House Votes $61 Million For School Construction Bond Bill

The House passed and sent to the Senate Wednesday the omnibus school construction bond bill after beating back one attempt to amend it by increasing the amount.

The lone amendment to HB 426 deals with a technicality over the wording and the bill, in its final form, calls for a total bond authorization of $61,351,145 with the state to supply $43,280,097.

The bill received 28 votes (one more than it needed) despite the warning of House Minority Leader William T. Best, R-Rehoboth Beach, that it is going to be the source of trouble.

And there was action in the Senate to indicate that some of the trouble might originate in the General Assembly. Even as the House approved the bill, Sen. Margaret R. Manning, R-Marshtalton, introduced a bill calling for a total authorization of $57.6 million, the amount originally approved by the State Board of Education.

As Mrs. Manning handed up SB 223, several women from her district entered the Senate gallery (they had been in the house) carrying signs indicating they wanted immediate action on a school bond bill.

President Pro Tem Curtis W. Steen, D-Dagsboro, said the women were welcome but made a successful motion to prevent them from displaying the signs.

Mrs. Manning said her bill would call for all construction, with four exceptions, to be done on the traditional matching basis of 80 per cent state funds and 40 per cent local.

The exceptions she said, would be schools for the handicapped, vocational schools in all three counties, traditionally all-Negro schools and two special cases in New Castle County where colored schools have been absorbed into white school districts. She said the latter was a temporary move to expedite the absorption.

Mrs. Manning's bill is the one originally approved by the state board. The House bill was one approved by the state board and the House education committee after representatives had amended the original bill 15 times. That measure, HB 141, was considered beyond salvage.

The one attempt to increase the authorization in the House bill came in an amendment offered by Rep. Andrew J. Casey, R-Mill Creek Hundred. Casey wanted to add $25,000 to the Stanton School District amount so it could build a crosswalk across the Kirkwood Highway "for the safety of youngsters".

But House Majority Leader Norman A. Eskridge, D-Seaford, said it would have to be done for all districts if it were done for Stanton.

Casey's amendment lost and no others were offered.

Rep. Best tried in vain to get J. Ohnum Small, president of the State Board of Education, to say the formula for the state and local shares of the funds was based on the percentage of Negro students in a given district.

Small said, "It is simply that more attention is being paid to individual school population movements" and added that the bill also reflects the ability of some districts to meet better their construction needs than others and said assessed valuation was a factor.

This brought Rep. Everette Hale, R-White Clay Creek Hundred, to his feet to ask if the legality of the bill had been checked with the attorney general.

Hale then asked, "What are you starting here? What will be (Continued on Page 8)"

House Passes Ft Miles Unit

The House swallowed its pride at Dover Wednesday and passed a concurrent resolution that creates a committee of four senators and two House members.

The committee is instructed to do all in its power to secure the return of Ft. Miles to Delaware and to spend whatever funds may be necessary in pursuit of that goal.

In addition to including only two House members—Speaker Sherman W. Tribbitt, D-St. Georges Hundred, and Majority Leader Norman A. Eskridge, D-Seaford—it will have only one Republican member, Sen. Eugene D. Bookhammer, R-Lewes.

The other members are Senate President Pro Tem Curtis W. Steen, D-Dagsboro; Senate Majority Leader Leon E. Donovan, D-Harrington; and the chairman of the Joint Legislative Finance Committee, Sen. Walter J. Hoey, D-Milford.

Memorial Bridge Traffic Still On Increase

Despite a slight dip in pre-Labor Day traffic, Delaware Memorial Bridge registered a 1.8 per cent increase in August.

The latest traffic report issued by Frank J. Horty also notes that the slight decrease in July coincided with the national average of travel which was off for the month according to the barometer prepared by the National Association of Travel Organizations. The bridge consistently shows the trend nationally when the NATO figures are checked, Horty said. So by the rise or fall of Memorial Bridge traffic one can almost determine how the country's highways have been used for that period, he noted.

There were 1,411,858 crossings last month, as compared to 1,387,461 for August 1962, or an increase of 24,397 vehicles.

The report also states that nearly four million vehicles have been registered since June 1, beginning of the 1963-64 fiscal year. The actual figure is 3,971,042. Last year at the end of August the count was 3,935,594. The net gain is 35,448 vehicles.

Because fare were increased on July in preparation for financing a second span parallel to Memorial Bridge and to provide ferry service between Lewes, and Cape May, N. J., revenue was up 68.5 per cent. August 1963 brought $817,885.20 into the coffers while for the same period in 1962 $332,449.50 was collected.

During the latest three months fiscal period, collections have reached $2,046,163.65 as against $1,395,418.95 last year or a jump of 46.6 per cent.

Miss America Contestant Wears Ace Co. Dress

The Miss America Contest Saturday night held a double interest for folks in this locale. Not only was Miss Delaware, Diane Beverly Isaacs, well known here and related to folks in Harrington, but the lovely green wool knit suit worn by her in her first television appearance in the Parade of States at Atlantic City, was fashioned and made by the local Ace Dress Company and was one of Jonathan Logan's new fall styles.

NURSING HOME PLANS ADVANCE C. OF C. HEARS

Plans for another nursing home here are well under way, the Chamber of Commerce learned from Thomas Mulcahy at its September meeting at The Wonder R Tuesday.

He said plans had been submitted and approved, with minor changes; property selected. The home, Delaware Nursing Home, would be on Liberty Street in front of the Corbit Army on land to be purchased from Mrs. Hattie Thomas and Harry Black.

Between 60 and 80 persons would be employed in the nursing home, Mulcahy said. Under the Hill-Burton Act, the federal government would assist. The act aids nonprofit and philanthropic institutions in foundation of medical centers, including nursing homes. An architect's drawing of the proposed nursing home may be seen at Clendening Pharmacy.

