

COSMETOLOGY UNIT TOLD, ALTER BUDGET

The State Board of Cosmetology was advised to return to the Joint Finance Committee later with a revised budget request Monday.

Sen. Walter J. Hoey, chairman of the committee, gave that advice after two members of the Board—Mrs. Ernest Temple, secretary, and Frances De Genova, chairman—said the $5,776 request for fiscal 1964 was based on cost estimates from October, 1962, when the board was created, to October, 1963, rather than on a fiscal year from July, 1963, through June, 1964.

The discrepancy came to light when members asked what was the purpose of a $4300 supplementary appropriation bill (HB 32) Thursday, Jan. 17, in the House, but still to be considered in the Senate.

De Genova explained that no money was appropriated to the board when it was created and the $4300 is to meet the current expenses including the establishment of an office.

Mrs. Temple, who operates the office in her home, then said the budget request for the coming fiscal year contains some duplication of items included in the $4,300 emergency appropriation bill.

Mrs. Temple told the committee that new laws setting forth standards and regulations for beauticians and establishing higher licensing rates will protect those in Delaware in the cosmetology business.

She said two-thirds of the New Castle County beauticians came to Delaware in the last few years from Pennsylvania and Maryland because those states had fees and other regulations where Delaware didn't.

Also at the hearing, Mrs. Temple was advised by House Majority Leader Norman A. Eskridge, D-Seaford, not to turn in collected fees to the general fund until she knows how much money she is going to have to return under provisions of House Bill 31 which has also been passed by the representatives, but not by the senators.

Eskridge said that while the law requires the money to go in the general fund, it does not specify when, and told her that it would be hard to get it out once it is in. The bill he mentioned provides for reimbursement to cosmetologists who have paid more fees than necessary under the original law which is now in the process of being amended.

Mrs. Temple said about 1400 beauticians have registered with the board and an estimated 1000 remain unregistered. She added that she is confident that these 1,000 will become registered cosmetologists once the law changes are enacted.

The five senators and five representatives also heard Maurice A. Hartnett III, director of the Legislative Reference Bureau, defend a proposed salary raise from $6,000 to $9,000 which the Budget Commission has recommended and submitted in its budget act (HB 1).

Hartnett said that House and Senate attorneys are paid $6,750 each for a 90-day session while he writes as many bills as they do.

"Additionally," he said, "I'm in the office nearly every day of the year and there all the time when the General Assembly is in session." He said he answers an ever-increasing volume of mail, performs many "housekeeping" functions and reviews all bills before the governor signs them.

Chicken Festival Chairman Named

Howard Wilson, of Salisbury, will be general chairman of the 17th annual Delmarva Chicken Festival, it was announced by Gene Bailey, of Rehoboth Beach, president of the Delmarva Poultry Industry association, festival sponsor.

The festival, which plays host each year to the finals of the National Chicken Cooking Contest, will be held at Salisbury, June 13, 14 and 15th. Activities of both the festival and national cook-off will be centered in the huge Wicomoco Youth and Civic Center auditorium, Wilson said.

The new festival chairman is vice president of Tri-County Gas Co., Inc. of Salisbury. He is a past president of the Salisbury Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Delmarva Gas Association and the Heart Association of the Lower Eastern Shore. Two years ago, he was awarded Salisbury's Distinguished Service Award.

UNIT BUDGET

He admitted, however, that his job has a statutory limitation of $6,000 and that this was all he requested.

Gov. Elbert N. Carvel and the Budget Commission increased the amount for Hartnett (and other constitutional officers) in the budget bill on the grounds it takes precedence in law over any other statutes. Hartnett said he also believes it would and Hoey was of the same opinion.

Hartnett also told the committee that he also receives $2,400 a year as a member of the Delaware Revised Code Commission which reviews all statutes and places them in the code. He said he does most of that work at his home or office on his own time.

Levy Court Seeking Six Year Terms

Legislation will be introduced in the General Assembly to change the election of the Kent County Levy Court so all members run at large for six-year terms.

James B. Messick, Levy Court president, suggested the measure to the Levy Court at Tuesday's meeting and Edward Kuesly and Carl F. Prettyman approved the idea.

Levy Court commissioners run now for two year terms from three Levy Court districts which are combined election districts.

Messick's bill will call for each commissioner to represent a Levy Court district but election will be at large as in New Castle and Sussex Counties.

"I think it is ridiculous to run for two years," Messick said. "I think there should be continuity of programs."

The bill would begin a staggered term of two, four, and six years in 1964 which would allow one man familiar with past problems always on the Levy Court, argued Messick. This will mean experienced persons will always be on the Levy Court to provide continuity of government, said Messick.

As an example, he cited zoning for the county which may take six years to bring in.

Fair Announces Entertainment

The Delaware State Fair arranged its entertainment Jan. 16 at York, Pa., in a meeting of the Central Fair Association.

The entertainment is as follows: Joey Chitwood Thrill Show; Tony Vitale, fireworks; Sandy Luce, all-girl thrill show featuring equestrian acts; Four Seasons, teenage rock and roll; Les Paul and Mary Ford, songs and music; Brenda Lee, singer; Frank Fontaine, singer; Manhattan Rockets, dancers; Maurice May Jr., comedy bicycle act; Miss Mary, punching bag act; Three Wheelers, musical and sway-pole act, and Three Bragazzis, comedy.

DELINQUENT TAXES DRIVE MAPPED

The Kent County Levy Court met in closed session with county school administrators Tuesday and agreement was made to cooperate in collecting delinquent taxes.

Eleven representatives of all large county school districts and several small districts were present for what was termed "a very cooperative meeting."

After the meeting Levy Court President James B. Messick said the school districts would co-operate with the county tax office to get accurate lists of taxpayers as possible.

Following mailing of final notices to taxpayers next month the lists will be checked and action may be taken to collect against delinquents, Messick said. F. N. Postlethwait superintendent of the Caesar Rodney School District, said that he was pleased with the results of the meeting. Representatives from Dover, Felton, Smyrna, Frederica, Milford, Harrington, and Houston attended.

Messick suggested that delinquent taxes may be collected by either filing suit or through garnisheeing wages.

Uncollected taxes are a problem in the county but mainly to school districts. School officials of two districts, Dover and Caesar Rodney have taken measures

McDowell To Introduce Tax Relief Bill

Congressman Harris B. McDowell, Jr., Democrat, Delaware, said he would introduce a bill this week designed to provide both individual and corporate tax relief.

The new McDowell bill would increase personal income tax exemptions from $600 to $800, and reduce the corporate normal tax rate from the present 30% to 25%.

Congressman McDowell pointed out that his bill removes part of the present tax burdens on small business concerns, as well as the tax burdens on other business firms.

He said "these reforms are those most needed to stimulate business and national economic growth."

Congressman McDowell went on to say:

"This kind of tax cut is important both in terms of its decisive impact on the economy as well as in fair tax treatment of all groups in the population.

"Low and middle-income families spend all or almost all their incomes. They spend additional income very rapidly.

"There would be a fast and substantial boost of consumer sales from such a tax cut. As the increase in sales spread through be accompanied by rising business profits and increased investments as well.

"Over the course of the year, the increases in employment, personal incomes and business profits would begin to generate additional tax revenues.

"A $200 increase in personal income tax exemptions would apply to every Federal taxpayer. It would give immediate relief, therefore, in an area where it is needed the most—to the older citizens dependent upon reduced earning capacity, and especially to the family man in providing for his children as they approach high school and college age. Moderate income families are today feeling the squeeze of these increased costs as they struggle to balance the family budget and provide adequate education of their children.

"While I fully endorse the basic outlines of President Kennedy's tax reduction proposals, as

Fair Association Elects Officers

Two officers were elected and five incumbents were re-elected recently at a meeting of the directors of the Delaware State Fair.

George C. Simpson, general manager of the fair, retained the post and was also elected 3rd vice president. Jehu Camper was named 4th vice president.

Other officers elected, all incumbents, were as follows: President, J. Gordon Smith; 1st vice president, Edmund Harrington; 2nd vice president, Allen B. Parsons; assistant secretary and assistant treasurer, Mrs. Hattie Thomas, and treasurer, Tharp Harrington.

Car Rolls Over, Hurts Driver, 21

John H. Hamilton, 21, of Farmington suffered possible fractures of the skull and shoulder Tuesday when his car turned over three times.

State police said Hamilton was driving along Route 314, just west of Farmington, when another car, operated by Russell Griffin, 21, of near Farmington, attempted to pass.

Hamilton is Griffin's nephew police said.

Griffin cut in too quickly in passing, according to police, and Hamilton was compelled to pull his car sharply to the right. The right front wheel of Hamilton's car came off when the operator braked quickly and the vehicle turned over three times, continuing for 150 feet before it struck a tree.

The injured man was taken to Milford Memorial Hospital for treatment and observation. His condition was reported "fairly good" Tuesday night.

Magistrate Talks OK'D By Buckson

Atty. Gen. David P. Buckson said Wednesday he is ready to meet with Delaware magistrates in an attempt to resolve any remaining legal problems on debt collecting.

As it stands now, however, Buckson reiterated that magistrates may only collect debts in strict accordance with the law.

This means magistrates will not be allowed to accept commissions from anyone for collecting a debt. Also, magistrates may take no effort to collect a debt without first executing procedures required by law.

Buckson said he would meet Wednesday with his deputy, Thomas Herlihy III, who conferred with several northern New Castle County magistrates Tuesday, to get a preliminary briefing on just what problems the magistrates have regarding debt collections.

The attorney general said he will then set up a meeting soon with the magistrates and will attempt to resolve any remaining legal problems they may have as to the meaning of the law regarding debt collections.

Buckson reported that since the publication of his letter to Delaware magistrates concerning debt collections, he has been deluged with protests and requests for clarification from both magistrates and businessmen who use the magistrates services.

The primary question asked of Herlihy Tuesday by the magistrates was whether they had to stop accepting commissions while collecting bills or must they stop collecting bills altogether.

Buckson answered this Wednesday saying that a magistrate may still render a judgment against a debtor and have his constable conduct a sale of the debtor's property to satisfy the judgment if it is not paid.

Also, the magistrate may accept the amount of the debt from the

March of Dimes Campaign Begins Monday Night

The Mother's March for the March of Dimes campaign will be conducted in Harrington on Monday evening, Jan. 28, at 7 p.m. As in years past the Callaway-Kemp-Raughley-Tee American Legion Post and its Auxiliary Unit will sponsor the drive. The Mother's March will be conducted by members of the auxiliary. A complete canvass of the town will be made Monday evening. Every family is asked to keep their front lights on to help the canvassers with their task.

Mrs. Clyde Tucker, president of the auxiliary has asked all members of the unit to meet at the Fire House at 6:45 to receive their assignments for the march.

