

Senate Passes Record Bill Unanimously

The Senate Tuesday passed the record $101 million 1964 appropriation bill without amendment or opposition.

Passage of the budget measure (HB 166 with HA 1) came early in the session. The action was in sharp contrast to many other years in which the budget bill was not enacted until late in June. The funds are needed July 1.

The bill, appropriating $101,797,128 to state agencies, romped through the Senate with 15 yeas and two nays. It passed the House last week by a 31-4 vote and now goes to the governor.

Not a single amendment was offered to change even one figure in the bill. A single amendment provides only that the faith and credit of Delaware will be pledged solely on short term loans and not for bond issues, which require a three-fourths vote for passage.

In the last session the Senate amended HB 514 (last year's budget bill) four times before passing it.

The only thing that enlivened Tuesday's discussion on the bill in the Senate was Republican questions about the highway department. GOP members argued that the department now has sufficient funds to enable it to work through the summer.

Republicans demanded an end to talk of unemployment if the $52-million highway bond bill is not passed, contending such talk is unjustified.

Sen. Walter J. Hoey, D-Milford, chairman of the Joint Finance Committee which prepared the budget, said the measure was "not perfect" but that the committee "had done its very best."

Sen. Margaret R. Manning, R-Marshalton, praised the bill, saying she had heard no complaints from any agency. She asked, however, that something be done to provide salary hikes for state employees who have rendered many years of faithful service.

Minority leader Reynolds du Pont, R-Greenville, said he was "happy to see this bill sliding through." "It's a pleasure," he said, "to see this General Assembly has agreed to do something relatively fast."

Since passage came before May 1, a yearly problem involving the signing of teacher contracts may be avoided. The teachers must sign for next year before that date, and administrators often do not know by then how much money they will have for salaries.

Peninsula Conf. W.S.C.S. to Meet

Women from all four districts of Peninsula Conference will assemble in Aldersgate Methodist Church, Wilmington, on Thursday, May 9th, at 10:00 a. m. to attend the 3rd Annual meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service. It is very fitting that Aldersgate Church is host for this meeting in Aldersgate Year 1963 the 225th Anniversary of John Wesley's "heart warming experience" at Aldersgate, England in 1738.

The conference president, Mrs. Walter B. Palmer, Sr., of Denton, Md., will convene the meeting promptly at ten o'clock, and the morning meditation and prayer will be given by the Rev. R. Jervis Cooke, Superintendent of Wilmington District. Greetings from Aldersgate Woman's Society will be given by Mrs. Harry E. Spencer, Jr., president of the local society.

Items of interest on the program include: reports of the conference officers and secretaries; election and installation of officers and secretaries for the term 1963-1965; and a message on "Our Mission — The Neighborhood House," given by Mrs. James H. Wertz, of Wilmington, Del., chairman of the Board of Peninsula Conference Projects. The noon prayer and grace will be led by the Rev. James R. Hughes, pastor of Aldersgate Church.

At the afternoon session beginning at 1:30 p. m., "An Aldersgate Service of Worship" will be led by Mrs. William Dore, of Sudlersville, Md., the Conference Secretary of Spiritual Life. Also on the afternoon program will be "A Pledge to Missions" service, directed by Mrs. Carol E. Bounds, of Salisbury, Md., the Conference Treasurer, assisted by the president and treasurer of each of the four districts.

The climax of the meeting will be the address of the guest speaker, Mrs. John O. Mabuca, of Clarence, New York on the subject, "Our Mission Today." Mrs. Mabuca, the wife of Dr. John O. Mabuca, a Methodist minister, obtained her formal education at Oneonta Teachers College, Taylor University and graduate work at Drew Theological Seminary. A member of the Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Board of Missions of the Methodist Church, Mrs. Mabuca is presently serving as president of the Northeastern Jurisdiction Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Announcement of a five-week overseas tour by the E 52 University Theatre was made this week by Dr. C. Robert Kase, chairman of the department of dramatic arts and speech at the University of Delaware.

The 1963-64 tour, scheduled for December and January, will include the countries of Greenland, Iceland, Labrador, and Newfoundland, all a part of the North-east Command. It is expected that the company will present a light comedy or another musical production, but a final selection has not yet been made. Turner W. Edge, associate director of the E 52 Theatre, will accompany the students.

At its regular monthly meeting held Thursday evening, April 18, the Harrington Board of Education kept the tax rate for 1963-1964 at the same rate as the tax for 1962-1963—that is, an overall tax rate of 72c per $100 on real estate, and $11 capitation.

The Board discussed the question of delinquent taxes and approved the efforts that the Levy Court is making toward collecting such taxes.

Mr. Adams was authorized to request the State Board of Education to allow the repair of the field house floor as soon as money is available from a delayed repairs account.

The Board appointed judges and clerks to serve as election officers at the school board election to be held May 11.

The superintendent was asked to seek bids for a new 3/4 ton pickup truck to replace the truck now being used by the custodians which was originally obtained through surplus property.

The Board approved the same type music program for the summer that the district has sponsored for the past few years.

The Board notified Senator Simpson that it approved H.B. 11, setting up a method of determining units for vocational schools, S. B. 78 establishing a salary schedule for all school employees, and S.B. 103 regarding method of collecting tuition for non-district students. At the same time, it notified Senator Simpson it opposed S.B. 87 which calls for a secret election of a teacher to be an ex-officio member of the Board of Education. The Board feels that since all of its meetings are open to the public, any teacher, as well as any other interested citizens, has a perfect right to attend all meetings and to express themselves regarding various educational problems.

The board approved the contract for Miss Paula Kelley, who will graduate from Radford College, Hadford, Va., as a teacher of art in the Harrington Special School District for the 1963-64 school year.

WHIPPING DATE SET; NEW APPEAL STAYS IT

For two minutes Tuesday Franklin W. Cannon Jr. had a May 3 date with Delaware's whipping post.

But the sentence was stayed indefinitely by Superior Court Judge Stewart Lynch pending another appeal to the Delaware Supreme Court.

In quick succession Judge Lynch moved to order execution of Cannon's sentence of 20 lashes and three years' imprisonment, then granted an oral request by Cannon's attorney for a stay of sentence on appeal.

Harold Schmittinger, one of Cannon's attorneys, said the appeal would be made on the entire case.

He said this will be filed as soon as Judge Lynch signs a written request for the stay of sentence.

Judge Lynch had scheduled action on the Cannon case at 3 p.m. Tuesday, but spent an hour in conference with state and defense attorneys.

