In announcing Professor Claesson's arrival, Professor William A. Mosher, chairman of the University of Delaware's department of chemistry, said, "We are greatly honored in having Professor Claesson with us this year. He is one of Europe's most distinguished physical chemists and he has many interests in common with our staff members and other chemists of the Wilmington area. Professor Svedberg, Dr. Claesson's predecessor at Uppsala, assisted in the dedication of Brown Chemical Laboratory and Professor Claesson will be able to help dedicate the new addition to the building. Professor Claesson will teach a course in advanced physical chemistry and give a series of research seminars in his special fields of interest throughout the year. This is a continuation of the department's policy of bringing distinguished American and foreign chemists to our campus."

Thin Shell Concrete Structure Built By Civil Engineers

A thin shell concrete structure in the shape of a hyperbolic paraboloid is attracting attention on the University of Delaware campus.

Constructed by graduate civil engineering students under the direction of Dr. Thomas Brockenbrough, the shell is an example of one of the newer types of structures under study. It stands between DuPont Hall and Academy Street.

The structure measures 16 feet square with a thickness varying from two to three inches. The shell rises three feet, four inches from the corner supports to a height of eight feet, six inches.

Dr. Brockenbrough explains that doubly curved thin shells of this type are capable of spanning considerable distances without beams or girders and are growing acceptance in modern architecture. One such shell under construction in Paris has a clear span of 720 feet and roofs an area of more than five acres.

In the United States shells are seldom thinner than two-and-a-half inches because of building code requirements for protection of reinforcement. In Mexico shells have been successfully constructed as thin as five-eighths of an inch. Thinner shells require edge beams for support. The university's shell is well reinforced with steel rods but does not have edge beams.

The shell will remain on exhibition for the rest of the semester, after which it will undergo tests for strength and capacity.

Another much larger example of modern structures now is under construction behind South Hall. It will be a space framework covered by polyethylene and will resemble half of an eight-sided sphere.

Also a civil engineering graduate project, under the direction of Dr. Robert L. Nicholls, it will house equipment for "trafficability" research study in co-operation with the Delaware State Highway Department.

Soil will be placed in the enclosure and mixed with chemicals for stabilization. Traffic tests will be run on the stabilized soil to prove existing laboratory findings.

The study, in its second year, is tied in with the highway department's planned dirt road improvement program for Kent and Sussex Counties. It is hoped that existing soil can be stabilized to accommodate a hard surface, thereby avoiding the cost of excavation and the hauling in of clay base materials.

The hull of a glass fibre boat 67 feet long has been made in one piece at Portsmouth, England. It is only half an inch thick.

A Russian exploration team has found an active volcano under the Arctic ice floes of the Chukotsk Sea, Moscow announced.

18-MONTH GAS TAX RISE URGED

Gov. Elbert N. Carvel is willing to accept a time-limit of a year and a half on his proposed increase of one-cent a gallon in the state's motor fuel tax.

The governor indicated his willingness to accept a cut-off date of June 30, 1963, at a meeting Tuesday of the Fiscal Policy Commission.

Carvel also told committee members he has picked up the support of eight state senators and now needs only one more vote to put through the increase which has already been passed by the House.

Carvel's willingness to accept a time limit for the gasoline tax was based on his belief that improved economic conditions and the state's growth would provide necessary revenue by the time the increase expires.

Carvel said he based his estimates for Delaware on a business magazine's prediction that federal revenue will rise to 15 billion dollars, which, he argued, should bring a corresponding increase in Delaware of 10 to 15 millions.

Meanwhile, in reviewing the state's current finances with members of the committee, Carvel said the budget is balanced at the moment but that another $1,000,000 will be needed during the present fiscal year, which expires June 30, 1962.

He put forward a financial statement showing an estimated cash balance of $19,621 for the fiscal program now in force.

But, Carvel said, the extra $1,000,000, he is seeking will be necessary to permit appropriation of these items:

A must of $332,000 owed to the federal government for social security payments for state employees; a routine soil conservation appropriation of $42,500; a total of $3,000 to the Southern Regional Education Board; $59,675 in supplementary funds for the University of Delaware; $50,000 for an audit survey; $90,000 for a state planning office and $200,000 for expanding the state police.

Senator Reynolds duPont, Greenville; Reps. William T. Best, Nassau, and T. Lees Bartleson, Brandywine Hundred, all Republicans, urged creation of a state finance department and a central state purchasing office.

Renewed Interest Shown in Ancient Greek Language

There seems to be renewed interest in ancient Greek language among students at the University of Delaware.

The course in elementary Greek has attracted 24 students this semester. Dr. Evelyn Clift, associate professor, said this is the largest enrollment she's had in 20 years as instructor of the course.

Actually 27 signed up to take the class, but three were unable to iron out schedule conflicts. Dr. Clift said the majority of her students are upperclassmen, although nearly half are freshmen.

Dr. William G. Fletcher, chairman of the ancient language curriculum, said he is encouraged by the apparent revived interest in the classics among undergraduates. Enrollment in most department courses is higher than in recent years.

Dr. Clift believes that the relationship between philosophy and the Greeks also is sparking interest in the course. "Many philosophy students are encouraged by their course work to seek out the original texts of the Greek philosophers, such as Homer and Plato," she said.

Whatever the cause, the general decline of interest in ancient languages which most colleges and universities have experienced over recent years appears halted at least at Delaware.

