

2 Milford Restaurants To Serve Negroes

Two Milford restaurants last night joined the list of Delaware eating places serving Negroes.

Teams of five negroes each entered the Hollywood Diner and the Milford Pharmacy and were served without incident.

Prior to making the visits, the Negroes said they had been told by Milford Chief of Police Philip Wagner that all Milford restaurants were serving Negroes.

The Rev. George Brown, Wilmington chairman of the NCAAP Public Accommodations Committee, seemed satisfied with the results, but said Negroes of the city would have to determine if they would be served.

The Negroes reported courteous service at the Milford Pharmacy, but at the Hollywood Diner it was a different story, with the waitresses shoving menus at them.

Several white men started to enter the diner, but changed their minds when they saw the Negroes being served inside.

Visits to the restaurants followed a rally sponsored by the Delaware Chapter National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, attended by some 40 persons in Bethel A. M. E. Church.

Four other eating places in Milford have indicated that they are willing to serve Negroes. Reaction was favorable from owners of restaurants queried by the State News recently.

Mrs. Perry Ragain, who operates Ragain's Pharmacy with her husband said:

"We have always served Negroes as long as we have been here. There hasn't been any problems that I know of. We will always serve Negroes if they request it at our counter."

Mrs. Walter Morris, co-operator with her husband of the Boulevard Restaurant, Rt. 14, said "we will serve them if they come in."

The owner of the Southern Grill, Walnut St., was not available, but his daughter, Mrs. Mary Campbell, who works in the restaurant, said:

"They will be served. We do not have any objections."

Boggs Assured on Exports to Common Market Countries

Sen. J. Caleb Boggs, R-Del., has been assured this country will be in a tough-talking mood this week when negotiations open in Geneva on poultry exports to Common Market countries.

Sen. Boggs wrote to President Kennedy on June 7 about the "insult" to the U. S. when the Common Market tariff on poultry was raised at a time when this country was asking for a modest reduction.

Christian A. Herter, special representative for trade negotiations, replied to Sen. Boggs for the President.

"I am just as disturbed as you are about the poultry situation," Herter wrote, "and we have already notified the Common Market officials that we are taking the necessary steps to obtain a modification of their poultry tariff arrangements or, failing that, to move toward justification reprisals."

Herter added that he had little hope that Common Market ministers would reverse their action prior to the Geneva meeting, "although we hope and shall work for some relief for our poultry industry," he said.

50% of U. of D. Students Taking Summer Courses

The record enrollment for the 1963 University of Delaware summer session puts the university far above a national average.

Of the approximately 3600 students expected to be enrolled in the fall undergraduate program at Delaware, some 1800, or 50% of the undergraduate student body, are presently taking summer courses at the university. The national average for regular program students enrolled in public-institution summer sessions is 25%.

The 50% figure also tops the average of students attending all public institutions of higher learning in the Southern Regional Education Board area, of which Delaware is a part. In this sector, public colleges and universities enroll 34 per cent as many students in summer sessions as in the regular program. The figure for private institutions is 31%.

After the June 17 registration for the first, or six-week, summer session at Delaware, a record 1,729 students had enrolled for 2,888 courses, also a record number. Late registrations were expected to raise the total to approximately 1,900. This figure includes University of Delaware undergraduate and graduate students, as well as in-service teachers, students enrolled in other colleges and special-program enrollees.

Final registration tabulations for the 1962 summer sessions showed a total of 1,551 students enrolled for 2,728 courses.

Estimates of the total enrollment, which will include registrations for the five and three-week sessions scheduled for July 29, indicate that over 2,000 students will attend the university's 1962 summer session.

Pre-registrations for the five-week course now total 85, and for the three-week program of education courses, 30.

Southern Regional Education Board authorities believe there is evidence that summer study is becoming the pursuit of the typical student. Acceleration of progress toward a degree, enrollment of students with a (Continued on Page 8)

DuPont's Sale of GM Stock Gives Delaware $3.2 Million

The State of Delaware is getting a windfall as members of the duPont family and related families divest themselves of stock holdings in General Motors Corp.

It's in the form of income taxes on the capital gains involved. Four Democrats got together to propose spending $2.9 million from the fund to build a new state office building in Dover and to restore the Old State House.

Finally, Rep. Russell D. F. up a bill providing that half of the divestiture taxes collected each year be given to the University of Delaware for endowment and that the remainder be reserved for the purchase of land for parks, beaches and other recreational or conservation purposes.

No sooner was this reported by the State Tax Department than legislators began thinking up ways to spend it. The Legislature is more or less pledged to use the money for special capital investments, but most of the bills so far introduced call for ordinary and workaday projects.

For instance, Sen. B. Walter Johnson (D-Bear), proposed appropriating $417,690 in divestiture funds to build an additional auto inspection lane in New Castle County.

Members of the du Pont family, owning large blocks of stock in the du Pont Co., have been ordered to divest themselves of the GM holdings as a result of federal antitrust action.

As of June 15, du Pont-GM divestiture had brought $3.2 million into Delaware's treasury. The ZIP Code is literally the last word in mail addressing," he said. "It should follow the city and state in addresses."

He cited this example of the proper use of ZIP Code: John Doe, 123 Main Street, Harrington, Del. 19552.

The new ZIP Code plan, for the first time will permit the Post Office Department to short-cut repeated address reading.

"The address on mail must often be read as many as eight or ten times by postal employees, to get it to the proper destination. Each handling slows the process of mail dispatch and adds to the opportunity of human error."

"With ZIP Code, a clerk needs only to glance at the code to know immediately to what national area, state and post office the letter is destined, and to speed it on its way, cutting up to 24 hours off the time between deposit and delivery."

Dill said that when ZIP Code is in full swing, the United States will have "the most modern system of mail distribution and delivery in existence."

The ZIP number for Farmington Postoffice is 19942; for Greenwood Postoffice, 19950.

Postmaster Reed Hughes announced the five-digit ZIP code is 19943 for the Felton Postoffice.

Buying furniture for their first home can be an enjoyable task for the young couple about to be married, but careful planning is necessary, or the selections may turn out to be a nightmare of mismatched pieces when additional purchases are made later, says Janet Reed, extension textiles and clothing specialist at the University of Delaware.

Miss Reed advises starting with a budget and apportioning money according to the importance of the furniture in your daily life. For instance, it is much more important to have a good, comfortable bed than a solid walnut dining table, since a sagging or otherwise uncomfortable bed can measurably affect the way you feel.