In this conference, Schmittinger said, he asked the judge to remit the lashes and Judge Lynch refused.

Cannon was brought to Dover from the New Castle Correctional Institution. His mother, Mrs. Evelyn Cannon, of Dover, appeared in court. Both appeared calm and talked for a long time while waiting for the conference to end.

Schmittinger said the following questions will be asked in the appeal:

1. Is lashing a cruel punishment in violation of the Delaware or U. S. Constitution?

2. Is three years and 20 lashes so excessive a punishment as to be cruel or unusual punishment under either the state or U. S. Constitutions?
3. Is lashing Cannon with his present mental condition a cruel punishment?
4. Is the defense allowed to introduce any evidence to prove these questions?

Schmittinger said the third question involves the matter of Cannon's alleged mental disability. For example a psychiatrist says he is a sociopath—a person who is incapable of changing criminal tendencies.

The order by Judge Lynch to execute the sentence was a formality the court had to perform to clear the way for the appeal.

What has been heard already by the Delaware Supreme Court are Lynch's questions about whether whipping is a cruel or unusual punishment under state or U. S. Constitutions.

The court upheld the constitutionality of the last on April 13. Cannon was first sentenced on Dec. 4, 1961, and placed on probation. Judge Lynch reimposed sentence last Nov. 13. The case has been tied up in the courts since then.

Cannon's attorneys said they are taking the case "step by step" and wouldn't comment on the possibility of an appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court if the appeal to the state high court is denied.

Delaware State Police Has Excellent Teletype System

The Delaware State Police, aware of the slow exchange of information between various police departments, several years ago began a study to alleviate the problem.

As a result, Captain George J. Bundeck, communications officer, revealed that the Delaware State Police is now part of one of the most modern teletypewriter communications systems in the world.

"The new communications center located at Delaware State Police Headquarters in Dover combines five police networks, requiring a grouping of nine teletype machines in one room," Captain Bundeck said.

One teletype machine links State Police Headquarters with police teletype in 14 other states and two major cities. This network includes: New York City, Washington, D. C., Virginia, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York State, Connecticut, New Jersey, Ohio, Maryland, West Virginia, North Carolina, and South Carolina, Bundeck explained.

Another machine at State Civil Defense Headquarters links State Police Headquarters with machines in Delaware City, the Motor Vehicle Department, the State Police Barracks at Penny Hill, New Castle, Dover, Georgetown and Bridgeville.

Two machines are used to connect the Pennsylvania State Police as well as the Delaware Memorial Bridge, and the Wilmington City Police.

An additional machine links Wilmington City Police with State Police Headquarters. This network is expected to grow to include other city departments within the state. Newark police will be added in April.

The fifth system is a "TWX" machine that can connect with all law enforcement organizations throughout the country. This machine will normally only talk to one machine at a time. The other machines are equipped to "talk" to any individual machine, any combination, or all machines at once.

"These new systems permit us to transmit or receive police bulletins to and from various law enforcement agencies in seconds," says Captain Bundeck.

"As an example, prior to March 1 when the new system went into operation, it took five hours to send or receive a police bulletin from Columbia, South Carolina. Now it takes less than a minute," Bundeck said.

"Under the old system," he went on, "a bulletin would leave Dover by teletype and be sent to Philadelphia, then it was relayed to Harrisburg, then Pikesville, Md., then to Washington, D. C., next to Richmond, Va., next it was relayed to Raleigh, N. C., and finally to Columbia, S. C."

Now the police message is prepared on perforated tape, a button is pushed, and the bulletin is sent at 100 words a minute directly to Columbia.

The new system was only a few hours old when it was put to its first real test.

A state trooper received a tip that a trucker wanted for investigation was trying to leave the state in a truck also wanted in the investigation. The trooper notified our radio dispatcher who alerted Corporal Francis E. Melvin, in our communications center. Corporal Melvin immediately sent the bulletin out on the 15 state network and also to the city of Wilmington. The Wilmington police then radioed the message to their police units and within 13 minutes the Wilmington police

Felton - C. R. School Boundary Changed

The State Board of Education has recently approved a petition presented by a group of residents of the former Warrens School district to change the existing boundary line in that area. Sixteen signers of the petition along with their properties were transferred officially from the Caesar Rodney to the Felton school district since children from these properties formerly attended the Warrens school, which was consolidated with Felton. A new boundary line was approved to correct this situation and also to make other minor adjustments.

This action was taken following extensive investigation and conferences between the school boards of the districts concerned and representatives of the State Board of Education and the State Department of Public Instruction. Both Caesar Rodney and Felton school boards had previously approved the revised boundary line.

Highway Day To Be Observed May 27

Gov. Alburts S. Harrison, of Virginia, will address the Governor's luncheon at Delaware's eighth annual Highway Day, Mon., May 27, at Hotel DuPont.

Highway Day chairman James Julian announced that Gov. Harrison had accepted the invitation from Governor Elbert N. Carvel. All of Delaware's living governors will be luncheon guests he said, following a tradition started seven years ago.

A well balanced program covering all phases of highway and related problems will be discussed at the all-day conference beginning with a coffee hour at 9:30 a.m., according to Julian. The Delaware Safety Council is again co-sponsor with the Associated General Contractors of Delaware and the Greater Wilmington Development Council is assisting in arranging the program.

"We feel highly honored that Governor Harrison should take time to come from Richmond to address us. We know of the new bridge-tunnel construction work now in progress across the Chesapeake Bay from Norfolk, and we believe he will have an interesting message for us," Julian said this week.

A lawyer, Governor Harrison practiced that profession from 1928 until 1957 when he was elected Attorney General of Virginia. He is a member of the Virginia and American Bar Associations, the American Institute of Trial Lawyers and various civic organizations.

In 1948 he was elected to the Virginia State Senate, where he served until his election at Attorney General. He resigned that post in 1961 to make the race for governor, for which he was nominated and elected by an overwhelming vote.

Kent Deficit Looms; Welfare Cost Cited

Kent County will have another deficit budget for 1963-64 and welfare costs are again scored as the cause.

This was indicated Tuesday by a tentative comparison of county offices' requests for the coming fiscal year with this year's budget and anticipated 1963-64 income.

