

KENT TO SEEK BIDS ON REASSESSMENT

Sealed bids for a general re-assessment of Kent County real estate—including tax exempt property—were called for Tuesday by the Levy Court.

All three county commissioners voted to advertise for bids on the much discussed project with a bid opening set at 2 p. m. July 25.

The job will take two years and is estimated to cost about $120,000.

The commissioners took action on the politically controversial issue after one member of the county Board of Assessment said he refused to vote for it.

The three-man board was asked to approve the action along with the Levy Court but Edgar Kates, of near Masten's Corner, refused to vote.

Their vote wasn't necessary but the Levy Court had called them in to approve it anyway. Commissioner Edward Kelly expressed the opinion after the meeting all three members of the board "should" but not necessarily have to sign the contract when it is let.

While assessment board members William Paskey, Felton, and Earl Voshell, Dover, approved the revaluation they spoke against it later.

"I'm not voting . . . you all know my mind on this," said Kates. But he insisted he isn't fighting it either.

"You'll have a Republican assessment board," he charged as he left the Levy Court meeting room. "My district is against it and so am I."

In approving the reassessment, Levy Court President James B. Messick commented at one point "Let the chips fall where they may."

The reassessment specifications were prepared by Levy Court Attorney N. Maxson Terry. Advertisements will be placed in Delaware newspapers and east coast publications.

The county requires that their professional assessor compile a list of all tax exempt properties something not maintained in Kent until about a year ago.

This will include valuations on churches and government buildings in Dover not taxed.

Nobody is certain how much additional income the revaluation will bring into county coffers but an increase of large percentages is expected.

The outside assessors are expected to update and often bring up to modern replacement values many properties. Hundreds of properties are also expected to be picked up for first taxes.

Under terms of the specifications the bidding companies would:

1. Provide at their expense all employees needed to do the work as the Levy Court furnishes office space.
2. The work is to be done before May 1, 1965.
3. Provide professional appraisers to value county real property and machinery of businesses and factories.
4. Provide a 6 by 9 inch card system for commercial and residential dwellings with all information of the valuation on the cards.

Board of Assessment members said privately later that the action by the all Democratic Levy Court means the GOP will take next year's Levy Court elections.

They base this upon the higher taxes county residents will have to pay with increased valuations.

The terms of the Board of Assessment run out in January, 1965. Kates stated this is his last year.

C. of C. Advocates Passage of Law On Give-Aways

The Chamber of Commerce, in its June meeting at The Wonder R, approved the projected passage of a bill in the General Assembly to amend the lottery laws.

The improvement would permit persons to be eligible for prizes by merely registering and would have no financial or pecuniary involvement.

While this form of advertisement has the approval of the Postoffice Department, the state attorney general's office rules that even the fact a person must enter an establishment to register is an entailing consideration.

In other business, President Thomas Peck, presiding at his first meeting of the group, appointed the following Picnic Committee: John Walls, chairman; Franklin Swain, Kenneth G. Aiken, and Thomas E. Clendening. The annual event will be held at Oak Orchard in August and will take the place of the monthly meeting.

Speakers will be had for the September and October meetings, Peck announced.

The following new members were present: Tom Mulcahy and John Purdy, of Delaware Nursing Homes, Inc.; Bob DeVroy, of W. & D. Furniture Store, and Albert Price, of the Postoffice.

The Chamber voted to assist the establishment of the nursing home in any way feasible. Purdy announced the company was still looking at sites.

Elsewhere downstate the high winds which accompanied the thundershower broke tree limbs and bent TV aerials, but no other property damage had been officially reported. Wind gusts up to 44 MPH were reported in Dover.

The stormy weather which blanketed the state was caused by a cold front moving in from the north. The front caused temperatures to drop sharply in the span of a few minutes.

Wind was reported "blustery" in Sussex but not unusually high and no damage was reported to the shore areas.

Mr. Daisy Shackell, whose barn was toppled by the wind, said she was in the house around 11 o'clock when "I heard this eerie crash. Then the lights went out. Then I heard the wind."

She didn't know at the time that her barn had blown down. Later friends came by to tell her a tree from her property had blown across the highway and was blocking the road. State police and the State Highway Department were called to clear the road.

It wasn't until she went to check on the tree that Mrs. Shackell discovered that her barn had blown off its foundation and tumbled in a heap of rubble to the ground. The frame and shingle barn was located 150 feet

House Gets Bill To Allow Prize-Giving

A bill to permit Delaware merchants to give prizes provided nothing of value is required for a chance to win, was introduced in the House Wednesday.

Rep. George H. Exley, D-Harrington, introduced the measure, which is backed by the Maryland-Delaware Press Association.

Under present state law, awarding prizes by chance is prohibited even when no payment of money or purchase of a product is required to participate.

Ray Hamby, manager of the press association, said this places Delaware merchants and advertising media at a disadvantage because merchants in both Maryland and Pennsylvania not only can award prizes but advertise them in Delaware through national magazines, out-of-state newspapers and radio and television programs beamed into the state.

