It will be held at the American Legion pool, beginning at 6:00 p. m. Rain date will be Tuesday, July 17.

Mrs. R. Emmett Raughley

Mrs. Mary C. Raughley, 82, of 104 Center Street, died in the Milford Memorial Hospital Wednesday morning after suffering a fall at her home last Thursday. Mrs. Raughley was a native of Delaware, daughter of Robert H. and Mary Harrington Short. She was the widow of R. Emmett Raughley. She was a member of Asbury Methodist Church, its WSCS and Ever Ready Sunday School Class. Funeral services will be held from the J. Millard Cooper Funeral Home tomorrow afternoon at 1:00 o'clock. The Rev. Charles Poukhis, pastor of Trinity Church, will officiate at the services. Interment will be in Denton Cemetery, Denton, Md. Friends may call at the funeral home tonight from 7 to 9. Her only survivors are nieces and nephews.

Feed Workshop At Univ. of Del.

A two-day workshop designed to give extension specialists an understanding of formula feed industry problems and trends will be held at the University of Delaware, Newark, Thursday and Friday, June 28 and 29. The workshop will be the last of three regional workshops conducted by Robert W. Schoeff, Kansas State University Extension Specialist, who is in charge of planning and developing a pilot educational program for the feed industry. Richard Baker, also a Kansas State specialist, will assist with the workshop. Two similar workshops were held at Manhattan, Kan., on June 4 and 5, and at Athens, Ga., on June 19 and 20. Twenty extension specialists from nine northeastern states are expected for the Newark workshop. The workshop is being conducted by the Kansas State Formula Feed Extension staff in cooperation with the Federal Extension Service and the Delaware Extension Service. W. T. McAllister, extension farm management specialist, is serving as coordinator for the Newark meeting. The regional workshops will feature educational materials and programs developed by Kansas State for the formula feed industry. A major purpose of the workshop will be to point up the opportunities which exist for educational and service work with formula feed personnel. Austin W. Carpenter, Editor of Eastern Feed Merchant magazine and Executive Director of Eastern Federation of Feed Merchants, Sherburne, N. Y., will be the speaker for the Thursday evening banquet.

Lt. Gov. Lamont To Address Local Democratic Women

Lt. Gov. Eugene Lamont will speak at a covered-dish supper of the Ninth District Democratic Women's Club at the Harrington New Century Club Wed., July 11, at 7 P. M. Vernon B. Derrickson, chairman of the Kent County Democratic Committee, will be master of ceremonies. Mrs. Jarvis Hurd will be general chairman. Door prizes will be awarded. All Democrats are invited.

$15 Million in Road Construction Initiated in State The Past Month

Nearly $15,000,000 worth of highway construction projects have been initiated by the State Highway Department during the past month, according to William J. Miller, Jr., Director of Operations for the Department. This amount is more than double the dollar value of projects undertaken over a whole year span in 1950, and equals the whole construction season in 1952. The large dollar volume indicates that contractors and the crews will be particularly busy during the coming summer months and well into fall with the biggest highway program in the history of the state. There are more than 61 active contracts throughout the state with an overall construction value of some $31,000,000, employing hundreds of men. The biggest single project is the $13,000,000 Christiana River interchange project underway south of Wilmington between Farnhurst and Newport. It will be the hub of the Freeway and Turnpike System in the state and will transfer traffic to and from Delaware Memorial Bridge and the new toll road to Maryland, also under construction now.

LITTLE LEAGUE MOTHERS TO HOLD RUMMAGE SALE

The Mother's Auxiliary of the Harrington Little League are having a rummage sale Fri. and Sat., July 6 and 7 at the corner of Delaware Ave and Clark St. from 10 o'clock until dark.

State Insurance Commissioner Calls Meeting Today

State Insurance Commissioner, Harry S. Smith, has called a public hearing for 2:00 P. M. on Friday, June 29th, to be held in Room No. 232 of the State Board of Health Building in Dover. The Commissioner is requesting the General Adjustment Bureau to have representatives present to explain procedures used in making adjustments for damage caused by the Coastal Storm of March 6 and 7. Commissioner Smith invites all Delaware policy holders who have complaints about methods of adjustment to be present to register the same with the adjustment bureau representatives and to ask any questions they care to pose on the subject. Representatives of any other adjustment agencies are also welcome to come to defend their positions. The General Adjustment Bureau has been singled out and requested to appear since they handled such a large percentage of the claims. By taking this action Commissioner Smith is fulfilling a promise made public by a news release dated April 9, 1962 in which he stated: "after the adjusters have had ample time to complete their job, I plan to evaluate the results." They will then be summoned "to a public hearing at which time any aggrieved Delaware policyholders will be afforded the privilege by me personally to appear and cite their grievances."

The Insurance Commissioner on April 26th requested all companies doing business in Delaware to allow policyholders an extension of time beyond the 60 day limit as stipulated in the Standard Fire Policy to file proofs of loss. He has received a favorable reply from 285 companies. In addition to his action, the National Board of Fire Underwriters, embracing some 300 companies, has unanimously recommended that all their member companies extend the time for filing claims.

A class of eight new members were enrolled into our Order Sunday afternoon, at the Harrington Lodge No. 534 Loyal Order of Moose. Enrolled into our Order were the following: James L. Roberts of Milford, William R. Boyd of Georgetown, Paul A. Carr of Dover, Francis Coursey of Hartly, David McDonald, William Hertzowski, William Eskridge and J. L. Powell, all of Harrington. The degree staff of the lodge conducted the enrollment. After the enrollment, William West of Harrington was installed into the office of two-year trustee of the lodge by Past Governor James Jopp of Harrington. Jr. Past President Oliver Reed of Harrington was presented with his past governor's card and conservation lock by Secretary Watson Shew of Greenwood.

L. O. O. M. News

Used clothing for the clothing bank was donated by Mrs. Elsie Hutson of Harrington. The Moose Little League baseball team, under the management of Bob Haley and Mr. Harrington, is now in first place by two games as of Tuesday night. The hard playing Legion Little League team under the management of Bill Minner and Bobby Jester, had been in the lead from the beginning of the baseball season. The Legion team and the Lions Little League, which is under the management of Jack Redden, assisted by Earl Yoder, are now tied for second place.

The tax for physicians and attorneys is also $75 a year. The attorney general ruled that a lawyer must pay if he has any practice at all—such as occasionally searching titles. Physicians who work for the state must pay the tax. Doctors in private practice or on salary who receive compensation for their professional services are liable for the tax. E. Hobson Davis, state tax commissioner, said this would not prevent a truly-retired doctor from performing an occasional emergency act, but he presumably would not charge for the service. The tax office says that doctors and lawyers who continue to hold membership in professional organizations—the bar or medical societies and others—but from genuinely retired from practice, must establish the fact with the tax office. Otherwise, the assumption is their services are still available to the public and they must be licensed. Registered professional engineers must also make their retired status clear. The tax office said the rule of thumb is that if a person is in competition with other members of his profession, even to the slightest extent, he must be licensed. Davis said license applications are coming in fairly well except from persons in categories newly subject to license tax such as hotels, motels, and trailer parks. Five members of the department staff were sent to the resort area of Sussex County this month for the first time in department history, Davis said, to help businessmen file license applications.

