D. Rogers, R. Knox Run Well in Philly

By Keith S. Burgess

Dennis Rogers and Randy Knox paced a quintet of youthful Harringtonians who competed in a post-session cross-country 2.4 miles run held recently in Fairmount Park, Philadelphia. In 1960 this race was held for the first time. Harrington's Delaware State Champion Harry Knotts running on an unfamiliar layout was second in a field of 40 of Philadelphia's finest. He was a split second behind the winner and 12 seconds ahead of the third-place runner, Clarence and Dwight Hackett captured 16th and 22nd places.

This year's odyssey to the City of Brotherly Love as undertaken for the experience and training it would afford the local youths. Rogers and Bob Smith are freshmen and Kox, Wayne Carson and Milt Szmadja are sophomores. Only Rogers had cross-country experience prior to two months ago. Denny ran last year when he was an eighth grader. Since the opposition for the most part consisted of juniors and seniors from Philadelphia, Lancaster, Pa., Mt. Holly, N. J., Wilmington, Newark, etc. the Harrington boys wanted to beat a few of their older, more experienced rivals and hope to establish a fairly good clocking in the process. Rogers and Knox were 42nd and 43rd out of a field of more than 60. Denny was clocked in 14:06 and Randy in 14:07. This is excellent time when one considers that Rogers is only 14 and Knox had only one workout and two races prior to the Philadelphia test. The latter must certainly have been the greenest starter in the race.

Carson, Smith and Szmadja finished in 50th, 52nd and 53rd places respectively. Carson's effort was respectable considering that he missed the last two Harrington High meets. Bob and Milt did not turn in one of their better efforts but both these lads are excellent prospects. They seemed to be hurt more by the ten-day layoff since the last high school meet than were their mates. Smith normally is right

Senate Backs Steen Dam; 7 Switch; Final Vote: 10-0

The state Senate Wednesday passed 10-0 the controversial legislation to direct the State Highway Department to build a new dam across Millsboro Pond.

Without a murmur of protest, the Senate thus put its stamp of approval on Senate Majority Leader Curtis W. Steen's number one priority measure. Steen, one of the principal landowners around the pond, was able to get seven senators to switch their votes to put the measure over on its second go-around.

The legislation (HB340), which now goes to the Governor, would appropriate $45,000 to condemn sufficient land to construct a new concrete dam to replace the existing wooden structure. Funds to build a new road across the dam are in the Highway Department's bond issue for the present fiscal year.

Seven senators, who had been recorded as not voting when the bill was defeated on Sept. 19, switched their votes to "yes" without debate when Steen introduced the measure again. Asking that they be recorded as voting "yes" were Sen. Allen J. Cook, D-Kent; B. Walter Johnson, D-Bear; Margaret R. Mannin, R-Marshallton; Henry T. Price, D-Smyrna; Harvey B. Spicer, R-Georgetown; Earle M. Tull, D-Seaford, and Jesse F. Watson, D-Townsend.

School Has Teaching Machine

This year we are using teaching machines in our eighth grade algebra class. This is a device that presents the material in small sequential steps to which the student makes a response. The student is then permitted to check his response to see if it is correct. Ours is really a programmed textbook using a device to cover the answers until the problem has been worked.

A number of Delaware schools are trying this type of presentation in various fields.

A very important aspect of programmed learning is that the material is broken down into small steps which are organized in a systematic fashion to give the student an understanding of the basic structure of the subject matter. A great advantage to the student is the fact that he may receive immediate knowledge of results. This is a real motivating force.

One of the greatest advantages is the fact that each student may proceed at his own rate of speed. The teacher is freed to give the kind of individual instruction that is so important.

We do not necessarily rely altogether on this method of instruction, since we also use traditional methods. However, we believe this to be a valuable addition and believe that it will be used to a considerable extent as programmed material becomes available. — Archie A. Feagan

Beatrice A. Collins Wedded to Robert A. Scotten, Saturday

The wedding of Miss Beatrice Ann Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stubbs of Harrington, and Robert Allen Scotten took place Saturday afternoon in the First Pilgrim Holiness Church in Harrington.

Mr. Scotten is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Scotten, of Harrington.

The Rev. Wm. H. Miller performed the ceremony which was followed by a reception at the Century Club.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, Mr. Paul Stubbs, the bride wore a gown of white chintilly lace fashioned with a basque bodice, sabrina neckline and long tapering sleeves. The bouffant skirt was accented at the hipline by a rounded pleum and ended in a chapel sweep train. Her imported veil and over-veil edged in chintilly lace of illusion was held in place by a crown of pearls and iridescent sequins.

She carried a cascade of white pom-poms with ivory.

Miss Kathy Holloway, the maid of honor, was gowned in a ballerina length gown of French red and wore a matching headpiece.

Little Miss Rhonda Scotten, the bridegroom's niece, wore a dress of white organdy over taffeta with matching accessories.

John Scotten, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man.

James Collins, brother of the bride, and Richard Collins, cousin of the bride, were ushers.

Leon Donovan was the organist and Leonard Masten soloist.