In addition, Hamby said, the law now on the books denies Delaware consumers the chance that consumers in neighboring states have to win prizes awarded in national merchandising programs.

The bill was referred to the House Judiciary Committee.

Books Institute Scheduled For U. of D. Tomorrow

Dr. Paul A. Cundiff, chairman of the English department at the University of Delaware, will be the featured speaker at the Third Gerat Books Institute tomorrow at the university.

The program will be held in the Student Center from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. It is open to all residents of Delaware and nearby communities and special rates are available to high school, college and summer school students.

An authority on the works of Robert Browning, Dr. Cundiff is the author of several articles on the 19th century poet. He holds degrees from Georgetown College, the University of Kentucky and Cornell and taught at Butler University and Simpson College, before joining the Delaware faculty in 1961. His topic will be "The Value of Literature."

Following registration from 9:00 to 9:30 a. m., the delegates will participate in a two-hour morning discussion involving the poems: "What If a Much of Which of a Wind," by E. E. Cummings, and "Night," by Robinson Jeffers. Separate groups, consisting of about 20 participants, will be encouraged by the Socratic method of questioning to discuss the meanings of these poems, both in terms of what the poets wrote and with regard to their impact on the readers.

After lunch the participants will divide into discussion units at 2:30 p. m. for a two-hour discussion of "Heart of Darkness" by Joseph Conrad. Each group will be concerned with what the author said, what he meant, and the significance of his ideas.

Gale Lifts Barn And Tosses It 50 Feet

A barn at Magnolia was lifted from its foundation and tossed some 50 feet by gale winds Monday night.

Rainfall from the storm varied from "lots of rain" in Georgetown to only .99 of an inch in New Castle.

Both Delaware Power and Light and the City of Dover Power plant were plagued by power outages as a result of the thundershower Monday night.

Broken tree limbs were the culprits in two cases.

In Camden-Wyoming Delaware Power and Light Company reported a one and one half hour outage from 11 p. m. until 12:30 a. m. when tree limbs blew across some lines.

Also during the storm, two trees blew down across City of Dover power lines causing an outage at Capital Park and Parks and Recreation employees had to be called to saw the trees down.

About the same time, lightning hit a transformer at the A and P Store. The transformer was replaced Tuesday morning.

Older Folks Need Regular Meals

Older people who live alone often neglect to eat regularly or properly, because they don't enjoy cooking for one, or because they sometimes aren't really hungry. But eating regular meals is a habit much too important to lose, says Katie Thomas, Kent County Extension Agent, Home Economics. Good health depends on good eating, and a well balanced diet is one key to feeling and being healthy, she points out.

Older folks who find eating dull and uninteresting should make a conscious effort to eat regularly and well. Mrs. Thomas makes several suggestions to coax an appetite.

Take a walk whenever the day is nice. If you must stay indoors all day do odd jobs that require light exercise, she advises.

Make meals interesting by trying new foods and seasonings. Pep up food with herbs and spices. Include bright-colored foods for special eye appeal; have something crisp, like lettuce or a pickle, to contrast with softer foods; and serve something flavorful to contrast with mild-flavored foods.

Take time out to eat your meals. Instead of standing at the kitchen counter for a snack, serve yourself a meal on a pretty plate at a regular place setting. Use a place mat on the table, or put your meal on a tray and carry it to a window, to the porch, or even to the garden. A leisurely meal in an attractive setting can make eating a pleasure for anyone.

More tips and menu suggestions are included in a bulletin, "Food Guide for Older Folks," which is available from Mrs. Thomas' office, P.O. Box 30, Dover. This publication includes suggestions for low-cost meals, tips on cooking for one or two people, and even some idea to use if food must be easy to chew.

Memorial Bridge Has Record Year For Traffic

Delaware Memorial Bridge had a record year in fiscal 1962-63 with an increase of 589,239 vehicles over 1961-62 according to Frank J. Horty, general manager.

Horty predicted several months ago that total traffic for the year would exceed the 12 million mark. It reached 12,141,151 vehicles as compared to 11,551,912 the previous fiscal period.

The month of May, 1963 fell short of one million by only 103 vehicles when 99,897 were counted. Five months—June, July, August, September 1962 and April 1963 passed the million count, he reports. Lowest month of the year was January when there were 743,622 crossings.

Monthly figures for the current fiscal period are listed as follows: 1962 — June, 1,180,288; July, 1,368,845; August, 1,387,461; September, 1,062,067; October, 934,712; November, 894,551; December, 859,312; 1963 — January, 743,622; February, 752,240; March, 893,557; April, 1,065,599; May, 999,897 — Total 12,141,151.

This represents a 5.1 per cent increase in use—the record that has been maintained almost constantly on an annual basis since the span opened on August 16, 1951. The month of May produced a 5.7 per cent increase which tends to show normal trend of higher usage.

Revenue for the current fiscal year was up 4.1 per cent, the report shows. Total collections amounted to $4,592,662.55 as compared to $4,410,018.35 in the 1961-62 period. Revenue for May was up 5.6 per cent, when $395,888.90 was collected as against $373,986.70 in May 1962.

