Many Inquiries Received About Adult Education

"Never too old to learn" seems to be the theme song of many Delaware residents as inquiries from individuals of all ages, concerning the James H. Groves High School, continue to be received by the State Department of Public Instruction. Approximately 100 inquiries from all three counties in the State concerning the school have been received to date, according to Dr. Howard E. Row, assistant state superintendent in charge of secondary education. Many of the individuals who inquired are now enrolled in correspondence schools and are working toward meeting state requirements for a diploma.

A survey early this year to some 5000 dropouts of the past ten years, brought 672 replies, 625 of which indicated a desire to continue their education and to obtain a diploma.

The James H. Groves High School—Delaware's adult high school program—was established by the State Board of Education in December, 1962, to help individuals of Delaware, who had dropped out of high school, to finish their education.

It is the aim of the State Department of Public Instruction, when funds are available for staffing and operating the school, to locate one school in Wilmington and one somewhere in Kent County with extension centers in Sussex County, using the facilities of day schools, so that those interested in continuing their education may do so under actual classroom conditions and under the guidance of teachers.

Perkins Tells U. of D. Goals

Parents should understand that if the university succeeds with the education of their sons and daughters, they are bound to change, Dr. John A. Perkins told a parents conference assembly Saturday.

Speaking before about 1000 parents attending the 13th annual University of Delaware Parents Conference, President Perkins cited the benefits of campus living in the total education and development of the student.

"It has been said that one year's residential experience in college is the equivalent of four commuting years," Dr. Perkins said. "There are good reasons why this is so. First, most out-of-class cultural activities provided by the university take place after class hours and in the evening. The student who comes each day at 8 a.m. and leaves immediately after his last class is not likely to participate much in this important aspect of collegiate learning. Second, the environment of the campus is a constant reminder to the student that his total devotion must be to learning. Thirdly, the break from the home environment and the supervision of parents, and the development of new friendships are all maturing adjustments which the commuting student is likely to miss."

Dr. Perkins' address at the opening convocation in Carpenter Field House was followed by meetings with deans of the six undergraduate schools, departmental meetings and faculty conferences with faculty members and advisers. Parents also joined their students for luncheon in one of the university dining halls.

Campus tours, the president's reception, residence hall open houses and a dramatic production were other features of the day.

2 Suspects Arrested In Burglary

State police last Friday night and early Saturday arrested two suspects in the armed robbery Tues., Nov. 12, of a service station near here.

State police at Bridgeville said both suspects are 18 years old. They are Louis Laws of near Greenwood and Roy Harrison Asderson of Rehoboth Beach.

Laws and Anderson were taken before Magistrate Clarence Dyer here, who held them on $2,000 bond each on charges of armed robbery.

Police said they were traced through a car driven by Laws the night of the robbery.

Two attendants at Garden State service station on U. S. 13 east of here were held up and relieved of their wallets by two men, one of whom had a shotgun. A small amount of money was taken.

The attendants were Leslie Delano, about 30, and Warren Bader, 19.

State police said the wallets have been found buried along a woods road near Farmington. The shotgun, they said, was recovered at Laws' home. It was a 12-gauge bolt-action weapon loaded with six shells, police said.

U. S. Senate Passes Air Pollution Bill

Sen. J. Caleb Boggs this week hailed passage by the U. S. Senate Tuesday of a bill expanding efforts nationwide to control air pollution.

Boggs was a co-sponsor of the legislation, known as the "clean air bill." He was also the ranking minority member of the subcommittee which considered it.

"This legislation recognizes that the primary responsibility for the prevention and control of air pollution rests with state and local governments," Boggs said on the Senate floor.

"At the same time," he added, "it provides federal financial assistance and leadership."

Boggs said: "The increase in air pollution and the complexity of the problem of air pollution has been developing to the extent that it has become a serious hazard, causing damage to the public health and welfare and to the economy."

Boggs was named to a six-member Senate conference committee which will now try to iron out differences between the Senate bill and a similar measure passed in the House. The legislation is to replace the Air Pollution Act of 1955.

The Senate bill, S. 432, provides for the expenditures of $182 million over a five-year period.

Coady, whose father was at Gualdalcana and is a retired Marine colonel, is now teaching at Pensacola after 14 months in Vietnam.

Coady last Christmas eve, after asking Tregaskis for an autographed book, sums up the spirit of the American fighting man in Vietnam: "You know, my wife and I don't have any

Planning Unit Sought in Kent

The Kent County Levy Court agreed Tuesday on a plan to establish a planning commission to pave the way for countywide zoning.

The commissioners will ask the General Assembly for legislation permitting establishment of a county planning group to act as a forerunner to a county zoning board.

The request is the second step in a long process which would give Kent County control over its development.

Levy Court President James B. Messick said Tuesday, "Kent County and Delaware are on the threshold of expansion, and without zoning we will be unprepared for it."

Kent and Sussex Counties are not authorized to zone their lands by the state constitution.

To permit zoning, the General Assembly must pass a constitutional amendment in two successive sessions.

The amendment was passed last January by the 122d General Assembly. It will be introduced for action in January, 1965, when the 123 General Assembly convenes.

The planning commission will be a temporary agency to bridge to gap in 1964 until 1965 legislative action permits the establishment of a permanent zoning commission.

State Planning Director John Bivens met Tuesday with the Levy Court to discuss the proposed commission. The Delaware State Planning Council will supply information to the Kent County commission relating to future planning and zoning.

Bivens said statewide planning legislation, which provided a better system for New Castle County and an option on planning for Kent and Sussex Counties, has led to more streamlined operation in state planning.

Levy Court commissioners will meet in the near future to discuss appointments to the new planning commission. The commissioners would be asked to serve for one-year terms, with reappointment for staggered terms when Kent is permitted to establish zoning after the second bill is passed.

The commission proposal will be submitted to the General Assembly as soon as possible, probably in December, for action and the members will receive their appointments during the first part of January.

The commission will be expected to lay the preliminary foundation for the zoning group, and to smooth out operations.