While man of Dr. Clift's past students were pre-ministerial students and the like, most of the current enrollees have no apparent pre-determined motive.

The course, which offers credit only on the completion of two semesters' work, covers all of the fundamentals of Greek grammar, and includes the reading of extracts of some of the shorter dialogues of Plato and brief selections by the famous tragedians.

For those who wish to continue Greek study, Dr. Clift teaches a second year course in which a whole semester is devoted to Plato and the other to the New Testament.

Academic Progress
Miss Ball's tenth grade spanish class has been studying about Spanish schools and their subjects.

One thing that surprised the students was that manual training is a required subject for all schools.

Mon., Oct. 9, Miss Ball gave a quiz to see if the class had been paying attention.

"Mystery of the North" was the name of the story in 10th grades studied in Miss Ball's Spanish Class. The story was about Pizzaro and his men. The students had to read the story in Spanish and then translate it into English. There were exercises and questions at the end of the story to be done. A test was given after the story.

The 10th grade class of agriculture of Harrington High School is studying the "Storage of Grains and Shelled Corn on the Farm." The students will learn about storage of grain under governments laws and government purchase, requirements for bins and grainaries, bin construction, methods of conditioning damp grain, and protecting farm-stored grain from damage by insects.

Mr. Horst's tenth grade biology classes recently observed a paramecium and a protozoa through a microscope. The students had to prepare their own slides by placing a drop of alcohol on a drop of paramecium culture. Then the slip is placed on top of the paramecium culture and alcohol. Now it is ready to be observed.

Students Council Works For Exchange Student

Participation of Harrington in the student exchange program was the main topic of discussion at the Student Council's second meeting Sept. 27.

Guest speakers were A. W. Adams, A. A. Feagan, Mrs. Paskey, the Rev. Olin B. Shockey, and the Rev. John Symonds.

Bringing an exchange student to Harrington will cause a few problems to arise. A place must be found where the student can stay. A great deal of money will be involved and the plan will need one or two more sponsors besides the Council to get enough money.

The Student Council hopes that these problems and others will soon be solved so that a foreign exchange student can be brought to Harrington High School.

The meeting of the Junior Class was held at 9:20 on Oct. 4. Committees were elected for the Junior bake which will be held on October 21, at Kirby and Holloway's Horse Place or at Taylor's Hardware. Everyone is to donate something and an appeal was made to the mothers for help.

Since there is a football game that day, cakes and different kinds of candy will be sold at the game.

This bake will help indetermine the senior trip. A committee was picked for discussing places to visit and the cost.

The committee is as follows: Kenny Garey, Tim Strohl, Tom Milspaw, Warren Bader, Carol McNally, Barbara Jones, Jeanie Thomas, and Faye Needles. The meeting was adjourned by the president at 10:05.

Century Club Notes

The words autumn harvest were brought to mind at the first fall meeting of the Harrington New Century Club Wednesday afternoon at the club house. The occasion was the annual covered dish luncheon for members and guests. As usual the club house was transformed by the arrangements of lovely fall flowers, and the table decorations. The serving table resembled an old fashioned harvest dinner, laden as it was with the special dish of each of the members.

Mrs. Charles L. Peck Jr. president, welcomed the members and guests and praised the hospitality and decorating committees for their work. Mrs. Thomas Clendening was chairman of the hospitality committee with Mrs. Walter Winkler, Mrs. Kenneth D. Aiken, Mrs. Leon J. Kukulka and Mrs. Clyde Perry assisting her. Mrs. Ridgely W. Vane was chairman of the decorating committee assisted by Mrs. Vincent Lobo Jr.

Mrs. Harry John Dill, Jr. introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Clarence Taylor of Wilmington who presented the "Wilmington Garden Tour" via pictures and slides. Mrs. Taylor described each of the gardens shown. Wilmington Garden Day has been held on the first Saturday in May for the past 15 years. The proceeds from the tour are earmarked for the St. Matthew's Community Center and St. Michael's Day nursery.

The next meeting will be held Oct. 24, when the Rev. Olin J. Shockey, minister of Asbury Methodist Church will give "A Cleric's Impression of the Holy Land," and will show the slides he took during his recent European tour. Members of the committee will be Mrs. Cooper, chairman, Mrs. Fred S. Bailey, Mrs. Howard L. Sipple, Mrs. Loren B. Harrington, Rev. Mrs. Lorraine Ottinger, Mrs. Reese B. Harrington, and Mrs. Theodore H. Harrington.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—I am an Air Force Reservist. Is it true if I am recalled to active military duty I do not have the protection of rights under the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act that returning servicemen of the other branches of service have?

A—This Act, passed before creation of the U. S. Air Force as an independent branch of the service, did not include Air Force personnel. However, subsequent legislation blanketed them for full coverage of rights extended other servicemen under the Act.

Q—How do I apply for an improvement loan on my GI home?

A—If your original loan was a VA guaranteed loan, contact your lender or holder of your mortgage. If you got a direct home loan from the VA, contact the VA Regional Office that made you the loan.

Q—What is the new deadline date allowing Korea veterans the maximum time to get a GI loan?

A—Korea veterans are allowed ten years from the date of their separation from service plus one year for every three months of their active wartime service in which to secure a GI loan. All have until January 31, 1965, as a minimum date, whether their service would entitle them to that date or not. The maximum date beyond which a loan may not be made is January 31, 1975.

Q—Does the VA still operate a hospital at Fort Logan, Colorado?