The report also shows that during the twelve years of operation, $39,287,000 in revenue bonds have been retired, leaving a balance of $9,313,000, still unpaid. The original indentures designated that the bonded indebtedness should be cleared in thirty years.

Louis Ferrier received a $50 savings bond for top honors in the toll collectors monthly efficiency contest, while a $25 bond was awarded to Emory Postles, Howard Wilson, Francis Riley and Stephen Zielinski followed in that order.

Wool Pool Saturday At Fairgrounds

Delaware Sheep and Wool Association will hold its annual Wool Pool at Delaware State Fairgrounds, Harrington, June 15, from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Prices paid to producers at the annual pool are based on competitive bids received from several large buyers.

Medium grade wool sold for 56 cents a pound at last year's pool. To obtain the top price for their product, producers should tie each fleece separately with paper twine, separate tags and dirt from fleeces and deliver them clean and dry to the fair grounds. Original receipts may be

Greenwood Lass Tops in Miss Delaware Pageant

The girl who walked off with the crown, the scholarship, the prizes and the hearts of the spectators Saturday night at the Miss Delaware Pageant is Diane Beverly Isaacs, 18, of Greenwood.

The new Miss Delaware nearly brought down the house with her talent act—she began by playing a classical polonaise on the piano, switched into jazz, and walked off the stage singing, "Wouldn't It Be Lovely?" from My Fair Lady.

Miss Patricia Cameron Minker of Bradywine Hundred was first runner-up. For her talent act, she displayed four clothing outfits which she had designed and made.

Miss Bonnie Louise Cooper, of Seaford was second runner-up. Dressed in a white dress trimmed with fringe, she did a pantomime to "Let Me Entertain You," from "Gypsy," and danced the Charleston.

The title of "Miss Congeniality" was awarded to Kathy Kent, of Dover, by popular vote of all the contestants. Miss Carole Ann Stevic, of Middletown, was voted "Miss Sunshine" by the Jaycee wives who were chaperoning the contest.

Good Season For Strawberries

According to figures released by the Bureau of Markets of the Delaware State Board of Agriculture, the Laurel Auction Block at Laurel, had one of its most successful seasons on strawberries. Federal-State inspection figures show the growers produced berries that were excellent-to-superior in size and quality.

Many varieties are grown, including Pocohontas, Tennessee Beauty, Dixieland, Midway, Jersey Belle, Cardinal King, Robinson, Sure Crop, Red Glow, Early Dawn, Midland and Sparkles.

In addition to strawberries the Laurel Auction, according to Federal-State inspection figures maintained during last season harvest of watermelons, indicate melons are being grown that are also top quality. Being ideally located on Route U. S. 13 and Delaware 28 makes the auction easily accessible to all nearby markets.

Figures on other crops now being harvested in Delaware indicate the large acreage of peas for processing suffered some damage on the early plantings because of the dry weather, but with many growers having irrigation, and the beneficial rains arriving in time for the later plantings, this crop is expected to be about normal. Harvesting of the asparagus crop that began in April will continue until late June. It is estimated that this crop may be about fifteen percent below normal. Harvesting of cabbage began June 3 and indications are for a good crop and good quality. Other crops that will soon be available include early apples, cucumbers, string beans and potatoes.

Experimental work that has been conducted by Federal and State inspectors for the past three seasons on Delaware grown potatoes regarding ratings or "eye appeal" indicate that Delaware growers can grow potatoes that rate very high in this category in addition to top quality.

Wheat Legislation Proposed in Senate

Now that American farmers have over-whelmingly voted down compulsory supply-management wheat legislation, Farm Bureau officials have lost no time in bringing forward their proposed legislations, which was outlined in policy statements adopted by their members at the last Atlanta, Ga., convention, calling for massive cropland retirement and elimination of all acreage allotments and marketing quotas from wheat and feed grains.

Roland E. Garrison, president of Delaware Farm Bureau, said that four prominent members of the U. S. Senate—representing both political parties and all four regions of the nation—have introduced legislation to provide for new wheat and feed grain programs.

The four are Senator Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R) of Iowa, a member of the Agriculture Committee and chairman of the Republican Policy Committee; Senator Clinton P. Anderson (D) of New Mexico, a former member of the Agriculture Committee who served as Secretary of Agriculture under President Harry S. Truman; Senator George D. Aiken (R) of Vermont, ranking minority member of the Agriculture Committee and former chairman of that committee; Senator Spessard L. Holland, (D) of Florida, chairman of the Agriculture Subcommittee of the Appropriations Committee and a member of the Agriculture Committee.

"The time has come," the Senators said, "for Congress to take an economic approach to the solution of what is essentially an economic problem.

"Excessive partisanship is inappropriate at this time. A totally political approach to the problem of agriculture cannot succeed. The wheat referendum makes it clear that the nation's farm families do not want to be pawns on a political chessboard."

The four senators, who were the architects of the bi-partisan farm program which was adopted by Congress in the Agriculture Act of 1948 said their bill will be known as the "Wheat and Feed Grains Act of 1963."