Bivens urged that members be interested in the county as a whole, not in a specific segment of the county's population or area.

"One of their first jobs will be to determine what we want Kent County to be in the future," Bivens said.

The commission essentially will act in an advisory capacity to the Levy Court.

HARRINGTON C. OF C. ARRANGES HOLIDAY PARADE NOV. 30

Census of Catholics To Be Held Sunday

Final plans are being made this week for the census of the Catholic population to be taken Sunday, November 24, throughout the entire Delmarva Peninsula. An estimated 10,000 laymen, recruited and organized last month, are receiving this week intensive instructions and the census materials at their respective parish centers.

The enumeration project is being called "A Survey for the Future." A similar census was undertaken by the Diocese of Wilmington in 1958. The current survey is being conducted in view of the rapid growth and change in population on the Peninsula in recent years. The statistics that the census produce will assist the Diocese in formulating plans for the future development of its educational and social welfare facilities. The boundaries of the Diocese are co-extensive with those of the Peninsula.

The survey will also provide pastors with data on the religious status of Catholics within their parishes so that they may better direct the spiritual welfare of souls entrusted to their care.

The army of enumerators will visit every dwelling unit in the Diocese, working in teams of two persons each. Each team member will be carrying an identification badge signed by the Most Reverend Michael W. Hyle, bishop of Wilmington, and bearing his coat of arms. The census questions are directed primarily to Catholics; others will not be pressed to furnish information and no attempts at proselytizing will be made.

115 Inspect Bay Bridge - Tunnel

Officials of lower Delaware, representing the General Assembly municipalities and chambers of Commerce had a dual purpose inspecting the new Chesapeake Bay Bridge and Tunnel Complex Saturday, according to Paul F. Carpenter, who arranged the tour.

First, the delegation of 115 people was interested to see the new Chesapeake Bay structure and learn what economic impact it will have on Delmarva Peninsula. Second was the opportunity to inspect the ferries which will ply from Lewes to Cape May, N. J., by next summer.

All expressed delight with the S.S. Pocahontas which will become the flagship Delaware in the Delaware River and Bay Authority's fleet. Its size amazed most of those who had never made a crossing before, while others envisioned what it may be like after it is re-fitted.

Two Trailway buses and six private cars traveled to Kiptopeake, where the party was met by Henry Callahan, travel director for the Chesapeake Bay River and Tunnel Commission; Jim Addison, travel solicitor and William Anderson, a member of the engineering group which is in charge of construction of the complex of man-made islands, tunnels and bridges.

The party crossed the bay and motored to the Shore Drive Inn for luncheon. There they were briefed by Callahan and Edward Joyner, project public relations director.

After motoring to the first island (while the ladies were left behind for a tour of Virginia Beach), the party was allowed to climb to the top of the island structure for an overall view. The day was bright and clear and the vision was perfect.

Passing through a series of flights of stairs through the vent, the Delawarean's first grasp of the magnitude of the project. The tunnel roadbed is 90 feet below mean low water level of Chesapeake Bay.

They inspected the tiled tunnel for an area of several blocks and were told that within a few working days the final connection will be made so that a vehicle may pass from one side of the bay to the other. They emphasized that much work remains to be done, however, and that completion and dedication is set for early spring.

While the opportunity was available, Bayard Coulter, president of the Lewes Chamber of Commerce extended a blanket invitation to crews and workmen who may be assigned to similar positions on the Lewes-Cape May run, to consider Lewes as their future home.

Delaware Food Market Report

Thanksgiving - a truly American holiday and one that holds great tradition for us - "is just around the corner". The meaning of the celebration remains the same, but the star performer has just been undergoing some dramatic changes.

The tough old bird who greeted our Pilgrim fathers would hardly recognize the tender young birds of today. It's all due to the greater knowledge of nutrition and breeding that has enabled growers to provide us with these top quality birds.

The government sees to it that they are wholesome and good to eat. Almost all poultry and poultry products marketed - (all that crosses the state line) are inspected for wholesomeness by the United States Department of Agriculture and must carry the inspection stamp.

Improved methods of processing and marketing too, have had their effect. Not many years ago, turkey appeared on most family tables only at Thanksgiving or Christmas. But with freezing and better methods of distribution, turkeys have become a year-round treat. They are available in all sizes, semi-boned, boneless, stuffed, and by the piece.

If you are planning on roast turkey for the holiday just ahead, here are a few pointers to help you with the job.

First when buying a turkey check for grades and wholesomeness - buy the correct size for your needs. Allow 1/2 to 3/4 lb. of ready-to-cook turkey per serving when buying a 12 lb. bird or over. When buying a smaller turkey, allow 3/4 to 1 lb. per serving. The actual number of servings depends on the quantity of the turkey, correct cooking and carving skill.

If you buy a frozen turkey then it should be almost completely thawed before cooking. However, if it is a stuffed frozen bird, do not thaw before cooking. It requires 2 to 3 days to completely thaw a large turkey in the refrigerator. To thaw in cool water requires much less time (4 to 6 hours). Do plan ahead for this.

If you are stuffing your gobbler, put the stuffing in loosely - it swells as the bird cooks. Do not stuff the turkey until time to roast it. To shorten cooking time, roast the turkey unstuffed. The stuffing can be baked separately.

Roast in a slow oven - 325 degrees planning for the bird to be done 15 to 20 minutes before serving. This "rest period" helps make the meat juicy and carving easy.

During the days before the holiday a variety of meats will be available. Increased lamb marketings have brought lower price tags to most cuts of lamb. Frequent specials on beef, pork, and poultry help add variety to each meal.

Also if you have any toys we could use or clothes one could use, please contact any of the members. Contribution will also be accepted. After all, this is what the Lodge and Chapter are for, helping children, and helping the elderly find peace and contentment in life's closing days.

The Christmas tree was really pretty with the names of the ones who contributed to it on red hearts. Half went to Mooseheart for the children and the other half went to Moosehaven for the elderly for a better Christmas, which we do every Christmas.

