German Physicist Helping Delaware Department Move

A German physics professor is spending a leave of absence in this country helping the University of Delaware physics department establish a new research program in luminescence and in preparations to move to new quarters this summer.

Dr. Hans-Eckart Gumlich is serving as visiting assistant research professor under a grant from the University of Delaware Research Foundation.

He is from the Institut für Elektronenmikroskopie am Fritz Haber Institut, of Berlin-Dahlem, affiliated with the Max Planck Society, a German research society. He has been associated at international meetings with Dr. Ferd Williams, Delaware department chairman, who shares Dr. Gumlich's field of interest.

Dr. Williams, a theorist in the field, invited Dr. Gumlich, a practical experimentalist, to establish a research project in the luminescence of solids, assist in the selection of equipment and train personnel. This is the third program of its type he has initiated, but first outside of his own country.

Since his arrival in March, Dr. Gumlich has conducted seminars and worked with graduate and undergraduate students. He is now working with several high school students under the new summer research apprentice program for outstanding students. The project is to study the luminescence of zinc sulfide and cadmium sulfide phosphors, both in single crystal form and in thin sheets.

Special objective of the program, which is becoming an integral part of the department's research and instructional offer-

Bennett Seeks Sheriff Post

Josh Bennett, 50, who operates a detective and protective agency, is a Democratic candidate for Kent County sheriff.

Bennett, a former captain of state police, filed Friday with the county Democratic committee.

Bennett is captain of guards at Delaware Park and in charge of security at the Kent & Sussex Raceway, Harrington.

It is the first time he has filed for public office and says he bases his candidacy on 24 years of police experience.

The present sheriff, William T. James, cannot succeed himself. He also is a democrat.

Deet, An Affective Insect Repellent, Now Available

Camping, fishing, picnicking or even gardening can be a lot more fun if you use a safe, effective insect repellent, according to George Vapaa, Kent County agent.

A new repellent developed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture meets all of these requirements. It is commonly called "deet" (Diethyl-toluamide) and is available in ready-to-use containers under several trade names.

Deet is effective against a large variety of the better known biting insects — mosquitoes, ticks, fleas, chiggers, and biting flies. According to the agent it has been approved as the standard military repellent.

Deet is effective and safe for general use on the skin or on certain kinds of clothing materials. However, instructions for use of the repellent should be followed closely. Vapaa warns, because the chemical may affect certain paints, varnishes, and some plastic materials. It is safe for use on cotton or wool fabrics if they contain no synthetic fibers.

Smeared evenly on exposed skin areas, deet is effective for several hours. It has little or no odor, and it does not cause a greasy feeling on the skin.

AROUND THE WORLD IN LESS THAN A SECOND

The command ship U.S.S. Northampton (CC-1) set a communications record on April 24, 1962. A message sent around the world from the ship was received on another teletype in the ship 0.8 seconds later. The message was relayed via the following Naval Communications Stations: Port Lyautey, Morocco; Asmara, Eritrea; Luzon, Philippines; Guam; Pearl Harbor, Hawaii; Washington, D. C. A similar message around the world sent by Northampton in March 1960 took 1.8 seconds to make the circuit.

Because of work with gases and X-ray equipment it is important to select the best equipment and install and locate it for maximum protection for the personnel involved in its operation, Dr. Gumlich explains.

This is the first time he has been in the United States, and he has taken the opportunity to travel. He delivered a paper before the Electro-Chemical Society in Los Angeles this spring. Dr. Gumlich has published several articles in Germany. He plans to return to Berlin about December 1.

On behalf of the chapter, Jones presented Webster with a plaque in recognition of his efforts towards the growth of the chapter. Webster is vice president of the Delaware Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Parking Spaces Marked Off in Downtown Streets

With parking prohibited in downtown areas on the Fourth, a Georgetown firm speedily marked off parking spaces.

At the northern end of Commerce Street, automobiles will still head in to the curb. Otherwise, vehicles continue to park parallel to the curb. An innovation, however, will be the allowance of a nonparking space between each two vehicles. This will permit easier parking.

Signs have been erected for some time denoting that parking will be limited to two hours.

Signing of Land - Grant College Act Celebrated at U. of D.

In a quiet ceremony on the University of Delaware campus Monday, as at land-grant institutions across the nation, one of the most significant actions in the history of America was celebrated.

Millions of Americans have Abraham Lincoln and a little-known law to thank for their college education, but many of them know nothing about it. On July 2, 1862, President Lincoln signed into law the Morrill Land-Grant Act which opened college doors to millions of students who otherwise would have been denied a higher education because of prohibitive costs.

To recognize this historic occasion and to express their thanks for cooperation over a long period of years, the Boy Scouts of America are presenting certificates of Appreciation to various land-grant colleges and universities this year. Making the presentation at the university were Philip G. Rhoads, past president of the Delmarva Council and a member of the National Council, and James O. Boyer, deputy regional executive of Region Three's Southeastern Area.

The certificate reads: "The Boy Scouts of America extends greetings to University of Delaware and its College of Agriculture on the occasion of the 100th anniversary of the Land-Grant College Act and expresses appreciation for its contributions to the welfare and education of the nation's youth."

