

LEWES FERRY TERMINAL TO BE NEAR GUARD STATION

The ten-man Delaware River and Bay Authority swung into high gear Tuesday, when they took options on the Chesapeake Bay Bridge and Tunnel Commission ferries and decided that the Lewes ferry terminal should be built near the Coast Guard station along Delaware Bay.

There were three possible areas for the terminal as outlined by the engineers, Parsons, Brinkerhoff, Quade and Douglas. One was at a point near Cape Henlopen; the second at the Coast Guard station, the third near Roosevelt inlet.

Howard S. Abbott, Authority member from Georgetown, said he was notified by the Lewes Chamber of Commerce that it was on record as favoring the Coast Guard location and that in a telephone conversation with Mayor Otis F. Smith he thought it to be the proper site.

Abbott said that Mayor Smith favored the extension of Route 24 from Millsboro to the proposed new limited access highway rather than the Route 18 connection to Georgetown suggested by the engineers and the Delaware State Highway Department.

Director of Operations William J. Miller, Jr., said that a preliminary survey of the Route 24 extension revealed that it would cost approximately one million dollars more to construct than the Route 18 plan. Action was deferred on selection of the route to provide further study.

A representative of Parsons, Brinkerhoff, Quade and Douglas also pointed out, after recommending the terminal site that a second breakwater is now contemplated there which would add $900,000 to construction costs. He said however, that this would cut down the number of inoperative days (set aside for bad weather) from 20 to five days and that additional revenues during the additional fifteen days would more than cover the cost.

The Authority demanded that more information and cost figures be supplied before it is definitely determined whether the offices and service facilities are established on the Jersey or Delaware side of the bay. Contributing factors will be access to fuel and water supplies for the ferries.

In other action taken, the resignation of Charles H. Salmon as bridge superintendent, effective Sept. 1, 1963 was accepted, but no steps were taken to replace him in the number Two bridge job.

The Farmers Bank of the State of Delaware and the Camden, N. J. Trust Company were named lead banks, each to be responsible for placing one half of the interim loan requirements of the Authority, estimated at $15,000,000. This is the approximate amount required to retire the remaining indebtedness on the present span, acquisition of the ferries and construction costs in establishing

Girl Scout Camps Successful

Camping at day and resident camps operated by the Chesapeake Bay Girl Scout Council is at an all-time high this summer, according to Mrs. Charles Martyn, Jr., program chairman. Ninety-eight "camperships" have been awarded to Council girls this year, in a concerted effort to bring this important phase of the Girl Scout program within the reach of all.

Facilities for individual campers are operating at capacity, with openings available for troop camping under supervision of troop leaders. Grove Point, on the Sassafras River, has 500 registrations in four 12-day sessions this summer, an increase of 150 over last year, Mrs. Martyn said. Camp Cannon, a day camp in Dover scheduled for a capacity of 60, has had to expand operations to accommodate 86 girls, and other day camps in the 14-county area are also straining at the seams.

Troop camping facilities are available at Camp Todd, Williston, Md., and at Camp Eleanor Snedeker, near St. Georges, where the formal day-camp program has concluded for the season. Additional facilities for troop camping will open at the end of camp sessions for individuals in early and mid-August at Country Center, Hockessin, Nassawango, Salisbury, Md., and Grove Point. Based on troop reservations already made at Council headquarters, additional hundreds of girls are expected to participate in camping trips organized by troop leaders in summer and fall months.

Mrs. Paul Callaway Found Dead From Gunshot Wound

Mrs. Paul Callaway, 35, was found dead early yesterday morning, at her home on U. S. 13 north of town, as the result of shooting with a 22-caliber rifle.

Her husband called the Bridgeville Troop of the State Police at 2:06 a.m., and said his wife had died of a self-inflicted wound. She was pronounced dead at Milford Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Callaway, it was reported, had been emotionally disturbed.

State Police are continuing the investigation.

Food Spoilage Problem to Be Field Day Topic

How long can leftover food be kept? Is that year-old package of frozen beans still good? Is the picnic potato salad safe to eat the next day? Is there any danger in canned tuna fish?

Answers to these and other questions about food spoilage will be given at a special program at Farm and Home Field Day Aug. 7 at the University of Delaware's Georgetown Substation. The program will be conducted by Janet Coblentz, extension food and nutrition specialist from the university.

Miss Coblentz, assisted by Frances Shoffner, Sussex County home economics extension agent, will discuss the causes of food spoilage and explain how to prevent it. They will also explain how to tell whether food is safe to eat and will have an exhibit showing various types of food spoilage.

Miss Coblentz will outline various ways to preserve food including the most satisfactory methods of freezing, canning, drying, and adding chemical preservatives. The program will begin at 10 a.m.

In the afternoon, Farm and Home Field Day visitors will have an opportunity to participate in one of the research projects under way at the Substation. Miss Shoffner has frozen seven new varieties of strawberries which were grown at the Substation in a test to find the ones most suitable for the home freezer. Visitors may taste the berries and vote for the ones they feel are most satisfactory.

Other highlights of the annual Farm and Home Field Day will be tours of the research activities going on at the Substation, a "Sick Plant Clinic" where farmers and homeowners may consult the experts on plant problems, two Civil Defense exhibits and a chicken luncheon.

All programs, tours and exhibits are free of charge, and everyone in Delaware is invited to attend.

Agricultural Research To Be Shown Aug. 7

A look at the latest research projects of agricultural scientists, an opportunity to have experts diagnose "sick" plants and a demonstration on preventing food spoilage will be open to all Delawareans next week. The annual Farm and Home Field Day will be held at the University of Delaware's Agricultural Substation near Georgetown on Aug. 7 with these activities featured.

The more than 60 research projects under way at the Substation will be shown on hourly bus tours throughout the day. Among these research projects are tests in disease, weed and insect control on field and garden crops, fruit and vegetable breeding and variety tests and extensive research in poultry diseases and housing.

Homeowners and farmers who are puzzled by unhealthy garden, house or field plants may bring specimens to the Sick Plant Clinic for diagnosis by University specialists in entomology, horticulture, plant pathology and agronomy. Microscopes and other equipment will be set up for use in determining the causes and cures of the plant ailments.

Two programs are planned especially for women. At 10 a.m., Janet Coblentz, extension food and nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware, will discuss the causes of food spoilage and methods of preventing it.

Lost Boy No Rarity at Fair

A little boy ran down a street at the fairgrounds Tuesday, crying, "Mommy, Mommy."

Mrs. William A. Smith, a State Fair Association employee, chased and finally caught him. "What's your name, little boy?" she asked. "Nobody," the little boy cried.

The tearful youngster was one of several hundred who get lost at the fair on Children's Day every year, according to fair officials. Tuesday was no exception.

"Tell them to announce that a little boy about 4 is lost," Mrs. Smith told a co-worker, "and that he is wearing white clothes and has sandy hair."

While Mrs. Smith's ice cream offer was turned down by the boy, his mother heard the announcement. "Here she comes now," Mrs. Smith said as Mrs. William Hemphill came to claim her son.

"We really have the lost kids on Children's Day," Mrs. Smith said, and she was backed up by switchboard operator, Mrs. Lester Hatfield, who said, "there must be 200 or 300 who get lost during Children's Day" and 50 or 75 during a normal fair day.

Most of the stray-child situations end quickly and happily, Mrs. Hatfield said. "But one family last year went home to Easton, Md., without their little boy." "We kept him here and entertained him for about two hours until they returned for him."

Tuesday all the youngsters managed to go home with their parents.

They were there in all shapes, sizes and combinations and seemed to love every minute of it. Children—from toddlers to teen-agers—parade through the exhibits, hovered around refreshment stands and kept the many rides packed.

A highlight of the day—children were admitted without charge—were the pony races. Winners of the three events were Mary Crisco, 14, of Bridgeville, Ronnie Carey, 15, of Hartly, and David Moore, 16, of Bear.

Other events on Tuesday's program included 4-H Club judging contests, the Sandy Luce All-Girl Thrill Show and judging and shearing of sheep.