Near-Perfect Corn Feature of Crop Show

Have you ever seen a perfect ear of corn—one with straight even rows and full kernels out to the very end of the ear? You may say there is no such thing. But if you do you'll probably get an argument from Dr. William H. Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware.

Mitchell attributes the near-perfect appearance of many of this year's samples to the new single-cross hybrids that are gaining favor in Delaware. He says, most hybrids are four-way crosses—that is, the crossing of four inbred lines.

More than 150 crop exhibits will be on display at the crop show in the Capitol Grange Hall in Dover. In addition to almost 60 ear corn samples, soybeans, hay, silage and small grain will also be exhibited.

The 4-H Crop contest is expected to draw 50 or more participants from throughout Delaware. Mitchell has been working with 4-H youngsters in training sessions in all three counties prior to the contest.

Several educational exhibits are being planned for the show. One will point to the almost startling difference between the size and yield of soybean plants grown under varying lime availability levels.

A lime short course conducted by the Agricultural Extension Service at the University of Delaware will be an added feature of the crop show.

Short course topics include the ABC's of Liming; the Effects of Molybdenum on Soybean Yields; and the Use of Minor Nutritional Elements on Crop Yield.

Veterans News

Unmarried minor children of deceased veterans may be eligible for pension payments even when their mother, the veteran's widow, is not eligible.

The widow may be ineligible due to having remarried, or because she has income in excess of established limits.

Mr. Fields said children of deceased veterans may be eligible for pension until they are 18 years of age, or 21 years if attending school, provided that they are unmarried and that their own personal incomes of estates are no greater than the regulations allow.

Mr. Fields further pointed out that when a widow with children is already on the pension rolls the subsequent ineligibility of the

Wash Day Products Aid Fabric Appeal

Fabric softeners and whitening and brightening agents have been added to the standard bleach used by grandmother, says Katie Thomas, Kent County extension agent, home economics.

Fabric softeners attach to the fabric surface and help retain the little surface moisture essential for a fluffy feel. Whitening and brightening agents are fluorescent dyes that reflect ultraviolet light waves—invisible light rays that our eyes can't see—so that white articles appear lustrous and colors appear bright.

Bleaching also brightens, colors, by the use of a chemical action. Known as oxidation, a simple explanation of the process is that oxygen combines with a colored substance to form a new product that is white or without color, Mrs. Thomas says.

Some bleaches release chlorine in addition to oxygen. Chlorine is harmless to most fabrics but can damage wool, silk and some fabric finishes. That's why you should test a diluted solution or a chlorine bleach on part of the garment that does not show when it is worn.

Bleach goes in the wash water when using your machine so that the rinse water can remove any unused bleach from the clothes. Read the label carefully and follow directions. Mrs. Thomas advises never to use more than is called for, but you can experiment with less.

Mix bleach into the wash water before adding clothes. When you must add it later, dilute it with four times as much water as bleach. This is done so full strength bleach doesn't spot or damage the clothes that it reaches first.

widow poses no problem. Pension payments to the children are continued after the mother's name is removed from the rolls.

However, in cases where the widow has never applied for a pension, or whose application was not allowed due to her remarriage or excessive income, the VA may have no record of any minor children to which payment should be made.

Mr. Fields said full details as to how minor children may file pension applications may be obtained at any VA office.

Choose Christmas Gifts Carefully

Christmas is only a few weeks away, and whether you buy your Christmas gifts or make them yourself, this is the time to start. Gifts of clothing are always popular—but do choose them carefully so the recipients won't have to exchange them after Christmas for something more suitable, urges Miss Janet Reed, extension clothing and textiles specialist at the University of Delaware.

She says that, without realizing it, many people choose items they would like to have themselves rather than carefully deciding what would be most suitable for the recipient.

Miss Reed suggests keeping an up-to-date list of sizes and color preferences for each person. When selecting the gift, keep in mind the recipient's taste and way of life in deciding the type of garment to buy.

Whitening and brightening agents are fluorescent dyes that reflect ultraviolet light waves—invisible light rays that our eyes can't see—so that white articles appear lustrous and colors appear bright.

You can save a lot of time—and tired feet—by having a good idea of the items you want to get before you start shopping, Miss Reed says. She also recommends shopping early in the day if possible, before you are too tired, and before the stores become crowded.

Many people prefer to make some or all of the gifts they give—and these items are often appreciated much more than a gift you might buy, Miss Reed points out. But if you are going to spend the time and effort to make something, be sure it is an item the recipient can use and will appreciate.

Other hand-made gifts that are fun to make and to receive are stuffed animals for children or teenagers. These can be made from terry cloth, washable velvet or corduroy, gingham, washable acrylic pile or imitation fur fabrics. They should be stuffed with a washable filling, and all trimmings should be firmly attached so a young child cannot pull them off and swallow them.

Housecoats and robes are good choices for hand-made gifts, Miss Reed says, because the problem of exact fit is not as critical as with some other items of apparel.

hooked rugs, or, if window sizes are known, curtains. These items are especially good this year, since there has been a great revival of embroidery, needlepoint and other hand decorative arts.

The sewing box is also a good place to look for gift wrapping ideas, Miss Reed says. Rickrack, tape, yarn, braid and other "novelties" make interesting trims for packages and are a novel change from the usual bows.

"Whatever gifts you make, be sure they are items you will be able to finish at least several days before Christmas, so you won't have to sit up half the night Christmas Eve adding the final touches!" she cautions.

"One Army" RRD Reserve School Class Graduates

Thirteen National Guard officers and an Army Reserve officer from throughout the State of Delaware were awarded diplomas from the U. S. Army Air Defense School in a ceremony at the Delaware Officers Club, New Castle, on Nov. 13.

All were graduated from the three-year-long air defense officer career course conducted by the Wilmington U. S. Army Reserve School.

The course, which included three two-week periods at the Air Defense School at Fort Bliss, Texas, as well as evening sessions in Wilmington or Milford, is equivalent to the five-month resident course conducted at Fort Bliss.

