

CITY INSTALLS WATER VALVE

Installation of a valve, recently, on a City main foresees the time when the water supply for the entire community will not have to be shut off when there is a leak.

The device, installed on Milby Street between Hanley and Commerce Streets, will enable water to be cut off in an area south of Milby and West of Hanley, without affecting the remainder of the community, when other valves in the area are functioning properly, explained City Manager Alfred G. B. Mann Wednesday.

He added, however, that some valves in the area were not functioning properly and that water could not be cut off with only one valve. The recent valve, which cost $193.60, installed, is part of a plan of the City Council to install new valves and to replace or repair old ones when the money is available.

Mann concluded by saying he had a tentative figure in next year's budget providing for the installation of 10 valves throughout the community.

City Cleans Storm Sewer

Several substantial improvements were made in the City's sewer department recently.

New pumps have been installed, and are operating, at the Liberty Street sewage pumping station.

A well has been drilled at the sewage disposal plant east of town. Water from it is being used to operate the chlorinator.

Another important improvement was the services of the Pittsburgh Pipe Cleaning Company in cleaning out storm sewers.

The company cleaned sewers on Grant Street to Dorman Street, up Dorman Street past Liberty Street west to a ditch in a field. The ditch, leading to Center and West Streets, was cleaned by City personnel. At Center and West Streets tile takes up again running along the Blades Crossroads road to a ditch. Mann said the company, whose actions were authorized by the City Council, took about 10 tons of dirt and sand from the storm sewer.

The action should do a lot to prevent the flooding of yards on Grant Street.

Albert W. Adams, district superintendent, who received the keys from Hitchens, passed them to Joseph Bedford, the school principal.

About 150 pupils will be housed in the 6-classroom structure located on West Street. A Negro school, it replaces the old P. S. du Pont School.

Traffic Accidents Show Big Increase In September

The largest monthly increase in the number of traffic accidents, on the streets and highways of this state, involving damage in excess of $100, was recorded for September, in comparison with the same month of last year.

According to the records of the Financial Responsibility Division of the Motor Vehicle Department, there were a total of 838 of these accidents reported during September and this is an increase of 231 over the number of accidents reported during September of 1962.

An examination of the records reveal that the comparative increase reported for months having heavy and lengthy storm periods did not equal the record shown for September.

Of the accidents reported during September, 607 were in Wilmington and New Castle County, an increase of 184. Kent County had 100, an increase of 43, this increase being equal to the total number of accidents reported in Kent County for some months, and Sussex County had 131 of the accidents, an increase of 54.

Of the drivers involved in the accidents reported during September, 268 were from out of the state, an increase of 81. There were 369 persons injured in these accidents, an increase of 92.

Damage resulting from the accidents reported during September totaled $311,905, which is $77,905 more than was reported for accidents taking place during September of last year.

During September a total of 132 motorists had their registration and operational privileges suspended in Delaware for failure to comply with the Financial Responsibility Laws.

UNICEF Drive Begins Wednesday

What is UNICEF? UNICEF is a doctor in a remote village in India saving the life of a child afflicted with a dread disease . . .

UNICEF is a teacher in Africa showing children how to read and write so they will be spared the curse of illiteracy . . .

UNICEF is a public health nurse delivering a baby in the jungles of South America . . .

UNICEF is a social worker in the Middle East placing an orphan boy in a home where he will be able to grow up as a normal human being . . .

UNICEF, the United Nations' Children's Fund, is all this and more. It is the official UN organization concerned with the more than 650 million underprivileged children of every race, religion and political belief in every area of the world, children who urgently need assistance to attain even the minimum standard of living, health and education.

To these children UNICEF extends its hand and its heart.

Harrington will do its small part in helping with this work when children in the community will visit each house to collect funds for UNICEF. Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 30, at 3:30, the children will meet at the Harrington New Century Club to receive official name tags and coin containers and to be registered. Drivers and cars will take them to various sections of the town when they will make the solicitation. Watch for these children and help them by giving generously to the UNICEF cause. On their return to the club house refreshments will be served.

The planning committee for UNICEF is made up of members of Asbury and Trinity churches, but all children from every denomination in the town are expected to participate.

State Has Chance To Eliminate Poliomyelitis

Delaware has an opportunity seldom if ever before presented to an entire state—to take another step towards completely eliminating poliomyelitis.

Since the introduction of the Salk vaccine in 1955, the incidence of polio has been cut back sharply. But further reduction in the incidence of this crippling disease is now within our reach.

To help wipe out polio from our community for good, the Medical Society of Delaware has organized a drive to provide Sabin Oral Polio Vaccine to all residents. The Sabin vaccine requires no injection. It need only be swallowed—two drops on a lump of sugar. The vaccine will be administered Sun., Nov. 3, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

All citizens of the community are urged to get behind this push to help wipe out polio. Let's show that we are given the opportunity to do something for ourselves, for our families, and for our neighbors, we are not too apathetic or uncaring to do it.

EX-PRINTER H. LAROSCH DIES AT 74

Henry E. Larosch, 74, a retired newspaper linotype operator, died last Friday at his home, 215 W. 24th St., Wilmington.

He had been employed for 50 years by the News-Journal Company and its predecessor companies.

Mr. Larosch, who began to learn the printing trade at the age of 15, retired from the News-Journal Company Jan. 21, 1955. He had gone to Wilmington from Leighton, Pa., with his parents and began his apprenticeship with the Morning News in 1904. In 1911, he transferred to the Journal, and was with the News-Journal Company from Jan. 2, 1933, until his retirement.

He used to remark that his career in the printing trade had covered everything "from sweeping up floors to making up pages." A linotype operator for the eight years before his retirement, Mr. Larosch's longest stretch of specialized work was 28 years as operator of a machine turning out type for advertisements.

About 1940, the magazine, "Editor and Publisher," hailed Mr. Larosch as one of the fastest workers in his section. He once averaged 112 casts an hour for nine hours, 1,008 casts.

He said his formula for achieving that status was, "Keep busy and don't be afraid of the boss."

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Irma O. Larosch; a son, Henry, formerly of Wilmington; a grandson, John Howard Larosch, whom Mr. and Mrs. Larosch reared; two brothers, John P., Wilmington, and Clarence, Pennsville, N. J., and two sisters, Mrs. Sally Scott, Wilmington, and Miss Alice Larosch, Wilmington.

Another son, Kenneth O. Larosch, was killed in action in World War II in the Philippines. Funeral services and burial were private.

