trip to Longwood Gardens for those who prefer to visit this beautiful estate.

After a social hour and banquet, there will be dancing with Hawaiian atmosphere. The music will be by the Hawaiians, who will also stage an Hawaiian floor show.

Invited guests include Senator and Mrs. John J. Williams, Senator and Mrs. J. Caleb Boggs, Representative and Mrs. Harris B. McDowell, Lt. Governor Eugene Lamont, Commissioner J. Allen Frear, Jr. of the United States Securities and exchange Commission and Mrs. Frear, State Bank Commissioner and Mrs. Randolph B. Hughes.

Veterans News

Veterans who were disabled in accidents on the way home from Separation Centers prior to 1957 were made eligible for certain benefits by recent action of Congress. Leon Fields, manager of the VA Regional Office, Wilmington, announced.

If the accidents were fatal, their survivors are eligible, Mr. Fields added.

These benefits have always existed for veterans separated after December 31, 1956, who were considered by law to be still in the military service until midnight of the day they were discharged, and in some cases even until they reached home.

Veterans separated before this date, however, had been considered to be civilians as they traveled homeward and thus an accident resulting in disability or death was not considered service-connected.

Through the new law, Congress has made veterans, disabled before 1957 in such travel, or dependents of veterans, killed in such travel, eligible for service-connected benefits.

These benefits are not automatic, Mr. Fields pointed out, but must be sought through application. Contact Representatives at the VA Regional Office, 1601 Kirkwood Highway, Wilmington, will explain the benefits and help eligible persons prepare their applications.

Brandywine Raceway News

With only ten nights of pari-mutuel harness racing remaining at Brandywine, the statisticians are sharpening their pencils, the drivers are sharpening their skills and the horses who have yet to make the grade they're seeking are sharpening their attacks.

The pencil sharpeners will have the last say, recording on the turnstiles take to the favorite racing lane. With 50 of the 60 nights' activities already chronicled on the books, there's not too much doubt as to the outcome of certain aspects of the game.

One such is the favorite lane. And, true to prior years, No. 1 continues to dominate the list. The inside post position, where the shortest distance is traveled, has proved to be the winningest lane in 1961 with close to 80 trotters and pacers making their winners circle bows from that starting point. Running No. 1 a close second is the 3 lane, by about "three lengths," followed by No. 2.

It sums up with the fact that post positions 1, 2 and 3—or 1, 3 and 2 in this case—are more sure-fire to unfold a winner at Brandywine. The rim, or No. 3 post, is the least popular for winners in the normal eight-horse lineup.

Other statistical summaries interesting to the race-goer are the percentage figures of winning favorites and In-Money favorites. The scales fairly well have balanced between the two this season, with late figures showing 36 per cent of the favorites finishing as expected, 63 per cent of the first, second and third choices finishing in the money.

Turning the spotlight on the driver ranks, Brandywine still is focusing a bright bulb on Bob Farrington as its No. 1 reinsman, who may also become the nation's 1961 driving champ. Late figures from the U. S. Trotting Association show Farrington ahead of his constituents across the country with more than 80 victories, some 20 of these taken at Brandywine where he's started close to 80 times.

The talented driver, only 32-years-old, has been on top of the local list for some time with the highest average, even though Jack 'Tick' Wilcutts has started more than 200 times and has won almost twice as many races as Farrington. The leading driver status is determined by the Universal Driver Ratings System.

The next ten nights will tell this fired-up tale, as Farrington tries to maintain his lead over Vernon Crank, currently second, Earl Beede, third; Harold Story, fourth; Jack Wilcutts, fifth, and Dave Logum, sixth.

Farm Labor News

State Summary

The peak of the tomato harvest is on and shortages of help both in the field and canneries have developed. Few migrants come to the state for this type of work and workers must be recruited from surplus workers in other activities. Sweet corn harvest for processing nearing end with fresh market picking becoming lighter. Potato harvest about 65-70% completed. Local peppers being harvested for processing plants. Late snap beans coming in heavy and canneries working on this crop. Lima bean harvest in Sussex County continues with light crop. Harvesting in northern part of state to start next week. Heavy rain and wet fields curtailed harvesting of most crops the past week. Some crews breaking up as families are returning to Florida to enter children in school. Some shortages of labor developing but season too far advanced to recruit new workers. Shortages are being met where possible by switching crews.