Diplomas were presented by Brig. Gen. Herbert O. Wardell, commander of the Guard's 261st Artillery Brigade. Col. Lloyd B. Magruder, commandant of the local reserve school, spoke at the ceremonies, as did Lt. Col. Jules Reiver, director of the school's air defense branch.

The Wilmington school was the first in the country where students from both reserve components—the National Guard and Army Reserve—attended classes together under reserve officer instructors.

The program was so successful that it has been extended to all parts of the country as part of the "One Army" concept. The graduates are Captains Lloyd W. Hearn, George B. Coverdale, Walter H. Widdoes, Dale M. Bankes, Arthur V. Episcopo, John F. Berl, Lewis H. Miller, Daniel J. Nichols, William F. Rhoads, Arnold N. Spicer, Joseph Zappo, Raymond Zydanzewicz, all of the National Guard, Capt. William B. Daley, Army Reserve, and 1st Lt. Franklin M. Ward, National Guard.

The course they completed qualifies them educationally for promotion up to the grade of lieutenant colonel, as well as for attendance at the Army's highest tactical school, the Command and General Staff College.

"Blessing of The Trees," at Century Club Tuesday

One of the outstanding programs of the Harrington New Century Club will take place at the club house next Tuesday afternoon, November 26 at two o'clock under the direction of Mrs. Quay Rice, Conservation chairman and her committee.

Entitled, "The Blessing of the Trees," it is a program stressing Conservation and City Beautification designed to bring more beauty and joy into this community. These plantings have been purchased by citizens and organizations in the town and will be given as a growing memorial to some loved one. Several of the civic groups in town have purchased trees which will be planted at the entrances of Harrington. Other trees and shrubs will be given for school or church property. Individuals have purchased items for their own yards also.

The program on Tuesday will include the Flag Ceremony by Cadette Patrol of Girl Scout Troop 687 and a play on conservation, "Keeping the Woods Clean," by the same troop. Mr. Paul Elton Lynch, of the Delmarva Nurseries near Lincoln, will speak on the care of trees and shrubs. Mrs. William Kramedas will present a short musical interlude accompanied by Mrs. Walter Winkler.

The actual blessing of the trees portion of the program will be presented by the Protestant and Catholic clergy of Harrington. The Rev. John A. Corrigan, The Rev. Lorraine Ottinger, The Rev. Quay Rice, The Rev. William H. Miller, The Rev. Charles Poukish and The Rev. Olin Shockley will all have a part in the ceremony.

Presentation of the Memorial Scrolls will be made by Mrs. Francis Winkler, President of the Harrington New Century Club.

Mrs. Rice has requested that those people who have purchased trees or shrubs be present at the program on Tuesday. Organizations have been asked to send a representative. The public is cordially invited to attend and witness this fine effort by the club toward community improvement and conservation. The members of Mrs. Rice's committee who have assisted her with the program are Mrs. Blanche Cahall, Mrs. George Hanson, Mrs. Mark Willey, Mrs. Melville C. Taylor, Mrs. Jehu F. Camper, Mrs. Clyde Perry, Mrs. John Walls and Mrs. Charles Grenhaugh.

Army Pfc. Jack E. Jones, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Jones, 210 Commerce St., Harrington, returned to Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, on the Island of Oahu, Nov. 9, after participating in Exercise Dusty Trail II, a month-long 25th Infantry Division field training exercise held on the Island of Hawaii.

During the maneuver, Jones and other members of his unit took part in various combined arms exercises. He is a driver in Company C of the Division's 1st Battalion, 5th Infantry. In Hawaii since June 1963, Jones entered the Army in August 1962 and completed basic training at Ft. Dix, N. J.

The former Harrington High School student was employed as an automotive mechanic by I. G. Burton & Sons in Milford before entering the Army.

His wife, Adel, is with him in Hawaii. D. F. Brittingham, 18, son of Mrs. Myrtle Brittingham, of Felton, completed basic training Nov. 1, at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

The nine-week training includes naval orientation, history and organization, seamanship, ordnance and gunnery, military drill, physical fitness, first aid and survival.

During the training recruits receive tests and interviews which determine their future assignments in the Navy. Upon completing the program they are assigned to service schools for technical instruction or to ships and stations for on-the-job training in a Navy rating specialty.

S. B. A. News

New "streamlined" procedures designed to speed the handling of loans made by the Small Business Administration to small businesses in this area, have been put into effect in SBA's Philadelphia Regional Office, Edward N. Rosa, Regional Director, announced this week.

Rosa said that SBA administrator Eugene P. Foley has ordered the new procedures adapted by all SBA offices after a successful pilot operation in New England.

According to Rosa, "By eliminating red tape, reducing paperwork, realigning personnel, easing technical requirements and acquiring the necessary financial data promptly, SBA's Boston office was able to reduce the time which formerly elapsed between receipt of a loan application and disbursement of funds by nearly one third."

The SBA official emphasized that, although the Agency is eliminating some of the less essential paperwork and speeding up operations, the new procedures will in no way weaken the soundness of SBA's business loan programs. "We will continue to insist on a thorough evaluation of each loan application," he said.

This week's action is another step in SBA's continuing effort to streamline its operations in order to provide maximum assistance to small businesses in the most efficient manner possible.

Tax Filing Time Near, Farmers' Guide Available

There's no sure way of making the job of income tax filing especially easy or painless, but there are ways that farmers and self-employed businessmen can minimize the task, says W. T. McAllister, farm management specialist at the University of Delaware.

McAllister recommends starting now to get tax records in order and to plan sales and purchases so that tax obligations may be at a minimum.

He explains that a farmer who has a lower than normal income this year may delay cash purchases until 1964, thereby reducing next year's tax obligation. With an abnormally high income this year, it may be desirable to buy some of next year's needs yet this year. Forward planning about such things as repairs, new equipment, selling livestock and the like can determine how these receipts and expenditures will affect taxable income and save tax dollars, McAllister says.

"This is important," he notes, "because every time a farmer can reduce his taxable income by $100, he saves at least $20. This is a better discount than you can get on most business transactions."