Local Car Company Places Third In Contest

Harrington Motor Company wishes to announce that two of their employees have participated in and won a Parts & Service Sales Contest in Chevrolet's Baltimore zone. When a campaign produces the result this one did—over 11% increase in each of the two categories, customer labor and parts in repair order, as compared to the same period in 1961—it may be said that it was a success for everyone. Of 22 dealerships involved in the service contest; Howard Horn, who has been with Harrington Motor Company since 1930, placed his dealership in second place.

Of 30 dealerships involved in parts saver contest; Stanley Clark, acting as parts manager, placed Harrington Motor Company in third place.

The first five dealerships in each group are considered winners and Chevrolet has awarded a two day pre-paid trip to Washington, D. C., to the recipients.

The festivities begin with a reception at the Shoreham Hotel on Saturday afternoon, followed by dinner, dancing and a show in the famous Blue Room of the Shoreham Hotel. The winners wives should enjoy this weekend. Breakfast in their rooms Sunday morning has been added to the celebration.

It goes without saying that Gayle Smith, the dealer at Harrington Motor Company, is justly proud of this accomplishment. It is an indication to him that the small town dealership can compete with larger dealerships in a service and parts basis and still make a creditable showing. Harrington Motor Company wishes to thank all of their patrons for supporting them in this contest.

No Upsets Among Kent Democrats

All challenged incumbents were victorious Saturday in election races for the Kent County Democratic Committee.

Five incumbents faced contests and all five won out, most of them by comfortable margins. In two 4th District contests between men not presently on the committee, the People's Democratic Club bested the 4th District Democratic Club.

Walter A. Handsberry, Kent clerk of the peace, piled up the biggest majority as he swamped his committee seat in the 2nd election district of the 1st Representative District (Smyrna).

The fourth District (Hartly-Marydel) where there were two contests for committeemen and two for committeewomen, John W. Pearson (312) and Charles E. Hansen (289) defeated John R. Carter (235) and Harold W. Fannette (255) and Incumbent Jeanette Darling (319) and Evelyn Webb (293) bested Jennie A. Pyle (247) and Mary C. Willis (231).

Estelle K. Brittingham kept her committee seat in the 1st of the 8th (Frederica) by downing Beatrice Harrington 134-92 with 10 ballots voided.

Sheriff George S. Graham chalked up 233 votes to 157 by W. Hember of the committee from the 1st of the 9th (Harrington).

All of the victors, with the possible exception of those in the 4th District, are regarded as party "regulars" pledged to the administration of Chairman Vernon B. Derrickson.

Derrickson is expected to win easy re-election chairman when the committee hold its formal organization meeting Feb. 12. His stewardship was not a factor in Saturday's election.

Only Two Towns Use Home Rule

The 121st General Assembly, after much clamoring, passed legislation giving Delaware municipalities home rule, but only two have taken the necessary steps to implement it.

Elsmere and Harrington now have home rule and may amend their charters locally. All other incorporated Delaware communities must go to the General Assembly for any charter changes.

Elsmere, near Wilmington, and Harrington, in lower Kent County, achieved home rule through the simple step of filing their charter, with all amendments, with both the Legislative Reference Bureau and the secretary of state.

No other town or city in the state, only municipalities of 1,000 or more population are eligible, has complied with the law but all have until June 1, 1963 to do so if they want home rule.

The law permits the towns which have adopted home rule to amend, repeal or adopt a new municipal charter by following two methods.

Under one the town council or governing board, through a three-fourths vote, can negotiate a charter amendment, repeal or adoption and set up the machinery for the question to go to its voters in a referendum.

Under the other method, 10 per cent of the qualified voters through petition can seek establishment of a charter commission of seven members which would subsequently be elected. This commission would then advocate certain charter amendments, repeals or adoptions and these would go to voters in a referendum.

Five Suspected In Heifers Theft

A faulty electrical connection and the mid-season examinations gave the children of Harrington schools, on Dorman Street, some time off this week.

There was no school Monday because of a short circuit in an underground electric cable running from the street to the school. Examinations were held Wednesday afternoon, Thursday, and Friday, affording additional off time.

Maryland troopers said they have wanted the men for some time for several thefts of soybeans in Delaware.

After answering questions in Maryland they are scheduled to be returned to Delaware.

Robert Collins, complained that soybeans were taken from his farm near Harrington Thursday night. William Parker, said the five heifers were stolen from his farm the same night.

Episcopal Convention Studies Frustrations of City Churches

Despite the rapid urban growth of which Delaware finds itself a part, churches find their least effective work is in the cities, Delaware's Episcopal bishop said Tuesday night.

Addressing 550 Episcopalians, nearly 180 of them delegates from parishes through the state, the Rt. Rev. J. Brooke Mosley detailed the "terrible frustration" faced by city churches.

"Slums, urban renewal, uprooted people, cultural conflicts between groups, social disintegration, demoralizing anonymity, impersonal economic forces and new social tensions and injustices are only a few of the fruits of rapid urban growth."

Bishop Mosley spoke at the banquet of the two-day 178th annual convention at Caesar Rodney's High School, Camden-Wyoming.

As citizens of the fifth fastest-growing state, he said, "we are already urban creatures living in an urban culture . . . and this is only the beginning."

Wilmington's metropolitan population is 75 per cent suburban, Bishop Mosley said. Only eight cities in the nation top this. In one decade, the average family income in the city has fallen below that of the nation. Wilmington's Negro population, 10 per cent in 1950 and 25 per cent in 1960, will probably be 50 per cent by 1970.

One of the most heartening signs to come out of this picture, the bishop continued, "is the growing core of the most intelligent and concerned laymen who see in all of this a challenge to their own Christian ministries and who are deciding to stay in the downtown congregations to be witnesses and leaders of the church's work there."

He also praised the "Metropolitan Ministry Commission" of the Council of Churches of Wilmington and New Castle County, now in its third year as a truly inter-denominational approach to the problem.

The bishop said the problems of two city churches, faced with a changing community ministry, were largely responsible for the failure of the diocese to meet a proposed $276,000 budget for 1963.

Income, based on parish acceptances, will be $46,000 below $276,000 and $22,000 less than was pledged last year, although of the state's 39 parishes, and missions, 12 increased their acceptances and 21 remained at the same level.

Referring to the "shattered debris" of the finance committee proposed budget, Bishop Mosley said a few congregations have already reviewed their giving and are pledging increase. But the fact remains, he said, "that the department of finance and you are confronted with a long-range problem that has serious implications."

On church participation in politics Bishop Mosley said that "each Christian disciple whenever he can and to the extent that he can should be active in the political life of his community."

He praised the work of retiring executive secretary H. Ingersoll (Inky) Brown, and welcomed four new clergymen to the diocese.

The two-day convention opened at 4 p.m. at Christ Church, Dover, with the nomination of officers and a business meeting. Gov. Elbert N. Carvel presided at the banquet.

Wednesday's sessions opened with holy communion in Christ Church at 9 a.m. The Rev. A. Rees Hay, executive director of programs for the Episcopal Diocese of South Florida, addressed the 10:30 a.m. session. He spoke on the Cuban refugee problem and how the church is meeting it.

A luncheon at the Meeting Inn preceded the afternoon session. Adjournment was set for 5 p.m.

Racing Association Re-elects Officers

All officers were re-elected Monday night at a meeting of the Kent & Sussex Racing Association. They were as follows:

President, J. Gordon Smith; vice president, R. Edmund Harrington; secretary, Arnold Gilstad; treasurer, W. W. Shaw; general manager, George C. Simpson; and director of racing, R. Shaw.

JAMES HAS OPERATION

William James, former Harrington resident and past sheriff, was operated on for appendicitis Friday in Kent General Hospital. Friday. He is a deputy sheriff.

Local School Board Adopts Wage Scale Resolution

At its regular January meeting held Thursday evening in the school office the Harrington Board of Education recognized that the prevailing wage scale for average scale paid for the various crafts in Kent and Sussex Counties. In a resolution adopted by the Board this fact was noted and the Board suggested that amendments be made to present wage scales so as to bring its provisions into line with the actual wages being paid to workers in Kent and Sussex Counties.

The Board announced that Mrs. Henrietta Cooper, of Dover, had been employed on a part-time basis at the West Harrington School to teach music and assist in the library. Mrs. Cooper is a fully certified teacher and will be at the West Harrington School on Wednesday and Friday of each week.

In the Building Commission meeting held the same night, the commission authorized specifications be written and bids asked for various items of equipment for the new high school.

The Commission also authorized the sale of the present cafeteria chairs by means of sealed bids to be received by its next meeting on February 28.

The regular meeting for February for both Board and Building Commission was moved from February 21st until February 28, at 7:30 p.m.

Split-Up Is Urged In Highway Department

State Sen. Walter J. (Doc) Hoey, D-Milford, would like to see the State Highway Department split.

"The department has grown too big — it's too spread out," he commented recently at a session of the General Assembly's Finance Committee, of which he is chairman.

The department commissioners, he said, "are acting in many cases as rubber stamps because there is so much going on they can't possibly find out about it all."

Hoey said the state police, Motor Fuel Tax Division and Motor Vehicle Division should be cut away from the Highway Department and made into a separate agency.

Hoey's comments were provoked by the appearance of Mrs. Hattie Tarburton, director of the safety responsibility section of the Motor Vehicle Division.

Her requested budget of $27,140 had been trimmed by $1,940 One of the cuts was in her own salary.

The budget had requested an increase in her salary from $5,700 to $6,500 and the Budget Commission had reduced it to $6,000.

She said she was prompted to ask for the increase because of the extent and responsibility of her duties. The committee heard details of what she did but as usual, no decision on her

School Children Have Off Time

There was no school Monday because of a short circuit in an underground electric cable running from the street to the school.

Examinations were held Wednesday afternoon, Thursday, and Friday, affording additional off time.

Horsemen's Association To Elect Officers February 9

The Cloverleaf Horsemen's Association will nominate and elect officers Saturday evening, Feb. 9, in the cafeteria at the Delaware State Fair.

Attorney General David Buckson is president of the group.

The horsemen's group met in Philadelphia Saturday, when a meeting of the United States Trotting Association was held. Attending the U.S.T.A. meeting were J. Gordon Smith,

State Sen. Walter J. (Doc) Hoey, D-Milford, said Wednesday night he would "never be so small" as to cut the pay of a man who criticized him.

Hoey said that when the salary request for Edgar Hare Jr., state director of public welfare, comes before the Joint Legislative Finance Committee, it will be judged on its merits, without reference to the fact that Hare has accused Hoey of "pressuring" the welfare department.

Hoey is chairman of the Joint Finance Committee, currently holding hearings on the fiscal 1964 budget.

Tuesday night Hare charged that State Sen. Leon E. Donovan, D-Harrington, and Hoey tried to "pressure" the welfare department into putting an ineligible Kent County couple on relief.

Wednesday Hare expressed concern about his salary being cut by up to $1,600 as a result of the charges.

