

SENATE PASSES INTRASTATE TRUCK RATE CONTROLS

The State Senate Tuesday passed and sent to the governor a bill to allow the Public Service Commission to regulate intrastate trucking.

The legislation (HB 238 with HA 1) would authorize the PSC to set uniform trucking rates and bypass the so-called grand father rights in state law.

Truckers would not have to prove they had been in business five years under the new legislation. Any trucker in business at the date of enactment would be entitled to file for a permit within 20 days after enactment.

Small truckers for years have been trying to gain enactment of the bill or similar legislation.

According to Sen. Harry E. Mayhew, D-Milford, the state has always had the right to regulate trucks—but the PSC never had the money to administer the law.

The PSC under the proposed law would set rates for all intrastate trucks.

But Sen. Mayhew said the bill would protect the public against exorbitant rates within the state.

Vote was 11 for, 1 against (DuPont), 1 not voting (McCullough) and 4 absent (Cook, Price, Simpson, and Steen).

Under the bill, carriers would have to obtain a certificate from the PSC to do business and all carriers' rates would be the same between any two points in Delaware.

A new bid to curb "influencing of new teachers against unions or associations by principals also was introduced in the Senate Tuesday.

As in former years, the two big teacher organizations have a split opinion. Local 762, Federation of Delaware teachers, is for it. The Delaware State Education Association is against it.

Sen. Calvin R. McCullough, D-Holloway Terrace, introduced the measure. It would prohibit school superintendents and principals from influencing teachers for or against unions or associations.

It would give Superior Court exclusive jurisdiction in violations and would set fines of $10 to $100.

McDowell Critizes VA's Cutoff Of Direct Housing Loan Program Funds

The Veterans' Affairs Subcommittee on Housing, in executive session April 4, 1962, unanimously adopted a resolution submitted by Congressman Harris B. McDowell, Jr., (D-Del.) which declared that it was the sense of the subcommittee that the failure of the Administrator of Veterans' Administration to request in full the amounts authorized for direct housing loans is "inconsistent with the intent of the Congress in the enactment of Public Law 87-84."

The resolution further declared that it was the sense of the subcommittee that the Administrator should, "as promptly as possible" request the advancement of the full amount authorized.

Congressman Harris B. McDowell, Jr., during the executive hearing of the Veterans' Affairs Subcommittee on Housing strongly criticized the Veterans' Administration for cutting off funds authorized by Congress for the veterans' direct housing loan program last October.

Congressman McDowell had been a sponsor in 1959 and again in 1961 of legislation to increase funds authorized for this important veterans' program.

The Delaware Congressman pointed out, to officials of the Bureau of the Budget and the Veterans' Administration appearing before the Subcommittee, that in Delaware's Kent and Sussex Counties, there is a long waiting list of veterans who have filed applications for loans.

He also told these officials that there were 32,000 applications pending before the Veterans Administration throughout the country.

In 1961, the Congress had Similar bills have been introduced in the last two sessions of the General Assembly, but have gone nowhere.

John Oboyrshko Jr., federation president, said Tuesday night, "I think such a law is needed. We have been aware for some time of influence of a subtle nature."

Charles R. Harris, executive secretary of the DSEA, said the proposed bill is "absolutely unnecessary." The State Board of Education has had such a regulation in effect for some time, he said, and he believes "it's been rigidly adhered to."

DFDC Convention Names Townsend; Exley Is Contender

Raymond E. Townsend, Frankford, is the new president of the Delaware Federation of Democratic Clubs—thanks to the factional bitterness in New Castle County. However, Rep. George H. Exley, of Harrington, was a substantial contender in the early rounds, garnering all of Kent County's 60 votes.

Townsend, a "dark horse" who didn't know he was a candidate before Saturday's state convention, was handed the position on a silver platter by feuding New Castle delegates when Kent and Sussex Counties combined to support Townsend.

Jr. Auxiliary To Sell Easter Lilies

Friday evening and Saturday members of the American Legion Auxiliary, under the supervision of Mrs. Don Dell, will sell artificial lilies in the downtown shopping areas of Harrington.

These little flowers are made by handicapped persons of the State, and Lily Day is one of the major money-raising events in the Easter Seal campaign.

The Delaware Society for Crippled Children and Adults provides direct services to the handicapped throughout the state, whether disabled by birth, illness or injury. It is this Society who arranges transportation for crippled patient to clinics, provides braces, wheelchairs, walkers, artificial limbs for individuals who can not buy them, provides a counseling service and home craft program for home-bound individuals.

Mrs. Frank O'Neal Jr., child welfare chairman, has placed coin containers in the stores of Farmington, Felton and Harrington, 90 per cent of the funds raised in Delaware remains in the state; 10 per cent is sent to the national organization for a program of research, consultation and education.

Youth Commission Change Passes House at Dover

A bill to add an appointed member to the Youth Services Commission and cancel the voting rights of four ex-officio members Tuesday was passed in the House of Representatives.

The bill (HB 439 with HA 2), and administration measure, would make the composition of the commission nine appointees of the governor plus four non-voting state officials who are members by reason of their offices.

The four are the director of the State Department of Public Welfare, the superintendent of the Governor Bacon Health Center, the director of the Family Court of New Castle County and chief probation officer of the Family Court of Kent and Sussex Counties.

The change follows a theory that employees of the state government should not serve on policy-making boards of the government. The bill would, in effect, make them consultants.

The bill was passed with 32 yeas and three absent.

The House had a light day Tuesday, passing only three bills and receiving only one new one.

Roland Melvin Sr., Fuel Dealer, Dies

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon in Pilgrim Holiness Church for Roland Melvin Sr., who died Monday night in Milford Memorial Hospital.

An ice, coal and oil dealer for 30 years, Mr. Melvin was a lifelong resident of this community.

Albert C. Price Elected Head Of H.H.S. Alumni Association

Albert C. Price was elected president of the Harrington High School Alumni Association Tuesday evening in the cafeteria of Harrington School.

His term will begin in June and will last one year.

Other officers elected were as follows: Vice president, John Abbott Jr.; recording secretary, Robert Shultie; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Adele Callaway Jones; treasurer, Mrs. Harrison Melvin, and recording historian, Mrs. Luther P. Hatfield.

The newly elected president has long been active in the alumni association, the Harrington Volunteer Fire Company, and the Lions Club.

At the Tuesday night meeting, President Randall Knox learned that all committees were functioning smoothly for the annual banquet and dance Saturday evening, May 27.

It was also revealed that the Alumni News would be published this week.

Reed Explains Bldg. Commission

"To me, the first thing we are interested in is our own living," Robert Reed, chairman of the new Delaware Industrial Building Commission, said at a meeting of the Ninth District Democratic Club at the American Legion Home Thursday night, April 5.

The chairman, who has always "been a bridesmaid but never a bride" in Democratic politics (he ran unsuccessfully for state senator and state treasurer), spoke of the advantages of his commission, of zoning for Kent and Sussex Counties, and of the foundation of the Delaware Federation of Democratic Clubs of which he was first president and instigator.

