STATE'S THREE CONGRESSMEN PAY $192,000 TO STAFFS

Delaware's three congressmen will spend about $192,000 in federal tax money for clerical and administrative help this year, barring a radical change in their staffs.

If Sen. John J. Williams' staff salaries remain constant for the rest of this year, he will spend the highest amount of the three. His seven staff members will gross $78,633 for the year.

Sen. Williams' office has already spent another $3,302.88 for a clerk who left his job June 30. Delaware's other senator, J. Caleb Boggs, will spend $59,631.32 for his six assistants if things remain constant with another $2,387.52 spent for the first half of this year for the salary of a receptionist no longer there.

The smallest of the three salary expenditures will be that of Rep. Harris B. McDowell, the state's only representative in the House, who will spend $48,364.87 for six assistants if he makes no staff changes this year.

Highest paid Delaware congressional assistants are Ralph R. Peters, administrative assistant to Williams, and Eleanor R. Lenhart, executive secretary, both of whom receive $18,095 annually.

Also on the Williams staff are Robert R. Davenport, legislative assistant, $15,500, and these clerks: Lucille B. Clark, $7,515; M. Ellen Wyvill, $6,475; Elizabeth R. Grier, $6,475, and Mary M. Kelley, $6,475.

On Boggs' staff, James A. Flood, administrative assistant is highest paid with an annual salary of $15,500.

Then comes William B. Hildenbrand, legislative assistant, $11,633; Olive B. Hurley, secretary, $10,636; George W. Hyatt, secretary, $8,686; Margaret Barry, secretary, $8,000 and Elizabeth A. Palese, clerk, $5,175.

On McDowell's staff the highest paid member is his administrative assistant, Walter J. Norbet, $15,349 annually. Norbert's wife, Nellie, is the representative's executive secretary and she gets $14,409.

Other staff members include Agnes Sue Sullivan, secretary, at $7,483; Marilyn Alyce Joyce Murphy, stenographer-clerk, $5,249; Bedford T. Berry, public relations representative, $3,434 and George Frain, legislative assistant, $2,293.

Both Frain and Berry, who is a Du Pont Co. employe, are not full-time paid members of the staff.

2-Car Crash Injures Two; Driver Held

Two persons were injured, one seriously Sunday in an early morning two-car collision.

Reported in serious condition at Milford Memorial Hospital is Mrs. Edward L. Watson, 58, of Harrington, who suffered head injuries. In fair condition is William J. Higgins, 33, also of Harrington with back injuries.

Higgins has been charged by Milford police with driving under the influence of liquor.

Police said Sunday night that details of the accident were not complete, but that Higgins was driving south on the northbound lane of U. S. 113 when the accident occurred.

The other car was operated by Mrs. Dolores M. Fountain, 22, of Milford. She was not injured.

The accident occurred, police said, at the intersection of North Street and Route 113.

Band Concert Tonight

The bands of the Harrington Special School District will present their annual summer outdoor concert tonight, Friday, on the lot adjacent to the Church of the Nazarene beginning at 7 o'clock. Dorman and Mechanic Streets.

The program will present the Grade School, Junior and Senior Bands in short concert numbers featuring marches and popular selections. Mr. Brobst will be in charge of the program and Tony Ferrone, Jr., will assist.

During the concert refreshments will be offered under the auspices of the Band Booster Club. Mrs. Virginia Winkler, chairman, who will be assisted by the Misses Hazel Johnson and Lydia Johnson, and parents of band members.

In case of rain, the program will be given in the fire hall.

Anti-Bias Try Made By Carvel

Gov. Elbert N. Carvel spent more than two hours Monday urging Democratic representatives to enact the public accommodations bill, but apparently made little headway.

The bill, which passed the Senate June 28 with the bare minimum of nine votes, is lodged in the House Revised Statutes committee whose chairman, Majority Whip Glenn W. Busker, D-Smyrna, is vacationing.

Busker reportedly returned to Smyrna from Missouri Monday but left immediately for Virginia.

At the closed meeting, the governor is said to have asked the representatives either to petition the bill out of committee or to report it out without the chairman's concurrence.

He was advised there is an unwritten rule that bills are not reported out without authorization of the chairman, and according to one member, a poll indicated the 18 votes necessary to petition the bill out are not available, even with Republican support.

The governor is said to have told the House Democrats that the public accommodations bill is an urgent piece of legislation. House speaker Sherman W. Tribbitt, D-St. Georges Hundred, and Majority Leader Norman A. Eskridge, D-Seaford, commenting on the conference, said most members believe they should have more time to study the legislation.

"While it is true that it was pending in the Senate for a long time," Tribbitt said, "it has only now come over to the House and the members feel they have the right to read and consider it . . ."

Several of the legislators, including Eskridge, boycotted the session in Carvel's office. Others who did not attend included Norman N. Younger, D-Appoquinimink Hundred; H. Dawson Shulties, D-Willow Grove; Joseph B. Walls, D-Lewes; Carlton Clifton, D-Milford; M. Martin Isaacs, D-Georgetown; James D. McGinnis, D-Dover and Busker. Isaacs, McGinnis and Busker were absent Monday.

Carvel apparently is still hopeful that the bill can be considered—and passed—this week in spite of Busker's absence. On a roll call last week to suspend the rules to consider the bill nine of 11 Republicans voted to do so, but only six of the 24 Democrats went along. The motion lost.

Tribbitt assigned it to the revised statutes committee, in accordance, he said, with his policy of placing all bills with the committees to which they logically belong.

Stanley Holcombe

Principal Hired At Greenwood

The Greenwood School Board of Trustees announces the hiring of Stanley Holcombe as high school principal for the 1963-64 school year. Mr. Holcombe has been with the Dover schools for the past three years. He has served as assistant to the principal. He has his B. A. from Shephard College, West Virginia, and his Masters from Madison College, Harrisonburg, Va. His wife holds a B. A. in Music from Shephard College. They have three children.

This is a new position in the school. Mr. Collison will continue to serve as Chief School Officer with emphasis in the elementary school.

THE FOUR SEASONS — will be starring here at Fairgrounds Wednesday evening.

House Gets New School Bill Shift

The much-amended school construction bond bill had another amendment placed with it Monday—this one to strike all the other amendments.

House Amendment 15 to HB 141, handed up by Rep. Carlton Blend Jr., D-Blackbird Hundred, chairman of the House Education Committee, will, the House leadership hopes, bring order out of the confusion over the bill.

The Blend amendment, which was not acted upon, would eliminate all previous amendments and amend the bill so that three proposed Wilmington school projects—Bancroft, Northern Junior High and Central Elementary—would be built with the district providing 40 per cent of the cost. Albee Homes, Inc., Appoints General Sales Manager

Albee Homes, Inc., of Niles, Ohio, one of the country's largest producers of precision cut housing, announces the appointment of Marvin Meister as general sales manager of Albee Dell Homes, Inc., Rt. 40, R. D. No. 1, 906 E. Pulaski Highway, Elkton, Md.

The 28-year-old Meister is a native of Canton, Ohio. Previous to his promotion to the Dell office, Mr. Meister held sales positions with Albee Homes subsidiaries in Cleveland, Ohio and Glen Burnie, Md.

As general sales manager of the Albee Dell Homes, Meister will supervise all sales, expediting and shipment transactions. Model home at Albee Dell display center is open daily 9 to 9, Saturday 9 to 6, and Sunday 1 to 9.

Suspect Seized In Church Theft

A 26-year-old Baltimore man is in Kent Correctional Institution in connection with the theft of $254 from Holy Cross Church at Dover Friday.

Dover city police said they had arrested Albert Joseph Fera on a charge of grand larceny. He appeared before Magistrate Ralph D. Knotts Sr. and bond was set at $5,000.

Police did not release details of the theft but did say Fera had admitted it. The man was picked up Friday night by city police in Bridgeville and returned to Dover.

The church is located on South State Street.

A man attempted to gain entry to St. Bernadette's Church here last week on the guise his wife had left her handbag in the church.

Milford Clinic Approved

The State Board of Health would be given funds to convert the former Milford post office into a clinic under a bill passed Monday by the House.

Bills also were passed authorizing the town of Wyoming to extend its boundaries and to give the State Board of Education funds to build an agricultural laboratory at the Greenwood School at the Greenwood School.

The Senate also passed the bill on Wyoming later in the day under suspension of the rules. Senate Bill 196 would appropriate $35,000 to the state health board to convert the old Milford post office, replaced by a new structure, into a clinic and offices.

The bill permitting the town of Wyoming to extend its boundaries (HB 387) also goes to the governor after being approved without opposition in both houses.

Rep. Harvey P. Fifer, R-Rising Sun, explained that the bill permits Wyoming to take in a site selected by the Camden-Wyoming Sewer Authority as the location for a disposal plant to be built at a total cost of $1,100,000. Fifer said the funds are all now available and that construction will be getting underway in the near future.

The bill providing the Greenwood School District with an agricultural shop (HB 334) appropriates $6,580 to the State Board of Education for the purpose and also passed without opposition. It will now go to the Senate.

Catholic Chapel At State Fair

Again this year at the Delaware State Fair a booth will be sponsored by St. John's Parish, of Milford and St. Bernadette's Parish of Harrington.

The booth will be at the same location as it was last year—on Sussex Street near Williams Avenue. The booth is entitled "A Replica of a Catholic Church" and gives visitors to the Fair a chance to see what a Catholic Church looks like. A regular size altar is set up and prepared as though the holy sacrifice of the Mass was about to be offered. The Missal, the altar cards, candles, a crucifix, all are in their proper places. On the walls of the little chapel can be found the complete set of fourteen stations of the cross that are always seen in a Catholic Church.

To complete the display some of the small pews from the choir of St. Bernadette's are placed in the Chapel during the week of the Fair.

Besides the display itself a supply of pamphlets and magazines are available and are free to any and all visitors.

The Booth will be open each day of the Fair from 11:00 A. M. until 8 p.m. Visitors are most welcome. (Continued on Page 8)

GOVERNOR'S STATEMENT

"By all means, let's go to the Fair!" said Governor Elbert N. Carvel in suggesting that Delawareans support the annual Delaware State Fair which opens at the Harrington Fairgrounds Saturday, July 27.

In a statement issued at Dover, Governor Carvel pointed out that the Delaware State Fair offers "an unique opportunity for the public in the entire Delmarva Peninsula to see the magnificent achievements of our agricultural society: 4-H'ers, Future Farmers of America, Grangers, Farm Bureau members and farming families."

The full text of Governor Carvel's statement follows: "Many citizens of this region are unaware of the farmers' vital contribution to our society. Thus we are thankful to the individuals and groups who devote time and great effort to make the Delaware State Fair one of the outstanding events in our State. The Fair offers a unique opportunity for the public in the entire Delmarva Peninsula to see the magnificent achievements of our agricultural society, 4-H'ers, Future Farmers of America, Grangers, Farm Bureau members and farming families.

"You and your family will realize great pleasure and a wealth of information by visiting the Delaware State Fair.

"By all means, let's go to the Fair!"

