

Everett W. Hall Holds Record As School Bus Driver

(Missed Only 3 1/2 days in 35 years)

Everett W. Hall was born in Kent County near Wyoming on March 23, 1892, the son of Theodore and Mary Hall. He married Georgia Kimmey and moved to Harrington in 1916, where he became known as the "Village Blacksmith". As time went on he expanded his shop in order to serve this rural community as a machinist, repairing automobiles and farm machinery.

Then came the era in which the public became conscious of the need for a better public educational system. The "Little Red School House," which had adequately served Delaware's rural communities was truly on the way out. Small school districts began to consolidate with the village and towns.

Mr. Hall again saw the need for a community service. In 1927, he bought a Model T Ford truck chassis on which he built a small bus body. He probably had no idea that this was to be the beginning of a long career in which he would attain a record worthy of public notice.

Everett, as he is locally known, drove his bus for the last time on June 8, 1962, and was still as conscientious and alert as ever, but the State Board of Education has a rule that a person cannot drive a school bus while transporting children after they have reached the age of 70 years, so Everett graciously retired after 35 years as a school bus driver in the Harrington Special School District. Only 3 1/2 days during that time was he absent from the driver's seat, a record that seems almost incredible. In addition to building four of the five bus bodies that he has owned, he has built school bus bodies for several others, including one for use in the Dover Special School District as late as 1942, when it was impossible to buy a manufactured body.

It is estimated that he has driven his five buses nearly 250,000 miles on his school route and transported an average of 40 children each day without an accident or an injury to any child. This is another record for which the parents of several hundred school children can be thankful.

Mr. Hall lives at No. 6 Milby Street in Harrington, with his wife. They had two daughters, Mrs. Thelma Marvel (deceased) and Mrs. Doris Exley, wife of State Representative George H. Exley. Mrs. Exley is a nurse at the duPont de Nemours nylon plant at Seaford.

4-H Leaders Are Club Week's "Indian Chiefs"

"State 4-H Club Week is a time of friendship and education, a time of reflection of past accomplishments and evaluation of future goals, a time of independence and doing for others."

That's what six outstanding 4-H leaders at this year's 40th annual occasion have to say about "Maryland's most prominent 4-H event."

They are participating as nation and assistant nation chiefs in the American Indian custom, unique at Maryland's Club Week.

The purpose of the Indian tradition in which each of the 1200 4-Hers here is assigned to one of 24 tribes in the Algonquin and Iroquois Nations is to add "spirit and organization" to Club Week. Twelve to 14-year-olds are scouts while older 4-Hers are Eagles.

Keeping Club Week running smoothly, competitively and compatibly are: Algonquin Nation Chief Bob Smariga, Frederick County; Iroquois Nation Chief Margaret Nicholson, Frederick County; assistant Algonquin Nation Chiefs Rose Hahn, Carroll County and Ronnie Kefauver, Harford County, and assistant Iroquois Nation Chiefs Mary Lou Cox, Baltimore County and David Greene, Harford County, as well as 24 tribe leaders.

Bob Smariga and David Greene were two of this year's delegates to the National 4-H Conference, Washington, D. C. Both are students at the University of Maryland with Bob 21, majoring in agriculture economics and David 20, majoring in entomology while serving as 4-H Collegiate Club President.

Reapportionment Dismissal Motion Is Denied

A three-judge federal court panel Tuesday denied motions to dismiss the Delaware reapportionment suit, opening the way for trial of the case.

Plaintiffs will ask the U. S. District Court to set the trial date as soon as possible.

Vincent A. Thiesen and Victor F. Battaglia, attorneys for seven New Castle County residents who seek General Assembly redistricting, are preparing to submit a formal request to that effect.

Lawyers representing five sets of defendants have until Aug. 17 to file answers. The time table makes it unlikely that a trial could start before the Aug. 18 primary elections.

Thiesen, who is taking time from his two-week vacation to work on the case, said he thinks "there's every possibility in the world" that the court will enjoin the Nov. 6 general elections.

In other action Tuesday, the defense requested a further stay of proceedings and the seven Superior Court judges who are named as defendants filed their response.

Defense lawyers representing 43 state and county officials concerned with elections asked the court to delay action until Feb. 16 next year.

By that time, the defense said, a new General Assembly will be in session and will probably complete reapportioning of itself by amending the state constitution.

The court was reminded that during a previous two-week postponement which ended Tuesday, legislators approved a reapportionment amendment which requires favorable action at the next session before it can be enacted.

The judges, who sit as a board of canvass after elections are held, said in their answer they are declining to take a position on the merits of the suit but will continue to discharge their duties "unless restrained by a lawful order of this court."

The answer is similar to one previously filed by Chancellor Collins J. Seitz, who is also a canvass board member and a defendant.

The defense had sought to have the judges dropped as parties to the suit, contending their functions are purely "ministerial."

The Federal judges ruled the state judges are "proper, if not necessary parties . . ."

Defendants who have yet to file answers are clerks of the peace and departments of elections of Kent and Sussex Counties and Ernest E. Killen, state election commissioner.

Mabel V. Roman, New Castle County clerk of the peace, and the county elections department, both defended by Frank O'Donnell, have already filed answers.

The case is being heard by Chief Judge John Biggs, Jr., of the 3rd U. S. Judicial Circuit and Chief Judge Caleb M. Wright and Judge Caleb R. Layton of the District Court here.

They ruled Tuesday they would accept jurisdiction of the case, which alleges present legislative apportionment "offends" voting rights under the 14th Amendment to the Constitution.

They declined to look into measures for relief at this stage. The court also found the complaint outlined the cause of action "with sufficient clarity and definiteness" to require the defendants to answer.

The plaintiffs have asked an injunction against the Nov. 6 elections, a declaration that the present system of apportionment is unconstitutional and an order for reapportionment of both representative and senatorial districts on the basis of population.

As an alternative, an election on an at-large basis is requested.

Gasel Tent Meeting to Be at Greenwood

The Rev. and Mrs. J. G. Rimmer, of Milford, will be the evangelists at the annual gasel tent meeting held in Greenwood, under the auspices of the Pilgrim Holiness Church, Aug. 8-19. Services are held nightly at 7:30 and on Sunday 10 a.m., 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. Mrs. Rimmer will be in charge of the singing and will conduct youth services nightly at 7 o'clock. The tent is located on First Street, one block north of Market Street.

Farmington 4-H Club To Have Picnic

Farmington 4-H Club will hold a family picnic at Lewes Beach, Saturday, Aug. 11. All interested should meet at Farmington Fire House at 11 a.m. Saturday morning. Each member should furnish own lunch and transportation.

TO TOUR EUROPE—Harvey H. Passwaters Jr., four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey H. Passwaters, Harrington, will go to New York on August 16 to board the ocean liner, the Vulcania, and accompany his grandmother, Mrs. Santa Orlando, of Reading, Pa., on a three-month tour of Europe. During his travels, Harvey Jr., will visit Italy, Germany, and Switzerland, spending several weeks in Rome, and some time in Berlin. The Vulcania will make various stops including Boston, Lisbon, Gibraltar, Genoa, and Naples before arriving at Palermo, Italy. For here, the pair will continue their travels by rail. They will return to New York on Dec. 6.

Jaycees Sponsor Car Wash

The Harrington Jaycees are sponsoring a car wash project to be held Saturday, August 18, from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the Texaco Service Center (on U. S. Route 13, across from Bond Bread Co.).

Tickets can be purchased from the Jaycees or at the Rob-Wan Shop in Quillen's Shopping Center. Each ticket (1.25) entitles the purchaser to one car wash or its value in gasoline, oil, etc. A prize of 50 gallons of gasoline will be given away.

Vince Lobo is the chairman of this project. All proceeds received from this project will be used by the Jaycees in their community projects.

June Motor Fuel Tax Receipts Show Increase

For the second month in succession receipts from motor fuel taxes in this state exceeded a million dollars when the collections for the month of June totaled $1,108,101.

The receipts for June, which were received during July, were $46,765.17 more than the receipts for the month of May, which was the first month to exceed a million dollars in revenue.

The June receipts were also an increase of $135,820.67 over the amount received for the same month of last year, and the increase was not all caused by the increase of one cent in the gas tax which became effective in December.

The report on the Motor Fuel Tax collections as prepared for James J. Deputy, controller of the State Highway Department, by Charles F. Hudson, director of the Motor Fuel Tax Division, revealed that the tax collected during June covered the sale of 18,469,250 gallons of motor fuel, which is an increase of 3,014,343 gallons over the amount sold during June of last year.

