

THOMAS H. PECK IS ELECTED C. OF C. HEAD

Thomas H. Peck, active civic worker, was elected president of the Harrington Chamber of Commerce at its May meeting Tuesday at The Wonder R.

Peck is a member of Peck Brothers Farm Supply Company, Inc.

Other officers elected were as follows: Vice president, Randall H. Knox Jr.; treasurer, Arnold B. Gilstad, incumbent, and secretary, Carrington H. Burgess, incumbent. Officers are elected for one year.

Outgoing president was J. Edward Taylor, with Kester M. Farrow, outgoing vice president.

In other business at Tuesday's meeting, presided over by Taylor, it was voted to increase the directors of Harrington Industries, Inc., from 15 to 25, with all directors to be stockholders.

Cost of stock was determined at $10 per share at a meeting of the industrial group, headed by William W. Shaw, at a short meeting after the chamber meeting adjourned.

Harrington Industries, Inc., was recently certified by the Secretary of State, as being eligible for the support of state industrial bonds. If an industry desires to locate here and funds would be necessary, the State would consider guaranteeing a loan with state industrial bonds.

H.H.S. At Youth Forum

Harrington High was one of 50 schools in the Mid-Atlantic area invited to attend the Youth Forum commemorating the 50th anniversary of Park School (Brooklandville, Md.). Delegates Lynn Hopkins, Claudia Neeman, David Brobst and advisor Amanda Quillen spent May 11 with other students and adults discussing problems and ideals common in today's world.

Rep. Clarence D. Long, the keynote speaker, introduced the recurring theme in his statement: "Although the achievements of America's youth have surpassed those of any other era in magnitude and number, challenges are present wherever they turn."

In one group, "Problems and Pressures of Adolescence," the following questions were asked: What do I believe in? What are my goals? What are my responsibilities? Why am I "me"?

We (the youth) are being increasingly pressured into answering these queries as a defense against reputations of rebellion and idealism. The group concluded that our "rebellion" is only our "idealistic" struggle to better our future nation—and world.

"Pure Science and Modern Technology," "Modern Philosophy and Morals," "Peaceful Coexistence," "Problems of Democracy—theory vs. practice," "Religion and Its Changing Value," were among the many subjects over 200 students discussed honestly and often passionately.

One question was asked that needs an answer in any community—including Harrington. Is it ignorance or apathy that prevents improvement in our homes, our school, our town? Are all adults apathetic to the needs of an idealistic generation—a caring one? Does ignorance prevent rapid intellectual modernization?

If adults could find the answers to these questions, a youth forum need never be organized.

Heart Expert To Speak on Heart Disease

The Delaware Heart Association and the Life Underwriters Association of New Castle will hold a combined meeting Wednesday to hear a nationally-known expert on heart disease.

The public is invited to attend. Advance reservations may be made by phone with the Delaware Heart Association.

The former chief of staff of the House of the Good Samaritan, Boston, he once served as a member of the National Advisory Heart Council, U. S. Public Health Service. Employment On Or Off Farm An Issue

With graduation around the corner, the problem of whether the student should work on the farm or seek off-farm employment may become an issue.

Actually, it is up to the family to organize its thoughts and determine whether the son should or should not join up with dad on the farm. After the family has given some thought to the problem, the county agent would be glad to sit down and help work out the details of a formal arrangement.

A bulletin is available which will help guide the parents and the son in deciding whether it is a good idea to become a partner with dad in the farm business or seek other employment. The name of the bulletin is Family Farm Operating Agreement. It is available from any of the County Agent's offices.

The information also would be appropriate to older sons or sons-in-law that are working along with dad, but many want a more formal agreement. As the son grows up, marries and establishes his own family, or need for well worked-out operating agreements increases. What ham, and coffee will be served by the church.

Anyone who has attended the church during Mr. Taylor's leadership, is welcome and are asked to bring a covered dish.

His toe around the trigger of a 20-gauge shotgun, William Hammond Jr. was found near Felton Saturday. Authorities called his death an apparent suicide.

The muzzle of the weapon was against his temple.

State police said the body of Hammond, a 65-year-old farmer, was found on the side porch of his home.

Dr. Hunter Addis, of Harrington, pronounced the victim dead at the scene.

Police said he had been having "family difficulty" and recently, in the presence of a son and neighbor, had threatened to kill himself.

Surviving are four sons: William III, Wallace, Smith and Norris Hammond, all of Felton, four grandchildren, and two brothers: Milton and Wallace, both of Camden, N. J.

Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Florence Thornton, of Greensboro and Mrs. Alpha Sipple, of Felton.

Private funeral services were held Monday afternoon from the J. Millard Cooper Funeral Home in Harrington.

Brandywine Reopens Monday With C-R Stakes

"Caesar Rodney's Ride," $25,000 (est) stakes classic for three-year-old pacers to have been presented tomorrow night at Brandywine Raceway, will be held Monday night when the track reopens.

Brandywine is closed this week due to a virus among the horses which, veterinarians report, is causing, marked improvement in the condition of the affected horses has been announced by practically all stable vets.

The racing secretary's office pointed out that the rescheduling of "Caesar Rodney's Ride" is subject to approval by owners of all horses nominated. A poll was made and since there were no dissenting voices the race will be presented Monday night.

Simplify Spring Housecleaning

Spring housecleaning used to be a week-long job of scrubbing, moving furniture, beating rugs and, in general, a frenzy of heavy work for the "proper" homemaker. But this is no longer necessary, says Coral K. Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware.

Instead of spending several days doing the whole job at once, most modern homemakers accomplish the same thing without exhausting themselves, by doing a little at a time, Miss Morris says.