Brenda Lee Star For Seven Years Shaw Heads School Board

When it comes to packages, everyone knows that often the brightest jewels come in the smallest boxes, and all reports have it that when it comes to Brenda Lee, the homely certainly holds true.

This amazing young lady started on the road to stardom in March of 1956, with her first network television appearance, and overwhelmed the audience with her spirited vocalizing. Since that time, Brenda has continued to impress an ever widening audience, and a legion of fans the world over.

Brenda made her first appearance in the world at exactly 3:24 P. M., on December 11, 1944, in Atlanta's Emory University Hospital. She is the second oldest of four children, is 4 ft. 11 inches tall, has an appealing naturalness that is unchanging, and a vibrant personality.

Decca Records signed her to a long term contract on May 21, 1956. Her first recording, "Jambalaya", became one of the nation's best sellers, and her numerous hit recordings include "One Step At A Time", "Dynamite", "Bill Bailey" and "Some One of These Days."

Early in 1960, Brenda recorded a song entitled, "Sweet Nothings", which became an instantaneous smash, and followed it with another two sided smash, "I'm Sorry" b/w "That's All You Gotta Do." In July of 1960, Milton R. Rackmil, President of Decca, presented Brenda with her first gold record for topping the million mark on "I'm Sorry."

Needless to say, Miss Lee had really arrived. In the offing were plans for motion pictures, network TV shows, and a tour abroad. Although her supposed sudden popularity at that time seemed recent, there was a rather lengthy story to tell about Brenda. For six years prior, she had been enjoying appearance on the Steve Allen and Perry Como TV network shows, was booked solidly for months on end (when her school schedule permitted), and had made a tour of Europe.

Not only is Brenda prominent in her career, but is equally prominent in her school activities. She is an "A" student, a cheerleader, and a member of the National Debating Society. Her singing never interferes with her studies, as most of her appearances and tours are arranged during vacation periods.

In the spring of 1959, Brenda was scheduled for a three week play date at the Olympia Theatre, the number one music hall in Paris, France. The engagement developed into a protracted European tour that took her to Brussels, Milan, London and the provinces of France. Le Figaro, the prominent French newspaper had this to say about her opening at the Olympia: "Not since Judy Garland has this city seen an opening night like that of the dynamic young American artist, Miss Brenda Lee." Again in 1961 Brenda made another European tour.

In the spring of 1960, Brenda made a tour of Brazil. So tremendous was her impact, that she and her party were constantly attended by the national police. Mob scenes prevailed wherever (Continued on Page 8)

From throughout the Delaware area residents will be converging next week on the downstate Delaware community of Harrington for the opening of the 1963 Delaware State Fair.

Frank Fontaine To Appear Here

Show business is the heritage of Frank Fontaine, the versatile comedian who has tickled the nation's TV funnybone so successfully on Jackie Gleason's "American Scene Magazine" TV show during the 1962-63 season. Fontaine's father was Baron Fontaine, a guitarist with a big voice and his mother was a chorus girl. His grandfather was a circus strongman and his grandmother a trapeze artist. Frank himself has carried on the performing tradition in all phases of show business for over 25 years.

Born in Cambridge, Mass., Frank created the character of John L. C. Sivyony at the age of fifteen, telling stories to six and seven-year-old neighborhood children. At sixteen, he won a Major Bowes Amateur Hour competition doing impressions of Lionel Barrymore, Edward G. Robinson, Jimmy Durante, Cary Grant and Jimmy Cagney. Shortly after his triumph he married his childhood sweetheart, Alma Claire Wakeham. During all this time his main ambition was "to be as well liked and as great a performer as my father."

When he was seventeen, Frank realized the need for identification in the public's memory and thereby created his characterization of John L. C. Sivyony. Sweepstakes Winner. Offers from Hollywood rolled in, but he and his wife were expecting their first child and declined the movie bids. Three years later, the stork repeated itself, as did the Hollywood offers, and again the Fontaines were kept in the East, expecting their second child. Their third child was born two years later. In 1942, Frank and Alma had their fourth child and Uncle Sam had his second World War. Frank entered the United States Army and served for two and a half years.

Upon his discharge from the Army, Frank had another offer from Hollywood, but decided to remain with his growing family, and he accepted an offer to tour the East as a comedian with the Vaughn Monroe band. Frank was contacted by Ed Sullivan and asked to appear on the very first Sullivan show, which has since become a TV institution.

Friday night visitors will hear Brenda Lee, one of the most popular singers in the recording industry, as she highlights the evening grandstand show. Saturday afternoon the entertainment program will include one of the favorite features of any fair, big auto races. Some of the country's best drivers will blaze their way around the half-mile dirt track. Frank Fontaine will headline the Saturday evening grandstand show.

The Fair opens at noon Saturday, July 27 and continues through Sat., Aug. 3.

A record number of farm products, poultry and livestock exhibits and a top entertainment program presenting some of the nation's most popular stars have been arranged.

The schedule of grandstand variety shows will include such well known entertainers as Frank Fontaine, comedy star of the Jackie Gleason television program; Brenda Lee, vivacious singing personality; Les Paul, a favorite of past Fair crowds, and The Four Seasons, popular singing group.

In addition, there will be such traditional fair features as auto and stock car races, harness racing, vaudeville and circus acts, auto thrill show, the midway with its rides and sideshows, and nightly fireworks displays.

As usual, Tuesday, July 30, will be Children's Day and all school children will be admitted free. A special program of afternoon and evening entertainment has been planned for them. It will feature the Sandy Luce All-Girl Rodeo Thrill Show with chariot races and bareback riding.

Thurs., Aug. 1, will be Governor's Day. Gov. Elbert N. Carvel and other state officials will be presented at the evening grandstand show. Les Paul will headline the show.

Thursday has also been designated as Senior Citizen's Day at the Fair. All persons 60 years of age and over will be guests of fair officials. They will be admitted free at the gates by just saying they are 60 or over.

Wednesday afternoon will find some of the nation's outstanding juvenile pacers and trotters, driven by leading drivers, competing in a program of harness races.

Friday night visitors will hear Brenda Lee, one of the most popular singers in the recording industry, as she highlights the evening grandstand show.

Saturday afternoon the entertainment program will include one of the favorite features of any fair, big auto races. Some of the country's best drivers will blaze their way around the half-mile dirt track. Frank Fontaine will headline the Saturday evening grandstand show.

Stock Car Races Opening Night at Fair, Sat., July 27

Late entries for the opening night program of stock car racing at the Delaware State Fair near Harrington, Del., slated for this Saturday evening have been pouring into the secretary's office during the past week. The starting field is expected to include most of the top names in stock car automobile races from a six state area along the East Coast.

Delaware's only fair will open its annual eight day season at noon on Saturday. The NASCAR sanctioned modified and sportsmen stock cars will take to the half-mile flat fairgrounds speedway at 8 p. m. for a half-hour warm-up and practice period. The first of the ten lap qualifying heat races will start at 8:30 p. m. A 25-lap feature attraction will complete the evenings race program.

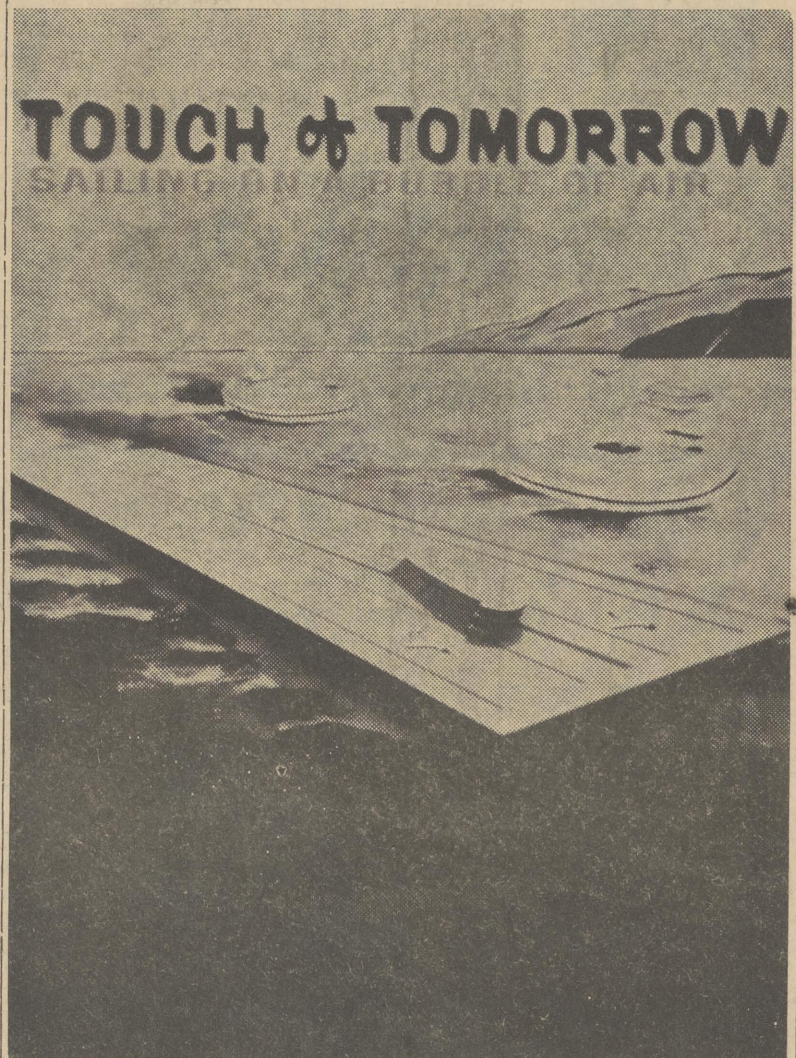

Topping the late entry list is Al Tasnady, a red-hot modified chauffeur from Vineland, N. J., and the winner of many feature races this year at speedways in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and New York. From Lawrenceville, N. J., there will be Lee Hendrickson, also driving a modified car.

Also expected to be racing is the 1959 National Sportsman Champion of NASCAR and also the 1960 Modified Champ, Johnny Roberts of Brooklyn Park, Md., in his familiar modified No. 9 Ford. Roberts has assured the fair management he will be on hand trying his best to take (Continued on Page 8)

Doe Damages Car

A doe ran into the car of Mrs. Fred Wyatt, near Masten's corner, Monday night, July 15, damaging the automobile extensively and being killed in the process.

The left side of the Wyatt car, driven by Mrs. Wyatt, and the windshield were damaged. Damage was estimated at about $150. Mrs. Wyatt was accompanied by her son, Ricky.

TOUCH OF TOMORROW
SAILING ON A BUS OF AIR

THE U. S. NAVY'S EXHIBIT BUS—Featuring a glimpse at HYDROKIMMERS, one of the newest concepts in ship propulsion will be on display from 11 till 9 o'clock, p.m., July 27 till Aug. 4 at the Harrington Fairgrounds, The Delaware State Fair. Also on display within this walk-through exhibit are models of nuclear powered submarines, the fleet ballistic missile POLARIS, the newest air and surface craft now deployed within the fleet, and examples of the atomic age training and specialties available within the fields of electronics, guided missiles, and communications. The Exhibit Bus is one of a fleet of mobile exhibits presented annually throughout the United States as part of the Navy's program of presenting the importance of sea power to the American public.