The sofa is another important piece of furniture and it should be selected for seating comfort and for good, lasting design, as should at least one comfortable chair. The upholstery should be attractive but sturdy and easy to care for. In choosing these pieces, remember that straight frames are cheaper to build than curved ones, and that basic sizes and dimensions can be mass-produced, while unusual proportions and details require individual work.

Thus, if a sofa with curved lines and a sofa with straight lines are the same price, the straight lined piece is probably of better quality.

Hosts Wanted for Fresh Air Children

It's fresh air time again. On July 10, the first group of underprivileged youngsters from crowded areas of New York City will arrive in Harrington. Host families are needed to share 2 weeks of their summer blisses with these needy children, many of whom have never seen a single family house, never played in sand, never walked on grass nor climbed a tree, never picked flowers nor saw a cow or pig.

The second arrival date is July 24, and all invitations must be made 15 days prior. Call Mrs. Frank C. O'Neal, Jr., 398-8855, Fresh Air Chairman, for further information.

Postoffice Adopts Code to Speed Mail Delivery

"Our five-digit ZIP Code is 19952," Postmaster Howard W. Dill announced today. Everyone in Harrington will use this ZIP code on all their correspondence to speed mail deliveries and reduce the chance of missent mail," he said.

ZIP Code, the Post Office Department's revolutionary new system of improved mail dispatch and delivery, goes into effect nationally, July 1.

He stressed the importance of all citizens of Harrington learning the city's ZIP Code and using it in their return address on all correspondence. In answering mail, he said, ZIP Codes taken from return addresses on incoming mail should be used.

"The ZIP Code is literally the last word in mail addressing," he said. "It should follow the city and state in addresses."

He cited this example of the proper use of ZIP Code: John Doe, 123 Main Street, Harrington, Del. 19552.

BILL TO BAN BEER BOTTLES

He will assume his duties July 1st. Price photo

A bill to prohibit the sale of beer in no-deposit bottles was shelved Wednesday by the House of Representatives after members protested that it failed to go far enough.

Minority Leader William T. Best, R-Rehoboth Beach, led the assault by declaring that the bill, while it would require a deposit for each bottle, did not specify the amount and therefore could have its intent circumvented.

"Nothing would prevent breaking the deposit cost down into mills," he said.

Majority Leader Norman A. Eskridge, D-Seaford, agreed and said the bill also fails to stipulate who would be responsible for enforcing the law and what the penalties would be in the event a violation is detected.

He said the intent of the bill has merit, but that it simply is not drawn well enough "to have any teeth."

Rep. Paul E. Shockey, D-Wilmington, also said that the law might hurt Delaware business since people going to the beach would merely purchase their beer in another state and then throw away the bottles with abandon as they moved up or down the Delaware highways. He added that beer bottles are not the only type that cause glass hazards.

The sponsor of the bill, Rep. Wallace P. Wooten, D-Frederica, contended that the measure would "save a lot of cut feet and tires."

Rep. George H. Exley, D-Harrington, suggested with tongue in cheek that the state should erect signs where it wants empty throw-away beer bottles to be tossed saying "no beer bottles to be thrown here."

"Then," Exley continued, "they would be sure to throw the beer bottles right there since it works so well with 'no dumping' signs."

Under pressure from members, the sponsor moved to defer it. The deferral motion was adopted with 23 yeas, six nays (Bartleson, Best, Casey, Downs, Hale and Jarrell), four absent (Annett, Fifer, Keenan and McGinnis) and two present (Correll and Hoeker).

Legislation requiring state policemen retired on disability pensions to take physical examinations every six months moved a step closer to law in the House Wednesday.

Three members gave a yeavote to SB 94 when the roll call on the once-defeated measure was lifted from the table. The bill, which picked up an amendment in the House, now goes back to the Senate where it previously passed with ease.

Representatives Granville T. Lowe, D-Laurel, and Carlton Blendt, D-Blackbird Hundred, who were absent Monday, asked to be recorded in favor. Speaker Sherman W. Tribbitt, D-St. Georges Hundred, switched his vote from present to "yea." That gives the bill 20 yeas, 11 nays and 4 not voting.

The House amendment gives such retired officers who have moved out of state the right to have their disability certified by two out-of-state physicians who have been approved by the board or department of health in the state where the officer takes the physical examination.

Otherwise the bill directs all who are receiving such pensions which amounts to three-fourths of the salary they received while on active duty—to take the physical each six months.

Presumably if such a retired officer passed the physical examination he would have to return to active duty with the police. At least that was the interpretation placed on the bill by Speaker Tribbitt.

50,000 Attend Chicken Festival

Sunny skies, temperatures in the low 80's and a colorful parade of nearly 200 different units combined to bring out a crowd estimated by police and news-men at 50,000 people for the grand finale of the 16th annual Delmarva Chicken Festival, Saturday, at Salisbury.

People on rooftops, people on campstools and people just plain standing lined the entire 3 1/2 mile parade route. It took an hour and a half from the time the state police car in the lead passed the reviewing stand until Queen Marva Gold in an antique Cadillac brought up the rear.

Outstanding among many outstanding floats and marching units in the opinion of both the crowd and the judges were the Mummies Woodland String Band of Philadelphia, and the floats of Bayshore Foods, A. W. Perdue, Pochahontas, WBOC and the Delaware Poultry Improvement Association. The youngsters loved all the horses and ponies, the bubble gum and candy distributed from many floats and Lady Greyhound, the queenly, friendly dog who came to Salisbury from New York City for the festival.

By the time night had settled over the city of 20,000, the crowd had eaten a three-day total of 12,300 chicken dinners cooked in the festival's giant 10-foot fry pan, had consumed over 3000 halves of chicken from the barbecue pit and had downed 4000 chickenburgers. A total attendance of 66,000 was recorded for the three days.

Following is a list of winners in different placement in the different parade divisions. They took home cash and trophies worth $1100.

Commercial industry floats, poultry and allied interests: Bayshore Foods, Easton; A. W. Perdue & Sons, Salisbury; Dulaney Foods, Fruitland. Other commercial interests: Pochahontas, Inc.; WBOC-TV; English Co., all Salisbury.

Organization floats, agricultural: Delaware Poultry Improvement Association; Tri-County Poultry Association. Non-agricultural: Delmar Fire Department; Delmarva Gas Association; tie for third, Salisbury Chamber of Commerce and Millville Fire Department.

4-H Clubs and FFA Chapters: Zion Road 4-H Club, Salisbury; 4-H Dog Obstacle Club; Wicomico YMW.

Bands, seniors: Citizen Hose Co., Seaford. Juniors: Galena High School, Galena, Md.; tie for second, Salisbury High and Milton High; tie for third, Felton High and Wicomico Senior High.