Watch Power Mower Urges Safety Council

Watch that power mower, a safety official urged this week in a springtime message of caution. Sensible precautions in the use of power mowers prevent painful accidents, said Mrs. William N. Cann, vice president for home safety of the Delaware Safety Council. Care must be exercised for safety in using all mechanical tools, she said, and experience has indicated 13 points to promote safety in using power mowers. These are:

1. Know how to disengage the clutch or stop the engine quickly.
2. Allow expansion space when filling the fuel tank. The heat of the sun causes gasoline to expand, and if gasoline is spilled over the hot engine, fire can occur.
3. Do not refill when the engine is hot; this also can cause fire. Refill it out of doors.
4. Store gasoline in an approved, tightly-sealed container.
5. Wear safety shoes to avoid foot injuries when you are using a rotary type mower.
6. When starting your mower, stand firmly, and make sure your feet are in a safe position.
7. Inspect your lawn before mowing to be sure there are no stones, sticks, wires, or other debris in the area.
8. Never allow children or inexperienced persons to operate power mowers.
9. Bystanders or pets should not be in the immediate area of mowing because rotary mowers can throw debris and have caused serious injury.
10. Keep in step with your mower for good control. If you lag behind or let the mower pull you, you won't be in full command of the machine.
11. Cut on hills and banks sideways and not up and down. This will prevent loss of control over the mower, slipping into the mower/ or the mower's sliding into the operator.
12. Disconnect the spark plug wire or the electric plug whenever you want to work on the underside of the mower. Tip the mower over by means of the handle. Don't reach under the deck, chain guards, or belt guards of any mower. Keep hands, feet, and clothing away from the mower until the motor has completely stopped.
13. Avoid using an electrically powered mower when grass is wet. Be certain the entire mower and power cord are in perfect condition and the motor is properly grounded.

The Levy Court was presented a breakdown of expected county expenses by Jesse Cooper, Wyoming, auditor for the county.

In a comparison of forecast expenses with the anticipated revenue, Cooper said a $30,000 deficit is expected. However, all figures are tentative with no budget yet drawn up in final form.

Noting that the county is operating at its maximum tax rate by law, Cooper said "it appears that somewhere along the way something will have to be cut."

The auditor said the expected jump in welfare costs to the county are placing the greatest strain on the budget.

"This is where your headache is. These other items pale by comparison," said Cooper in reference to welfare costs.

He said practically the entire deficit lies in the welfare costs. The projected figures for the next year are $753,193.57 compared with $717,661.07 for this year, Cooper said.

After a quick check by the board of assessment, total assessment in the county is running $6,952,000 which represents a $30,000 tax increase.

But welfare costs are estimated as follows:

Aid to dependent children, this year, $26,000; next year, $39,000; county relief, this year, $65,000; next year, $83,000; State Welfare Home at Smyrna, this year, $12

A good cow each year put away nearly 4,000 pounds of grain and protein feed, 4,700 pounds of hay, and 3,400 pounds of silage. All this she washes down with 75,000 pounds of water. In return, under normal conditions, she will reward the dairyman with 11,000 pounds of milk. The portage of all this poundage is a good reason for dairymen to substitute wheels and lever for muscle and sweat in their dairy operations.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—I am being transferred to another city and I'm having difficulty in selling my home. I am purchasing it with the aid of a GI loan. Is there any way I can get a GI home loan to help buy another house before the house I now have is sold?

A—Only if the Veterans Administration is cleared of all financial responsibility in the first home transaction. If you have a sizeable equity, your lender may take over the mortgage. That is the only way you receive entitlement to buy another home.

Q—As a Korean veteran, I am going to a technical school under the GI Bill. My father has been sent to a nursing home with a terminal disease and I have to go to work full time to pay the bills. Will I be able to go back to school, say in a year?

A—Yes, the law allows equal time for time missed for such a reason beyond your control.

Q—I saw, heard or read recently that nearly half of the veterans holding GI insurance have neglected to keep their beneficiary listing up to date. Can this be so and what is the manner of changing beneficiaries?

A—Some 49 per cent of GI policyholders had some form of error in their beneficiary listing. If you wish to change your beneficiary, write to the VA insurance office where you pay your premiums.

Q—What is the story of an "extra" dividend available to holders of certain types of GI insurance and what must I do to get it?

A—A special dividend is available only to those Korean Conflict veterans who still hold policies with the prefix RS in front of their policy number. The RS policyholder must take one of these two actions: (a) Exchange his RS term insurance policy for a term policy that will generally cost about one-third what he is now paying. The new policy cannot be renewed as term insurance after the veteran is 50—but it can be converted to a low cost permanent plan insurance policy any time before the insured reaches age 50, (b) convert his policy to a low cost permanent plan now.

Q—Can a veteran get a GI loan to buy a home or farm in Canada?

A—No. The property must be located in the United States, its territories, or possessions.

Q—My wife and I want to be buried together. I am a veteran and would like to be buried in a national cemetery, like Arlington. Can my wife be buried there too?

A—Yes. And if your wife dies before you do she may be buried in a national cemetery, if you provide written intention to be buried with your wife.

Georgetown Man Receives Good Neighbor Award

Herbert Von Goerres, of Georgetown, switchman for the Diamond State Telephone Company, in Millsboro, is the recipient of the company's Good Neighbor Award for Sussex County.

The presentation was made by Alexander W. Rand, director of First Aid and Water Safety for the American Red Cross in Delaware, last Tuesday (April 23) at the Sussex County Volunteer Fireman's Association dinner-meeting at the Milton Fire Hall.

The Good Neighbor Award is designed to recognize outstanding community service of telephone company employees and to encourage further activity in community projects.

Some of the community activities that Von Goerres was cited for include: 8-years with the Harrington Volunteer Fire Company, 14 years with the Georgetown Volunteer Fire Company, 12 years of service with the American Legion Sussex Post No. 8, a member of the International Rescue and First Aid Association for four years, and superintendent of supplies, vice president, secretary and engineer for the Georgetown Volunteer Fire Company.

Also, chairman of the Ambulance Fund of the American Legion, first aid instructor for the Sussex County Civil Defense, vice commander of the American Legion Post, and membership chairman for the Delaware-International Rescue and First Aid Association.

Von Goerres is a first aid instructor for the Diamond State Telephone Company. He has volunteered more than 500 hours of his services to the American Red Cross. And has taught some 28 recognized first aid courses in the past six years. He was awarded the certificate of appreciation and also the service medal in 1962 by the American Red Cross.

At the presentation dinner were telephone company officials from Georgetown, Dover and Wilmington.

Von Goerres was selected for the award by a committee of impartial judges which included: Walter Carey, Mayor of Laurel; Fran Gordy, Sr., director of the University of Delaware Agricultural Sub-Station, and William A. Carter, president of the Millsboro Town Commissioners. Herb received a copper plaque and specially designed tie tack for his long community service.