Hare's current salary is $14,000 a year, which is paid from federal, state and county funds under a complicated formula. This year the state's share is about $6,000.

In its budget request, the Board of Welfare asked the state to provide $6,385 toward Hare's salary, which would grant him about a $1,000 raise when the matching funds are added.

But Gov. Elbert N. Carvel's budget message allocated $5,200 for Hare—only enough to support a salary of $12,400 to $12,600 a year.

Hare believes the reduction came about because the administration made a mistake in figuring out the state funds that would be necessary to keep his salary at its present level.

The Carvel administration is reportedly ready to ask the Joint Finance Committee to restore Hare's salary to its present level.

C.K.R.T. Auxiliary To Present Scholarship

The Callaway-Kemp-Raughley-Tee American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 7, of Harrington, will present for the first time a $150 scholarship to a member of the 1963 graduating class of the Harrington High School. On the recommendation of Mrs. James O'Neal, scholarship chairman, the unit voted to make the award.

Mrs. O'Neal and her committee will begin work on the qualifications and requirements of the applicants, immediately. More information will be forthcoming in the near future.

The action was taken at the regular meeting of the unit on Tuesday evening, Jan. 22 at the Legion Home, with Mrs. Clyde Tucker, president presiding.

Mrs. William Smith, Americanism chairman, announced the topic of the annual essay contest this year would be "Blessings of Liberty." Cash awards of $5, $3, and $2 will be given to winners.

Reports on the Christmas gift shop at Brack Ex Veterans Hospital was given by Mrs. L. Gooden Callaway, rehabilitation chairman. For the first time in many years the Harrington unit did not fill its quota of gifts, sending only 65 gifts instead of the usual 100. Mrs. Callaway expressed the hope that next year the unit would again be able to meet their quota.

Mrs. Frank O'Neal reported on the activities of the Child Welfare committee, of which she is chairman. Gifts were sent to the adopted children of the unit at Stockley and Governor Bacon Health Center.

Following refreshments the meeting was adjourned.

Fish & Game News

Donate Pond Site

The Delaware Game and Fish Commission has accepted a permanent easement for the pond bed of Craigs Pond along with one and one-half acres of high land to be used as public access from three Seaford residents. This 15 acre pond site is located about two miles southwest of Seaford on Butler Mill Branch.

Allen D. Figgs, Maitland C. Johnson and Floyd A. Tull have given a permanent easement to the State of Delaware to a site with a fine potential for public outdoor recreating including picnicking and fishing.

Since the deterioration of the water control structure 40 years ago, dense scrub undergrowth has volunteered in the pond bed. Prison labor is being hired to clean up Craigs. It is anticipated that the water control structure will be completed during the fall of 1963.

The Delaware Game and Fish Commission has been allotted $10,000 by the Area Redevelopment Administration of the U. S. Government for accelerated public works activities pertaining to fish and game.

The State will be required to provide matching monies in the same amount.

The commission has allotted this money to assist in the restoration of Garrisons Pond on Route 13 between Dover and Smyrna.

Garrisons Pond site containing 100 acres was acquired by the Commission in 1953. Money for its restoration was voted by the Legislature in 1957 but withdrawn due to the pressing financial condition of the State at that time. A new bill to appropriate funds to restore the pond has been introduced in the current General Assembly by Senator Henry Price.

Purchase Dog Licenses Now
The Board of Game and Fish Commissioners urges all dog owners to license their dogs as soon as possible. Dog licenses for 1963 may be purchased at most sporting goods stores, Justice of the Peace offices and the Dover office of the Game and Fish Commission.

The Commission stresses the importance of securely attaching the 1963 blue tag on the dog's collar. It is almost impossible to identify a lost, strayed or stolen dog that is not wearing a current license tag.

The license costing $1 should be obtained for all dogs over four months of age. North of the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal, all dogs must be currently inoculated for rabies before a license will be issued.

Public Facilities Improved
A project set up by the Delaware Game and Fish Commission to improve boat navigation and fishing is now underway at Horsey Pond near Laurel. A twenty-foot channel is being dredged along 2500 feet of the water's edge in th shallow upper reaches of the pond. When completed in February, fishermen will be able to fish the channel either by boat or from the shore.

Horsey Pond was restored in 1956 by act of the Legislature and is administered for public boating and fishing by the Game and Fish Commission.

Becks Pond Being Improved
The Delaware Game and Fish Commission is developing seven acres (purchased two year ago) on the south side of Becks Pond. The popularity of the pond necessitated expansion of facilities to provide access for boats and more room for bank fishermen and picnickers.

The Commission expects the work to be completed by late spring.

Becks Pond, located on Salem Road just a mile north of Route 40 provides fishing, boating and picnicking for the residents of suburban Newark and Wilmington.

Kent County Agricultural Outlook

By W. T. McAllister

Kent County has enjoyed a remarkably stable agriculture which for a number of years has averaged around 20 million dollars annually. In 1961, total cash farm income for Kent County was $21.5 million. The final figures are not in for 1962 but it is estimated that farm income for Kent County will be approximately the same as in 1961. Vegetable, broiler, and potato sales held their own or increased during 1962 with soybeans and milk dropping off slightly.

The usual amount of stability of farm income of Kent County is due largely to a good balance between livestock and crops and to the fact that a major part of the County has excellent farm land that is productive, easily tilled, and suitable to a wide range of crops. The leading agricultural commodities produced in the county are: soybeans, fluid milk, and vegetables, each with sales exceeding three million dollars. Corn, broilers and potatoes are also very important with each having gross cash sales of over two million dollars. These six major commodities account for 85 per cent of the farm income. Thus the agricultural economy of the county has a broad diversified base so that fluctuations between commodities on an annual basis does not seriously change the income flow from agriculture — a poor year in one commodity is usually offset with an above average year in another.

Looking ahead into 1963, there is nothing which would materially alter the agricultural picture for the county. A cash farm income of between 22 to 24 million dollars is expected in 1963. This would be a small gain over 1962. The income will be divided between a few less farmers than last year as the trend toward fewer but larger and more efficient farm business units will continue into next year and into the foreseeable future. This trend of fewer but larger farms should not be looked upon as a cause for alarm, either by farm or non-farm people. It is typical of economic growth and is about the same kind and of the same magnitude as is taking place constantly in the non-farm sector.

Kent County has approximately 850 full-time commercial farms which means that each farmer on the average can expect a gross cash farm income of around $27,000. Between 75 and 80 per cent of this he will spend for production items, most of which will be purchased through local Kent County businesses. As a rule, the average farmer retains about one-fourth of his gross earnings as payment for his labor and management which he uses for family living and debt retirement. Large profit opportunities in farming are somewhat limited yet farmers with good farms that are well equipped and well managed, can earn a very satisfactory and dependable income. In this respect, farming as a business does not differ much from other businesses.

Agriculture in Kent County will continue to be of major importance in the total economy of the county. Agriculture and industrial development will serve to complement each other. Industrial development will provide some farmers that have limited resources and ability and are finding it difficult to make an adequate living on their farms, the opportunity to take off-farm jobs, either full or part-time. Also, it provides employment opportunity for rural young people who otherwise would need to pull up stakes and leave the area. Better incomes by our rural people means more dollars spent on Main Street of our local towns and cities.

Increased industrial activity means bigger local markets for locally produced farm products. Growing communities mean more houses, roads, utilities, schools and other services, thus creating more employment. Some farmers may find that catering to the recreational needs of the growing urban population is a profitable way to use their land, labor and business ability.

The economic growth envisioned for Kent County next year and in future year will be good for farmers and non-farmers. It is hoped that the growth can be directed in an orderly manner so that all segments of the economy of the County will share in its benefits.

Willis W. Minner

Willis W. Minner, 82, a retired carpenter, died Saturday at the Jarvis Nursing Home, at Felton.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon from the McKnatt Funeral Home, Harrington. The Rev. Charles Poulkish, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, Harrington, officiated.

Burial was at Hollywood Cemetery, Harrington.

Report on Potter Charity Trust

The Court feels that it is a wholesome thing on occasion to give to the general public an informal report on the operation of the Potter Charity Trust in Kent County. The last one was given about two years ago.

This trust was created for the poor of Kent County as limited by the terms of the trust created under the will of Benjamin Potter about 120 years ago. Under its provisions the trustee is appointed by the Chancellor. In late 1962, James H. Latchum, of Milford, asked to be relieved as trustee. The Chancellor accepted his resignation with regret and with an expression of deep gratitude for his more than 40 years of devoted and beneficial service to the trust. The Farmers Bank was appointed as his successor.

Under the Potter will the trustee has nothing to do with determining those eligible for benefits. The beneficiaries of the funds are determined by the agent. She is Mrs. Margaret P. Weller, of Milford, who was also appointed by the Chancellor. Interested individuals in Kent County may apply to her for information concerning eligibility and application forms.

Another important change in the administration of the trust was begun in 1962 and will be completed in early 1963. The trust assets consisted largely of farms and these farms have not produced adequate income considering their capital value. Thus, the Chancellor in 1962, at the suggestion of both the former and the present trustee, authorized the public sale of about half of the farms. The prices received were gratifying. The remaining farms will be sold publicly in early 1963. It is hoped and expected that by investing the money received from the sales the Court will be able to authorize the Agent to spend annually substantially more than the $5,000 which has been authorized in the recent past.

It is always gratifying to know that the money is being used to give help where it fills a real need. Some 29 families were assisted with enormous benefit not only to themselves but to the communities where they live and to the state generally. A mention of some of the cases assisted is enlightening and heartwarming. Thus, there was the handicapped man whose work was not steady and who needed occasional help with his heavy debt load. With "one shot" help he was able to take over responsibility for his family's needs and did not have to turn to public charity.

There was the large family which was literally almost without food because the weather conditions prevented the father from working. Again, there is always the family plagued by illness where immediate help is important until other sources can take over. The Agent deals closely with the schools and welfare department and helps in cases of special child need — such as paying for special dental care or paying the transportation costs for a child needing special treatment at a distance. These are but illustrations of the help given after reasonable investigation has proved the need under the standards imposed by the Court.

Reasonable confidentiality is also accorded.

Once in a while a letter of thanks is received which gives some evidence of the human values which are preserved because of the benefits received from this trust.

To quote from a letter by a beneficiary:

"I guess there comes a time in everyone's life when they cannot find the proper words to express their gratitude to someone. Now is one of those times. "I want you to know that you have made a mother and father of seven children so happy and lifted a great burden from our shoulders."

The Court expresses its appreciation for the valuable services of its trustees and its agent.

Style Show Farm and Home Week Feature

A triple style revue showing everything from the latest fashions of 3000, B. C., to the newest fashions for spring, 1963, will be one of the highlights at Farm and Home Week, Thursday afternoon, February 7, at the University of Delaware's Agricultural Hall.

"Fashions Through the Ages" will open with a wide assortment of authentically re-created costumes from the pages of history, ranging from popular fashion of 5,000 years ago to a 15th century Persian dancing girl's costume to Dior's radical "new look" of the late 1940's.

