

COUNCIL REORGANIZES; CITY PERSONNEL SHOWS NEGLECTIBLE CHANGE

Practically all City employees and appointments were made renewed Wednesday night at the annual reorganization meeting of the City Council, two members of which had been elected the previous day.

Although the meeting had its rough spots, it was over before 9 p. m.

City Manager George S. Graham was reappointed at his previous salary, $3500 per year, and, in a separate motion near the end of the meeting, he was granted $25 a month for the expenses of his car. The only other applicant for City manager was Harry G. Farrow Sr.

The incoming councilmen were Wilson G. Bradley, First Ward, and Burton Satterfield, Fifth Ward.

Chief of Police Ernest Kohland and Patrolman David Earl Peterson were reappointed. A vacancy, created by the resignation of Donald Black, who has become a constable, will be considered by the Police Commission to be acted on by the Council at its February meeting. Applications are on hand from five candidates including Fred Bailey, Jr., Noland Warnick, Robert Valdesere, and Lester Tucker, all of Harrington, and Glenn W. Boyce, Seaford.

The Kohland application was the only one made for chief of police. In the form, he also asked for a raise from $75 per week to $85 per week.

Councilman Luther P. Hatfield motioned that the chief be given a raise of $5 per week now and $5 per week beginning July 1.

Councilman Bradley said he didn't think the City could afford to pay the increase now. Hatfield said his justification was that the chief had worked four years, 48 hours per week. Bradley replied he thought it (the increase) was silly at this time. He added he didn't go on with an increase to a chief who worked only in the daytime.

City Manager Graham spoke up to say that Chief Kohland kept his records in good order and that his relations with the State Police and the FBI were good. He concluded with saying there was more to the job than meets the eye.

Councilman Bradley wanted to make a motion to pay the chief his previous salary, but was checked by the fact the Hatfield motion had not been acted on. The motion was seconded and passed, giving the chief his raise.

Patrolman Peterson was rehired at his present salary of $65 per week.

The street help was rehired with Herman Kohland, Sr., as truck driver at $1.25 per hour, and John C. Langrell and Norval H. Nichols at $1.10 per hour as street help.

Others rehired were: Wilbur Pearson, sewer pump attendant; Ted Dean, janitor; Mrs. Frances Rifenburg, water plant custodian; Tom Brown, part-time attendant of the Delaware Avenue relay pump station; solicitors, Brown & Brown; auditors, Tharp Harrington and Lester Smith; treasurer, Howard Wagner.

Clarence Dyer was appointed alderman, with L. Gooden Callaway, who previously held the post, as alternate. Both men are magistrates.

Mrs. Franklin Derrickson was reappointed City clerk. The vote was 3 to 3, with Mayor Charles L. Peck Sr., breaking (Continued on Page 8)

L.O.O.M. Appeals For Used Clothing

Do you have good used clothing that you have discarded or that your children have grown out of? If you have then the Harrington Lodge No. 534 Loyal Order of Moose can make good use of it.

We have a clothing bank at out Lodge Home which is now nearly depleted and we need more.

All of this clothing will be distributed to families in dire need, when they need it.

During the Christmas season we had toys donated that were repaired and repainted and new toys were bought. Then on December 17, we had a Christmas party for fifty underprivileged children.

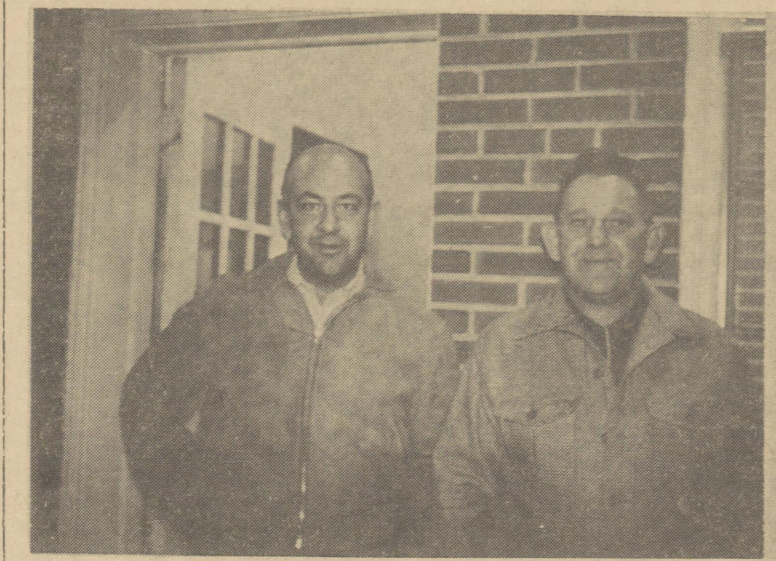

These underprivileged children could use clothes that have been discarded and outgrown to keep them warm this winter or better clothed during the summer.

Many peoples hearts are touched and generously give to our more unfortunate fellow citizens at Christmas and do something to help them. Why should we not feel the same way during the remainder of the year? CARE asks for a dollar or more to help unfortunate people in other foreign lands. We have families here in our own community who need help and we are asking only for the clothes you do not intend to use again. Please help us, to help more unfortunate children and adults in our community.

You can rest assured that the people who receive the clothing will really need it.

Anyone who has clothing, shoes or galoshes that they have discarded but can still be used, call our civic affairs chairman, Earl Lee Yoder EX 8-3750 or Thomas Carr EX 8-8404, giving your name and complete address. We will come to your residence to receive the clothing you have to offer. No amount of clothing you have to give will be too small for us to accept for some needy persons.

Please help us to help you to help someone else less fortunate than we are. They in turn will take more pride in our community and become more useful to our community in the future.

NEW CITY COUNCILMEN—Burton Satterfield (left) from Fifth Ward, and Wilson Bradley, First Ward, who took office Wednesday night.

Bradley Winner In Council Race

Wilson Bradley was the victor in the only contest in Tuesday's municipal election for councilmen.

A candidate in the only other ward, figuring in the election, was unopposed.

Bradley defeated the incumbent, Thomas Brown, 69 to 44, with 3 votes being thrown out, in the battle for the First Ward.

Burton Satterfield was unopposed in the Fifth Ward, Raymond Dean, the incumbent, did not choose to run for re-election.

Both candidates, who will serve three years, took their seats Wednesday night at the reorganizational meeting.

Other Council members are Luther P. Hatfield, William Smith, Howell Hitchens, and Clarence Black.

School Board Holds Meeting

The regular January meeting of the Board of Education was held in the school office Monday evening.

Sections 5 and 6 of the Policy Handbook of the Board were approved as written and then by resolution the entire Policy Handbook was adopted with any policies in conflict with those stated in the handbook rescinded.

The Board authorized that a minimum of 150 of these policy handbooks be published and made available to all persons desiring them.

The Board adopted a local salary supplement for professional employees for the 1962-63 school year.

James O'Neal appeared before the Board and asked that the present auditorium be made available for a skating rink until such time as it was converted into a library. The Board discussed with Mr. O'Neal the possibilities of using the auditorium for such a purpose and agreed to seek a sponsoring organization in the school with the understanding that a nominal charge will be made, and that wooden skates would be used on the floor. The Board also agreed that if a school organization was not interested in the proposition Mr. O'Neal would be given the opportunity to seek a sponsorship by a community group.

The Board discussed the commencement program at the end of the school year and decided to use student speakers again this year rather than bringing in a speaker from outside the community.

Selbyville Cagers Best H.H.S. 57-36

Harrington High's basketball Lions looked better than last time out but had weak second and third periods and were beaten by Selbyville 57-36.

The game was played on the local court Tuesday night. Jeff Adams and George Collins, two mighty mites, led Harrington with 13 points apiece. Bill Porter aided with 7 tallies. Collins must be one of the tiniest varsity cagers in Delaware. Adams isn't much bigger. Both are fast and possess clever moves.

