Kent and Sussex Raceway has reached the half-way point in its current 30-night harness racing meet with substantial increases over last year in both attendance and parimutuel handle.

Last Saturday night, 4820 persons were on hand to bring the total attendance for the first 15 nights of racing to 51,178. This is an increase of 15.6% over the same number of racing nights last year.

Total mutuel handle for the meet so far has amounted to $1,613,722. This is an average nightly handle of $107,581 and the total represents an increase of 23.2% over the like period in 1960. The average nightly handle last year was $87,838 and the 15-night total was $1,099,838.

William W. Shaw, general manager of the Harrington track, revealed that total purses for the meet to date have amounted to $90,575. This, he said, amounts to 52.3% of the track's share of the mutuel handle and represents the highest return to participating horsemen of any harness track in the nation.

A record 535 horses are campaigning at the track and this has made it possible for Dick Case, racing secretary, to put together some of the best programs ever presented at the downstate oval.

School Board Reports

The annual report of the Board of Education and the superintendent for the 1960-61 school year is now available at either bank or in the main office of the school for those desiring copies. The report contains the financial statistics of the school year of state, local, internal and cafeteria funds.

The report shows that $2.1 per cent of the school dollar came from the State of Delaware, 16.6 per cent was provided locally, and the Federal Government provided 1.3 per cent. Of the amount spent 5.5 per cent was for administration; 64.0 per cent for instruction, 10 per cent for plant operation; .6 per cent for delayed repairs; .9 per cent for plant maintenance; .6 per cent for health services; 2 per cent to capital outlay; 5.7 per cent for debt service; 3 per cent for food service; and 8.3 per cent for the building program. Of the total expenditure of $439,805.21, 86.7 per cent was state money, 12.1 per cent local funds, and 1.2 per cent Federal.

The report goes on to compare the expenditures of the Harrington District with national expenditures for school as determined by the January 1961 edition of School Management Magazine.

Reports of the superintendent, the high school and elementary principal are available together with a study of the whereabouts of Harrington High School graduates from 1957 through 1961.

The report shows the financial structure of the Harrington School District to be in excellent condition. The report points out that while the local effort expended toward education in Harrington is lower than the national average, the effort is greater than that expended by the average school district in the state of Delaware.

C. of C. Eyes Christmas Program

The Chamber of Commerce will soon lay the groundwork for its annual Christmas program, it was brought out Tuesday at its October meeting at The Wonder R.

The Christmas Committee, headed by Clarence Rash, will soon check the garlands of lights to replace bulbs and wiring. It was also brought out that drawings for merchandise will again be held.

However, committee meetings will have to be held to determine the details.

In other items: Thomas E. Clendening said pictures of Harrington business establishments had been made and that from these drawings would be made suggestions for improvements. This is part of a "face-lifting" program of the Chamber.

The Chamber will print and circulate another brochure on the community within a few months. Secretary Carrington H. Burgess, of the Industrial Committee, said he would compile the material, write it up, get the art work, all subject to suggestions and approval of the Chamber. He added he thought the brochure should be sent to industries who may be looking for a location.

Millsboro Eleven Routs H.S. 30-0.

Millsboro's powerful Blue Devils were too big, too talented and too experienced for Harrington High's football Lions. The visitors scored twice in the first quarter and hit the scoring column in the other three periods to win easily by a score of 30-0. Millsboro was co-chairman of the Henlopen Conference last autumn and has most of the same personnel back. Their backfield of Layfield, Cathell, McCabe and Derriekson can negotiate 100 yards in time ranging from 10.3 to 10.9 and with the exception of Cathell are big, also.

The five tallies scored by the Blue Devils were racked up by the above quartet. The loss was the second in three starts for the Lions. The locals could not muster a threat and were constantly under pressure from a big, hard-charging line.

Joe Taylor and Jeff Adams gave the local fans something to cheer about when they charged into the enemy backfield on a couple of occasions to smear the Blue Devil backs for big losses.

Bill Porter and Barry Fry were a couple of the better local performers.