"If you make a list of all the things you want to accomplish when you clean house, the job sounds nearly impossible. But each individual task probably takes no longer than five to thirty minutes," Miss Morris points out. "Do one of the little jobs at a time—while you're preparing a meal, or straightening the living room, or at some other time when you can sandwich in a five or ten minute job—and your 'spring housecleaning' will be done before you realize it."

"When you have as long as 20 minutes, you can wash all the bathroom fixtures and the floor, or wash fingerprints off woodwork in two or three rooms, or wash all the window sills in the house," she says.

In 15 minutes, a homemaker can wash a window inside and out; vacuum and dust pictures, lighting fixtures and lamps in several rooms; clean out the medicine cabinet, wash shelves, sort out supplies and return needed ones to the shelves; or dust all the books in a bookcase.

Ten minute jobs, Miss Morris says, include emptying wastebaskets; straightening out a bureau drawer; cleaning the bottom of a closet, including removal of items, washing or vacuuming the floor and replacing articles in the closet; cleaning and polishing a piece of furniture; or changing sheets and making a bed.

It takes only five minutes to sweep or vacuum the kitchen floor; or to wash the outside of the refrigerator or stove and kitchen cabinet doors; or to take items off a kitchen shelf, wipe or re-paper the shelf and replace items.

"Considering the small amount of time these jobs take, a homemaker should be able to do these and many others as she finds a few spare minutes," Miss Morris comments. "Housecleaning is only as difficult as the homemaker herself makes it."

OFFICERS OF THE LADIES AUXILIARY—of the Farmington Volunteer Fire Company are shown being installed by past president of the State Association, Mrs. Dorothy Dill, of Felton. They are as follows: President, Ruth Ann Messick; vice-president, Fay Bradley; secretary, June Jerread; treasurer, Catherine Cannon; ass't. treasurer, Dorothy Laughery. Absent was ass't. secretary, Peggy Mitchell.

Wheat Plan Has Stiff Penalties

One very important phase of Secretary Freeman's wheat certificate plan which has been receiving little or no publicity is the fact that stiff penalties are provided. Roland E. Garrison, president of the Delaware Farm Bureau, said that the plan calls for fines up to $500.00 for violating regulations and jail sentences up to ten years for fraud.

As you think this over, you wonder why a wheat program should have such penalties in it. After all, wheat is a wholesome, natural product whose unrestrained use could hurt no one, and generally, wheat processors are engaged in nothing worse than bringing bread to America's dinner tables.

What then, is the importance of the marketing certificates that their misuse should be deterred with the threat of such heavy punishment? For that matter, why do we need the certificates at all? They will contribute nothing to improved quality, efficiency of production, marketing, processing, or distribution. On the contrary, they will add to the cost of administration, to the red tape involved, and to the book work required to keep up with government programs.

There is, of course, but one reason for the certificates. They are the control device in the program. The Secretary will have the power to limit the number of certificates issued. With this power he can ration out the wheat market and determine how much of each grower's production may receive the higher of the two levels of price support. The threat of heavy penalties will enable him to keep a tight rein on the wheat trade and guard against a "black market" in certificates and wheat.

The marketing certificates would work something like gasoline rationing stamps used during the war, when stamps were all gone your money had no value for buying gasoline. Under the wheat certificate plan, when your certificates are all gone, the wheat you have left will have a reduced value.

Injection of the certificates into the wheat trade is like a farmer planting seed contaminated with noxious weed. They can only harm the crop.

Get Equipment Ready For Barbecues

Back-yard barbecues are a popular, family-way to say summer is here. If you don't already have a barbecue unit, there are many styles to buy or make for yourself from stones or blocks, says Janet Coblentz, extension food and nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware.

If you make a barbecue for your yard, choose a site that is safe by making sure that sparks will not fly in the direction of your home, trees, dry leaves, or brush, she cautions. Plans for building a barbecue may be obtained from the agricultural extension offices located in each county.

Fire brick is the most durable fire box for barbecues. Some people use cement block. Sheet metal is also good, but be sure to check that it is heavy gauge metal, advises Miss Coblentz.

A ready-made barbecue outfit should have devices that adjust the fire box grill and spits in (Continued on Page 8)

Tick Season Is Here Again

While brushing my dog the other day, I found three ticks on him and knew that we were back in "tick season" again. These repulsive, eight-legged creatures can be found on any dog that walks through old fields or along a wood's edge. Most of the ticks settle down near the dog's head and begin sucking blood. People who walk in fields or along woodland paths commonly pick up ticks too.

When a female tick is full of blood (yours or your dog's) it drops to the ground and lays between three and five thousand eggs. These hatch, producing tiny babies called seed ticks. The seed ticks crawl around until they contact an animal on which they can suck blood.

We have two common ticks in Delaware, the American dog tick and the brown dog tick. The brown dog tick can't survive our winters out of doors, but the American dog tick can. Young brown dog ticks begin feeding on dogs and only dogs, but American dog ticks must feed on mice or rabbits during their early life, transferring to dogs

Dozers Due; Indian Dig Is Hurried

Two state archaeological groups will excavate an Indian camp or village site at Frederica, soon to be wiped out by a highway project.

The project was planned Saturday at the first joint meeting of the Archaeological Society of Delaware and the Sussex Archaeological and Historical Society.

The former group draws most of its members from New Castle County, the latter from Sussex, with no such organization in Kent.

Dr. Allen G. Schiek, Claymont, chairman of the State Archaeological Board, stressed the importance of a thorough excavation of this site before it is permanently destroyed by the proposed dualization of Rt. 113 at that point.