MR. AND MRS. DWIGHT HACKETT

Miss Vicki Zott Weds Dwight D. Hackett

Miss Vicki Zott and Mr. Dwight Hunt Hackett were married Saturday, June 2, at 2:00 P. M. in Asbury Methodist Church. The Rev. Olin T. Shockey officiated at the ceremony. A reception followed in the Collins room of the church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Lord, 3 Dickinson St., Harrington. Mr. Hackett is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Elbert Hackett, 30 Dunsinane Drive, Coventry, New Castle. The bride wore a lace over taffeta gown trimmed with seed pearls. A crown of seed pearls held her fingertip veil, and she carried a prayer book with white carnations.

Mrs. Lois Wheatley was matron of honor. She wore a floor length blue chiffon over taffeta dress with a matching blue head piece and gauntlets. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Clarence E. Hackett III, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Donald L. Garey and William L. Wheatley. The bride is a graduate of Harrington High School, and has been recently employed by Penn Dairies, Inc. of Harrington. Mr. Hackett was graduated from Harrington High School. He is employed by Avison Corporation of New Castle. After a wedding trip, the couple will live in Manor Park, New Castle.

Licensing Deadline Saturday

Tomorrow is the deadline for payment of state business and professional license taxes. Penalty for late payment is 5 per cent. The attorney general ruled at the request of the State Tax Department that engineers who are not registered as professional engineers in Delaware do not have to pay the license tax. Registered engineers working for an engineering company must pay an additional $75 tax. The company also must pay a tax. Registered engineers working for non-engineering firms must pay the tax. The tax for physicians and attorneys is also $75 a year. The attorney general ruled that a lawyer must pay if he has any practice at all—such as occasionally searching titles. Physicians who work for the state must pay the tax. Doctors in private practice or on salary who receive compensation for their professional services are liable for the tax. E. Hobson Davis, state tax commissioner, said this would not prevent a truly-retired doctor from performing an occasional emergency act, but he presumably would not charge for the service. Army Pvt. Thomas C. Crouse, Jr., whose parents live at 225 S. Second St., Denton, Md., recently completed eight weeks of military police training at the Provost Marshal General School, Ft. Gordon, Ga. Crouse was instructed in subjects such as civil and military law, traffic control, map reading, prisoner-of-war control and self-defense. The 24-year-old soldier entered the Army last January and received basic combat training at Fort Gordon. A member of Kappa Alpha, Omicron Delta Kappa and Alpha Kappa Psi fraternities, Crouse received his bachelor of arts degree from Washington College, Chestertown, in 1959 and his master's degree in business administration from Columbia University Graduate School of Business, New York, N. Y., in 1961. He was employed by Allied Chemical Corporation, New York, N. Y., before entering the Army.

$4,875 Paint Shop Fire At Felton Baffles Marshal

A $4,875 fire in a paint shop at Felton Thurs., June 21, has stumped state fire Marshal William R. Favigner. The fire caused $875 to three cars in the shop, $3,000 damage to the building, and $1,000 damage to equipment in the shop, Favigner estimated. It occurred at 1:30 a. m. in a shop rented by John H. Foster. Mrs. Ralph Bradley, Felton, owned the building. Favigner said he searched the shell of the building all morning but is baffled as to the cause of the blaze. The fire began in a locked store room, he said. No one was in the building when the blaze broke out and Foster had left at 9:30 p. m. the previous night. The store room had no electrical outlets, Favigner noted. Felton volunteer firemen put out the fire quickly with most of the damage confined to a portion of burned-out roof, equipment, and the cars. The walls were of cinder block construction. Favigner tends to rule out arson. Windows in the store room weren't broken and one window had metal instead of glass, he noted. None of the normal causes of fire are evident, he said.

Md. Man Hurt In Chase Crash

A 22-year-old Maryland man escaped serious injury early Saturday after his car crashed near Greenwood ending a high-speed police chase, Delaware state troopers report. John Franklin Hutson of Greensboro, Md., was arrested on several charges, including driving under the influence of intoxicants.

A state police patrol car said its crew observed Hutson's auto traveling at a high rate of speed on Route 14 near Harrington about 1:30 a. m. and gave chase. Police said the auto fled at their approach and the chase led to Greenwood and then back to the Maryland and the Maryland state line on Route 36. At a speed of about 95 miles an hour, police said, Hutson's car went out of control, skidded off the road, hit a fence and turned over. Hutson was admitted at Milford Memorial Hospital in good condition with a possible rib fracture and cuts and bruises.

Armed Forces Notes

Airman First Class Kay F. Jarrett of Chattanooga, Tenn., has been graduated from the Noncommissioned Officers Preparatory School at Ent Air Force Base, Colo. Airman Jarrett, assigned to the 4600th Civil Engineering Squadron here as a fire protection specialist, entered the service in September 1953. A graduate of Howard High School, Chattanooga, he is the son of Mrs. Mamie Jarrett of 714 Vine Street, Chattanooga. The airman is married to the former Betty L. Flamer of Harrington.

Pvt. George M. Pfeiffer, Jr., USMC, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Nutter of Route 1, Felton, completed recruit training June 14 at the Marine Corps Depot, Parris Island, S. C. The training includes military formation drills, bayonet training, physical conditioning, ceremonies and other military subjects. Three weeks are spent on the rifle range, where recruits fire the M-14 rifle and are instructed in the use of other basic infantry weapons. The training prepares marines for further instruction in a service school or with a unit of the Fleet Marine Force.

There is a balance between the roots of a plant underground and the parts above ground. Early in the season, cultivate fairly close to the plants, an inch or two deep. At the same time, till the soil midway between the rows deeply. As tomatoes continue to grow, and roots develop, make cultivation more shallow, mainly just to destroy the weeds.

Concrete is a popular building material because it is readily available, low in cost, easily shaped, and can be used to build practically anything from a chicken house to a home. Despite its popularity, it is commonly misused and the result is anything but satisfactory, reports George Vapaa, Kent County agent. Mishandled concrete will crack, crumble and become chalky. Such problems can be avoided.