Fire Departments, best appearance (15 or more): Felton Fire Company; Smyrna Fire Company; Delmar Fire Company. Ladies auxiliary: Felton Fire Company; Frankford Fire Company; Seaford Fire Company.

Veteran organizations, best appearance (10 or more): Virgil Wilson VFW Post No. 4961, Seaford; Wicomico Post No. 64, American Legion, Salisbury.

Boy and Girl Scouts: Best Girl Scout Troop, No. 167, Salisbury; Best Boy Scout Troop, No. 268, Salisbury.

Show horses and ponies: 4-H Hoof Prints, Salisbury.

Horse drawn vehicle: Tony Tank Redmen.

Fancy dress: Tony Tank Redmen.

Majorettes and baton twirlers: Meg's Twirlettes, Cambridge.

On the opening day of the festival, Thursday, judges had named pretty Marita Fay Hancock, of Princess Anne, Md., to be little Miss Delmarva of 1963.

The four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hancock won over 13 other less-than-school-age contestants on the stage of the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center.

Crowning the brown-eyed, brown-haired Little Miss, who represented her hometown, was Lisa Gaye Oliphant, five-year-old from Laurel, who won the Little Miss Delmarva title last year.

Runnerup was Karen Lynn Newnom, of Farmington, who represented Greenwood. She was sponsored by the Lions Club of Greenwood.

Marita received a trophy, donated by Radio Station WDMV of Pocomoke City, Md., a $100 U. S. Savings Bond, a $15 gift certificate from Harolds of Seaford, and a gift certificate worth a pair of shoes from Small's Bootery of Salisbury.

Little Miss Delmarva, standing only three feet, 6 inches tall, has two brothers and one sister.

The 14 young ladies had each won local honors as prettiest young miss in their community before vieing for the Peninsula title.

W. Joseph Williams, mayor of Seaford, emceed the pageant. He and his wife, Kitty, are co-directors of the Little Miss Delmarva Pageant and also the Miss Delmarva Pageant.

The runnerup, Karen Lynn Newnom, also received a trophy from Radio Station WDMV, a $10 gift certificate from Harold's of Seaford, and a $50 U. S. Savings Bond.

Williams interviewed each little miss who appeared before a crowd of 1000. They wore play and party attire.

Earlier in the afternoon, the Chicken Festival had been officially opened at 1:27 p.m., Gene Bailey, of Rehoboth Beach, president of Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc., cut the ceremonial ribbon opening the civic center. Mayor Frank Morris, of Salisbury, Miss Delmarva XV and Festival officials welcomed the opening day crowd.

Earlier in the day, a dark-haired 17-year old from Franklin Square, Long Island, New York, Joan Lea Trichon, outcooked 8 to 18-year-old finalists from 10 states to become the new national junior chicken cooking champion. Name of her winning recipe is "Currant Cherry Chicken."

The field of 28 included five boys, but only one of them made the charmed winners' circle of twelve. He was 12-year-old Jimmy Buck of Princeton, Ind., who placed eighth with a dish called "All-American Chicken With Lime Sauce."

Second and third place winners were 15-year-old Jean Crum, of Wilmington, with "Sesame Chicken Imperiale," and 16-year-old Cheryl Ann Shockley, of Salisbury, with "Hula-Ala-Chicken."

Judges for the junior contest were Sylvie Schuman, New York, editor-in-chief of Ongene Magazine, chairman; Jackie Sharborough, food editor of the Wilmington Morning News; Mary Brown, director of Women's activities, Hill & Knowlton, New York; Helen Feingold, New York food editor, TV Guide; Maudie Alexander, New York United Fruit Company; Philomena Corrandeno, New York food editor, Philcor Features Syndicate; and Helen Perry, Salisbury Times.

The judges felt that the junior contest showed a rising interest in international cookery as they cooked round-the-world recipes of Spanish, Russian, Italian, Hawaiian and Oriental derivation, as well as strictly all-American ones. They said the appearance and service of the winning recipes was of a very high caliber and that the youngsters had made quite an effort towards originality in their preparation. There were exciting uses of spices and cheeses, and the recipes were written in extremely good professional style.

The 12 winners shared about $3000 worth of prizes. Champion Joan Trichon earned a one-week, all expense-paid trip for two to Hot Springs, Ark., and Hot Springs National Park; a deluxe, gas, built-in range; portable stereo hi-fi, and a silver trophy donated by the Poultry and Egg National Board.

Others who made the winners' circle were Mary Ann Davis, of Marion, Md., Eleanor Hamilton, of New Castle; Marilyn Ribbe, of Glen Rock, N. J.; Geneva Jackson, of Newark, Md.; Debbie Sullivan, of Milford; Sandra Wilson, of Alexandria, Va.; Sandra Horton, of Salisbury, and Donna

Friday, the new national chicken cooking champion and the new Miss Delmarva were chosen.

The cooking crown went to a petite, 41-year-old brunette from Ocala, Fla., Mrs. Martha Hendley. Mother of five children ranging in age from 6 to 17, Mrs. Hendley lives on a small farm where she and her husband, as she put it, "sell a few Angus cattle and a lot of good Florida land." The petite, vivacious housewife listed her business occupation as "associate realtor." Name of her winning recipe was "International Date Line Chicken." It won her the senior division honors over a field of 88 women and 9 men from 43 states and the District of Columbia who previously had won state honors to qualify for the national cook-off. She gets a Mutschler Bros. hand-crafted kitchen, a silver trophy awarded by the Poultry and Egg National Board and other prizes.

Eleanor Ney, women's editor for Westchester Publications, a chain of New York state newspapers, and Dora McCann of the "McCann's At Home" show, WOR, New York, were co-chairmen of a panel of 11 judges who appraised the recipes and their preparation after the contestants had cooked in shifts on a battery of 40 brand new gas and electric ranges set up in the cafeteria of the Wicomico High School.

They said that the contestants had given a great deal of care and thought to the preparation of their recipes and that the presentations of the dishes were simpler than in other years. There were quite a few very original and different recipes in addition to that of the top winner, they said, and noted that these included some excellent and unusual stuffing recipes. Although there was less use of spices than in some former years, a lot of fruit garnish and nuts were in evidence.

Second place went to 70-year old Mrs. Gayle White, of RFD No. 1, Oakland, Io., for her recipe "Company Chicken." Third was veteran cook-off contender, Mrs. Alva Jones, of Georgetown, with "Chicken Breasts With Potato Soup." In all, there were 17 states represented among the 25 top winners named.