The Rebels with one exception have no tall men. However, that exception is the mobile giant Cliff Murray. Murray, a football ace, was tough under the board and led all scorers with 20 points. His play was the difference between the two squads.

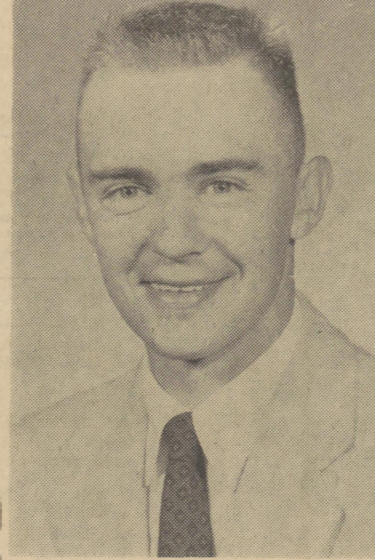

The Lions trailed by only one point after the first quarter. They were still in contention until the victors ripped off 12 straight points to lead at the half by 34-19. The Rebels dominated the third period but were outscored 11-5 in the final stanza.

Selbyville had to go into overtime to capture the junior varsity crown.

The Henlopen Conference proved to be unwieldy in the past with eleven teams. This

Delaware Junior Miss Pageant

The Harrington Junior Chamber of Commerce will host to the Delaware Junior Miss Pageant Sat., Feb. 17, it was announced this week in a release by David Jones, chairman of the pageant.

The purpose of the pageant is to recognize outstanding high-school senior girls in the state who best show qualities of character, citizenship, leadership, scholastic achievement, personal ambition, and lady-like poise and demeanor.

The Junior Miss Pageant is not a bathing-suit competition, but rather a search for the girl who best represents her classmates in her community.

The following rules apply: 1. The contestant must be a senior high school girl who will not graduate prior to May 1, 1962.

2. She must be 16, 17, or 18 years of age as of March 23, 1962. (Continued on Page Four)

Electric Expansion To Continue in '62

Delaware Power & Light Company and its subsidiaries, the Eastern Shore Public Service Companies of Maryland and Virginia, plan to spend more than $18,000,000 during 1962 on construction of facilities for serving power. Of this total, about five and three quarter million dollars are earmarked for use in Kent and Sussex counties of Delaware and the eastern shore counties of Maryland and Virginia. Twelve and a quarter million will be invested in developments in New Castle County.

The increasing demand for additional electric power by present customers, population growth and the effect of new industries locating on the Delmarva Peninsula necessitate the expansion program, according to George M. Nelson, vice president of Delaware Power & Light Company.

Rehoboth Cagers Spoil H.H.S. Opener, 86-37

Henlopen Conference champions, sporting eight men over the six foot mark in height, had too much altitude, depth and talent for Harrington High's outclassed Lions. The locals did not fare too badly in the first half but simply could not make a contest of it in the final stanza.

Jeff Adams and George Collins were standouts for the Lions with 14 and 11 points respectively.

The Henlopen Conference proved to be unwieldy in the past with eleven teams. This

After the ceremony, which was attended by the immediate family, a reception was held at the home of the bride. The couple is residing in Dover.

Centennial Art Exhibit Opens At Delaware Art Center

A timely and interesting exhibit of American painting will have its formal opening tomorrow evening at the Delaware Art Center at 8:30 p.m.

Sponsored by the trustees, president and faculty of the University of Delaware and the board of directors and staff of the Wilmington Society of the Fine Arts, the exhibition celebrates the centennial of the Land-Grant Act of 1862 which brought public higher education within the reach of all Americans. Described as one of the most important pieces of legislation ever passed by congress, the act brought into being many of the nation's greatest educational institutions, including Cornell, Delaware, Indiana, L.S.U., Massachusetts, Michigan State, Ohio State and Penn State.

The purpose of the exhibition, "American Painting: 1857-1869," is to recognize the positive side of American life and culture during the turbulent years of the Civil War rather than the negative aspects of disunion and strife which usually dominate historical accounts of the period. The works being displayed represent a cross-section of American painting at this critical time, and include more than 90 paintings and many drawings and graphic works which will be shown in the Art Center galleries through February 18.

The exhibition represents a crucial decade in the course of American painting, the transitional years between two of the most significant artistic movements of the 19th century. The older school was dominated by the landscape painting tradition of the Hudson River School which, by the 1860's, had about run its course. Younger painters—Winslow Homer, James McNeill Whistler, Thomas Eakins, John Lafarge and others less concerned with realism—brought new ideas to the final quarter of the 19th century.

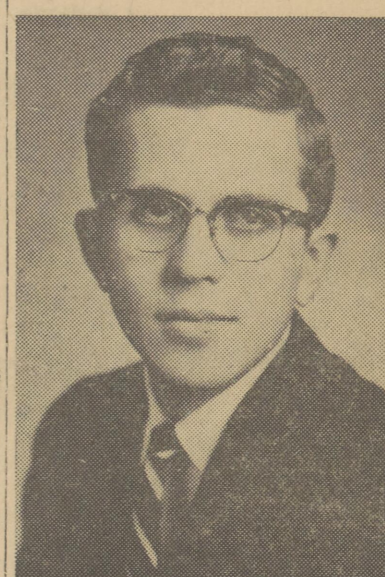

Among the other artists represented are Asher B. Durand, James Hart, Eastman Johnson, Martin J. Heade, Frederick E. Church, George Durrie, Albert Bierstadt and Hart Johnson.

The Delaware exhibit focuses attention on works of art which have added immensely to our national culture despite the fact that they were created during the blackest years of our country's history.

Arrangements for the exhibit have been co-ordinated by Wayne Craven, Winterthur Assistant Professor of Art History at the university, and Bruce St. John and Roland Elzea of the Delaware Art Center.

Power Company Employs Receive Service Pins

Calvin W. Wells and Thomas E. Brown of Harrington were both presented with pins last week in recognition of completing 20 years of service with Delaware Power & Light Company. Mr. A. B. Parsons, division manager for the company, presented the pins at a safety meeting held at Harrington for operating personnel. Calvin Wells is division engineer and Thomas Brown is a trouble and service man.

Mr. Parsons, himself, received a 45-year pin recently when he attended a dinner of the company's Vingt Cinq Club—all of those members have been with the company at least 25 years.

Five men received fifteen year service pins: Clarence Billings, tree trimmer; Leslie Simpson Jr., tree trimmer; William D. Hopkins, tree trimmer; James H. Cain, line crew; Charles I. Calloway, engineering assistant.

Charles R. Tatman, laborer, Wilbert L. Gourley, engineer's helper and Robert T. Jester, meter reader, received 10-year service pins.

One man, William T. Simpler, a lineman, received his 5-year pin. Although all of these men are based at Harrington, their jobs take many of them to every location in Kent and Sussex counties where Delaware Power & Light Company serves electric power.

Wide Interest Appeal Reflected In Farm and Home Week Program

The University of Delaware's 1962 Farm and Home Week, to be held on the campus in Newark, February 6, 7, and 8 will offer topics of interest to a wide range of audiences, according to Dr. Morris S. Cover, associate dean of agriculture and general chairman of the popular winter event.

In addition to traditional sessions on farm production, marketing, and homemaking, this year's program will include such topics as planning and zoning, buying a house, growing roses for show, and judging and riding pleasure horses.

Reflecting the growing interest of Delaware citizens in long-range planning and community and area zoning, Dr. Cover said a special program will be offered Wednesday morning, Feb. 7, under the general theme, "Planning for Delaware's Future: a Rural and Urban Responsibility".