The report indicated that during June there were 77 concerns in this state bonded as distributors of Motor Fuel and of this number 24 reported no sales for the month.

On the other hand, 4 concerns reported sales that accounted for $558,244.55, or about 50 per cent of the taxes collected. These concerns, with the amount of taxes paid by each, were: Humble Oil and Refining Co., $242,285.33; Atlantic Refining Co., $119,382.84; Gulf Oil Corp., $113,293.34 and Sun Oil Co., $83,783.04.

Reassess It Yourself, Says Paskey

A member of the Kent County Levy Court has taken a stand against reassessment of property in the county at this time.

But if reassessment is to be carried out, Walter J. Paskey Jr., Harrington Democrat, said, county assessors and not an outside assessment company should do the job.

A representative of a private assessment firm has talked with the Levy Court about reassessing properties in the county, and quoted a cost of $150,000 for assessing 27,000 properties.

Paskey said he believes the cost should run as high as $200,000, all "coming out of the taxpayers' pockets."

If there is to be a reassessment, Paskey said, "the assessors we appoint can do the same job if they'll just do it."

The problem, he said, is that local assessors, being close to the people, don't assess many properties as high as they should be assessed.

Youth Charged With Vandalism At Fairgrounds

A 17-year-old Bridgeville boy was arrested Tuesday for going on a wild orgy of vandalism and thievery at the Harrington fairgrounds.

The arrest of a second Bridgeville boy of the same age was imminent.

Police said that the pair invaded the fairgrounds on the night of August 1 and:

Went for harum - scarum rambles around the racetrack in a truck and tractor;

Climbed to the top of the water tower and opened some doors on the water tank;

Broke into the judges booth in the grandstand and threw out several electric fans, radios, and pieces of announcing equipment;

Threw several grandstand chairs onto the track and busted them up;

Broke into the restaurant and swiped some knives;

And "raised general mayhem everywhere."

Police estimated the damage at $300. The arrested boy was taken before Magistrate Clarence E. Dyer in Harrington at 3 a. m. and placed under $500 bond for an appearance in family court in Dover.

The investigating officer in the case was Detective John Short of State Police Troop 5 at Bridgeville.

Wife Held In Mate's Pistol Death

A Sussex County woman is being held by state police in connection with the fatal shooting of her husband, at the couple's home Thursday night, Aug. 2.

Ashton Burke Lane, 49, of near Houston was shot in the upper chest with a .22 caliber pistol about 10:15 p.m., police said.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at Milford Memorial Hospital less than an hour.

Detectives are questioning Lane's wife, Sarah, 47, who they said was quarreling with her husband before the shooting. The pistol was kept in the house, police said.

The Lane home is about one and a half miles west of Houston on Route 434. Sussex County Coroner Volle C. Gray is assisting in the investigation.

Delaware Coast Free of Jellyfish

Jellyfish are not a problem to swimmers at Delaware resorts.

Reports last weekend that the surf was full of the stinging menace were discounted Wednesday by officials at Rehoboth and Fenwick Island.

Although the jellyfish were along the shore no one reported being stung, and the nuisance has now left the area.

The beach patrol at Rehoboth said the jellyfish didn't deter weekend swimmers.

Edgar Ricards, a Fenwick Island town commissioner, said beaches there were now clear.

"I can't figure out where they came from," he said, "and it is unusual for them to be in our waters."

"But they're gone now anyway." The particular variety of jellyfish, Portuguese men-of-war, generally inhabit more southerly waters.

SAFETY AWARD—The Delaware Safety Council Award of Merit was presented to Everett W. Hall, of Harrington, for driving a school bus for thirty-five years without an accident. Participating in the official presentation at the annual summer meeting of the Delaware Safety Council at the Rehoboth Beach Country Club are, left to right: J. H. Tyler McConnell, President of the Delaware Safety Council; Senator Harvey Spicer, Vice President of the Delaware Safety Council for Sussex County; Mr. Hall, and Preston G. Eisenbrey, Superintendent of School Bus Transportation for the State Department of Public Instruction.

State VFW to Send Thirty to Parley

Delaware Veterans of Foreign Wars and the auxiliary will send about 30 delegates to the national convention in Minneapolis.

Heading the delegation will be State Commander Samuel A. Lynch of Wilmington and Auxiliary President, Mrs. Elizabeth Zaleski, Stanton.

Lynch announced this week that the following Delawareans will be on national convention committees; Charles A. Szymanski, Wilmington, by-laws and ritual procedure; James Rhind, Elmhurst, finance and internal organization; William A. Mazzetta, Wilmington, Americanism and community service; James C. Sullivan, Dover, national security and foreign affairs; Joseph A. Aikens, Wilmington, rehabilitation and welfare; Amos L. Lawrence, officers' reports, and Eugene B. Lewis, Wilmington, general resolutions.

Mrs. Zaleski announced that Past State President Sophie Kowalski, Wilmington, has been named to the national credentials committee; Mrs. Raymond Loose, Richardson Park, will be a candidate for the national council of administration and Past National President Gertrude Rhind, Elmhurst, will be a candidate for director of the VFW National Home, Eaton Rapids, Mich. Mrs. Rhind now serves in that capacity.

The Delaware delegates are to take part in the annual dinner of the VFW Eastern States Conference on Thursday, Aug. 16. The Auxiliary is expected to get a national citation for achieving 100 per cent of its membership goal in 1961-62, Mrs. Zaleski said.

Virgil Wilson Post and Auxiliary, Seaford, will be cited for third place in the national community service scrap book contest. The Seaford group finished 23rd among 180 contestants for community service honors. It achieved third place in the category for communities of 1,000 to 5,000 population.

The convention opens Sunday night with memorial services and a reception in honor of outgoing President Beulah Anderson of Denver. Many Delawareans will attend the distinguished guests banquet Monday night. Both the men and women will attend sessions Monday through Friday which will be addressed by national governmental and civic leaders.

Cooler, Drier Weather Due

Cooler and less humid weather is in prospect for the rest of the week.

Temperatures will average near or a few degrees below the normal of 86 high and 62 low for this time of year, the forecast says.

Skies will be mostly fair until Sunday or Monday when scattered showers are a possibility.

Complaints about the heat Tuesday were many, but actually the humidity was the culprit. Tuesday's high of 86 was 21 degrees below the record 107 for an Aug. 7 in Delaware, set in 1918. The humidity, however, was high all day.

Frederica Couple Married 50 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Sharp of David Street, Frederica, will observe their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday.

They will have an open house from 2 to 4 p.m. Mr. Sharp is a retired farmer of the Milford Neck section.

Chicken Festival Committees Honored

The committees who assisted in the Delmarva Chicken Festival here in June were honored with a dinner and dance Friday evening at the Shawnee Country Club, Milford, by the Delmarva Poultry Industry. Movies of the festival were shown.

Old Milford Days Celebration Set For Sept. 15-16

The 175th Anniversary Celebration of the founding of Milford, scheduled for the last two weeks of September, is expected to hasten the restoration of one of Delaware's most historic homes, the Parson Thorne Mansion. Parson Thorne and Joseph Oliver were the founders of the city (1787). The Thorne mansion, located at Silver Hill, Milford, was given to the Milford Historical Society by J. Richard Draper last December. Although the exterior of the mansion is well preserved, substantial expenditures will be necessary to restore the interior and to improve the condition of the whole property. The anniversary celebration offers an opportunity to focus attention on Milford's past and to raise funds for the desired restoration of a home that was very important in Milford's history.

The events planned by the historical society that are expected to raise part of the needed restoration funds are, "Old Milford Days" and the publication and sale of "A History of Milford," a comprehensive history of the Delaware city. "Old Milford Days," set for Saturday and Sunday, September 15th and 16th, will feature the opening of many of Milford's most historic homes and the society will sell tickets for this event. The history will be put on sale September 15th and will be sold throughout the fifteen day celebration. All proceeds from the sale of "Old Milford Days" tickets and the book will be used for the restoration of the mansion.

The full schedule of the 175th Anniversary celebration is: "Old Milford Days"—Saturday, September 15th, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Presentation of Parson Thorne Mansion—Saturday, September 22nd, 2:30 p.m.

Dedication of the new Milford City Hall—Saturday, September 29th, 2 p.m.

In addition to these events and the publication of the history merchants will display antiques and collections of interesting artifacts in their store windows, outdoor displays of old farm implements will be shown, and many local organizations are planning their own programs of commemoration of the anniversary.