Harold White, the telephone company's commercial manager for Sussex County, pointed out that the Good Neighbor Award program emphasizes that good citizenship and community service are both corporate and individual obligations.

"We hope," said White, "that the recognition furnished by this award will stimulate our people to carry on their already commendable efforts to assume a full share of leadership and service in their communities."

Von Goerres started with the telephone company as a helper in 1940, and he became a cable splicer in Georgetown in 1946 and a switchman in 1957.

He is married to the former Evelyn Rust, of Georgetown. They have one son Herbert III.

Chemicals Used to Control Elm Disease

Chemical control of the elm bark beetle and burning of elms infested with Dutch elm disease on the University of Delaware campus is an example of how scientists are banding together to lick the common insect and disease problems of man.

April 1, the University employed a helicopter to spray the chemical methoxychlor on the campus elms. This chemical, recommended by Dr. Dale F. Bray, extension entomologist, controls the elm bark beetle—carrier of a fungus causing the Dutch elm disease.

Between May and July, observation of the campus elms to detect symptoms of the disease take place. Dr. John W. Heuberger, extension plant pathologist, makes cultures to determine if the disease is present. If present, the grounds crew, under the direction of Roscoe L. Exley, fells the trees and burns them.

Control methods to combat the elm bark beetle on the University of Delaware campus have changed over the years. Prior to 1960, DDT was used to spray the elms.

Bray explained that the high concentration of DDT needed for control was harmful to birds. So, in 1960, entomologists changed to methoxychlor, a slightly-less effective but safer material.

Burning of infested trees as a second step is necessary, Dr. Heuberger explained, to prevent a build-up of the Dutch elm disease and fungus and the beetle that transmits it.

Heuberger said that infected beetles, carrying the spores on their body, would otherwise move on to healthy trees and infect them. He said from one to two trees are lost per year in this way.

In addition to these methods, several natural enemies are at work reducing the elm bark beetle though not in sufficient numbers to control them.

A species of spider, a bacteria, several nematodes and the downy woodpecker—all native to Delaware—are the beetle's natural enemies.

Dr. Bray said the controls and the combined fact that Delaware has few native elms and, consequently, few elm bark beetles, "will help us save our elms."

He described the battle against the disease on campus as a "sort of 'lone wolf' game," and added that controls will help Delaware retain one of the few elm plantings in the United States in the future.

Agricultural experiment stations throughout the country are turning up some "promising signs for control of the Dutch elm disease," Bray said.

He said the Delaware station is trying to find an effective repellent which, when applied to elm trees, will turn away the bark beetle.

"The day when a definite control of the disease is developed may be much closer than many dare to hope," he added.

Geologist On Visiting Scholars Program

Dr. Maurice Ewing, Higgins Professor of Geology at Columbia University and director of the Lamont Geological Observatory, will speak at a public lecture Monday afternoon at 4 in Room 130, Math-Physics Building, at the University of Delaware.

Dr. Ewing will appear under the auspices of the visiting scholars committee and the department of geology. His topic will be "Some Problems of Deep Sea Sediment Distribution."

A graduate, with his M. A. and Ph. D. degrees also, from Rice Institute, Dr. Ewing has made the exploration of oceans his major research activity. He was director of research in physics at the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution prior to his appointment at director at Lamont.

Dr. Ewing was the first recipient of the Vetlesen Prize, established in 1959 and to be compared in international recognition in earth sciences to the Nobel Prize in other fields. He is also a present consultant to the President's Science Advisory Committee, and has served as a consultant to the Lunar Subcommittee of NASA Space Sciences Steering Committee.

Author of a great number of scientific papers, Dr. Ewing's especially significant ones are those dealing with possible causes of Pleistocene glaciations, the main structural features of the ocean basins such as mid-ocean ridges and rifts, and sediment distribution on the ocean floors.

Geologist On Visiting Scholars Program

Dr. Maurice Ewing, Higgins Professor of Geology at Columbia University and director of the Lamont Geological Observatory, will speak at a public lecture Monday afternoon at 4 in Room 130, Math-Physics Building, at the University of Delaware.

Dr. Ewing will appear under the auspices of the visiting scholars committee and the department of geology. His topic will be "Some Problems of Deep Sea Sediment Distribution."

A graduate, with his M. A. and Ph. D. degrees also, from Rice Institute, Dr. Ewing has made the exploration of oceans his major research activity. He was director of research in physics at the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution prior to his appointment at director at Lamont.

Dr. Ewing was the first recipient of the Vetlesen Prize, established in 1959 and to be compared in international recognition in earth sciences to the Nobel Prize in other fields. He is also a present consultant to the President's Science Advisory Committee, and has served as a consultant to the Lunar Subcommittee of NASA Space Sciences Steering Committee.

Author of a great number of scientific papers, Dr. Ewing's especially significant ones are those dealing with possible causes of Pleistocene glaciations, the main structural features of the ocean basins such as mid-ocean ridges and rifts, and sediment distribution on the ocean floors.

BELTS ARE BUCKLING

Persuading owners that seat belts should be useful as well as ornamental has become an unexpected problem. If seat belts are accepted by some principally as status symbols, they can also prevent wearers from spreading their noses on windshields.

While 4,500,000 have seat belts in their motor cars, only about a third fasten them when driving, safety experts say. Some motorists explain in half-hearted apology they wear theirs only when driving on the highways, others that they serve best in city traffic. "How will you feel," one husband demanded of the little woman after laying out $32 for a pair, "when they pick you up out of a ditch and then find your unfastened seat belt in the car?" "Fine, and phooey," she said, which had to do for an answer.

It is now possible to equip a seat belt with an attachment which prevents the motor from starting until the driver fastens his.

A metal plate fits over the buckle and is wired to the ignition. When the belt is fastened, an electrical circuit is completed to carry a weak current permitting the ignition to be switched on. It's up to the driver to persuade his passengers to fasten theirs. Possibly another circuit in the seat itself would galvanize them into action if they failed to buckle in.

In its present form, the seat belt is an effective but rudimentary appliance. Eventually, we predict, a pair of mechanical arms will be introduced which will grasp each rider firmly around the middle and hold him fast no matter how he struggles. Either that, we say, or let's go back to the 9-mile-an-hour horse and buggy.

STATE POLICE

apprehended the trucker on the Governor Printz Boulevard.

The new 15 state teletype network is the fruit of three years of planning on the part of law enforcement agencies, telephone companies, and the eastern states police communications association.