In other business, the Chamber voted to co-operate with the City of Harrington in erecting permanent lighting at the municipal water tower. The City hopes to install fixtures permitting normal lighting most of the year, illuminating particularly the lettering on the tower indicating the name of the community, and colored lighting for the Yuletide season.

Mayor Fulton J. Downing, Kent County representative on the State Chamber of Commerce told the group the latter body would conduct its annual downstate tour Oct. 16. Buses would leave Wilmington for Leeds Travelwear, Clayton; lunch at Treadway Inn, Dover; Dover Airbase, with dinner at the Officers Club at the base.

Thomas Peck, president of the local chapter, asked members of the Retail Merchants and Christmas committees to meet with him after the meeting.

U. of D. to Offer Course in Cinema Tv Production

A course in cinema and television production will be offered by the University of Delaware this year under the joint sponsorship of the department of dramatic arts and speech and the division of university extension.

The course coincides with the opening of Delaware's educational television channel, WHYY, and is designed to provide civic and educational leaders with the background required to make more effective use of this educational medium.

John P. Twaddle, WHYY program director, will be the instructor. He holds a master's degree in the communication arts from the Annenberg School of Communications at the University of Pennsylvania and has had 10 years' experience in television production with WFIL-TV and WHYY. Last year he produced the National Educational Television Series, "Lyrics and Legends," a group of programs devoted to American folk songs and folklore.

Introduction to cinema and television production will be given on Wednesday evenings, Sept. 18 to Jan. 8, with meetings divided between P. S. DuPont High School and the WHYY studios, 5th and Scott Sts. The course will introduce the students to the broad range of radio and television production, including methods, technical facilities, and broadcast responsibilities. It also will consider the standards and philosophies of both commercial and educational broadcasting systems. Included in the course will be laboratory sessions with student directed and produced programs on video.

"Old Milford Days" Set for Sept. 21-22

History buffs and others interested in well preserved vestiges of an area's historic past are planning fall visits to Milford, advises the Delaware State Development Department.

As a result of a noticeable increase in requests for information concerning Milford and the many beautiful and well preserved homes of that area, the state information and promotion agency anticipates a record turnout for "Old Milford Days", Sept. 21-22.

Located about midway between Delaware's capital city, Dover, and the site of the first European attempt at settlement in Delaware, Lewes, Milford today vies with both these older communities for the interest of those concerned with historic sites, buildings and relics.

Founded in 1787 by the Rev. Sydenham Thorne and Joseph Oliver, the community, from its earliest days, has been the trading and culture center of a large area. Despite a consistent—but not spectacular growth, the community and its citizenry have carefully preserved relics of an eventful past.

Milford derives its name from a mill located by a ford on the Millspool River. While this particular mill has long since disappeared, buildings still remain that, like the mill, played important roles in the development of the community.

Focal point of this year's "Old Milford Days" will again be the Parson Thorne Mansion, located on "Silver Hill" (501 N. W. Front St.).

The early residence of cofounder Thorne, this English colonial type brick structure was once part of the Saw Mill Range, a pre-Revolutionary War grant from the Duke of York. After passing through many hands, the Parson Thorne Mansion was acquired in 1962 by the Milford Historical Society, as a gift from James Richard Draper, a member of a family long associated with the industrial life of the area. During the past year, much has been done to restore the mansion to its former stately appearance and proceeds from the September 21-22 observance will be used to further this restoration.

A small family burial plot near the mansion contains the graves of the parents of John M. Clayton, a Delawarean who attained international stature as secretary of state in President Zachary Taylor's cabinet.

Christ Church, on the corner of Church Avenue and N. W. Third Street, is another historic building that will undoubtedly attract the interest of "Old Milford Days" visitors. Still used regularly by an Episcopal congregation, this handsome religious edifice was begun in 1791 by the Rev. Thorne its first rector, on land donated by the other co-founder, Joseph Oliver. It still retains many features that tie it to Milford's earliest days.

Of great beauty and historic interest is "Mordington", the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie I. March.

Situated on a tree-shaded knoll overlooking McColey's Pond, this outstanding example of Georgian architecture was built in the 1780's by James C. Douglas and shortly thereafter became the home of his son, Walter Douglas, whose bride, Harriet, was a sister of the aforementioned John M. Clayton.

According to local legend, "Mordington", in pre-Civil War days, was a "station" in the so-called "underground railroad" used by runaway slaves enroute to the north and freedom. While a tunnel allegedly used by these slaves has long since been sealed, evidence of slave quarters may still be seen in the cellar and on the surrounding grounds.

The present owners of Mordington have furnished it with many beautiful antiques and have successfully preserved the charm of this gracious, old residence.

Perhaps the oldest house on the Sussex County side of Milford is the Causey House, at 200 S. Walnut Street. Once (1736) the mansion house of the 1500-acre Levin Crapper plantation, it was remodeled in 1855 by Governor Causey, from whence it takes its name, and still displays evidence of its early elegance.

Milford also offers such landmarks as Eglington Hall (1792-95 with later additions in the early 1800's), S. E. Second Street near Fisher Avenue, another former plantation house; the T. C. Collins residence (1794), 205 S. E. Front Street; the Torbert House, S. W. corner of N. Walnut and N. W. Second Streets, built about 1825 as a tavern on what was then a widely used stage route and which later became the

Mrs. Ney Jailed Anew in Slaying

Superior Court Judge George R. Wright Jr. revoked bail on Mrs. Dorothy E. Ney Tuesday and committed her to prison pending trial for first degree murder.

Mrs. Ney, accused of shooting her husband, Frederica businessman Clark E. Ney, on Aug. 27, was first charged with second degree murder.

However, the state pressed for a secret first degree murder count—a charge not bondable in Delaware—before the county grand jury Monday.

Mrs. Ney was then re-arrested by state police at her Frederica home on a warrant sworn out in Superior Court.