Only two men placed among the top 25. They were James Blizzard, Sr., of Millsboro, seventh, and James C. Tilley, of Rome, Ga., 24th.

The new champion was congratulated by last year's champion Mrs. Harold Herbert, of Gnadenhuthen, O. By a strange coincidence, both women's recipes bore the identifying number 53 when they were carried back to the judges room for appraisal this year and last.

Friday evening, a cheering crowd of 200 saw poised, suburban-haired Sue Elizabeth Marsh, of Seaford, crowned Miss Delmarva the 16th. Sue, 17, has just graduated from Seaford High School and is planning to attend the University of Delaware where she will major in elementary education. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. R. Marsh, she likes golf, hockey, ice skating, singing, teaches Sunday School and won her first golf tournament at age 8. She is 5-feet, 6-inches tall and weighs 123 pounds.

Miss Runnerup in the pageant was 16-year-old Sandra Leigh Young of Chincoteague, Va., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris John Young. A gorgeous brunette, she also is 5-feet, 6-inches tall, weighs 130 pounds. Her ambition is to go into nurses training or to become a medical secretary when she graduates from Chincoteague High School.

Elected Miss Personality by the vote of her 16 fellow contestants was 16-year-old Sharon Kay Isaacs, of Greenwood. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Isaacs and also plans to enter nurses training when she graduates from high school. Her older sister is Diane Isaacs, 18, who was Miss Runnerup in the Delmarva Pageant last year and just recently was chosen Miss Delaware in the Miss America Contest.

Fourth pageant winner chosen was Miss Popularity, selected by vote of the audience. She is 17-year-old Marilyn Ruth Jarrell, from Harrington. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jarrell, she was the smallest of the winners at 5-feet, 2 1/2 inches tall and 108 pounds.

The new Miss Delmarva won a $750 college scholarship and gifts. Miss Runnerup won $300 in cash and gifts; Miss Personality, $200 in cash and gifts. Miss Popularity, $100 and gifts. All the winners also received trophies.

Friday, also, a painting entitled "Mexican Mountains" by one of the Eastern Shore's best known professional artists—Howard Schroeder, of Lewes, won top honors in the annual Festival Art Show.

One of 174 exhibits, plus special exhibits that raised the total showings to 200, the painting was judged first in the professional class. Exhibits from all parts of the Peninsula also were entered in the amateur and junior divisions.

Second in the professional class went to Henry Progar, high school art teacher of Laurel. His exhibit was "Textures on Trussum." Kitty Baker, of Salisbury, won third with her painting, "Strawberry Pickers."

Judges for the showing were Moe Glushakow, Salisbury, chairman of the art exhibit committee; Jacob Glushakow and Aaron Sopher, both of Baltimore.

Amateur division first place went to Daniel J. Wheaton, Salisbury, bank employee, who exhibited "Waterman." Teddie Tubbs, Rehoboth Beach, placed second with "Sky Rocks," and Sue Thomas, Salisbury, was third with "Day Lillies and Pine Branches."

Junior division winner was Rachel Drew, Mt. Vernon, Md.,

with "Mother", while Don Hall, with "Fighting Cocks," placed second. He is from Snow Hill, Md. Third place went to 14-year-old Gary Mitchell of Laurel, who exhibited "Shelter in the Storm."

Winner of the popular vote from Festival Art Show visits was Arthur P. Hoppe's painting of boats at Deals Island.

Cash prizes totaling $250, plus trophies and ribbons were awarded to the winners.

Final day of the Festival Saturday saw a New England housewife and grandmother win top honors at the National Chicken Cooking Contest in the portable appliance division.

She is Mrs. Emily W. Wood, of Madison, Conn., who prepared an original recipe she calls "Blushing Chicken." Mrs. Wood, whose husband competed in the national finals in 1960, hoped she would win because she thought her recipe was "original, appetizing and eye-appealing."

Apparently the seven judges, headed by Mary Horton, food editor of Food Business Magazine, thought so, too, in judging 29 contestants from 18 states including 36 women and three men.

Mrs. Wood, who has three grown children and nine grandchildren, won a complete selection of electric portable appliances from the Sunbeam line.

Second place winner was Miss Georgia Dotson, secretary to a hospital administrator in Washington, D. C. A native Georgian, she cooked her own recipe for "Orangano Chicken." She has entered contests since 1957 when she was a Pillsbury bake-off winner. She won a portable TV set.

Contestants, for the most part, used fry pans, sauce pans and deep fryers and were commended by the judges for the ease and swiftness of preparation of a wide variety of dishes. Several dishes were "very elegant of the gourmet type," judges said.

A Woodstock, Va., wizard at roasting on a spit became the new barbecue king as the curtain rang down on the 1963 National Chicken Cooking Contests.

He is 58-year-old James E. Hearl, an executive of a Virginia apple products company. By some strange coincidence, his recipe called for smoking a whole chicken with walnut-sized pieces of seasoned apple wood.

Name of his recipe is "Smoke-house Chicken" and a distinguished panel of editors and gourmets headed by Helen Feingold, food editor of TV Guide, termed it "outstanding."

Hearl won out over a field of 41 finalists from 20 states that included 12 men and 29 women. He gets an all-expense trip for two by Furness Lines steamship Queen of Bermuda and a stay at the luxurious Hotel St. George in Bermuda.

Second in a field of 10 whose recipes the judges termed "highly original and of great variety" was another Virginia, 34-year-old mother of three, Mrs. Ann R. Nance from Dahlgren. Her recipe was called "Curried Cocoman Chicken" and it won her a deluxe Big Boy barbecue grill and $100 in cash.

Other barbecue winners included Mrs. Karl Sacks, of Philadelphia, "Honey-Cinnamon Chick"; Mrs. Irving Shapiro, Media, Pa., "Take 1/2 Chicken"; Mrs. L. A. G. Neubacher, Colorado Springs, Col., "Wings In A Scurry"; Mrs. Natalie Edwards, Holland Patent, N. Y., "Cranberry Almond Chicken"; Mrs. Robert Ricker, Harrington, "Barbecued Special"; Katharine Norton, Washington, D. C., "Mahogany Chicken"; Mrs. Mabel Lambden, Georgetown, "Governor's Special Barbecue Chicken"; and Mrs. Oliver Duffina, Washington, D. C., "Barbecued Breasts Kiev".

