

GENERAL ASSEMBLY MAY RECONVENE MONDAY

It appeared almost certain Tuesday that the General Assembly will reconvene Monday, although no decision has been made.

House Speaker Sherman W. Tribbitt, D-St. Georges Hundred, said he still favors Dec. 2 and has notices to recall House members ready to mail, subject to approval by the Senate.

Senate President Pro Tem Curtis W. Steen, D-Dagsboro, said it is "probable" the assembly will return Monday although he expects the decision to be made at a meeting of Democratic leaders.

Such a meeting was scheduled Monday night but called off because of President Kennedy's death.

Lt. Gov. Eugene Lamot, Senate's presiding officers and the one who would call that house back, said he has no objection to returning Monday if the legislature plans to accomplish anything.

Steen was optimistic Tuesday morning that much would be done before the end of this 90-day session. He said a suggestion to allot school construction funds on a 100 per cent state-supported basis would not be adopted and that Gov. Elbert N. Carvel eventually will sign the bill passed already (HB 426), which provides a 60-40 state-local allocation.

He said some members have changed their minds on public accommodations—from against to for—after talks with others on the subject. He did not indicate if there have been enough changes to pass the bill.

Steen said he thinks the highway bond bill, stalled in the assembly since spring, would pass. A Citizens for Freeway Committee has sent out letters in support of an authorization of $17 million to complete the freeway.

Many Wilmington legislators, including Democrats, would be willing to vote the freeway money separately from an omnibus bond bill. Downstate legislators have not been willing to go along—and some of their votes are needed—until they get projects they want in their part of the state.

Other areas in which action could come in the remaining 11 legislative days of the current session are in corrections reform and open space preservation.

Howard Tucker Retires To Moosehaven

Howard Tucker, a well known resident of Harrington and a charter member of the Harrington Lodge No. 534 Loyal Order of Moose will leave on Thurs., Nov. 28, to live at Moosehaven, Fla.

Brother Tucker was honored Sunday afternoon by the Harrington Lodge for his work and devotion to the Loyal Order of Moose and the Lodge by being presented with a very fine set of luggage, by Secretary John Semans. Also a class of twelve new members were enrolled into the L.O. O.M. in his honor. He has been the sponsor of 175 members into the Harrington Lodge.

After the enrollment ceremony, master of ceremonies, Brother Watson Shew, of Greenwood, introduced the state director of the Maryland, Delaware and District of Columbia Moose Association, who spoke of Moosehaven, which is the home for aged Moose members and their wives. Other dignitaries introduced by Brother Shew were: Legion Councilman for the Legion of the Moose, Paul Snyder; Sgt.-at-Arms, Roland E. Mills, both of the Maryland, Delaware and District of Columbia Moose Association.

Brother Tucker would appreciate any member of the Loyal Order of Moose or acquaintance to pay him a visit at Moosehaven if and when they are in Florida.

Moosehaven is a part of the city of Orange Park, Fla., which is about 12 miles south of Jacksonville, Fla., on Highway 17. It has frontage on highway 17 and the St. Johns River. It is owned and operated by the Loyal Order of Moose especially for its aged members and their wives. Today there are over 350 people in residence there. Twenty-five modern buildings are on the 65 acre site. They have all been erected in the past 30 years. Each of the residence buildings in which the people live is a self-contained home with its sleeping and living rooms, kitchen and dining room.

Brother Tucker is very anxious to go to his new home, a home he has heard much about since he became a Moose member, but

Youth Hurls Gas Can At Police Car

A Kent County youth threw a can of gasoline into the path of a state trooper's car near Felton early Saturday during what police called a 90-mile-an-hour chase.

The youth, Willis Luffman, 19, admitted throwing the can during the seven-mile pursuit over dirt roads. Luffman was a passenger in a car driven by Charles H. Clough Jr., 18. Both are of the Wyoming area.

The gasoline did not catch fire. The trooper driving the chase car had to swerve to miss it.

Clough was fined $200 for failure to stop at the command of an officer; and $10 for failing to wear corrective glasses. He pleaded guilty to both charges before Magistrate Elijah Harrington of Felton.

Luffman pleaded guilty to throwing an article from a moving vehicle. He drew 10 days in default of a $20 fine plus 10-day sentence.

Police said the chase started at 1 a.m. at Rts. 380 and 385 a mile east of Felton when a trooper tried to flag down the car in a routine check.

The driver, the trooper said, turned off his lights and attempted to run him down. The trooper dodged behind his car then gave chase.

After seven miles, during which the can was thrown, the trooper said that the car driven by Clough tried to dodge into a cornfield and the car bogged down.

Chicken Festival Plans Underway

All details in preparation for the Delmarva Chicken Festival, to be held in Talbot County, Md., June 18, 19, and 20, 1964, are being thought through and arrangements made well in advance. For example, the chairman for the amplifying system, known also as the public address system, which will serve the Festival building and grounds, already has been named.

Scott Goings, general manager of Radio Station WEMD in Easton, is chairman of the committee which will have charge of this important part of the affair. John W. Noble, general chairman of the Festival, made the appointment this week, and is following with other appointments, realizing that the weeks are passing rapidly and that the Festival, with expected attendance of more than 30,000, is not far away.

Mr. Goings has been in radio work for seven years. Most of his radio background has been acquired in the Washington, D. C., area, and he has served in many capacities, including general manager, announcer, producer and advertising sales.

Before and during his radio career, Mr. Goings was a professional singer, having worked in supper clubs, night clubs, radio, television and in the production of records. He also had experience as an actor in New York in "off Broadway" productions.

Now a Talbot County resident, Mr. Goings and his wife and three children live at Bloomfield.

To prepare for an adequate communicating system, the Easton High School and grounds will require careful study and planning, Mr. Goings asserts.

Girl Scouts Dedicate Tree To Kennedy

Three Harrington groups will dedicate trees in memoriam at 2 p.m., today in the mall between the lanes of dual highway U.S. 13 here.

The Girl Scout troops will dedicate a Japanese flowering cherry tree to the late President John F. Kennedy, and one to Juliet Gordon Low, founder of the Girl Scout movement in this country.

The Rotary Club will dedicate a holly tree, the state tree, to the deceased members of its club, while the Lions will plant a tree, species undetermined at press time, to its deceased members.

Mayor Fulton J. Downing and City Manager Alfred G. B. Mann will attend the ceremonies to which the public is invited.

The trees were purchased from the Harrington New Century Club at its blessing-of-the-trees program Tuesday.

A Day At U. of D. Set For Dec. 14

About 500 parents of prospective college students will visit the University of Delaware Sat., Dec. 14, for a discussion of college life.

John A. Murray, director of university extension and coordinator of conference arrangements, said that the program is primarily planned for parents of 11th and 12th grade students who want their children to attend college. He emphasized that all parents are welcome, whether or not they are PTA members, and prospective students also may attend, if accompanied by a parent.

Murray said that the conference should prove especially helpful to parents who feel that their children may need financial assistance to get an education. A review of expenditures and types of financial aid will be part of the program.

University speakers will attempt to transmit the philosophy and general policies of the university. Among the topics to be considered will be admission requirements, academic expectations and campus life.

Reservation forms for parents have been distributed to high school guidance counselors throughout the state who are supporting the program. Parents are asked to make reservations by Sat., Dec. 7.

University officials participating include Vice President George M. Worrlow, who will welcome parents at the opening session at 10 a.m. in Wolf Hall auditorium; Dean of Students John E. Hocutt, who will discuss student personnel services and campus life; and Provost John W. Shirley, who will be the luncheon speaker.

A special feature of the morning will be a panel discussion, "Why Freshmen Sometimes Find Themselves in Academic Difficulty," chaired by Dean of Men Donald P. Hardy. Panelists will include John E. Worthen, director of counseling and testing, and a faculty member and two students yet to be selected.

During the afternoon parents will attend special interest meetings conducted by school deans and department chairmen which will consider prerequisites, career opportunities, academic expectations, major fields of study and the university's advisory system.

Optional tours of the Morris Library and Russell dormitory-dining hall complex will be offered at 3:30 p.m.

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS: John F. Kennedy, President of the United States, beloved by the people of our city and nation, met his untimely death on Friday, November 22nd. Our nation and this city has sustained a great loss in the passing of our President. We are mindful of the crushing grief and sorrow brought upon the family of President Kennedy. To each of them our heartfelt sympathy goes out that God may lighten their burdens.