Accepting for the university was Dr. John W. Shirley, newly appointed provost and vice president for academic affairs.

Meanwhile, in Washington's National Archives, President John A. Perkins, chairman of the executive committee of the American Association of Land-Grant Colleges and State Universities, attended a national observance of the signing of the act.

Senator George D. Aiken of Vermont delivered the principal address at ceremonies in the Archives' fifth-floor theatre. He occupies the Senatorial seat formerly held by Justin Smith Morrill, author of the original Land-Grant College Act. Dr. Wayne C. Grover, Archivist of the United States, opened a Land-Grant Centennial Exhibition.

Kent Land Appraisal To Be Aired

The Kent County Levy Court Tuesday agreed to meet with a representative of an independent assessing company concerning a countywide assessment.

The two Democratic members of the Levy Court, Charles W. Bostick, Felton, and Walter J. Paskey Jr., Harrington, agreed reluctantly to meet with the representative.

Both argued against an outside assessment such as was undertaken in Sussex and New Castle Counties and the city of Dover.

Fred B. Carey, Sr., the sole Republican on the Levy Court, vigorously supported an outside appraisal.

The company involved is J. M. Clemmshaw Co., Cleveland, Ohio. Its representative will meet with the Levy Court in the near future, said Walter A. Handsberry, clerk of the peace.

Handsberry said such a survey would cost about $200,000. Handsberry said the results would be given to the county Board of Assessment. He said "after you've paid all that money you go along with the survey."

Bids Opened on 15 Road Projects

The State Highway Department went through another big bid - opening session Tuesday, with low bids on 15 separate contracts totaling $898,177.06.

Thirty contracting concerns submitted 53 bids. Four concerns submitted 53 bids. Four contracts covered road improvements and four were for bridge repairs on painting. Two were for concrete pipe supplies, three were for slag supplies and two were for test borings along the interstate route.

Edgell Construction Co. of Dover submitted the apparent low bid of $336,921.58 on 14 dirt road projects totaling 17.14 miles, although Delmarva Asphalt Co. of Seaford submitted the apparent low bids on the projects when broken up into groups of eight roads and six roads.

Delmarva's price for eight roads totaling 7.71 miles was $165,288.62 and the offer for six roads totaling 9.43 miles was $208,756.26.

On the combined bid for the two groups of dirt roads, however, Edgell's price was lower.

George & Lynch, Wilmington, submitted the apparent low bid of $91,915 for widening and resurfacing the South Little Creek Road from Dixon's Corner to Little Creek, a distance of 1.62 miles.

P.R.R. Improving Three Crossings

The railroad has improved its Liberty Street crossing and is at work on the one at Clark Street. It will probably be closed at least another week.

In the meanwhile, highway traffic is being detoured over the Liberty Street crossing.

The third crossing to be improved will be the one on Center Street.

University of Delaware to Offer Earth Institute

The University of Delaware's first In-Service Institute in Earth Science will be held during the fall and spring semesters of the coming academic year, it was announced yesterday.

The institute is intended for secondary school science teachers. Class meetings consisting of lecture, discussion and laboratory sessions will be conducted on Thursday evenings from 6 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. The first class meeting will be September 20, 1962, and the final session will be May 23, 1963. Several field excursions are to be scheduled.

According to Dr. Johan J. Groot, institute director, the objectives of the program are to make the secondary school teacher familiar with modern concepts in earth science; to give the teacher the background and knowledge necessary to teach earth science on the secondary school level; and to suggest to the teacher materials that can be utilized in the teaching of earth science.

The full year course offers six graduate credits toward the Master's degree in the school of education. Only undergraduate credit is offered toward a degree in other schools of the university. A total of 25 secondary school science teachers will be able to

BRANDYWINE TO OPEN SEASON APRIL 5 NEXT YEAR

Brandywine Raceway will open its season next year on April 5—three months earlier than its usual July starting date.

The threat of competition from a new harness track—the Liberty Bell—in the Philadelphia area was a factor in the decision Brandywine's board of directors approved the shift in starting dates at a meeting Monday.

In revising the schedule, the harness track's directors ignored advice of the State Harness Racing Commission, which urged Brandywine to maintain its present July-through-September program.

Brandywine's 1962 meeting opens Saturday night. There will be 60 nights of racing at the track, located off Concord Pike along Naaman's Road.

Sandtown Man Asphyxiated

A Sandtown man was found dead of asphyxiation Sunday, the apparent victim of smoking in bed.

State police said they found James Leon Short, 25, a general laborer, dead on the floor of a shack where he lived. The shack is located behind the house of Mary Melvin in Sandtown.

Short was pronounced dead of asphyxiation by a deputy medical examiner. Police said the only thing burned in the shack was the bed and that the victim had apparently fallen asleep while smoking.

Build A Barbecue Pit

Barbecue pits can be inexpensive yet do a very satisfactory job. All you need are 18 cinder blocks 8 inches by 8 inches by 16 inches long, and a piece of one half inch mesh wire 3 feet by 4 feet.

To build the pit, lay three blocks in a row and butt two blocks at right angles to each end. Then place two blocks between the ends. To lap the joints the second tier of blocks is laid with the three blocks on the opposite side. This will make a pit 16 inches high, 4 feet long and 3 feet four inches wide, outside dimensions.