Next week H.H.S. will attempt to balance its record at 2-2, when Middletown will be met on the upstate field. The Cavaliers are having one of their better years and hold wins over Devereux, Pa., and North Caroline, Md., while losing to Smyrna and Alexis L. duPont.

Head Coach Bill Santo and line coach Mike Mock are drilling the Lions hard hoping to get them "up" for the Friday night contest. The locals would like to get a few breaks and make a good showing as the remainder of the schedule contains very few "patsies."

National Bible Week to Be Observed

Delawareans are being urged by Governor Elbert N. Carvel to join in the observance of National Bible Week, October 16 through 22, "with daily reading of the Holy Bible in their homes and in their places of worship."

Noting that the National Bible Week observance began "on a memorable date in our history—December 7, 1941, when we were confronted by a challenge to our continued existence as a free Nation," the chief executive, in a statement issued at Dover this week, pointed out that "today, we are faced by an even more serious challenge from a godless ideology that not only threatens our existence as a nation but our very existence as a people."

"Today," continued Governor Carvel, "we especially need the faith—the wisdom—the courage that can only be derived from reading—and practicing in our daily lives, the teachings of our God as set down in Holy Writ."

Governor Carvel also expressed the hope that the practice of daily reading of the Holy Bible "will become a habit for all of us, bringing to us the faith and courage"

City Council Hears Salesmen Of Trash Trucks

In the absence of a quorum, the monthly meeting of the City Council Monday evening saw no business transacted.

However, the Council interviewed representatives of two firms wishing to sell the City a trash truck.

Representatives of the Lech Company and the Hydro Easy-Pak Company advanced arguments while Council members asked numerous questions.

The City officials have seen demonstrators from both companies.

At the end of the interviews, Mayor Charles L. Peck, Sr., said the matter would be discussed more fully when a quorum was present.

However, he pointed out, the City was not committed to buy a trash truck, that there was the matter of money, and that the Council had merely agreed to hear the representatives of the companies.

An official, however, did say the present truck was ten years old.

C. Hackett, K. Garey Pace Harriers To 13th Win In Row

By Keith S. Burgess

Clarence Hackett and Ken Garey got lost on Milford's involved 2.3 miles cross-country course on Friday afternoon but recovered in time to lead Coach Harold McDonald's Harrington High cross-country team to its thirteenth straight win in dual, triangular and quadrangular competition. Hackett and Garey were leading early in the race when they were sent up the wrong road by a student who had been posted on the course to prevent such an occurrence. Noticing their mistake when the other runner took another road the two Lions retraced their steps and won easily. The extra yardage kept Hackett from having a chance to break the course record of 11:18 set by Harrington's state champion Harry Knotts last year.

Harrington observers viewed the contest with mixed emotions. The score of 16-48 was highly satisfactory but the injury list is an impressive one. Charles Taylor could not run because of a bad knee. Bob Smith was in third place for the first half mile but could not finish because he is just getting over a sprained ankle and has not been able to train until the last few days. Barry Fry and Jeff Adams were together in third place at a mile and a half but Fry had to drop out because of a sore groin muscle and Adams was slowed by ailing legs and fell back to 15th place in the field of 25. Adams ran the same course two minutes faster in 1960. Incidentally, none of these injuries were incurred in cross-country.

Harrington is to have a new all - electric office and service building. Delaware Power & Light Company will erect it on the north side of Liberty Street, adjacent to the National Guard Armory.

A. B. Parsons, division manager for Delaware Power & Light Company, says that the contract for construction has been awarded to Harrington Lumber Company. Work is to start immediately and target date for completion is March 1, 1962. The company hopes to move its employees and equipment to the new site by April 1, 1962.

Mr. Parsons stated that the electric company is investing approximately $142,000 in this new building. When it is completed, it will provide a central location for district and division personnel who now operate from separate quarters in Harrington; the district personnel serve 6000 local customers — while the division personnel reach out to serve all customers of Kent & Sussex Counties in varying capacities, such as engineering, construction and supervision.