THEREFORE: I, Fulton J. Downing, Mayor of the City of Harrington, proclaim Monday, November 25th, 1963, a day of mourning for our late President. I furthermore ask that all places of business close on Monday, between the hours of 12:00 noon and 1:00 P.M., and urge our citizens to go to the church of their choice for this hour of prayer.

Signed this day
November 23, 1963
Fulton J. Downing
Mayor, City of Harrington

Century Club Blesses Trees

The City of Harrington and its environs were visually enriched this week with the addition of 30 trees and shrubs as the result of the "Blessing of the Trees" program at the Harrington New Century Club. More than a dozen individuals and organizations presented the plantings in memory of loved ones.

The entire program was in the form of a memorial to the late President John F. Kennedy.

Mrs. Francis Winkler, president of the club, welcomed members and guests at the afternoon meeting on Tuesday.

Mrs. William Kramedas opened the program with a prelude of piano music. The flag ceremony was conducted by the Cadette Patrol of Girl Scout Troop 687. Those taking part were Sharon Nichols, Debbie Clendaniel, Colleen LeCates, Shelly Harris, Janet Wirkick, Doreen Gray and Diana Goodhand. This was followed by a play on conservation as the animals see it, entitled "Keeping the Woods Clean." Participants in the play were Helen Welch, Diane Smith, Sue Ellen O'Neal, Gail Harris, Kathy Kirwin, Debbie Schepp, Sandra Wyatt, Gina Wechtenhiser, Cheryl Lekites.

Mrs. William Irwin, Girl Scout leader and Mrs. Harry John Dill Jr. assisted the Scouts.

Mrs. Kramedas sang "Trees", music by Oscar Rashach, poem by Joyce Kilmer.

Paul Elton Lynch of a nursery gave a talk on the care of trees and shrubs.

The second part of the program was held outside the club house with the trees and shrubs being blessed in the ritual conducted by members of the Protestant and Catholic clergy of Harrington. The Rev. John A. Corrigan also gave special Catholic prayers for President Kennedy. The Rev. Lorraine Ottinger, the Rev. Quay Rice and the Rev. Charles Poushish had a part of the ceremony.

The program was concluded with the presentation of memorial scrolls by Mrs. Quay Rice, chairman of the club conservation committee and Mrs. Winkler.

The scrolls were presented to the following persons and representatives of the organizations.

Governors To Discuss Delmarva Peninsula

Problems affecting the future development of the Delmarva Peninsula will receive the attention of governmental, industrial and civic leaders from Delaware, Maryland and Virginia, at a meeting at Salisbury, Dec. 3. Among the participants will be the Governors of three states; top level people from the development, planning and highway departments of Delaware, Maryland and Virginia, and leaders from the peninsula's travel, agriculture and seafood industries.

Call for the Dec. 3 meeting came from Governors Elbert N. Carvel, of Delaware, J. Millard Tawes, of Maryland and Albertis S. Harrison, r., of Virginia, all of whom will have active roles in the program.

The U.S. Government will be represented by a large delegation that may include Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges and representatives of the Departments of Agriculture and Interior and of the U. S. Corps of Engineers.

Basic purpose of the meeting, according to Ed Golin, director of the Delaware State Development Department, is to discuss and evaluate "changes in area development caused by such factors as the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel (scheduled to open next year) and the ever-increasing interest of new industries and tourists which have created an immediate need for citizen participation in the orderly development of the area."

Such matters as ways to avoid "strip development" and to combine resources to encourage industry and foreign capital to locate on the peninsula will be examined in panel discussion.

The meeting, to be held in the Wicomico Civic Center in Salisbury, will begin at 1:30 p.m. and end about 5 p.m.

Local Boy Visits Disneyland

Harvey H. Passwaters Jr., five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey H. Passwaters, Sr., of Rt. 13, Harrington, is vacationing in sunny California. He has visited relatives in Sylmar and Los Angeles, and San Fernando, where he was taken on a trip to Disneyland. He was thrilled to see the world's largest natural amphitheatre, the Hollywood Bowl, in Hollywood, Calif. He is accompanied by his grandmother, Mrs. Santa Orlando, of Reading, Pa. They are expected to return to Harrington late in December.

2 Governors Favor Turnpike Tribute Scouts to Conduct Memorial Services For Kennedy

The idea of renaming the Delaware-Maryland toll road in honor of President Kennedy was endorsed by the governors of the two states Tuesday.

Gov. J. Millard Tawes, of Maryland, said he is in favor of the idea and will consult Gov. Elbert N. Carvel and members of the Thomas H. Peck, president of Chamber of Commerce, has completed extensive plans for the Harrington holiday season. Christmas lights on all the main streets and the water tower have been installed, treats for the children have been purchased, a huge parade has been arranged to welcome Santa tomorrow at 1:30 p.m.

Santa's house and tree have been secured by Walter Messick. The overall expense of this program is approximately $1100, financed by contributions from interested citizens business places and organizations. Albert Price is chairman and treasurer of the Christmas Committee.

Miss Madalyn Tharp, Parade Committee chairman, has aroused much enthusiasm for a colorful parade and promises more than 55 entries of decorated cars and floats including floats by Frances Temple Beauty Shop, Brownie Troops, Junior Girl Scout Troop and the Girl Scouts not mentioned in the previous lineup.

The parade starts promptly at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow on Center Street to Dorman Street to Commerce Street through town to the Shopping Center, turning on East Street to disband.

The Chamber of Commerce float is designed by Sam Short and W. Cliff Miller and will return escorted by the Senior Band and the Forty at 8 to Santa's house by the Post Office to entertain the kiddies.

Judges from out of town will present gift certificate prizes. Mrs. William W. Shaw will act as commentator. All the stores will be decorated. Most of the merchants will be open until 9 p.m. every day until Christmas. Quillen's Shopping Center will be decorated more elaborately and a huge tree has also been placed in the parking lot by Mr. Messick. A prize will be awarded for the best-decorated store front, early in December. Decorated homes will be judged during Christmas week.

Blue Cross Offers Extended Benefits

The red ink on 20,000 envelopes put in the mail today says: "Deadline Dec. 4."

The envelopes are addressed to Delawareans who belong to Blue Cross and Blue Shield under standard programs outside of a group thus paying their dues directly to the Plan office, and who are under 65, and do not have Extended Benefits.

It's their opportunity to get Extended Benefits if they wish. The envelopes contain applications for the Extended coverage that a high proportion of the members of Group Hospital Service already have. Those of the new group being offered extended benefits who decide they want it must beat the deadline by getting the applications back to Group Hospital Service by December 4, Wednesday.

Greenwood

The W.S.C.S. of Greenwood Methodist Church will hold a covered dish supper Wed., Dec. 4, beginning at 6:30 in the Educational Building. FENCE TALK With George Vapaa

The farmer in a business suit was the title of a book issued a few years ago. As I write this, I'm facing 100 young farmers in business suits on a stage. The occasion is the annual meeting of Southern States Cooperative at Richmond, Va.

J. Donald Isaacs, of Middletown as the National Jay Cee Young Farmer of the Year, stands before them. He is addressing 1800 directors and board members of the cooperative on the future of agriculture for young farmers.

He reminds us that this is an age of revolution for farmers. The U. S. farm plant investment is $215 billion - the largest of any industry. Farm productivity has doubled since 1940. Young farmers need better formal training than ever before. Cooperatives can play a part in easing the transitions. Everything is reaching toward a larger scale, so much so that the farmer needs a full program of financing with his banker to manage his interests.

Many of our farmers remember "Billy" Steele, general manager for Southern States, who formerly worked extensively on Del-Mar-Va. He reminded the delegates that the cooperative is much concerned with the human side of their business, typified most recently by the feed program in drought disaster areas. Too, the cooperative is aware of encroaching interurbia, which gobbles up farm land. Urban growth poses problems that call for changes in services.

Truly, farm cooperatives have been the pace setters for agriculture. One leaves a meeting such as this feeling that they will continue to do so long as farmers wholeheartedly support them.

The unsung heroes of the state and national economy are our farmers. Governor Elbert Carvel told 250 guests at the Delaware Farm Bureau annual meeting. He was citing the tremendous gains in food production over the last few years. Only 7% of our U. S. population is needed for this job, whereas 40% of the people in Russia are required.