A—No, the hospital, buildings and most of the grounds have been turned over to the state and is no longer a VA installation.

X-Rays
help your doctor and your hospital pinpoint your injury or ailment

Your doctor specifies the kind and type of x-ray he believes you need. Blue Cross and Blue Shield do not pay toward the cost of x-rays that are not indicated by the condition for which you were admitted. X-ray is a share-the-cost benefit in your contract. You share the cost of x-rays with the plan. This sharing helps control the use of x-ray and the cost of x-ray for each of us. We both save if you use x-ray conservatively. It helps keep Blue Cross and Blue Shield rates down, since dues for this non-profit organization reflect only the actual cost of payments to hospitals and physicians, less the amount necessary to administer the plan, and anticipate emergency needs through a reserve fund.

H.H.S. Harriers Loss Is First Since '59

Coach Harold McDonald's Harrington High cross-country team suffered its first loss since 1959 when North Carolina High of Denton, Md. nosed the Lions by two points on the Killen's Pond course Thursday afternoon. Low score counts in cross-country. The winners had 31, Harrington 33, Centreville, Md. 68 and Caesar Rodney 110.

H.H.S. last was beaten in October of 1959 by this same Bulldog squad. In 1958 South Dorchester, Md. High bested the locals in the Harrington Invitational. Thus, in four years of cross-country the Lions have been beaten only three times. Each time the margin was a slim two points.

The 1961 Lions are a young team with only one senior, Allen Wix, and four juniors, Clarence Hackett, Ken Garey, Jeff Adams, and Bill Sollars. For Thursday's tilt Adams and Sollars were nursing sore legs as was Charley Taylor. Wix had been in training for only four days so was not in top shape, either. A healthy H.H.S. team might have avoided the first loss in 14 starts.

Clarence Hackett again was an easy winner as he lowered the course record of 13.05 to 12.59. The distance covered was between 2.4 to 2.5 miles. Ken Garey continued to amaze as he ran the race faster for the sixth straight time. Garey was tired from a grueling football workout on Wednesday but still had enough left to easily defeat Centreville's Moore. Moore had been touted as second only to Hackett in this area.

The youthful Harrington team was primed for a superior effort against the well-balanced Marylanders. The first 11 Lions to finish ran the course faster than they had ever done before. In all, 14 or 17 locals achieved this feat.

Dennis Rogers, a hustling freshman, is currently No. 3 on the squad. He knocked off another 16 seconds Thursday and finished eighth in the field of 48 runners. Allen Wix chopped off 20 seconds and nabbed 10th spot. Wayne Carson, a sophomore, sliced off 20 seconds and took 12th position. Charles Taylor and Jeff Adams ignored their gimpy gams and became the last two Lions to figure in the scoring. Adams lowered his personal course record by 21 seconds. Bob Smith and Milt Smdzja continued to improve as they beat many older runners. Albert Ratledge, in training for only four days, ran a good race and is starting to close in on lads with a couple of years in the business.

Unbeaten Easton will be here along with Millsboro in a triangular meet today (Friday) at 4:15 p.m. Easton defeated North Carolina in the latter's opener two weeks ago. The Lions have a chance to win because the locals are improving rapidly. Wednesday afternoon another triangular meet will take place between Harrington, Milton and Millsboro, here.

Middletown Drubs H.H.S. Gridders, 27-0.

Harrington High's battered football Lions were blanked for the second straight week as they took it on the chin from the Middletown High Cavaliers by a score of 27-0. The winners scored in every period and had three more touchdowns called back because of penalties.

The Cavaliers 1961 team may be the strongest ever to represent the New Castle County School. With three victories in five starts the upstarters have already equalled their school record for most victories in a season. Gary Simendinger, who sparked in a contest here last year, scored three touchdowns and three extra points to take over the New Castle County football scoring lead with 41 points. The clever stop-and-go back scored with runs of 54, 17 and 50 yards, as he set a new Middletown yardage record with 249 yards in only 11 carries. Simendinger is a junior, which is bad news for Cavalier opponents in 1962.

Tom Shallcross, another star here in 1960, scored in the fourth quarter on a five yard run. The Lions were hampered severely because of an early injury to Barry Fry, limited use of Bill Porter, in addition to various and sundry other ailments. Fry, a promising sophomore quarterback, suffered a broken leg when he was tackled on the sidelines and fell against a yardage marker. Fry underwent an operation on the leg on Monday. Last year David Hitchens, also a quarterback broke his leg. Porter was used sparingly because of injuries to his side incurred in the Lord Baltimore game.

Several other lads have been rendered hors-de-combat at one time or another including John Masten, Charles Taylor, Ron Melvin, Bob Smith, etc. Since the local squad is comparatively inexperienced it makes it doubly hard to reach the win column when a rash of injuries are sustained.

Saturday afternoon the Eagles of North Dorchester High, Shiloh, Md. will be met on the local gridiron. The visitors always have a weight advantage on Harrington but all three previous tilts have been close with the Lions winning one and losing two. At Shiloh last year H.H.S. had a 7-0 halftime lead and scored again in the second half. Unfortunately, Coach Bill Smith had only eleven men fit to play and the Eagles rallied to win. Little is known of North Dorchester this season except that they won from a large Maryland Western Shore school, Southern High of Lothian, Md.

1961 Soybean County Support Rates Set

Prices for 1961 crop soybeans will be supported at $2.25 per bushel for Grade No. 2 soybeans in Kent County, R. Harry Wilcox, chairman, Kent County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, announced this week. This compares with a rate of $1.80 per bushel for the 1960 soybean crop.