Both organizations agreed to join in an appeal to the attorney general to have future road contracts include a small percentage of funds to cover the expenses of any archaeological excavations that would be affected by the highway projects.

Dr. Schiek explained that federal laws have such a provision for interstate highways, which are 90 per cent federal, 10 per cent state tax-supported projects. There is no similar provision for such projects under the usual 50 per cent federal, 50 per cent state contracts under which the Frederica widening comes.

Tips For Farmers Who Need Hay

Caught short of hay? Do you need summer grazing? Our hard winter has left many dairymen and livestock feeders with a short roughage program. Too, the dry weather has many of us running scared about hay supplies. Here are ways to close the gap, says George Vapaa, the Kent County Agricultural agent:

1. Plant sudan, Sudex or S 100 now for grazing in July and August.
2. You can get two crops of soybeans and millet for hay if you seed the first crop now. It will come off early in July and you can disc and reseed immediately for another crop in the early fall.
3. Cut small grain for hay now. They may mean more as hay this year than as grain and straw.
4. You can sow drilled corn now, and ensile or green chop it after it gets up about 3 or 4 feet.
5. If your ground is plowed and ready for soybeans, plant one of the above and delay bean planting. Soybeans should do well even if planting is delayed until June 15th.
6. Get an extra half ton of alfalfa per acre by letting it come into full bloom. You will sacrifice some quality, but you will get more hay. Top dress the stubble with 0-15-30 fertilizer so that it will have enough food on hand.
7. Check our Delaware Dairy Digest for your best feed buys. Hay prices are out of sight - currently around $75 a ton. You can get more for your money by substituting grains and other by-product supplements.
8. You may be able to purchase cheaper hay at harvest time. That is usually lowest because many farmers do not have storage to hold all of their crop.
9. Consider strip grazing your pastures with electric fences. A pasture will recover more quickly and give more total feed if cows are forced to graze small plots more intensively. Five or six pasture blocks are much better.

The incumbent candidate was one of four who fell by the wayside Saturday as five persons sought a single vacancy on the Board of Education of Harrington Special School District.

William J. Walls garnered 134 votes; Melville C. Taylor, 127; William R. Irwin, 73, and the incumbent, Mrs. Musetta Cox, president of the board, also 73.

Terms of office are four years. Rash will take office in July.

At Felton, William Myers, incumbent, was winner, with 189 votes, with Roland Neeman receiving 102.

At Greenwood, six candidates vied for four seats on an entirely new school board due to the consolidation with Farmington district last year. Robert E. Messick, the only candidate from Farmington, led the list.

The winners and terms are: Messick, 306 votes, a four-year term; Louis O. Mills, 299, three years; Mrs. Marjorie Baker, 234, two years, and Willard J. Thomson Jr., 209, one year.

Mrs. Baker and Mills were incumbents on the Greenwood board. Two other incumbents in the contest were defeated, Chairman John M. Mervine, 204, and Earl N. Keel, 177.

A total of 385 voters went to the polls and were allowed to cast four votes each.

Youngsters to Attend Flower Show School

All Delaware youngsters up to 18 years of age are invited to attend a flower show training school at the University of Delaware Saturday, May 25, sponsored by the Delaware Flower Show committee, according to Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University.

The program will include sessions on flower judging, plant identification and flower arranging, and participants may attend any or all of the programs, free of charge. The sessions will be held at Agricultural Hall on the University campus in Newark from 10 a. m. to 3:30 p. m.

The session on flower judging set for 10 a. m. will help participants who plan to enter the flower judging contest at the Delaware Flower Show, which is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, June 1 and 2, at the University's Carpenter Field House.

The 11 a. m. session on plant identification is designed to teach youngsters the names of common annuals, perennials, trees, shrubs and house plants. Special plants will be available for different age groups, assisting young people who will enter the plant identification contest at the Delaware Flower Show.

Children who attend are to bring their own sandwiches for lunch. Soft drinks and ice cream will be provided.

In the afternoon, Mrs. Charles Dunham, assisted by several flower arrangement experts, will be present to help each youngster to make his own flower arrangement.

In order that enough flowers and other materials are available for all who attend, reservations should be made in advance by writing to Robert F. Stevens, University of Delaware, Newark, Del.

Ft. Delaware To Open June 9

An opportunity to witness a Civil War sham battle and to browse through the dungeons of a Civil War fortress-prison will be afforded those who visit historic Fort Delaware on June 9, advises the Delaware State Development Department. The fort, located on Pea Patch Island in the Delaware River off Delaware City, is a huge, grim pile of granite and brick built in the period from 1848 to 1859 and used as a prison for Confederates captured in the battles of 1862 to 1865.

tars. The battle will take place on the greensward surrounding the fort. Visitors will also have an opportunity to explore the fort itself with its ancient gun embrasures, magazines, mess halls, kitchens, and spooky corridors. The dungeons are reached through dimly lighted, narrow passageways. In one dungeon the names and regiments of Confederate prisoners and the dates they scratched on the wall can still be seen. The charge for transportation by boat to the island from Delaware City and return and for the sham battle will be $1.50 for adults and $1 for children. As attendance will be limited because of transportation facilities, tickets are now being sold in advance on a first come, first served basis.