Milking Machines Causing Problems According To Report

Milking machines may be causing more problems than they should, according to two University of Illinois dairy scientists, -- mainly because machines on many farms are not in proper repair. Reporting at a recent meeting of the American Dairy Science Association, Leo Fryman and Jack Albright said vacuum pumps and pulsators are causing most of the problems.

Research conducted by these men on 60 top dairy herds in Illinois revealed these problems: vacuum pumps were giving adequate vacuum reserve on fewer than half of the farms surveyed; pulsators were working properly on only 49 percent of the farms; some of the vacuum pumps were too small for the number of milker units used; others were badly worn, running too slowly, or connected to leaky vacuum lines.

W. R. Hesselstine, extension dairyman at the University of Delaware who attended the Dairy Science meeting, says these problems exist on many Delaware farms. He indicates that dairymen who are using the manufacturer's recommendations as a standard are doing a satisfactory job. Others may be having problems. There is a direct relationship, he says, between the condition of many milking machines and the type of field service offered by the manufacturer's representatives in this area.

Reporting on the Illinois study, Fryman noted that some of the vacuum pumps needed as long as 35 seconds to return the vacuum level on the line to normal when the milker unit was moved from cow to cow. The recommended time is about two seconds. Also, many vacuum pumps fail to give adequate vacuum when all the units were operating. Much of this problem can be corrected, according to Hesselstine, with larger reserve tanks or larger vacuum lines. Straight vacuum lines would also help. Vacuum lines are often hampered by many elbows and small obstructions that reduce the amount of vacuum.

A check of pulsator action showed that only half of the pulsators were working properly. Many of them were dirty, worn or needed oiling. A few were in such bad shape that the ends of the cows teats were under constant vacuum, a problem that lead to constant udder trouble. Hesselstine points out that many of these problems can be solved by following manufacturer recommendations, observing a program of preventive maintenance, and being alert to mechanical failures or other problems as they develop.

Hot Hogs - Poor Gains

Keep hogs cool if you want them to gain well, advises George Vapaa, Kent county agent. He says that when temperature climbs above 85 degrees, hogs gain little or no weight. Anything you can do to keep them cooler will pay.

Hot hogs require three times as much feed per pound of gain, he points out. At 60 degrees, 400 pounds of feed will produce 100 pounds of pork compared to 1200 pounds of feed per 100 pounds of pork at 85 degrees.

Hogs remain fairly comfortable at temperatures that do not go above 75 degrees, according to Vapaa. When the mercury jumps above this mark, hogs are likely to have difficulty in breathing and show little interest in eating in the morning and after sundown.

Research by the U. S. Department of Agriculture indicates that an effective way of keeping pigs cool is to install a shower or sprinkler where the pigs can move in and out of it at will. Three pinpoint nozzles using as little as 2 1/2 gallons of water per hour per nozzle will supply a fine mist sufficient to keep a pen of 40 to 50 pigs cool all day.

Researchers have found that a cooling spray is an especially good management practice to use with pigs raised on concrete. The spray cools the concrete as well as the pigs.

A sprinkler can be used for pigs on pasture as well. A portable shade with sprinkler moved from one part of the field to another on successive days will avoid development of mud holes. Sprinklers are recommended only at temperatures above 75 degrees, the agent adds.

Other less expensive ways to keep hogs cool include: providing artificial shade, including plenty of salt in the ration, keeping watering devices full, and placing feeders in the shade.

Vapaa says plans for building artificial shades are available free of charge from the county extension office in the Dover Postoffice, telephone 736-1448.

New Chemical Fights Weeds In Legumes

Scientists have put the B on 2,4-D. A new chemical closely related to the old standard 2,4-D is now available to help farmers in their fight against weeds. It's called 2,4-DB (the B is for butyric acid).

Farmers know what 2,4-D will do to pigweed and dock. They also know it will kill such plants as alfalfa, red clover and ladino. According to W. H. Mitchell, University of Delaware agronomist, 2,4-DB can be used on any of these legumes and other pasture crops without injuring them. It will, however, control many of the weeds prevalent in these crops.

2,4-DB has recently been cleared by the U. S. Department of Agriculture on a no-residue basis. This means it must be used 30 days prior to grazing or harvesting of a forage crop.

Research at the University of Delaware, indicates it is effective against such common weeds as dock, ragweed, lambs quarter, pigweed and thistle. It is not effective, however, in controlling garlic.

Pasture and hay growers will find 2,4-DB useful in establishing alfalfa and pastures. It can also be used to control weeds in spring seeding of hay and pasture crops.

2,4-DB gets its effectiveness from the 2,4-D part of the chemical formulation. An enzyme contained in certain broadleaf weeds changes the harmless 2,4-DB to the highly active 2,4-D. Alfalfa and certain clovers do not have the enzyme mechanism for changing 2,4-DB to 2,4-D and are thus unharmed by the new chemical.

Mitchell says additional information about this new weed killer may be obtained by contacting your county extension agent.