Mrs. Larosch was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Otwell, of Harrington. The Laroschs were frequent visitors here where Mrs. Larosch's sister, Mrs. Harry D. Adkins, and her husband, reside. Mr. Larosch visited the Harrington Journal office for many years and made his last visit only a few weeks ago.

Negroes Ask For Merger

A proposal to consolidate two Sussex schools may be submitted to a referendum after a legal question is cleared up.

A petition requesting the vote went to the State Board of Education and has been requested by Negro residents of the Greenwood area.

The plan would join Greenwood schools 222 and 91, Dr. George R. Miller, state superintendent of public instruction said.

Since the boundary lines of the two schools are the same, Miller said, there is a legal question as to who should be allowed to vote in such a referendum. Thus, Miller was instructed to seek an attorney general's ruling on the matter.

Stanley Holcombe, principal at Greenwood 91, a predominantly white school with just under 600 students and about 28 teachers for its grades 1 through 12, said he felt the school would not object to consolidation.

He said that Greenwood 222 has only 15 pupils and one teacher and that Greenwood 91 is already integrated. He said he thinks the smaller school provides only elementary education.

"We would accept them," Holcombe said last week. "I don't believe it would receive a great deal of opposition."

George W. Eskridge

George W. Eskridge, 72, a retired farmer, died Saturday in Milford Memorial Hospital.

He had lived near Greenwood for 25 years after moving from Kansas City, Kan.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Viola R., at home; two sons, Gordon Eskridge, of Weaversville, Ore., and George Eskridge Jr., of Greenwood; two daughters, Mrs. Gertrude Witherspoon, of aKnsas City, Mo., and Mrs. Lillian Stauch, of Kansas City, Kan.; two step-daughters in Chicago; a sister, Mrs. Maggie Cooley, of Bluefield, Va.; a brother, Carl Eskridge of Arlington, Va., and 17 grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the Fleischer Funeral Home in Greenwood.

36 Clinics To Open For Sabin Vaccine Distribution Nov. 3

Thirty-six clinic locations were announced this week for the distribution of oral Sabin polio vaccine Sun., Nov. 3.

Dr. Henry H. Stroud, state chairman of the immunization campaign, said that all of the clinic would be open from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on that date.

There will be seven clinics in Wilmington, 10 in rural New Castle County, seven in Kent County and 12 in Sussex County.

Only Type I Sabin vaccine will be given to Delawareans at the November 3 clinic. Type 3 and Type 2 vaccine will be issued at successive clinics Dec. 8 and Jan. 19, respectively. All three types are needed for complete protection against the three strains of polio virus.

The statewide immunization program is sponsored by the Medical Society of Delaware, in cooperation with the State Board of Health and the National Foundation.

Kent County clinics will be held in the following locations: Smyrna Firehouse, Milford Firehouse, South Dover Elementary School, Frederica Firehouse, Camden - Wyoming Firehouse, Harrington Firehouse, and Hartly Firehouse.

Clinics in Sussex County will be held in the following sites: Bridgeville Fire Hall, Delmar Fire Hall, Georgetown Fire Hall, John M. Clayton School (Frankford and Dagsboro), Laurel Fire Hall, Millsboro Fire Hall, Millsboro Fire Hall, Milton Fire Hall, Rehoboth Fire Hall, Seaford Fire Hall, and Selbyville Fire Hall.

Each clinic will be headed by a physician volunteer from that area. Normally, other clinic personnel will include a nurse and volunteer workers such as doctors' wives, who are members of the Women's Auxiliary of the Medical Society, Red Cross nurses, members of the National Foundation or others in the community.

Persons receiving the Sabin vaccine will be asked for a donation of 25 cents, to defray the cost of the program. Nobody will be turned away, however, whether they can afford the donation or not.

Dr. Stroud emphasized that it is very important that every man woman and child in the State of Delaware be immunized against polio.

"We are urging that everybody who has not previously had the full three series of three Sabin vaccine come to their nearest clinic on Nov. 3," he said. "If you have previously had Salk vaccine shots, you may be protected yourself but are still able to harbor polio virus and pass it on to others. If you have had only one or two doses of Sabin vaccine, you are not fully protected and you should take advantage of this opportunity to receive all doses.

The Sabin vaccine will be given orally, with a couple drops placed on a cube of sugar. There will be no needles used.

Motor Fuel Tax Receipts Show Increase

Receipts from motor fuel taxes in this state continued in excess of $1 million for each of the months during the past summer, with a report for receipts for August continuing that trend.

A report compiled by Charles F. Hudson, director of Motor Fuel Tax Division of the State Highway Department, shows that receipts for August, which were received during September, totaled $1,194,286.27.

This amount was an increase of $123,436.69 over the amount received for August of last year, but was a decrease of $50,565.94 over the amount received for July of this year.

The receipts received for August represented the sale of 19,904,773 gallons of motor fuel, which is 1,835,235 gallons more than were sold during August of 1962.

Mr. Hudson's report indicated there were a total of 82 concerns bonded as motor fuel distributors in this state during August but of that number 28 reported no sales for the month.

Of the concerns reporting however, six accounted for approximately 64 per cent of total sales. They are Atlantic Refining Co., $144,503.48; Gulf Oil Co., $103,504.10; Humble Oil & Refining, $271,072.74; Sun Oil, $98,449.36; Texaco, Inc., $65,106.89, and Tidewater Oil Co., $76,470.37.

High Blood Pressure Defined

Just what is meant by the term high blood pressure? Blood pressure is the force at which the blood circulates through the arteries of the body. This force is determined by the beating of the heart and the elasticity of the blood vessels.

Normal blood pressure varies from one person to another and depends on each individual's characteristics, such as height, weight, body build, etc.

High blood pressure is characterized by the heart having to pump harder than normal to circulate blood through the arteries. If neglected, high blood pressure can damage the heart, brain, eyes, kidneys and large arteries. It can be caused by many factors such as hardening of the arteries, kidney disease, changes in the body's chemistry process, tumors of the adrenal gland.

Blood pressure rises when we lose our tempers or become afraid; this is normal. However, under continued stress the blood pressure tends to go up to higher levels than normal and stay there for a longer interval. When this happens too often, it may lead to hypertension. When high blood pressure is due to nervous tensions and strains, it can often be relieved by an understanding of the emotions which cause this nervous tension and thereafter to avoid them.

Your physician can diagnose high blood pressure by using one of several instruments available or by observing changes in the blood vessels of the eye or in changes of the content of the urine.