Deputy Atty. Gen. John Behan Maybee said results of an investigation by his office in conjunction with the state police resulted in his decision to seek the upgraded count.

He said additional witnesses were found in the investigation of the shooting. At the time of her arrest, Mrs. Ney, whose attorney is Herman C. Brown, of Dover, gave no statements to the police.

Maybee said she didn't participate in his investigation.

Senate Rejects Prize Plan

A bill to allow Delaware companies to give away prizes not requiring payment by the recipient could muster only two votes in the Senate Tuesday.

The measure (HB 318) was severely defeated after several members of the Senate arose to denounce what one termed a "something for nothing" philosophy. The measure had passed the House by a wide margin in June.

Courts have ruled that under Delaware's lottery statutes it is illegal for a firm to give away prizes even if the customer pays nothing. Such things as door prizes would be included.

The bill was designed to exempt from the law chances to win prizes that do not require payment of money or something else of value.

The only senators voting for the bill were Allen J. Cook, D-Kenton, and Reynolds du Pont, R-Greenville. There were 12 votes against it, one recorded as not voting (McCullough) and two absent (Lord and Robbins).

Sen. Margaret R. Manning, R-Marshtalton, began the statements against the bill, indicating she felt she was probably alone in her views.

"As a housewife," Mrs. Manning said, "I object to going to the grocery store to get a trip to Florida. It's part of a something for nothing philosophy."

"Amen," said several other senators.

"I concur," said Sen. Walter J. Hoey, D-Milford, who said he also favored outlawing trading stamps.

"We're leaning more and more to big business," said Sen. J. Donald Isaacs, R-Townsend.

"It's entirely wrong morally," commented Sen. Henry T. Price, D-Smyrna.

Sen. Calvin R. McCullough, D-Holloway Terrace, expressed the opinion that the public "is inclined to gamble a little bit and we can't stop it by law."

Cook, who called the bill to a vote because it had been in his committee, made no attempt to try to have the roll call tabled. If enough members changed their views, it could be restored to the calendar within three days.

VOTE ON COURT SEEN BLOW TO ROADS BILL

Boggs Talks On Currency

Use foreign currencies we own in lieu of dollars and improve our balance-of-payments situation, urges Senator Caleb J. Boggs.

In a letter today to Senator A. Willis Robertson, chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency, Sen. Boggs asks early consideration of a bill he introduced last week. His plan he says, would make a difference of $35-40 million in our balance-of-payments position the first year.

Sen. Peter H. Dominick of Colorado has joined Sen. Boggs in sponsoring the bill.

Sen. Boggs explained in a statement to the Senate that his plan would not interfere with present U. S. programs overseas. Until the programs were actually started, however, the foreign currencies now set aside would be used instead to meet general U. S. obligations.

House OK's Levy Court Bill

Waving their solid majority, House Democrats struck Wednesday at the one political subdivision in the state still controlled by Republicans.

Democrats passed SB 71 which would create 11 Levy Court districts in New Castle County to replace the three (all Republican) that now exist. They gave the bill, which will now go to the governor since it has already been approved by the Senate, 19 votes, one more than the required constitutional majority.

Gov. Elbert N. Carvel was non-committal about whether he would sign it. However, he told a press conference in 1961 that he would veto a bill, then pending, that would have carved the county into seven Levy Court districts if it had been enacted. The Levy Court was also Republican in 1961.

After the House action Minority Leader William T. Best, R-Rehoboth Beach, said the "Levy Court packing" bill had never been a Republican consideration in connection with the omnibus $35-million bond bill for highway construction and would not become so now.

Before the vote, he told the House: "I am only going to say a few words about this bill. We all know why it is here. It is to gerrymander and pack a Levy Court not now controlled by the Democrats, and it is not in the best interests of Delaware."

Republicans sought in vain for an explanation concerning the bill. It was called up by House Majority Whip Glenn W. Busker, D-Smyrna, chairman of the Revised Statutes Committee, who asked for a New Castle County representative to explain it "since I do not wholeheartedly support it."

Rep. Ralph S. Keenan, R-Wilmington, asked why the county needs 11 members of the Levy Court. No one answered.

Rep. Everette Hale, R-White Clay Creek Hundred, wanted to know if the bill would not add to the county's expense (by greatly increasing salaries) and what logic there was to it. No one attempted to answer him.

The bill would take effect with the 1964 general elections, and the Levy Court members elected would assume office on the first Tuesday of January. Those from the odd-numbered districts would be named for four-year terms and those from even-numbered districts for two-year terms. Subsequent elections would all be for four-year terms. The bill defines the 11 districts and sets forth their boundaries. Seven members would constitute a quorum.

On the roll call the measure received 19 yeas (all from Democrats); eight nays (all Republicans); 3 answered present (Busker, Eskridge, Pratt); and 5 were absent (Younger, McGinnis, Hooker, Correll and Annett).

The 11 districts created by the bill would probably elect a Democratic majority if they follow the voting patterns of recent years. From time to time it has been mentioned as a possible part of a "deal" on the bond issue with Democrats reportedly offering to withdraw it in return for GOP support for the highway bond money. However, Republicans have kept it out of all negotiations in spite of some pressure from within the party to use it, according to some sources.

Passage of a bill to jump the New Castle County Levy Court to 11 members "darn near killed" chances for a highway bond bill compromise, Sen. Reynolds duPont declared Wednesday night.

And the Greenville Republican, Senate Minority Leader, said he is "through meeting and talking" about the bond bill stalemate. Asked if he would attend a leadership conference if the governor calls one on the bond bill, DuPont said only that he would ask his caucus if it wanted him to go.

DuPont wasn't the only one talking about the Levy Court bill in relation to the chances of bond bill compromise, though few were talking for the record.

Some se passage of the "packing bill" as an effort by some dissident Democrats to embarrass Gov. Elbert N. Carvel. On the other hand, some see it as a lever through which Carvel could make a deal: Veto the Levy Court bill in exchange for passage of a bond bill compromise.