Mrs. Stubbs, mother of the bride, wore a wedgewood blue lace dress with satin cummerbund with navy accessories.

The bridegroom's mother wore a navy crepe dress with a lace top and black accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Harrington High School. She is now employed by the Delaware Electric Co-op. The bridegroom also graduated from Harrington High School and attended Salisbury State Teachers College. He is presently employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad in Seaford.

The couple will reside in Seaford.

crete foundations started. Killen said that pouring of concrete for the 111-foot high walls of the elevator is scheduled to start Dec. 26 and that about 60 workmen would be employed then. Concrete is being furnished by the Atlantic Concrete Company, of Milford. This company will build a plant on U.S. 13, on land purchased from Dale Fetrow, opposite the fairgrounds.

In constructing the walls, work will be around the clock, Killen said.

The elevator is being constructed by Borton, Inc., contractors and engineers, of Hutchinson, Kan. The firm has 12 key men at work here. Construction is expected to be completed next spring.

The elevator will contain 17 bins, with a total capacity of more than 400,000 bushels. Killen said Monday the elevator will be able to dump 4000 bushels of grain per hour from trucks.

The elevator, and existing facilities, will be used as a public storage house. Farmers can rent space if they want to store grain under loan or hold it for a better market. The government could also rent it.

The elevator can handle all kinds of grains and soybeans.

School Christmas Carol Program Next Friday

The annual Christmas Candlelight choral program will take place next Friday evening, Dec. 15, in the Harrington High School auditorium, beginning promptly at 8 o'clock according to an announcement from the office of Albert Adams, superintendent of Schools for the local district.

This annual Christmas program has long been a tradition in Harrington, and will again feature the high school chorus in a group of anthems appropriate to the holiday season. It will begin and close with the candlelight procession, and will be announced from the steps of the old annex by a group of brass instrumentalists who will play a group of carols immediately prior to the concert.

Soloists this year will be Miss Diane Smith in the "Cantique de Noel," as well as Terry Johnson and Donald Rothermel.

Included in the group of anthems by the chorus will be Kountz's "The Sleigh," as well as Pergolesi's "Gloria in Excelsis Deo".

Accompanists will be Lois Larimore, Carol Smith, and June Thompson. The organist will be Sarah Moore.

A grade school chorus of 30 boys and girls from the fifth and sixth grades will also appear and sing with the high school chorus in its final number on the program.

At the conclusion of the program this year, refreshments will be served in the school cafeteria with the proceeds going into the Band Fund toward new uniforms. The concert, however, is free to the public.

Melvin Brobst is in charge of the program and is being assisted by Leon Donovan.

Lions Club to Sponsor Home And Garden Show

The date of March 16, 17 and 18th, 1962 for the first annual Home and Garden Show was announced this week by the Harrington Lions Club. Plans have been studied for this event for over a year and only at a recent meeting was the actual date of March 16, 17 and 18 set. This will be the only Home and Garden Show held in lower Delaware and according to plans now being drawn up by the Lions Club, this show should be one of the better attractions of the year for the home and gardener.

Exhibitors are to be invited in the very near future so they can have time to arrange special displays from their manufacturers. Space will be available to all interested parties in lower Delaware by contacting William A. Taylor at Garden 2-9177 or EXeter 8-8841 night.

Lion Cagers Card Fifteen Contests

Coach Jim Hawpe's Harrington High basketball Lions have scheduled 15 games for the upcoming season. With the exception of the alumni tilt on Feb. 9 all opponents are members of the Henlopen Conference.

A new alignment of teams within the league will be inaugurated. Felton, Harrington, Greenwood, Bridgeville and Delmar will make up the "West" section and will play each other on a home and away basis. These five will oppose the remaining six teams in the "East" section in single games.

Harrington will open the season at Rehoboth on January 5 and will take on the remaining eastern teams in their next five outings. This will enable the Lions to then concentrate their efforts on finishing as high as possible in their own section since they will be finished in the east.

At the finish of the regular season the champion teams of each section will meet at John M. Clayton High and battle it out to determine the league title.

The first five games will also

It appears the City government will be more inclusive in its specifications for bids on street work, and that it will put welfare recipients to work as the occasion arises.

These were the main items in a busy meeting Wednesday night. This was the first observance of the new meeting date, the second Wednesday in each month.

The optimism expressed on more encompassing bids for street work was based on the inquiry of Councilman William Smith who wanted to know why a bill for recent blacktopping, grading, and fill on five streets came to the neighborhood of $10,000 when the bid was around $5000.

It was revealed the contractor, the Atlantic Concrete Company, of Milford, did a good job and at the prices mentioned in the

Eagles Down Colts, Win League Title

Coach Tom Mulcahy's Eagles are the first champions of the Harrington Junior Football League after downing the Colts 16-0 on Saturday night. Both squads had been unbeaten going into the contest although the Colts had previously tied twice and the Eagles once. Earlier in the season the two clubs had battled to a scoreless tie.

The winner's offense was led by the Dill brothers, Bob and Bill. Wayne Melvin and Jackie Redden aided the pair with several timely blocks.