During the past few years research has revealed much new knowledge about the causes and treatment of hypertension. New drugs have been discovered. These can control hypertension by relaxing the walls of tiny blood vessels throughout the body. Dietary plans, such as a 'low salt' diet have proven effective in some cases. There are new surgical techniques, such as

FENCE TALK

With George Vapaa

300 Delmarva Bankers were invited to look at the growth potential for the broiler industry at a meeting in Salisbury recently. The industry has matured after 40 years of operation and is enjoying a favorable position in comparison with competing areas of the South and West. Mrs. Emily Womach of the Sussex Trust Company at Laurel and chairman of the committee for poultry credit was largely responsible for planning the session.

There has been a million dollar boom in broiler housing on the Shore since the first of the year. The commercial bankers looked at exhibits, pictures, and panel discussions of this growth.

Artificial breeding of dairy cows has matured too in Delaware. Better than half the cows of Kent County are now hand bred, because quality sires are available to small herd dairymen in no other way.

I'm impressed with the fact that a dairyman may never see even a picture of the bulls used to sire cows in his herd, although the breeding associations make valiant attempts to advertise their qualities.

Dairy records supervised by the University of Delaware positively prove the benefits of careful sire selection. Daughters consistently outperform their dams (or mothers).

This is what is meant by saying that there is a difference between a "breeding program" and a "breeding service." Planned breeding on the basis of performance pays off.

We invite dairymen to visit the best dairy herd in the United States, the Don Auger herd in Connecticut, Oct. 31. The group will assemble at the New Castle Airport at 9 a.m., drive to Connecticut, and return the same evening.

Phone our extension office, 736-1448, if you would like to have more details.

One of the highlights of the corn and soybean open house at the Georgetown Substation was a report on the 200 bushel corn demonstration plots. Bill Mitchell reports that the maximum yield for some of the plot was well over 200 bushels. The best two hybrids on all the work averaged about 188 bushels. That's a long way from the 65 bushel average for the state.

When wild cherry or choke cherry leaves are damaged by frost they can be quite deadly. A handful of these wilted leaves can be enough to kill a cow or several sheep if they are eaten. The poison contained in these leaves interferes with the oxygen turning ability of the blood. Animals affected with this poison breathe rapidly, become depressed and show cyanosis or bluish discoloration of the mucus membrane. Death may follow within a few minutes. Affected animals rarely linger more than a few hours.

Veterinarians using emergency intravenous treatments are able to save some animals, but it is important that treatment be given as soon as possible.

Wild or choke cherry trees in pastures are a constant threat to farm livestock. They can exist for years without causing any losses than a broken limb or an early hard frost makes available enough deadly poison to kill half a dozen cows or a whole flock of sheep. The best way to rid of the problem is to remove the trees. Wait till they have lost all of their leaves then cut them down and pull them out. Keep livestock away from these trees if any of the leaves are remaining.

Rats cost money. Gnawing rats destroy property. They start fires by chewing wire insulation and by building nests with inflammable material. One-fourth of all the fires of undetermined nature may have been caused by rats. They eat and contaminate many pounds of grain and produce on the farm. They ruin food in the home.

Rat burrows undermine and weaken building foundations. Burrows in dikes and embankments may cause flooding and erosion.

They may carry contagious abortion, distemper, mange, rabies and mastitis to farm animals. And infected fleas, lice, mites, and ticks carry diseases such as plague and typhus fever from rats to humans.

Rats can also injure and kill chicks and small animals. A good cover crop can be worth $5.00 or more per acre. A cover crop adds humus and prevents soil losses when the wind blows. In addition its uses fertilizer that's been left in the soil by a previous crop.

This is especially important this year since the lack of rainfall that resulted in low yields also left a lot of fertilizer in the soil.

Heavy winter rains can leach away these soluble plant nutrients unless they are held by growing plants. A good small grain cover crop can produce as much as a ton in dry matter per acre between now and cold weather. This will contain 2% nitrogen which means a possible savings against leaching losses of 40 pounds of nitrogen per acre. This is worth around $5.00 and the additional materials and humus can be considered a bonus.

4-H News

With Marion MacDonald

Four Kent County 4-H'ers are Chicago bound in November. Rita Hall, Paradise Club, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lister Hall, will represent the State 4-H'ers in Canning, Gary Simpson, Houston Cardinals, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Simpson, will attend as boys' agriculture winner. Linda Stayton, Houston Cardinals, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Stayton will be our breads representative. Louis Starkey, Houston Cardinals, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Starkey, received his trip as Field Crops winner. Two other state winners are Susan Benson, Kent County Blue Hens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Benson, Wyoming, and Marie Clinton, Kent County Blue Hens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Clinton, Wyoming. Susan will receive a watch as dog project winner, while Marie is recognized as girls leadership winner. Each of these six 4-H'ers have been active in 4-H for several years. To be considered for these state honors they entered their project records, the standard report form which contains a full run-down of their total 4-H program as well as the community, church and school activities, and supporting evidence of their activities. These Kent County 4-H'ers will join others from New Castle and Sussex Counties on Nov. 29. The group will leave Newark, for nine fabulous days in Chicago. 4-H'ers from all fifty states and a few foreign countries will gather. It is the most inspiring event that I've ever attended. It strengthens one's belief in our youth of today.

These members along with about sixty other 4-H'ers will be recognized at our annual 4-H Achievement Banquet, Nov. 16, at Caesar Rodney. Reservations are due to local club leaders or through the 4-H office by Nov. 1. Others receiving recognition will be the Dairy Fitting and Showmanship winners, Dairy judging team and individuals, tractor project, garden project, outstanding first year boy and girl. Our volunteer local leaders will be recognized for their untiring service. For without our leaders our 4-H'ers would not be able to have the wonderful experiences and opportunities available through club work.

As our new year is getting underway may I remind the Junior Council members that their group will hold elections at their November 12 meeting. All clubs should be represented. The next leaders meeting will be held at the Farmington Fire hall on Oct. 29. Host club is the Farmington Fire Flies leader, Mrs. Marvin Smith, Mrs. Nancy Robinson and Mrs. George Vincent.

Speaking of Insects

with Dale Bray

The rocks tell us that insects lived in this world long before the first human being walked through prehistoric forests. They were ready to plague our earliest ancestors, and down through the ages they competed with us for food and they have spread disease through the land.

