MAYOR TO APPOINT CD DIRECTOR, OUTGROWTH OF RECENT MEETING

Mayor Charles L. Peck Sr., will appoint a civil-defense director, it was revealed after a delegation approached the City Council at its November meeting Wednesday night.

The delegation was composed of the Rev. Quay D. Rice, vicar of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, George Johnson, and Randall H. Knox Jr.

The mayor's decision was made after Johnson told the Council a civil-defense program was needed by the people for their survival and a director was needed.

The visit to City Hall was the outgrowth of a community meeting Sunday afternoon at St. Stephen's. A committee, composed of Johnson, Knox, and Archie Feagan was appointed to approach the Council. Feagan was unable to attend.

It was revealed Wednesday night several places had been chosen for community shelters but had not been certified. These included the Post Office, Reese Theatre, Peoples Bank, Harrington School, and Killen Grain Company.

It was brought out the community could do nothing in case of a direct or near miss from nuclear attack but could protect itself from fallout of radioactive ash from a distant hit. It was thought Harrington's proximity to Dover Airforce Base and Washington, D. C., not to mention other cities, might make it vulnerable.

Other Business

Since Patrolman Robert Darling has completed his probationary period, he was raised $5 to $60 per week.

Council approved erection of a concrete-block retaining wall on the south side of Liberty Street from Fleming Street to near Railroad Avenue. The wall would prevent collapsing of the sidewalk if dirt beneath it moved southward into the lower adjoining lots. Improvement of this street is under way.

Approved purchase of a chlorinator for the sewage disposal plant to cost around $1000, plus costs of erection. City Manager George S. Graham said a sewage sample had to be sent monthly to the State Board of Health.

Approved laying of 140 feet of sidewalk by the parking lot of the Church of the Nazarene and 60 feet on the property of Burton Satterfield, both on Mechanic Street now being improved. These strips had not been shown on a blueprint, being covered with dirt, and the contract called for the replacement of existing sidewalks.

Councilman Wilson Bradley asked for the appointment of a street commissioner but the mayor thought it was too late in the year.

Council approved payment of current for Christmas lighting, an annual project of the Chamber of Commerce. The police will be given a schedule of when the

Mrs. Robert Owens

Mrs. Owens is survived by two sons, Linwood C. Owens, New York City, and Carl C. Owens, Philadelphia, and by a daughter, Mrs. William N. Marvel, Milford; two grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

lighting is to be on.

A letter was received from John C. Langrell about the parking of chicken trucks in front of his house on Delaware Avenue but nothing was done.

The Council accepted the resignation of William W. Shaw as chairman of the zoning commission. The mayor appointed a commission member, William Humes, as temporary chairman.

Council advised city clerk to write Rep. George H. Exley and Sen. Leon Donovan to push a bill, in the incoming General Assembly, to appropriate funds for improvement of Center Street and Delaware Avenue, state-maintained roads. The State Highway Department approved the project in 1952.

The city clerk read a letter from the highway department saying it would do the work late next year, or early in 1962, providing the Legislature appropriated the money.

An application from Harry G. Farrow Sr. asked for appointment as city manager. The current manager has been elected sheriff and will assume his duties the first of the year. It is believed the manager will be appointed by the next Council in early January.

All interested persons, representatives of civic and fraternal organizations are invited to a special meeting of the Council at 7:30 p.m., Tues., Nov. 20, to give suggestions on proposed Charter changes. These changes will be put on the ballot in the municipal elections in January, for the first time, under the home-rule bill passed by the current General Assembly. Heretofore, Charter changes had to be made with the consent of the Legislature.

DEMOCRATS WIN HANDILY HERE AND IN COUNTY

Kent County Republicans lost their one county office Tuesday as Fred B. Carey Sr. was edged by 25 votes in the 1st Levy Court District race.

James B. Messick, a Dover attorney, polled 3,723 votes to 3,698 for Carey.

Otherwise, Democratic county candidates won easy victories, including Edward Kelly's win over Medford Killen in the 3rd Levy Court District.

Republicans had hoped for Killen and Carey victories to take control of Levy Court by a 2-1 margin.

Kelly polled 2,926 votes to 2,577 for Killen.

John F. McDonald, Republican candidate for receiver of taxes and county treasurer, lost to G. Dorsey Torbert, of Felton, 9,785 to 8,071.

Incumbent Roy J. Honey easily won re-election as recorder of deeds, defeating Republican Ralph M. McGinnis, 9,616 to 8,246.

String Quartet to Present Concert at Del. State College

The Alard String Quartet, internationally known chamber music ensemble, will present a concert at Delaware State College on Sunday evening, Nov. 11, at 8 p.m. in Delaware Hall auditorium.

The quartet was formed at the Juilliard School of Music in 1954 under the guidance of Hans Letz. Following a junior residency at the University of Texas, the Quartet moved to Wilmington College in Ohio, where it was in residence for six years.

Test Warning to Be Sounded Each Month

The State Department of Civil Defense has urged all Delawareans to listen for the test warnings sounded on all sirens and other devices throughout the state on the first and third Tuesdays of each month, at 2:15 p.m.

The attack alert test is sounded on the first Tuesday of each month. It consists of a steady blast of from three to five minutes, and is designed to advise Delawareans to tune their radios to the CONELRAD frequency (640 or 1240) in the event of an emergency.

The Take Cover test, consisting of a wailing tone or short blasts for three minutes, is sounded on the third Tuesday of each month.

All citizens are urged to acquaint themselves with the two warning sounds.

PRR to Have 2-Way Train-Phone Communications

Modern two-way, train-phone communication will be provided over the Pennsylvania Railroad's rail network on the Delmarva Peninsula, it was announced this week.

George M. Smith, regional manager for the PRR at Baltimore, said that direct voice-to-voice communication with trains operating within a radius of approximately 25 miles will be provided by the new system.

Transmission towers will be erected initially at Clayton, Harrington, Delmar and Pocomoke. Additional towers will ultimately be erected at other points, to provide complete communication coverage for the railroad's lines on the Peninsula north of Tasley, Va. A similar communications system is already in operation across the Chesapeake Bay between Cape Charles and Little Creek, Va.

Mr. Smith said it will be necessary to equip locomotives assigned to this area with units to transmit and receive messages from operating points which control the movements of trains over the railroad's main line and branch lines.

"The ability to talk with our train crews while they are enroute from one point to another," he said, "will enable us to provide a more flexible service to our shippers. By means of this communication system we will be able to transmit up-to-the-minute information concerning, for instance, the movement of loaded cars from a shipper's siding. It will also aid in expediting the placement of empty cars at a shipper's plant."

In addition to its application in the freight train service, the system will be extended to work equipment used on the railroad by track maintenance gangs.

Mobile highway units—trucks and automobiles—used by maintenance forces and supervisory employees will also be equipped with units that can tie in with the system, providing the opportunity for prompt deployment of forces to points on the railroad where they are needed.

"Over-all," Mr. Smith pointed out, "the application of this modern system of communication to our daily rail operation will materially increase the efficiency of our service and provide cost savings in many areas. It will enable us to maintain better central control of our operation, both from the standpoint of equipment and manpower."

