

CARVEL BARS NEW TAX HIKE

Highly optimistic about business conditions next year, Gov. Elbert N. Carvel said Tuesday he sees no reason for additional taxation in Delaware during 1962.

The governor at his press conference said all indications point to a good wholesome 1962 for the nation and state.

He added that the 1962-63 budget for operating the state will be based on these optimistic estimates and anticipated healthy economic conditions.

Early in February, the governor will present his 1962-1963 budget to the General Assembly. Other views expressed by the governor.

1. As of Tuesday morning, he was confident that the General Assembly would pass the one-cent-per gallon increase in the gasoline tax.

He estimates that if it goes into effect Friday, it should produce $1 million dollars by the end of June.

When told that State Sen. James H. Snowden, R-Wilmington, does not believe the tax increase will produce that much money, the governor suggested that the Republican leader vote for the gas tax and prove me wrong.

2. The proposed reorganization of the New Castle Levy Court, expanding it from three to seven members: "This is gerrymandering, not ripperism."

He said he had no part in the proposal and that it is a New Castle County matter.

(The word, gerrymander, comes from Elbridge Gerry, a governor of Massachusetts who divided that state into a large number of districts. The word has come to mean cutting up an area in order to give one political party an advantage over another.)

3. A state merit system for Delaware.

The governor said he is hopeful the General Assembly will enact a measure to provide for job classification, uniform job salaries, standard and improved conditions of working.

Asked why he didn't include "job security," the governor admitted he was wondering whether job security actually did improve efficiency.

The governor turned tables up on two reporters and asked them if they thought job security produced efficiency. They admitted, they too, had their doubts.

4. Anti-discrimination bill.

The governor said this was not pushing a bill to abolish discrimination in restaurants but he was anxious to have a Human Relations Commission established.

The governor also claimed that considerable progress has been made in recent weeks in the field of better racial relations.

5. Rehabilitation of mentally ill.

The governor said this was one of the most important problems in Delaware and added that one of the immediate jobs is to remove the stigma of being mentally ill.

High School Cagers Working Out

Coach Jim Hawpe's Harrington High basketball team is having the same problem that seems destined to affect all boys' sports here this year. This problem is the departure of several fine athletes by graduation. Four starters, who will be missed, are Sam Minter, Bob Gillette, Walt Lekites and George Pfeiffer.

Jeff Adams, the lone returning starter, is a fine all-around player. George Collins, Bill Porter and Tom Millsap are other experienced hands. Unfortunately this group lacks height and the rest of the squad has neither altitude or experience. Hawpe is drilling the squad hard and hopes to show a lot of improvement about midway of the schedule.

Barry Fry, who would have been the tallest player on the squad, will not play because of a broken leg suffered early in the football season. Fry would have been the experienced fifth man on the team needs. Stu Greenberg, up from last year's fine junior high team, also will sit out the season after breaking a leg in football.

String Ensemble Expanded to Accompany Dover Choral Society

The December 3 performance of "The Messiah" by the Choral Society of Dover to be held in the Dover High School Auditorium at 4 p. m. will be accompanied by an expanded string ensemble, with Robert Forney of Chestertown, Md., as Concertmaster. Mr. Forney is well known in this Delaware-Maryland community for his solo and group performances of distinction. He is a graduate of Oberlin Conservatory. At present he directs the Choir of the First Methodist Church of Chestertown and is active in many civic enterprises along with his jewelry business. He taught music at Washington College and traveled with the College Choir which he directed. With a group of Washington College faculty members as a nucleus, Mr. Forney, Dr. Nathan Smith, Dr. Nancy Tatum and Robert Harder, and a few others, play chamber music. These four dedicated string players, who enjoy music as an avocation, are assisting some Dover adults and Caesar Rodney School students to form the string ensemble which will accompany the 1961 production of "The Messiah."

At the piano for this concert will be Mrs. Kathryn Coppel who served in the same capacity last year. Mrs. Coppel studied piano at Combs Conservatory in Philadelphia and at the Delaware School of Music in Wilmington; organ with Miss M. Caroline Dudd at Wesley College, and accompanying at Curtis Institute in Philadelphia. She served as accompanist for the Seafood Symphonic Choir and at present plays the organ for Union Methodist Church in Bridgeville.

Soprano soloist for "The Messiah" will again be Kathryn Bond, wife of Major Claud Bond, chaplain, DAFB. Mrs. Bond received the Harriett Day award for outstanding work in music while at Barnum, and was graduated from Smith College with special honors. Well known teachers and coaches with whom she has studied have been: Fritz Lehmann and Dr. William H. Herman of New York City; Ruth Streeter and the faculty of the Boris Goldovsky Opera School of Boston; Dr. Ferdinand Grossman of Vienna and the Mozarteum in Salzburg, Austria. She was soloist with the Smith-Harvard Clubs; the Salem, Mass. Philharmonic; and North Shore Oratorio Society; the South West German Radio Orchestra and the Vienna Akademie Orchestra. In this country she has concertized in and around Boston, and for a year had her own radio program, entitled "The Growth of Song." Her fine talent has been recognized in each part of the country in which she has lived, for example, she was a guest artist of the Columbia Artist Series in Alabama.