Topdressing Legumes

With the emphasis that's been put on early cutting of forage for dairy cattle, many farmers tend to forget that cutting isn't the end of the story. George Vapaa, Kent County agent recommends topdressing after cutting legumes.

Topdressing is especially necessary with the newer recommended varieties for a top yield, he says. These varieties of alfalfa use large amounts of nutrients from the soil, and topdressing helps to replace them.

The best way to know how much fertilizer is needed is with a recent soil test. If you notice the yellow spots on the leaves that indicate your soil is short of potassium, then a good application of fertilizer is already overdue. Vapaa suggests the use of 0-10-30 at a rate of about 600 pounds per acre on most soils. You may want to use 300 pounds now and 300 pounds later in the year, he adds.

One more point. Don't try to save money by using manure on a good stand of alfalfa. Manure is a good fertilizer, but it supplies nitrogen to the soil and stimulates the growth of grasses. These grasses will then grow and crowd out the alfalfa.

Willie and The Termite Exterminators

This is the story of Willie the termite. Willie lived in a comfortable termite colony with his mother and father and a lot of other termites. The colony was located in the ground near an old garage in the low rent section of town. Each day he traveled through tunnels in the ground into woodwork of the old garage searching for food. Since his main source of food was the cellulose in the wood, Willie had to travel up into the timbers for his meals, then back into the soil for water.

One day when Willie approached adolescence, his mother called him aside in the time-honored - custom to explain to him about the birds, bees and the termites. She told Willie the difference between soldier termites, worker termites (the small white ones) and reproductive termites. Willie was a reproductive termite. She particularly warned Willie not to get mixed up with a group of flying ants that live near by. "Although they look like termites from a distance," she said, "they are different." In the first place, flying ants have larger wings and an hour glass figure. And they don't eat wood as termites do.

As he grew older, the desire to meet a little girl termite became stronger. One day he joined a young group of termites who were planning to swarm.

Termites swarm in the spring and fall and pair up to start new colonies. In this way, the colonies avoid becoming overpopulated and the termite population is spread.

While they are swarming on an old stump not far from their own part of town, Willie met Gertrude. It was love at first sight and they immediately set out to find a home of their own. They burrowed into the ground near an old house and started housekeeping.

So a new colony of termites was started. As it grew, tunnels were extended into the woodwork of the house as the worker termites searched for food.

Willie was half through lunch one day when a turmoil started which almost proved his undoing. Seems the owner of the dwelling had decided on a routine termite inspection. A man from the local termite company came out and began a detailed inspection of the property. With a sharp pointed knife, he probed into the woodwork of the supporting beams and flooring and into the joists. He searched along the concrete walls for mud tubes which are commonly found where termites are working and around a leaky water pipe where moisture had accumulated on the wall. As luck would have it, he found several places where termite damage had occurred.

In a few days, two trucks carrying a variety of pumps, hoses, drills and cans of foul smelling liquid arrived on the scene. The man that had done the inspection was back, and with him were several other men. They began poking shovels into the ground around the foundation. Before many of the worker termites could get back into the soil, drills had cut into the tunnels and an insecticide was being forced into the tunnels. Many of the termites were killed by the insecticide as they tried to escape. By evening, the trucks were gone and a complete termite-proof barrier of insecticides had been established around the house. The beams, joists and flooring had been treated and even the ground underneath the cement slab porch had received a generous dose. As Willie soon learned, the house was literally "termite-proof."

This wasn't the end of the story for our hero "Willie the Termite." Usually a complete termite control job will wipe out the entire colony. By some miracle, however, he and his mate and some of the workers managed to escape. With their usual source of food denied them, the termites went out in search of a new supply. Luckily they were able to find an old stump near the house.

This is where the story starts to repeat itself. As the colony grew, new swarms of termites went out to start colonies, thus infesting homes in new areas.

There are certain steps homeowners can take to insure this story isn't repeated in their home. 1) Have your home inspected for termites. 2) If there are termites, don't panic. They won't eat your house overnight. 3) Insist on a top professional job on control. In the Delaware area, make sure the operator is a member of the Delaware Pest Control Association. 4) Don't rush out and sell the house at a reduced price after the termites have been controlled. Such a dwelling is often worth more than a similar one where there has been no control once the damage has been repaired.

For more information on termites, write for the fact sheet Questions and Answers about Termites from the Mailing Room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark.

Delaware Food Market Report

Shoppers generally turn to quick-cooking cuts of meat during the summer, but you can expect to pay high prices for this convenience. Lamb, pork, and veal chops all reflect price increases whereas some beef steaks continue at earlier prices owing to fairly large supplies.

Whatever the price of meat you will see more displays of pork and beef cuts, especially for rotisserie cooking, such as boneless pork loins, blade ends, and rib roast. Fresh hams and picnics are gaining popularity for patio menus. Many meat counters are featuring special displays of steaks and hamburger patties for broiling. Some stores are even offering recipes and are making suggestions on new ways of serving many old beef favorites.

As far as supplies go for both pork and beef, there will be adequate amounts of each. Beef continues to be fairly abundant with prices relatively stable. Pork supplies are a bit higher than a year ago, the American Meat Institute estimates, but pork is on its seasonal climb as far as prices is concerned.