Harry B. Roberts Jr., president of the New Castle County Levy Court, and county GOP chairman, called the bill "a blatant political grab."

He likened it to "the tradition of ripper and packing legislation which should have been abandoned years ago . . . The Democrats are trying to steal something they cannot win."

Carvel, meanwhile, said Wednesday night he "feels as if we're moving in the right direction" and does not plan to call a meeting of legislative leaders as long as there is any chance of the legislators working it out on their own. He emphasized that he is available to assist in any way he could.

The governor told a press conference Tuesday that if agreement were not imminent within 48 hours, he would call legislative leaders in to talk.

Sen. Allen J. Cook, D-Kenton, one Democrat who admittedly is willing to compromise to get a highway bill, said that he hadn't given up hope on a solution. He indicated that while there were some Democrats unwilling to accept agreements discussed thus far, there are also some who will.

"This'll bring things to a head," Cook said in regard to the Levy Court bill.

At any rate, senators failed again to reach any agreement on the bond bill in a meeting Wednesday afternoon.

One plan discussed involved changing the representation on the county boards of election to 6-4 in Kent and Sussex Counties and 10-7 in Wilmington. GOP leaders said they expressed "interest" in the plan but some Democrats refused to accept it.

Republicans also were interested in a re-registration bill to require all voters to re-register every eight years. They also wanted some other election-related measure included in the package.

Present in Legislative Hall Wednesday afternoon were Edwin W. Hutchison, secretary of the New Castle County Department of Elections, and Sigmund Schorr, board head. The board is believed to disapprove strongly any change in its representation.

No further meetings have been scheduled but it is likely that some members will try to get together.

And even if the Senate agrees, there is no assurance the House, some of whose members object to the Senate's handling the matter by itself, will follow suit.

Dover Dist. WSCS To Hold Training Sessions

Training sessions for Dover District Woman's Society of Christian Service will be held on September 16 at Harrington Trinity Methodist Church and on September 18 at Georgetown Wesley Methodist Church. For the convenience of the members the same program is being scheduled for two locations. Both afternoon sessions will be from 1 to 3 p. m. and the evening sessions from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m.

Proper Exercise
 Makes You Feel Better

Now that school has started again, many homemakers will be getting back into a more rigid routine, notes Katie Thomas, Kent County extension agent, home economics. Although most mothers and homemakers work hard all day, they often don't get the kind of exercise that keeps them looking and feeling fit.

Mrs. Thomas explains that the type of exercise the body gets is just as important as the amount of exercise. You can realize how little you use some muscles when you participate in an unfamiliar activity, she notes. For instance, when you ride a bicycle for the first time in several years, you'll "discover muscles" you never knew you had. This happens because you haven't exercised those muscles for quite some time. Healthy muscles improve with proper use and activity and degenerate with a lack of activity.

Many homemakers, too, find that they tire quickly because they aren't in good physical condition, even though their bodies may be medically sound. The proper exercise in the right amounts can help you feel and look much better. To do this, it isn't necessary to rush into an exhausting fitness program. Moderate and consistent exercise help the body to become more adequate for the demands placed on it, she says.

The best kind of exercise is the kind that takes very little time and won't leave you exhausted. One such method is explained in a recent University of Delaware extension publication entitled "Stay Young Gracefully." In it, author Coral K. Morris, extension home management specialist, gives several exercises which can be done while a homemaker goes about her daily chores, in addition to explaining how to look better and feel better without spending a lot of effort accomplishing this.

Copies of "Stay Young Gracefully" are available free of charge from the county extension agent's office, P. O. Box 30, Dover.

Strong Soybean Market Ahead

A University of Illinois economist is forecasting a huge demand, short supply and favorable prices for soybeans during the coming year. T. A. Hieronymus who is familiar to many Delaware soybean producers made this prediction at the American Soybean Association's annual meeting in Columbus, O., recently. Hieronymus spoke at a soybean growers meeting at the Georgetown Substation last fall. He is a noted agricultural economist and is widely respected by soybean producers.

In making his predictions, he said an all time record high crop is in prospect but huge demands will bring on high prices as bidders seek to satisfy their needs.

Here is how Hieronymus appraises the market outlook for the year ahead.

The 4.4 percent higher acreage planted in 1963 than in 1962 is less than the normal expansion in demand that has been taking place. The current rate of soybean acreage increase points to a long-run shortage of soybeans.

While the current crop estimate of 723 million bushels is the best possible one at this time, it is subject to change before harvest.

Soybean exports rose about 25 million bushels during the past year. Further increases seem likely in the future as Japan and European countries increase their needs for soybeans and soybean meal.

Export demands seem quite stable unless a drastic price rise takes place. Japan buys soybeans mainly for food, and European countries use large quantities of soybean meal for livestock feed.

Soybean oil is in surplus, and the stockpile continues to climb. The market for protein is expanding more rapidly than the market for fat. However, the market for soybean oil is expanding because production of other fats is not expanding as rapidly as our population.

Public Law 480 has provided the means for disposing of much of the accumulated surplus oil since 1954. However, this disposal method is expensive, and there is a limit to how much the public will tolerate spending for such a program.

While soybean oil selling at 8 cents a pound is cheap, it is not likely to go up until U. S. inventories can be reduced. If inventories begin to shrink, a price of nine cents a pound seems possible.

Figuring soybean meal at $75 a ton, oil at nine cents a pound and a normal processing cost, Hieronymus estimates that the national average farm price for soybeans during the 1963-64 marketing year will be $2.50.

Delaware Calendar Of Events

There will be much to see—and do—in "The First State" during the remainder of 1963 advises the Delaware State Development Department.

Basing its observations upon information contained in the current edition of its Delaware Calendar of Events, the state information agency notes that Delawareans and visitors to the state may exercise a wide range of choice of activity from now through December. The Fall Calendar, now being distributed, lists over 180 events.