Railroad forces will perform part of the construction and installation work necessary for this system.

Record Advance Sale Seen For "Hamlet"

William Shakespeare's "Hamlet," will be the second major production of the E 52 University Theatre on December 6, 7, 8 in Mitchell Hall, with a record advance sale predicted.

Dr. C. Robert Kase, director of the University of Delaware group's presentation, announced recently that theatre party reservations already have broken all previous records. In all, some 670 reservations have been received, ranging from groups of 20 to over 200.

Several area high schools are integrating attendance with their English class work, including William Penn, Alexis I. duPont, Newark, Kennett Square, John Dickinson, and Millsboro.

It will be the first production of "Hamlet" by E 52 and the play's first presentation in this area for many years. Shakespeare has always been popular with E 52 audiences, according to Dr. Kase.

Regular box office sale of tickets begins November 28. Mail orders are now being accepted and should be addressed to the business manager, E 52, University Theatre, University of Delaware.

For more information on food needs and length of storage time recommended for certain foods, write Home Economics Extension Service, Ag. Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, Del., or contact your county extension agent.

Judy Burgess, grade 8, was the winner of the 1962 fire prevention essay sponsored by the Harrington Volunteer Fire Company. Second place winner was Peggy O'Neal, and third, Helen Welch. Judy will participate in the county contest.

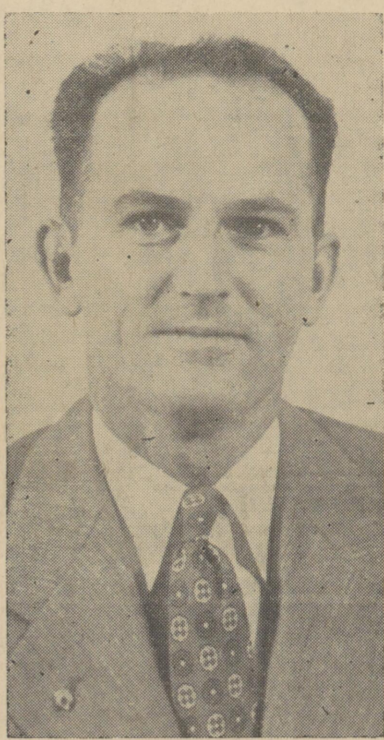

You Can Survive

Planning for special occasions and daily living is part of every homemaker's life. Planning for emergency living is similar in many ways, but it lacks the motivation of happy times ahead.

Emergency planning is extremely important if your family is to have the best possible chance to survive the dangers of fallout.

MCDOWELL WINS BY LANDSLIDE; KILLEN VICTOR; HIGH ON TICKET

KILLEN WINS THIRD TERM—Ernest E. Killen, of Harrington, was elected to his third term as state auditor in the Tuesday elections. Being high man on the state ticket has caused his name to be mentioned for governor two years hence.

U. S. Rep. Harris B. McDowell, Jr., D-Del., Tuesday won a smashing victory at the polls to become the first Delawarean in history ever elected to four terms in the House.

As such, he also stamped himself as a definite contender for his party's nomination to the U. S. Senate in 1964.

But even McDowell's unofficial majority of more than 9,000 was not enough to carry some members of his party along with him.

David P. Buckson won a not-expected victory as attorney general by 2,667 votes over his Democratic opponent, John Biggs III, and Robert A. Short unseated Democratic Insurance Commissioner Harry S. Smith by 270 votes.

A moderate turnout of 153,100 Delaware voters also returned to office for another two years State Treasurer Belle Everett and State Auditor Ernest E. Killen, incumbent Democrats.

McDowell's victory margin of 9,927 over Wilmer F. (Rudy) Williams was his largest since 1954, when a Democratic landslide swept him into office by 14,000 votes.

The Republican victories by Buckson and Short in the face of McDowell's majority were nearly as impressive.

Buckson led the GOP ticket with 77,728 votes—5,824 more votes than were recorded by the losing congressional candidate. Short was a lengthy skip-and-jump behind Buckson with 76,129.

McDowell's convincing victory was viewed as a vote of confidence for his solid support of President Kennedy in the past two years and a manifestation of a new "image" of maturity and statesmanship.

McDowell, with his solid victory, became a definite contender for the U. S. Senate seat nomination in 1964. By winning the off-year election by more than Gov. Elbert N. Carvel won by two years ago, McDowell stamps himself as Carvel's chief opponent for the Senate nomination.

McDowell already has confided to friends that he is not to be counted out of the Senate race. Publicly, he has said he would have to think long and hard before giving up his House seniority rights.

Democrats were jubilant on Wednesday over McDowell's victory, but that jubilation was tempered somewhat by the loss of the insurance commissioner post and GOP retention of the attorney general's office.

Williams' loss by such a large margin laid to rest, perhaps forever, the myth of his vote-getting power. Williams and his supporters had always contended that he would have won in 1960 had he been given the nomination instead of James T. McKinstry. McKinstry lost to McDowell by only 1,890.

McDowell carried all three counties this year, taking Williams' home county of New Castle by 2,517, and Sussex County by 2,424 according to unofficial returns.

Williams' majority of 4,026 in New Castle County outside of Wilmington was not nearly enough to counter McDowell's 8,382 bulge in the city.

Buckson racked up a 10,632 vote edge in New Castle County outside of Wilmington to offset a 6,707 loss in the city. He lost Sussex County by 1,063 while losing his home county of Kent by 196 votes.

Short lost Kent County by 1,851 and his native Sussex by 1,946, but piled up a 10,306 margin in rural New Castle County to more than offset his loss in Wilmington by 6,239.

Ernest E. Killen, incumbent state auditor, won his third successive two-year term, piling up 78,928 votes to run second to McDowell on the Democratic ticket. His opponent, Ralph D. Kellam of Claymont, received 73,158.

Mrs. Belle Everett of Kenton, staved off the Republican challenge of Mrs. Louise Conner by 2,951, polling 77,538 votes to Mrs. Conner's 74,637.

As is its custom, the Delaware electorate demonstrated its penchant for splitting tickets by the thousands.

In New Castle County, three Democrats and two Republicans won in countywide races. In Kent and Sussex Counties, Democrats won everything that wasn't nailed down. And in the legislature, Democrats picked up three seats in the

Unsafe Car Guilt Found In Mishap

A 21-year-old Harrington youth was convicted of driving an unsafe car after his vehicle upset causing injury to two passengers.

The accident occurred on Route 311, 2 1/2 miles south of Harrington, when the vehicle operated by Dennis R. Mullins, 21, ran off the right side of the highway, then back onto the road to the left side where it plunged down a 5-foot ditch.

David R. Melvin, 16, and Clyde T. Mullins, 18, both of Harrington suffered minor lacerations of the face. Both declined medical attention, state police said.

Troopers said a defective steering mechanism was a factor in the accident.

Dennis Mullins was arrested on a charge of operating an unsafe car and exceeding a safe speed. He was fined $10 and costs on the speeding charge and $25 and costs on the other by Magistrate Clarence E. Dyer, of Harrington.