SUMMER REVERIE

Small boys aren't the only ones who envy Big League baseball players.
 Millions of us of all ages must wonder now and then why fate has chained us to a desk, glued us to a machine, imprisoned us in a salesman's car, otherwise consigned us to an unglamorous career.
 Unglamorous that is, compared to the carefree, exciting lives these handsome, frisky young heroes enjoy as they pull down fabulous money for playing a game they no doubt would play for free if no one had thought of paying them to play it.
 Consider the life of a baseball star.
 Every move is followed by millions of admirers—some of them girls. Fan clubs. Autograph seekers—some of them girls. Fine hotels. As much good food as you can eat—on an expense account yet. Plenty of sunshine and fresh air. And you can't beat the hours.
 But hold it.
 Did you get your job over the active and talented competition of a half dozen other guys who were just as determined as you to land it?
 When you boot one on the job—and don't we all?—do 40,000 dedicated maniacs boo you?
 Do half a dozen eager beavers sit behind you, waiting and praying for you to slow down a bit so they can take over your work?
 Does the whole country know when you are removed from the starting lineup?
 Is the tension on your job so great you are too nervous to eat before you go to work and too depressed to sleep after you get home?
 Do you know what most of the unsung baseball players make? Not the big stars, but the nine-run boys?
 Do you want to be washed up in your profession at 35?
 Do you want to be away from the family half the time?
 Maybe all of us should check our jobs point by point against those that look so posh and cushy. Maybe we'd be more content with what we have.
 And of course there's always a way for any of us to be happier in what we're doing. We can merely do it better.

Poplar Bluff (Mo.) Daily American Republic

Letter to the Editor
 To the Editor:
 Every time the Kennedys violate the Constitution by sending troops into a state to impose their rule on the people of that state, it sets a precedent for conquering another state. At present, the Kennedys are using the excuse of "civil rights" for Negroes. But if it were not that, it would be something else. So it is necessary to settle the Negro problem now.
 Africa has more natural resources than North and South America combined. In Kenya, the white settlers are selling their land at bargain prices and leaving before Britain passes control over to the local Negroes. It is a fertile land with excellent climate. Imagine the opportunities for Negroes voluntarily emigrating to an English-speaking country.
 Let the General Assembly buy Kenya plantations to provide Delaware Negroes with enough land for subsistence. Then whenever an illegitimate child is born, the mother and all her children, as well as the fathers when they can be found, might be induced to emigrate to an unsegregated country. Until they are established, they could be kept going with our surplus foods. Otherwise, the present situation will grow worse.
 It is difficult to imagine the chaos toward which we are headed. On June 15 in Cambridge, Philip H. Savage of the N.A.A.C.P. told some 200 Negroes: "If this thing isn't settled by next Friday, thousands of people will be mobilized in Cambridge. . . I can bring 10,000 people into this city if necessary." Visualize the horror of 10,000 savages descending on a helpless city after Kennedy has federalized the Maryland National Guard so that it cannot be used for defense.
 A quick review of history reveals some instances where moderates have started revolutions with the best intentions in the world. In doing so, they broke down law and order, thus placing their countries in a position vulnerable to a take-over by brutes with cruel and vicious traits. In 1789 Louis XVI was dethroned by groups comprised partly of intellectuals. Those who started the revolution were themselves beheaded along with the King and Marie Antoinette. Tens of thousands were killed before Napoleon conquered them and became dictator.

 In Russia in 1917, Kerensky, a moderate, led the forces against Czar Nicholas, defeated him, and took charge; but his forces were knocked out by Lenin and Trotsky who instituted another reign of terror.
 In America, Episcopal bishops and other do-gooders are helping the Negro cause. However, true to form, brutal forces are forging to the front. At a meeting in Harlem in the first week of June, Conrad Lynn, a Negro lawyer of the Black Muslim movement, shouted to a crowd of 700 or 800: "Martin Luther King says, 'If blood flows, let it be our blood.' Well, I have news for him. There is going to be a lot of white blood flowing in this country. . . until the Negro is accepted as an American citizen."
 That evening there was a celebration in Harlem in honor of the victory of Jomo K. Kenyatta in Africa. Kenyatta was the victorious head of the Mau Mau outrages in Kenya.
 Make no mistake about it. The revolution is on. It can be nipped in the bud now - OR ELSE.

combined, choose a drop leaf or expanding dining table to save space when it is closed but which will serve six or eight people when it is opened. The table and chairs might be bought second-hand and then refinished or painted. If you choose a new table, select good wood and finish so the table can be used later in larger quarters, Miss Reed advises.
 Small nested tables for individual use are space savers and are convenient when entertaining guests. If storage space is a problem, select closed commode-type end or lamp tables.
 In general, if, like most couples, your budget won't stretch far enough to buy good quality new pieces for the entire apartment or house, Miss Reed suggests that the best place to cut expenses is on "case goods," such as book cases, tables and chests. Buy good quality upholstered pieces and bed, and then check second hand stores or the family's attic for case pieces which might be painted or refinished. Bookcases can be made from painted or finished boards placed between bricks or glass blocks.

 Many stores offer free decorating service, Miss Reed notes. This service can be of great help in deciding how to furnish a home, but don't be carried away with a decorator's ideas without regard to your finances and personal preferences, she cautions. An apartment or home can be furnished very attractively, yet inexpensively, so remember your budget as you plan, she advises. And remember, too, that such things as curtains or drapes and rugs can run up your bill considerably unless you choose wisely and carefully. When furnishing an apartment or rented home, don't buy wall-to-wall carpet, but, rather, select area rugs or standard size piece carpets which can be used later in other rooms. Don't allocate too much money for drapes in rented quarters, since they seldom will fit other windows when you move.
 Choose furniture that is easy to move and easy to clean. Simple lines and stain-resistant upholstery will be easier to care for than intricately carved designs or white satin sofa and chair covers, Miss Reed notes.
 Be sure to check warranties on furniture and rugs. It is reassuring to know that the manufacturer and retailer have integrity and are liable for defects in workmanship or materials.
 Before buying any furniture, the couple should browse in furniture stores together, to decide on designs they both like. The time to discuss likes and dislikes is before you buy, not after you have purchased a "darling little chair" which is too small for the man of the house.
 Don't wait too long to order furniture. Most stores can deliver within about three weeks, but special orders or other unforeseen problems may delay shipment as much as two months or more, Miss Reed cautions.
 If case pieces will stand free in the room, be sure to look at the backs to see that they are finished. Open and close drawers to be sure they glide easily and are dust-proofed.

Semiannual U. of D. Board Meeting

Opportunities for Delaware students of business, economics, psychology and nursing will be enlarged as a result of resolutions passed Sat., June 8, by the University of Delaware's board of trustees.