The community looks forward each year to the first Sunday in December when they may again hear this great oratorio. One hundred and twenty-five singers have been working for twelve weeks to prepare the 1961 concert in addition to the fine soloists and string players.

Tree Pruning for Late Winter

A well trimmed tree or shrub is living testimony to your gardening skills, says George Vapaa, Kent County Agricultural Agent. But do not cut away branches and vines of desirable woody plants now.

He points out that the best healing of these plants occur on cuts made between February 1st and early May. Wounds made now may be damaged by a hard winter.

On the other hand, he says, some trees that bleed or lose sap in Spring are best pruned in early summer. Birches and maples are two such species.

There is one important exception to this rule. Weak, diseased, broken and dead limbs should be cut out now. It's easier to spot such conditions now while some of the leaves are still on the tree.

Remember this general recommendation — don't do your major pruning now, wait till the end of winter or early spring.

Dover Area Housing Unit Auctioned Off

The Federal National Mortgage Association bid on 144 units of the Capitol Green housing development Monday, paying a total of $701,400 for the properties.

The Federal National Mortgage Association, which brought about the mortgage foreclosure, was the only bidder for the homes. The development is east of Dover, between the St. Jones River and the U. S. 13 Dover by-pass.

Auction of the properties was the biggest sheriff's sale ever held in Kent County, said Sheriff William T. James.

Collins Housing Corp. owed approximately $1,250,000 on mortgages taken out individually on the 144 units. The homes were built in 1952 and 1953.

Because the mortgages were drawn on individual units, the sales had to be made one by one. The prices bid by the FNMA representative were a little more than half the mortgage due on the property.

Pond Owner Says He's Hit And Run Victim

A Delaware mill pond owner Monday challenged the Senate majority leader to a duel after a one-punch incident in Legislative Hall.

John S. Thatcher, of near Harrington, said Sen. Curtis W. Steen, D-Dagsboro, punched him in the mouth and then took cover behind a locked door.

Thatcher asked that legislation be introduced to repeal the state's anti-dueling law so that he and Steen could fight it out on the field of honor.

Steen dismissed the entire matter as not important enough to comment on.

Thatcher, who weighs 225 and claims to have been a sparring partner of former heavyweight boxing champion Jack Dempsey, sported a split lip and a couple of loose teeth after having been slugged by Steen, who weighs about 200.

"I'll make him look like a pretzel and crawl like a dog," said Thatcher.

The incident occurred during a recess while the halls were filled with ministers seeking enactment of civil rights legislation.

Thatcher had been buttonholing legislators and displaying an aerial photograph which he claimed proved Steen would profit financially from a bill to build a new dam across Millsboro Pond.

Thatcher claims ownership of the pond and its water rights. He once tried to sell the pond bed to the state for $39,000.

Bystanders said Steen stepped up to Thatcher and punched him in the mouth. While Thatcher assumed his sparring partner stance and hurled epithets at Steen, several onlookers pinned Thatcher's arms while Steen ducked into the president pro tem's office.

Thatcher waited for more than 30 minutes outside the door for Steen to emerge.

Then he set out to get the anti-dueling statute repealed. He asked Sen. John E. Reilly Sr., D-Wilmington, to be his second—an honor the 68-year-old Reilly promptly declined.

Delaware Power & Light Co. to Have Revised Rates

The Public Service Commission of Delaware, through its chairman, Vernon B. Derricksen, announced this week that electric customers save an estimated $658,454 annually as a result of revised electric rates filed by Delaware Power & Light Company. These revised rates, applicable to residential, water heating, commercial and industrial service, are scheduled to become effective with meter readings after January 1, 1962.

Savings to electric customers in Kent and Sussex Counties are estimated at $529,329 annually and are partially attributed to reduced production costs resulting from the operation of the new, modern and efficient Indian River Station in Sussex County. It is estimated that residential customers in Kent and Sussex Counties save $319,757 annually; water heater customers save $40,298 annually; commercial customers save $76,032 annually and the annual savings to industrial customers is estimated at $93,233. Monthly costs to the average residential electric customer using 250 kilowatt hours will be reduced from $10.94 to $8.62 or a saving of more than 18% for customers in Kent and Sussex counties and for use in excess of 500 kilowatt hours a month, a low rate of 1-3/4 cents per kilowatt hour will be especially attractive for electric home heating. The new electric rates for Kent and Sussex counties also include a low cost water heating service of 1.3 cents per kilowatt hour for uncontrolled electric water heating. Because of the savings resulting from the new residential service rate, the present Water Heating Rate and the All Electric Home Rate will be withdrawn. In addition, present Rate No. 4 primarily serving industrial customers, will be withdrawn and these customers will be served under a new Rate No. 2 for general service.