Greenwood Juniors To Present 1962 Play

The goldangest hillbilly collection ever viewed this side of television will be staged by the members of the Greenwood High School Junior Class when they present their 1962 play, "Hillbilly Weddin'".

"Hillbilly Weddin'" is a play depicting the easy-going, and at times, trials and tribulations of the Belnsickle clan and some city slickers who are forced to accept their hospitality through a mechanical breakdown endured only by those who have taken as theirs a "city folks way of life."

There is, of course, the usual love angle set to the music of buckshot and the choreography of husband-getting.

The cast includes: Paw Belnsickle, a husband - hunting lazy varmint who spends his time between indecisions at the checker board and getting husbands for his daughters, is played by Larry Spence. Maw, a hard-working, slow-moving spouse, is played by Sandy Belton. Ceelie, the dirtiest and hardest to place with a husband of the female Belnsickle offspring, is played by Kitty Moore. Bonnie Mae, the book-loving, city-minded daughter, is played by June Willey. Juney Lou, the lip rouge user, very much stuck on Homer Upshlager, is played by Betty Davis, Thursday evening, and Cheryl Smith, Friday. The other Belnsickle daughters, four, five and six—named after Paw learned his numbers—are played by Sandra Hayman, Carol DeFord, and Ann Beebe.

Obeey Upschlager, the boy from over the mountain, who comes for a visit and stays for days, is played by Billy Fleischauer. Chiz, Obeey's victimized brother who has an attraction to Sears and Roebuck catalogs, is played by June Willey. Juney Lou, the lip rouge user, very much stuck on Homer Upshlager, is played by Betty Davis, Thursday evening, and Cheryl Smith, Friday. This Wednesday night, Nov. 14, at 6:30 p. m., we are starting something new. The Men of St. Stephen's and the Women of St. Stephen's with their families are invited to a covered dish dinner after which the men and women, respectively, will have their monthly meetings. During the meetings, the children will go to the Primary Department for entertainment. We are trying this arrangement so that whole families can enjoy eating together. In order to make it work, we suggest that parents have their children do their studying in the afternoon.

On Thursday evening, the men of the Church Club of Delaware will meet for their fall dinner in the DuBarry Room at the Hotel DuPont at 6:45 p. m. As a very special attraction, the one and only Red Barber will be the speaker. Bishop Mosley will be there to greet everyone as usual. Your Vicar is a member of the Church Club and as such can invite as many guests as desire to go. Unfortunately, there is a cost of $4 per person which your Vicar's pocketbook just cannot handle and so these would be paying guests! Please let the church office know Sunday or Monday if you are interested in going. Leaving time from St. Stephen's would be 5 p. m. if we leave promptly.

The Loyal Workers Class of Trinity Church will have a fried chicken supper on Friday, Nov. 16, beginning at 4 p. m. The cost of the dinner is $1.50 for adults and 75c for children.

It is heartening to notice lay people of our church still at work taking inventory, keeping books, and storing equipment for our recent concession project. Certainly all of us are grateful to those who have been so active in this venture.

The Killen boys,

Nation's Food Producers Must Function In National Emergency

Should the tense world situation become explosive, farmers and their families who produce food supplies will continue to be one of the most important groups in Delaware.

It will be your responsibility as a farmer to produce food as soon as possible after the disaster, says county agent George Vapaa.

Here are some guides to help farmers protect themselves and their livestock during and after an attack.

1. Put all livestock in barns—basement barns are best. Open sheds are better than no protection.
2. Close all openings as well as possible but provide some means of ventilation.
3. Put milking animals near center of the barn.
4. Provide dry feeds (excluding concentrate) and water.
5. Turn calves loose after milking cows so that they may nurse cows and help reduce udder congestion if you are unable to attend your stock for a period of time.
6. Cover any feedstuffs that are not covered with tarpaulins or other materials.
7. Cover any water supply that you use for yourself or your livestock.
8. Put your producing animals in the best protection available.
9. Avoid letting livestock graze or eat contaminated feeds.
10. If you have more animals than you have space for, be sure to house the best you have in the shelter and rest rest you house in sheds.

Attack or Fallout Period

1. Take cover with your family.
2. Follow civil defense recommendations on shelters for you and your family.
3. Use battery radio with outside antenna to tell you when it is safe to leave your shelter. Follow these directions—you are important!

After Fallout Danger Is Minimized

1. Wash animals if possible—wear rubber boots and gloves and be well covered with clothing so that the dust cannot reach your skin.
2. Do not destroy any animals or feeds until these animals have been checked for radioactivity.
3. Monitoring is available in each county of the state and will be provided as soon as it is safe for operators to be outside.
4. Do not use any meat or milk or other products from exposed animals until these products have been checked by trained technicians.
5. Any animal showing ill effects should not be slaughtered for food purposes until it is fully recovered—which may be an extended period of time.
6. If no feedstuffs other than contaminated feed are available, limit intake as much as possible without damaging the productive ability of the animal.
7. Poultry are less likely to become injured from radiation because their feed supplies are usually covered. Also they are more resistant than cattle.
8. Make sure calcium intake of all animals is at a high level during the period of fallout and after fallout as long as feedstuffs and pastures show any contamination. Feed high levels of ground limestone and steamed bone meal.
9. In the emergency follow directions from those charged with preserving and providing the food supply of the state.

Diamond State Telephone Construction Work Underway at Milford

Construction work is now underway on a $68,000 building and equipment addition to Diamond State Telephone Company's Milford (422) central office reported William Beam, the company's wire chief.

The addition will be to the rear of the present building and will measure 25 feet x 53 feet, Beam said.

Provisions to the rear wall will be made for future expansion, he stated.

When the construction work is completed next March, new dial switching equipment will be installed.

The Milford office serves some 3,500 customers.

The addition will contain a new heating and electrical system and also a new diesel engine for emergency electrical power, Beam said.

Fish & Game News

The Delaware Game and Fish Commission will be under close scrutiny this winter at its own request. A comprehensive survey of all phases of its operations will be conducted by the Wildlife Management Institute.

The institute is a privately endowed agency organized to promote high standards of natural resource management. It is directed by Dr. Ira Gabrielson, former chief of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service and internationally renowned conservationist.

The institute conducted a similar survey here in 1954. The result of one of their recommendations was the establishment of the post of director responsible to a policy making Commission. The director supervises and administers the divisions of Fish and Game Management, Enforcement and information and education. This new organization replaced an outmoded one that was characterized by undefined and divided lines of responsibility.

Phillip Barske, regional representative of the Wildlife Management Institute, will conduct the minute analysis of all phases of game and fish operations. The study will be reviewed in full by Dr. Gabrielson before it is released to the Game and Fish Commission.

More than forty similar studies have been made in recent years by the Institute at the request of state and provincial wildlife agencies throughout the United States and Canada. Agencies have made these requests on the theory that a periodic independent review by recognized authorities is good operational procedure.

Deer Season Nov. 8-10

Delaware's only big game, the white-tailed deer, will be hunted November 8, 9 and 10. There were 498 healthy whitetails harvested from "The First State's" herd last year. The '62 season should be just as successful from all field observations.