New Cabin Plan Available

A new cabin plan has been developed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture which combines minimum building cost with maximum flexibility.

Ernest Walpole, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Delaware, says the cabin can be constructed as a year-round vacation home or as low cost living quarters while a permanent home is being built. Later it can be converted into a two-car garage or a garage-shop combination.

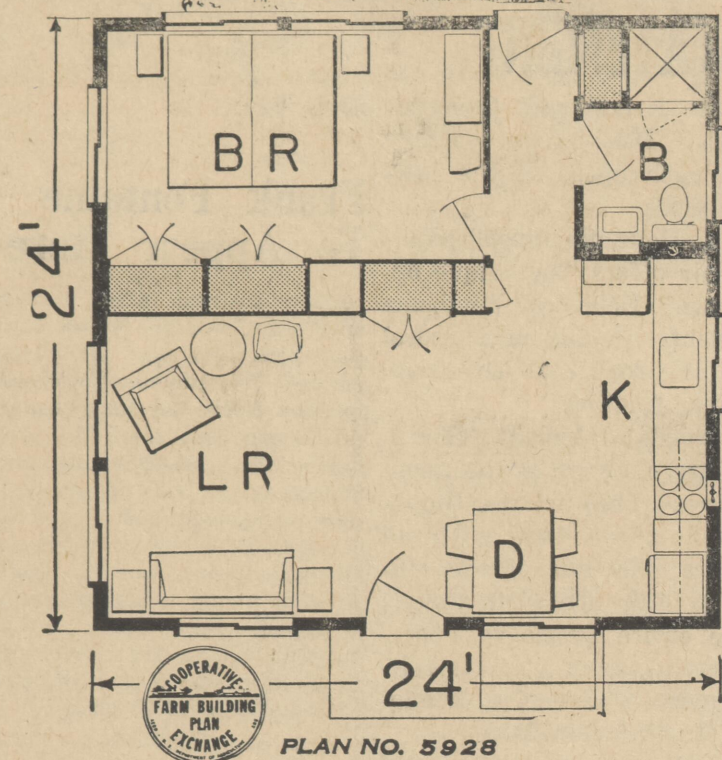

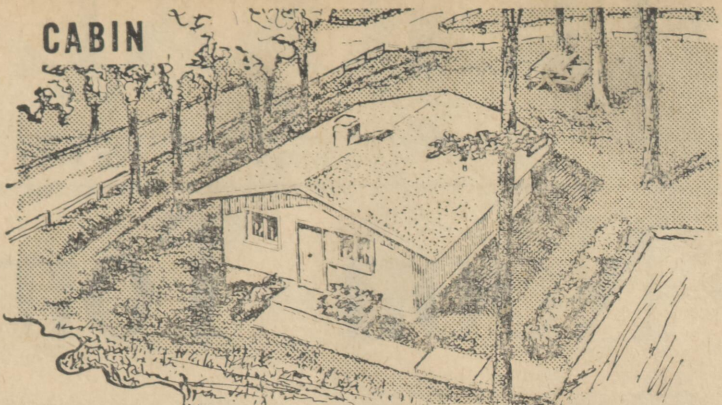

The cabin is 24 feet square and can be expanded to include three bedrooms. Exterior walls can be constructed and then the inside finished at the builder's convenience. A unique feature is a moveable storage wall separating the living area and the bedroom. Also the bedroom partitions can be removed or re-arranged with a minimum of refinishing.

Although the working drawings show concrete foundation, walls and slab, Walpole says it may be more economical for Delaware builders to use a wooden floor and masonry, concrete or creosoted pole piers if the construction site is steeply sloped.

Heating for the cabin depends on its intended seasonal use. The plan is well adapted for hot-air, hot-water or electrical heat.

Walpole says that if the cabin is constructed as temporary living quarters with the idea of converting it into a garage later, special planning should be considered. A lintel should be included in the exterior wall over the area of the future garage doors. This way he says the wall can be removed without requiring any special support.

For a copy of this plan, No. 5928, send 75 cents to Agronomy and Agricultural Engineering, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—If I borrow on my GI insurance policy, must I repay a specified amount every month?

A—No. While it is desirable to repay the amount borrowed as soon as possible to save interest charges and to return the insurance principal to its full value, there is no required repayment schedule.

Q—If I should remarry, in addition to losing my widow's pension, will my Government Insurance proceeds cease?

A—Your remarriage will have no effect upon your receipt of GI insurance proceeds.

Q—I recently retired with 20 years of enlisted service. Is it true that I have until January 31, 1965, to start my schooling under the Korean GI Bill?

A—January 31, 1965, is not the last day to START schooling but the day that Korean GI Bill schooling benefits come to an end. Thus, only a year and a half remain to take advantage of this program. However, you should consult your nearest VA office since individual eligibility expires three years after the first discharge or release upon which you would have been eligible for complete separation from active service. Immediate re-enlistment without loss of service time does not extend this three-year deadline.

Q—Can I have an identification card which I can use to enter any VA hospital?

A—The VA does not issue cards for blanket admission to hospitals. Each admission is on an individual basis.

Q—I am in need of money. May I obtain a personal loan from the VA?

A—No. The various benefits granted to veterans by Congress do not include provisions for personal loans.

Q—My claim for disability pension was denied five years ago because my disability was not severe enough. How can I have my claim reconsidered?

A—Write the VA office which previously studied your claim and enclose a statement from your doctor as to the nature and severity of your disability. The VA office will then send you further instructions.

Q—My GI insurance premium was due last week. Must I make formal application for reinstatement?

A—No. You have 31 days of grace from the date your premium was due to make payment and avoid a policy lapse.

Q—If I should die, what must my wife do in order to qualify for a VA pension?

A—She should write, telephone or visit the nearest VA office (there is at least one in every state) to see if she is eligible for pension under the statutory income limitation. The VA will explain this to her and send her the necessary application forms.

Q—What is the final date of entitlement of World War II veterans for a GI loan?

A—In no case will be entitlement of an eligible World War II veteran extend beyond July 25, 1967.

Speaking of Insects

with Dale Bray

Dogs commonly are referred to as four-legged flea pastures, but compared with cats the dog never heard of fleas. When people call me for advice on how to rid a home of fleas, I always ask if they have a cat—the answer invariably is "yes."

If you don't treat your cat with flea powder you will have an infestation of fleas sooner or later. Vacation-time is likely to be the time when you find an outbreak of fleas in your home, especially just after you return. It happens this way. Most of the fleas in a home will climb aboard the cat as long as he is available, but during vacation time the cat is left with a neighbor or a vet and there is no place for the fleas to go except to hop around the house. When you return, they hop on you and begin biting.

The average person would wonder where all the fleas are coming from since the cat was out of the house during the family's absence. They come from eggs that were laid by the previous generation of fleas while on the cat. The eggs fall to the floor in large numbers, most of them in the cat's favorite sleeping spot. These eggs hatch in a few days producing tiny white larvae. They feed on the dirt that normally occurs on the floor. They can live on the tiny amount of dirt that accumulates in floor cracks or under the quarter round trim. If the cat's bedding isn't cleaned frequently they can develop there by the dozens. In about a week the larvae change to pupae. These emerge as adults in two days. It's bad enough that fleas bite us, but it seems even worse to know that the adult flea can live for nearly a year without any food. Even if your vacation lasts a long time, there are apt to be fleas waiting to welcome you home.

Fortunately, the cat flea cannot reproduce unless a dog or cat is around to feed on. Although they bite us, they can't seem to "stomach our blood." As a result each one commonly makes two or three bites in a row on humans trying to find a better source of blood.

If you suspect fleas might develop in your home while you're on vacation, spread naphthalene flakes about the floor at the rate of one pound per 100 square feet.

Mantrap, a "business game" developed especially to give small businessmen an insight into the problem-solving and decision-making process of the small firms, is described in a management research summary issued July 17, by the Small Business Administration. Edward N. Rosa, regional director of SBA's Philadelphia office, announced this week that copies of the summary are now available in the office, 1015 Chestnut St.

The summary, entitled "A Management Training Program for Small Businessmen" is based on a study prepared at the University of Houston, under an SBA research grant.

In recent years, the "business game," in which role-playing participants manage fictitious firms, has been used successfully in management training seminars and as an experimental device, the summary says.

Because it does not require a data computer, Mantrap's cost is below that of other business games. The major focus of the Houston-developed game is on a serious problem for the small businessman—how to obtain and evaluate information under restrictions of time and money.

Mantrap has been tested in 14 conferences and seminars involving more than 300 businessmen and students. Players reported a "high degree of satisfaction" with the game.

To avoid a mess when it comes to cleaning up the flakes, it's a good idea to place the flakes on newspapers. Have a friend pick up the flakes and air your home a couple of days before you return. If that doesn't kill all the fleas, spray infested rooms with a liquid formulation of DDT.

Be careful what kind of flea powder you put on cats. Cats are easily killed by some insecticides which are safe on dogs. There are only two which should be used on cats, rotenone or Sevin. Sevin is also known as carbaryl. Some companies that package it for cats don't use the name Sevin. If the active ingredients list contains the words naphthyl methyl carbamate, it's Sevin. On dogs use DDT or Sevin. To destroy fleas in the pet's sleeping quarters use DDT, malathion, or Sevin.

To keep the neighbor's cat from sleeping near your home where it could cause an outdoor spurge of fleas, get a big dog.

Swaying Stars Can't Miss or Else

The sensational Swaying Stars, England's number one high act, will perform their death-defying acrobatics on fragile poles 100 feet above the tense audience at the fair, Tuesday through Saturday.

The Sensational Swaying Stars have been together three years, according to the leader of the act, Jimmy Fossett, of Bournemouth, England.

Other members of the daring British trio are Fossett's attractive, auburn-haired wife, April, a former ballet dancer, and pretty redhead Vernicia Warren, a former circus aerialist from London.

The cascading tresses of Fossett's comely companions on the high poles adds a flash of color to the act's daring feats high in the sky.

Grand finale of their act and high point of the show is when the three stars execute triple transfer from pole to pole. This they carry out without the benefit of a safety net, meaning a single slip or misstep is almost certain disaster. They also do the world's highest cha-cha-cha and a variety of handstands and one-arm balancing maneuvers to complement their repertoire.

The Swaying Stars, who plan to make their home in this country, have performed before capacity crowds in Australia, New Zealand and in all the Scandinavian and European countries.

One of the high points of their career to date has been a command performance before Her Royal Highness Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip at St. Peter's Port in the Channel Islands.

Fossett, who descends from an old circus family in England, and his daredevil wife have four children: Michael, 12; John, 7; Cheryl Anne, 4, and little Lucy May, 2½. Vernicia Warren, 18, is unmarried.

David Winkler Wins FFA Award

David Winkler wins the Delaware F.F.A. farm mechanics award, David, a graduate of Harrington High School this year, completed three years of agriculture. This award was given as a result of his outstanding shop ability as demonstrated in his agriculture class. He competed against several other boys in the state for this outstanding award. His program included repair of farm machinery from the family farm, welding problems, and development of experimental tools for family farm.