Of the drivers involved in the accidents reported during the fiscal year 2,519 were from out of the state and 2,159 had no insurance. There were 3,206 persons injured in these accidents which was an increase of 107 over the number reported injured during the previous fiscal year.

Total damage resulting from the accidents reported during the fiscal year just closed was $3,224,590 which is $373,301 less than the total amount of damage reported for the previous fiscal year.

During the fiscal year there were 1,134 motorists who had their operational and registration privileges suspended in Delaware for failure to comply with the provisions of the Financial Responsibility Laws.

Get Slow Starters Ready for School

Even bright students may be slow starters when the new school term begins.

Their minds aren't tuned to education. They are still thinking about swimming, vacation trips, and all the wonderful things they did during the summer.

Often the first semester is half over before they swing into action. By that time they are B or even C students when they should be getting A's.

Every child should be held to his highest potential every day of the school year. No excuse should be accepted for failing grades. Drastic punishment for poor work is not recommended, but there should be incentives for good work.

There are reasons for slow starts:

1. During summer vacation, young people use their large muscles in strenuous sports like rowing, hiking and swimming. Smaller muscles weaker from disuse.

Among these are the small hand muscles used in writing. When school starts children have difficulty controlling them.

It may take two or three weeks for the slow starter to loosen up his writing muscles. He will actually avoid written work until he is forced to do it.

2. Listening in class comes hard. Pupils find it difficult to think about history, mathematics, or science. It takes power to turn from the pleasant activities of summer to the study of school subjects.

Lightning Rods Can Save Trees

An agriculturist recommends that homeowners fortunate enough to have tall shade or ornamental trees in their yards should install lightning rods on them.

Each summer, disregard of such protection results in the loss of thousands of trees. Favorite victims are trees with their branches high in the air and their roots spread deeply in moist soil. Nearby buildings can be hit.

It sounds strange, but it's a safety precaution to consider.

Soil Studies Favor Present Bridge Site

Riverbed soil conditions for foundations to support a river crossing are less favorable in the Bombay Hook area than on the site of the Delaware Memorial Bridge.

This is the opinion, based on preliminary studies, of Howard, Needles, Tammen & Bergendoff, consulting engineers for the Interstate Highway Division.

A river crossing between Bombay Hook in Delaware and Sea Breeze, N. J., was proposed by Gov. Richard Hughes during his 1960 campaign as an alternative to construction of a twin bridge next to the present span.

Later the Interstate Highway Division and the New Jersey State Highway Department agreed to share the cost of $12,500 for determining the feasibility of Hughes' recommendation.

In a letter to William J. Miller Jr., director of operations for the Delaware State Highway Department who also serves on the Interstate Division, Ellis E. Paul of the engineering firm pointed up the need for additional soil studies.

The original agreement was made in April and on July 24 the directors of the Interstate Division agreed to share, also on a 50-50 basis, another $17,000 which will be required to obtain additional data.

Paul pointed out that, in the original study, the consulting engineers contacted state geologists in Delaware and New Jersey, the U. S. Geological Survey Office in Trenton, N. J., and the U. S. Corps of Engineers regarding bed soil conditions.

In support of additional studies, Paul explained that "reasonable allowable bearing values for preliminary foundation design purposes however cannot be determined from the information available."

The new studies will mostly consist of a sub-surface exploration at the Bombay-Sea Breeze site, including borings in the river and laboratory tests.

Paul estimates, with the use of one drilling rig, the job will take about three weeks.

Firemen's Report

The August meeting of the Harrington Volunteer Fire Company was held Monday evening with President Melvin Wyatt presiding. Thirty members were present.

Ambulance report for July—11 trips, 22 men in service, 13 hours in service, traveled 237 miles.

Fire recorder's report for July—6 alarms, all rural; 1 dwelling, 1 barn, 2 grass, 1 assist to Farmington Volunteer Fire Company; 1 rescue and electrical; 96 men in service, 140 1/2 hours in service, traveled 129 miles, loss $1750.

Paul Neeman and Doug Mills were appointed delegates to Delaware State Volunteer Firemen's Convention in Brandywine Hundred, Sept. 13-15, inclusive, with Alfred G. B. Mann and Curtis Melvin as alternates.

Delegates to Kent County Firemen's Association meeting at Houston Wednesday—Donald McKnatt, Burt Satterfield, and Melvin Wyatt.

The September meeting will be held Tues., the 4th, because of a holiday coming on Monday, the regular meeting night.

Develop Life Values Now, 4-Hers Learn

"To know where you are going in life, you must have perspective, philosophy, preparation, personality and perseverance," a Washington, D. C. family counselor told his teenage audience Aug. 7 at State 4-H Club Week, University of Maryland.

Advising the 4-H youths attending the 40th annual event to "build a better you" was Dr. Berkeley Charles Hathorne, counseling service, Foundry Church.

"To reach your destinations and goals," he said, "objectively look within yourselves and know your own gifts, endowments and abilities."

A philosophy to live by gives coherence to life. But Dr. Hathorne pointed out that those who live by the "iron rule philosophy"—do nothing for anyone—or the "brass rule philosophy"—do for others only when you will gain—rarely attain happiness.

"To live in peace and harmony with others, we must understand people and be in empathy toward them," Dr. Hathorne said in urging the 4-Hers to live according to "golden rule philosophy" (Continued on Page 4)

Importance of Agriculture Explained At Farm Field Day

The successful farmer of the future will be more of a businessman, using more of his working time for decision making. He will farm more land, keep more livestock or go into a more intensive system of one or the other. There will be fewer farmers producing all of our food and fiber and they will have larger investments.

Dr. W. E. Krauss, associate director of the Agricultural Experiment Station, Ohio State University, made these prophecies to a record crowd attending Farm Field Day at the University of Delaware substitution farm near Georgetown, last week (August 1). Speaking on the subject, "Research Will Govern the Future," he predicted sweeping changes in the face of rural America. "The rural community as we have known it will lose much of its identity. Already, there is a mingling of persons with varied backgrounds, interests, and occupations. Without careful planning, these communities can develop serious problems such as water supply, sewage disposal, street maintenance, and school financing." Krauss pointed out the need for research in these problems. "Through good planning based upon research facts, this marriage of cultures will produce a new urban culture stronger and better than its parents."

There are monumental frontiers in science to be reached, he pointed out. "It must never be forgotten that the secret of life and the secret of manufacture of food nutrients by plants have not been solved. Since all biological activities are related to these two basic processes, there is as much need for encouragement of research in life-building and life-preservation as there is in life-destruction even as a defense mechanism.

"We can be as fantastic as we wish in our thinking about future developments," he said. "In the future we can do something about the weather besides talk about it. We can look forward to methods that will release or prevent release of moisture from the atmosphere. And eventually there will be devices for destroying those atmospheric conditions that give birth to violent storms."

With ground and stored water supplies reaching a critical point and the demand increasing for irrigation water, water for industry and human consumption, Krauss indicated such things as prevention of evaporation from stored water supplies, conversion of sea water, and sewage waste will go beyond the realm of speculation and will be developed on a practical basis.

"With the need for even greater efficiency per man hour for both crop and livestock production, farmers can expect such fantastic things as remote controls of large farm machinery, the development of new fuels and power sources, including solar and atomic energy. Synthesis of food nutrients will be greatly accelerated when the basic food making process can be duplicated in the laboratory. Preservation of food by ionized radiation and antibiotics will change radically present processing, storing, packing, and marketing techniques."

Other revolutionary techniques outlined by Krauss include housing design and materials, push button devices for doing household chores, and new methods of transportation to speed the movement of perishable produce.

In summarizing his remarks, Krauss said, "The responsibilities of agriculture and agricultural research are as great and as much in the national interest as those concerned with nuclear and space sciences. If the same public interest were aroused and the same combination of public and private enterprises became effective, support for agricultural research would attain this same magnitude as that now being directed toward other areas of scientific endeavor."

Blood Spots In Eggs

Blood spots that are occasionally found in eggs are caused by the rupture of a blood vessel in the hen, says George Vapaa, Kent County agent. There are a lot of theories about the cause of this condition, but poultrymen at the University of Delaware have scientific advice.

A low supply of vitamin A in a laying ration may cause an increase in blood spots. This can usually be corrected by an adequate supply of vitamin A. Similarly, high energy rations may lead to more spots. A ration containing 16 to 18 per cent protein will usually give more blood spots than a 14 per cent ration. Vapaa reports that caged birds are more likely to lay spotted eggs than those raised on litter. The theory that fright produces spotted eggs has been disproved many times in tests.