Since in New Castle County there are more customers per mile of electric line and their use greater than in Kent and Sussex counties, the residential rate in New Castle County will continue to be somewhat lower. Savings to electric customers in New Castle County are estimated to be $129,134 annually. While residential costs to the

H.H.S. Harriers Had Fine Rebuilding Year

By Keith S. Burgess

Harrington High's cross-country Lions had a very respectable record this fall despite the fact that Coach Harold McDonald had to practically rebuild the team from scratch. The locals won three of five regular season meets, retained the Henlopen Conference championship and placed second to undefeated Easton in the fourth annual Harrington Invitational meet. The Lions at season's end ranked second among a group of twelve lower peninsula schools, who competed in cross-country this year.

Clarence Hackett, last year's No. 2 harrier, was back, but Jeff Adams and Allen Wix, the other two returning lettermen were unable to help much at the outset to illness and other infirmities.

A group of new harriers were recruited and six of these came through in great style. One of last year's runners improved tremendously and with the help of Hackett and the new men, another winning season came about.

The accolade reserved for the most improved harrier on the team goes to freshman Dennis Rogers. This lad in 1960 ran the old shorter and less rugged 2.3 mile course in 16:15. This season he was clocked in 13:39 for the new 2.5 mile course and despite his youth, captured the No. 3 spot on the squad.

Ken Garey, a junior with no experience, was the biggest surprise of the year. He was tough from the outset. Ken was third best of the 150 harriers in this area. His was indeed an auspicious debut.

Bob Smith, another freshman, trained all spring and summer and was in great shape but had the misfortune to sprain an ankle and was out for several weeks. He had lost his competitive edge but worked hard and eventually earned the No. 4 rating.

Sophomore Milt Smzdja, another hard worker, started fast then struck a snag in mid-season as he was clocked in 14:46 for three straight outings. Milt then got moving again and dropped his time in each of his next three starts to wind up with an excellent 14:08.

Randy Knox, a sophomore, provided another highlight late in the season when he gave cross-country a late try and after one workout proceeded to win a Jayvee meet defeating many, more experienced runners in the process. H replaced an ailing teammate in a varsity meet a few days later and was the fifth Lion to finish. Thus in a few days he had come from out of nowhere to best all but four of his teammates. Five of the Lions he surpassed.

The church year begins with the season of Advent, the four weeks before Christmas. The word advent means "coming". This is the season when we look forward to our Lord's coming. Many years before Jesus was born in Bethlehem, the Old Testament prophets told God's people that the Lord would come to dwell with them. During Advent we share this age-old expectation of God's people as they wait for His coming. We remember that His coming is to each of us as individuals and that He dwells in as well as among us.

During this season of preparation that is filled with a sense of expectation, joy and excitement, our minds, by nature, are turned to Christ. It is a season where we each prepare in our own way for a fuller manifestation of Christ in our life. We do this through prayer, devout Biblical study, regular church attendance and by giving our gifts of love. If you are without a church home we cordially invite you at Asbury to become a part of our fellowship and join with us in this glad season as we seek to worship the Christ.

Colts and Eagles Down Bears in League Games

Coach Ken Schaper's defense-minded Colts won their first game of the season as they bested the Bears 6-2 in a Thanksgiving Day tussle at the Moose Home.

The Colts tied the Bears in an earlier contest and also played to a stalemate with the Eagles in a prior game. Schaper's lads gave-up one T.D. in their opener but have kept their goal line uncrossed since.

After a scoreless first half, speedy Dennis Beene scored his second touchdown of the season for the Colts. The Bears came back to threaten as Mitchell Godwin, one of the league's best backs, broke into the clear.

After a long run he was pulled down by big Jim Galloway, the last man with a shot at him. The defense held for three downs but then yielded a first down on the four-yard line. Rod Fletcher trapped a Bear for a big loss. After a couple of plays gained several yards, the Colts dug in and held off the threat.

The Bears scored two points on a safety when the Colts fumbled the pigskin and fell on it behind their goal. The Colts kicked off.

Saturday night Coach Tom led by Godwin and a big gainer by Saulsbury. The quarterback was back to pass but took off down the sideline when he saw plenty of daylight. A snap from center that missed connections slowed the Bears. On fourth down Bill Garey batted down a pass just before the final gun.

Staturday night Coach Tom Mulcahy's Eagles won from the Bears by a score of 20-0 to set up a battle for the championship this Saturday night between the Colts and Eagles. Both squads are unbeaten and the test is to end the first year of play in the 9-12 age group pigskin league.