The Eagles kicked off to start the game and gained possession when the Colts were unable to move. Bill Dill took off down the sidelines and was pulled down by Tom Simpler after a long gain. Bill Garey slowed the Eagles when he trapped Dill for a loss but the Eagles got a break soon after when the Colts were offside. Bill Dill caught a pass from Bob Dill for a touchdown then swept end for the extra point.

In the second quarter the Colts tried to kick on the fourth down but were unable to get the ball away. W. Dill plunged through the Colts forward wall for an apparent T.D. but an alert official, Bill Santo, spotted an over-anxious Eagle in the process of pushing the fullback over the goal. The play was called back and the half ended soon after.

Bob Dill passed to brother, Bill, for a 15-yard gain early in the third quarter. A reverse worked for a first down and Bob faked a handoff to a back hitting up the middle and then carried around end for good yardage. Two more plays picked up two points on a safety when a Colt dropped the ball behind his own goal and fell on it.

The Colts kicked off after the safety but the boot was short and was brought back to the Colt 24. Bob Dill went around left end to score. His brother then carried around the other flank for the extra point.

The Colts threw back another Eagle drive just before the end of the game.

Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. the Berlin Scarlet Hurricanes will take on an All-Star Harrington Junior League squad. The Hurricanes have a 110-pound weight limit as does the

No Overruns on Costs Of Road Building Since June

There have been no overruns on the cost of highway construction contracts completed by the State Highway Department since June 1, William J. Miller Jr., director of operations for the Department, informed a recent staff meeting.

Instead of overruns, according to Mr. Miller, there were underruns amounting to almost 4.15 per cent on these projects.

Mr. Miller said that the contracts completed during this period had a total bid price of $8,019,311.57 and the actual cost for them was $7,676,382.93.

The existing overruns was one of the subjects brought in the various investigations of the State Highway Department during the past several years.

Gov. Elbert N. Carvel, in addressing the members of the Department last week, urged them original specifications. At the time the bid was let, the grading of the curbing was not known, City Manager George Graham explained, and thus, the extent of grading and fill was not known. Furthermore, he added, the original bid was based thusly: The center of Simpson, Simmons, Short, High, and Calvin Streets was already blacktopped and it was assumed this paving would remain. The contractor was to put one coat of the blacktopping on the center and three coats on both sides.

However, when it came time to do the work, it was deemed more practical to take out the old paving and to put blacktop of three coats over the entire street.

Another factor, increasing the cost, was the fact that Calvin Street was wider than originally intended. This came about when City Solicitor Herman C. Brown reviewed deeds of property owners on the street which revealed the street was wider than originally supposed.

It was also brought out that, while the money for fill and grading went to Atlantic Concrete Company, the contractor had to pay some $3500 to Ken Meredith & Son for the grading and fill.

Several councilmen, without a dissenting opinion, thought the price was all right, the work fine, but thought the City should know all the costs before putting out a bid. Councilman Luther P. Hatfield advised, "Next year the bids should include the whole job." He added that the City should have the responsibility of dirt fill instead of the contractor.

The city manager, a little later on, volunteered the suggestion that bidding on a package deal was all right.

Councilman Smith said he wanted to see an itemized bill by next meeting. Mrs. Kathryn Simpson,

Dividend Checks Mailed to Veterans

More than $29,500,000 in special dividend checks are in the process of being mailed to more than 400,000 Korean Conflict veterans who hold "W" Type Government Insurance Policies, John S. Gleason, Jr., administrator of Veterans Affairs, announced last week.

The mailing of these special dividend checks is expected to be completed early in December, the Administrator of Veterans Affairs stated.

An additional 200,000 Korean veterans, who have not yet converted or exchanged their Government "RS" Insurance for the "W" Type policies, will also become eligible for special dividend checks if they convert or exchange before the time limit, September 14, 1963.

According to Leon Fields, manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Wilmington, 902 veterans in Delaware who have converted or exchanged to "W" policies will receive $64,900 in this special dividend. World War I and World War II veterans are not included in the present dividend distribution. They hold either United States Government life insurance or national service life insurance

Work Starts in Spring On Frederica By-Pass

The State Highway Department plans to move soon on construction of a Frederica by-pass on U. S. Route 113 because of a right-of-way delay in another project.

Construction of a dual highway from Bethany Beach to the Maryland line had been in the immediate construction program. But it has now been taken out of the immediate classification because of litigation involving the rights-of-way which the department expects will take a year or more to clear up.

The Frederica by-pass will start at the dual highway, south of Frederica, go east of the town, and rejoin the present Route 113 just south of Barratt's Chapel.

The by-pass route will be nearly a straight line.

William J. Miller Jr., director of operations for the department, said construction is expected to begin in early spring.

It will be a federal-aid project, he added, and a public meeting on the project will be held later, probably at Frederica.

Marshall's Tavern Builds Anew

Mrs. Marshall says she expects her structure to be completed in three months, weather permitting. A use for the present building has not been learned.