Speakers for this program will include Alvin Leacey, Jr., of the Dover Zoning Commission; W. S. Bonner of the University of Arkansas; Dr. Edward S. Overman, director of the division of urban affairs at the university; G. F. Vaughn of the Economic Research Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture; Dr. W. M. Crosswhite of the agricultural economics department, U. D.; and Dr. George M. Worrlow, vice president of the university. They will discuss the current status of planning and zoning in the State, report on the experiences of other areas,

The stockholders of the Kent & Sussex County Fair, Inc., approved the change in the name of the organization to Delaware State Fair Monday night at the annual stockholders meeting and banquet at Harrington School.

The vote was 402 to 18. The next move is to file the report with the Corporation Department of the Secretary of State.

The election of officers will be held this evening. Dean George Worrlow, vice president of the University of Delaware, was master of ceremony at the banquet in the school cafeteria.

The stockholders approved the appointment of the following directors: J. Baker Taylor, Wilmington; Paul Mitchell, Hockessin; David Houseman, Ellendale; J. Frank Gordy Sr., Georgetown; Russell Kirby, Milford, and Franklin Hendricks, Harrington.

They replaced five deceased directors and one who resigned. The deceased are as follows: Dr. W. T. Chipman, Jacob Rudnick, William W. Sharp, T. Brinton Holloway, and Earl Sylvester, and the resigned member was Clayton Bunting.

Wilbur B. Layton Sr., head carpenter, was presented a wallet and check in honor of 15 years' service and his retirement.

Tips to Farmers

By Mortimer M. Caplin
First of 6 Series

Before we start on specific questions, do you have any general advice regarding taxes you might give farmers?

I would first like to express my appreciation for an opportunity to answer questions of interest to farmers. Farmers form the largest business group filing Federal income tax returns; they file nearly one-third of the total business returns filed. We at Internal Revenue Service are vitally interested in seeing that the returns are as nearly correct as possible when we receive them.

No businessman, whether he be engaged in farming or any other type of business, can file a correct return unless adequate records of business income and expenses are maintained throughout the tax year. I

ANNUAL CITIZENS MEETING GOES WITHOUT A HITCH

With three nominations to be received, two of which involved the only contest, and a placid and limited attendance, the annual citizens meeting Friday night went smoothly, and was over in an hour.

Nominations were received for Burton Satterfield, to run, unopposed, as councilman in the Fifth Ward, with nominations for the incumbent, Thomas Brown, and Wilson Bradley, in the First Ward.

Fulton J. Downing presided over the meeting, and Mrs. Kathryn Derrickson was secretary.

Copies of the city financial report were given to those present and excited no argument.

Mayor Charles L. Peck, Sr. told of work done by the City the past year. This included blacktopping and curbing of Simpson, Simmons, Short, High, and Calvin Streets and painting and cleaning of the water tower. The mayor added that the water plant was in good shape, and that the sewer plant was in good shape at this time.

He recommended resurfacing some streets which needed it badly. These were Mechanic, Wolcott, Dixon, (from Liberty to Clark), Thomas Alley, Hanley Street, and Simmons Street from Second Street to Harrington Avenue. The mayor concluded by saying that resurfacing did not necessarily mean curbing.

The financial picture looked good. The financial condition was good, but there were bond issues to be met. City manager George S. Graham said $8782.98 taxes were delinquent as of the end of the fiscal year, Sept. 30, 1961, but that only $973 was due as of Jan. 5.

Citizens Recommendations: Frank O'Neal recommended a map showing sewer and water lines. He said there was none of Harrington Manor and that it cost him $35 to locate a line in the manor. The city manager said he had a chart, and that he had made additions to it but had not made additions to water lines in the manor.

Alan Rutledge, also of the manor, said it was his understanding that construction of sidewalks was legitimate expense for the Municipal Aid Fund. The city manager replied that when the sidewalks were torn out to widen streets, he didn't understand why it would not be.

Representative George Exley, a former councilman, said he had gotten in touch with the State Highway Department and

Sulky Slants

By MRS. DAVE (PAT) SMITH

In roaming around out here at the track, trying to find out who is who, and what they are doing is a task all its own.

If you happen to be interested in young stock, this year seems to be a banner year. Another thing, it's always a thrill to watch these youngsters, as you never know what they will do.

All these babies have minds of their own, which has to be changed as their work goes on. It's worlds of fun to be a rail-bird and watch their antics, for each day you can bet your life it is different.

Some are so defying, others take it all in stride. Our line-up out here at the track this year reveals we have about as good 2-year-olds as anywhere. Speed seems to be their name for a few I know. So much for the youngsters.

The age horses are coming in from their rest period, after a long hard summer of racing. Training will be in full swing as it isn't too long now.

The weather doesn't seem to bother the visitors out to the track. Every morning you will see plenty of out-of-town license, from all over.

Was over to our office here at the track. As usual our general manager had a welcome hello. Even as busy as Mr. Simpson is.

Virginia Holloway always ready for a friendly chat. Mrs. Thomas was telling me what wonderful Christmas she had with her family.

Now you know, all they need over there to make it really nice when you just run in, is a good cup of coffee. Maybe we wouldn't leave. How about that Mr. Simpson?

Mr. Gordon Smith was also sitting around in Mr. Simpson's office chatting about this and that. For one thing you don't have to be a king to be treated like a king at the track office.

It's nice to go over to Lucy's track restaurant. So nice and warm, and the boys are so friendly; talking about this and that. Always a little fun to break the monotony of horse talk.

Oh yes, Mr. Vineyard, if your stable keeps increasing, I think the track management will have to remodel your stable to look like Yonkers. How about that?

Mr. and Mrs. Manie Robinson tells me they have 30 head in training. Del Manges reports he now has 3 head. Guess Dell, you top the stables.

Now, here is one for the books. Stopped over to Bobby Hobbs' stable to see what makes his outfit tick. Bobby has 9 head. I told him that takes a lot of feed. And now for a witty remark here is what he told me. If I run short of feed here, I can always take them around to the back door of the Bride Bit and feed them their proteins. Well, for the human race your food stands out pretty good.

Sarah was looking like a school girl, dashing out of Acme Market, with her arms full. So, Bobby, it doesn't look like you'll run short of either kind of feed.

Stopped over and had a chat with the genial James Dennis Sr., who right now has 15 head in training. James tells me he has a very good 2-year-old, which has been in 3:05 already.

Pete Loosy has 10 head in training for Herman Brown. aWs over to the Looney Stable, Helen said they have 11 head now. She seemed to be having a ball even in the cold. There's just something in Helen that goes with caring for horses that nothing else has. I should know.

Joe Adamo reports all 10 head he has are doing okay. (Joe, what's the secret?) You know I won't tell.

Stopped over to Johnnie Amato's stable, he has 14 head right now with more to come in. Ruth was just as busy as could be with their mares and colts.

Ford reports he now has 13 head in training. Marcel Dostie, from Montreal, Canada, also has 13 head in training.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dupee are training 5 head this winter. I think, Mrs. Dupee, the outdoor air really agrees with you. Hale and hearty looking.

Tina Marshall, where were you going in such a hurry downtown yesterday?

Wilson Bradley, you're the hardest guy to try to find. Are you always that busy?

And do we have a nice fellow who delivers our bakery goods out here at the track. Frankie Quillen, are they all as slow as myself, when it comes to getting their money?

Dot Stafford, Lucy's sister, may I ask how come you got lost in the fog the other night on your way to Dover. Now you know I got, it being on Sunday, there isn't anything open. And, Lucy, is it so that you started for home and went some distance before you realized you were in the wrong car. Now you take it from here. You know the party well that told me. Oh, well, this is all in fun. But it did sound rather convincing at that.