It is impossible to measure the enormous effect insects have had on man through the ages, but much of history has been changed by these tiny pests. Even the world's great religions have been swayed by their activities.

In the history of Mohammedanism, it is said that Mohammed's early teachings were scorned by the more powerful religious group in Mecca, the Quraish. And when Mohammed's followers swelled in number, the Quraish chiefs in alarm, drew up a deed of ostracism which prohibited all association between the Quraish and the followers of Mohammed. Since this included buying and selling, it served as an economic as well as a social stranglehold on the development of Mohammedanism.

The document was placed in the sacred Temple of Abraham, there to seal the doom of Mohammedanism. Yet unseen and unheard, termites as heralds of fate came out of the earth and found the document's fibres to their liking. Day after day their tiny jaws munched away at the deed, unaware of the role they were playing in one of the world's great religions. After several months the document was to be re-examined by the chiefs of the Quraish and they were shaken by the work of the termites. For there were only five words left. Simple, yet prophetic, they were. "In thy name, O Allah!" Yielding to this omen the Quraish stepped aside clearing the way for Mohammed.

Delaware Food Market Report

Meat selections are excellent for National Thrift Week which began October 20. Supplies of beef and pork continue abundant and a large variety of cuts may well serve as budget-stretchers. While lamb supplies are less than a year ago, this meat is featured at a number of stores making it a good buy also. Broilers and turkeys continue to be good choices.

The open weather of the past few weeks has been favorable for fishing operations, so supplies are plentiful. Make your selection from among fresh butterfish, cod, haddock, flounder, mackerel, and whiting. Mullet from southern waters is especially abundant at the present time. Shellfish choices include hard clams and fresh shrimp. Canned Maine sardines are also plentiful.

It takes an average of some 300 million laying chickens to produce enough eggs to satisfy the nation's needs. Present forecasts are they will produce 5 1/3 million dozen eggs this year and that is plenty. Right now, says USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, eggs are both in ample supply and one of the reasonably priced foods.

Grapefruit has joined the least of low-cost fruit choices. Currently, it is priced near the level of last year, prior to the freeze in Florida. The United States Department of Agriculture's first production estimate for the grapefruit crop now maturing in Florida shows the seedless varieties escaped most of the freeze damage. Production of these varieties is now forecast at 5% larger than last year and 7% above average. The seeded varieties were hard hit with this crop expected to be down 35% from last year and to be only about one-half average. Grapefruit is maturing somewhat early this season which helps to make the present abundance. Other fruit choices this week include avocados, apples, grapes, bananas, and Persian melons.

The cabbage family dominates the vegetable scene at the present time. Broccoli, brussel sprouts, cauliflower, and cabbage are all in heavy supply and are low-cost choices. Other vegetables to shop for are snap beans, beets, carrots, onions, celery, spinach, potatoes, sweet potatoes, squash, and peppers.

Production of American cheese has stepped up in recent weeks compared to last year, so check the dairy counter for many good buys on this food.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—When my National Service Life Insurance Endowment policy reaches the end of the premium period, may I receive monthly payments for the rest of my life?

A—No. However, you may choose a lump-sum settlement or payments over a period of three months to 240 months in equal installments.

Q—What will be the Veterans Administration's procedure in mailing out the increased Dependency and Indemnity Compensation payments to widows and children of disabled deceased veterans?

A—The increase will be mailed out in October. This will be a special check. The regular October check will contain the usual amount. Starting in November the checks will be at the new rates.

Q—My discharge was burned in a home fire. Can the VA furnish me a duplicate?

A—You should write to the Defense Personnel Records Center, 9700 Page Boulevard, St. Louis, Mo. Be sure to give your full name, rank and serial number. If the serial number is not known, give your dates of entry into and discharge from the service.

Q—My disability compensation was reduced when my daughter, who had graduated from high school, became 18 years of age a short time ago. She now plans to enter training as a beautician. Will my compensation be reinstated to the former amount?

A—Yes. Additional amounts for dependents are paid to veterans receiving 50 per cent or more disability compensation. This includes children over 18 and under 21 who are attending school. You should notify your VA regional office when your daughter returns to school and obtain the necessary forms and instructions.

Q—Is a peace-time veteran eligible for vocational training by the Veterans Administration?

A—Yes, provided that a disability which was suffered in the service prevents or interferes with his former vocation. See the nearest VA Office for details.

Q—I will be discharged from service soon. As a veteran, will I be entitled to a pension?

A—Pension benefits are available to veterans who are totally and permanently disabled not due to their military service and who can meet certain income and estate limitations. They must also have had at least 90 days of active service, any part of which was served in wartime, and their discharge must be other than dishonorable.

Homemakers Have Influence On Manufacturers

Despite any claims that manufacturers "force" their products on consumers, the American homemaker is actually the largest determinant of the kinds of goods and services the manufacturers offer, according to Janet Reed, extension clothing and textiles specialist at the University of Delaware.

Women today, she points out, account for 80 per cent of all the buying power in this country.

It is by exercising their rights as consumers that Americans have brought so many labor savers and convenience items into the stores, Miss Reed says. Consumers' acceptance—or rejection—of an item determines its fate. If the consumer doesn't buy the product, the manufacturer can't afford to offer it for sale.

The American homemaker is often accused of having so-called "impulse buying" habits. Manufacturers attempt, and often succeed, in persuading the homemaker in her choices of products, Miss Reed notes. She points out that the homemaker must be alert to stay ahead of the retailers who are competing for her shopping dollar. Technology has advanced at such a rapid rate that the consumer may not be well enough informed to make an intelligent choice.

Miss Reed says that because of this, the homemaker should attempt to be well informed about the products she wants to buy. "It's practically impossible to get your money's worth unless you know something about food, fiber, fabric and hardware," she says.

In our competitive world, she notes, products are sometimes introduced too soon, and there may be faults in the item about which the manufacturer was not aware in his rush to market the item. These products, she says, should be taken back to the store for exchange or refund.

Contrary to wide opinion, the American homemaker is reluctant to complain. But, Miss Reed says, since her purchases do influence the manufacture of items, the manufacturer appreciates hearing the complaints rather than having the sales reduced. His primary concern is to satisfy the consumer in order to obtain and keep customers.

A large nationwide drygoods company feels that just six letters of complaint from scattered areas are enough to justify the removal of a product from the market until the problem has been solved. If the product isn't right, take it back to the store and be sure your complaint registers, Miss Reed urges.