Do Not Cultivate Tomatoes Too Deep

Cultivation will do a lot for tomatoes, but you can make it too much of a good thing, if you're not careful. Cultivate tomatoes only to kill weeds, and loosen the soil if it tends to pack or crust. Pull soil toward tomato plants to smother out weeds in the row, and to add more surface near the plants so surface roots may develop undisturbed. ### Change In Drivers' Licensing Implored; Mailing Opposed

Delaware's 236,000 drivers will have to renew their licenses in person if a recommendation to the State Highway Department is carried out. Capt. Joseph B. Ferguson, director of the driver improvement division of the Motor Vehicle Department, said a person can now renew a license every two years by mail. If a name is forged, he said, "we may be issuing licenses to dead people." A requirement that application be made in person would make it possible to detect those apparently unfit to drive, he said. These persons would then be given a driving examination. Ferguson hopes this proposed change in licensing procedure will be a first step toward periodic examination of drivers. His recommendation will be taken up by the safety committee of the highway department on July 5. Ferguson also urged support of legislation extending the period of license revocation for a person who has been convicted two or more times on drunken driving. The present revocation period is one year, whether the person has been convicted one or more times. Increasing the number of interviews with problem drivers is another way to bolster traffic safety, Ferguson said. The state police officer appeared before the Highway Commission at Wednesday's meeting in Dover, along with Russell W. Whitty, state motor vehicle commissioner. Whitty told commission members: "We're enforcing the law right to the line." No one is being given "grace," he said. "We're treating everyone the same. Tell us if anyone says different." Traffic safety was also on the mind of Lt. Col. Eugene B. Ellis, acting superintendent of the state police division, who was present, too. The use of the unmarked patrol car by the state police has played a major factor in that organization's fatalities reduction efforts in recent years, he said. The state police, he said, feel that their accident prevention programs are sound. Ellis said, however, that traffic deaths in Delaware have more than doubled so far this year, compared with 1961. But he said that in the past several years, since the police started using unmarked cars, deaths dropped from the 100-a-year level of the mid-1950s to 65 last year. "Naturally we cannot point to the unmarked car alone," he said, "but it is interesting to note that a state police department in another state in the East, has just recently adopted the use of unmarked cars. "This department has one assigned to each troop," Ellis told the commissioners. "There are situations and conditions where the 'halo' effect of a marked car is desired; but, if the sole purpose in urging the use of marked vehicles is to give the careless, unsafe drivers a 'fair chance,' then it would seem to be contrary to the duty, obligation and responsibility placed on the police agency to make the highways safe for all motorists." He said for the department's accident prevention program to be most effective requires the sincere support of every citizen. Last year, Ellis said, state police made 19,961 arrests for violations of the motor vehicle code. These included 635 drinking drivers, 508 drinking pedestrians, 1,109 speed arrests by radar, and 2,536 truck drivers, including 705 for exceeding the speed limit. He added that 104 arrests were made by the use of aircraft.

Frank J. Klampff's Relatives Seek His Address

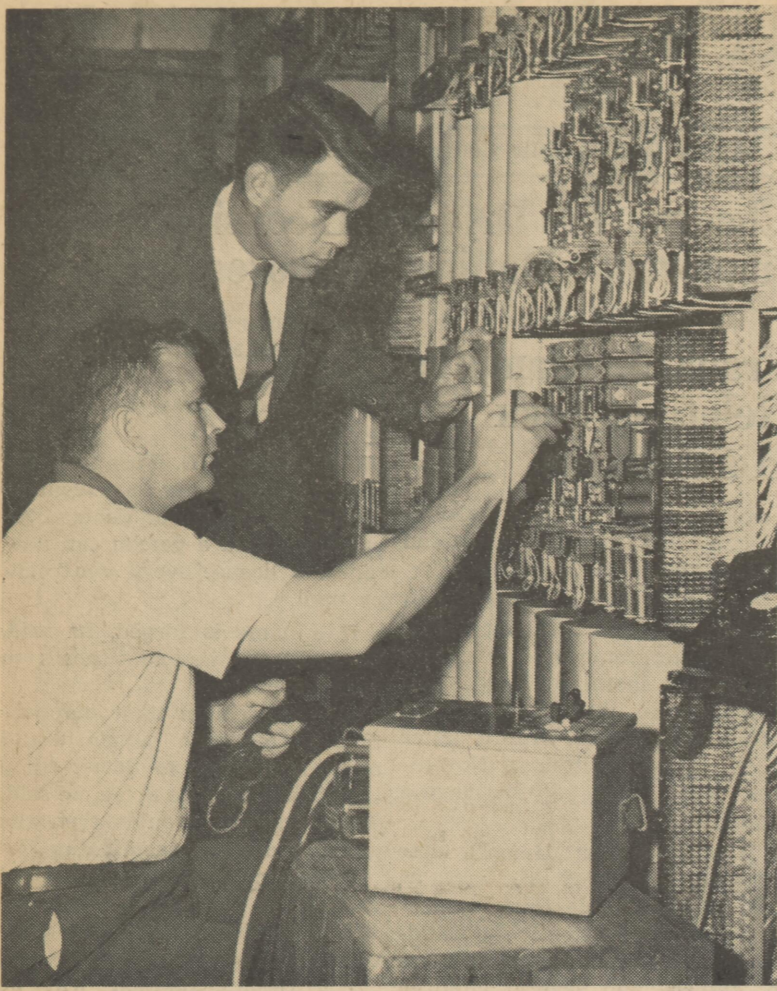

Relatives of Frank Xavier Klampff, who lived in or around Harrington in 1923, seek him. He came to this country from Dorfen, Germany, about 1911. His brother came over later and joined him in this vicinity. Relatives came into The Journal office Wednesday with a letter Klampff had written in November, 1923, with a Harrington dateline. It was said that Klampff, after his wife had died in Germany, had married "one Susie Smith" and that they had several children. A picture showed picture of father and several children and a model T Ford. Persons having information are asked to get in touch with The Journal Office.

School Prayer Ruling Worries Methodist Bishop

Disappointment at the U. S. Supreme Court's ruling that official prayers in public schools are unconstitutional was expressed here by Bishop John Wesley Lord, resident bishop of the Washington Area, The Methodist Church. He stressed that by the exclusion of religion "from the scope of the public schools' responsibilities, we are in essence false to our religious tradition." Bishop Lord expressed concern that the decision, in order to prevent indoctrination, would result in ignorance and hostility concerning religion. The bishop's statement reads: "I deeply regret the Supreme Court decision declaring that official prayers in the public schools are unconstitutional. However, this ruling was made necessary by the unwise and unfortunate action of the Board of Regents of the State of New York in creating an 'official' prayer, however general that prayer might appear. "Broadly interpreted, this decision will make unconstitutional the reciting of the Lord's Prayer, part of our great religious heritage. We are a religious people, this is our tradition. The religious faith of America has inspired our history as a people and is embodied in our institutions. If we therefore exclude religion from the scope of the public schools' responsibilities, we are in essence false to our religious tradition. This cannot be said of other nations. It is because we are a religious people with a religious tradition that all religions have flourished in this land of ours with support and without restraint. "We can understand the agony of mind in which this six to one decision was rendered for it is perhaps one of the safeguards of a democracy that enables a very few to invalidate an historic and accepted practice. We need to bear in mind that the only semblance of religion or of spiritual knowledge that many of our youngsters receive is that which they receive from secular institutions such as the public school. "I find myself closer to the dissent issued by Justice Stewart. He reminds us that the participation in this prayer was purely voluntary, no youngster was required to repeat it, also that many by this action are denied sharing in a great national heritage because the state must not prescribe any particular form of words. We must remember that the Supreme Court has also said that we are a religious people whose institutions presuppose a Supreme Being. Perhaps the day (Continued on Page 8)

WELCH REUNION

The descendants of Jacob and Ann Killen Welch met at Wheeler's Park, Harrington, June 24, with President Samuel Welch presiding. There were 93 relatives and four visitors present was Charley Welch. The youngest member was Linda Kay Welch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Welch, Jr. For the largest family present, there was a tie between Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Dulin and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Welch. The member that came the longest distance was Mrs. Rachel Knotts, Bothwyn, Pa. The following officers were elected: President, George Price; vice-president, Leslie Dulin; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Janice Welch. The reunion will be held next year the fourth Sunday in June, or in case of rain, the following Sunday.