Winners of the pony races in all three classes received $25 prizes. The top five finishers in each class, all over a half-mile course, were:

Class I (ponies under 45 inches)—Mary Crisco, Dale Mattee, Michael Derrickson, John Hammond and Allen Derrickson. Winning time: 1:08 3-5. "Nickey" was the winning pony.

Class II (ponies under 52 inches)—Ronnie Carey, Nancy Hurd, Edward Simms, Eugene Dill and Roger Bullock. Time: 1:06. "Swiftly" the winning pony.

Class III (under 58 inches)—David Moore, Roger Moore, Tony Crisco, Jerry Kovach and Elmer Warren (ridden by Preston McKnatt. Time 1:05, fastest of afternoon. "Prince" the winning pony.

9th District Democrats To Picnic Wednesday

The Ninth District Democrat Club will hold its annual picnic Wednesday at 5 p. m., at Wheeler's Park. All Ninth District Democrats are invited.

There will be games for young and old with prizes for the winners.

Lt. Peterson Injured In Diving Accident

Lt. Karl L. Peterson, USN, suffered a fractured vertebra Sunday while diving at Key Box Road near Dewey Beach, Sunday. He is in Dover Air Force Base hospital.

Lt. Peterson is married to the former Shirley Simpson, of Harrington.

Mrs. Joseph F. Steward

Mrs. Nellie Steward died in the Wilmington General Hospital July 26. She lived all her life at Canterbury until moving 3 years ago to Wilmington.

She was a member of the Betsy Ross Council, Daughters of America, and the old Canterbury Methodist Church. Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Helen S. Wright, Juno, Fla.; Mrs. Ruth Woodall, Wilmington; and Mrs. Elizabeth Gamble, Martinsburg, W. Va., and a son, G. Johnson Steward, Felton; four grandchildren, and five great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held last Sunday from the Berry Funeral Home, Felton. Rev. Charles Adkins, retired Methodist minister, officiated. Interment was at Barrett's Chapel Cemetery, Frederica.

Saturday, August 3, closing night of the fair, will feature the versatile comedian, Frank Fontaine, who has tickled the nation's TV funnybone so successfully on Jackie Gleason's "American Scene Magazine" show. Frank Fontaine has made gigantic strides in the entertainment world and is universally popular.

University Days For Women Scheduled Sept. 6-7

An opportunity to go back to school for two days will be available to all Delaware women when the University of Delaware Home Economics Extension Service holds its annual University Days for Women.

Scheduled for Friday and Saturday, Sept. 6 and 7, University Days will feature programs and classes on flower arranging, experimental cooking, sewing clothes with a designer's touch, creative art and many other subjects. More than 300 women are expected to attend.

"One of the most popular facets of University Days in the past has been the chance for the women to live like college students and stay in a university dormitory," according to Mrs. Alice King, state leader of Home Economics Extension. "It's really a vacation with an opportunity to learn new things that will help in your job of homemaking," she says.

University Days for Women is planned so that homemakers may attend both Friday and Saturday sessions, staying in the dormitory Thursday and Friday nights, or they may attend either Friday's or Saturday's programs.

Using the overall theme, "Widening Your Horizons through Understanding and Appreciation," University Days will open with a symposium on "Science, the Arts and People," featuring experts in each field.

Saturday's general session will be a panel of physicians and marriage and family counselors discussing problems in human relations.

The class and demonstration sessions each day will be conducted by experts in music, flower arranging, food and nutrition, arts and crafts, textiles and sewing and literature.

A banquet will be held on Friday evening with Mrs. Randle Elliott as the main speaker. Mrs. Elliott, former dean of women at the University of Delaware, is the wife of the president of Hood College, Frederick, Md.

Cost for University Days for Women will vary depending on

Register Now For Kindergarten

The Little School Kindergarten will accept registration for children age 5 before January 1, 1964. The hours are 9:30 a. m. to 12 noon, 5 days a week.

Opening date will be Sept. 16 and will run until the middle of May. The location will be either in Harrington or Felton pending registrations. Class not to exceed 20 children. For more information call 398-8855 or 284-4168.

This would be a branch of the Little School in Dover which has been in operation going into the 10th year.

Harrington Special Classes Increased

Two special classes have been added, one in the West Elementary School and one in the Dorman Street School. The special class for the trainable has been transferred to the new Kent County Trainable School in the Caesar Rodney District. Transportation will be provided for those who attended the school in the Armory last year.

The addition of the class in the Dorman Street School will enable the Harrington School to provide the needed services to all age levels. Age limits for these classes are regulated by the State Department of Public Instruction. The break down of the classes are age 6 to 9 (Mrs. Greenhaugh), age 9 to 13 (Mrs. Luff), age 13 to 17 (Mrs. Baynard) and age 9 to 13 (West Elementary School, Miss Barbour). All of these teachers have had training in special education.

These classes provide individual and specialized help for the slow maturing youngster, who finds himself lost in a regular class situation. The special classes are limited to a maximum of 15 students per class by State regulation. This smaller class size enables the teacher to give the individual help needed. The students in these classes participate in all school activities, such as sports, art, music, assemblies and so forth. The placing of a student in a special class requires an individual aptitude and achievement tests administered by the County School Psychologist and approved by the State Director of Special Education. These classes are very carefully supervised.

Federal Study Of Primehook Water Levels

The Department of the Interior's Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife has begun a survey of water levels in the Primehook area.

This special topographical study is being made by the Bureau in order to make sure that water management plans for the new National Wildlife Refuge will not interfere with established farm practices on private lands adjacent to the Refuge.

Bureau engineers will be working in the area to determine the elevations of streams, ditches, culverts, marsh and farmlands, so that an accurate contour map can be made.

Permission from owners and tenants of private property will be sought by engineering personnel before surveying on privately-owned lands.

This project is being carried out as a result of conferences with the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, interested State agencies and local citizens who have manifested concern about drainage and irrigation matters.

State Fair Shooting for 100,000

Feature attraction of the Friday evening grandstand show at the Delaware State Fair in Harrington will be Brenda Lee, one of the nation's most popular singing stars.

Saturday afternoon the big auto racers will take over the half-mile dirt track. Time trials will begin at 1 p.m. as some of the nation's top drivers compete.

Frank Fontaine, comedy star of the Jackie Gleason television program, will headline the grandstand show on Saturday night, final night of the fair.

The Delaware State Fair is shooting for a total attendance of more than 100,000 people this year to top last year's record 80,000 total.

General Manager George S.

Simpson said Monday this is a reasonable mark to aim for—if the weather holds and barring a repeat of last year's near disastrous wind and rain storm which struck on opening night.

Saturday night's crowd of 11,000 set a new opening night record. On Sunday, 5000 visited the grounds, a normal figure for that day, Simpson said.

In fact, if any records are broken at the 44th annual event (second of the Delaware State Fair—it was Kent-Sussex Fair for 42 years) the weatherman may come in for an assist.

A check with the U.S. Weather Bureau at Greater Wilmington Airport discloses a forecast of cooler, drier weather than last week's.

The outlook calls for a warming trend Thursday and Friday with cooler temperatures again Saturday.

As for showers and thunder showers which roam the countryside following a long dry spell, they are possible, said the weatherman.

But the possibility of a freak storm such as last year's hitting the fair grounds is pure chance agreed Simpson and the weatherman.

A year ago the just-set-up midway of the Cettin-Wilson Shows was ripped by heavy wind, causing more than $100,000 damage. There was also damage—from torrential rains and wind—to the fair buildings, but not as serious as that to the midway.

Simpson noted that the storm was responsible for some loss of business for two days before attendance picked up. On the last day of the fair last year an all-time high of 21,000 visitors packed the grounds.

"That's a pretty high mark to shoot for," Simpson said. "We got off to a really good start Saturday and we hope to do 100,000 this year."

Last year's 80,000 total could be topped easily this year if the weather holds, he said—even if the one-day mark isn't reached.

As for fair plans in event of freak storms or high winds, Simpson said there just aren't any.

"There really isn't much we can do," he remarked.

"When a man's got a tent and the wind comes up it's (the tent's) going to go down. There isn't much you can do with a thing like that."

Simpson said a high wind struck briefly at Milford Saturday night causing some power line damage. But no such winds were felt at Harrington, within 15 miles of Milford, he noted.