These networks were installed and are being maintained by the Diamond State Telephone Company. Willard Touchton, the telephone company's communications consultant, co-ordinated installation of the new systems with Captain Bundeck.

Captain Bundeck is a member of the Associations Board of Directors for the central states, a vice president of the Police Teletypewriter Network Association and chairman of the Teletype Committee of the National Association of Public Safety Communications Officers.

He started with the Delaware State Police in 1953 and has served as captain of its communication division since July.

"In the near future," Captain Bundeck said, "we hope to add the southern states, then the western states, and someday we hope to include all law enforcement agencies in the country."

Carvel Sees Gain in Rehabilitation

The state is making gradual, steady progress in its efforts to rehabilitate delinquents, offenders, and the mentally ill, Gov. Elbert N. Carvel said Wednesday.

He pointed to increases in the budgets of the rehabilitation agencies, and said these increases should continue and should permit the gradual expansion of the professional staffs of the agencies. Eventually, the population of some institutions can be cut in half, he believes.

Carvel said early in his administration that he planned to put emphasis on the rehabilitation of people in the state's institutions. Asked Wednesday how he thinks his administration has done in that field, he said, "We are beginning really to make progress—but we have a long way to go."

He pointed to appropriation figures which show the 1964 budget bill just passed by the General Assembly provides 23 percent more for the three major rehabilitation agencies than they received in fiscal 1962.

The three agencies—Delaware State Hospital (including all mental health and related programs) the Board of Corrections and the Youth Services Commission—received a total of $5,803,686.39 in fiscal 1962, which was last fiscal year.

During the current 1963 fiscal year, which ends June 30, their appropriations come to $6,070,840, with two of the three agencies getting substantially more money and the YSC about the same.

In the new budget, for next fiscal year, all three come in for substantial boosts.

For fiscal 1962, the State Hospital spent $4.1 million. Next year it will have $5 million. The Board of Corrections had $1 million in fiscal 1962; next year it gets $1.3 millions.

Farmington Gets School Building

The former Farmington School District, now combined with the Greenwood School District, will use its discarded school building as it sees fit.

The building will be supervised by the Farmington Volunteer Fire Department.

The availability of the building was obtained by Rep. George H. Exley.

Daylight Saving Returns Sunday

Delawareans lose an hour's sleep Sunday as Daylight Saving Time get under way.

There'll be other reminders before then—but here's one: Turn your clocks AHEAD one hour before going to bed Saturday night.

As in past years, Daylight Saving Time will run from 2 a. m. on the last Sunday in April until 2 a. m. on the last Sunday in October, when Standard Time makes its reappearance.

There are efforts to change this pattern.

Rep. John H. Annett, R-Stationville, introduced a bill last week to have Daylight Saving Time run from 1 a. m. on the last Sunday in April until 1 a. m. on the last Sunday in September.

Petitions are being circulated in Edge Moor and Seaford, according to former Wilmington Councilman Pierce V. Marvel, to make Daylight Saving Time "conform with natural light hours" from the last Sunday in March to the last Sunday in September.

Legislative officials point out that the governor by executive proclamation, and not the General Assembly by legislation, sets Daylight Saving Time.

But an aide to the governor said Wednesday night he could not recall any executive order being issued on Daylight Saving Time.

Female Vote Still Out For Houston

Houston's pending charter is a 1963 creation, but it has one thing in common with its 1913 predecessor—women still wouldn't be allowed to vote in town elections.

Rejection of the women's vote at the town board elections in March led a defeated candidate to consider appealing his loss, but apparently too few complaints from disenfranchised women.

Mayor Franklin Morgan says women can vote in Houston if they decide they want to. All they have to do is get together and decide, and the charter now before the state senate could be amended to grant women's suffrage, he said.

The mayor said he told a woman two weeks ago to get the town women together and decide if they want the vote. He says he hasn't heard from her.

But Morgan, who says the charter will get Houston out of the horse-and-buggy age but not quite into the jet age, says the town decided to get a new charter after plans for a fertilizer factory in Houston were announced.

It was supposed to be an orderless and dustless plant, but Morgan said Wednesday night, "We didn't want this."

Unfortunately town officials found they had no power to keep the factory out of town under their old charter, so they began to think about getting a new model.

Meanwhile, most of the town's residents signed a petition opposing the factory, and the plans were dropped.

The defeated candidate is Harold Aplt. He drew the fewest votes of four candidates for three seats on the five-man town board but he claims there were "irregularities," including the election judge's refusal to let women vote.

Wilbert Thomas

Wilbert Thomas, who lived most of his life in the Farmington area, died Tuesday in the Milford Memorial Hospital. He was 68.

Mr. Thomas was a veteran of World War I and member of the American Legion.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Elsie Legates, Harrington, and Mrs. Macey Cannon, Easton, Md., and one brother, Howard Thomas, of Farmington.

Services will be today at 2 p. m. from the Fleischauer Funeral

Home in Greenwood with interment at Hollywood Cemetery in Harrington.

H.H.S. Alumna Com. Held Meeting April 23

The H.H.S. Alumna Association Executive Committee and Banquet Committees met in the cafeteria on Tuesday evening, April 23, with a good attendance. All committees brought up any last minute problems to add the finishing touches on Saturday evening's banquet.

The reservations this year are for 450, the largest number to be served in the seven year's of the association's existence.

One of the problems discussed was that of those planning on attending the dance without having previously purchased a ticket. Admittance to either the dance as well as the banquet will be by ticket only. No one is to be admitted without a ticket and those on the field house doors have been instructed that these regulations be enforced.

The field house doors will not be open for entrance to anyone except the orchestra until the ticket committee is on hand to take tickets. Those who have previously entered the field house before the banquet has been dismissed will be asked to leave and then come back in again this year. This will give those attending the banquet the same chance to obtain seating as those who planned to attend the dance but did not care to attend the banquet.

Amen! That is what I did myself last year! — Assoc. Ed.

Harvey Dill

Harvey Dill, 52, husband of Mrs. Pearl S. Dill, died Thurs., April 18, at his home here after a long illness.

Mr. Dill, a native of Greensboro, Md., lived in Harrington for many years. He was a used car salesman.

Surviving, besides his wife, is his mother, Mrs. Laura Dill, of Greensboro; two brothers, Woodie and Paul Dill, both of Greensboro, and two sister; Mrs. Mary Atmore, of Havertown, Pa., and Mrs. Mabel Curry, of Greensboro. Also one step-son, Richard Sapp, of Harrington and two grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon from the J. Millard Cooper Funeral Home.