The consumer must also be well informed of price in relationship to value. At times it may be beneficial to spend more for the extra value of the product. A shirt manufacturer once complained that it was impossible for him to sell a shirt for more than $4.50. But for 50 cents more he could have made a product far superior to the one he was manufacturing. The additional costs would have been outweighed by the benefits to the consumer.

The familiar statement that knowledge is power is especially true when it refers to consumers, Miss Reed points out. In order to be a good shopper, she says, you must know products, know prices, and know how business works and know what you have a right to expect.

Convenience Foods Are Good Buys

Do you still get a pang of conscience when you reach for that carton of convenience food? Do you sometimes wonder if the cost is worth the convenience? Katie Thomas, county extension agent, home economics says that studies on the cost of convenience foods and their fresh or home prepared counterparts shows that in most cases convenience foods are good buys. A report detailing the very extensive study by the U. S. Department of Agriculture is now available.

Economists in the U. S. Department of Agriculture Economic Research Service made a study of prices paid for various forms of food bought in grocery stores during a twelve month period. The majority of convenience foods studied cost more per serving, according to Mrs. Thomas. But, during the period studied, the use of convenience food did not on the average increase the amount spent for food in grocery stores. She says this is accounted for by the tendency of consumers to purchase more selectively.

Detailed information on costs per serving for 158 convenience foods and their fresh home prepared counterparts is given in the report. A free copy of the publication entitled "Comparative Costs to Consumers of Convenience Food and Home Prepared Foods," Marketing Research Report No. 609 is available from the Office of Information, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 5, D. C.—20250.

The sergeant is a graduate of Felton High School. His wife, Salena, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Kates, of Felton.

William Tell tested the skills of pilots and support personnel in latest tactical concepts for aircraft and missile defense. The intense competition also assisted in developing the effectiveness of air defense teams and combat-ready maintenance of jet aircraft.

200 Bushel Corn Grown On University Plots

For the first time University of Delaware agronomists have been able to produce more than 200 bushels of corn per acre. This new high in Delaware corn production was reached this year on research plots at the University's Georgetown Substation. Average production in the state is 65 bushels per acre.

Those working on the project include Dr. William Mitchell, extension agronomist, Ed Wisk, crops research associate, and Ed Ralph, associate county agent in Sussex County.

Mitchell says they established a project that they hoped would raise the sights of Delaware corn producers above the traditional 100 bushel mark.

"Fifteen years ago the average corn yield in the state was about 30 bushels. Hundred bushel yields were for dreamers and fellows like us. They were grown on a few research plots around the country and from this we started making recommendations to farmers that would enable them to duplicate this success. Today it is fairly common to see one hundred bushel corn in Delaware."

Mitchell felt the 100 bushel demonstration plots had exceeded their usefulness on the University farm. "If we were going to stay ahead of the pack we had to know how to grow 200 bushels of corn per acre."

Although the results of the work from a scientific point of view, aren't 100% conclusive, the factors of production are sound and success tends to speak for itself.

Mitchell says some of the plots went as high as 225 bushels. The average of both hybrids that were used under the best conditions of the experiment was 188.4 bushels.

What did it take to get this? Mitchell lists several points that he is sure of and a few others that bear a little more investigating.

It takes an outstanding hybrid; there are a lot of varieties on the market, he says, but only a few have the potential for a top yield. Mitchell says you can't expect large yields unless you plant large amounts of seed. He tested plant populations of 12,000, 15,000 and 18,000. The 18,000 population gave the highest yields.

The high yielding plots had two tons of ground limestone and one ton of 10-10-10 fertilizer disc'd into the soil and plowed down to a depth of 12 inches. All of the plots received a pre-emergence treatment of Atrazine to control weeds, thus eliminating the need for cultivation.

Mitchell counts moisture as one of the big factors and one that is the most difficult to control. The test plots received almost 20 inches of rainfall during the growing season. He figures that this is about the right amount. "It takes a half million gallons of water to grow a top yield. That is about 20 inches of rainfall.

Most farmers will say there is nothing that can be done about moisture other than irrigation. Mitchell disagrees. He says the amount of water stored in the soil at planting time is extremely important and farmers can do something about it. "Once the moisture is in the soil, the trick is to save it for the corn. Early plowing will prevent cover crops and other vegetation for using up this store of moisture."

When asked if he thought the results of this research could be duplicated on a larger scale and in other locations throughout the state, he said, "Ten years ago people were asking the same question about the 100 bushel yields we were getting on our research plots. I think we've proven that it can be done. We find more and more people getting the confidence to try, and following the practices that make such yields possible."

Mitchell says the results of this year's work will need to be reproven and he wants to know the answers to some questions that are still up in the air. But since the break-through has been made he feels it is just a matter of time before the results will be duplicated by Delaware farmers.

Mitchell doesn't see any limit to corn yield maximums in the near future. "We will have to grow corn at an economical level in the year ahead or switch to some other crop. Right now it takes 60 bushel per acre to break even. Maybe in a few more years the break-even point will be 150 or even 200 bushels. We're not growing corn just to be growing it—we want to be able to show farmers how to produce corn at an economical level."

Sewing Contest Open to Youngsters

A "Make It Yourself with Wool" contest will be conducted in Delaware this fall, Miss Janet Reed, extension clothing and textiles specialist at the University of Delaware, announced this week. The sewing contest is open to all Delaware youngsters between the ages of 14 and 21. State winners will be eligible to compete in the national contest.

Sponsored nationally by the American Wool Council, the contest in Delaware is being sponsored by the Delaware Sheep and Wool Association. All suits, dresses, coats or ensembles entered in the contest must be 100 per cent domestic wool and must have been made by the contestant herself.

The state style show and judging will take place Saturday, Dec. 14, in the Agricultural Hall auditorium at the University of Delaware. Garments will be judged on workmanship, design, coordination and fashion appearance.

At least 18 prizes will be presented in the state contest. National grand prize is a Caribbean vacation, and many merchandise prizes and scholarships will also be awarded. Entry blanks and further information on the contest are available from Mrs. Wilmer F. Aist, state contest director, R. D. 2, Newark, Delaware.

Spar Hill, Pa., Guernseys Go To U. of D.

The University of Delaware announced this week that under the provisions of the will of the late Harold S. Schutt, of Spar Hill Farms, Chadds Ford, Pa., the University of Delaware bequeathed the nationally known Spar Hill purebred Guernsey herd. The bequest to the University of the Spar Hill herd is most fortunate as a combination of the foundation animals in the University and the Spar Hill herds, retaining the most important cow families and blood lines, will improve the type and production of the University's purebred herd. These additions will, in fact, bring significant recognition to the University from the leading Guernsey breeders throughout the Nation. The University is very grateful to the Schutt family for this gift which will make a most worthwhile contribution to the University's teaching, research and extension programs.