Mr. Carvel told of his visits to Japan recently, where the average farm is only two acres in size on Honshu island. The temperature is much like that of Delaware, but the fields are a quarter of an acre in size about like a city building lot. Cultivation is very intensive. Rice and barley are grown in rotation; using very little machinery. Despite the fact that 35% of their people are farmers, Japan still imports 15% of its food.

The Governor told the story of one farmer suggesting to another that he talk to his county agent about soil testing and fertilizing his crops so he could make more money. "Shucks," said the number two man, "I don't farm half as well as I know how to".

Cold weather is hard on batteries, so it's a good idea to service them now for the coming winter season.

Scrape or brush off the lead sulfate deposits on the terminals, wash off with a strong solution of baking soda and flush with clear water. These deposits will drain the battery of current if not removed.

A good way to keep deposits from forming again is to coat the terminals generously with petroleum jelly or light grease.

Be sure the battery is tight in its holding cradle. If the battery bounces around it tends to injure the cells. Batteries on equipment stored for the winter should be removed and stored in a location which will protect them from the cold weather.

Baling cornstalks left in the field after harvesting corn has increased this fall. There is a need for bedding and forage because of the prolonged drought.

Baling the cornstalks is done by using a mower, rake and baler. A flail chopper can be used to do the mowing, and a side delivery rake will windrow the stalks. Three or four trips around the cornfield will be required, depending on whether the bales are dropped on the ground or loaded directly onto a wagon from the baler.

A farm equipment manufacturer recently introduced a flail-type cutter head that attaches to a baler. This unit, which sells for $650 to $700, flails the cornstalks directly into the baler, thus eliminating a lot of time. We caution farmers to be sure stalks are dry before baling. The cornstalks are likely to mold if baled when damp or wet.

This is an ideal time of year for Delaware farmers to test their soil to determine next year's lime and fertilizer needs. Farmers having their soils tested now will be ahead of the game because they'll have the entire winter to plan for next year's program.

Another important reason to send in soil samples now is that the workload in the testing lab at the University of Delaware is lighter at this time of year. The soil can be tested immediately. Recommendations are sent back in plenty of time for the farmer to contact his lime and fertilizer dealers. He can select the material that he needs, and take advantage of any early-order fertilizer discounts.

Farmers may visit our county agent office in Dover, and obtain soil sample boxes, along with instructions for taking soil samples. Once the farmer has taken samples from the various fields on his farm, he can return the samples to me for shipment to the University of Delaware Soil Testing Laboratory at Newark, or he can mail samples directly to the lab. This service is available without charge to home gardeners as well as to farmers.

Every year, more people in Delaware are realizing the importance of having their soil tested. Surveys indicate that farmers taking soil samples produce about 15 bushels more corn per acre than farmers not testing their soil. In the case of alfalfa, the yield was three tons for farmers not testing and 3.9 tons for those having soil tested.

Testing soil now provides an excellent approach to the proper use of lime and fertilizer. Time spent now in having your soil tested should return big profits later.

SICO Scholarships Awarded at U. of D.

Three freshmen are the newest of 11 recipients of scholarships awarded annually by the SICO Foundation of Mt. Joy, Pa., at the University of Delaware.

The SICO scholarships, valued at $300 per year and renewable if the academic progress of the recipients is satisfactory, are awarded to students interested in elementary or secondary school teaching.

Miss Beverly Jean Hastings, Georgetown; Miss Nancy Lou Russell, 311 W. Summit Ave., Wilmington; and Miss Marjorie J. Stouts, 2524 N. Heald St., Wilmington, are this year's freshmen students.

Miss Hastings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl A. Hastings, was an honor student at Georgetown High where she participated in band, chorus, and athletics and was a member of the yearbook staff. She also served as vice president of the Student Council and was a delegate to Delaware Girls' State.

Miss Russell, a Conrad high alumna and also an honor student, was a member of the Student Council, cheerleaders, FTA, newspaper staff, Spanish club and hockey team. She held offices in several of these organizations and also was active in church organizations.

Miss Stouts, a graduate of Wilmington High, was a member of the honor society and won awards in Latin and athletics. She also participated in junior achievement, in which she served as assistant treasurer, and in church activities.

Other SICO scholarships at Delaware are held by Patricia E. Christy, 916 Jefferson St., Wilmington; Marilyn P. Bickling, Felton; Janet M. Hall, 815 Vandever Ave., Wilmington; Margaret E. Jeans, 10 Lehigh Ave., Roselle; Lois V. Ludman, 318 S. College Ave., Newark; Joyce M. Ryan, 6 Wayne Dr., Wilmington; Sandra R. Shank, 2110 Philadelphia Pike, Claymont; and Nancy L. Varady, 206 Kenmark Rd., Todd Estates, Newark.

4-H News

With Marion MacDonald

It is an excited, thrilled and newly challenged club agent that writes this 4-H talk. Excited that 425 persons attended our annual banquet. Thrilled with the cooperation of 4-H'ers in planning and preparing for the event. Challenged by the honor bestowed upon me in the form of a silver tray and 4-H leadership pin, presented by the Kent County 4-H clubs. Proudly wearing a leadership pin, which holds ten years of memories of work and play, struggles and successes. A pin which represented a long list of names of 4-H'ers, leaders and parents who's associations are cherished. And very grateful that I am the privileged one chosen to work these ten years with the fine Delawareans of Kent County and throughout the state. Sixteen Kent County 4-H Clubs were recognized with thirty seven organizational leaders, twenty-five project leaders and twenty-five junior leaders. Four hundred and fifty 4-H'ers have carried a total of seven hundred and fifty projects. If you are interested in joining 4-H contact the 4-H office at 736-1448 or visit me on the second floor of the Dover post office.

Westville 4-H club held their Parent's Dinner recently with more than 50 attending. After a covered dish dinner the old officers conducted the meeting. Recognition was given to the leaders Mr. and Mrs. Francis Thomas and Mrs. Sally Comegys. Members received their year pins for project completion. Mrs. Pete Rusanowsky, clothing project leader, presented everyone with tiny 4-H clovers. The clothing project group recently made Holiday Needle Cases. One was presented to the club agent. The new officers were installed: president, Pete Rusanowsky; vice president, Betty Lou Clough; secretary, Beverly Lucks; treasurer, Harvey Thomas; reporters, John Comegys and Madeline Parks; recreation leaders, Nancy Webb and Janice Harrison. New junior leaders are Harvey and Pete. Leadership assistance was recently given to the Oak Grove 4-H Club. Mr. and Mrs. Chris Grampm, local leaders attended the recent Interstate Milk Producers banquet in Philadelphia with our Kent County Dairy Princess, Helen Grampm. Mrs. Madeline Wiebel, Whiteoaks came to their aid by attending their 4-H club meeting and installed the new officers. It is this type of cooperative leadership that is helping 4-H grow in Kent County.

Kent Light Horse Club urges Kent County 4-H'ers to save December 21st for a dance at the Capitol Grange. It will follow their parents dinner. Understand their club members Howard Clandaniel, Hartly and Jean Artis, Dover, received high honors in a recent Eastern Shore Horse Show.

Farmers' Decision Making Studied

Why do farmers do the things they do—even when they know these things aren't always best for them?

Research has proved that a farmer often makes decisions that don't result in the most dollars in the pocket. He makes decisions because "that's the way it's always been done around here," or he sees a neighbor doing a particular thing and "if it works for him it should help me".

A recent survey conducted by agronomists at the University of Delaware reveals that 42% of the soybean growers in the state grow varieties that are not best suited for Delaware conditions and will give less than maximum yields. An even larger percentage do not plant the best pure seed that is available, preferring to purchase run-of-the-bin seed from a neighbor who is known to produce high yielding crops.

Dr. William Crosswhite, a University of Delaware agricultural economist, cites several reasons behind the decisions that farmers make. He says habit is probably the biggest factor. "Some farmers have 20 years of experience, and some have one year's experience 20 times."

He says farmers aren't always convinced that a certain practice will work for him just because their county agent or a seed dealer says so. "They need more basic information behind the 'why' of a recommendation. It's not enough merely to list a certain variety or fertilizer analysis. Once farmers understand the 'why,' they will be more willing to accept the practice and make decisions that include it".

Crosswhite says personal preference and a desire to eliminate risk often enter into the decision making process. Farmers prefer a certain kind of livestock or a certain cropping system even though another method will produce more income. Some prefer to reduce their risk by milking cows. Others would rather take the risk of feeding beef cattle than be tied down to a twice-a-day milking routine.