Wilmington Area

Wet fields kept harvesting crews out of work the first of the week. Potato digging continues at a somewhat slower pace. Tomatoes are at peak with a shortage of pickers. Short duration of crop makes out of area recruiting impractical. Sweet corn nearing end of harvest.

Rain, wet fields and increased competition from Long Island digging slowed potato harvest from heavy production of the past two weeks. Market continues slow. Several growers have about completed harvesting and should be able to release crews next week. Sweet corn harvesting for processing expected to end this week. Lima beans from the area maturing with harvesting plants are able to meet needs from local production. Late snap beans for processing and fresh market keep pickers busy. Labor swings back and forth from short to ample as crews finish jobs or leave for other areas. Some crew leaders reporting shortage of workers as family groups with children return home for school. Indications are that potato harvest will be slow from now on.

George town Area

Acute shortage of women for peeling tomatoes has developed. Efforts are being made by use of radio and phone to recruit 100 workers. Closing of plants in nearby areas should release some workers this weekend who will take up these openings. Housing available for out of area workers. Farm Placement Representative in Georgetown Office should be contacted by applicants—phone 856-2717. Peppers and late snap beans for processing are being picked. Lima bean harvest continues at peak. Some shortage in tomato pickers has developed and could not be filled as growers did not have their housing approved by the State Board of Health.

Charlotte Maloney visited Dany Towers Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Elmer Butler and daughter, Ann, were in Dover Friday.

Mrs. Roland Towers, Danny and Jeff, Mrs. T. H. Towers and Mrs. Gertrude Tripp were in Easton Tuesday of last week.

Chas. O. Davis, member of a football team, spent several days with his team at Mardela Camp. Misses Wanda and Marie Fountain spent last week with their aunt, Mrs. Marvin Butler, and family, Tuckahoe Neck.

Mrs. Anna Jacobs, Harlock, visited Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Fluharty and family last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Davis and children visited his sister, Mrs. Catherine Reed, and family of rural Bridgeville last Thursday evening.

Social Security Notes

"Many people who were turned down before can now get monthly social security payments," according to Edward F. Sullivan, manager of the Dover District office. They can now qualify because Congress has reduced the length of time a person must work to get payments. Some of these people live in lower Delaware. They include not only the older workers, but the families of deceased workers as well.

How to get up to 30 extra miles per tankful

Shell test drivers add a "fifth wheel" to their cars for precise distance measurement during mileage tests. It helps them record performance to a decimal point.

Here are some tips from Shell's experts on how to get maximum mileage from your car. If you practice these good driving habits — and if you use today's Super Shell, with 9 ingredients for top performance — you may well save a pretty penny on gasoline bills.

Shell scientists spend much of their working lives figuring out how to get the most mileage out of a gallon of gasoline. Here are some of the things they've learned.

- 1. Don't race a cold engine. When your engine is cold, it uses up more fuel. You're also in danger of underlubrication. You pay in greater engine wear. NOTE: Today's Super Shell has fast warm-up ingredients to save gasoline. And Shell X-100 Premium Motor Oil moves freely even when cold—saves fuel and reduces engine wear.
- 2. Use a light touch on the accelerator. Tromping down on the pedal is an expensive habit. Starting up, it holds your automatic transmission in a lower "gear" longer—makes the engine turn faster, wasting fuel. Under way, uneven pedal pressure is costly, too. Feed just enough fuel to maintain even speed.
- 3. Drive "ahead of your car." Watch for slowing traffic and red lights as far ahead as you can see. Then coast up to the stopping cars, instead of braking heavily when you get there.

- 4. Don't let fuel costs creep up at the stop light. If your car "creeps" when idling with the automatic transmission engaged, have your idle speed adjusted. If you drive a stick shift, remember that pumping the accelerator won't change the light. It only uses up gasoline.

- 5. Don't indulge in jack rabbit starts. Racing starts are fine on race tracks—but the drivers of those cars are lucky to get 6 miles per gallon. NOTE: Air resistance at high car speed is the biggest single drain on power. It increases approximately as the cube of the vehicle speed. Even fox tails on aerials may cost you gasoline.

- 6. Check your tire pressure regularly. Under-inflated tires increase friction and cut mileage. NOTE: Tire pressures build up during a long run. Don't let air out to bring the pressure down—it makes the tires run even hotter. Check cool tires only.

- 7. Check for dragging brakes. Have your Shell dealer check for wheel drag next time you're in for a lubrication. If brakes drag, you pay for it every mile.