Getting back to the industrial commission, he explained it started when the Dover Chamber of Commerce became concerned about what could happen to Dover if its airbase and the Latex Corporation should leave.

The idea then sprang up for a state industrial building commission to help industry locate here and to help industries already here. The commission has a bond issue of $10,000 to back up loans made for industrial expansion in areas where it deems there is unemployment.

The enabling act, passed in the current session of the General Assembly, was prompted by the knowledge that some states offer a financing plan of 100 per cent, said Reed. Rep. George Exley, incidentally, who told the meeting of his recent trip to Arkansas and Kentucky, said some 27 or 28 states offered financial aid to industry.

In explaining what industry wants, Reed said business wants to be welcome and that if it would not be welcome in one place it would go to another.

In explaining how the industrial building commission operates, the Dover resident, who has been a member of its board of education 15 years, declared that a community seeking industry had to have a development corporation. (Harrington has had a development group for several years.) This group would approach the state commission which would consider the merits of the industry and if the petitioning community had a need for work.

If the conditions are favorable, any group furnishing the capital for the industry would have its funds backed by state bonds.

Reed explained another facet (Continued on Page 8)

Fire School Held Here

Milford VFW Units First in 1961-62 Statewide Community Service Contest

Blue Hen Post No. 6483 and Ladies Auxiliary of Milford have been named state winners in the annual Veterans of Foreign Wars Community Service Contest, the finals of which were held at Dover, Sunday afternoon.

In unusually close competition, the Milford V.F.W. units nosed out Virgil Wilson Post No. 4961 and Auxiliary of Seaford, the 1960-61 winners. Close on the heels of the pace setters was General W. W. Atterbury Post No. 3420 and Auxiliary of Wilmington.

Sunday's judging of scrapbook entries climaxed a year-long contest involving all thirty-one of Delaware's V.F.W. posts and their auxiliaries. The scrapbook entries of the Milford and Seaford units will now be sent to national headquarters in the V.F.W. for judging in the finals of the nationwide competition.

HDC GETS ITS DUCKS IN A ROW FOR CERTIFICATION BY STATE

Rev. Quay D. Rice

Ernest E. Killen was elected president of the Harrington Development Corporation Tuesday in a meeting of directors at The Wonder R.

Other officers elected were as follows: Vice president, William W. Shaw; secretary, Thomas N. Clendingen, and treasurer, J. Edward Taylor. An Executive Committee was elected which, besides the officers, included Fulton J. Downing, Walter Lang, and Arnold B. Gilstad.

The HDC meeting was the outgrowth of a meeting of the Harrington Chamber of Commerce which elected the directors of the development group, as follows: Downing, W. Cliff Miller, Samuel A. Short Jr., Gilstad, Donald McKnatt, Charles L. Peck Jr., Paul Keen, Clendingen, George S. Graham, Killen, Lang, Kesler M. Farrow, Shaw, Taylor, and Carrington H. Burgess.

It was agreed the number of directors could be increased to 25 and that seven would constitute a quorum.

The legislation of the development corporation was at the behest of Herman C. Brown, Dover attorney, who explained the group, formed several years ago, would have to have some changes made before it could qualify for certification by the Delaware Industrial Building Commission.

This commission considers the requests of development corporations for the use of a state bond issue as backing for loans made to build or expand industrial buildings in areas where there is inordinate need of employment.

In Chamber of Commerce business, President J. Edward Taylor appointed W. Cliff Miller chairman of a committee to publish a program for the Delmarva Chicken Festival to be held here June 14-16, inclusive.

The president also revealed that the Delaware State Chamber of Commerce would furnish its annual entertainment of the state's congressional members in Washington May 1, and asked members interested in going to see him.

Selbyville Vicar To Come to St. Stephen's

The Rev. Quay D. Rice, vicar of St. Martin's In-The-Field, Selbyville, has accepted the invitation of the Rt. Rev. J. Brooke Mosley, bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Delaware, to be vicar of St. Stephen's Church in Harrington, it was announced this week.

Mr. Rice will move to Harrington Aug. 1 to fill the position to be vacated April 29 by the Rev. John R. Symonds, Jr., who is transferring to St. Stephen's Church, Blytheville, Ark.

Mr. Rice is the holder of the following degrees: bachelor of music, Newberry College in South Carolina; bachelor of arts, Wofford College in South Carolina; master of arts, Columbia University, New York City, and bachelor of divinity, Bexley Hall, Kenyon College in Ohio. He is also a member of the following honor societies: Phi Beta Kappa, Pi Gamma Mu, and Blue Key.

St. Stephen's new vicar, in addition to outstanding work as a minister, has made a name for himself at Selbyville and surrounding communities for his civic-mindedness and humanitarian outreach, said the release. The church there has grown from 50 to 120 communicants and from 100 to 190 baptized members. It recently built two Sunday School rooms and in the four years of Mr. Rice's ministry has substantially increased its budget.

Mr. Rice is formerly of Spartanburg, S. C., and is married to the former Alta Varian Scott of Mobile, Ala. They have two children, Quay Jr., 11, and Elette, 9.

Harry S. Smith Launches Out To Reactivate Flood Control Program

The State Insurance Commissioner Harry S. Smith has planned another stage in his insurance recovery program for victims of the recent coastal storm. He initiated a plan immediately following the storm with the adjustment agencies. He followed that last week by starting a survey of all these agencies in an effort to ascertain the amount of damages covered by insurance.

He also is trying to establish the ratio of claims being paid in proportion to those being made. He is trying to determine the promptness in making settlements by the insurance companies. He is preparing to hold a public hearing if this survey shows that the adjustment procedures that are set up with the agencies have not been found in the public interest. All of this was outlined in a recent report that the Delaware Commissioner made to all of his constituents.

He is following this plan by calling on the Delaware Congressional Delegation in Washington to expedite legislation providing money to carry out the flood control act which has been a part of the federal statutes for some time, but has not been executed because no money was provided to carry out the law.

Commissioner Smith in his active roll in the National Association of Commissioners, took a part some years ago in a zone meeting of commissioners made up in part of commissioners of this coastal area who were at the time trying to encourage a protection for the people in the coastal areas against flood and tidal waves. It was proven that private plans of insurance were not feasible either for the insurance companies or the insured. Largely because of the limit of exposure and the small part of the insurance buying public that would participate. Even though some companies provided this type of insurance coverage, property owners would not avail themselves of the privilege of buying it because of the prohibitive cost.

Commissioner Smith realized the vast problem that existed and shortly after this meeting with his fellow commissioners conferred with Governor Boggs on the possibility of enacting flood control legislation for the benefit of Delaware citizens. This legislation never became a reality in our state. Due to the fact that no federal appropriation was made to carry out the law on a national basis when our recent storm came there was no help for flood victims.