Delaware Food Market Report

There are many top quality vegetables available this week-end. With such a variety to choose from there should be no menu monotony as far as vegetables are concerned. The ones which head the list this week are mushrooms, potatoes, cabbage, Brussel sprouts and cauliflower. Also readily available are celery, egg plant, sweet corn, green peppers, radishes, Iceberg lettuce, cucumbers, snap beans and spinach. Be sure to check the hardy winter squash for it is plentiful also. More sweet potatoes are arriving and prices have dropped a penny or two. Egg plant prices have been dropping for the past several weeks and now are just about as low as they will be during the entire winter season. Do you remember when ice and snow and bad weather in many growing areas caused prices of these vegetables to soar to the fantastic level. This could happen again so do make the most of the golden opportunity now on hand.

Grapefruit is the best buy insofar as citrus fruits are concerned. The flavor has improved considerably in the past couple weeks and there has been practically no change in price. Other top fruit buys include avocados, cranberries, apples and oranges. Most apples are now coming from cold storage and you will find they are very sweet and quite delicious. Mexican pineapples are available at many markets this week and so are Florida coconuts. These pineapples are large ones and they remain green when ripe. They are noted for their white, sweet meat.

There is an abundance of pork now. The U. S. Department of Agriculture says more pork will come to market as 1961 draws to a close than a year ago. Some pork cuts are being sold in stores at near wholesale prices. Due to new government restrictions on moisture in hams, many packers are cooking all of their Federally-inspected hams. This has had a tendency to force fully-cooked ham prices up. Currently, hams cannot be "watered" as they have been. Bacon and sausage prices are down a little. Lamb supplies are good so check this meat along with beef for good buys this weekend.

Suspect Worms or Lice If Egg Production Drops

If egg production in a flock of laying birds should drop for no apparent other reason, the poultrymen can suspect worms or lice, notes county agent George Vapaa.

A heavy infestation of roundworms can play havoc with production at this time of year. Have some birds checked by your poultry pathologist and follow his recommendations.

Poultrymen seldom realize the effect lice can have on egg production. A heavy infestation of lice can cause excessive irritation to the bird by gnawing through the skin and drawing blood. This can cause restlessness which will definitely affect feed consumption and in turn the egg production.

Malathion can be used either as a liquid or as a dust. Spray the birds with a garden sprayer using a 0.5 solution. One gallon will treat about 100 birds. A 4 to 5 percent dust can also be used using one pound for 100 birds. On oil solution or water emulsion containing 1 percent Malathion solution. A 40 percent nicotine sulfate solution may also be painted on the roosts, says the agent.

Choose your best adapted way to get the job done, says the agent. The important thing is to get it done right away if lice are found.

For further details on lice control, ask for Leaflet 474 from the County Agent's Office. It is called "Chicken Lice, How to Control Them."

Mrs. Nelson Meredith, Sr. was delightfully surprised when her husband planned a party for her Wednesday, Nov. 29, to celebrate her birthday which was on Tuesday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Tatman, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Humphreys of Bridgeville, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Workman of Bridgeville, Mrs. Lena Barwick, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mills, Mr. and Mrs. James Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Graham and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Conaway. The group spent the evening playing Rook and Canasta and this was followed by refreshments.

Mrs. Thomas also gives the following pointers about blanket washing:

Set the water control on warm. Never use hot water to wash blankets. The change in water temperature will cause shrinkage. Fill the machine and add a low sudsing detergent. Make sure the detergent is dissolved before putting the blankets in the washer. Let the blankets soak for 10 to 15 minutes. You may wish to turn them over once or twice, without operating the machine. Then spin out the dirty water.

To rinse, refill the machine with warm water, stopping it, and letting the blankets soak for four to five minutes. Then spin out rinse water and rinse a second time. Blankets of combined fibers, such as cotton, rayon and wool, will not wash as quickly as all wool. They may need longer soaking periods.

If the blankets are hung outdoors to dry, hang them over two lines. The binding may be pressed with a warm iron. If the blankets need re-fluffing, spread them out on a flat surface and brush it.

Following the concert a reception will be held in Fellowship Hall sponsored by the WSCS of Avenue Church. The congregation is cordially invited to attend.

Washing Blankets Requires Special Methods

"Oh, no, my good blankets shrank!" This problem is typical of many women. But it doesn't have to be a problem if you use the safe, sane and sure soaking method, says Mrs. Katie C. Thomas, Home demonstration Agent, Kent County. This method may be used both in automatic and regular washers. The agitator should not be used for blankets, as the agitator will shrink them, Mrs. Thomas emphasizes.

gation. Both hunters and officials of the Game and Fish Commission were generally pleased with the upland game harvest which was described as one of the heaviest so far recorded for State game lands.

Banded Rabbits Anyone?

Scarcity of rabbit bands returned to the Delaware Game and Fish Commission would indicate that stocked rabbits add little if anything directly to the number of animals killed by hunters during the fall gunning season. Tests conducted at Reedy Point on the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal Wildlife Area, and at the Honig Farm on the Little Creek Wildlife Area were the most conclusive. Results, to date, indicated that there was no harvest of rabbits imported from the western states and released here in the winter and spring of 1961. Rabbits reared in captivity from wild stock and stocked in the summer and early fall had a harvest rate of 3%; those trapped locally in the late winter and transferred approximately five miles to a nearby area had a 7% harvest. Rabbits tagged and released at the trapping site on the study area during the winter, surprisingly, did not show up in the hunters' bag at all.