The board approved the establishment of a new school of business administration and economics, the inauguration of a doctoral program in psychology and the addition of a department of nursing to the school of arts and science.

Other major actions included: *Establishment of the university as a collegiate sponsor in the National Merit Scholarship Program.

*Naming of three buildings and formulation of plans for future construction projects.

*Election of a new trustee, Samuel Lenher, vice president of the DuPont Company, to succeed the late Granville M. Read.

*Passage of a resolution of appreciation for the support of the 122nd General Assembly in providing quality education for Delaware youth.

For some years it has been apparent that a school of business administration would be the next college required among the university's separate administrative units. It had been anticipated that the change would come later in this decade, but enrollments in the present department of economics and business administration have run well ahead of schedule. Organizational changes therefore, are being made now and it is believed that the establishment of the school will enhance the performance and reputation of an already strong area of teaching and research. School status is also seen as an aid to the recruitment of additional capable faculty members.

Demand for business education is evidenced in the fact that one in seven bachelor's degrees awarded to male students in the nation today is in this field. All schools and departments of business in universities have experienced rapid post-war expansion. Delaware's present enrollment of nearly 500 students majoring in business and economics will make the newly created school the third largest among the undergraduate units. Estimates of 1,200 undergraduate majors and 150 graduate students by 1977 indicate a bright future for the new school.

Since 1959 the university has been granting doctoral degrees in the behavioral sciences. Most of the students registering for this degree have done a major part of their work in the field of psychology. The university's staff, equipment and library holdings in psychology have consequently been so strengthened that the psychology department is now prepared to offer a doctorate in psychology as a complement to the present program in behavioral sciences. The trustees endorsed this new program and the first degree candidates will be accepted in September.

Establishment of the department of nursing under the chairmanship of Mrs. Madeline O. McDowell was announced last month. The program has received widespread support from hospitals, nursing groups and medical organizations throughout the state. This year's freshmen students will be the first to graduate under the new program and the first to receive the Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree.

Beginning with the 1963-64 academic year, the University of Delaware will become a Collegiate Sponsor in the National Merit Scholarship program. As such, the university will offer merit scholarships to all Delaware finalists who apply for admission. For those who have no financial need, a $100 honorarium will be granted. Students requiring financial assistance will receive grants in amounts necessary to cover the general university fee, room and board.

Action of the trustees on resolutions relating to the physical plant included the naming of three buildings, approval of several building renovations, and plans for a third multi-sectioned dormitory on the East campus.

The building names honor Andrew Kerr Russell, principal of Newark Academy from 1811 to 1834, Elliphail Wheeler Gilbert, first president of New Ark College, and H. Rodney Sharp, alumnus, trustee and benefactor.

The dormitory-dining hall complex opening on the East campus in September will be called Russell Hall, the proposed dormitory which will be completed in September, 1965, will be known as Gilbert Hall and the Mathematics-Physics Building, situated at the corner of Delaware and South College Avenues on the central campus, will be designated Sharp Laboratory. It was opened in September, 1962.

The trustees also gave final approval to plans for the renovation of Recitation Hall, a project already underway. The building, dating to 1892, is being modernized to accommodate the department of art and art history.

It is hoped that the department will be able to move from its present location in Robinson Hall in August.

Also discussed were previously announced additions to Wolf Hall, Memorial Hall and the Student Center and proposed additions to Agricultural Hall, the Women's Gymnasium and Delaware Stadium. Work on the life-sciences wing of Wolf Hall is expected to begin about July 1, 1963. Studies of class section sizes, which will govern the renovation of Memorial Hall, the present library, are already in progress. Interior improvements of the building will begin shortly after the library holdings are shifted to the new Morris Library, which will be completed late this summer. Bids on the Student Center addition will be received this month. Construction dates for the Agricultural Hall and Women's Gymnasium additions are yet to be settled, but work on the stadium will begin immediately after the 1963 season.

Samuel Lenher was elected by the trustees to fill the vacancy created by the death of the late Granville M. Read.

Mr. Lenher is a director, vice president and member of the executive committee of the DuPont Company with which he has been associated since 1929. A graduate of the University of Wisconsin, he holds his doctorate in chemistry from the University of London. He also has studied at the University of Berlin as a Fellow of the International Education Board of Paris and at the University of California as a Fellow of the National Research Council. He holds honorary degrees from both Wisconsin and Delaware and is a life trustee of John Hopkins University. He has been president of the University of Delaware Research Foundation since 1955. In 1957-58, he served as a member of the Secretary's consultants on medical research and education of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and he was named to the advisory committee for Public Health Service Personnel Study of the same department in 1961. For the last four years he has been a member of the board of managers of the Wistar Institute of Anatomy and Biology in Philadelphia.

The trustees also unanimously passed a resolution of appreciation to the members of the 122nd General Assembly "for their appreciation of what a quality program in higher education entails."

The complete statement reads: "Resolved, that the Trustees of the University of Delaware herewith express their appreciation to the Governor of the State of Delaware, to members of the Budget Commission to members of the 122nd General Assembly, particularly the membership of the Joint Finance Committee, for their appreciation of what a quality program in higher education entails, their understanding of the financial requirements therefor, and their recommendations and actions on appropriations with respect to it, thereby enabling the University to provide higher quality education for increasing numbers of Delaware youth and to keep pace with the better institutions of higher learning."

Three fee changes were approved which will become effective this summer.

The $10 summer session charge previously called a registration fee which will henceforth be designated as a "program fee." It will remain at $10.

Because of the scheduling of six, five and three-week summer session units, room and board fees also will be altered. The six-week session will be $134, the five-week post session will be $111, and the three-week post session will be $69.

Another fee change affected only graduate students and reflects larger graduate enrollments and demands of time which these students are making upon senior faculty members. Effective September 1, 1964, graduate students who have completed their course requirements will have to register and pay a fee each semester while working on their thesis or dissertation. For master's degree candidates, the fee will be $25. Candidates for the doctorate will pay $50 per semester.

In an effort to better evaluate the qualifications of entering students and to place them in programs appropriate to their abilities and aptitudes, all applicants for admission will be required to submit scores of the Scholastic Aptitude Test of the College Entrance Examination Board as a part of their admission credentials, effective September, 1964. Out-of-state applicants have been required to submit college board scores since 1958. The scores are also seen as a helpful tool for admissions authorities and faculty advisors in guiding students once enrolled or in recommending remedial work prior to entrance. Eighty per cent of Delaware high school seniors already are taking the college board examinations.