Consumer Determines Our Economy

The sovereignty of the consumer in the market place and the high level of investment by businessmen are the two keys to the increasingly high living standards which characterize the American economy, Dr. Austin Murphy, education director of the National Association of Manufacturers, told consumer forum audiences in Wilmington and Georgetown.

Speaking at consumer forums Wednesday and Thursday (April 17 and 18) in the two cities, Dr. Murphy pointed out that consumers exercise their pre-eminence by purchasing goods that best satisfy their needs and by refraining from the purchase of unsatisfactory items.

Because of this freedom of choice on the part of consumers, manufacturers must constantly improve products and introduce new ones. This has also been the means by which the consumer has guided manufacturers' production and directed the allocation of capital and resources to the most productive uses. In turn, Dr. Murphy pointed out, this business investment creates new jobs and additional purchasing power.

There are, however, a number of critics of this historical system of economy, Dr. Murphy remarked. "The marketing function today finds itself the central villain of a new economic faddism which holds that, far from being an 'ill-housed, ill-fed and ill-clothed society' as was proclaimed for it by the politicians of the thirties, the American people today are drowning in their own affluency," Dr. Murphy declared.

He said this theory is "primarily that of prominent advisers to the national administration—The view is that excessive production of consumer goods constitutes a waste of the nation's energies and that our efforts should be channeled through government to public purposes. This objective would be accomplished essentially by imposing higher tax rates which would reduce consumer buying, and permit correspondingly greater expenditures for federal financing of education, public housing, medical benefits, area development and other programs of a collective nature."

Dr. Murphy declared that "the net result of an increase in 'public' spending and in 'public control' over consumer goods must inevitably reduce the individual consumer's area of free choice."

"It worries me today to find our people in every walk of life running to 'big brother', the federal government, for solutions to their real or fancied problems," the speaker said. "May I suggest that the government and government officials are also people and we cannot properly expect that the motivation and action of government officials or the members of advisory councils will be all-wise or Solomon-like in their deliberations. To make such an assumption would be to deny the foundations of our representative government with its carefully built-in checks and balances."

Dr. Murphy pointed out that the strength of a democracy is an educated citizenry. "The basic premise of a democratic state is respect for the individual and the willingness to permit the individual to exercise both authority and responsibility for his own actions."

He cautioned, "When we turn decisions over to the 'government', we turn them over to other people. These other people are not necessarily any better able to decide what we should do than we ourselves."

A three-member panel representing business, labor and the consumer discussed the situation of the consumer and the American economy from their own points of view following Dr. Murphy's talk.

Mrs. A. B. Root, a Newark homemaker, spoke from the viewpoint of the "average consumer." One of her suggestions was that the actual dollar and cents amount of all "hidden" taxes be listed on the price tags of items offered for sale. This would include taxes paid on raw materials and all ingredients in the product, from the manufacture of the product to the time it is offered to the consumer for sale.

A. F. Bridenstine, vice president of Eckard's drug stores, Wilmington, emphasized the consumer's importance to the retailer. "The public governs the markets," he said, "and if a businessman fails to satisfy customers, no 'gimmicks' or sales schemes can keep him in business."

Gene Derrickson, international representative of the Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, remarked that high wages and full employment, "whether this means a shorter work week or some other means," are necessary for prosperity, from organized labor's point of view. "The tax revisions proposed by the federal administration do not go far enough in providing tax relief for the individual," he said, but added that organized labor does favor legislation controlling

Old Dover Days Begin May 4

Visitors to Old Dover Days on Saturday and Sunday, May 4 and 5, can get an exact glimpse of what Caesar Rodney may have seen from his law offices at No. 26 The Green when Delaware's First Regiment was mustered for the Revolutionary War.

The first floor of the building is now occupied by co-owners, Joshua M. Twilley and John O. Snyder, Dover attorneys, while Paul J. Nowland Co., brokers, occupy the second floor.

Mr. Twilley uses the same room which Rodney had as his law office. The original fire-place is still intact. Going to the window in the front room one has a full view of Dover Green. One can imagine that troops are gathering on the Green, and in fact on these two days the American Rifles, ceremonial group of the Delaware National Guard, will actually reenact the scene.

From all indications Dover's gardens will be at their height next weekend and should attract camera fans who are interested in both history and exciting blooms. The gardens at Woodburn on King's Highway and the Buchanan residence on South State St., are prime examples of what is in view for the public. The formal gardens at John Dickinson Mansion should also be in full bloom according to latest reports.

A new contemporary home, that of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Barros, 15 King's Highway, open for the first time, will offer displays of figurines and Wedgewood China, according to Mr. Oliver W. Farrow, general chairman for the Friends of Old Dover, sponsors of the two-day event.

Those coming from the Wilmington area may begin the tour by going to Kenton, approximately five miles west of Route 13 to see Aspendale. Making a right hand turn on Route 300 at Smyrna, the highway leads directly to this famous 1771 home which has been preserved by Donald Van Lear Downs. It is famous for having been built of brick from a "brick-hole" just across the road, where the clay was secured. The brick was laid in Flemish bond.

Its eighteenth century architecture is authentic and has undergone few changes in the intervening years. For instance, the woodwork and paneling contain the original coat of paint applied in 1771 in unusual color combinations. The house is authentically furnished and is one of Old Dover Days' major show places this year.

Eden Hill Farm, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Scheller, is west on North Street, Dover. It is also of unusual interest. Built in 1749 by Nicholas Ridgely, it is still owned by his descendants. A long line of fine old trees lines the lane to the property. A 1790 boxwood garden is another unusual feature. '64 Wheat Program Benefits For Livestock Feeders Told Livestock feeders could benefit through the 1964 wheat program, Jacob Zimmerman, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee, said today. His comments were about the program on which wheat growers will vote May 21, a program which contains many new features, including a new system for supporting prices for the 1964 wheat crop.

Of interest to farmers with livestock will be the use of diverted acres for grazing, chairman Zimmerman declared. If the livestock man is also a wheat grower, he may participate in the wheat-diversion program without the need to fence off diverted acres. Since the payment on diverted acres which are grazed year 'round would be reduced by 50 per cent, the practice would not be attractive to men not already in the livestock business.

But the provision would relieve livestock operators of the trouble of fencing off small cropland acreages diverted from wheat.

The new wheat program also provides for substituting wheat allotment acres for feed grain base acres, provided a feed grain diversion program is in effect for 1964. This wheat for feed would be in place of, not in addition to, feed grain that otherwise would be grown on that acreage. This also would allow farmers who have the need for more straw or want to use wheat to establish rotational seeding of grass and legumes to seed additional acreage. Price supports for wheat grown on feed grain acres would be at the noncertificated rate of $1.30 per bushel, national average.