Although these experiments are not fully completed, game researchers expect no major changes in results as the hunting season progresses. They point out that the exact percentage of harvest is not so important at this time as the fact that the harvest, in general, of banded rabbits was extremely low.

Hunters are reminded that rabbit tags used in this study have printed on them the fact that they may be redeemed for $2 by returning to the Delaware Game and Fish Commission office, at Dover. The Commission, to date, has paid for seven tags out of a total of 253 that never placed on rabbits in 1961. Of the seven received, four were from rabbits found dead prior to the game season.

Geese Galore

Several kinds of geese have been identified this fall at the Woodland Beach Wildlife area according to Anthony Florio, biologist in charge of the area.

Ornithologists classify geese in three main classifications—gray, white and black. One white fronted goose has been seen. This species falls into the gray classification and is most commonly found in the western flyways. The white classification is represented here by a few snow geese and a color phase of the Snow, the Blue Goose. The third classification, or black geese, are represented in Delaware by the very common Canada Goose, the Brant, and occasionally by the Dusky Goose (a western subspecies of the Canada Goose.)

U. of D. Concert Choir to Present Christmas Concert

For the first time, the University of Delaware concert choir with orchestra will present a performance of its annual Christmas program in Wilmington as well as in Newark.

Charles J. Campbell, executive director of the Wilmington Music School, announced Wednesday that arrangements have been completed for a special performance in the School's auditorium at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 12.

Performances in Mitchell Hall on the university campus will follow on Wednesday and Thursday evenings at 8:15.

The program will consist of two major works, Cantata No. 36, Schwingt Freudig euch empor by J. S. Bach and A Ceremony of Carols by Benjamin Britten.

Guest soloists Shirley Tedford, soprano, and Donald Morgan, tenor, will join the choir for the Bach performance. Student soloists will be Joseph Krewatch, Fay Voshell, Judy Breme, Elizabeth Fluharty, Winifred Buzinskis and David Vannoy. Ann Garlich, harpist, will assist with the Britten numbers.

The entire performance will be presented under the direction of Dr. Ivan Trusler. Participation of the orchestral ensemble is made possible by a grant from the music Performance Trust Fund of the American Recording Industries.

Another innovation this year will be a tape recording and preparation of a professionally engineered long-playing record which will be made available to students and other interested persons through the university bookstore.

Following the Thursday evening performance, there will be a campus carol sing led by the university's brass ensemble under the direction of J. Robert King.

The traditional Christmas program is one of the most popular events of the year. Those wishing to attend are urged to arrive early to obtain good seats. There is no admission charge.

Fish & Game News

After one full week of hunting, the upland portion of the Little Creek Wildlife Area had accommodated at least 158 hunters who reported that they had bagged 121 rabbits, 33 pheasants and 35 quail. These were the numbers recorded at the volunteer checking station maintained on the area by the Delaware Game and Fish Commission. Game managers and wardens estimated that the total hunting pressure and bag would be one-third again as much since some hunters did not enter and leave the area at the checking point.

The Little Creek Wildlife Area, consisting of approximately 500 acres of upland and 2,000 acres of marsh, has been acquired by the State since 1958 from funds provided by the sale of hunting licenses and from the Federal tax on sporting arms and ammunition. The area is open to the public hunting without charge or reservations.

The cooperation of the hunters in this study has been excellent according to William Moore, biologist in charge of the investi-

Thanksgiving Day Dispatch From H. B. McDowell, Jr.

Congressman Harris B. McDowell, Jr., in a Thanksgiving Day dispatch from Karachi, West Pakistan, reviewed his experiences in meeting Delawareans in the past four weeks of his trip through Asian countries. The Delaware Congressman is a member of the Far East Subcommittee of the House Foreign Affairs Committee now on a tour of Asia and the Middle East Studying the United States foreign aid programs. Other members of the Congressional Delegation are Congressman Pilcher, Georgia; Congressman Thomas Johnson, who represents the Eastern Shore of Maryland; Congressman Judd of Minnesota; and Congressman Adair of Indiana. The Congressmen are accompanied by their wives and are traveling in a MATS transport plane of the United States Air Force.

Congressman McDowell said, "I have been pleasantly surprised and thrilled to meet so many Delawareans every place we have stopped on this trip. Many colleagues can't understand how so many people from our little state can be in so many places in this part of the world. I just smile and say that Delaware is small in area but enormously rich in people."

In Taipei, Taiwan, Captain Warren Buckingham, Jr., of Middletown, son of Middletown's former mayor and State Representative Warren Buckingham, Sr., flew two hundred miles from his Air Force base in South Taiwan to have dinner and breakfast with us. It was great fun to see "Bucky" and talk over hometown happenings together.