Heart Fund Falls Short of Goal

A total of $145,113.50 was contributed to the 1963 Heart Fund in Delaware.

Dr. Richard N. Taylor, president of the Delaware Heart Association, announced the total after final reports were submitted June 30.

The 1963 total fell about $5000 short of the goal of $150,000 established last spring, and about $3,000 short of the record total received last year.

In spite of the overall decline, Heart Sunday contributions were greater than the 1962 totals. The 6,000 Delaware housewives who conducted a door-to-door appeal February 24 and the week following collected $55,622.89. Another $8,529.86 was mailed in by residents who were not at home when their neighbors called, bringing the total for Heart Sunday to $64,152.75. This compares with $61,748.36 for the preceding year.

Corporate and business gifts were lower than in 1962, while funds raised by special events were slightly above the corresponding figures for last year.

The annual Heart Ball grossed a total of $11,567 this year.

Dr. Taylor expressed regret that the hoped-for $150,000 was not raised, but expressed "sincere thanks to the thousands of Delawareans who gave their financial support to this vital effort."

Mrs. Allen Werst

Mrs. Mary E. Werst, 81, widow of Allen Werst, died Monday in Nanticoke Hospital, Seaford, after a long illness.

Formerly a Philadelphia resident, she had lived at Greenwood 10 years. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Esther S. Lyons, Greenwood, and a grandchild. Services were held yesterday morning at the Hardesty Funeral Home, Bridgeville. Interment was in West Laurel Hill Cemetery, Philadelphia.

Inspection Lanes Open Extra Hours For Inspection

Beginning Aug. 7, motor vehicle inspection lanes will be open extra hours, 4:30 p.m. to 8 p.m., for inspection only.

All lanes will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. for regular business as usual. The lanes will be open only for inspection from 4:30 p.m. to 8 p.m.

This will be in effect until further notice.

McDowell Says New Federal Policy Needed

Congressman Harris B. McDowell, Jr. (D-Del.) told the Congress that a new Federal policy is needed which will make our excess federally owned land available to all of the people all of the time, not just to some of the people some of the time.

He said he had introduced a bill, H. R. 4705, which incorporates the principal substantive provisions relating to programs administered by the Department of the Interior which were included in legislation sent to the Congress by President Kennedy.

The Delaware Congressman urged members from the populous states, as well as members from the Far West and North, to support his bill.

He said: "The need for this bill will increase as more and more of our God-given shoreline—a precious national resource—is conveyed into private holdings, commercial or residential."

President Kennedy, in his message to the Congress on conservation, said: "I recommend that the Federal Surplus Property Disposal Act be amended to permit States and local governments to acquire surplus Federal lands for park, recreation, or wildlife uses on more liberal terms."

Congressman McDowell called his colleagues' attention to the report of the Outdoor Recreation Resources Review Commission, headed by Laurence Rockefeller, which pointed out that under the present law:

"State and local governments must pay 50 per cent of the appraised value of land suitable for public park and recreation use. Appraisals of these properties often are high because of their potential commercial or industrial values. For this reason, 50 per cent of the appraised value is frequently out of reach of State and local governments. As a result, the properties are sold to private commercial developers, and potential public park or recreation areas are lost."

Congressman McDowell, Jr., told his colleagues of the difficulties he was having in trying to secure the return to Delaware of some 500 acres of excess lands

She will make an appearance as the guest of the fair on Friday evening only, August 2.

Speaking of Insects

with Dale Bray

Delaware produces more lima beans than any other state except California, yet the yield per acre is quite low in comparison with other states. One reason for this is the host of insect problems that affect lima beans. These same problems also plague the growers of snap beans and soybeans.

One of the most important insect pests of the "beans" is the corn earworm, also known as the tomato fruitworm. This is the insect commonly found in the ears of sweet corn, from which it gets one of its names. As corn ripens and dries the earworm seeks more succulent plants and the most abundant ones in Delaware during late summer and early fall are the various beans. The worms bite the pods and often crawl inside to feed on the bean itself. Early plantings of beans often escape this damage because the earworm is still in the corn.

Unfortunately, most lima bean growers can't plant their beans until after they harvest their crops of peas. As a result the lima beans are just reaching their most attractive stage when the corn plant is losing its appeal to the earworm. Not only does this pest cut down on production, but it also may end up being canned or frozen along with the beans. Cannermen and processors become greatly concerned over this, and they spare no effort to keep the "bugs" out of the beans.

Our light trap records and field observations indicate that this is going to be a bad year for corn earworms; bad, that is, from our point of view—not the earworm's. The first moths of this species appeared in the state earlier than usual (they migrate up from the south each year), and the number of earworms in various crops is higher than usual. We even are finding large numbers of them in alfalfa this year.

To protect the beans, most growers rely on Sevin. If it is applied during the time the buds are setting fruit and again about one week before harvest the pods will be protected. An added bonus is the control of other insects, especially the tarnished plant bug which can cut down on pod-set by sucking sap from the blossom stem. Wherever they do this the pods fail to develop. Leaf-feeders such as the Mexican beetle and the green cloverworm, also are killed by Sevin. DDT can be used for the corn earworm, but if it is, the vines cannot be fed to livestock, whereas Sevin sprayed vines can be used for fodder. Spraying soybeans usually does not pay for itself. It seems that leaf feeders don't affect yields of soybeans as much as they affect yields of other beans. If they feed heavily on the leaves during the time the pods are setting, however, there may be a reduction in yield. One of the best ways to avoid corn earworm injury on soybeans is to plant early so that the pods are hardening and consequently less appetizing to the earworm when it deserts the corn.

Our largest hornet is on the wing now. It is the cicada killer, a large, handsome species with a distinct black and yellow body. These huge wasps dig holes in lawns and then place one paralyzed cicada in each hole. One egg is laid on each cicada and the hole sealed up with soil. The egg hatches producing a small maggot which begins eating the paralyzed cicada. As it grows it keeps eating its victim, always avoiding the vital organs so that its "meal" doesn't die and putrefy. During the maggot's final days of growth, it consumes the remainder of the cicada and then emerges from the soil as an adult wasp about one year after the egg was laid. The wasp then flies off in search of a cicada which it paralyzes with its sting. Then it places the victim in another hole to start the cycle over again. These wasps seldom sting humans—fortunately. If you want to get rid of them in your yard, dust the holes with Sevin or DDT. This won't kill them immediately, but in a few hours the wasps will die.

Timonium Fair Sends Out Premium Books

Prospective exhibitors throughout Maryland and surrounding areas this week received a copy of the 1963 Premium List Book for Timonium Fair.

Twelve-thousand 220-page illustrated premium list books for the Maryland State Fair have been printed and copies of the list may be obtained, free of charge, by calling Clearbrook 2-0200, or by writing to the Maryland State Fair and Agricultural Society at Timonium, Md.

Howard W. Clark, newly appointed President of the Maryland State Fair and Agricultural Society, announced that an amount in excess of $94,000 in premiums, awards, and ribbons will be distributed at the forthcoming 1963 Fair, Aug. 26 to Sept. 4, inclusive, at Timonium.

The 1963 premium list is an illustrated catalog of daily programs and events and has been expanded over last year's list to include the many new classes, rules and regulations, as well as this year's activities.

John M. Heil, vice president and general manager of Timonium Fair, has emphasized the importance of mailing entries of all events before the deadline date of Aug. 1. Schedules, catalogs and pamphlets must be printed for distribution before the Fair opens Aug. 26. All entries in the dairy cattle, beef cattle, swine, sheep, horse, and pony shows close Aug. 1.

The annual State Fair in Timonium has long been a traditional event and 1963 marks the 82nd year for this tremendous exploit. As always, farmers and the 4-H boys and girls, future Farmers of America, will present to the general public displays and demonstrations which have been fomented during the year.

In the near future we will publish an enlarged calendar of events for old and young visiting the Fair this year. Many new features have been added. The Midway will be fun and thrills for all, under the direction of Ben Weiss and Dave Endy, stated Howard W. Clark, president.

Watermelon Growing Lagging

Melon production has been slowed by cool weather at the start of the growing season, the manager of the Farmers Auction at Laurel said Monday.

Carmel L. Moore, the manager, said that lack of prolonged hot spells probably would result in smaller watermelons and cantaloupes than in former years.