They said their bill would repeal existing law giving authority to the Secretary of Agriculture to conduct another referendum on the multiple-price certificate plan for wheat in 1964.

The recent vote makes it abundantly clear that there is no sense in another referendum," they said, "It is now obvious that Congress made a mistake in adopting the legislation which authorized the 1963 referendum. The major purpose of our bill is to correct this effort rather than to 'bail out' wheat farmers.

"Our bill offers them the type of wheat program for which we believe many farmers voted last week when they turned thumbs down on the compulsory control program.

Group Hospital Service Has 300,000 Members

Delaware Food Market Report

Those of you who feel the lure of the great outdoors, know it's a great time for hardy outdoor appetites. For a perfect easy to eat summer entree, you will find chicken the dish par excellence. Tender - meated broiler-fryers may well take a leading role in family menu plans in the weeks ahead. Supplies will be increasing during the month and may exceed last year's abundance by a small margin. Prices are on a par with a year ago, and in some cases below.

We American consumers, have certainly given chicken a vote of confidence in recent years. In the last quarter century, consumption has increased from less than 13 pounds per person to 31 pounds, and the trend continues upward. Summertime is an especially favorite time for using chicken. Chicken is choice fare when served hot/cold, in main dishes, salads, sandwiches, and for formal or informal occasions.

Beef continues the leading red meat choice, with specials frequent on such diverse cuts as porterhouse steaks and frankfurters.

The season for "filling the salad bowl" is here again! It will be a grand season because many of the salad bowl's favorite ingredients, are now in abundance.

It's a better year than last for spring vegetables and watermelons; an above average year for cantaloupes; and an outstanding year for Southern peaches, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Particularly plentiful, are cucumbers, lettuce, celery, carrots, peppers, radishes, and shallots. Excellent quality sweet corn from Florida is available at reasonable prices. Green and yellow squash and sweet potatoes round out vegetable choices.

Water melons, strawberries, cantaloupes, and pineapples continue to top fruit buys. Watermelons will continue to arrive from Florida for another few weeks. Prices have been most reasonable and quality good to excellent. Shipments of Southern peaches are increasing; larger sizes are coming in now, and prices are declining.

Fertilizer Method Agreed Upon At Conference

A method of standardizing fertilizer recommendations for Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania was agreed upon at the Middle Atlantic States Fertilizer Conference at Harrisburg, Pa., June 4.

Conference members agreed to base recommendations on pounds per acre of necessary plant nutrients rather than grades as is now being done.

The problem with the old system is that it lacked uniformity. For example, a state may recommend a mixture of 300 lbs. of 5-10-10. A dealer may not have this mixture but may have a mixture of 8-16-16 of which 200 lbs. would essentially be the same. Unless there is uniformity in the recommendations, keeping all of the mixtures on hand would not be the most efficient method of selling the fertilizer.

The new method will be put into effect by January, 1965. The intervening time will be used to acquaint farmers in the use of this system.

Early next winter, a bulletin or leaflet will be made available

WHAT NEXT?

Now we're getting advice with our margarine!
 Just when we thought we were getting all the orders of the day from the breakfast table cook we find that at least one margarine company has been supplying articles on various subjects along with its "low-priced spread."

If the trend continues, we may have to start supplying butter with our newspapers.

The margarine manufacturer has even coined a name for their new feature, "mar-gar-zine."

Since the introduction in March of "mar-gar-zines," every box of one brand of margarine has been printed with a complete and "authoritative" feature by such well known personalities as Faith Baldwin, Debbie Reynolds, Dorothy Carnegie and Ellery Queen.

Gosh, just think, maybe by the time our kids get old enough, it won't any longer be something special to write a book. Having something you write published on a margarine box may be better.

We're wondering now how long it will be before "the higher-priced spread" begins offering "higher-class literature" on the boxes.

All kinds of possibilities would seem to exist if one wanted to let his imagination run wild.

LITTLE CAR, BIG DOGS!

The sad thing about these little foreign cars is that so many people who can finally afford them no longer fit into them.

Speaking of same, a local Volkswagen owner tells me there is at least one disadvantage to driving a small vehicle.

"The dogs won't get out of the way," he groaned. "It may be that the motor is in the rear of the car and the dogs can't hear it. Anyhow, I'm always having to slow down and honk to make them move out of the street or road."

SHORTS FOR MEN

The male shank is not invariably a thing of beauty. The best that can be said of many examples of this extremity is that they reach to the ground and support their possessor more or less sturdily.

These observations are prompted by the annual flowering of men in shorts. Not many years ago, this was an occasion for snickering and derogatory comment. It is one small measure of how society is changing that hardly anyone notices, these days, whether a man is wearing Bermudas or full slacks. It is still possible to provoke surprise by appearing at a wedding or at worship services or in most business offices wearing shorts, but otherwise the truncated trouser is here to stay.

On the whole, this is a good thing. A reasonable amount of freedom and ease and variety in dress fits in well with civilization. If only most male underpinnings resembled something other than a slightly warped table leg!