Delaware City is on State Route 9 which connects with U. S. 13 about 15 miles south of Wilmington. Brown and white signs to Fort Delaware State Park mark the intersection with State Route 9. The Fort Delaware Society which maintains the museum at the fort will have charge of the sale of souvenirs and is acting in an advisory capacity to the State Park Commission. The fort is open to the public on weekends and holidays from May 25 to Oct. 15. Transportation fare on regular weekends is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. Reminiscences Of Early Fire Fighting And Organization of Fire Company in H'gton

By William W. Sharp - 1958

In the early days of our fire-fighting there was no organization. When a fire broke out the church bells were rung and the whistles of mills and railroad engines were blown to sound the alarm; and when we heard it we would all pick up a bucket and run to fight the fire.

We had to depend on local hand pumps for our water supply until the year 1901 when a company from Reading, Pa., secured a franchise to erect a standpipe and lay water mains throughout the town for the water supply of the residents and for fire protection.

In 1905 the Harrington Volunteer Fire Company was organized, and in 1924 sold its holdings to the Town of Harrington. In order to finance this proposition the town commissioners issued bonds and later levied a small tax on property owners to purchase hose for the use of the Fire Company in fighting fires.

Mr. Ezekiel Fleming gave the first hose reel on two wheels. And with this equipment we fought fires for several years. The need for a fire engine was keenly realized, but — where to get the funds? Norman D. Vernon, supervisor of the Penna. R. R. Co. here, suggested that we purchase a Ford automobile of Warren T. Moore, a local agent, and sell chances to make some money toward the purchase of a fire engine.

He was strongly supported in this endeavor by Walter E. Roys, George Potter, "Huck" Palmer, George W. Swain, George E. Swain, Warren Moore, Frank H. VanGesel, Wm. W. Sharp and others. We all worked diligently and when the chances were all sold, we held a "drawing." The lucky number was held by Wm. A. Smith, father of Baynard Smith and grandfather of Dr. Robert H. Smith.

This proved to be very fortunate for the Fire Company for Mr. Smith, who was a very charitable and civic-minded man, gave the car back to the Fire Company to be sold again. Frank Parris was the purchaser. This "double take" from the sale of the chances and the sale of the car enabled us to buy a Ford fire engine, equipped with a pump; this was a big improvement in our methods.

Some time previous to this the Methodist Protestant Church built a new brick structure on Commerce Street and sold their old church property on Mechanic Street between Fleming and Dornna Street to the Fire Company. After using this structure as a fire house for several years it was finally razed and a two story brick building was erected on that site to accommodate the fire engines and equipment, office of the town commissioners, the jail; also a club room for recreation of the members of the fire company.

company and also firemen from neighboring towns and we would share with them what they had learned at the school. Frank C. O'Neal was very active in this particular work.

Local insurance agencies inform us that they have been able to reduce insurance rates at least 50% in the last fifty years because of the efficient work of this fire company who are on guard constantly regardless of weather conditions or any other handicap.

I shall attempt to enumerate the fire chiefs as I remember them: William H. Franklin, served five years; Walter E. Roys, served five years; James L. Harmstead, served one year; O. C. Passmore, served two years; Morris P. Ketchline, served three years; George B. Potter, served six years; George W. Cain, served three years; Stanley P. Massey, served 1/2 year, resigned when he moved from the state; George W. Cain, served 8 1/2 years (his second term); Clarence P. Shockley, served 18 years, with Douglas Mills as assistant; Douglas Mills, served nine years.

Several years ago a Ladies' Auxiliary was organized and it has given excellent service through the years. Mrs. Baynard Smith was the first president, and many others have served faithfully. They have served many suppers, etc., catering often to different organizations. They have given to the fire company several thousand dollars toward buying the fire engines, ambulances, and replacement of equipment as it was necessary. This auxiliary has a reputation for serving good food and when the Kent County firemen meet here, the attendance is good for the men know meals served here are of the best in the state.

St. Bernadette's Church Notes

In a most impressive and colorful ceremony sixty children of St. Bernadette's and St. John's Parishes received the Holy Sacrament of Confirmation on May 5th, in St. John's Catholic Church, Milford.

The Most Reverend Michael W. Hyle, D. D., of Wilmington, administered this sacrament, and was assisted by Rev. J. Francis McDonough, Rev. Charles J. McGinley, pastor of Our Lady of Lourdes in Seaford, Rev. Thomas J. Peterman, assistant pastor of the Holy Cross Parish in Dover, and Rev. John A. Corrigan, pastor of St. John's and St. Bernadette's Parishes.

The girls were attired in white gowns with red collars and matching red beanies for their heads. The boys wore red gowns, white shirts with red bow ties.

The following children were confirmed from St. Bernadette's parish: John Calvert, Howard Gannon, William Lord, David Murphy, Otto Retzlaff, Patrick Ryan, Joseph Zerolles, Darleae Dobraski, Beverly Gallo, Carol Gannon, Antonette Gerardi, Doreen Gray, Cathy Kirwan, Cynthia Kohel, Matilda Kukulka, Cathy Lord, Marion Santo, Diane Smith, Joan Wrotten and June Wrotten.

The sponsors were Mrs. Clarence Billings and Mrs. Harold Calvert, of St. Bernadette's Parish, Wilmar Nauman and Joseph King of St. John's Parish.

Proceeding Confirmation, Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was observed. This consists essentially of the singing of the hymn "Tantum Ergo" with its prayer, followed by a blessing given to the people by making the sign of the cross above them with the Blessed Sacrament. Bishop Hyle was the celebrant of Solemn Benediction and was assisted by the Rev. Stanley Russell, Deacon; the Rev. Philip Siry, Sub-Deacon.

The Rev. Henri I. Foltz, the Chancellor of the Diocese was the master of ceremonies.

This year's class of children receiving first Holy Communion will be held Sun., May 19, at 9:30 Mass in St. Bernadette's Church. White gowns and blue capes will be furnished by the parish for the children on this occasion.