TESTING—Wire Chief William Beam, Dover, and Switchman Robert Hayes, Frederica, are shown checking the new dial switching equipment recently installed at a cost of $25,000 in Diamond State Telephone Company's Harrington (398) central office.

Additional Dial Switching Equipment Installed Here by Phone Company

Installation of additional dial switching equipment in Diamond State Telephone Company's Harrington (398) central office has just been completed, it was announced today by William Beam, the company's local wire chief. The new equipment, installed at a cost of $25,000, increases the operating capacity of the office to serve 130 more customers, Beam said.

The telephone company is spending an additional $22,700 this year for the construction of outside plant facilities, such as cable lines, in the Harrington area, he said.

Next year, the wire chief said, the company plans to spend $21,000 more for outside plant facilities.

"This type of expansion is required to keep pace with the demand for telephone service in the Harrington (398) central office area," Beam added. "At the present time the Harrington office is serving more than 1800 telephones, compared with 1,100 in the same area five years ago."

Damage Caused By Foreign Insect Invaders

Insects now cost the American public at least $4 billion a year. Most of these are not natives to the United States. Dr. Dale F. Bray, University of Delaware entomologist, says they "hitchhiked" to this country from abroad, the majority before plant quarantines were established in 1912.

European corn borer, now found in 39 states, came to this country about 1910 in stalks of broom corn imported into Massachusetts from Hungary. It then spread to the corn belt where it now damages at least $100 million worth of corn each year. In 1949, its most destructive year, losses reached $350 million.

Gypsy moth, which defoliates and kills trees, came to the U. S. in 1869 when an amateur naturalist brought eggs from France hoping he could cross gypsy moths with silkworms to produce a hardier stock. The pest escaped from the amateur's laboratory and spread rapidly through northeastern states. Since 1890, State and federal entomologists have waged one of the longest, continuous, organized wars against this pest, but it remains a threat to the hardwood forests, orchards, and shade trees of this country.

According to Bray, the Hessian fly traveled to the U. S. during the Revolutionary War in straw bedding brought here by German soldiers hired to fight the colonists. The German soldiers went home in 1783. But the Hessian fly remained and spread westward. It since has ruined millions upon millions of bushels of wheat. Other pests sneaked into this country by various other means. Some were not even known as pests at home. The Japanese beetle, for example, was not considered a serious pest in its native Japan. But when it was brought to the U. S. sometime before 1916, it found a haven free from parasites that kept down its numbers in the Orient. Its population soared. Adult Japanese beetles here eat the foliage of an amazing number of flowering plants, ornamentals, and vegetables. Grubs of the beetle damage the roots of grasses in pastures, lawns, and golf courses. This one insect pest costs city dwellers, nurserymen, and far-

Poisons Lurk In Some Ornamentals

The beauty of some ornamental plants around your home may be only skin deep, warns county agent George Vapaa. Poison may lurk within.

Some ornamentals develop seeds that contain poison, Vapaa explains. Children should be cautioned not to put seeds and fruit from any ornamental plant in their mouth.

The seeds of castor bean plants are attractive to children for play purposes but if one or more is eaten the results may be fatal. If young children play where castor beans grow, examine the plants for clusters of flowers or fruit. Cut them off and destroy them. Leaves and other parts of the plant are poisonous, too, but they are not likely to attract "browsing" children.

Yew bushes develop seed surrounded by an attractive, red, pulpy structure called the aril. They are tempting to young children who mistake them for cherry-like fruits. The aril alone is not poisonous, but the seed, leaves, and twigs are dangerous, the agent points out.

The sap of some familiar plants can be irritating to the skin of some children and adults. An uncomfortable rash, or even blistering, may develop if you handle iris (especially the underground rootstock), lily of the valley, snow-on-the-mountain, lady slippers, cypress spurge, and others. Happily, these plants are not as toxic as poison ivy, and they affect only a few people. Some of the nightshade group develop attractive berries, and these berries are dangerous if eaten—especially if they are not fully ripe.

Children who have access to marshy places have been known to dig plants of water hemlock, Vapaa says the short, fleshy roots are carrot-like in appearance but, unlike the carrots, they may have tragic results if eaten.

Customers Better Informed - But There Is More To Know

The consumer of today is better informed, but there is more to be informed about. A half century ago a trip to town meant the purchase of a few yards of calico, a barrel of flour, some sugar, perhaps a new pair of shoes, and a nickel's worth of candy for the children.

Now when the homemaker goes on a shopping trip, chances are she will buy as many as 50 items in the grocery store in addition to her other stops for such things as household wares, ready-made clothing, appliances and furniture.

So you can see the homemaker has to move fast to stay ahead of the retailers who are competing for her shopping dollar. There are many things consumers can do to better equip themselves for the difficult job of "family purchasing agent."

1. Be informed and use your head. Study the facts before making a major purchase. Do not buy quickly or on emotion. It's impossible to get your money's worth unless you know something about food, fiber, fabric and hardware. Read the labels and know what they mean. A Dacron material suitable for a dress might not serve at all well as curtain material.

2. Be objective. Was the purchase really defective or did you fail to follow the directions for its use and care? Many complaints are actually fault of the purchaser. Either they didn't read the label or if they did, they promptly threw it away and handled the product in an accustomed manner. Make sure your complaint is legitimate.

3. You only get what you pay for. Be willing to spend more for extra value. One shirt manufacturer complained recently that it was impossible for him to sell a shirt for more than $4.50. But for 50 cents more he could make a product far superior to the one he was manufacturing. The additional cost would bring tremendous benefits to the user.

4. Express yourself — to the right person in the right way. One manufacturer of blue denim material said he had never received a complaint about his material fading. Although homemakers have been plagued with fading denim for years, none of them have bothered to tell the manufacturer. A large nationwide drygoods company feels that six letters of complaint from scattered areas are enough to justify the removal of the product from the market until the problem has been solved. If the product isn't right, take it back to the store and be sure your complaint registers.

Fewer Growers Raising More Turkeys Survey Shows

Turkey producers face the 1962 marketing year after a very difficult year in 1961, according to W. T. McAllister, University of Delaware farm management specialist.