An adequate diet and the selection of strains of birds that aren't predisposed to spotting can go a long way toward eliminating this problem, the agent says.

Farm Odds And Ends

Cool Hogs Make More Money

Research shows that hogs make most efficient gains when the temperature is about 65 degrees. If it gets to about 90 degrees, they will eat less and their feed conversion efficiency and daily gains will drop.

One of the best ways to keep your hogs cool is to sprinkle them. Se your sprinkler to spray large drops of water on the hogs about 1/2 minute out of every ten minutes. It's the evaporation that cools the hogs.

Farm Safety

Most people realize that a power lawn mower is a dangerous machine. Its blade can chop off a finger or hurl a stone and put the operator out of business. But there's more to lawn mower safety than keeping our fingers out of the blade. You can be badly burned by the hot engine. Pouring gas into a hot lawn mower can be disastrous. Remember that heat is just as hazardous as motion, and a serious burn can be just as bad as a lost finger.

Broiler Committee Terminated

Secretary Freeman announced last week that the Advisory Committee on Broilers, which was established on November 30, 1961, has been terminated. In making this announcement, the Secretary said the USDA does not plan to make any legislative proposals for the broiler industry at this time.

Don't Overfeed Dairy Heifers

Recent tests with identical twin heifers at the Tennessee Experiment Station show that heifers grow fast and fat when allowed to eat all the grain they want. But during their first lactation, the heifers so fed produced only 85 per cent as much as their leaner mates which had been raised on good roughage feeds. The Tennessee researchers says it is possible of course, to underfeed heifers. They found that very lean heifers which were not fed all of the roughage they wanted failed to milk as well as their twins given free access to good hay during growth. In fact, the latter gave eight per cent more milk, more than enough to pay for the extra hay they ate while growing.

Management Important in Swine Production

How do you rate as a swine producer? Your management skills will determine your profits. Here are a few rule-of-thumb ways to rate yourself: Do you wean as many as eight pigs per sow? Do you use less than 400 pounds of feed to produce one cwt. of pork? Are you following good sanitation practices? Are you holding down labor, medical and other costs? Is the meat you are marketing good quality.

4-H Service Group Reports

A million dollars was contributed last year by American business to further 4-H Club work throughout the 50 states, according to the 1961 annual report just released by the National 4-H Service Committee. The Chicago based educational non-profit group has been instrumental in obtaining private support for 4-H for more than 40 years. The funds are used to provide educational trips to the National 4-H Club Congress, scholarships, project literature, and other aids.

Southern States to Meet Aug. 16

Elections of Advisory Board and Farm Home Advisory Committee members, plus operations reports, will highlight the Southern States Cooperative annual membership meeting for the Harrington area Aug. 16 at Harrington High School Cafeteria.

William F. Parker of Harrington will serve as chairman of the local meeting. The Rev. Olin J. Shockey of Asbury Methodist Church will give the invocation. Group singing will be led by the Rev. Shockey, accompanied by Miss Candace Peck of Harrington.

A report on local operations and services will be given by Charles Peck, Jr., manager of Peck Brothers Farm Supply Company.

John A. Pitlick

John A. Pitlick, 85, a retired farmer, died Sunday in the Jarvis Nursing Home, Felton.

Husband of the late Julia E. Pitlick, they went to Felton in 1929 from Pittsburgh, Pa.

Survivors include a son, John J. Pitlick, Harrington; three grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Bertha Sezeles of South Norwalk, Conn.

Solemn requiem mass was offered Tuesday morning in Holy Cross Roman Catholic Church, Dover. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Rosary was recited at the Berry Funeral Home Monday night.

Sick Plant Clinic Beneficial to Farmers

A capacity crowd jammed the "Sick Plant Clinic" during Farm Field Day at the Georgetown Substation, Wednesday, (August 1), to learn causes and cures of a wide range of plant problems.

Dr. John Heuberger, extension plant pathologist at the University of Delaware, said nearly 300 persons brought over seventy varieties of plants and insects for examination by University of Delaware specialists.

The "Sick Plant Clinic", a first at Farm Field Day, was the most popular of the many exhibits. According to Heuberger, the plant clinic will become a regular feature at Farm Field Day. Most of those attending the field day emphasized the importance of this diagnostic work and, were happy to see the clinic in operation.

During the question and answer periods, specialists identified various disease, insect and environmental problems, giving control methods for them.

One of the most wide-spread problems the specialists found was controlling mites on lima beans. In addition, there were problems of soil deficiencies, control of Johnson Grass, recommendations for controlling black spot on roses and certain corn diseases. Other items which were discussed frequently were "rhizomania" and root rot of beans. There were a few symptoms on certain plants which the specialists were not familiar with. They were taken back to the university for further study.

As a result of the "Sick Plant Clinic," many Delaware farmers went home—knowing that some of their major problems could become minor ones, if the advice of the agricultural specialists was followed.

Take Special Care Of Camera During Summer

Summer is a time for taking lots of pictures—either of vacation scenery or of other family activities. Just like all precision equipment, your camera needs the right handling and care for good results, says George Vapaa, Kent County agent.

Keep your camera clean! Dust can ruin a picture and damage a delicate part of a camera. Special lens—cleaning tissue should be used outside and inside. When cleaning dust from the inside of the camera, a camel-hair brush is best—never use a handkerchief or similar material, you are apt to scratch the lens.

Remember that film will not keep forever. Note the date on the film box; film companies list information concerning the length of time you can expect the film to give good results.

Check the batteries on your flash attachment. If you have not used the attachment for several months, you probably need new batteries.

Don't carry your camera or films in the glove compartment of a car, Vapaa warns. This is the hottest place in the car and the heat can damage both camera and film. The trunk—the coolest part of a car—is the safest place to carry camera equipment.

Read carefully the instructions that come with your camera. Learn as much as you can about how your camera operates, the agent recommends. Check the film instructions, too. If your camera has a film indicator on the outside, set this each time you put in a new role of film so that you can tell at a glance what type of film you're using.

SBA Makes Loan To Dover Store

The Small Business Administration approved a regular business loan in the amount of $12,000 to Bowdles Stores in Delaware during the month of July, Edward N. Rosa, Regional Director of the Agency's Philadelphia office, announced Monday.

The company is located in Dover, Kent County, which is classified as Surplus Labor Area by the U. S. Department of Labor, and presently employs three people. SBA's regular business loans are made for the purpose of improving land and buildings, purchasing new equipment, replenishing working capital and debt payment.

Applications for a regular business loan may be made at SBA's Philadelphia office, located at 1015 Chestnut Street.

Work Quickly in Preparing Peaches For Freezer

Speed and small quantities are a must when preparing peaches for freezing, explains Katie Thomas, Kent County home demonstration agent. Peaches will turn dark quickly when exposed to air and will lose flavor if preparation is prolonged.

For best results, peel peaches with a knife rather than dipping them into hot water. This prevents a build-up of heat near the surface of the peach that may freeze their quality when frozen.

To prevent color change in peaches, Mrs. Thomas suggests adding ascorbic acid to the syrup used for freezing them. You can get ascorbic acid in grocery stores under various trade names. To use these products, follow the manufacturer's directions, she warns.

Use Care With Insecticides Urges County Agent

Dusting or spraying with insecticides promotes the growth of fruits and vegetables. It often has just the opposite effect on people—if used carelessly, reports George K. Vapaa, Kent County agent.

To be on the safe side, take special precautions when using fumigants. Never breathe the fumes, vapor or dust. If possible, pick a day when there is no wind. With some sprays and dusts, a safety mask is required.

Keep insecticides in the original containers, which give label directions and antidotes. Keep them out of reach of children. Follow directions for mixing, handling and spraying, Vapaa cautions. If you must spray on a windy day, spray with the wind, not against it. Wear adequate clothing to cover as much skin area as possible.

When you have finished spraying carefully wash your hands and other exposed parts of your body with soap and warm water. Before eating fruit or vegetables that have been sprayed or dusted, wash them thoroughly.

When packing fruit, leave space for expansion—1/2 inch for pints, one inch for quarts. Seal, label and place in freezer immediately. If this isn't possible, store in cold refrigerator until a group of packages can be placed in the freezer. Time in the refrigerator should not exceed three hours.

Delaware peach varieties especially good for freezing are Redhaven, Red Globe, Redskin, Halhaven and Hale Harrison Brilliant.

For more information on freezing peaches, ask for Bulletin 151, "Freezing Quality Foods," available in the home demonstration agent's office at Dover.