Wages paid to children when they do work around the farm should be counted as an expense against the farm business. However, the money must have been actually paid and the work actually performed. If the payment is less than $600 for the year, the child will not need to pay taxes on his earnings. If he earns more than $600 and the father provides more than 50 percent of the child's support, the child must file a tax report and pay any tax due, but the parent can continue to claim the child as a dependent.

A new feature added to the tax laws last year is a seven per cent investment credit allowance on the tax obligation for investing in depreciable assets that have a useful life of four years.

For example, McAllister says, if a farmer purchases a tractor for $3000, a tax credit of $210 would be allowed. "This $210 is deducted from the actual tax bill, so it is a very important consideration. It can be taken only once—the year in which the asset is acquired—so it is important to plan your purchases" of depreciable assets carefully," he says.

The 1964 Farmers' Tax Guide has an illustrated example of using investment credit in tax computations, and it also explains other aspects of taxes for farmers. Copies are available from the county agricultural agents in Newark, Dover and Georgetown, or they may be obtained from W. T. McAllister, University of Delaware School of Agriculture, Newark, Delaware.

Mrs. Frank O'Neal, Jr. reported on the Child Welfare Conference for the Middle Atlantic States held in Wilmington on Nov. 8 and 9. Her report covered many problems which face adults and children alike in our nation today.

FENCE TALK

With George Vapaa

The American dream for many years was to buy a small farm and settle down to raising a few chickens. The idea has not entirely died, but it is badly bent, because of the changes in modern farming.

No longer can the small farm provide an adequate living. And to make a profit with chickens requires at least 3000 layers or about 15,000 broilers.

But folks with special skills can have the pleasures of a small farm while still working in town. Such a family is Joseph and Doris Brinster, who lives at McCauleys Pond near Harrington.

They came from northern New Jersey about three years ago after their farm was bought for a public park. It was the last open land in the area. They had operated a large goat dairy plant for 15 years, and wholesaled their product to other cow dairies. About 95% of goat milk demand is for infants and patients suffering from allergies to cow's milk. Goat milk is naturally homogenized, which means the fat globules are almost as small as cow's milk after it has been homogenized.

Joe now works part-time as a bookkeeper for the Kent County Soil Conservation District. The family still keeps a few goats as breeding stock. Just recently, they consigned a registered Toggenberg to the National Spotlight Sale at Hot Springs, Ark. Only 24 animals are accepted for this top sale each year.

A final note. Joe says he might have been tempted to start a large goat herd again. He feels a specialty product made under sanitary conditions commands a premium price. But so much investment is needed for equipment that he is reluctant to try it. This explains why most small scale farmers and young farmers starting out have a difficult time.

The 'Round Circle CowBelles, of Circle, Mont., have a unique idea for better understanding among members of the beef industry. They invite cattlemen traveling through Eastern Montana to stop at the County Agent's office in Circle. County Agent Phil Olmstead will then give the traveler and his family directions for reaching a near-by ranch where they can see at first-hand ranching in prairie country.

The host rancher or his wife will show each guest around the ranch while work continues as usual. They will answer all questions to the best of their ability. So anyone with an hour or a day to spare might stop at Circle, Montana, and look up County Agent Olmstead for a look at prairie ranching. And remember, the coffee pot is always on in Eastern Montana, we're told by Lucille Jensen, chairman of the CowBelles group.

We've suggested several times that the idea is useful for Kent County folks. We can provide a little more variety, if it is not on the grand scale of the Golden West. We have some beef, many dairy farms, hogs, sheep, horses, goats, broilers, layers, fruits, vegetables. Call us at 736-1448 or visit the Extension Service at the Dover postoffice. We have many farmers who are proud and happy to show and explain what they are doing.

Dairymen can save time and labor in keeping cows clean this winter by giving them a haircut within the next few weeks. Clipping the flanks, tail and udder makes the job of preparing the cow for milking much easier.

Here are suggestions for clipping a dairy cow:

Clip the tail and bob the switch so that it clears the ground by about four inches.

Clip the entire surface of the udder.

Clip the belly and hocks. Then make a "mark line" from the naval to the thurl on both sides. Do this by holding the clippers on edge with the bottom blade toward the cow's head.

Clip the flanks and thighs by running the clippers from the hock to the mark line.

Clip along the backbone to help control lice.

Clipping is no substitute for washing the cow's teats and udder before milking. Even when the cows are neatly clipped, the udder and teats should be washed with water containing a good sanitizing solution.

We haven't even scratched the surface on chemical weed control. Although Delaware farmers are using many times more pre-emergence herbicides today than they did 10 years ago.

Probably in no other phase of agriculture is technology changing so fast as in the agricultural chemical field. Companies are working constantly to develop new weed control chemicals. As our scientists and others unlock secrets inside the plant, we will see an even more systematic discovery of selective chemicals to control some plants without killing others.

We need ways to make present herbicides perform more consistently. Farmers need more selective chemicals for controlling weeds in soybeans. More selective post-emergence chemicals for grass control in both corn and soybeans are also high on farmers' priority lists.

One of the real roadblocks to best results with herbicides may be the present planter wheel. Farmers may benefit by preparing a smoother area, especially for granular herbicides applied behind the planter.

Equipment manufacturers are developing new ideas to help with herbicide application. One company has developed a marking boom for sprayers. Devices such as these can help avoid overlapping and help avoid the problems that follow from overdosage.

Looking to the future, farmers may be spraying with two different chemicals at the same time—one over the row and another over the row middles.

We may see more change in cultural practices, too. Some weed control specialists are asking if farmers need to prepare the whole row width with modern herbicides available. In the not-too-distant future, farmers may mechanically till the soil they have, chemically control weeds on the rest and develop planting patterns that may seem "way out" by today's standards. And we may see higher planting rates to take advantage of more shade in order to help control weeds.

While it might not happen tomorrow or for a few years, controlling weed seed dormancy with synthetic seed germination inhibitors of stimulants and with radio frequency or irradiation treatment is within the realm of possibility.