To be eligible for price support under the 1962 operation, the chairman pointed out, the soybeans must have been produced in 1961, and the producer of the crop in 1961 must have maintained his 1959-60 average of conserving and idle land on the farm. No change has been made in the premium-and-discount schedule for soybeans under the 1961 support program. Except for moisture content, which cannot be more than 14 percent, minimum requirements for support eligibility correspond to requirements for Grade No. 4 soybeans.

As in the past, price support will be carried out through farm and warehouse storage loans and purchase agreements, which will be available from harvest through Jan. 31, 1962. The maturity date for loans will be May 31, 1962. Further information about the 1961 crop soybean price support program may be obtained from the County ASC Office.

Ducks Unlimited Launches Biggest Drive in History

In order to "keep 'em flying," Maryland chapter of Ducks Unlimited yesterday launched the biggest membership drive in its 23-year history. Behind the drive for new members and added funds is the realization that the migratory waterfowl of North America face a serious crisis despite continuous work in Canada to provide and maintain wetland area where ducks can nest.

The central Canadian provinces—Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba—have suffered through five years of drought. Experts are doubtful that some late season rainfall came in time to help nesting and feeding and boost the shrinking duck crop this year.

"Our goal this year is to increase our Ducks Unlimited membership by 1,000," Donnell Smith, Maryland chairman, said. "Hard-working committees have been set up in 18 Maryland counties. If they reach the goal in Maryland, this will substantially help our program in Canada and put Maryland on the map where it should be as one of the strong D. U. states."

The membership drive kicks off on October 12. Minimum membership fee is $5 a year, though many enthusiastic duck hunters give anywhere up to $200 each.

The Ducks Unlimited program was set up nationally in 1938 to help bring back a fast-disappearing duck population.

Federal duck stamp funds cannot legally be used outside the United States, despite the fact that more than 65 per cent of all migratory waterfowl originate in the Canadian breeding grounds. Funds collected through memberships are devoted to wetland and marsh reclamation programs—in this case returning parched lands to ponds and marshes through damming of creeks and drainage projects.

This work began in 1938 when the first few dollars collected by Ducks Unlimited began to pour into the Canadian restoration of breeding and feeding areas.

The three Canadian provincial governments donate all or part of the land or its cost, if held by private owners. The American organization then pays for part or all of the reclamation work.

"In 1935, the American Fish and Wildlife Service said the waterfowl count was down to less

Economizing Will Help, But Not Solve, All the State's Financial Woes

The average businessman knows, when he is in financial difficulties, that economizing will not solve all his problems; he knows that he must either raise prices or step out and get more business.

The average businessman knows, as a rule, he is answerable only to himself.

Conversely, a governmental unit is always unanswerable to the many facets of the public. The population increases rapidly and, with it, a more complex society which demands services out of proportion to its numbers.

Thus, harp as we may, the state's financial problems are only alleviated by economizing, and not cured. Were the electorate to make less demands, the state would be better off. However, the necessary wants of an increased population can only be solved by an increase in revenue and taxes.

The State of Delaware, in some departments, is economizing. We do not guess, we know, that the State Highway Department has been saving on its purchases of printing and paper. The Secretary of State's office has been saving on printing. The State Board of Health, with Amos Burke, purchasing agent, has saved tremendously by ordering its paper and office supplies once a year on advertised bids.

We know there is room for improvement in the buying of many other state agencies. Advertise the bids and buy in quantity. But economizing will not solve all the state's financial problems. We need more taxes.

No Pesticide Problem, Bray Says

Pesticides play a vital role in the production of high quality foods in the United States, says Dr. Dale Bray, University of Delaware entomologist. They contribute to the most efficient agriculture in the world.

They help to make Americans the healthiest and best fed people on earth.

Pesticides can, and are, doing these things without endangering public health, says Bray. The important thing is to use them according to directions on the label. There have been no cases of death or even illness traceable to pesticides used according to label instructions, he says.

Manufacturers are required by law to prove that their products can be used in such a manner as to guarantee that no harmful residues will remain on treated crops or in the meat and milk of animals. It is not uncommon for manufacturers to spend thousands and even millions of dollars on research to back up their claims and insure that the public is protected.

Once a pesticide reaches the shelves of a dealer, it then becomes the responsibility of the purchaser to see that directions for use are followed, Bray says. There is no room for carelessness, delusion, skepticism or irresponsibility. If the purchaser misuses the chemical, then all the safeguards that have been painstakingly set up are to no avail.

True enough, if the misuser is "discovered" he is subject to legal action, and the contaminated crop or livestock produce can be confiscated. Of more importance is the fact that he is not "playing fair" and may be endangering the health of his own family as well as the health of others.

There is really not problem, the entomologist says. It is simply a matter of reading the label and doing exactly as it says.

Termites... Or Flying Ants?

Many a homeowner in a state of "shock", has confused termites with flying ants, says George Vapaa, Kent County agent. This confusion is understandable since these two insects closely resemble each other, he says.

Before you panic and spend a lot of money for control measures, the agent suggests you take a closer look.

A difference in wing size is the easiest way to tell them apart. The termite's front and back wings are the same size. But the ant's front wings are larger than its back wings.

Another point to consider is that termites swarm from February until June or July. But ants swarm from February until November. So it's a good bet that insects swarming now are not termites.