Mr. Smith recalled that Congress set up a Federal Flood Indemnity Administration within the House and Home Finance Agency under the Federal Flood Insurance Act of 1956 which was co-sponsored by the then Senator Kennedy; but following a year of organization and co-operative efforts with the insurance business to establish a government backed industry operation, the Federal Flood Indemnity Administration was forced to close its doors when Congress refused to appropriate additional funds to get the program off the ground. According to the Wash- (Continued on Page 8)

A special display of glass and china will be arranged during the spring season. These exhibits will be lent through the courtesy of Mrs. W. R. Money of Laurel, who supplied the lovely cruets and wine bottles for the 1961 summer display.

The regular visiting hours of the Zwaanendael Museum are Tuesdays through Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Sundays and holidays, 12:30 to 5:30 p.m., closed on Mondays.

You Too Can Grow Less Corn

Jay Higginbotham, a farmer of somewhat questionable ability, grew tired of the constant struggle to keep up with his neighbors in such things as clean fence rows, tons of hay per acre, gallons of milk per cow, and the size of his garden.

Mr. Vapaa says Higginbotham was extremely successful in obtaining poor yields and low income. Here are eight rules he followed in achieving this success:

- Don't test soil. Use the same old fertilizer grade that you've used for the past 10 years. Plow fields early when they are wet and sticky. Be sure your tractor is equipped with chains. Don't check your corn planter for accuracy. It will probably do as poorly this year as last. Use a corn variety you heard about at Lodge meeting last week.

Get the field planted as quickly as possible, usually at speeds greater than five miles per hour. Don't use weed spray; it costs money.

Cultivate often and late, and as close to the corn as possible. Deep cultivation will also help. Wait until the first snow, when the corn is flat on the ground, before attempting to harvest.

By following these procedures, Jay Higginbotham was able to get yields as low as 21 bushels per acre. Despite all of his efforts, he still grew 34 bushels per acre during an unusually good corn year, Mr. Vapaa says.

Higginbotham's experiments in growing less corn were terminated last year when the mortgage on his farm was foreclosed and he was forced to move to town. He is not working on an experiment in how to get unemployment pay without really trying.

Nazarene Church Notes

A revival will begin Sun., April 15 through Easter Sunday with the Rev. Ray Noggle of Dover, Pa. Services each evening at 7:30 p.m.

9:45 a.m. Sabbath School, classes for all ages. The theme this week is "The Cross Challenges Us."

11 a.m. morning worship with the Rev. Noggle singing and bringing the message. 6 p.m. church membership class meets. 7 p.m. prayer circle before the evening service. 7:30 evening evangelistic service.

Friday, April 20, the local church will be the host of a youth rally for the Delmarva Zone. The speaker will be the Rev. Wilson Lampher of Washington. The Rev. Noggle will be singing in this service.

The annual missionary convention of the church of the Nazarene was held at Hanover Pa., at which time the newly appointed missionaries of the Washington District were honored. Those attending from the local church were Mr. and Rev. Mrs. Ottinger, Miss Rose Handloser, Mrs. Eunice Legates and Mrs. Kennard Darling.

Zwaanendael Museum Notes

The Zwaanendael Museum will be open for holiday visiting hours, 12:30 to 5:30 p.m., on Good Friday, April 20, but will be closed Easter Sunday.

Rearrangement of the Civil War Exhibit was completed this week with additions graciously lent to the Zwaanendael Museum by Avery H. Ellis of Georgetown, from his interesting collection.

Corp. George Robert Ellis, grandfather of Mr. Ellis, served in the 2nd corps Company E of the 1st Delaware Volunteers and in the exhibit is a letter written by him to his sister, Alice, from Camp Hamilton, Va. In the letter he tells of a case of small pox in camp, rumors of a battle between ironclad ships, and even mentions his sister's interest in the "boys." There is a snapshot of him in uniform, his Grand Army of Republic badge, and a medal of the 50th Anniversary of the 1st Delaware volunteers.

Included are souvenirs of Ezra Hall Sullivan of Company H, 97th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, also lent by Mr. Ellis. Ezra Hall Sullivan lived in Wilmington and was the step grandfather of Mrs. Avery H. Ellis. A portfolio of the military and civil history of Ezra and many badges of the Union Veteran Legion Encampments and Conventions from before 1887 to 1910 tell a story of the comradeship of the veterans of that struggle which compares to the Legions from more recent wars.

The ladies of the period also participated in the auxiliary known as the Ladies of the Union Veteran Legion and shown are some of the badges which had belonged to Martha Thompson Sullivan, the wife of Ezra. This Civil War exhibit will be continued for several months with other relics added during the summer of 1962 in the Record-

Harrington School Notes

Mrs. Grant - 1st Grade

Leah Coady visited her grandmother in Ocean City, N. J., over the weekend.

Larry Carter has five new baby kittens. Leah Coady and Rose Marie Teed bought some pretty daffodils to school.

Ronnie Everline saw a big real Easter Bunny in Dover on Saturday.

Mrs. Hynson - 1st Grade

Johnny Schreck went to New Jersey last week and got a puzzle which he explained in Show and Tell Period. He crossed the Memorial Bridge.

We are glad to have June Lewis and Johnny Boone back after being absent with the chicken-pox.

Rickey Hoffman had an interesting trip last weekend to see his brother, Kenneth, who is in the Service.

Mrs. Brobst - 5th Grade

We have been studying our skeletal system. We can locate the main bones of our bodies. We made a game of it by doing this in groups with our eyes shut.

Randy Manges and Todd Hoyt transferred to New York State. We are looking forward to our Spring vacation.

Mrs. Howard

All boys and girls are back in school. We have had fun reading and working our Science books.

We have finished reading "Fun in Story", and now we are going to read "At Play."

Mrs. Hill helped us make Easter decorations for our room and for our display board.

We are marching and getting ready for May Day.

Connie Carlisle has moved back and we are happy to have her. We have twenty-five children in our room.

Miss Long - 5th Grade

We are adding and subtracting fractions in arithmetic. We are enjoying "The Good Master," which Miss Long is reading to us.

In one of our reading books we read tall tales, we are reading "The White Cat" now.

Patsy Cordray and Joanne

Melvin are in the May Pole dance. Janet Wirick and John Brown are attendants in the May Court. These people are from our room.

We are studying the Civil War in Social Studies.

Grading Period Ends

The fifth six weeks marking period ends Friday, April 13th. All incomplete grades must be finished and all over-due books must be in the library. Students who are in arrears in their work or with the library will not receive their report cards. Only one more marking period remains before the summer vacation.

Progress in School Subjects

Ninth Grade History Class News

Mr. Kramedaj is planning to take his ninth grade history class on a trip to Dover to visit the museum in connection with the study of the colonization of America.

A definite date hasn't been set but everyone is eager to go.

French

In French class, Mrs. Graden's 9th grade sections are taking vocabulary tests, and students not receiving 100% on the first day must repeat the test after school each day until they make the 100%. Each time the test must be repeated, the grade is lowered 10 points.

Tenth Grade Biology

Tenth grade students are kept busy doing many different things for biology class. The students have been making reports on diseases and their causes. Some of the reports are on tuberculosis, polio, sulfa drugs, cancer, and X rays.