The Breeze (Ill.) Journal

THE LANGUAGE

Never laugh at a person's efforts to speak or write English correctly. Of the four major languages, it is the most difficult to learn. Here's why:

We'll begin with the box, the plural of which is boxes; but the plural of ox is oxen, not oxes.

You may find a lone mouse, or a whole nest of mice; but the plural of house is houses, not hices.

If the plural of man is men, why shouldn't the plural of pan be pen?

If I speak of a foot and you show me two feet, or give you a boot, would a pair be called beet?

If one is a tooth and a whole set is teeth, why shouldn't the plural of booth be beeth?

Then the masculine pronouns are, he, his and him; but imagine the feminine as she, shis, and shim!

S. B. A. News

Five loans amounting to $157,000 were approved by the Small Business Administration for small businesses in Delaware in April-May, 1963. Edward N. Rosa, Regional Director of SBA's Philadelphia office, announced this week.

The loans to five small firms, now employing 45 people, will create 18 new job opportunities. Financial assistance ranged from a $12,000 loan to a Laurel construction firm to $50,000 for a manufacturer of chemical compounds in Wilmington.

SBA makes both direct loans in participation with local banks to qualified small business concerns, which cannot obtain private financing on reasonable terms. Under the Agency's loan program, a loan applicant is first referred to his bank. If the bank is unable to supply the necessary financing, SBA encourages it to take a participation in an SBA loan. More than 65 percent of the Agency's loans are made in this way.

SBA loan proceeds may be used for business construction, conversion or expansion; the purchase of machinery and equipment; and for working capital. The interest rate on SBA's share of a loan is 5 1/2 percent, except in officially designated labor surplus and rural development areas, where the interest rate is automatically lowered to 4 percent. By law, the maximum amount which SBA may have outstanding to one borrower is $350,000.

In addition to its financial assistance programs, the Small Business Administration also offers a wide range of management and research services to the small businessman. For example, a new publication designed to help the small manufacturer determine whether it would be profitable to engage in export trade was issued recently by the Agency.

The manual "Export Marketing for Smaller Firms," was prepared for SBA under contract by the International Marketing Institute, Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration.

It is divided into four parts: "Measuring Your Export Potential," "Selection of an Attractive Market for Detailed Analysis," "Detailed Evaluation of Markets and Requirements for Successful Exporting," and "Channels for Distribution." The manual offers a step-by-step method for evaluating the smaller firm's ability to capitalize upon overseas opportunities for isolating and evaluating these opportunities and for approaching them.

Copies of the manual may be purchased for 50 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C.

Information on all SBA programs is available from the Philadelphia Regional Office, 1015 Chestnut St.

House Approves $75,000 for Bowers Beach Site

A bill to provide the Game and Fish Commission with $75,000 to acquire land, develop a recreational site and build a boat ramp at Bowers Beach passed the House Wednesday.

There was no opposition to HB 269 although several members asked for and got more information before approving it.

Rep. Paul E. Shockley, D-Wilmington, wanted to know if the $50,000 for 14 acres of land was not an excessive price and demanded to know who had appraised it.

Norman A. Wilder, executive secretary of the Game and Fish Commission, explained that the land all borders Delaware Bay and that it had been appraised by the Game and Fish Commission staff in "accordance with the appraising procedures we have been using for several years."

But, he said, it is important that the Game and Fish Commission develop the over-all area since it can probably get $17,000 in federal matching funds under the accelerated public works program for the $17,000 that would be made available by the state.

Wilder said it is important the measure has the support of the Bowers Beach town board and is important to all of the citizens of Delaware for three reasons: —That Bowers Beach is centrally located for work boats and is the only major port from the Delaware River to the Atlantic Ocean.

—That it would provide a harbor of refuge for ships in distress.

—That it is the center of a vast fishing area "sometimes accommodating more than 1,000 small boats on the weekends."

Speaking of Insects

There is bad news for people who don't like Japanese beetles. They are out earlier this year than I can remember since living in Delaware. We found the first beetle of the season chewing on an iris blossom behind Agriculture Hall in Newark May 27. This means trouble for Delaware gardeners in general and rose fanciers in particular. Fruit, soybeans, shade trees, and many other plants are also plagued by this unpopular invader.

The Japanese beetle was first found in the United States in 1916 across the river in New Jersey. Since then it has spread all the way to California. Eventually it probably will invade all of our states except Alaska and possibly Hawaii. It is too cold in Alaska for the beetle to survive. That's what the "book says", and I hope for Alaska's sake it's correct.

Most people are aware of the damage done by the adult beetle as it chews on leaves, fruits, and flowers, but the grub stage also contributes its share of trouble by gnawing the roots off lawn and pasture grass. Sometimes the grubs will damage such plants as beans, tomatoes, and strawberries. If we could lure the beetles to feed on geraniums, things might not be so bad. The geranium has a toxic substance which paralyzes and even kills some Japanese beetles.

For quick kill of adult beetles nothing comes close to Sevin in effectiveness. On a warm day, beetles will fall from plants within 30 seconds after being sprayed with it. There are some other nice things about Sevin. It is safe to use on most food plants, and it doesn't seem to harm birds and pets, or wildlife in general.