J. C. Headley, a University of Illinois agricultural economist, has outlined an approach to study the psychology behind a farmer's actions as he makes management decisions. He says the results of their decisions are readily seen in their cropping plans, livestock enterprises, the types of machinery and equipment they use and the way they market their products. But he says the process by which they make these decisions can't be directly observed.

"Farm economists have been unable to predict with accuracy how a given farmer will act when confronted with certain information and a choice. Nor can we consistently identify those farmers who have superior ability to make good decisions until after the results of the decisions become apparent."

He believes that since most farm operators have only a limited time to make certain decisions and possess only limited information, they develop "rules-of-thumb." They use these rules to arrive at final decisions regarding the use of land, labor and capital. "If these rules can be discovered, then the accuracy of the predictions of farmer behavior will increase."

Headley and a research assistant trained in psychology have done preliminary testing of the decision process using farmers as subjects. They give problems that require a farmer to allocate use of land, labor and capital in a typical farm operation. Then they analyze the choices he makes, hoping to find the key to this decision-making process.

Freeze Leftover Turkey For Post-Holiday Meals

Everyone enjoys the deliciousness of Thanksgiving turkey. A groaning dinner table may give way to a bulging refrigerator a few hours after the meal is finished and your family has departed, contented and at peace with the world.

Just as Thanksgiving means turkey, the day after Thanksgiving often means listening to "Not turkey for dinner—again." If your family is the type that would rather not see turkey for awhile, you can freeze meal-size portions of leftover meat in moisture-vapor-proof containers, notes Miss Janet Coblenz, extension food and nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware. Then, a week or more after the holiday, surprise them with turkey pie, turkey and waffles or turkey divan. Turkey meat should be stored no longer than one to two months, Miss Coblenz adds.

Don't make the mistake of letting hot meats stand out until cold before refrigerating them. This is a risky practice and may invite food poisoning. Contrary to an age-old tale, meat doesn't lose its flavor when refrigerated at once. Refrigerate it immediately, or cool quickly and then refrigerate. Never let cooked meat stand out longer than two hours, and if not stored in the freezer, plan to use it within four days. Dressing doesn't cool as quickly as the meat. To prevent spoilage, it should be removed and stored in a separate container.

Cooked sliced turkey is tastily prepared many different ways. For a mouth-watering Turkey Divan, place a layer of cooked broccoli in an oblong pan or casserole, top with slices of turkey and then with cheese sauce. Slip under the broiler to brown, or bake at 350 degrees F. for 25 minutes. Cover with French fried onion rings and continue to heat for five minutes.

Serve creamed turkey made with gravy, cream sauce or a condensed soup in a number of tempting ways—on rice or noodle rings, cornbread, toasted English muffins, or Chinese noodles.

Turkey pie for four or six persons can be made quickly in the broiler. Line a buttered 10 inch by 6 inch by 2 inch baking dish with two cups of hot mashed white or sweet potatoes. Cover with turkey slices. Topping is made with two cups of medium white sauce, one cup drained cooked carrots and one cup drained cooked peas. Miss Coblenz notes that this also might be used to disguise leftover vegetables. Broil until golden brown and serve.

And if your family still complains, ask them just how many times a year do they expect to eat leftover turkey.

ANOTHER DAY OF INFAMY

Dec. 7, 1941, the day of the sneak attack by Japan on Pearl Harbor. Called "a day of infamy", the destruction from this attack was enabled to reach catastrophic proportions because an early warning was discounted. "It can't happen here" seemed to be the motto.

Fri., Nov. 22, 1963, another day of infamy. The assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas, Tex., with the shots from a Maxist's rifle heard around the world. Carelessness, again, in safety precautions was responsible. "It can't happen here" apparently continues to be the motto.

The assassinations of Lincoln, Garfield, and McKinley and attempts on the lives of Theodore Roosevelt, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman, and on members of Congress, even in the Congress, itself, were not sufficient warning to save the life of John F. Kennedy.

Utmost stringency must henceforth be exercised in security precautions on the person of the President . . . no ands . . . no buts . . . no excuses.

Furthermore, crackdown on so-called communistic and Marxist groups and individuals has long been overdue. We need a revival of our pioneering spirit. If democracy permits these groups to exist and to advocate its overthrow, then democracy needs a change.

Or else the eternal light at the last resting place of John F. Kennedy will have been lit in vain.

CERTAIN WORDS CAN IDENTIFY YOU

When you cook breakfast in the morning do you prepare your bacon and eggs in a frying pan—or, as many other Americans do, in a spider, creeper, or drip-drop? When you clean house, do you straighten up or tidy up; redd up—as people do in some parts of New England, Ohio and Indiana? Or do you "make manage," as some residents of New Orleans put it?

If you boy is absent from school without permission, do the neighbors say he skips, bags or lays out of school, or that he plays hooky or hooks Jack? When he reports on how he spent his time, does he tell you he climbed trees, or that he clim, clum, clome, cloom, clam or clammed them? Perhaps he ate too many green apples. Does he get sick to it, at, in, with or about his stomach?

For the last few decades, a small band of language experts — professors and graduate students representing a number of universities — have been traveling around the country asking people what words they use for all sorts of simple, everyday objects and actions. These linguists are charting the difference in vocabulary, grammar and pronunciation from one American community to another.

Ultimately, their findings will be compiled into a series of atlases known collectively as "The Linguistic Atlas of the United States and Canada." The finished work will contain thousands of maps showing local and regional speech differences and the geographical boundaries that limit the areas in which the words and expressions are used.

There are certain key words and expressions that characterize each major dialect region. You can tell a person is a Northerner if he says pail for bucket, swill for garbage, whiffle-tree or whipple-tree for the bar to which a horse is harnessed, comforter or comfortable for a heavy quilt, and brook for stream.

A Midlander can generally be identified if he says blinds for window-shades, skillet for frying pan, and spouting for roof gutters. And the Southerner, he characteristically says snap beans for string beans, rock fence for stone fence, lightwood for kindling, and of course "you all".

But linguistic geographers are usually able to place a person much more precisely than this. They can connect him with a particular area in his own region. Take the Northern region, for example. The expression cleavestone peach for freestone peaches, apple grunt for apple dumplings and porch for the kitchen all place a man on Cape Cod. Dandle for seesaw and eace worm for earthworm put him on Narragansett Bay.

If he calls a thunder shower a tempest and a pet lamb a cade, he is from Cape Cod or Narragansett Bay.

If he calls a coal hod a coal scuttle, a haystack a hay barrack and cottage cheese pot cheese, his home is in the valley of the Hudson or the Housatonic.

Despite the misunderstandings that dialect differences in the United States sometimes create, they should not be exaggerated. One language expert, writing in a national magazine, points out that English-speaking North America is probably the largest and most populous area in the world in which all local dialects are mutually intelligible. By comparison with most European and Asiatic languages, says the writer, we may hardly be said to possess any dialects at all.

"Twilight of Honor"
At Reese Nov. 28-Dec. 1

Undoubtedly one of the most important holiday shows of any season is listed for presentation at the Reese Theatre this Thursday, (Thanksgiving) Nov. 28, and continuing Nov. 29, 30, and Dec. 1. Everyone is anxious to see Richard Chamberlain in his first starring role in a motion picture. "Dr. Kildare hits the bullseye", says the N. Y. Times, in "Twilight of Honor", in which he plays the defense attorney in a sensational trial.

"Twilight of Honor" occupies the top half of what might be termed a terrific holiday attraction with Columbia's "13 Frightened Girls" the co-feature. Terrific is the word. Terrific in enjoyment for the entire family.

Special attention should be paid to the Reese Theatre ad in this newspaper as the management of Movie Center has just announced the coming of Paramount's "New Kind of Love" with Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward.

which will play Friday, Saturday, Sunday, Dec. 6-7-8 at regular prices.

Pentecostal Assembly of God Church Revival

Old-fashioned revival meetings will be held at the Greensboro Pentecostal Assembly of God Church during the weeks of Dec. 3-15 7:30 p.m., nightly except Mondays.

The evangelist for these meetings will be the Rev. Frank C. Sharp, of Philadelphia, ordained with the Potomac District of the Assemblies of God. Rev. Sharp has been conducting revival services in several states on the East Coast. The theme of his message is "Christ Sufficient for All". Prayer will be offered for the sick each night. The evangelist will be playing the trombone, guitar and the musical saw.