Someone handed me this over to the restaurant today; rather a cute saying: "It's easy to see when a woman has a secret, because there's always a telling look on her face."

At the last moment Tom Wingate was a visitor to the track, from Roxana. Stopped to Sam Kennedy's harness repair shop.

C.K.R.T. News

The March of Dimes campaign this month to raise funds for the fight against polio and other crippling ailments is an all-important reminder of the enormous task that remains to be done in this field.

For this reason, the National Foundation still has on its hands the job of leading and organizing the Nation for a fight to the finish against this crippling but not almost entirely unnecessary, disease.

U. of D. Research Foundation Has Meetings

Total expenditures for research at the University of Delaware has increased nearly five times during the past decade, from $503,000 in 1950 to $2,300,000 this year, President John A. Perkins reported Saturday.

Speaking to some 160 members and guests at the annual luncheon meeting of the University of Delaware Research Foundation in Kent Hall, President Perkins cited a number of "benchmarks" of progress in the area of research over the last decade at the Newark campus.

"To compare the growth of research today with approximately a decade ago only in terms of dollars could be misleading," Dr. Perkins said, "for it doesn't assess the creativity of each dollar spent and the effects of inflation, but that our total research expenditure in the sciences has increased five-fold gives some appreciation of progress made."

As part of the total picture, Dr. Perkins reported that sponsored research resulting from grants from foundations, industry and governmental agencies has grown from $25,000 in 1950 to $1,250,000 today, and the number of sponsors has risen from 24 to 60 in the same period.

Explaining that the university does not "make a practice of counting research published, for quality is always more important to us than quantity," Dr. Perkins cited as another benchmark that the number of productive faculty has gone up threefold to 103, while the increase in faculty members during the decade has been only 50 per cent, from 196 to 270.

Another related benchmark noted by the president is the wider participation in research by departments of the university. "In 1950 organized research was confined to 11 departments, the majority in agriculture. Today, significant research activity is to be found in 26 different units," he said.

Research activity in all areas depends upon adequate library resources, Dr. Perkins emphasized. "While the millennium is far from reached, we have been able to do far better in establishing related benchmarks in this past year," he said. Library book holdings have doubled to 328,000 volumes since 1950, the number added last year was 24,700 or triple ten years ago, and periodical subscriptions are four times greater, 2,000.

President Perkins paid appreciative tribute to the efforts of the University of Delaware Research Foundation, which has increased its support 12-fold in the number of projects sponsored and four times in the dollars supplied, to $70,053, compared to $15,148 ten years ago.

"The UDRF has not only kept abreast, it has led the way by providing aid to younger researchers," said Dr. Perkins, reporting with "more pride than pain" one consequence of UDRF support—the retention of rapidly-rising, outstanding young faculty members.

The fact that the university has not yet lost one of these young people, despite better salary offers elsewhere, Dr. Perkins attributed to two things—the favorable climate which the university has tried to provide for research, and the desire to teach.

"More space has been provided for research," said Dr. Perkins, "and UDRF and other local resources have been available for researchers, assistants and equipment. The larger community of Delaware appreciates research and researchers, recognizing that a simile for 'research' is 'investment.'"

"The growth of research here has made possible the development of our graduate work. The possibility of significant graduate work has helped attract and retain some of our stronger faculty members. They have, in turn," concluded Dr. Perkins, "attracted younger disciples who are assuredly upgrading and giving quality instruction to our growing undergraduate enrollments."

Brief talks on research in progress were presented at the meeting by Dr. Fred E. Williams, chairman and professor of physics; Dr. Albert A. Branca, associate professor of psychology, and Dr. James P. Hartnett, chairman and professor of mechanical engineering.

Dr. Williams described his project in "Luminescence of Crystals," in which studies are expected to lead to the prediction of new phenomena on the subject of light amplification.

"Luminescence is the phenomenon of light emission in excess of thermal radiation. Many crystalline solids exhibit this phenomenon when excited by ultra-violet radiation, cathode rays, nuclear particles or electric fields," explained Dr. Williams citing the fluorescent lamp and television screens as examples.

During the past decade, advances have been made in the basic understanding of crystalline solids in general. "We are investigating by both experimental and theoretical methods a class of luminescent crystals of which zinc sulfide is an example," he said. "In addition to optical studies, we are making electrical and electro-optical measurements on these materials."

In his studies on "Conditioning and Blood Sugar Regulation," Dr. Branca is attempting to confirm the notion of biochemists and nutritionists that lowering of the concentration of sugar in the blood may be part of the hunger drive.

"For a long time psychologists have been trying to understand the complicated relationships existing between biological functions and human experience," he explained. "We know that written or spoken descriptions of food can make us hungry at times when we might not otherwise be hungry." Dr. Branca theorized that a sweet taste is associated with the intake of sugar and that taste alone could put to work in the body the sugar-reducing and distributing forces which maintain a constant sugar level in blood.

In experiments by Dr. Branca, blood tests of a person who had just consumed plain water showed no sugar reduction, but consumption of a sweet Sucaryl, non-sugar solution resulted in a produced drop in the blood sugar level in the arterio-capillary system. There seemed to be no effect on the venous system.

In discussing recent "Advances in Heat Transfer," Dr. Hartnett reported that one of the more challenging problems to the heat transfer specialist has been finding new methods for protecting the surfaces of re-issuing long-range ballistic missiles exposed to severe "aerodynamic" heating.

Studies show that by "supplying the proper amount of appropriate cooling gas we will be able to fly at high velocities for extended periods of time through the earth's atmosphere and still stay within the metallurgical limitations of the structure," said Dr. Hartnett. He noted that light gases, such as helium and hydrogen are the most effective.

Difficult engineering problems are encountered, however, in providing a transpiration cooling system for the vehicle, which includes pumps, storage tanks, pressure regulators and accessory plumbing, and the fabrication and maintenance of porous surfaces through which the gas may be pumped. According to Dr. Hartnett, for short term flights an ablation system, the application of a special coating of praphite or nylon or similar materials directly to the outer surface, is more feasible.

Samuel Lenher, president of the foundation, presided at the meeting. Exhibits of UDRF-sponsored projects, present and completed, were displayed. The group heard selections by members of the University Concert Choir.

The Green Thumb

by George K. Vapaa

Homeowners are continually being hoodwinked by false and misleading advertising from fly-by-night operators selling trees, shrubs and other plants.

The American Association of Nurserymen has compiled this list of safeguards for homeowners.

Beware of outlandish advertising claims relating to growth, flowering or fruiting of trees and shrubs, as found in such statements as "grows 20 feet in two months"; "produces thousands of exotic blooms in a few weeks" or "supplies many bushels of fruit the first year." The clue to practically all misleading advertising is heavily exaggerated claims.

When advertising claims seem exaggerated, check before purchasing with established nurserymen, the Better Business Bureau, state extension services, botanical gardens, or other reliable sources.

Sometimes common names that mislead the public are associated with plants, an example being the "amazing climbing vine peach," which is not a peach at all. This "vine" produces a hard, gourdlike fruit, not even edible except when canned as a preserve.

Question claims of "tremendous bargains." This can be done by writing the firm for a retail catalogue to check regular prices.

If there's any doubt about the age, size, grade or quality of the plant, write and inquire about it before purchasing. Established nurserymen will supply this information.

Pay particular attention to guarantees. For example, the nature and extent of the guarantee and how it will be honored, should be disclosed fully. The advertiser's identity and mailing address should be fully given. The Federal Trade Commission has established "Guides Against Deceptive Advertising." Check with these, if possible, at a public library.

Fly-by-night operators advertising plants usually concentrate on one product a season and push it hard through direct-mail advertising, radio, and large ads in newspapers as an "amazing, new discovery," or a "fabulous value when it may be nothing more than a very small plant, or even a weed.