The collections of twigs were due April 9 and the notebooks on April 11.

Biology

Wheeler's Park will most likely be a busy place again when the 10th grade biology students go out and collect leaves for another project. Seventy-five leaves is the required amount, but the pupils are urged to find more if possible.

The students hate to see the pained look on Mr. Wheeler's face when more than a hundred boys and girls invade his woods again.

Biology

Mr. Horst's biology classes are giving reports on the various drugs and medicines of modern times.

The students are learning by listening to each other's reports and taking notes on them.

Science

The students of Mr. Mock's ninth grade science class are building and working on motors, generators, and ways of finding electricity. The project is for the fifth six weeks.

Eighth Grade to Tour Washington

The 8th grade has chosen to go to Washington, D. C. for its class tour and will leave April 13th at 7:30 A. M. for a full day's learning and pleasure. The pupils will visit The White House, Library of Congress, Archives Building, Smithsonian Institution, Arlington Cemetery, and the Memorials.

The pupils hope that the cherry blossoms will be in bloom and hope to see the changing of the guards at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Three mothers will assist the homeroom teachers, Mrs. Dolby, Miss Morris, and Miss Schreiner as chaperones.

The total cost of the trip is $2.00.

Students Plan Vacation Time

"Florida or Bust," is the subject at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tucker and their daughter, Bonnie, who is a freshman. The Tuckers plan to spend their Easter vacation in "sunny Florida".

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Brobst and their son, David, also plan to spend their Easter vacation in Florida.

Other students of H.H.S. will spend their Easter vacation in various states.

Richard Black and David Brobst will spend their vacation in the beautiful climate of Florida.

Ann Preziosi will leave for East Boston, Mass., to spend Easter with her relatives.

Marilyn Jarrell will leave for New Cumberland, Pa., to spend her Easter vacation with her aunts.

Susanne Laime and her family will spend the spring vacation in Pomfret, Connecticut with Susanne's brother, Leon Laime. Some of her vacation will also be spent visiting with friends and relatives in Boston, Mass.

Easter Excitement Fills School

Here comes Peter Cottontail! Yes, the time is getting closer for the little children to be getting their Easter baskets ready to be filled with candy and colored eggs. To them it is just as good as Christmas.

The older people too are excited about Easter. Women and girls will appear in new outfits and hats! Even men sport their fancy straw hats and canes as in the olden times.

Yes! It looks as though everyone is getting ready and becoming eager for April 22nd.

Girls Practice Softball

The varsity softball team is now having regular practice.

The following girls were selected for the team:

The girls will have their first game at John M. Clayton on April 12.

Storm Relief Bill Introduced By McDowell

Congressman Harris B. McDowell, Jr., (D-Del.) this week introduced a bill directing the Housing and Home Finance Agency to undertake immediately a study of alternative methods of establishing a workable program to provide relief against flood and storm disasters such as ravaged the Delaware shores early last month.

The bill calls for a report to Congress no later than January 30, 1963 with recommendations for the establishment of an insurance program together with its estimated cost.

Congressman McDowell pointed out, in introducing his bill, that while the Congress had enacted into law in 1956 a Federal flood insurance program which provided insurance, reinsurance and loans to compensate persons against losses by flood, the Congress in 1957, by a vote of 218 to 186, refused to appropriate any funds to implement the insurance program it had established only one year earlier.

Congressman McDowell added that, since then, "the program had been a dead letter."

"The Delaware Democrat said: 'The Atlantic seaboard storm last month has revived interest in the insurance program authorized by the Congress.'

"My bill is needed to help find the best means of establishing a genuinely workable insurance program.

"The Congress is interested in a flood insurance program, but it has to have a clearer idea of what such a program would involve.

"The Federal Government must assume at least part of the financial burden of a workable insurance program, if we are ever to have an insurance program.

"A flood insurance program involves problems which do not occur in other kinds of insurance which are central to insurance.

"A workable flood insurance program will appeal most to the persons who are most vulnerable to flooding and storms; that is, to people living in coastal areas and in river basins where the probability of flooding is greatest."

Congressman McDowell went on to explain that his new bill:

"Is addressed to finding a just solution and balance between the interests of the general taxpayer who would not be a possible beneficiary of the program and the needs of those who might be struck by a flood disaster that exceeds their financial resources.

"The Congress in 1957 turned down the requested funds needed to establish the insurance program because the fear of some members that the general taxpayer might be called upon to share excessive costs of those risks where people built structurally unsound buildings in an area where nature clearly did not intend that men should trespass.

"Up to a point the Government can and should help.

"When the study called for by my bill is completed, the Congress will be in a better position to act in this matter.

"Federal assistance is essential to the success of an insurance program, to help spread the risk. One way a flood insurance program might work would be to base it on a variable risk premium insurance program based on studies of flood frequency and the extent of probable damage to different types of structures at different flood levels. The Corps of Engineers and the Geological Survey have already made studies which could, if expanded, form the hard core for a workable insurance program.

"Excessive risk areas, where people would build at their own risk, should be clearly delineated by such engineering studies. Any workable insurance program must clearly delineate that point beyond which a citizen builds at his own risk.

"Another possibility would be to scale Federal participation to provide aid in inverse proportion to the premium costs.

"These are some of the thoughts which have occurred to me, and there are doubtless several feasible approaches to a workable flood insurance program which will become clear as the result of the study proposed in my bill."

Veterans News

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—Is it true that VA hospitals welcome volunteer workers and what do they do?

A—Volunteers are welcome. They serve the veteran-patients in many ways—reading to or writing letters for the bedridden; pushing wheelchair patients to and from libraries, chapel, etc., doing errands or just improving patient morale by chatting with lonely individuals. See the director of any VA hospital for further information.

Q—Is legal help necessary to obtain benefits from the VA?

A—It is not necessary to obtain legal help in seeking VA benefits. Any VA office will furnish the necessary forms and instruction and will explain what constitutes eligibility.

Q—Although I was only married to a veteran for two years, we had twins shortly before he died. Is it true that I cannot be considered his "widow" for VA benefit purposes unless I had been married to him for at least five years?

A—When one or more children result from a marriage, there is no time limit requirement in order for the wife of the deceased veteran to qualify as his "widow" for VA benefit purposes.

Lions Club Notes

The Harrington Lions Club held its dinner meeting at the Wonder R Restaurant on Monday evening. President Curtis Melvin announced that the Lions District dinner will be held at the Wilmington Manor Civic Center on Tues., April 24. All members attending from Harrington will meet at Jerread's Newstand at 5:15 p.m.

A visitation from the Laurel Club was introduced. E. S. Richards Jr., from the Christiana Lions Club was also a guest.

Thomas Peck, program chairman of the evening, introduced William Postles, from the Bank of Delaware, as speaker of the evening.

Mr. Postles' topic was dealing with wills, estates and trusts. The speaker enlightened the members on the laws of the State of Delaware on such matters and also from the tax angle. He gave examples as to how estates would be handled in case there were no wills left and this was quite informative as to just what would be involved in such situations.