The office section of the building, containing 6000 square feet, will be cinder block, faced with brick veneer. The front entrance will be a glassed - in lobby 20 feet by 10 feet. The service section, housing store-room and automotive equipment, will have 8000 square feet and be galvanized metal construction.

Three electric heat pumps will be installed in the office section to provide heating and air conditioning as weather demands. The store-room will be heated electrically with forced air blowers. A 40-gallon quick recovery electric water heater will provide the necessary hot water. Lighting will be the modern fluorescent type, designed to provide optimum working conditions without glare or shadow.

One ultra modern innovation—not yet used at any other electric location, will be snow melting cable installed under the sidewalks.

An additional $10,000 will be invested at this time to erect a 120-foot steel radio tower for 2-way communications. The office will be in constant touch with crews and supervisors on the job and also with Salisbury and other points in the company system. Two-way radio makes for speedy, efficient service and cuts down the time of power interruptions during catastrophes like hurricanes.

Parking space for customers will be available in front of the building; employees will have a separate parking area.

D. Hackett Wins Lehigh-West Chester Race

Dwight Hackett of Harrington, who is the No. 1 runner on the West Chester College freshmen cross-country team, last Friday shattered the Lehigh University freshman cross-country course record as he won individual honors in a dual meet between the two schools.

The course was 2.7 miles long and wound up the hill on which is situated "The Star of Bethlehem," a well-known Christmas display. Dwight lowered the record from 16:24 to 16:11 as he dualed with several Lehigh runners. He was No. 3 man on Harrington High's unbeaten 1960 squad and is developing into a real collegiate prospect since being exposed to the high-powered techniques and training methods used in colleges. If a lad has talent, it will be brought out. Hackett has defeated several harriers this year, who are in college on athletic scholarships.

Thursday, Oct. 12 the first big test will confront McDonald's lads. Perennially strong North Caroline of Denton, Md., Centerville, Md. and Caesar Rodney will chase the Lions over the Killen's Pond course. Centerville has several good runners back from last year's team. Their Moore may be Clarence Hackett's chief rival for No. 1 honors in this area. Caesar Rodney is an unknown quantity since this is their first full harrier season.