Let me add this final note of caution. Don't be pressured into buying anything especially from the door to door salesman who says he is doing a landscaping job up the street and has a few plants left over that he will sell you at a terrific bargain. This is an old con game which results in a fly-by-night unloading inferior stock on an unsuspecting homeowner. Any price for this kind of merchandise is too high.

Carvel to Lead March of Dimes Campaign

"Moving forward from the successful fight against polio, the 1962 New March of Dimes will support one of the most potent medical programs ever launched against chronic crippling disease," Governor Elbert N. Carvel said this week.

Governor Carvel's statement was made as he accepted appointment to lead the March of Dimes campaign in Delaware during January.

The appointment was announced by Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation.

Governor Carvel pointed out that the March of Dimes organization, while continuing its 24-year successful fight against polio, is also attacking crippling birth defects and arthritis.

"I have seen the devastation wrought by birth defects, which affects more than 250,000 children each year, and arthritis, the nation's number onecrippler. As Delaware March of Dimes chairman, I have seen your dimes and dollars converted into the Salk and Sabin polio vaccines. March of Dimes supported programs of patient and medical research and professional education which triumphed over polio, will, I am certain, do it again with the other two cripplers."

The Governor's remarks were made at a reception at Legislative Hall, Dover attended by campaign leaders of the state. Among those attending were County Campaign Directors C. B. Harris, New Castle County; Francis Lore, Jr., Kent County; and Alfred Ellis and Mrs. Emory B. Brittingham, Sussex County; chapter chairmen: George Reece, New Castle County; Mrs. Irwin Murray, Sussex County; William Cavanaugh, Kent County; Mrs. William Cann, New Castle County; Mother's March chairman and Arthur Burcham, Teen Age Program advisor of New Castle County; Mrs. Virginia Dickerson, State Advisor on Women's Activities and representatives of National Foundation headquarters also attended.

"I join with these outstanding community volunteer leaders in urging the citizens of Delaware to generously support the 1962 New March of Dimes."

Patterns to Fit the Figure

Having trouble finding a pattern to fit your figure-type? Don't despair says Katie Thomas, Kent County Home Demonstration Agent. Maybe you're choosing the wrong style pattern. The four measurements—bust, waist, hip and center back from base of neck to waist—guide you in selecting a well-fitting pattern. The figure type size range in the pattern you choose has little or nothing to do with your age.

If you're planning to buy a new pattern, take your measurements with you. Each pattern catalog has a measurement chart giving the body measurements for each pattern size range.

Are you familiar only with the original Girls' and Misses' or Womens' sizes? If so, you'll be pleasantly surprised to find figure type size ranges for Teens, sub-teens, Chub-deb or chubbies, Half Sizes, Fuller figure, Junior, Petite and Junior Petite. If you're either tall or short, buy proportioned patterns.

The newest figure type in patterns is Junior Petite. These patterns are made especially for the small women—five feet, one inch, and under. The size range is from three to eleven.

Col. Sollars Killed in Crash

Lieutenant Colonel John A. Sollars, of Petersburg, W. Va., was killed recently (Dec. 19) after ejecting from his F-100 Super Saber during a practice instrument landing at Matsushima, Japan, Air Base.

Colonel Sollars' wingman, Major D. L. Gosser of Salem, Ore., reported that Colonel Sollars declared an emergency while over a heavily populated area and turned to avoid hitting a town below. Although flying at a dangerously low altitude, he remained with his aircraft until he was certain it would not crash into the populated area. He then ejected over water at an altitude of approximately 300 feet. A Japanese fishing boat picked up the Colonel and a helicopter from the Japanese Air Self Defense Force took him to a hospital, where physicians declared him dead.

Air Self Defense Force rushed Colonel Sollars, who commanded the 531st Tactical Fighter Squadron at Misawa, is survived by his wife, the former Myrtle Byrd, his son, John A. DICKERSON SUITS US

We see where the Sussex County Bar Association is objecting to the appointment of one Chester Dickerson as a judge of the Juvenile Court of Kent & Sussex Counties.

We see nothing amiss in Dickerson's appointment, subject to the confirmation of the Senate.

We have seen many excellent journalists who never attended journalism school. The late Walter Williams, dean of the world's first school of journalism, at the University of Missouri, later became president of the university.

Judge Marion W. Stevenson, of the Juvenile Court, is not a lawyer but he was prothonotary of Kent County for many years and this helped. When he was appointed by Gov. Carvel, in his first term, we editorially approved the appointment.

Chester Dickerson, as superintendent of the Milford public school system, should be a capable man for the post. It will take him a little time to get his feet on the ground but he will have plenty of capable assistance.

One does not have to be a lawyer to know law. Ask any magistrate.

Stroke Rehabilitation to Be Topic of Heart Fund Meeting

The problems in rehabilitating patients who have suffered a cerebral accident, or stroke as it is more familiarly known, will be discussed at the Mid-Year meeting of the Delaware Heart Association on January 17 at the Tradeway Inn in Dover.

In addition to Dr. Arthur J. Heather, medical director of physical medicine and rehabilitation at the Eugene DuPont Memorial Hospital, and chairman of the Heart Association's Rehabilitation Committee, Dr. John W. Goldschmidt, director of physical medicine and rehabilitation at Jefferson Medical College Hospital.

Dr. Goldschmidt is also a member of the Board of Governors of the Heart Association of Southeastern Pennsylvania, and chairman of their rehabilitation committee.

Because of his knowledge and experience in this disease of the circulatory system, Dr. Goldschmidt was chosen to serve as chairman of an all-day discussion of this problem at the recent American Heart Association meeting in Miami, Fla.

Following the discussion of the stroke problem, there will be a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Association, where one of the top subjects to be discussed will be the plans for the forthcoming February Heart Fund Drive to raise the vitally needed monies to expand the organizations part in the fight against all of the heart and circulatory diseases.

Through research, to find the causes, cures, preventatives, better treatment techniques and improved diagnostic procedures; by education, to inform the people of the latest advances from the research scientists, and through service, to provide the best possible care for the people of Delaware.

During the first half of the year a new headquarters building will be completed at Harrington to house both district and division personnel. The electric distribution system in Harrington will be converted to higher voltage to keep in step with increasing customer needs.

In each state large chunks of the budget money are appropriated for normal improvements and replacements necessary to any growing business. Poles must be replaced, meters purchased, radio and transportation equipment must be maintained, and distribution systems within communities must be extended and refurbished.

In the Maryland counties, the 1962 construction budget approximates 3 million dollars. Work will continue on the high voltage transmission line from Indian River Power Plant near Millsboro, to Piney Grove, 6 miles southeast of Salisbury, where a big new substation nears completion. The new transmission line is part of a dual electric power feed for Virginia and will also serve as a new and additional feed for Salisbury. In this day and age when home and industry depend upon electricity 24 hours a day, any additional alternate route for its delivery is of great value to customers. It means that in the event of storm or accident, the alternate line can be switched into service to minimize service interruptions.

Southwest of Salisbury a new substation will be built, part of the function of which will be to handle the increased power needed at Nanticoke by the Coldwater Seafood Company.

Construction will be started to convert the Wye Mills—Kent Island system to higher voltage. In the two Virginia counties, where 1 and 1/4 million dollars are budgeted, the principal new business will be construction of a new high voltage line from Exmore to Bayview, together with a substation at Bayview.

Mr. Nelson pointed out that 1962 is the 17th consecutive year of expansion by these companies.

1, it was announced Friday in a joint statement issued by the Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc., Georgetown, and the Poultry and Egg National Board, Chicago.

The two groups are co-sponsors of the National Chicken Cooking Contest and the Delmarva group is host to the finals of the Contest held each year in June for the past 14 years during the annual Delmarva Festival. The finals this year will be held at Harrington, June 14, 15, and 16.