Worker termites are always white. But worker ants may be black, yellow, tan or almost red. White objects seen in any colonies are larvae and eggs.

The body structure of termites also distinguishes them from ants. Mr. Vapaa explains that both insects have three main segments—a head, thorax or middle section and abdomen. Because the thorax and abdomen are bluntly joined together, termites are often called blunt-waisted insects. Ants, however, have the thorax and abdomen joined together with a slight restriction, giving them a thin-waisted appearance.

So if you think termites have invaded your home, take a closer look at one of the little fellers and examine him closely. "Chances are," Mr. Vapaa says, "they're only flying ants."

conference will be the preacher for the mission. The Rev. Miller will be leading the congregation in singing and preaching each evening of the week. In addition, Rev. Miller will hold a pre-service magic show for the children each evening. We hope that all of our people will keep this week free of engagements and plan now to attend each service. The Rev. Miller is an ordained minister of the gospel with over ten years of preaching experience in evangelical churches. He considers his magic show for young people as an end, reaching children, youth, and young adults with a message of vital christianity made understandable with magical illustrations.

The annual week of prayer and self-denial service sponsored by the Woman's Society of Christian Service will be held on Sunday night, November 5th.

Artificial Breeding Of Hogs Practical

"Synchronized breeding" may be the only practical system of artificial insemination of hogs, says Dr. John H. Shropshire, University of Delaware livestock specialist.

If artificial insemination of hogs is going to work, the females to be bred must come into heat at the same time. Then they can be bred at the same time. Otherwise each female must be bred as she comes into heat. This is more trouble than it's worth, Shropshire says, because: (1) hogs are not usually handled individually, (2) it's difficult to accurately detect heat and (3) hogs come into heat any time during a three-week period.

With synchronized breeding, however, females come into heat simultaneously. Here's the experimental procedure that is being used to make this possible:

A female sex hormone is mixed with the feed going to sows and gilts. The hormone prevents them from coming into heat. When it is time to breed the females, they are returned to a normal diet. Within a few days, most of the females come into heat at the same time. Then they can be bred.

Savings in time and labor are among the biggest advantages of synchronized breeding, Shropshire said. Farmers can plan their breeding and farrowing schedules for a predetermined five-day period instead of the 30 days it usually takes.

Offspring are more uniform in age—making them easier to handle, feed and sell. Farmers can also plan their breeding programs so that animals can be marketed at the most advantageous times.

Shropshire says work has been going on at the University of Illinois for several years to perfect synchronized breeding. Results have become more and more encouraging, he says.

Handling Important to Feeder Cattle

Improper buying, transporting and handling of feeder cattle not only affects their health but slashes on the farmer's profits, according to George Vapaa, Kent County agricultural agent.

Cattle that have been on the road or in the market for long periods may be weakened, exposed to disease and hard to get on feed. Also, they may be showing unhealthy symptoms such as nasal discharge, diarrhea or roughened haircoats, he says.

It is important to buy and move cattle during good weather the agent says so that they will not become chilled and susceptible to disease.

Stresses caused by shipping can be avoided, by preventing conditions that cause overcrowding, fatigue and disruption of watering and feeding habits. Trucks or rail cars used for shipping should be disinfected, and the area where the animals are unloaded should be sanitary.

During the first two weeks the cattle are on the farm, they should be observed carefully and handled only when absolutely necessary, according to Mr. Vapaa. Handling may cause excitement and further weakening. Operations such as dehorning and castration should be postponed for at least two weeks.

If animals seem depressed, breathe rapidly and have diarrhea or nasal discharge, they should be isolated until a veterinarian can examine them, concludes the agent.

When Your Freezer Stops

By Miss Janet Coblentz

No matter what the weather, when your home freezer stops, there's bound to be trouble. How much trouble depends upon how much you know about handling the situation.

There are several steps you can take to keep your food from spoiling.

Keep the freezer closed. Move the food to a locker plant.

Add dry ice if you can get it. Can the food if necessary.

In a closed, fully-loaded freezer, food usually stays frozen about two days after the electricity goes off. With less than half a load, probably won't last more than a day.

If you think it may take longer than a day or so to get your freezer back in shape, you might use your local locker plant. Wrap the food in plenty of newspapers and blankets or use insulated boxes, then make the trip from the freezer to locker as quickly as possible.

Dry ice is another possibility. The more dry ice you use, the longer the food will keep frozen. Fifty pounds will keep the temperature down to 15 degrees F. for about two days in an average-size freezer. For added protection, cover the freezer with blankets or quilts. It will help to put crumpled newspapers or excelsior between the cabinet and the blankets.

If worse comes to worse, you can always can the food.

Fruits, however, can be refrozen even though they thaw out. They may not be as tasty, but a little fermentation will not make fruits dangerous to eat.

Be careful, though, about refreezing thawed meats and poultry. They become unsafe to eat as soon as they start to spoil. Also, don't refreeze vegetables, shellfish, or cooked foods if they have thawed completely. Get rid of them. They may be dangerous!

Leucosis: Top Poultry Threat

Leucosis is the greatest disease threat in the poultry industry, according to George Vapaa, Kent County agent.

Outbreaks of leucosis are increasing. Losses are 10-20 percent greater in flock five to 20 weeks old, he notes, and so far we have no adequate program of treatment or control.

An aggressive research program is under way on leucosis. A breakthrough on vaccine, the most logical method of control, may be near, he indicates, but we need a lot of answers before specific controls can be developed.