Highest Award Given To Nine Scouters

The presentations were made Saturday night at the Wilcomico Youth and Civic Center in Salisbury as the Scouters gathered for their annual Recognition Dinner.

Receiving the Silver Beaver Award were Jack Gordon Hershelman, James Douglas Dunn, Samuel Massey Ellicott, Robert Hamilton McBride, Wilfred T. Mason, James Edgar Mallonee and Alexis Felix duPont, all of the Wilmington area; William B. Shallcross, of Middletown, and William H. Bull, of Salisbury. Mr. duPont, unfortunately, was unable to be present for the award.

The awards were presented by W. Ryder Jones, of Salisbury, chairman of the Del-Mar-Va Council Silver Beaver Committee, as the climax of the evening's program.

The meeting was conducted by Robert W. Tunnell, of Georgetown, vice president of the Del-Mar-Va Council. The Scouters were welcomed to Salisbury by the Honorable Frank Morris, mayor of that city and were entertained during the program by the Foremasters, members of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America. Walter O. Simon, of Wilmington, Council President, brought greetings to the assembled Scouters.

Delaware Food Market Report

Make May a truly merry month. Use this month's abundant food supplies to advantage by planning meals that will give you more time outdoors.

Save preparation time, as well as money, by serving a tangy meat loaf. It's so good the next day too, in sandwiches and casseroles. It's to be a record year for beef and the supplies which were above average during the first of the year, will be even greater during the second quarter. As much as 10 to 15 per cent more fed beef will be marketed during April, May and June, than during the same period in 1962. Thus, it is no surprise to find beef as a feature item on May's Pivotal Foods List.

Top quality pork continues to be plentiful and shares the spotlight with beef on May's Pivotal Foods List. Unseasonably high slaughter rates for pork are expected in May, and retail prices for pork are expected to be well below those of a year ago.

Carrots are another hold over from the April listing. The winter crop was a near-record and lots of these carrots are still arriving at Northeast markets. Meanwhile, the spring producing areas have begun to harvest their good crops. Put this bright, vitamin A packed, crisp, and tasty vegetable to full use in main dishes, salads, and snack servings.

Canned freestone peaches and canned ripe olives also remain in ample supply. Canned foods of this type make good picnic and barbecue items because they are so easy to care for, prepare and serve. At home, servings are equally simple and they are versatile, also.

Dairy specialists expect milk supplies to be higher this year than last. May is the month when milk production reaches its seasonal peak. Now is the time to mix-and-match the dairy products of your choice.

Rounding out the May listing will be broiler-fryers, a perennial favorite for outdoors, as well as indoor meals. Supplies are now increasing seasonally and are expected to top last year's high level. The economical young chickens, tender and tasty make good main dish features.

Lion Trackmen Open With Win

Coach Harold McDonald's Harrington High track team opened its season with a 77-32 win over the Mustangs from Bridgeville. High in a meet held here Wednesday afternoon. The Lions won ten of the thirteen events on the program.

Bob Smith, of Harrington and Bob Calloway, of Bridgeville, were double winners. Smith, despite the soft track, blazed the 440 yard run in 55.7 seconds. This is the second fastest quarter mile time ever recorded here. Barry Fry, though boxed in at the start, got out in time to push Smith for much of the way and might have been close to 56 seconds if he had not stumbled near the finish. Bill Sollars nipped the Mustangs Dick Friedel at the wire to give the Lions a 1-2-3 finish. Smith also won the half mile.

Calloway won the 100 and 220 yard dashes and anchored the winning 880 relay team to figure in all three Mustang first places. Other high local scorers behind Smith's 10 points were Randy Knox (9), George Bonniwell (9), Barry Fry (8) and Ron Melvin (8).

Knox captured the high jump with a fine leap of 5 ft. 6 in., was second in the broad jump and third in the javelin. Bonniwell took the mile run in a good 5:08, was second in the pole vault and third in the 880. Fry finished first in the broad jump in addition to his fine effort in the 440.

Melvin won the discus and was second to Joe Taylor in the 12 pound shot put.

Wayne Carson and Harry Bitler were real surprises in the mile run. In practice they had been clocking 5:45 for the distance. But in actual competition they rose to the challenge, duelled with each other and a Bridgeville runner, poured it on all the way and were clocked in 5:20 for Carson and 5:22 for Bitler. Both beat the Mustang they were competing with as they finished third and fourth, respectively. Their times would have won several downstate mile runs this year. Tom Lord was the winner in the javelin throw with a toss of 141 feet. This compares favorably with Bob Gillette's school record of 148 feet.

Frank Cain cleared 9 ft. 7 in. to win the pole vault. George Bonniwell and Bill Adams completed the 1-2-3 sweep.

Harrington won the junior high section of the meet by a score of 49-24. Raleigh Davis and Lester Minner were first and second in both the 50 and 100 yard dashes. Minner, who came out for the team the day of the meet, also was third and Albert Ratledge was second in the 220 yard dash. Davis, Ratledge, Donald Wells and Willie Bonniwell hustled to victory in the 440 yard relay. Bonniwell, Ellis Myer, Alan Jerread and John Petrosky made up the winning 880 yard relay team. Bonniwell also captured the 8 pound shot put. Jerread won the high jump and was second in the 880 yard run. Petrosky was the broad jump winner.

Greenwood ignored Felton's press clippings and gave the league leaders a whale of a tussle before bowing 3-2. The winners had piled up 27 runs in their runaway wins over Harrington and Rehoboth, but all-around athlete Julian Woodall held them to seven hits and single runs in the first, second and sixth frames. The Foresters bid for victory was choked off after two runs came across the plate in the top of the seventh and final inning.

Jim Blades was the winning pitcher. Mike Harrington paced Felton at the plate with two hits in two trips.