University of Arizona College of Agriculture has a $38,900 grant from U. S. Public Health Service to test the nutritional essentiality of fluoride for bone and tooth formation and for growth and reproductive processes.

Michigan State University has an agreement to negotiate a contract with Atomic Energy Commission for a $2 million building and $1 million a year operating budget for studies of basic processes by which plants live; such work may reveal the plant processes most vulnerable to radiation.

Speaking of Insects
with Dale Bray

It's not always the clothes moth which chews holes in stored clothing. In fact, the odds are that it's one of the carpet beetles. Sometimes the carpet beetles are called "buffalo moths," but they are beetles, not moths.

As with the clothes moth, it's the young or larval stage of the carpet beetle that does the damage. These larvae are covered with fuzzy bristles and vary from slender to fat in appearance, depending on the species. The adults are small beetles that are either mottled with white, yellow, brown and black or they are pure black. When the infestation is heavy, you may see some of the larvae crawling across the floor.

Probably their greatest damage is done to upholstered furniture and wall-to-wall carpeting. Some control of carpet beetles can be obtained by thorough cleaning, but this is impractical if you have wall-to-wall carpeting. Spot treating of carpets with 2% chlordane will protect the treated areas. Don't use chlordane over the whole rug—its toxicity is too great to apply on large portions of the rug. If you have a severe infestation, consult a pest control operator.

Infested furniture should be sprayed several times with a 3% DDT oil solution. Don't use an oil solution on silk rayon fabrics. Sometimes the oil solutions will stain certain materials, so before using one, test it by spraying a small spot in an inconspicuous part of the furniture. The reason you should spray DDT several times is that it kills only the beetles or larvae it hits directly. The residue is ineffective.

Clothing can be protected by dry cleaning and storage in an air tight container in which PDB crystals are placed.

Veterans News

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—Why should veterans, physicians or others always have the veteran's C-number ready when writing or making a long distance call to the VA on behalf of a veteran?

A—There are many, many veterans with the same or similar names in the list of more than VA. With no information available except the name, it is difficult or impossible to identify the proper record or to locate the record in the files.

Q—Can a war orphan who has his entrance into training delayed or interrupted by military service have his completion date extended?

A—Yes. He has five years from the date of his first release or discharge from military service in which to complete his training.

Q—Which state has the most living veterans and which has the least?

A—As of July 1, 1963, California with 2,303,000 living veterans had the largest veterans population of the 50 states. Alaska with 24,000 had the smallest.

Q—Is there an age limit after which a war orphan may no longer be eligible for Educational Assistance by the VA?

A—Generally, the age limits are between 18 and 23 with exceptions allowed in certain cases but in no case may the schooling assistance be continued beyond the 31st birthday of the beneficiary. Certain war orphans under 18 may also be eligible—for example, those who are handicapped.

Q—Children of a deceased veteran may have some pension rights—do they forfeit these rights when their mother (the veteran's widow) remarries?

A—No. Eligible children of a deceased veteran retain their pension rights after their mother remarries until they become 18, or 21 if they are going to school.

Q—How can I still be liable for my GI home if I have sold it to another party?

A—You are not liable for the home but for the GI loan which was guaranteed to the lender by the VA in your name. To avoid this responsibility, a veteran selling a GI home should arrange to have the buyer assume the liability. Consult your lender or the VA.

Q—My husband was recently discharged from a VA hospital because of what the hospital said was "MHB". What does this mean?

A—The letters stand for "Maximum Hospital Benefit." This means that hospital officials believe that the patient's condition has improved to the point that additional time in the hospital would bring about no further improvement.

Q—When I enter a VA hospital next month, may I continue to draw my disability pension?

A—Veterans with dependents will not have their disability pensions reduced while in a VA hospital. Veterans without dependents who draw their pension under Public Law 211 will have it adjusted to $30 per month at the end of the second full calendar month of hospitalization. At their discharge from the hospital the full pension will be resumed. Veterans without dependents who draw their pension under the Old Pension Law will have it reduced at the end of six months to 50 per cent or $30 whichever is the greater amount. The full amount will be resumed upon discharge from the hospital. Payments of amounts withheld under the Old Pension Law may be made on termination of hospitalization.

Q—Can a veteran obtain a GI loan to buy a home in Mexico?

A—No. The property must be located in the United States, its territories or possessions.

Lions Score First Ever Win Over Rehoboth

Frank Glazier's Harrington High Football Lions scored one of the most important victories in H.H.S. football history when they downed Rehoboth's Seahawks 20-12 under the lights at Rehoboth Friday night. No previous Harrington team has ever been able to get closer than four touchdowns to the perennially powerful Beachboys. Rehoboth had dropped early decisions to unbeaten leaders, Millsboro and John M. Clayton, but had three victories and a tie against Bridgeville, to show for its last four starts. As Ed Sullivan would say the Sussex Countians have a "really big" team. However, the much-lighter Lions rushed the burly Seahawks off their feet, smashed gaping holes in their forward wall and controlled the ball to such an extent that punter Richard Black only had one opportunity to boot the oval all night. From this seat only one other Harrington football victory was as important as this one. That would be the triumph over John M. Clayton, which was the only varsity game played by the locals in 1957, the first year of football here.

Everything seemed to be coming up roses for Rehoboth at the outset of Friday's game. They took the opening kickoff and marched 61 yards for a touchdown. Only ground plays were needed as Mike Newton, a 190 pound sprinter, bit off yardage in big chunks and plunged for the score. Although, the Lions foiled the try for extra point, it appeared that the resort town crowd was in for a happy evening.

It took only four plays for the Lions to prove that they did not come to Rehoboth just for the bus ride.

On the first scrimmage play after Rehoboth kicked off, Rusty Jack hit the beefy line for five yards. Bill Adams darted outside from the H.H.S. 43 yard line to the home team's 28. Barry Fry did the same on the next play and reached the one yard line. He sneaked over for the equalizer. Rusty Jack blasted over the wide stripe for the PAT and a 7-6 Lion lead. The drive carried 62 yards and the Beachcombers trailed for the rest of the contest.