POLIO VACCINE DEC. 8

SECOND SERIES OF SABIN POLIO VACCINE TO BE GIVEN DEC. 8

When the second series of Sabin oral polio vaccine clinics are held throughout the state on Sun., Dec. 8, about 45 volunteers from the nursing section of the Delaware Chapter, American Red Cross will be stationed at the clinic sites.

The nurses, who will assist with the distribution of the oral vaccine, are a part of a group of more than 200 Red Cross nursing volunteers who serve in programs such as this, in disasters, and in instructional activities.

The polio nursing volunteers were recruited by Mrs. Edith Kendall, director of nursing services of the Delaware Chapter. Their activities will be coordinated on Sun., Dec. 8, by Mrs. James P. Aikins, enrollment chairman

Union Church—Worship service, 10 o'clock, the Rev. G. Bryan Blair. Sunday school 11 o'clock, Robert Collins, Supt. Methodist Youth Fellowship, 6:30 p.m.

Ralph Anthony, who was a patient at Milford Memorial Hospital following a heart attack, has returned to his home here.

W.S.C.S. of Union Church will hold its monthly meeting Friday evening, Nov. 29, rather than the usual Thursday evening, due to the Thanksgiving holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunworth Welch and children spent the weekend visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Kohland, of Collingdale, Pa.

Miss Eloise Butler, of Denton, visited her brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Butler and sons, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown Thawley and son, Brown, Jr., of Milford, visited Mrs. R. H. Stafford and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stafford, Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Jordan Fuller and sons, of Maine, are making their home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Elke, while her husband is stationed in Newfoundland.

The Rev. and Mrs. Carvil Tribbitt, of Sandtown, and Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Usilton and daughter, of Denton, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Usilton, and family, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Barton Torbert and children were Sunday dinner guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Torbert, of Hickman.

Mrs. Martha Short, of Denton, visited Mrs. R. H. Stafford and Mrs. Robert Garrett last Wednesday afternoon.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bradley and son, were Mr. and Mrs. John Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coverdale and son, David, of Milford.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Draper, Jr., and children were dinner guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Draper, Sr., Sunday.

Miss Betty Usilton was an overnight guest of Miss Sharon Phelps of Denton, last Friday.

The Rev. and Mrs. Lawson Jump, and Mrs. William L. Jump Jr., of Denton, visited Mrs. Robert Garrett, last Friday afternoon. Callers of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hopkins and daughter, Sunday, were Mr. and Mrs. Major Brown, of Dover; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Roughley, of Harrington, and Mr. and Mrs. Murph Larimore and family.

Misses Pauline and Evelyn Hopkins accompanied the home demonstration club on a trip to Cherry Hill, N. J., Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Brown visited their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Brown, and children, of Woodstown, N. J., Saturday.

of the Red Cross' nursing services department.

One nurse will be located in each of the clinics throughout the state. She will assist the physician in charge of the clinic in giving the oral vaccine to children and adults who pass through the lines.

Three drops of the vaccine will be placed on a small lump of sugar by a volunteer pharmacist, and the sugar will be given to members of the public by the nurse or doctor. Babies too small to receive the sugar lump will have the vaccine dropped into their mouths.

Mrs. Aikins said that many of the nursing volunteers are women who are working fulltime in nursing capacities in doctors' offices, hospitals and industrial locations. Others are housewives who are graduate, registered nurses.

The group will include residents of all three counties of Delaware. The mass immunization program, which goes into its second phase on Sun., Dec. 8, represents a tremendous volunteer undertaking on the whole. In addition to the nurses, the physicians, the pharmacists and the lay personnel in attendance will also be volunteers. Many of the clinic workers will be members of the National Foundation and the Ladies Auxiliary of the Medical Society of Delaware.

The statewide program is sponsored by the Medical Society, in cooperation with the National Foundation and the State Board of Health.

Type 2 Sabin oral vaccine only will be given at the clinics on Sun., Dec. 8. Type 3 will be given at clinics on Jan. 19, while Type 1 (the type given at the November 3 clinic) may be picked up at the offices of private physicians by persons who missed the initial clinic series.

SCHOOL NEWSPAPER IN 1924 HAD SENSE OF HUMOR

The "Lighthouse," the name of the school newspaper in 1924, had a sense of humor. The issue of March 24, addressed to Mildred Grier, now Mrs. Mildred Vincent, reads as follows:

Joe Harrington—"Between the two of us what do you think of Gladys?"

Dizzy Cannon—"Not so good. But alone—I'd love her."

Mr. Mullin—"You certainly toddle well."

Miss Kennerly—"I ought to; I learned when I was a baby."

Roland Pepper—"Why did you bid no trump last night?"

Belmont Simpson—"I had heart failure" (He has been afflicted since Grace became a member of H.H.S.)

Marian Derrickson—"I heard that Wilbert broke his arm yesterday."

Grace Marvel—"It isn't true. He came to see me last night."

Belmont has had a streak of religion. He can't even eat without saying "Grace."

Miss Rihl—"Well, Bill, I always speak as I think."

Bill Cahall—"Yes, only oftener."

Mr. Stenger (in biology): "Where do all the bugs go in the winter?"

Darwin Shobe (absent minded-ly): "Search me."

Anna Masten (in algebra): "I got here bright and early for your class, Mr. Mullin."

Mr. Mullin: "Early, perhaps, but not bright."

Janette Bullock: "Slim, you have such affectionate eyes."

Slim: "Janette, do you really mean it?"

Janette: "Yes, they are always looking at each other."

Pauline Welch is so thin she can go through a flute without hitting a note.

Delaware Food Market Report

An abundance of fine quality beef continues to come to market with many of the popular cuts being offered at reduced prices.

Lamb holdings are about the same as they have been for the past few weeks, so check leg o' lamb and shoulder roasts for "good buys" as a few stores are featuring this meat at special savings.

This wide selection of red meat that is available can do much to add variety to this week's menu.

Today, we can depend on the quality and palatability of the meat we purchase because it is graded and inspected for wholesomeness.

Produce prices edged upward this week as vegetables from nearby growing areas vanished, and those from Florida, California, and Texas, replaced them.

This supply shift is normal for this time of year.

Tomatoes and summer squash showed the biggest price changes. Snap beans are also up in price as are peppers, corn, kale, and broccoli.

Many colorful fruits are available with many in big supplies: cranberries, apples, tangerines, tangelos, avocados, grapes, pears, grapefruit, and pineapples.

There's plenty of butter for all kinds of holiday uses. The United States Department of Agriculture grade shield (AA is the highest quality, next comes A and B) is almost as good as a taste of the butter when it comes to knowing what's inside the package.

In addition, butter with the Federal grade emblem carries the assurance of high standards in manufacture, good sanitation practices during processing, and sanitary packaging.

Covell Named '64 President of DPI

Edward H. Covell Jr., executive vice president of Bayshore Foods, with main offices in Easton, will serve as president of the Delmarva Poultry Industry Association during the coming year.

Mr. Covell was elected during the recently held annual meeting of this regional poultry association, sponsors of the much publicized National Chicken Cooking Contest, one of the highlights of the annual Delmarva Chicken Festival.

The '64 Festival and Cooking Contest will be held in Easton, June 18, 19 and 20 of next year and as usual, the Poultry and Egg National Board is serving as a co-sponsor of the National Chicken Cooking Contest.

According to Wm. H. Rodney, chairman of the DPI Festival Committee, entry blanks for the '64 Chicken Cooking Contest will be distributed during the next couple of months throughout the country, with February 15 being deadline date for entries of contestants.

Prizes of approximately $10,000 in value are available for winners of the four divisions of the contest.

One of the highlights of the annual membership meeting of DPI was a "Trip to Russia and Other Iron Curtain Countries" by Ben Quillin, of Salisbury.

Mr. Quillin was one of four poultry leaders from the Delmarva Peninsula who comprised a People to People mission group who took this trip under the sponsorship of the Northeastern Poultry Producers Council this past summer.

With the use of colored slides, a most interesting review of the highlights of the three-week tour was enjoyed by the many DPI members present for the annual meeting held at the University of Delaware Substation.

Other DPI officers elected to serve for 1964 are: William R. Murray, Murray's Feed Service, Inc., Frankford, president-elect; Charles R. Fulton, Fulton's Broker Service, Snow Hill, Md., first vice president; Wm. R. Stephens, O. A. Newton & Son Company, Bridgeville, second vice president; Richard L. Clem, Agricultural representative, Maryland National Bank, Easton, secretary, and J. Keiper Groff, Caroline Farms, Division of Tevtron Inc., Laurel, treasurer.