While wandering through an arcade in Hong Kong I was amazed to bump into the Jim Tunnels. We had an interesting afternoon together on a trip up to the Red China border where from a hilltop we looked across a valley through high barbed wire fence into the land behind the bamboo curtain. That evening we had dinner with Jim and Mildred in a mountain top restaurant overlooking the famous harbor of Hong Kong, a fair-land of lights and color at night. We were to meet again for dinner in New Delhi, India, where Judge Tunnell was an alternate delegate to the World Council of Churches assembly.

Upon arrival at the airport in Saigon, South Vietnam, we were again thrilled to be met by old friends and former neighbors, Rev. and Mrs. Walden Pell. Rev. Pell was formerly head master at St. Andrews School near Middletown. We were guests of the Pells for dinner that evening. The Rev. Pell is now stationed in Saigon where he is rector of the Episcopal Diocese of the Mekong. In Saigon we also met the Mendenhalls of near Kennet Square. Mr. Mendenhall is an attaché in the American Embassy. He graduated from the University of Delaware and is a personal friend of judge William Duffy. While on a tour of the hospitals in Saigon Mrs. McDowell was escorted by Mrs. Robert Gere whose sister, Mrs. Charles Kabul, is a resident of Wilmington. Mrs. Gere is an active worker in welfare and charitable institutions in South Vietnam. It was on this tour also that Mrs. McDowell met a Vietnamese nurse who had been in training at Duke University with Miss Anne Davis, daughter of Mrs. Maily Davis of Odessa.

While in Bangkok, Thailand, we met Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Unger. Mr. Unger is with the American Embassy. Mrs. Unger's brother, J. Thomas Oxon, is a resident of Wilmington. It was in Bangkok that I had the unique experience of having a complaint from Delaware constituents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. McMichael of Dover. Mr. McMichael is now employed by Charles M. Upham Associates as a civil engineer in Thailand. The McMichaels are protesting a new ruling denying them access to the American commissary operated by the Embassy in Bangkok. This matter I speedily referred to Ambassador Young for investigation and a further report to me upon my return to Delaware. Needless to say, the McMichaels knew many mutual friends in Kent County.

Our next stop in Dacca, East Pakistan, was to bring us together with the Olif P. Bergelins. While visiting the American School in Dacca, Mrs. McDowell found a student from Newark, Delaware, the son of the Bergelins. That evening we were guests for dinner in the Bergelin home. Dr. Bergelin was a former professor of chemical engineering at the University of Delaware and is now a consultant in our aid program in East Pakistan.

In New Delhi we were quartered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. LeBousquet Jr. Mr. LeBousquet is a chief sanitary engineer with the U. S. Technical Cooperation mission in India. The Le-Bousquets have a cottage at South Bethany Beach, Delaware, and knew many of our friends in Sussex County. It was during our stay in New Delhi that we enjoyed a luncheon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Schneider. Mrs. Schneider, sister of Adjutant General Joseph J. Scannell, enjoyed having the latest news from Joe and Anne.

It has been an interesting to recount these experiences as to have witnessed them in the quiet reflection of an office here in the American Embassy in Karachi on this Thanksgiving Day. It is equally thrilling in this far off part of the world to look out the window and see the Stars and stripes flying from the Embassy flagpole and to have a charming American girl, Miss Betty Hill of St. Joseph, Missouri, assisting me in writing this dispatch.

SBA Revolving Fund Decreasing

John E. Horne, administrator of the Small Business Administration last week released the following statement:

The substantial increase in applications received by the Small Business Administration since February of this year has resulted in a sizable increase in the call on the Revolving Fund of the Agency. In order to enable the Agency to live within its Revolving Fund, including a supplemental appropriation already contemplated by the Administration, I have instructed our field offices to discontinue temporarily, effective on and including Friday, Dec. 1, 1961, accepting applications in excess of $200,000. All applications within our statutory limitation of $350,000 filed prior to December 1 will be considered.

To continue to offer full services to defense-oriented industries, we will consider loan applications in excess of $200,000 from industries certified as defense-oriented by the Deputy Administrator for Procurement and Technical assistance.

It is apparent to me that within the framework of our Revolving Fund as it is presently projected, we will not have sufficient funds to take care of the needs of all credit-worthy applicants. This step will, I believe, enable us to continue to serve the maximum number of such applicants and also enable us to support the Administration's expressed policy of bringing the 1963 budget into balance.

It is hoped that the Revolving Fund will improve sufficiently in the months ahead to enable the Small Business Administration to lift this temporary limitation.

Guard Enlistment Restriction Lifted

Restrictions on National Guard enlistments for men without previous service have been relaxed effective immediately. Maj. Gen. Joseph J. Scannell, adjutant general of Delaware, said that the National Guard Bureau in Washington is now letting the state recruit men up to their 22nd birthday for enlistment in the six-month active duty training program.

Since September 1, only men with military service, or under 20 years old have been accepted for Guard enlistment, and men scheduled to start six months training between September and December had it postponed until after January 1.

The restrictions on Guard recruiting were imposed to avoid overloading Army training camps, which were already filled to capacity with increased numbers of drafted men. Guardsmen will start leaving again for six months training after the first of the year.

General Scannell explained that the six-months training program lets a man under 22 discharge his military obligation by serving six months on active duty, then returning home to his hometown Guard unit for the rest of his obligated service.