Bringing fashions up to date will be members of adult sewing classes sponsored by the home economics extension service who will model clothes they have just made. Then, in a look toward the future, the newest spring styles will be shown along with a collection of new fabrics and new ideas for using familiar fabrics. These are styles for which patterns are available for home sewing.

Another feature on the Farm and Home Week program will be a talk and demonstration showing how "Party Giving is Fun with Small Appliances." Tips on how to use small electrical appliances to best advantage will be given by Mrs. Eve Geiss, home economist for Delaware Power and Light, and Miss Janet Colbert, extension nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware. They will prepare a variety of party foods and snacks at the program and will offer ideas and suggestions on giving successful parties. The program will be presented Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 5.

A session for women who are not entirely satisfied with their figures but haven't the time for special daily exercise will be a feature of the Thursday morning Farm and Home Week schedule. Miss Coral K. Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware, will explain how to "Keep Fit the Easy Way.

Miss Morris will explain her theory that a homemaker can get the proper kind of exercise while she is doing her everyday work, with the result that she will look better and feel better in the process.

Other Farm and Home Week programs for women will include "free advice" sessions on interior decorating, furniture finishing and refinishing and home gardening and landscaping.

Farm and Home Week programs will be held Tuesday through Thursday, Feb. 5 through 7, at the University of Delaware's Agricultural Hall, Newark. The session are open to all residents of Delaware free of charge.

State Egg Cooking Contest Underway

The search is on for the best egg cook in Delaware and everyone over ten years old is eligible to submit a recipe for competition, Katie Thomas, Kent County home economics extension agent announced this week. A state cook-off will be held March 30, and the state winners of each of two divisions will be given all-expense-paid trips to Chicago to compete in the national contest in May. A wide assortment of prizes will be presented to state winners, and national winners will receive $1000 and $500 savings bonds.

Recipes must feature at least one egg per individual serving but may be for any type of dish, from souffles to salads, dips to desserts. A panel of food experts will serve as judges at the cook-offs.

Entries from young people at least ten years old but not 18 as of January 1 will be considered in the Junior division, while the senior division will comprise entrants 18 and older. All entries must be submitted by February 15.

Recipes are to be sent to the Poultry and Egg National Board, national sponsor of the contest, where they will be checked for eligibility prior to the state cook-off. Entry blanks, which must be attached to all recipes submitted, are available at the county extension office, at super market chain stores and from 4-H club leaders and high school home economics teachers.

"We hope many Kent Countians will submit their recipes," Katie Thomas said. "Who knows we may have a national winner in our midst."

Farm and Home Week Briefs

Two special programs are in store for home owners and flower garden enthusiasts at Farm and Home Week Wed. Feb. 6, at the University of Delaware, reminds Katie Thomas, County home economics extension agent.

The first, on Wednesday afternoon, will show how wild flowers can be successfully incorporated into a flower garden. Speaker will be Albert F. W. Vick, Jr., of Vick's Wildgarden, Inc., Gladwyn, Pa. Color slides will be included in the program.

Problems of establishing and maintaining a good lawn and effective home landscaping will be discussed at the evening program by Henry W. Indyk and Raymond P. Korbob, two experts from Rutgers University. Question and answer periods will follow each of the programs. "Bring your garden problems to the experts," Katie Thomas urges.

"If you want to give your home a lift as inexpensively and as effectively as possible, you will get a lot of valuable tips at Farm and Home Week at the University of Delaware," says Katie Thomas, County home economics extension agent. Two programs on home decorating will be featured on Tues, Feb. 5.

In the morning, Mrs. Gemma Usher, interior decorator for Strawbridge and Clothier, Wilmington, will show how to decorate and arrange your home most effectively, and she will also show many new fabrics which can be used with furniture you already have.

"If you want to make some changes in the furniture itself, you can find some good ideas at the Tuesday evening program," Katie Thomas says. Emil Benarick of Your Home, Inc., Wilmington, will discuss ways of furnishing and refinishing both new and old furniture and will also explain many methods of giving a different appearance to pieces you now have, in order to make them fit in with whatever period style you favor.

A wide variety of programs is planned for the three-day Farm and Home Week event, Feb. 5 through 7, including party giving, keeping fit the easy way and a style revue showing not only new spring styles and fashions made by Delaware Women, but also fashions women have worn throughout 5,000 years of history.

Mrs. Jodie Carey

Mrs. Bessie Carey, 70, of Harbeson, widow of Jodie Carey, died last Thursday at the Milford Memorial Hospital. She is survived by two sons, Laurence, of Salisbury, and Joseph, of Harbeson; one daughter, Mrs. Mary Burris, Bridgeville; two grandchildren; three sisters, Mrs. W. H. 2nd-Semester Enrollments Coming Up . . . Remember Blue Cross and Blue Shield

Students! It's time to tie a string around your finger, or to circle registration day on your calendar, or to sit right down and write yourself a letter! Your Blue Cross and Blue Shield student contract is that important.

This is not just any contract. It is especially designed for students and their needs, and this fine-quality coverage is especially priced for student budgets.

Also your coverage is not limited to the school period; it protects you all year long.

Briefly, here are the facts you need to know:

Blue Cross and Blue Shield student contract is for full-time students under age 23. It is available to Delaware residents attending school anywhere, as well as to out-of-state students enrolled in schools in Delaware. Parents! It is wise to see that your students enroll at second-semester time, if they are not Blue Cross and Blue Shield members. The student contract offers most worthwhile benefits.

And, Blue Cross and Blue Shield suggest that you know all the benefits the student contract provides so that you always receive the maximum protection available. For information about the student contract, or any other coverage, see your group representative or contact any Delaware Blue Cross and Blue Shield office. Group Hospital Service, Inc., Wilmington, Dover, Milford, Seaford.

Delaware Blue Cross and Blue Shield publish this advertisement in an effort to keep you, as a member, informed of the scope of your benefits and how best to use them.

Passage of House Bill 19 Would Be Inimical To The Taxpayer and the State

The passage of House Bill 19, introduced in the General Assembly at Dover last week, would be harmful and hostile to the taxpayer and to the State as a whole. It would promote the interest of the union printers of Wilmington, meanwhile harming all nonunion plants and practically all downstate plants.

The bill provides that "all contracts for printing for the State or any department,* board, commission or agency thereof, and all contracts for printing to be paid for wholly or in part with State funds," shall be awarded to a firm which agrees to "pay every employe engaged in the performance of said contract the prevailing wage rate, and provide working conditions prevalent in the locality in which the contract is being performed, or execute an affidavit that a collective bargaining agreement is in effect between an employer and employe who is represented by a responsible organization which is in no way influenced or controlled by management, the provisions of which shall be considered as condition prevalent in said locality. . . ."

The bill also provides a penalty.

Passage of the bill would mean that all State printing amounting to $500 or over would have to be done in a union plant or one paying the union scale. That would mean that downstate printers would have to pay the same scale as in Wilmington, from which the bill emanated. If HB19 passes, there would come legislation, in time, requiring ALL State printing to come under a similar bill or amendment.

Not getting enough State printing to justify a general wage increase of the mechanical force, the nonunion and downstate printers would have to stop bidding on State printing on jobs more than $500. The country boys, however, would still be permitted to pay taxes, and they would be higher.

Losing our State printing to Wilmington would mean the State would have to pay more for some of its printing. Higher printing costs would also tend to induce the State to establish more offset lithography plants of which it has seven in the Dover area alone. These plants are wasteful but the State thinks it is saving money, not to mention its loss in taxes.

The establishment of "prevailing wages" downstate would cause higher prices on State printing and would enable out-of-state printers to fare better in their bidding on State of Delaware printing and they do get some.

Loss of State printing would hurt some Delaware weekly newspapers. To have a profitable business, the weekly newspaper also does commercial printing, thus more efficiently utilizing equipment and personnel. Without weekly newspapers, the State would have only the two dailies and the radio to print the numerous releases it issues.

A bill, similar to House Bill 19, was introduced during Carvel's first term but it got stymied in the Senate. Let us hope House Bill 19 will never get out of the House Printing Committee of which Rep. George H. Exley, of Harrington, is chairman.

Legislation which tells a businessman what he has to pay his help and thus, indirectly, tells him what he must charge for his services or products, smacks of socialism and is outside the realm of democracy. Such legislation is fascism, whether it is motivated by a dictator or by union bosses in Wilmington.

How about the prevailing wage for all printers hired in State offset printing plants?

* This would include school boards.

Safety Workshop Scheduled

Nine state officials and experts in safe living will help train safety leaders of Delaware organizations at a workshop designed to help Delaware citizens have longer and safer lives.

The workshop will be a one-day statewide family safety conference to be held Feb. 1 from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at Kent Manor Inn.

The morning session will be devoted to safety inside the home, the luncheon meeting will concentrate on how parents help children develop proper attitudes, and the afternoon speaker will deal with traffic safety.

Dr. Floyd I. Hudson, executive secretary of the State Board of Health, and Mrs. William N. Cann, vice president for home safety of the Delaware Safety Council, will greet the participants. The two groups are jointly sponsoring the workshop. J. James Ashton, manager of the Council, will explain the purpose of the workshop is to try a new approach in safety education by emphasizing safety training within the family.

State Fire Marshal W. R. Favinger will explain how to guard against fire in the home. William White of Washington, D. C., chief of the family safety branch, division of accident prevention, U. S. Public Health Service, will speak on prevention of falls. The perils of poisons and how to minimize them will be explained by Dr. E. F. Fantazier, chairman of the Delaware Poison Information Center.

The luncheon speaker, on promotion of safety through attitudes, will be George C. Lowe, of the Atlantic Refining Co., Philadelphia.

Lt. Col. Eugene Ellis of the Delaware State Police will tell the group about traffic safety for the family. Samuel F. McKay, safety director of the Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania, will give an illustrated talk on safe living in the home. The day's activities will be summarized by John T. Callahan of the Delaware Power and Light Co.

Safety chairmen and safety directors of clubs, civic organizations, government agencies and industry are invited to attend the workshop which is also open to the public. There is no charge for attendance except for the luncheon. Reservations for lunch may be made by contacting the Safety Council, DuPont Building, Wilmington.

Mrs. Robert A. Clute

Mrs. Louise Clute, 54, wife of Robert A. Clute, died Saturday at Kent General Hospital, Dover, after a short illness.

She lived at Andrews Lake near Frederica.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Patricia Louise Clute, at home, and two sisters and a brother, Mrs. Mamie Hurst and William Burton, both of Vidalia, Ga., and Mildred Scagg, Jacksonville, Fla.

Funeral services were held Wednesday from the Ferguson & Hayes Funeral Home, Dover, with burial at Lakeside Cemetery.

James Butler

James Butler, 59, an employe of the Sun Oil Company in Milford, died Tuesday in Milford Memorial Hospital.