The Eagles lead the standings with 2 wins and a tie. The Colts are second with 1 win and 2 ties. The Colts must win Saturday night's game to capture the loop crown. The Eagles will be champs if they can win or tie the contest. Earlier the two units fought to a scoreless tie.

Last Saturday night the first half was scoreless but in the second semester the Eagles twice scored on long marches led by Will Dill, Wayne Melvin and Bob Dill. Much of the yardage was gained on line smashes through a Bear line that gave ground grudgingly. Wayne Melvin ran 40 yards to score with an intercepted pass and Will Dill scored two touchdowns and two extra points.

Cold Weather, Watch for Prussic Acid

"Cold weather in addition to its obvious discomforts can bring another threat to livestock producers," says George Vapaa, Kent County agent, — "Prussic acid poisoning."

Johnsongrass and sorghum sometimes develop a high prussic acid content after a cold snap and if grazed by livestock, can cause a lot of trouble.

Certain chemical changes which occur in the frost-wilted plants are responsible for the development of the prussic acid, the agent explains. The poison acts quickly and can kill an animal within a very short time after the damaged plant is eaten. Whether a poisoned animal can be saved depends upon how quickly a veterinarian can get to it, he adds.

Frosted Johnsongrass or sorghum should not be grazed until it is completely dry.

Frost-wilted plants may be used for silage. Mr. Vapaa points out that enough prussic acid is lost in gaseous form during the ensiling process and as the silage is removed and fed to make it safe for livestock. Animals should not be allowed to self-feed from a silo filled with frosted sudan or sorghum. If there is any doubt about the silage, it should be tested. This can be done by a veterinarian or by feeding the silage to one or two inferior animals.

Litter Management Is Important

Most egg producers practice a built-up litter program starting with clean houses in the fall. A deep, loose, dry litter in the laying pens at this time of year is a sign of good litter management says George Vapaa, Kent County agent. However, he says, now is the time to add another 2 inches to keep the litter built up.

Several other practices should be followed to insure a loose dry litter condition, says the agent. Here are a few suggestions:

1. Keep the house well ventilated. Layers can stand a lot more cold weather than you think, if they are accustomed to it. Never close windows completely except in severe storms. This just holds in the moisture given off by the birds.

2. Check the litter around the water fountains. If it is wet, here is a need for correcting the cause. If pans or the old style eaves trough-type of waterers are used, put a wire platform under them. 3. Stir the litter regularly and remove any wet or caked areas and replace with new litter.

A little attention to the litter will help keep the flock healthy and reduce the time spent in cleaning eggs says Mr. Vapaa.

The time for buying Christmas presents is here. Many of us must purchase toys for children although we may not have any of our own. How to select a toy is often a problem.

There are several questions we can use as guideposts when buying toys. Are there removable parts small enough to swallow? Are there sharp edges or angles that can cut or hurt the child? If it is a movable toy, is it too heavy for the young owner to carry easily? Is there any danger from poisonous dyes or fire? Will it break or chip easily? Is it too simple or too complicated for the child's mental and physical growth?

If you can answer no to these questions as you consider buying a toy for a present, you are probably on the right track to making a wise purchase. When buying the present you will want to get something the child will enjoy and use. You will certainly not want to get a toy that could harm him.

"Remember, the right toy is a safe toy," says Mrs. Katie Thomas, Home Demonstration Agent in Kent County.

H.H.S. to Have Wrestling Squad

"Ya wanna rastle?" That's the cry heard frequently in the old gym at Harrington High these days as Coach Mike Mock reads a group of fledgling matmen, who will form the first wrestling team in the school's athletic history.

Wrestling is growing by leaps and bounds in Kent and Sussex Counties as more and more schools get into the act. Basketball can take care of a limited number of participants during the winter months and a mat squad will give many other lads chance to represent their school in a varsity sport. The high school version of wrestling is as different from the pro version, seen on TV as night is from day. No punishing holds are allowed. The end products is a fast, interesting test of skill and strength between two well conditioned grapplers.

There are twelve weight classes, and participants are matched with opponents of approximately equal size. The smallest class has a weight limit of 95 lbs. The remaining weight limits are: 103, 112, 120, 127, 133, 138, 145, 154, 165, 180 and the unlimited or heavyweight class.

A contestant may win a match by pinning his rival or if no fall is scored, by referee's decision. The arbiter reaches this decision by awarding points for a take-down, escape, reversal etc.

Wrestling brings to six the number of varsity sports for boys at Harrington High. This well-balanced program provides two sports per season, and gives practically every lad a chance to participate in at least one sport. This is in keeping with the trend toward better physical fitness for American youth. An official of the State Department of Public Instruction made the statement three years ago that H.H.S. had one of the best physical education programs on a per capita basis in the state. Millsboro had six sports last year although their enrollment is even smaller than Harrington's.