Rehoboth could not move the ball and the Lions threatened to score again. Fry plunged for five yards and carried on the next play to rack up a first down on the H.H.S. 46. Bill Adams went seven yards to the Rehoboth 47. The Seahawks recovered a fumble to stop the music. A long pass was good for 25 yards to the Harrington 25 yard line. With Mike Newton doing most of the gaining, the Beachboys racked up two more first downs. The locals got a break when a receiver dropped a pass in the flat that might have meant a touchdown. With half-time only seconds away the Lions dug in and made a splendid goal line stand, that stopped Newton scant inches from a score on a fourth down play. Gary Harris sliced in to knock Newton down after his mates had slowed his progress. Fry and Jack ran out the clock with plays up the middle as the half ended with a score of Harrington 7, Rehoboth 6.

The Lions took the second half kickoff and soon put the game on ice. Rusty Jack fought his way through several tacklers before being downed on the Rehoboth 45. The play started on the Harrington 32. Bill Adams picked up ten yards to the 35 yard line. Fry went around the right side, evaded two or three tacklers and when hit dove forward to the 9 yard line. Two more plays carried only to the five but the Seahawks were penalized to the 2 1/2 yard line for being offside. Adams was tackled right at the goal line but Fry crashed over one play later for the score and hit right tackle again to make the tally 14-6.

Early in the fourth quarter the Seahawks switched tactics. Using plenty of spreads that utilized the speedy, evasive running of sprinter Jim Jones, they put together a long drive which was culminated by a scoring plunge by Newton. The point after try was no good.

Leading 14-12 Harrington received the ensuing kickoff. Barry Fry came straight up the center, saw a little daylight on his starboard side, so he switched over quickly to the right sideline and reached the Rehoboth 49. Jack got a block and went to the 32.

Bill Adams got through the right side of the line, veered sharply to the left and outran the secondary for the final points of the evening.

The losers surged to the H.H.S. 20 on ripples by Newton and Jones but a clipping penalty on the last run set them back to the H.H.S. 42. Jones was thrown for a loss and Rehoboth punted. Bill Adams, who played one of his best games ever, carried three straight times for gains of 6, 8 and 8. Jack hit the middle for a first down. Fry, a faking T magician all night, pretended to handoff to two backs and swept right end for five yards to midfield. Fry recovered his own fumble and Black then punted for the first and only time. The Seahawks were pushed deep in their territory by the resultant good kick. A desperation pass was intercepted by Barry Fry and returned to the losers' 19 yard line. The gun ended hostilities a few seconds later.

The Lions wind up the season Saturday afternoon as they host the Delmar Wildcats. Delmar has one victory, a 12-6 win over Lord Baltimore last week. While Lord Baltimore beat Harrington by one touchdown earlier in the season, we prefer to remember that Rehoboth smothered Delmar 35-0 only one week before the Lions stepped Rehoboth. A victory would give H.H.S. a 4-5 record. This would be one of the best logs recorded here and would show a 100 per cent improvement over last autumn's 2-7 final showing.

Coach Glazier emphasized that Friday's triumph was a team victory and that many comparatively unsung players turned in terrific performances. In this group are: Joe Taylor, Mike Wamsley, Ron Melvin, Gayle Fry, Charles Taylor, Larry Garey, Ron Hughes, Garry Harris and others.

Bears 19, Colts 7 In Junior Football League

Bill Morris' Bears forced a championship playoff with Ted Layton's Eagles as they downed the Colts 19-7 in the regular season finale Sunday at Moose Park. The championship tilt will be played Sunday afternoon. The winner will play a picked team from the second and third place clubs Thanksgiving Day.

Bill Garey shocked the Bears by rambling 64 yards for a touchdown with the opening kickoff. David Hurd ran across the extra point and the Colts had an early 7-0 lead.

The Colts tried an inside short kick but Gary Minner of the Bears made a fine runback to the Colt 35. Oscar Matthews hit the line for 5 yards but Chuck Hurd threw Roger Bullock for a loss on the next play. John Swain broke up a pass and the Colts took over. With the aid of a penalty they reached a fourth-down-and-one-foot situation. Garey made five yards but the Blue soon had to boot. Gordy Jarrell dashed around left end to the Colt 28. Wayne Reid hit to the 23. Jarrell hit Reid with a forward and he was bounced out of bounds at the 2 yard line. Roger Bullock charged into a knot of players but bounced off and scored. Jon Marsan made the extra point to knot things up.

In the second quarter after Jarrell had sped for a 30 foot gain, Glenn Layton made a diving tackle to get Marsan for minus three yards. Jarrell passed to Reid for a first down on the Colt 12. Matthews took a pitchout to the 7 and then scored on the next down only to see it called back for illegal procedure. That penalty and another on the following try for the same infraction pushed the Bears back to the 13. Wayne Reid swept right end for the T.D. and everything was copasetic this time. The point failed leaving the tally at Bears, 13; Colts, 7.

Bill Garey mounted a Colt threat when he rounded left end and dashed 20 yards to the Bear 30. Clipping on the play put the ball down on the 22. Garey appeared to be on his way to another good yardage pickup but Wayne Reid made a desperation, shoestring tackle.

Jarrell got away for good yardage on a broken-field run for the Bears. A double reverse sprang Reid loose for more of the same. Bullock hit right tackle and Marsan left tackle for another first down. The Colts held but soon had to kick. Jarrell carried the punt back up the field to start the last scoring drive. Quarterback Mike Adams faked to Matthews hitting into the middle and slipped it to Reid, who added big yardage on a sweep around right end. Reid fought over the goal from eight yards out.

In the fourth quarter the Colts threatened one more time as Chuck Hurd drove for six yards to the Colt 35 yard line. Garey sneaked for first-and-10. Garey added 10 more yards after a play lost ground. Dave Hurd charged off right tackle to the Bear 31. Reid tackled Garey for a loss and the Bears held. The Bruins unveiled another ball carrier in Steven O'Neal, who carried several times for good yardage. Glenn Layton trapped a Bear for a loss on a pass attempt near the end of the game.