"If there is no emergency for which his unit is needed," General Scannell said, "a man may be able to discharge his military obligation with only six months of active duty. On the other hand, his unit might be called up, like several of our units have, and he would then have to serve more time on active duty. 'We don't have any place in the National Guard for men who are trying to avoid military service,' he said, 'but we do give men subject to the draft a chance to plan their future a little better than if they merely wait to be drafted.'

"Under our program, a man can schedule his first six months of duty—the basic training and specialty training phases—more or less to suit his convenience. If he goes on active duty again, he knows it is because the unit he is training with, is needed to do a job.

"The man who just waits to be drafted has no control over when he goes, what kind of training he will be selected for, or the men he will serve with, and he knows that he will have to spend at least two years in active service, whether or not there's a national emergency."

Poor Quality Soybean Seed Robbing Growers

How much are farmers paying for enough seed to plant an acre of soybeans?

This question was asked John Gerwig, agronomist at Rutgers University, when he appeared at the Delaware Crop Improvement Association's annual short course recently. The answer he gave was quite surprising. "Between three dollars and $50 per acre." Alert farmers who are using certified seed are spending about five dollars per bushel. Those who plant uncertified seed are paying 15 to 20 cents a bushel less, he points out, but it may be costing them as much as $50 an acre more.

Here's how Gerwig explains it. A survey of New Jersey farmers representing two percent of the soybean acres of the State revealed that certified seed was planted on only 16 percent of the total acres. Eighty four percent were seeded with uncertified seed.

A deeper investigation revealed that the certified seed planted had a average germination of 89 percent while the uncertified seed had a 65 percent germination. Even more startling, Gerwig said, was the fact that 18 per cent of the uncertified seed that was sampled had a germination percentage of less than 50 per cent.

It was a fairly simple task to visit the farmers who used this low germination seed. It was planted by six farmers in six different fields. Most of them brought the seed from their neighbors or "swapped" seed with them. They had no germination test on the seed, and they credited dry weather for the poor showing it made.

Five out of six of them abandoned the crop, either disking it up and reseeding or allowing the field to lay untended and unharvested.

Gerwig figures $50 an acre as a fair cost for planting a field of beans and receiving no return on it. Uncertified seed must be blamed for the failure on these acres, he adds.

Not many farmers can afford to gamble at these odds. It costs only 10 cents an acre more to use certified seed, Gerwig concludes and that is a cheap premium for such good insurance.

When asked what is the difference between certified and uncertified seed, he pointed out that certified seed is of known origin; it has been carefully inspected for purity, germination, and the absence of diseases and noxious weeds. A purchaser of certified seed is getting seed with 80-90 percent germination and less than one percent foreign material and noxious weeds.

On the other hand, uncertified seed is "just good seed," usually too appealing to an elevator operator for crushing. So he cleans it and sells it as seed.

Gerwig insists that planning these beans as seed is too big a gamble for farmers to take.

Horticultural Society Plans 75th Meeting

"Marketing Orders" — what they are and what they do, will be one of the featured topics of the Peninsula Horticultural Society when it holds its 75th annual meeting, Dec. 12 and 13 in Salisbury.

With surpluses of fruits and vegetables occurring almost every year, federal and state market orders have assured a new importance. Dr. Harold Hoeker, University of Maryland, will discuss this problem during the first session of the meeting.

According to H. George Kemp, Princess Anne, Md., president of the association, the Peninsula Horticultural Society was founded in 1886 to provide education information in the area of horticulture to its members. This is still the main purpose of the Society. The annual meeting is dedicated to this purpose.

The first session gets underway at 9:30 a.m. in the Elks Hall, Salisbury. The two-day program will be followed by a marketing tour to New York City, December 13 and 14.

More than 30 topics related to horticultural problems will be discussed. These include controlling nutgrass and Johnsongrass, E. M. Rahn, University of Delaware; plastic material in the greenhouse, P. H. Massey, Virginia Polytechnic Institute; and Delaware Belle, a new pepper variety, E. P. Brasher, University of Delaware. Special sessions on pepper pest control, disease control of tomatoes and disease control of apples and peaches are also included.

Complete programs are being sent to the 1600 members of the Society. Anyone who wishes a program should write to Robert F. Stevens, Department of Horticulture, University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware.

Winter Farm Drainage Planning Advantageous

Now is one of the best times of year to make plans for correcting that poorly drained crop field or bothersome pot hole, says Fred T. Mott, Work Unit Conservation, Soil Conservation Service.

With crops off the fields and leaves off the trees Soil Conservation Service technicians can do an excellent job in obtaining surveys needed by the farmer in making his drainage plans. Soil Conservation Service technical assistance is made available without charge to Kent County farmers through their Soil Conservation District. Upon request to the District, these conservation technicians will help any farmer develop and carry out drainage of other soil conservation practices. These conservation technicians work directly with the farmer and find winter planning more advantageous for him.

1962 is expected to be a busy year for establishing such conservation measures as farm drainage. 1961 has already proved to be the busiest farm drainage year ever experienced in the Soil Conservation District. 26 miles of farm drainage ditch were constructed by county farmers, benefiting over 900 acres of their cropland. Farmers in Kent County have found the dollars invested in good drainage have always resulted in quick cash returns.