Whether you stalk your prey or "stump hunt" be familiar with the area you are hunting, know the game trails and the location of the best cover and resting spots.

There are several regulations peculiar to deer hunting:

- a) "No person shall at any time shoot, kill, wound or take a deer (buck or doe) while the same is taking refuge in or swimming through the water of any stream, pond or lake."
- b) Persons who got a deer during the archery season already have their bag limit for the 1962 season. These hunters may participate in deer drives during the shotgun season but are not permitted to carry a gun while helping others stalk or drive deer.
- c) All successful hunters must have their deer tagged and license stamped within 12 hours after the deer is killed. Checking stations are the old weighing station at State Road—Route 40, Dover, Bridgeville and Georgetown police stations. At the checking station it will be weighed, measured and aged by technicians of the game and fish Commission.

Delaware deer hunters can be justly proud of their safety record since the first season in 1954. Wear bright clothing—blaze orange is the safest color. If garments aren't available in this color red is the next safest.

Take time to make perfectly sure that your target is a deer. After the trigger is pulled it is too late.

Nominations Open For Conservation Supervisor

Nominations are being received for a supervisor to represent the 6th and 9th representative districts in the Kent County Soil Conservation District, says C. A. Taylor of Harrington, the county chairman.

The term of Mr. Taylor expires at the end of the year after acting four years for his area. One supervisor must be elected each year. At the present time, Charles Blendt of Smyrna represents the 1st, 2nd and 5th representative districts. Isaac Thomas of Marydel the 2nd and 4th districts, and David Robbins of Milford the 7th, 8th, and 10th districts.

Each supervisor serves without pay to promote soil and water conservation work in Kent county. There are more than 1,000 landowners in Kent county who are members of the District.

Nominees become eligible when they meet the following conditions:

1. Be a resident of the area for which there is a vacancy—in this case the southeast section of Kent county.
2. Present a petition with the signatures of ten landowners in the Soil Conservation District from his area by November 23rd to the Kent County Soil Conservation District Office at 2319 So. Dual Highway, Dover.

Farming Is Big Business

by Jerry L. Webb

The good outdoor life of fresh air and independence down on the farm can sound rather appealing after a hard day at the office. Occasionally, I'm tempted to sit back and dream of changing places with my country cousins. But usually I'm jolted into the realization that things have changed since I was a boy on a small midwestern farm.

Farming is big business today with total assets of over 200 billion dollars. That's equal to three-fourth of the assets of all the corporations in the United States. Farming has grown tremendously in the past 20 years. In 1940, the average farm in America was 174 acres with approximately $6,000 invested in machinery, livestock and operating capital. These were the days when a young man could start out with a mule, a plow and a rooster and become a fairly successful farmer. By 1950, the average farm had grown to 215 acres and the investment had increased to $17,000. Today, the average farm is slightly over 300 acres. The average investment exceeds $42,000. As you can readily see, this is big business.

Farmers are doing a big production job, also. So big, in fact, that one-half the farmers are producing twice as much food as they did in 1920 and they're doing it on 12 million fewer acres.

Today's farmer combines the talents of businessman, technician, scientist and shepherd to triple his output per hour of work. Along with this increased output, however, have come bigger risks. By necessity, today's farmer is a gambler, operating a large scale business with a narrow margin of profit squeezed between high expenses and low selling prices. Last year, farmers sold $35 billion worth of farm produce that cost them $27 billion to produce—still they were threatened by drought, flood, disease and a multitude of other natural disasters.

Who benefits from all of this big business? Believe it or not, it's the consumer. Farmers benefit less and less, even though their efficiency of production has skyrocketed. Farmers now get less of the retail value for their products than ever before. In 1950 47 cents out of each consumer food dollar went to the farmer. In 1961, he received only 38 cents out of each food dollar.

The benefits are obvious. Never before have consumers spent such a small part of their income for food. And the food they're getting is the highest quality.

The big benefit of today's big farm business, however, is the assurance that we'll all have enough to eat 20 or 30 years from now. Farmers are planning ahead; they're learning new methods of production and new techniques of soil and water conservation. They're already producing at record levels. But a further increase is needed. They must be able to feed 260 million people by 1980.

We're all reaping big benefits from this big farm business.

Carbon Monoxide May Be Cause Of Sleepiness While Driving

If you get sleepy while driving, stop at once, get out of the car and breathe fresh air—the cause of your sleepiness may be carbon monoxide, a safety official warned. Carbon monoxide is still "the creeping killer," said J. James Ashton, manager of the Delaware Safety Council.

Each year, more than 300 persons are victims of the poisonous gas, he reported. The figure includes motorists who warm up their cars with the garage doors closed, auto mechanics who repair in closed garages, and people who sit in parked cars with the motor on to keep the heater working. It does not include those killed in one-car accidents, rear-end collisions and other accidents in which the driver apparently fell asleep but may well have been suffering from carbon monoxide poisoning.

"Carbon monoxide, the silent killer, causes more deaths than any other poison," Ashton said.

It is colorless, tasteless, non-irritating and almost odorless. It can kill within minutes. The symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning are: tightness across the forehead, followed or accompanied by throbbing in the temples, headache, weariness, weakness, dizziness, nausea, loss of muscular control and increased pulse and respiration.

If you're driving at night and the darkness seems blacker than usual, the glare of oncoming lights brighter than usual, carbon monoxide might well be the cause.

If the concentration of carbon monoxide in the air is great enough, the victim may fall unconscious without any warning signals.

"Fresh air," Mr. Ashton said, "is the one sure way to prevent carbon monoxide poisoning."

Make sure exhaust gases are not getting inside your car by checking your muffler and exhaust pipe, he advised.

Other suggestions from the Delaware Safety Council:

1. Before starting your car engine, open the garage doors wide.

2. Never drive with all the windows closed.
3. Don't follow other cars too closely. Their exhaust contains carbon monoxide fumes which may enter your car.

Violinist to Play In Mitchell Hall

Violinist Robert Gerle will present the second in the Artists series of concerts in Mitchell Hall at the University of Delaware Saturday night (Nov. 10).

Established in the front rank of the younger generation of violinists, Gerle made a widely acclaimed New York debut in 1958 and in 1961 won some of the highest praise in many seasons for his debut in London.

Reviewers have called attention to his "flawless intonation," "golden tone," "sustained intensity," and "steady bow arm." He plays the Hubay Stradivarius, which was bought for him by a group of admirers in 1958.

Born of Hungarian parents in Italy, Gerle received his early training at the Budapest Conservatory, where he won the Hubay prize in 1942. He studied with Geza de Kresz, Lev Weiner, Imre Waldbauer, and Zoltan Kodaly.

He escaped from Hungary following World War II, and while awaiting an opportunity to book passage to the United States played and studied for three and a half years in Paris and Germany.

Gerle entered the United States in 1950 and studied with Georges Enesco. He won a scholarship to the Berkshire Music Center at Tanglewood where he was associated with Piatigorsky and Koussevitzky, and he performed with the Tanglewood Orchestra.