Last year's 28 percent increase in production over 1960, to more than 108 million turkeys in the U. S., brought about a drastic price drop. Many producers were quite efficient, but lacked the financial resources to withstand a drastic price decline. The average price for turkeys in 1961 was 18.9 cents a pound compared to 25.4 cents in the previous year.

In highlighting a report by USDA's Economic Research Service, McAllister points out that only one-half as many U.S. farms raised turkeys in 1959, the year of the last census of agriculture, as in 1954. And the number of birds raised on each farm increased from 370 to 953. In Delaware, there were 383 growers in 1954 and 158 in 1959.

Growers in Delaware during 1961 produced 246,000 turkeys, and slaughtered 246,000. The total liveweight of 3,911,000 pounds, which sold at an average price of 20.9 cents per pound, was above the national average. The gross income from turkeys in this state was $817,000. Consumption of turkey increased from five pounds per person in 1955 to 7.5 pounds in 1961, mainly because of lower prices and partly because of rising consumer incomes. About half of the drop in prices and half of the increase in consumption took place between 1960 and 1961. Turkey sales were 28 percent greater in 1961 than in 1960 and prices to producers were down 26 per cent.

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD D. BAKER

Miss Yvonne Lee Satterfield Weds Richard Douglas Baker

Miss Yvonne Lee Satterfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burton E. Satterfield of Harrington and Mr. Richard Douglas Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Baker also of Harrington, were married in a double ring ceremony Sunday, June 10, at three o'clock in the Trinity Methodist Church, Harrington. The marriage was performed by the Reverend Nelson Benjamin, assisted by the Reverend Charles H. Poushish.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents wore a floor-length gown of chantilly lace over taffeta. The nuptial gown featured a basque bodice, long tapered sleeves, scalloped long tapering pointed sleeves, scalloped neckline adorned with seed pearls. The bouffant skirt with a chapel train was accented at the back by a rounded torso and featured tiers of lace. Her finger tip bridal veil of imported English illusion was held in place by a cap crown of chantilly lace trimmed with a double row of seed pearls at the cap's base and a double row of pearls suspended above the cap.

Mrs. Baker's attendants were Miss Anne Perry, Miss Geraldine Reed, and Miss Shirley Satterfield, all of Harrington. Miss Perry, maid of honor, wore an aqua sheath of silk organza over organza handkerchief overskirt taffeta. The dress featured a scoop neckline with a detachable accented by a bow at the waistline. The aqua headpiece was fashioned of double bows covered by a bouffant mushroom-shaped veil. Miss Satterfield and Miss Reed wore costumes in duplicates of the maid of honor's sheath but in clear yellow.

Miss Satterfield is a sister of the bride. Miss Perry and Miss Reed were members of the same high school graduating class as the bride and bridegroom. The best man was Thomas Teets of West Virginia. Charles Cain and Charles Baker, both of Harrington, were the ushers. All are relatives of the bridegroom. The flower girl was Nancy Satterfield, a cousin of the bride, of Denton. The ring bearer was David Bennington, of Ridgely. Samuel Elliott, of Laurel, was soloist, and Melvin Brobst of Harrington was organist.

The bride carried a white orchid on her white Bible. The maid of honor and the attendants carried baskets of white gladiolus, snapdragons, pom poms, and camilla foliage. The flower girl carried a smaller basket of pop poms dyed to match the colors of the attendants' dresses. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Satterfield selected a pale beige sleeveless chiffon featuring a draped neckline. Her accessories were pink and white, and she wore a corsage of pink rosebuds. Mrs. Baker was costumed in a clear beige lace over taffeta with matching accessories. She wore a corsage of yellow rosebuds.

Following the wedding the reception was held in the newly completed auditorium of the church. A lawn party was given in honor of the bride and bridegroom Saturday evening by the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Satterfield at their home in Denton.

After a honeymoon in Atlantic City, Mr. and Mrs. Baker will reside in the Quillen Apartments on Commerce Street, Harrington. Both Mr. and Mrs. Baker are alumni of Harrington High School, Class of 1960. Mrs. Baker is employed by the State Highway Department in Dover. Mr. Baker is employed by the E. I. duPont Company in Seaford.

Delaware Food Market Report

July is traditionally "Picnic Month" and the 4th can start the month off with a bang if you plan your menu around the foods in ample supply. The plentiful foods for July as announced by the U. S. Department of Agriculture are turkeys, summer vegetables, peaches, frozen orange juice and dairy products. This is a good combination for summer eating.

Plenty of "heavy weights", medium and roaster-fryer size turkeys are on hand to be enjoyed all summer. Of course, these are frozen and stockpiles are record high for this time of year; they are close to double the stocks of a year ago this time. Production prospects for turkeys indicate that about 1 1/3 billion pounds will be marketed this year. So consider turkey for the Fourth of July holiday.

The acreage of vegetables for harvest during the summer is 3 percent greater than a year ago. Given normal weather, this means vegetable supplies will be plentiful. In particular are, cabbage, carrots and onions. Watermelons and cantaloupe acreage for summer harvest is down.

Peach harvesting is underway in Georgia, South Carolina and Alabama. Prices are coming down averaging 12 cents a pound with special sales offering plentiful supplies at 3 pounds for 25 or 29 cents. Expect weekly increases in marketings as the season moves north.

Most meat prices are rising seasonally with quick cooking cuts leading the upswing. The reasons lie in reduced farm marketings of some kinds of livestock and the homemaker's aversion to spending long hours in hot kitchens. Live hog prices have reached their highest levels of the year. Prices for retail cuts, particularly loins, chops and bacon are up. Most beef cuts remain unchanged in price.

Eggs are an excellent choice for summer meals because of convenience, food value, and price. Though eggs are extremely plentiful now, as the weather gets hot again hens lay less. Eggs are now priced much below a year ago so enjoy them often.

Federal Farm Offices Relocate On July 2nd

Kent County farmers will find federal government farm services conveniently grouped at a new location on July 2nd. On that day, the ASCS, FHA, SCS and SCD agencies will open for business at a new building along the dual highway just north of the new Camden traffic light.

The new facilities all on one ground level floor, with plenty of free parking, are designed to give better service to armer patrons.

ASCS, short for Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, carries out the action programs in the fields of production adjustment, conservation cost-sharing, and price and market stabilization. The office is managed by Lister U. Hall, Jr., whose new telephone number will be 697-3294.

FHA, or Farmers Home Administration, is the farm credit agency which makes supervised loans to eligible farm families. Paul Bickford is the county supervisor. His new telephone number is 697-3306.

The Soil Conservation Service (SCS) provides technical and engineering on the farm assistance for the county soil and water conservation program through the local Soil Conservation District (SCD). The goal is to plan each farm for its best use, and to fit all farms into a sound conservation pattern. Frederick Mott is the work unit conservator in charge. His telephone number is 697-3376.

Regular business hours for the new offices will be 8 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., Monday through Friday. The mailing address is 2319, South Dual Highway, Dover, Del.