But he predicted that the number of melons passing through the auction market, which opened Monday, will be about the same as last year, although the tonnage will be less.

The market, he said, opened a week later than last year because cool weather retarded the crop.

Prices also are running higher this year, he said. Monday, he said, 2,000 cantaloupes brought 20 cents a piece wholesale, while last year melons of comparable type sold for as low as 10 cents.

The auction will be open until the latter part of September. The three principal crops going under the hammer during the summer are cantaloupes, watermelons and sugar babies, a small type of watermelon.

The subject of the Rev. Donald Washburn's Sunday morning sermon was "Perfect Virtues." The newly elected officers and secretaries of lines of work of the Woman's Society of Christian Service were inducted into office by the Rev. Washburn. Mrs. Donald Washburn whose name was not mentioned as an officer in last week's paper is secretary of student work. The shut-in of the week is Mrs. Sallie Dill at the Welfare Home, Smyrna. Mrs. Dill is in her 95th year. Let's remember her with our prayers and cards. Thanks goes out to Mrs. Margaret Kates who helps to beautify our service with her flowers each week. The Sunday morning friendly greeters were Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Torbert.

There will be an important meeting of the Board of Trustees tonight, Fri., Aug. 2, at 8 o'clock. The July meeting of the Willing Workers Sunday School Class was a picnic held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kelley, last Wednesday evening. The president, William D. Hammond, presided at the business meeting. The president announced that the class had purchased a chair for the parsonage and that approximately $46 was made by the class at the Street Fair. The August meeting will be a picnic to be held at Courseys Mill Pond, Aug. 23 at 6 p.m.

Last week's guests at the parsonage of the Rev. and Mrs. Donald Washburn and daughter, Susie, were the Rev. Washburn's parents and brother, Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Washburn and Billy, of Cooperstown, N. Y. Miss Charlott Ludlow has been spending two weeks at Camp Audubon, Me. Mrs. Lynn Torbert and Mrs. Russell Torbert spent Tuesday in Wilmington. Mrs. Fred Ludlow, of Springlake, N. J., is visiting her son, Mr. and Mrs. Lott Ludlow and family, Charlott, Nancy and Sammy.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Warren and family, Patty, Downes and Janie, are spending most of the summer at their cottage at Lewes Beach. Barratt Simpler and Miss Annabel Morrow spent the weekend at the Simpler cottage in Lewes Beach. Gary McWhite, of Wilmington, after spending three weeks with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Steward, is now at Camp Tockwogh, Md. Lee Hughes, of Kirkwood Gardens, Wilmington, was a Saturday evening dinner guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reed Hughes. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Melvin, of Baldwin, L. I., N. Y., and M/Sgt. and Mrs. Thomas Melvin, of Laurel, Md., spent the weekend with their mother, Mrs. Ella Melvin, who observed her 84th birthday Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Failing, Jr., have returned home from a week's vacation at Lewes Beach. Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dill were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth East and Mr. and Mrs. William Parsons, of Seaford. Mrs. Thelma McWhite, of Wilmington, spent Saturday night and Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Steward. Mrs. McWhite was her for the funeral of her grandmother, Mrs. Nellie Steward, Sunday. Mrs. George Wyatt is a patient in the Kent General Hospital, Dover.

Dr. and Mrs. Howard Henry and son, Michael, who are visiting her parents, spent Sunday in Trenton, N. J., with Mrs. Henry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Zenger and her sister, Mrs. Robert Fegley, Mrs. Fegley and their daughter, Barbara. Mrs. Anne Sharp returned home Sunday after a visit with relatives and friends in Hershey, and Harrisburg, Pa. and Wilmington. While in Wilmington, Mrs. Sharp was ill and a patient in the Riverside Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Griffin and family, Diane and Mayo, of Washington, North Carolina, are the guests of Mrs. Griffin's sis-

The Rev. and Mrs. Olin J. Shockley, Jr. and Mrs. W. W. Sharp spent last weekend in Ocean Grove, N. J. Cynthia Hawke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hawke, of Smyrna, is the guest this week of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Spicer.

Word has been received of a former resident, Mrs. Mae Koontz, now of Marcus Hook, Pa., having the misfortune to fall last week and fracture her hip. She is now a patient in the Delaware Hospital in Wilmington.

G. Robert Quillen and Ronnie Bancroft spent the weekend in South Dakota and visited other places of interest enroute. Melvin Luff, James Testerman, and Edward Kline, of the Felton School faculty, were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Luff, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Shultie have had as their guest for the past few weeks their grandson, Jimmy Shultie, of Virginia.

Mrs. Charles Peck, Jr., along with Mrs. Bordon Smith, of Milford, and Mrs. Harold Schabinger, and Mrs. Leland Price, of Felton, attended a picnic recently at the summer home of Mrs. William Cann, of Wilmington, on the Bohemian River. Mrs. Cann entertained these ladies as they were the presidents and officers of the Delaware State Federation of Women's Clubs during her administration.

Miss Deborah Shockley spent a week with her grandmother, Mrs. Beston, in Ocean City, Md. Miss Susan McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold McDonald, is attending the North-Eastern MYF workshop being held at Locoming College, in Locoming, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hawke and daughters, Sheila, Wendy and Valerie, of Smyrna, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hearn.

Mrs. Edward Braun and children, of Wilmington, spent a few days this week with her mother, Mrs. Robert Baynard.

4-H News

The Delaware State Fair of 1963 has few hours left. I'm sure many of you have stood in the 4-H building and realized the hours of work our youth have put into their exhibits. To assist in preparing the building were: Lois Wiebel, Thelma Thomas, Marlene Kenschak, Whiteoaks; Sarah Moore, Sharon Walls, Harrington Sunshine; Karen Brown, Chris Jump, Beatrice Stayton and Linda Stayton, Houston Cardinals. Leaders assisting were Mrs. Herb Stayton and Mrs. Alvin Brown. Recalling that last November Westville 4-H Club won the County Window Display, they had their exhibit in the 4-H building. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rusanowsky and Pete have spent many hours preparing the exhibit.

Some blue ribbon clothing winners are: Donna Attix, Dover; Rachael Blechman, Hartly; Karen Brown, Houston; Fredia Carey, Dover; Marie Clinton, Wyoming; Betty Clough, Wyoming; Diane Cooper, Harrington; Barbara and Susan Foskey, Farmington; Joy Gooden, Dover; Ann Hall, Frederica; Janice Harrison, Goldsboro; Ann Hoffman, Harrington; Merry Hollis, Houston; Marjorie Hudson, Frederica; Joanne Hughes, Dover; Marlene Kenschak, Nancy Kenschak, Hartly; Tillie Kukulka, Harrington; Marilyn Jarrell, Harrington; Carolyn Jones, Wyoming; Chris Jump, Houston; Darlene Masten, Clayton; Connie and Debbie Moore, Dover; Sara Moore, Harrington; Karen Outten, Greenwood; Beatrice and Linda Stayton, Houston; Thelma Thomas, Marydel, and Shirley Waski, Dover.

Andrewville and Honey Bee's leaders Carl Wright and Barton Torbert report the second baseball game went to Andrewville.

Several summer club activities are to be held in August. Chestnut Grove leader, Mrs. Becky Nickerson reports on August 10 a club project exhibit and family picnic. While on the same day Whiteoaks is to hold a group project exhibit at the Hartly Church. Our County leaders picnic chairman, Mrs. Becky Hollinger, announces plans are proceeding for the County Leaders Picnic, August 11.

The Dover Diamonds July meeting found Helen Grapp of Oak Grove as their speaker on 4-H activities, particularly Fair events. Connie Moore, Chestnut Grove, presented a demonstration at an earlier meeting. Paradise 4-H club reports their members have been busy with the harvesting of their corn. This club raises quite a patch of corn and tomatoes to support their club activities during the year. Our 4-H year is coming to a close rapidly and members should be busy these next few weeks putting their records in order. Their project records report all each member has done since last September in their projects and in all 4-H activities.

You can become a 4-H'er in September—watch for announcements of club membership later this month.

Rehoboth Beach Fetes Oldster

Rehoboth Beach entertained its oldest vacationer last week.