- 8. Get these fuel-saving adjustments. If spark timing is off, for example, you pay in wasted gasoline—and possibly in engine damage. A compression check can reveal power-wasting valve and ring conditions. Other essentials:

- A. Keep your spark plugs at peak efficiency. Use Super Shell gasoline with unique TCP® additive to give them extra life.
- B. Adjust carburetor.

- C. Have automatic choke checked.
- D. Clean or replace filters for air, fuel, oil as manufacturer recommends.
- E. Tighten fuel line connections.
- F. Have automatic transmission or clutch checked regularly.

- 9. Get regular oil changes and lubrication—including transmission and differential. Your Shell dealer knows what to do. And he has the finest equipment and lubricants. Your car will last longer. Your gasoline will go farther.

- 10. Show this advertisement to everyone who drives your car—especially if you pay their gasoline bills. We can't guarantee 30 extra miles per tankful—but the closer these suggestions are followed the better your mileage will be. To start off right, fill up with today's Super Shell. Its nine ingredients mean top performance.

Super Shell's 9 ingredients for top performance

- #1 is TCP for power and longer plug life.
- #2 is Pentane mix for fast warm-ups.
- #3 is anti-knock mix to resist all knocks.
- #4 is Alkylate to control "high-speed knock."
- #5 is Butane for quick starts.
- #6 is "cat-cracked" gasoline—for power.
- #7 is "anti-icer"—added in cold weather.
- #8 is gum preventive for clean carburetors.
- #9 is Platformate for extra mileage.

At Shell, 1957 scientists are working to make your car go better and better.

*Trademark for Shell's unique gasoline additive. Gasoline containing TCP is covered by U. S. Patent 2899212.

Farm News

State Summary
The long holiday weekend cut off activity in the potato and vegetable markets with resulting unemployment of migrant crews. The potato market continue weak with growing competition from Long Island growers. Sweet corn harvesting both for processing and fresh market has about ended in so far as heavy picking is concerned. Some scattered harvesting for roadside markets will continue for another week. Lima bean production continues at peak with fields in the northern part of the state starting to mature. Sussex County crop still being harvested in quantity. Tomato crop should be at peak this week and employment begin to taper off. Late snap beans starting to reach processing plants in volume and should continue until frost. Employment in food processing up about 200 during the week as plants put on additional workers for tomatoes and snap beans. Still short about 100 women for peeling tomatoes in Sussex County. Local peppers, melons, and cucumbers in heavy production.
Wilmington Area
Late corn being completed for processing plants. The white potato harvest practically stopped over the long holiday weekend and was slow to pick up this week due to poor market and increased digging by Long Island growers. Little other activity involving seasonal workers in the area.
Dover Area
Kent County's large potato crop is about 65-70% completed with activity about stopped during the Labor Day weekend. A poor market and supplies coming in from other sources has retarded the resumption of digging. Many crews are reporting a shortage of workers as family groups continue to return home for children to enter school. Processing of sweet corn completed and fresh market picking due to end this week with the exception of some late harvesting for roadside stands. Late snap beans beginning to reach processing plants in quantity and some hiring of workers has resulted. Lima beans starting to reach processing plants and should continue until frost. Heavy picking of tomatoes reported on limited acreage. Peach harvest completed this week with crop slightly in excess of anticipated yield and market good. Late apples will start before the end of the month. Recent rains have build up moisture supplies and should be adequate for late crops.
Georgetown Area
Processing plants operating full time and employing some additional workers as lima beans, snap beans, corn and tomatoes continue to be harvested. Corn and tomatoes should taper off this week but the volume of snap beans should pick up. A shortage of tomato peelers has continued to plague processors. Over 40 women are hauled in from out of state each day but the shortage continues. Harvesting labor is generally ample as crews remain in the area due to shortage of jobs in other localities.
Seasonal Labor
Seasonal labor reported at the end of the month totaled 6287. Of this number, 3895 were working in harvesting and 2372 in food processing. There were 2364 local workers; 3556 southern migrants and 347 Puerto Ricans.