A special "Open House" showing is scheduled for Friday, July 13th from 1:30 p. m. to 4 p. m. and 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. The public will be invited to meet the staff, see what kinds of work are done, look at films and exhibits, and visit with friends while munching refreshments. Every attempt is being made to have an informal, informative reception for visitors.

The 100th anniversary of the U.S. Department of Agriculture will also be celebrated at this time at the offices. No other nation has ever had to struggle with the problems of abundant farm production resulting from our rapidly changing mechanized agriculture.

The many changes have created new situations never before thought possible. The average O. S. farmer today feeds himself and 27 other people. Good farmers grow 80 bushels of corn per acre regularly in Kent County, gets 20 bushels of soybeans per acre, produces 9800 lbs. of 3.8% butterfat milk per cow per year, produce a four pound broiler in a little over nine weeks with about 10 lbs. of feed, 17 tons of tomatoes per acre, and on and on.

Controlling Ants In The Home

Are you annoyed by ants in your house?

Now that the weather has turned warm, ants have begun to emerge from their outdoor wintering spots and some may decide to move indoors with you. This invasion may occur any time throughout the summer months. But in certain instances, the influx may become more acute—if the summer is abnormally dry and the ants get thirsty; or if it gets too wet and they'd like a place to keep dry.

Dr. Dale Bray, University of Delaware entomologist, recommends an oil-base spray for effective ant control in the home. This spray may contain any one of the following insecticides: 2 percent chlordane, 0.5 percent dieldrin, 0.5 percent lindane, or 0.5 percent heptachlor.

You can buy such sprays at a hardware, drug, or department store under any of several trade names. Look on the label to be sure it contains the proper insecticide at the proper concentration. Spray the insecticide solution where you see the ants crawling, but do not contaminate food or dishes. Trace the ants back to their nests or where they entered the house. Then spray the outside walls from the ground up to the windows. Apply the spray also to the lower part of your window frames and around the doors.

One or two applications should provide control for a season, according to Bray. Sprays work especially well indoors and on buildings. They are easy to handle and stick readily to vertical surfaces where the ants often crawl. But when you spray with insecticides, be careful, Bray warns. Don't use an oil spray near an open flame; it's flammable. Don't spray it on asphalt or linoleum; it will dissolve the tiling. And don't use it in your yard; it will injure your grass, trees, and shrubs. Instead, purchase an emulsifiable liquid insecticide and dilute with water. Follow directions on the product label.

Greenwood

Mrs. Minerva Adams of Federalburg was a Tuesday visitor of Mrs. Ann Hawk of Hawk's Nest.

Mr. and Mrs. James Smith had as their weekend guests, Mrs. Smith's sister, Mrs. Anna MacDonald, of Wilmington.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Warren of Wilmington were Sunday morning callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Draper.

Johnsongrass - A Menace To Delaware Agriculture

by Jerry L. Webb, Asst. Agricultural Editor, U. of D.

Johnsongrass, a crop choking, hard to control weed, is steadily infesting some of Delaware's best cropland. Small patches are spreading, seeds are being scattered to the four winds and new areas are being infested.

This bothersome weed has plagued the southern portion of the country for years. Gradually, it is working its way northward. Thousands of acres of the Delmarva Peninsula are already seeded. Scattered Johnsongrass stands have been located as far north as the Delaware Chesapeake Canal.

In addition to its strangling effect on corn and other grain crops, Johnsongrass contains a toxic material known as prussic acid which can cause heavy death loss in livestock. Although prussic acid is present in the plants at all times, the amounts become dangerously high under certain adverse conditions such as frosts, droughts, or periods of unusual growth. It is not unusual for animals to die within a few hours after eating the poisonous material.

Once established, Johnsongrass is extremely difficult to control. Eradication is expensive and time consuming. Small patches can be controlled quite effectively. Once these areas spread, however, eradication is a long and painful process.

According to Dr. William Mitchell, University of Delaware agronomist, many farmers are still waiting for some ultimate control method. It has been slow in coming. While they wait, small patches are spreading over their entire farms.

Johnsongrass is a tall, growthy plant with stems the size of a lead pencil and leaves from one half to one and a half inches wide with a light green midrib. Johnsongrass often attains the height of 10 feet but usually averages about six feet. The seeds grow in open, loosely branched clusters.

Johnsongrass is extremely hard to deal with because it spreads and thickens from seeds and rhizomes. These rhizomes, which are heavy, underground stems, live over the winter and in spring send out new shoots.

The easiest way to eliminate Johnsongrass is to keep it from forming seeds. Any method of destroying the topgrowth before seeds form should be used. Since controls are difficult and expensive and the weed spreads quickly underground, it is virtually impossible to control a stand unless seed propagation is halted.

Flood waters spread more Johnsongrass seed than any other means. Johnsongrass seed may also be carried in crop seeds, grain, hay, bedding, and mulching materials.

Another way many fields become contaminated is by allowing harvesting equipment to be used on the farm that has been in operation on infested land.

Johnsongrass seedlings can be killed during the first three to six weeks of growth by the usual methods of controlling annual weeds and grasses. After six weeks, however, rhizomes are formed and new growth can come from the rhizomes even though the tops of the plants have been killed. Only in the early seedling stagewill a single application of any chemical give complete control. Established stands nearly always need follow-up treatment.

One of the most practical ways to control large infestations is through close grazing. Pasturing must be heavy, especially during the summer months, to keep the growth down. After two or three years of grazing, the stand will be considerably weakened and most of the rhizomes will be concentrated in the first few inches of soil. Frequent mowings will give similar results.

Johnsongrass that has been weakened by grazing or mowing can be further weakened by shallow plowing in November. Plow deep enough to turn out the rhizomes but avoid as much covering as possible. These rhizomes, if exposed to winter temperatures, will usually be killed.

Clean cultivation can reduce extensive infestations to a few scattered plants. Heavy pasturing or mowing to weaken the stand prior to cultivation will shorten the necessary period of clean cultivation. A vigorous program of cultivation or disking each summer from the time the plants are six inches tall until the growth is stopped by cold weather can be very effective. The high degree of kill can be obtained from one to three years.

Certain spray materials are effective against Johnsongrass. These are very expensive, however, and involve a lot of work. A Dalapon broadcast spray treatment usually kills about 95 percent of the Johnsongrass. This should be done by applying 30 to 40 pounds of materials per acre in two or three applications at weekly intervals. The Dalapon will be more effective if a good rain falls before any tilling is done, so it is a good idea not to till the soil for two or three weeks after spraying.

There are numerous ways to kill small patches. Soil sterilants such as sodium chloride can be used to combat scattered patches. These materials are dangerous and difficult to use. Also, they render the soil unusable for a period of a year or more. Dalapon may be used to kill small clumps thoroughly wetting them every two or three weeks, as long as the plants remain green. Small patches may be smothered by covering them with roofing material, black plastic material or other suitable materials so that all light and most of the air is shut out.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q — May Spanish-American War veterans receive outpatient treatment at the VA clinic?