To control the grubs in the soil you can use insecticides or milky disease bacteria. Control with the bacteria is a long-range fight. It is a good project for community action. By spreading the bacteria on lawns and grassland, some beetle grubs will become infected as they feed. Then the bacteria multiplies in the grub's body. When the grub dies, thousands of spores are released in the soil to infect other grubs. Don't expect results in one year with milky disease. It may take several years to be effective, and even then it may do only a partial job.

If you want quick results use chlordane or dieldrin, but don't treat year after year as one man admitted he had done. It isn't necessary—one treatment should last for several years. These insecticides should be handled with care. Keep pets and children from treated areas until a thorough drenching by hose or rain takes place.

Some people think termites are increasing in the United States. This isn't true. The fact is, we are building more and more houses where termites already occur. When we do this we remove the tree stumps and logs which the termites have been feeding on. Left with no other food, the termites invade the houses.

Select Foundation Garments With Much Care

The correct foundation garment, properly fitted, gives you a smoother figure, makes your clothes fit better and reduces body strain and fatigue, says Janet Reed, extension clothing and textiles specialist at the University of Delaware.

Good fit is essential for a foundation garment, because if it doesn't fit, it isn't comfortable and you aren't likely to wear it, she points out. Miss Reed says more money is wasted on foundation garments than on any other item of wearing apparel, simply because many women buy poorly fitted garments.

Details to look for when purchasing girdles and brassieres are outlined in a new leaflet Miss Reed has written, entitled, "Buying Foundation Garments." In the leaflet she explains the proper way to measure for a good fit, how to choose the design of the garment for the most comfort, and how to care for foundation garments to get the longest wear.

Copies of "Buying Foundation Garments" are available from the Department of Rural Communications, University of Delaware, Newark, Del.

Future Nurses Club Notes

We have renewed our charter with the National League of Nursing for we plan to work even harder next year.

As a result of the hard work the members have done this year to complete such a successful program, we are sponsoring a trip to Washington, D. C., for educational purposes. All members are planning to go.

The Future Nurses Club of Harrington wishes to thank all of you who through your kindness and forethought have helped us make this year a successful one.

Annual Report

Our club this year has had the largest membership ever since it was started seven years ago. We had twenty-seven members; two of which were boys.

Our projects this year were as follows:

1. Stockley Hospital for Mentally Retarded. We entertained a group of forty patients at Christmas by serving refreshments and giving each patient a gift.

2. Messick Nursing Home. We visited the patients and gave them refreshments which we made ourselves, and gave each the day a war stood still—for an Easter we visited the nursing home and rendered refreshments which we made ourselves.

3. Trained Class for Mentally Retarded at Harrington Armory. We entertained the students at Christmas by serving refreshments and spending time with them by singing and dancing. At Easter we did the same. Also, since May 17 is National Future Nurses Club Day, we entertained the students at the Armory again in the same manner.

4. Easton Hospital Fair. Easton Hospital held a fair in the Easton Firehouse which we attended and enjoyed very much. The fair displayed the many fields of medicine and nursing.

5. Milford Hospital Fair. Milford Memorial Hospital held a similar fair which several members attended and enjoyed.

6. Worked in Health Room. Many members have worked in the various tasks of which our school nurse has done such as, the Sabin Oral Polio dosage; physical examinations for the school students; enrolling of pre-school pupils; and introduction of school to the pre-school children.

7. Contributions. We gave Mrs. Farrow a donation to the dental program, and we paid for three pairs of glasses.

8. Funds. We held three bakes, a dance, held a candy sale, sold fruit cakes, and held a rummage sale.

Wheat Growers

Disapprove '64 Quotas

Final returns from the May 21 national referendum show that wheat farmers in Delaware disapproved marketing quotas for the 1964 crop of wheat by 51.8 per cent of those casting ballots, according to Jacob Zimmerman, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee.

Nationally, 547,151 growers (47.79 per cent) voted for the quotas, and 597,776 (52.21 per cent) voted against the quotas. The total vote cast was a record.

Since marketing quotas were approved by less than the necessary two-thirds, the quotas will not be in effect for the 1964 wheat crop. As required by law, acreage allotments will continue in effect as a condition of eligibility for price support. The support will be at 50 per cent of parity as of the beginning of the marketing year July 1.

Freeman Comments

Mr. Zimmerman made available the following statement by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman regarding the wheat program situation:

The farmers' choice May 21 to reject national marketing quotas for the 1964 wheat crop "means that for the next year unlimited wheat production with no price support is an option open to every American farmer," Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has said.

"It is the earnest hope of the Secretary of Agriculture and this Administration that wheat farmers and our agricultural economy in particular and our national economy in general will benefit from this decision freely made by American farmers at the ballot box," he declared. "We will do everything in our power to that end. There will be no dumping of CCC wheat . . .

"Since 1938 Congress has wisely provided an alternative to acreage allotments and marketing quotas, to be effective if marketing quotas are not approved. That alternative program as provided by law will be in effect for the 1964 crop.