Tickets for the Mitchell Hall concert, at 8:15 p. m., are available from the University bookstore and will be sold at the box office the night of the performance.

Wm. Ireland, Jr. Assigned to Kent County S.C.S.

William Ireland, Jr., soil scientist, has been assigned to the Dover office of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service in Kent County.

Mr. Ireland's duties as soil scientist will cover Kent and Sussex Counties. He will make individual soil maps of farmers cooperating with the Kent County Soil Conservation District. He will also complete a detailed map of all soils in Kent County as soon as possible.

Mr. Ireland comes well qualified for his assignment. He is a graduate of Ohio State University where he received a B.S. degree in agriculture. He has worked with the U.S. Soil Conservation Service for 19 years. His duties with the service have been in the states of New York, Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee, and West Virginia. He also has three years experience working with the soils of Sussex County.

Complete information on the soils of Kent County is available to anyone desiring such information, says Mr. Mott. Although Soil Conservation Service soil maps are developed primarily for soil and water conservation planning, such information has been found extremely valuable for realtors, planning boards and commissions, and others seeking detailed soils information.

Murder for Pay Trial Date Set

A Milford man charged with soliciting to commit murder will be tried before a jury Wednesday at 10 a. m., in Kent Court of Common Pleas.

In a strange twist of the law, the defendant, James E. Howlett, 41, is free on $5,000 bail while the man who accuses him of an offer of money to murder his wife is held in Kent Correction Institution under $500 bond as a material witness.

James A. Koone, 25, Texan, has been in the Kent prison since Oct. 13 under bond ordered by Magistrate L. Gooden Callaway, Harrington.

It was Koone who told Milford police that Howlett approached him Oct. 5 allegedly to offer him $350 to kill his wife.

Howlett's attorney is Everett Warrington, Georgetown. Howlett pleaded not guilty in arraignment Wednesday before Judge William G. Bush III.

In other arraignments Wednesday, Daniel F. Thornton, 21, Dover Air Force Base, pleaded not guilty to two charges of assault and battery. Thornton is alleged to have assaulted Dover patrolmen Oct. 26 at the Treadway Inn.

Arthur Willey, 27, pleaded not guilty to drunken driving on Oct. 13. He requested a jury trial.

Mitchell Poore pleaded not guilty on a charge of passing a bad check. Daniel Glenn Davidson, Frederica, pleaded not guilty to drunken driving and operating a motor vehicle during revocation of license.

Another peculiarity of the Howlett case is that he is being tried under Delaware's common law, section 105, which makes the charge a misdemeanor although he can get up to a life sentence if convicted.

Trial in Courts of Common Pleas are restricted to misdemeanors. Felonies go to Superior Court.

Felton School Notes

Otha Dale Teaff has been appointed to replace Mrs. Patricia Mandler as mathematics instructor in Felton Junior High School. He is a graduate of the University of Miami and a veteran of World War II.

The Avon Club held its regular meeting in the cafeteria of the school Nov. 7. As part of their observation of American Education Week, they toured the enlarged and remodeled building with Student Council representatives as guides.

Dr. Howard E. Henry, supervising principal, addressed the group and pointed out the extent of progress in both the building and educational programs which has taken place during the past 12 years. He showed how the enrollment has more than doubled in that time, with a corresponding increase in the size of the faculty. The building has more than doubled in size and the school grounds are more than three times the size as in 1950.

Most important, however, in Dr. Henry's opinion, has been the improvement in both the number of courses and subjects offered and the quality of the instruction made possible by improved teaching facilities. A wider range of academic subjects is now available for Felton pupils and first class instruction in vocational agriculture and business education.

Dr. Henry stated that the citizens of the Felton School District can well be proud of the part which they have played in making these improvements possible. He forecast an even greater rate of growth in the next decade and asked for continued support in meeting the ever-increasing demands for high quality education in this rapidly changing world.

Following the meeting, the student guides conducted the ladies on an observation tour of the school, so that they could get a better understanding of the changes in instructional techniques made possible by scientific progress in recent years.

Elementary School News

The first grade is working on a testing program designed to find which children are ready for reading, which ones are not yet ready, and which children have successfully completed their reading books. The elementary principal, William E. Cline, said, "This program is still in a state of formation. We are trying to discover the best methods of helping the children. We have used two tests of reading readiness and one test following the first books. The teachers and myself are going to wait until early spring before we recommend any specific plan. Our feeling is that many of the problems that develop later on in school had their basic causes in the first grade."

The elementary department is spending about $500 this year on the improvement of the arithmetic and science programs. Much of the money is spent on filmstrips, manipulative arithmetic devices, and books. Half of the money comes from the Federal Government, and half from local funds. The expenditures this year are part of a long-range plan to give Felton Elementary School children a progressively better education in science and mathematics.

The recent situation in Cuba reminds each of us again to have a good, workable plan for caring for our families and our livestock in case of an atomic emergency.

Your Extension Service has the responsibility for giving facts for emergencies. A leaflet, entitled "Rural Civil Defense", has been prepared for your use. Each farm family will receive a copy in the mail within a week.

We urge you to read it carefully, discuss it with you family and keep it handy for reference. Should you fail to get a copy, call us at 736-1448 for it.

Two new draglines were recently placed in operation by the Soil Conservation District of Kent County, says C. Arthur Taylor, chairman of the Board of Supervisors. These two heavy duty type machines are used exclusively by the Soil Conservation District to assist farmers in applying desperately needed drainage for their cropland.

Recent acceleration in the drainage of entire farm communities has resulted in the district doubling their equipment program to keep up with the demand and better serve the farmers in Kent County.

Leroy Pepper is the equipment manager for the Soil Conservation District. The district is a farmers organization, organized in 1943 to carry out a balanced soil and water conservation program in Kent County.

Our top county crops show winners were Carl Melvin of the Caesar Rodney FFA, and Gustav Ziebutski of Wyoming.

The seven hay contests drew the most entries. Woodrow Haas of Wyoming produced the best field cured sample of alfalfa hay. Charles Blendt of Smyrna had the top heat-cured alfalfa sample.

Wayne Collison of the Harrington FFA delivered the best corn silage sample. David Winkler, also of Harrington FFA, came up with the top yellow soybean entry in competition with a dozen other exhibitors.

Time and space does not permit a complete listing of the county winners. But these entries now have to the state show which will be open to the public at Capitol Grange in Dover on November 20.

The Kent and Sussex Holstein Cattle Club met at the Delaware State Fair Grounds to make plans for another year of shows, sales, and other events.

Don Burton, University of Delaware livestock specialist, reported on the state herd at the Timonium Show. He cited Kenneth Moore of Dover for his fine showing with a junior calf at the show.

Bob Hellman, association fieldman, said there have been 775 Holstein registrations in Delaware alone in 1962. The breed accounts for 62 per cent of all registrations nationally.