The Spar Hill herd was founded in 1936 with the acquisition of outstanding foundation animals and attained national recognition as a Gold Star Breeder of Guernsey cattle in 1960, 1961 and 1962. Over the years, this herd has compiled impressive records in show winnings and milk production. Two Spar Hill cows were awarded All-American honors by the American Guernsey Cattle Club. Two others were recently named Gold Star Dams because of their outstanding inheritance of type and production in their daughters.

The Spar Hill herd will be merged with the University of Delaware Guernsey herd which is also an outstanding herd. Because of limited housing facilities and the necessity for maintaining an optimum sized purebred cattle project on the University Farm some animals will have to be sold from each of the herds.

The University herd was started in 1951 through gifts from Delaware Guernsey breeders. The combined herd will number about 85 animals. The University also maintains a comparable sized herd of purebred Holsteins.

Both herds are used by the School of Agriculture in its undergraduate program of instruction, in Agricultural Extension, and in its educational program with dairy farmers and its urban clientele. The dairy herds are an integral part of the annual elementary school pupil visitation project sponsored by the University, and last year more than 4,000 school children from the surrounding metropolitan area visited the experimental farm.

Animals in the dairy herds are also used in nutrition research, studies of milk composition and the digestive physiology of the ruminant.

Facilities of the University's modern working dairy farm include a split-level milking parlor, stainless steel milk tanks, pipe lines, automatic washing systems, automatic metered feeding of grain and a rather new innovation in stabling known as loose housing.

Different Kinds Of Arthritis

Folk medicine is chock full of supposed "cures" for arthritis. Bee or cobra venom, alfalfa tea, honey and vinegar are among the so-called remedies which science has shown have no value whatsoever in the treatment of this disease.

There are several different kinds of arthritis. However, most victims of this disease are afflicted with either rheumatoid arthritis or osteoarthritis.

Rheumatoid arthritis, which is probably caused by an infection, affects the whole body, but its most painful and obvious symptoms is an inflammation of the joints, especially of the fingers, hands, wrists and knees. Young women are particularly susceptible to this form of arthritis.

Treatment consists of proper rest and a low starch diet in addition to medication. Aspirin will usually relieve the pain. Cortisone or gold suspended in an injectable salt are other important drugs which are also used.

In osteoarthritis, which is a degenerative joint disease, there is a gradual wearing away of the joint surfaces, but no inflammation. As a rule there is not as much local pain as there is in rheumatoid arthritis, but when the spinal joints are involved, pressure on nerves does cause pain and numbness.

Treatment consists of trying to lessen the strain on the involved joints, which might necessitate losing weight, if that should be a factor. Heat applications, physical therapy, and, sometimes, local injections of cortisone can provide relief and greater mobility.

Careful diagnosis and evaluation of the disease is basic to its successful treatment. The physician, when he has the complete cooperation of his arthritic patient, can do much to eliminate the suffering and disability which has long been associated with arthritis.

ATTENTIVENESS

Quiet attention to the requirements of visiting friends assures the dignity and refinement so much to be desired.

"Sports Odds And Ends"

The Harrington Lions Club golf team won the Kent County title in the Lions Clubs of Delaware Championships held at the Seaford Country Club last week. The team was composed of Calvin Wells, Bob Creadick, Bob DeVroy and Russell McCready. Their gross score was 364. Tom Clendinging, of Harrington, was awarded the "Most Improved Golfer" title after shooting the back nine in 35.

John M. Clayton High was kind of rough on undefeated Bridgeville recently. The Bears clobbered the Mustangs and rendered three of the losers' key men, hors-de-combat. Bob Callaway, the lad who scored both Mustang touchdowns against Harrington, was sent to the hospital for a few days. Calloway emerged in time to play against Lord Baltimore but he only lasted two plays. High-scoring Dick Hopkins will miss several games and 190 pound guard Steve Adams is out for the season with a broken leg. It's too bad H.H.S. doesn't play Bridgeville after J.M.C. instead of before.

Jim Coleman, of Harrington, is a guard on the Delaware State College football team.

Bob Lord, of Greenwood, scored a goal for the University of Delaware soccer team as the Blue Hens dropped a 4-3 contest to Johns Hopkins.

Lenny Bartkowski, of the Wilmington Police Department, won the force's pistol shot crown recently with a 99 per cent score. Lenny and the writer were in the same platoon at Camp Lee, Va., in 1946. There, Bartkowski excelled at another shooting game in which his score was almost never two, three or twelve.

We took in part of the H.H.S.-Milton hockey game Tuesday afternoon along with cross-country coach Harold McDonald. The Lionsesses clobbered the lady Warriors in a contest that saw the Harrington goalie get little exercise. She didn't get any at all during the time we were there and we were in attendance long enough to see most of the scoring.

We were particularly impressed with the play of the Lionsesses' speedy, scrappy, wings, Sharon Walls and Nancy Harrington. Nancy scored a goal, while Sharon set up several from her outside right position.

A parallel exists between cross-country and hockey at H.H.S. Both sports are played in front of few spectators. There aren't any seats, bands, drum majorettes, etc. Both teams are undefeated and morale is high.

Violet Testerman's girls are aiming for their second straight undefeated season and we sincerely hope they make it. In fact we feel that every athlete at H.H.S. should root for all the athletic teams at the school, not just for the one that they participate on.

Darling Deliberates

By Bill Darling

(Reprinted with the permission of the County Record, Denton, Md.)

THE LONG GRIND
Cross country running is gaining more and more popularity as a sport as time goes on. This sport enjoys its greatest popularity in the north but made large gains in the south in recent years. In my opinion this has to be the world's loneliest competitive sport. Although more and more athletes are turning to this fall sport, it has not nor do I think it will ever have a large spectator following. Due to the nature of the beast there is generally only one race to a meet and a meet lasts inside of fifteen minutes. During this fifteen minutes you can witness the event for a maximum of five minutes if you station yourself at the finish line.

Most of the five minute period the runner will be so far from the viewer that the personalities are not readily discernable, thus the spectator loses his contact with the drama being enacted. He is able to see upwards of forty well-conditioned, lean men line up and start on their two miles plus test of conditioning, then many minutes later he is able to pick out the forms of a few runners a considerable distance away. Only in the rarest instances is there a real stretch drive since the race is usually won or lost a mile from the finish line.