Also listed are twenty-seven of Delaware's "permanent attractions."

The information appearing in the new edition of the Events Calendar was compiled for the Development Department by David S. Hugg, who reports he received splendid cooperation from organizations sponsoring events of general public interest. Mr. Hugg is now compiling similar information for inclusion in the Winter - Spring edition which will make its appearance in late December.

Copies of the Fall edition of Delaware Calendar of Events and other literature of an informational or promotional nature are now available at the Development Department office at 45 The Green, Dover; at the Information Center, Delaware Memorial Bridge; at the Delaware State Chamber of Commerce offices, 1112-1114 King St., Wilmington; and at offices of the News-Journal Company, at Wilmington, Dover and Georgetown.

Harvesting Corn - Grain or Silage?

This is the time of year when many Delaware farmers are making the important decision whether to put the corn crop in the silo or in the crib. This decision must be made within the next few days or the corn will become too mature to make good silage.

If you're looking for the most pounds of total food value for your livestock then corn silage is your best bet. A crop that will yield 100 bushels per acre for grain will probably make 20 tons of high quality silage if it is properly handled. In terms of total food value 100 bushels of corn contains about 45 pounds of digestible nutrients. Twenty tons of corn silage however contains 8000 pounds of digestible nutrients. That's a net gain of 3500 pounds of nutrients that can be converted into milk or beef.

Since forage crops are in short supply this year due to the dry weather there is an additional advantage to harvesting corn as silage. It can replace much of the hay in the rations of livestock, thus reducing the winter feed bill substantially.

If you decide on silage you should go out in the field now and check the maturity of the crop. The corn plant is unique because it increases in feeding value as it approaches maturity. You get top value when most of the crop has reached the full dent stage. If it is cut earlier there is some loss in food value and total volume. If it is cut too late it may spoil in the silo. Also there is a loss of food value as it goes beyond the full dent stage.

For best results especially where large acreages are to be harvested start cutting when some of the crop is in the early dent stage. This will allow time to finish the harvest before the crop becomes too mature.

It is important to chop well-matured corn silage as finely as possible. This improves packing and reduces the risk of spoilage. Don't use a preservative for corn silage since it will preserve satisfactorily under a wide range of conditions.

Our Mission Today
 Program Topic of Asbury W.S.C.S.

The first fall meeting of the Asbury Woman's Society of Christian Service was held on Tuesday evening in the Pathfinder's room of the church. Mrs. Floyd Nasser presided at the meeting.

The program of the evening "Mission Vignettes" was a panel discussion by Mrs. Fulton J. Downing, Mrs. Ethel Bull and Miss Frances Downing. Their subjects included impressions and recollections of the schools of missions they attended this past summer. Mrs. Downing and Mrs. Bull spent a week at Wesley College attending the School of Missions held in June and Miss Downing was one of a group of young church women who attended the Girls' School of Missions at Camp Pecometh this summer. Their discussions pointed out the work done at such schools and the variety of studies that may be undertaken during this week.

Mrs. Earle Nelson attended the Visitor's Day sessions at the Wesley school and reported on the financial clinic held that day. She also brought several ideas and suggestions to the meeting.

Mrs. Nasser reminded the group once again of the training sessions to be held at Trinity Church, Harrington next Monday, Sept. 16 from 1 to 3 p.m. or 7:30 to 9 p.m., also the meeting at Georgetown at Wesley Methodist Church on Sept. 18 at the same hours. Century Club to Present
 "The Blessing of The Trees"

In the very near future the Harrington New Century Club will be making plans for a unique program to be presented on November 26th at 2 p. m. Entitled "The Blessing of the Trees" it will be on the community level in that all persons in the community will be invited to participate.

Mrs. Quay Rice, Conservation chairman for the club, originated the idea and with her committee has been notifying club members of the program.

In essence, the plan is to be a memorial for loved ones in the form of living trees and plants to be presented to a church, school or other civic organization; or to be used in the donors own garden. The trees and plants will be purchased from the Delmarva Nurseries through the Century Club and Mrs. Rice and her committee.

Can you think of a lovelier way to preserve the memory of a departed loved one than by the planting of a tree that will provide shade and beauty to the landscape as well as contribute to the conservation program of the country?

Anyone who is interested in knowing more of the plan may call Mrs. Rice at 8-3834.

begin a study course entitled "Our Mission Today." Those wishing to buy a book for the course may call Mrs. Guy Winebrenner.

Mrs. J. Millard Cooper, publications chairman, is now accepting renewals for the "Methodist Woman" and "World Outlook" Magazines. A call is all that is necessary to start a subscription to these two worthwhile publications.

Mrs. James Moore, local church activities chairman has asked that all women who will be able to work in the kitchen for the church supper on September 28 contact her so that she may make out a work schedule. Tickets for the supper, which will be chicken and dumplings and chicken salad, have been given to the circle leaders and members. Mrs. Earle Nelson may also be called for tickets. Take out supper will also be sold. The Century Store will once more be in operation in connection with the dinner and booths of needwork, candy and baked goods, canned goods, produce, white elephants, flowers and plants will be for sale.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned and the Rebekah Circle with Mrs. John Curtis served refreshments.

FENCE TALK

With George Vapaa

The long drought and its effect on crops have been very much in the news this week. Fortunately the situation for Kent County can be described as spotty. No one has had an excess of water. But many have missed several critical showers.

Bill Ireland, local soils scientist with the Soil Conservation Service, tells me that he had to auger down to nine feet below the surface to reach the water table north of Leipsic. Ordinarily we can expect to find ground water within two feet of the surface in that area.

Those farmers who have been hurt with reduced yields will find a sympathetic ear with local banks and lending groups. Bank directors realize that farming represents a major source of income for this area. They also know that farmers are at the mercy of the weather in spite of tillage skills.