"Quite Pride" — In brief remarks to the stockholders of the Southern States Co-op recently, Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman said, "The American farmer can take quiet pride in the fact that of the many problems with which President Kennedy is faced today, food is not one of them. This country has on hand an abundance of food and fiber sufficient to meet foreseeable needs. The national cupboard today holds food stocks 50 per cent greater than it did when the Korean conflict began. We are confident that agriculture and the farm family can meet any request which might be made." Americans can be assured that an abundant supply of food is available. And it is backstopped by a farm system with the capacity to respond to any need.

Farmers Must Produce—It is figured that by 1975 farmers must produce half again as much in many crops if Americans are to eat as well then as they do now. The needs are expected to include 61 per cent more broilers, 60 per cent more fruit and vegetables, 56 per cent more meat animals and 48 per cent more dairy products, among other increases.

The average consumer will eat the equivalent of 33 hogs, 10 lambs, 8 steers and 4 veal calves during his lifetime meat-eating days.

The average person spends about $91 per year for meat.

Silo Gas Is Toxic — Several deaths have already been reported around the country this fall from silo gas.

Here are a few simple suggestions that may save a life or keep silo workers from becoming seriously ill:

Ventilate all silos before entering. Make sure the silo room or area around the silo also is ventilated. If you find gas in the silo, air the silage thoroughly before feeding it to animals and be sure the barn has plenty of fresh air circulating through it. Do not leave filled silage carts in the cow stables between feedings.

Dairymen should gradually introduce their cows to gas-producing silage over a period of seven to ten days.

Delaware Food Market Report

The best news for market baskets this week is supplied by Florida oranges here now in a golden tide that has forced prices down to as low as 18 cents a dozen.

The Florida crop is coming in earlier than usual this year and the outlook is for abundance of the fruit. Grapefruit are more reasonable this week also.

Lemons did not follow the other citrus fruits downward, instead they are more expensive. In some stores they reached an all-time high in price so it will pay to shop around for this fruit.

Tangerines are rushing the season this year for they are here a month or more ahead of their schedule. Sizes are small as yet and prices are reasonable. Other fruits to check are avocados, red Emporer grapes, apples and cranberries.

Many good to excellent quality vegetables are on hand this week and prices are a bit lower. Acorn and butternut squash are good choices as are such standard items as potatoes, sweet potatoes, cabbage, onions, cauliflower, carrots, green peppers and spinach. Artichokes and Brussels sprouts are two short-season vegetables currently in good supply so enjoy them now.

Remember to check prices carefully on eggs when you buy them. There is only a difference of 3 oz. between Grade A medium sizes and Grade A large eggs. When you check the price spread between medium and large eggs of the same grade use the figure "7" to determine the most egg for your money. If mediums are 7 cents less, they are the better buy. When you check the cost of a dozen large eggs on today's market and realize it is 1 1/2 lbs. of high quality protein, you will find that the cost is most attractive.

Many red meat cuts continue at lower prices than a few weeks ago. Meat production will increase seasonally for the next several weeks and lower prices may result.

Be sure to check the canned foods section at your favorite store. There are many excellent sales on both canned vegetables and fruits. Now is the time to stock your shelves for days you may not be able to get out.

We would like to have you ask yourselves the following questions: Do you know how to stop severe bleeding? Do you know how to treat someone that has stopped breathing? What to do if someone has swallowed poison? How to recognize shock and treat it? If not you should spend these two evenings with us and learn. Either of these can cause death before a doctor could arrive.

You will also learn that first aid training might well save your life as well as that of others. It is recommended that at least one person in each family receive this training.

GI trained veterans have helped to raise the entire educational level of the United States. Mr. Fields pointed out, citing a Census Bureau report that today the average head of the household has 10.4 years of schooling as compared with only 9 years in 1950.

Two other VA programs — GI loans and GI insurance — have assisted veterans in meeting the challenge of readjustment to civilian life, Mr. Fields said.

Under the GI loan program, more than 6.7 million veterans have been able to put down roots by purchasing homes of their own with VA-guaranteed loans. Low-cost GI life insurance has given more than 5.9 million veterans the sense of security that comes in preparing for the care of their families should anything happen to them.

America's disabled veterans, fighting their way back to productive, independent lives, have been helped along the way by VA benefits such as hospital and medical care, vocational rehabilitation training, compensation and pension payments and special grants for automobiles and carefully — designed "wheel-chair homes."

Some 688,000 disabled veterans received vocational rehabilitation training. The great majority are employed in fields using the skills acquired during training.

When the nation honors its veterans next weekend, it will be able to laud, not only their exploits in war, but their determined peacetime achievements, Mr. Fields said.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield Invite Senior Citizens and Students to Join in November

PERSONS 65 AND OVER During this 30-day period, Delaware residents in this age group, not already members, are being offered two types of protection:

65-National Senior Citizens Program is a completely new contract especially designed for persons enrolling after age 65. Based on a careful study of the needs of senior citizens of Delaware, this contract offers 70 days of hospital benefits per confinement, plus liberal surgical-medical benefits. Individual monthly dues are $12.75.

65-Limited Contract, which was first introduced in 1959, provides per hospital confinement, 30 days of hospital care at maximum benefits — plus up to $10 a day toward all services for the next 30 days. Individual monthly dues are $7.31.

There are no upper-age limits. No health statements or examinations are required. Benefits are based on the needs of Delaware senior citizens. Memberships accepted in November will become effective January 1, 1963.

There is nothing new or unusual about Delaware Blue Cross and Blue Shield providing health care for people age 65 and over. Since the Delaware Plan began in 1935, persons joining before age 65 continued to be members after 65. And, since 1959, persons joining after 65 have been offered the 65-Limited Contract. Together, the 65-Limited and the new 65-National Contracts broaden the care available to the 65-and-over age group and offer a choice of low or high level protection.

If you are 65 or over—or if you have parents, relatives, or friends in that age group whom you wish to help—call or write Delaware Blue Cross and Blue Shield for full information.

STUDENTS UP TO AGE 23 The extremely attractive, money-saving Student Contract is being offered throughout November. Delaware residents attending school or college full-time anywhere, and out-of-state residents attending school full-time in Delaware may apply. This protection was especially developed to meet the particular needs of students, and offers outstanding coverage for its cost. For example, individual hospital-surgical-medical coverage costs only $2 per month. Memberships can be applied for by students or parents during November; contracts are effective January 1, 1963.

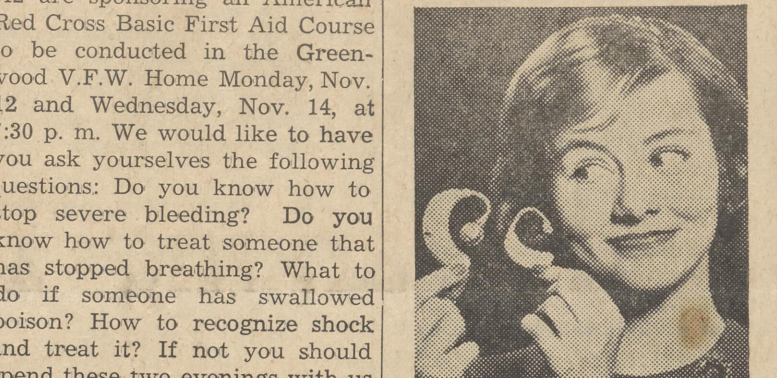

Eligible students who are not now members may call or write Delaware Blue Cross and Blue Shield for full information and a Student Contract application.