David at present lives at home with his father, Francis Winkler. He aids in operation of approximately 500 acres of grain farming. In addition to this, he also tills 85 acres, on which he has planted corn and soybeans, this he does on his own for his agriculture project. He has been accepted at the University of Delaware in the field of agriculture.

Use Pesticides With Caution

Although the wisdom of using pesticides has been debated recently, there is no doubt that they are effective in helping to rid homes and gardens of insects and other pests, according to Dr. Dale F. Bray, extension entomologist at the University of Delaware.

Dr. Bray points out, however, that all pesticides must be used with caution and common sense according to the directions on the package. Used incorrectly or left where children or pets could get into them, pesticides can be very dangerous.

There are nearly 50,000 trade-named pesticide products, many of which are intended for household and home garden use. They are made from about 200 basic chemicals and many are highly toxic to humans as well as to the pests they are intended to eradicate.

The highly toxic pesticides are required to be labeled with a skull and crossbones, the word "poison" printed in red and the proper antidote in case of poisoning. However, even pesticides not considered toxic enough to be so labeled can cause illness and should be handled just as carefully, Dr. Bray cautions.

Reports show that about 75 per cent of the accidents from misuse of pesticides occur to children under 10 years old, and some 90 per cent of these occur among children under five. Most of these accidents could be prevented by following the proper precautions, Dr. Bray says.

Read the label before applying any pesticide, he urges. "Follow application instructions and heed all directions and warnings. This is no time to take chances."

Store pesticides in locked cupboards or rooms where children, pets or irresponsible people cannot reach them, and never store them near foods of any kind.

Keep pesticides only in their original containers, and keep the containers tightly closed. Never transfer pesticides to unlabeled jugs, jars, bottles, cans, bags or other common food containers.

Never use more of the pesticide than the amount specified on the label. In many cases of pesticide poisoning it has been found that this rule was violated, Dr. Bray points out.

Don't smoke while using pesticides, and be careful not to breathe the spray mists or dusts. If the label recommends wearing a mask or respirator while applying the chemical, it is probably too hazardous for home gardeners or householders to use.

Always wash hands and face after using pesticides, and change clothes and take a bath if skin or clothing has been exposed to the dust or spray mist of the chemicals.

When using insecticides or other sprays or dust in the house, remove all foods, food containers and pet food and water dishes from the area. Remove or cover fishbowls and aquariums, and keep pets and children out of the treated area until spray mist has settled completely.

Never leave empty pesticide containers where they will be a hazard to humans or animals.

If you feel ill while using a pesticide or shortly afterward, call the Poison Control Center or your doctor immediately. The Poison Control Center in Wilmington can be reached by calling OL-5-3389; in Salisbury, Md., PI-9-3161.

Pesticides are made to be harmful to insects—be sure they aren't harmful to you as well, Dr. Bray says.

Rehoboth Beach Having Big Season

A blistering sun during the past week made Rehoboth Beach a mecca for thousands of tourists and vacationers, to the extent that at 4 p. m., Saturday afternoon every available room in the shore resort was taken.

According to William L. Williams, president of the Rehoboth Beach Chamber of Commerce, two secretaries spent most of Saturday assisting guests who arrived without reservations.

He said the community welcomes everyone but urged that advance reservations be made to avoid disappointment. "When we know they are coming we can take care of most everyone. However, bookings for August are filling up rapidly and we do hope those expecting to visit us will let us know in advance," William said.

The Saturday night band concerts have proven big attractions according to the official. Last Saturday night a throng surrounded the bandstand to hear the Caesar Rodney High School Band of Camden-Wyoming, and applauded them into rendering four encores.

C. W. Martin, Chamber of Commerce entertainment chairman, said there will be a departure from the schedule this week.

Baltimore's Sammy Ross, variously known as a one-man band and comedian will be the attraction on Friday evening at 8 p. m. He formerly performed with the Harmonica Rascals, the Jackie Gleason and Lawrence Welk Shows as well as having appeared at London's famed Palladium and the Palace Theatre in New York City. There will be no band concert this Saturday night, Martin said.

Meanwhile the Rehoboth Beach Volunteer Fire Company is planning two special days for visitors. There will be open house on Tuesday and Wednesday, July 30 and 31 when firemen will provide free rides on their equipment for children and souvenirs will be presented to all who visit the station. Tours through the modern fire company building will let people know the kind of protection the community provides.

Officials said this is part of an education campaign, and it also marks the initiation of the volunteer company's annual fund drive. The open house and free rides are expected to attract hundreds of people, as it has in former years.

Other attractions scheduled in the near future are the return of the United States Second Army Band, Ft. Meade, Md., next month and the appearance of the Nur Temple Shrine String Band and Chanters, scheduled for Saturday, August 10. Some Sunday entertainment will also be scheduled.

Capt. Hal J. Gibson, director of the Fort Meade unit said this week that Rehoboth's bandshell "not only projects the total sound of the band with near-concert hall similarity, but the inclusion of adequate lighting for large groups is a feature that will be appreciated by all organizations performing on it."

Summer's The Time To Cook Outdoors

Whether you prefer frankfurters roasted on a stick, or a thick, juicy charcoal broiled steak, or a big roast of beef, medium rare, you can cook it outdoors easily and very successfully, says Janet Coblenz, extension food specialist at the University of Delaware.

The equipment you use to cook an outdoor meal can be as simple or elaborate as your preferences or your funds allow, she says. A charcoal grill made from a few rocks or bricks and the rack from your oven can cook food as well as the most expensive charcoal grill. Or, you can make or buy many styles of grills, rotisseries, smoke ovens and outdoor fireplaces.

Roast beef, barbecued spareribs and leg of lamb are usually cooked two or three hours or more on a rotisserie so they roast evenly on all sides. Steaks, chops, hamburgers and other thin meat cuts cook best on a grill over glowing coals. Kabobs—chunks of meat and vegetables on a skewer, can be cooked on either rotisserie or grill.

Steak cooked on the outdoor grill should be at least two inches thick so it will stay juicy. Thin steaks dry out as they cook. Miss Coblenz suggests buying a thick steak to be cut into serving portions rather than a thin steak for each person.

Outdoor cooking is not limited to steak and hamburgers, Miss Coblenz points out. "As long as you have the charcoal fire going for the meat, you can cook the whole meal on the grill," she says. "Garlic bread heated on the grill is a good accompaniment for many meats, and you can also cook desserts over the coals. When you cook your meal this way, the only extras you need are a crisp salad and an icy beverage."

Miss Coblenz believes outdoor meals provide an ideal way to entertain guests or please the family on a warm summer day, while at the same time outdoor cooking lets the homemaker prepare a nourishing meal without spending the afternoon in a hot kitchen.

Dozens of outdoor cooking tips are included in a new publication Miss Coblenz has written. Entitled "Cook It Outdoors," the booklet gives detailed instructions on how to build several different types of grills, tells how to start wood and charcoal fires and keep them burning and explains how to cook many meat cuts on different types of outdoor cooking equipment.

A section on skewer cooking explains how to cook kabobs and gives many ideas for food combinations. Another section gives suggestions for cooking complete meals in foil on the grill.

"Cook It Outdoors" also includes many recipes and menu suggestions. The booklet is available free of charge from the Department of Rural Communications, University of Delaware, Newark, Del.

Telephone Co. Cited on Performance

The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania and The Diamond State Telephone Company have been cited by the Savings Bond Division of the U. S. Treasury Department for outstanding performance during the 1963 Freedom Bonds campaign.

W. D. Gillen, president of the companies, was presented with the Treasury Department's Minute Man Flag by Mrs. U. S. Savings Bonds of 1963, Mrs. Marilyn W. Eastham, of Marietta, Ga., in a ceremony at Philadelphia, July 12.

Nearly 24,000 of the companies' employees are currently buying U. S. Savings Bonds through the payroll allotment plan. Percentages of employees participating are among the highest in the Bell System.

In accepting the special award, Gillen expressed warm appreciation for "the invaluable co-operation" of union leaders in both companies who endorsed and encouraged the payroll purchase plan among their members.

Gillen, who is currently serving as the national chairman of the bond drive in the telecommunications industry, also commended John C. Mott, assistant vice president of the companies' marketing department, general chairman of the campaign, and members of the co-ordinating committee.

He especially saluted the employees of the companies for their "patriotism and economic foresight."

4-H News

Visit the State Fair and see the work of your youths. Nearly 200 Kent County 4-H'ers will be participating in the Delaware State Fair. Our 4-H'ers will be exhibiting, judging and demonstrating. In the Agricultural Extension building there will be over 2,000 4-H exhibits. Our 4-H'ers, leaders and friends will be anxious to see the awards presented. Judging of exhibits has already started and will be finished Monday. You will be able to see baked goods to bird houses. Each exhibit represents the project work done by our 4-H'ers throughout the year. Featured in the clothing area will be an outfit made by Janice Warrington of Bridgeville.

Kent County 4-H'ers will be participating in Judging contests such as vegetable, baked goods, clothing, poultry, eggs, livestock and dairy. Helen Gramp, Dairy Princess and an Oak Grove 4-H'er, will lead the livestock parade Thursday evening. Joining Helen will be Chris Jump, Houston, and Rita Hall, Frederica. Viewing for state tractor driving honors will be Sam Dixon, Clayton; Erskine Gilespie, Wyoming, and Howard Clendaniel, Hartly. Friday, fourteen county 4-H'ers will participate in the Feeder Pig Round-Up. Competing in demonstration contests Wednesday will be Margaret Thomas, Karen Webb, Westville; Delores Tinley, Chuck Link, Whiteoaks; Clifford Hudson, Paradise; Linda Stayton, Lora Mae Marvel, Gary Simpson, Houston; Bob and Bill Burge, Kent Light Horse; Joe Shahan, Paradise; Thelma Thomas, Whiteoaks; Fred Stites, Oak Grove, and Howard Clendaniel, Whiteoaks. 4-H'ers will be participating in the many livestock junior shows such as dairy and swine. Many will be showing horses, poultry and sheep.

The Kent County Links will again be running the restaurant. This honorary 4-H group supports many county activities throughout the year. Chairman is Clifton Hufnal, Link and Chestnut Grove 4-H leader. Bill Dawson will be in charge of the dining room. The majority of the help is 4-H'ers or former 4-H'ers.

Fair time is a good time to inquire about membership. Come to the fair. Your club agent will be there and is always glad to talk about 4-H. The 1963-64 membership will start in September. A club can be organized in your community.

Paradise 4-H Club recently held their project tour. Helen Gramp, Dover, and Gary Simpson, Houston, discussed the projects with the members. At the picnic they also spoke on the members future in 4-H before the parents. Paradise leaders are Mr. and Mrs. Lister Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hudson and Mrs. William Eliason.

Dover Diamonds, under the leadership of Mrs. Waldon Willey, have welcomed Andrew Beruck as their photography project leader.