Regardless of the unappealing presentation for the spectator, this sport is one of my personal favorites since I know something about the kind of people that it takes to finish one of these races, let alone to win it. The training of a good cross country runner is a never ending task. Those that are successful today began their readings last June. Since that time they have run hundreds of miles on a rigid schedule. Usually they are alone.

This sport does not require that a group train as a team, so most of them fit their training into their otherwise busy schedule and fit in the daily five mile minimum run in anywhere or anytime that seems applicable. Many run before school hours, others fit it into their Phys Ed schedule, while others work out after school.

The coach has a tough job seeing a boy work out more than a half dozen times a year. His efforts are usually resolved to consultation, posting of practice schedules to produce the required attributes of a good cross-country man. He usually gleams most of his information concerning a boy's traits from the meets.

It has long been my conviction that all athletes are 99.44% hams. They go through the rigors of torture and torment demanded for good conditioning so that they can hear the crowds cheer with approval and like the friendly pat on the back for a job well done. My conviction about athletes and hams have little or no foundation with the cross-country set. About the only glory they get is to set a mental clock mark to whip, then do it. There won't be more than a half dozen at the finish line to cheer you on and if you are very far back, half of those already finished will be well towards the shower. If you qualify, you get a chenille letter in payment for a couple of hundred hours of work.

If you need someone in your business, who has all the qualities of willingness to sacrifice self for success, perseverance needs little supervision and a personality that is satisfied with an inner feeling of warmth when they have accomplished a goal, then pick a cross country man. They have completely sold me.

Comments from K. S. B.:
At Harrington the situation is a little different. At Killen's Pond, the runners are in sight about half the time. Also, the Lions are drawing about 50 people to their meets. Otherwise, things are just about the way Mr. Darling so ably describes them.

J.V. Football Team Loses to C. R.

The Harrington Junior High Football team lost a close game to Caesar Rodney Tuesday, 12-0. Outstanding performances by the local boys included linemen: Michael Welch, William Bonniwell, Danny Smith, Mike Stayton and Jim Simpler. In the backfield Steve Welch handled the ball at quarterback without one miscue and Wayne Melvin, halfback, was successful at running the ball. Next Wednesday, Oct. 30, the team meets Dover Air Force Base at home, game starting at 3:30. Come out and support your team.

AND THEY'RE OFF — Scene at the start of a cross-country race held at the Killen's Pond course recently.

Lion Harriers Beat Milford

Coach Harold McDonald's Harrington High cross-country Lions won their fifth meet of an unbeaten season, by easily defeating Milford by a score of 18-45, in a meet held at Killen's Pond on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 17.

The Buccaneers' No. 1 harrier, Micket Clark, was out with tonsillitis, but Harrington wound up with an equalizing problem, when the Lions' Bob Smith again suffered an upset stomach and did not make the finish line until the race was over. Dennis Rogers, the Lions' No. 1 harrier of 1962, thus regained his old rating as he has now won two races and has a home course record of 12:25. Smith has also won two races and holds a home course record of 12:37. Both these lads are tough to beat and each knows it is no disgrace to lose to the other, especially since they are teammates.

Against Milford, Rogers clocked 12:32 and George Bonniwell logged a new personal course record of 12:40 to finish second. Jaywork, of Milford, surprised by nabbing third place with a fine 12:54.

Wayne Carson, Marshall Hatfield, Roger Betts, Roger Redden and Ellis Myer took the next five places, followed by the remainder of the Milford squad.

In a javet test, Harrington triumphed 15-48, 15-50 would have been a rock-bottom perfect score. A survey of the clockings shows that the Lions' javetee squad could have beaten the Bucs' varsity by a score of 24-46. The 1963 squad could not beat the great, unbeaten 1960 unit but has more top-to-bottom strength than any other H.H.S. harrier team. Six boys have broken 13 minutes. Two others are only one and two seconds away from the magic figure. Five other boys have beaten 14 minutes and eighth graders, Bob Dean and Nick Morris are very close to that time.

Against the Milford Jayvees, all eyes were glued to the hot duel being waged for first place between Lion freshman Dan Hicks and Lion sophomore Bob Matthews. Matthews lost the lead when he had to stop and tie his shoe. Hicks, then lost the lead when he got a bug in his eye and also inhaled some lime, which was being sprayed in a nearby field. Rounding the walnut tree some 200 yards from the finish, both lads started to sprint. Matthews held a slight lead all the way to the finish as both ran full throttle but were unable to gain an inch. Their clockings of 13:23 and 13:24 were superb especially when it is remembered that both lads had to stop in the middle of the test. Henry Minner charged into the picture to get third place with a 13:25. These three clockings were faster than all but one of Milford's varsity men.

Frank Cain and Donald Wells were next in followed by McKnatt, of Milford, who just nosed the onrushing Bob Dean, Marshall Jackson, Nick Morris and Harold Russ were eighth, ninth and tenth.

Hicks, Jackson and Wayne Reid ran to new personal marks. Dean was only one second from his best time. Jackson chopped a big, fat 53 second off his best previous effort. Reid, a tiny 80 pound eighth-grader, is nearing the 14 minute boys and had the enjoyable experience of beating nine Milfordians.

Friday afternoon, Oct. 25, the locals travel to Denton for their showdown tussle with also unbeaten North Caroline High School. The Bulldogs and Lions have monopolized cross-country in the lower Delmarva area for five years out of the last six. Easton squeaked in on top in 1961. In meets against mutual opponents, the locals won by greater scores than did North Caroline. Much depends on the ability of Bob Smith to overcome his stomach disorder trouble and to regain his early season form. The Bulldogs have a similar problem. Ed Williams, the No. 1 harrier in this area, has a pulled muscle and may not run. If he does compete he probably won't be in top form. At any rate Byers King's boys figure to be tough on their home course.

Bears Hand Eagles First Defeat Ever

After three years of winning or tying the Eagles of the Harrington Football League finally suffered their first defeat. Coach Ted Layton's boys were nosed 7-6 by the Bears entry, coached by Bill Morris and his assistant, Tom Jones.

The exciting contest was witnessed by a good crowd. The action was fast and el furioso right down to the final whistle.

The Eagles received the opening kickoff and marched 48 yards to score with Jack Redden crossing the double stripe on a short line plunge. A penalty aided the drive, which consumed most of the first quarter.