Eligible students who are now covered as dependents, who become 19 in 1962, and are protected on a Family Contract until December 31, 1962, may call or write Blue Cross and Blue Shield for a Student Contract application.

Delaware Blue Cross and Blue Shield publish this advertisement to keep you informed of the broad scope of service that this non-profit, community-spirited plan offers to every resident of Delaware. Through-out November—as a person 65 or over, or as a student up to age 23—you have an opportunity to join Blue Cross and Blue Shield, and thus enjoy the health protection preferred by 2 out of 3 Delawareans. For information, or to obtain your application, call or write your Delaware Blue Cross and Blue Shield office. Group Hospital Service, Inc., Wilmington, Dover, Milford, and Seaford.

KEITH S. BURGESS — Sports Editor

"Sports Odds And Ends"

The Harrington, Junior Football League will hold a meeting over the First National Bank, Monday evening at 7:30. All interested persons and parents are urged to attend.

We saw an advertisement by a political candidate in which he made no mention of his qualifications for the post he was seeking. He merely stated that he had been active in football for many years. What office did he think he was running for, that of head coach? At last count he was trailing his opponent, a former basketball star, by a good margin. We have been told that football will do many things for an individual. However, we don't think that exposure to the pigskin sport, or any other sport, is a solution to all the world's ailments.

Bob Cooper, who may be cross-country champ in Delaware as you read this, started to run long distance as a fifth grader in England. He used to run for Wm. Penn but later transferred to P. S. DuPont. Harrington's Clarence Hackett raised Wm. Penn from also-ran status to the third best team in the Blue Hen Conference. If Cooper, undefeated this year, was still at the New Castle School he and Hackett would carry them to the state title.

Clarence brought a few of his teammates to Killen's Pond this week to practice with some of the H.H.S. team. Neither squad was at full strength so no score was kept. Hackett was first across the finish line in a fast 12:44. Hannah, of the Colonial was second in 13 minutes even. Dennis Rogers set a new personal best of 13:03 for third. Wayne Carson dropped from 13:45 to 13:19 and captured fourth. Randy Knox was fifth. John Dickerson and Roger Betts placed ahead of the Colonial's fifth man for a fine Lion effort.

An upstate baseball coach almost had a stroke when a football player at his school was shaken up in a recent game. When the kid finally staggered to his feet the horsehide mentor heaved a king size sigh of relief. Said he, "He is my catcher. I can't afford to lose him." This man, along with coaches in other sports, has his fingers crossed until the snow flies.

Wolverines Rank 6th in Junior College AA Polls

The Wesley College Wolverines, ranked sixth in the nation in National Junior College Athletic Association polls last week, extended their unbeaten streak for the current season to seven Friday night, downing a tough Navy aggregation from Bainbridge Naval Prep, 24-6.

The Dover junior college, had already picked off the Tri-State Conference crown last week by blanking out Potomac State College, of Keyser, W. Va., in its final conference tilt.

Credit for the winning season, first since Wesley entered the junior college grid ranks in 1953 is handed to head coach Dick Smith, now in his second season for the Delaware college. Smith, former director of athletics at Caesar Rodney High School and Conrad High School in Delaware has rapidly wiped out the memory of a one-win seven-loss inaugural, last year.

With only five lettermen returning to the Wolverine squad this year, Smith collected an aggregation of Delaware ball players who have sparkled his second season to unprecedented results for Wesley. An all-Delaware backfield of Georgetown's Bill Conaway, Dover's Bob Sylvester and Chet Carroll, and Wilmington's Bruce Marine, back up a line featuring ends Jim Persinger, Smyrna, and Phil Boyle, Wilmington and center Charley Sheppard, of Lewes. Also on the standout list for the Wolverines is former Wilmington All-star halfback Jim Bove, top scorer for Wesley with 42 points. Second in the scoring column is Sylvester, with 36, followed by Bruce Marine and Conaway, each having garnered 24 for the season.

The Wolverines are off this week, returning to action on November 17 for the final game of the season against Drexel Institute of Technology, at home.

The season thus far; Wesley 13, Long Island Aggies, 7; Wesley 14, West Chester Frosh, 6; Wesley 21, Montgomery J. C., 14; Wesley 52, Williamson, 6; Wesley 32, Baltimore J. C., 6; Wesley 28, Potomac State, 0; Wesley 24, Bainbridge, 6.

Selbyville Ties H.H.S. In Football

The two weak sisters of the Henlopen Conference, Harrington and Selbyville, battled to a 7-7 stalemate in a night contest at Selbyville on Friday. The tilt represented the last good chance for the locals to chalk up another win, since Rehoboth and Delmar are the last two foes on the Lion schedule. The Seahawks are leading the conference in scoring, Delmar, a defensive standout, ranks second in the league in defense with only 34 points allowed. If the Lions fail to win in the next two contests, it will mark the first year the locals have been winless in the conference.

At Selbyville the Lions took a first period lead when Paul Rash scored on a 12 yard run for the Harrington team's second touchdown in five Henlopen games. Jeff Adams ran over the extra point.

The Rebels tallied on a 60-yard pass play from Dave Baker to Kent West with Roger Hudson adding the tying point after touchdown on a run. Selbyville was blanked by four other league foes. The Sussex Countians had visions of their first victory of the campaign as they threatened to win in the closing seconds, only to have H.H.S. finally halt the Rebels on the seven yard stripe.

Frank Covaleskie's Rehoboth Beach Seahawks figure to be on the rebound when they come here Saturday afternoon. The Beachboys appeared to have hit their stride when they trounced a good Bridgeville team 46-6 two weeks ago. However, Delmar upset the resort boys last week so our Lions may have to pay for this setback. The Seahawks gave the locals a horrendous 54-0 shellacking at Rehoboth in 1961.

Eagles Down Colts 38-0

Ted Layton's Eagles bested the Colts 38-0 on Sunday afternoon at the Moose Home. The winners have blanked all opposition during the two year existence of the Harrington Junior Football League.

Against the Colts Gary Smith got in the clear on the Eagles first offensive play of the game, caught a pass and went on to score. The Eagles classy backfield of Dill, Welch, Klapp and Redden then took over for the rest of the afternoon. The last two named are developing into fine blockers.

When the Eagles are on defense their two big men Dill and Welch, play on the line. Together with Klapp and Dale Motter, two other defensive linemen, they kept the Colts in hot water most of the time.

Next week the Bears face the Eagle steamroller. Bill Morris' boys are showing improvement and the last time these teams met the Eagles were "held" to a 14-0 victory.

Football fans in Harrington can hardly wait until some of these kids start filtering into the high school program. They will undoubtedly be a big help.

An all-star team from the local league is scheduled to play teams from Laurel and Berlin, Md., after the regular schedule is finished. All three teams are to be from the same age and weight class to prevent a repetition of last year's contest with the Berlin Scarlet Hurricanes. The Marylanders came here with an older and bigger team than Harrington's and scored when they felt like it.