He is Dr. George J. Berlinghof, of Scranton, Pa., who will mark his one hundredth anniversary on Sept. 20.

The slight old gentleman who gained renown in his native area as country doctor and surgeon, could be seen leaving the New Henlopen Hotel daily to enjoy the sun or a cool breeze under a cabana.

Accompanied by his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Berlinghof, of 3908 North Charles Street, Baltimore, the centenarian spoke freely of his early life and the career which he had undertaken.

He finally gave up active practice about a year and a half ago when he sold his Scranton property and moved to a convalescent home. He graduated from Hahnemann Medical College, Philadelphia in 1893. This was his seventieth anniversary year.

He regaled those who spoke to him, including Gov. Elbert N. Carvel of Delaware, who was introduced, with stories of his early youth, and how once he and a friend rode high wheel bikes from Scranton to Washington, D. C.

"This took several days and we were really in bad shape when we got there. You can bet we found other transportation home. It was around 1881," Dr. Berlinghof recalled.

Although he was born in New York's Bowery where his father was a physician and friend of Dr. Karl Schurz, the family moved to Pennsylvania, and as a youngster Dr. Berlinghof earned his first money by working in a barber shop and actually becoming a barber. Always addicted to reading, he would sit in the "tonorial parlor bathroom," he says, to read at every chance he got. He saved his money and finally got through school and medical college.

He was one of the founders of Scranton's Hahnemann Hospital, where he says a small group of dedicated people struggled for years to assist those who needed medical and surgical care. He became known as a surgeon and diagnostician, and says he performed more than 1400 operations.

Dr. Berlinghof also helped bring 1700 infants into the world and he had comment on that subject.

"When you see these cute little fat fellows run around today, you know they are getting proper food and are being properly cared for. In my younger days we lost many children because of dysentery—a dreaded disease then—for we just didn't know what to do about it."

Dr. Berlinghof is not entirely sold on the highly specialized medical profession of today. "We used to be doctors and tried to care for people. Today we have a lot of blood-suckers. They're just interested in taking a lot of money from people."

Finally he was asked how he managed to stay in business so long. This was his answer: "I was still doing pretty well in my early eighties. Then some newspaper fellow got a story and printed my age. After that my business went to the devil—nobody wanted an old man for a doctor anymore."

Letter to the Editor

July 27, 1963

To the Editor:

In the current issue of our Georgetown newspaper, The Sussex Countian, there appears a letter written to the editor by Mr. Samuel M. Williams, of Harrington.

In Mr. Williams most thoughtful letter, he expresses appreciation for the good sportsmanship displayed in state Senior Little League Tournament game between the Georgetown All-Stars and the Harrington All-Stars played in Georgetown on July 18th.

The exemplary conduct of the spectators, players, umpires, and officials that he describes was quite in evidence in our other two games and resulted in a tournament of the highest calibre.

Many other baseball fans, like Mr. Williams, also said that the Georgetown-Harrington game was the finest exhibition of baseball they had ever seen.

We were so impressed with Mr. Jack Aptt, of Harrington, who served as umpire-in-chief during this game, that we asked him back to officiate during our final game with the Mill Creek-Christiana All-Stars.

His fine performance undoubtedly contributed greatly to the success of the tournament and the good conduct of the spectators and players.

We offer our many thanks to Mr. Aptt and all the Harrington Little League players and fans for giving us a most happy and memorable experience.

Sincerely,
Harold S. White, President
Georgetown Little League

DELAWARE STATE FAIR

Marguerite Eleanor Weaver
Poet Laureate for the State of Delaware 1962

A sparkling jewel within the crown of Delaware, attracts from farm and town to Harrington, where all is impelled to present a Fair still unexcelled.

Inside the circle of rich green land is gathered the harvest we command. Displays invite you to ramble there to see the First State's production fare.

Judges are ready with ribbon and bow on the best of exhibits to bestow. Competition keen-many partaking vie for honors in homemaking.

Farmers around show the best of breed - learn also about the latest seed. Tractors, plows and every machine show how to lighten daily routine.

Races are ready to bring to the fore the finest pacers and trotters galore. Performers and hawkers are in gay mood. Delmarva's famed chicken is succulent food.

Thus - is offered for your pleasure bountiful things in true measure. Our Governor adds his full share of honors bestowed on the Delaware State Fair.

es of the Federal government itself.

"Conveyances of Federally-owned land at a profit back to the States from which they were originally obtained may make some bureaucrat look good to his immediate superior, but it speaks little for the traditional fairness of the Federal government itself.

"Prime recreation facilities are essential in view of the rapid expansion of the Nation's urban areas as well as of our exploding population."

Never has the Reese Theatre presented such a Super Family Show as is listed for this Friday, Saturday, Aug. 2-3-4. Open the final days of the fair, the management has gone all out to present the block buster of the season. Jack Mahoney as "Tarzan" in MGM's new super adventure, "Tarzan's Three Challenges," orients the top spot in this entertainment sizzling show, with Columbia's new "Jason & The Argonauts" in the second slot. It is suggested by the management that mom and dad bring the family. All children under 12 years Free if with parents.

Unusual interest has been aroused with the announcement that Paramount's Donovan's Reef with John Wayne along with Robert Taylor and Jean Caulfield in "Cattle King," will play Movie Center Friday, Saturday and Sunday, August 9, 10-11. The Liston Patterson fight pictures is the added attraction on these dates.

The vicar and vestry wish to thank all who helped in any way with the fair booth project. The turnout of workers and contributors was the best yet. Surely, with such co-operative efforts, St. Stephen's can look forward to a bright future.

Please notice that the ball game scheduled for Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. is at the high school. Let us see to it that there is a good cheering section there, to help us defeat Asbury II.

Saturday, the E.Y.C. officers and advisors, with the vicar will leave the church at 9 a.m. for a day of planning at the George Thompson's at Dewey Beach.

Each participant should bring a box lunch, and should plan to stay for a cook-out supper.

It is with a great deal of delight that we read on our parish house bulletin board that six Cuban families, totaling 24 persons are to arrive soon in Delaware, where they will live, sponsored by six Episcopal Churches of the Diocese of Delaware.

Edwards Hold Eighth Annual Reunion

The eighth annual Edwards family reunion was held July 28th in Wheeler's Park at Harrington.

Everyone came with covered dishes and plenty of iced beverages and by 1:00 p. m. when dinner was served the table was well covered and the benches crowded with hungry folks.

Everyone enjoyed the delicious food and had a wonderful visit with one another. The children had lots of fun in the park and swimming pool while the older men had quite a throw with horse shoes.

New officers were elected and Horace Edwards will serve as president with Robert Edwards as vice-president, Mary Aufrecht as secretary, and Carl Brown as treasurer.

Those attending from Dover were Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Hughes and sons; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Austin, Glenn and Janet; Mr. and Mrs. Gus Stella and son, Nickie, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Worten and son.

Those from Felton were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hughes, daughter Marilyn and children; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Quillen and children; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Browne and children.

From Denton were Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Edwards; Mrs. Herman Zeitler and daughter; Hugh Williamson and Mrs. Ruth Williamson.

From Greensboro were Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Edwards, Mrs. Florence Taylor, Ann Taylor; Mr. and Mrs. John Riffle and son; Sarge Griffith; Mr. and Mrs. Kellar Edwards; Marion Stubbs; Mr. and Mrs. Horace Edwards and children; Mrs. C. C. Williamson, Sr.; Mr. and Mrs. Granville Williamson and Jody; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bilbraugh and son; Mrs. Thomas Wasley and children; Mrs. C. C. Williamson, Jr. and daughter, Nancy; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Edwards; Clarence Russell and children; Harold Edwards; Mrs. Alma Edwards; Mr. and Mrs. Zeth Weaver, Sr.; Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Edwards; Mr. and Mrs. Lelare Edwards; Miss Lulu Heavlow; Mrs. Ethel Thornton; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Williams; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Edwards and son; Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Passwaters.

From Glenn Arm were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wood and daughter.

From Washington were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Aufrecht and Frederick May.

From Plainfield, N. J., were Harvey Walls and son.

From New Castle were Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Sherwood and sons; Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Johnson and children; James Voshell and Miss Irene Aashley, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Edwards and children.