Kent Rolling Forward On Courthouse Project

Levy Court is developing a full head of steam for its drive toward a new court house addition.

Architect Walter H. Carlson, of Wilmington, Tuesday spent the day touring the courthouse, reporting to Levy Court commissioners, and making plans which will be translated into a new annex.

During Tuesday's meeting of Levy Court and chairman of the court house addition committee, appeared to request authorization from Levy Court to go ahead with temporary plans.

The county commissioners must submit a bill requesting a bond issue to cover cost of construction before Jan. 1, the deadline for General Assembly consideration of such bills.

No figure has yet been named as an estimate of the cost. But some officials believe it will be in the neighborhood of $500,000.

Kent County's officialdom has outgrown the annex added six years ago, and are planning the proposed addition on the basis of 10 years' growth in the county.

Levy Court President James B. Messick said the committee will try to plan as far in the future as is possible to take care of the country's needs.

The Camden-Wyoming water and sewage disposal project, costing a total of $450,000, is underway and workers have already been recruited through the Delaware State Employment Service, an activity of the Employment Security Commission.

Figures available to Bradshaw indicate that approximately 1200 construction workers are involved in erecting the General Foods plant at Dover, which will begin operations about the end of the year.

About 100 clerical employees are already at work in the offices of the Dover plant. The first group of production employees, he says, is to be hired this month and in December, to begin work in January. The Delaware State Employment Service has received 2,700 applications for 800 jobs to be filled at the new plant.

Taylor Corp.'s new filament winding plastics products plant in Smyrna went into operation in October and the initial force included 15 employees from the area. Bradshaw has been asked to plant for cooperation in hiring an ultimate force of 80 workers.

Metalcraft Products Inc. and General Metalcraft Inc., makers of metal furniture and other metal products, expect to go into full production after Jan. 1, Bradshaw's records show. He says their employment potential at the new Smyrna site in the old Wilson Refrigeration plant is 150 workers.

State Grange To Convene Dec. 3

The Delaware State Grange will convene on Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 3 and 4 for its 89th annual session. The daytime sessions will be held in the Broad Creek Grange Hall, Laurel. Tuesday morning, resolutions will be introduced and an off year election will be held.

Projects Seen Boon To Jobless

New construction work, much of it in public works sewage disposal and water systems, will provide employment opportunities in Delaware, the Delaware Employment Security Commission reports.

In addition, merchants will hire more than 500 men and women in part-time and full-time jobs during the Christmas shopping season.

Joseph A. Bradshaw, chairman-executive director of the ESC, listed the following pending public works projects:

Bridgeville, $784,000 in sewer contracts to be awarded before Jan. 1; Laurel, $479,270 contract let for a sewage disposal plant; Millsboro, $650,000 contract to be awarded by Jan. 1 and a $500,000 water system planned if financing can be obtained.

SANTA'S WHISKERS

THIS YEAR'S CHRISTMAS CARTOON HAS BEEN ESPECIALLY DRAWN FOR YOUR USE BY KARL HUBENTHAL OF THE LOS ANGELES HERALD-EXAMINER, PRESIDENT OF THE ASSOCIATION OF AMERICAN EDITORIAL CARTOONISTS.

Zwaanendael Museum Notes

It takes an active imagination to picture a whale 70 or 80 feet long in the waters on the Delaware shore, but we know they were here because a vertebra of such a whale was recently found during dredging operations at the Indian River Inlet.

On September 25, Samuel W. Leifried, working for the American Dredging Company, of Philadelphia, was obliged to work three hours to remove the vertebra from his machine. It was picked up at a depth of approximately 38 feet on the Rehoboth Bay side of the Inlet and presented to the Zwaanendael Museum on the following day where it since has been on exhibit.

Wednesday, Nov. 20, Dr. and Mrs. David Marine, of Rehoboth Beach and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collins, of Lewes, visited the National Museum in Washington, D. C. and took the vertebra for identification by Dr. T. Dale Stewart, Director of the Bureau of Ethnology and Dr. Remington Kellogg, a foremost authority, the recent museum as will also the lovely ex-lily retired director of that bureau. They agreed that it was an interior caudal vertebra of a 70 or 80 foot finback whale and the specimen was 10 to 12 millions years old. At first it was thought by local authorities that the vertebra was petrified, but Dr. Stewart and Dr. Kellogg said that it was not a fossil although it appeared that the cartilaginous portions had become calcified.

This interesting part of the finback whale's backbone is 16 inches in diameter and 12 inches thick. It will continue to be on exhibit at the Zwaanendael Museum presented Nov. 2, the silver model of a whaling vessel probably similar to those used by Capt. David Pieterz DeVries in 1631, and the Gobelien tapestry, a life-sized likeness of Capt. DeVries, made around 1830.

The regular visiting hours at the Museum are Tuesdays through Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 6:30 p.m., Sundays and most holidays from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m., closed on Mondays. The Museum will be closed Thanksgiving Day.

School to Present Christmas Program

The annual Christmas Choral concert by the Harrington Special School District, will take place next Wednesday night, Dec. 4, in the Field House, beginning promptly at 8 p.m.

The annual program will consist of choral selections by the grade school chorus, Junior High Choral Ensemble and the Senior High School Glee Club.

The concert will begin and close with the traditional procession and recession by the girls of the Glee Club, and will feature once again the singing of the Cantique de Noel by Adam of the combined choruses, with Miss Lokie Larimore, a member of this year's senior class, singing the soprano solo.

The director for the program is Melvin L. Brobst with Sarah Moore as organist, and Lokie Larimore, accompanist.

The public is cordially invited to attend this concert for which there is no admission fee.

The P.T.A., Howard Dill, president, will sponsor a social hour in the school cafeteria immediately following the concert.

Increasing Number Of Veterinarians Needed

By 1980, this country will need twice as many veterinarians as it has today, and this is likely to hold true for the State of Delaware as well, according to Dr. Morris Cover, director of the Agricultural Experiment Station and chairman of the department of animal and poultry science at the University of Delaware.

The greatest needs in the future will be for veterinarians to fill increased demands that all meat be inspected before it is sold and for specialists in the treatment of small animals, Dr. Cover said. Veterinarians will also be needed in governmental and private research organizations in basic medical research, in seeking new ways to combat animal diseases and in working in the field of space travel.

At present, Delaware has about 50 veterinarians, but as the state's population increases, a greater number will be needed to treat the cats, dogs and other animals these families have as pets, Dr. Cover explained.

In some areas, not even the present needs for veterinarians are being met, he said. Even with the number of students now taking veterinary medicine, more are needed.

At the University of Delaware, many of the students in the department of animal and poultry science are taking the pre-veterinary course. After completing this course, they will have to go on for four additional years at a school of veterinary medicine. A minimum of six years of college and professional study is necessary, although most veterinarians study for eight years, Dr. Cover pointed out.

Along with the need for more veterinarians is the need for more faculty members to teach them. The need for additional staff for research and teaching is evident now and will become an even more pressing problem in the years ahead, Dr. Cover said.

It is important, he added, for parents and teachers to identify potential doctors and scientists early in the students' school careers so they can be given opportunities to work as assistants in research programs and thus start early in studying for their professional careers. Many experts agree, Dr. Cover added, that students working toward the degree of doctor of veterinary medicine should receive basic knowledge in all fields of their profession and postpone specialization until after they have received their degrees.

Teacher Exams To Be Offered At U. of D.

Prospective teachers in this area will have an opportunity to take the National Teacher Examinations on Feb. 15, 1964 according to Dr. W. A. Pemberton, Counseling and Testing Office, University of Delaware, who will supervise the administration of the tests.

Application blanks and bulletins of information describing registration procedures and containing representative test questions may be obtained from Dr. Pemberton or directly from the National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N. J. Applications must be mailed so as to be received at the Princeton office not later than January 17, 1964.

Scores on the National Teacher Examinations are used by a large number of school systems and teacher education institutions throughout the country as an aid in evaluating such of the qualifications of prospective teachers as are measured by the tests, Pemberton said. The scores may also be useful to examinees who are interested in discovering their own strengths and weaknesses with respect to such teacher qualifications as are measured by the tests.

At the one-day testing session a candidate may take the common examinations which include tests in professional information, general culture, English expression, and nonverbal reasoning. In addition, each candidate may take one or two optional examinations which are designed to demonstrate mastery of subject matter in the fields in which the candidate is prepared.