Mr. Postles is connected with the Trust Department of the Bank of Delaware in Wilmington.

James O'Neal spoke briefly on the plan of the newly formed Harrington Little League and asked the members' support.

ALL-NUMBER CALLING (ANC)

Also

NATIONWIDE DIRECT DISTANCE DIALING

On April 15, all telephones in these communities will have new 7-numeral telephone numbers. The new system is called All-Number Calling (ANC), because no letters of the alphabet are used—but only numbers.

ANC provides many more number combinations than the 2-letter, 5-numeral method. So it helps telephone service keep pace with the growing population. For this reason it will eventually be in use on the entire North American continent.

NEW CENTRAL OFFICE NUMBERS

As you can see by the illustration above, the new telephone numbers have 7-numerals divided into 2 parts. This separation is for easy remembering and accurate dialing. But each locality will have its own central office numbers—the first 3 numerals will all be the same for any given office. For instance, every Frederica number will start with 335. Dover will have 3 central offices: 674, 734 and 736; so Dover numbers will start with either 674, 734 or 736.

NOTE THE WAY YOUR NEW NUMBER WILL BEGIN

Table with 4 columns: Location, Old Number, New Number, and becomes. Rows include Camden, Dover, Frederica, Harrington, Hartly, Milford, and Smyrna.

These improvements have required an investment of over $867,000. They are part of a continuing program to give you the finest in telephone service.

VFW Plans Loyalty Day

Announcement by the Department of Delaware, Veterans of Foreign Wars, of plans for Loyalty Day ceremonies, Sunday, April 29, at Cooch's Bridge has served to again focus public attention upon an otherwise obscure stream crossing where, according to tradition, the Stars and Stripes were first unfurled in land battle, advises the Delaware State Development Department.

In the eight-year struggle for American liberty and independence every state on the Atlantic Seaboard felt at one time or another the heavy tread of British and Hessian boots. The campaign on Delaware soil was a short one — from Sept. 2 to Sept. 8 in 1777—yet established a niche in history for the area surrounding a small bridge that crosses the sluggish, shallow Christina Creek at a point about 3.5 miles south of Newark, notes the state information agency.

No great victory was attained at Cooch's Bridge; in fact, what is referred to as "The Battle of Cooch's Bridge" was merely one of a series of skirmishes that served to annoy and delay the British in their march on Philadelphia. However, this delaying action undoubtedly did give General Washington's Continentals the time needed to regroup and keep intact some of the forces that would at a later day and year attain victory.

On August 25, 1777, Lord Cornwallis brought 18,000 troops from New York into Chesapeake Bay for the purpose of striking overland across northern Delaware into southeastern Pennsylvania with Philadelphia as the ultimate goal. Disembarking at Oldfield Point, near the head of the Elk River, the British and Hessian forces fanned out on a northeastern course.

General Washington, who had anticipated the British move towards Philadelphia, deployed the main part of his forces along the Red Clay Creek, near present day Newport, and sent a corps under Brig. General William Maxwell to the area along the Christina Creek near Cooch's Mill.

Maxwell's instructions were to watch for the British and "be prepared to give them as much trouble as you possibly can."

The invaders marched from the Elk River to a point near present day Glasgow and then north on a winding road that led to Newark. On the morning of September 3, 1777, German soldiers, leading the column, were fired upon by Maxwell's forces who were well concealed in the woods that skirted the narrow road. British reinforcements and cannon fire eventually dislodged the Americans who withdrew towards Cooch's Mill. Determined stands were made by the Continentals at both the stream crossing and at the mill itself, and it was here, according to tradition, that a new emblem, the Stars and Stripes, was first unfurled in skirmish with an enemy force.

As additional British troops were moved up, the outnumbered Americans withdrew and eventually rejoined Washington's forces. After establishing a line from Iron Hill, near Newark, to Aiken's Tavern (now Glasgow), with Cooch's Bridge as an outpost, the British and Hessian troops rested and reformed, and then, before dawn on September 8, 1777 moved northward through Newark.

On September 11, 1777, the British forces defeated the Americans in a bloody battle near Chadd's Ford, just over the Pennsylvania border, opening the way to Philadelphia. That evening, the British sent troops back into Delaware and occupied Wilmington, capturing President John McKinley and a ship containing official state records and funds. On October 15, the British troops in Wilmington were moved to Philadelphia and the tread of invaders' boots was no longer heard on Delaware soil although the Delaware River continued to remain in control of the British.

Although Continentals and British no longer fought on Delaware soil, Delaware soldiers continued to give a good account of themselves in the American Colonies' struggle for independence.

Delaware, the site of the initial unfurling of Stars and Stripes in battle, subsequently gained another first — first to join the present Union under the Federal Constitution. This latter action, which took place at Dover on December 7, 1787, earned for Delaware its nickname of "The First State" advises the Development Department.

The historic old Cooch House, overlooking the site where Maxwell's men, fighting under an inspiring new emblem, gave the invading British plenty of "trouble", is still standing and is occupied by descendants of Thomas Cooch, who built the house in 1760 and gave his name to a mill and a stream crossing, and, later, to a battle site. Within a stone's throw of the house, alongside of a modern bridge that replaced the earlier structure, stands a monument commemorating the gallantry and courage of a small force of Americans that away back in 1777 harassed and delayed a far superior invading force.

Each year, on the Sunday nearest May 1, the Department of Delaware, Veterans of Foreign Wars, as part of a statewide observance of Loyalty Day, stages appropriate ceremonies at Cooch's Bridge, unfurling a new American flag at the approximate site where the Stars and Stripes was first called upon to inspire America's fighting men.

This year, on Sunday, April 29, at 2:00 p. m., Delaware veterans of wartime overseas service will again stage Loyalty Day services there with Congressman Harris B. McDowell, Jr., as the principal speaker.

The attendance of U. S. Senators John J. Williams and J. Caleb Boggs, and leaders of civic organizations is anticipated. Past State V.F.W. Commander Robert N. McCormick of Newark will act as master of ceremonies.

During the ceremonies, V.F.W. Post No. 475 of Newark, will present a new American flag to former Lieutenant Governor Edward W. Cooch the present owner-occupant of the historic old Cooch House. Mr. Cooch will then unfurl this present day edition of the Stars and Stripes at approximately the same site where Old Glory was first called upon to inspire America's fighting men 185 years ago.

Cooch's Bridge, according to the Development Department, is easily accessible and may be reached by turning east off Delaware Route No. 896 (Newark-Glasgow Road) at a point approximately 3 miles south of Newark and proceeding in an easterly direction about one half mile south of Newark and proceeding in an easterly direction about one half mile.

A visit to Cooch's Bridge, particularly on Sunday, April 29, is well worth the while of everyone interested in American History concludes the Development Department.