Most farmers plan their drainage system in connection with a complete soil conservation plan for their farm. They then follow through by establishing portions at a time over a period of years. Loans for soil conservation are readily available and many farmers prefer to establish their complete drainage needs at one time.

If you have a farm drainage headache, or any other soil conservation problem, you have an excellent opportunity during the winter months to plan for their solution. Our Soil Conservation District is a good place to start.

Insect Feeding on Stored Grain Causing Damage

Insects are inflicting heavy casualties on stored grain and costing Kent County farmers thousands of dollars every year, says George Vapaa, county agricultural agent.

Insects such as the granary weevil and the Angoumois grain moth spend much of their life cycles feeding inside the grain kernel. The saw-toothed grain beetle, red flour beetle and Indian meal moth feed on the outside of the kernels.

With insects working on the inside and outside, there's apt to be little left for the producer unless he does something about it, Mr. Vapaa warns.

Even without a lot of apparent damage, the presence of insects in grain is considered as contamination or filth and is enough to remove it from interstate shipment.

Insect-infested wheat in storage develops "hot spots." This means grain damaging insects are active.

An area that shows heating now should be fumigated, the agent says. A small investment on a proper fumigation job now will return a big profit when the grain is stored.

Mr. Vapaa suggests you stop by the Kent County extension office on the second floor of the Dover postoffice for complete information about controlling stored grain insects.

ELECTRIC RATES REDUCED

effective Jan. 1, 1962

Our customers in Kent and Sussex Counties will save more than a HALF MILLION DOLLARS
a year

Two thirds of that HALF MILLION DOLLAR saving will reach home — the customer's home.

For instance, an average eastern shore household, using 250 kilowatt hours a month, pays $10.54 at the present rates; the same amount of current will cost only $8.62 when the new rates are effective.

Appreciable savings will appear in bills for water heating, and there will be no time clock control nor separate meter. All current over 500 kilowatt hours monthly will be billed at a new low of 1.75 cents per kilowatt hour. This makes the rate for clean, comfortable, convenient electric house heating even more attractive than it is now.

The other third of that half million dollar saving will be shared by commercial and industrial customers in amounts dependent upon their usage and type of load.

In these days when the price of nearly everything continually rises, we, of the electric company are mighty glad to give our customers a substantial price reduction.

COUNCILMEN AGREE

the City clerk, volunteered that it was available then but Smith did not elect to pursue it at that time. Smith, however, and Mayor Charles L. Peck Sr., stated the contractor bid exactly as required.

Another highlight of the active meeting was the agreement to use able welfare clients on City work. The City was recently represented at a meeting in Dover on the problem and it was pointed out:

The City has 11 able-bodied welfare recipients. These can be required to work out the amount of their relief checks but to work no more than 40 hours per week. The workers can not take the place, however, of present employees. If they fail to show up for work, and do not have a reasonable excuse, they can be taken from the relief rolls. This practice has been used with success in New Castle County.

In other business:

Harry G. Farrow Sr., wanted a driveway to his house from West Street. The City refused the request because the street is a state-maintained thoroughfare.

A request from Farrow to remove parking signs was tabled until the Pierre S. duPont School, under construction across the street, was completed.

Agreed to tape parking meters from now until Dec. 26; in other words, no charge for parking.

Tabled the request of Asbury Methodist Church that it reduce the delinquent taxes on the property of the late Fannie Hurd, across the street from the parsonage. It was reported the property had been offered to the church if it would pay the delinquent city and county taxes. It was said the church would raze the building. It was mentioned the City could sell the property for taxes, delinquent to some $600.

Refused the requests of Nelson Rash and Harvey Dill for curbing and sidewalk on the south lane of U.S. 13 because the properties were along a state highway.

Councilman Howell Hitchens proposed annual expansion of water mains. He added that the City makes money from the water and thought the mains should be throughout Harrington Manor.

The City Clerk was asked to send a letter to the owner of a building, once damaged by fire, on West Milby Street, asking for the structure to be razed. It was also mentioned a barn had been moved into the area without a permit, as required by law.

behind Rogers with Szmajda a few seconds back.

The race was run on a course which covered both side of the Schuylkill River. Start and finish were near the Vesper boat-house on East River Drive. The harriers crossed over the Girard Ave. Bridge ran past the Philadelphia Zoo and alongside the river to another bridge. Crossing this structure the Museum of Art was then passed on the way back to the finish line. The course was unique and completely different from anything seen by the locals previously.

Research into the 1960 race reveals that the clocking of Rogers and Knox are only 21 and 22 seconds off that recorded by a lad last year who is a top college prospect this year. This pair along with Smith and Ken Garey could give Harrington High cross-country Coach Harold McDonald a solid foundation on which to build another top squad in 1962.

Mrs. O. C. Tatman Sr.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon for Mrs. Mildred W. Tatman, 57, who died Sunday night of a heart attack.

Mrs. Tatman was the widow of Odes C. Tatman Sr.