A — All disabilities of veterans of the Spanish-American War (including the Philippine Insurrection and the Boxer Rebellion) are considered service-connected for purposes of VA outpatient medical treatment.

Q — What is the deadline for entitlement for GI loans for veterans of the Korean Conflict?

A — Entitlement for each Korean Conflict veteran extends for ten years after the date of his discharge from active duty plus one year additional for each 90 days of active service. In no case may a Korean veteran's GI loan entitlement expire before January 31, 1965, nor beyond January 31, 1975.

Q — Has the so-called Long insurance bill been passed by this session of Congress?

A — A new version of the Long bill, as well as several other bills which would reopen GI insurance for World War II veterans, have been submitted to Congress but neither the House nor the Senate has yet acted upon them.

Don't Give Snakes The Breaks

Be sure to include an approved snake bite kit in your vacation preparations.

Always carry a snake bite kit in your car, as well as keep one at home, says Kent county agent George Vapaa.

The kit should always be taken on hunting and fishing trips and on other outings in the woods. Vapaa lists the following treatments for anyone bitten by a poisonous snake.

Apply a tourniquet above the bite. Loosen it for one minute every fifteen minutes.

Open the wound with a sharp instrument and suck the poison from it with a suction device or with your mouth.

Have the injured person lie down and apply an ice pack to the wound if possible. Then take him to the doctor or hospital where anti-venom can be administered.

SPORTS

KEITH S. BURGESS — Sports Editor

"Sports Odds And Ends"

Harold McDonald, cross-country and track coach at Harrington High, is recuperating at home after a recent operation. He has led the cross-country team to a winning record each fall since the sport was started here four years ago. His 1960 team was unbeaten downstate, placed third in the 17-team state meet and featured state champion Harry Knotts, who is the only Delaware harrier king to hail from that part of the state south of Wilmington.

We goofed last week when we credited the Lions with a 6-4 victory over Bob Haley's Moose team in Little League play at the Moose Home. It was the other way round! Sorry.

Back in 1960 we were visiting relatives in Cleveland, Ohio, when we heard that a huge scholastic meet was to be held at the spacious Cleveland arena. We've been a track fan for almost three decades, so we motored into the city on Lake Erie to see the boys go to it. Dave Mills, a third place finisher in the 440 in the National A. A. U. meet last weekend won the quarter that night in '60. A lad from Cathedral High named Otis Drayton won the 50-yard dash. Now known as Paul Drayton, he is running for Villanova U. He is a co-holder of the world record for the 220-yard dash around one turn. He was clocked in 2.05 seconds on Saturday.

A recent survey conducted by the National Federation of High School Athletic Associations showed that in the 1961-62 school year 750,000 participated in football; 663,000 in basketball; 447,000 in track and field; 332,000 in baseball, and golf coming up fast with 104,000. Georgetown and Harrington will meet in a Kent-Sussex Pony League tilt at the Harrington High School diamond Saturday. Game time is 1 p. m.

Ponies Win Two To Tie for First

Ted Layton's Pony League nine split two games with the Bridgeville club and then knocked off the league leaders from Georgetown on Monday. Harrington and Georgetown both sport 5-2 records. Felton has dropped only two contests and may own a share of first place also. We have been unable to verify this in this writing because information about the Kent-Sussex League as a whole is hard to come by.

At Bridgeville last week, Renny French, Glen Smith and Ellis Myer held the host nine to two hits while Harrington was getting ten bingles for an easy 12-2 win.

Steve Motter led the locals at the plate with three hits in five tries. Myer and Richard Black had two safeties each as Harrington scored in each of the first six innings.

Saturday afternoon at Harrington, the visiting Sussex Countians looked like a different team and the home team did too, only in reverse. Bridgeville raked Myer and French, two of their tormentors in the first frames, for fourteen hits. In spite of this barrage, the tilt would have gone into the win column for Harrington had it not been for some very poor defensive efforts by several players. Easy grounders were booted, infield and outfield flies fell safely. The winning run in an 8-7 victory for Bridgeville came in an error filled final inning.

High spots for local fans were the hitting of French and Smith, who had 3 for 3 and 2 for 2 respectively, a triple by Black and a hidden ball play by Smith. The hefty Smith surprised the winners by beating out a bunt. A nifty bit of baserunning tied the score at 7-7 when with Don Minner on second, Henry Minner grounded to second base and running hard made first safely, when the second sacker bobbled the ball for an instant, at the same time Don Minner rounded third and sneaked down the baseline to tie it up.

Monday afternoon, a much smaller Harrington club knocked off Georgetown, 5-2, behind the superlative twirling of Glen Smith. Dodd of the losers, and Smith hooked up in a mound duel which saw Harrington limited to five hits and Georgetown to six, four of which came in the final stanza when they finally broke the slight moundsman's shutout spell.

After three scoreless innings, Tom Simpler reached first on an error. Tribbett and French singled, Smith was safe on a fielder's choice, Myer beat out a drive to the left side of the infield and Harrington led, 4-0. The locals made very few mistakes as Smith, mixing his pitches nicely, had the Count Seaters popping up and grounding out. Nine were retired by strikeouts. Three of these came with two men on in the sixth. Georgetown will play here again tomorrow afternoon at 1 p. m. Pony League games are played at Harrington High School, diamond.

Little League News

Bob Haley's Moose nine is off and running in second half play in the Harrington Little League. They are now sporting a perfect record with three wins in as many starts.

Wednesday night Dennis Haley spaced six hits as his team blanked the first half champion Legion unit by a score of 2-0. Gail McReynolds on the hill for the losers gave up only three hits, two of which went to Billy Abbott. Buddy Wyatt hit safely twice for the Legion.

Jack Redden's Lions are in second place after besting the Rotary Club, 20-9, and the Legion, 5-4. Terry Yoder pitched the latter contest for the Lions with the winning run scoring in the final frame.

Tuesday night the Rotarians were drubbed by the Moose, 16-4. After allowing 13 runs in the opening inning the Rotary squad settled down behind relief pitcher Gary Simpson and outscored the winners, 4-3, over the last five innings.

Softball News

The other clubs in the Harrington Softball League are pressing the loop-leading Ruritans more than at the beginning of the season, but the top club is still undefeated.

Friday night, Bill's Barber Shop dropped a close 8-7 verdict to the first-place nine. Tuesday night's action saw Stone's Hotel carry the Ruritans into two extra innings before bowing, 5-3.

Last Thursday night Stone's prevailed over the Jaycees by 13-7. Monday night Bill's Barbours trounced the same club, 23-11.

DAIRY TOUR

"Management" group. There is good information on the farm business. Costs of production are kept low. A dumping station set up for handling milk is a highlight. This farm is a four-man operation, two partners and two hired men.