Letter to the Editor

Gentlemen: Regarding the vim-vigor-plus good sportsmanship displayed in abundance in the playing of the championship game between Harrington All Stars and Georgetown All Stars on Thursday, July 18th, 1963, 6 p. m., at Georgetown High School, permit me to say "It was tragic for anyone to have missed this wonderful ball game. To the ones who did witness-will go down in history."

Never before in my sixty-six years of experience have I seen such a demonstration of good sportsmanship exhibited during the playnig of the game.

Naturally, being a resident of Harrington I had a feeling of sadness over losing the game, but the exceptional playing of the Georgetown team, plus the splendid work done by the Harrington Boys soon turned sadness into joy and I am glad that I was a spectator. The attentive ear must have received wise counsel from their coaches, captains and managers, otherwise "Such a game would not have resulted." Such sportsmanship as this will break up juvenile delinquency quicker than anything else, and I am all for it! Sincerely, S. M. Williams

FRANK FONTAINE (Continued from Page 1) moved to the West Coast. Frank made a total of twelve motion pictures, including "Stella", "The Model and the Marriage Broker", "Scared Stiff", with Jerry Lewis, "Here Comes the Groom" with Bing Crosby, and "Nancy Goes to Rio", with Jane Powell. During the family's entire stay in the film capital, Frank's wife suffered the pangs of homesickness. Shutting his wife and—by then—eight children back and forth by plane between the West and East Coasts proved too much of a financial and physical burden for the comedian, and the family again packed up and moved East to stay. Frank became a star attraction in leading night clubs, industrial shows, and made many television guest appearances with Jerry Lewis, Jack Paar, Gary Moore, Ed Sullivan and Jack Benny. By this time the Fontaine children numbered eleven.

In the summer of 1962, Frank received a phone call from Jackie Gleason, which resulted in one of the happiest show business relationships and Frank's weekly comedy performance on the new Gleason TV series.

About a year ago, in the middle of rehearsing impressions with his voice coach, a whole new aspect of entertainment opened up for Frank. His coach suggested that, in addition to doing his impressions from the throat, he should try singing from the diaphragm. In the space of an hour and a half, Frank discovered and began to develop a fine singing voice. He was given the opportunity to try it out on the new Gleason show. The response was so overwhelming that the producers gave him more solo work which has become a feature of the show. As a result, he has signed a contract to record both straight song as well as comedy material for ABC-Paramount Records.

Because of Frank's gigantic strides in the entertainment world and his universal popularity, a neophyte performer's goal might as well be—"to be as well liked and as great a performer as Frank Fontaine."

150 Tour Weed Demonstrations At Georgetown

150 farmers and commercial representatives got a preview of Farm and Home Field Day at a weed control meeting held at the University of Delaware Georgetown Substation recently. Under the guidance of Drs. Richard Cole and William Mitchell agronomists, and Professor E. M. Rahn, horticulturist, they toured corn, soybean and vegetable plots to see first hand the effects of certain chemicals in controlling weeds. They saw many of the same things that visitors to Farm and Home Field Day on August 7th will see. As Dr. Cole told the group, "we're seeing so many things that won't be showing up by Field Day Time" Then he added that if a fellow wanted to, he could get a better idea of the real effect of some chemicals by observing the plots now and again at Field Day.

Farm and Home Field Day is an annual event held at the substation to give the people of the state an opportunity to see the research in field crops, vegetables, fruit and poultry that is being done there. More than 75 different research projects will be shown.

Soybeans seemed to draw the most interest and questions during the weed control tour. The visitors wanted to know which chemicals did the best job and how much they cost to use. Cole explained that up to this point no one chemical seems to be the complete answer to all the weed control problems. Some do an excellent job of controlling broad-leaf weeds but won't touch narrow-leaf weeds. Others control narrow-leaf weeds but won't affect broad-leaf weeds. And others don't seem to have much effect on either. Still others give excellent weed control but also damage the young soybean plants.

Cole was enthusiastic about several of the products especially when a grower plants at least one cultivation. When no tillage is planned, he showed plots that had good control from a mixture of two or more commercial weed control products. He pointed to one plot that he called his "special deluxe treatment". There appeared to be almost perfect weed control and the plot had not been cultivated. "This would cost a grower $35 an acre for chemicals alone. This compares to about 5 per acre for most of the single product applications."

Cole said this test was set up to test some principles and wasn't planned on a practical basis. It does prove that chemicals can give almost complete control of weeds without damage to the beans. Maybe someday we'll be able to do this kind of a job for five or ten dollars an acre.

All of the chemicals being tested are brand name products that have been cleared for commercial use and are sold as weed control chemicals.

In the corn plots Cole and a research assistant R. W. Feeny showed two chemicals that are doing an excellent job of controlling most common weeds. As expected Atrazine did the best job, but to the surprise of most, Atrazine in liquid form was performing better than granular applications. The other product that seemed to be showing up especially well was EPTC a formula that has caused some damage to corn plants in addition to the weeds. Feeny said they were seeing only slight injury to the corn, and excellent weed control.

One other test that drew a lot of interest was an experiment to determine how much Atrazine remains in the soil the next season following a granular application on corn. To determine this Cole and crops research associate Ed Wisk planted a cover crop of wheat and crimson clover last fall on plots where Atrazine granules had been tested that summer on corn. This spring they plowed up half of the cover crop and seeded soybeans. The other half of the cover crop was left to demonstrate the value of such a crop as an indicator of Atrazine damage. The soybean plots reflected very closely what the researchers had determined by observing the cover crop prior to planting—that certain levels of Atrazine have a harmful effect on crops that follow them.

Damage to the cover crop and the beans varied from total kill to almost no effect depending on the strength, amount of chemical and whether it was applied in granules or as a liquid. In all cases the granular applications resulted in the greatest damage on crops that followed them. Three pounds of Atrazine granules applied prior to planting the corn last spring resulted in total failure of both cover crop and soybeans. Atrazine granules are not recommended for general use in Delaware.

One thing is for sure, according to Dr. Mitchell, its too risky for the average producer to take chances with Atrazine. "Not many farmers could stand a bean crop failure like some we have here. One of the best ways to avoid this is to use a cover crop as an indicator of the amount of damage that can be expected. If the cover crop is damaged the beans will be damaged even more." He said this is good insurance against Atrazine damage where other crops follow corn. "We just don't know enough about this residue problem. There seem to be many factors that affect this situation. So far we haven't proven all of the possible causes to our satisfaction."

Job Openings In Navy For Women College Graduates

The Navy is currently accepting applications from women college graduates to fill administrative and executive positions in shore installations, such as naval air stations and naval bases.

The U. S. Naval School, Officer (Women), at Newport, Rhode Island, will convene a class Oct. 22, to train women for the duties of a naval officer. Upon successful completion of the first eight weeks, or the officer candidate phase, the women are commissioned in the grade of Ensign, U. S. Naval Reserve. After another eight weeks of officer indoctrination, they then serve for two years on active duty.

Women officers fill a wide variety of positions in the military. Jobs currently being performed in the operational field include aerology, computer research, microbiology, communications, legislative liaison at the Capitol, and public information. Others serve in finance, merchandising, supply, and comptrollerships. In the field of management, where the primary need at present exists, women officers hold positions in personnel, administration and education and training.

Women having attained junior status in college may now apply for the Navy's College Junior Program. These women would go to Newport for eight weeks between their junior and senior year and, upon college graduation return to Newport for the remaining eight weeks.

Women who wish to determine their qualifications for a commission in the Navy should contact Frank J. Markert, CSI, Dover Navy Recruiter at Keith Bldg., State & Lookerman Sts., Dover, Del., or phone 734-7319. Appointments will be made for interested persons with Lieutenant (junior grade) Beth Coye, U. S. Navy, who represents the Women Officer Programs of the Navy in this area, with office in Philadelphia.

Refrigeration Helps Prevent Food Poisoning

Good refrigeration practices will help prevent summer food poisoning hazards, reminds Katie Thomas, Kent County extension agent, home economics.

Food spoils rapidly at temperatures between 45 and 145 degrees, making it essential that food be kept either refrigerated at 40 degrees or colder, or cooking at simmering temperatures or above.

Start out with safe food practices in the grocery store. Never buy products requiring refrigeration unless they are actually under refrigeration in the store. Some stores do not refrigerate eggs, perishable cheeses and even canned hams marked "Keep Under Refrigeration." Mrs. Thomas recommends that you do not buy these products unless they are properly refrigerated.

When choosing frozen foods in the store, accept only those which do not appear to have thawed. If the packages have juices or discoloration on the outside, chances are they have thawed at some time during shipping or storage. Canned juice and beverage concentrates with bowed ends may have thawed and frozen again.

Because custards and cream fillings are particularly perishable, it is not advisable to buy, or even make, these desserts in hot, humid weather.

When you're food shopping, pick up perishables just before leaving the store, and return home with them immediately. Promptly refrigerate any food that can spoil. Keep your refrigerator cleaned out so it doesn't get overloaded, and keep the freezing compartment defrosted so it will operate properly.

Promptly refrigerate leftovers or foods cooked for later use. Do not wait until the food reaches room temperature, but place it in the refrigerator immediately, even if you have just removed it from the stove.

Be especially careful to keep sliced, ground, chopped or finely cut foods very cold until cooking or serving time. These foods stand an extra chance of becoming contaminated because of the many surfaces open to bacteria.

Especially susceptible to food poisoning bacterial growth are creamed hot mixtures, egg combinations, salads containing mayonnaise or salad dressing, cream desserts and custards and sandwiches containing mayonnaise and sliced cold meats.

For this reason, freeze or refrigerate sandwich meat to be taken on outings, and take along a small, unopened jar of mayonnaise which you keep on ice in a picnic cooler along with the meat and other cold foods. Keep cold foods on ice from the time you remove them from the refrigerator until you return home with any leftovers. If you cannot provide adequate refrigeration, select foods which will not spoil readily.

Further information on food spoilage, factors that cause it and methods of preventing it will be the feature of a program at Farm and Home Field Day, Wed., Aug.

7, at the University of Delaware's Georgetown Substation. The program, to be conducted by Miss Janet Coblenz, extension food and nutrition specialist, will begin at 10 a.m. in the Substation meeting room. The Substation is located on Route 28, southwest of Georgetown.

Alfalfa Acreage Up In Delaware

Alfalfa acreage in Delaware is on the increase, according to Dr. William H. Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware.

A survey of wholesale seed houses showed that 32,000 pounds of alfalfa seed was sold to dealers or direct to farmers in 1962. This is enough seed for 2,000 acres of alfalfa, or about one-third of the total in the state. Since the average stand lasts about five years, the trend for alfalfa acreage is clearly upward, he said.

DuPuits was the leading variety, accounting for 48.7 percent of the total seed. The old standby, Buffalo, was second at 16.9 percent followed by Williamsburg, 15.6 percent, and Vernal 10.7 percent.

The DuPuits variety is vigorous and high yielding but it can't be counted on to last more than three years, according to Dr. Mitchell. For this reason many growers are showing more interest in Williamsburg, a variety which is well adapted to Delaware conditions and more persistent than DuPuits.