200 Homemakers Learn About Advertising

Consumers should stop being suspicious of new products! Instead, they should be eager to try them; buy them; and tell their respective neighbors about them—if the products satisfy. This was the message of Mrs. Jean W. Rindlaub, vice president of Batten, Barton, Durstine, and Osborn, Inc., New York advertising firm, to 200 persons attending the second Delaware Consumer Forum in Georgetown, Thursday (April 5).

In her address, "How to Make Yourself Felt in the Market Place", Mrs. Rindlaub said consumers have a responsibility to let the manufacturer know that they like a product, just as they should let him know if they dislike it.

"The best way to indicate your satisfaction is to buy the product . . . and keep buying it . . . and tell all your friends to buy it," she said.

Mrs. Rindlaub, who is an authority on advertising directed to women, gave a number of examples of excellent products that failed or were withdrawn because of too slow customer response. She urged a positive, inquisitive approach to shopping, with each successive purchase representing a vote of confidence in the product and its manufacturer.

A second speaker, Norman E. Gottlieb, vice president and counsel with the National Better Business Bureau, Inc., New York, discussed the regulation of advertising. He described the role of government and voluntary agencies in protecting consumers against fraudulent or misleading advertising.

Addressing the outnumbered male portion of the audience, Gottlieb said, "The consumer is no fool, she is your wife!" Urging greater self-regulation of advertising, Gottlieb declared, "Industry must close the gates to deceptive advertising before damage is done."

"National advertisers have a moral responsibility to exercise self-discipline, foregoing performance claims until they can prove them. Agencies must demand proof of claims without fear of offending clients and media must be willing to pass up advertising revenue rather than accept unsupported claims," he said.

In a free-wheeling question answer period following the speakers' presentations, the Forum participants asked questions ranging from a tongue-in-cheek "Who has fingernails strong enough to open those 'push here' packages?" to "How can we establish a Better Business Bureau?"

What to do with unordered merchandise was a question that draw particular fire. Gottlieb pointed out this is an unethical practice some operators use to unload their merchandise. You will usually receive some unordered product in the mail-necktie, Christmas cards or similar merchandise, and a bill. If you fail to pay, you will probably receive letters threatening legal action, he said.

The best way to deal with these people is to make it uneconomical for them to distribute their merchandise. You are under no obligation to pay for it or return it. However, you are obligated to surrender the merchandise to them if they send a representative to your house.

Mrs. Rindlaub answered a question that was bothering many consumers—products that are unavailable in stores even though they are advertised in magazines and on television. She said often it is more economical to advertise a product nationally although it is available only in certain parts of the country. Usually the manufacturer plans to make the product available soon. The best way to hurry the process along is to ask your local merchant for it.

The Consumer Forum is an effort of the Home Economics Extension Section of the University of Delaware to encourage consumers to become better informed and thereby, better satisfied customers.

Three hundred people attended a Consumer Forum in Wilmington the previous night.

How to Crease Crease-Resistant Fabric

Although crease-resistant fabrics such as cotton, rayon and linen are easy to care for, they can present a problem for the women who sew, according to Miss Janet Reed, clothing specialist at the University of Delaware.

Before the era of permanent finishes, a fabric could be controlled by pressure, moisture and heat, but this no longer holds true. Only chemical action can change the position of a yarn in a resin-treated fabric. Sometimes it is almost impossible to remove a crease pressed in the center of the fabric on the bolt. Pressing a crease in a garment where sharp edges are desirable, such as facing and collars, is also extremely difficult.

To help homemakers solve this problem, home economists at the University of Alabama have developed a simple home method to remove undesirable creases or to give a garment a more professional press, reports Miss Reed.

All you need in the way of equipment is a medicine dropper, white vinegar, steam iron and ironing board.

Set the iron at steam setting and iron the fabric. Then apply white vinegar to the wrinkle with a medicine dropper, while the cloth is still hot. The vinegar will be absorbed faster by the hot fabric. Give the fabric a minute or two to absorb the vinegar and iron the area until dry.

In the case of a more stubborn wrinkle, repeat the process, spread the cloth smooth and let it air for four or five hours. The vinegar procedure is especially effective for removing hem creases when the hemline must be changed.

The same procedure may be used to put permanent pleating into resin-finished cottons. The pleats will last as long as the finish on the material.

Be sure to avoid applying an excess of vinegar to the resin-treated finish, Miss Reed warns. This may cause damage to the material as well as remove the resin finish. Either a medicine dropper or small paint brush can be used to apply a minimum amount of vinegar, she says. Experiment on a scrap of fabric or an inside seam to be sure the color will not be affected.

Flowering Trees Add Beauty to Home Grounds

If you are thinking of adding a tree to your home grounds plantings this spring, Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist with the University of Delaware, suggests that you consider a flowering tree.

There are flowering trees for almost every need. It makes little difference whether your soil is rich or poor; acid or alkaline; wet or dry; or the atmosphere clear or smoky. Colors are available to fit every taste.

The flowering cherry and dogwood are the most well-known flowering trees, but they are only two of a long list of suitable trees. Golden chain, golden rain, hawthorn, crabapple, flowering almond and sourwood are possibilities to consider in addition to the well-known cherry and dogwood.

If you are looking for a white, pink or red flower, try crabapple, hawthorn, almond, cherry or dogwood. Golden rain and golden chain are both yellow-flowering trees.

Small flowering trees fit much better into the landscaping of today's smaller homes than do the larger non-flowering trees. They can serve several worth-while functions—framing the house, breaking long straight lines of a ranch house, provide background, or serve as a specimen in the garden. Flowering trees are quick growing but their relatively low height permits them to be planted under light and telephone lines.

Kent Home Doings

The Kent County Home Demonstration Advisory Council met recently at the State Board of Health Building, Dover. The new officers are President, Mrs. Tilghman Outten, Andrewville Club; vice president, Mrs. Nettie Jester, Millwood Club; secretary, Mrs. William Davis, St. Jones Club; treasurer, Mrs. Earl Downs, Town & Country Club; Director, Mrs. Harvey Fifer, Cee-W-Dee Club.

Reports for the coming year were given by the Committee chairman. A scholarship committee was appointed, the chairman is Mrs. Arthur Short, Smyrna. Other members of the committee are Mrs. Francis Winkler, Harrington and Mrs. Francis Thomas, Maryland. The scholarship is $300 to a student from Kent County enrolled in home economics at the University of Delaware.

The scholarship is available this year. For further information contact one of the scholarship committee members.

Dairy Cows Need Salt

Dairy cows need salt, according to George Vapaa, Kent County agent. In fact, if they are continually deprived of the proper amount of salt in their ration, they may even develop a salt deficiency, he says.

Prolonged use of a salt deficient ration may cause loss of body weight, poor appetite, and a decline in milk production. There have been cases, he says, where death has been caused by a lack of salt in the animal's diet.

A cow producing 50 pounds of milk a day will probably need about 2 1/4 ounces of salt daily. Mr. Vapaa suggests farmers feed a grain mix containing one per cent salt and also provide loose salt in a protected box. This allows the animals to get as much salt as they desire.