The annual May procession will follow 9:30 Mass on the 19th, the girls are requested to wear pastel dresses, and boys are to wear white shirts, Pale blue bow ties and white veils for the procession are provided by the church. Linda Smith will be the May Queen.

Breakfast for the first communicants and refreshments for their parents will be held immediately after the Mass.

The choirs will sing appropriate music on this Sunday, under the direction of Mrs. William Wise and Tony Perrone, Jr., assisted at the organ by Tyson Wrotten.

The public is cordially invited to witness the events taking place on this day.

Alfalfa Under Test At Smyrna

Delaware farmers will have a chance this summer to see how different alfalfa hay varieties react under Delaware growing conditions during demonstration tests near Smyrna.

The project was begun last year but the feeding phases were postponed following a fire that destroyed storage facilities on the Charles Blendt farm, site of the demonstration.

Dr. W. H. Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware, said the project hopes to answer such questions as whether hay-drying is practical for Delaware farmers interested in improving hay quality; the value of alfalfa hay as a feed; whether or not heat-cured hay will produce more milk; and how to build a hay-drying system and the cost of such a system.

Alfalfa varieties planted in the plot last September include Williamsburg, Vernal Narragansett, DuPuits, Buffalo, Cayuga, Culver, Alfa, Atlantic and Cherokee.

Dr. Mitchell said the plots were coming along well this spring and that he hoped a field day could be scheduled soon to demonstrate different growth performances.

Windowless

Broiler House to Open for Inspection

Delaware poultry farmers will have a chance to see the new windowless broiler house at the Georgetown Agricultural substation May 15.

The idea of a broiler house with no windows is to lower the costs of construction and to aid insulation through a tighter building. Of particular interest is whether a windowless building will have the proper ventilation in the summer.

Mr. E. W. Walpole, University of Delaware, Engineer of the project, said that he is particularly interested in determining whether the additional costs of fans and added electricity for lighting the house, will offset the savings.

The 40 ft. x 96 ft. building was financed by DPI (Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc.). It will house 5,000 birds at a time under commercial conditions.

In addition, experiments will be conducted with a gas brooding system in an attempt to lower brooding costs. The reason for using gas is to compare the brooding costs of this project with typical practices in the area. If successful, this project should be a major step in the direction of lowering the broiler industry's production costs.

Buck's Automotive Center Rt. 13 HARRINGTON COMPLETE AUTO REPAIRS 24-Hour Wrecker Service Featuring All New VEEDOL PISTOLMATIC Mr. New Car Owner: Do you know that most service stations are not equipped to properly lubricate your new car? The new "extended lubrication" periods (30,000 miles, etc.) require very special grease of exacting chemical composition. Ordinary service station grease will not satisfactorily operate in certain critical applications in your car, such as, ball joints, front end suspensions, etc., and in some instances may even be harmful if mixed with the original factory greases. Because of the very special requirements and additives involved, every automobile manufacturer has issued specifications describing the type lubricant they recommend for their cars. Some manufacturers will void their warranty if incorrect or non-specified greases are applied. We have arranged to have the correct products available to lubricate any new car, from 1961 models to date. These greases, in all cases, equal or exceed the factory specifications. You can be assured the correct grease will be applied at the correct point with the correct fittings.

FENCE TALK
With George Vapaa

The Wheat Referendum is next Tuesday, May 21st. About 700 wheat farmers in Kent County are eligible to vote according to the notices mailed out earlier this week.

This has been billed as the most significant farm proposal in years. It may have far reaching effects on future farm programs as a whole.

Basically you will be voting: "Yes" - for tight acreage and yield controls at high support prices or "No" - for lesser controls but lower support prices.

A "yes" vote has been described as a call for supply management of wheat by the government. A "no" vote is said to indicate a wish for holding to supply and demand and for voluntary choices to continue to be made by farmers themselves.

These are oversimplified statements, but they sum up the principles behind the issues. They will mean little either way unless eligible farmers express themselves with their votes.

Using atrazine on corn to control weeds is a good risk even if you want to seed a small grain or hay crop in the fall. Dr. Richard Cole, of our University is less than a 15% chance of damage to small grain stands because of the residue action. That's a good bet in any league.

More on farm vacations. Our office has received three requests in the last week for the names of paying guest farms in Delaware. One was from Canada, another from Washington, and the third from Northern New Jersey.

Here is a chance for farmers to make some extra income from paying visitors. Call us at 736-1448 if you may be interested. We will be glad to help outline a profit making enterprise on an individual basis.

Basically you need a spare room or two. We can go on from there.

Keep feeding grain to milking cows or else milk production and profits will fall short. If pasture is inadequate, the cow must use her body reserves to make cheap spring milk.

A shortage of feed will also cause a sharp decline in late summer milk production with an accompanying loss of profits at a time when milk prices generally rise.

Here are some suggestions to help recover some of the winter profit losses:

1. Feed enough concentrates to balance each cow's nutrient requirements.
2. Buy concentrates on price for 100 units of energy by consulting the Delaware Dairy Digest, issued monthly by the Extension Dairyman at the University of Delaware or by contracting your county extension office.
3. Don't force cows to use body reserves to make cheap milk by cutting grain.
4. Sharply reduce grain for low producing cows in the later months of lactation if they are in reasonably good condition.
5. Feed new crops—such as hay or silage—as soon as available to cows on pasture.
6. Adjust grain levels upward as pasture quality declines during the summer.
7. Consider the use of stored feed-hay or hay silage and silage—to supplement or replace pastures.

Growing plants in boxes is an opportunity for those deprived of a real garden.