IF YOU ARE TAX-WEARY . . . or if you believe government should leave business to business men, you will want to read what follows.

The article appeared in the MARYLANDER and HERALD of Princess Anne, Md. on July 27, 1962. It is reprinted by Eastern Shore Public Service and Delaware Power & Light Co. with the kind permission of the editors of the paper.

HASH and REHASH

Back when I was but a small lad, my father wrote an editorial striking out at the then powerful machine that was controlling the politics of Somerset County. In rebuttal the opposing newspaper wrote an editorial entitled "The Little Dog Barked at the Moon." Never do I strike out at anything that seems far beyond my control that I don't think of that editorial.

In last week's newspaper appears an announcement that a newly formed Delaware Electric Cooperative will have its headquarters in Blades, Delaware and its purpose will be to generate and deliver electric energy to its three member cooperatives; Choptank Electric Cooperative, Delaware Electric Cooperative and Accomack-Norhampton Electric Cooperative. The electric energy is now being purchased from tax paying, investor-owned electric companies.

The purpose of this new step towards socialism is undoubtedly to obtain power at a lower cost than the "bulk rate" which they are now paying. It is reasonable to assume that the price being paid is fair, as profits by utility companies are regulated, generally so they can realize about 6% on their investments.

Of course the new REA co-op will obtain special privileges, not extended to the private owned plants, such as tax freedom and below-cost capital. In 1960, the four investor-owned electric companies in Kentucky paid 14 times as much in taxes as the TVA, 28 rural electric cooperatives, and 29 municipally-owned systems in Kentucky combined. The figures were $28 million for private utilities — $1.8 million for all the public outlets.

Back in the Roosevelt Administration the government established the Rural Electric Administration to do a job that was financially impossible for private enterprise — the extension of electric lines into the scarcely populated rural sections of the country.

This has been successfully accomplished to the delight of the farmers, the utility companies and the appliance manufacturers and their local dealers. THIS IS GOOD. It is, in my opinion, a duty of our government to step in where they can be of a service to the people of this country, and to step out when that service has reached the point where it can be taken care of by private enterprise.

There just wasn't enough private capital available in the world to harness nuclear energy but now that it has been harnessed, A T & T has shown the government the efficiency of private enterprise when they produced "Telstar".

REA has reached the point where they can take a hint from Greyhound—"Take a bus and leave the driving to us." Privately owned utilities, that is.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Trice, Jr., visited Ocean City last Sunday.

Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Maloney were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Blades, Mrs. Robert Lord, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. James Foxwell, Danny Towers, and Sharon Trice.

About 60 guests from New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Virginia, joined those from Maryland, to spend a very enjoyable afternoon at the re-union of the Adams family, held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Towers, last Sunday.

Buying Wash-and-Wear Cottons

Wash-and-wear summer cottons have won wide popularity during the past 10 years, according to Katie Thomas, Kent County home demonstration agent.

Research done at Cornell University suggests some guidelines. If you're looking specifically for easy care, select a wash-and-wear dress that has a gathered skirt and few frills.

Also pick out a garment that has set-in sleeves rather than those of kimono design. The resin that makes the fabric wash-and-wear also makes the material less resistant to tearing.

The higher priced garments tested took less care, wrinkled less during wearing, and looked better after repeated launderings.

Services were held Wednesday afternoon at the Berry Funeral Home, Felton, with interment in Lakeside Cemetery, Dover.

He is survived by his widow, Mary Elizabeth; one son, William L. Dover; one daughter, Mrs. Harry B. Raughley, Dover; two sisters, Mrs. Sallie Morris, Milford, and Mrs. Clayton Eiland, Seal Beach, Calif.; and one granddaughter, Joan C. Scott, Dover.

He had lived in Felton for many years.

He is survived by his widow, Orella E. Wilson, four brothers, Raymond and Woodrow of Wilmington, James of Harrington and Frank of Seaford; three sisters, Mrs. Olive Walters of Viola, Lelia Wilson and Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson, both of Wilmington, and four grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon in the Berry Funeral Home, Felton. Interment was at Hollywood Cemetery, in Harrington.

"Hatari" with John Wayne, Red Buttons, and a terrific cast. Undoubtedly, the giant attraction of the present day screen, Delaware and Maryland theatre fans will have the opportunity to see "Hatari" at the Reese Theatre, this Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday, Aug. 10-11-12-13, four exciting days.

Despite rumors to the contrary, "Hatari" will play Movie Center at no advance in prices.

It has always been the policy of the management to play the big hits as soon as possible. The comedy hit "Bon Voyage", produced by Walt Disney, was unexpectedly made available Aug. 16. In an effort to play this great attraction, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Aug. 16-17-18, the two pictures originally listed on program will play at a later date.

"Perserverance is the determination that helps us realize our goals, concluded Dr. Hathorne.

"We don't always do things that are worthwhile," he said. "We place too much emphasis on materialism. We must look at everything and pick the best, truest and purest, and model ourselves after that."

In another workshop, older 4-H members representing 23 counties were advised to "express themselves with ease" by L. Denton Crews, Jr., assistant speech instructor, University of Maryland.

Speech and communications have changed from oratory style to a natural approach, said Mr. Crews, because of the smaller group relationships that exist today. For example, the television commentator speaks directly to the individual in his home.

Drought Disaster Areas Eligible For SBA Loans

Small businesses located in the 49 counties in Pennsylvania which have been declared Drought Disaster Areas by the Secretary of Agriculture are eligible for loans from the Small Business Administration, Edward N. Rosa, Regional Director of SBA's Philadelphia office, announced today.

Businesses applying for loans under SBA's Drought Disaster Loan Program must be able to show substantial economic injury resulting from the disaster. The loans are made for the purpose of providing ordinary working capital, to replenish normal inventories or to pay financial obligations (except bank loans) which the borrower would have been able to meet had it not been for the loss of revenue resulting from the disaster condition. There is no statutory limit on the amount of these loans, and the terms are 3% interest on SBA's share and a maximum maturity of 20 years. Farmers and stockmen are not eligible for drought disaster loans from the Small Business Administration, but should apply instead to the Farmers Home Administration.

In a letter to Governor David L. Lawrence in July 1962, the Small Business Administration went on record as being "alert to the drought conditions" in the 22 counties which were then permitted partial Federal assistance, and acknowledged the possibility that more counties would be included. At that time, Mr. Rosa told Governor Lawrence that SBA was prepared to contact banks in the affected areas and provide them with the appropriate application forms if they agreed to act as SBA's representative in their communities. On July 30, 1962 SBA received authorization to accept and process applications under this program until December 31, 1963, and the agency is currently contacting these banks.

The Small Business Administration expects to complete arrangements with banks in the affected counties promptly. It is suggested that applicants contact their local banks for information, or they may apply at SBA's Philadelphia Regional Office at 1015 Chestnut Street, or the Pittsburgh Branch Office at 801 Fulton Building, 107 Sixth Street.

Delaware Food Market Report

Anyone who thinks the younger generation is not creative should watch a teenager build a sandwich.

There are more than 200 varieties and cold cuts says the American Meat Institute, and the teens seem to have a working knowledge of them all. This ability, if you turn it loose, can help prepare many an interesting meal.

Here's a for instance; between two slices of bread and interlaced with a surprising array of condiments a teen tower may contain bologna, salami, minced ham, pepperoni, pickle loaf, jellied corned beef, lettuce, tomatoes, pickles, many varieties of cheese and whatever may be left over from yesterday's roast.

Members of the soda set have found sandwiches eaten hot or cold an ideal means of providing protein, vitamins, and minerals in a form they like. Although Moms may wince at the unconventional combinations, she may be surprised at how good they are. With care they are not expensive either and there is almost no waste which helps keep within the budget.

Active fishing operations on the East Coast are bringing good supplies of many fish to market. Check the following when you shop—tuna, porgies, whiting, cod, mackerel, flounder and butterfish. This is a good year for bluefish and the season started early and supplies are still plentiful. Among shellfish, shop for hard and soft clams and hard crabs. Shrimp supplies are picking up now but prices are remaining fairly high. Crab meat remains expensive though supplies are quite good.

Many vegetables from nearby farms are at the markets in abundance. Prices are very reasonable also. Among the low cost vegetables are beets, carrots, cabbage, corn, eggplant, radishes, cucumbers, green onions and tomatoes. Many of the leafy green vegetables are economical such as lettuce, kale, endive, escerole, and spinach.

Cantaloupes, watermelons, and peaches continue rolling into market in great quantities. Prices are running lower than last year on both cantaloupes and watermelons.