"The 1964 wheat program provides price supports at 50 per cent of parity for producers who voluntarily choose to comply with the acreage allotments applicable to their farms. Such farmers will be eligible for price-support loans on the 1964 crop at about $1.25 a bushel.

There Have Been Some Changes Made

Time was when buses stopped everywhere. Some still do as they are handy for local trips.

But today there's also a faster kind of Trailways service known as thru express. Thru express takes you great distances without change and with less stops enroute. Many 200 mile trips are made non-stop; and very often a bus will travel 500 miles with only 2 or 3 stops.

A Trailways Bus itinerary can be worked out to fit your particular needs, whether your trip is for 10 miles or 1000 miles; and you ride in America's newest bus fleet.

FENCE TALK With George Vapaa

Contact lens for chickens? It seems absurd. They have been used experimentally for some months. Laying hens fitted with red plastic eye covers are quieter, are not so bossy, and stop feather picking.

Most of the observations in California have been with caged layers. The eye covers are designed to distort vision, but the birds are still able to find their feed and water.

The idea first developed when chickens with cataracts were observed to be very quiet and did not waste feed. Even blind birds will usually not drop off in egg production if feed and water are close.

Delaware potato growers still seem to want to live with the law of supply and demand, rather than with supply management proposals. They voted 13 to 17 against a potato acreage control proposal at a recent meeting. This would have limited their planted acres to their past history, and subjected them to further cuts based on the estimated market demand.

Most farmers realize that there are acute production and marketing problems today over which they exercise very little influence as individuals. The housewife consumer has benefited from the lower prices, as the farmer expanded to compete at lower unit costs.

Losses from the European corn borer were heavier last year than in '61, costing farmers nearly $94 million. Even so, these losses were comparatively low—in only three of the last 10 years have bushel losses been lower. The borer destroyed more than 83 million bushels of corn in '62, while the '61 loss was 65 million bushel, smallest bushel loss since 1952. Delaware losses amounted to $216,000, according to the U.S. D.A.

Wildlife biologists at the University of Minnesota have been attaching small radio transmitters to ruffed grouse in an effort to develop a new approach to the study of wildlife behavior. With transmitters attached, the birds are released and their movements followed with radio tracking equipment. This method gives excellent information on more aspects of wildlife behavior, the biologists say, than the band and tag system. It helps them learn more about feeding, preferred habitat, mating behavior, and other problems vital to grouse management.

The old incentive of cost cutting is the major force behind a new fashion in dairy cattle housing. The latest design is the free stall arrangement that allows the cow to move freely in and out of the stalls.

We offer five reasons why dairymen are eager to turn to the free stall housing: 1. There have been reports of 75 per cent savings in bedding, an important item that is in short supply. 2. Less labor is required to keep the loafing area clean. 3. Cows are cleaner as compared to other kinds of housing. 4. Fewer teat and udder injuries are reported. 5. Dairymen have successfully converted stanchion barns and loafing sheds to free stall housing. Others have constructed new buildings.

One arrangement we may see more of is the single line of stalls under cover. This system can be used both as a windbreak and loafing area around a paved feeding area. It is arranged in a "U" or "L" shape and is sometimes referred to as the motel arrangement.

Engineers believe this arrangement makes efficient use of concrete and perhaps takes less labor and is easier to clean. Stall size in the free stall housing depends on the size of the cows. Large breeds may require stalls that are four feet wide and seven-foot-six-inches long. For smaller breeds, stalls of 44 to 48 inches wide and seven feet long are suggested. Some dairymen are building stalls about six inches shorter, which appear to be working satisfactorily. Conversion of existing buildings or constructing a new building requires considerable thought and planning.

Summer feed for $10 to $15 a ton may seem impossible after last winter's $40-$60 per ton prices, but you may be able to produce some annual forages at low cost as pasture or silage this summer. This will save more hay for next winter's feeding. For example: Sudangrass may produce up to four tons of hay equivalent per acre even in a dry year. With seed, fertilizer, tractor fuel and other out-of-pocket costs of about $40-$50 per acre, it still makes fairly cheap summer feed. Annual crops, such as sudan, forage sorghum, or sudan-sorghum hybrids can be used for pasture, green chop or silage. Sudan grass alone is recommended for pasture. With soybeans it can be used for silage or even hay. Forage sorghums or sudan-sorghum hybrids can be used for silage or green chop.

These annual crops are not usually seeded until after June 1 so they can be put on land which has already been pastured or even a first-cutting of hay removed. A crop of sudan or sudan sorghum is particularly applicable where the stand of hay is poor or the cropland pasture is burned out by dry weather and heavy pasturing.

Some acreage of these annual forage crops might be seeded instead of depending entirely on corn for winter silage. In a normal year corn will out produce the sudans and sorghums but they are more resistant to droughty conditions than corn.

Blankets Can Be Laundered

Laundering blankets used to be quite a chore for the homemaker, but today nearly all blankets, including electric, can be laundered in the washing machine or automatic washer, according to Janet Reed, extension clothing and textiles specialist at the University of Delaware.