Vernal and Buffalo are both wilt resistant varieties. Vernal does well in Northern New Castle County and Buffalo is suitable throughout the state. These varieties have been passed over in the past few years for the higher yielding DuPuits, Dr. Mitchell reported. This decision was based on the fact that bacterial wilt is not commonly found in Delaware alfalfa.

Dr. Mitchell urged growers to order their alfalfa seed well in advance of planting time in order to be sure of having one of the best varieties.

Next to corn silage, alfalfa is the most productive livestock feed grown in Delaware, he pointed out.

Delaware Food Market Report

As it gets hotter and hotter and muggier and muggier, the only sensible thing to do is sit in the shade some place and not worry about cooking. With the supply of fresh vegetables and fruits so abundant this is possible, for many are best when eaten fresh.

Cucumbers are quite plentiful now and this vegetable has been highly esteemed for its crisp and refreshing coolness for centuries. The expression, "Cool as a cucumber," goes back at least four centuries to an unimportant English play called "Cupid's Revenge." This simile may have been used in the days of the Roman Emperor Tiberius who was mad for cucumbers. He had his cucumber beds on wheels so his slaves could wheel them about to catch all the sunshine.

Other outstanding fresh vegetable choices include cabbage, onions, peppers, Iceberg lettuce and carrots; all are excellent for eating out of hand. New and old potatoes are quite economical, as are summer squash, beets and eggplant. Two vegetables which are on the high-price side this week are tomatoes and snap beans.

Fresh fruits are a joy to shop for since prices are reasonable and the selection large. Blueberries are now at their peak and quality is excellent. Bananas are once again at a very low price, this is also true for limes. Other fruits to check are seedless grapes, watermelons, mangoes and plums. Summer apples are now available and bring to mind tart apple pies and sauces.

Ice cream and ice milk are easy solutions for light desserts for warm summer days. Most ice cream desserts take little preparation—hardly more than a minute or two for a sundae, banana split, milk shake or other ice-cream-parlor-type dishes. Ice cream parfaits and melbas, elegant in appearance, are remarkably easy to make. Even a sumptuous Baked Alaska—that mysterious meringue-plus-ice cream combination—is a tricky rather than time-consuming preparation.

You can't go wrong using eggs in many ways—their price has been so low. Broiler-fryers and turkeys offer low cost and versatile eating too. Both of these meats adapt to out door barbecues quite easily.

Expect to see prices advance some on most beef cuts, as wholesale prices have been going up. However, weekend specials will keep beef economical for a while.

The swordfish catch has been spectacular with the use of the new Japanese long line mechanized fishing system. Other fresh fish choices include blue fish, whittings, porgies, tuna, cod, had-dock and flounder.

Scout Executive Appointed By Scout Council

Edward A. "Ted" Powell, Scout executive of the Juniata Valley Council at Lewistown, Pa., has been appointed to serve as Assistant Scout Executive of the Del-Mar-Va Council, Boy Scouts of America. He will report for duty Sept. 1 filling the vacancy created by the promotion of V. J. Gonnella to the position of Deputy Regional Executive.

Powell has over 30 years of experience in Scouting starting as a Boy Scout in 1930. His volunteer leadership in Scouting includes service as Scoutmaster, Commissioner, and camp director.

He entered the career service of Scouting as field scout executive at Du Bois, Pa., in 1941. He has also served as Field Scout Executive at Johnstown, Pa., and as District Scout Executive and director of Special Services, at Washington, D. C.

During the period from 1943-1946, Powell served in the United States Army as Personnel Sergeant Major with units of the Third Service Command. Following his discharge, he enlisted in the Reserve Corps from 1946-1952.

He is a graduate of Lebanon Valley College with a major in English, and of the seventy-fifth National Training School for Scout Executives at Mendham, N. J.

Active in civic affairs, Powell has been a member of Kiwanis,

Lions, and Rotary Clubs in various communities. He has also served as an officer in the Parent-Teachers Association and as a member of the American Legion. His community service also includes considerable experience in United Community Fund campaigns and in other fund raising efforts.

He is a Ruling Elder of the United Presbyterian Church where he has served as Sunday School teacher, chairman of the Every-Member canvass, and Evangelism Committee.

Powell is married and has four children, three girls and one boy. The family is in the process of making housing arrangements and will move to Wilmington before the opening of the school term.

for the opening of the school term.

Highway Director Appointed To Committee

William J. Miller, Jr., Director of operations for the State Highway Department, has been appointed to several committees in the American Association of State Highway Officials.

During the coming year Mr. Miller will serve as the chairman of the Committee on Non-enclature and will be one of 8 highway department officials to serve on the advisory committee for the highway management conferences to be held at various places throughout the United States.

FENCE TALK

With George Vapaa

If some of the vegetables or flowers in your garden don't seem to be as healthy as they should be, you can find out what is causing the problem and what to do about it at the Sick Plant Clinic at Farm and Home Field Day.

Visitors at Farm and Home Field Day are invited to bring problem field crops and garden or house plants to a panel of experts who will identify insect, disease and other damage to the plants and will recommend probable cures.

The annual Farm and Home Field Day will be held Wednesday, Aug. 7, at the University of Delaware's Georgetown Substation, Route 23, southwest of Georgetown.

Specialists from the University will operate the Sick Plant Clinic. Included are Dr. Dale F. Bray and Prof. Donald MacCreary, entomology; Dr. John W. Heuberg, plant pathology; Dr. William H. Mitchell, agronomy, and Prof. Robert F. Stevens, horticulture.

The Sick Plant Clinic was started at last year's Farm Field Day, with more than 70 plant problems diagnosed, and facilities are being expanded this year. Microscopes and other equipment will be set up for use in diagnosing plant diseases and insect damage, and visitors will be able to see the causes of plant problems first-hand.

Soil deficiencies, black spot, mites and weed problems were among the causes of unhealthy plants diagnosed at last year's Sick Plant Clinic. Samples of some of the problem areas were taken for further study by the specialists.

A display of plants showing various types of insect damage will be shown along with the Sick Plant Clinic. Another display will feature live insects on plant specimens so that visitors may test their own ability to recognize these pests.

All Farm and Home Field Day visitors are invited to bring along any plants they wish to have the specialists observe.

Farmers were saddened by the recent death of Frances H. Raughley, master of the Delaware State Grange, and active with many community groups in the Dover area.

He was stricken while going to the Delaware State Fairgrounds at Harrington to help prepare the grange booth for Fair week. Many of us who knew him well recognize and would like to acknowledge his many services for his fellow man.

I noted the National Grange Master, Herschel Newsom and at least eight past State Masters at the funeral services, as well as a host of other leaders who had worked with him on farm programs.

Local Capital Grange workers will miss his kindly counsel and willing help. One question I heard was: "Now, who will carve the turkey at Grange supper?"

Separate perennials if you did not do this last month. Make sure the transplanted plants are kept well watered and shade them for a few days.

Now is the time to figure out where you need another tree to shade the roof of your house, the windows or your patio. You can get a good idea of where to place the tree now. To figure out where the shade will be, take a pole and note the length of the shadow it casts on the house. By comparing the length of the pole and the shadow it casts with the average height of tree you are contemplating planting, the best location can be figured out. This is the time of year to do this, as the angle of the sun's rays differ in winter and summer. Carefully locate the tree on a plan so you will know where to plant it next spring.

You can dry roses for winter use now. A finely ground form of silica gel is available now for drying flowers. On a hot, dry day (and we have plenty now), go out and pick your best half-opened roses. Place in a shoe box or similar container and bury the flower completely with silica gel. This retains their color and form. The hose is usually well dried in 5 or 6 days.

Protect garden tomatoes from diseases by spraying every week or 10 days with maneb. This fungicide is effective in preventing the spread of most tomato diseases.

Plant snap beans again now for fall harvest. Both green and yellow varieties will be welcome additions to your garden for September harvest.

Fresh potatoes can be a good partial hay substitute feed for livestock this year. The smaller B sizes are cheap enough to be used for dairy and other livestock feed. The culls and pickouts are always available at harvest time for a low cost, say 25 cents cwt. at the farm, reminds Jacob W. Zimmerman, a local grower. Potatoes contain more dry matter than most root crops, but less than corn silage. They are rich in starch, but very low in protein. So plenty of protein rich foods should be given with a heavy allowance of potatoes. Too, the lower vitamin A & D content can be made up with pasture of good quality legume hay.

Handle fresh potatoes with care. They bruise easily, and rotted potatoes are not good feed. Store them off the ground in sacks to allow air circulation around the bags. Keep them protected from light. Do not store deeper than four feet in piles or in bins.

Here are some feeding hints for dairy cattle:

1. Cut or crush the potatoes before feeding. They can lodge in the animals throat otherwise.

2. Start feeding potatoes at a slow rate, a quart per day.

3. Gradually increase the allowance to 15 to 25 lbs. (or 7 to 12 quarts) per day.

4. Provide a free choice mineral mixture of one part dicalcium phosphate or bone mesh and one part of loose salt.

5. You get best results if potatoes are fed with pasture or good legume hay.

6. Experimental results show that potatoes can be safely fed up to 35 pounds daily. Larger amounts may lead to digestive problems.

7. Do not store potatoes in the milking barn. Feed after milking to prevent a potato odor in the milk.

8. In most cases there will be more milk, but a lower fat test.

Frozen, sprouted, or rotten potatoes should not be fed.

Similar precautions apply to beef cattle or sheep. Hogs will do better if the potatoes are cooked, and if the cooked potatoes do not make up more than one half the grain ordinarily fed. Cooked potatoes can also be fed to laying hens, if mashed and mixed with laying mash. There is no data for broilers.

For more details write or call the Kent County extension service at the Dover postoffice, telephone 736-1448.

Lean red meat is becoming more important to the lamb producers since over-fat lambs are not helping to build future markets. Competition in this area is strong and therefore the lamb feeder must be quality minded in his production.

The difficulty is that producers have a tendency to strive for the heavier carcass since it appears to be more economical. For example, studies reveal that slaughter charges for 150-pound lamb. We remind producers not to be persuaded by the studies. Quality is more important than weight and will be more profitable.

Producers should set up goals toward production of high quality lambs. The three-inch loin eye, heavier carcasses that keep quality without being over-finished, little external fat and faster production are ideal goals which the producer may consider.

Production testing, selection and breeding, along with research, should help produce lambs that retain quality in heavier carcasses and grow faster and more economically.

Why is sugar so high-priced? There are a number of factors that influence the price of sugar.

The free world no longer has surpluses of sugar that it once had. A poor sugar beet crop in Western Europe has tightened world market supplies. Sugar from Cuba, formerly the world's largest producer, has almost disappeared from the world market. Heavy speculation in the sugar market may also be a factor. USDA reports indicate that the shortage height of tree you are contemplating planting, the best location can be figured out. This is the time of year to do this, as the angle of the sun's rays differ in winter and summer. Carefully locate the tree on a plan so you will know where to plant it next spring.

worsens the problem. A recent visitor from out of state was asking about sugar beets as a crop for Delaware. We can grow them, and the processing plants are at Baltimore and Philadelphia.