He is survived by his widow, Gertrude; a son, James Butler, Jr., of Milford; a daughter, Mrs. Mary Kohland, of Harrington; and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 1 p.m. from the Berry Funeral Home at Milford. Friends may call at the funeral home tonight.

Airman Basic Arthur C. Chadwell, son of Mrs. Florence B. Moles, R.D. 2, Harrington, is being reassigned to Sheppard AFB, Tex., for technical training as a United States Air Force air freight specialist.

Airman Chadwell, who completed the first phase of his military training at Lackland AFB, Tex., was selected for the specialized course on the basis of his interests and aptitudes.

He attended Dover Central High School.

P.T.A. Convention Scheduled For April 5-6

Convention call has been issued by C. Edmund Maag, president of the Delaware Congress of Parents and Teachers for the 52nd annual convention of the Congress scheduled for Friday evening and Saturday, April 5 and 6 at the John Dickinson High School.

Milton H. Potter, of Heritage Park, has been appointed convention general chairman by Mr. Maag. An architectural engineer in the design division of the Dupont Company, Mr. Potter has been president of the Brandywine Springs High School PTA and for several years, an active member of the planning committee of the Conrad and Marshallton school districts. He is currently a member of the John Dickinson High School PTA.

The theme of the convention, according to Mrs. David Person, program chairman is "Education For Living in An Expanding Universe." Have We Accepted The Challenge? Keynote speakers will be Dr. Martin Essex, of Akron, O., and Dr. Robert F. Williams, of Virginia. Dr. Essex is superintendent of Akron Public Schools and has toured the Soviet Union to study its educational system.

Dr. Williams, Executive secretary of the Virginia Education Association has been superintendent of Virginia Public Schools, and has served as delegate to many European Conferences on Education.

Fred W. Hoover, of Pembrey, is convention vice chairman. C. Edmund Maag is serving as chairman ex-officio. Treasurers are William D. Guthries and Herbert M. Wolfson.

Other committee heads are as follows: William L. Tremaine, David S. Loveland, Jack G. Buckley, Bayard K. Olmsted, Mrs. L. B. Melson, Mrs. R. H. Smith, Mrs. W. L. Gooding, Mrs. Sol Soltzberg, Henry Heller and Gordon MacLean.

Also Mrs. E. T. Lord, Fred C. Carlson, Mrs. H. I. Thompson and Dr. I. Fletcher Walker.

Advisors: James M. Rosbrow and Credric E. Marsh. Liaison: Darrel F. Long, Chief School Officer of the Henry C. Conrad School District; Trafton T. Buchanan, Principal and Michael Visnovsky, assistant principal of the John Dickinson High School.

Mrs. Louise Messick, Mrs. Marie Andrew and Mrs. Dorothy Vincent, were in Wilmington, Sunday.

Johnny Hamilton is in Milford Memorial Hospital recovering from an accident he was in Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Paul Breeding, of Hickman, spent Tuesday with her daughter and family, Mrs. Louise Langford.

Armed Forces Notes

Robert C. Abbott, aviation ordnance third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louise Abbott, of Felton, is serving aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Franklin D. Roosevelt, currently serving with the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean as part of an aircraft carrier striking force.

The ship deployed from the United States in September and has visited Italy, Greece, Turkey, Spain, and several Mediterranean Islands. Christmas was spent in Naples, Italy.

Redevelopment Act Pleases McDowell

After more than six months of personal consultations and meetings with officials of the Area Redevelopment Administration and the Community Facilities Administration, Congressman Harris B. McDowell, Jr. (D-Del.) said this week that he had been advised by the White House that Kent and Sussex Counties, have been designated as areas which will be qualified to participate in various work acceleration programs under the Area Redevelopment Act passed by Congress in 1961.

Congressman McDowell said: "I am highly gratified that the Area Redevelopment Administration has acted favorably in this matter.

"This is a dramatic breakthrough for the State of Delaware since the designation of both counties as redevelopment areas provides important opportunities for Kent and Sussex Counties to establish stable and diversified local economies and improved local living conditions with greater employment opportunities for Delaware's fast-growing population.

"I am particularly pleased since this action will clear the way for the application filed by the Camden-Wyoming Sewer Authority and now pending before the Community Facilities Administration for some $230,000 in Federal grants under the accelerated public works program adopted by the Congress late last year.

Congressman McDowell added: "Technical assistance to communities within the designated areas will be available in finding solutions to economic problems; long-term, low-interest loans to help new industrial and commercial enterprises establish or to assist existing firms in expanding are among other benefits available to such designated redevelopment areas."

MAGISTRATE

debtor if he decides to pay up after the legal proceedings are instituted.

However, Buckson said, the magistrate may accept only the fees provided by lay and may not charge a commission to the debtor or creditor for the service.

Also, the attorney general said, a magistrate may not make any demands on a debtor to pay a debt before the creditor institutes the proper legal actions before him and a judgment is rendered in the creditor's favor.

Buckson said that this decision is rendered under the provisions of a section of the Delaware code which reads, "Whoever being a justice of the peace (magistrate) or constable . . . acts as a collection agent for any person for any sum whatsoever for the collection of which legal proceedings have been instituted, shall be fined $50 for the use of the county, together with the costs of the prosecution."

Many Delaware magistrates, especially those in Wilmington who handle civil cases exclusively, are admittedly upset over the publicity resulting from the attorney general's opinion.

They have admitted that they charge an average of 15 per cent, but only to creditors, as a commission for collecting debts and claim that this commission is the only way they can collect debts without losing money.

Some magistrates said Tuesday that they might have to resign their offices if the commission system cannot be continued since it accounts for a major portion of their income.

A claim of some magistrates is that if a 15 per cent commission for collecting debts is discontinued, it will raise the costs of collecting debts to both creditor and debtor and will cut down on the amount of debts collected.

"Girls, Girls, Girls" At Reese, Jan. 24-25

Many times one has heard the phrase, "it's a big time for all." Nothing could be more true with the announcement of Presley's new Paramount hit, "Girls, Girls, Girls," now sweeping the country, and now playing the Reese Theatre, this Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Jan. 24-25-26. It means three days of hilarious, singing, dancing, musical comedy entertainment sure to please every member of the family. With the Three Stooges plus a Cartoon Circus added it's what one might call "wow" or superlative entertainment.

The regular Reese Theatre program to be found in this newspaper, lists John Hersey's major novel of World War II, "The War Lover," with Steve McQueen, Robert Wagner, and Shirley Anne Field, as the giant attraction for Sunday and Monday, Jan. 27 & 28. Some men love war the way others love women. This is the story of both kinds.

The sensational "Reptilicus" along with Rock Hudson in "The Last Sunset" is the unusual program scheduled for Friday and Saturday, Feb. 1-2.

CRD Control In Poultry

How to control CRD, a respiratory disease of poultry, will undergo serious discussion during the 1963 Farm and Home Week at the University of Delaware early next month, according to George Vapaa, Kent County Agricultural agent.

The disease, sometimes called Air Sac, will be the main area of discussion as University research scientists and industrial representatives take a look at ways to control the problem during poultry sessions on Tuesday, Feb. 5.

Vapaa said the disease costs breeders, broiler producers and market egg producers in Delaware thousands of dollars each year. He urged poultrymen from Kent County to attend the sessions.

Poultry industry personnel will appear on the morning program. Speakers include a breeder, Charles Williams of O. A. Newton and Sons, Bridgeville; a broiler producer, Ralston Pettyjohn of Townsend's, Inc., of Millsboro; and a market egg producer, A. F. Kish, manager of the feed and poultry services of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau Co-operative Association.

M. S. Cover, chairman of the Department of Animal and Poultry Science at U. D., will summarize the problem and "Approaches to the Problem of Control" will be discussed by P. P. Levine of Cornell University.

Afternoon session speakers will include Elmer Nesius of Cobbs Pedigreed Chicks, Inc., Goshen, Ind., Levine and A. A. Alls of the University of Delaware staff. Nesius will discuss "Practical Applications of CRD Eradication" while Levine and Alls will speak on "Application of New Techniques for PPLO Control."

A panel of industrial representatives, moderated by Levine, offering a "Response to the Suggested Control Methods," will round out the afternoon sessions. Speakers include Williams, Pettyjohn, Kish and James Beck of Marker's Poultry Farm.

The traditional three-day Farm and Home Week program, sponsored by the School of Agriculture, will be held Feb. 5, 6, 7. Other topics included in the package, 23-session program, include dairy, livestock, pesticides, vegetables, fruit, home gardening and problems dealing with Delaware's rural and urban resource growth.

Performance Testing Scheduled

Livestock performance testing programs and how producers can use them to select herd replacements will feature the livestock program scheduled during Farm and Home Week at the University of Delaware, Feb. 5, 6 and 7.

Kent County agent George Vapaa this week said that county producers would get some practical information on the technique during the livestock meetings scheduled for Thurs., Feb. 7, at Agricultural Hall.

Speakers will discuss performance testing in sheep, swine and cattle and then form a panel to respond to questions.

Roy Gilman, Stewart, Iowa, executive secretary of the Hampshire Sheep Association, will speak during the morning program on testing programs for sheep.

During the afternoon, Harold Boucher, Peoria, Ill., secretary of the Hampshire Swine Association, and James Lingle, Queens-town, Md., manager of Wye Plantation, will discuss testing in swine and beef cattle respectively.

Another "livestock" feature during Farm and Home Week will take place Wednesday evening, Feb. 6, in Carpenter Field House. In response to popular demand, John H. Shropshire, University of Delaware extension livestock specialist, has brought in Lt. Col. J. R. Burton, to be assisted by the University of Delaware Equestrian Club, who will present a program on schooling the jumping horse.

Survey of Local Effects of Dock Strike

The Delaware State Chamber of Commerce Tuesday revealed results of a spot check survey on the economic effects of local industry as a result of the International Longshoremen's Association dock strike. The strike began Dec. 23.

Probably the hardest hit industry in this area has been the leather goods industry. One firm has been forced to cease operations laying off 200 persons. Several others will face the same situation this week if the strike is not settled.

Some companies depending on importing raw materials had a good inventory when the strike started but if the strike continues very long they too will be forced to cut back on their work force, a Chamber spokesman disclosed.

Companies engaged in exporting are sending some small shipments by air; others are faced with the possible loss of orders and customers as a result of the strike.

Where possible, several companies are importing or exporting from the west coast. This adds greatly to the cost and in most cases is not feasible.

Lumber, one of the major items at the Wilmington port, will affect the buildings trade shortly according to the survey. Other products involved are wood pulp, gypsum ore, frozen meat, mica, wines and liquors, pig lead, fluorspar, steel, jute fibres, zinc, machinery of all kinds and chemicals.

Numerous company spokesmen stated that profits lost will never be regained and in some cases smaller firms will be faced with bankruptcy if the strike is continued much longer.