It will take a year or two before the Lions can acquire enough mat skill to win with any degree of regularity. The schedule at present calls for the following matches:

Jan. 8 at Georgetown; Jan. 20 at Milford; Feb. 8 at Milford; Feb. 12 Georgetown at home; Feb. 28 at Millsboro.

Two wrestling fixtures that the Lions would like to enter in future years are the Milford Invitational held each December and the State Championship meet held at the University of Delaware. The Milford meet features Kent and Sussex County schools plus Wicomico, Eastern and other Eastern Shore of Maryland teams. The state meet crowns champions in all twelve weight classes and is the goal of every schoolboy grappler.

Coach Mock has a group of 30 boys who have indicated their intentions of trying out for the team. There are: Ron Melvin, Fred Greenly, Paul Rash, Tim Strohl, Wayne Horner, Harold Ellwanger, Bill Martin, Lewis Starkey, Clyde Mullins, Jerry Trepasso, Bill Parker, Roger Brown, David Harcum, George Jerread, Jim Carter, Nelson Reed, Rusty Jack, Frank, Dick and Bruce Collins, Richard Schriber, Frank Welch, Geo. Bonniwell, Fred Parker, Charlie Taylor, Frank Cain, Karl Skinner, Bruce Layton and Darwin Kates. Many in this group are making their first venture into athletics. Conspicuous by their absence are those fringe athletes who can be seen wrestling at high school baseball games, football games and track meets.

Apples Have A-Peel

By Miss Janet Koblentz

There's nothing like a bright, shiny apple for an afternoon snack. Since there is an abundance of apples of many varieties these days, plan to keep some on hand for daily meals and between meal "pick-me-ups". For you calorie watchers, remember there are only about 70 calories in a medium-size apple.

Apples are considered a good mouth detergent. They tend to cleanse your teeth as you eat them, leaving teeth bright, fresh feeling and attractive. They also aid the process of digestion, giving necessary bulk or roughage.

When buying, look for firm, crisp, bright, clean, well-colored apples. Flavor depends on the variety of the apple, as well as the conditions under which it has been kept. A well colored apple usually has the full flavor of the variety.

Apples that are to be eaten raw should have good shape, fine texture and appealing flavor. Cortland, Red Delicious, Golden Delicious, McIntosh and Stayman are good examples. Use these varieties for making candied apples also.

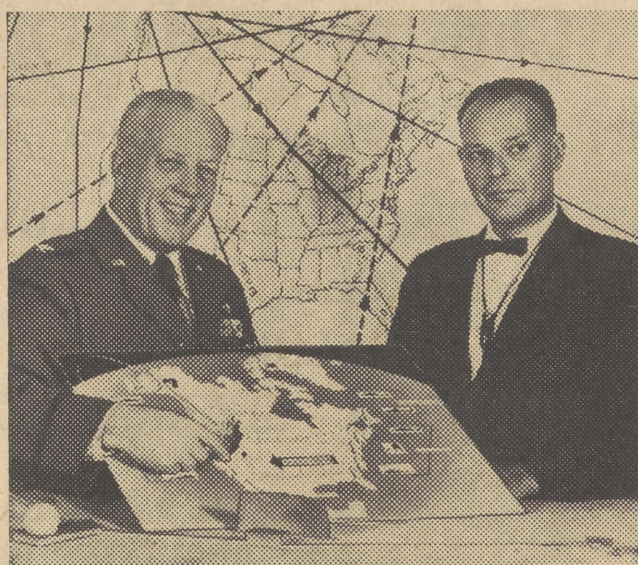

Cooking apples should be tart, firm and tender when cooked. Try Rome Beauty or Rhode Island Greening. Although Golden Delicious apples are sweet, they also make excellent cooking apples.

Baking apples should hold their shape well under long baking. Good varieties for baking include Cortland, McIntosh, Rome Beauty and Stayman. Best all-purpose apples are Jonathan, McIntosh, Cortland, Winesap and Grimes Golden.

Apples discolor very quickly after they have been peeled or cut. Use a citrus fruit juice or ascorbic acid to prevent this discoloration. Cortland and Golden Delicious are more resistant to darkening than other varieties. Always wash apples thoroughly before using. Serve raw apples unpeeled for an attractive appearance and the best in food value. Some excellent apple salad combinations include: sliced apple, avocado, oranges and marshmallow cherries; chopped apple, shredded carrots and celery; chopped apple, pineapple, bananas, and shredded nuts; chopped apple, marshmallow bits, dried raisins, figs or dates; chopped apple, cottage cheese, chopped almonds or pecans.

If gum were to get into your carburetor, it could lead to unexpected repairs like this. One of the nine ingredients in today's Super Shell fights gum to give you top performance.