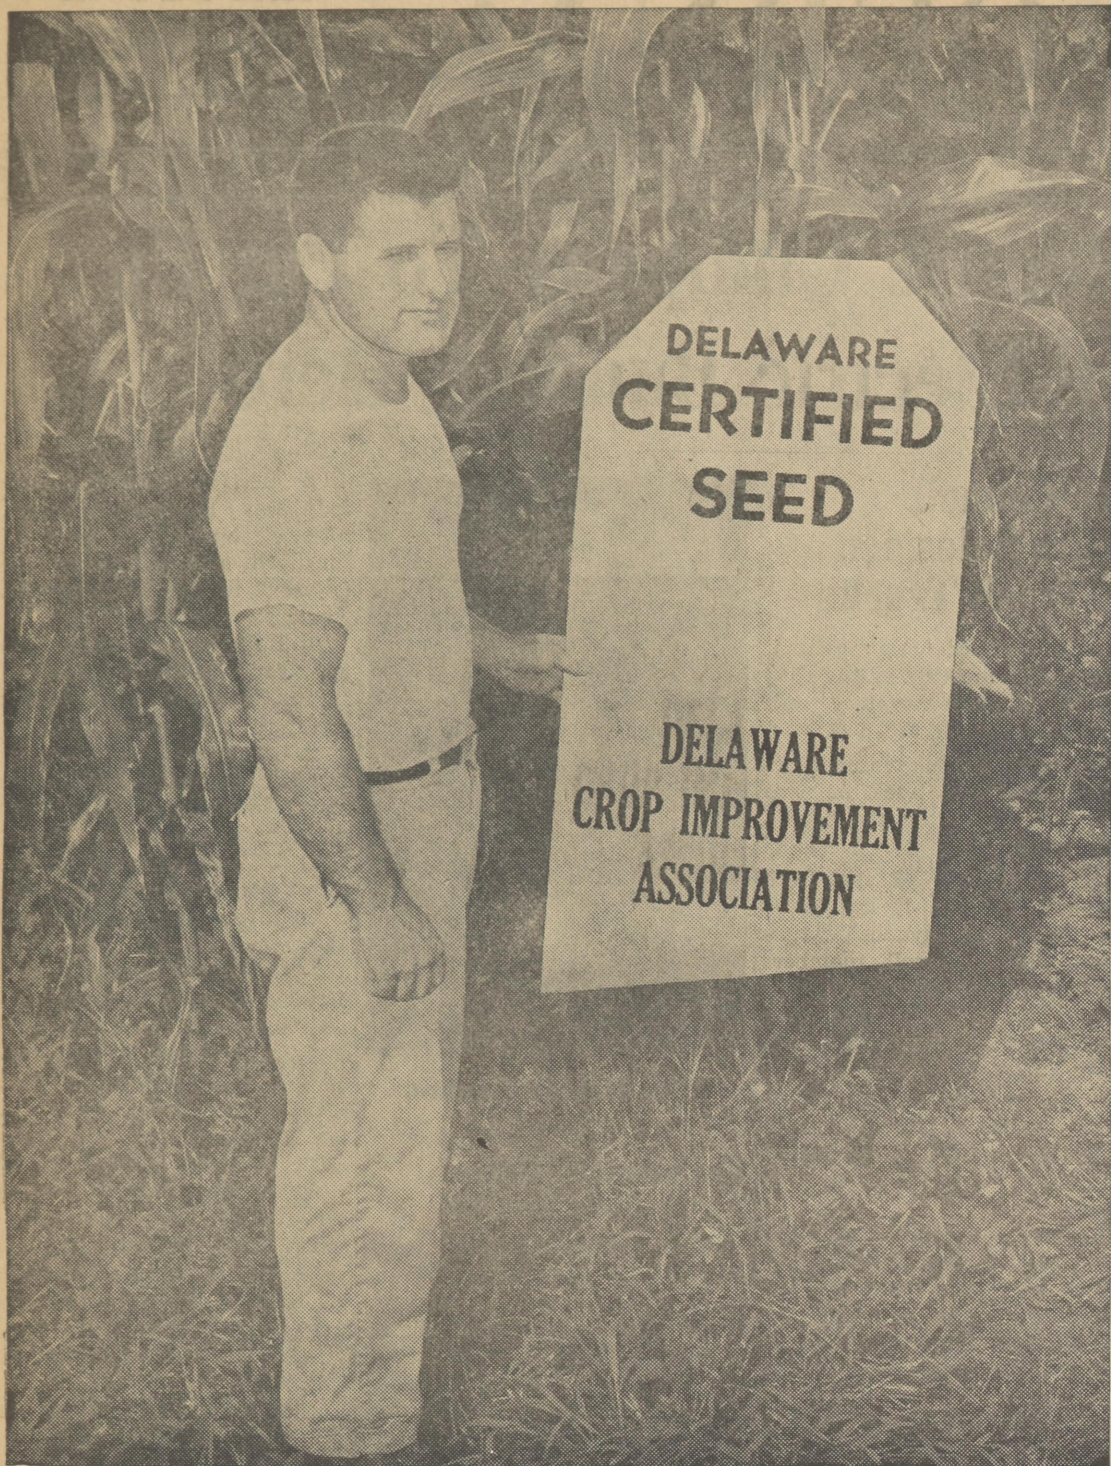

With a top effort needed to stave off his first area defeat since 1959, Coach McDonald takes a different group of runners out to the pond each night. Each lad is aware of his previous best time around the course and is anxious to better it.

Especially heartening are the excellent performances of Allen Wix and Charles Taylor. Neither ran at Milford but they have vaulted over several teammates this week. Still with no time trial on the Lion course, are Don Rothermel, Erwin Rogers and Jim Ralph. Albert Ratledge has no previous athletic experience but his first workout on Tuesday indicates that he will do very well after he learns the ropes.

Mayor Joe was third. Time for the mile was 2:03.1.

Scotch Abbe was favored in the wagering and returned $5.60, $3.40 and $2.50 across the board.