The limitations of this type of gardening are determined by the quality of the soil, the size of the container and the selection of the plant material.

The soil should be rich and supplied with humus, because of the closeness of the plants, the quickness of their growth and the great drain they have on the soil. A good general purpose soil consists of 2 parts loam and 1 part decayed manure or dry manure may be substituted mixed with a pint of bone meal per bushel. When plants are up, supplemental feeding should be given. This can be in the form of an ounce of commercial fertilizer (5-10-5) in a gallon of water or a teaspoonful of commercial fertilizer every square foot of surface soil. The boxes should be watered before adding the fertilizer and then lightly cultivated. This should be done about once every four or five weeks. It is a good practice to maintain a 1-inch mulch of organic matter, such as manure and peatmoss, on the soil to keep roots cool and soil fertile.

The types of containers used will depend upon the means and taste of the individual and the purpose for which they are intended.

Window boxes can be of the metal self-watering kind. They have a false bottom going into a tray where water is poured and moves upward by capillary. Its advantage is that it avoids the water drippings from drainage holes.

Wooden boxes have many advantages. They are easily constructed to fit the available space, are comparatively cheap and are non-conductors of heat and cold.

Now is the time to start spraying roses. Weekly applications of a combination rose spray will help to prevent damage by insects and diseases. A multi-purpose spray mixture that will control insects, diseases and mites usually contains Sevin, Lindane, Kelthane and Phaltan.

Sidress early planted vegetable crops like cabbage, lettuce, onions, etc., with 10-10-10 or similar analysis fertilizer. Earlier rains may have washed out some of the fertilizer applied before planting.

Allow foliage of daffodils, tulips and other spring flowering bulbs to mature. Do not cut off all foliage after flowering, but allow it to ripen and die out. This enables the bulb to grow and set a flower bud for next year.

House plants may be set out for the summer in mid-May. Choose a shady spot and plunge the pots in the ground. African violets and similar tender plants are best kept inside even during the summer months.

Remove blossoms from new strawberry plants regularly. This strengthens the plants and improves next years crop.

"Bug Bombs" come in two general types—one is aerosol or space spray for killing flying insects, and the other is residual or surface spray, to control crawling insects. The aerosol spray suspends the chemical in the air where flying insects are found. If in doubt, read the label, ask your dealer, or try the bomb before you buy it.

Pelleted barley is equal to corn in putting weight or gains on growing turkeys research at North Dakota State University shows. Pelleted barley, blended with a protein supplement, resulted in growth and gains in weight about equal to that of turkeys fed corn blended with a similar supplement.

Multi-corn silage tested—Feeding trials at the University of Illinois shows that although heifers fed silage from multi-corn gained faster than those fed regular silage, the amount of feed required to make a pound of grain was about the same. One lot of heifers was fed regular corn silage, mixed hay and soybean meal; another received multi-corn silage, mixed hay and soybean meal; and another one received only mixed hay and a concentrate grain mixture. The gains and costs from all three groups of heifers was about the same.

Air Base To Observe Armed Forces Day

Everyone from grandad right down to baby sister will find something of interest at the Dover Air Force Base observation of Armed Forces Day, Saturday, May 18.

The public is invited to see such things as the aircraft which won the admiration of the old boy when he was a young man. It's one of seven "antique" aircraft which will be here on display. Meanwhile, for baby sister — and other members of the family as well—there will be refreshment stands to store up energy for viewing the many things on display.

And, in between the "antiques" and the refreshments, there'll be five solid hours of jam-packed entertainment for everyone to enjoy. Starting off the show at 10 a. m., will be a model aircraft flying demonstration by the Salisbury, Md., Model Aircraft Club which will last until 10:50 a. m. The demonstration will be resumed at 11:40 a. m., and continue until 12:55.

One of the highlights of the day will take place at 10:50 a. m., and again at 2:50 p. m., when the Fort Campbell, Ky., Sports Parachute Club Skydrivers perform in a free-fall exhibition.

During the day, there will be a number of fly-overs by jet fighters from the base and McGuire AFB, N. J., and by military Air Transport Service cargo aircraft, also from the Eastern Transport Air Force bases. A T-33 jet trainer from the Dover's base 98th Fighter Interceptor Squadron will make a rocket assisted takeoff at 1:15 that afternoon, and — at 1:30 — the Air Defense Command trainer will put on an exhibition of acrobatics.

Project officer for the Armed Forces show is Lt. Col. Dale Williams with Lt. Col. W. F. Trumbo, the assistant.

Demonstrations on the ground will come in for their share of the crowd's interest during the celebration. The spit and polish, high-stepping drill team from the 1607th Field Maintenance Squadron here will entertain the public with a performance at 12:15 p. m.

Later in the afternoon—at 2 o'clock—the 9214th Air Force Reserve Recovery Squadron from New Castle, Del., will make its initial public appearance in this area. The unit will execute a problem exercise showing the support services it renders to Armed Forces strategic mission aircraft when a "disaster" makes the aircraft's home base inoperable.

Static displays by civilian and service groups, ranging from a model of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge tunnel to the Army's Nike Hercules anti-aircraft missile, will fill the exhibit area.

These and many more events will provide the action and background for a day full of action designed as a report to the public on the status of the defense system.

Rep. Best to Speak To Republicans

Rep. William T. Best will address the Lower Kent County Republican Club, at the Century Club on Dorman Street, Harrington, Wednesday, May 22. Guests will be Kent County Republican Club.

The covered dish supper will start at 6:30 p.m. and Best will speak about 7:30. The public is invited.