ANCIENT HISTORY:

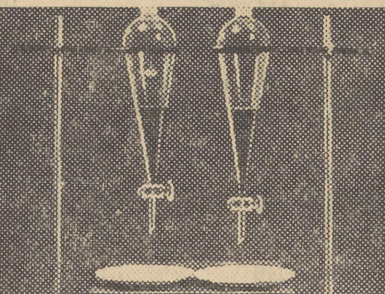

Gasoline gum used to cause unexpected repair bills. Today, one of Super Shell's 9 ingredients fights off gum —to save you money and give you top performance.

The gum preventive in today's Super Shell is so powerful that one thousandth of an ounce is enough to treat a gallon. Read how this "chemical policeman" works.

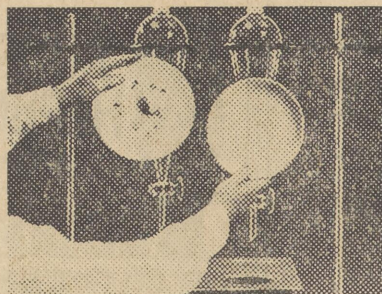

THE MECHANIC in our photograph is about to go to work on a gummed-up carburetor. A nice little repair job.

But to Shell scientists, gummed-up carburetors are ancient history.

And so are other gum troubles. Such as sticky intake valves. And fouled automatic chokes. Here's why: 1. Shell uses refining processes that hold certain gum-forming gasoline components to a minimum.

Drip test shows how well Shell gum prevention works. Container on left has raw, unprocessed gasoline without gum preventive; on right, processed gasoline with Super Shell's gum preventive. Gasolines drip onto heated plates and evaporate, simulating long storage.

- Shell guards all tanks, pipes, and trucks against dirt and other gum-forming contaminants.
- Shell includes a powerful gum preventive in Super Shell's nine-ingredient formula.

"Chemical cop" at work

The gum preventive in Super Shell is so effective that a thousandth of an ounce is enough to treat a whole gallon of gasoline.

This remarkable ingredient has been described as a "chemical policeman." It helps to keep unstable elements in gasoline from sticking together—the way a skilled policeman prevents trouble by keeping a crowd from forming.

Hot Weather Blend

For a quick run-down on the other eight ingredients in today's Super Shell, see box at right.

And for top performance all summer, keep your tank filled with Super Shell's Hot Weather Blend. It's specially formulated to fight engine flooding and other hot weather troubles. At Shell stations now.

Here are the 9 ingredients in Super Shell—and what they do to give your car top performance

- 1 is TCP®—for power, mileage, and longer plug life.
- 2 is Pentane mix—for fast warm-ups.
- 3 is anti-knock mix—for knock resistance.
- 4 is Alkylate to control "high-speed knock"
- 5 is Butane—for quick starts.
- 6 is "cat-cracked" gasoline—for power.
- 7 is an "anti-icer." Added when cold weather sets in.
- 8 is gum preventive—for clean carburetors.
- 9 is Platformate for extra mileage.

*Trademark for Shell's unique gasoline additive. Gasoline containing TCP is covered by U.S. Patent 2889212.

Couple Who Realized Dream Will Tell of Work

Two physicians who have just returned from five years of Christian medical work in the remote country of Nepal will be speakers at the churches of the Burrsville Charge, for both morning and evening services, on Sunday Dec. 3. They will speak in the morning worship services at Ames, Union and Prospect Churches and in the evening at the Wesley Church.

Dr. Edgar B. Miller, an internist and cardiologist, and Dr. Elizabeth Bucke Miller, a general practitioner, who had previously practiced medicine in Wilmington, are on a year's furlough from missionary service under the Methodist Board of Missions.

In 1955 the Drs. Miller fulfilled what for them had been a life-long dream, to be medical missionaries. On the invitation of Methodist missionary friends, Drs. Robert and Bethel Fleming, the Millers gave up their respective practices to join the Flemings and other in an international medical mission in Nepal. The Nepal mission had been opened by the Flemings in 1953, and they gave the Millers their invitation while on furlough in 1955. After much thought and discussion, the Millers decided to leave Wilmington and go to Nepal, fulfilling a dream that had been thwarted 27 years ago by the depression.

In Nepal the Millers worked with an international, interdenominational medical team with missionaries from eight countries and many denominations. Their headquarters were in a palace in Nepal's capital, Kathmandu, that had been converted into a hospital. The Millers, along with other workers, went out into the villages and the open country to set up dispensaries and conduct mobile clinics. Much work has been done with the children, especially, by Dr. Elizabeth. They also helped to train Nepalis in nursing and other medical work. Dr. Edgar Miller is a native of New Freedom, York County, Pennsylvania and is a graduate of Dickinson College and University of Maryland Medical School. Dr. Elizabeth Bucke Miller grew up in parsonages of the Central Pennsylvania Conference of the Methodist Church, her father having been the late Dr. J. B. A. Bucke. She is a graduate of Dickinson College and Woman's Medical College, Philadelphia. The Millers are spending their furlough by attending conferences, seminars, clinics, brushing up in medicine, and speaking in many churches in the area. The Millers address until April 1962 when they expect to return to Nepal, is Liverpool, Pa.