On August 9, the next stop will be at Fasset Brothers, East Springfield, N. Y. This is a 510 acre farm operated by Kermit and Myron Fasset plus one full time hired man. They have a herd of 80 Holstein cows that averaged 14,375 pounds of milk and 508 pounds of fat. The cropping system is 60 acres of oats, 40 acres of corn, 100 acres of hay and about 80 acres of pasture which is part of the regular crop rotation. They also make maple syrup. Fasset's modern dairy barn is 192 feet long. All phases of their operation are characterized by up-to-date equipment. They have a stainless steel pipe line which empties into a 1,000 gallon milk tank. In addition, there is a forced air mow drying installation, automatic gutter cleaner and silo unloader and a grinder for their home-grown grains.

During mid-day of August 9, the group will visit Cooperstown as a sideline of the tour. This will be followed by a farm visit at Frost Brothers, Cassville, N. Y., where a herd of 88 registered Holsteins averages over 14,000 pounds of milk. An economic survey was conducted on this operation a few years ago and these figures can be made available. Recently, they have expanded their barn to accommodate this herd. There are 160 crop acres in this farm and this is a good paying operation with a high labor income.

The group plans to arrive back from this tour about 6:45 p. m. at the Friendship Airport.

Asbury Church Notes

Sunday, July 1
Church School - 10:00 A. M.
A cordial welcome awaits everyone at Asbury. The church school classes are available for all age levels. Howard Wagner is the superintendent in charge.

Morning worship service - 11:00 A. M. conducted this Sunday by Fulton Downing. The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Roy L. Taves, Dover District Superintendent. The special music will be given by Leonard Masten. There will be a nursery for pre-school children. Altar flowers will be presented this week by Mrs. Wallace Hanson in memory of parents. The friendly greeters will be Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wagner.

Rev. and Mrs. Shockley left on the first part of their trip to the Holy Land from New York City over the weekend. Due to the threatened airline strike on the Pan Am line, their departure time was rescheduled, but it is assumed that they left late Saturday or early Sunday morning. Their first stop was London and they were to be there July 24 to 26. June 27 - 28 they were in Paris, then on to Rome on June 29 - July 1. From July 2 - 4 they will be in Cairo. The end of the week, July 5 - 6 will find them in Beirut. A copy of their itinerary is posted in the vestibule of the church also giving instructions for mailing letters to them.

will come when our children will no longer presuppose a Supreme Being, but by this decision a deeply entrenched and highly cherished spiritual tradition will be forgotten and perhaps lost to succeeding generations.
"The omission of religion from the public school could become a very serious matter in terms of condemning all religion. The separation of church and state does not require the state to be hostile to religion, but to omit religion conveys the negative suggestion that religion of any kind is unimportant. The Constitution bars indoctrination, but it does not require ignorance.
"We are reminded of old that we are not to remove ancient landmarks which have been set as part of our inheritance. It seems to me in this decision one of the ancient landmarks of our American culture and tradition is being removed. For that reason I am deeply disappointed in the decision."

"Moon Pilot" & "Bonzo" At Reese June 28-30; "Fire Away" June 1-2
The Reese Theatre in the past has presented many "all-family" shows, but undoubtedly the biggest fun, action, adventure combination show ever is listed for presentation this Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, June 28, 29, 30. Topping this gigantic all-family presentation is Walt Disney's "Moon Pilot," pronounced by television and the press as "top entertainment for everyone."
After Bonzo, the ape's trip to the moon, the Chimp is the star of the extra added "Bonzo Goes to College," sixty minutes of buckle-busting laughter. Tom and Jerry close this exciting program the entire family can't afford to miss. Patrons should remember the theatre is open on Thursday for this attraction only.

The long-awaited "Fire Away," the story of a trotter, is listed for presentation Sunday and Monday, July 1 and 2. Sponsored by the United States Trotting Association, this is the picture every horseman and horse lover has been waiting to see. This special attraction will be shown in conjunction with Paramount's "Escape From Zahrain" with Yul Brynner and Sol Mineo as the stars.

Vaccinate Swine Against Cholera
Last year less than 40 per cent of the pigs marketed in the U.S. were vaccinated against hog cholera. This low rate of vaccination is a cause for deep concern among regulatory agencies and the swine industry. A continued decline in vaccination could leave the industry without enough cholera serum to combat a serious nationwide outbreak should one occur.
Hog cholera has cost the American swine industry one billion dollars since 1941 or 45 cents per pig marketed in that period. The time is ripe for an American effort to eliminate cholera, and that effort should begin with increased hog cholera vaccination.

County Agent Offers Hot Weather Management Tips

To keep hens cool and laying during the hot summer months ahead, George Vapaa, Kent County agricultural agent, has compiled an up-to-date list of hot weather tips for poultry producers.

Here are some tips which Vapaa says will cut summertime losses:

1. Provide as much ventilation as possible, and be sure there is cross ventilation.
2. Place extra waterers—pans, buckets and tubs—in the chicken house on hot days.
3. Paint the roof with white or aluminum paint or white wash.
4. Insulate the house, especially the roof.
5. Use shallow litter—one to two inches deep—during the summer.
6. Provide fresh, cool, clean water throughout the day.
7. Use fans, foggers, and roof sprinklers.
8. Clean water fountains daily and disinfect once or twice a week.
9. Clean all screened openings once a week or more often if needed. Don't overlook cleaning the wire on the ridge or other type ventilators.

Concrete

avoided, he says, by observing a few simple rules of mixing and handling. Use clean, well-graded sand and gravel. These materials must be free of organic matter. The sand should never contain more than five percent silt. An excess of silt can weaken concrete.
Use clean water to mix concrete. A good rule-of-thumb is to use water that is clean enough to drink.
Measure the amount of water to be used in mixing the concrete carefully. The strength of the concrete depends on the water-cement ratio. The less water, the stronger the cement. Use only enough to make the mix workable and plastic.
When mixing concrete, whether by machine or by hand, be sure all the particles of aggregate are coated with cement.
Curing is an important step to good construction, reports Vapaa. The best method to follow is to keep the cement moist for several days after it has been poured. Moisture is necessary for proper hardening and to insure maximum strength. Fresh concrete should be covered with burlap bags, sand or straw. These materials should be kept

Cheap Feeder Pigs Not A Bargain

Don't look for bargains in feeder pigs, warns George Vapaa, Kent County agent. Anyone wanting to sell feeder pigs at low prices usually has something to gain from a fast sale. Often these "bargain" pigs die soon after the buyer gets them home.
The agent lists these guides in selecting feeder pigs that will return a profit:
1. Look for sleek-haired thrifty pigs.
2. Pigs should weigh at least 35 pounds at eight weeks of age and at least 40 pounds at 10 weeks of age.
3. They should have correct type and stretch.
4. Look for castrated boar pigs that are smoothly healed.
5. Buy pigs that have been vaccinated for cholera and erysipelas.
6. Plan to buy from organized health-inspected feeder pig sales, bona fide feeder pig producers or reputable licensed dealers.
Vapaa urges farmers to avoid unthrifty pigs, small pigs under 30 pounds, crippled or deformed pigs or those that have mange, lice or pig pox.