July is many things, Picnic Month, Vacation Month, etc. It is also National Hot Dog Month. Here is an idea for festive franks for a teen get-together. Fit a rotisserie wire basket on a spit and fill the basket with franks and sausage. Because the meat needs no watching, there is all the fun of party eating without the work.

Turkey and broilers are good choices for summer meals, particularly if you are seeking economy. Turkeys are abundant and continue to sell at last fall's low price. Consider broilers for barbecuing. These young tender birds are meaty and are in heavy supply with prices typically low for summer.

Vegetable supplies are much better as more varieties and better quality reach our local markets. Near-by greens, both cooking and salad types, are in good supply. Also lettuce, corn, radishes, cucumbers, green onions, snapbeans, cabbage, carrots and beets are in good supply. Italian type green squash and yellow squashes and new potatoes are also excellent choices.

Southern peaches and western cantaloupes are leading fruit choices this week. Other good selections are blueberries, watermelons, Valencia oranges, limes, mangoes and bananas.

Plan Your Packing For Overnight Or A Month

Whether you are planning an overnight visit with Aunt Ethel or for a month at camp, there are certain rules you should observe when packing.

Miss Janet Reed, extension clothing specialist at the University of Delaware, says before you pack anything, make a list of everything you plan to take. This includes those often forgotten items like a mending kit, shoe polish, alarm clock and a gift for your hostess.

Observe these packing tips: 1. Wrap caps of spillables with cellophane tape; put these and other breakables in plastic bags. 2. Line belts along side of suitcase.

3. Pack in layers in the following order: bulky items on bottom; lingerie; accessories and blouses, dresses; nightwear on top. 4. Pin blouses to shirt cardboards to keep their shape.

5. Fold-in sweater sleeves; roll to prevent ridges.

6. Use tissue paper in shoulders, folds of dresses, suits.

7. Fold suit skirt lengthwise with bottom over edge of case. Place jacket on top of skirt with shoulders toward rear of bag, sleeves folded across jacket. Fold skirt end over jacket and bottom of jacket over skirt.

8. Tuck stockings in gloves to prevent snags; socks in shoes; shoes in shoebags, old socks or drizzle boots.

9. Put jewelry in flannel silverware bags to prevent scratches.

10. Your check list should be tucked inside your suitcase as a reminder not to leave anything behind.

U. of D. Library Honors Former Board President

Sixty-eight years ago, Hugh M. Morris was a Delaware College freshman who occasionally studied in a one-room library in Old College. The library housed less than 10,000 volumes, had no card catalog and received the part-time attention of Professor George A. Harter.

Several weeks ago, the University of Delaware's board of trustees announced that the new library under construction on the central campus would be named in honor of Morris, a Sussex Countyman whose stature and accomplishments as an individual have paralleled the growth and development of the university with which he has been so intimately associated for more than six decades.

Morris clearly recalls his early experiences in the Delaware College library.

"I visited it on one or two occasions," he said, "but it contained only a few government documents and old books of little interest to me. Both the Delta Phi Literary Society, of which I was a member, and the Athenaeum Society had much better collections in the East and West Wings of Old College. Those interested in novels and the humanities usually turned to these libraries rather than to the college collection."

After finishing his undergraduate work in 1898, Morris returned to the campus in the fall of that year for independent graduate study. In a humorous and paradoxical reflection for a man who became recognized as one of the most brilliant and respected members of the legal profession, Morris explained, "By that time the collection of books assembled by Professor Vallandigham was much improved and I took no formal classes, but simply read as much as I could. Dr. Purnell invited me to attend a series of lectures on law, but I refused because I thought he might also want me to take an examination on them."

Morris, a former federal judge, past president of the board of trustees and now its honorary counselor, has been one of those persons greatly responsible for the progress of the university in the 1900's. A faculty resolution, passed upon the occasion of his retirement from the presidency of the board in 1959, stated: "Under his stalwart leadership there came about far-reaching reorganization of the university that included the adoption of coeducation, the creation of new schools, and the recruitment of new faculty and administrators."

Another measure of his leadership was offered by his board colleagues, who said: "During his incumbency, great betterments of the university have come about. . . . There has been a five-fold increase in the number of students taught through on- or off-campus programs. Fields of instruction have been widened, with more intensive cultivation and consequent greater enrichment of the intellectual lives of those affected by the university. Its repute is more favorable and more widespread than ever before. . . . Perhaps his most monumental contribution has been his persuasion of others to dream, and then do, about the university."

President John A. Perkins said, "Judge Morris, I have been delighted to discover, is a leader who does not let one down. He seemingly has none of the human frailties either large or small which prevent most of us better selves. I have been fortunate in sharing with him a great mutual concern and responsibility — the thing about which he does care greatly—the University of Delaware."

Undoubtedly, Morris and his turn-of-the-century classmates were aware of the paucity of the library's holdings, the lack of a full-time librarian, the limited library hours and the struggles of the then small college to obtain a worthwhile, working collection of useful books and periodicals. Perhaps, even in those dreary circumstances, young Morris could dream of the future wellbeing of the university and of his contributions to it.