SULKY SLANTS

By Mrs. Dave (Pat) Smith.
So sorry to read that 'The Grand Old Man', Mr. Nimrod Minner, passed away. I had the pleasure chatting with him a couple years ago. I really enjoyed hearing of his experiences on the railroad. God let him live a full life. And a good one.
Took a trip to Staten Island to see the terrible ruins of homes. With my press pass, I was allowed to ride with the policeman on duty. It was terrible. Now I wish I hadn't gone.
People just standing around in a daze, some crying, others trying to salvage whatever they could. Unless you should experience such, you couldn't understand. It will be on my mind for a long, long time.
It looked to me just like a bombed out village. One little fellow was crying, "we lost everything."
But I was more nervous crossing on the ferry as the darn boat had something wrong with it. So what a hectic trip. Tony Sisti, a reporter for Newsday, on Long Island, was also on same boat. We all were a little worried.
Sure was glad to get back to good old Manhattan.
As I drove up the Hudson River Parkway it was so pretty, with trees and flowers just coming out. For the time being you forgot the scorched place you had just left.
Then some of the people who lost their homes were on the subway last week which caused a terrible panic. That fire was terrible too. I talked with a few people that had been down in the subway. Fire down there and now on homes. What more can happen?
So much for those sorrowful tragedies.
The trainers, grooms, and owners are looking forward to the opening of Roosevelt Raceway, May 10, for horses to come on the grounds. Seems everyone likes the track on the Island better than Yonkers Raceway.
There is nothing handy for the horsemen at this track. But, I guess you can't have everything.
Daniel Girard and Roland Draper, who drives a transportation truck for Kirby and Holloway, stopped in where I work. They were up here to pick up a couple horses to take to Rosecroft.
Mr. Draper, Stan Clark were visitors to Yonkers Raceway over the past weekend.
Mr. Vineyard really went to town with Mighty Tide. Fastest mile of the season.
Bob Frame, Paul Vineyard's second trainer and driver isn't doing too bad. I know he was really thrilled to win with "Adios Parker", last Saturday night.
Lee Parker, from Millsboro, was on hand to see his colt win.
Tom Davis Jr. and Albert Smith spent the weekend in Harrington.
Sure miss Mrs. Thomas and Virginia Holloway; couldn't leave out Mr. Simpson. Always enjoyed going over to the office.
Mr. Kephart, do you want a coca cola?
See you all next week.

H.H.S. Nine Beats Delmar

Jim Hawpe's Harrington High baseball Lions defeated Delmar 9-6 here Monday afternoon to give the locals a 1-1 record.
Harrington scored four times in the first inning, once in the fourth and added four tallies in the fifth for a 9-0 advantage. The Wildcats came to life in the sixth and gave the Lion rooters some uneasy moments. With the score at 9-6 and the tying runs on the bases, Richard Black in left field made a beautiful catch to end the game. Jose Torres was the winning pitcher.

Jeff Adams had three hits in four attempts for the winners. Frank Collins had a double and single and drove in three runs. Three of these went to Bill Adams in three trips to the plate. Walter Perdue and Renny French were other Lions to hit safely.
Harrington Coach Jim Hawpe used fourteen players in the vain attempt to halt the Felton juggernaut.

Fish & Game News

Game and Fish Hearing
Tonight at 8 p.m., the annual fish and game hearing will be held in the Capitol Grange Hall, S. Governor's Ave., Dover.
The purpose of these hearings is for sportsmen to discuss with the Commission proposed changes in hunting and fishing regulations. Of major interest will be regulations that determine seasons for quail, pheasant, rabbit, squirrel, dove and waterfowl.

Memo to Motoring Sportsmen
Spring is in the air, in the hunter's stride and in every swelling plant shoot. Wildlife migrations are well on the way. Game, seeking the first tender greens sprouting along the lower regions of the forests, often must cross roads and highways. Be alert—cars can (and do) needlessly take a heavy toll of the moving creatures, which quite often are in a weakened condition from the long hard winter and consequently are less agile.

And don't forget to spread the word that a "wilderness baby" should not be touched. Young wildlife animals seldom are lost, and more often than not the parent has left the young in what is considered to be a safe, concealed spot. Just last week well-meaning persons called the Game and Fish office; one man had four rabbits about the size of your fist and the other had three woodcock about a week old. Too often fawns have been actually stolen from the doe while she would be grazing within sight of her timid baby. Human odors about the young animal or nest can have only one result—the parent will not return and the young will perish. In the interest of good sportsmanship, spread the word: "Don't touch young wildlife!"

Lee Parker, from Millsboro, was on hand to see his colt win.

Felton Blanks H.H.S. For 2nd Win

Felton High School is threatening to make a runaway of the Henlopen Conference baseball race. The Green Devils opened with a 15-1 rout of Rehoboth and last Thursday whitewashed Harrington High to the tune of 12-0. At present it appears that Bridgeville's Foster Flint may be the only hurler in the league, who may slow the Devils' pennant drive.

Against the Lions, Felton failed to score in only one turn at bat. A five run third inning sewed up the verdict. Tom Williams hit a three run homer in this frame and added a bases-empty, circuit clout in the sixth inning to wind up the scoring. Williams drove in half the winners' runs. Dave Wood had a perfect day at the plate with four hits in as many attempts and now is 7 for 8 for the two games played. Sam Ludlow had 2 for 2 against Harrington. He sports a record of five hits in six attempts.

Mike Harrington hurled his second straight victory as he limited the losers to five hits. Three of these went to Bill Adams in three trips to the plate. Walter Perdue and Renny French were other Lions to hit safely.
Harrington Coach Jim Hawpe used fourteen players in the vain attempt to halt the Felton juggernaut.

of the seventh and final inning. The Mustangs were leading 3-0 when the Foresters drove Daugherty from the mound with a three run rally in the fifth. Foster Flint, who may be the Henlopen Conference's premier moundman, took over for Daugherty and fanned six Foresters in two and one-third innings.
Julian Woodall went the distance for the losers and pitched a creditable seven-hitter in defeat. Woodall, Ellsworth Coleman and Bruce Henry had the Forester's three safeties.

Bob Smith Top Lion at Seaford Invitational

Sophomore Bob Smith and junior Randy Knox accounted for all of Harrington High's eight points in the eleven-team Seaford Invitational track meet Wednesday afternoon. Smith tallied six points for finishing second in the mile run and fourth in the half mile. Knox captured fourth place in the javelin.
Smith competed in the mile for the first time this season. The winner, Beauchamp, of Washington High, Princess Anne, Md., is an old friend and nemesis of the local youth. Beauchamp has had the Indian sign on Bob for three years, starting when they were rivals in junior high. Smith's fastest time in the mile is five seconds faster than the Marylander's best, so the Lion will be Beauchamp upset the applecart when he won the half mile. Seaford's Johnny Temple had been picked to win the race and possibly set a new record. Temple was rested. Beauchamp was not. The tough little redhead clocked a good 2:08.5 on a raw, windy day. Bob Smith closed fast and just missed catching Rehoboth's Newton for third place.