Top Farmers Named at Show

Champion growers of field crops in Delaware were honored Tuesday evening, Nov. 26) at the 55th annual Delaware State Crop Show, sponsored by the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service and the Delaware Crop Improvement Association.

Farmers throughout the state entered samples of their crops for judging on various quality points. Dry weather cut crop yields this past summer, according to Dr. William Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware. Especially hard hit were hay producers. "However, dry weather means no rain-damaged hay, which is some small consolation," he said. "The result is that hay quality in this year's show is higher than usual."

First place awards for 10-ear samples of corn were presented to J. Oliver Koelig, Route 2, Newark; Darrell Hoffmaster, Route 2, Newark; and Frank Melson, Jr., of Bridgeville. Hoffmaster also received first place rating for his single ear of corn as well as first place in New Castle County for his entry of one bushel of corn. Kent County winner was John F. Wilson, of Harrington, while Frank Melson, of Bridgeville, was the Sussex County winner.

Top rating for yellow soybeans went to Harvey Thomas, of Maryland, while Anthony Vogl, of Harrington, won first place for black soybeans. Placing first with his oats sample was Wayne Hendricks of Harrington.

Carl Melvin, of Wyoming, received first place ratings for wheat, barley, rye, soybean hay, crimson clover, lespedeza and red clover.

Winner for mixed hay was Philip Pierson, of Hockessin, who also won first place for alfalfa-grass. David Robbins, of Milford, earned top rating for his corn silage. Winner for grass hay was Thomas Unruh, of Middletown. Wayne Donaway, of Laurel, rated first for crimson clover, while Wayne Currey, of Wyoming won first place for lespedeza.

Winterthur Farms, Greenville, received first place rating for artificially cured alfalfa, and Anton Burger and Sons of Townsend won top rating for field cured alfalfa.

Samples of several of the winning entries in the crop show have been placed in a portable exhibit which will be shown throughout the state.

Speaking of Insects with Dale Bray

Long before man had mastered electricity, some insects were producing their own light. Most of the light-making insects are beetles in the firefly family. There are over 1,500 species of "fireflies" in the world, but not all produce light. When you see a firefly "blinking" while in flight it probably is a male. Usually the females don't fly, but many of them do "wink" back at the males.

The whole business of these blinking lights centers around romance for the fireflies. But the romance is brutally ended for some luckless males. It seems there are some species in which the female can lure males of other species to them whereupon they devour the males for dinner. Much of our knowledge of the various species comes from an amateur entomologist in Wilmington, Frank McDermott. Most fireflies don't eat much as adults. Instead, the growing or larval stage is when most of the feeding is done. The food of these young fireflies often consists of snails and certain caterpillars. So they not only give us the pleasant flashes of light at night, but they feed on some of the pests which damage our gardens.

The glowworm is a firefly without wings. Actually, the male glowworm has wings but he doesn't glow.

In some parts of the world fireflies are captured in large numbers to be released for lawn and garden parties.

ONE coin doesn't make a fortune . . . but one by one they can add up to a tidy sum and this demonstrates a point. The point is that your electric service is now cheaper because of the economies effected through purchasing coal in trainload shipments of 100 carloads or more — direct from mines to our power stations. Starting in November these economies are being reflected in billing credits to all of our electric customers throughout the Delmarva Peninsula. While each customer may save a modest amount each month, in the aggregate it is estimated that these savings will amount to $736,560 during 1964.

We are pleased that it is possible to offer our service at lower cost when the price of just about everything else is increasing . . . making your electric service an even bigger bargain. This is our purpose — to provide you with dependable service to meet your every need at the lowest possible cost.

Bears 25, Eagles 19 In Overtime

In the most thrilling game in Harrington Junior Football League history, the Bears of Bill Morris broke the stranglehold the Eagles held on the league title for two years, as they defeated the Birds 25-19 in a rare "sudden death" overtime period. The winners announced afterwards that they "did it" for Billy Walls, a teammate who missed the game because of an injury suffered last week.

Eagle co-captains were Gary Smith, Roger Klapp and Nick Morris. Bear leaders were Gary Simpson, Gary Minner and Roger Bullock. Prior to this championship game, the two evenly-matched rivals had split three previous 1963 battles with a win apiece and a tie.

After Gordy Jarrell, of the Bears, ran the opening kickoff back 16 yards, Roger Klapp recovered a Bird fumble on the Bears' 32 yard line. After a gain by Klapp, Gary Simpson ran 24 yards to score. The point failed and it was Eagles 6 - Bears 0.

Oscar Matthews and Jarrell carried the ball to the Eagles 34 yard line. Wayne Reid ran to the 24 for a first down. Reid passed to Gordy Jarrell on the 12. Jonathan Marsan picked up 4 yards and carried again for a first-and-goal-to-go situation. Matthews was thrown for a loss by Klapp. Reid swept end for a touchdown. Matthews gave the Bears a 7-6 lead by rushing over the point.

The Eagles came back to take the lead as Jack Redden passed to Roger Klapp for a first down on the Bears' 18 and Klapp scored from there one play later.

Simpson scored the extra point for a 13-7 Eagle bulge. Jarrell, Adams and Marsan picked up 7 yards and Matthews, needing a foot for a first down, went three yards. Matthews, behind good blocking, turned in a 48 yard touchdown run to tie the score. The point try failed.

Tackles by John Brown, Bullock, Matthews and Reid held the Eagles on the next series. The Bears took over on the enemy 38. Jarrell and Reid gained six yards. Matthews plunged for a first down at the 30. Mike Adams picked up 4 yards before Roger Bullock made it to the Eagle 17. Two straight tackles by Gary Smith held the Bears for no gain. The Eagles could not move and the first half soon ended with a 13-13 tie.

Simpson and Klapp opened the second half by picking up a first down on running plays. The Bears held up the parade at their own 31 yard line. Marsan and Adams chalked up a Bear first down on the 39. The Eagles eventually took over on the Bear 40.

A Redden-to-Klapp pass reached to the 30. Steve O'Neal stopped successive runs by Morris and Klapp. The Bears held for downs at their 27 but soon handed the ball back at that spot on a fumble.

Klapp was dropped for a 7 yard loss by Derrickson and Reid. Nick Morris was tackled by Minner and Derrickson so with 3rd down and long yardage the Birds booted and dropped the receiver Jarrell, immediately.

Smith and Klapp caught Adams for minus three on the Bears' 15. A Bear fumble was recovered by Gary Smith on the 14. After three plays the Eagles still needed six yards for a first down. From the nine yard line, Nick Morris ran into the end zone to put the Eagles in the van at 19-13. The point was no good.

Gordy Jarrell ran back the kickoff 25 yards to his own 32. In two plays Matthews and Marsan reached the Eagle 35. Nick Morris intercepted a forward pass but the Bears kept possession because the Eagles were accused of roughing the passer. Matthews, Bullock, Reid and Adams clicked off short gains until Matthews made a first down near the wide stripe, then plunged over on the next play to tie the score at 19 all. The point after attempt failed causing the teams to go into overtime.

The Bears won the coin toss and elected to receive. On the first play after the kickoff, Matthews started at his own 35 and was hauled down at the Eagle 36. Matthews and Marsan added a first down. The Eagles were penalized for offsides and two tries by Marsan resulted in a first down on the Eagles 17. Bullock and Matthews hung up another first down near the goal. Matthews carried again and Mike Adams scored the winning touchdown on a quarterback sneak.

The Bears will take on a picked team made up of Eagles and Colts on Thanksgiving Day at the Moose Home.

Lions Defeat Delmar 12-0 In Finale

Frank Glazier's Harrington High football Lions scored the first H.H.S. victory ever recorded over the Delmar Wildcats as they blanked the visitors in a driving rainstorm. The Lions ended the season with a highly creditable record of four wins and five defeats. The last three games were recorded in the win column as Selbyville, Rehoboth and Delmar fell to the now dangerous Lions. Like Delmar, Rehoboth had a perfect record against the locals until this season.

After receiving the opening kickoff, Harrington's Richard Black punted to the Delmar 20 yard line. The Wildcats punted three plays later but a bad pass from center and a good rush on the punter resulted in a short kick which was fielded and brought back to the Delmar 32. A pitchout to Bill Adams was good for eight yards. Barry Fry, on a quarterback keeper, racked up a first down on the visitors' 20. Fry hit the center of the line to the 13. After two plays picked up short yardage, Fry went back to pass but was thrown for a loss. Bill Adams darted through a huge hole in the Wildcats' line for a standing-up touchdown from the 12. The losers were apparently expecting something else.