The game was marred by the most serious injury yet to occur in the league's three year history. Billy Walls, one of the scrappiest of the Bears, broke his thigh and according to the last report we heard, he may be in traction for six weeks. Billy is a neighbor of ours and we wish the little guy a speedy recovery.

Lion Harriers End Regular Season Undeclared

Harold McDonald's state champion H.H.S. cross-country team finally squeezed in a thrice-postponed meet at Milford on Monday afternoon. The meet was first scheduled for Nov. 3.

The Lions' Dennis Rogers paced his team to a 19-44 victory as he ran the 2.1 miles course in 11 minutes and 26 seconds. Mickey Clark of Milford was second. Wayne Carson, George Bonniwell, Ellis Myer, Bob Smith, Marshall Hatfield, Roger Betts and Bob Matthews, all of Harrington, occupied the next seven places. The second Milford runner, McKnatt, was next followed by Donald Wells.

Wells was a whopping 2 minutes and 22 seconds faster than his 1962 clocking on the same course.

Although, every Lion turned in a good clocking for his age and experience, outstanding performances were turned in by several first year harriers. These were sophomores Ellis Myer, Marshall Hatfield and Bob Matthews and eighth graders Bob Dean and Nick Morris.

Cake Race At H.H.S. Wednesday

Taking a leaf out of Brandywine High School's book, Harrington High will hold an unique "cake" race Wednesday afternoon at 3:45. The cross-country varsity will give the rest of the male student body a one minute start and will attempt to beat them in a 2 1/4 mile cross-country race. The harriers are out rounding up cakes to award to the first 15 or 20 runners to finish depending on the number of cakes obtained. The race will start and end on the football field.

It should be entertaining and it may turn up a gem or two for next autumn's harrier squad. There are many former harriers in school plus a band of well-conditioned football Lions, so look for a dog-eat-cake battle.

Lions Win H.H.S. Invitational; End Winning Season

Harrington High School's cross-country team won the eight-team Harrington Invitational for the third time in six years as they triumphed handily with a low total of 40 points. Easton captured the second place trophy by nosing out North Caroline of Denton, Md., 61 to 68. Corpus Christi, of Elsmere, was a distant fourth with 133. Other scores were: Milton 139, Caesar Rodney 151, Seaford 158 and St. Michael, Md. 179. Milford withdrew from the varsity race due to the fact that several regulars were ill.

Coach McDonald's Lions had undefeated regular seasons in 1958 and 1960 but this autumn saw the local turn in the first perfect overall record. They romped home first in seven dual meets, one triangular meet, the state championship test and the anti-climatic H.H.S. Invitational.

Forty-nine boys toed the mark at Killen's Pond on Wednesday afternoon. Bill Smith's starting gun sent them off in a bunch but eleven minutes and fifty-eight seconds later, Easton's veteran senior harrier, Jim Harvey, was all alone at the finish line 2.4 miles away. Harrington ace Dennis Rogers was in second place all the way followed by Corpus Christi's Jim Fry and North Caroline's Alfred Melvin. Rogers avenged recent defeats by Fry and Melvin, as the first three finishers broke the old course record of 12:16 set by Harvey in Sept. 27. Lion captain Wayne Carson closed out his high school cross-country career with a fine fifth place finish and solidified his claim to the No. 2 ranking on the H.H.S. team. Ellis Myer, a terrific prospect, ran another great race as he charged home in eighth place in the sparkling time of 12:32. El chopped 24 seconds off his previous best tour of the rugged hill-and-dale layout. With his first season now behind him, it is easy to see that in his junior and senior years, "The sky's the limit." George Bonniwell and Marshall Hatfield were the last Lions to figure in the scoring as they placed twelfth and thirteenth. Hatfield is in practically the same category as Myer since he too is a sophomore, a first-year runner and shows tremendous promise.

Bob Smith started out like a house afire in September as he carved out a brilliant (for September) clocking of 12:37 in his first Killen's Pond start. The following week he was timed in an equally good 12:24 for the state course at Rockford Park as the Lions trounced Corpus Christi. These two efforts proved that he is capable of sticking close to the best in the area when he is fit. In early October he began to be bothered with stomach cramps which persisted even when he ran much slower than before. We hope that this trouble can be isolated and eliminated before the start of the spring track season. Since Easton's Harvey will graduate in June, Harrington's Smith and Rogers are the best harriers in the area, if both are in top physical condition. Roger Redden, another casualty, missed this race as he suffered his fourth setback of the fall. In the last two months he has been slowed or sidelined four times. First he was wounded in a hunting accident. Next, he was out several days with a virus. Then his leg was badly bruised as he was hit by a metal. Last but not least one of his legs was sliced open by a power saw, necessitating several stitches. Redden was No. 4 on the squad as a freshman in 1962. Since Carson is the only senior, the powerful Lions could be even stronger if Redden and Smith get straightened out physically.

Junior Roger Betts moved up from the junior varsity and did a fine job in Redden's place as he ran 12 second faster than ever before and enabled the Lions to get their entire seven-man squad across the finish line in the first seventeen runners.

This substitution cost the Lion jayvees an undefeated season. Weakened by the loss of Betts the Cubs dropped a one point decision to the North Caroline jayvees A team. The H.H.S. juniors handily defeated the Marylanders on the Denton course recently and added the Delaware State junior varsity championship last week.

State jayvee champion Bob Matthews again proved his mettle as he dueled with North Caroline veteran, Jerry Butler, for two miles, then won going away in the terrific time of 12:49. This equalled the time of the sixteenth finisher in the varsity race.

standing year as the eighth grader lowered his time from 14:10 to 13:35 and finished on the heels of Frank Cain and Henry Minner, both of whom won varsity letters last year.

Below is a list of Lion harriers, who set new personal course records Wednesday: Dennis Rogers, Roger Betts, Bob Matthews, Bob Dean, Ellis Myer, Donald Wells, Harold Russ, Harold Brode, Marshall Hatfield, Harold Mullins and Jim Rash.