Nos. 2 and 4 combined for a $37.30 daily double when Fox won the first race at $2.70 and Sonny Frost copped the second at $22.70. The total mutuel handle was $1,336,289.

A Big Tag for a Big Grower—Looking forward to a bumper crop of a certified seed corn, Don Clark, of Kenton, proudly displays the "Blue Tag of Quality". Don is the only producer of hybrid seed corn in Delaware. He is a strong supporter of certified seed.

Top Production Starts With Quality Seed

By Dr. William H. Mitchell

Much of the grain going into seed boxes for fall planting is a little better than livestock feed. Grain box surveys all over the country indicate farmers persist in planting seed of lower quality and poor germination.

The average run of seed tested at the Delaware Seed Testing Laboratory in Dover has only 75-80 per cent germination and from 5-15 per cent inert material such as sticks, stones and trash. Also there are often large amounts of noxious weed seeds such as Johnson grass and thistle present.

What does this mean to Delaware farmers? It means poor stands that result in low yields, it means a serious weed threat that can cut production and lower the quality of the end product. It's not unusual to be docked several cents per bushel at the terminal market due to the presence of noxious weeds in the grain.

Many farmers are aware of this problem and have solved it with certified seed. This is seed of known origin that has been carefully inspected for purity of variety, germination and the absence of disease and noxious weed seed. Only after rigid standards have been met is the "Blue Tag of Quality" awarded.

This blue tag assures the purchaser that he is getting seed with 80-90 per cent germination, less than one per cent inert material and no noxious weeds. The price of this assurance is very low when you consider all the other costs of production.

For example, the total cost of growing a bushel of oats is about 65-70 cents. Certified seed represents five to seven cents of this total. That's cheap when you consider all the advantages.

You wouldn't buy a "pig in a poke." Why buy seed you aren't sure of? Look for the Blue Tag, your assurance of quality.

Sow Two Bushel Rate For Wheat and Barley

Winter barley and winter wheat should be seeded at the same rates, according to George Vapaa, Kent county agent.

One and one-half to two bushels (by weight) per acre is the recommended quantity, he says. If it is to be seeded to grass or legumes, this amount should be reduced to no more than one and one-half bushels per acre.

Mr. Vapaa adds that extensive tests with winter wheat indicates that eight pecks per acre gives the "most profitable" yield. But seeding six or seven pecks per acre will only slightly lower yields, he says.

Heavier seeding than usual is advisable if seeding is delayed beyond the normal date because there is less opportunity for the plants to stool.

The "fly free" date has already passed for Kent County, says the agent, so any time is alright to start seeding.

Blood Bank of Del. Changes Policy

Members of the Blood Bank of Delaware who undergo planned hospitalization out-of-state will be eligible for blood under a new policy now in effect.

Blood Bank directors approved a proposal that the bank stand ready to provide up to two pints of blood or pay up to $50 in cash for blood to be administered to a member or his dependent in an out-of-state hospital where a planned operation is performed.

In the past, it was explained to the directors by James F. McCloskey, Blood Bank president, the bank provided out-of-state protection to subscribers and dependents only when an emergency developed when they were on short business or vacation trips.

The secure position of the Blood Bank has made the new policy possible, McCloskey said.

Other facts presented to the directors as the Bank entered its eighth year of service this week were:

Membership in the Blood Bank has reached a record high of 44,041. These subscribers, with their dependents, constitute about one-third of the state's population.

The Blood Bank has met all emergency calls to date from local hospitals.

Under normal conditions, subscribers will be called upon to donate a pint of blood only once in every 10 to 12 years or longer.

At the present time the bank is providing local hospitals with about 25 pints of blood a day, or more than 9,000 pints a year.

In explaining the new plan to the directors, McCloskey said the bank will pay up to $35 for one pint or up to $50 for two pints of out-of-state hospitals when the hospitalization or surgery was arranged for by a Delaware physician. The blood will be provided only within 30 days of admittance into out-of-state hospital.

He emphasized that the plan is being inaugurated on an experimental basis. If it is found the program is no strain on the bank's finances, the quantities of blood may be enlarged in the future.