Cows will eat more salt when it is fed in a loose form, according to the agent. But, adequate amounts will be eaten if it is provided in block form.

A good rule of thumb for figuring the daily salt requirements for a dairy cow is 3/4 ounce for body maintenance and 1/4 ounce for each gallon of milk produced.

Felton School Notes

Junior Class Trip

Wed., April 11, the Junior Class took a one-day trip to Washington, D. C. They left Felton at 6:30 a.m. and arrived back at approximately 9:30 p.m. Charles A. Hoff, High School Principal, George W. Mastin, Junior Class advisor, and two junior mothers, Mrs. George Thompson, and Mrs. George Palmer went along as chaperones.

Among the places visited were the White House, Senator Williams' office, the Senate, the House of Representatives, the Smithsonian Institution, Lincoln Memorial, and the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. They were also taken on a F.B.I. tour. The class met Senator Williams, Senator Boggs, and Congressman McDowell.

All agree that it was a profitable and enjoyable trip.

Construction Program

Variable weather during the past three weeks has made rapid progress possible in the building construction program as well as the drainage project. Concrete floors have been poured in all three areas, walls have been erected in locker rooms and the industrial arts shop area, and are partially completed in the elementary wing area. Erection of steel frame work and completion of the exterior walls should be completed in all sections within the next two weeks.

The drainage project has also advanced considerably. A total of 488 feet of 36 inch reinforced concrete tile has been installed in the past two weeks. The open ditch, which formerly ran through the school property, is now completely covered and the water carried entirely by heavy tile from Route 12 to Route 13.

Easter Vacation

Delaware Food Market Report

With flowers and trees bursting into bloom everywhere and calling as irresistibly as the Pied Piper, it takes a bit of doing to draw the family indoors for meals. Appetites are ready for new flavors and spring foods. This week it looks as if you can better satisfy your family with the many fresh spring fruits and vegetables available.

Asparagus continues to arrive in volume from California and the time fast approaches the date for New Jersey asparagus to appear on local markets. According to information received from this growing area, expect to see New Jersey asparagus in abundance the last two weeks in this month. Supplies will be on the market before this but not in large volume. Of course, all of this depends greatly on the weather.

Iceberg lettuce supplies have been limited for the past two weeks. This week supplies have increased but not sufficiently to reduce prices greatly. Vegetables to check this weekend for economical buys are: spinach, carrots, endive, escarole, mushrooms, white potatoes, sweet potatoes, green beans, broccoli, radishes and spring onions.

Honey dew melons continue to be good buys as do the following fruits: apples, grapefruit, oranges, and avocados. Pineapple and coconut are being featured in a number of stores at very attractive prices. Florida strawberries are a bit past their peak in quality and quantity, however, Louisiana berries are now coming to market and are excellent. Pork in general continues to be steady in price as it has been for the past several weeks. Ham, however, has increased some in price. This will probably remain the picture until after Easter. Beef prices remain steady but veal prices are up. Both lamb and poultry are economical—quality is high while prices are low.

Harrington P.T.A. News

The April P.T.A. meeting was held in the school cafeteria proceeded by an open Jr.-High Band rehearsal.

A progress report was given on the May Mart to be held on the school grounds Thursday, May 10 with May 11 as the rain date. The program will start at 1 p.m. with music presented by the high school band in their new uniforms.

The students have selected Anne Gilstad as their May Queen and Wayne Reid as their king. They will lead the procession followed by two flower girls and two crown bearers and a boy and girl attendant from each elementary classroom. The first, second and third grades will each present a dance and the May Pole Dance will be presented by girls from the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades.

The 7th, 8th, and 9th grade boys will participate in field events under the supervision of Coach Santo and a girls tumbling program will be presented by Mrs. Fleetwood.

The P.T.A. will operate game and food booths along with Pony rides. The proceeds of this day will go to the high school band uniform fund.

The pupils are obtaining names for the patron list. The room with the most names will receive an award. The last May Mart was held in 1958 with many parents and friends attending. We urge you to plan to attend this one in larger numbers.

The April program was presented by a representative of the Diamond State Telephone Company on All Number Calling. The parents' attendance was a tie between Mr. Horst's tenth grade and Miss Ball's ninth grade. This is the third month this year that Mr. Horst's homeroom parents have been largest in attendance. The new officers will take over at the May meeting.

Broadkill Beach Property Owners Discuss Storm

A meeting of property owners and interested parties was held on Sat., April 7, in Jack Wilkerson's Store at Broadkill Beach. The purpose of the meeting was to form an association to resolve primarily the varied problems of the beach resulting from the March storm and to continue as a permanent organization dealing with additional municipal problems. At this time the name Broadkill Beach Civic Association was selected.

Halsted Layton, Georgetown, opened the meeting and accepted nominations for a temporary chairman. Charles Bepler, of Wilmington, was elected to serve in this capacity.

A nominating committee was appointed and the following people were elected to office: president, Mr. Bepler; vice president, Cliff Lawson, Harbeson; secretary, Mrs. Robert Masten, Harrington; treasurer, Martin Black, Milton; executive board, Al Conte, Wilmington; Randolph Hughes, Dover, and Howard Rouke, Wilmington.

Topics of interest discussed during the meeting were the permanent opening of the inlet into Deep Hole Creek and drainage of adjacent acreage. The condition of the side roads to the beach front was another item of great importance for discussion. Mention was also made concerning mosquito control.

A second meeting will be held Sat., April 14, at 2 p.m. in Jack Wilkerson's Store, Broadkill Beach. All property owners or someone to represent them, and interested parties are urged to attend. At this time the president will endeavor to have William Miller of the State Highway Department present to discuss storm damage repairs.

Wm. Holden's "Satan Never Sleeps" at Reese April 15-16; "Pinocchio" April 19-20-21

More folks than ever are getting out and attending the movies. Out of the house midweek friends and neighbors adds the zest that's needed to offset today's trials and tribulations.

The concentration of all family weekend attractions contributes that diversified pleasure so much enjoyed by every member of the family.

What is termed thrilling entertainment may be found at the Reese Theatre this Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 12-13-14. Connie Stevens and Mark Damon are the stars of the thrilling "The Party Crashers"; teenagers on the loose. Arthur Kennedy stars in Agatha Christie's comedy suspense melodrama, "Murder She Said," along with the Three Stooges and a Ktoon Carnival completing this all-family treat.

It is with great pride, so states the management that Lee McCary's "Satan Never Sleeps" with Wm. Holden, Clifton Webb, and France Nuyea, plays a limited engagement at Movie Center, this Sunday and Monday, April 15 & 16. This is the crowning achievement of the man who gave to the screen "Going My Way" and "The Bells of St. Mary's."

Much excitement is being registered with the knowledge that Walt Disney's "Pinocchio" is coming April 19-20-21.

of the attraction of industry, zoning. He warned that industry wanted zoning and that it did not want to locate in a place (without zoning) from which it might be compelled to move in time. He pointed out, also, that good zoning protects good farming land and that that was where industry seemed to want to locate.