ZONING

that a decision on rezoning land for an oil refinery in lower New Castle County could not wait for such a state planning department. He also said at that time he was not against a refinery coming to Delaware. Wednesday, he noted that the opponents of the Shell Oil refinery still had an opportunity to take their case to court—if they so wish. The Governor very proudly announced that he had signed the State Planning Act and that he expected it would cost about $100,000 a year to operate this agency but hoped to get a good chunk of the operating cost from the federal government. "We don't want Delaware to deteriorate," he said. "Comprehensive state level planning has never been attempted in Delaware and I heartily commend the foresight and bipartisan co-operation of the Governor's State Goals Commission and our General Assembly for recognizing and accomplishing this vital program." He particularly mentioned for citation Judge Daniel L. Herrmann, chairman of the goals commission and Henry B. duPont, chairman of the commission's committee on state planning. Of zoning, the Governor said as a land owner he believes it enhances property values. He expressed a strong desire to see zoning enacted for Kent and Sussex Counties.

Carvel Signs Weights Bill

Gov. Elbert N. Carvel Wednesday signed the weights and measures bill which a state official predicted will save Delaware consumers hundreds of thousands of dollars a year. The bill—HB 186—creates for the first time a central state agency empowered to see that weighing and measuring devices are accurate and that consumers get the full weights and volumes they pay for. The new agency will be a division in the State Board of Agriculture. It will be headed by a state director of weights and measures, and is to include a staff of inspectors. The new law requires that the director and inspectors be appointed through competitive examinations. Malloy C. Vaughn, secretary of the board, said the U. S. Bureau of Standards—the national weights and measures agency—is cooperating with the Board of Agriculture in preparing the examinations. Vaughn said the agency will save huge sums for Delaware consumers. The agency starts out with an appropriation of $22,100, plus whatever funds are left unspent.

in the appropriations to the three regulators of weights and measures—one in each county—to be superseded by the new division. The previous system was criticized as one without central direction and lacking accurate devices for testing scales and otherwise carrying out its duties. Under the new law, the director and inspectors are armed with police powers. They may arrest violators and seize evidence. They may condemn and destroy measuring devices found to be incorrect and not susceptible to repair. They are required to inspect packages offered for sale to determine whether they contain the amounts represented. The Governor also signed Wednesday afternoon the two University of Delaware scholarship bills—SB 67 and 68—providing $107,000 in scholarships for teacher training and for Delaware's "right to education" program. Earlier the Governor signed the bill to create a state planning office.

2 Deaths Prompt Shrub Ban Plea

A double traffic fatality at an intersection here prompted the Wicomico Commissioners to issue an appeal for clearance of obstructions on rural roads. Two men were hurt fatally in the crash at Parsons Road and Pemberton Drive, Md., Saturday. Officials said that several telephone calls and letters cited shrubbery obstructions at the intersection. There is also a stop sign on the road where the vision of intersecting traffic is poor. The commissioner said they lack legal means to enforce regulation of such obstructions. Their only course, they said, is through individual appeals to property owners to trim hedges and shrubbery. Commissioners commented there are a number of places in the county where such action should be taken. Salisbury is now enforcing an ordinance regulating obstructions at intersections, although a court test of the measure is also likely. The ordinance provides that nothing at the curb line may be higher than three feet and that trees must be trimmed of branches to a height of eight feet above the curb line. In other county business Tuesday, the board awarded contracts for surfacing five county roads and also passed the county-wide building code, effective Nov. 1. The code was given a two-month extension from Sept. 1 when it would have taken effect to permit shell home contractors to make adjustments. In effect, it extends through the county a code now effective within a five-mile radius of Salisbury.

Both Parties Finally Get Voter Lists

Political parties will start getting registration lists this week—10 months after the election. State Election Commissioner Ernest E. Killen said Wednesday that voter lists are ready for five wards of the city, and the remainder of Wilmington should be completed shortly. Killen made his disclosure in response to still another demand for the information from Robert P. Maclary, New Castle County Republican chairman. Maclary has been hammering at Killen since before the November election for the lists. It also appeared Wednesday—from a letter to Maclary by Edwin W. Hutchison, secretary of the New Castle County Department of Elections—that Killen could have asked for, and received, county information long before now. According to Hutchison, Section 4980 of Title 15 of the Delaware Code gives the commissioner the power to ask county election departments to submit their signature cards to him before the departments have completed their work. Killen said Wednesday he would not ask for the cards until the county departments are finished with them. He explained he had asked for the cards once before and had been turned down. The county departments take all cards signed by voters at the polling places and check off the names in the master file to voters to indicate who has voted. Hutchison told the Morning News Wednesday that his department has completed work on, and sent to Killen; all the cards for Wilmington and Brandywine Hundred. Work also has been completed on the Eleventh through Fifteenth Representative Districts. He explained that department employees are now checking New Castle Hundred and still have the Seventh, Eighth and Ninth Districts to do.