If your gas tank is out in the hot sun these days, it's costing you money. Heat causes gas to evaporate. In addition to the loss of actual fuel, there is a problem that occurs in the evaporation process. The less-volatile liquid is left in the storage tank with a high gum content. When this is used it may cause sticky valves.

Store your gas in the shade or, if possible, in an underground tank. It's well worth the price of a roof over a gas storage tank. The savings far outweigh the costs.

In a statement before the Congressional Subcommittee on Family Farms recently, Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman had this to say: "Instead of wasting away, the family farm is a growing, dynamic force in agricultural production. It has kept pace fully with the vast increases in efficiency made by agriculture as a whole. As a result, food prices are the lowest in relation to consumer income in history. However, low food price, and the family farm, could both be lost if the family farm is driven out of existence by forces outside of farming—by overwhelming disparity of bargaining power of suppliers and customers of farmers; by vertical integration of farm production with food processing or distribution, or both; by contract or captive farming; or even by an imposed incapacity to fit the efficiently produced output of small farms into the narrow requirements of big processing and distributing companies. Without strong farm bargaining capacity to offset these growing forces, both the family farmer and the American consumer are threatened."

Boy Scout News

Twenty Boy Scouts and two adult leaders, of Troop 76, Harrington, arrived home, Thursday, July 18, after a 5-day hike along the Historical Appalachian Trail in Virginia.

They carried full packs, and helped the Rangers, by erecting fallen trail markers, cleaning trail shelters and reporting damaged trail markers.

Sunday, while hiking atop a mountain, the Scouts, weathered an unexpedited rain storm, with 70-mile an hour winds. The scouts climbed a total of 18 mountains and saw many interesting sights.

They had their pictures taken by many other visitors along the trail and received many compliments on their courtesy and helpfulness, from the visitors and Rangers at Big Meadows. An appreciative family, invited the Scouts to their campfire, after the Scouts had helped to push the family's car from a ditch.

These Scouts are eligible and have applied for the Historical Trail Award: Scoutmaster Louis H. Kemp, assistant Scoutmaster, Oscar Matthews, David Greenly, Chuck Peck, Wayne Melvin, Allen Greenly, Doug Clendaniel, Gail McReynolds, Edward Wheatley, John Brown, Jackie Hopkins, T. Glenn Layton, David Chandler, Patrick Ryan, Elwood Hughes, Edgar L. Graef, Oscar Matthews, Joe Stewart, Keith Beauchamp, Aubrey Brown, Vernon Hood and Michael Adams. The Scouts of Troop 76, sincerely thank Carlton Goodhand, Nyle Callaway, Roland Melvin, Raymond Brown, for taking them to their starting point, Eaton Hollow, Shenandoah National Park, and Roland Melvin, Raymond Brown, Charles Peck, and Fred Greenly for bringing them home.

"Sports Odds And Ends"

Jim Sharp, Felton High School's state broad jump champion of 1947, was a visitor at Wheeler's Park Sunday afternoon. This writer has wanted to interview him for a long time so we seized the opportunity.

Ralph Gray, now of Harrington, Sharp and a couple of other Felton lads were practicing track events at their school in preparation for the state title meet at the University of Delaware. Lott Ludlow, of the Felton faculty, gave Jim a few pointers on the art of broad jumping since Felton High had no track team. Sharp worked hard even practicing at home on a homemade layout. He caused a lot of lifted eyebrows at the U. of D. when he leaped almost 20 feet to win the state championship. All his rivals had their skills whetted by many competitive jumps but they couldn't match the green, country boy from downstate. Speaking as a sports fan and sports writer, we are wondering for the umpteenth time in print "Is it not time for Felton High, with an enrollment of at least triple that in Jim Sharp's day, to start a couple more sports' teams. Football is expensive. However, a cross-country team is inexpensive, would fill the present autumn sports void, would insure that all harriers also playing basketball would be in top shape for the cage sport and would lay a good foundation to start a track team next spring for those boys not good enough to make Felton's fine baseball team. Anyone from Greenwood reading this may apply it to the situation at their two-sport school.

Al Bowden and Fred Pegelow, of Seaford, recently managed two teams of mothers of Little League players at a benefit softball game for the Seaford Little League program. Sixty mothers, playing for "Al's Mommas" and "Pegelow's Pigeons" raised $141 as the former team won by a score of 32-13.

Bowden worked in Harrington for the Pennsylvania Railroad. Formerly a huge Penn State tackle he likes to tell of a game he played against Wisconsin when Alan "The Horse" Ameche played for the Badgers. Some monumental, earth shaking collisions occurred that afternoon. Ameche starred for many years with the Baltimore Colts.

Pegelow also works here with the PRR. He was a standout catcher in the Mar-Del Baseball League about the time the writer was a good fielding, weak hitting, weak throwing outfielder, at the age of 17, on the local Mar-Del entry.

Charles Opie, a brother-in-law of Earl Yoder, plays an important role in the building of some of the Offenhauser engines, which have dominated the scene at Indianapolis for years. Opie lived here at one time. He and another craftsman put together a Dean Van Lines Offy which the late Jimmy Bryant drove to a second-place finish in the Indianapolis Memorial Day 500. The same machine driven by Bryant then won the Monza 500 in Italy.

Bob Smith, 16, will represent Delaware in the Junior Olympics 880 yard run to be held in Philadelphia Sunday. Bob attended a science camp in Wilmington for three weeks and was unable to train much. However, last Thursday night he ran a 2.07 half-mile at Baynard Stadium, Wilmington for a new career low. At Baltimore over the weekend he was clocked in 2.07 again although the day was hot, a 15 MPH wind was blowing and the track was rock hard. This latter effort must be considered better than the first because of these conditions.

Plans are underway to hold a three mile race at the Delaware State Fair for the fifth straight year. The Delaware Track and Field Club, which features outstanding runners from all over the state should be well represented. Tentative starting time is 7:30 on Tuesday night.

Belles Split Weekend Games

Friday night the Belles were beaten by a mixed congregation of men and women from Asbury Church with a score of 11-7.

Saturday evening the Belles traveled to Camden-Wyoming ball park to play the Camden-Wyoming Little League Mothers. The game proved to be more or less of a practice session for the Belles as they swamped the mothers 18-0.

This Friday night the Belles will meet a team from Dover at the Moose field at 8:30.

Georgetown Hurler Throws Perfect Game

The Harrington Senior Little League All-Stars met defeat at Georgetown in a rare fashion as the opposing twirler never allowed a Harringtonian to reach first base. The winning team's right fielder made two fine, running catches. Everything else hit by Harrington went right straight at an opposing defender. Many local fans attended the game. They were very well pleased with the game turned in by Tom Peck's boys.

Renny French, on the mound for Harrington, was extremely stingy with the base knocks and pitched well enough to win most ball games. As luck would have it, Georgetown played sloppy, defensive games in beating Milton and in the championship final when they downed Mill Creek-Christiana. But against us they were letter-perfect.

Hog Prices Holding Steady; Outlook Good

There's good news for Delaware hog producers — farmers are holding steady on hog production. This means hog prices should be at profitable levels for the next year or so.

Farmers saved 50 million pigs this spring according to USDA reports. This is scarcely 1 percent more than they saved a year ago. And its only half as much as is needed to match the population growth.

Another good indication is that farmers said in June that they would have 6.2 million sows farrowing from June 1 through November. That's only 1 percent more than farrowed last fall. If farmers stay true to their intentions, supplies won't be large enough to overburden the market and depress prices.

Market supplies this summer will be one or two percent larger than last year. Also there will be more competition from beef and broilers. Supplies of both may be up more than 5 percent. Market supplies for October, November and December won't be much different from those of last fall.

In general it can be said that hog farmers have done an exceptionally fine job in balancing production with demand over the last several years thus assuring themselves of modest profits. The twelve months ahead should be equally profitable.

she appears, necessitating an ever present guard. She was trapped for several hours in a hotel in Santos, Chile, waiting for the Governor to send mounted troops to clear the way. The President of Brazil called her "The Best Good-will Ambassador that America had."

Brenda herself is full of the same life and vitality that has made her voice carry across the oceans and into the entertainment palaces of the world. Perhaps that is her real secret.

STOCK CAR RACES

The top feature money back to Maryland with him. Coming from Washington, D. C. will be the 1961 National Modified King, Gine Guthrie, still driving his modified Ford No. 118. Last year's champion has already said he'll be on hand this time. Eddie Krouse of Richmond, Va., is expected to have the Plymouth motor back in his modified mount. This will be the same car and type motor with which he won his crown.

Dean Pelton, Silver Spring, Md., a top contender on stock car tracks from Daytona Beach, Fla., to Old Bridge, N. J., although he doesn't know if he will be driving in the sportsmen or modified ranks.

Also on hand will be the State of Delaware's top modified pilot and the holder of last year's championship, honors, Johnny Martin, of Lewes, Del.

All box seats in the fair's all-steel 5,000 grandstand have been sold, but there are still a very few reserved seats available. These will be sold on a first come, first served basis. Reservations may be made by calling 398-4269 or writing to the Secretary, Delaware State Fair, Harrington, Delaware.

SCHOOL BOARD

The Board interviewed Frank Glazier, Jr., of Skowhegan, Me., for the position of physical education instructor and head football coach. Following the interview, Mr. Glazier was unanimously elected to the position.

The Board, after studying the list of applicants for the position of custodian, decided to offer the position to Arley Webb of Harrington to the Harrington School, and Solomon Anderson at the West Harrington Elementary School.

The question as to the use of the playground facilities at the Harrington School was thoroughly explored. The Board unanimously agreed that some method for the allocation of agreed upon a plan that calls the facilities must be made, and for any organization desiring the use of the facilities to get written approval at least one week in advance. This approval will give priority to those organizations having received it. Each organization in town has been notified by letter regarding this decision of the Board.

The Board announced the use of the field house by the Jaycees for a teenage dance Tuesday evening, July 23, on a one-time basis.

It was announced that bids for the replacement of the floor of the field house would be opened on the 29th, and it was hoped work on this floor could be started almost immediately.

HOUSE GETS

funds and the state 60 per cent. The Blendt amendment would call for a total authorization of $57,666,245 of which the state would provide $37,116,195 and the local districts $20,550,050.

It also would place supervisory authority for the construction in the hands of the State Board of Education and provide for each district to set aside 1 1/2 per cent of its maximum total cost to pay for the supervision.

Wilmington representatives contend that the state should pay all of the costs of their schools since that is done for Negro schools in the state. They may not support the Blendt amendment for that reason.

Under the Blendt amendment the state would still pay the total cost for all schools that are attended only by Negro students and for vocational schools.