From Ridgely were Mr. and Mrs. H. Coursey Edwards and son; Mr. and Mrs. Lovis Diefenderfer.

From Wilmington were Mrs. Smith Simpkins and daughter Susan and son, Smith.

From Milford were Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Callaway.

S. B. A. News

The relationship between food manufacturers and food brokers—specialists in finding customers for their clients' products—is highlighted in a Small Business Administration summary of a study made by the University of Delaware.

In announcing the release of the management research summary, "Marketing Through Food Brokers", Edward N. Rosa, regional director of SBA's Philadelphia Office, said that the study was conducted by the University of Delaware under a management research grant from SBA.

The objectives of the report were to provide information on the functions of food brokers, to give brokers a better perspective on their marketing position, and to help foster better operating relationships between manufacturers and brokers.

The report outlines the role of the broker as a partial alternative to a manufacturer's sales force. "Brokers operating in one specific locale," the study states, "can often develop more effective selling relations than company sales representatives."

If a manufacturer is considering an outside selling service, researchers advise a thorough analysis of the broker's aggressiveness, integrity, wholesale and retail customer contacts and experience with the manufacturer's type of product.

Brokers themselves, the report urges, should only take on a client whose product can be worked into the existing sales structure and not conflict with products already being handled.

Although a broker may be able to perform the function of selling very effectively, the summary cautions manufacturers that general marketing management—ad-

Quality Important In Using Freezer

With the summer food freezing season in full swing, it's a good idea to take a look at last year's freezing operation and make any changes necessary so you won't make the same mistakes again, says Katie Thomas, Kent County extension agent, home economics.

Take a look at the contents of the freezer now. If there are quite a few packages of fruits or vegetables left from last summer, is it because the family doesn't care for that food, or because you froze too many packages, or because you were "saving it for later"?

Remember even though most fruits and vegetables can be kept for a year at zero degrees or colder, they lose flavor as well as vitamins when stored too long, so check the dates on the packages and use the foods promptly. And if there are a lot of leftover packages of one food, take this into consideration when freezing this year's garden crops. After all, it doesn't make much sense to have to eat up last year's frozen beans when your garden is full of fresh ones, she remarks.

On the other hand, if your freezer was only half filled for most of the year, you probably aren't getting your money's worth from it, Mrs. Thomas points out. It costs money to operate a nearly empty freezer, just as it does to run a well-filled freezer; in fact, she notes, the operating cost per pound of frozen food goes down as the freezer is filled. However, be sure you don't overload the freezer, because overloading keeps the foods from freezing quickly enough to maintain quality. Check the freezer operating manual for freezer capacity, and then don't exceed it. Another important point to consider is the quality of your frozen foods, Mrs. Thomas says. If they weren't of as good quality as you would like, there could be several reasons. First of all, freezing does not

The ferry options extend for 60 days from July 16, 1963 according to a joint announcement made Tuesday by Lucius Kellam, chairman of the Virginia Authority and J. H. Tyler McConnell, chairman and Theodore C. Bright vice chairman of the Delaware Authority.

The option involves sale and purchase of five ferries and the tanker, plus the boats' spare parts, docking bridge and connected equipment for $3,800,000. This would include the steamers Pocahontas, Princess Anne and Delmarva plus the diesel powered ferries Virginia Beach and Old Point Comfort.

As an alternative option a price of $4,000,000 would include the diesel vessels Accomac and Northampton. Each of the ferries is capable of carrying 60 to 120 passenger cars and up to 1,200 passengers.

It was also announced that Knowland Chandler, general manager of the Virginia ferry route, be employed in that same capacity by the Authority at a salary of $22,500. He will work on a per diem basis until such time that the Virginia ferry ceases operations and ships are transferred to the Lewes-Cape May site.

OF VALUABLE REAL ESTATE AND AGRICULTURE

In the afternoon, visitors will have an opportunity to assist in a research project being conducted at the substitution. In the tests, seven new varieties of strawberries which were grown on Substation plots have been frozen, and visitors will be invited to taste the berries and vote for the ones they like best for use in home food freezers.

Another feature of Farm and Home Field Day will be a chicken luncheon at noon, followed by a short program. Dr. George M. Worrlow, dean of the School of Agriculture and vice president of the University of Delaware, will speak briefly. Free watermelon will be served to all visitors in the afternoon.

A number of special exhibits will also be set up on the substitution ground. Several pieces of new farm machinery will be demonstrated during the day. Another exhibit will show various insects and the damage they do to field and garden crops. Two Civil Defense exhibits will feature models of different types of fallout shelters, along with suggestions on shelter supplies, radiation detection equipment and other emergency preparedness supplies.

All the tours, programs and exhibits will be free of charge, and the chicken dinner will be sold at modest cost, with proceeds going to the Delaware Poultry Improvement Association. Sussex County 4-H Clubs will sell refreshments throughout the day.

J. Frank Gordy, Substation director, is chairman of Farm and Home Field Day.

Windowless House, New Era in Broiler Production

Visitors to Farm and Home Field Day at the Georgetown Substation Aug. 7 may well be witnesses to the dawn of a new era in broiler housing on the Delaware peninsula. At least that's the opinion of Frank D'Armi, poultry research worker and chief guardian of the University of Delaware's windowless broiler house. He says the 5000 birds placed in the house on June 4, have gone through some of the hottest weather that has come to the area in many years without suffering the consequences usually expected during such a period of heat stress. Preliminary figures indicate that the birds have out-gained birds raised in a conventional house, their feed conversion has been better and their mortality rate lower.

McDowell Backs Committee on Small Business Bill

Congressman Harris B. McDowell, Jr. (D-Del.) has introduced legislation to make the House Committee on Small Business permanent and give it full legislative authority to develop germane amendments to the Small Business Act, and the Small Business Investment Act of 1958.

At the present time, the House Small Business Committee is not permanent, and does not have authority to develop legislation. It is continued from Congress to Congress and does not have the great advantages accruing to permanent standing Committees of the House which have permanent staffs, and clear fields of legislative operation.

Congressman McDowell said this week: "Small business has always been one of the major segments of our nation's economy. My bill would make the House Small Business Committee a permanent standing Committee with full legislative authority."

"The Senate Small Business Committee is permanent. 55 Senators are now sponsoring a bipartisan bill to give the permanent Senate Small Business Committee full legislative authority, similar to that which my measure would provide for the House Small Business Committee."

"I think the House of Representatives should be willing to give the nation's 4 1/2 million small businessmen the same recognition and aid which the Senate is giving them. My measure would save money, by avoiding duplication and delay which are part and parcel of the present legislative system in the House."

"At the present time, the House Small Business Committee cannot legislate, no matter how long and how thoroughly it studies any problem of great interest and concern to small businessmen. It always has to refer its studies to Standing Committees of the House for final action."

"These Standing Committees occasionally consider these studies by the House Small Business Committee in writing specific legislation. However, we must also recognize that other committees often take no action on these studies but simply file them. Just as often, too, these permanent Standing Committees find they cannot reap full advantage from the studies of the House Small Business Committee because they are not as familiar with the problems of small business as the House Small Business Committee is."

CHEMICALS HELP SOYBEAN WEED CONTROL PROBLEM—Dr. Richard Cole, University of Delaware Agronomist compares soybeans on the left with weed-free soybeans. The weed-free beans have been treated with a weed control chemical that is generally available to farmers. The weedy beans received no treatment. Neither plot has been cultivated.

FENCE TALK
With George Vapaa

Wild blackberries! When did you last pick them? The harvest is good this year once you have found the right spot.

Those of us with a rural background who have shifted into second gear at forty may recall our experiences as children picking berries. I well remember walking all over Iron Hill near Newark with a kitchen kettle to reap at three cents a quart the fruit that wound up in the bucket. It always seemed that we ate more when several children went out together. But maybe it was just that the temptation to go swimming in the creek (yes, creek) was greater with a crowd.

A person doesn't have to be told twice to cover up when going for blackberries. Chiggers, ticks, mosquitoes and flies are all natural hazards, not to mention an occasional snake or rabbit.

Too, you learn to set down your pail so it won't tip over and spill out the fruit. Both hands become free to pick as well.