This year's National Chicken Cooking Champion will win a Westinghouse dream kitchen worth over $3,000, reports Bill Rodney of Laurel, general festival chairman for the Delmarva Poultry Industry. It will be custom designed by Westinghouse engineers for her use and she will receive up to $400 additional for installation costs.

Grand prize for the junior division at the National finals will include both a Westinghouse portable stereo phonograph and a deluxe range, Rodney said. Winner of the outdoor division will receive a deluxe barbecue grill.

Many other valuable prizes are offered in all three divisions of the Contest.

This year, state recipe eliminations will be held in all states, reports the Poultry and Egg National Board. In addition, several states are planning to have state cook-offs. In a change of rules from last year, each state can qualify six state winners, or alternates, in each division of the national finals.

Closing date for entries is March 17, Rodney said. The blanks will be available in most stores on the Peninsula. Or they can be obtained by sending a postcard to Poultry and Egg National Board, 8 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago 3, Ill., or from the Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc., Route No. 2, Box 47, Georgetown.

Georgetown Pins H.H.S., 58-0

Georgetown's powerful wrestling team had little trouble with Harrington High's new and inexperienced matmen Friday night winning at the local fieldhouse by the score of 58-0.

George Bonniwell again was outstanding for the Lions as he was the only local to escape being pinned. George was in contention all the way and lost a close 6-4 decision.

Nelson Reed had the Golden Knights' Workman virtually pinned but lost when he did not realize that his own shoulders were on the mat. Experience is the only cure for memory lapses of this type.

Lewis Starkey made the next best local showing as he escaped a pin for almost two full rounds before yielding to his veteran opponent.

A one-sided lacing of this type sometimes discourages a new team to the extent that several of the boys might quit the squad. Instead Coach Mock had the best turnout ever the following Monday. Bill Parker, a new aspirant, who is a natural 154 pounder, will fit in at once since he is fast, strong and aggressive.

Against Smyrna and Georgetown, H.H.S. was represented in the 154 pound class by lads scaling around 127. At Monday's practice Parker wrestled three lads ranging from 165 to 205 and did very well. Give him a couple of matches against rivals his own weight and he might prove a pleasant surprise the last half of the season.

Henderson, the heavyweight winner, is the son of Mrs. William Henderson, who formerly taught school here when she was Miss Margaret Cooper.

Summaries: 95—Mitchell, Georgetown, pinned Ellwanger 1:09, first round; 103—Pizzala, Georgetown, pinned Callaway, 24 seconds, first round; 112—Workman, Georgetown, pinned Reed, 48 seconds, second round; 120—Workman, Georgetown, decided Bonniwell, 6-4; 127—Valencourt, Georgetown, pinned Rogers, 47 seconds, first round; 133—Rogers, Georgetown, pinned Taylor 49 seconds, second round; 138—Short, Georgetown, pinned Rash, 1:11 first round; 145—Tracey, Georgetown, pinned Greenly, 17 seconds, first round; 154—Schirmer, Georgetown, pinned Tribbitt, 52 second, first round; 165—Lawson, Georgetown, pinned Starkey, 1:51, second round; 180—Rementer, Georgetown, pinned Strohl, 42 seconds, first round; Unlimited Henderson, Georgetown, pinned Melvin, 1:43 seconds, first round.

Reese Theatre Open Entire Week Of January 14

Special Presentation of Bob Hope and Elvis Presley's Giant Hits

In the recent December edition of "Business Facts" the editor stated that the theatre in a town, city, or community held a rather unique and important position, and in many ways contributed much to the way of life, cultural and 'business-wise.'

Aside from giving to a city or town that great panorama of enjoyment in the form of entertainment, the theatre is the 'beacon', ever attracting and enticing new and old visitors to participate in the business activities of the community.

Following this line of thought, the management of the Reese Theatre has announced that Movie Center will be open the entire week of Jan. 14, with a special presentation of two of the top hits of the new year. Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 14-15-16, three days, Bob Hope and Lana Turner are the stars in MGM's "Bachelor in Paradise", one has heard so much about through newspapers and television. A story of suburban life sprinkled with bits of joy and happiness.

Elvis Presley in the new Paramount hit, "Blue Hawaii", is the tenant of the silver screen, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Jan. 17-18-19-20. Beauty and solid all-family entertainment is the order of the day in what is considered Elvis Presley's greatest hit.

The management of the Reese Theatre is asking that all Harrington and community visit Movie Center at least twice during the showing of these two great pictures.

Travel Pamphlet On Delaware Being Distributed

As part of an accelerated statewide effort to stimulate tourist travel into Delaware during 1962 the State Development Department is currently distributing a four-fold, ten-panel pamphlet titled "Delaware" during the first five months of the new year.

While the new edition of the "Delaware Calendar of Events" covers only the period Jan. 1 through May 31, it lists 176 events indicating that Delawareans and visitors to the state may exercise considerable range of choice in making selection of activities.

More than twenty "permanent attractions," open to the public all or most of the year, are also listed in this new edition.

According to David S. Hugg, who compiled and edited the material appearing in the new "Delaware Calendar of Events," excellent co-operation was received from the various Delaware organizations that sponsor events that are general interest to state residents and visitors.

Information for a second 1962 edition, covering the period June 1 through December 31, 1962, is now being compiled by Mr. Hugg. All Delaware organizations are invited to submit information concerning events occurring during this period.

Copies of the new edition of the "Delaware Calendar of Events" and other informational literature may be obtained by writing the Development Department at 45 The Green, Dover, Delaware.

Music Teachers To Have Workshop

Music teachers of Delaware will hold a workshop on operating procedures—the first ever conducted in this area—at the Wilmington Music School on Fri., Jan. 19, it has been announced by Mildred Gaddis, president of the Delaware State Music Teachers Association.

Participating in the workshop will be a panel of four well-known music instructors of the area. They are Anthony J. Loudis and J. Robert King of the University of Delaware; Aline G. Brugmann and Marion G. Harvey, both of Wilmington. The consultant will be Henry N. Lee, also of the University, and Charles Campbell, Executive Director of the Wilmington Music School, will be the discussion leader.

Six separate sessions will be held, beginning at 9 a.m. The program: 9 a.m., studios, location, arrangement and equipment; 10 a.m., recruiting students and sustaining their interest; 11 a.m., teaching materials; 12:15 p.m., luncheon; 1:45 p.m., Ideas for Private and Class Teaching; 2:45 p.m., Student Recitals and Appearances; 3:45 p.m., The "Business" side of Teaching Music.

Edwin Benson, of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, will be present to speak at the last session and to answer questions concerning allowable income-tax deductions for the music teacher.

The workshop will be sponsored jointly by the Delaware State Music Teachers Association and the Music Teachers National Association as part of a series to be held throughout the country. "Interest in music instruction is growing rapidly," Miss Gaddis said, "and the importance of well informed as well as ably qualified teachers is increasing. This workshop is planned to help the private teacher afford the student with the best possible service as well as the most effective instruction."

Dr. Duane Branigan, of the University of Illinois, president of the Music Teachers National Association, points out: "The successful music teacher of today is one who has learned with others. This workshop offers a most valuable opportunity for the American music teacher to increase service to students and improve his own welfare."

Information about the workshop may be obtained from Velma Smith Brice, 28 Lenape Lane, Silverbrook, Newark.

U. of Del. To Receive Woodrow Wilson Subsidy

The University of Delaware has been awarded a $2,000 subsidy from the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation to support study by advanced graduate students.

Delaware is one of ten colleges and universities receiving grants for the first time. Announcement of the gifts, to 84 institutions in all, was made this week by the foundation president, Sir Hugh Taylor.