The strike involves ports on the east coast with the main stumbling block on its settlement being the size of the work gang.

No dollar value loss can ever be estimated said the State Chamber but we do know that directly and indirectly it is affecting the area economy very adversely.

State Bans Food - Buyer Insurance

Delaware's insurance commissioner Wednesday turned down a plan to give life insurance in the amount of groceries purchased as "a sales gimmick to sell groceries."

Commissioner Robert A. Short said he regarded the plan as a gimmick "rather than a serious program to provide sound, long-ranged planned protection for Delaware families."

His letter went to Robert C. O'Hara, Wilmington lawyer representing the Craftsman Life Insurance Co. of Boston.

The company was preparing for the insurance plan to operate at two Penn Fruit stores in the Wilmington area when the insurance commissioner's office ordered a halt two weeks ago.

The plan called for issuing monthly life insurance policies to shoppers who requested them. The protection value of the policies was to equal the amount spent for groceries, with a $250 monthly limit.

Twelve monthly policies would be added together, making the maximum one-year term insurance under the plan $3,000.

At hearing last week representatives of the Craftsman company said the plan is now operating in five Massachusetts supermarkets.

In his letter to O'Hara, Short said: "After completely reviewing the details of the plan . . . I can see no justification for a removal of the order to stop this plan. Nor can I believe that the public interest would be served by the approval of such a plan."

"Therefore, I prohibit its inception and any attempt to use it will be dealt with as a violation of the rules as laid down by this office."

Short added in his letter: "Insurance means reliability, security, dependability and degree of permanency, all of which should be acquired with a purpose."

"Group term insurance is readily available to the people of Delaware at a reasonable cost and without any confusing conditions which tend to create false sense of security."

Short said the insurance offered by Craftsman most closely resembled group term insurance.

Vocational Rehabilitation Training Now Available To Veterans

Veterans of military service who qualify under recently enacted PL 87-815 may be admitted to the University of Delaware for the second semester of the 1962-63 academic year.
William R. Baldt, admissions counselor at the university, said this week that there already may be some students enrolled who will qualify for benefits under the act, and that a few may register in February. The newcomers will be Delawareans, Baldt said, since all of the students who have been accepted for the second semester are in-state residents.

The enactment of PL 87-815 on October 15, makes vocational rehabilitation training available to veterans who incurred a peacetime disability as a result of service in the armed forces during the periods July 26, 1947, to June 26, 1950, and February 1, 1955, to the present. A veteran receiving compensation from the government because of a disability injured during either of these periods, may apply for vocational rehabilitation by obtaining VA Form 22-1900 at the nearest VA office and send it to the Veterans Administration at 128 North Broad Street, Philadelphia 2, Pa. Applicants will receive vocational counseling to ascertain what training they may need to overcome any handicapping effects of their disabilities, and to assist them in making a choice of a future occupation. The Veterans Administration will pay for books and tuition and a subsistence allowance during the period of training which may be needed for this purpose. Training will not be provided under this Act for veterans whose disabilities are rated at less than 30% unless they show clearly that the disability causes a pronounced employment handicap.

Summer Science Training Again To Be Held at Univ. of Del.

A grant of approximately $10,000 from the National Science Foundation will enable the University of Delaware to again offer summer science training for superior high school students.
Dr. William G. Fletcher, coordinator of the university's program for superior students, announced receipt of the award one of 41 given for similar projects to colleges and universities throughout the country.
This year's program, an extension of one conducted last year, will begin June 17 and continue for eight weeks. It will offer students who have completed their junior year in high school, and who have demonstrated marked aptitude in science, opportunities to serve as apprentices under reputable scientists on research problems. The program is expected to accommodate more than 30 participants.
The students may elect to work closely with a faculty member on a research project from one of various science-oriented departments within the university's schools of arts and science, agriculture, home economics and engineering.

Dr. Fletcher explained that through this association the university hopes to provide stimulation and encouragement to students to go on in their chosen areas of science and realize their full potential. Last year's pilot program was financed entirely by the university.
A leaflet giving full information on the program, qualifications for students and dates for filing applications, is being prepared and will be mailed shortly, together with application forms, to high schools.

Children's Productions To Be Held at U. of Del.

Directors and teachers in educational and community theatres with special interest in children's productions, will be offered a course at the University of Delaware this spring.
The course, "Introduction to Children's Theatre," will cover the preparation of productions for children and the development of the child's own creative talents through involvement in dramatization of stories and experiences.
It will meet on Monday evenings beginning Feb. 5 in Newark, under the joint sponsorship of the department of dramatic arts and speech and the division of extension.
Instructor will be Dr. C. Robert Kase, chairman of dramatic arts and speech and director of Children's Theatre presentations at the university for 15 years. He is author of "Children's Theatre Comes of Age" and editor of "Stories for Creative Acting."
The mature appreciation of theatre, as of music or art, is an important phase of the child's education and cultural development. Theatre will first be experienced in productions by educational and community theatre groups, according to Dr. Kase. Participants in the course will have an opportunity to view classes in creative dramatics which are being conducted by the university for children ages 6-11.

Registration for extension courses will be held on Jan. 28 at Dover Air Force Base School, 7 to 8:30 p.m.; on January 28 at the agricultural substation near Georgetown, 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., and Feb. 2 at Carpenter Field House in Newark, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.
For additional information about the university's extension program, write or phone the division of extension office in Raub Hall, 368-8511, ext. 501.

Proper Breathing Lessens Fatigue

Do you know how to breathe properly? If you have been feeling tired for any length of time, chances are proper breathing will help.

This is the opinion of Miss Coral K. Morris, home management specialist at the University of Delaware. One of the most common causes of that tired feeling is the failure to breathe enough, which, in turn, might be caused by slouching which crowds your lungs and restricts normal intake of air.

So, when you feel especially tired, stand up straight, open a window and take a deep breath, Miss Morris advises. You'll notice the difference immediately.

"If you're work involves physical exertion the best way to rest is to sit or lie down for a few minutes and relax as completely as possible. But, if your job is mainly mental, you'll probably feel more rested if you do some mild physical activity during your rest period, says Miss Morris.

Delawareans to Get Awards

Milk, tomatoes and jumping horses probably have little in common except as topics on a program as varied as Farm and Home Week, Feb. 5 - 7, at the University of Delaware.

Milk, the end result of the dairy farmer's (and cow's) labors, will receive attention—as will some of Delaware's outstanding dairy producers—during "dairy day" meetings in Agricultural Hall, Wed. Feb. 6.

Fifteen-ton tomato awards, with a presentation assist from Gov. Elbert N. Carvel, for Delaware's high-yielding tomato growers, and a demonstration on training the jumping horse in Carpenter Field House that evening, are other Wednesday features.

Other topics on the three-day annual program, sponsored by the School of Agriculture, deal with rural-urban resource development in Delaware; a talk on the pros and cons of pesticides; and sessions on home gardening, home economics, poultry, vegetables, fruit and livestock.

Agricultural scientists from 11 universities, farmers, and representatives from government and industry will speak during the traditional event of interest to farm and city people alike.

During the morning dairy session, outstanding dairy producers and supervisors participating in the Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA) testing program will receive awards given annually by Sealtest Dairies, R. F. Patterson, Philadelphia, Sealtest's supervisor of field services, will present the awards totalling $300.

That afternoon, Dr. W. E. Peterson, professor emeritus at the University of Minnesota and a widely known dairy scientist, will speak on "The Role of Milk as a Food for Young and Old."

Petersen is one of the world's leading authorities in the field of milk making. In one of the most striking projects in milk-making research, he severed a cow's udder, kept it alive with an artificial heart-and-lung unit and studied the lactation process by altering the content of the blood stream.

Several years ago Dr. Petersen learned in a study that the cow can be a source of protective antibodies to many diseases which plague human beings.

Both morning and afternoon dairy sessions are in the Auditorium at Agricultural Hall.

Gov. Carvel will present awards to some 20 "15-ton tomato club" members during a vegetable session in Room 211 Wednesday afternoon.

These Delaware growers averaged 15 tons of tomatoes per acre or better in 1962, a year when Delaware tomato production averaged a record 18.6 tons per acre. At least one grower averaged more than 30 tons last year.

An event that drew over 500 spectators a year ago will feature the jumping horse that evening. Lt. Col. Jonathan R. Burton, twice a member of the U. S. Olympic Equestrian Team, will demonstrate and discuss "Training the Jumping Horse."

Assisted by the University of Delaware Equestrian Club, Col. Burton will show the correct way to get top performance and pleasure while jumping horses. This program starts at 8 p.m.

Jobless Pay Wait Cut Opposed

Delaware State Chamber of Commerce, Inc., has gone on record as opposing legislation that would eliminate the one-week waiting period necessary to qualify for unemployment compensation.

A bill to do this has been introduced in the State Senate.

In a fiercer to members, the chamber claims the change would cost more than $600,000 a year, all of which would be paid by employers. The change also "would endanger Delaware's favorable tax climate and reduce our competitive advantage in our efforts to secure new industries," the business organization says.

At present, workers who are laid off must wait a week before qualifying for unemployment benefits.

The chamber said unemployment insurance "was not intended to compensate for wage loss of a few days" and calls the week wait "part of risk sharing by the worker... intended to weed out benefit costs of the very considerable amount of very short-time unemployment which workers are generally in a position to absorb without hardship."

It says workers laid off generally have just received a paycheck and "are in a position to carry over the first week of unemployment."

The claim of an extra $600,000 is based on 1961 unemployment compensation figures which, the chamber said, indicates 16,000 claimants out of a total of 23,800, received benefits for less than the maximum number of weeks for which compensation was available. These people presumably would have qualified for an extra week of benefits if the waiting period were not in existence. The extra $600,000 this

Horticulture Grad Wins Award

A University of Delaware graduate student in horticulture presented one of the three best research papers at the 17th annual Northeastern Weed Control Conference in New York City earlier this month.

C. R. Hamilton, Newark, won a certificate and cash award of $100 based on excellence of paper organization, clarity of concept and presentation of research results. A total of 120 papers were presented.

Hamilton's paper, presented jointly with E. M. Rahn, associate professor of horticulture, was titled, "The Relation of Certain Environmental Conditions to the Effectiveness of DNBP for Post-emergence Weed Control in Peas." It was based on Hamilton's masters thesis.

Two other Delaware research papers were also presented before 700 persons. Rahn and C. T. Dickerson, another horticulture graduate student, presented one on "Evaluation of Several New Herbicides for Pre-and Post-emergence Weed Control in Carrots."

C. E. Phillips, chairman of the Department of Agronomy and Agricultural Engineering, presented one on "Chemical Control of Crabgrass in Lawn Turf."

All are reports of studies conducted by the Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of Delaware.

FENCE TALK

With George Vapaa

The great March storm of 1962 focused attention on beach erosion problems along the East Coast.