Dues to members will remain at $1 a year; there is a $1 fee to join for new members, McCloskey said. The expansion of membership and the bank's sound financial condition justify the new program, he added.

An indication of the advances made by the bank, he said, is the new office recently opened in Milford with Richard Bott, eighth full-time employe of the bank, in charge.

Regarding members, McCloskey said: "Many of those donating blood have benefited and now enjoy better health than before. Blood testing required before the blood can be used has uncovered health conditions of subscribers that might not

The conference which is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Services of the four states will be held at the State 4-H Camp at Jackson's Mill, West Virginia.

Delegates to this inspirational meeting will explore the theme "Your Modern World." Workshops, lectures, religious activities and special interest groups will reflect this theme, he said.

Groups invited to send delegates include 4-H Clubs and other extension sponsored groups, Grange, Farm Bureau, Churches, FFA, FHA, YMCA, YWCA, schools and colleges.

The importance of democracy will be outlined by Dr. Charles Vetter of the U. S. Information Agency in Washington. Dr. Vetter has traveled extensively in Russia and is well versed in Russian ideology, Baker said.

Other conference headliners include Maurice Hill, USDA program director for the Northeast states who will explain the purpose and goals of the YMW Conference and J. Dominic Lay, Recruitment Officer for the Peace Corps. Mr. Lay will describe how the Peace Corps functions for world peace.

Delegates of previous years have particularly enjoyed the interesting groups, according to Baker. This year's lineup of interest groups include: "Confidence in Leadership"—Dorothy Emerson, consultant, citizenship and leadership, National 4-H Foundation, Washington, D. C.; "America's Position in a Changing World"—J. P. Schmidt, Professor Emeritus, Rural Sociology Department, Ohio State University; "Companionship", Mrs. Polly Hanst, teacher and homemaker, Oakland, Md.; "Values of Life", Rev. Stacey L. Groscup, pastor, Spruce Street Methodist Church, Morgantown, West Va.; "Responsibility—A Privilege or A Burden?", Donna Gail Plymale, student, West Virginia University.

Fire Safety Urged By Safety Council

There are three kinds of fires and it's wise to know them, a safety official suggested yesterday.

J. James Ashton, manager of the Delaware Safety Council, declared that Delawareans can better help prevent and extinguish fires if they know the three classifications.

Class A: Fires in ordinary materials such as wood, paper, excelsior, rags, rubbish. The quenching and cooling effects of water or of solutions containing large percentages of water are of first importance in extinguishing these fires.

Class B: Fires in such flammable liquids as gasoline, oil, and grease, a blanketing or smothering action is of primary importance on incipient fires of this class. Solid streams of water are likely to spread the fire, but under certain circumstances water fog nozzles prove effective.

Class C: Fires in or near live electrical equipment. A non-conducting extinguishing agent such as carbon tetrachloride, carbon dioxide or dry chemicals has a smothering effect on electrical fires in switchboards, motors and other equipment. Water from a very fine spray can sometimes be used on fires in electrical equipment, as in transformers, since a spray is a poor electrical conductor than a stream of water, and therefore, relatively safer.

Mr. Ashton said it is also useful to remember that there are three components of fire, and that fires can be extinguished by eliminating one or more of the components, in these ways:

1. Eliminate the oxygen of the air. Replace the air with an inert gas, exclude air with a non-combustible cover, or use a chemical which will dilute this oxygen in the air below the point required to support combustion.

2. Remove or shut off the fuel supply. Divert or shut off flow in liquid or gas fuel supply lines; remove the burning fuel by hand or by mechanical means.

3. Reduce the temperature below the ignition point. Cool the burning material with water or chemicals.

Although the use of more than one method generally produces better results, it is important that the most effective method be employed first. For instance, a fire in a small flammable liquid pump room can best be controlled by shutting off the supply of flammable liquid to the room. Then the fire may quickly burn itself out, or other extinguishing methods can more quickly bring it under control.