Lions Shatter H.S. Mile Relay Mark

A quartet of Bob Smith, Jeff Adams, Bill Sollars and Barry Fry smashed the Harrington High School record for the mile relay when the Lions were clocked in 3:43.9 in winning their heat at the Milford Invitational Track Meet last Wednesday. The old mark was 3:49.2 and was set by Jim Schiff, Don Garey, George Pfeiffer and Bob Bonniwell in 1959 at the Seaford Invitational. Fry's blazing anchor leg brought the Lions from third place some thirty or forty yards off the pace to a narrow win over Wicomico High of Salisbury.

The Lions made a good effort at Milford as they finished fifth in a field of sixteen teams despite the absence of a couple of key performers.

Sophomore Bob Smith had another good day as he twice ran the quarter mile in 55 seconds flat and the mile in 4:54. These are his best clockings in high school competition, although he has bettered the mile time on several occasions in non-high school races. Smith was fourth behind Rube Beauchamp, Milford's Jerry Miller and Seaford's freshman whiz Nick Owens in the mile. A mixup in officiating probably cost Bob a third in the 440.

Charley Taylor, Jeff Adams, Richard Black and Barry Fry tied Millsboro for fourth place in the 880 relay. Fry's swift opening 220 was followed by a perfect baton exchange with Jeff Adams. The Lions were second behind Seaford at this point but lost some time when the next local runner left the mark a fraction too soon and had to backtrack to get the baton from Adams. Another good exchange would have gotten the Lions a fourth or a third place.

Charley Taylor and Bill Adams ran well in the 100 yard dash as did George Bonniwell when he came in second in his mile heat and just missed breaking five minutes for the first time. Henry Minner ran a 2:20 half mile as he far exceeded his previous best.

Wayne Carson had a good 2.23 in the same race. Raleigh Davis accounted for a large percentage of Harrington's points in the junior high division as he won two trial heats in both the 50 and 100 yard dashes and placed in each final.

Ellis Myer made up more than 30 yards as he ran a strong 220 in the 880 relay. Freshman Ken Correll and mighty mite eighth grader, Danny Hicks, set new personal bests in the 880 yard run. Correll was timed in 2:31 and Hicks in 2:37. A total of 480 athletes representing 16 schools participated in the meet, which was attended by 1200 fans.

GET EQUIPMENT

Fairly shallow fire boxes allow air to flow through the charcoal and give even-burning coals. Ideally, charcoal should rest on a screen or grate, although coarse gravel or vermiculite will serve the same purpose.

The barbecue unit should be big enough to hold food for the family and as many guests as you usually have. A grill with a 22-inch diameter, or 15 by 25 inches, will be large enough for most company occasions. Spacing of the grill slats should be close enough so that small foods don't fall through, and wide enough to permit easy cleaning.

Stainless metal cooking racks, spits, and protective hoods will shorten clean-up chores.

Square or hexagonal spit bars held food in place better than round ones. Comfortable plastic or wooden handles keep the temperature low at the place where you must touch them. Twenty inches from the fire is a good height for the holding rack, but be sure that you will be able to adjust this if necessary, Miss Coblenz says.

At the grill, the "chef" will need a pair of long-handled tongs for moving coals to the proper place, a pair of long-handled tongs for food; asbestos padded mittens, which are safer and offer more protection than potholders; a long-handled fork, knife, basting brush and spatula; and a carving board for last-minute outdoor preparations. Large size salt and pepper shakers are also convenient. Many other accessories are offered for sale, but the equipment necessary for a family barbecue need not be elaborate or extensive, Miss Coblenz points out.

H.H.S. Edges Unbeaten J.M. Clayton 5-4

Jim Hawpe's Harrington High baseball team had a four game winning streak broken at Millsboro on Thursday but the Lions rebounded at home on Monday and stopped John M. Clayton High's all-winning skein at seven. The Bears and Felton were the only unbeaten teams in the state. Felton was beaten at Millsboro the same day by a score of 4-3. At Millsboro the local were out-hit 10-7 and committed eleven errors but Millsboro managed to win by 9-3 instead of what could have been a complete rout.

Bill and Jeff Adams, had two hits each for H.H.S. Richard Black, Frank Collins and Renzie French had the other bingles.

Millsboro traded places in the league standings with the losers as the Blue Devils took over third place.

Monday afternoon Dick Collins singled to start the John M. Clayton downfall. Bill Adams got the first of his usual two hits after which winning pitcher Walt Perdue blasted a long triple. Perdue scored on a passed ball to give the home team a 3-0 cushion. Single runs in the next two innings hiked the lead to 5-0. A. J. M. C. threw a little later was stopped when Frank Collins in right field caught a fly ball and fired it in to catcher Mike Wamsley. Mike and Jeff Adams at third then caught a careless Bear in an rundown for an inning-ending double play.

Perdue was replaced for one batsman but returned to give up a hit to open the final frame. Barry Fry, unbeaten in several relief stints this season, came in and gave up two hits and three runs before closing the door on the Bear bid by throwing out one man and fanning the last one.

Perdue gave up five hits in six and a fraction innings to get credit for the win.

Felton String Snapped at Six

A one run loss at Millsboro robbed Felton of the opportunity to be Delaware's only unbeaten scholastic team and also the Henlopen Conference's undisputed leader.

Bill Green led off in the first inning with a home run for at least the second time this season but the lead was short-lived as the home forces scored once in the bottom half.

The Blue Devils finally bested the Green Devils with a run scored on a triple and an error in the fifth inning.

Felton out-hit the victors 6-4 as Green had another hit in addition to his circuit clout.