Sandy Luce Rodeo
 On Children's Day

One of the most exciting shows in the outdoor amusement industry has been contracted for an appearance at the Fair on Children's Day, Tuesday, July 30. Fair officials have engaged the Sandy Luce All-Girl Racing Rodeo, a group of lovely equestriennes who, with their spirited horses, perform some of the most daring racing events in the country. Feature attraction of the one-hour and forty-minute show is a dynamic half-mile Chariot Race. Often called the most dangerous sport on wheels, the Chariot Race combines color, speed and showmanship for precision racing at its best. Another highlight is the Roman Standing Race in which the girl participants balance precariously above their charging steeds in a full half-mile running event. These and other races are further supplemented by a number of colorful act and exhibitions in front of the grandstand, providing thrills, music, comedy and entertainment for the entire family. The troupe has performed at the Canadian National Sportsman's Show in Toronto, Roosevelt Raceway on Long Island, The Washington, D. C. International at Laurel, Md., plus many of the larger fairs and expositions in the east. Local fair officials have secured the show, the only unit of its kind, in the interests of continuing their policy of providing the best in grandstand entertainment.

Church news for Sunday, July 28th. Sunday School at 10 a. m., Robert H. Yerkes, Sr., general supt., Alvin Brown, supt. of the Junior Department, and Franklin Morgan supt. of Missions, and Mrs. William Scott, supt. of the Cradle Roll. Although it has been vacation time and the attendance hasn't fallen off too much. Worship Service begins at 11 a. m. with the Prelude, Mrs. Agnes T. Webb at the organ. Call to worship by the pastor, Rev. H. Norman Nicklas who will conduct the service and deliver the Gospel message. The minister delivered a very interesting sermon last Sunday morning, his subject being, "Why Religion," and the solo by little Miss Debbie Appt. Those who do not attend these worship services should try to be present and enjoy the services. Our mission is to impart God's love. Mrs. James Smack has been ill for some time and her condition is slightly improved at this writing and we do hope she makes a speedy recovery. Mrs. Pearl Messick also seems to be doing very nicely at this time and hopes to be out before too long and we trust this hope comes true. Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Morgan, daughter Connie Kay, Mrs. Anna T. Hawkins and Raymond Beauchamp spent Sunday in Washington, D. C. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Parvis and daughter, of Hyattsville, Md., spent the weekend with the Josiah Parvis's. Mr. and Mrs. Jack D. Kennedy of Bear, Del., returned to their home on Wednesday evening after spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. Emory Webb. Mrs. Elizabeth Schwartz, of Magnolia, spent the weekend with her sister, Mrs. Laura Minner, while the Franklin Morgans were away. Mrs. Mae Impswaller, of Chester, Pa., has been a house guest of Mrs. Edna Sapp. Mrs. Impswaller will be remembered as the former Mae Collins. Mr. and Mrs. Emory Webb and their house guests Mr. and Mrs. Jack D. Kennedy were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. Paul Greenlee and family out Shawnee way on Tuesday evening. THURSDAY 7 a.m. - 11 p.m. Food booth at fair. 6 p.m. Girls' softball practice. St. Stephen's invites all the public to stop for refreshment at their state fair food booth. Working at the fair booth, on various shifts will be more than 60 St. Stephen's volunteers, plus several others who have been hired to work in the place of members who cannot work for one reason or other. The net proceeds from last year's fair booth was $1500. The booth is a benefit project and the profit goes toward debt reduction. Notice please our softball and physical fitness programs have slowed down. However, those softball players who are free should practice Sunday afternoon as they are to play Asbury II at Harrington High School August 7. St. Stephen's was proud of her team this past Sunday even though the M.E. Church defeated them 10 to 6. The M.E. Church team seemed more experienced and matured in the main, and for our team of high school and junior high school boys to hold them at a 10-6 score was good indeed. There Have Been Some Changes Made Time was when buses stopped everywhere. Some still do as they are dandy for local trips. But today there's also a faster kind of Trailways service known as thru express. Thru express takes you great distances without change and with less stops enroute. Many 200 mile trips are made non-stop; and very often a bus will travel 500 miles with only 2 or 3 stops. DELAWARE BLOOD BANK SETS THE PACE

Re-printed from Evening Journal, July 17, 1963

The Editors of Changing Times magazine seem to have a high regard for two of Delaware's leading non-profit institutions in the field of health insurance . . .

In the July issue it is the Blood Bank of Delaware that gets the accolade. The article is headed "The Blood Bank Mess," and is substituted "More blood is needed, fewer donors are at hand." The author tells of the difficulties now suffered by the Red Cross— which collects about half of all the blood collected—and by various community or hospital blood banks or blood insurance plans.

The magazine article speaks of the "unique and very successful blood insurance plan started in Wilmington, Del., in 1955 by a civic-minded insurance broker, James F. McCloskey." It adds that the plan "covers over 190,000 people, or two-fifths of the state's population." There is a brief explanation of how the plan operates—the dollar enrollment fee, the dollar a year dues, and the promise to give, or to supply, one pint when asked . . .

"The Delaware plan differs from most other insurance plans in that no applicant is ever turned down. People over 60 are welcome, even those afflicted with chronic blood diseases or known to require large quantities of blood. These members, of course, must get someone else to donate a pint or else pay $25."

How often does a Delaware Blood Bank Member have to give or find a pint these days? Not often, but once in eight years. As the magazine says, the Delaware plan does work beautifully—and graciously. One member got 198 pints! The idea is working also on the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

It is one thing to see how the Delaware plan stacks up nationally. It is another thing for the family who hasn't yet joined, to do so. There just isn't any better bargain anywhere.

Notes An Executive Committee meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Asbury Methodist Church was called Monday afternoon, July 22, by the president, Mrs. Floyd N. Nasser to formulate plans of the society during the fall. The meeting was held in the church office. Mrs. Nasser opened the meeting and Mrs. Fulton J. Downing, spiritual life secretary led the group in a prayer. A moment of silent prayer was observed in memory of Mrs. Ruth Minner, long time member of the society, who passed away June 24. Mrs. Downing also brought the group a resume of the activities at the School of Missions which she attended from the 15th to 19th at Wesley College, Dover. Saturday, Sept. 28, the society will hold a supper and country store in the Collins Building, Mrs. Nasser announced that the following circles and leaders will have charge of the various booths. Aprons and needlework, Rebecca Circle, Mrs. John Curtis, and Dorcas, Mrs. Wallace Hanson. Candy and baked goods, Deborah Circle, Mrs. Theodore Harrington and Esther, Mrs. Abner Hickman. Shockley, Jr. Any member who might have items for any of the booths is urged to contact these leaders about such items. Mrs. Harrington announced that the Deborah circle will serve a dinner to members of the combined committees on radio and television for the Baltimore and Peninsula Conferences, Sept. 17. A meeting of the committees will be held in Asbury Church that day. Fri., Oct. 25, the local society will play host to the Dover District fall meeting beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning. A luncheon will be served before the afternoon session. A meeting of the program committee will be held soon with Mrs. Donald McKnatt, chairman.

From this will come other dates of interest to members. The first meeting for the fall will be Sept. 10 at 7:30 in the Pathfinder's Room of the Sunday School. Veterans News A smaller-sized American flag, more suitable for display, is now being prepared by the Veterans Administration for use at veteran's burials. Leon Fields, Manager of the VA Regional Office, Wilmington, Delaware, said the change was made at the order of John S. Gleason, Jr., Administrator of Veterans Affairs, since the flag now being issued to drape a casket is too large for any functional use by the family of the deceased veteran. Customarily the flags have been given to the next of kin or the closest friend of the deceased after they have been used to drape the casket during the burial service. Mr. Fields said these flags have been 5 feet by 9 1/2 feet in size. Administrator Gleason has held the opinion that the flag would mean much more to the family of the deceased were they able to display it. Thus, the new flags will be 4 1/2 feet by 7 feet. Blue prints and specifications are now being drawn up to permit manufacture of the new flags. They will be sent to VA Field Stations, to Post Offices and to Embassies and Consulates in foreign countries for issuance at the time of a veteran's death. However, Mr. Fields pointed out, there are more than 100,000 of the older, larger flags already on hand at depots and the above distribution points. These older flags will continue to be issued until the supply is exhausted. Officials estimate it will not be until October-November that the newer, small flags begin to be used. At the present time, about 15,000 flags are being issued each month. During the past twelve years requests for flags have increased from 81,000 annually to more than 170,000. Building Permits Kent County Taylor Manufacturing Co., Smyrna, factory, $150,000. Ervin S. Byler, Clayton, residence, $7000. John Pleasanton, Dover, residence, $1000. Manor Park Co., New Castle, three residences in Dover at $21,000 each. Anthony I. Reynolds, Rd 2, Milford, residence, $8500. Jacob Speicher & Nyla, Hartly, improvements, $2500. Grace M. Green, Felton, residence, $10,000. Marie A. Lloyd, Dover, improvements, $1500.

Three Bragazzi, Pantomimists At State Fair The Three Bragazzi, a team of comic pantomimists and knock-about artists, keep things moving at a merry pace at the Fair where they are holding forth from Tuesday to Saturday. The three agile performers are real funnymen - their routines are well thought out and extremely well-staged and they know how to put them across for good results. One outstanding routine is a violin playing sequence during which the three pretend they are Frenchmen and become incredibly entangled during the process of a concert. Another routine, finds one of the brothers on the mike for sound effects, and the other two brothers in chairs representing an early vintage auto, with the Bragazzi conjuring up the picture of a joy ride in the days when motoring was more of a sport than it can ever be in a new Jaguar. A brief history of them tells us that the Three Bragazzi are a third generation of show business performers; that two of the boys began their careers at the age of five in the Nouveau Circus in Paris; the third brother being the last born began his career several years later—that with their parents, they moved to Spain at the outbreak of World War I. They remained in Spain for 18 years during which time their father instructed them in acrobatics, comedy, etc. All three brothers worked in an acrobatic act called "The Three Goretti" and together with their father they had a clown act called the "Four Albano." With these two acts they made a world-wide tour working in France, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Greece and many others. As a result of these two acts, they developed them into their present act, which they began in 1942. In Feb. of 1944 they escaped to Sweden from Denmark in a little fishing boat and since that time have made Stockholm, Sweden, their residence. The Three Bragazzi have worked all the top supper clubs and have performed in the leading circuses throughout the world. Here in the United States the Three Bragazzi have played in Las Vegas, Chicago, Texas, New York. They have made several appearances on the Ed Sullivan television show. The Three Bragazzi's talents are many—singers, comedians, acrobats, as well as musicians. All are combined in a rapid-fire act which has brought them enthusiastic notices from many lands. One thing is for sure, there is never a dull moment when they are on stage! Four Season Smash Hit With 'Sherry' The Four Seasons, who are currently riding the top "100" in Cash Box with "Sherry" on Vee Jay Records, were unknown just days before the record was released. Proof-positive of the show biz dream of the 'overnight success' is the fact that the boys are now a household name among record buyers across the nation. All four boys hail from New Jersey. They are Frankie Valli, Bob Gaudio, Nick Massi and Tommy De Vito. Except for Gaudio, who joined the group after leaving the Royal Teens, the other boys have been working together for about six years as the Four Lovers. Prior to their current smash, everything seemed to be going wrong for the group. However, on a chance visit to New York, Frankie met independent record producer Bob Crewe. Crewe decided the group could still make it if they were given the proper material and took the artists under his wing. The second record they came up with was "Sherry." The rest is history.