The season opens October 19 with Jean Girardoux's "Madwoman of Chaillet," directed by Turner Edge. Subsequent major productions include Robert Sherwood's "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," in commemoration of the Civil War Centennial, and Jean Anouilh's dramatization of the old legend, "Antigone."

Season tickets enable holders to see three productions for the price of two. Ticket applicants also may elect to see two University Drama Group plays, "The Curious Savage" and "The Gazebo," or a total of five productions for less than the price of four.

Theatre parties traditionally have been a pleasant and economical way for large groups to attend E 52 productions. For groups larger than ten, E 52 offers considerable reduction in rate of reduction in ticket price, and an increasing rate of reduction for larger parties.

Season ticket and theatre party information is available at the Mitchell Hall box office.

Dover Revenue Office Announces Change In Service

The Dover office of the Internal Revenue Service today announced a forced change in service provided by its Dover branch.

Assistance to taxpayers in the Dover area has in the past been furnished throughout the week by Mrs. Madeline Lord, an office auditor, who has recently resigned.

Because of the difficulty of finding a suitable replacement, it may be some time before the position can be filled.

Meantime H. L. Brown, district director, requests the cooperation of taxpayers served by the Dover office. "Experience shows," Brown said, "that two days is more than adequate to handle the weekly volume of inquiries normally received from taxpayers in Dover and surrounding communities. "For the time being," he continued, "we shall have a revenue agent on duty full time each Monday and Friday for this purpose. With the cooperation of the public in concentrating their inquiries on Mondays and Fridays, we shall thus be able to give practically normal service." Brown stated that there will be no change in assistance during the annual filing period from January 1 to April 15, and that an office auditor will be sent from the Wilmington office as required, to conduct the interview type audits previously handled by the Dover auditor.

variety that has been developed, according to George Vapaa, Kent County agricultural agent. It's called Early Wong.

Early Wong is the same as the regular Wong variety except in maturity. Wong has been a favorite with farmers for the past few seasons because of its stiff straw and disease resistance, the agent says.

Early Wong can be harvested five to seven days earlier than Wong and is just as resistant to lodging and disease.

In tests over the past five years, Early Wong has averaged three to four pounds a bushel heavier than Wong and has equalled it in yields. "These factors add up to a pretty definite advantage for Early Wong," Mr. Vapaa concludes.

Stubble Hay Included For Double Cropping

A change in the provision of the 1962 Wheat and Feed Grain Program provisions will effect many farmers and make it more desirable for them to sign up in these programs, according to Jacob Zimmerman, chairman of the Delaware ASC State Committee. Prior provisions would not allow the harvesting of hay from any acres diverted from barley or wheat production. However, under the new provisions, if a farmer in 1959 or 1960 harvested wheat or barley and then harvested annual vegetables, soybeans as beans or stubble hay on the same land, he may divert wheat or barley acreage in 1962 and still harvest such crops from this acreage. The acreage may not exceed the acreage double cropped in 1959 or 1960. If annual vegetables or soybeans will be planted this year, they may not be planted before July 1, 1962. It should be emphasized that no grazing will be allowed on diverted acreage after January 1, 1962.

Q—Following World War II, I filed a claim for disability resulting from a back injury incurred in service. The claim was not allowed then because no record could be found to show that I had been treated in the service for a back injury. Now, after 16 years, a record of my service hospitalization for the back injury has been found. Will my claim be paid retroactively back to the date I filed it?

A—It may be paid retroactively if the claim is allowed. The service connection would be established by the record of your treatment in the service. Your disability will have to be adjudged at least 10 per cent in order to be compensable. And it will have to be shown to exist still and to have existed during the past 16 years. If you have been hospitalized or treated by a physician for your back injury during this period, such evidence will support your claim that the disability has been continuous.

Q—Since I bought a home with a GI loan, my family has increased. I have used my GI loan rights, but is there any way I can get a supplemental GI loan for remodeling my home to provide additional living quarters?

A—You may get the loan guaranteed by the VA, if the holder of your present mortgage is willing to make the supplemental loan. Eligible veterans may get VA guaranteed supplemental loans for alterations, repairs or improvements needed to maintain their property or to substantially improve the livability of their home.