Leading 6-0, the Lions short kickoff was taken by a big Wildcat, who barreled into the middle to the Lions' 43. Four plays carried to the 14. The anxious Wildcats stayed in the huddle too long and were penalized five yards. Gayle Fry set them back even further when he broke through the massed blockers to down the ball carrier for a sizeable loss. Delmar completed a pass to the 9 as the quarter ended.

Gayle Fry again smeared a back for a loss of five yards, forcing Delmar to go to the air again. Their passer was almost trapped 20 yards behind the line but finally managed to get the ball away. Pass interference gave them a completion on the next play. Another aerial fizzled on the third down. Wayne Porter ended the marathon game line stand as he downed a back behind the line on an attempted end sweep.

After Delmar drew a five yard penalty for offsides, Bill Adams toted for close-to-first-down yardage. Rusty Jack carried twice to bring H.H.S. to their own 30. Adams evaded a tackler, got a block and drove to the 43 for a second first down. Barry Fry started around left end, received two blocks and picked up 15 yards to the Delmar 38. Jack smashed to the 22. Backfield-in-motion cost five yards. Jack added gains of five and five but Delmar took over on their own 19. Ron Hughes set the Wildcats back to the 14 as he trapped a runner there. A pass gained five. Another aerial attempt misfired. Bill Adams took a punt and received the block he needed to spring free down the right sideline for 42 yards and the end of the day's scoring.

Richard Black smeared the Wildcat passer for a 20 yard loss shortly before the end of the first half.

Hughes recovered a fumble to give H.H.S. the wet pigskin at the Delmar 25. Adams hit center to the 20. Fry was hemmed in but drove to the 16. Delmar held but soon punted out to their 40. Jack carried twice to register a first down. Barry Fry's neat fake helped Adams get clear for a touchdown around left end. The play was called back and a penalty was levied against the Lions for clipping.

In the final period Jack intercepted a Delmar pass and almost scored as he carried the ball from near midfield to the Delmar 18. The visitors stopped the threat and soon sent a huge back careening up the field for good yardage before Jack dropped him with an eye-catching tackle. With the aid of a 15 yard penalty and gains on a reverse and a smash off right tackle the Sussex Countians reached the Lion 30. The ubiquitous Jack then dove by a potential pass receiver, scooped up the pigskin an inch or two off the sodden grass and lying on his back held it high in the air for the officials to see. "Look what I've got, ref!"

The interception enabled the Lions to use up some more of the clock. Fry and Adams ran the leather out to midfield before a fumble gave Delmar a last chance to get in the scoring column.

Finding no one open, the passer ran for 18 yards. A pass clicked to the 21 and that was the old ball game.

The Lions finished fifth in the Henlopen Conference. Last season the locals were blanked three

WHAT A BIG MOUTH YOU HAVE. times in loop play while giving up 192 points and scoring only 34. This term the home team scored in every game, shut out two teams and scored 85 points, while allowing 76 points, in league competition.

Bill Adams and Barry Fry, the team's leading scorers, will be lost by graduation. Starting line-men, Joe Taylor and Ron Melvin also played their last games against Delmar. The other senior, Randy Knox, did not see much action due to a leg injury and a broken nose. These boys will be sorely missed but with everyone else back, we look for the Lions to be tough again next year. Coach Glazier now is familiar with the area, the competition, the officiating etc. and can be expected to get many more boys out for football since he has now been here long enough to know all the boys in the student body.

Some of the boys on Bill Kramedra's junior high team may help to give the 1964 varsity more size than it had in '63. Among these lads are Mike Welch, Ed Wheatley and Willie Bonniwell.

Little League Baseball Meeting Scheduled

A Little League Baseball meeting will be held in the second floor of the First National Bank, Monday, Dec. 2, at 8 p.m. Next year's baseball program will be discussed and election of officers for the Harrington Little League will be held.

It is hoped that the parents of the boys, who will play on the teams, will come out to this meeting and offer their help. The Little League Auxiliary is planning to be an active group and in order to do this it must have more members.

It is possible that Harrington may start an American Legion baseball team for 16, 17 and 18-year olds. At these ages some truly fine baseball would result. The local community could then offer organized baseball programs for boys 8 to 18.

Bowlers Raise $900 For Heart Fund

Nine hundred dollars was raised for the Delaware Heart Association as more than 1000 bowlers in lower Delaware competed in the fourth annual Kent and Sussex County Heart Fund Bowling Tournament just concluded.

A compilation of results reveals that the men's inter-county championship has been won by Jack Fisher, while the woman's title goes to Ann Zak. Both are bowlers from Rehoboth Lanes. The Rehoboth victors defeated Mary Drew, Dover Lanes, and Skip Hitchens, Smyrna Community Bowling Center, the Kent County winners, in a championship roll-off.

The winners were determined on the basis of the number of pins above their league average that they rolled in Heart Fund Tournament games.

In the county roll-offs, Ann Zak emerged with the Sussex County women's trophy by bowling 56 pins over her league average of 71, while Jack Fisher bowled 70 pins over his league average of 121. Hitchens of Smyrna went 69 pins above his 155 average to claim the Kent men's trophy, while Mary Drew bowled 20 pins above her 150 average.

Seaford-Laurel Alumni Game Slated for Saturday

The kick-off for the annual Seaford and Laurel Alumni tilt will be at 8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 30, at the Seaford High Athletic Field and will feature many of the strong backs, ends, and fantastic linemen in Seaford's history.

This annual affair is aimed to renew the rivalry between the two clubs in high school days. The Jaycees of both towns are sponsoring the grid battle for the benefit of the Jaycee movement.

Alumni coaches Bob Chaffinch, head backfield coach; David Bloodsworth, head lineman coach, and Cecil Tate, assistant backfield coach have been drilling the high school greats for five weeks now, and feels they are in good condition to face their enemies of the rah rah days. This show promises to draw a capacity crowd. Plans have been completed for the use of the Seaford High Athletic Field and uniforms for the graduated Blue Jays. This game will be played by the graduates of the years 1955-1963. Anyone interested in playing, contact Bob Chaffinch at 629-4061 or drop a card to 214 Hall St., Seaford.

The players have run out those old mothball kinks by punting the old pigskin all over the high school field Sunday afternoons. Many familiar faces to Seaford fans appear at the practices. These old timers have worked feverishly to get themselves back in shape. These boys will face the same teams they played against in High School, when the rivalry between Seaford and Laurel was so great.

School To Fete Its Athletes

The Board of Education at its regular November meeting Thursday night, Nov. 21, in the school office decided to hold a fall sports banquet for its champion varsity cross-country team, its Henlopen championship girls varsity hockey team, and its varsity football team. Although the Board is acting as the coordinator of the affair, all organizations in Harrington will be contacted to determine if they are interested in acting as co-sponsors. The banquet will be held probably during the week of December 16, just before the Christmas holidays, in the school cafeteria. Keith S. Burgess was appointed general chairman for the occasion.

The Board also adopted the following policy regarding excusal of groups for non-school activities during the school day. This policy becomes a part of the regular school policy handbook.

Groups of children shall not be released from school before the dismissal hour for non-school activities unless the sponsor has made prior arrangements with the principal or principals concerned. No child shall be permitted to accompany such group until he has presented to his principal a permission slip signed by his parent releasing the school of responsibility for him at the time of his departure from school.

The Board studied the qualifications of 13 candidates who applied for the position of library-secretary to serve during Mrs. Celia Miller's leave of absence. After a thorough discussion, Mrs. Doris Fry was the Board's selection for the position.

Requests for adult education classes are still being received at the school office. Up to the present time there has not been sufficient interest in any one field to guarantee operating a class. Persons interested in any type of adult education offering during the winter months are requested to make their desires known as soon as possible so that arrangements can be made.

Schools will close this Thursday and Friday for the annual Thanksgiving vacation. Dismissal will be at the regular time on Wed., Nov. 27.

Mr. Charles Hoff, high school principal, last week served as vice-chairman on an evaluation committee to determine the merit of accreditation in the Middle States Association for the Rock Hall, Md., High School. Such an experience will be of utmost value to Mr. Hoff when it becomes necessary for the re-evaluation of Harrington, within the next few years by the same association.