Father and Son Win Soybean Title

Rhoades said his interest in the contest was aroused last year when he and James produced a 43 bushel yield. In shooting for a top yield they grew their beans in narrow, 32 inch rows, seeding 45 pounds of beans per acre in a good seed bed. They also applied 250 pounds of fertilizer per acre.

In other award presentations at the banquet, Daniel Harris, of Corner Ketch, New Castle County; David H. Robbins, Milford, Kent County, and L. Robbins Webb, Milford, Sussex County were given trophies in the alfalfa-hay competition.

Three 4-H short course scholarships were given to county winners in the 4-H seed judging contest. Recipients were Cecil Holland, New Castle County; Clifford Hudson, Kent County and Richard Melson, Sussex County.

Fish & Game News

New Appointments
James C. White, of Reliance, has been named supervising warden by the Delaware Game and Fish Commission. Mr. White replaces William Wideman, who recently retired after 32 years with the Commission.

Mr. White joined the Game and Fish Commission on Nov. 1 of this year. Prior to his present position he was employed by Allen's Hatchery of Seaford.

As Supervisor of Wardens, Mr. White will direct the activities of five game wardens and five dog wardens who make up the regulatory staff of the Commission. The Commission also announced the appointment of J. Wesley Walls, of Maryland, as assistant Supervisor of Wardens. Mr. Walls recently joined the staff of the Commission following the resignation of E. Cowgill Barnard of Woodside. Prior to being a Game Warden, Mr. Walls held the positions of Comptroller, Register of Wills and Sheriff in Kent County, and operated school buses in the vicinity of Maryland.

A third appointee is Norris Benson of near Laurel, who has been named game warden replacing Robert Elliott of Delmar.

These men have completed the initial training session provided by the Commission for all personnel.

Waterfowl Notes
Waterfowl hunting continued into its third week with generally good to excellent results for the hunter. The bluebird weather of the opening days has been replaced by some real ducking and geese weather.

Despite nationwide decline in ducks, these birds have chosen to show up in Delaware in relatively undiminished numbers. Geese continued to be very abundant within a fifteen mile radius of Bombay Hook Refuge. Additional flocks are fairly common throughout most of the State.

More hunters than ever before have been using the public hunting areas provided by the Game and Fish Commission. This has over-crowded these areas on Saturdays and holidays. The most frequent complaint is that thoughtless hunters are "sky busting" at birds well beyond gun range. Once shot at, ducks and geese will seldom fly within gun range for at least several hours. Problems also arise when hunters persist in roaming marshes in boats or on foot. Shooting is generally out of the question within a quarter of a mile of such persons.

Upland Hunting
The season for rabbits, quail and pheasants opened on Fri., Nov. 17, for some 25,000 or more nimrods throughout the State. Reports from wardens and game managers indicate that hunting pressure has not been extremely heavy except on portions of public hunting lands along the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal and at Little Creek, near Dover.

Hunters for the most part were very law abiding. Approximately 600 were checked by enforcement personnel on the opening Friday and Saturday. Practically all of them had proper licenses, ammunition and weapons. Only two violations, one for the shooting of a hen pheasant and one for an unplugged gun were apprehended.

Approximately 50 pheasants were bagged on one Commission check area at Reedy Point near Delaware City. Spot checks throughout the State indicated moderate kills of rabbits and quail.

The second half of the dove season opened on Nov. 17 and will continue through Nov. 23. Concentrations of doves have not been reported to the Commission recently.

Eliminate Goose Shooting
Geese have all but been eliminated from this state at least on four occasions within the last sixty years according to officials of the Delaware Game and Fish Commission. This happened because geese were not provided adequate protection through refuges and proper seasons and bag limits.

Geese are now well established in central Delaware and adequately protected at Bombay Hook Refuge. However, other flocks near Port Penn, Prime Hook, Lewes, Rehoboth and Fenwick Island may not maintain themselves or increase unless additional refuge areas are provided and adequately developed and patrolled.

Practices by some hunters which eliminate goose hunting and sometimes drive the geese away entirely are:

- Large flock shooting. Careful hunters do not shoot into flocks of more than a dozen birds.
- Daily shooting. Two or three times a week is about the most gunning that geese will tolerate at any one site.
- Refuge shooting. All goose flocks must have areas that afford them absolute protection from hunting at some time of the day or night.
- Unlawful trespass. Carefully regulated goose hunting is mostly the concern of landowners who make an effort to accommodate geese. Trespassers often discourage sound goose management on private lands.