Cover cropping is a good practice for farmers to consider after drought damaged crops. The small grain cover will take up and retain unused plant fertilizer for the next crop. Otherwise the fertilizer might leach out of the soil as a result of winter storms. Another benefit of cover crops, they improve soil tilth or texture, which in turn creates a more fertile soil condition.

The current insect situation is this: Ornamentals—Elm leaf beetle adults are extremely numerous and causing severe injury to elms in some areas. To protect the trees and reduce the overwintering population, immediate treatment with DDT is suggested. Bagworms have ceased to feed. Control now by picking and destroying bags or spray next June. Newly hatched larvae of mimosa webworm are fairly abundant on mimosa and honey locust in Kent and Sussex Counties. Control with DDT or Sevin. Chrysanthemum aphid is very abundant on "mums". Control with malathion.

Hawthorne bushes are being badly damaged by lace bugs in northern Kent County. Use DDT. Inquiries are again being received about the blue-winged wasp (Scollia) seen flying aimlessly a few inches above lawn surfaces. It may be recognized by the blue wings and the reddish-brown abdomen with a yellow spot on each side. They are beneficial insects and should not be destroyed as they are parasites of white grubs.

Peach Tree Borer—Those growers who did not spray trunks for peach borer during the past summer should apply paradichlorobenzene crystals (PDB) between Sept. 20 and Oct. 5. Poor control results where soil temperatures are low. Level soil around the trunk and remove weeds etc. Apply the crystals in a band around the tree (keep the material 1 1/2-2 inches from the tree). Mound soil around the base of the trunk to a depth of 5-6 inches. Use 3/4 ounce of the crystals for 3-4 year-old trees and 1-1 1/2 ounces for older trees. Level the soil next spring when cultivation begins.

Delaware farmers hoping to get gasoline tax refunds must file the proper papers before September 30, 1963. The refund is for any federal tax paid on farm used gasoline bought between July 1, 1962, and June 30, 1963. It's well worth the effort to fill out the form, because the amount of refund is four cents for each gallon bought if Federal Tax was paid on the purchase. For example, if a farmer used 1,000 gallons, the total refund would be $40.

A simple card form, Internal Revenue Service Form 2240 is all that's needed. Cards have already been mailed to farmers who filed last year. New applicants may get forms from the nearest Internal Revenue Service Office, or by writing the District Director of Internal Revenue, Wilmington, Del.

Gasoline eligible for tax refund includes that used in the actual farming operation—even gasoline used by custom operators while working on your farm. Gasoline used on highways, regardless of purpose, is not eligible for Federal gas tax refund—nor is gasoline used for processing, packaging, freezing or canning. No purchase receipts are required to be sent with claims, but records verifying claims must be available, in case an inquiry is made.

Overplanting wheat allotments this year can reduce a farm's future allotments. This is one of several factors which farmers will want to consider in planning their 1964 crop operations. We call attention to a provision of the law passed in 1958 which can affect a farm's wheat acreage history. It directs that when no marketing quotas are in effect, farms exceeding allotments will receive that year's allotted acres as history for future allotments. Complying farms receive their base acreage as history.

Here is how the provision will apply on a farm with a 100-acre wheat base and a 1964 allotment of 60 acres. If a farmer complies with his allotment, his wheat acreage credit for 1964 will be based on the 100-acre history. But if he exceeds his allotment, he will be credited with only 60 acres. Overplanting for the 1964 wheat crop will not affect the 1965 allotment since national and state 1964 wheat acreage figures will not be available when allotments are determined.

A farmer who overplants his 1964 allotment can still avoid loss of base acreage history. He can dispose of his excess acreage by the deadline date and still receive his 1964 base acreage as history credit future allotments. By complying, he also becomes eligible for price supports.

Farmers are urged to check with the Kent County ASC office for further information on the 1964 wheat program. Secretary Freeman has approved the 1964 Agricultural Conservation Program. There are no major changes from 1963, but in approving the program for next year the Secretary said: "The 1964 ACP will emphasize even more strongly the kinds of conservation practices that help farmers establish permanent vegetative cover." USDA economists also say there is a need to shift millions of acres that are now producing row crops and small grains into other uses—from intensive crop production to forestry, grass and legume pasture, cover for wildlife habitat, and other non-crop uses.

Delaware Food Market Report

Most home-grown vegetables are still plentiful, and this happy state of affairs will probably last for a week or so longer. Snap beans, corn, tomatoes, squash and eggplant all seem to be abundant. However, with the cool nights we have been having, supplies can readily decrease.

Special sales on a number of other fresh vegetables have brought prices down. Cabbage has been ranging from 5 to 8 cents a pound. Carrots are from 10 to 14 cents a bunch, and lettuce is down in some stores as low as two heads for 29 cents. Sweet potatoes are arriving in volume and prices are quite reasonable, and quality is good to excellent.

It's late for watermelons, but they are still in heavy supply, although sizes are a little smaller. Prices are fairly low and quality remains good.

Apples are more plentiful now with red eating apples reported to be in good demand by the children who are back in school. Grapes, too, are abundant and are a wise choice for the lunch bag or fruit bowl. The Thompson Seedless grape is particularly plentiful as the crop is exceptionally large. Now is the time for locally grown Concord grapes. The season is a short one so make your plans now for making grape jelly, jam and juice.

Other fruit choices this week are bananas, orange, honeydew melons and lemons. The peach season is fast drawing to a close, but there are still a number of good buys to be found on this fruit.

Supplies of red meat continue to be large and it looks as if this weekend might be a "chuck" one at the meat counters. Some chuck roasts are as low as 33 cents a pound, but, don't forget this includes the bone, so compare prices before you choose your best buy. Price is not everything, there are grades to be chosen from, number of pounds of eatable meat to be considered, and the use to which the meat is to be put. All of these things must be considered before a purchase becomes a best buy.