Some special precautions are necessary, of course, but blankets of wool or man-made fibers can retain their fluff, "new" look through quite a few washings, she says.

Before washing blankets, use a sponge and liquid detergent to spot-clean noticeable stains and soil, especially along the bindings. Fill the washer with warm water and ad detergent. When the detergent is dissolved, put in one large or two small blankets and soak for five to 15 minutes, either by stopping agitation or by using a "soak" cycle. Then agitate slowly for a minute and spin water from the washer on the normal spin cycle, about three minutes. Rinse for a minute with a fabric softener rinse added to the water. Spin again for three minutes.

For line drying, hang blanket over two parallel clotheslines, pulling gently to shape the blanket. Blankets of acrylic fibers can be dried in an automatic dryer at the "regular wash and wear" setting. Wool, wool blend or rayon blend blankets may be dried with care in the automatic dryer following directions which came with the dryer. Be sure to place three or four Terry cloth towels in the dryer with the blanket to serve as buffers and help prevent shrinking, Miss Reed says.

Remove the blanket while damp and hang on two parallel lines to finish drying. Pull blanket into shape over the lines. Electric blankets may be washed in the same manner, but should always be dried over clotheslines. Electric blankets should never be drycleaned, Miss Reed points out.

S. Motter Pitches Near-Perfect Game

Steve Motter, 14, turned in a once-in-a-lifetime, Frank Merrivell performance last Thursday night as he twirled a no-hit, no-run game, drove in the winning tallies with a two-run home run and added two other bingles.

Pitching for Ted Layton's First National Bank team in the Harrington Senior Little League, Motter struck out 12 People's Bank batters and retired the side in order except for two baserunners, who reached first on an error and a walk.

Tom Simpler doubled in the first inning and scored on Motter's circuit clout as First National belted Peoples 7-0 in a "money" game.

Grass Stains Can Be Removed

Grass stains on clothing present a familiar summer problem for the homemaker, but most grass stains can be removed, according to Katie Thomas, Kent County extension agent, home economics.

To remove grass stains from washable garments, wet the stain and rub detergent into it. Then rinse, and repeat if necessary. Another method is to sponge the stain with rubbing alcohol, but with this method, be sure to test the alcohol in an inconspicuous spot first, since it sometimes fades fabric dyes. If using alcohol on acetate, dilute it with two parts water.

When non-washable garments are grass stained, try sponging with alcohol first, if it is safe for the dyes. The detergent method may also be used carefully, Mrs. Thomas says.

Belles Open Season with Win

The Harrington Belles opened their season last Friday night at the Moose Home with a game with a team from the Salisbury League.

The Belles opened the scoring with six runs in the bottom of the first inning. The Salisbury lassies then nibbled away at the Belles' early lead as they got two runs in the second inning and one each in the next two innings, while holding the Belles to one run in the bottom of the fourth.

At the top of the fifth inning Salisbury drew closer by scoring two more runs and narrowing the score down to a deficit of only one run, but were unable to bring across the tying run, as the Belles played good heads-up ball the rest of the inning.

The Belles broke loose with fine hitting in the bottom of the fifth inning and moved way out in front by scoring eight runs, before the final out, making the score 15-6. Shortly thereafter, before the sixth inning got underway the game was halted due to rain, which had threatened throughout the game.

Josephine McCloskey and Rosemary Churchman had a good night as they hit a home run apiece and added a couple of rbis to their batting statistics. Helen Haas played a fine game as catcher, being a new experience for her, which was necessitated by the loss of the regular catcher for the season. Wheeler was the winning pitcher. The Belles will meet a team from Chestertown tonight at 8:30 at the Moose.

Little League News

The Junior and Senior Little League baseball doubleheaders, which are held from Monday to Friday nights each week at the Moose ballpark are drawing good crowds and exhibiting some good baseball. Moose sports chairman, Earl Yoder, and his crew, have made improvements in the lighting system and moved the fences back so that the older boys in the Senior League can't get any "Chinese" home runs.

tions to the heart fund will be accepted by "Heart Fund Sweethearts" clad in red shorts. Other funds will be raised by the sale of concessions by the auxiliary of the Milford Go-Kart Club and by pit fees of $2 per kart per race.

The road race will be an innovation in benefit events for the Heart Fund. The Milford Go-Kart Club has held two Heart Association benefits in previous years, both at the track at Carpenters Dirt Pit north of the city. The drivers have on numerous occasions expressed an interest in a road race, but such an event has not been practical prior to this time.

Cleaning Hints by HALLETT'S

Q. When we rearranged our living room furniture, there were deep depressions in the rug where the sofa legs were. Can these be removed?

A. Dampen crushed fibers and brush them with a damp cloth. In the future, place furniture cups under the legs of heavy furniture.

Q. Our 12-year-old son spilled a solution from his chemistry set on our new living room rug. The chemical bleached the rug despite the fact that I washed up the spill immediately. Can the rug be spot dyed?

A. Probably. Most rugs (depending on fiber) can be spot dyed.

Send for your FREE spotting guide and carpet care booklet.

Write to HALLETT'S, P. O. Box 24, Dover, Del.