Q—I understand it is necessary to direct GI insurance to the proper insurance office. How many VA insurance offices still exist?

A—There are three insurance offices: the Federal Center in Denver, Colorado; the VA Center in St. Paul, Minnesota; and the VA District Office in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Q—Approximately how many widows of Confederate War veterans are still living?

A—There were approximately 1200 Confederate widows on VA rolls in June, 1961.

U. S. Farmers Set New Records

American farmers reached new high marks in efficiency of labor and total production last year, according to a recent report by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. In 1960, they turned out three per cent more products with three per cent less labor than the year before.

In its annual revision of the publication, "Changes in Farm Production and Efficiency," the Department reported that last year one farm worker provided food, fiber, and smoking for more than 26 persons, including himself, at home and abroad. This was two more than he was able to supply in 1959 and a dozen more than in 1949.

The report provides statistical comparisons of 1960 with earlier years in production of crops and livestock, man hours of labor, use of fertilizer and machinery, and output per man hour in major types of farming. Free copies of the report (Statistical Bulletin 233—1961 Revision) may be obtained from the Office of Information, USDA, Washington 25, D. C.

The full text of Governor Carvel's statement follows:
"The week of October 16 through 22 has been designated by the Laymen's National Committee as National Bible Week, a period during which Americans everywhere are requested to renew their acquaintance with the Holy Bible, and, in so doing, find the faith, knowledge and hope so sorely needed in these troubled times.

"The first National Bible Week began on a memorable date in our history—December 7, 1941, when we were confronted by a challenge to our continued existence as a free nation. Today, we are faced by an even more serious challenge from a godless ideology that not only threatens our existence as a nation but our very existence as a people. Today, we especially need the faith—the wisdom—the courage that can only be derived from reading—and practicing in our daily lives, the teachings of our God as set down in Holy Writ.

"This great nation was founded by God-fearing people who sought for themselves, their families and the generations to follow, God's greatest gift to man—freedom. From our Nation's earliest days we have turned to God in times of peril and distress and successfully sought of Him consolation, comfort and inspiration. From that "darkest hour" at Valley Forge, when George Washington, on bended knee, prayed for guidance, the leader of this Nation have repeatedly sought this help and have received encouragement and understanding in Holy Scripture.

"I urge all Delawareans to join in the observance of National Bible Week with daily reading of the Holy Bible in their homes and in their places of worship. I hope that such practice will become a habit for all of us, bringing to use the faith and courage to face and successfully cope with the great problems that today confront us."

Delmarva Missing Best Soybean Market

"Delmarva farmers are missing the biggest market for their soybeans," says Francis J. Bock, assistant manager of the Southern States Grain Marketing Cooperative in Baltimore. Speaking at a Corn & Soybean Field Day at the Williams Cross farm near Middletown, Bock pointed out these facts: Japan is the biggest importer of United States soybeans; they buy all of these beans in the Midwest.

The Japanese pay a premium for Illinois beans because of their exceptional quality, according to Bock. These beans are used for human consumption and must meet very rigid standards, he said. "We miss their market because Delmarva beans don't measure up to these standards. There are three production problems that must be overcome, he pointed out. These are: 1) purple mottle, a condition which causes discoloration; 2) uneven size and color due to the many varieties that are grown; and 3) foreign material in the beans which makes them unsuitable for human consumption. Once these production problems are solved, Delmarva should be able to compete for this market."

Corn Results Given
In other developments at the Field Day, Dr. William H. Mitchell, University of Delaware agronomist, reported on the results of corn yield demonstrations at the Georgetown Substation and on the Cross Farm. Twenty-two commercial hybrids were grown under six levels of fertilization for demonstration purposes. "These were not research plots," Mitchell pointed out, "we attempted to demonstrate the results of chance fertilizer applications and seed selection as opposed to a soil test and the selection of a good hybrid properly suited to a particular area. The results were very rewarding," he said. "Yields ranged from a low of 82 bushels per acre to a high of 126 bushels."

Five of the plots received from 0 to 1500 pounds of 10-8-