Soybean Growers And Researchers Challenged

"It's time for the soybean producers on the Delmarva Peninsula to do something about poor quality beans," according to Robert W. Judd, managing director of the National Soybean Crop Improvement Council.

Speaking at the annual Delaware Improvement Association Short Course, Judd told a large group of producers that if they are to compete with Illinois in the foreign market, they must produce a top quality yellow bean with a high oil content. He suggested that three or four varieties meeting these standards be developed, that Universities, crop improvement associations, processors, and growers get together and work on a uniform product. "There is no reason why peninsula growers cannot effectively compete with the Mid-west in the world's soybean market," he said.

Judd indicated that a unified effort would do away with much of the duplication and would allow researchers to specialize in the areas where they are skilled. A joint effort could produce three or four varieties that would meet all of the demands of the world market and still be high in yields and with enough spread in the maturing dates to suit most farm situations.

"Instead of complaining about high humidity and uncertain weather conditions, researchers and growers should work on the factors they can control," Judd said. Most producers know how to do a better job now than they are doing. It's time to throw off the shackles of concern and do something about the thousands of bushels of sample grade beans that are being grown in this area each year, he concluded.

Delaware Food Market Report

During the two weeks after Thanksgiving, watch for specials on red meats, particularly on beef and pork. Chances are you will find sales on round roast of beef, chuck roast, chuck steaks and boneless shoulder roast as well as on pork loins.

If you are looking for a truly regal dish to serve and have economy too, why not have a crown roast made at the market from a strip of pork loin containing 10 to 12 chops. (For easy carving, have backbone removed.) An hour before the meat is done, fill the center with corn stuffing. If you do not care for this type of stuffing, then just before serving, fill the center with roast potatoes or other vegetables. Spiced crab apple or paper frills may be placed on each bone end to make the crown complete.

Southern species of fresh fish are reaching local markets in greater supply. Watch for bluefish, mullet, red snapper, Spanish mackerel, and king mackerel—all are warm water species. Of course, there will be increased amounts of shell fish during the holiday season also.

Green and yellow are the predominant colors for vegetables this week. There are many good buys to choose from and quality, for the most part, is good to excellent. Among the greens, consider broccoli, spinach, kale, cabbage, and turnip tops. Endive, escarole and lettuce—Iceberg, Boston, romaine and Bibb—all are in good supply. Seasonal yellow vegetables to check are sweet potatoes, acorn squash, carrots and rutabagas. Add to those already mentioned the following for these are on the good buy list also, egg plant, turnips, cauliflower and white potatoes, particularly economical are the eastern grown potatoes.

The fruit picture continues to be good with apples, grapefruit and oranges being your "best buy". There are plenty of top quality cranberries, avocados and grapes available at very reasonable prices. Limes, pears and tangerines are also on hand to add even further variety to the fruit bowl.

Eat a Good Breakfast to Start A Good Day

By Miss Janet L. Coblentz

"But I don't have time to eat breakfast—besides, I'm not hungry." How many times have you heard this same statement? Getting up in time to eat a good breakfast is a good start for any day. Studies in industry have shown that working people who enjoy a good meal before they start to work get more done than those who skip breakfast or eat a poor one.

Teenagers who eat an adequate breakfast have quicker reactions, tire less, put more work out during late morning hours and have a better attitude than those who have a poor breakfast. School children who eat a good breakfast are more likely to do well in studies, sports and games.

Breakfast habits have changed a lot in the past few years. There used to be early morning chores, milking, feeding animals and other outdoor tasks. Breakfast was a hardy meal. The whole family had work to do. Children walked to school. Now children hurry so they don't miss the school bus and homemakers rush to get ready to go to work. Breakfast schedules have to be juggled to meet individual schedules.

There isn't a hard fast rule on how big a good breakfast should be, but for more people and particularly for children, it's sound planning to have 1/4 to 1/3 of the day's food at breakfast.

Here is a five point test of a good breakfast:

1. It has fruit — fresh and raw or citrus for Vitamin C. If you don't have some at this meal you are likely to fall short of your daily need.
2. It has a high quality protein—egg, meat or milk. These building foods are a must in the day's food and one or more should appear in each meal.

3. It has an energy food — bread, cereal and perhaps some fat and sweet. Between supper and breakfast there is at least a 10-hour slack. Many people do most of their work in the morning and need energy food.

4. It has a liquid—preferably milk for children; water, coffee, or tea for adults and if it's hot, it's usually more enjoyable.

5. It looks and tastes good. A good meal eaten with pleasant company gives you a sense of well being.

Check the breakfast you ate this a.m. Did it measure up to these five points? If so, you have made a good start on the day's food needs and you will probably have a good day.