The trustees also moved to adjust the university's residence requirement for degree credit. Because expansion of the summer program will permit students to complete a semester's work during the summer session and because summer instruction has become parallel in quality to the regular instructional program, residence credit toward graduation requirements will be granted for summer work, beginning this year. This resolution applies to both graduate and undergraduate work.

Also passed was a resolution relating to board membership. It enunciates a new policy which prohibits the nomination for election or re-election to the board any member who will reach his seventy-fifth birthday prior to the expiration of his term of office. Trustees are elected for terms of six years. This amendment to the bylaws will not be applicable to members of the board who were serving on June 1, 1962.

Another resolution corrects a title which, in recent years, has become a misnomer. In the future, the department of mathematics and astronomy will be known simply as the department of mathematics. Instruction in astronomy has not been offered for several semesters.

FENCE TALK With George Vapaa

Two dairy tours are in the works for this summer. They offer a chance for farmers to see new ideas in practice.

Chemical weed control materials are not recommended in the flower garden. Considerable damage will be done by using 2,4-D and many other chemical weed control materials if used now in the garden.

Mulches are very helpful to the home gardener not only around trees and shrubs but also in the flower and vegetable garden.

Spring flowering shrubs should be pruned by this time. If this job is not finished it should be completed as soon as possible.

Staking tomato plants is a worthwhile project if you have a small backyard plot.

Don Appenzeller, of Magnolia, was asking me about some soybean and potato field trials at Painter, Va.

Three migrations have occurred in the United States reminds Dr. George Alcorn, director of the extension service at the University of California.

"I had a perfect stand in November. Believe every seed must have germinated. But when it should have started growing in the spring it just turned yellow, with a green spot here and there."

All fields had one thing in common. The plants were not well-nodulated. Pre-inoculated seed, booster inoculant, a variety of fertilizer treatments and an assortment of planting methods were used on numerous soils. No combination of treatments was found that completely solved the problem.

High-producing dairy cows are extremely hard-working animals. High temperatures can limit the amount of work they do, especially if dairymen don't provide some type of shade during hot weather.

Cows on short pastures and not given access to shade ran body temperatures as high as 109 degrees F. on hot midsummer days.

The time to destroy the ragweed plant before it can mature and spread its misery-bearing pollen is now here.

Ragweed pollen afflicts about eight per cent of the population, according to the Hay Fever and Weed Control Committee of Cincinnati.

If you use 2,4-D, be careful so that spray-drift does not hit ornamental plants, vegetables, trees or other useful plants because it will also harm these plants.

Delaware Food Market Report

That most refreshing and delicious of summertime gifts—watermelon—will gladden the eye, as a bumper crop moves into the area.

To add to plentiful supplies from Florida, Alabama, Georgia, Arizona, California, and Mexico are all shipping watermelons ahead of last year's quantities.

Price changes on vegetable counters are almost evenly balanced between increases and decreases.

See-sawing egg prices are again showing a loss. Grade A large eggs dropped two to three cents on the dozen.

Supplies of fluid milk and milk products are abundant and warrant greater emphasis in menu planning.

Speaking of Insects with Dale Bray

Insects don't have to chew or sting in order to be a nuisance. Sometimes they become a problem by sheer numbers.

In Australia there was a plague of crickets in 1936. They swarmed through city streets and poured into stores and homes.

It is true that we have accidentally brought many pest insects into our country, but on the other hand many of our native pests have hitched rides across the sea and invaded other countries.

Stinging insects kill several people each year in the United States. In fact, in most parts of the country there is much more danger of being killed by insect stings than by snake bite.

you ever experience nausea or fainting as a result of an insect sting you should consult your physician immediately.

The "poison" of the bee sting is not acid as many people believe. It is a protein that the body cannot cope with immediately.

When a honey bee stings it is unable to withdraw its stinger. As a result the stinger and the poison sac is torn free from the bee's body when the bee flies away.

"Sports Odds And Ends"

Desire personified is the story of two Federalsburg Little League brothers, Ray and Tim Houghton are 11 and 12 years old and live six miles from town. They walk and hitch-hike the 12-mile round trip to all practice sessions and games. We knew an outstanding basketball prospect at H.H.S., who dropped off the team because he lost his ride home. He lived two miles away by road and less by a short cut if he cared to walk, which he didn't. Frequently, the boy with little or no talent comes out year after futile year for sports and multi-talented youths who could become great athletes spend their time burning up the roads in automobiles and burning up their lungs with nicotine.

Umpires are urgently needed for the Junior and Senior Little League games. The Junior league games are scheduled to start at 6:30 but seldom do because of the lack of arbiters. This in turn causes the Senior Leagueurs to fail to get in a full game before the 10 p.m. curfew.

In some of the western states the high school rodeo teams are competing in state championship events. We would say that this is rougher than football.

Bill Green, of Felton High, is playing for the Camden-Wyoming American Legion baseball team.

Bill Young, a former Felton High Catcher, is on the Dover Legion team. Young attended a private school this school term after starring for FHS in 1962.

Vic Zvolak, a former Delaware High School cross-country champion, became the first runner from this state to win a National Collegiate Athletic Association championship when he won the 3000 meter steeplechase at Albuquerque, New Mexico, Saturday night. The same night in San Antonio, Texas, John Moon, of New Jersey, equaled world records of 10 seconds flat for 100 meters and 20 seconds flat for 200 meters. Four or five years ago Dwight Hackett and Jim Schiff of one of the early H.H.S. track teams were selected to compete in a track meet on July 4th in Woodbury, N. J. that numbered Moon and Zvolak among the participants. Zvolak is now in St. Louis hoping to win a trip to Moscow as one of the U.S. steeplechasers in the meet with Russia. He has a good chance to make it.

Belles Bow To Chestertown 7-6

Friday night at the Moose ball field the Belles met a team from Chestertown. The game got off to a late start due to the Senior League teams' late finish. Chestertown took an early two run lead and the Belles came up with two runs, one a home run by Bonnie Baker, to tie the score, which remained tied until the bottom of the fifth inning.

The Belles scored one run in the bottom of the sixth inning and went ahead 3-2. The game was halted briefly due to rain, which for some reason, falls every Friday evening, about the middle of the second game.

With the aid of a couple errors and loose defensive play Chestertown gained five runs in the top of the seventh inning to forge ahead 7-3.

The Belles, having a bad night for hitting managed to score only four runs in their last at bat to help close the gap, but were unable to catch Chestertown as they won the game, 7-6 in the as usual, rain.