Delaware soil conservation district supervisors meeting last week heard Marshall Augustine, plant materials specialist of the Soil Conservation Service say: "If vegetation is not the best stabilizer of beach lands, then it beats anything in second place."

He described some field trials being conducted at Key Box Road below Rehoboth and at Beltsville, Md., to stabilize, build and hold beach sands.

Poison ivy was one of the plants which seems to make a dense cover, though it does not properly fit into public beaches. SCS feels that mixing in the prickly Rugosa rose plants would serve to warn people.

His illustrated talk showed the utility of building sea walls or other man made barriers. They seem to be a challenge for nature to knock down periodically.

Christmas tree plantings are one way of profitably using small plots of land on many Kent County farms. In some areas the production of Christmas trees has become a major source of income.

Your county agent was surprised to see Pennsylvania growers competing with one another in classes at the Harrisburg Farm Show. Christmas trees do have standard market grades according to quality.

A top quality tree has good symmetry or shape, is fairly dense or full, has a nice green color, and other characteristics typical for the variety.

Growers of trees even have a glossy, quarterly, The Christmas Tree Growers Journal. It carries articles dealing with growing and marketing practices.

The advertising is mostly by tree nurseries, chemical manufacturers, special equipment companies and the like.

Fall and winter are the seasons of heavy fire loss in dwellings. By eliminating four of the most common farm fire hazards would cut losses in half.

These hazards include unsafe stove and furnace installation, inadequate protection from lightning, combustible roofs that ignite from sparks, and unsafe wiring.

One farm job that is often overlooked is record-keeping, which is just as important in farming as in any other business. Every dollar of allowable expense that you don't report costs you 20 to 25 cents in income taxes.

The value of records doesn't stop with completion of the income tax return. Good records are also needed for good farm management.

Latest recommendations of the U. S. Department of Agriculture on harvesting, storing, and feeding hay silage are available in a new publication, "Making and Feeding Hay Crop Silage."

This Farmers Bulletin (No. 2186) lists advantages and disadvantages of ensiling hay crops, tells the best time to cut various crops intended for silage, and compares the benefits of ensiling wilted forage and fresh-cut (high moisture) forage.

Although the total number of farms in this country continues to drop at a rate of more than 100,000 a year, USDA statisticians say family farms with sales of at least $10,000 worth of produce per year are more than holding their own.

The Soil Testing Laboratory at Auburn University in Alabama has developed an improved chemical testing method that should make it easier for farmers and homemakers to take soil samples.

Delaware Food Market Report

Food prices are generally higher now and they will remain so in the coming weeks. Unfavorable weather in winter fruit and vegetable growing areas have cut supplies, resulting in higher prices. A second bout of freezing weather in Florida has temporarily drastically cut shipments of a majority of fruits and vegetables supplied by Florida.

That isn't all for shortages of Florida produce have been made more acute by a freeze in Texas, Arizona and in the citrus belt of California. This has now upset hopes of an early recovery and back to normal prices.

Damaged produce is adding to the trouble also. Frostbitten fruits and vegetables deteriorate rapidly and losses are considerable even after such produce arrives in the market. So look carefully before you buy and check quality.

Strikes too, have disrupted the normal flow of food supplies in many cases. As a result of these circumstances you will find many food priced at their highest level in recent years.

The best produce is wearing the highest price tag—so high in some cases that people are refusing to buy.

Though meat supplies are somewhat larger than a year ago, particularly beef and pork, prices do not reflect this situation. Though meat prices are expected to decline some, they are likely to remain above year ago levels.

The meats showing the least change from a year ago are porterhouse and chuck steaks, frankfurters and chopped beef; pork loin roast and ham; veal chops, and leg of lamb.

Only a few fruits and vegetables are less expensive than last year at this time. These include yellow globe onions, sweet potatoes and pears.

Prices are about the same as a year ago on white potatoes, apples, cranberries, and Emperor grapes. Other good selections are avocados, mushrooms, carrots and kale.

Most other fruits and vegetables are definitely higher in price.

Dairy products are a good choice. Cheese prices are generally unchanged from a year ago, while butter is a little cheaper.

Poultry items continue to be good buys and help offset higher prices of fruits and vegetables. Large turkeys, broiler-fryers and roasting chickens are particularly good choices. Eggs, however, follow the above-average price trend.

All Girls' Show Tickets for the all girls' show, "International Festival," which will be presented February 15 at 7:30 p.m. in the Felton gymnasium, may be purchased from girls in the sophomore or junior classes. The price of these tickets is 50 cents.

Alumni Basketball Game The Alumni basketball games, as scheduled to be played before Christmas, were postponed because of bad weather. The girls and the boys varsity teams will meet the alumni on the Felton court beginning at 7 p.m. Tues., Jan. 29. Strong opposition is expected from both Alumni teams, and this year's group of players will have to be on their toes if they expect to defeat the graduates. Good representation from the Alumni Association is anticipated.

Third Marking Period The third marking period ended Thurs., Jan. 24, and report cards will be issued, Mon., Jan. 28. Conferences with the teachers concerning pupil progress are scheduled following the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association that evening.

The third meeting of the Felton Parent-Teacher Association will be held at 7:30 p.m. Mon., Jan. 28 in the school auditorium. Paul M. Hodgson, assistant superintendent in charge of vocational education, will present a program describing the vocational technical center now operating in Sussex County and the plans for a similar center to be built in Kent County.

Benjamin Matlack is vice president of the Association and chairman of the program committee.

Many parents in the district have expressed interest in learning more about the operation of the proposed vocational school in Kent County and will welcome the opportunity to get the latest information at first hand.

"Sports Odds And Ends"

Allen Wix, former H.H.S. athlete, entered the U. S. Army on Tuesday and was sent to Fort Dix, N. J. Wix is one of the smallest competitors ever to win varsity letters in three sports at the local institution. He earned monograms in baseball, basketball and cross-country. The latter sport was his best. In his junior year he ran on the Lion's undefeated squad which finished third in the seventeen team state meet.

Bill and Jeff Adams, basketball brothers at Harrington High, made the list of leading scorers put out by the Henlopen Conference this week. Both are averaging almost 10 points a game as Bill is 12th and Jeff is 15th in the loop.

Felton is represented by Tom Williams (5th) and Dave Wood 11th. Williams is averaging exactly 13 points per contest. Wood has scored 50 points in 5 games.

Bruce Henry, of Greenwood, is sixth on the list and has scored one point less than Williams.

Jim Hawpe's Harrington Junior High squad is making a good showing this winter. The Cubs edged Lewes 26-20 in a well played game as John Greenhaugh paced the scoring with eight points and Wayne Porter excelled in all around play.

At Millsboro Friday night the Cubs held the Blue Devils to two points in the first half.

Hawpe then cleared his bench as the locals coasted to an easy, lopsided victory. Other key performers are Sam Knox, Chuck McNally and Marshall Hatfield.

In Friday night's Henlopen Conference action three Sussex County lads named Steele were prominent. All three were in double figures and two paced their teams in scoring. Millsboro and Rehoboth have one Steele each. We are not sure but we believe Lord Baltimore has the other.

We are checking out a rumor that someone has finally organized a basketball league for junior girls. The boys have plenty of organized activity but the lassies have been left to their own devices. More on this next week.

Junior Football League Holds Banquet

The Harrington Junior Football League held its annual banquet at the Harrington High School cafeteria Saturday night. The affair was well attended with few empty seats.

The Rev. Quay Rice, of the St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, gave the invocation, after which toastmaster James Rash introduced the players, cheerleaders and coaches of the Eagles, Bears and Colts and other guests.

Jack Swain and Gloria Schaper outgoing president and treasurer respectively, H.H.S. football captains Jeff Adams and Dick Collins, treasurer Priscilla Morris, secretary Doris Fry, vice president Bill Walls and president Gary Harrington were among those introduced to the assembly.

Swain and Harrington remarked that the league would like more help from the parents involved. Plans call for a four team league next year.

A trophy was awarded to Gary Minner of the Bears for outstanding sportsmanship. Jon Marsan of the same team won the award for the best defensive player. Bob Dill of the Eagles received the best offensive player trophy and Bill Garey, Colts, captured the best all-around player trophy.

A plaque was given to adult leader, Bob Taylor, for outstanding service to the league. Ted Layton, Eagles head coach, received the team trophy. The Eagles have two legs on this award as a result of winning the pennant two years in a row. If they finish on top next year the trophy becomes their permanent possession.

Local firms donating the prizes were Acme Market, Harrington Motor Company, Variety Store and Peck Brothers Farm Supply.

Dick Smith, coach of Wesley Junior College's unbeaten and nationally ranked football team, gave an inspirational message to the young people involved in the football program. He stressed the value of good study habits and the cultivating of the ability to work hard and play hard.

Bill Santo and Ken Schaper showed films of some of the league games this season. A dance concluded the evening's festivities.

H.H.S. Matmen Win 2nd Straight

Harrington High's varsity wrestling team is only in its second season but Mike Mock's hard bitten crew is sporting a 2-1 record after downing the Blue Devils from Millsboro by a score of 31-17. The meet was contested here Wednesday night and was the second straight triumph for the locals after an opening loss to Dover.

Harrington won seven of twelve matches. Five Lions won by pinning their rivals.

Lewis Starkey, 165 pound Lion captain pinned the Millsboro captain in 29 seconds for the fastest fall of the evening. Starkey is unbeaten for the season. In six matches he has won four by falls, one by decision and one by forfeit.

David Greenly started his team off on the right track when he decisively Millsboro's Klotz to win the opening 95 pound match. Greenly didn't appear to weigh within 5 pounds of his rival's poundage. He trailed for most of the match but a rally near the end brought him the verdict.

Jim Cain, promising 103 pounder, dropped a 4-2 verdict in one of the night's closest matches. In other hotly waged frays, George Jerred was edged 5-3 in the 138 pound class and Neil Sherwood won in the 120 pound class. Sherwood is Mock's No. 2 man at that weight. Fred Greenly, No. 1, couldn't wrestle because of an injury incurred in practice Tuesday evening. Neil almost had his foe pinned but the Blue Devil was rescued by the buzzer ending Round 1. The two lads put up a real good scrap through rounds 2 and 3.

Larry Garey, who took over the No. 1 spot in the 112 pound division from Mike Walmsley after Mike had won fourth place in the Milford Invitational, still is undefeated as he flattened his opponent in 90 seconds for his third straight pin in three bouts.

Gary Harris, Lion 133 pounder, won by a fall in 58 seconds of the second round.

Clyde Mullins, at 145, pinned his rival in 1 minute and 42 seconds.

Bob Smith forsook the usual sparring and fencing for an opening and had his man down and in bad trouble in 10 seconds. The Blue Devil was through for the night 80 seconds later. Smith has two wins in as many 154 pound outings.