How do you find the good spots? I look for small open glens along a woods and preferably near a running stream. Don't be satisfied with what you see at the tips and on the tops of the bushes. You have to tramp down some of the vines to get inside and under where the biggest berries are usually found. They'll grow back the next year.

Jams, jellies, mush (with potato flour to thicken it), and I've heard even a fermented liquid, were products to be enjoyed over the winter. The fresh fruit, topped with cream and powdered sugar, or covering homemade ice cream still create nostalgia.

So who cares about the hot sun, a few scratches, a dry throat? Picking blackberries is great fun!

Lightning costs American farmers $30 million each year. Farmers can save money with lightning protection two ways: by preventing loss of life and property and by reducing the cost of fire insurance.

Lightning follows the line of least resistance. The air through which lightning must pass between clouds and the earth has high resistance. Materials used to construct buildings have less resistance than air. When a barn or other farm building lies between the clouds and the earth, lightning usually goes along the line of low resistance that they provide.

Lightning protection systems for buildings give lightning ready-made lines of low resistance. This is done by providing unbroken pieces of material to have lower resistance than anything else in the immediate area. A protection system routes lightning along a known controlled course between the air and the earth. Well installed and maintained lightning protection systems are more than 90 per cent effective.

New installation should conform and meet the requirements of the underwriters master label. Ask your contractor for this label. It covers materials and installations according to the high standards and inspection requirements imposed by Underwriter Laboratories, Inc.

For more information on lightning protection, ask for USDA Bulletin F-2136 "Lightning Protection For The Farm." It's available through our County Extension office, telephone 736-1448.

The beauty of some ornamental plants around your home may be only skin deep. Poison may lurk within, so care is needed.

The seeds of castor bean plants are attractive to children for play purposes but if one or more is eaten the results may be fatal. If young children play where castor beans grow, examine the plants for clusters of flowers or fruit.

easily mean an extra 180 bushels of corn.

That's a gross return of $180 if corn sells for a dollar a bushel. Even after subtracting the cost of the fertilizer, and other increased costs, the farmer still comes up with a near profit of about 80 dollars on a ton of fertilizer. That's 10 to 15 times what the manufacturer or dealer can make. Farmers should keep fertilizer on top of their best buy list. And don't try to economize on it; a penny saved isn't always a penny earned.

Snakes Can Be Friendly, Too

The idea that most snake bites are poisonous is one of the more picturesque items in our national folklore. The fact is, however, that of all the varieties of snake found in the United States, only a limited number of the poisonous types are at all common.

These are the rattler, the copperhead, the cottonmouth moccasin, and the coral snake. For the most part they are encountered in deep woods or in the higher reaches of mountains. Snakes found near houses, except in parts of the Southeast, are typically harmless and in fact often useful as natural means of pest control.

Snakes of any kind, venomous or not, will rarely bother you unless you bother them. Most snake bites are sustained in the leg when an unwary hiker steps over a rock or a log and sets foot on or near a snake. The moral: step on the impediment first and take a good look at what's on the other side.

Also fairly common are the snake bites that result from overturning a rock or prodding under it with a stick. Moral: don't get too inquisitive about rocks. On the other hand, almost any snake if encountered in the open is likely to give you a polite stare and go about his business.

An effective antidote, called antivenin, has been developed for just about every kind of snake bite poison known. If a snake bite results in inflammation or pain, the victim should be taken to a doctor or a hospital without delay. First aid consists, most importantly, of immobilizing the patient, applying a tourniquet, and sucking out and ejecting the contents of the wound. A tourniquet should not be made tight enough to interfere with arterial circulation and should be loosened for one and one-half minutes every quarter hour.

Bob Smith Wins A.A.U. 880 in Philadelphia

Bob Smith, son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert H. Smith of Harrington, won the most important race of a promising track career, when he overcame a field of champions to capture the half mile run in the Middle Atlantic Junior Olympics Track and Field Championships held at the Northeast High School bowl, Philadelphia on Saturday afternoon.

Bob competed in the Intermediate Division which is made up of 14 and 15 year olds. He had won the qualifying race held at Baynard Stadium, Wilmington, last month and was representing Delaware against a field of rivals, who had won similar qualifying tests in Philadelphia and other areas in Eastern Pennsylvania and Southern New Jersey.

Since the Middle Atlantic champ may get to represent that area in Chicago against other A.A.U. districts, all the half milers were anxious to break the tape and win the trip.

Smith got into the pole in third or fourth place shortly after the start. Almost immediately a flock of runners went by and he had to leave the rail and run in the middle of the track to stay in contention. Bob went into the lead after one lap of the quarter mile track and stepped up the pace as he moved away from everyone except the tenacious Bob Reese of Lancaster, Pa. Reese trailed by five yards coming into the home stretch and could only whittle this margin slightly as Smith staggered home on leaden legs in 2:07. The Delaware champion in adding the Middle Atlantic title to his laurels ran a courageous race, under a blazing sun, on a lousy track.

George Johnson, one of four Philadelphia entries, was a distant third. Other entrants were from Penns Grove, Pennsauken and Merchantville in New Jersey, and Nazareth, Schwenksville, Upper Moreland, Mannheim and York in Pennsylvania.

Harrington Beats Taylor & Messick

Tuesday night, July 23, saw Harrington extend their win streak to 7 games as they knocked off Taylor & Messick 8-2. Taylor and Messick jumped to a 2 to nothing lead in the second inning on two errors, a sacrifice fly and a wild pitch. Harrington went into the lead in the third as David Adams drove in the winning tallies with a double. Jack Sapp and Dave Welch each hit two-run homers. Porter, Welch and Short had two hits each. Taylor & Messick was paced by Tibbitt with two hits.

Glenn Smith Cops Eastern Zone Junior Shoot Title

Glenn Smith, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gayle B. Smith of Harrington, won the Junior Championship crown in the Eastern Zone Championship Tournament of the Amateur Trapshooting Association held at Thurmond, Md., on Saturday afternoon. Glenn was up against boys from Connecticut, Delaware, District of Columbia, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, the Province of Ontario in Canada and all Canadian provinces east of Ontario.

Smith broke 194 targets out of 200. As Del. State Champion he had already qualified for the American Junior Championships to be held later this month in Vandalia, Ohio.

At Thurmont he shot against rivals up to the age of 18. A veteran shooter says he does not recall the junior title ever having been won by a Delawarean before.

Taylor & Messick Downs Ruritans

Thursday night, July 18, Taylor & Messick bested the Ruritans 9-7.

Scoring four runs in the second, one in the fourth, and adding four more in the sixth, Taylor & Messick jumped to a 9 to nothing lead. In the bottom of the seventh the Ruritans exploded for seven runs and looked like they might pull it out only to see the rally end with the tying runs on base.

The Taylor & Messick attack was paced by Leslie Wix with three hits, and Carl Wright, Tibbitt, and Charles Baker with two each.

The Ruritan attack was paced by George and Bobby Collins with two hits each.

In other action, Chester Short pitched a one hit 16-0 shutout as he no hit the Mavericks for 6 1/3 innings until Barton Torbert got an infield hit to kill his bid for a no hitter. Short was backed up by an 18 hit attack as he fanned 7.

The Harrington School is proud of its special classes, having been commended several times on the excellence of its staff and the fine results that have been attained. Some of the students have made remarkable progress. The members of these classes will all benefit from academic training. They will be self-sustaining, normally functioning citizens upon completion of their 12 years training in school. Academic success is often a matter of mental age. These special classes simply provide the student who is slow in maturing a chance to achieve in an academic situation. In other words, it gives him time to learn without getting lost among his classmates who are getting mentally older faster.

Two of these classes now have waiting lists. This would indicate the acceptability of these classes by the student body and by the community at large. The fine reputation and excellence of these teachers and the understanding of the administration and school board in providing the means for these classes have contributed greatly to this acceptability.

Dill Boys Spark Dover Pony Leaguers

Felton High students, Bob and Bill Dill are key performers on the Dover Pony League state champion team. Bill played on Felton High's Henlopen Conference Champion team this spring. Both lads played football here with the Eagles team of the Harrington Junior Football League.