Blueberries are beginning to taper off now and smaller supplies are bringing prices up four to six cents on a pint box. Concord grapes will soon be ripe and Dansans are already here.

Asbury Methodist Church Notes

Church School 10 a.m. Howard S. Wagner, superintendent, in charge. Asbury invites all to begin their Sabbath by attending one of our 22 classes and sharing in our study of God's word. We hope that from these studies new insight and inspiration for living the Christian life will be available. Beginning this Sunday, the Pathfinders will combine with the Builders class and other adults that desire to unite, under the leadership of the Rev. Shockley, and begin a serious study of questions that matter most to young adults and the doctrines and beliefs of the Methodist Church. The class is open to all. Morning Worship Service 11 a.m. conducted by the Rev. Shockley. A message entitled "What About Death" will be given. A solo will be sung by Mrs. Wm. Kramedas. A nursery for pre-school children will be provided.

Altar flowers will be presented in memory of the Rev. Edward Collins, a former minister of Asbury, by his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Collins.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—Has Congress passed the bill for World War I veterans' pensions?

A—Bills providing pensions for World War I veterans have been introduced in the current session of Congress but none as yet have been acted upon by either the House of the Senate. Of course, there is an over-all pension law that is administered by the VA.

Q—Does the VA provide homes for veterans who for one reason or another are penniless or incapable of earning a living.

A—There are domiciliaries for that purpose and entrance requirements are similar to entry into VA hospitals. Contact your nearest VA office.

Q—Where are the Veterans Affairs Offices of the State Department located?

A—To facilitate serving VA beneficiaries in certain foreign areas having unusually large concentrations of veterans and their beneficiaries, Veterans Affairs offices are maintained at the American embassies in London, Paris, Rome, and Mexico City and at the American consulate general in Frankfurt, Germany.

Historical Sketches

Historical Sketches of Christ Church, Milford, Founded in 1704

Written by the Rev. Joseph S. Hinks, retired pastor of Christ Church, Milford, in 1942.

After the death of the Rev. Sydenham Thorne, in 1793, Christ Church was served by the Rev. William Price, 1794-1800, as the second Rector of the Parish. With his resignation there was a vacancy of seventeen years. Our records do not show what provision was made for the care of the Parish during these years. It is possible that the clergy of the Dover and Cedar Creek Churches conducted the services, or provided pastoral care for the sick, conducted burial services, etc.

In 1817, the Rev. Henry Judah was called as Rector. He was also elected the Principal of the Milford Academy.

This is the first reference we have of a priest of this Parish as the Principal of the Academy. In 1818 the Rev. Joseph Spencer, D. D. succeeded the Rev. H. Judah. Dr. Spencer was also the Principal of the Academy. He served in this dual capacity until 1825.

Dr. Spencer was succeeded by the Rev. Daniel Higbee, 1825, who remained here until 1829. Again there was another vacancy. Our records indicate that the Rev. Cory Chambers was the next Rector. He came from St. Luke's Church, Seaford, the first rector of this newly organized Parish. He came to Milford in 1833.

During these forty years, 1793-1833, we find that for twenty-one years the Church was either closed or that infrequent services were conducted. We cannot ascertain the cause of this. It may have been due to the lack of Episcopal oversight, or the decreased number of parishioners, or other causes. At any event, our records give the above information, and unless they are incomplete and omissions have been made in the list of clergy during this period, we must take recognition of these vacancies.

In 1833 Rev. Cory Chambers became Rector a man of much energy and ability, and a fit successor to Thorne of another generation. He succeeded in gathering the scattered members...

He started building operations and completed the Church edifice. A new roof was put on the building, galleries and pews received their first coat of paint, and the pulpit was adorned with hangings and upholstery of crimson silk, in the most approved style.

The roof was damaged by fire, before services were conducted in the Church. This was immediately repaired, and sufficient funds were collected to finish all necessary improvements and to have the church consecrated by the Rt. Rev. Henry U. Onderdonk, January 26, 1836.

1836—The Rector, Wardens and Vestry of Christ Church, Milford, Kent County, Delaware, hereby request the Right Reverend H. U. Onderdonk, acting as Assistant Bishop of this Diocese to consecrate and set apart the House of Worship lately renewed and completed in and for this said Parish; separating it henceforth from all unhallowed, ordinary and common uses; dedicating it to the service of the Eternal God; for reading His Holy Word; for celebrating His Holy Sacraments; for offering to His Glorious Majesty the Sacrifices of prayer and thanksgiving; for blessing His people in His name, and for the performance of all other holy offices, through Jesus Christ our Blessed Lord and Saviour, and according to the rites and worship of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America.

Milford, 26th Jan. 1836. Signed Cory Chambers, Rector John R. Potter John R. Draper, Wardens Wm. Burton, Henry Hudson, Chas. F. Fleming, John M. Darby, Wm. F. Rivel

We do not have an account of this service or who preached the sermon, or other details. We do possess, however, the original articles of Consecration, signed by Bishop Onderdonk. With the opening of the new Church the pews were assigned to the Pashioners, upon payment of a pew rental.

The following is the list for the year 1837-38:

Pew No. 1—None; 2, John Stevenson; 3, Potter Griffith and Elizabeth Jester; 4, Justice Lower; 5, John M. Darby; 6, Dr. James P. Lofland; 7, Thomas R. Hemmerslay; 8, Samuel Paine; 12, Hon. Caleb S. Layton; 13, Hon. Caleb S. Layton; 14, John R. Draper; 15, William F. Revill; 16, Manlove Carlisle; 17, John R. Potter; 20, Beniah Watson and son; 21, Henry Hudson; 22, Ann T. Greer; 24, Elizabeth Williams; 25, Matthew D. Fountain and Mr. Jacobs; 30, Henry Davis and Rhoda Hill; 31, Daniel G. Godwin; 32, Dr. Wm. Burton; 33, Henry Taylour and Miss McNatt; 34, Dr. John Owens.

There is also included in the Vestry records a complete list of the contributors to the fund to complete and furnish the Church, 1838.

The Church was typical of the period, it "was of two stories with side galleries on the north, west and south; the communion table at the east. The pulpit was surmounted, as usual in these days, by a sounding board."

It was a square building, made of brick, without a belfry or tower and without a bell. For like all rural Church, "the cross roads Church had no tower. With no need of a bell, since the parson's flock lived too far away to hear the brazen summons to prayer, there was no need of a belfry; none consequently of a tower to support the belfry."

III. History of Christ Church, from the Consecration to the present.

This third section of our sketch covers the past one hundred and five years of our parochial history. A history enriched by the associations, memories and heritage of those connected by family and other relationships with many of the Parishioners of today. Of those whose religious and spiritual lives have been associated with this portion of Christ Church influence and ministry of those whose entire religious culture and experiences were centered solely in this Parish. Many others too have found it their spiritual home, throughout those years.

Again, those of today who have come to learn and to love it have found a fuller and holier way of life and spiritual experience.

Here in this Church, here, where for generations holy men and women have worshipped—the Hosue of God—to them—and to us—This church, filled with its holy memories, its sacred association, "has stood as a witness for the unseen and eternal, the symbol of things that give meaning to life.

Who can measure its ministry to the souls of men, 'where cross and a vision are needed to dignify business and barter of mankind."

This Church, its presence and its "benediction, a token of the eternal life in time, bidding men to hope, and not to despair."

This church with its cross mounted tower, a witness to all of an inward and spiritual power in and through Jesus Christ, is not only our heritage, but our opportunity to show forth or good works, and to glorify our Father, to our generation.

"The Church is nothing else than a house built of the souls of men."—S. Chrysostom.

With the Church consecrated and the congregation re-assembled and the work re-organized, there was an increased consciousness of Parish responsibility, a new missionary enthusiasm, a program of Church extension and an increased sense of social responsibility.

Mention has already been made of the call of the Rev. John Reynolds, as Rector of Christ Church, 1840, and as Rector of St. Matthew's Church, Cedar Creek. He was also elected Principal of the Milford Academy. He served both Parishes and the Academy until 1843.

In anticipation of the coming of the Rev. John Reynolds, the Vestry on December 19th, 1839, passed the following resolution: "Resolved, that it is expedient that this Church become incorporated, pursuant to the existing laws of this State, and for the completion of such object, C. L. Layton, Esq. was appointed to prepare the necessary writings.

"Pursuant to a previous resolution of a meeting of the members of Christ Church, Milford, Delaware copies of the following written advertisements or notice to wit, one of the said notices at the gate of said church, one at the house of H. Hudson in S. Milford, and another at the store of C. S. Watson and Co."