Since 1958 the Woodrow Wilson Foundation has supported 4,000 fellows in their first year of graduate study. The subsidies are intended for fellowships beyond the first year of graduate school, and for other purposes such as travel grants, library aid, as the individual institution sees fit.

Dr. Carl J. Rees, dean of the graduate school at the University, explained the foundation requests that three-quarters of subsidy be used for scholarship aid to graduate students, the rest may be expended at the discretion of the school.

Subsidies were distributed to schools in proportion to the number of Woodrow Wilson fellows in attendance. The University of Delaware currently has enrolled one Woodrow Wilson fellow, Richard K. Doud, student in early American culture, graduate of the University of Colorado and native of Revere, Missouri.

In making the announcement, Taylor explained that the foundation directs itself to the task of recruiting college teachers for the future and the support of graduate education in areas where it is often difficult to find funds.

Dean Rees indicated the subsidy will be used as needs arise.

Foreign Students At U. of D. Receive Attention

Foreign students enrolled at the University of Delaware are learning from extracurricular experiences as well as from class room instruction.

With funds provided by a private benefactor, Mrs. Dean Pruitt, the university's foreign student adviser, has developed a comprehensive program for students visiting this country for the first time. A native of Belgium, but educated at an American college, Mrs. Pruitt brings sympathetic understanding to the problems of the foreign student.

In the Newark community she has held a series of informal seminars at her home during the first semester. Faculty members attended each of these programs and led a discussion of topics in their academic specialties. Attendance and participation by the foreign students has been excellent and the program will be continued during the second semester.

Mrs. Pruitt has not limited her efforts to working with the foreign students themselves. She has spoken to campus organizations and community groups to acquaint them with the problems foreign students attending an American university face. She has made a special effort to help with one of these difficulties by conducting tutorial classes for foreign students who need help in English.

Mrs. Pruitt's background includes work as a foreign student adviser at Northwestern University, at the International Hospitality Center in Chicago, the International House in Philadelphia and the Quaker International Center in Washington. Her several trips abroad include a summer with the Young Friends of North America Mission to Europe.

One of the Major contributions of the Newark community is the "Foster Relatives" program, involving some 35 families who are serving as local relatives for the foreign students. Instrumental in developing and supporting this program are the United Church Women of Newark who have helped to see that students were entertained at Thanksgiving and Christmas and at other holiday periods. The Newark YMCA has co-operated by permitting foreign students to use its facilities during the Christmas recess period. Members of the American Association of University Women are assisting Mrs. Pruitt in her tutorial English classes and officials of the Chrysler Corporation arranged a tour of their Newark plant so that the students could witness a major industrial operation.

Efforts to welcome the students and acquaint them with American life and culture are not limited to Newark. Between the first and second semesters, the students will visit Washington where they will have a sight-seeing tour, attend a concert at the National Gallery, visit various embassies, museums and Congress. Senator John J. Williams, Representative Harris B. McDowell and the Foreign Student Service Council of Washington have assisted in arranging for this program. Prior to the trip, Dr. Marshall Knappen, H. Fletcher Brown Professor of History and Political Science, will speak to the students on the organization of the national government.

Wilmington residents have been equally interested in co-operative in assisting the university and its approximately 100 graduate and undergraduate students who represent 45 different foreign countries. Foreign students have attended dramatic and musical programs under the sponsorship of the Brecks Mill Cronies. They have toured the offices of the Diamond State Telephone Company. Plans are under way for visits to the Winterthur and Hagley Museums and Longwood Gardens. Through the co-operation of the Delaware Chapter of the American Association of the United Nations, a program entitled "See an American Community" is being arranged. It will include meetings with community leaders, a tour of the News-Journal Company and visits to slum areas, a meeting of the City Council and a session of the city court.

Delawareans interested in further information about the foreign student program or who wish to offer suggestions or assistance are invited to communicate with Mrs. Pruitt at the university.

Veterans News

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—How many veterans are still in schools and colleges under GI education and training programs? Is this program still open to World War II veterans?

A—There were about 135,000 veterans still in educational programs under the Korea GI Bill as of October 31, 1961. This program has ended for World War II veterans.

Q—I understand that pensions are paid to some "Indian War" veterans. Does this go back to Colonial days?

A—The Indian Wars concerned in the administration of veterans' pensions are those subsequent to 1860 and before 1898; briefly those Indian troubles concerned with the opening up of the West and Far East. About 160,000 troops participated in these encounters at various times and about 1,000 died as the result of combat. There are still 29 veterans of these Indian Wars living today.

Q—Is government life insurance still available to the young men entering service today?

A—GI life insurance is not being issued today.

Q—Why do statistics show more Korean Conflict veterans each month and less veterans of all other wars?

A—Because people are still becoming veterans—that is, leaving active service and a great number of them served in the Korean Conflict. (If they served in World War II also they are considered Korea veterans for benefit purposes.) They are not considered veterans until they leave military service.

Hi'way Applicants Must Qualify, Warns Miller

Applicants for employment with the State Highway Department will be approved only, for certain positions, if they can meet the job descriptions for the position they seek.

A directive to this effect has been issued by William J. Miller, Jr., Director of Operations for the Department and has become effective immediately. It applies to all supervisory, engineering and other skilled employees.

According to the directive the approval of the applicants will be made by the Division Engineer, Personnel Director and Chief Engineer before being submitted to the Director of Operations for consideration.

The directive, sent by Mr. Miller to all division and section heads in the Department, reads as follows:

"The job descriptions which have been approved by the Department are to be on the basis of selection for all supervisory, engineering and other skilled employees who are employed by the Department. Copies of the job descriptions are available in the main office and can be obtained from the Personnel Director upon request.

Applicants for employment in the Department will be approved only upon the written indication that the applicants satisfy the job description for the work for which they are to be engaged. These approvals are to be signed by the Division Engineer, Personnel Director and the Chief Engineer prior to the formal approval by the Director of Operations."

Victor Reuther Is Series Speaker On Monday

Victor G. Reuther, administrative assistant to the president of the United Automobile Workers and head of the UAW department for international affairs, will speak at the University of Delaware Monday.

He will appear in Mitchell Hall at 8:15 p.m. as one of the series of lecturers on education and national goals, sponsored by the Delaware Student National Education Association. His topic will be "Education for the Wage Earners, Too."

Reuther, who serves as right hand to his brother Walter, president of the UAW, had a long and active career in organized labor in the United States and abroad. Prior to his present appointment, he held a similar position with the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and earlier as CIO European representative with offices in Paris.

He first came to the public's attention in 1935 as a young man in his twenties when he achieved leadership and national prominence as a strike leader during the first general automobile strike in Michigan. Since that time Reuther has been closely identified with the dynamic growth of industrial unionism not only in the auto industry but throughout basic industries organized by the CIO.

Reuther has been active in the political life of the United States, winning a reputation as a strong anti-communist who believes that a dynamic economic and social program of democratic reform is America's best weapon against communism. As European representative he implemented the CIO program of aid to foreign trade unions as a means of helping the fight against communist growth and influence.

In 1949, in an attack identical to that against his brother, he was shot by an unknown assailant while reading the paper in his home, which resulted in serious injuries including the loss of his right eye.

Co-operating in presenting the series of lectures at the university are the department of political science, school of education and division extension. The series is aimed toward an informed citizenry. There is no admission charge.

The grant, presented last Friday by Thiokol General Manager H. Griffith Jones to Dr. John A. Perkins, president of the university, will be used by the electrical or mechanical engineering departments of the school of engineering.

Its purpose, according to Mr. Jones, is to "assist a graduate student in obtaining an advanced degree by providing financial assistance to supplement his part time teaching income."