Harrington Bests Ruritans 11-5

Tuesday night in a battle for first place Harrington downed the Ruritans 11 to 5 after spotting the Ruritans to a 5 to 1 lead on a grand slam homer by Bob Collins in the second inning. Harrington tied the score in the bottom of the 5th on an error, two hits and a fielder's choice, after scoring single runs in the 2nd, 3rd and 4th innings. The Ruritans came right back to go ahead 6 to 5 on a single by Spence, a ground ball and Corckell's third hit of the night. In the bottom of the 6th Harrington came up with six runs on six hits and an error to sew up the game.

Quick French Bread Made From Biscuits

French bread, coffee cake and pizza are time-consuming dishes to prepare, but you can make all three as well as a variety of other rolls in a matter of minutes, using packaged refrigerated biscuits, says Janet Coblenz, extension food and nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware.

Miss Coblenz uses two packages of refrigerated biscuits to make a loaf of quick French bread. Stand the biscuits on end and press together lightly to form a 14-inch loaf. Brush with a beaten egg white and sprinkle with sesame seeds. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 40 minutes, until golden brown. Slice almost to the bottom crust, spread with garlic butter and place in the oven again for a few minutes.

Individual pizzas, ready in less than 10 minutes, are another of Miss Coblenz's refrigerated biscuit shortcuts. Place three biscuits on a cookie sheet with sides touching, cloverleaf fashion. Put a cube of cheese on each and top with a teaspoon of chili sauce. Sprinkle with grated parmesan cheese, garlic salt, dried thyme or oregano, salt and pepper. Drizzle on a few drops of salad oil and bake at 450 degrees for five to eight minutes.

Refrigerated biscuits can also make a quick coffee cake. Using two packages, or about 20 biscuits, dip each into melted butter and then into a mixture of 3/4 cup granulated sugar, 3/4 teaspoon cinnamon and 1/3 cup chopped nuts. Place biscuits in a greased nine-inch cake pan or on a greased cookie sheet, overlapping the biscuits to form coffee cake. Bake at 425 degrees 20 to 25 minutes.

Other tricks with refrigerated biscuits, as well as a wide variety of time-saving cooking tips and recipes may be found in a publication entitled "Quick Meals for Busy Homemakers" written by Miss Coblenz. The publication is available from the Department of Rural Communications, University of Delaware, Newark, Del.

200 Karts Expected at Road Race

A spokesman for the Milford Go-Kart Club said this week that an unprecedented number of inquiries are being received for the karting road race to be held in Milford on July 4.

Robert Walls, president of the Milford Club, said that prospects are good for a field of 200 karts and drivers for the event. This is twice the size of the field originally anticipated by club officials.

The event, the first karting road race ever to be held on the Eastern Shore, will be conducted as a benefit for the Delaware Heart Association.

Since the announcement of the holiday benefit race a week ago, Walls has been swamped with entries and inquiries. Calls have been received from as far away as eastern Pennsylvania.

The race is also expected to attract a large number of kart racing enthusiasts from the State of Delaware and the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

The races will begin at 2 p.m. July 4 and will continue throughout the afternoon. Eight classes have been established for men, women and boy drivers of hobby, stock and modified karts. Drivers will vie for position in each of the eight feature races by competing in short preliminary heats. Trophies will be awarded to the winners of each feature race.

Drivers in feature races will compete over a winding course, two to three miles in length, through the center of Milford. With the co-operation of city officials, a course has been charted through the shopping district and municipal parking lot that will present plenty of challenges for the skill of the contestants.

The races will get underway at the pit locations at the Milford Police Department on South Washington Street. The racers will make about eight laps around the course, each lap around three-lengths and four-tenths of a mile in length.

Walkie-talkie radios will be manned by members of the Milford Go-Kart Club on each street corner to flash warnings in case of breakdowns.

Contributions to the Delaware Heart Association will be accepted by "Heart Fund Sweethearts" clad in red shorts. Other funds will be raised by the sale of concessions by the auxiliary of the Milford club and by pit fees of $2 per kart per race.

Vegetables, Fruits Are Low In Calories

Summer, with its abundance of low-calorie fresh fruits and vegetables, is a good time to lower your calorie intake if you put on a few extra pounds during the winter, says Katie Thomas, Kent County extension agent, home economics.

In general, vegetables and fruits are low in calories but high in nutrition, making them ideal weight-watching fare.

For instance, Mrs. Thomas says, there are only 10 to 15 calories in half cup servings of cabbage, snap beans, greens, cauliflower, celery, mushrooms, green peppers or sauer kraut.

Summer squash, asparagus, carrots, turnips and tomato juice contain only 20 to 25 calories per half-cup portion, while the same amount of brussel sprouts, cantaloupes, onions, berries, cherries, or raw pineapple contain only 30 to 40 calories.

One medium orange, or three apricots, or two large plums contain 50 calories.

Calorie content is for these vegetables and fruits served without added butter, sugar or sauce.

Jeff Adams Makes All-Henlopen Nine

Jeff Adams, a 1963 graduate of Harrington High School, was picked as the center fielder on the Henlopen Conference All-Star team. Adams hit safely 11 times in 34 trips to the plate for a .317 batting average.

Bill Adams, a junior and brother of Jeff, could easily have made the squad but for the fact that he played several positions and was weaker on defense than he was on offense. At voting time each coach votes for the best player at each of the nine positions but cannot pick anyone from his own team. A player might impress one coach as a pitcher in one game, another coach as a first baseman in another contest and a third mentor might see the same lad as an outfielder. With votes thus split among several positions it then becomes difficult for a player to get the top number of ballots at any of them.

Bill Adams with a terrific .578 batting average had to be one of the top hitters in the loop.

Harrington's third place team had the honor of beating both of the all-star pitchers during the regular season.

Bill Green at shortstop and Tom Williams in left field were members of the champion Felton squad to make the all-star team.

rollment and augmentation of regular-program courses and rehabilitation have been given as important motives for summer school study.

It is significant that the total number of University of Delaware undergraduates enrolled in the summer session of their own institution is considerably increased over the 1962 figure. Over 120 more undergraduates are enrolled in the 1963 program, reflecting the SREB finding that some 92% of the main term enrollment in the Southeast is now for degree credit.

The figure for the nation as a whole is 79c. According to the SREB, male summer enrollment exceeds female summer enrollment, but proportionally more women than men attend summer sessions. Southeastern public institutions enroll 32% as many men in the summer as in the fall, 38% as many women.

The broad picture indicates that the University of Delaware, as well as its sister institutions in the SREB area, has become a year-round operation, altering the traditional concept of the quiet, seemingly deserted college campus during the summer months.