Were set up "in the public view at or near the place of meeting therein mentioned."

"The following is a copy of said notice, to wit: Notice is hereby given, that a meeting of the members and Society of Christ Church, Milford, Delaware will be held in said Church after the lecture on Thursday evening the 9th of January next. For the purpose of electing trustees and doing all other matters and things required by the law of this State for incorporating religious societies, preparatory to incorporating said Church."

John R. Draper, Secretary "And now, to wit, on Thursday evening, January the ninth A. D. 1840 at a meeting of the religious society or congregation of Christians denominated 'Protestant Episcopalians' worshipping at 'Christ Church, Milford, Delaware' held in said church pursuant to the above notice for the purpose mentioned in said notice.

On motion Beniah Watson, Esq. was called to the chair and John R. Draper was appointed Secretary.

On motion the notice of said meeting was then read by the Secretary. On motion it was resolved that there be seven trustees elected.

Resolved that a committee of three be appointed to nominate trustees for election. Thereupon the Hon. C. S. Layton, William Hill and John R. Draper were appointed said committee, who having retired a few minutes nominated the following persons: Beniah Watson, Esq., Hon. C. S. Layton, Henry Hudson, William Hill, William Reville, Doctor William Burton, and John R. Draper, who were unanimously elected.

The trustees elected had assumed the name of (omitted). Resolved, that the Secretary furnish a fair copy of these proceedings for the trustees." (Vestry minutes, January 1840.)

"The following is a list of persons and their families worshipping and belonging to Christ Church, Milford, Delaware: Rev. John Reynolds and family, Mrs. Elizabeth Jester and family, Dr. William Burton and family, William C. Williams and family, Mrs. Mary McKnatt and family, Beniah Watson and family, William F. Reville and family, Hon. Caleb S. Layton and family, Cap. Joseph Watson and family, William Hill and family, Levin C. Fowler and family, Col. Benjamin Potter and others, Henry Hudson and family, Thomas R. Hammerslay and family, Henry Davis and family, John A. Adkins and family, Clement Messie and family, John R. Draper and family, Manlove R. Carlisle and family, Dr. John Owens and family, Mary Truitt and family, James B. Jester and family, Samuel Paine and family.

Resolved that the proceedings of this meeting be signed by the chairman. Resolved that this meeting adjourns.

John R. Draper." (Vestry minutes, Jan. 9, 1840.)

In 1841 the Diocese of Delaware elected and consecrated its first Bishop. An event of the greatest importance. For heretofore the Diocese had been under the provisional jurisdiction of the Bishop of Pennsylvania, whose assistant visited the Parishes for Confirmation services, for Conventions and such other duties as circumstances demanded. The Diocese of Delaware, one of the original Diocese of the American Church, while without a Bishop, had its own constitutional and ecclesiastical status; its own standing committees, Diocesan conventions, parishes and missions, and other legal and ecclesiastical institutions of a Diocese. The parishes functioned as parishes, called their own clergy, erected churches and were responsible for their parochial obligations.

"At the (Diocesan) Convention in the year 1841 at Georgetown, it was resolved to complete the separate organization of the Diocese by electing a Bishop. The Rev. Alfred Lee, then as before stated, the Rector of Calvary Church, Rockdale, Pa., having been nominated, received the unanimous vote of both the clerical and lay deputies, the two orders voting separately."

The Rev. John Reynolds was present at this Convention. Messrs. Caleb S. Layton and John R. Draper were the lay deputies from Christ Church. Messrs. Thomas Davis and Salathiel Baker represented St. Matthew's Church, Cedar Creek. All of the above names appear on the certificate of election. This certificate was signed by Rt. Rev. H. U. Onderdonk, President of the Convention by the clergy of: Immanuel Church New Castle; St. Anne's Church, Middletown; Trinity Church, Wilmington; St. Andrew's Church, Wilmington; Christ Church, Milford; Christ Church, Laurel; St. James Church, Stanton.

By the Lay Deputies of all the above named parishes. Also: St. Peter's Church, Lewes; St. George's Church, Indian River; Grace Church, Brandywine; St. Luke's Church, Seaford; Prince George Church, Dagsboro; St. Peter's Church, Smyrna; St. Paul's Church, Georgetown; St. Matthew's Church, Cedar Creek.

"The Rev. Alfred Lee was consecrated the first Bishop of Delaware, in St. Paul's Church, New York City, on the 12th of October, 1841, at the age of thirty-four, under which a man rarely reaches the episcopate."

"Before venturing to determine it, (election) it seemed incumbent on me to visit my brethren who had honored me with such a mark of their confidence, and acquaint myself with the condition and circumstances of the Church over which I was invited to preside. That I found most of the Churches in an exceedingly and depressed condition I need not inform you. I surely saw much to discourage in the field of labor proposed—in no other course did there appear, to the human eye, any prospect for the church in the two lower counties but gradual decay and not very distant extinction. Had there been a single dissenting voice in my election I should have felt myself at liberty, although grateful for the preference manifested, to have declined the unexpected call. But the unanimity of the election invested it with a ten fold weight, and I shrank from the responsibility of declining a burden which the hand of Providence appeared to lay upon me."

From Bishop Lee's first Diocesan Convention address, 1842.

"It was indeed a feeble Diocese over which the Bishop was called to preside. On his first visitation he found but four clergymen in the active work of the ministry, of whom one was below New Castle. The number of communicants in 1841 was 339.

At the Diocesan Convention of 1881, in an historical sermon reviewing his episcopate, then of forty years, Bishop Lee stated that there had been twenty-four churches built, of which all but one had been consecrated; he had confirmed 4327 persons and the baptisms reported (in the Diocese) were 10,082."

The Rev. John Reynolds was succeeded by the Rev. John Linn McKim, in 1844. The Rev. John Linn McKim remained as rector for nineteen years, the longest rectorate of Christ Church. He was principal of the Milford Academy, 1844-45, and rector also of St. Matthews' Church, Cedar Creek, until the Church was closed in 1854. We assume that it was under his leadership and wise direction that the two parishes were merged, and Christ Church became the sole Parish for this community and vicinity.

The Rev. John Linn McKim was succeeded by his son, the Rev. John Leighton McKim, in 1863, who was also elected Principal of the Milford Academy. He did not retain this position throughout his tenure as rector of the parish.

During the rectorate of the Rev. John Leighton McKim the church was enlarged and renovated. The interior was changed to its Gothic type of architecture. The galleries were removed. The tower and chancel were added to the existing square building. New windows were installed.

"Sports Odds And Ends"

Gary Smith played well for the championship-winning Legion team in the Harrington Little League not Glen Smith as we mis-printed last week. Glen is a standout shortstop-pitcher on Ted Layton's strong Harrington Pony League team. Greg, the third son of Mr. and Mrs. Gayle Smith will soon be playing ball we suspect. At that time we will have to be especially careful of our P's and Q's and G's and G's.

Another misprint in a metropolitan daily had Joe Adcock of the Milwaukee Braves getting seventy-eight hits in forty-one attempts against the Phillies.

Another face from the past is that of Paul Whiteman, a red-headed righthander from Newark, Del. Whiteman used to pitch for a strong Harrington semi-pro team back in the days when Milford, Federalsburg, Felton, Camden-Wyoming and the locals had some truly fine ballplayers. Pitchers were frequently imported and some hotly contested games resulted. Whiteman pops up as one of the coaches on the Newark Connie Mack League team which won the Delaware championship and then knocked off the Philadelphia Connie Mack champs. A 2-1 loss to Chester was followed by a 1-0 victory of the same club. Alan Whiteman singled and later scored the winning run. He is probably a son or nephew of the old redhead. Losing Chester hurler, Dave Krausse, is a son of the old Philadelphia Athletics' hurler Lee Krausse and a brother to bonus baby Lew Krausse, Jr.

Bob Smith turned in a fine 4:50 mile at Baynard Stadium, Wilmington, on Thursday night. This was the final Olympic Development meet of the season and it marked the first time that the local distance running prospect failed to set a new personal record. He was only a second and a fraction away from a new standard and might have achieved a new best if he had had a couple of 4:45 milers to run against. Smith was No. 4 on the H.H.S. cross-country team last fall and figures to fight it out with Ken Garey last year's No. 2 harrier for the No. 1 spot. Others who have a chance for the lead role are George Bonniwell, Dennis Rogers and Randy Knox. All five of these boys are rated as capable of negotiating the 2.4 x-country course at Killen's Pond in under fourteen minutes. Garey, Rogers and Smith performed this feat last autumn.