Against a Kent-Sussex League All-Star team that included several boys from the Felton entry, Bob Dill had two doubles and cleanup man Bill Dill had two singles in a lopsided 12-0 Dover victory. Bill, the elder of the two, has pitched several no-hitters and near no-hitters in Pony play this summer.

Dover plays at Cambridge Wed., July 31, for the peninsula crown.

2 Del. City Boys Make All-Star Football Squad

Quarterback Norm Neal and guard Charley Armstrong represent Gunning Bedford High of Delaware City on the Gold team which will oppose the Blue in the eighth annual Delaware All-High School Football Game.

The game, held for the benefit of the Delaware Foundation for Retarded children, will be held Saturday afternoon August 24, at the University of Delaware Stadium.

Neal, 5-foot-10, 179 pounds was the second highest scorer in the state with 79 points and was named to the All-State third team. He also was selected as Bedford's outstanding player. "Hawk" was vice president of the junior class, a member of Student Council and the yearbook editor.

The 19-year-old athlete is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Neal, Fifth and Hamilton Streets, Delaware City.

"Chuck" Armstrong was also selected on the All-State third team. The 5-10, 170-pounder was vice president of the senior class, yearbook sports editor and a member of Allied Youth.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Armstrong, Clinton Street, Delaware City. Armstrong, 18, will attend Wesley.

Both were key figures as Bedford went undefeated in seven games.

Auto Races at Fair Saturday, Aug. 3

Indianapolis-type sprint cars will roar into action at the Delaware State Fair at Harrington, on a seven-point program set for Saturday afternoon, August 3.

G. C. Simpson, manager of the Delaware State Fair, and H. Hayward Quillen, chairman of the fair's Auto Race Committee, have issued joint statements announcing that Sam Nunis, nationally-known impresario of major speed events, has been contracted to stage the action-packed card.

Nunis, who has staged auto races at Harrington for 28 years, assured fair officials that a field of upwards of 25 top-flight speed stars will be signed up for the card of sprint car auto racing.

The event is sanctioned by the United Racing Club, largest independent governing body of big car racing in the East.

Nunis reported that he has plans to bring in a sensational crowd-pleasing driver from the mid-west to compete against the kingpins of the URC circuit. He is Chuck Yost, a veteran speedway campaigner from Ellyria, O.

Nunis has also mailed entry blanks to the greatest drivers in the East, South and New England states for the championship race to be staged on the half-mile fairgrounds track at Harrington.

These include Bobby Court-right, of Butler, N. J., and Earl Halaquist, of Sidney, N. Y., who finished the 1962 season as co-champions on the URC circuit, a heretofore unheard of feat in the annals of auto racing.

A practice period and warm-ups will get the thrill-packed card underway at 1:45 p. m. Preliminary races will be staged to determine the drivers eligible to start in the 20-lap Delaware State Fair Sweepstakes Championship Race climaxing the program.

Mike Mock Leaves H.S.

Hubert "Mike" Mock, head wrestling coach and assistant football coach at Harrington High School for the past two years has accepted a position at Bedford, Pa. High School for the upcoming school term. Mock started the grappling sport here and developed some pretty tough hoppers. Lewis Starkey and George Bonniwell are two of the best scholastic matmen in this state.

At this writing his successor has not been named. The new mentor will inherit a group of seasoned performers.

Brandywine Raceway News

More than half of the current two-year-old trotting and pacing champions on the national harness scene are slated for action at Brandywine Raceway during opening week of the Summer 30-night meet (Aug. 5 thru Sept. 7), which could mean some new season if not track records right around the corner.

The speedy youngsters will be going after top stake dollars in three separate annuals which have been scheduled in a cluster to help inaugurate the second section of the track's first split meet.

The distaff pacing ranks going after the $10,000-added Pochahontas silver on opening night (Aug. 5) will be out to crack Leola's Dream's 2:04.1 half-mile track mark which the Knight Dream filly inked on June 24 at Saratoga Raceway.

If achieved, the new time would, as well, be a new all-time record at Brandywine for two-year-old pacing fillies since the local standard for that age, sex and gait, set by Bonbon Hanover in 1960, also is 2:04.1.

Leola's Dream, bred by the well-known Gray Brothers and owned now by pretty Baltimorean Carol Grudzinski, is among 104 fillies named to the Pochahontas.

Both the mile and half-mile track champions among two-year-old trotters are named to the second juvenile classic of the opening week, the $10,000 added George Wilkes for colts and geldings, Tues., Aug. 6. They are W. T. Anderson's Girard Mir, which holds the big track record for geldings of his age in 2:07.1, and Trader Horn Stable's Speedy Count which holds both the mile and half-mile standards for colts in 2:06.3 and 2:07, respectively.

The Brandywine record for two-year-old trotting colts is 2:06.2, set by Harlan Dean in 1960.

Two national kingpins also are among the pacers named to the $10,000 added Tom Hal for colts and geldings on Fri., Aug. 9. They are the Post Rail Farm's Iron Rail, which Stanley Dancer wheeled to a snappy 2:03.1 June 27, earning him the title of season's fastest two-year-old gelding on a mile track, and Donald D. MacFarlane's Vicar Hanover, which Billy Houghton guided to a 2:02.4 at the Saratoga half-mile track June 28.

The Vicar's clocking places him first among two-year-olds regardless of sex or track size.

The local all-time standard for two-year-olds is Sly Yankee's 2:02.1 set last season.

Two Dover Schools Have Players in All-Star Game

Two Dover schools, Dover and Henry High, supply one player each to the Gold team in the eighth annual Delaware All-Star High School Football Game.

The classic, held for the benefit of the Delaware Foundation for Retarded Children, will be played at the University of Delaware Stadium, Saturday afternoon, Aug. 24.

From Dover High comes full-back Don Artley, 5-foot-10, 180-pounder.

Artley was junior and senior class president, a member of the National Honor Society and a delegate to the Boys' State. He is bound for Iowa State University.

The son of Air Force Captain and Mrs. Caruel R. Artley, 1093 Circle Drive, Dover, was born in Yankton, S. D., 18 years ago.

Henry's contribution is tackle Bill Waples, 5-9, 185.

Waples, who was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., 19 years ago, was freshman class treasurer and a Student Council member. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vann, of Houston. Waples plans to attend Delaware State College.

A Brief History Of The Waves

Women served with the Navy for the first time during World War I, when they were enlisted in the Naval Reserve as Yeoman (F). These enlisted women, more commonly known as "Yeomanettes", served as translators, draftsmen, fingerprint experts, camouflage designers and recruiting agents as well as stenographers.

Again in World War II, the need for women in the service to supplement the country's manpower was recognized, and on July 30, 1942, the President signed legislation authorizing the enlistment and commissioning of women in the U. S. Naval Reserve. These "Women Accepted for Volunteer Emergency Service" (Waves) were permitted to serve in shore installations within the continental limits of the United States only. However, legislation was passed two years later to permit Waves to serve overseas in Hawaii and Alaska.

The original numerical strength of the women in the Navy was set at 10,000 enlisted and 1,000 officers. This was greatly increased as the war progressed and the Waves proved that they could take over many more jobs than at first was believed possible. The Waves reached their numerical peak in July 1945 when there were approximately 86,000 officers and enlisted women on active duty. These women were serving at 900 naval activities in the United States and Hawaii, performing nearly every type of duty ashore. Among the enlisted women there were gunnery instructors, ballistic experts, Link celestial navigation instructors, and many other skilled technical workers, as well as the large number of clerical, administrative, and medical personnel. In the women officers' ranks, there were lawyers, civil engineers, doctors, linguists, and educators.

Among the ratings in which enlisted Waves are being trained and in which they serve are: aerographer's mate, dental technician, hospital corpsman, electronics technician, journalist, radio-man, and photographer's mate. Women officers are executives and administrators in many fields including: personnel, communications, information and education, public relations and medical services. Waves are on duty in England, France, Hawaii, Italy, Germany, Japan and Brazil as well as within the continental United States.

Today there are approximately 700 officer and 6000 enlisted Waves on active duty. All in all, after two decades of service with the Navy, the Waves have been around for many changes, including the growth of the Atomic Fleet and many advances into space. They have kept up with the changing times, filling many jobs never dreamed of when Congress passed the legislation 21 years ago.