Smoked ham continues to be on sale as well as broiler-fryers, turkeys and many cuts of fresh pork. For the first time in a long while, eggs climbed to the 60 cent price bracket. Here again choose wisely before buying since a Grade B egg is quite good enough to bake with, scramble, etc., why pay more for a Grade A. Here again consider grade, size, and cost before choosing.

Veterans News

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—Under what conditions can a peacetime veteran be admitted to a VA hospital for a non-service-connected disability?

A—Veterans who were discharged or retired for disability incurred or aggravated in line of duty or are receiving compensation or would be eligible to receive compensation except for receipt of retirement pay may be admitted for ailments not connected with their service if beds are available.

Q—Is there an exception to the rule that VA outpatient treatment is given only for service-connected conditions?

A—Yes. Disabled veterans who are receiving training under either the World War II or the Korean Conflict Vocational Rehabilitation Act and who need outpatient medical treatment for non-service-connected disabilities to prevent interruption of their training, may be entitled to this treatment from the VA.

Q—In the fall, I will be retiring from the Army after 20 years of service. Will I be eligible to go to school under the GI Bill?

A—It will depend upon when you received your first unconditional discharge after January 31, 1955. If less than three years have passed since that discharge, you are eligible. If more than three years have passed, you are not. Immediate re-enlistment at the time you received that first unconditional discharge after January 31, 1955, would have had no effect on extending the deadline.

Q—A recent VA letter about converting a World War II NSLI term policy to a permanent plan used examples for men aged 40 who carried their insurance up to age 75. Any special reason those ages were used?

A—Probably because the average age of the World War II veteran today is 43. The latest mortality table says if a man reaches 43, he can expect to live another 31-plus years. That same table says women outlive men, so most of us will need insurance up to age 75. We should be prepared in advance and know what we can expect to have to pay for insurance over that span of time.

Q—In my new job I will be traveling for months at a time. Can I have my VA check sent to my bank?

A—Yes, if you follow two steps. One-get forms from any VA office for use in appointing the bank as your power of attorney. Two-notify the VA of your new bank address for check mailing purposes.

Q—Do all veterans get pensions at age 65?

A—Not all. The veteran must have had 90 days service and a discharge under other than dishonorable conditions. He must meet certain disability requirements, varying with age, and must be considered unemployable. His income must fall within certain limitations.

Speaking of Insects

with Dale Bray

On a drive along almost any country road at this time of year you are apt to see several fuzzy caterpillars scurrying across the road. Some of these will be banded woollybears—the caterpillar you can use to predict the severity of the coming winter.

This caterpillar is black on each end with a band of orange-red in the middle. If you should pick up one of them it will curl into a tight ball of orange and black fuzz. If the black covers most of the caterpillar, the winter is expected to be severe, but if orange predominates, a mild winter can be anticipated—according to the legend, that it. A good way to remember which color predicts mildness is to think of the orange as a column of red "mercury" in a thermometer. A wide band of red corresponds to a high column of mercury, or a mild temperature. A narrow band or orange corresponds to a constricted column or a low temperature.

No one knows for sure whether the banded woollybear can be relied on for an accurate prediction. It doesn't seem likely that it can, but a few studies by the American Museum of Natural History indicated that there might be a correlation. If you check on the banded woollybear, don't draw conclusions from one caterpillar, but find the average from many of them. Some may be more reliable than others, according to these studies. In any event, I wouldn't cancel the fuel delivery no matter what the caterpillar says.

Other insects are reported to be useful for predicting weather. If hornet nests are placed high in trees it signifies a mild winter. Frost is supposedly six weeks away when you hear the first Katydid. And, if mud dauber wasps build close to the ground the summer is supposed to be dry.

Sept. 17-23 Set for "Constitution Week" by Carvel

"I urge all citizens of Delaware to participate by becoming better acquainted with our Constitution and with the guarantees of freedom and liberty it provides for all our people," said Gov. Elbert N. Carvel this week in endorsing the observance of September 17 as "Citizenship Day" and the period Sept. 17 through Sept. 23 as "Constitution Week."

In a statement issued at Dover, Governor Carvel praised the courage and foresight of those, who, on Sept. 17, 1787, at Philadelphia, signed what the chief executive cited as "a document that formed the foundation for our own nation and established a pattern for many other nations seeking liberty and justice under the law."

Gov. Carvel also pointed out that "on December 7 of that same year, thirty Delawareans—by unanimous action gave to the little state of Delaware the honor of being first to ratify this Federal Constitution." This action, he noted, gave Delaware its nickname of "The First State."

The full text of Gov. Carvel's statement follows: "On September 17, 1787, a courageous and foresighted group of great American Statesmen, meeting in Convention at Philadelphia, affixed their signatures to a document that formed the foundation for our own nation and established a pattern for many other nations seeking liberty and justice under law."

"On December 7 of that same year, thirty Delawareans—ten from each of the state's three counties—met here in Dover and by unanimous action gave to the little state of Delaware the honor of being first to ratify this Federal Constitution. The importance of this action is indicated by the fact that we proudly refer to our State as "The First

State" and Delaware is accorded the place of honor at national celebrations and gatherings.

"Down through the years, our Constitution has safeguarded the principles of liberty, justice and opportunity for all Americans while providing the framework for the growth and progress of a great Nation.

"Now, the President of the United States, in compliance with appropriate joint resolution of The Congress, has again designated the seventeenth day of September as 'Citizenship Day', an occasion for appropriately commemorating the great event that occurred at Philadelphia 176 years ago, and the period Sept. 17 through Sept. 23 as 'Constitution Week', a time for commemoration of the acts and events which followed the drafting and signing of this great and significant document.

"I welcome the opportunity to wholeheartedly endorse this observance and I urge all citizens of Delaware to participate by becoming better acquainted with our Constitution and with the guarantees of freedom and liberty it provides for all our people. During this period, let us resolve to dedicate ourselves to the preserving and protecting of our Constitution and the American Way of Life which it has made possible."