Leucosis in poultry is similar to cancer in man and animals, according to Mr. Vapaa. It seems to be of viral origin; but how many viruses are involved in the many forms of leucosis is still a mystery.

"Thunder of Drums" At REESE Oct. 22-23

Never in history has the Reese Theatre had the privilege to present so many "all family programs. With the coming of Candy Moore in "The Tomboy and the Champ" along with Rex, the Wonder Dog, plus a giant Cartoon Circus, the family takes over and surely mother, dad and all the kids are going to have a big time at Movie Center this Friday and Saturday, Oct. 20 and 21.

Critics are great in their praise of MGM's "A Thunder of Drums" scheduled for showing Sunday and Monday, Oct. 22 and 23 not only with a great cast including Richard Boone, George Hamilton, Urial Luft, and Robert Rivard. Reviewers have gone so far to say "A Thunder of Drums" is the finest outdoor picture ever produced. Acting, direction, and presentation dwarfs any picture of its type offered in the past few years.

Walt Disney's "Nikki," wild Dog of the North, comes to Movie Center Fri. and Sat., Oct. 27 and 28.

French steelmakers have the contract to construct the proposed $164 million steel plant at Bone, Eastern Algeria.

Mexico is expected to limit automobile imports almost entirely to cars for assembly in Mexico. Quotas will favor small cars.

Iraq is preparing to build the first units of Baghdad University, for $8.4 million.

Advantages and Disadvantages of Corporate Farming Cited

Most farmers, until recently looked at a corporation as a large business with vast holdings and a board of directors. Few farmers visualized their farm as a possible corporation.

W. T. McAllister, extension farm management specialist at the University of Delaware reports however this attitude is now changing. While few farmers have actually made the change over, several are exploring the advantages and problems of incorporating their farm business.

McAllister attributes this attitude change to three things: (1) increased capital requirements of modern farming; (2) the need for more flexible ways of transferring farm property between generations; and (3) recent changes in the federal income tax law, which provides for certain small businesses to file and pay their income tax law as individuals rather than paying the corporate rate of tax.

McAllister believes there are five advantages and four disadvantages of organizing a farm as a corporation. The advantages are:

1. A farm business corporation provides a way for a farm to be continuously operated as a unit, even at the death of one of the major stockholders, rather than being dissolved or broken into small, inefficient units.

2. Since ownership in a corporation is represented by shares of stock, these shares can be divided among family members in any manner desired. Stock may be sold, given away, or inherited. Ownership may be transferred as a child becomes of age, or at the death of a shareholder without subdividing the farm.

3. Generally, stockholders are not personally liable for the debts of the corporation. They risk only their investment in stock owned. Whereas, with a single proprietorship or a partnership, the owners are liable for the debts of the business.

4. Capital can be obtained through the sale of stock, bonds, or debentures. This permits stockholders to invest and participate in ownership without sharing in the responsibility of management. The continuous operation of a corporation tends to make long-term loans more attractive to lending agencies.

5. Stockholders who are employees or officers of the corporation are eligible for certain fringe benefits; such as health and accident insurance, workman's compensation, and Social Security coverage.

Now, for the disadvantages of incorporating a farm:

1. If you incorporate, you must keep more records on the farm business than most farmers now keep. Once chartered under state law, a stockbook, minutes of meetings, statement of assets and liabilities, and financial records and accounts must be kept. In addition, Franchise Tax and Income Tax returns must be filed for the corporation.

2. In a single proprietorship, farm profits are taxed only as income of the operator. Corporate profits, which are distributed as dividends, may be subject both to Corporate Income Taxes and to Individual Income Taxes. Furthermore, at the lower income levels the Corporate Tax rate is higher than the personal income tax rate. However, a recent income tax law, which allows certain small business corporations to report the tax as a partnership, has helped overcome the corporate tax disadvantage.

3. There are several small expenditures required to start a corporation. There are fees and taxes for filing and recording the Articles of Incorporation, fees for legal and accounting advice, Federal Stamp Tax on issuance of shares of stock, and State Initial Franchise Tax.

4. A farm owner-operator makes his own decisions about what, how much, and how to produce. However, the activities of a corporation are restricted by law, The Articles of Incorporation, and By-Laws.

McAllister suggests that a farmer see his county agricultural agent if he desires more information on incorporating his farm.

Harrington Teachers Organize

The Harrington Teachers Association met for the first session of the 1961-62 school term with Miss Jennie Morris, president, in charge. A review of the school year so far noted that a faculty picnic sponsored by the local organization was held on the opening day of school, Sept. 5, at Wheeler's Park, while a reception for the faculty was sponsored by the Harrington Parent Teachers Association the following evening and was held in the school cafeteria.

Both the Harrington Teachers Association and the PTA honored the new teachers at both of these opening sessions. They are Mrs. Alexandra Mulcahy, second grade; Rufus Bausell, 7th grade; Patrick Emeigh, Junior High general science; Hubert Mock, mathematics; William Santo, physical education, and Mrs. Sara Webb, home economics.

Activities among the teachers include extension work sponsored by the University of Delaware both in Newark and Dover. Mrs. Phyllis Greenhaugh, special teacher, is taking "European Civilization" at Dover; Mrs. Robert Baynard, and Mrs. William Smith are both studying "Basic Human Development" at Dover, and Mr. James Hawpe, 6th grade teacher, is taking the "Foundation of Reading" at Newark.