But whatever his thoughts, it is fitting, indeed, that the new library, with its 119,000 square feet of floor space, its 650,000-book capacity, its reference rooms, open stacks, music room, audio-visual devices and competent, specialized staff, will bear the name of a man with a special interest in books, who has done so much to bring the University of Delaware to a position of eminence in all its undertakings.

TB Eradication Program To Be Set For Delaware

A nine-member committee, composed of representatives of both public and volunteer health agencies, is mapping out a program for the eradication of tuberculosis in Delaware.

The committee was appointed a year ago by Dr. Floyd I. Hudson, executive secretary of the State Board of Health, to analyze the report of the Arden House Conference and draft specific recommendations for Delaware.

This conference, held in Harriman, N. Y., brought together medical experts from all parts of the nation who drew up a general outline for an all-out effort to conquer TB. The conference suggested the formation of state groups to spearhead the program.

Delaware's committee, which has met throughout the past year has forwarded several recommendations to the State Board of Health for further consideration and possible adoption. The recommendations are:

(1) that a one-year study beginning January 1, 1962 be conducted to determine what percentage of persons with an x-ray reading of tuberculosis or suspected tuberculosis (who are not known to be under current supervision) have obtained a satisfactory report within six months after the ending of the initial screening examination;

(2) that a two year study beginning January 1, 1962, be conducted by the Health Units to determine what percentage of close contacts (to newly-discovered cases of active tuberculosis of one calendar year) are examined either by a tuberculin skin test followed by a chest X-ray for reactors or initially by a chest X-ray by January 31 of the following year;

(3) that a study be conducted by the Health Units beginning January 1, 1962, to determine what percentage of newly reported cases with positive bacteriological findings be converted to negative bacteriological status within six months;

(4) that when discharging a pre-school child, who is tuberculin positive from continued clinic visits, a form letter be sent to the parents to the effect that the child is not likely to develop a reinfection of tuberculosis until he reaches adolescence. He should then return for re-examination. Adolescence was set at 15 years of age, and the person to be followed until age 25;

(5) that the State Board of Health compile a statement at the top of their Bi-Weekly Morbidity Report to the effect that general practitioners, pediatricians, should routinely skin test infants at six months of age and every six months to one year thereafter; and (6) a study has begun at the Well Child Conference in Wilmington of routinely skin testing children on an annual basis after six months of age. It is recommended that this procedure be carried out in one of the weekly Well Child Conferences in Kent County.

Members of the Committee are Dr. Edward F. Gliwa, chairman, health officer of New Castle County; Dr. Maynard Mires, health officer of Kent County; Dr. Nathaniel Young, medical director of the Emily P. Bissell Hospital; W. C. Anderson, executive director of the Emily Bissell Hospital; Mrs. Eleanor Belfint, nursing supervisor for Wilmington; Mrs. Mary M. Klaes, director of public health nursing of New Castle County; Mrs. Lillian Wagner, supervising nurse, Kent County; and Frank F. Pierson, Jr., executive secretary of the Delaware Tuberculosis and Health Society.

It Takes Two To Fall

Sometimes it takes two to make a fall. How can that be? It's very easy. Just go off and leave a pail on a stair or some other unexpected place while you're cleaning the house. Mops, brushes, and rags are good booby traps, too. Garden tools, paint buckets, bicycles, wagons, and lawn mowers add to the list. It all goes to show that accidents don't just happen. They are caused by two people. Try to keep your house free of these booby traps.

Food Expenditures Up

Consumer expenditures for food in the first quarter of 1962 were up about two percent over the last three months of 1961, and were over four percent higher than a year earlier. Expenditures for 1962 may total three to four percent above 1961.

Farm Field Day Is August 1

Farmers who want the latest research results in the production of field and vegetable crops and fruit, should circle Wednesday, August 1 on their calendars. That's the date of this year's Annual Farm Field Day at the University of Delaware substation division farm at Georgetown.

Key feature of the day will be bus tours of vegetable, fruit and field crop experimental plots and inspection of U D broiler rearing facilities. Visitors will have an opportunity to talk with scientists in charge of the experiments and to ask questions on all aspects of efficient and profitable farm production. The women's program will feature taste-tests of new varieties of fruits and vegetables as well as prize-winning 4-H demonstrations.

A special highlight this year will be a "Clinic for Sick Plants." The clinic will aid farmers in diagnosing plant problems caused by insects, diseases, soil fertility levels, poor varieties, weeds and other factors contributing to low yields or poor quality. Farmers are invited to bring "sick" plants to the Field Day for diagnosis and advice on correcting the problem.

Other attractions will include a luncheon featuring fried "Delmarvalous" chicken and educational exhibits on a variety of subjects of interest to farmers, homemakers and the general public.

Poultry Prices

Broilers and fryers enjoyed a good demand on the New York live poultry market during the past week according to USDA reports. On the Delmarva Peninsula, demand for ready-to-cook broiler-fryers fluctuated from slow to good. Live supplies were moderately heavy. Prices were down about one half cent compared to the previous week.

Veterans News

Basic family documents such as births certificates should be carefully kept where they are readily available, Leon Fields, Manager of the Wilmington Veterans Administration Regional Office, today advised veterans and their dependents.