In the second quarter, Oscar Matthews III bolted for 10 yards and a first down. John M. "Mike" Adams faked a handoff and bootlegged around left end for another Bear gain. This one went for seven yards. Jon Marsan got the short yardage needed for another first down. The drive stalled and Roger Bullock got off a good left-footed kick.

Shortly after the Bears recovered an Eagle fumble just 18 yards from touchdown-land. A penalty took them to the 7. Marsan and Matthews reached the 4. Nick Morris caught Gary Minner for a 10-yard loss to the 14. Adams fired a fourth down aerial toward the goal line which was deflected into the yearning arms of Gordy Jarrell, of the Bears. It was only the second TD scored in regular season play against the Eagles in the three years the HFL has been in existence. The Colts broke the ice last week. Matthews crashed across for the extra point that won the game.

Matthews made a good runback of the second half kickoff. Bullock added a couple or three yards. Adams went for the first down. Matthews hit the forward wall for several yards. Gary Minner raced for 11 yards and another first down. Jarrell carried to the Eagle 15 on the end-around play, but the Eagles, aided by a fumble, dug in and took over on downs.

Steve O'Neal broke through and smeared Redden for a loss. Redden drove down the field for long yardage but the play was called back and a penalty was assessed. Jack then carried for the third straight time and was successful to the tune of several yards, after which he passed to Gary Smith for a first down. Nick Morris added six yard on an end sweep. Redden carried for the first down but had a pass intercepted by Steven O'Neal on the next play.

Marsan toted once and Matthews twice for a first down on the Eagle 34 as the final chapter opened. Adams surged off tackle to the 31 and Minner then rakked up the first down.

Minner picked up three more yards but the drive ended on the next play when he was thrown for a loss by Gary Smith, after taking a pitchout.

The Eagles' next series of downs was fruitless Gary Simpson batted down a pass intended for Smith, which turned out to be an important save.

Jarrell went for seven yards on the end around play and was stopped one yard short of a first down by Roger Hicks and Gary Smith.

The Eagles held the Bears but gave the ball right back when Jarrell intercepted a forward. Marsan carried twice for five yards. Matthews lugged the leather twice for gains, the first notching a first down and the second try acting as a down pass on still another first-and-ten situation. Adams and Marsan paid off the note with runs that carried to the Eagle 11. At this point Chuck Peck made a key play by dropping a Bear back on the 12. The Bears finally gave up the ball on the 9.

With seconds left the script called for a desperation pass. Wayne Reid of the Bears picked off the aerial and reached the four yard line before he was tackled as the game ended.

The defeat puts the Bears in first place and drops the Eagles to the runner-up spot.

Dover Air Falcons Claw H.H.S. Lions 26-6

Last autumn the then winless Harrington High football Lions met the Dover Air Force Base High School team and crushed them 26-6. Everything went wrong for the Falcons that day and the Lions could do no wrong. Saturday afternoon at Dover the locals returned the favor and by exactly the same score. The Air Base team is the doormat of the Diamond State Conference, while Harrington shares that dubious distinction in the Henlopen Conference with Selbyville and Delmar.

The Lions did not have the spirit and pep they exhibited against Millsboro. If they had been in the same frame of mind, it is our opinion that they could have grounded the birdmen. Bridgeville handled Air Base with ease but had to fight for their lives to edge Harrington.

Shortly after the starting whistle H.H.S. began to march. Barry Fry later plunged for a first down followed by a gain of 4 yards by Bill Adams. A longer run was called back by a clipping penalty.

Air Base, sweeping the ends, and hitting up the middle, drove to the Lion 1 from where Steve Wamsley scored through the line. A penalty helped stop the extra point try. Rusty Jack went around end from his own 33 to the Air Base 43 only to be tackled by the last man barring his path. Trying the other end on the following play, Jack lost the ball on a fumble.

In the second quarter Fry passed to Richard Black on the Lion 48. Jack drove into Falcon territory for the first down. Fry passed to Black for 20 yards and the officials tacked on 15 more for tackling the face mask. The Falcons caught Fry attempting to pass and threw him for a loss. Adams gained several yards and Black grabbed another pass on fourth down that was short of the required first down yardage.

Barry Fry made two straight tackles at the line of scrimmage but the next play went for a first down up the middle. A Falcon aerial was good but a second was batted around in the air and picked off by Larry Garey, who has several other interceptions this year.

A Lion pass was good for 40 yards but was called back as the officials decided something wasn't kosher about the play.

Dover Air took the second half kickoff and never turned loose the pigskin until Chap Wasson plunged 2 yards for the score. The extra point was good for 13-0.

Charlie Taylor went off tackle for several yards to set up the play that put the Lions temporarily back in the game. Rusty Jack darted around the left side, suddenly reversed his field and dashed back across the gridiron to score on a 65-yard run down the right sideline. A plunge for another point failed.

The Falcons put the game out of reach in the third period as a good diving catch gave them a first down in H.H.S. territory. An end sweep carried from the 30 yard line to the 3. Chap Wasson cracked through the middle for the T.D.

Fry had a couple forwards dropped and the Lions had to surrender the oval once more. Black boomed a punt to the Base 15 to end the disastrous third quarter.

Garry Harris trapped the Falcon passer on the 7 yard line for a loss of 8 yards. The next play saw the victors charge 28 yards up the field. Two more runs carried to the Lion 40. The Falcons moved on in to score both a TD and the extra point.

To compound the injury the upstarters then tried a short kick and recovered it. The game ended shortly after.

Barry Fry's passing was good but his receivers dropped several. Wayne Porter, a sophomore corner, continues to impress with his fine defensive work. The game films showed him turning in play after play, stripping the ball carrier of his interference and making several tackles. Yet Porter is only a sophomore and a small one at that.

Rusty Jack does well on defense and impressed as a ball carrier, also, as he flashed more speed than expected.

Chuck McNally played well. Richard Black was cracking his man hard at the line of scrimmage as he tried to get at the elusive ball carriers. Garry Fry does a good job in the middle of the line.

Milton came to Harrington Saturday and "Katie, bar the door." The Warriors are back in football after a lapse of 10 years and have played only javetee teams this year. Harrington played and won a varsity game in the Lion's first year but such an occurrence is extremely rare. The locals had a big, fast squad that season and haven't had that much talent since.

We'll go out on a nice, sound limb and predict a big, fat victory for H.H.S. However, don't be too sure boys. "Bust 'em."