Other activities include a TV project sponsored by the Maryland State Department of Education through station WBOC-TV, and available during the day to Harrington Teachers. Begun on Oct. 3 and continuing through May of 1962 on the first and third Tuesdays of every month from 3 to 3:30 p.m., Dr. Mauro presents through this Channel 16, modern concepts about the teaching of arithmetic. After each presentation, the teachers meet in groups and discuss the ideas that were presented and make plans to implement them into their daily teaching.

Other officers of the Harrington Teachers Association other than Miss Morris are Mrs. William Kramedas, vice president; William Horst, treasurer, and Mrs. William Smith, secretary.

Committee chairmen or representatives are: Harold McDonald, credit union representative; Alan Rutledge, legislative committee representative; Leon Donovan, building representative; Floyd Nasser, parliamentarian; Mrs. Charlotte Brobst, chairman of the sunshine committee, and Melvin Brobst, chairman of public relations.

Faculty changes for the current year are Leon Donovan to teach and supervise music in the elementary school, seventh grade, and assist with the high school glee club; Leland Milspaw to teach fifth grade; James Hawpe to teach sixth grade; and a change of status was incurred when the office of guidance counselor was renamed that of coordinator of pupil personnel service with Alan Rutledge officiating in this capacity.

Representative delegates to the Delaware State Education Association this month are: Alan Rutledge, Rufus Bausell, Mrs. Mary Dolby, and Mrs. Clara West. Alternates are Mrs. Minnie Slaughter, Mrs. Robert Baynard, Mrs. Emma Marvel, John Curtis, and Archie Peagan.

Enlistments At Peak

The U. S. Army Recruiting Main Station in Philadelphia announced recently that young men of America are still answering President Kennedy's "call to arms" in record numbers. A total of 381 Philadelphia area (which includes the Delaware area) youths enlisted in the regular Army during the month of September, which was 165.6% of the Philadelphia assigned quota.

Major James H. Bagwell, Commanding Officer of the Philadelphia U.S.A. Recruiting Main Station, stated that this was the highest number of monthly Army enlistments in Philadelphia ever attained in peacetime.

Horizontal Silo Asset or White Elephant

A horizontal silo can be a real asset or it can cost you money, says George Vapaa, Kent County agricultural agent. If it's properly constructed and located in the right place it will provide excellent facilities for handling silage. On the other hand, it can easily become a white elephant, he says.

Many trench and bunker silos have been abandoned because they became inaccessible during prolonged wet periods or heavy snows, he explained.

Your use and opinion of the horizontal silo depends on four important factors, the agent says. Location: locate where it is convenient to remove silage and where surface water from the surrounding area will not drain into it.

Floor and sides: a solid floor is absolutely necessary. Solid walls are desirable as earth sides tend to crumble away.

Preservation: fast fermentation means good silage. Forage should be packed immediately to exclude air.

Surface Cover and Leaching: covers that seal horizontal silos feed losses more than might be indicated by comparing the spoilage layers with those in uncovered silos.

Mr. Vapaa points out that USDA researchers found plastic covers reduced spoilage about half. Visible spoilage in sealed and unsealed bunkers accounted for only one-seventh of the total dry feed loss. The invisible loss is caused by seepage and gas losses, he says.

Orchard grass ensiled in an uncovered bunker lost 37 percent of its dry matter, compared to a loss of only 19 percent in the covered one. These workers figure that the cover saved about 10 pounds of dry matter per square foot of silo surface. This much dry silage is normally worth at least 15 cents. A plastic seal five millimeters thick costs only about two cents per square foot. One this basis, the cover is worth the money, even if it's used only one season, Mr. Vapaa said.

Covers used in the study were anchored to the surface of the silage by covering with three inches of sawdust.

Election Time Nears for ASC Committeemen

Farmers in Kent County, were reminded today by Joseph W. Ennis, vice chairman of the Kent ASC County Committee, that elections will be held to name an Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee for each agricultural community for 1962. To be elected are a committee chairman, vice chairman, regular member, and two alternates in each community.

Mr. Ennis also pointed out that the number of communities for ASC purposes has been increased from five to nine. This will provide for a better representation of all the farms in the county with federal farm programs.

The new ASC Communities are the same as the representative districts except that the 5th and 7th communities are combined to make the 5th community. These elections are held annually. This year they are scheduled for Nov. 20th, and will be conducted by a secret mail ballot. The slate of nominees to be placed on the ballot for each of the above communities will be prepared by the present community committeemen. Petitions to have an eligible farmer's name placed in nomination will be received also at the county office in Dover until 4:30 p.m., Oct. 31 if signed by 10 or more eligible ASC voters. The names of ten persons from each community so nominated will be placed on the ballot if they are willing to serve and are eligible, and a ballot will be mailed to every voter in the county on November 10.

These community elections will be followed by the county convention for the purpose of electing the county ASC Committee for 1962. The chairman of each community committee elected will be the community delegate to the county convention.

Farmers eligible to vote in the elections are all those who have an interest in a farm as owner, tenant, or sharecropper. Each voter likewise must be enrolled in at least one of the programs administered locally by the ASC Committee, such as, wool incentive program, soil bank program, marketing quota-price support program, facility loan program, agriculture conservation program (ACP), wheat stabilization program or the feed grain program.

Anyone with questions concerning the forthcoming election is urged to contact his present committeemen or the county office in Dover. Phone: RE 4-3078.