These documents are needed to support claims for veteran benefits, Mr. Feilds explained. Included among these essential records are military discharge papers, death certificates, divorce decrees, and guardianship or child custody evidence.

The basic records are needed to support claims for disability or death compensation and pension, veteran burial benefits, and similar claims, Mr. Field said.

The records should be in the possession of whoever makes the claim at any VA Regional Office, the VA added, so that the claim may be properly presented after the first visit to the VA Contact Representative.

U.S. Forest Service Has A Camping Booklet For You

A new camping booklet has been issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture to give people information on some of the 5,200 camp and picnic grounds in our National Forests.

The booklet, "Camping the National Forests — America's Playgrounds," covers the pleasures of outdoor camping. Basic rules for camping are outlined, and campers are cautioned to be careful with fire, and to leave camp and picnic grounds clean.

The booklet points out that every transcontinental highway in the country passes close to camp grounds in one or more of the 154 national forests and 18 national grasslands. The campgrounds offer a variety in size and setting, and may be located high on a mountain pass, beside a lake, or in the heart of a desert.

Every national forest campground meets certain minimum standards, and these are listed and discussed in the booklet so the novice camper may know what to bring and what is furnished.

The booklet gives special tips to the backpacker who likes to leave the beaten track and make camp where the day ends. At many campgrounds, USDA's Forest Service has self-guide nature trails, campfire programs, and ranger-led hikes—all designed to make the stay of the camper interesting and pleasant.

A copy of the booklet may be obtained from the Forest Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

Sharp, deceased, and George (Dutch) Swain, also deceased.

Ponies are 1, 1, 1, In Three Starts

Ted Layton's Harrington Pony League team has had three outings since the last report and wound up with a win, a loss and a tie. All three games were close with two going into extra innings.

At Greenwood last Thursday, Breeding of the host club and French of Harrington had the hitters baffled with each team getting only three hits. Some of these were questionable.

Richard Black hit a hot shot that got away from a couple of would be tacklers and circled the bases before the ball could be retrieved. Harrington added singletons in the fourth and sixth innings to go into the seventh with a 3-0 lead.

Greenwood did not get a hit until the fourth. After six scoreless innings they tied the score in the seventh with three runs on one hit.

Harrington scored four times in the extra inning, and Greenwood tallied one for a final count of Harrington 7, Greenwood 4.

Tom Simpler and Don Minner hit safely for the winners. Schultze, H. Retzlaff and R. Breeding entered the hit column for the losers.

Harrington 010 101 04-7
Greenwood 000 000 31-4

Saturday afternoon Georgetown got revenge for a 7-2 lopsided defeat administered by the locals last week. The Sussex Countians scored several times in the first inning and were in command all the way except for the seventh when a Harrington rally accounted for three runs. The late surge finally ended with the tying run at the plate. The final score was 8 to 5.

Monday afternoon the league leaders from Felton came here and were one inning away from defeat as the locals were ahead 4-2 entering the seventh. At this point the home team's defense crumbled and Felton tallied four times on one lonely bingle.

Harrington came back to tie things up as Myer walked, Motter doubled, Black beat out an infield single and Motter came home on an attempt to flag the speedy Black at second on a successful steal. The game was called on account of darkness after nine innings with the score tied at 6-6.

Earlier Felton had taken a 1-0 lead. Glen Smith drew a walk from pitching rival Ron Walters to start a local push.

Later Ellis Myer singled him home. Steve Motter was hit by a pitch, Ronnie French got only a piece of the ball but the husky right fielder scored both runners with a long double.

Myer later got life on an error, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch to give his team a 4-1 lead.

Felton added a run on a single by Will Dill and a triple by Dave Dill.

Harrington outthit their rivals 9-6 but committed 7 errors. Both Smith and Walters pitched well as did relief hurlers W. Dill and French.

The Pony League All-Star game will be played Saturday night under the lights at Seaford's fine baseball field. Starting time is 8 p. m. Harrington and Felton will play with the North all-stars against players from the loop's southern clubs.

Local boys chosen for this contest are Rennie French, Ellis Myer, Tom Simpler, Glen Smith, Richard Black, Donnie Sam Knox and Steve Motter.

"Sports Odds And Ends"

Coach B. Norman Hopkins' girl softball team won and lost in two games with the Burrsville ladies team. Friday night at Burrsville the host team was edged 12-11. Burrsville was a 20-11 victor in a contest played at Harrington on Monday night. Bob Collins, Sr. coaches the winners' nine.

Bob Smith continued his relentless assault against the stop watch as he ran the mile in 4:52 at Baynard Stadium, Wilmington on Thursday night. The local lad appears to be the best 14-year-old distance prospect in Delaware at present. His best previous mile was 4:55 a week or two earlier. Smith trains almost every day and the results show it. The only high school runner in Kent and Sussex Counties to beat 4:52 this spring was John Hollis of Seaford and he was graduated.

For the fourth straight year the Delaware State Fair will hold a three-mile foot race. Wes Stack of Seaford and the University of Delaware won the first three. Most of the top distance running talent of this state has been on display here as the lads vie for the handsome engraved trophies.