There Have Been Some Changes Made

Time was when buses stopped everywhere. Some still do as they are dandy for local trips.

But today there's also a faster kind of Trailways service known as thru express. Thru express takes you great distances without change and with less stops enroute. Many 200 mile trips are made non-stop; and very often a bus will travel 500 miles with only 2 or 3 stops.

A Trailways Bus itinerary can be worked out to fit your particular needs, whether your trip is for 10 miles or 1000 miles; and you ride in America's newest bus fleet.

Earl Yoder and the Moose Club would like to express their appreciation to Clarence Welch for mowing the grass at the Moose Club ball park during the recent Little League baseball season and to Taylor and Messick for the use of the mowing equipment.

Tim Strohl, a former Harrington High athlete now living in Hinsdale, Ill., was in town recently. Tim, playing at 195 pounds was a second team corner linebacker on the Hinsdale Township High School football team, that won the Illinois State championship in Class AA. This class is made up of the largest schools in the state. Strohl is now attending Suwanee College in Tennessee. We believe this school is sometimes referred to as The College of the South.

Milt Szmajda, a cross-country runner at H. H. S. two years ago, was another recent visitor. Milt went to school in the Philippines last year and continued his running career there.

Colonel Richard High School is contemplating the possibility of starting cross-country this year. The new school draws students from Federalsburg, Preston and other southern Caroline County towns. An article in the County Record stated that cross-country was one of the best body building sports and is usually on the Athletic program at most colleges.

Harrington High's girl's hockey team will journey to Baltimore on Sept. 14. After a superb season in 1962, that saw the locals unscathed upon, this year's group is anxious to keep up the good work. Miss Violet Testerman will again head the Lionesses.

the next bill you ask us to approve?"
Rep. Casey, terming the bill "a mish-mash," said he could not understand why some local districts will pay 20 per cent while others will have to pay 40 per cent. "The assessment of the Stanton and Marshallton districts are well below Wilmington's and our tax rate as great, yet we will have to pay more. How can you justify that?"

Best warned that the NAACP has already threatened to bring suit against the bill "because it is discriminatory." He predicted that such litigation could tie up the funds indefinitely "and put school construction further away than if we took our time and passed the right kind of a bill."
Only three members, however, voted against the bill. They were Atkins, Best and Hale. Bartleson answered present and Correll Hocker and Annett were absent.

Ruritans Take Playoffs; Down Harrington, 7-2

Last Thursday the Ruritans won the championship for the second year in a row by upending Harrington 7 to 2. Scoring three runs in the first inning on hits by Corkell, G. Collins, B. Collins, and two walks the champs coasted to an easy victory behind the seven hit pitching of Sonny Henry. The Ruritans added single runs in the 2nd and 4th innings and two more in the 5th to complete their scoring.

Harrington finally scored in the bottom of the sixth as two runs crossed the plate on a single by Carroll, a double by Porter and a single by Jeff Adams.

The Ruritans were paced by Corkell, G. Collins, B. Collins, and M. Larrimore with two hits each. Harrington was paced by Jeff Adams with two safeties.

The league wishes to thank all the fans for all the support they gave all during the year and hope they will be looking forward to next year to see some more of this fine game of softball.

Swimming Courses At U. of D.

Recognizing the importance of swimming in the recreational programs of cities and suburban communities, the University of Delaware will offer two courses this year for the development of swimming, lifesaving and water safety skills.

Both courses will be conducted by Harry W. Rawstrom, assistant professor of education and coach of Delaware's varsity swimming team.

The swimming course will be on Wednesday evenings, beginning Sept. 18, and will be divided into two sections. It deals with the application of pertinent physical laws to the skills involved and will cover all levels of the sport, from basic strokes through competitive efforts, in theory and practice. To qualify for enrollment, the student must be able to swim at least 75 feet. No more than 20 persons will be accepted for each section.

Lifesaving and water safety will meet on Wednesday evenings during the spring semester and will be limited to 25 swimmers of advanced ability. To qualify for the course, the student must be able to swim at least one-quarter mile or have the special permission of the instructor. The course will involve the basic lifesaving skills and water safety principles for all types of swimming areas and pools. Students may qualify for American Red Cross Senior Lifesaving, Junior Lifesaving and Water Safety Instructor ratings.

Fee for the swimming course is $15 and for the lifesaving course, $25. Registration forms may be obtained through the extension division offices in Raub Hall on the University of Delaware campus.

Lions Scrimmage Smyrna, Colonel Richardson

Coach Frank Glazier's Harrington High football Lions held a practice session at Smyrna on Saturday and met Colonel Richardson High of American Corners, Md. here on Tuesday. Smyrna of the larger Diamond State Conference were able to outscore the locals by the slim margin of three touchdowns to two. In 1962 the Eagles belted the Lions here by something like six to one.

What a difference a year makes. Colonel Richardson is starting its second year of football. The consolidated school has players in large quantity. The Colonels have quite a few big boys, also. They figure to be even tougher in the future.

The Lions crossed the Marylanders goal four times and in turn yielded only two scores. A crunching block by Randy Knox, that sprung the shifty Bill Adams into the clear for a touchdown, climaxed an afternoon of experimenting by both teams. The Lions shape up has much improved in both the offensive and defensive departments. Lack of depth is the big problem. Given a few breaks this team could win a few games.

A-B-C System Still in Vogue At Local Track

A new all-weather track surface and a continuation of the popular A-B-C horse classification system were announced by officials of the Kent and Sussex Raceway as the Harrington track began its 18th annual meet this week.

William W. Shaw, director of racing, told members of the press at the track's annual press party last week that it is hoped the new racing surface will eliminate the cancelling of racing due to rainy weather.

"By adding over 400 tons of stone dust to the old track surface," he said, "we feel that we now have an all-weather track. It is the same method which has