Greenwood Drops Two Games

Thursday afternoon Coach Carl Baker's Greenwood High Foresters almost upset undefeated J. M. Clayton but a late rally enabled the Bears to prevail 2-1. Monday Lord Baltimore's Eagles bested the Foresters 9-1 as Drew Clendaniel's double was Greenwood's only hit.

Against Clayton, Greenwood scored a run off righthander Wayne Long in the second inning and the visitors finally got to Julian Woodall for the tying and winning runs in the fifth inning. Wright, Clendaniel and Dave Henry hit safely for the losers. Woodall pitched well enough to win most ball games but the Eagle's Elwood Wharton fanned 11 in pitching a one-hitter. The loss put Greenwood in the league cellar and lifted the winner's from the dark depths.

only when they become full grown. Fortunately, most homes don't have enough mice and rabbits to permit multiplication of the American dog tick in the home themselves. However, the brown dog tick can build up to tremendous numbers in a home because it requires only dogs. It is easy to tell which kind you have. The brown dog tick is uniformly brown whereas the American dog tick has a mottled white shield on its back.

You hear a lot about how to remove ticks from yourself or your dog. Some say that you must not pull a tick off because the head remains in the skin causing infection. This isn't true for the common Delaware ticks. You can pull either of these from yourself or your dog and the head will come with the rest of the tick. In fact, a bit of skin is likely to be pulled off with the tick too. Because of this, infection can follow, so treat such spots with a disinfectant such as iodine or mercuric chrom.

If a tick is allowed to feed for several days at the base of the skull of either a dog or a human, it is apt to cause paralysis, — sometimes fatal. They can spread Rocky Mountain spotted fever and tularemia.

To control ticks in woodland areas, or in fields, spray with DDT or Sevin. Concentrate the spray near trails and roads; or along the edges of woods. To rid your dog of ticks use Sevin as a 5% dust. Some flea powders contain Sevin but list it on the label only under its technical name of 1 naphthyl-N-methylcarbamate.

If your dog has brown dog ticks, wash between his toes with DDT. These ticks commonly feed there, making it a very difficult to reach them with insecticide except by washing between the toes. Sevin and DDT should be used in the dog's sleeping quarters and in the house. Several treatments will be necessary for satisfactory control. It's satisfactory only when its 100% control. If you are going walking where ticks abound, use repellent such as Delphene (==off).

SULKY SLANTS

By Mrs. Dave (Pat) Smith

There's so many horses sick up here at Yonkers, sometimes it's a question if the races will fill. Horses that race one night are ill next morning.

But what the trainers tell me it's going around at most of the raceways.

Along with such funny weather up here you never know what next. However, it doesn't seem to bother the crowds. Just as rough and ready as ever.

It's about the same here at the races, for when the meet is about over all you hear is where the boys are going. Some to Vernon, Saratoga Springs, Monticello, others to Roosevelt Raceway. That's the way it is when we break winter training.

Anyone who remembers "The Old Wagon Wheel" (with memories) will recall how old it was getting last fall.

Well, I was over to Westbury this last Tuesday and it certainly is a show place. Completely remodeled. Now to go there you must have collar and tie. I'm wondering how the grooms will take that. It is right at the entrance going into the track. I hear they are sending out invitations only. Oh, boy, can it live down its past. The boys around the track are all wondering.

There are so many beautiful places now around Westbury. The town is sure booming. I'll bet there's more buildings than any where in The Island.

Places to live are so high. So many are staying right here in Yonkers and going back and forth. I for one will be doing the same.

Was out to visit a pony farm and if I had a place I sure would have one. They were so small, could put it in back of my car. Wish I didn't like pets so much. I could've had it for almost nothing as they are selling out.

I asked the people where I have apt. Well, Pat, if you want us both to be shot get it. No horses or ponies allowed in back yards.

Sam Short is it so that you have another song hit on your hands? A little bird sent me a note saying you did.

And Virginia Holloway, I have a good track law for you. Shall I put it in the paper?

Sarah, someone up here said you sure have a good place to eat there at the Bridle Bit. Mr. Pusey, who has the Del-Rosa Farm horses. He is from Maryland and used to eat there too when Irene and Harry Adams had the place.

Seems good when you hear someone away up here brag on Harrington. For my money, it's tops too.

See you next week.

Cleaning Hints by HALLETT'S

Q. We had a rug cleaned locally (not by your organization) and the job seemed satisfactory when delivered. Now, after about a month, I have noticed that some of the old spots are re-appearing. Weren't they removed the first time or what?

A. Many spots are of a greasy nature. After cleaning the rug the soil is removed but a greasy residue remains in the backing of the rug which comes to the surface of the rug and collects soil readily. (This happens quite often with some cleaning methods which only clean the surface of the rug.)

BRANDYWINE RACEWAY

ROUTE 202 WILMINGTON, DELAWARE

"In the interest of good racing . . ."

For the past ten days a very large proportion of the 900 horses stabled at our track has been made ill by a virus infection. Those of our patrons who have visited this track during the past week have undoubtedly been disappointed by the large number of horses scratched from races. We have been unable to produce racing programs in the usual Brandywine tradition. We expect this condition to exist for another week. We have been informed by our veterinarians that most of the horses will be ready for racing after another eight days. In the interests of good racing and in consideration of the welfare of our horsemen, we have decided to discontinue racing for a week beginning May 13th. We shall resume racing again on Monday, May 20th.

We are grateful to our racing fans for their sympathetic understanding and believe they will respect our decision. This decision has been made with the approval of the Delaware Harness Racing Commission. To repeat, we shall re-open on Monday, May 20th.