Gayle Fry, made a good showing against a formidable foe, when he lost a decision to Millsboro's Jim Bender in the 180 pound semi-windup bout. Bender recently beat Georgetown's Lew Jenkins, a 250 pounder with a good record. The Blue Devil was after a fall but Fry didn't knuckle under to the big bruiser and at the final whistle, the Lion was on top of his foe and still trying to win after six minutes of rugged grappling. Jim Layfield, the loser's All-State fallback, ended Ron Melvin's winning streak at two straight when he pinned the big tackle. Layfield two nights later threw in four field goals as the same two teams met in basketball. He is a star in baseball and track also.

Mrs. Tarbuton was the only agency representative to appear. A session with State Archivist Leon deValinger was canceled because he had to appear as a witness in the reapportionment trial in Wilmington.

Powerful Delmar is scheduled to come here Monday night. The visitors' Gary Yante is the only matman to give Lewis Starkey a hard time this winter. Starkey and Yante put on one of the most exciting matches at the Milford Invitational meet before Starkey finally pinned the Wildcat.

Legion Junior Basketball League Starts Play

The American Legion Junior Basketball League started its fifth season of play with a four game slate on Saturday afternoon at the Harrington High field house. The first game started at 1 o'clock. Two games are played simultaneously on the two cross-courts.

Veteran coach Bill Minner's Warriors jumped into the lead by downing Bob Jester's Celtics 10-6 and Gary Harrington's Falcons 23-14. Harrington is a new coach serving in place of Bob Haley. Haley now lives in Clayton.

Frank O'Neal's Globetrotters downed Jim O'Neal's Eagles by a score of 25-19. Ted Layton's Hawks loom a threat to the Warriors as they handled the Falcons much easier than did the league leaders. This contest ended with a count of Hawks 28, Falcons 4.

Lion Cagers Win First Loop Tilt

Bill Smith's Harrington High basketball Lions won their first Henlopen Conference victory of the season at Millsboro Friday night by a score of 42-40. The locals had dropped four straight games after opening the season with a victory over the Alumni.

The game shaped up as a battle of halves. Harrington opened up a 27-15 advantage in the first half but the Blue Devils enjoyed a 25-15 bulge in the last two quarters to trail by two points at the final whistle. The losers actually went ahead at one point in the fourth quarter but their lead was short-lived.

The Lions featured their most balanced attack of the year as four players of the sextet that played had either three or four field goals. Jeff Adams led H.H.S. with 12 points. Harrington won this one from action as Millsboro got close by sinking 12 foul shots to 8 for the Lions.

Since Millsboro has two league victories to their credit it would appear that our statement of a week or two ago still holds true. At that time we wrote that Rehoboth, Lord Baltimore and Bridgeville were the only league teams beyond the reach of the Lions on a good night.

SPLIT-UP URGED
request was announced.

Rep. Norman Eskridge, D-Seaford, House majority leader was another committee member who felt the highway department had too much to do.

In many cases, he said, the department is given tasks it does not want. "But now the decision has gotten out of hand."

Hoey pointed out the highway department is concerned with police, beach erosion, cleaning millponds, building dams, motor fuel taxes, dumps and other activities in addition to the main responsibility of building and looking after the state's roads.

He did not indicate any definite plan to bring about the split. He said he hopes continued discussion of the topic would lead to action.

Mrs. Tarbuton was the only agency representative to appear. A session with State Archivist Leon deValinger was canceled because he had to appear as a witness in the reapportionment trial in Wilmington.

TAX RELIEF BILL

revealed in his State of the Union message, I am hopeful that the principle which I am suggesting in my bill, may also be included in the President's recommendations to be presented to the Congress later this month.

"The principle of my bill is only the first step in tax reduction. It leaves ample room for further tax reduction across the board and provides for further reductions of the corporate tax structure.

"I favor tax cuts first for the individual and for the small and independent business concerns.

"I feel that an immediate tax cut such as I have proposed should be followed, during 1963, by a thorough reform of the whole tax structure. Reform of the tax structure is necessary so that a sound foundation can be built whereupon we can sustain maximum use of manpower, plants and machines and thereby achieve a balanced growth of our economy in the 1960's.

"Our economy is envied by the world, but it needs realistic changes to insure solid and dynamic growth. I intend to support tax measures which will contribute to a prompt increase of production and employment and which will set the stage for economic growth in the future."

Felton Blasts J. M. Clayton, 61-44

Joe Kern's Felton High basketball Green Devils broke open a tight game with the visiting John M. Clayton Bears by romping to an 18-4 advantage in the final stanza. By virtue of the win Felton moved into a tie for first place in the Western Division of the Henlopen Conference.

Dave Wood led the winners with 16 points as Bill Green, Tom Williams and George Reible also were in double figures. Only the Longs, Don and Wayne, could do anything with the Felton defense as they accounted for 15 of the Bear's 17 field goals.

Carvel Holds Pay Hike Line

Gov. Elbert N. Carvel flatly denied requested salary increase for nine state officials in his 1963 fiscal 1964 budget.

The governor also partially denied nine other pay boost requests, actually cut two salaries, and granted 13 pay increases for officials.

The action is reflected in line item salaries for the officials affected in the budget.

Among requested salary increases turned down were a better than 100 per cent increase for the state forester and a big boost in the executive secretary of the Human Relations Commission, a $1500 a year boost for the state superintendent of public instruction, and a $3000 raise for the superintendent of Delaware State Hospital.

The governor in his budget also created a line item job, that of a $7500-a-year State Board of Agriculture secretary.

Here's a rundown of the state officials denied raises in the budget: director and secretary of the State Department of Labor, $7200 to $7500; superintendent of Fort Delaware, $4,200 to $4,500; superintendent of Brandywine Springs Park, $4,200 to $4,500; superintendent of Lum's Pond, $4,200 to $4,500; executive secretary of the Human Relations Commission, $4,800 to $8,000; director of the Motor Fuel Tax Division, $6,800 to $7,400; state forester, $4,000 to $8,600; business administrator of Delaware State Hospital, $16,200 to $16,800, and state superintendent of public instruction, $16,500 to $18,000.

Granted partial increases, with the amount requested in parenthesis, were: chief boiler inspector $6,300 to $6,600 ($7,000); state park director, $7,200 to $7,800 ($8,400), and superintendent of Trap Pond $4,200 to $4,500 ($4,800).

Also Motor Vehicle Commissioner $9,200 to $10,000 ($12,000); director of the safety responsibility division of the state police, $5,700 to $6,000 ($6,500); executive director of the State Board of Health, $15,000 to $17,500 ($22,500); director of the Commission for the Blind, $5,000 to $6,000 ($7,500); and superintendent of Delaware State Hospital, $24,000 to $25,200 ($27,000).

The two salaries actually cut according to the line items are Youth Services' Commission executive director, $10,500 to $9,000 despite a requested raise to $12,500; and director of the State Department of Public Welfare, $6,000 to $5,200. The director gets federal funds in addition to his state salary.

Whether the General Assembly will go along with the governor's proposals remains to be seen.

His proposed salary increases for other state officials include: Director of the legislative Reference Bureau, state treasurer, state auditor and insurance commissioner, each from $6,000 to $9,000; secretary of state and tax commissioner, each $8,000 to $12,000; chief accountant of the Budget Commission, $7,500 to $11,250; state medical examiner, $15,000 to $18,000; state custodian and director of the State Development Department, $5,000 to $7,500 each; and modest raises for the secretary of the State Board of Registration for Professional Engineers, child labor inspectors, and 10-hour law inspector.

Greenwood Loses To Late Eagles Push

In a game that was similar to the Harrington-Lord Baltimore tilt of last week, the Greenwood Foresters bowed to the Lord Baltimore Eagles by a score of 48-36 in a game played at Ocean View Friday night. Greenwood took an early lead, fell into a tie at halftime, trailed by only a point at the three quarter mark and then yielded to a fourth quarter flurry by the winners.

Bob Wright, of Greenwood was game high scorer with 18 points. Most of the Eagles' winning margin came at the foul line as Greenwood scored only six points at the free throw line.

Buckson 'Loses' Car Fire Suit

A case involving the state attorney general was tried in Superior Tuesday, with his insurance company losing.

The suit stemmed from June 1961, when David P. Buckson, recently sworn in as attorney general, took his car to be repaired at a Cheswold garage run by Lee Remley.

During the course of the repairs a fire began in the car's engine, causing about $1,000 damage according to Buckson and his insurance company, the Hartford Accident Indemnity Co.

The company paid Buckson and brought suit in his behalf to recover the money from Remley.

At issue was whether the mechanic should have known the car had electrical system problems. The fire was attributed to a short circuit that set off gasoline from the carburetor.

President Judge William Duffy ruled there was no negligence by the mechanic and that the insurance company thus could not collect.

Buckson was represented by Alred M. Isaacs. Harold C. Schmittinger of Dover was Remley's attorney.

but Hare expressed doubt whether Hoey's committee would agree. Hoey ridiculed these fears. "I've never done anybody a back stab like that in my life," he said Wednesday night. "I hope I'll never be that small."

The senator said he had not yet checked into the alleged mix-up on Hare's salary, but that any cut would be made purely for legal reasons, not because of Hare's recent remarks.

"Hare always sounds off," he said. "I'm not concerned about what he said."

Hoey explained that he didn't even know the couple he is supposed to have been exerting pressure for, and merely sat in while Donovan discussed the case with a welfare official. Donovan has declined to comment on the matter.

Wednesday Harry H. Lambert, chairman of the welfare board, said the department is under "constant pressure" from legislators for special favors and added:

"One of the reasons I so admire Mr. Hare is that he has never yielded to such pressure, although his lot with the legislature would be a much easier one if he did."

U. of Del Names Assis't. To Director of Admissions

A woman who has been associated with the University of Delaware as a student and executive secretary almost continuously for over 40 years has been named assistant to the director of admissions.

She is Miss Madeline Forwood, backbone of the admissions office secretarial staff since 1948. Her new appointment was announced by Dr. Edward Ott, director.

Born and reared in Wilmington, Miss Forwood was graduated from Wilmington High School in 1922 and the University of Delaware, as a French major, in 1926. She was especially active in the pioneer "junior year abroad" program of the university foreign study department between 1931 and 1948.

She was in Europe in 1939 when war was declared and was forced to return with the junior year group from Delaware that had arrived in Paris a short time before.

Miss Forwood recalls that Dr. Walter Hullihen, then president of the university, "had big plans for the 'junior year abroad' groups. Extensions were made to Munich and Geneva with further plans for groups to Spain, Italy and South America and eventually to other countries."

During the war years the foreign study program was suspended and Miss Forwood served as secretary in the placement office. She returned to the foreign study department in 1946 to renew work in Geneva. When the foreign study program was discontinued in 1948, Miss Forwood joined the admissions office staff which was then under the direction of the late Charles W. Bush.

Miss Forwood enjoys traveling and has visited Canada, Bermuda, France, England and Switzerland. One of her most pleasant memories is her visit with members of the 1932 foreign study French group before they enrolled in the Sorbonne that fall.