Previous to Reed's talk, the following committees were appointed: Membership—Edna Mae Gallo, chairman, Fay Bradley, Mary Taylor, and Blanche Cahall, and publicity, Carrington H. Burgess.

Harold (Bailey) Minner was program chairman for the evening.

George D. Slater

Armed Forces Notes

Word was received that on March 1st William R. "Buckshot" Turner, Jr., serving with the 82nd Airborne Division at Ft. Bragg, N. C., has been promoted to the rank of sergeant.

A veteran of two years service, Sgt. Turner began his military career after graduating from Centreville High School in 1960, when he began a six-month tour of duty in the Army under the National Guard plan after serving three years in the National Guard. He took his basic training at Ft. Knox, Ky., where he received the high trainee award.

Upon his return home, he enlisted in the regular Army and entered paratroop training at Ft. Bragg where he distinguished himself and was rated one of the top six soldiers eligible for the Soldier of the Year award. To date he has 18 jumps to his credit and next month will enter a military school in South Carolina for nine weeks.

"Buckshot", as he is known, will be remembered by those attending Camp PeCoMeth at Centreville, as lifeguard there during the summer months before entering the service. He is the grandson of Mrs. Lyda Thorpe of Harrington.

ington Insurance Newsletter of May 5, 1956, President Eisenhower inadvertently has thrown a roadblock in the path of the flood insurance measure reported by the Senate Banking and Currency Committee. The President told the Republican leadership at this week's regular strategy huddle—that he is sticking by the original Administration proposal for mandatory state financial participation in any federal flood insurance program.

At this point the next move of Delaware's active and ever aggressive Insurance Commissioner is to visit Washington on Wednesday and Thursday of this week. In addition to the meeting there with commissioner representing other zones in which the Delaware Commissioner plays a roll as Federal Liaison Committeeman representing eight states in this area, he will be calling on United States Senators John J. William, J. Caleb Boggs, and Congressman Harris B. McDowell, Jr., in an effort to gain support for an appropriation to revise the flood control program. This will be a protective measure in the future for all Delaware property owners along the coast, and would have been a great benefit to them after the recent disaster had Commissioner Smith's efforts to institute

Girl Scout Camp Folders Mailed

This week, 4,659 Girl Scout Camp Folders were mailed out to all registered Girl Scouts eagerly waiting to make summer camping plans. The folders brought good news.

Camp Todd, the Girl Scout camp located at Williston, Md., on a 65-acre fresh water lake, is in the process of being opened for troop and established camping. An exciting program has been planned featuring Ocean Camping, Trips to the French Creek National Park, tours of the Pennsylvania Dutch countryside, and a Special Music Camp. Seasoned campers will enroll in the Pioneer Unit where they will enjoy advanced camping, outdoor cooking, and overnight trips away from camp. Senior Scouts may take specialized training in order to become future camp counselors, while many girls will enroll in the Folk Dancing Unit. Swimming and boating will be under the direction of a licensed Water-front Director and Staff. A registered nurse will live at the camp, and a doctor will be on 24 hour call. Every precaution has been taken to guard the health and welfare of the girls and ensure them a memorable, wonderful camp experience.

Day Camping has not been overlooked either, and according to the Camp Folders, four Girl Scout Day Camps, located at Dover, Del.; Bayford, Virginia; Easton, Bayford, Virginia; and Salisbury, will here Girl Scouts may have the opportunity to learn arts and crafts, camp skills, enjoy being with other girls, have hikes and cookouts, and get ready for the big experience of living at camp.

Mrs. Harry Towers and Mrs. Eugene Long of Bethlehem were Saturday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Breeding. Mrs. Towers has been confined to her home for some time with a broken hip.

Sample of Kent County Soil To Be Studied

Kent County Soil Conservation District has contributed a huge sample of soil as part of a nationwide study to determine the effect of agricultural chemicals upon the soil, says Fred T. Mott, Work Unit Conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service in Kent County. The greater than three ton typical sample of local soils was obtained through the courtesy of Thomas Singleton whose farm is near Cheswold. Soil scientists Merl Rersberger and Oscar Lavioie of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, together with soil scientist T. W. Bendixen of the U.S. Public Health Service supervised the exacting and painstaking removal of this huge soil sample.

The soil is being shipped to Robert E. Taft Sanitation Engineering Center in Cincinnati, O. At the laboratories there the soil sample, and others from throughout the United States, will be tested under simulated agriculture conditions. Various chemicals used in agriculture will be applied in these simulated conditions. From the study more knowledge will be gained concerning the effects, if any, of the continued use of these chemicals which are so necessary in modern day farming.

Edward Stockbridge, U. S. Department of Agriculture Plant Pest Inspector was also on hand to examine the soil sample for Japanese beetle grubs prior to shipping it out of state. This sample was certified O.K. Mr. Stockbridge cautions that all soil, not just three ton samples, must be certified prior to shipping out of state.

Sample of Kent County Soil To Be Studied

Kent County Soil Conservation District has contributed a huge sample of soil as part of a nationwide study to determine the effect of agricultural chemicals upon the soil, says Fred T. Mott, Work Unit Conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service in Kent County. The greater than three ton typical sample of local soils was obtained through the courtesy of Thomas Singleton whose farm is near Cheswold. Soil scientists Merl Rersberger and Oscar Lavioie of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, together with soil scientist T. W. Bendixen of the U.S. Public Health Service supervised the exacting and painstaking removal of this huge soil sample.

The soil is being shipped to Robert E. Taft Sanitation Engineering Center in Cincinnati, O. At the laboratories there the soil sample, and others from throughout the United States, will be tested under simulated agriculture conditions. Various chemicals used in agriculture will be applied in these simulated conditions. From the study more knowledge will be gained concerning the effects, if any, of the continued use of these chemicals which are so necessary in modern day farming.

Edward Stockbridge, U. S. Department of Agriculture Plant Pest Inspector was also on hand to examine the soil sample for Japanese beetle grubs prior to shipping it out of state. This sample was certified O.K. Mr. Stockbridge cautions that all soil, not just three ton samples, must be certified prior to shipping out of state.

Flood Control

ington Insurance Newsletter of May 5, 1956, President Eisenhower inadvertently has thrown a roadblock in the path of the flood insurance measure reported by the Senate Banking and Currency Committee. The President told the Republican leadership at this week's regular strategy huddle—that he is sticking by the original Administration proposal for mandatory state financial participation in any federal flood insurance program.

At this point the next move of Delaware's active and ever aggressive Insurance Commissioner is to visit Washington on Wednesday and Thursday of this week. In addition to the meeting there with commissioner representing other zones in which the Delaware Commissioner plays a roll as Federal Liaison Committeeman representing eight states in this area, he will be calling on United States Senators John J. William, J. Caleb Boggs, and Congressman Harris B. McDowell, Jr., in an effort to gain support for an appropriation to revise the flood control program. This will be a protective measure in the future for all Delaware property owners along the coast, and would have been a great benefit to them after the recent disaster had Commissioner Smith's efforts to institute