Last year a race for 15 and under at a distance of 1 1/2 miles proved to be a crowd-pleasing, closely contested affair. Randy Jernigan of Elsmere, 1961 junior high half mile state champion, came from behind in the last few yards to nose 13-year-old Bob Smith of Harrington.

Saturday night at 8 p. m. the Kent-Sussex Pony League All-Star game will be played at Seaford. Seven Harrington boys are on the North All-Star squad which will oppose the South All-stars.

Little League News

Jack Redden's Lions pulled into a first place tie with Bob Haley's Moose nine by defeating the latter 4-2 on Thursday night. Each manager used his son on the mound in the key game for both clubs.

The Legion defeated the Rotary last Wednesday behind Mike Adams and Gail McReynolds. Monday night the Moose edged the Legion 6-5. Bullock and Haley pitched for the winners. McReynolds was the loser.

Tuesday night the Lions stopped the Rotary by a score of 15-7. The Rotary had one bad inning in which the Lions scored nine times. Otherwise the losers played well.

NAVYMAN SHOWS TRACK PROMISE

A young man named Hiram Carroll once held the World's Juvenile Record for the 440-yard dash. He was a sophomore attending Albuquerque, N.M., High School, when he turned in a record time of 47.8 seconds. As a junior, he held the National High School record for the 440 with a 47.1. A pulled muscle in his senior year kept him from possibly improving his record. Now, he's a seaman apprentice running for the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif. In the recent Mount San Antonio Relays he placed second in the 440 with a time of 47.1, matching his pre-injury time, with good prospects of improving it.

1st Lt. Eric J. Coady, USMCR, son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Coady, of Harrington, is serving with Marine Helicopter Squadron 163, which will depart Santa Ana, Calif., in mid-July for a 13-month tour of duty in the Far East. The squadron, a unit of the Third Marine Aircraft Wing, is based at the El Toro Marine Corps Air Facility. It will join the First Air Wing at Iwakuni, Japan. The squadron's duties in the Far East will be to support units of the Marine Corps on Okinawa in their field training exercises.

"Premature Burial" and "Night Creatures" at Reese July 8-9

If one is looking for a hilarious time, drenched with joy and laughter, it would add much to the joy of living, if the entire family came to see MGM's laugh-provoking hit, "Horizontal Lieutenant" with Jim Hutton, Paula Prentiss, and Jack Carter, at the Reese Theatre this Fri. and Sat., July 6 and 7. Added to this splash of mirth is Columbia's new Polly Bergen hit "Belle Sommers."

Can you take it? We doubt it very much, as two of the most weird "coffin to the grave" horror chillers ever presented is on the agenda for presentation Sunday and Monday, July 8 and 9. Ray Milland is the star of Edgar Allen Poe's "Premature Burial," the first of the chiller-dillers, followed by Peter Cushing in all of things, "Night Creatures." Graveyard prowlers better beware. It's graveyard orgy plus a ghost convention all rolled into one. One need not suggest an escort should be available to hold your hand. Those with heart trouble should stay away. No one allowed to enter or leave the theatre during the last ten minutes.

Of interest to the Little League and Pony League Baseball fans, is the coming of Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle in "Safe At Home," Fri. and Sat., July 13 and 14.

Veterans News

Questions and Answers

Q — My regular non-government pension is to be increased by $15 per month. In view of the possibility that the increase might make me ineligible to receive my veterans pension, may I refuse the increase and remain eligible for my VA pension?

A — No. Your refusal to accept the monthly increase in your pension would constitute a waiver. Since such a waiver is not authorized by Federal statute, the additional $15 must be counted as income for pension purposes.

Q — What is the eligibility requirement for a veteran to receive a physical examination from the VA?

A — He must need the medical examination in connection with applying for certain benefits such as VA compensation, life insurance, or hospital or domiciliary care and he must be discharged or retired under conditions other than dishonorable.

Q — How can a veteran's former wife get his insurance benefits after he dies when he had a later wife who gets nothing? I know that this occurred.

A — The veteran evidently had named his earlier wife as his insurance beneficiary and did not change either because (a) he intended for her to get insurance benefits or (b) he forgot to change the designation of his beneficiary to his later wife. The VA is required by law to pay insurance benefits to the designated beneficiary.

HIGHLANDER STARS IN KILTS AND PIPES

If you come alongside the tank landing ship U.S.S. Dodge County (LST-227), you may see a sailor in kilts playing a bagpipe. He's Andrew R. Connell, engineer third class, who has a special sea detail of his own. Until 1957, Connell's home was Paisley, Scotland, where he worked at the Lobnitz Shipyard. His first stop on leaving his native land was Canada where he spent three months furthering his skill with the bagpipes, an instrument he first learned while in the Scottish Boy Scouts. He joined the Navy in Salt Lake City, Utah. Connell wears the kilt of the First Commandos of Lovat's Scouts of World War I. Asked what he wears under the kilts, Connell cited the Queen's regulations which state: "Nothing."

Washing Eggs

Washing is one of the easiest and quickest ways to clean eggs, but it has to be done right to satisfy buyers. Many consumers have been confronted with eggs that were improperly washed and so they object to any kind of washing to clean eggs. Farm washing of eggs can be effective if the proper detergent, correct water temperature and care of the washer are followed.