Fishing Lines

Sea Trout
Trout fishing is excellent in the Delaware Bay. Small boats with a couple of fishermen aboard are regularly catching 30 to 40 nice sized fish. Party boats, docking at Bowers Beach, are catching over 150 of these delicious fish in the oyster grounds or in the West Indies area.

Fishing Deep Waters
Southeast of Delaware Lightship (about eight or ten miles out from Indian River Inlet) marlin, dolphin, blue fish, bonito and sea bass are furnishing excellent fishing. There are even some ling still hanging around.

On ebb tide the surf fishermen are taking blues on the Rock Piles at the Inlet.

Flounder
Flounder fishing in Indian River Bay is gaining momentum. Catches of five to ten three or four pounders are being boated, but, as usual, our reports are mixed with exciting stories of "big boys" that refuse to keep company with the frying pan.

Dig Deep
Anglers who use earthworms for bait and dig their own may find them increasingly difficult to locate as the hot dry summer weather progresses. The reason for this is that the worms retreat deep into the ground. They spend their life burrowing in damp soil and come out of their burrows only at night after the sun is down, if they come out at all.

It has been found that regular watering of an area known to contain earthworms will keep them near the surface. When the area is allowed to dry out and become warm, the worms will disappear into the earth and trenches two feet deep often fail to turn up any.

So get out the hose and keep your bait supply within easy reach of that spade!

"Angling may be said to be so like mathematics that it can never be fully learnt."—Izaak Walton

Ponies Edge Felton In Doubleheader

Ted Layton's Harrington Pony League entry concluded a tight season's rivalry with the Felton Club by winning two close games at Frederica Saturday morning.

The first game was a sudden-death resumption of a nine inning 6-6 tie played between the two clubs some weeks back. Renne French pitched three perfect innings and got credit for the victory when his team scored a run in the top of the 12th frame. Richard Black singled, stole second, went to third on an infield out and scored on Tom Simpler's single.

The second contest required two extra innings before the locals squeezed out a 7-6 decision despite being outthir 9-6.

Glen Smith started for Harrington. French relieved in the seventh inning as Felton scored three times in that frame to send the tilt into overtime.

With one out in the ninth Motter singled, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and scored when the losers tried to get French at first base after a dropped third strike.

Felton threatened in the bottom of the ninth as the first two hitters smashed hard ground balls toward short. Smith flagged both runners at first base but Dave Wood singled to put the tying run on base. Richard Black then hauled down a long fly ball off the bat of Dave Dill to end the game.

Wood and Dill paced the Felton attack with three hits apiece. Smith and Steve Motter each had two hits in five attempts for Harrington.

The two victories gave Harrington a fine seasonal record of nine wins and three defeats. Georgetown could fall back into a tie with the locals for the league pennant if the county seaters lose a playoff of a tie game with Bridgeville. At this writing, there is an unconfirmed rumor that Bridgeville has won this game with Georgetown. Local fans hope that the rumor is true. True or false, whatever the case may be, Harrington has had a fine season.

Ellis Myer was the team's leading hitter with a whopping .390 average followed closely by Black with .385. Motter with .341 and French with .333 were next in line.

Jr. Football League Holds Meeting

The Junior Football Board of Directors met Tuesday night to discuss the season's play. A fourth team being added is pending. The directors decided that no coach is to practice later than 8:15 p. m., or to practice no more than 2 hours. A registration date for this season has been set for Saturday, Aug. 18 from 10 to 11 a. m. at the high school.

The League made plans to entertain the teenagers by having a Buddy Dean Hop at the Armory September 14.

Another League meeting will be held Tuesday, Aug. 21, at 7:30 p. m. over the First National Bank. All interested people are urged to attend.

Fishing Is Good In State's Waters

"Wishin' in Delaware Waters is Fun," and numerous visitors to Delaware's coastal area are currently helping prove the accuracy of this slogan advises the Delaware State Development Department.

The combination of calm seas and warm weather found along the Delaware coast in late summer seemingly affects fish and fishermen alike—bring out both in greater numbers.

According to the state information and promotion agency, fish—in many varieties and sizes—are being taken from Delaware's many inland bays, and from the surf line and depths of the Atlantic. Included are flounder, bluefish, trout, mackerel, bonito, porgies, sea bass, ling cod and tautog, and even the more elusive marlin and tuna.

Charter boats, operating out of the Indian River Basin, have recently been reporting marlin and tuna catches with blue marlins and some tuna being taken well out in the Atlantic near the warmer Gulf Stream waters and white marlins being boated closer to shore.

Less expensive and favored by many fishermen who visit this area in summer and early fall is the offshore bottom fishing done from what are called bottom boats or "head boats."

These boats depart daily from Bowers, Mispillion Light, Lewes and the Inlet in the early morning hours and are guided by experienced skippers to a pre-determined location, where they are anchored. This anchorage is generally over or near sunken wrecks which attract the small fish which some of the larger fish feed.

For a vacationist limited by a small budget, the bottom boats offer bay or ocean fishing for about six dollars a head (from this they receive the nickname of "head boats") and generally stock virtually everything the angler will need, including bait and tackle.

In addition to offering rental service on rods and reels, many of the bottom boats have snack and beverage facilities and some are even equipped with tiny lunch counters offering sandwiches, coffee, soft drinks and even seasick pills.

While most of the bottom boats schedule early morning trips, it is possible for late sleeping anglers to also get in on the fun as afternoon fishing trips are frequently scheduled, leaving port about one in the afternoon.

Many of those planning to fish Delaware's inland bays and coastal waters bring their own boats with them, and these, according to the Development Department, should be reminded that motorboats operating in Delaware waters must meet various safety regulations and be registered (fee is $3.00). Information concerning these requirements and the registration procedure may be obtained at the Dewey Beach office of the Small Boat Safety Division of the Delaware Commission of Shell Fisheries. Information may also be obtained at the commission's office in the State House Annex in Dover.

Softball News

The Ruritan Club won by identical 11-3 scores over Bill's Barber Shop and Stone's Hotel in games played since the last writing.

The Hotelmen won a close contest with the Jaycees by a score of 9-7. Another tight game saw the Jaycees triumph over the Barbers by 8-6.

Stone's Hotel moved into a tie for second place with Bill's Barbers as of August 6th. Both clubs show seven wins and nine losses. There seems to be a little friction developing between some of those people connected with the Harrington Softball League. Rumor has it that play may soon be suspended for the remainder of the season.

Local Dog Is Show Winner

A 10-month-old black Cocker Spaniel, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest H. ## READY FOR SCHOOL

seems futile to the slow starter. His thoughts wander. He lacks purpose.

Here are the remedies:
1. Writing muscles must be retained after disuse. Fifteen minutes a day of handwriting exercises for a week or two before school starts will solve this problem. Ease in handwriting will pay immediate dividends. First assignments are easier to produce and grades are higher in early tests.

2. Study ahead so you will be ready to listen. Efficient listening is done against a background of knowledge in the subject.

It is difficult to grasp the ideas a teacher put forth if he uses words unfamiliar to you. Each new word causes you to puzzle just long enough to miss the main point.

3. Get set for purposeful reading. Examine the whole book, including the table of contents to get an idea of what you are to learn. Read to find out something. Recite back what you have learned after each short section.

Parents can assist by setting up the rules at the very start. Provide a comfortable, pleasant place for your child to study at home. Set study times and hold the youngster to those periods.

Send your young student off to school the first day with a resolution to do his best from the very start. When learning seems important to parents, youngsters catch the spirit, too.

4-H LEADERS

earned her a trip to Camp Minnawana, Michigan's national leadership camp, and special recognition at the 1958 Maryland Girls State sponsored by the American Legion.

Ronnie, too, has attended two leadership conferences as well as serving as junior and associate leader of the Jarrettsville 4-H Club.

Margaret Nicholson, 20, another University of Maryland student, majoring in home economics education, was 1961 Maryland delegate to both the National 4-H Conference and the National 4-H Dairy Conference. This 4-H all star hopes to enter the extension service and continue working with 4-H Clubs.

Rose Hahn, 18, is a junior accountant and payroll clerk in Carroll County. She was this year's representative at the West Virginia Older Youth Camp at the 1962 Maryland State Fair as county and district champion.

All six credit 4-H with giving them self-confidence, capabilities, training and values at an earlier age than most people. "4-Hers are fortunate in that they learn to accept responsibilities," these farm and non-farm youths said.