Monday night at 7:30 the Harrington Junior Football League will hold a meeting over the First National Bank. All interested persons and parents are urged to attend.

Lion Harriers Rank Seventh In State

Coach Harold McDonald's Harrington High cross-country team made a fine showing in the Delaware Interscholastic cross-country championship run for the fifth straight year. The Lions are ranked seventh in Delaware out of twenty-two schools competing in cross-country. Only Milton High of all this group has a student population as small as Harrington's.

In the 2.3 mile grind held on the rugged Rockford Tower course, in Wilmington, the Lions missed sixth place by one measly point. They were nosed out by A. I. DuPont, the Independent League champion. Low score determines the winner in cross-country. Indicative of Harrington's improvement is the fact that the locals scored 54 points less than in 1961. Also, last year's squad had only three runners under 13 minutes. These were Clarence Hackett, Ken Garey and Dennis Rogers, who just shaded that figure with 12:59. Wednesday six Lions were under 13 minutes and all of these will be back next year except co-captain Ken Garey.

119 harriers faced starter Frank Melvin's gun. The six Lion runners all placed in the first half of the field. Dennis Rogers, a sophomore, lead the locals by finishing 35th in 12:32 almost half minutes and 20 notches higher than last year. George Bonniwell, also a 10th grader, is a first year harrier, who was 38th in 12:33. In a coincidental finish Ken Garey was clocked in exactly the same time as last year, 12:37, and was 40th against a 39th spot in '61.

Freshman Roger Redden, the Brownville Bombshell, blasted past 68 runners after running dead last for the first 300 yards and finished in 51st spot. At this rate he could be at or near the top in his junior and senior years.

Randy Knox, a junior, made his first trip ever around the Rockford Park course in 12:54. Knox burst past a half dozen runners in a great final sprint to the fire.

Co-captain Wayne Carson was the sixth and last Lion to finish. He was timed in 12:56, an improvement of 39 seconds over last time and finished in 60th spot as against a 75th placing.

Circumstances beyond anyone's control resulted in the Harrington team reporting for the race in poor physical condition. George Bonniwell was in an auto accident that necessitated ten stitches in his head. He ran Wednesday with little training since the North Carolina meet 12 days earlier. Rain, work schedules, teacher's meetings and other happenings had kept most of the locals idle for periods of six days to two weeks. It now appears that H.H.S. would have been a shoo-in for third place with a little bit of racing luck. Mt. Pleasant nosed out Harrington to remain the only state harrier school which the locals have never beaten.

Clarence Hackett, former local favorite, sprained his ankle and ran in spite of the medic's protestations. He hurt both ankles earlier this year so his tenth place finish was remarkable under the circumstances. The Wm. Penn ace ran a 11:26 at Rockford Park last year. Wednesday's winner, Bob Cooper, of P. S. DuPont, beat this mark by only 3 seconds. A healthy and fit Hackett might have taken all the marbles.

Frank Cain ran a fast 13:06 to pace the Harrington jayvee squad to a sixth place finish against an eighth place last autumn. Cain was 15th in a field of 86 harriers.

Bob Beene ran his best race of the year with a good 13:27. Roger Betts was third local with 13:48.

Danny Hicks, mighty mite eighth-grader, chugged past a lot of astonished six foot sophomores and juniors as the 4 ft. 10, 80 pounder was timed in an amazing 14 minutes and 1 second.

Donald Minner finished second and was clocked in a good 14:26 in an impromptu race with Newark reserves.

Salesianum, a school with 1200 boys, again trailed H.H.S. in the varsity race and the jayvee race. Many other comparatively huge schools did also.

The Lions see the Rockford layout only once a year. All the other schools except Milford, see it daily if they close to do so. H.H.S. may be in the running for No. 1 spot next year with almost everyone back. If so, a couple of weekend trips may be made to Wilmington for extra practice.

Harrington may be in the running for state individual champion in 1964-5-6 with Bonniwell and Rogers now sophomores. Redden now a freshman and Hicks now an eighth grader.

Game Care and Preparation

For the hunter who kills small animals and waterfowl and for the housewife who prepares and cooks them, here are a few tips from Janet Coblentz, University of Delaware foods and nutrition specialist.

All game should be field dressed immediately to prevent bacterial action. This is the job of the hunter and usually means removing the viscera. Evisceration not only prevents bacterial growth but opens the body cavity to the air so the carcass can cool more rapidly.

When the hunter gets home, he should remove the skin of rabbits and squirrels and the feathers of birds—as well as their feet, head and tail.

It's then up to the homemaker to either cook the game immediately or store it.

If it's to be stored, freezing is easiest. Game is frozen the same as other meats. It should not, however, be kept more than 4 months.

Since freezing does not improve the quality of any food, it is best to freeze only high quality game. Use moisture, vapor resistant, packaging materials. Label all packages with the name of the item, the date frozen and the number of servings or weight.

The best way to cook small game animals is according to their age. Age may be difficult to judge, but you can figure 80 per cent of the small game taken in season is less than 1 year-old. This game is tender and may be cooked by oven-roasting, broiler, or pan-broiling methods.

Because small animals are always skinned the meat may easily become dry and tough. To avoid this, cover with an oil or fat-soaked cheesecloth during roasting. As this dries, baste with more oil or fat. Bacon fat is especially good because it masks the game flavor.

It takes about an hour to braise, roast or pot-roast squirrels and rabbits. Rabbits, however, can also be broiled. This takes only 30 to 40 minutes.

For every 1-2 to 3-4 pounds of ready-to-cook squirrel or rabbit, you will get 1 to 2 servings.

The rules for cooking wild ducks and geese are much the same as for small animals. Figure 1 1/2 pounds dressed weight to serve 2 to 3 persons.

Most people prefer to oven-roast ducks and geese. Without dressing, this will take about 45 minutes at 300 degrees F.; with dressing, 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 hours.

Apple chunks may be used as a stuffing. The apples will absorb some of the game flavor. They should be discarded after roasting is completed.

To add special zest to waterfowl, use spices and herbs—but with discretion. Try basil, oregano, marjoram, sage, thyme, savory or rose-mary.

Salisbury Kennel Club to Hold Show

The Salisbury, Md., Kennel Club will hold its ninth annual all breed show Sat., Nov. 10, at the modern Civic Center, Glen Ave. extended, with 619 dogs competing. Judging will start at 9:30 a. m. continuing thru the day. At noon a special attraction will be Dog and Mistress Costume exhibition. Many cash prizes will be awarded.

Our own Kent-Sussex Kennel Club will be well represented at this show. James Tatman, Collies; Mrs. Gordon Willis, English setters; Mrs. Beverly Dugan, German shepherds; Ray Stoope, Newfoundland and many other exhibitors. Mamie and Frank DeLong's Boston terriers, Prince's Little Sister, a consistent winner, will be competing for points toward her championship. Ch. Stepper's Royal Duchess will be shown in "Special Only" for best of breed against an entry of 18 Bostons.