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton

There seems to be a time of year to buy everything — like January White Sales for linens, inventory sales for general merchandise, etc. Well, there is a time to buy meat also. Your usual meat calendar should read something like this: January, February and March are the months when beef is lowest in price, July and August, and September are the months when prices are high and supplies are limited.

Pork prices are down during December, January, February and March; its high point starts in June and continues through September.

The calendar for lamb is much the same as for beef. The only exception being prices are high during June.

Veal presents a different picture altogether. Prices are lowest in March and April and October and November. The high months are February, July, August and September.

When taking a good look at your meat calendar, March is the one month of the year when all meats are low in price. So — if cleaning the meat compartment of your freezer is one of the things to be done on your work list, March would seem the ideal time to do this job and to refill it with new meats to go through the summer with. However, never overlook truly good buys in meat just to save up for March.

This week there continues to be a good supply of fresh vegetables arriving from the southern growers. The recent cold weather seems to have done little damage and the vegetables you will see at your local vegetable counters are in excellent condition for the most part. Economical selections include broccoli, eggplant, iceberg lettuce, celery, spinach, onions, potatoes, (particularly eastern grown ones) and rutabagas. Mushrooms from nearby growers are in good supply so enjoy these often.

Fruit choices this week are fair, however, quality of fruit available is excellent. The increasing volume of citrus fruit makes oranges and grapefruits good buys. Prices vary according to varieties and sizes you desire. Apples continue to be a top buy with McIntosh, Cortland, and Greenings being largest in supply. Bananas, avocados, and limes are reasonable.

Check your canned goods supply. If it is in need of replenishment, now is the time to do it. There are many good buys to be found in the canned goods selections of your favorite store.

COUNCIL

The tie. The other applicant for the post was Mrs. Frances Temple. Mayor Peck appointed Councilman William Smith and Burton Satterfield, and City Manager Graham to be the Police Commission. Other appointments were: Street Commission, Councilmen Hatfield, Howell Hitchens, the city manager, and the Mayor. Zoning Commission — The incumbents, the three W's, William Shaw, William Minner, and William Humes.

The Council named O. T. Roberts and Mrs. Keith Burgess as assessors in the general assessment this year. The motion included that the assessment was to start from scratch, or a brand new assessment, which was not to be based entirely on the scrap assessment.

Near the close of the meeting, the city manager said that the State Water Pollution Commission stated the City would have to run monthly tests on its water and report to the commission. He added that equipment would have to be purchased and that the commission would assist in training in its use.

CITIZENS MEETING

it would place before the State Highway Commission a request to improve the road leading from the City limits to Wheeler Park. The route goes out Harrington Avenue, loops through the park, and returns on Second Avenue. The highway department usually maintains only numbered roads. An objection was that the road was owned privately by property owners. It was suggested the road could be deeded to the state. Harold Welch gave considerable praise to W. A. Wheeler for maintaining the park and pointed to the large traffic to it.

Harold Fry and William Outten wanted to know when the City would install water mains on that portion of Shaw Avenue on which they reside. They were told, "In the spring." The meeting closed with the expression of the appreciation of the citizens to the city government.

season the loop has been divided into two sections. Rehoboth, John M. Clayton, Millsboro, Milton, Lord Baltimore and Selbyville will form the Eastern Division. Felton and Greenwood will make up the Western Division. Teams will play two games with each opponent in its section and one game with each rival in the other division. The division winners will meet in a playoff contest for the championship after the regular season.

Felton and Greenwood fared a little better than Harrington but both went down to defeat as all five Western Division teams yielded to Eastern Division rivals. Our neighbors to the north and south were leading after one quarter but in each case fell further behind as the games progressed. Finkbinder, Henry and Barker were in double figures for Greenwood while Green and Wood combined for 20 points to pace Felton.

Greenwood Hands Rehoboth First Loop Loss Ever

Since the Henlopen Conference was first organized three years ago no league team was ever able to defeat the powerful Rehoboth Seahawks. The beachboys won 23 straight games and no foe could get closer than four points.

Tuesday night the streak was knocked into limbo by Carl Baker's Greenwood High Foresters. Rehoboth outscored Greenwood in every period but the second. A hot second chucker, during which they tallied 17 times while limiting the losers to a measly five points, carried the foresters to their historic triumph.

What type of record books should be used? There are no requirements whatsoever as to what type of record books should be used or in what manner or form the records should be maintained. The records need only meet the requirements I stated in reply to the previous question. However, they should be systematic and show all the receipts and expenditures for the year. They should also show the cost of so-called permanent assets and additions or improvements to permanent assets. These are assets and improvements having a useful life extending substantially beyond the taxable year in which purchased. This is necessary because the cost of these assets may not be deducted in the year they are purchased, but a substantial portion of their cost may be deducted as depreciation over the period of their usefulness in the farm business.

Any other advice on records? Be sure to keep all documents which can be used as evidence of a transaction such as canceled checks, sales slips, invoices, and receipts. On an audit of a return, those items would be needed. Before we leave the subject of records, I would again like to point out that it is certainly to the farmer's or any other businessman's advantage to keep as good and complete records as possible. Good records not only enable the preparation of an accurate tax return, but are an invaluable business asset. They are useful in credit applications, for measuring the efficiency of the farming operation, and for innumerable other business purposes.

Do you feel a farmer needs any special skills to maintain good records? I certainly do not. Good records can be very simple and informal, and require little time to maintain. I do believe, though, that the secret of keeping accurate records is to record the various transactions when they occur, and not to depend on memory at a later date.

What does the Internal Revenue Service require farmers to maintain? Our only requirements as to accounting records of farmers are that the records maintained be sufficient to enable the farmer to accurately prepare his tax return and for the Internal Revenue Service to determine the

Felton Loses At Milton

Felton displayed a balanced attack at Milton as four starters had two field goals each while the fifth, Tom Williams, made three buckets. Milton exceeded this total by five buckets and put a fairly close game in their own win column by also prevailing at the foul line 14-11. The final score was 46 - 33. Williams paced the losers with 10 points. The Kent Countians probably were handicapped to some extent by the small Milton court. The Sussex Countians are always tougher at home because most

Felton displayed a balanced attack at Milton as four starters had two field goals each while the fifth, Tom Williams, made three buckets. Milton exceeded this total by five buckets and put a fairly close game in their own win column by also prevailing at the foul line 14-11. The final score was 46 - 33. Williams paced the losers with 10 points. The Kent Countians probably were handicapped to some extent by the small Milton court. The Sussex Countians are always tougher at home because most

What type of record books should be used? There are no requirements whatsoever as to what type of record books should be used or in what manner or form the records should be maintained. The records need only meet the requirements I stated in reply to the previous question. However, they should be systematic and show all the receipts and expenditures for the year. They should also show the cost of so-called permanent assets and additions or improvements to permanent assets. These are assets and improvements having a useful life extending substantially beyond the taxable year in which purchased. This is necessary because the cost of these assets may not be deducted in the year they are purchased, but a substantial portion of their cost may be deducted as depreciation over the period of their usefulness in the farm business.

On an audit of a return, those items would be needed. Before we leave the subject of records, I would again like to point out that it is certainly to the farmer's or any other businessman's advantage to keep as good and complete records as possible. Good records not only enable the preparation of an accurate tax return, but are an invaluable business asset. They are useful in credit applications, for measuring the efficiency of the farming operation, and for innumerable other business purposes.

Do you feel a farmer needs any special skills to maintain good records? I certainly do not. Good records can be very simple and informal, and require little time to maintain. I do believe, though, that the secret of keeping accurate records is to record the various transactions when they occur, and not to depend on memory at a later date.

What does the Internal Revenue Service require farmers to maintain? Our only requirements as to accounting records of farmers are that the records maintained be sufficient to enable the farmer to accurately prepare his tax return and for the Internal Revenue Service to determine the