Greenwood

Annual homecoming at historic church: The 182nd anniversary service of St. Johnstown Methodist Church will be held Sunday, Oct. 22, at 2:30 in the afternoon. The Rev. Charles Carpenter, of Avenue Methodist Church of Milford will be the guest speaker. Special music will be provided by the Mervine trio of Greenwood and also by Dr. Carpenter. The Rev. Miss Muriel C. Smith is the minister of this church, located about one mile east of Greenwood. In addition to the speaker of the afternoon and the special musical guest, other local ministers will be invited to take part in this service. Our school cafeteria menu for the week of October 23-27: Monday, cheeseburger, buttered peas, coleslaw, rice pudding, milk; Tuesday: spaghetti with meat sauce, tossed salad, hot biscuit and butter, canned apricots, milk; Wednesday: chicken and potato pie, mixed vegetables, raisin biscuit and butter, pear half, milk; Thursday: no school; Friday: no school.

We regret the passing of Miss Elsie Mae Leight of Greenwood who died recently at Somers Point, N. J. where she was in a nursing home. She had ill several weeks.

She was born in Philadelphia 60 years ago but had lived most of her life in the Greenwood area where she operated a small country store at Oakley, near here. She was a member of St. Johnstown Church.

Surviving is one brother, James H. Leight of Indian River, Fla. The boys of Explorer Post No. 242 and Troop No. 242 returned from a weekend at the Brandywine Raceway, quite tired, but extremely proud of their accomplishment.

The members of Explorer Post No. 242 stole the show with the exhibition of the 1924 model "T" Fire truck that they have worked so hard on for the past month and a half to restore. They were proudly busy during the entire exhibition answering the questions of the many admirers of their handiwork. Some of them experienced antique restorers who had heard of the project and stopped by to admire it; others were firemen of the Wilmington area who visited the exhibition expressly to see this restored piece of equipment. Many friends of Greenwood residents from entire Delmarva Peninsula stopped by to congratulate the boys.

This has been a unique service project in the annuals of Exploring, and a truly wonderful experience for the boys of the Post. They have spent 1200 to 1400 hours on the project and traveled over 1200 miles looking for parts and completing the necessary repairs. The support given the project has been very gratifying. They have received help from as far away as Conshohocken, Pa., where Larry Spence and Charles Elliott spent two days at the factory of the Hale Fire Pump Co. helping the company's best mechanics to completely rebuild the pump. Ranging south to Salisbury with the Peninsula Goslee Company's Electro-plating Department helping with the chrome plating of many old parts that was so necessary to enhance the beauty of this fine old truck.

Not to be overlooked is the local support that was so generously given. The experience that the Post members gained by working with our local experts who served as counselors has been invaluable. Richard W. Allen served as counselor of the body work and painting. His years of experience in this work shared with these boys enabled them to clean, sand and prepare the body for painting. It was then removed to his shop for final painting. Kenneth Hubbard and Charles Donovan worked with the Post as mechanical counselors. They have both had lots of experience in the maintenance and repair of fire trucks as well as Model "T" Fords, and with their help the motor was completely overhauled.

Other major sources of help have been from Mrs. Mary Harrison's upholstery shop in beautifully reupholstering the seat. Allen's Radiator Shop rebuilt the radiator and Brooks Bell added the gold lettering and stripping to finish the job. Added to this list are all of those who helped us to locate parts and made monetary donations.

No to be outdone by their older brothers the boys of Boy Scout Troop No. 242 received the distinction of having one of the best Troop exhibits displayed at the exhibition with the help of Norman Hamstead, troop committeeman. They displayed equipment that the troop made out of tin cans. This consisted of complete cooking equipment, including a reflector over made by assistant patrol leader, Jeffrey Smith. Patrol leader, Bill Post, and Scout Craig Prettyman made beautiful study lamps from tin cans. Other items included bird feeders and candle holders. They tell me that other scout leaders stopped by for more information on their work and even sketches to take back to their troops.

School Ground Improvement
The Board of School Trustees is continuing the improvement of the school property by filling the swampy area which separates the playground from the land purchased for the proposed athletic field. Several thousand pounds of filled dirt have already been hauled in and leveled by a bulldozer. It is hoped that additional filter can be obtained for this purpose in the near future. Work on the athletic field is still delayed pending passage of a bill by the State Legislature, which would supply $17,000 in state funds. The bill has already passed the House of Representatives and is waiting approval by the Senate.

Benefits Cited In Sewage Plan

The Lewes' new $1,400,000 sewage disposal system is expected to make life more pleasant for boating parties on the Lewes-Rehoboth Canal.

Bayard Coulter, manager of the Lewes Department of Public Works, said Tuesday the present disposal system, which dumps sewage disposal into the canal, has caused some embarrassment as well as unsanitary situations around the waterway.

One incident, Coulter said, involved a shipboard cocktail party which seemed to be doing fine until the boat passed by a "belching sewage pipe," and took on more than water.

The new primary treatment system, scheduled for completion by next October, will provide an underwater pipeline from the Lewes "mainland" to Lewes "beach" where the new infiltration treatment plant will be located.

Coulter said two referenda were required to raise financing for the system to be installed by W. B. Mitten & Son, Dover; George & Lynch, Inc., Dover; and Edgell Construction Co., Inc., also from Dover.

Federal funds will finance about $300,000 of this project, Coulter said. Gardner and Sterling Construction Engineers, Salisbury, designed the new system.
